PRIMARY ELECTION ON SEPT. 1

HEADLINES of the WEEK

As Compiled by the Grosse Pointe News

Wednesday, August 19

A FOUR ALARM FIRE was fought by firemen at the Star Furniture Co. warehouse early this evening on the west side of Detroit. Flames could be seen for miles during the 45 minutes that it took firemen to get the blaze under control. The building was reduced to rubble, causing damage in excess of $50,000. Value of the contents has not been determined.

STATE MEDITATION CHAIRMAN Malcomb Lovell said today that direct meditation efforts will resume again at 2 p.m. Friday between the publishers and the two striking newspaper unions in Detroit. The meeting will be held in a downtown hotel. Governor Romney and Mayor Cavanagh have both urged sides to meet again. The last bargaining talks broke off on August 8 with no apparent progress.

THE UNITED AUTO WORKERS today gave the Big Three —Ford, Chrysler and General Motors—a second chance to come up with an acceptable offer before it selects a "target" company and sets a strike date. UAW President Walter Reuther announced that the union's 27-member international executive board had delayed until at least next Wednesday night, five days before current contracts expire, its selection of a "target" company to reach a pace-setting settlement.

A CHARTERED AIRPLANE carrying Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater from Springfield, Ill., to Washington, was diverted to another airport Wednesday after its crew received a radio message from the FBI that Goldwater's life had been threatened. The plane landed at Dulles International Airport near Baltimore, Md., instead of at the National Airport across the Potomac from the Capital. The FBI message from Chicago stated that Goldwater was to be killed when his plane landed.

A MEETING BEWEEN representatives of the Detroit newspaper publishers, mediators and representatives of the two striking craft unions lasted a little longer than four hours this afternoon. An evening session between publishers and representatives of the Pressman's local ended with name calling. A later meeting between publishers and the Paper and Platehandlers union proved more fruitful as another meeting was scheduled for Monday morning. Federal and State mediators said the Pressmen held to their original demands while now requesting, in addition, paid lunch hours and other benefits.

Rain or no, the 3,000 Pointe youngsters who attended the Grosse Pointe Metropolitan Annual Field Day at the Neighborhood Club field on Saturday, August 22, were hungry. The above picture is a sample. The kids consumed more than 6,500 hot dogs, drank gallons of soft drinks, and made ice cream and popsicles disappear like magic. Each boy and girl was given a favor as he entered the field, a balloon, a skip rope, or what have you. After four hours of fun, games, rides and watching funny clowns, the young guests cleaned up the field, leaving it cleaner than when they first arrived. Joseph Van Coppenolle, 19655 Woodmont, Harper Woods, won the 1964 Mustang.

Motorcyclist Eludes Police In Wild Chase

Ignores Stop Signs, Red Lights and Road Blocks in Successful Escape

An unknown motorcyclist eluded police of five communities in a 90-mile chase through Pointe and Harper Woods streets Thursday morning, August 20.

The cyclist vanished in the area of Fisher road, and searching scout car crews were unable to find him. He even evaded road blocks along the route of the chase.

Participating in the chase were police of Harper Woods, in whose community the cyclist was initially observed speeding, and officers of the Woods, Shores, Farms and City.

Harper Woods police put a call on the emergency radio for assistance in apprehending the speeding cyclist at about 7:15 a.m.

A police officer in a Woods car attempted to cut off the escape of the cyclist at Littlestone and Mack, but the cyclist evaded the blockade.

A road block at Beacon Hill and Warner by Farms police also failed when the cyclist drove his motorcycle over the curb and around the waiting officers.

Police said that the chase was at speeds up to 90 miles an hour, through Harper Woods

Murder Charge Is Dismissed; Teacher Discusses High Cost Of Citizen's 'Responsibility'

William Jones, Cleared in Higgins Lake Incident, Says He did What Had to Be Done, as a Christian and as a Teacher

By Robert Wells

"The law is a wonderful thing. It protects the innocent as well as punishes the guilty."

The man who spoke these words last week, William H. Jones, of Nottingham road, spoke after a painful month that included three days in jail, many hours of thought, two days in court, and, finally, complete dismissal from a murder charge that had been leveled against him.

The charge stemmed from a July 25 incident near Higgins Lake, Mich., when Jones, in self defense, shot and killed a drink-crazed man who attacked him with a bottle.

In a hearing August 19 and 20 in Crawford County court, Grayling, ten witnesses related their accounts of the shooting.

The trial lasted all day August 19 and an additional hour on the morning of the 20th. In the hour session August 20, Jones himself took the stand and gave his account of the incident.

Prosecutor Moves

Shortly after Jones finished his testimony, the county prosecuting attorney, Ward Ellison, moved for Jones' dismissal, and the dismissal was granted by Judge Olin Williamson.

Dismissal at the hearing stage, under Michigan law, means that Jones' record is completely cleared, and that all records of the incident and the hearing will be removed from official notation.

Witnesses at the first day hearing called by the State included two State Policemen from the Houghton Lake post, two Roscommon deputy sheriffs, four witnesses from Camp Westminster and Mrs. Alta Frank of Roscommon.

Jones attorney, James McNally of Grosse Pointe, summoned Jones as the defense's only witness.

Convicts in Area

Jones told the court that in 14 years as waterfront director at Camp Westminster he had on many occasions gone to investigate suspicious noises during the night.

Yet this was the first time he had taken a gun, he said.

He took a gun with him that night because all personnel at the camp had been warned by police that three escaped convicts from a Grayling prison were believed to be in the area.

Saw Beating

When he came upon Clarence L. MacLachlan beating and kicking Mrs. Frank, Jones said last week, "She saw me and ran across the street and begged for my help."

Jones said he offered the woman a ride home and told

Park Council Okays $66,670 Street Resurfacing Project

The Park will spend more than $66,000 to resurface several of its streets under the city's annual Resurfacing Program, with bituminous concrete, it was brought out at the Park council meeting on Monday, August 24.

The council awarded the contract for the project to the Cooke Contracting company, which offered to do the job for $66,670.57, lowest of five bids submitted.

City Manager Robert Slone said that work on the project will begin immediately and should be completed by October 1. Work on the adjustment of catch basins and manhole openings has been in progress, having been done with city labor, he added.

The contracting firm will also do some adjustments, under terms of the contract, Slone said.

The following streets will be resurfaced with one course of bituminous concrete, except Kercheval, which will be paved with two courses:

Municipal Building driveway on east side of building from approach to north end of building; Wayburn avenue, Hampton to 200 feet south; Wayburn avenue, Hampton to alley south of Kercheval; Wayburn avenue, Vernor to Mack; Bedford road, Essex to Windmill Pointe drive; Lakeview court, Trombley to eastern end.

Also, Lake court, Windmill Pointe drive to Lakeview court; Trombley, Windmill Pointe drive to Lakeview court; and Kercheval avenue, Lakepointe to Cadieux.

He Couldn't See His Hole-in-One

J. J. Vaughn, of 90 Deeplands court, made a hole-in-one Monday, August 17, at the Maple Lane Golf Club while he was practicing for the Lochmoor Invitational Tournament.

The event occurred in semi-darkness (around 7:30 p.m.) on the 190-yard ninth hole of the East Course. Mr. Vaughn used a four iron. No one could see the ball land because of the darkness and several minutes were spent looking for the ball until someone suggested the cup. Sure enough, there it was.

Full Slates Of Legislative, County Fights

Pointes Divided Among Three State Senate and Legislature Districts, Each With a Full House of Candidates

The Pointes' new crazy-quilt of districts for both houses of the State Legislature, created as a result of the new Constitution and the mandate of the U.S. Supreme Court, is likely to leave voters scratching their heads as they face the polling booths.

The old districts, which most Grosse Pointers had learned, are no more. The new ones, which apply for this year, are already being challenged in the courts, and may be changed again before another statewide election.

Senate Districts

Under the new plan, all of Grosse Pointe Park, City and Farms are in the first State Senatorial District.

All of the Woods and the portions of the Shores in Wayne County fall in the Second State Senatorial District, and the Macomb County portion of the Shores is in the 26th District.

For Senate:

Candidates for State Senate in the First District (all of Park, City, Farms) are:

Republicans: Harold Beattie, 784 Barrington, G.P. Park; Fred Harding, 10410 E. Jefferson, Det.; Manning Hathaway, 4944 Hillcrest, Det.; John Pollard, 326 Moran, G.P. Farms; Albert Thorborn, 521 Lakepointe, G.P. Park.

In the Second State Senatorial District, candidates include:

Democrat: Charles N. Youngblood Jr., 18666 Hamburg, Det.

Republicans: James Milton Smith, 20871 Lennon, Harper Woods; Herbert Steiger, 1503 Blairmoor, G.P. Woods.

In the 26th State Senatorial District (Lake Township portion of the Shores) candidates are:

Democrats: John T. Bowman, 26816 Oakland, Roseville; Stanley R. Skoczen, 17530 Nine Mile, East Detroit; Ronald S. Stanzak, 48200 Gratiot, Mt. Clemens.

Republican: Donald Brown,

City's Three Bond Issues Continue To Gain Support

Proposals Seen As Solid Investment in City's Future; Would Help Property Values

Although taxes in the City will go up markedly if three pending bond issues are all passed on the September 1 ballot, the council and city manager are plugging the three measures as a solid investment in the City's future.

Each of the three measures, they insist, will mean greater convenience—and higher property values — in the years to come.

The three bond issues, which will appear on paper ballots in the City's voting booths next Tuesday, are:

- A request for funds totaling about 1.32 million for expansion of the City's storm and sanitary sewer system. This will mean an increase in taxes of about $3.25 a year per $1,000 of assessed valuation over the next 20 years.
- A $200,000 package to provide funds for additions to the City's recreation area by the purchase of six acres of land adjacent to the Neighborhood Club. This amounts to 49 cents in extra taxes a year per $1,000 assessment.
- A $100,000 request for funds to pay for a new Department of Public Works garage which is now near completion on a site behind the City offices in Maumee road near St. Clair avenue. City taxes will go up 25 cents per $1,000 assessment if this measure is passed.

The total increase in taxes, according to best estimates, is $3.99 per $1,000 assessment, over a period of 20 years.

This estimate could possibly go higher if the forthcoming bids for the sewer projects run higher than expected.

City Manager John M. Cantwell assured residents at the August 17 "open hearing" on the bond issues that the total increase will be kept below $5 and "just as close to our lowest estimates as possible."

The need for new sewer equipment becomes apparent every time there is a good rainstorm in the city, Cantwell said at a recent council meeting.

After a storm two weeks ago, more than 50 residents reported flooded basements to the city from an overloaded, antiquated system of storm and sanitary sewers that should have been improved years ago, Cantwell said.

The need for better sewers was testified to by officials of the Michigan State Board of

Candidates Fair

A Carousel of Candidates will be held from 8 to 10 p.m. Thursday, August 27, at the Grosse Pointe High School gymnasium. All candidates running in Tuesday's primary for nomination to Congress from the 14th District, the State Senate from the First and Second districts, and for the State Legislature from the First and Third districts have been asked to appear — with families but without aides.

The public is invited to ask them about the issues of the day—everything from the defense budget to the lake levels. The Fair is being presented by the League of Women Voters of Grosse Pointe.

County-Wide Tax Increase On the Ballot

Bodman Calls Approval Essential to Avoid Breakdown in Services

Along with everything else to be voted on on Tuesday will be one item labeled County Proposition No. 1. Though individual cities, including Grosse Pointe City, will have their own propositions, this is the only county-wide proposal.

It calls for the collection of an additional dollar of tax for each $1,000 of state assessed valuation in the county. For a house assessed at 10,000, that means a tax increase of $10 yearly. The proposition, if approved, will remain in effect for five years.

According to the terms of the proposal, all proceeds will be used "to help meet the rising cost of county services, maintain hospitalization for the medically indigent, help furnish medical care of the aged poor, help care for and train juveniles under county care, help provide treatment for the mentally ill and those suffering from tuberculosis and maintain adequate public health, recreation and safety services."

Deferred Payments

Farms Councilman Henry E. Bodman II, who is also a member of the Wayne County Board of Supervisors, is chairman of the supervisor's finance committee for the proposition.

Approval of the proposition, he says, is "essential to avert a breakdown of county government. The emergency millage will provide an additional $9 million of revenue which will be necessary to balance a county budget for approximately $100 million."

County budgets for the past 10 years, he said, have accumulated deficits which now total $28 million. To avoid a cash crisis, the county has deferred payments to vendors, the city of Detroit, the county pension funds, and agencies of the state.

So far, the Board of Supervisors has faced the problem mostly by cutting county serv-

State Board Gives WSU Thirty-Day Suspension

After a study of Wayne State University's Medical School, the Michigan State Board of Health last week suspended for 30 days the school's full registration to use animals for experimental purposes.

The suspension resulted from a July 9 incident, reported in an editorial in last week's NEWS, which documented negligent and inhumane treatment of test animals in medical experiments.

The Board of Health also placed Wayne on a 30-day probation status.

"This probational status was to enable the university to make corrections of procedures and facilities," according to State Health Commissioner Dr. Albert E. Heustis.

"First, we want improvements in the dog recovery quarters (where dogs are contained after experimental operations)," Dr. Heustis said.

Want Medicines

"We also ask that adequate medicines be provided to insure the humane care of animals as needed, and that a trained person be on hand in the containment quarters at all times," Heustis added.

The probational status in no way interferes with the university's scientific experiments, but rather brings public attention to a "regrettable incident that was allowed to happen," Heustis said.

Dr. Heustis pointed out that an investigation made by the State Board of Health on July 31 revealed that "in general, the animals were receiving excel-

Constitution, New Districts Alter Races

Something for Everybody in Tuesday's Primary As Grosse Pointers Face Wide Range of Choices

Grosse Pointers will go to the polls Tuesday, September 1, to face one of the most bewildering assortment of choices in years.

The new State Constitution, which ruled out the spring primary; the new apportionment formula, which changed the boundaries of legislative and congressional districts; a senatorial race; selections of judges for the new Court of Appeals; a Wayne County tax increase proposal of one mill (a dollar per thousand dollars of state equalized assessed valuation) and local proposals all add up to keeping voters and election officials busy.

In the Republican primary, which has more races and more candidates, Grosse Pointers will find three people running for the nomination for the Senate seat now held by Philip Hart, four men campaigning for the nomination to Congress from the new and vastly changed 14th District, and two campaigning for the gubernatorial nomination.

Head-to-Head

In the Democratic primary, chief interest will center on the head-to-head contest for the 14th District congressional nomination between incumbent Rep. Harold Ryan and incumbent Rep. Lucien Nedzi, plus Joseph A. Lewandowski, former municipal judge of Hamtramck, as a third man in the field.

There are no congressional primary races in the 12th District, which includes only that small portion of the Shores in Macomb County. Incumbent James G. O'Hare of Utica is unopposed on the Democratic slate, and the Republican is Robert G. Powell of East Detroit.

Rep. Ryan and Nedzi are running against each other because, in the reapportionment, Nedzi's old First District and Ryan's old 14th were largely combined.

The new district takes in northeast Detroit, Hamtramck, Harper Woods and the Grosse Pointes.

Pollsters give Ryan the edge in the race, for two reasons. First is that more of his district, where he is well known, is in the combined district than is Nedzi's. Second is that Lewandowski is considered a "spoiler" for the heavily Polish Hamtramck vote, who will cut into Nedzi's total far more than into Ryan's.

Republican Hopefuls

The winner next week will face in November the winner of the four-man Republican race. The candidates, some of whom are strangers to Grosse Pointers, are George Bashara, of 71 Balfour; Larry Ruther, of 985 Nottingham; Frank J. Skierski,

LCC Suspends Bar's License

At a hearing held on Thursday, August 20, the Michigan Liquor Control Commission found the owners of a Park bar guilty of selling alcoholic beverages to minors. The alleged offense occurred on July 11, according to Park police.

The specific charge, against Verdonckt's Bar, 15300 Mack avenue, was selling to minors and minors consuming alcoholic beverages.

Since they are the owners of the bar, Maurice and Albertine Verdonckt, of the same address, were charged with the offense.

The Commission ruled that the charge was proved by the evidence submitted and found the owners guilty, and ordered the bar's license suspended for a period of seven days, effective September 21. In addition, a fine of $150 was imposed, with the stipulation that if it was not paid, the license be suspended an additional 30 days.

Police Chief Arthur Louwers said that the LCC has instructed his department to confiscate the bar's license for the length of the suspension period, and to post a sign notifying the public of the suspension of liquor sales, beginning on the first day of the penalty.

REPORTS LARCENY

Robert A. Reich of 21124 Parkcrest, Harper Woods, complained to Woods police on Tuesday, August 18, that while his car was parked on Mack avenue, at Beaufait, someone stole four wheel covers from the vehicle. The loss is valued at $40.

Snoopers Pose Credit Queries

A new, shiny car pulls up to the curb in front of a Grosse Pointe house, A suave-looking young man steps out carrying a clipboard. He is clean-cut and well-dressed.

The man strides up the front walk and rings the bell. If the woman or man of the house answers, he talks to either of them. If a teenage son or daughter answers, he talks to them. And then he goes to another house.

He represents himself as either an insurance inspector or insurance investigator. But the questions he asks the wife, husband or teenager are a bit strange, to say the least.

Pretending a certain family in the block has filed for insurance from his company, he asks what relationship is between the husband and wife. Do they get along well? Do they have wild parties? How do their children act? What are the driving habits of their children? Who are their children's associates?

Then he ends the conversation by asking the name of his unwitting informants.

He proceeds to the next house or a few houses down the street and asks the same questions as before, this time about the family he has just talked to.

In the book PRIVACY INVADERS, author Myron Branton states that such men are forming a complete crossfile about people of a certain area. They actually work for small credit agencies. Such incidents are widespread throughout the Detroit area.

Including Grosse Pointe.

Last week a man was picked up by the Farms Police, lacking proper identification, after he was reported by a Farms woman in the Bournemouth circle-Allard road area. He told police the name of his agency, which later confirmed that he was an employe. He was then released.

. . . Released to glean from unwitting and uninformed residents and children a case history of their neighbors. It's legal.

PARK PAYS SHARE

The Park council on Monday, August 24, approved payment of $1,608 as its share in the semi-annual cost of the Grosse Pointe-Harper Woods Radio Authority (police and fire). The amount covers the period from July 1 through December 31.

Life is a game of chance, and many feel that the cards have been stacked against them.

lent preoperative care in clean, well kept quarters."

Not a Black Mark

The one incident, though regrettable, should not be construed as a black mark on the school's excellent record in the medical field, he added.

"There was a method of handling emergencies but this completely broke down at the time because there were new personnel on duty at the time and there was a complete lack of communication (between the scientists and handling personnel)," in the words of Board of Health Veterinarian Dr. Lincoln Hedeman, who conducted the investigation.

Dr. Hedeman said:

"Post-operative sedation is not used as routinely in veterinary medicine as it is in human medicine, since most veterinarians believe that dogs recover from surgery more rapidly and consequently suffer less pain if they are allowed to regain their faculties as quickly as possible."

State of Excitement

The examiner judged that the dog found crying and howling in a blood-stained cage in Wayne's laboratory basement July 9 was in a state of excitement following a barbitol anesthesia.

It was judged that the dog was not in a state of extreme pain because, in Dr. Hedeman's words, "dogs in severe pain don't cry or howl but usually remain motionless and quiet."

When the examiner visited the medical school's dog quarters on July 31, the dogs he observed came right to him, wanting to be patted. This indicated that the animals had, in general, been receiving friendly treatment, the examiner said.

Since last week's editorial in this paper, several letters and many phone calls have come to the NEWS voicing support of legislation now pending in the Congress to curb inhumane treatment of animals in testing laboratories.

They appear on the editorial page of today's paper.

of 12008 Moran, Hamtramck, and Alexander W. Strong, of 3233 Caniff, Hamtramck.

Bashara, an attorney, has long been active in 14th District Republican affairs. He was national vice-chairman for the Nixon-Lodge campaign in Michigan in 1960. He has been endorsed by Republican Citizens —14th District, the organization filed as a rival to the regular GOP district organization headed by Richard Durant.

Ruther, who has run for office before, is not well known in party circles. He is a defense contract consultant.

Skierski, a plant engineer for Chrysler, is a former chairman of the old First District GOP organization, and is now its treasurer until a new organization is established. He was an alternate to last month's GOP convention in San Francisco.

Despite his name, Strong is also of Polish descent. A former Golden Gloves boxer, he is a Hamtramck fireman and restaurant owner.

Senate Race

The Republican senatorial primary, which has stirred relatively slight interest so far, is aimed at picking a candidate to oust Senator Hart and become the first Republican senator from Michigan since Hart won his seat in 1958.

The three are Mrs. Elly Peterson of Charlotte, James F. O'Neil of Livonia and Edward A. Meany Jr. of Grand Haven.

Mrs. Peterson is well known among politicians, but not so much by the general public. A former state GOP vice-chairman, she resigned last month as assistant national chairman in order to make the race. She was the early favorite for the nomination, but is considered to have lost ground to O'Neil.

Defeated in 1962 in a bid for a congressional seat from northwest Wayne County, O'Neil came back in the spring of 1963 to become one of four Republicans elected to State education boards. He is still a member of the State Board of Education.

Meany, the "poor man's candidate," is an official of a Grand Haven leather company, from which he has taken a leave of absence to campaign. He has held no political offices, but has campaigned harder and longer than either of his opponents. His public appearances are usually marked by the presence of his nine daughters, ranging in age from 17 down, all alike in blue dresses which they made themselves, decorated with five pearl buttons down the front which spell out M-E-A-N-Y.

For Governor

The Republican gubernatorial contest, the winner of which will face Democratic Congressman-at-large Neil Staebler in November, pits Governor Romney against George N. Higgins, Ferndale automobile dealer, former chairman of the State Civil Service Commission and current chairman of the Employment Security Commission.

Legislature Shuffled

Grosse Pointe Park proved to be the political oddity in the re-shaping of the State Legislative districts caused by the U.S. Supreme Court's recent one person-one vote edict.

The Park was split in half. Now, all of the Park south of Jefferson (on the lake side) is in the Third District. All of the Park north of Jefferson is in the First Legislative District.

All of the City, Farms, Woods and Shores (except that Macomb county strip of the Shores) are in the First District as well. The Shore's Macomb county land is in the 74th Legislative District.

Judge Culehan Taken by Death

JUDGE CULEHAN

Circuit Judge Miles N. Culehan, of 16480 St. Paul, died of pneumonia in Harper Hospital on his 67th birthday, Saturday, August 22. He suffered a heart attack four years ago.

A native of Sycamore, Illinois, he came to Michigan prior to World War I to attend the Detroit College of Law. During the first world conflict, he served as a lieutenant in the United States Army.

When he was discharged from the service, he returned to complete his studies and enter law practice in Detroit.

Shortly after, he was appointed assistant attorney general for Michigan, and later was appointed chief trial lawyer in the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office. He served with the latter until he was called as a member of Senator Ferguson's Investigating Committee.

Judge Culehan was appointed to the circuit bench by the late Gov. Kim Sigler, for a short term, after he had completed his investigations for the Ferguson Committee.

He was elected circuit judge in his own right for the succeeding term, and twice re-elected for a total of 17 years.

During World War II, Judge Culehan served overseas for two years as an Infantry combat commander, with the rank of lieutenant colonel. He became a colonel in the Army Reserve after the war, and remained in the service for five years.

The judge was a member of the Detroit Commandery; Knights Templar; Moslem Shrine Consistory; the Detroit Yacht Club; Alger Post No. 995, VFW; the Crisis Club and the American Legion.

He is survived by his wife, Ruth; a daughter, Mrs. Charles (Joyce) Getler of the Shores; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services were from the Verheyden Funeral Home, 16300 Mack avenue, yesterday, August 26. Burial was in Acaia cemetery.

Police Accuse Motorcyclist

Kenneth C. Baumgarth, 24, of 14496 Wilshire, Detroit, was arrested by Woods police on Sunday, August 23, and charged with reckless driving while riding his motorcycle.

According to Patrolmen Everett Plumb and Robert Lorenz, the cyclist was seen riding north on Mack avenue at a very high speed at about 4:20 a.m. The officers gave chase and paced Baumgarth at 100 miles an hour.

Baumgarth was arrested when he stopped for a red traffic light at Vernier road, and was taken to the Woods station where he was given a violation ticket after being charged on the traffic count.

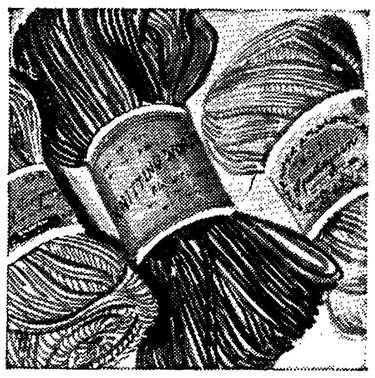

The cyclist was released after posting bond of $100, pending a court appearance scheduled for September 12.

THEFT REPORTED

City's Package of Bond Issues Gets Final Vote

Health who, after a recent inspection, deemed the sewer system a critical hazard to the health of the community.

Ask Immediate Action

The Board of Health asked that action be taken soon to correct dangerous unsanitary conditions that arise periodically as a result of over-flooding.

Cantwell said, "Backup of sewage into homes, which has happened annually over the last 17 years, creates a major helth threat.

"The State Health Department is empowered to compel action on our bad sewer system if we do not take immediate action ourselves."

Sewage Into Lake

The City has for several years violated known health standards by pumping sewage into a storm sewer at Lakeland and Jefferson, a situation which must be corrected, Cantwell said.

He pointed out the adverse effect on property values of a poor sewer system, an effect which would be felt more and more if the situation is allowed to deteriorate further.

The City's consulting engineers, George Jerome and Co., cited three key problems with the present system:

1. The sanitary sewers are overloaded during rainfalls due both to storm sewers connected to them and to leaks in pipe joints.

2. The City's interceptor sewer parallel to the Fox Creek barrel is the drain for most of the storm water north of Jefferson avenue, and is not built for such a load.

3. Further dumping of storm water into the Fox Creek barrel would be unwise because the barrel is frequently overloaded already.

The firm has proposed two programs to remedy the situation.

First, it has asked for construction of a sanitary relief sewer in Lakeland avenue with arms in Jefferson, Maumee, St. Paul, Kercheval, Waterloo, Charlevoix and Goethe to intercept the flow from the existing 8-inch sewers.

Second, it seeks construction of a storm relief sewer in Waterloo avenue to intercept flow from storm sewers running north to the present Fox Creek barrel. An arm of the sewer would run from Waterloo down St. Clair avenue and into the lake.

It also plans to automate the City pumping station in Charlevoix avenue to save the expense of keeping three salaried men on hand to run it. The automation is estimated to cost about $55,000, and would allow the system to be monitored in the police and fire station in Maumee avenue.

The firm reported that preliminary estimates of cost for the sewer project were:

Sanitary Relief Sewers	$ 559,900
Storm Relief Sewers	706,800
Repair, Automation of Pump Station	58,300
Total	$1,325,000

A bond issue for $200,000 to purchase land adjacent to the Neighborhood Club last week gained the full endorsement of the club's Board of Trustees.

The trustees are now distributing a letter to club members in the City in support of the bond issue, which a club representative deemed "a very timely and welcome proposal."

It is timely and welcome for the city as well, councilmen have stated. At the August 17 "hearing" they went on record once again as being dedicated to the principle of adequate recreational land in the City.

Both the well-being of residents and the present property values would be adversely affected if adequate playground area were not available.

Club Land Vital

Present playground land is "barely adequate, as best" in Cantwell's opinion, and in order to maintain even these standards the Neighborhood Club land must remain available for public use.

Hence the current bond issue. The club needs money immediately to repair its presently uninsurable building; the City fears the club could resort to selling part of its land for subdivision to raise that money.

If passed, the bond issue would permit the City to take over control of the playground (which is already City-maintained) in order to prevent its further development into non-recreational uses.

The change of control would constitute very little increased expenses for maintenance, and would take no money off the tax roles because the club presently pays no taxes.

It is seen as an investment in the City's future, and, coincidentally but secondarily, a means for the Neighborhood Club to continue its service to the Pointe.

The new Department of Public Works garage is slated for completion in October, and funds were never officially designated for its construction.

This problem arose because of two "surprise occurrences." First, an application for Federal matching funds for the project was turned down when the Detroit area became officially ineligible for funds under the Accelerated Public Works Program on March 11, 1964.

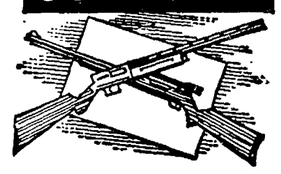

Second, the City's share for this project, about $50,000, was to come from the proceeds realized by selling City property on Jefferson avenue now occupied by the Unitarian Church.

This land has not been sold yet because, first, the church is still desirous of using their building until October, and second, a higher price would result if the sale were tied in with the sale of adjacent land, which is still tied up in a court proceeding.

When this sale comes through, the money will go into a program of catch basin repair, which is seen as another critical need of the City.

Social Security Advice Offered

Francis L. Pendergast, district manager of the Detroit-East social security office, has reminded people receiving social security benefits that certain events may effect the payment of those benefits. When these events occur, they should be reported to the Social Security Administration.

The death of a beneficiary should be reported promptly, Pendergast stated. He also mentioned that the marriage of a beneficiary, unless the beneficiary is receiving benefits as a retired worker, will usually stop payments. Divorce may affect the right to get benefits.

People who are receiving benefits on behalf of a child or an incapable older person may have those rights altered if there has been a change in custody of the beneficiary.

The most common event that affects the right to receive payment is earnings from any type of work. If the beneficiary is under the age of 72 and expects to earn over $1,200 during the calendar year, some of his benefits for the year will be held back.

Pendergast stated that any of these events should be reported to the Social Security Administration promptly. He also urged all who have any questions regarding social security to get in touch with the local office at 17731 East Warren, telephone 884-9300.

Garbage should be treated as a valuable national resource, say geologists at the City College of New York. They contend that waste should be processed into "compost" for use in agriculture and horticulture. This would decrease incidence of pollution and pest infestation, could be a source of profit, and would aid in conservation, the geologists say.

Pointe Teachers Put Summer to Good Use

With their vacation days drawing rapidly to a close, some 75 members of the professional staff of the Grosse Pointe public school system may reflect upon a summer of intense activity and mental stimulation.

Records maintained by the schools' Department of Instruction indicate that at least this number of the public schools' staff took advantage of the recess from classes to improve their various skills, update their teaching methods, and improve their cultural background.

This highlights but one phase of the public schools' effort to encourage and promote further study by its staff members. Others of the staff elect to attend courses and workshops during the school year, while virtually all the teachers and administrators engage in wide professional reading at all times to keep abreast of the latest trends and developments in their respective fields.

The summer of 1964 found Grosse Pointe teachers at Harvard, Columbia, Chicago and Syracuse universities. Several took study tours in Europe and many others attended colleges and universitites in the metropolitan Detroit area and throughout the state.

Back to College

Nineteen members of the staff of Grosse Pointe High School took advantage of the summer recess to attend college and university classes. John Doneth, distributive education coordinator, attended a seminar in his field at Western Michigan University.

In business education, Mrs. Kathleen Herschelmann and Miss Laura Jakobowski worked toward the completion of their MA degrees at the University of Michigan. Counselors Helen Mutton and Harvey Christenson enrolled for special work at the Merrill-Palmer Institute and Michigan State University, respectively.

Mrs. Bonnie Garr and Mrs. Carolyn Scarborough of the homemaking department enrolled at Wayne State University. Among those in social studies who used their summer for study were Donald Zysk, who attended Wayne State to work on his MA degree, and James Kaloger, who devoted his time at the University of Chicago to "American Intellectual History."

Miss Carole Currin and Thomas Gauerke, both in physical education, studied at the University of Michigan and Wayne State, respectively.

Six members of the English department participated in a variety of summer courses. Miss Suzanne Boivin enrolled in a study program in Great Britain through Wisconsin State College to earn four hours of credit in English and history. Miss Estelle Griffiths, who is adviser to View Pointe, attended a publications workshop at Northwood Institute, Midland Michigan.

Frederick Woodhams took two courses at Wayne State University. "American History to 1815" and "Tudor and Stuart England." Enrolled in oil painting at Detroit's Society of Arts and Crafts were Mrs. Anna Bellinger and Mrs. Arlene Johnson. Both wished to prepare themselves better for the humanities approach to English instruction. Miss Nancy Poff, a master's candidate in theatre at Wayne State, took "Voice, Diction and Pronunciation," and "Interpretive Reading" at Wayne State.

Special Seminars

James Sendo, driver education coordinator, attended Central Washington State College for a special seminar in his field. David Basehore, industrial arts teacher, enrolled in a University of Detroit workshop on alcohol problems related to traffic safety. Leslie Reames, also in industrial arts, enrolled at Western Michigan University for advanced training in his area of interest.

Teachers on the Barnes staff who attended Wayne State University include Henry Reynolds and Frank Bozarth, both of whom worked toward attaining the six-year level of professional training.

Two members of the Brownell teaching staff pursued their graduate studies at Wayne State University. James Blanzy worked toward the completion of his MA while Mrs. Mary Taliani studied in the field of guidance. Donald Bassett spent the summer nrolled at Michigan State University.

Of the four members of Defer's staff who took advanced work this past summer, two went to the University of Michigan. Miss Martha Hoke enrolled for two courses in librarianship and one in science, while Miss Judith Davidson worked on her MA degree. Miss Margaret Long went to Western Michigan University for courses in testing, psychology and curriculum development. Mrs. Ellen Quinlan enrolled at Wayne State for "Educational Implications of Perception."

Two women on the Ferry staff, Mrs. Helen Harmison and Miss A. Jean Harris, attended the University of Michigan. Mrs. Harmison, pursuing an MA degree, enrolled for 9 semester hours of work in the School of Music; Miss Harris completed a block of studies in anthropology. Mrs. Sally Burns took work in guidance at Wayne State University.

Kerby Staffers

Principal Custer Homeier and two members of Kerby's teaching staff used a portion of the summer to update their knowledge. Dr. Homeier enrolled at Wayne State for "New Developments in Curriculum and Instruction." Edward Knuth completed work in social studies at Western Michigan, and Miss Carol Domoney attended Michigan State University for a course in special education.

Among the professional staff members at Maire School who attended courses during the summer were Mrs. Barbara Thompson, Mrs. Eleanor Obermeyer, Miss Myrtle Olson, and Miss Mary Louise Hess. Mrs. Thompson enrolled at Wayne State for "Teaching and Supervision of Language Arts," Mrs. Obermeyer worked toward an MA at Michigan by taking work in psychology and education, while Miss Olson completed "Urban Resources for Children's Social Education" at Wayne State. Miss Hess attended a reading clinic at Syracuse University.

Eight men and women on the staff of Mason school completed some advanced training during the vacation. Six instructors chose Wayne State University, including Mrs. Camille Ecklund, who studied abnormal psychology, Miss Elane Krust, who began work on an MA degree, Mrs. Marilyn Ralph, who took "Studies in Asian Culture." Mrs. Frances Rislov enrolled in "Mental Hygiene of Childhood and Youth." Robert Goodspeed enrolled in a mathematics workshop, and Milton Riggs worked toward the completion of his MA degree.

Mason teachers at the University of Michigan included Mrs. Mary DeSantis, working on an MA, Miss Diane McCullough, taking courses in English, including one in poetry, another in the novel, and a period course in American literature.

Speech correctionist Helga Tramposch gained credits on an MA degree at Wayne State University, as did Miss Marlene Schmidt of the Monteith staff.

Seven from Parcells

Of the seven instructors from Parcells Junior High School who continued their formal education during the summer, James Spillan and Miss Alice Wellpott, studied at Wayne State University, while James Webers and Miss Susan Boynton attended the University of Michigan. Miss Jane Colsher, the schools' librarian, attended the University of Denver's workshop in new instructional media, and Marshall Moser was drawn to Harvard University for a practicum in guidance. Miss Juliana Speiser attended both Bowling Green University and Western Michigan University for courses in guidance, counseling and physical fitness.

Seven of Pierce Junior High School's 10 summer scholars attended Wayne State University. Dr. Thomas Moore enrolled for "Studies in the Arts and Ideas of Eastern Culture," William Mogk took a workshop in educational administration, and Gilbert Gray completed "Literature for Older Children." Robert Rathbun studied printmaking, Richard Folden took science, Thomas Estes took a 10-hour sequence leading to an MA degree. W. Keath Cartens devoted his time to a practicum in business education while Mrs. Frances Gillis spent her time at the Asian Institute to better prepare herself to teach the changed seventh grade curriculum.

Others on the Pierce staff who used part of the vacation for period for study were Miss Judith Boyce, enrolled in a workshop in acquatics at the University of Wisconsin, Miss Judith Buckley, who worked toward the completion of her MA at the University of Michigan, and James Hunt, who attended the University of Illinois.

Poupard Teachers

From Poupard School, Mrs. Caryl Kerber and Miss Lillian Lewey attended Wayne State and the University of Michigan, respectively. Miss Kerber updated her knowledge of science and Miss Lewey took courses in the social studies, special education and political science.

Richard Kay, principal of School, completed courses at Wayne State University in personnel administration as well as a seminar in the legal bases for education.

Giant Sunflower Grown Here

KIT KOSTE, a third grade student at Kerby School, looks like a good bet to win the award for growing the tallest sunflower of the elementary school garden club contest. ROSS JOHN FAZIO, co-chairman of the Men's Garden Club of Grosse Pointe which sponsors the event, had to climb a ladder to measure Kit's entry at 142¾ inches.

More than 250 students in grades 1 through 6 at Kerby and Richard schools entered the contest this year. They do their own weeding and get extra points for knowing the names of the flowers they grow. Final garden inspections are being made this week. If any entrants have not as yet had their gardens inspected, they should call Chairman Stanley Remus, PR 1-8327, or Co-chairman Ross John Fazio, TU 6-2694, immediately.

Warren's Offers Sterling Display

Hints of things to come in sterling silver holloware are revealed at Charles W. Warren's this week, as the Detroit store exhibits the prize-winning designs in the 1963 Sterling Today Student Design Competition.

The competition, an annual event sponsored by the Sterling Silversmiths Guild of America, is for the purpose of encouraging creativity in sterling design. This year's student winners met the challenge with imagination and a fine understanding of silver craftsmanship.

Albert T. David, a student at Louisiana State University, won first prize for his flowing, forward-looking sterling gravy boat. Second prize went to Thomas W. Ryals, a Louisiana State University graduate, for a pair of salt and pepper shakers, with a fresh, modern look based on classical geometric forms.

Other winners whose designs in sterling will be displayed in Detroit are Nathan B. Taylor, Parson School of Design, third prize; Thomas R. Bambas and Michael Lacktman, Cranbrook Academy of Art, honorable mentions; and Ellen Janis and Harvey J. Winn, Cleveland Institute of Art, honorable mentions.

The Charles W. Warren exhibit is part of a nationwide tour, during which the Sterling Today prize-winning designs will be displayed at leading stores and schools in major cities across the country.

Kiwanis Hosts Globe-Trotter

Back to the familiar surroundings of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Building after a period of absence while the annual housecleaning work was being done, the Grosse Pointe Kiwanis Club picked up on its familiar note with an evening meeting on August 21.

In the absence of President Frank Galda, First Vice-President Roy Wetling conducted the meeting.

Mr. Wetling called for a moment of silent prayer in memory of Vern Bailey who served Kiwanis as a member, as a club president, as a district lieutenant-governor and most of all, as a true friend, ready when needed.

World-traveling member Werner Von Allmen, speaking extemporaneously, told of the international movement of Kiwanis through the newly-chartered Kiwanis clubs he visited in Switzerland and how their make-up differs from that of Grosse Pointe through local custom and practice.

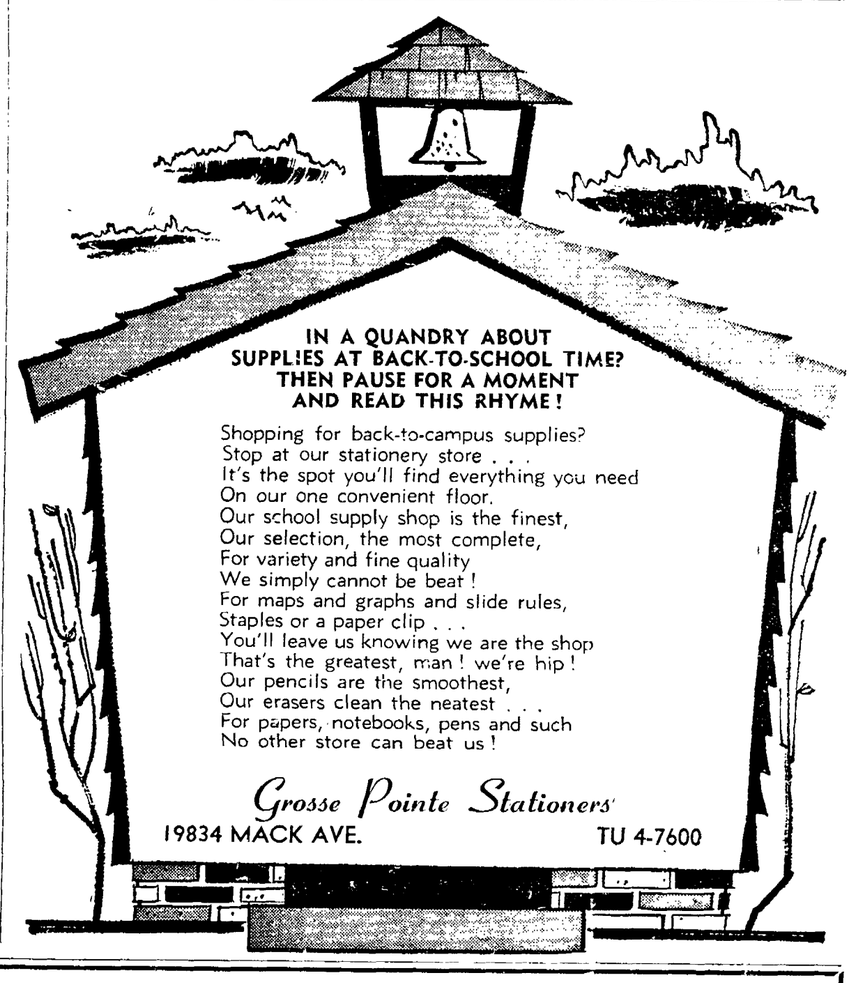

Program guest Bill Ives, representing the Rose Exterminating Company, told in his story, "Ten Years in the Rat Race," of the growing acceptance of the need for pest control in maintaining and improving health conditions.

Pointe Superintendent of Schools Says Critics of Education Ignore the Facts

The superintendent of the Pointe public school system, Dr. Charles H. Wilson, has had an article published in a recent issue of the Saturday Review.

Its title: "Critics of the School Never Die, Either." In the article, Dr. Wilson acknowledges the constant critics of public education, observes that the critics have been saying the same things for 50 years or more, and suggests that the "critic at the supermarket or cocktail party" is overlooking the resounding successes of the American educational system.

"Some new book, perhaps Bunk in the Booby Hatch, will soon replace Quackery in the Public Schools, Educational Wastelands, or Schools Without Scholars on the library shelves."

All critics aside, Dr. Wilson suggests that "the only valid measure of a nation's schools is the economic, scientific, intellectual and cultural well-being of the nation itself."

Using such criteria, we are led to see that "Our nation is what it is because its educational system has supplied us with the mechanics and technicians and engineers and farmers and stenographers and lawyers and managers and salesmen and teachers to operate the most abundant industrial and business society that the world has ever known.

"Our poor bullied, badgered goose of a school system has laid a golden egg indeed," he writes.

The great danger in teaching, Dr. Wilson observes, "is the tendency to play safe." Today, "teachers are prone, like timid turtles, to pull in their necks."

He continues, "It is safer to assign chapters from an innocuous textbook designed for a mythical average child than it is to experiment with a project to gain a child's interests."

Although "responsible criticism" is needed to maintain school systems, "broadside complaints against the entire profession and picky blasts at individual practices do more to stifle creative teaching than the repeated failures of tax peferendums," he continues.

To combat the free-wheeling critics, Dr. Wilson suggests that people should: first, "stop acting like the critics themselves" by swamping schools with floods of inquiries aimed at testing the critics' harsh claims.

Second, "They can speak up for the teachers and principals and schools that they know are good." (He observes, "It has become an accepted part of social intercourse tacitly to acknowledge that kids are incorrigible, that all teachers are slightly touched, that the schools are committed by philosophy to fun and foolishness."

And finally, citizens must take an active interest in the election of competent board members, because "over a period of time, a school system reflects the character and intelligence of its board members."

Pointers Teach U of D Courses

The University of Detroit Center for Continuing Education will include three classes during the coming semester taught by two Pointe residents.

Charles Collins, of 281 Ridgemont, Grosse Pointe Farms, accounting instructor in the U of D College of Commerce and Finance, evening division, will conduct a course entitled "Practical Sales Psychology," beginning Tuesday, Sept. 15.

Albert F. Koepchke, of 657 Neff road, will teach two classes entitled, "Practical Training for Foremen," beginning Monday, September 14, and "Supervisory Development," beginning Tuesday, September 15.

THIEF TAKES SHRUBS

Two evergreen shrubs, valued at a total of $40, were reported stolen to Park police Saturday, August 22, by A. J. Cutting of 15355 Windmill Pointe drive. The shrubs were pulled up from his front yard the evening before, he said.

HURT IN FALL

Mrs. Rosemary Merline, 47, of 1622 Bournemouth, slipped and fell on the back porch of her home and broke her left leg on Friday, August 21. She was taken to Bon Secours Hospital by Woods police ambulance for treatment of the injury.

Second Letter From Salzbur

By Alice Lungershausen

Never has so much superb music been crowded into so short a time as during the past week in Salzburg. Two concerts, a performance of "Jedermann", and the opera "Ariadne auf Naxos" by Richard Strauss, all in one day, left your writer feeling that Ariadne and Bacchus never would get off the stage so that she could catch the last bus and collapse into bed. An American singer, by the way, Reri Grist, gave an outstanding performance of Serbinetta in the "Ariadne".

The accepted highlight of the past week has been "Der Rosenkavalier", the opera magnificently staged, directed by the great Karajan, and with a cast of stars of such magnitude as can rarely be assembled anywhere in the world.

But to Americans, our own Van Cliburn's playing of our own Samuel Barber's Piano Sonata in F Minor, Op. 26, was worth crossing the ocean to hear. To many of us Cliburn has always seemed merely a very talented youth who was pushed into fame by Nikita Khrushchev when he was the first American to win the Tschaikovsky Award in Russia. His performance in Salzburg, however, (and he was the only pianist chosen this year for a solo concert at the Festival) has proved him a profound artist of subtle insight combined with a tremendous technical ability. The enthusiastic audience accorded him an ovation at the end of the concert which lasted one hour and which he acknowledged with six encores. There is no longer any doubt but that this engaging youth is one of the great pianists.

Detroit entered into the local Salzburg picture at the unveiling of the name of Marguerite Kozenn Chajes carved on the marble plaque in the Mozarteum, listing persons who have made outstanding contributions to the International Foundation Mozarteum. She is the only American to have been so honored. The writer, with her son Sandy Lungershausen, was privileged to watch the ceremony. The Mayor of Salzburg, Alfred Baeck, presented Mrs. Chajes with a luxuriant bouquet of roses and appropriate speeches were made by all the dignitaries present. At the same time, Ulli Edelbacher of Oak Park, Mich., was given, in absentia, the Reinhardt medal for her work in the Pro Mozart Society of Detroit.

So much music in so short a time, combined with the delicious cooking of Austria and magnificent weather, has made the Festival of Salzburg an experience never to be forgotten.

Residents of CITY OF GROSSE POINTE These Are Your Needs!

Your Mayor and Council Urge You to VOTE YES

For these CITY OF GROSSE POINTE BOND ISSUES and Charter Amendments on Sept. 1st, 1964

Here Are the Facts You Should Know:

• NEEDED BONDING PROPOSITIONS •

VOTE YES — Proposition "A" — $100,000 BOND ISSUE TO PAY FOR PUBLIC WORKS GARAGE

This essential facility already is under construction just behind the City Hall, and should be finished by October. The $100,000 bond issue is needed to pay for it.

The original financing plan for this structure was upset by a number of developments beyond the control of the City or its citizens.

First blow was an unfavorable ruling from the U.S. Government. The City's application for matching funds (half payment for the building) was turned down by the U.S. Accelerated Public Works Program when Wayne County was removed from the eligible areas list. Planning had progressed in full anticipation that the City's request would be granted.

The City's share of the matching funds for this project was to come from sale of the City's Jefferson Avenue property occupied by the Unitarian Church.

There are several good-business reasons why it is inadvisable to sell this property now. The church is still occupying the land, and the property can't be utilized immediately by a buyer and this at present adversely affects a fair market price.

In a move to get a better price for this property, the City planned to tie in the sale with that of an adjoining piece of private property up for sale. However, this property now has become involved in bankruptcy proceedings and it does not appear that the land will be available for sale for some time.

Faced with these developments, the City Council proposed that the garage project be financed by a bond issue, with the pledge to voters that when the Jefferson Avenue property is sold the proceeds will be used to rebuild and repair catch basins and curbs. This is an urgent need of the City, as both catch basins and curbs are in a state of disrepair.

VOTE YES — Proposition "B" — $200,000 BOND ISSUE TO SAVE RECREATION FIELD FOR CITY

There is, apparently, some public misunderstanding about the Neighborhood Club Recreation Field, the only sizeable piece of recreation property available in the City.

Some people believe, it seems, that this is city owned because it has been so freely used by our citizens.

This is not true. It's the property of the Neighborhood Club and was given to them by Dexter M. Ferry, Jr., in 1927. There were no restrictions in the deed on what the trustees of the club could do with the land.

The Club's charter spells out its purpose and function; It does not stipulate the kind or nature of its holdings. Today, the Neighborhood Club Building proper is in an unsafe condition. Substructure corrections are urgent, and the club trustees have decided to sell the Recreation Field and use the proceeds to rebuild the club so it can better serve the community.

An evaluation was made by both the City and the club trustees and a fair price of approximately $200,000 was placed on the 6.07 acres comprising the playing field. The City was given first refusal on the rights to purchase, and asked for urgent action so the club could proceed with its rebuilding plans.

There is a danger of losing this most valuable property as a recreation facility because the club is free to sell on the open market should the City decline the offer. Were this to happen, the City would suffer a tremendous loss. We must protect its recreational character. The bond issue will have a 20-year tenure. Approximate millage per year would be .49 mills per $1,000 of assessed valuation. Vote YES for our children's sake.

VOTE YES — Proposition "C" — $1,325,000 BOND ISSUE TO ELIMINATE HEALTH AND FLOODING DANGERS OF ANTIQUATED SEWER SYSTEM

Yes, our sewer system is truly a mixed-up mess and has been for some time, as most City of Grosse Pointe citizens are aware.

Today, the system is a menace to the health of our citizens. It exposes all of us to the carrier-type diseases (among them infectious hepatitis) generated by a bad sewer condition.

The present system was constructed more than 30 years ago, and, in addition to being inadequate in size for many years, has deteriorated through overloading. For the last 17 years, sewage has been backing up into many City of Grosse Pointe homes. More are threatened each year.

For several years the City has violated health standards by pumping from a sanitary sewer into a storm sewer at Lakeland and Jefferson. We have been endangering our neighbors, as well as our citizens by pumping sewage into Lake St. Clair. The State Health Department is concerned, and has the power to enforce action if we do not voluntarily act.

The City's sewer pumping station is so worn out that it has become unsafe.

It is obvious that passage of the sewer bond issue is vital. It will provide the funds to eliminate the hazard. The 20-year, 3½% G.O. Bond Issue would cost about 3.25 mills, or $3.25 per $1,000 on local assessed values.

• NEEDED CHARTER AMENDMENT PROPOSALS •

VOTE YES — Proposal "No. 1"

New Fiscal Year. This would extend from July 1st to June 30th. The City's present fiscal year extends from April 1st to March 31st.

The July-June fiscal year is practically standard for Michigan communities, and the City would have eliminated many tax assessment and collection problems if the proposed change had been made years ago.

A big problem started in 1950 when Michigan Legislature imposed a uniform assessment date of December 31st of each year. In the City that meant that each January the City's business community was called upon to make rapid reporting of personal property as of December 31st. This does not allow time for accurate assessments, and practically no time at all for appeals. Your YES vote for the change in the fiscal year would correct this and other problems.

Eligible veterans and widows of veterans will receive Homestead Tax Credit on their tax bill.

If you approve this amendment, next year's tax bill will not fall due until July 1st and will cover a 15-month period.

VOTE YES — Proposal "No. 2"

Change In Antiquated Purchase-Approval Practice. Today the City Council must (by charter) review every City bill of more than $100. Should this practice be followed to the letter of the law, it would demand most of the time of the Council. Councilmen would have little time left for the City's important problems and affairs.

The proposed change that we ask citizens to approve with a YES vote would end this horse-and-buggy-days practice. Only bills of $1,000 and over would require review and approval by the Council.

VOTE YES — Proposal "No. 3"

Protection Of City Against Delayed Claims. Under the City Charter today, a claim can be filed against the City for an accident or other grievance that happened long ago. The difficulty of defense against such claims is obvious.

Under the charter change proposed for your YES vote, persons who desire to make a legal claim against the City must serve notice of intent within 60 days of the incident.

FILL THESE URGENT NEEDS NOW!

VOTE YES for the City of Grosse Pointe Bond Issues and Charter Amendments on September 1st.

Murder Charge Is Dismissed

MacLachlan "to take his car and go on."

"When I said that Mrs. Frank became extremely upset — she said 'That's my car. He might crack it up or something'," Jones recalled. Then Mrs. Frank rushed across the street back to her car.

Man Charges

"Then, for no known reason at all other than that he was drunk or vicious, MacLachlan came at me," Jones recalls.

All through the incident, MacLachlan was shouting profanities at both Jones and the woman.

MacLachlan charged, bottle in hand.

"When he was about to hit me, I acted in fear of life and limb."

Has Cost Much

Since that evening, Jones, his wife, and family have gone through great worry and strain.

He spent three days in jail before he was released on bond. His companion in the jail cell was one of the Grayling escaped convicts.

Instead of being just another person, as he would like to be, Jones is stopped by people who want to meet him, to express their support of the courage he displayed in coming to the defense of a total stranger and in taking the decisive steps that resulted from his involvement.

"I either had to do something — take action right away — or walk away and let happen what would happen," Jones said. It became clear that Jones is not the kind of person who could just stand around and let that kind of thing happen.

'Total Responsibility'

He explained further,

"I teach history and government. And how could I go on teaching that citizenship is a total responsibility and then advocate for myself something less than that?

"Morally, there is little question in my mind, although I would hope this situation would never arise again, that if it did, I would react in somewhat the same fashion. Each situation must stand by itself.

"Legally, there's no record of it all all. Yet I've got to live within my conscience. I consider myself a Christian, and what I did is not easily reconcilable with that.

"I was forced to do something that was horrible, and something that had to be done.

"From all this, the only one thing I really know is that I did what I had to do and justice has prevailed."

Wrowf on the Roof

Fritz, a year-and-a-half old schnauser who owns Harold Beattie, of 784 Barrington, has found the roof is better than the backyard for girl-dog watching. He learned the way by leaping on the sill of a second-floor dormer window at his home, and then out on the roof itself, from which point he can oggle a neighbor's white poodle. Maybe one of these days, if Fritz can come down to earth, schnoodles.

Bach Exhibition At Wayne State

The Johann Sebastian Bach Traveling Exhibition will be on display in Detroit for two weeks, September 1-15. Wayne State University will host the exhibit in the Exhibition Area of its Community Arts Building, 450 West Kirby between Cass and Second avenues.

Over 60 artifacts are on display including several personal objects and manuscripts taken from Bach's music room. Of special interest are several prints by Merian of the towns in which Bach composed and performed, a reproduction of the only authentic portrait of Bach, painted six years before his death, and a special section depicting the last decade of his life. The comprehensive exhibit traces the life of the German composer from youth and early childhood through his death and posthumous fame.

Bach, born in Eisenach, Germany in 1685, was not wreathed in fame and reputation until many years after his death in 1750. Never before has a nearly forgotten artist been resurrected into such universal appreciation as Bach was in the 19th century.

Dr. Morris Hochbery, Professor of Music at Wayne and violinist for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra will highlight the Exhibition with a Bach concert Sunday, September 13. The concert and accompaning tea will last from 4:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. in the Community Arts Auditorium adjoining the Exhibition Area. Both the exhibition and the concert are free to the public.

Wayne County Tax Increase on the Ballot

ices not required by state law. One example is the care of juvenile delinquents, theoretically a state responsibility. Since the state doesn't provide facilities, and the county's are overloaded, Mr. Bodman said, two-thirds of the delinquents continue to roam the streets.

Another example is psychiatric care at the county hospital.

Mandatory Cuts

Further curtailment of services is no longer possible, Mr. Bodman told members of the Greater Detroit Board of Commerce last week. The Board of Auditors has recommended that the Wayne County General Hospital and the Wayne County Training School be closed "unless additional revenues can be procured immediately to finance county operations."

County Auditor Charles F. Edgecomb said failure of the millage proposal would make it necessary "to cut personnel of even the mandatory departments such as the sheriff, prosecutor, and all other branches of county government."

In a research report on the proposition, the non-partisan Citizens Research Council of Michigan said earlier this month that the operating tax levy for the county has remained constant since 1958, at the maximum level allowed without asking approval of the voters. County Proposition No. 1 is a request to raise the levy rate.

No Solution

The Council said that "County officials are making a strong case for additional appropriations" in these areas, and that the fund shortages mentioned by Mr. Bodman are genuine.

But the Council called the proposal a means of "ameliorating," rather than "solving," the county's financial problems. It argued that if the county, as presently organized by state law, is to be only an instrument of state government, then the responsibility for providing these funds belongs to the state, and no tax increase would be necessary.

City Guards Win Swimming Meet

The annual Grosse Pointe Guard Swim Meet, held last Saturday morning was won for the third consecutive season by the City of Grosse Pointe guards. Each summer the lifeguards from all the municipal parks compete in this meet. Most of the boys were former Grosse Pointe High School stars, and some were high school All-American swimmers.

Considering the fact that very little training precedes the competition, some of this year's times were excellent. John Woods, who swims for Western Michigan University, and Jack Teetaert, who swims for the University of Wisconsin, were double winners in the meet.

John, swimming for the Shores, won the 50 yard butterfly with a time of 25.4 sec., and the 100 yard freestyle with a 53.3 sec. time.

Jack, swimming for the City, won the 100 yard individual medley with a time of 1:0.0, and the 50 yard backstroke in 27.3. The final scores and places were as follows:

First — Grosse Pointe City	94
Second — Grosse Pointe Shores	63
Third — Grosse Pointe Woods	51
Fourth — Grosse Pointe Farms	26
Fifth — Grosse Pointe Park	19

As scheduled, the Grosse Pointe City pool will end its season Labor Day evening, September 7.

Detroit Outfielder Don Demeter set a major league record for consecutive errorless games the mark of 205 held by Tony when he passed 206, breaking Gonzales of the Phillies.

PRIMARY ELECTION TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1st

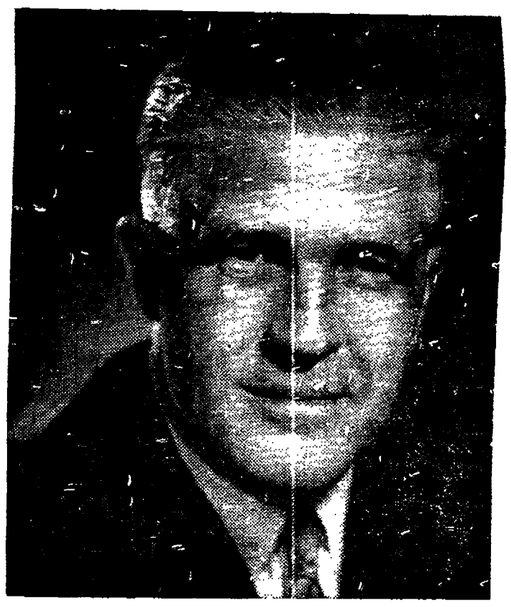

SUPPORT ROMNEY
FOR GOVERNOR
—DEFEAT DURANT

YOUR VOTE for DELEGATE TO COUNTY CONVENTION in the election on Tuesday, September 1st, will decide whether George Romney will get

The kind of responsible, aggressive leadership you want him to have in the 14th District or

The OLD, repudiated, defeatist team running on its no - win record and its "Me-first, Romney-second" policy.

WHY IS THIS IMPORTANT?

Because Richard Durant, the current Chairman of the Republican organization in our District, must be replaced.

— In 1962 Durant named Romney as a defendant in a $1,000,000 LIBEL SUIT. Romney was dismissed from the suit by the Court.

— In August, 1962, Durant, identified as a member of the John Birch Society, resigned just before the District Convention. Immediately thereafter, he announced that his resignation had been only a "POLITICAL MOVE" to help him get elected.

Because your needs and desires are best served by the vital leadership that stands for — Citizen participation in determining the kind of government we shall have.

— Leadership in public thought, responsiveness to Republican voter opinion.

— Action to loyally support Republican policies, platforms, candidates.

At 9:30 a.m. on the same day all new enrollees from out of the system and who will be attending Grosse Pointe High School will meet for a briefing session. Pingel to Plan Michigan Week

John S. Pingel, president of Ross Roy Inc., Detroit advertising agency will be regional chairman of Michigan Week for the second year, directing all activities connected with the celebration in the Wayne-Oakland-Macomb area.

His appointment is announced by Edward L. Baker, deputy general chairman of Michigan Week, who is Detroit postmaster.

Dates of the 12th annual Michigan Week are May 16-22, but Mr. Baker called it a year-around program and emphasized that the effort to enlist all eight million citizens in national and world-wide promotion of the state in connection with the 1965 celebration will begin in earnest immediately after Labor Day.

Word that the annual citizen campaign to promote Michigan will be world wide this time was given recently by Gov. George Romney, its honorary chairman, when he announced that the theme of the 1965 Michigan Week will be "Michigan—Dynamic in World Progress." The governor asked firms, organizations and individuals to use the theme in correspondence and many other ways.

Mr. Baker said Mr. Pingel will select his three county chairmen by the middle of September and that they will be expected to have their county Michigan Week councils in operation soon afterward.

Mr. Pingel, All-American halfback at Michigan State University in 1938, is a member of the MSU Board of Trustees and is a trustee of Grosse Pointe University School and of the Oakland University Foundation.

Romney Reports on Steps To Curb Youth Delinquency

Last week I held a meeting in my office with Detroit officials regarding juvenile problems in that city. Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, three members of the Detroit Common Council, Detroit Police Commissioner Ray Girardin, Detroit Judge James Lincoln and other state officials and legislators attended the meeting.

We have cooperated in establishing a Committee of Ten to seek immediate and long-range solutions to Detroit's juvenile problems.

I tried to point out that one of our needs is for more than a sporadic, crisis-to-crisis communication between the city and the state. We must work together toward solutions of problems which are of equal concern to us. I think that the Committee of Ten is a method by which we can meet both our short-range need for immediate solutions and our long-range need for better cooperation and communication.

Prevention Needed

There is a desperate need for prevention of delinquency and rehabilitation of delinquents at the local level. If we just talk about institutions, we'll never get ahead of our problems—because Detroit can produce delinquents faster than anybody can build institutions to house them. In this regard, Michigan is increasing the number of beds available for delinquents by 80 per cent in the three-year period from 1963 to 1965.

The Committee of Ten will consist of five state officials and five others named by Mayor Cavanagh. I have suggested that the Committee submit a report within one month on these points:

1. A specific catalog of the 250-300 hard-core juvenile offenders now on the streets of Detroit—who they are, their offenses, their ages, and, insofor as possible, the kind of treatment they require. The total should be broken into categories, so that all will have a better idea of what we need to do—together—to protect the community and rehabilitate the juveniles. For some, institutionalization may not be necessary.

2. A careful evaluation of available space in existing institutions — city, county and state—which could be used for housing the different kinds of juvenile offenders. The Committee should also investigate the possibilities of the City or State acquiring other existing facilities, not now used for juvenile offenders, and converting them to such use.

3. Since we must consider program, as well as space—and since program means staff—the Committee should also investigate what possibilities there are for City, State or Federal financing of the additional trained staff personnel which would be required.

Allen Co-Chairman

The Committee of Ten will be headed by co-chairmen, one appointed by the Mayor of Detroit and one by myself. I have named State Controller Glenn S. Allen, Jr., as Co-Chairman for the State.

Other State representatives on the Committee will be Gus Harrison, director of the Corrections Department; R. Bernard Houston, state social welfare director; Dr. Robert A. Kimmich, director of the Department of Mental Health; and Sam Rabinovitz, executive secretary of the Michigan Youth Commission.

I am hopeful that the Committee of Ten, after its immediate task is accomplished, can continue to function in working on similar problems of mutual concern.

Pointers Plan Torch Drive

Detroit business executives discuss plans for carrying out an intensive Torch Drive campaign among selected companies located in the Central Wayne and Central Business Units. From left to right are Lloyd A. Northard, 15055 Ashton, of American Motors; Ben Daume, 272 LaSalle Pl., Grosse Pointe, of City National Bank; Anthony J. Clawson Robbery Suspect Confesses to City Police

A Birmingham, Mich., man confessed to City police that he committed seven armed robberies in the past two years after he was arrested here August 17, City Police Chief Andrew Teetaert said this week.

Among the seven armed robberies to which Chief Teetaert said George D. Brown, 33, of 1670 Graefield, Birmingham, confessed, was one he had committed the same afternoon in Clawson, Mich., that resulted in his arrest.

Brown was arrested in a home in the City by Chief Teetaert and Patrolman James Cronin of City police. They had been alerted by a teletyped message that the robber had been seen to escape in a car registered to a family in the City.

Brown allegedly entered the Liberty Loan Corporation, 1219 West 14 Mile, Clawson, at about 1:30 p.m., produced a gun and demanded money, and escaped with $1,457 in cash.

He was sighted at a nearby used car lot transferring money from a used car he had borrowed into the other car which belonged to the Grosse Pointer.

Clawson police were told the serial number of the escape vehicle, and alerted City police, who took suveillance of the City home at 5:10 p.m.

Brown returned to the home at 6:42 p.m. and was immediately arrested by the two officers. When arrested, he was carrying $98.05 on his person.

Find More Money

Subsequent investigation revealed he was also carrying a cylinder pin from a .22 calibre German Luger revolver in his pocket. A search of his car revealed an additional $1,457 in the pocket of a suit in the back of the car.

Brown confessed almost immediately to the afternoon robbery in Clawson. He first told Chief Teetaert that he had used a plastic gun in the holdup, but later admitted that he had used a .22 calibre Luger.

He was released to Clawson police at 9:15 p.m. the same evening after extensive questioning by Teetaert. This interrogation and subsequent investigation by Clawson detectives resulted in Brown's confessing to seven robberies he had committed since 1962, police said.

Uses Friend's Car

Of these, two were in Lincoln Park, three in Clawson, one in Detroit, one in Centerline and one in Warren.

Brown told Chief Teetaert that his car was out of service, and the close friend in the Pointe had lent him the car.

He was arraigned in Oakland County Circuit Court Monday, and pled guilty to a charge of armed robbery.

Sign Painters Pull a Boner

If you feel you've been seeing things recently as you've entered and left the Kercheval-on-the-Hill area, you probably have.

Signs commissioned by the Kercheval-on-the-Hill Association, with a black background and white letters and a white linear crown, were installed at the bottom and top of the business district.

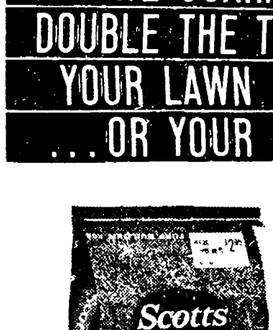

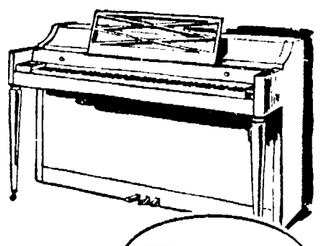

The signs announced that the area which motorists and pedestrians were just entering or leaving was known as "Kercheval-of-the-Hill."

Any respectable Pointer knows that Kercheval is ON the Hill, not OF it. Evidently the sign painters didn't. Even when they were so instructed by the copy given them.

Overnight the signs were corrected. Hill stores, gas stations, offices and sidewalks were reinstated to Kercheval-on-the-Hill. Or more correctly, Kercheval-on-the-Hill was reinstated to them.

Musical to be Offered By Northland Playhouse

A musical with humor, good songs, good performers and a plot which is not an insult to one's intelligence opens at the Northland Playhouse, Tuesday, Sept. 1. It's "Stop the World—I Want to Get Off," the musical Free Press critic, Louis Cook, called "a splendid dash of stage sunlight," when it played to standing room only at the Shubert last March.

"Stop" is a fairly esoteric piece. It's mostly the idea of Anthony Newley, and is a musical study of the Seven Ages of Man as they are depicted in Shakespeare's "As You Like It."

Joel Grey will play and sing the role of a Britisher, Littlechap, as he goes through the stages from childhood to second childhood. Mara Lynn will be his wife, and also the girl friend he meets in many countries. Littlechap always loves the same girl in different bodies. Both Grey and Miss Lynn sing well, act well and are very pleasant to watch.

"Stop" comes with a great little touring company; a group of dancers join the leads in the type of tight, fast-moving musical troupe which dish it up at Northland with the same enthusiasm and verve as if it were playing the poshest Broadway theatre. Grey is in excellent voice on such things as "What Kind of Fool Am I?" and "Once in a Lifetime," and his miming is delightful.

On Sept. 8-13, "Bus Stop," starring Jayne Mansfield and Ann B. (Schultzy) Davis with Mike Hargitay comes to Northland. "Sound of Music," playing this week, returns the week of Sept. 15-22.

How to add to your living space without adding an inch to your home.

Simply install a Gas baseboard heater. And suddenly that enclosed porch, breezeway, playroom or add-on room—any room that was too chilly for comfort before—becomes a real family room. Economically.

Gas heats add-on rooms for about ¼ the operating cost of any other type of baseboard heat. So every $25 you spend for Gas baseboard heat represents savings of up to $75 compared to the operating cost of other baseboard heaters. Savings like that really add up. And, of course, when you heat with Gas, you get super-comfort . . . without super-insulation.

So don't shut off that hard-to-heat area. Heat it easily—and economically—with Gas. To find out how to make your home grow—without stretching your budget—call 965-8000, Ext. 3375. Today. LIVE MODERN . . . FOR LESS . . . WITH GAS

GM Official Slaps at UAW

Louis G. Seaton, General Motors vice president in charge of personnel, this week issued a tough statement on the UAW's rejection of the company's offer last week. He said:

"We are bewildered by the union's time-wasting maneuvering. Thirteen days ago the NAW made a public appeal that General Motors come forth with an economic proposal as early as possible so there would be time to work out a settlement without a strike.

"GM responded promptly. A week ago, General Motors offered the best and most comprehensive proposal GM has ever made to the UAW.

"General Motors offered:

- Wage increases worth more than 26c on hour on the average.
- Cost-of-living allowances to protect wages.
- 16 per cent basic pension benefits.
- A new early retirement incentive.
- An eighth paid holiday.
- More vacation pay.
- New widow's benefits.
- More life insurance protection fully paid by GM.
- Sickness and accident benefits also paid by GM.
- Improved unemployment pay and separation pay plans.
- Company-paid educational opportunities.
- A $6 million wage differential adjustment fund.

"Within minutes, the union, in effect, publicly rejected our proposal out of hand. They then took a week to maneuver and to decide who would be first to be threatened with a $65 million strike fund. Even that decision must wait until next Wednesday night—leaving a bare five days before the GM-UAW agreement runs out.

"There is still time to work out a settlement—if the union will come down off the mountain and get realistic. As we said a week ago, we are flexible. We can work out a sound new agreement within the economic dimensions of our proposal."

Fifteen Free Horse Shows Scheduled at State Fair

The horse shows — among the most popular events at the Michigan State Fair — will be expanded this year.

Fifteen shows are scheduled in the Coliseum, with the first on the opening evening of the Fair, Friday, Aug. 28, and the last the final afternoon, Monday, Sept. 7. Last year 12 shows were held.

The horse shows will be free to all State Fair goers—a rare opportunity to see superbly trained horses going through their paces.

There'll be parade horses, pleasure horses, working horses, harness horses, quarter horses, saddle horses and ponies.

Included will be Arabians and Morgans, colorful Appaloosas and the giant Clydesdales, Belgians and Percherons. Shetlands and Tennessee Walkers will be on hand, as will Palominos and ponies of the Americas.

The horse shows will include the regular showing of the saddle and harness horses, plus such events as barrel racing, goat tying, cattle cutting, prairie stump racing, barrel bending, and stake racing.

A total of more than $25,000 in premiums is being offered.

The shows will be held each evening of the fair except the final evening, with matinees on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 29-30; Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 5-6; and Monday, Sept. 7.

Country-music stars of the Grand Ole Opry will perform before each week-end horse show.

Adam Ostrowski of Hamtramck is liason authority member for the horse shows. C. A. "Bud" Leetch of Fenton is chairman of the horse show advisory committee and superintendent is Charles Roby of New Hudson.

Judges will be: Quarter Horse and cutting contests, Don Carr, of Fort Worth, Tex.; Palomino and Parade Horses, Edgar Terrell, of Akron, Ind.; Arabian and Morgan, David H. Neil, of Cleveland, Tenn.; Belgian, Percheron, Clydesdale and hitch classes, Justin McCarthy, of Ada, Mich.; Appaloosa and Pony of Americas, Gene Pittenger, of Eaton, Ind.; American Saddlebred, Tennessee Walker and ponies, J. He had the advantage of being able to maneuver in and out of heavy traffic with his smaller vehicle, whereas pursuing officers were hindered by the moving cars.

State to Review Right of Ways

The Michigan State Highway Department will make a comprehensive study of right of way widths along its nearly 10,000 miles of state highways, State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said recently.

The study of right of way widths will start in the Upper Peninsula, Mackie said, and any decision regarding variable width rights of way will be made at some time in the future by the new four-man highway commission that will replace him when he leaves office.

Mackie announced that a review of highway rights of way was made in testimony presented at a hearing of the State Senate Special Interim Study Committee on Roadside Advertising. The testimony was presented for Mackie by J. A. Wilbur, of the Engineering Development Committee of the State Highway Department.

Mackie said highway right of way widths vary on highways in both the Upper and Lower Peninsula.

The State Highway Department's reason for purchasing wide rights of way in some areas was to increase the scenic value of the highway by providing a scenic forest buffer.

"It was conceived as an attraction to the motoring public and to the residents of the area and was part of a national program," he said. "The variable width rights of way did not come about through the whimsical decision of previous highway commissioners. They represented what appeared initially—more than 25 years ago—to be a prudent policy that was inherited by the present highway administration.

"Unfortunately, the program did not mature nationally due to World War II and subsequent changes in national policy," he said.

Mackie said the review of rights of way on all state highways must be made before any steps can be taken to resolve the problem.

THE PETER L. BUBACK FAMILY

"Our Families Deserve Safe Parks"

Your family's desire for untroubled safety when using the County's 10 beautiful parks, and its pleasant waterways, is something Wayne County Sheriff Peter L. Buback, a family man, deeply understands.

Working within a limited budget, he has increased parks and waterways safety by — 1st, tripling the size of the Wayne County Waterways Patrol; 2nd, establishing a 'round-the-clock' Parks Patrol; 3rd, increasing the scope of the Road Patrol; 4th, strengthening the Youth Bureau which helps deter juvenile delinquency. (Teen-age jail tours are one activity).

Recognized for more than 20 years as one of Wayne County's ablest administrators, Sheriff Buback has brought to the Department a progressive leadership. Under him, the Sheriff's Office has taken on an entirely new efficiency. So much so, that County government officials refer to him as "the most effective Sheriff in Wayne County's history."

Vote for the Bond Issues

Three bond issues to appear on the ballot in Grosse Pointe City next Tuesday deserve the full support of that community's voters. Though taxes will go up significantly as a result of their passage, the bond issues represent an extremely solid investment in the City's attractiveness as a fine residential community, and, consequently, in future property values.

Proposition A, seeking $100,000 for a Public Works garage, pays for a garage which it was hoped would be paid for by a Federal grant and by sale of other city-owned lands. The Federal grant never came, and the land is wisely being held for an anticipated sale at a higher price in the near future. Meanwhile, the garage must be paid for, and the bond issue is entirely in order.

Proposition B seeks $200,000 for the acquisition of recreational land. With the purchase of about six acres adjacent to the Neighborhood Club, for which this money is earmarked, the City will be assured of at least adequate playground area in the years to come.

The objection could be made that the Neighborhood Club could obtain the money for repair of its tumbled-down building by a fund drive. This is true. However, they could also, in the years to come, expand their plant onto the adjacent playfield or even sell the land for subdivision.

To prevent such an eventuality, immediate action, the kind proposed in this bond issue, is a necessity.

Proposition C, the largest of the three, seeks about $1.325,000 for correction of the City's outdated, overworked sewer sytem. These corrections should have been made long ago, and would have cost a great deal less if they had been. The City council is to be commended for, at last, taking the initiative to ask that these corrections be made. The unsanitary trash that bubbles up into basements and onto streets after every major rainfall in the area is more than enough proof that these repairs are long, long overdue.

If We Pay the Money

The Citizens Research Council of Michigan got to the heart of the matter in its report on an item on Tuesday's ballots known as County Proposition No. 1 (see story on Page 1).

The proposition is a request from the County Board of Supervisors to the voters to raise property taxes one dollar per thousand assessed valuation to help avoid a deficit in the county budget, which has become about as perennial as crabgrass. The extra tax would raise an estimated $9 million a year.

The money is needed, without question. It would be spent on hospitals, psychiatric care and juvenile homes, plus the staffs of these institutions. And we don't question for a moment that it would be well spent.

But as the Research Council points out, this really shouldn't be our problem. According to state law, all juvenile delinquents are wards of the state, not the counties or the cities. Also, the state is supposed to pick up the tab for taking care of many of the physically and mentally ill for whom Wayne County taxpayers actually provide.

So the question comes down to this: Is a county in Michigan supposed to be just an administrative arm of the state, or is it supposed to be something more, providing services on its own beyond its purely local needs?

For most counties, this isn't a problem. They are small and sparsely populated, and the state formula does well enough. But the formula is totally inadequate in Wayne County, with a third of the state's total population.

The Research Council argues that if Wayne citizens are supposed to provide services, through extra taxes, for state problems, than it ought to be able to organize itself so it can do the best possible job. It should have some real authority over these funds, and should, if necessary, be able to tell the state to go soak its head.

But because the State Legislature consistently refuses to approve home rule for Wayne County, this isn't the case. As a result, we have a cumbersome and obsolete form of county government. We elect officials to county offices who aren't needed at all—because the state says we have to—and, of course, we have to pay them and their staffs.

The Board of Supervisors, which is made up of representatives of all the cities and townships in the county, has in the same way grown as big and unwieldly as the Legislature itself. Even a Supervisor's committee meeting fills a good sized banquet room.

We go along with Supervisor and Farms Councilman Henry E. Bodman II in urging support of the proposition, but we shouldn't stop there.

An extra buck per thousand on the tax bill gives us the right to put heavy pressure on our state legislators to provide home rule for Wayne County. If we pay the money, we ought to be able to take our choice.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I have read a great many editorials stressing the need for legislation for the protection of laboratory animals, but yours is the finest, and surely the most effective, that I have ever read.

It is encouraging to know that the public is being made aware of the inadequate housing, indifferent pre and post-operative care, and the inexcusable neglect and inhumane treatment which is all too prevalent in institutions using live animals in research. Having visited laboratories in Michigan and other parts of the country, I am keenly aware of the urgent need for legislation.

Each year the Animal Welfare Institute of New York presents the Albert Schweitzer medal to a humanitarian who has performed an outstanding service for the welfare of animals. Some of the recipients of this medal have been Senator Hubert Humphrey, Congressman William Poage, Major Charles Hume, William Carr, then of the New York Post, and the late Rachel Carson.

This year the Animal Welfare Institute is presenting the Albert Schweitzer medal to Patrolman John Mobley for his action in bringing to the attention of the Anti-Cruelty Association, the plight of the experimental dog at Wayne College of Medicine.

Many thanks to you for writing such a fine editorial and many thanks to the Grosse Pointe News for publishing it.

Dorothy Dyce
Animal Welfare Institute
Ann Arbor

To the Editor:

The editorial of August 20 regarding cruelty to animals in test conditions made several fine points — indeed anti-cruelty legislation should be passed. But as long as you are interested in "appalling anachronisms" that have been "allowed to continue unabated from year to year in spite of legislation placed before the Congress at every session in recent years" — what about medicare, a necessary "anti-cruelty" measure for many of our senior citizens?

People in Grosse Pointe are extremely fortunate — poverty is not likely to touch any of us. This, however, does not make the problem any less real. Two out of three persons over 65 live below the government "poverty level", as compared with one in five for the overall population. In 1960, almost nine percent of the population was over 65. An adequate program of medical care for the aged is urgently needed — yet for seven years no adequate program has been passed by Congress. Opposing such legislation is the powerful and wealthy A.M.A. Unheeded is the "silent lobby," the elderly people and their families who desperately need this help if they are to get adequate medical care.

As you have said, "we must ask the Senators how long we must wait for a guarantee of decent treatment, pain-relieving drugs, and simply a little normal human feeling for animals . . . The immediate problem that must be solved is the suffering of animals." Perhaps after we have taken of the animals, we can do something about needless human suffering.

Leslie Woodcock
950 Pemberton

To the Editor:

The editorial staff of the News is to be commended for the fearless and forth-right manner in exposing the callous, brutal and inhumane treatment of laboratory animals. Incidents of this nature are usually treated hush-hush, deemed too revolting for public consumption.

The incident may seem as much-ado-about-nothing, but allow me to inform you that these cruel and indifferent conditions exist in the majority of medical research, hospitals and university laboratories, all of which are beyond the public ken. In the Wayne University incident, they were caught with "jam on their face" and the only regret expressed was that they forgot to de-bark (cut vocal cords) of the animal and forgot to close the window. Either procedure would stifle the howls of pain.

Stephen J. Ernst
Anti-Cruelty Association

To the Editor:

Three bonding propositions are being submitted to the qualified voters of the City of Grosse Pointe at the primary election on September 1st for a total amount of $1,625,000.00. If approved, your city taxes (which are now the highest of any of the Pointes) will be increased by $3.99 per thousand of assessed valuation for the next twenty years.

Furthermore, the Grosse Pointe School Board is waiting in the wings for the cue from Mr. Kenneth H. Koppin's so-called Citizens' Advisory Committee to endorse the building of a second high school on the Vanderbush-Baker property. They will be given the green light to build on the site in question by the Committee sometime before the end of October. Meanwhile, a special school election will be scheduled, to provide the necessary funds, before the first week in December, 1964. According to publicity released by the School Board the amount of the bond issue will be around "$5,000,000 for the purchase of land and construction of a second high school." "The operation will approximate $200,000 over a year."

Incidentally, they have already spent $683,923.00 on this project without any vote of the taxpayers. The reason for a quick election is obvious. Your 1964-65 school tax bills (which you will receive the first week in December) is $23.71 per thousand or $3.00 more per thousand than your 1963-64 bill. This, together with many assessments in the School District increased because of the Tax Revaluation Program, will not put the qualified voters in any mood to vote themselves more taxes.

Considerable controversy and confusion has developed over the bonding proposition to borrow $200,000.00 "for the purpose of paying the cost of acquiring land for recreational facilities." It was pointed out at the council meeting of August 17 that what they had in mind is to use the money to buy only a portion of the Mutual Aid and Neighborhood Club land, or about 6.07 acres. The Neighborhood Club will still own and retain title to all of the land included within a parallel line at the north end of the tennis court straight across from Neff to St. Clair and back south to Waterloo, which includes the Club itself and The Thrift Shop.

According to an article on page two of your paper of August 20 regarding this transaction it states "The exact parcel of land sought was not spelled out in the bond issue itself because it is still subject to final negotiation." In other words no contract has been signed between the City and the Neighborhood Club, and if the transaction is approved by the qualified voters it could result in costly court action between the two parties in question, if any misunderstanding arose over the verbal agreement.

It is hard to believe that our Mayor or any of the Councilmen would enter into a private real estate transaction involving $200,000.00 without signed contracts between both parties. Yet they are asking the qualified voters to approve this deal. Any fears on the part of the residents that the land in question will be offered to private investor and subdivided are clarified by the Club's attorney, Benjamin H. Long. Quoting from page one and four of your August 20 issue: "Never Considered Subdivision . . . Long" On page four. "Long also stated that the club had 'never considered' selling the club land for residential subdivision."

Furthermore, it would seem that the Grosse Pointe City council are slowly abdicating their governing powers and relying on Scott Bagby of Grand Rapids to make the decisions for them. If you will read page forty-one of the Bagby report you will note that he was the one that sold the Council the idea of purchasing that portion of the Neighborhood Club land. Mr. Bagby further recommends that the City condemn all the houses on the "half-block of property on the west side of St. Clair, and the development of this area plus the Neighborhood Club property as a modern School-Park." He apparently means between Waterloo and Charlevoix. He would also sell the Maire School on Cadieux and build a new Maire School somewhere on the Neighborhood Club School-Park.

In my opinion, a city planner who recommends such nonsense should be terminated in the City of Grosse Pointe money are as follows:

1. April 20, 1964 Drs. Barrett and Thill applied for a construction permit for a clinic on the property at 633 Notre Dame. Bagby said no, and the building permit was denied by the Council, despite the fact that there is an existing clinic directly parallel on Cadieux.

2. July 20, 1964 Mr. Toles, Jr., 295 Lincoln, had a plan for extending his lot sixty feet and building a new home. Bagby again said no. The request for a buliding permit was denied. Meanwhile the City loses the tax money from the two proposed units.

We are rapidly moving towards a situation where Scott Bagby of Grand Rapids is running the show so far as the City of Grosse Pointe is concerned.

For the past 31 weeks the New York Times best seller list has been headed by "THE SPY WHO CAME IN FROM THE COLD," by John Le Carre. Whether or not one views this fact with alarm, it could be a break-through for those mystery buffs who deplore the fact that mystery and "straight" novels are so widely differentiated in the minds of the readers.

For a definition of the mystery story, I quote from MYSTERY FICTION, THEORY AND TECHNIQUE, by Maria F. Rodell: ". . . any story in which one or more elements are hidden or disguised until the end of the story." This definition might cover many serious classics, as well as the work of weightier authors who try the "mystery" field. This article mentions only those stories in the category of the suspense novel.

Plato has said, ". . . the good are those who are content to dream of that which others actually do." A more scientific reason for the popularity of mystery tales is the relief we find for our dark, aggressive impulses by identifying with murderers and criminals. Should this explanation be distasteful, a more direct explanation might be that our sense of justice is satisfied when the villain is apprehended, the good forces triumphant. There are also fine excuses, to wit: "Mysteries are so relaxing. I don't have to think." "Modern fiction is so unsatisfactory." "I have insomnia."

How do we like our "murder most foul?" There is something for each individual taste. There are those who love the intellectual puzzle of the detective story, or the pure game of wits with the author. This reader couldn't care less if the hero is a confirmed misogynist, the only female in the book being the cat at the precinct station. I venture that most of us prefer the tale where anything or everything can hapen, as it will to characters with validity. In the soil of the remote English village the eccentric flourishes, and the English mystery has many ardent devotees, the emotional impact of the story being in direct proportion to the quietness of the setting or the public image of the characters. The "dear, little, old lady detective" is a variation on this theme. Some readers love the psychological problem, and the Freudian innuendo. Only an exotic foreign setting helps the insomnia of my aunt, and John's other wife will have no other setting for her relaxation than the good old USA.

Some of us adore digressions, and the minute detail of character. James Bond fans often care less about the means used to foil Smersh than how Jim likes his breakfast . . . brown, speckled eggs . . . three cups of coffee . . . and that special honey. (FROM RUSSIA WITH LOVE," by Ian Fleming.) Knowing that Lord Peter Whimsey will triumph in the end, his adorers, linger with the capable Bunter over the selection of milord's wardrobe. (GAUDY NIGHT, by Dorothy Sayers.) Will Miss Silver's aged velvet coatee be good for another season in some draughty English country house, as she unravels the mystery and her knitting? (THE SILENT POOL, by Patricia Wentworth.) The variety is endless.

It is interesting to contemplate how vast a change has occurred in most of our current mystery fiction since those old, old days when rigid rules were laid down for practitioners of the craft. The late S. S. Van Dine had a decalogue of advice for young writers. One of his rigid rules was a ban on any love interest in a detective story. The older and wiser writer advised the neophyte to find another field of writing than the mystery should he have a message for the public. The unhappy ending was against the rules. All must come right in the end. despite multiple mayhem, or the emotional frustration on the reader of the unhappy ending would not bring in good royalties. Mr. Le Carre managed to demolish all these taboos in one story and other mystery story writers smash at least one per book.

We conclude from this that a good mystery novel should be a good novel, despite the accent on crime. Mystery and suspense writers are exploring as many new areas of human behavior as are writers of "serious" fiction. Clarity should be the only rule. Confusion and cheating in a suspense or mystery story is the one crime against the reader.

The really great mystery novel has yet to be written—the one that will combine the highest literary talent with the novel of suspense. Will it head the best seller list? Who cares. We fans of the suspense story await its publication eagerly.

"What can I do about this pain?"

By FRED KOPP, R. Ph.

Customers often ask questions like this. And every year we sell perhaps a ton of pain relievers. Relievers. That's the point. We can sell simple analgesics, but we can't prescribe drugs to eliminate the cause of pain. Diagnosing and prescribing are in your physician's province. We, as professional pharmacists, work with doctors, providing the drugs they order. So, if you have any kind of a persistent pain, see your physician. We shall be pleased to provide any medication which may be prescribed.

As the fall opening approaches, the ladies of the Neighborhood Thrift Shop announce the appointment of a new manager to replace Mrs. Cyril Moore, who retired recently after managing the shop for 15 years.

The new manager is Mrs. A. C. Eaton, a native of the Pointe and a former Thrift Shop volunteer worker. Once a local model, Mrs. Eaton has since studied drama in New York and has been acting in and directing plays in Marion, Mass., for the past seven years. She has three children.

In recent years, the Thrift Shop has provided half the operating expenses for the Neighborhood Club. To maintain such a record will be a great challenge, believes Mrs. Eaton. And her plans are just "to get started" as soon as possible.

Traditionally, the Thrift Shop holds a grand opening and fashion show each fall, with the admission being a bundle of good, saleable used clothing, to restock the shelves. This year's fashion show is being planned for September 22.

White gladiola and lemon leaves marked the pews.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Her empire styled gown of white peau de soie with lace applique had a V-shaped chapel length train of Chantilly lace with a border of the peau de soie. Her waist was belted in moss green velvet and she wore a green velvet bow in her hair. She carried a cascade bouquet of English ivy and white button mums.

Mrs. Breidenbach wore an ice pink floor length gown with a short jacket featuring a scooped neck and elbow length sleeves. She pinned a corsage of deep pink rose buds and ivy to her purse.

Mr. and Mrs William Bahrs, the bride's maternal grandparents, came from Toledo and Mrs. Oscar H. Pharis, the bridegroom's grandmother, and formerly of Grosse Pointe, came from Florida for the ceremony.

A buffet supper was served at the reception at the Hastings Country Club. The couple will be at home in Ann Arbor after September 1.

Templeton certainly deserves the prize for the longest "coming" of the season. He traveled all the way from his Army post at Kagnew Station, Asmara, Eritrea, Africa, to usher at last Saturday's wedding of his sister, Jean, to John Michael Wyser-Pratte.

Three of the many out-of-town guests here for the Templeton wedding stayed at the home of Mrs. Augustin Nutter, herself just back from a visit to the MRA center at Mackinac Island.

Guests came from as far away as Stockholm, Sweden, as well as from ports nearer by for the wedding Saturday of Karen Esther Baer and Larry Young Crosby. Mrs. Charles J. Koebel entertained the wedding party and out-of-towners at a luncheon the day of the wedding.

A combination birthday party and rehearsal dinner took place last Friday at the Gull Lake Harbor Inn. The birthday girl was Bonnie Breidenbach and the future bridegroom was her brother, Dick. Their parents, the Victor Breidenbachs, of Grand Marais, hosted the celebration.

Jean D. Templeton Is Saturday Bride

Weds Eugene J. Wyser-Pratte in St. Paul's on the Lakeshore; Following Reception at the Grosse Pointe Club, Couple Leaves for Virgin Islands; Will Live in New York

Jean Doughty Templeton became the bride of John Michael Wyser-Pratte on Saturday morning at St. Paul's on the Lakeshore. Right Reverend Monsignor Frank J. McPhillips officiated.

The bride, daughter of Marshal E. Templeton and the late Mary Rumney Doughty Templeton, chose an ivory peau de soie gown for her wedding. Appliques of Alencon lace outlined the bodice and cascaded down the belle-shaped skirt, which ended in a chapel train. She carried a bouquet of pale cream roses centered with an orchid. An imported veil of Belgian rose point, a gift of the bride-her outfit.

Serving as matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. William Bainton Slater, Jr., of White Plains, N.Y. She wore a floor-length dress of pale blue organza with a lace bodice. Around her waist was a blue velvet ribbon sash and she wore a matching velvet bow in her hair. Her bouquet was of daisies.

The six bridesmaids were dressed like the honor attendant. They were Virginia Barnes, Elizabeth Carpenter, Margaret Carpenter and Bernardine McEvoy, all of Grosse Pointe; Sally Lewis of Bloomfield Hills, and Christine Gardner, of Lima, Peru.

Completing the wedding party were little Pamela and Billy Slater who served as flower girl and ring bearer.

A reception at the Grosse Pointe Club followed the ceremony. Mixed summer bouquets decorated the reception tables.

Mrs. Templeton chose an azure blue silk patina outfit accented with watermelon pink for the wedding. Her flowers were garnet roses. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Wyser-Pratte, wore a Maurice Rentner gown of ivory silk chiffon with a matching pleated jacket and a pale pink hat. Her corsage was a cymbidium orchid.

For traveling to the Virgin Islands, the new Mrs. Wyser-Pratte donned a turquoise shantung silk suit with white accessories. The couple will make their home at 75 East End Avenue, New York City.

Party Fare . . .

Party tables call for "flower-pretty" party fare. Quick and lovely are these fruit-cheese sandwiches. Whip cream cheese with a little lemon juice and grated nutmeg. Fold in well-drained canned fruit cocktail. Spread on rounds of date-nut bread. Garnish with a twist of sugared lemon or orange peel.

When you are kneading yeast dough, have just enough flour on the board during the process to keep the dough from sticking.

You can use a standard white cake batter for making cupcakes. Bake the cupcakes in a moderate oven for 20 to 30 minutes, depending on the size of the panwells.

ALLOWANCES

To make an allowance an educational device — which it should be—children should be given a set amount regularly. They should be allowed to spend it as they wish. However, parents need to make it clear just what expenses will be up to the child. For example, many parents do not buy ice cream or give extra money for movies and other outings, but tell their children that if they want these things, they must pay for them.

'Everything Has Gone Well'

Vacationers' letters are generally bland, boring to reader and writer, but Jeannie Hudson, traveling with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Hudson, Jr., of Washington road, penned a missive to her next-door neeighbor, Priscilla Mead, that is an edittor's delight: Original, economic, faithful-to-the-facts . . . and exciting!

"Dear Priscilla," nine-year-old Miss Hudson wrote. "I saw a balanced rock that looked like it was going to fall any second.

"Everything has gone well except our gas tank fell off and mommy had a stiff neck and we missed the ferry. Love, Jeannie."

The last sentence, we feel, expresses the incurable optimism of the younger generation.

Rickel-Champion

Virginia Champion of New York City, the bridegroom's sister; Susan Beck of Rockford, Ill.; Mrs. David Sheridan and Mrs. Harry Huff, both of Ann Arbor. They carried yellow roses.

For her daughter's wedding aud reception, Mrs. Rickel chose a pale pink sheath of silk linen. Mrs. Champion and Mrs. F. M. Freeman, the bridegroom's grandmother, wore a soft blue sheath of silk crepe.

The bridegroom asked John M. Rickel, the bride's brother, to serve as best man. Dr. Nicholas Christopher of Ann Arbor, Edward Marschner, IV, the bride's cousin of Pound Ridge, N.Y.; Daniel Jackson of Columbus, Ohio, and William Bryce of St. Clair Shores seated the guests.

For her wedding she wore a satin gown accented with inserts of Alencon lace and a mantilla of Belgian lace. She carried an heirloom Prayerbook covered with a spray of white orchids.

Charles Bunceigh was best man. Ushers were James Armstrong, Hugh Davies, James Glore, and Michael McCarty.

Following a reception at the Barton Hills Country Club, the newly married couple left on a wedding trip to Ann Arbor.

Saturday Ceremony at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church Is Followed by Reception at Detroit Golf Club; Newlyweds Leave for Northern Michigan; Will Live in Ann Arbor

Andrea Mary Smart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Smart, of University place, was married to Douglas John Rasmussen August 22 in the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

The Reverend Benjamin L. Tallman officiated at the ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Detroit Golf Club.

The bride wore a wedding gown of ivory peau de soie styled in the Empire tradition with appliques of Chantilly lace embroidered with seed pearls. The chapel train was attached to the high-rise waistline by a flat Dior bow, and her floor-length veil of illusion fell from a seed pearl embroidered Chantilly lace band encircling a chignon. She carried a bouquet of ivory roses.

Her attendants were dressed identically in floor-length pale pink crepe gowns also in the Empire style. They carried bouquets of garnet roses.

Mrs. Carl Liedholm of Ann Arbor served as matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were the bride's two cousins, Kathy Van Ryn and Jean Dundas of Detroit, Mrs. Richard Hicks of St. Clair Shores, and Jane Rasmussen, sister of the bridegroom.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Rasmussen of Richmond, Mich., asked Thomas Ruggles of Jackson to be his best man. Seating the guests were his brother, Kenneth Rasmussen, the brother of the bride, Robert Smart, and Erik Serr of Ann Arbor.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Smart chose a floor-length gown of mint green crepe with a bodice of Venice lace. She wore a corsage of white rubrum lilies. Mrs. Rasmussen wore a floor-length Empire dress in raspberry red and pinned a white orchid to her purse.

Label Is Clue To Shrinkage

The Sherlock Holmes of the family doesn't need a magnifying glass to solve the mystery of shrinkage of material. All this famous mysterysolver needs to do is read the label on the garment.

Remember that neither price, look nor feel of a fabric gives a clue to shrinkage.

Look for clues in labels to help you discover degrees of shrinkage. The term "sanforized" on a label means that the fabric won't shrink more than one percent in either length or width. "Preshrunk" has meaning only when followed by a line telling how much the fabric will shrink, such as "Preshrunk — will not shrink more than one percent."

"Will not shrink," "shrink proof," "unshrinkable" or "shrinkless" are inaccurate terms.

Homemakers can do their own detective work. When buying a garment, multiply the shrinkage percentage given on the label by the number of inches in the garment. This result gives you the number of inches a garment may shrink in length. For example, a dress for a woman measures about 50 inches long; one percent shrinkage would change the length by 5-10 or half an inch. But three percent shrinkage would make a change of an inch and a half, hence alterations would be necessary.

DYC Reception Held For Mortimores

The Former Jane Marie Rieck and Charles E. Mortimore Leave for Eastern Wedding Trip Following Their Marriage Saturday in Mt. Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church; Will Live in Ann Arbor

Janet Marie Rieck and Charles E. Mortimore exchanged marriage vows Saturday, in Mt. Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church. The Reverend Donald R. Staude officated at the 4:30 o'clock double ring ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Rieck, of Doyle place east, wore a gown of white silk organza over taffeta, designed with a panel of Alencon lace down the front. Her fitted bodice, accented with Alencon lace, featured a bateau neckline and short sleeves. A chapel train flowed from the bouffant skirt of the gown.

Her elbow length veil of silk fell from a headpiece of petals of crystal and pearls. She carried a cascade of stephanotis and ivy.

College roommate Linda J. Lamphiere, of Grand Rapids, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Patricia Elkins, of Southfield, Mich., Barbara Mortimore, sister of the bridegroom, of Pontiac, Ill., and Judy Parsons.

The honor attendants' ankle length dresses were of white lace over aqua taffeta. Each waistline was accented by an aqua taffeta bow while headpieces were matching Dior bows. They carried cascades of pom pom mums and ivy.

Flower girl Kathy Schwendner, of Dearborn, Mich., wore a floor length dress of aqua silk organza over taffeta. Satin ribbon accented her hair and waistline. She carried a cascade of miniature pom pom mums.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Mortimore, of Pontiac, Ill., asked Robert Mortimore, a cousin, also of Pontiac, to act as best man.

Ushers included Roger Eckert, of Detroit, Michael Mortimore, a brother, and Ronald Murray, of Odell, Ill.

For the wedding, Mrs. Rieck chose a pale blue A-line skirted dress with a bodice of re-embroidered Alencon lace. She wore an organdy petaled hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was a white cymbidium orchid.

The bridegroom's mother wore a blue jacket dress of Swiss Lascara with matching accessories and a white cymbidium orchid as her corsage.

A dinner reception followed the wedding at the Detroit Yacht Club. The couple left from the reception for a week's trip to New York City and the Eastern states.

Mr. and Mrs. Mortimore will make their home in Ann Arbor where Mr. Mortimore will complete work on a masters degree in Public Health. Mrs. Mortimore will teach in Plymouth, Mich.

Mrs. Charles E. Mortimore

Wearing a gown trimmed with Alencon lace, JANET MARIE RIECK, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Rieck, of Doyle place east, became the bride of Mr. Mortimore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Mortimore, of Pontiac, Ill., Saturday in Mt. Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Dilute a can of condensed cream of celery soup with about half a cup of milk; pour over cooked cauliflowerets (from a medium head) and a couple of cups of diced cooked ham. Sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and heat and brown in a moderate oven for about half an hour.

Plenty of Ways to Stretch a Buck

Milk, meat and eggs add up to nearly half of your family food budget, say dietitians at The University of Michigan Medical enter, and there are tricks to stretch every dollar you spend on these essential items.

Whole milk is an excellent source of calcium, protein and riboflavin. But, say the U-M specialists, these same ingredients are also found in other forms of milk—powdered, skim, evaporated and buttermilk — "and at widely varying cost."

The dietitians say you can use non-fat dry milk sclids in most recipes calling for whole milk. Sift the powder right in with the flour, sugar and other dry ingredients, then add water for the necessary liquid content.

Among the foods you can make with money-saving powdered milk are pancakes, muffins, biscuits, cooked cereals, meat loaf, mashed potatoes, cocoa; white sauce, cakes and puddings.

Buying less expensive cuts of meat can also stretch the family food dollar while maintaining essential nutritional value.

Lean meat from a chuck roast is considerably less expensive than prime ribs of beef, yet each makes the same contribution to your diet.

But, warn the U-M dietitians, cheaper cuts of meat are no bargain if they contain large amounts of bone, fat and gristle. So you should never shop for meat by the price tag alone.

To cut down on the egg bill, buy eggs of lower market grades when you plan to use them for scrambling, or baking, or in combination with other foods.

The color of the shell sometimes affects the price of eggs but, say the dieutians, it has no bearing on the food value of the egg itself. If eggs are comparable in size and quality, choose the color that is less expensive and pocket your savings.

Newlywed Kiefers Travel to Nassau

The Former Marilyn Diane Palmer and Husband Repeat Vows Saturday in Our Lady Star of the Sea Church; Reception Follows at GPYC

Marilyn Diane Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gregory E. Palmer of Roland road, became the bride of William Robert Kiefer, son of Mr. Edgar F. Kiefer of Wedgewood road and the late Mrs. Kiefer, in Our Lady Star of the Sea Church on Saturday, August 22, at 10 o'clock at a Nuptial High Mass. Father Ralph Barton officiated.

The bride wore a Bianchi creation of bouquet taffeta, designed with a scooped neckline and pearl crystal beaded motifs. Her bell shape skirt with court train had pannier pleating at the sides. A cluster of imported blossoms held a ballerina veil of French silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white miniature roses entwined with stephanotis and ivy.

The bride chose her sister-in-law, Mrs. Thomas G. Palmer, as her matron of honor and Barbara Kiefer, sister of the bridegroom and Joy Warren as bridesmaids.

The attendants were dressed identically in gowns of turquoise chiffon designed with a scooped neckline, and small cap sleeves. A wide insert of turquoise satin at the waistline formed a sash and floating back panel. The headpieces were tiny circlets of turquoise satin over which they wore a scalloped French illusion veil that was scattered with tiny seed pearls. The attendants carried a cascade bouquet of miniature carnations and tiny rosebuds.

David Palmer, the bride's nephew, acted as ring bearer and Carol Van Hove, niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. Little Carol was dressed in a white ankle length gown with a turquoise satin sash and carried a miniature basket filled with the same type of flowers that the bridesmaids carried and she wore a miniature crown of turquoise satin.

A reception and wedding breakfast was held at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club immediately following the ceremony. The newly married couple departed for a two week trip to Nassau after which they will reside in St. Clair Shores.

From Another Pointe of View

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lanz, of Chalfonte avenue, are currently entertaining a handsome and distinguished visitor. He is Shivinder Pal Singh, of Chandigarh, India, and his visit was arranged by the Experiment in International Living for which Mrs. Lanz is the local volunteer representative. Next month Mr. Singh will enroll at the University of Minnesota to pursue a graduate degree in architecture.

Mr. Singh, says Mrs. Lanz, is the perfect visitor. He is eager to talk about his country and way of life and is equally interested in learning the customs of his American hosts.

The day after he arrived was the first birthday of Mr. Singh's infant son, who has remained in India with the baby's mother. The Lanz sons prepared a typical "ice cream and cake with one candle" celebration, which they served to the accompaniment of "Happy Birthday." The guest responded by presenting each family member with a gift of candy, symbolic of the Indian manner of celebrating a happy day.

Mr. Singh is a Sikh by religion, of which there are some eight million in India. A fundamental belief of this religion is that neither men or women should cut their hair during their lifetimes. The men cover their hair with turbans when appearing in public.

U-M Professor Slaps Educational Bureaucracy

The growing bureaucracy in American educational organization tends to block the removal of obsolete practices, Gale Jensen, University of Michigan professor of education, claims.

The prevalent forms of educational bureaucracy offer little hope for removing obsolescene and increasing productivity," Jensen says.

"Rather, with increasing size, the security problems of internal control and external adjustment become greater," he says.

"This results in more resources of the organization having to be allocated to the creation and maintenance of new roles primarily concerned with governmental and security matters; for example, personnel officers, assistant and associate superintendents and deans, vice-presidents, business managers, assistant principals, legal specialists, etc.

"Under this kind of bureaucratic organization, the more competent teachers become and the more desirous they are to remove obsolescence in educational organization, the more frustrated they will become."

Jensen says teachers have several alternatives. They can quit, as many do each year. They can become administrators and devote their time to security and administrative matters. Or they can "join the union and become involved in a tug-of-war over salaries, job security and working conditions."

To keep educational organization from becoming too rigid, Jensen suggests that increase in size of the organizational units can be checked. He says the large educational systems such as Chicago, New York, Detroit, Philadelphia, and Los Angeles, could be arbitrarily broken into smaller operating units with no danger of any loss of productivity.

"There also is a need to develop training and experimental programs which ultimately will provide the understanding and know-how necessary for resolving organizational difficulties.

CUTS HAND

Michael Devine, 18, of 1315 Harvard, personally asked the Woods Public Safety Department for help on Saturday, August 22, when he severely gashed his right hand on a broken bottle in his car. STATUS OF THE ALABAMA and Mississippi convention delegates is still undetermined. From Mississippi, an all white delegation and a Negro Freedom Democratic Party delegation are both demanding to be seated. The Convention Credentials Committee demanded a loyalty pledge from the Alabama delegation. A compromise rumor states that the Mississippi Freedom delegation will be seated without the right to vote. It is reported that G. Mennen Williams has been sent from Washington to try to resolve matters.

THE BIG QUESTION at the Democratic Convention is still who President Johnson will select as his running mate. Although there has been no public announcement, Senator Hubert Humphrey, Senator Eugene McCarthy, and Senator Mike Mansfield are thought to be the front runners. It is expected that Mrs. Ted Kennedy will be named to replace him.

BARGAINING talks between the Paper and Plate Handlers and the Publishers today convinced most everyone that Detroiters will go without papers indefinitely as attempts at a settlement collapsed. No progress was reported by the union and no new date for talks has been set. UAW PRESIDENT Walter Reuther told the Big Three in three individual meetings today that if better demands are not offered to the union, there will definitely be a strike. Mrs. Ronald F. Bauer

Pointers Make Heads Turn With Drag Strip Triumphs

Three Grosse Pointers — a high school senior, a policeman and a young mechanic are helping to prove that the proper place for testing a car's acceleration is in sanctioned drag-racing events and not at the traffic light.

They are proving a couple of other points, too — that just about anyone can participate in the growing sport and you don't have to own the "biggest bomb" in all dragdom to have fun and to win.

The trio is new in drag-racing circles, but in little more than a month of competition in their stock two-door 1964 Dodge Dart, they turned in 11 class wins and established new AHRA speed and time records.

The newcomers are Jack Barlow, 17, a high school senior, Jim Bliss, 24, Grosse Pointe Farms policeman who alternates with Barlow behind the wheel, and mechanic Joe Palms, 26, also of Grosse Pointe.

Their Dart automatic, bearing the name "Mr. Mac" and number "52," made its debut in early July at Detroit Dragway. Powered by a standard, 170-cubic-inch, 101-horsepower Slant Six, "Mr. Mac" took P/SA class with Barlow driving. The winning run was clocked at 19.37 seconds with a top-end speed of 68.56 mph.

Elapsed times improved in the second and third visits to the strip in the white and green Dart. Barlow won M/SA class July 25 at the New Baltimore (Mich.) International Dragway with an ET of 18.78 seconds and a speed of 74 mph.

Bliss drove "Mr. Mac" the following day at the same strip and won a class trophy with an ET of 18.63 seconds and speed of 73.18 mph. On an invitation, he participated in a modified M/SA class and won another trophy.

Their biggest moment came August 8 at International, when Barlow broke the AHRA's M/SA Eastern Seaboard time and speed records with an ET of 16.36 seconds and top end speed of 85.76 mph. The previous record was 17.79 seconds and 80 mph.

Bliss capped the day by winning his class with a top run of 17.19 seconds and 81.79 mph. He also won class the previous day with a 17.12 ET and top speed of 83 mph.

Palms, who has built a championship Dodge-powered sprint car, pointed out the compact Dart can easily be set up for drag-racing competition.

"We didn't have to do much to the car at all to prepare it for racing," he explained. "We blueprinted the engine against factory specs and made some suspension and exhaust changes.

"We made our own non-restrictive exhaust headers by reworking and welding stock parts. We replaced the standard shock absorbers with 90-10 special racing shocks and adjusted the torsion bars as tight as we could to raise the front end of the car about three inches.

"The rear springs were removed and replaced with clamps for stiffness and that completed our suspension system.

"To complete the conversion, we changed to Goodyear low-friction butyl tires. We don't use slicks. They're not necessary for our class and we really don't need them."

Bliss, who gets a close, first-hand look at errant motorists in his daily tour as a police officer, feels that sanctioned drag racing has been a great aid in lessening "traffic light" contests. He said:

"Drag-racing can be fun. But the stop sign or traffic signal is not the place to test the car's acceleration ability. The dragway, with proper supervision and safety regulations, is the only place to race.

"And the only ticket you can get is from the timer, who lets you know your elapsed time and speed.

"It's better to build a championship record as a good driver than a traffic record as a poor one."

Saturday Ceremony in St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church Unites Teacher and WSU Student; Couple Will Live in St. Clair Shores

Linda Sassaman and Ronald F. Bauer exchanged marriage vows Saturday in St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church. The Reverend Charles W. Sandrock officiated at the 5 o'clock ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice E. Sassaman, of Newcastle road, wore a classically styled gown of crystal white mousseline de soie over taffeta and tulle combined with Alencon lace. A double filigree crown, of seed pearls and aurora crystals blended with lace, held her tiered veil of silk illusion and she carried a prayer book topped with an orchid and stephanotis.

Mrs. Harry Huff, of Ann Arbor, served as matron of honor in a floor-length gown of rose silk organza over taffeta.

The bridesmaids, Agathe Regius, Sharon Story and Patricia Shegan chose pale pink gowns and all wore headpieces of roses with halo veils. They carried cascades of pink carnations and roses.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett J. Bauer of Briarcliff road, asked his brother Gerald W. Bauer, to act as best man.

Ushering were Harry Huff, Philip Maaske and John Sassaman, brother of the bride.

Sharon Burmaster was the soloist accompanied by Mrs. Clemens J. Koepplin, church organist.

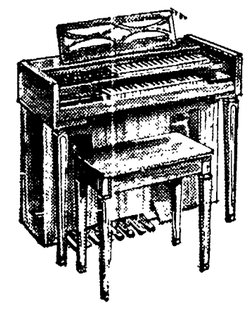

For the wedding and reception which took place in the Fellowship Hall of the Church, Mrs. Sassaman chose a street length gown of pink lace and silk linen, with matching accessories, and a corsage of cymbidium orchids which she pinned to her purse.

Mrs. Bauer chose a sheath of beige lace with matching accessories, and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

When they return from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Bauer will make their home in St. Clair Shores where Mrs. Bauer will be teaching. Mr. Bauer will resume his studies at Wayne State University.

Dear Fellow Republicans,

I will cast my ballot on Sept. 1st for George N. Higgins for governor.

I am proud to be a real Republican. George Higgins is proud to be a real Republican.

George Higgins represented us ably in Lansing for 14 years, serving in the House and in the Senate. He was chairman of the important Senate Taxation Committee and won the respect of both political parties for his ability and knowledge of finding solutions to our tax problems. He has fought a State Income Tax and continues to take this position. George Higgins pledges to have the Sales Tax removed from food. He believes in fiscal integrity, in law and order, in State and local control. George Higgins supports Sen. Barry Goldwater and his timeless and basic truths.

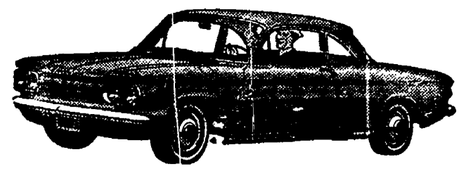

I will proudly cast my ballot on Sept. 1st for George N. Higgins for governor.

Sincerely,
Lois V. Nair

New Laws in Effect for Highway Safety

Two new laws, which specifically prohibit pedestrian traffic, including hitchhiking, on all limited access highways and drag racing by motor vehicles on any highway, will be effective Friday, August 28, the Michigan State Police have announced to state drivers.

The first law, involving pedestrians, also bans bicycles and other nonmotorized traffic on the limited access highways. Freeways are controlled access highways.

Designed to increase safety factors for travelers on the high speed roads, the pedestrian ban will eliminate the stopping of vehicles, and thus hazarding other traffic.

Hitchhiking on the freeways has been an enforcement problem of police patrols previously. Now, pedestrian trespassers can be arrested on limited access roads as well as freeways.

The drag racing ban specifically strengthens law enforcement's hand in dealing with drivers who have staged impromptu or planned racing contests on the streets and highways. These contests have endangered participants and, in some cases, resulted in death or injury to them as well as having caused accidents for other highway users.

Luffers and Lubbers

By Bob Wells

We were considering changing the name of the column this week from "Luffers and Lubbers" to "Sailing and Bailing."

Such an appellation would be most fitting for the action at last weekend's Crescent Sail Yacht Club regatta, sailed by 229 boats in an incessant rain that varied from drizzle to cloudburst.

Winds were in the neighborhood of eight knots, so the fleet came in in reasonably good times, everyone drenched from head to tack, of course.

Bayview's Tom J. Hanson was the winner in Class A in Dauntless III, and Don Smith's Yare (also out of Bayview) scored another victory in Cruising B.

Unbeatable Karl Ness and Maurice DeClercq in Flying Buffalo were on top again in Cruising C. Roy Barbier of host Crescent Club, was tops in Cruising C-11. An out-of-towner, G. Brand from North Shore Sail Club took the top position in Cruising D.

Action next week shifts to Edison Boat Club, and back to the Detroit River Yachting Association's course off the Canadian shore.

Woods Swimmers Capture Inter-City Meet Honors

Last weekend the Woods' swimming team fought high winds, pouring rain and the other four Pointe squads for a victory in the annual Inter-City Swimming Meet. With 265 points, they managed to simply slide past the Farm's "Mud-Suckers" for the trophy.

Finishing third behind the Farms was the Shores team with 146 points. Then, only six points back, was the City squad which placed second to the Woods in last year's finals. On the bottom with an embarrassing 38 points were the Park swimmers.

Tom Heholt and Brian Fink, two young Woods' swimmers, sparked the Saturday attack with slams in the 9-10 freestyle and backstroke. Then Karen VanBuskirk, also of the Woods, won the girls 11-12 freestyle with at time of 34.5 to strengthen the lead.

Fighting back, the Shores used Tom Mertz (freestyle and butterfly) and Jim Sherilla (backstroke) for victories in the 15-16 age group. Like Mertz, Sue Haass of the Farms snatched two individual wins. She won the freestyle in 33.00 and the 25 m. butterfly in 16.2.

Of course the City wasn't to be left in the rain. But most of their points came in the shape of second place finishes. Ann Brinkman (10-under back), Jane Wood (10-under free), Nancy Hendee (13-14 back), Peggy Lester (13-14 breast), Steve Hendee (13-14 back), Jim Wood (15-16 breast) and Ric Hendee (15-16 free and back) were all second place winners for the City. Also, the girls' and mixed relays took seconds in the finals.

Still raking in points, the Woods used Dale DeMeulemeester for two more firsts. He won the boys 13-14 backstroke and breastroke.

When the meet was over, the Woods team had regained the trophy, the Park tankers had scraped together 38 points for a miserable fifth place.

Nation's Sailors Converge on Pointe Yacht Club For Annual Competition for Mallory Trophy

The sailing elite of North America will make the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club their home port late this month as they compete for the Clifford D. Mallory Cup here, August 31 through September 3.

Unlike the high-fashioned Americas Cup competition in the East (where accompanying cocktail parties are numbered in the hundreds), the Mallory Cup draws an intent handful of sailors and very little social folderol.

Four days of competition, with two races a day, will keep skippers busy every minute. By Thursday, the new Mallory Cup holder, and the top male sailor in the country, will be determined.

Easy to See

Unfortunately for The Pointes' sailing buffs, competition for the cup starts on Monday and ends on Thursday. Those who are free to go down to the shore on those days will be treated to almost perfect sailing by the nation's best.

For those watching from shore, binoculars will suffice (competition will be directly off the Yacht Club dock, on six different marked courses).

A better view yet could be had from a boat near the course itself.

Use Crescents

Fiberglass Crescent-class sloops are the official boats in this year's Mallory Cup finals. Developed by Richard Hill of Crescent Sail Yacht Club in the 1950s, the rigid one-design craft are 18 feet long and draw four feet of water.

The Pointe has waited for nine years for another chance to host the men's North American Sailing Championship for the Mallory Cup, having last held the event in 1955, when the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club harbored the competing boats.

Though the Mallory Cup has never been an event to yawn at, last year's finish at the Annapolis Yacht Club was even more squeaky than ever.

After the sailing was over, judges went into a huddle that lasted several hours before they picked the winner, Jim De Witt, of Richmond, Calif. De Witt was tied with another skipper in total points, and in number of first place finishes as well.

Judges scratched their heads and examined both skippers' finishes other than first, and finally awarded the Cup to De Witt.

The fiberglass Crescent-class sloops are the official boats in this year's Mallory Cup finals. Developed by Crescent Sail Yacht Club's Richard Hill in the 1950s, the craft are 24 feet l.o.a. 18 feet l.w.l. They draw four feet. Hill, inventor of the boat, is one of the Pointe skippers donating his Crescent for the race.

In an event of this kind, getting a good one-design craft is of great importance. Although boats are rotated from heat to heat, each boat should be about equal in maneuverability and planing speed.

Local Donors

As in years past, local skippers have made their boats available for Mallory Cup competition. These Pointe Crescent-class skippers are lending their boats:

Benjamin Ambrosini, Robert Brodowicz, Dr. Joseph Carlisle, Donald Criner, Richard C. Hill, Charles Keresztes, Dr. Maurice L'Heureux, Vince deMaio, Walter Roney, J. C. Streicher and Earl Zuehlke.

The race committee, headed by general chairman Lynn G. Stedman, Jr., includes many of the Pointes' most devoted friends of sailing.

They are: George C. Cossaboom (advisory); Clark Barton; Nelson Bell, Jr.; Richard L. Brand; Talmon A. Davenport, Jr.; Richard Feldborg; Stanley G. Janson; and Fred Knippenberg.

Others are: Kenneth P. Leipprandt; Francis L. Martin; Stanley Puddiford; Brad Pyle; Arthur Rautenberg; E. P. Robertson; W. J. Smale; Bruce N. Tappan; and Edward H. Zerbe.

Frank P. McBride, Jr., is regatta chairman.

Six Entries In

So far, six entries have been placed in the hands of Stedman and his committee.

None is from the Detroit area, and the closest thing to a local boat is that of William R. Butz, Jr., of Cedar Lake Yacht Club, in Slinger, Wisc.

Other entrants include (from the East Coast) R. A. Sullivan and L. M. Sullivan from Scituate Harbor Yacht Club, Scituate, Mass.; and Stanley G. Horan, II, Corinthian Yacht Club of Cape May, New Jersey.

From the deep South comes G. Shelby Freidrichs, Jr., from the Southern Yacht Club, New Orleans, La.

From the West

And from the West Coast entries to date include Scott Allan, Newport Harbor Yacht Club, Balboa, Calif.; and Ronald G. McFarlane, Seattle Yacht Club.

Two more entries are yet to come, pending the completion of final area championships.

The race courses will be marked in an area which extends from the end of the Yacht Club dock down past Gaukler Point, and out almost as far as the freighter channel.

Michigan Leads Nation In Boating Fatalities

Michigan, which is rapidly becoming the motorboating mecca of the United States, had the dubious honor of also leading the nation in the number of fatalities as the result of boat accidents.

Michigan recorded 67 boating fatalities last year to rank No. 1 in the country. Meanwhile, the state rated second in the total number of boats registered at the time of the report with more than 300,000 registrations.

The Secretary of State's office which numbers all motorboats reports registrations picked up during the warm months this year, and a total of 335,770 boats were registered through the first six months of this year.

Secretary of State James M. Hare estimates that Michigan could register at least 500,000 motorboats if all owners would register their craft.

"I'm sure many persons are unaware that all motorboats have to be registered and numbered," Hare said. "They may get this registration by paying a $3.00 registration fee at most branch offices of the Secretary of State, certain marinas, several sheriff's offices, or by writing direct to our Lansing office, Watercraft, 300 East Michigan Avenue, Lansing, Michigan 48918."

In other boating accident notes, a total of 257 accidents were reported. Michigan was third in the nation in this category. Non-fatal injury accidents totaled 83, while property damage was involved in 107 of the mishaps.

Hare, who is also chairman of the Michigan State Safety Commission, urged the growing army of boating enthusiasts "to observe all the rules of good boating safety on Michigan's many lakes and other bodies of water. Just as in automobile driving, there are good and bad boaters . . . but unfortunately we have no water point system where licenses can be revoked for bad boating."

Hare said that his offices have a quantity of booklets titled "What Every Boater Must Know." These are available free of charge by merely addressing a card to: Boater, Information Office, Secretary of State, Lansing, Michigan 48918.

The Mallory Trophy, named in honor of the late Clifford D. Mallory, founder of the North American Yacht Racing Union, was presented by Sultan Selim, III, of Egypt, to the family of Lord Nelson in 1812. It's inscription, "Palmam Qui Meruit Ferat," translates literally, "Let him bear the palm who has deserved it."

Slate Experience Workshop for New Teachers

Plans for the Experience Workshop for professional personnel new to the Grosse Pointe public school system for the 1964-65 year were announced this week by Dr. H. Leroy Selmeier, assistant superintendent-instruction. The group of 67 new staff members will assemble in the Board Room of the schools' administrative offices at 389 St. Clair avenue at 9 a.m. on Wednesday, September 2.

At that time Dr. Charles H. Wilson, Superintendent of Schools, will present greetings to the newcomers, to be introduced by Dr. Selmeier. They will then hear a talk by J. Harold Husband, assistant superintendent-administrative services on the Grosse Pointe community and the school system.

The balance of the morning will be devoted to a discussion of the philosophy and policies of the school system, its professional organizations and other items.

During a luncheon at Grosse Pointe High School, the newcomers will be greeted by Edward J. Pongracz, president of the Board of Education.

Wednesday afternoon all the new personnel will meet in their assigned buildings for conferences with their principals.

The schedule for Thursday morning calls for the elementary teachers to meet in their respective buildings and for secondary teachers to attend discussions on the guidance program, the pattern of permanent records, tests and report cards, and subject requirements at the Board office. The balance of the morning will be devoted to a discussion of the Curriculum Council, the secondary course guides, special classes and sections and secondary policies on a variety of topics.

On Thursday afternoon the elementary instructors will gather in the schools' administrative offices for discussions on records and report cards, individual conferences, special subjects, the characteristics of the core program, the systems' policy on mathematics, handwriting, health and art.

During the Friday morning session all the new personnel will meet in the Board of Education room for a discussion on audio-visual materials, apportunities for advanced college and university training, and the role of the public library. The balance of the morning will consist of a discussion of special guidance services available through the Department of Pupil Personnel.

The teachers are scheduled to spend the afternoon in their individual rooms.

The three-day workshop will end with a tea in the home of Superintendent and Mrs. Wilson.

13—REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

FIRST THING to do is take a gander at the picture ad on page 27 with the info on this newer offering on Lincoln Road. If you have been sufficiently excited after seeing the ad, the second thing to do is call us for an appointment, the third thing . . . you tell us.

FIRST and maybe the only time this new listing on Bishop Road will be offered in this column Three bedrooms and an extra room on the first floor. Real value at $24,500.

NESTLED UNDER tremendous maples on Cloverly Road, and just a short walk to Kerby and Brownell schools. This white Farm colonial has four large bedrooms with the master having its own handball court sized bath. Living room a huge 28-feet long. Separate dining room, and den with pegged floor. Spanking new kitchen with breakfast room. Priced with a sharp pencil at $54,500.

LARGE ENGLISH Tudor with bedrooms and baths for family and a Scout troop. Rambling floor plan with several extra rooms to retreat into and escape the children. Fabulous kitchen with all builts-ins, most of which have been duplicated. Priced at a pittance of original cost.

IN THE FARMS, near Charlevoix, this colonial offers three bedrooms and two full baths. There is also a separate dining room and a family room. Impeccably maintained and ready to move into . . . if you are just shy of thirty thousand dollars

IN THE SHORES and containing those four bedrooms with two full second floor baths. Center hall plan with a large activities room to catch the afternoon sun. Large kitchen with built-in fireplace. First floor laundry.

ALSO in the Shores is this story-and-a-half with a full bath on both floors. Three bedrooms and get-away-from-it-all den. First block off Lake Shore, and offered at a low $32,500.

TWO LARGER English houses in the Park, both of which have five family bedrooms. One has quarters for live-in-help over its three-car garage, and there is a tremendous playroom on the third floor which was originally used as a ballroom. The smaller of these two houses has a completely re-done kitchen. Both vacant and ready for a quick sale.

ANOTHER English house with the perfect layout for a growing family, is offered on Bishop Road. Six bedrooms, with almost as many baths on the second floor. Generous proportioned rooms throughout, yet not overwhelming to maintan. Priced in the low forties.

FAR MORE is offered in this ranch home on Fairway Drive, than is available in other homes in its price class. For less than forty thousand dollars you can buy a three-bedroom, single floor house with one and a half baths, and large family room. The basement is full, and divided with large playroom and storage rooms. Kept in beautiful condition so that all the house requires is your furniture.

IF YOU ARE one who has often driven by one of the few, jewel box French houses with their charming Mansard roofs, which are attractively scattered throughout The Pointe. If you have said to yourself, "Why doesn't that house ever go on the market?". If this be your idea of "creme de la creme". Then ring us up and we'll show you this petite palace. The perfect small house with elbow room.

who, where and whatnot

Because the names of two boats are the same, the Jack Lanes, of Crescent lane, who keep their new folk boat at the Crescent Sail Yacht Club, are sporting the fanciest match books and napkins, in two sizes, engraved with the name of their boat, the "Me Too," of any folk boat owners around. The fashionable accessories were ordered for another, presumably more fashionable (though not more fun) "Me Too," and Mr. Lane happened to be downtown shopping just as the excess part of the order went on clearance. Now the Lanes, who named their boat after a favorite expression of their 8-year-old daughter Patty, when she was a much younger girl, are wondering to what they owe their good fortune. Could there be another girl named Patty who likes (or liked) to say "Me Too?"

Mrs. Kenneth Koppin, of South Renaud road, pleads for volunteers for the 1964 Torch Drive. Anyone willing to give a few hours of time to solicit funds this fall is asked to call the United Foundation at WOodward 5-7100 and ask for Recruitment, or call Mrs. Koppin at TUxedo 1-9730.

Lots and lots of children live in the Prestwick road area and their mothers were at once glad and sad to see how many of them were going to be at home this summer. Chaos seemed inevitable and the mothers wished at least to provide some meaningful recreation for the children.

A former teacher who now has six children of her own, Mrs. James Conley decided to start a handicraft class on Mondays for the children and ended up with 17 girls, ranging in age from four to 11. Mrs. Louis Conover and Mrs. Ed Mercier then agreed to take the nine boys and a day camp was begun.

Mrs. Conover decided to teach knitting to the children on Wednesdays and Mrs. Charles Hayes volunteered for a baking class on Tuesday.

The children and their mothers have been working hard all summer and on August 25th, at the Conley home the accomplishments will be displayed at the "Prestwick Fair."

Among the wares which will be in exhibit will be bag puppets, paper lanterns, decorated soap, turtle pins, paper weights made of baby food jars, necklaces, bracelets, piggy banks, mittens, headbands and scarves. Products of the baking classes have been consumed long ago, but the young chefs will join forces on Tuesday to produce more cookies and refreshments.

Canteen Conversation

By Rick Mills

By RICK MILLS

Last week I presented my ideas on the subject of teenagers "going steady." This state of affairs becomes a problem facing many families today. As I promised, this week I will present the Grosse Pointe teen's answers to some questions about going steady.

What do you think "going steady" means?

Judy Via: "Going steady means that a boy takes you places, and you are assured that he is the one who will take you. It is a form of security, always having someone to date and do things with."

Carol Groves: "This term doesn't just mean giving an I.D. It means that you like one person better than most and you want to spend your time with him. I don't believe in going steady but that is what it means to me."

Judy Jorgenson: "Going steady just means that two people are dating constantly."

Dave McCollum: "Going steady means that a boy asks the same girl on dates and activities requiring couples and spends most of his leisure time with her."

Why do teens go steady?

Judy V.: "It depends on the kids. If they really like a boy then they just want to be with him more. They want the security of making sure that they are the only one that will be going out with him."

Carol: "I think some girls go steady for security. They know they will have a date when they want one. Also, some want to prove to someone that they really like him."

Judy J.: "Security!"

Dave: "Teens ask a girl to go steady because they have the same interests such as sports and music, and also the desire to conform with what other teens are doing."

What are the benefits of going steady?

Judy V.: "You are always assured of a date. Sometimes it becomes a status symbol, so you can say: 'Oh! I am going steady with so and so!' "

Carol: "The teen always has a date."

Judy J.: "There are not enough benefits to going steady to make it worth while."

Dave: "The benefit is the assurance of a nice date."

What are some of the problems involved?

Judy V.: "You don't meet enough new kids, you are too tied down. You are limited to one boy, and a certain group of friends."

Carol: "Going steady ties you down too much. You are put out of circulation and can't do what you want to. Some parents worry about you becoming too deeply involved."

Judy J.: "You exclude too many other people from your life. You just don't meet the new friends you could if you were not going steady."

Dave: "Going steady presents a problem because it narrows one's friendships. Now is the time we should have many friends of various personalities. I enjoy making new friends and find something fine and interesting in most everyone. This experience would be lessened if teens chose to go steady."

Now the teens have the chance to present their ideas on this subject. They have tried to describe its benefits and the problems involved. Next week, parents will be given a chance to present their ideas on the subject of going steady.

New Swimmers On Club Teams

From the Detroit Boat Club, a new name: Charley Russel made himself a big name with a second in the 15-16 butterfly and a third in the backstroke. In little girls swimmings, Nancy Tamblyn sliced a second. She placed first in the preliminaries on Saturday but was defeated by a Dearborn tanker in the finals. Only one-tenth of a second separated their times.

And then, of course there's C.C.D.; once again on the bottom BUT . . . still in there. This time they finished with 50¼ points (only 14 points out of 11th place) and qualified five swimmers in the finals. Sue Haass was C.C.D.'s brightest of the day, finishing third in the 15-16 butterfly. But the future isn't so shiny for her . . . someone stole her good-luck charm at the finals, right after her race.

The two day finals went as smoothly as possible and were enjoyable for everybody (well . . . almost everybody) at them. Host coach Roy Pouliot, Bill Beckenhauer and the whole Lochmoor crew deserve a good deal of credit for the fine job they did.

MRS. JOSEPH H. SPITZLEY, OF SOUTH OXFORD ROAD

It has been said that Mrs. Joseph H. Spitzley, who is a shining light within the Sigma Gamma organization and a moving force for the Detroit Orthopaedic Clinic which it sponsors, has a secret weapon which enables her to work more than 24 hours a day and pour more than 100 per cent of her efforts into each job that she undertakes. It has also been said, more simply, that she is "a fireball."

At this moment, the energetic Mrs. S., who does have the ability to keep her mind on the job at hand, is relaxing with her family at their Old Club cottage on Harson's Island. Perhaps she is on the flats of Mitchell Bay with her husband, whose favorite sport, fishing, she has adopted enthusiastically. It stands to reason, however, that if it is her intention, she is definitely the most relaxed person on the island.

Mrs. Spitzley is frankly recuperating from "a very busy winter." She is nevertheless anticipating an "even busier fall," during which she will observe two very important anniversaries.

The first of the occasions falls on Labor Day when Mr. and Mrs. Spitzley will celebrate their 18th wedding anniversary. The two met while both were students at Grosse Pointe High School at the time John Barnes was principal and Samuel Brownell was president of the Board of Education.

No class prophecy could ever have predicted that Sallie Sibley and Joe Spitzley would one day be married and that two of their three children would, in 1964, be enrolled in schools which were named after Mr. Barnes and Mr. Brownell. That would have been too far out of the realm of possibility even for a soothsayer's conjecture, according to Mrs. S.

Time On Her Hands

Soon after her marriage, Mrs. Spitzley found herself living in a small apartment, with time on her hands. She remembered the sense of fulfillment she had received as a school girl, when as a junior member of Sigma Gamma, she had helped to entertain the youthful patients in the Sigma Gamma Hospital School in Mt. Clemens.

Mrs. Spitzley picked up the telephone and offered her services to the Sigma Gamma-sponsored Detroit Orthopaedic Clinic. The association which began then has remained an important part of her life, leading to a second milestone. This fall, Mrs. Spitzley will have served the Orthopaedic Clinic continuously, usually in positions of leadership, for 18 years.

To hear Mrs. Spitzley tell it, a person would think that Sigma Gamma is comprised of members who have devoted at least 18 years of their lives to the Detroit Orthopaedic Clinic. But Mrs. S.'s diligence and her accomplishments cannot so obscured.

The first assignment at the Clinic for the young bride who had "offered to help" was that of substitute cook for the nursery school. Mrs. Spitzley cannot recall what she finally fixed those children for lunch, but she does remember that as a volunteer she "was hooked" permanently at that time.

She began to help at the Clinic mornings and was on hand every Wednesday for 1½ years when the children came in to see the doctors. Then, because of her first-hand knowledge of the Clinic and its procedures, she became a member of the board of trustees.

When she became president of the board, Mrs. Spitzley started the ball rolling to build the new clinic. Five years later, in 1960, the new building, which stands on the old site at 5447 Woodward avenue, was dedicated.

It is here that handicapped children from birth to age 21, whose parents cannot afford the full cost of private care, are treated. Their conditions include cerebral palsy, polio, congenital anomalies and dislocations, amputations, muscular dystrophy, tuberculosis of the bones or joints, arthritis, osteomyelitis, and meningitis.

The treatment that the children receive is unique, according to Mrs. Spitzley, because of the "whole child" concept which was pioneered by Sigma Gamma. Each child sees his same doctor, caseworker, and therapists for weeks, months, or years, and they treat not only his physical needs, but his emotional, mental, and social needs as well.

The Orthopaedic Clinic building is today owned by Sigma Gamma and, as a Torch Drive agency, the Clinic itself receives 78 per cent of its operating funds from the United Foundation.

During her reign as president, Mrs. Spitzley also saw the research and education program started for the clinic, at the doctors' request. The benefit performance of "Becket" which Sigma Gamma sponsored last July 1 aided this department.

Mrs. Spitzley has continued to serve on the advisory board of the Orthopaedic Clinic since she retired as president. She has also remained active in the Sigma Gamma Association and is now first vice president in charge of coordinating the committees and aiding the president of the organization.

It takes discipline, hard work, and planning for a person to make significent contributions to an organization on a volunteer level. Mrs. Spitzley has made a special effort at all times to temper her outside activities with the needs of her family. She tries always to be home when Bill, 14, Ann, 12, and Ray, "almost 7" arrive home from school. "I may be on the phone," she laughs, "but I'm home and I can always hang up!"

Any woman who wishes to undertake volunteer work is advised by Mrs. Spitzley to realistically estimate the amount of time that she has to spend and make plans accordingly. It is so much better, she feels, to take a small job and be dependable than to assume responsibilities which you cannot adequately fulfill because of lack of time.

Mrs. Spitzley emphasizes that school girls are not too young to start thinking in terms of ways they can help their community and volunteering their time. She believes that it will give them incentive to continue their volunteer work later in life; thereby leading to many rewarding experiences.

Service to others is more than a rewarding experience, for Mrs. Spitzley; it is almost a family tradition. For example her mother, Mrs. Gladys B. Sibley, who lives in her own apartment within the Spitzley household, always had a number of projects which interested her. She spent years working for the Sophie Wright Settlement Board and now, at 75, her pet project is the Michigan Children's Aid Society.

Family traditions in general are important to Mrs. Spitzley. The family's Presbyterianism (they are members of Memorial Church) is partially a carryover from Mrs. Spitzley's grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. James M. Berkley. Dr. Berkley was moderator of the Presbyterian Church and devoted a large portion of his life to carrying out activities of the Church.

Although Mrs. Spitzley "has never worked up courage enough to teach Sunday School," she is active on the Mission and Stewardship program for Memorial Church and is also in charge of the Church's twice-a-year clothing drive. Last spring Memorial Church collected and packed 1,000 pounds of clothing to be shipped to needy people abroad.

Mrs. Spitzley is a tireless doorbell ringer and an enthusiastic cheerleader for the causes which she considers important. She feels a special devotion to the United Foundation for the aid which it has given to the Orthopaedic Clinic, and to all school projetcs. She has worked for the PTA and the Mother's Council, and is always seeking to get out a large vote for school bond issues.

Mr. and Mrs. Spitzley are "very enthusiastic" about the proposed new high school, which their children will probably attend, for they feel that it will benefit the entire community. Sentimentally, though, they admit that they would have loved to have had their children attend the high school where their parents met.

As a family, the Spitzleys are an exuberant, close knit group, who enjoy being together and who make the most of the advantages of having three generations under one roof. "When you have children," says Mrs. Spitzley, "Another word or another way from a Grandmother can smooth the way for everyone." She credits her husband with suggesting and making possible an arrangement which has brought happiness to the whole family.

"I want to look relaxed and casual," said Mrs. Spitzley as she prepared to have the above picture taken. So, just a few hours before moving her entourage to the Old Club for the rest of the summer, she settled herself, not in the quiet, Oriental carpeted living room, but in that hub of activity, the family room.

There she was surrounded by tropical fish, guppies, Siamese cats, a tape recorder, TV, phonograph, children, books, and a desk, not to mention a photographer and a News reporter. A few steps away, in the kitchen, a turkey was on the rotisserie preparatory to making its one way trip to Harson's Island. Son Bill's absence from the scene was noticed. He was somewhere, between Mt. Clemens and the Island for he had decided to make his journey by bicycle.

These surroundings may have reminded a lesser woman of the number of tasks that remained to be finished in a very short time. But Mrs. Spitzley remained as relaxed and casual as she appears. Perhaps that is her "secret weapon."

Body cells engage in a type of "chemical warfare" when faced by invasions of germs and bacteria, according to researchers at the University of Michigan school of public health. By tagging them with fluorescent bacterial antigens, the scientists have been able to photograph antibody-producing cells in action against bacteria in chickens and have noted a brilliant fluorescense when the defenders met the invaders. The university researchers believe their experiments will help them learn how antibodies are actually formed.

The vital proteins in your hair can easily be "overdrawn" through the improper use of highly alkaline shampoos, tints, bleaches and permanent waving lotions — it can also be "robbed" of its strength and beauty unless "deposits" of Natural Organic Proteins are made to offset the loss.
