Thursday, July 18 SCOTLAND YARD investigators are warning of future bombings of tourist attractions in London after yesterday's destruction at the Tower of London, the world-famous, historic structure which houses the crown jewels and a collection of armor and weapons. Blame for the blast was tentatively placed on the militant Irish Republican Army, One woman died and 35 were injured, many of them children. An American woman filming the tower may provide a key clue to the bombing since she reported seeing a man fleeing the scene moments before.

His colleagues would undoubtedly agree with that. For Lt. Roland Symons, 56, who wanted to be a police officer for as long as he could remember, has had a rewarding career since joining the force almost 27 years

But now the department will miss Lt. Symons, who Public Safety Director Henry Marchand calls "a good friend and a faithful employe," because he's retiring on Wednesday, July 31, although his last day of work is today, July 25.

"Lt. Symons is a very fine officer," said Director Marchand, who remembers him from his Mason School days when both frequently played baseball together. "He has got along exceptionally well

And that feeling is mutual. When asked what he'll miss most about his career, Lt. Symons said, "Oh boy I'll just miss the whole . . . He paused. "I really don't know." He thought a moment. "I'll just miss the job. period. The whole thing, dirty work and rewarding work." He smiled. "I do enjoy the whole thing."

"I'll miss the men," he added. "I enjoyed working with them, but I'll stay in town and will see many of them from time to time." One of the highlights of his career was when he headed the newly formed traffic division as a sergeant in 1954.

Lt. Symons, who called rescue work "the most rewarding part of his job," said he never had any experiences which really frightened or scared him to death. But he cautioned, "Fire runs are scary because the hazard is concealed pretty much until you get there, and inside a building. Then you realize the extent of a fire and its

In other words, too much grass was growing in too many places for the number of men and pieces of equipment available.

The Commission also said the area had been sprayed with a weed control chemical on May 31 and that regular mowing operations had begun. Mr. Meyers noted that budget limitations and mowing requirements throughout Wayne County restricted the frequency with which mowing could take place.

Mr. Meyers offered to meet with city officials to discuss the problem and the council decided to arrange such a meeting in hopes of improving the lakefront's appear-

The Jenkins' were escorted out of the house when the firefighters arrived to prevent any possible injuries or smoke inhalation.

The officer injured was Kenyon. He suffered a halfinch gash on his right ring finger and was taken to Bon Secours Hospital where two titches were needed the wound. Chief Vitale said paper was burned in a basement incinerator earlier in the afternoon and apparently this caused the sparks to shoot out of the chimney and onto the roof. The firefighters were at the scene for about 30 minutes. "I would like to express my appreciation to The Woods department for sending their men to assist us,' Chief Vitale said, "This is an excellent demonstration of the cooperation between all the area departments."

Grosse Pointe Villas Converted to Condominiums

The Grosse Pointe Villas located at Mack and Lakeland is being converted from rental apartments to condominiums. Peter J. Cubba, of Lake Shore Lane, Grosse Pointe Shores. President of Michigan Condominum Corporation, says, "The property is undergoing extensive improvement which involves landscaping and upgrading ) buildings containing 52 one and two bedroom units.'

The design firm of Pearlmutter and Friewal is engaged to give the project the appearance and feeling of Grosse Pointe homes, Shutters and pediments are being added. The entrance and interior hallways are being completely redecorated. Interiors of the apartments will feature new carpeting, kitchen counter tops, decorating, ranges and refrigerators. The solid wood cabinets and doors are being restained.

The condominium apartments range in price from $20,990 to $24,990 and all present tenants will have an option to buy. They will have the tax benefits and equity advantages of being property owners.

There's a local firm called Grosse Pointe Real Estate Co. that has come up with a new idea in selling homes. If successful, it could change their industry in Grosse Pointe considerably. It's called GROUP LISTING, which means they will immedintely purchase your home, at your asking price, once you have listed with them. The one circumstance, they say, is that they must have a group of five similar homes before their plan takes effect. Once achieved, they buy all five houses simultaneously. They say it's easier to sell five homes in a group because it's easier on the buyer and much easier to promote. For more information you can call Grosse Pointe Real Estate Co., 882-

Carbon monoxide can easily leak into a car, even when you're travelling at speeds of fifty or fifty-five miles per hour. Wind pressure often forces the gas right into the car, through leaks in the engine compartment. On older cars it is wise from time to time to lift the mats on the floors and check for holes. # WHAT CHRISTIAN SCIENCE can do for a family.

It can bring an understanding of God's closeness and care, helping each one in the family in everything he does.

It can develop a deep love for the Bible, and joyful obedience to God's law.

It can teach every member, and the family together, to heal problems in the way Jesus showed. How can Christian Science do all this? Through Sun-

Sunday services that inspire parents. Through Wednesday testimony meetings where personal accounts of healing are shared. Through Reading Rooms where truths are pondered in quiet. Won't you invite Christian Science into your family's

Candidates Night Set

Ten Seeking Seats in Probate Court Appear at War Memorial

A "Candidates Night" will be held Tuesday, July 30, at 7:30 p.m. at the War Memorial.

Ten candidates who are aspiring for two new judicial seats in the Juvenile Division of the Wayne County Probate Court have been invited to meet with interested citizens in the community.

Four candidates will be selected in the Tuesday, August 6, primary to run in the November election. The Wayne County Board of Commissioners approved the creation of two additional judicial offices as requested by Judge James A. Lincoln, presently the only judge in the Juvenile Division.

Event Sponsors

The 10 candidates are Y. Gladys Barsamian, Joseph Chylinski, James E. Lacey, George S. Lilly, Thomas A. Maher, Harold M. Ryan, Judith Stefani Sables, Sam Simpson, Robert E. Toohey, and Dennis Matulewicz.

Sponsors of the event include the Grosse Pointe chapter of the American Association of University Women, the Grosse Pointe League of Women Voters, the War Memorial and the Junior League

A pamphlet with additional information about the candidates and their responses to questions concerning current problems in juvenile crime can be obtained at any of the five Pointe city halls or police stations, or at Grosse Pointe Public Library.

Part of the Pointes county tax dollars are used to sup-port the Wayne County Juvenile Court and the Youth

Local Aid to FLEC Explored

By Roger A. Waha Late last year and early this year, the Family Life Education Council. (FLEC), budget contains no appropriappeared before Pointe and ation for FLEC. He stated at Harper Woods councils asking each municipality to been no appropriation. "This share in meeting the cost of is where it stands now, and its operation.
FLEC's operating budget no further studies are pending at this point." annually is around $52,000 and when the organization's fiscal year ended March 31, it was running a $9,000 deficit. So, FLEC representanot contribute to FLEC. Shores Village Attorney tives asked for 50 percent of that budget on a matching basis from the communities. A meeting was held between all Pointe city managers and mayors in January with FLEC representatives to discuss what could be done to assist FLEC, if anything,

This matter has remained under study by each community since that time but, Woods city officials, who were instrumental in coordinating the January meeting, decided there's no legal way they can assist FLEC financially.

One Committee of the Whole recommendation which the council unanimously approved at the regular meeting Monday, July 15, was to delete from the C-W's agenda the subject of contributions to FLEC.

In noting this matter had been under consideration for a long time, Woods Mayor Benjamin W. Pinkos said, 'As far as we know, there's no way we can take tax dollars and reallocate monies to a private organization without the taxpayer's per-mission." The mayor said all the communities apparently felt they couldn't divert tax dollars to a private organiza-

Woods City Attorney George Catlin emphasized this point, too. "A community cannot spend public tax dollars for non-public purposes. This is prevented by State law."

The Farms takes the same position. The city says it's not a proper use of the taxpayer's money to support any one private organization.

Theatre to Play 'Virginia Woolf

"Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?", Edward Albee's striking look into the lives of four residents of a college community, is Grosse Pointe Theatre's summer offering at Fries Auditorium Tuesday-Saturday, August 6-10. Called one of the most gripping and intense dramas of the modern American theatre. "Virginia Woolf" also may be considered tender and rich in humor. The two professors and their wives spend a volatile, unpredictable evening which varies from funny to morbid, from

Harry Albertson, who also directs the show, plays George, a middle-aged college professor. Martha, his wife, is played by Joyce Schultheiss in a role which ranges from reality to fan-tasy. Mrs. Schultheiss direc-ted "A Funny Thing Hap-pened on the Way to the Forum" for the group last November.

The role of Nick, the younger professor, is played by Mike Mikos, who directed 'Forty Carats' last season.

Mr. Albertson and producer Mickie Pizzimenti have included Painters Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vreeland, of Audubon road, as lighting chairman and stage manager, respectively. Mrs. Harry Stutt, of Muir road, handles properties and set dressing, and Mrs. Ronald Samuel, of Moran road, is makeup chairman, nance committee chairman who said the organization hasn't heard from any of the municipalities thus far. "I don't agree with the position of legality. If it's put on the basis of a charitable con-tribution, I think they're on solid ground."

"FLEC does provides services to the residents of the six communities," (including Harper Woods), he continued, while adding that the organization has "a modest budget in what we're trying to accomplish for the community.

Pat Horne, executive sec-retary, said, as far as finances go, FLEC is working towards broadening its membership base this fall and all programs are still operating.

The organization is working especially hard on an Alcohol Education program and is trying to encourage the formation of an alcohol treatment facility within The Pointe, she stated.

As of May 31, FLEC was operating $2,700 below their budget. Statements are done on a two-month basis so she couldn't get a more recent figure than May's. The finan-

Lewis Telethon To Air Sept. 1-2

The annual Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon for Muscular Dystrophy will be aired again this year by WKBD-TV, Channel 50, beginning at 10:30 p.m. Sunday, September 1, and continuing for 20 hours until 6:30 p.m. Monday, September 2.

The Lewis telethon which raised a record $13.5 million for M.D. last year, will originate from the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas, with Ed McMahon as Mr. Lewis' anchorman. Additional program segments will come from New York, Hollywood and Nashville. WKBD-TV one of 157 stations scheduled to carry the telethon nationally, will break away from the show for 10 minutes each hour to feature Detroit-area celebrities and contributors pearing in Channel 50's Southfield studios. Proceeds from the local telethon provide diagnosis, evaluation, clinical treatment, therapy, wheelchairs and braces free of charge to all dystrophy patients in southeastern Michigan. The funds also support medical research into dystrophy, which is as yet incurable.

It is time I report to you matter, to date.

Not by my choosing, I have been in the midst of Caucus Committee to advise our Caucus, then as a member of the Joint Committee on Conflict of Interest, then as vice-chairman of the House Select Committee, all pertaining to Representative Smeekens.

As a member of the Joint Committee, and perhaps because of my law training, much of the questioning of witnesses was in my hands. As a result, Representative Smeekens, at one point, threatened reprisal against me. But now the Joint Committee recently concluded its essential work.

The Democratic Speaker Pro Tem in the House, Representative James E. O'Neill, Jr., and I concurred in the committee finding there was reasonable cause to believe to make certain that the a conflict of interest existed outside of the statute, that there was no violation of the | manner. statute and we appended our own lengthy opinion finding date, on this conflict of ina conflict of interest outside terest matter, I have cothe statute, matters constituting the conflict, reason legislators subject to a code why the statute could not be of ethics and have recomconstrued to cover Repre- mended two specific amendsentative Thomas Gaustello, ments to the conflict of ininsisted on assurance that the terest statute. Prior to that Joint Commit tee decision, namely on Friday, July 12, all members of sible for recommending if discipline is warranted, except the chairman, Representative Thomas Gaustello, insisted on assurance that the House would be reconvened to consider any recommendasome of my views on this tion of discipline made during the summer recess.

When we lost that battle, we all decided that because the investigation to this point. of such House refusal, ap-I was asked first to head a parent Democratic leadership reluctance to act prior to the primary and other problems suggesting delay tactics, we all resigned, leaving the chairman as the only remaining member. The speaker was then advised to appoint new members as of Wednesday, July 17, so no delay in the committee work would be necessary.

When we all resigned, in protest, and to make our point clear, we agreed none would return to the committee unless all did. Since it was impossible to find a basis on which all five would be willing to return to the committee, it has now been decided none will return.

GPYC's 'Aggressive' Sails For U.S. in World Cup

Two Ton Sailboat Races and a representative from the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club will be there.

Racing for the United States will be "Aggressive," co-skippered by Frank Piku for boarding on a Russian and Dave Gamble, both from Grosse Pointe. "Dynamite,' out of West Palm Beach Fla., will be the other boat sailing for America.

The two ton sailboats are the largest class of racing boats in the world, and Mr. Piku said he hopes to bring the World Cup back to the United States for the first time in the race's five year history.

About 17 other boats from Canada, Italy, England, France, Germany, Holland and Belgium also are expected to compete.

In July 1975, the Grosse Detroit. Pointe Yacht Club will host the same event on Lake St. run September 7-15.

San Remo, Italy, will be Clair. The National Two Ton this year's site of the World Elimination Races also will be held on the lake and should draw about 15 to 20 U.S. boats, Mr. Piku said.

The "Aggressive" is currently in Chicago and soon will be sailed to Milwaukee freighter leaving for Italy Thursday, August 1.

Mr. Piku and Mr. Gamble will pay the transportation costs of their boat, but a committee, People-to-People Sports, Inc., has been established to help pay expenses of the nine-man crew. They hope to raise $25,000 in tax deductable donations.

The crew members are Dick Clogg, Al DeClerq, Dave Hunter, Rob Peterson, John Trost and Tim Woodhouse from Grosse Pointe and Burke Sawyer from

Wines for summer

he best summer wines are light, dry and cooling, such as the white wines of Alsace: Sylvaner, which makes a delightful spritzer mixed with sparkling water; Riesling, dry and crisp, and the Traminers and Gewurtztraminers, with their flowery bouquets and spicy taste. Try a Gewurtztraminer with Requefort or sharp Cheddar cheeses.

Loire Valley whites: Pineau de la Loire; Muscadet: Sancerre and Pouilly Fume, all perfect with seafood, Light, fruity reds, also served slightly chilled: Beaujolais Villages, Brouilly, Morgon, Moulin-a-Vent and Fleurie are easy to drink and especially complementary to summer dishes. Try some California varietals: Fume Blanc, Johannisherger Riesling, Chardonnay among whites; Cabernet Sauvignon, Petit Syrah and Gamay Noir among reds. Select some of the Anjou roses to be served chilled with a fresh strawberry in each glass.

What Goes On Your Library

By Arthur Woodford Chief of Central Library

With the Game now in the record books, and the second half of the baseball season well underway, I would like to recommend several of our new books on the Great American Pastime.

For those of you who think Abner Doubleday invented baseball, I suggest you read Harold Peterson's THE MAN WHO INVENTED BASE records in winning the 11 BALL, (Scribners). Mr. and 12-year-old boys breast-Peterson's contention is that the real inventor of the game was a New York bank clerk, not in Cooperstown, but on Manhattan Island in a meadow about half-way between Yankee Stadium and Ebbets Field in 1846.

The author attempts to prove his theories, while tracing baseball's antecewright's life and subsequent career.

To many fans, baseball means records, and for the statistic buff we have the BOOK and OFFICIAL BASE-BALL GUIDE. Everything from batting averages to park seating capacities will be found in these two handy volumes.

If you are interested in looking up your favorite player, we have the new WHO'S WHO IN PROFES-SIONAL BASEBALL, (Arlington House), by Gene Karst and Martin J. Jones. Here are biographies of over 1,500 players, managers, days of the game to players active at the close of the 1972 season - all profiled and alphabetically arranged for fingertip reference.

For example, Willie Horton's nickname has nothing to do with alcoholic refreshment. His parents called him "Boozie" when he was learning to walk because he was so unsteady afoot.

Two books have appeared this summer on the immortal Babe Ruth and both are RUTH'S AMERICA, (Crowell), Robert Smith paints the legendary "Babe" in broad, flamboyant strokes against the remarkably tabloid social history of his time.

Mr. Smith effectively melds Ruthian baseball exploits with period background-the boozing, womanizing young "Babe" in outwardly starchy among heroes in the 1920's, whose glories belonged as much to him as to Coolidge, Capone and Lindbergh. Many Ruth here for the first time folk heroes in our history.

ter), by Robert W. Creamer the game has been called is a definitive biography, because of rain.

1974 All-Star | ripsnortingly adult, and as loaded with relevant baseball lore as Mr. Smith's book is loaded with the racy background of Ruth's era. Mr. Creamer describes in detail the Babe's first pro-game and home run, his 1914-15 breakin with the Red Sox, his pitching exploits - and then, with unflinching candor, his rowdy Yankee days as "home run king" and big spender. Phil Pepe pegs his baseball biography, THE WIT AND WISDOM OF YOGI Alexander Cartwright, and the first game was played, former Yankee catcher's long-exploited image as a homely but lovable bumbler baseball's Mr. Malaprop par excellence. He ladles out Yogi's very funny verbal gaffles throughout his smoothly written story of Yogi's rise to his present eminence as manager of the New York Mets.

Yogi grew up in St. Louis with his street buddy, Joe Garagiola, and Mr. Pepe shows him as an awkward kid beating the odds and 1974 editions of the Sporting kid beating the odds and News' BASEBALL RECORD making it with the Yankees in their Mantle-Maris glory

In WAIT TILL I MAKE THE SHOW, (Little, Brown), Bob Ryan draws an excellent picture of the minor leagues depicting them largely as run-down franchises constantly in the red, the rookies outting up with endless bus rides and murky night games while trying to learn the finer points of baseball.

Some wait endlessly to make the major leagues, coaches, officials and even most never do — they fre-umpires from the earliest quently quit in despair or hang on and join the aging has-beens that shore up the bush-league. Mr. Ryan has done profitable field work for this colorful overview of the diminishing world of minor league baseball.

A CENTURY OF BASE-BALL LORE, (Hart), by John Thorn is a copious outpouring of baseball oddities and anecdotes with some 75 excellent cartoons, Thus what the mind chuckles over or acknowledges to be a morsel good ones. In his BABE of baseball legend or history worth telling to friends at next Saturday's game is made twice as memorablesometimes hilarious - by pictures that captured the big baseball moment or personality in the delirium of its day. Some of Mr. Thorn's better anecdotes involve players fans will never remember-Boston growing into a hero like the lad who, making his major league pitching debut with the 1918 Dodgers, was belted out in one inning, left the park, joined the Navy baseball fans may see Babe immediately and was never seen again.

Dogon Exhibit Opens Aug. 1

The art of one of the smallest—and oldest—tribes in all Africa will be revealed in a special five-week exhibition at the Detroit Institute of Arts running Thursday, August 1, through Sunday September 8.

African Art of the Dogon will display 100 sculptures in wood, iron, brass, copper and terra cotta against photo-murals by Eliot Elisofon showing the life of the rugged cliff dwellers who live in Mali, West Africa, southwest of the River Niger as it bends toward Timbuktu.

Myths of the Dogon people a highly-structured patriar chal society, will be related by Martin Molson, director of Wayne State University's Black Theatre, a professional actor who will portray an ancient Storyteller of the 900year-old culture.

He will weave legends and eliefs surrounding the human and animal figures represented in the art at 11 and 1 o'clock each day in the exhibition gallery.

A total picture of the Dogon heritage emerges from the ritual masks, re-ligious figures and utilitarian benches and bowls collected by Lester Wunderman, of New York City, in 15 years of travel in Africa, Europe and America.

Critics have called Elisofon's photographs of the fortress-like villages, everyday life and tribal dances "spectacular." The famed photographer who admitted to a love affair with the Black Continent was featured in major publications, notably Life magazine, for more than 30 years before his death in

Now near the end of a twoyear tour of the United States, African Art of the Dogon was organized by the International Exhibitions Foundation of Washington, D.C., and is supported by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The Detroit presentation in a display created by Linda Downs of the Education Department is sponsored by the museum's Founders Society. The Dogon, numbering perhaps 20,000 tribesmen today live in the disastrous Sahel, the drought belt which stretches across Africa in a calamity of death and suffering unequaled in modern history. The Sahel is the ad-vancing edge of the Sahara, a creeping desert, turned loose by dearth of rain, slowly burying vegetation and waterholes.

Dogon ancesters fled into Central Africa to escape marauding Moslems in the 12th century. They found succor in the cliffs of Badiagra near the River Niger.

will be open to the public during regular museum hours, 9:30 to 5:30 o'clock Tuesdays through Sundays. There is no special charge for the exhibition or the Storyteller sessions.

fully-illustrated logue, "African Art of the Dogon: The Myths of the Cliff Dwellers," traces the history, techniques and significance of this art. In addition to many photographs by Eliot Elisofon it contains Lester Wunderman's scription of the land of the Dogon and the philosophy which underlies his collec-tion. The catalogue will be available at the Museum Shop at $5.95.

A Children's Workshop, a two-hour session to explore the Dogon sculpture tradition, will be held Sunday, August 4, from 1 until 3 o'clock in the Art Institute's Underground Museum, Advance registration may be made through Your Heritage House, 833-9789.

Grosse Pointe Area Since 1937 Residential and Commercial Two North High School sophomores, Barry Burns and Eric Koenigsmann, Alterations and Maintenance among others, are practicing the ancient Oriental art of self-defense. • Attics • Porch Enclosures

The pair often find they are providing entertainment for neighborhood youngsters as they work out together, practicing their round and side kicks on a homemade kicking bag they hang from the limb of an apple tree.

Although the two 15-yearolds sometimes offer tips to their fascinated young audience, Barry comments, "Karate has numerous benefits, such as building selfconfidence, control, stamina, and is a fun and beneficial method of getting in shape. However, to achieve these goals you must have a top-notch instructor." He works out at the newest of C. I. Kim's Karate Clubs on Kelly road.

Many suburbanites are now attempting to give Karate a whirl Eric's family finds an age limit is practically non-existent. His mother and younger brother are also Karate students, although to become most proficient, they recommended that one start young.

Mary Lou Gets Her Concert Baton

MARY LOU HORNBERGER, of Cook road, American Airlines ticket agent and top bidder for the chance to guest-conduct the Detroit Concert Band in Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever" offered during the recent Channel 56 fund-raising auction, was pleasantly surprised when Maestro DR. For more about Miss Hornberger, who will have the usual coaching and rehearsal session with the Band prior to her appearance on the podium, check out this week's "From Another Pointe Of View."

She went on to study at the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N. Y.

But her love of travel won out over her love of music, (as a career, at least), and Mary Lou left Eastman in her second year to join American Airlines. She has, by now, traveled the world. Her book, "Europe on Forty Dollars a Day?", came out in 1963.
Her favorite places to visit are Hong Kong,
Paris, Lisbon, East Africa and Russia. She'd go back to any one of them, any time.

Here at home, she's a dedicated volunteer member of the newly-formed Friends of the Detroit Concert Band. "Most Detroiters don't realize how world-famous this Band has become as a result of its appearance on the internationally-televised BBC Sousa Documentary," Mary Lou notes. of the first editions of the recordings. She predicts the collection will sell like hotcakes in London, where viewers of the BBC Sousa Documentary have been haunting the record shops for something anything — by the Detroit Concert Band.

Pendulum Swinging?

She won't be surprised if it sells like hotcakes all over the United States, too. "People are ready for some good, professional concert band recordings that remind them of their American heritage, "Mary Lou believes.

And she adds, as the thought suddenly occurs to her: "Band music may well be the 'in' music of the 70's - avant garde! That old pendulum does swing, you know . . .

As with all neophyte conductors, as the time approaches to step on the podium Miss Hornberger is experiencing a slight case of nerves, a few tossings and turnings of the pillow at night. "In my wildest dreams, I never once really believed I'd ever have the opportunity to conduct this Band."

Her Fingers Were Crossed

Even when she 'phoned in her bid to Channel couldn't stand a chance. She was wrong. Come this Saturday night, Macstro Mary Lou Hornberger will be leading the Band. "Conducting wasn't one of the classes I took at Eastman," she is quick to point out. "I'm relying School graduate CHRIS WIL- Chrysler Institute of Enginon Dr. Smith to help me perform like a pro - at least for the few minutes I'll be on the podium!"

As previous winners of Channel 56's "I Wish I Could Lead the Detroit Concert Band . . . " will attest, she'll come through smelling like a rose.
