LAETRILE PROVED to be of no value in either preventing or curing cancer in a four-year study in which the substance was injected into rodents, scientists reported Wednesday. But the scientists said their experiments indicated that Laetrile has no harmful effects except when excessive doses were given orally or by faulty injection. They said they could not test whether Laetrile may lessen pain, as its supporters claim. The scientists said their report would probably have no impact on the public and that tests on humans may still be necessary.

THE HOUSE approved Thursday legislation designed to block the Carter administration's new policy on busing for school desegregation. The measure, which was adopted by a vote of 225-157, would prohibit the government from withholding funds from school districts that refuse to use busing to merge or consolidate black and white schools. Hearings continued on a similar measure before a Senate subcommittee, and comparable legislation is likely to be approved by the Senate before long.

THE UAW NOW favors mandatory installation of air bags or automatic seat belts in new cars and is taking its case to Transportation Secretary Brock Adams, who already has indicated support for such passive restraints. Mr. Adams has acknowledged he is leaning toward requiring the controversial safety devices. After he took office earlier this year, he was openly critical of former Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman for rejecting mandatory airbags in a ruling last December. The decision is expected Thursday, June 30, at a press conference. Mr. Adams has scheduled in Washington.

THE SPACE SHUTTLE orbiter Enterprise, designed to fly men and cargo to outer space and back, made a "successful" manned test flight for the first time Saturday riding on a Jumbo jet. Donald Slayton, an early astronaut and manager of the approach and landing test, described the 55-minute flight as "very successful." The coupled craft flew to an altitude of 15,000 feet over Edwards Air Force Base, in California, at speeds up to 207 mph.

ASSISTANT INTERIOR Secretary Guy Martin told Alyeska Pipeline Co. officials Sunday they could start oil moving through the 800-mile line from Prudhoe Bay to Valdez, Alaska, Monday morning. Interior officials said department surveillance teams in Alaska will make sure environmental and technical regulations are followed. They said the government will halt the pumping if it finds a danger to "human life, natural resources or the environment." By the end of the year, the pipeline will supply about 15 percent of America's domestic crude oil production.

STATES AND CITIES are not required by the U.S. Constitution or federal welfare laws to provide for abortions that are not crucial to sustaining a mother's life, the Supreme Court ruled Monday. In a series of three 6-3 decisions, the court upheld Connecticut and Pennsylvania welfare regulations denying Medicaid benefits for abortions unless a physician determined they were medically necessary.

Groups Combine to Benefit Center Project

The Village Merchants Assoc. and the Grosse Pointe Artists Assoc. are co-sponsoring their third annual "Village Street Art Fair" Thursday through Saturday, June 23 to 25. All proceeds will go toward financing construction of the new art wing at the War Memorial, seen at the left in the sketch. Construction began April 1 with work scheduled for completion in late July. The estimated cost of the wing is placed at around $150,000, and includes all necessary art equipment. Dedication day is set for December.

Art Fair Set In Village June 23-25

Proceeds Will Be Used to Benefit War Memorial in Construction of New Wing

A kaleidoscope of pleasure awaits Pointers in the Village Thursday through Saturday, June 23 to 25, when the Village Merchants Assoc. and the Grosse Pointe Artists Assoc. combine forces for their third annual "Village Street Art Fair."

The fair will be held from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. on June 23, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on June 24 and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on June 25. It will include completely original paintings done in a variety of media such as oil, acrylic, water color and mixed-media. The subject matter ranges from landscapes, many of local interest, to figure studies, still life and abstracts.

Goal of Artists
Included will be bronze and metal sculptured pieces, handcrafted jewelry, pottery and ceramic items in the constantly expanding event. This year, weaving also will be added to the variety of art work.

The proceeds from the art fair will be donated to the War Memorial for the building of the Center's new art wing, which is currently under construction.

The addition has been the goal of the Grosse Pointe Artists Assoc. toward further promoting artistic attitudes, and for the enrichment of all citizens.

Candidates File in Park; Primary Election Slated

By James J. Njaim
The Park will have a primary election on Tuesday, August 2, to elect six candidates for the city council and two for municipal judge. All will oppose each other for their respective posts on the first Tuesday in November at the regular general election.

City Clerk Nunzio Ortisi said that 12 persons met the 4 p.m. nomination petition filing deadline on Tuesday, June 7, and six filed for the office of municipal judge.

Shores' Proposal on Reallocation of YSD Funding Under Study

Division's Board of Managers, Who Met to Hear Village's Concerns over Current SEV Method, Will Consider Suggestion to Base Cost Breakdown on Population; Review of GP-HW Radio System Also Planned

By Roger A. Waha

Shores officials expressed a concern over the method utilized to determine the allocation of each local government's pro-rata contractual share of the Youth Service Division's (YSD), fiscal year 1977-78 budget at a specially called meeting of the YSD's board of managers Tuesday morning, June 14, at Woods city offices. (The Woods is managing municipality of the division.)

Gerald C. Schroeder, Shores Village president, told the board of managers, (comprised of all Pointe city managers and a School Board representative), he was speaking in behalf of his council in noting its overall feeling the Village, because of its low case load, wasn't receiving the full benefits it was paying for.

Making it clear he wasn't talking about the quality of service the Village receives, which he felt was fine, Mr. Schroeder stressed that the allocation of each city should be based on population, rather than State Equalized Valuation (SEV), attributable to each community.

Not Equitable

At this time, the allocation of contributions per community is based upon each municipality's current assessed valuation, while the Board of Education pays the salary of one officer, plus his fringe benefits, along with some monies for the YSD's counseling service. Some funds also have been reapportioned into the division's budget.

By reallocating costs based on the number of people in each municipality, Mr. Schroeder felt a more equitable criteria would be achieved "because the number of cases handled are based more on the size of a city."

He noted, "The nature of the division's services are more educational than punitive so more of a cost might be borne by the educational system of Grosse Pointe. We feel the amount of monies should be in proportion to the people who receive rendered services. Now, it's not equitable for Grosse Pointe Shores."

Mr. Schroeder added he wanted the board to give the proposal careful thought while sharing two tables with the members, one showing relative amounts of activity between The Pointe communities and the YSD and the other, budget figures for the division over the past four years. One other sheet distributed showed costs per community based on SEV as against the population proposal.

People Oriented

After discussing the proposal and the overall scope of YSD services, the board of managers agreed it was too late to consider any possible changes in the allocation method for fiscal year 1977-78.

However, the members agreed to meet sometime in November or December to further explore this matter, along with a potential review of the allocation method for the Grosse Pointe-Harper (Continued on Page 6)

School Board, Teachers End Three Disputes

Administrators Act on Two Grievances, While Grosse Pointe Education Assoc. Drops Unfair Labor Practices Charge

By Susan McDonald

Three long-standing disputes between Pointe teachers and administrators were resolved last week when the Board of Education voted on two grievances, and the Grosse Pointe Education Assoc. (GPEA), dropped an unfair labor practices charge against the School Board.

The Board issued split decisions on Monday, June 13, in the first public grievance hearings it has held since Michigan's "Open Meetings Law" went into effect this April.

With a 4-3 vote, the Board granted a GPEA request to remove letters from several North High teachers' personnel files on the grounds that they did not relate specifically to the teachers' record of employment.

Cite Harassment

The letters were copies of correspondence sent by the North instructors to Board President Robert Warner in protest to remarks he made about the union at an October 1976 public Board meeting.

The GPEA argued for removal of the letters on the grounds that their placement in the files was a form of harassment and that the personnel files should be concerned only with teacher performance and evaluations, not union activity.

Trustees Joan Hanpeter, John Bruce, Laurence Harwood and Melissa Maghielse voted to remove the letters from the files.

William Fleming, William Huetteman and Mr. Warner voted against removal.

The vote was equally close Monday, (again 4-3), on another grievance, this one concerning lunch-hour responsibilities of elementary teachers.

On "Emergencies"

The new GPEA contract with the Board provides that certain elementary instructors are to be "on call for emergencies" during student lunch hours.

Union members, testifying before the Board, stated that during the "emergency" duty time they were required by written guidelines to make routine inspections of the playground, restrooms and (Continued on Page 4)

All news copy must be submitted by 5 p.m. on Friday, July 1, while society copy must be in by 5 p.m. on Thursday, June 30.

The display and classified advertising departments suggest an effort be made to submit all copy by 5 p.m. on July 1.

Partial Survey of Woods Trees Proves Beneficial

Overall, trees in The Woods are in better than average condition, but due to the large percentage of American Elm and the well known ravages of Dutch Elm Disease, a further erosion into the numbers of elms can be expected.

This was a main conclusion reached during a meeting earlier this month where participants reviewed the results of a partial, (i.e., almost half of the city), tree survey conducted last October by Michigan State University forestry students.

Those taking part in the session included Jean Rice and Joan Smith of the Woods Beautification Commission, Woods Administrative Aide

Council Cancels East End Construction, Awaits Recommendations; West End Work Set to Begin

By Roger A. Waha

The Woods Council at its regular meeting Monday, June 20, unanimously concurred in a Committee of the Whole, (C-W), recommendation to cancel the proposed construction of the east end wall of the Beautification Commission's "Veterans Memorial Parkway" project.

At the same time, the motion stipulated that the cancellation will not in any way disturb the funds allotted to the east end development of the parkway.

With this action, the commission is expected to formulate new ideas for the council's consideration at this location, (i.e., east of the Vernier-Mack avenue intersection).

On the other hand, construction toward the development of the west entrance to the city, (at the Harper Woods border), previously approved by the council in the amount of $9,962 including contingency, is expected to begin in early July.

West End on Way

Purchase orders have already been issued by the city, which is acting as general contractor for the project, for work at the west end, said City Administrator Chester E. Petersen.

This will include a masonry wall and sign saying "Grosse Pointe Woods, Veterans Memorial Parkway," plumbing, electrical service including underground service and three floodlights, landscaping and flag poles.

The selection of brick for the masonry wall has been made and is awaiting the architect's approval, he said. This should transpire within two weeks and then construction will begin.

The council originally authorized a maximum expenditure of $18,000 for the project, and Mr. Petersen indicated around $6,000 could be utilized for the development of the east end pending completion of the west end project. (Continued on Page 2)

Unanimous Vote Issued By Council

Nearly 300 Persons Attend Meeting As Future of Punch and Judy Remains Question Mark

By Tom Greenwood

Town hall democracy in its finest form was practiced Monday evening, June 20, as nearly 300 persons jammed The Farms council chambers to debate the future of the Punch and Judy Theater.

The council listened to citizen opinions for nearly two hours before unanimously denying Unity Church, proposed purchasers of the theater, a zoning variance to convert the old movie house into a church.

Before opening for debate, Farms Mayor James Dingeman established guidelines for the discussions saying, "I have no questions in my mind about the inquisition of blacks into the neighborhood, or how many Pointers are members of the church. That is not the main concern here."

Eyes Basic Issues
"The basic issues are 'What is the true character of the business district? What effect would the variance have? Would it establish precedent for other storefront churches in the area?' These questions must be answered."

The mayor also read a description of the local business zoning classification saying, "Local business districts are intended to provide suitable locations for those community activities which primarily serve residents of surrounding neighborhoods and are compatible within themselves and are not detrimental or injurious to contiguous residential areas."

Attorney Charles Wright, representing Unity Church, restated the church's intentions saying they would need "only 100 parking spaces per service, based on one space for every three worshippers." He said the parking would occur at traditionally "light demand hours—Wednesday evenings and Sunday mornings."

Mr. Wright also stated the church had volunteered to reimburse the city for lost taxes if the property "were taken off the tax rolls. The church had hoped to be welcomed as an answer to the problems of possible neighborhood blight from an abandoned building," concluded Mr. Wright.

On Commercial Property
The council then received a petition from Mrs. Jane Howe, of McKinley road, opposing the church's plan. (Continued on Page 2)

Freeman Views Exchange Day

Woods Councilman George S. Freeman took issue with a part of last week's story, "Exchange Day Proves Costly," which reported that The Woods ran up a total bill of $2,006.45 for Mayor's Exchange Day expenses this year.

The council at its regular meeting Monday, June 6, approved the record of expenses from Mr. Freeman, who acted as the city's host for the exchange with South Haven, Mich., officials last month, in the amount of $1,800.12.

As part of that figure, the NEWS said that Mr. Freeman incurred $200.61 in expenses for entertaining at his home. He said this wasn't correct. While he did entertain officials at his home, Mr. Freeman stated the expenses went for various items including name tags, postage, a gift for the visiting mayor, breakfast at the Pancake House, phone bills, restaurant tips, et al.

For such expenses, he was appropriately reimbursed by the council, which approved the total package, including expenses incurred by Councilman John Sabot based upon his visit to South Haven in the amount of $155.

Farms Council Nixes Bid of Unity Church

posed to the use of the theater as a church, saying it would "destroy the tranquility of our little street."

Shepherd Norton, a member of the Hill Businessmen's Assoc., then said he wanted to "clear up some misinformation."

"The business area on-the-Hill is not just one-half block long," he said. "We all know that's ridiculous. It's two full blocks, including the shops on Fisher road. They serve The Farms even if they are in The City."

"There's more open on Sunday's than has been reported," he continued. "There's a drug store, Lutheran church, Stroh's Ice Cream Parlor, a supermarket and real estate offices. Possible blight and deterioration of the Hill area has been slightly overdone. It's far from any danger of blight or deterioration."

"There are many alternatives to selling to the church. The change from a commercial use is breaking up our commercial district. We are opposed to anything that would make the theater anything but a commercial piece of property."

Mr. Norton also stated he was speaking for the majority of the association and that they personally "admired Unity Church and had nothing against it."

Parking Concerns

Many residents voiced fears about possible parking problems. One man asked the council if they thought parking on-the-Hill was a problem, and what was the average revenue from a parking lot "if that's what the theater should become."

Councilwoman Nancy Waugaman responded. "We do have a parking problem and that the tax revenues from a parking space is minimal, about $100 per space per year. And it costs $3,000 to develop each space," she said.

It was also pointed out that while Robert G. Edgar and Dick Crawford, present owners of the theater, had the right to tear it down if they wished, they would need to appear before the council to obtain permission to construct a parking lot in its place.

Another resident inquired about the tax base to the city if the theater and adjoining offices became church property.

City Manager Andrew Bremer Jr. said the entire block paid taxes of $12,756.87 in 1976 and that an estimated $8,000 of that amount was "produced by the property that would be sold."

It was estimated that approximately 40 percent of the $8,000 figure would be city taxes.

Mr. Wright, speaking again for the church, quickly pointed out the church hoped to enter into a "contractual agreement with The Farms and reimburse the tax loss on an indefinite basis."

One citizen asked Mr. Edgar if he had received any other offers for the theater and if he had advertised its availability?

Lots of Hand Shakes

Mr. Edgar said he had contacted numerous theater chains and managers and asked if anyone were interested in the theater, but was turned down. He also said he had received "a lot of ideas and hand shakes about the theater, but no one has handed me a signed check to back it up except Unity Church."

He admitted he hadn't put a "for sale" sign on the marquee of the theater, saying it would "detract from the business reputation of the rest of the block."

He also stated he hadn't listed the property because with "the Punch being closed the last five months and with all the publicity this has gotten, everyone knows it's for sale."

"I still haven't received any viable offers with the exception of Unity Church," he added. "They walked in with a check."

Chastises NEWS

After listening to more arguments pro and con from the spectators, Mr. Dingeman turned the matter over to the council.

Councilman James Mast made the original proposal to deny the variance stating, "The viability of the Hill as a shopping area was most important." He said the "loss of the theater would be a dangerous precedent."

Mr. Mast also chastised the NEWS in his closing statements, saying he was "incensed and saddened by the reporting of the local paper."

"They concentrated on the issue only as a church and not as a loss to the business community. The loss of any business is a serious matter."

Other council members echoed Mr. Mast's concerns, saying they weren't reacting to "emotions or innuendos, but what was best for the community in the long run." The mayor and members of the council then voted 7-0 to deny the bid of the Unity Church.

Before leaving the chambers, Mr. Wright again spoke quoting Romans 8:28 — "In the long run all things work for good for those who believe."

Members of the audience applauded at the graceful ending to the meeting.

Expected Result

Contacted after the meeting, Mr. Edgar and Mr. Crawford stated they weren't surprised at the vote saying they "expected it."

They said they didn't believe they'd take the matter to the courts and that the council "honestly made the determination that they didn't feel the property should be devoted to church use."

"The problem is we've heard a lot of talk but still don't have any viable alternatives," said Mr. Edgar.

"We'll sit down and talk to anyone interested in the theater. We're approachable," he stated.

"But make no mistake about it," said Mr. Crawford, as he left city hall. "If no one comes up with an alternative, the Punch and Judy will come down."

mission recommendations and council approval.

An original thought of the commission was to have a similar masonry wall at the east end but there was some division of opinion on the council's part regarding the necessity of such construction. As a result, this matter was referred to the C-W for further study.

Safety Factor

At the C-W meeting Monday, June 13, the council explored several alternatives for east end development with an overall feeling that a masonry wall may not be, from the safety standpoint, feasible.

Councilman John Sabol raised this question by citing a concern that if such a wall is constructed, it could be an obstruction to motorists and a potential hazard. He failed to see the need for such a wall inasmuch as the island at the east end is narrower in comparison to the island at the west end.

Mayor Benjamin W. Pinkos also stated he saw no point in building the structure and suggested that the remaining funds be held in escrow to see if the west end wall pans out.

Commission recording secretary Jean Rice, who attended the C-W session, said she would settle for a more elaborate flower bed at the west end, while stating something should be done about the Mack avenue intersection median by way of complete brickwork and new signing.

Mr. Pinkos then said the city should move expeditiously as possible with west end work and the commission can present further plans for the east end to the council.

Originally, the commission was looking toward a mid-summer dedication day for the project. However, because construction is scheduled to begin on the west end early next month, Dr. Albert C. Howe, commission chairman, said the group is viewing an early October dedication ceremony.

The overall objective of the project, besides its obvious beautification aspects, is to honor American veterans, and the commission is seeking contributions from citizens and organizations toward the long-range development of the Vernier road islands, including landscaping, planting of flowers and trees, et al.

Funds Established

The council in March established a "Veterans Memorial Parkway" fund based upon the commission's recommendation. This fund is separate and distinct from the city's general fund and will be used for the holding and disbursement of monies.

Mr. Petersen said $400 has already been contributed to this fund.

Citizens who wish to participate in the program should send a check, made out to "City of Grosse Pointe Woods—Memorial Parkway," to the city, 20025 Mack avenue, Grosse Pointe Woods 48236, in care of the city administrator.

All contributions are tax deductible and an acknowledgment will ultimately be sent by the commission to everyone participating.

In another action, the council also concurred in a C-W recommendation to delete from the C-W's agenda proposed turf upgrading of the parkway and a proposed watering system for the median. Consideration of these matters will come at a later time when west end work is finished.

School Board Calls Back Ten Laid-Off Teachers

By Susan McDonald

Ten Pointe teachers who were laid-off this spring have been called back to their jobs on a part-time basis for the 1977-78 school year.

The instructors were among 46 dismissed on April 26 in an attempt to cope with continuing enrollment declines in the public schools.

The Board of Education approved the re-employment at its Monday, June 13, meeting.

The rehired teachers will assume teaching responsibilities for two to four hours a day. They will continue to receive benefits by contributing to the costs on a prorated basis.

Director of Personnel Lawrence Kennedy said there is a possibility that more teachers will be hired back before school opens in September.

The 10 part-time positions opened up as the administration finalized schedules for next year and received complete student election lists from the high schools.

The laid-off teachers who will return to the classroom next year include Mary Beth Carduck, Patricia Carrick, Mary Ann Elmer, Ann Ferguson, Marcia Hall, Richard Henn, Donald McLaughlin, Renato Marchesi, Sharon Schmidt and Lynn Van Raap-horst.

The staff reductions were made possible by an expected enrollment drop of 405 students next year, Mr. Kennedy said.

The anticipated four percent drop will put public school enrollment at 10,295 students.

Mr. Kennedy said that current student-staff ratios will improve or remain the same after the layoffs.

The Pointe schools have been losing students since the beginning of this decade. Since 1970, enrollment has dropped almost 20 percent, according to a May 1976 school census. The administration expects the decline to continue for several years.

The teaching staff has been cut by 140 positions since the high point in the early 1970's. This year there were 589 full- and part-time instructors in the system.

South Mothers Give $7,019

Thanks to the year-long fund raising efforts of the South High School Mothers Club, the school will be sporting new velvet draperies, light system and improved sound in the auditorium, along with new student and parent handbooks, film projectors and loudspeakers when classes resume in September.

The gifts, totaling $7,019 in all, were accepted with thanks by the Board of Education at its Monday, June 13, meeting.

In addition, the board accepted $5,200 in scholarships raised by the Mothers Club and other community organizations.

Current Mothers Club president is Joan Warren.

Miss GP Eyes State Pageant

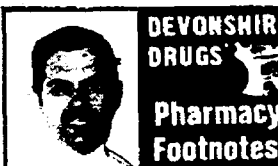

Vanessa Helin, 21, Miss Grosse Pointe for 1976-77, is scheduled to compete with 27 other young ladies for the Miss Michigan title during pageant week, which will be climaxed with the final judging on Saturday, June 25.

The event will be held at the L. C. Walker arena in Muskegon.

"Circus-Circus" is the theme of this year's Miss Michigan Scholarship Pageant, the winner of which will represent the state in the Miss America Pageant.

The state-wide contest will be presented in "Three Ring-Pageant in the Round" form with three performing stages at ice level on the arena's main floor.

In her talent presentation, Miss Helin, a 1973 South High School graduate who graduates next spring from the University of Windsor where she's majoring in music, (emphasis in voice), is scheduled to perform Juliet's Waltz from Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet."

School Year Receives High Marks from Officials

vandalism but did say a few pranks occurred. Two of these took place Wednesday, June 8, right before exams. In one, several bags of crickets were let loose in the school and, in the other, moth balls were sprinkled on the floor of the halls.

Of the latter, he observed, "It wasn't too bad until they got crushed and, boy, then did they stink."

Mr. Feighner added he attributed a change in behavior to "some very positive leadership among students," along with "a greater involvement of the total staff in surveying the halls."

The positive tone of the school year and graduation week was echoed at YSD offices where Det. Patrick Fagan, (South district), said, "The kids were excellent. I have nothing negative at all to say about the student body at South High School."

Keynote Is Smooth
Stressing the responsibility shown by the young people, he alluded to last year's disturbance which "got out of hand" and the ensuing media coverage. "Unfortunately, the two dailies haven't come down (as yet) this year to see the other side of the coin," he said.

This may not be news-worthy, he continued, in a larger sense, (regarding the magnitude of the disturbance), but "the kids exhibited an aura of responsibility and this has got to say something for them."

Det. Fagan even joined the senior class last week for a trip to Bob-Lo for a real "fun day" with everything going smoothly.

In fact, smooth is the keynote of the young people's actions as the detective could only mention, in the way of pranks, a couple of isolated shaving cream instances.

This caused him to ponder if "a new tradition may be not to have any senior pranks."

He added, while there was tighter supervision overall this year, "I don't feel anything like this would stop a problem alone — we needed the cooperation of the kids and we got it."

For his part, Det. Donald Schmaltz, (South district), stated this was the best school year in the four years he has been in the YSD.

"There were no problems to speak of. The young people had a different attitude this year," he said, while citing the overall effort of school and law enforcement personnel and parents working in unison toward preventing any problems.

"But all this wouldn't make any difference unless the kids were willing to cooperate." As for pranks, Det. Schmaltz added there was no reason for such actions, particularly in relation to a viewpoint of some that each succeeding year should top the previous one in originality and intensity.

"Dr. Hoeft did an excellent job in getting across to the students, and the students responded to what he said."

Meanwhile, Det. John Albrecht, (North district), stated, "I was favorably impressed with the integrity of the senior class. They had some fun but they also knew when to stop" in citing their overall maturity.

The detective said this school year was sedate in comparison to past years with no animals being let loose in the halls, (referring to the chicken escapade last year), and no damage being inflicted on the school via pranks.

Party Concerns
He said the usual shaving cream and flower throwing incidents occurred but efforts were made to restrict such activity to the parking lot area.

While noting firecrackers were set off by some and two trash containers were set on fire, nothing real malicious transpired. "There was no unique pranks toward besting those in previous years," he stressed, while praising the cooperation he received from school personnel.

However, Det. Albrecht did express a concern over the graduation party which continued until early Thursday morning in relation to overall supervision.

He said some drinking and smoking occurred at the party, (both of which are not permitted in the school), and, while indicating no major problems occurred, better cooperation is needed between the YSD, the school and parents to curtail such activities.

"We need rules specifically outlined and enforced by parents, and we need to get the students involved in the organization process," he added.

Three Disputes Resolved

halls and to man office telephones.

The GPEA argued that those guidelines do not constitute emergencies.

Although several Board members acknowledged that the guidelines don't seem to satisfy the contract's "emergency" language, they voted against the grievance on the basis of their intent.

They maintained they never meant the lunch time to be spent by teachers sitting idly in their offices.

"I don't feel the language expressed our intent," said Mrs. Hanpeter, but she did say she felt the language was clear and voted in favor of revising the guidelines. Mr. Harwood and Mr. Fleming also voted for a revision.

Reach Compromise
Those voting to deny the grievance and retain the current language were Mr. Bruce, Mr. Huetteman, Mr. Warner and Mrs. Maghielse.

A GPEA committee voted to take that grievance to arbitration, but a hearing date has not yet been set.

The GPEA last week

dropped an unfair labor practices charge filed last January, after reaching a compromise with administrators on letters in three Brownell teachers' files.

The letters contained a principal's lengthy objections to comments the teachers made to parents after a Brownell Family Night meeting last October.

The letters were removed from the files and a single sentence referring to the principal's objections to the teachers' comments was inserted.

The other part of the unfair labor practice charge, concerning a Maire School newsletter, was dropped earlier this year by the union.

The GPEA had contended it was unfair to force teachers to distribute the newsletter, which was critical of the teacher union, while the union had no similar line of communication with parents.

Barrett Wins Merit Award

The State of Michigan Legislative Merit Award was presented to North High School's Elizabeth Barrett at the school's Ninth Annual Awards Night last month.

Elizabeth earned the $1,000 certificate with an excellent academic record throughout her high school years. She carries a 4.0 grade average.

She plans to attend Harvard University after graduation. Elizabeth also was awarded a Prudential Insurance Co. of America $1,000 scholarship earlier this year.

Legislative Merit Awards are presented to 50 Michigan students each year.

GPW Eyes Mack Avenue Maintenance Agreement

By Roger A. Waha

The possibility of arriving at an agreement with the Wayne County Road Commission toward maintaining Mack Avenue is under consideration by the Woods Council.

This item, which will remain on the Committee of the Whole (C-W) agenda, was eyed at the C-W meeting Monday, June 13, at which time City Administrator Chester E. Petersen said he would meet with road commission officials on Wednesday, June 15.

The original thought, he said, was that the city would request the road commission to relinquish its jurisdiction of Mack Avenue from the south city limits to the north. The city would receive money from the state based upon the formula for major streets via gas tax monies.

"But we wouldn't gain from the state as a city to justify taking over jurisdiction of Mack Avenue," noted Mr. Petersen, who indicated the road commission would get around four times as much funds from the state than the city would.

As a result, he said the first alternative would be entering into a maintenance agreement with Wayne County wherein the city would be responsible for the grass cutting of the Mack medians, snow removal, tree trimming, signposts, pavement markings, et al., with such an approach being more financially feasible.

"We could maintain Mack avenue at a less amount than what it would cost the county, thereby offering a savings to the county," he said.

A second alternative would be to have the council petition the road commission and the State Highway Department to have Mack placed under the city's jurisdiction but this approach would cost the city money. Mr. Petersen indicated the road commission will study the city's proposal toward maintaining Mack Avenue wherein a percentage of funds received from the state by the county would be paid to the city in accordance with the county's formula of distribution of gas tax monies.

He hopes within two to three weeks to learn of a road commission staff recommendation on the proposal. If the proposal becomes a reality, the county would retain full jurisdiction over Mack Avenue with state monies going to the county and the county sub-contracting with the city for the maintenance of the thoroughfare.

In other developments at the Wednesday meeting, Mr. Petersen reported he was told the reason why it took so long for the grass to be cut on the Mack medians this month was because the commission hadn't been able to hire their allotted number of CETA, (Comprehensive Employment Training Act), employees for the summer to do this work.

Pointers Make RenCen Move

Thirteen men and women from The Pointe area have begun working high in the sky beside the Detroit River in the new downtown Renaissance Center.

They moved with the central office of the AC-Delco Division of General Motors from longtime quarters in the GM Building on West Grand Boulevard to floors 12 through 17 in a tower of the riverfront complex.

It is the first group from an auto manufacturer to occupy space in the Renaissance Center, in which General Motors is a partner with a $12 million investment.

Residents from The Pointe area are among 458 men and women in AC-Delco's ultra-modern new headquarters "demonstrating by their presence the continuing belief of GM in a growing and prospering Detroit," according to General Manager William C. Lee.

The Pointe area residents employed by AC-Delco are Thomas D. Standifer, Richard H. Carr, Donald E. West, Mary M. Ham, Stephen D. Ham, Robert T. Hogan, Alexandra Laskowski and Jennie Pesick.

Others are Raymond E. Aro, John F. Chown, Patricia C. Fulmer, Frank Schenk and Richard P. Van Hollebeke. The division is responsible for the distribution of AC and Delco parts and equipment to the independent automotive, industrial, agricultural and marine aftermarket.

PWP Meets Tomorrow

The Grosse Pointe Chapter of Parents Without Partners, (PWP), will hold its next meeting Friday, June 24, at the War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore road, at 7:30 p.m. Members and guests will be entertained by Mark St. John, magician and illusionist. An afterglow, place to be announced, will follow the meeting. Residency in The Pointe is not a prerequisite for attendance at PWP meetings. For further information, call 882-0316.

Bon Secours Cornerstone Heralds Big Expansion

Bon Secours Hospital celebrated the placement of a cornerstone Tuesday, June 7, at a ceremony and champagne reception attended by hospital employees, physicians, trustees, past trustees, Sisters and friends. The stone was placed at the recently completed main entrance which opens into a new lobby housing a two-story atrium. Prayers and blessings were offered by Sister Rita Thomas, CBS, provincial of the Bon Secours Sisters, Sister Mary Catherine Rogers,

CBS, coordinator of the Grosse Pointe Community, and Bishop Arthur H. Krawczak, who blessed the building earlier at dedication ceremonies in May 1975. Speaking at the ceremony were Sister Regina Clifton, CBS, health care coordinator of the Sisters of Bon Secours, Barry M. Spero, executive director of Bon Secours Hospital, Robert L. Hannon Jr., chairman of the board of trustees, and Donald N. Sweeney Jr., MD, president of the medical staff. In his remarks, Mr. Hannon said, "Today is a significant day in the history of the hospital because it marks the final stage of a building program which resulted in new facilities offering the finest medical care to residents of this area."

Mr. Hannon said the cornerstone box contains not only articles of the present day, but also the contents of the cornerstone which was discovered when the 1941 building was razed. After the box was installed, each Bon Secours Sister helped to trowel the stone into place. The ceremony marked the beginning of the final stage of a $25 million building program which increased hospital services over a four-year period through renovation of existing hospital areas and construction of new wings. The final stage of the program, scheduled for completion in January 1978, includes replacement of the hospital's oldest wing and remodeling of other wings. This year, a new emergency room opened as well as a pediatric unit, obstetrical suite, nursery, delivery room and nuclear medicine facilities. Progressive and coronary care units will open in the future. The building was designed by Rosetti Associates/Architects Planners and constructed by Edward V. Monahan, Inc. Upon completion of construction, the hospital will have a 320-bed capacity. Our high standard of living in this modern age brings about the high cost of living.

JC's Sponsor Circus at SH

This year's edition of the International All-Star Circus from Sarasota, Fla., a 90-minute live indoor circus, will appear at South High School on Tuesday, June 28, for one performance at 7:30 p.m. The circus is being sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Jaycees as a project to raise funds for the work the organization does in the community. This one-ring, European style circus features a variety of acts and attractions including "Uncle Heavy's Pork Chop Review," Targa the performing Leopard, the Vazquez Chimps, a baby elephant, along with aerial acts and the Company of Clowns. Jim Falck, chairman of the event for the Jaycees, said local businesses have purchased tickets and donated them to children in the area so they can see the "big show" free of charge. While the Jaycees haven't as yet specifically designated where the profits will go, Mr. Falck said there's a good chance funds will go to the Burn Institute in Ann Arbor and for Reye's Syndrome. He added tickets will be available at the door at $7.50 per family, $3 for adults and $2 for children.

Paving of Alleys Top Priority in GP Park

By James J. Njain
The Park Council, at its regular meeting Monday, June 13, agreed to secure the services of John Stevens Associates, Inc., in overseeing the paving of several alleys in The Park.
The alleys have been given top priority by the city under the federal government's Community Development Block Grant program.
City Manager Robert A. Stone informed the council that under the present program, the city has been granted $68,000 for the alley paving project. He also disclosed that another grant of $97,000 from the government should be available in July for fiscal year 1977-78.
Mr. Stevens, who designed and will oversee construction of improved facilities of the Windmill Pointe Park marina, is a resident of The Park, living in Whittier road.
The contract for the alley paving, two courses of asphalt, was given to the Cook Construction and Paving Co. last fall. At that time, the firm assured the city that the price quoted in its bid, which was the lowest submitted, will not be changed, while The Park is waiting for the money grant.
The figure quoted for the job was $44,000.
To be paved at the earliest opportunity this summer are the following alleys:
Beaconsfield-Lakepoint, between Fairfax and Jefferson; Beaconsfield - Nottingham, from the alley south of Mack

Flower Sale Big Success

The Woods Beautification Commission had a successful one-day flower sale at the city hall last month as the group made a profit of $430.54. The monies have been put into a special account to be used for beautification projects voted upon by the organization.
When commission members assembled to set up for the sale at 8 a.m., people were already waiting to purchase flowers, said Jean Rice, commission recording secretary. "We had a steady stream of customers and by closing time, (2 p.m.), most of the flowers were gone."
Flats not sold were bought by the city for use on the Vernier road medians, parks and flower boxes.

Sunday Marks Fleet Blessing

Against the backdrop of smoke from a boat burning on Lake St. Clair, the Grosse Pointe Farms Boat Club held its annual fleet blessing Sunday, June 19.
In a ceremony performed by Fr. Val Rodriguez of Saint Paul Parish and the Rev. Robert Wollard, Chaplain at Henry Ford Hospital, the blessing and aid of almighty God was invoked.
Commander Delbert Younglove and Lt. Jerry Austerberry of the Coast Guard Auxiliary participated in the afternoon observance at the Pier Park. Following the service Commander Younglove and Lt. Austerberry presented Commodore George Toy, Rear Commodore Richard Shannon and Vice Commodore Frank Peterson, all of the Farms Boat Club, with a certificate of merit for outstanding efforts in the promotion of boating safety.

Planner to Eye Woods Items

Two items on the Woods Council's Committee of the Whole, (C-W), agenda were unanimously referred to the city's prospective planning consultant, Parkins, Rogers and Associates, Inc., by the council sitting as the C-W on Monday, June 13.
The council originally tabled a trio of matters until a planning consultant incorporated them into a revised zoning ordinance for the city.
These include political signs on private property, a proposed ordinance regarding planned multiple family residential development and a portable-panel signs.
The second item was referred to the C-W by the council this February and concerns a proposed ordinance to add a chapter to the city code entitled "Regulations Governing Outside Parking of Motor Vehicles at Gasoline Service Stations" and to define and limit such parking.
While the planning firm hasn't officially been hired as yet, the council included a total of $13,600 in the city's 1977-78 fiscal year budget for proposed work.
A total of $9,200 was set aside for the formulation of a land use plan, while $4,400 was slated to be used toward updating the zoning ordinance.
Officials are scheduled to review the contract proposal with the firm at the end of the month.
The council at its regular meeting Monday, June 20, concurred in the C-W's referral action.

If you are a sophisticated wine drinker, you can read a bottle and know exactly what you are getting and if the price of the wine is as outrageous as it really seems to be. For instance, with Bordeaux wines, the group known as the queen of wines, not only does the label say that it is Bordeaux and give the vintage year, but it will of course give the specific grape, and also the name of the district within the Bordeaux region, the name of the shipper or grower, and the name of the Chateau, or specific vineyard. If the bottle has the chateau name on it, you know the grape was grown in a certain vineyard, by a certain grower, and bottled right there.

And whether you are a sophisticated wine drinker or a neophyte, we at PARKIE'S PARTY SHOPPE, 17255 Mack, corner of St. Clair, 885-0626 are always happy to answer your questions and assist you with your selections. We give a 10% discount off of our already low prices for wine purchased by the case. Hours: 10-10 Mon-Thurs; 10-11 Fri. Sat.

Ideally, wines should be stored at 45 to 60 degree Fahrenheit.

GP Jaycees Elect New Officers

If you think you're seeing the same picture overline that you saw last week, you are correct. However, what you're not seeing is the wrong picture for last week, a photograph of Grosse Pointe Jaycee officers was, via a printing error, substituted with a picture of a Louisa St. Clair Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, check presentation to the Detroit Zoological Society. The new Jaycee officers include, in the front row, (from left to right), GARY MAROWSKI, internal vice-president; RICH THIBODEAU, director;

Animal, vegetable or slightly mineral, which of them is most nutritional? Are you eating a balanced diet? Are you getting your vitamins? There is new information available on vitamins all the time and everyone has their own ideas on what is right for them. We know that carrots and beef liver are excellent sources of Vitamin A, nuts and wheat germ of Vitamin B-1, oranges and grapefruit of Vitamin C. But, there is more than ABC to the vitamin story. Today many people tell us lots of vitamins are the answer to health and vitality. Others say we get all we need in the food we eat. To end the confusion for you, pick up a few nutritional paperbacks, they can help you determine what vitamins you may need or don't need to feel well.

And if you need vitamins, see us at VIM & VIGOR HEALTH FOODS, 21151 Mack, 886-9466; our Vim & Vigor vitamins are the highest quality available on the market at the lowest possible price, and we give senior citizens a 10% discount. All the ingredients in our unique multiple vitamin, Multi-Vigor, are derived from natural sources and they contain chelated minerals and ginseng. Hours: 9:30-9 Mon-Sat; 11-5 Sun.

HEALTHY HINT:

Always try to take your vitamins in the morning with your breakfast.

The Tigers clinched at least a tie for the league championship with a two-game lead and two games remaining. The Tigers, 15-3, are followed by the Indians at 13-5.

The Yankees are in third place at 14-6. The battle for second place between the Indians and Yankees will be decided in the last game of the season when they meet today, June 23, at the Academy field at 6 p.m.

The Phils clinched the fourth playoff position with a record of 8-10.

The first round of the playoffs will be held on Monday, June 17, at Kerby Field. The first place team will meet the third place team at 5 p.m., while the fourth-place Phils will meet the second place team immediately afterwards.

The playoff finals will be held Wednesday, June 29, at Kerby at 6 p.m.

The Tigers eliminated the Yankees from the championship in a well played 2-1 win on Saturday, June 18. Losing pitcher John Kulka walked the first three batters. One scored on an infield out and the second on a ball that got by the catcher.

Kulka blanked the Tigers afterwards but his teammates could pick up only one run off Todd Ciavola who registered his fifth win.

Shor's top Todd Pierce saved the game for the Tigers. With a runner on second and no one out in the third, he made a leaping stab of a line drive to cut off a base hit and doubled the runner off second for an unassisted double play.

The Indians snapped the Tigers' nine-game winning streak with a 10-5 win in eight innings on Monday, June 13. Pierce of the Tigers and Ernie Kovanda of the Indians pitched the first six innings that ended in a 5-5 tie. The Indians scored five runs in the top of the eighth as Kovanda drove in the winning runs with a double.

Craig Haase drove in six runs with two home runs and a double for the Indians as C. H. Crane picked up the win in relief. Rick Parsons homered for the Tigers. Second baseman Ken Fromm made three good catches for the Indians.

The Pirates won their second game of the season with a convincing 19-10 defeat of the Red Legs on June 18. Rick Waugaman took the win with relief help from Mike McFarlane. The Pirate hitting attack was led by Dave Chamberlin with four hits and three each by Bill

Cunningham and McFarlane.

Dave Fitzsimons and Stuart Sergeant picked up three hits each for the Red Legs.

Crane notched his second win of the week and fifth of the season as the Indians downed the Pirates, 10-3, on Wednesday, June 15. Jerry Steketee hit two doubles for the Indians and Bill Cunningham homered and doubled for the Pirates. Fromm led the Indians' defense with numerous assists and putouts. John Mooney picked up the save.

The Indians won their third game of the week as Haase notched another win on a two-hitter in defeating the Phils, 4-1, on June 18.

Haase drove in three of the Indian runs with a single and home run, his third homer of the week. Crane hit a triple and single for the Indians and Jim Zavell doubled for the Phils.

The Indians were led defensively by Fromm at second base and outfielders Dan Mooney and Crane.

The Phils downed the Pirates, 5-3, on June 13, picking up all five runs in the bottom of the fifth. Will Jackson tripled with two on to spark the Phil's rally. Stephen Palffy picked up the win with help of a double play started by Hobey Edlin's catch of a sinking drive in right field.

Dave Spindler notched his fifth win as the Yankees defeated the Red Legs, 13-3, on Tuesday, June 14. Keith Kovalick doubled for the Red Legs.

The Yankees downed the Phils, 13-2, on Thursday, June 16, as Rich Schreiner and Kulka hit two doubles each. Charles Snow tripled and Tom Dow doubled for the Yankees.

Five pitchers have registered five wins each including Haase and Crane of the Indians, Pierce and Ciavola of the Tigers and Spindler of the Yankees.

Center Hosts TM Lecture

"Supernormal Abilities, the Transcendental Meditation, (TM), program and Enlightenment" is the title of a presentation to be given at the War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore road, Monday, June 27, at 8 p.m., by four executive governors of the TM program in Michigan.

Admission is $7 at the door. Michael McKay, one of the executive governors slated to speak at the presentation, said, "The TM program is a complete program leading to full development of human potential."

"By 'full potential' we mean absolutely full potential. Thus, the TM program fully develops not only those areas of mind, body and mind-body coordination with which we are already familiar, but also those deepest potentials which are expressed through a whole spectrum of powerful, though usually untapped, mental and physical abilities."

The TM technique has become familiar to the public as a procedure for producing deep rest as the basis for more dynamic activity, and has been taught in a systematic manner throughout the world for nearly 20 years.

One View from the Capitol

By William R. Bryant Jr.

Redlining is the practice of refusing a mortgage or insurance solely because the home is in a certain neighborhood.

The bill to prohibit mortgage "redlining" by lending institutions, which I introduced, has now had extensive subcommittee work and should be ready for reporting to the full house.

The negotiations on the bill have been open, honest and fruitful. The legislators, including me, had much to learn about mortgage lending, the part played by FHA and other insured programs, the need to attract capital from outside Michigan and the risks involved in lending in declining areas.

We recognize we cannot ask private enterprise alone to solve the problem of older and declining neighborhoods, nor can we ask them to take risks which are unreasonable.

It is depositor and member money the institutions hold and lend and they do so having very great fiduciary responsibility.

We have recognized that the highest risk areas must be the responsibility of government or that government, the citizenry in general, must share or somehow reduce the risks or increase the potential profit for private sector involvement.

What we can and do expect the private sector to do is to understand the impact of its actions, to be aware of the fact that redlining can be a self-fulfilling prophecy and to make special efforts to determine each application on its own merits.

There will be passage, this year, of major "redlining" legislation.

It is our firm conviction such legislation can and should be based on provisions agreed to by both the representatives of the lending institutions and those of the Statewide Coalition on Redlining.

Pointers Join Camp Festivity

Camp Happy Hollow, for mentally and emotionally impaired youth, will open its 20th season this month in a brand new facility near Mayville, Mich.

Pointers attending the dedication ceremonies on Sunday afternoon, June 12, were camp trustees Dr. and Mrs. Chester Perry, of Bal-ford, Dr. Larry E. Fleischmann, of Lakeshore road, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Perry, of McKinley road, and Mr. and Mrs. Perry TeWalt, of Lincoln road.

Ground was broken last November for four new living units and an activity building on the 104-acre site on Harmon Lake, about 30 miles east of Lapeer.

The camp can accommodate 64 youths in each of the five, two-week sessions scheduled for June 19-August 27. Eventually, four more units will be built to accommodate 128 campers per season.

Both the mentally and physically handicapped, eight years or older, attend the camp. It is a non-profit organization licensed by the Michigan Department of Social Services.

It is affiliated with Central Michigan University, which provides students of special education and recreation for camp work.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

If this letter is published, it will appear after the Farms Council meeting of June 20 when presumably a decision will be reached on Punch and Judy Theater and the Unity Church.

As a member of the Farms Council, I vehemently protest being cast as a "savior" or "executioner" in the full-page advertisement in the June 16 issue of the NEWS paid for by "Grosse Pointe neighbors who want to keep the Punch and Judy."

Since the NEWS accepted the advertisement from anonymous contributors and has refused to reveal their names, this letter is my only redress to setting the record straight.

I fail to see any analogy between the Punch and Judy and Rose Terrace as the advertisement so blatantly does except for one similarity. Both were purchased by investors, presumably at distressed prices, with the intention of making a profit on their investment.

As a council member, I was not elected to underwrite what may subsequently turn out to be poor investment decisions. I have been elected to represent the majority of our residents in the enactment and administration of legislation which includes the Zoning Ordinance.

The Farms Council tried extremely hard to preserve Rose Terrace within the confines of the Zoning Ordinance. Rose Terrace "suffered the fate of the wrecker's ball" not because of an "execution" by the council but because the investors were unable to finance their enterprise.

Rose Terrace was and the Punch and Judy is privately owned. The owners, just as any resident, have every right to demolish their property. The owners, however, have no right to use their property unless it conforms to the Zoning Ordinance.

As a council member, I am obligated to interpret and enforce that ordinance. I cannot "execute," nor can I be a "savior" for guaranteeing a profit on a business investment.

I have attempted to keep an open mind on the appeal of the Unity Church for a zoning variance and I intend to do so at the June 20 meeting.

The survival or death of the Punch and Judy will be determined by the owners, not the council. The use of the Punch and Judy, however, which requires a variance from the Zoning Ordinance, will be determined by the council.

My decision will be based on what is best for the majority of residents of Grosse Pointe Farms that I have been elected to represent.

Joseph L. Fromm, Councilman, Grosse Pointe Farms

To the Editor:

Although I realize that it is against your editorial policy to publish letters which disagree with your point of view, I would like to see you — just once — now that the school board election is over, allow a dissident speak his piece, (without having to buy the space).

As a parent of three children attending Grosse Pointe schools, I was appalled and embarrassed at the way two of the (board) candidates were badgered at the recent candidates forum. I was not alone in this thinking.

It is amazing that of all the candidates, only the two who by their professional training and background merited special consideration, should be the ones subjected to a Spanish Inquisition-like harangue, while the other candidates, most of whose candidacies should have been considered a joke, are accepted as legitimate candidates.

First, there is Candidate A—the poor man's William Randolph Hearst—who considers the unionization of teachers as tantamount to a communist conspiracy.

Next, we have Candidate

B—who calls himself the "senior citizens' candidate." I didn't realize that we allotted a seat on the board based on this qualification.

Thirdly, we have the proverbial Grosse Pointe club woman — member of the Monday Bridge Club, the Tuesday Garden Club, the Church choir, etc., etc. The more clubs, the more votes.

Of course, there are the candidates who list as qualifications their experience as a little league coach. And last but not least, there are the "interested parent" and/or "taxpayer" candidates, (probably because they couldn't think of anything else to list as qualifications). I'm afraid that if a teacher ever gets elected to the board, the community will somehow be taken over by the Teamsters and George Meany.

All I can say is, that any people who think this way must be pretty inferior, to feel so threatened by the prospect of a teacher sitting on a seven-member board of education. In a way I guess it's a compliment to the teacher to infer that he/she could sway the other six members into thinking rationally.

If a person chooses to vote or not vote for a candidate because of logical reasons, that's one thing, but to eliminate a whole class of persons, (teachers), from consideration because of their occupation, that's unthinkable—and in a community like Grosse Pointe.

To the Editor:

Bravos and cheers to our volunteer mothers who worked in the Social Studies Resource Center at South High School.

We would like to extend our heartfelt thanks to Mrs. Thomas Kelly, (third year of service), Mrs. Donald McSorley, (third year of service), Mrs. James Durkin, (second year of service), Mrs. John Schonenberg, Mrs. Jerry Whitman and Mrs. Elton Bamford, (alternating, second year of service), Mrs. Robert Tracy, Mrs. James Mooney and Mrs. Gilbert Metry.

The center functioned smoothly and continued to grow only with your help and conscientious service. We end the 1976-77 school year with deep appreciation from the faculty, the students and myself.

Yours truly, Helen Calas, Social Studies Resource Center

To the Editor:

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to the many friends and supporters who worked so hard to aid in my election to the Grosse Pointe Board of Education. I anticipate the challenges and responsibilities of this new opportunity with enthusiasm and concern.

It is only through the combined efforts of the Board, administrators, teachers, parents, staff, students and concerned citizens that our system can continue to move ahead with success.

I look forward to working with all of these groups during the next four years.

Sincerely, Ann C. Ardussi, Of Pemberton road, Grosse Pointe Park

Know Your Schools

By Dr. William Coats, Superintendent of Schools

A recent memorandum from Clifford Sjogren, director of admissions, University of Michigan, addressed to me and to all superintendents and high school principals in the state, stated the serious concern of university officials about the writing abilities of students presently requesting college admission.

This concern centers about the inability of these students to "organize and write in clear prose, term papers, reports and answers to essay questions."

The university plans to sharply increase college writing requirements and to advise freshman applicants "to take the College Board English Composition Test with Essay to strengthen their chances for admission."

Dr. Sjogren did not attribute the situation he described to any simple, single factor, but rather noted its complexity as a part of far broader general cultural conditions.

Nevertheless, he did urge all college bound high school students to take one course emphasizing writing skills each term, and all secondary schools to provide increased opportunities for student writing.

In previous columns, I have discussed recent efforts of the Grosse Pointe Public Schools to improve student writing, including the publication of elementary language skills lessons, the organization of a language arts scope and sequence, K-12, and the new required 10th grade Writing Workshop course.

In this column, I will outline the impressive and rather unique model for evaluating writing which has been developed and implemented in the elementary and middle schools of Grosse Pointe during the past several years.

Many experts agree that one essential ingredient for any program designed to improve writing is an accurate means of assessing student writing competency. Working from such an assessment, the skilled teacher may then develop a writing program geared to individual student needs.

Such an assessment model is presently fully operative in the Grosse Pointe elementary schools. It is described in an official publication of the Department of Instruction, "Writing of Elementary School Children: A Model for Evaluation," Revised, 1977, and is outlined for a wide audience of professional educators in the publication "Language Arts," May 1977.

This outstanding local program, pioneered in 1971 by the principal and staff at Mason School, was developed and coordinated by Roger McCaig, director of Research and Development.

From that beginning at Mason School, the writing model has been refined and evaluated, and is now an important part of the total Grosse Pointe elementary school testing program.

Essentially, this model consists of an impromptu writing sample, administered yearly to every Grosse Pointe elementary school child, grades one through six.

Each year, a group of trained readers assess the performance level of every child's impromptu writing on a scale ranging from one through seven. Levels one through two identify writing which requires remedial assistance, levels three through five writing of various degrees of competency and levels six through seven excellent or superior writing.

Each student paper is read at least twice or as necessary to achieve reader consensus. Results of the writing assessment are distributed to all appropriate elementary school teachers and principals and are made a part of each student's official school record.

Plans for parent conferences have been made to provide an opportunity for teacher interpretations of all district test scores.

During the most recent elementary school parent conferences held in May, parents were acquainted with these scores and should have left the meetings with an accurate knowledge of the specific strengths and weaknesses demonstrated by their children on the impromptu writing sample.

The success of the elementary school approach is demonstrated by the fact that the average writing performance of students has improved significantly in recent years.

During the 1976-77 school year, the impromptu writing model has been extended to grades seven and eight of the middle school.

As in the case of the elementary school model, seven middle school levels of writing performance were determined from the actual writing of Grosse Pointe middle school students. Middle school departmental chairpersons evaluated papers and developed the criteria used to establish the performance levels.

This year, all seventh and eighth graders have been tested and their writing performance evaluated using procedures similar to those of the elementary testing program. Results are now available to parents on request.

Parents of all students, grades seven through 12, should also be aware of a long-standing Department of Instruction Bulletin, (1971), "Minimum Writing Experiences Per Semester in All English Classes, Grades 7-12."

This bulletin enumerates the minimum number of composition experiences per semester required in all courses giving English credit, and requires teachers "to produce upon request evidence of the type and frequency of assignments or of the actual writing experience of students."

Our plan next year is to extend the writing model to the high school level.

When a total writing assessment program has been developed our school system will have an invaluable tool for assisting teachers and for insuring that our students more nearly achieve the level of writing competence permitted by their individual abilities.

Isle Royale Trip Slated

As part of its summer recreation program, the Neighborhood Club is offering an opportunity for high school students, grades nine to 12, to spend part of their vacation in America's only island national park, Isle Royale.

According to program director John Shaheen, Isle Royale is a true wilderness, with access to the park's interior only by boat or on foot. Wildlife abounds on the island, with excellent opportunities to see huge moose, listen for wolf packs and fish for trout, walleye and pike.

The teens who enroll for the nine-day trip will spend their first night visiting an old Finnish homestead farm near Lake Superior.

The following morning they will take the ferry across Lake Superior to Isle Royale and begin a five-day, 45 mile backpack across the island.

After reaching the south-east end of the park, two more days of side trips, hiking and ferry rides will give participants an in-depth look at the park's history and ecology.

The trip leaders will be John Shaheen, Dean North, a geologist and experienced trip leader, and Ann Austin, a teacher and experienced backpacker.

The trip will be rugged, but suitable for the novice or experienced camper who has a good backpack, sturdy boots and an appreciation for the outdoors.

Participants will depart from the club on July 19, and return on July 27.

The trip fee of $165 includes all transportation, meals, instruction, accessory camping equipment and a pre-trip clinic.

For further information, call the club at 885-4600.

FLEC Task Force Attacks Teenage Alcoholism in GP

The most popular drug among high school students these days isn't "pot" or "heroin" or "coke" — it's booze. Alcohol. Why? It's available, relatively inexpensive and for the older students anyway it's legal, reports the Family Life Education Council, (FLEC), in a news release.

The six-pack has been raised to a status symbol almost the equal of trendy T-shirts and jeans. Alcoholism has become a national plague. There are nine million alcoholic Americans — and drinking problems are rising among the young.

High school drinking has become "acceptable" behavior in so many circles that the teenage drinker is no longer considered a bad person. He, (or she), may be among the most popular in a social set.

Peer pressure, without a doubt, influences many if not most students into taking that first drink. And that pressure is imbued with so many myths and so much misinformation that the average youngster is ill-equipped to deal with it.

Aware of the need to provide youth with reliable information on drinking, (FLEC) in the fall of 1976, formed a youth task force on alcohol education. FLEC President, Mary Evelyn Self, says the idea resulted from an alcohol workshop held in 1974.

"The consensus of the membership at the very beginning was to aim our efforts at youth," she said, "and FLEC's members unanimously agreed that the only successful program would be one in which youths were in charge."

Preparatory steps were taken in 1975 and then, last year, arrangements were made with the Catholic Youth Organization, (CYO), and the Wayne County Department of Health to conduct training sessions on alcohol use and abuse for high school volunteers to the task force. The volunteers were recruited from The Pointe and Harper Woods as high schools and the training sessions began in late November.

The League of Women voters provided valuable assistance by sponsoring a one-day workshop for the students in group leadership and recorder skills.

There were 18 graduates of the FLEC task force and, early this year, they began meeting with fellow junior and senior high students in small discussion groups both during and after school.

One such group was William W. Taylor's science class at Brownell Junior High. Eighteen seventh graders listened as task force members Wally Konrad, Jeff Kirkman and Dave Shelley explained the alcohol education program and attempted to help the students make intelligent decisions about drinking — or the "right" not to drink, if they choose.

Wally and Dave are both seniors at South High School. Wally is co-editor of the student newspaper and Dave is president of the Varsity Club. Jeff is a senior at North High School and is a member of the track team.

The trio began their presentation to the seventh graders with a film titled "Trying Times," designed for viewing by 11- to 13-year-olds. Produced by Self, Inc. of Bloomington, Ind., the film deals with subjects such as "Who Am I?", "What Do Others Think of Me?" and "How Can I Learn to be Independent?"

It is designed to stimulate thought-provoking discussion on smoking and drinking.

The students also were given a copy of the booklet, "Drinking Myths," prepared by the Office of Substance Abuse Services of the Michigan Department of Public Health.

The booklet debunks many harmful myths about drinking that are popular among youngsters and adults.

Following their presentation, Wally, Jeff and Dave fielded a barrage of questions from the seventh graders. Frequently, they were asked to explain the physical dangers of alcohol addiction. The students wanted to know "What can drinking do to your body?" "Does drinking damage the brain?" and "What does it do to you if you're pregnant?"

The three seniors handled all the questions with considerable aplomb and established a comfortable rapport with their young audience.

The Pointe school administration has cooperated completely in the alcohol education program and the teachers who have been involved are enthusiastic.

Brownell science teacher, William Leleszi, says he would "definitely like to expand it next year. The initial results are positive."

Several days after their experience with the task force, the seventh graders wrote an evaluation of the program. One student said, "I would like us to go into it, (alcohol education), as a sort of 'mini-course.' Most people don't know how important it really is."

Another wrote, "I found out a lot that I always wanted to know about it." Still another seventh grader recommended the program for sixth-graders "because it will stop them before they get started." (drinking).

Mrs. Self says, "It has been unbelievable, the response and enthusiasm of the kids to this program." She vows there will be another training session for new task force volunteers this fall.

"We want to make it a permanent part of the school curriculum," she said. The students have taken the experiment in stride. Commenting on the ease with which the senior students handled the questions of the seventh graders, Mr. Leleszi said, "It makes me think the generation gap is getting smaller."

Jewels & gems
by Jerry Valente

There are many types of earrings which enhance every wearer. Earrings are important jewelry for the face because they heighten good features and minimize flaws. There are also many decorative 'looks' which earrings help create. Button-shaped earrings lend a youthful appearance, and make a narrow face seem wider. Pendant earrings are quite elegant, especially if they contain diamonds or other precious stones. The way pendants swing with the wearer's movement is almost hypnotic — certainly captivating! Pendants also help "narrow" a wide face. If a woman has high cheekbones and fairly hollow cheeks, larger lobe earrings will flatter her features.

VALENTE JEWELRY, 16601 East Warren at Kensington, Detroit, 881-4800, has a large selection of earrings at prices to suit your personal tastes and budget requirements. If you have diamond earrings, or any diamond jewelry, they are likely to appreciate in value. If it is not insured, bring it in for appraisal to us at VALENTE JEWELRY and let us appraise it for you. We're open from 9 till 5:30 daily. Bank-Americard and Master Charge welcome.

NEGC Assistance League Ends Year

Jan Arndt Turns over Her Presidential Gavel to Judy Sieber; Check for $40,000 Is Presented to Dr. Eli Rubin

The Grosse Pointe Yacht Club was the setting late last month for the Assistance League to the Northeast Guidance Center's annual meeting and luncheon, during which outgoing president Jan (Mrs. Thomas) Arndt presented a check for $40,000 to Dr. Eli Rubin, director of the NEGC.

The 300 members of the Assistance League volunteered over 9,200 hours, excluding the countless hours given by board members and project chairmen, to accumulate their 1977-78 dona- tion.

A portion of the amount will be applied to a fund set up to study emotional disturbances in premature and low birth weight children.

In addition to their numerous fund-raising projects, League members also volun- teered countless hours at the Center, helping with secre- tarial tasks as well as assist- ing with Child Day Treat- ment and Adult Socialization, setting up a library at the Lakeview Unit and assisting with two conferences held by the NEGC.

The two most active mem- bers, Jan Arndt and Marilyn (Mrs. Edwin) Stedem, project chairman, received special gifts in appreciation of their total devotion and dedi- cation to the League in its 12th year of service.

The new slate of officers was presented, headed by Judy (Mrs. Thomas) Sieber as president and Ellen (Mrs. Douglas) Cooke as president-elect.

Project chairman is Lis- beth (Mrs. Gregory) Oates. Marilyn Stedem will serve as membership chairman, Dor- othy (Mrs. Murray) Filkin as service chairman. Recording and corresponding secretar- ies are, respectively, Joanne (Mrs. David) Frantz and Mary Lou (Mrs. Archie) Grieve.

Treasurer is Christine (Mrs. John) Eickhorst.

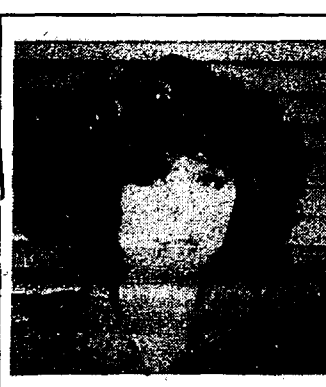

Standing committee chair- men include Toni (Mrs. John) Stewart, arrangements; Joy (Mrs. John) Williams, by- laws and yearbook; Nancy (Mrs. David) Olson, histor- ian; Beth (Mrs. Michael) Kastner, program; Sharon (Mrs. Hugh) Nelson, public- ity; Sharyn (Mrs. Christo- pher) Mannino, records; and Beverly (Mrs. Roy) Lein- weber, telephone.

An Honorary Life Member- ship was presented to Bar- bara (Mrs. Charles R.) Boyce, a former president of the League who has main- tained an active part in all League activities.

The luncheon ended with a delightful program featuring Grosse Pointe South High School's Crazy Eights and Tower Belles.

Incoming president Judy Sieber extended an invitation to all persons in the commu- nity interested in mental health to contact Mrs. Jack- son at the NEGC, 824-8000, regarding membership in the Assistance League.

Garden Clubs Earn Rosettes

The eastern area garden clubs of District One, Federated Garden Clubs of Mich- igan, Inc., have received the American Revolution Bi- centennial Award "as recog- nition of outstanding effort and accomplishment in rais- ing the standards of horticul- ture and artistic design in their community."

The red, white and blue rosette was presented to each of the 15 garden clubs at the state convention held early in June.

This award was given in recognition of the standard flower show held at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial last September, with the theme "American History in Grosse Pointe from 1679-1979."

In addition to the horticul- ture specimens, the artistic designs depicted history in the area during this period.

The area garden clubs re- ceiving the award are Deep- lands Garden Club, Garden Club of Michigan, Grosse Pointe Garden Club, Grosse Pointe Garden Study Club, Grosse Pointe Park Garden Club, Grosse Pointe Woods Garden Club, Junior League Gardeners, The Pointe Gar- den Club, Suburbia Garden Club, the Trowel and Error Garden Club, Windmill Pointe Garden Club, Harper Woods Garden Club, St. Clair Shores Branch of the Wo- men's National Farm and Garden Club and the Detroit Garden Club.

Miss Whittingham Married May 14

She Speaks Vows to Noel Selewski in Memorial Church; They Vacation in Florida, Are at Home in Fair Haven

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Whittingham entertained at a reception at their Colonial road home following the wedding of their daughter, Diane Whittingham, and Noel Selewski, son of the Frank Selewski, of Grand Blanc.

Dr. Ray Kiely presided at the 4 o'clock rites Saturday, May 14, in Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

The newlyweds vacationed in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and are at home in Fair Haven.

The bride's white satin gown featured a high-necked bodice of English net appliqued with Venise and Alencon lace. Her bishop sleeves ended in deep cuffs of net and lace, and lace edged the hem of her skirt and train.

Matching Alencon lace trimmed her knee length mantilla. She carried a spray of white roses and stephanotis. Linda Whittingham, who came from Florida Institute of Technology, Jensen Beach, to attend her sister, wore a halter dress of blue print polysheer with a short-sleeved jacket, and carried a Colonial bouquet of blue and white carnations.

Best man was Dennis Setbo. Thomas Whittingham, Jr., seated the guests at his sister's wedding.

The mother of the bride wore a short, medium blue Qiana knit, featuring a U-shaped neckline, long sleeves and a softly-gathered skirt. The bridegroom's mother's V-necked, long-sleeved knit was printed with a multi-colored floral motif on an off-white background. Her skirt, too, was softly gathered.

Both mothers wore orchid wrist corsages.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's grandparents, former Pointers Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Whittingham, who now reside in Southbury, Conn., and the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Smith, also former Pointers, now residents of Middlebury, Conn.

James Ross Marshall, M.D., of Hillcrest lane, claimed Helen Louise Hammer, of Detroit, as his bride Saturday, June 18, at a mid-afternoon ceremony in the garden at the Birmingham home of her niece, Mrs. Gordon B. Riggs, and Mr. Riggs. Edward Schneider, of Saint James Church, Birmingham, presided at the 2:30 o'clock rites for which the bride selected a white, street length afternoon dress. She carried a Williamsburg bouquet.

She was attended by Mrs. Frederick C. Cheney, of Lincoln Park, in a street length, pale yellow dress, carrying spring flowers.

James Ross Marshall, Jr., M.D., was his father's best man.

Among members of the families and close friends at the ceremony and reception immediately following at the Riggs home were the bridegroom's daughter, Mrs. Douglas Long, and her two daughters, Julie and Claudia, who came from Wilton, Conn. His sister, Mrs. Jack Mallen, came from Glen Ellyn, Ill. The bride's niece, Mrs. George R. Bell, Jr., and Mr. Bell brought their five children from Terrace Park, O., and another nephew, Robert G. Walters, Jr., came from New York City.

The former Miss Hammer was escorted to the altar by her great-nieces and nephews, Pamela Riggs and Suzanne, Kathleen, George, III, James and Thomas Bell, and by the bridegroom's granddaughters, Andreae Marshall and Claudia Long.

The newlyweds will be residing in Hillcrest lane.

She will be assisted by pointers Mrs. Joseph J. Marshall and Mrs. Edward T. Gushee, Jr., who are also on the board. Featured speaker is Dr. Don K. Worden, regional director of the Michigan Department of Mental Health.

Dr. Worden, a certified consulting psychologist who has had broad experience as a teacher, administrator and in private practice, has chosen as his subject: "Child, Oh Child, Quo Vadis?"

He will be introduced by board member Max L. Gardner, M.D., of Barclay road.

Representatives of social agencies with which the Center works, contributors, client representatives, board members and staff have been invited to this annual meeting, which will get underway with a wine and cheese reception.

Children's Center, one of the largest and oldest children's mental health organizations in the country, has been serving the metropolitan Detroit area since 1930.

In addition to the Alexandria headquarters it has branches in Meyers road and Plymouth road, a youth home in Grand boulevard and will shortly open an Infant Mental Health-Teenage Parent facility in Highland Park.

Meadow Brook Music Festival Sets Sunday 'Pops'

Country-western music at Meadow Brook Music Festival, summer home of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra?

"Yes," says Leon C. Petrus, managing director of the Festival. "We have scheduled a country-western night this summer as part of our Sunday twilight pops series. And we have selected two of Nashville's brightest stars, Conway Twitty and Crystal Gayle, as the attraction."

Petrus said it will be country-western all the way in the pops concert of Sunday, August 21, at Baldwin Pavilion on the Oakland University campus.

Meadow Brook's Sunday pops season opens June 26 with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra providing a musical backdrop for composer Peter Schickele, whose fictitious "P.D.Q. Bach" will gently spoof classical symphonic music with such whimsies as Concerto for Piano versus Orchestra and a Beethoven "Sports Cast."

The Detroit Symphony will perform in four additional programs in the 10-week Sunday series. Its concert of July 10, with Morton Gould conducting, will feature Miryo Park, 18-year-old pianist, winner of the 1976 Meadow Brook Young Artists' competition.

She began piano studies at age four in her native Seoul, South Korea. Three years later, she played Haydn's Concerto in D Major with the Seoul Philharmonic Orchestra.

Since moving to New York, she has continued piano studies at the Juilliard School.

Jane Powell, Hollywood and Broadway star, appears with the DSO July 24 in a program of Broadway hits.

Family pops will be the orchestra's focus the following Sunday, July 31, with Karl Haas, well-known classical music commentator, conducting.

The Symphony's final 1977 Festival appearance features soprano Roberta Peters in an evening of Viennese favorites August 14.

Interpersed among DSO performances in the Sunday pops series will be a variety of attractions, including Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians July 17, baritone Earl Wrightson and soprano Lois Hunt with the Detroit Concert Band directed by Leonard B. Smith August 7, the country-western concert of August 21 and pianist-singer Bobby primarily as comfortable entertainment for the entire family," Petrus explains. "To do this, we must provide a broad mix to reflect the varied tastes of differing age groups within the family."

Back by audience demand for a reprise of last summer's spectacular Bienenwiese Fourth of July concert will be the 100-member cast of "Up with People" to usher in this year's Fourth with a concert Sunday evening, July 3. A fireworks display will follow the performance.

They, in turn, bring their experience to bear within their individual professions.

In addition to educational assignments with the Vice President, members of the Cabinet and members of the White House staff, Dr. Liang and her fellow Fellows, (they range from an Army major to a city manager, from the director of the Spanish Merchants Association, Philadelphia, to the assistant director of Research, Radio Free Europe, Munich, Federal Republic of Germany — Louise is the only M.D., and one of only three women in the group), will participate in an extensive seminar that typically includes some 300 off-record sessions with top government officials, scholars, journalists and leaders from various other segments of private life.

A Remarkable Achievement

We've taken no formal survey, but it DOES seem that the number of years Katherine and Frank Welcenbach have given in educational service to the Grosse Pointe community — SEVENTY-SIX! — must be a couples' record.

Frank, former principal of Trombly School, remains active in the Grosse Pointe Men's Club.

Kay has just retired from University Liggett School — to work on ULS' Centennial Committee, assisting in the preparation of a book, "The History of the School."

So, technically, one could say that Kay is still in there, racking up educational service years for

Michelle Seltzer Wed to Mr. Lenz

They Are at Home in St. Clair Shores After Vacationing in Hawaii; Three Grandmothers Witness Ceremony

Venise lace trimmed the bodice and neckline of the candlelight organza gown selected by Michelle Jennifer Seltzer for her wedding Saturday, May 28, in Grosse Pointe Memorial Church to Jeffrey William Lenz.

Her long, sheer sleeves were lace-trimmed, and a matching lace cap held her lace-edged, fingertip length organza veil.

More lace edged her cathedral length illusion train. She wore the bridegroom's gift, a diamond on a gold chain, around her neck, and carried a bouquet of white Sweetheart roses, baby's-breath and stephanotis, with trailing ivy.

The former Miss Seltzer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Seltzer, of Clark Lake. Mr. Lenz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. William Lenz, of Ford court.

The 6 o'clock rites at which The Reverend John L. McCreight officiated were followed by a reception at the Hallcrest Country Club, after which the newlyweds left to vacation in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Honor maid Carol Dravenstatt, of Lansing, the bride's former Western Michigan University roommate, and bridesmaids Jeanne Lenz, the bridegroom's sister, Kathy Taggart, of Brooklyn, Mich., and Elise Corbishdale, of Waterford, a WMU Alpha Phi sorority sister, wore identical, floor length, sleeveless, pale blue knits, with matching, long-sleeved jackets.

Their round bouquets were fashioned of white baby mums, pale blue carnations and baby's-breath, with trailing white ribbon accents.

Miss Dravenstatt's bouquet was centered with white roses.

David G. Anastos, of Mundeleville, Ill., was best man for his Western Michigan University Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity brother, Ushering were two other fraternity brothers, V. Michael Keyes, of Santa Ana, Calif., and John H. Boll, and Thomas R. Bredon.

The mother of the bride wore floor length pink chiffon and a wrist corsage of pink and white Sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother pinned a corsage of yellow and white Sweetheart roses to the waist of her floor length yellow chiffon gown.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Graham, of Salem, Ore. Mrs. Graham wore pale blue, floor length chiffon.

Also present were the bridegroom's two grandmothers, Pointer Mrs. Ralph F. Brozo, in peach and pink print, floor length chiffon, and Mrs. John L. Lenz, of Farmington, in a long gown and matching jacket of green and white print.

All three grandmothers had white carnation corsages.

The bride and bridegroom, both graduated from WMU last December, are making their home in St. Clair Shores.

Eula Conducts ICEA Sessions

Mrs. William F. Hoover, of Fleetwood drive, spoke early in June at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C., at the 1977 International Childbirth Education Association's United States Eastern-Southern Regional Conference.

"Enriching the Childbearing Years" was theme for this year's conference. Nearly 100 speakers covered a wide spectrum of topics related to childbearing, maternity care and parenting. Approximately 1,600 persons were in attendance.

The conference was sponsored by three ICEA member groups in the Washington area: Parent and Child, Inc., Childbirth Education Association, Inc., and Family Life and Maternity Education, Inc.

The conference also featured previews of new childbirth and parenting films.

Eula Hoover, director of conventions and conferences for ICEA, presented workshops on conducting effective business meetings and planning small meetings and workshops.

She and her husband are co-founders of Childbirth Information Service, Inc., a non-profit organization which conducts childbirth education and parenting classes in Grosse Pointe, (Cottage and Bon Secours Hospitals), St. Clair Shores, Mount Clemens, and Warren.

Among other conference speakers were several ICEA officials: Peg Beals, R.N., of Ann Arbor, immediate past-president, Doris Haire, of Hillside, N.J., past-president of ICEA, (1970-72), and president, American Foundation

Volunteers Give DIA 38,841 Hours

The 430 women and men who comprise the Detroit Institute of Arts Volunteer committee, all members of the museum's Founders Society, gave a total of 38,841 hours of service during the 1976-77 year.

Announcement of the total achieved by the volunteers, who contribute their time and skills in virtually every area of the museum, was made by Mrs. Oscar Feldman, their chairman, at the committee's annual meeting held earlier this spring at the DIA.

Mrs. Feldman conducted the morning business session, which included annual reports and service awards and election of officers for the coming year.

Mrs. Feldman was elected to a second year as chairman. Among those assisting her on the volunteers' executive committee will be Pointers Mrs. W. P. Curtis, recording secretary, and Mrs. Kenneth Kurtz, treasurer.

Among those chosen to lead service committees in the coming year are Pointers Mrs. Robert LeFevre and another pair of Pointers: Mrs. Hilary Micou and Mrs. Leon Shilson.

The volunteers enjoyed an unusual musical presentation of melodeclamation by mother-daughter guest artists Edith and Joanne Freeman, before sitting down to luncheon in the Art Institute's Great Hall as guests of the Founders Society.

June Wedding Date Revealed

Vacationing at The Homestead are Dr. and Mrs. Henry H. Sprague, who exchanged marriage vows Saturday, June 11, at a late morning service in the Barbour Chapel of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

Mrs. Sprague, the former Suzanne Reekie Boydell, daughter of Mrs. Sherwood Reekie, of Tonnancour place, and the late Mr. Reekie, was attended by her daughter, Patty Boydell.

Hal Sprague acted as best man for his father, who has been making his home in the Lafayette Towers.

Drs. Ray Kiely and George Andrews officiated at the 11 o'clock ceremony, after which friends and relatives, including several from out-of-town, gathered at the Country Club for a wedding luncheon.

Upon their return, the newlyweds will reside in the bride's Waverly Lane home.

Marge Is Gowanee Golf Ladies' Victor

Winner of the 1977 annual Gowanee Golf Club Ladies Spring Handicap Championship is Marge McEntee, of St. Clair Shores, four times runner-up before her final victory.

This year's runner-up is Audrey Ramge, of Fairholme road.

In the Consolation Flight, Angie Grow, of St. Clair Shores, took top honors, while Barbara Durling, of Detroit, had to forfeit her match.

Engaged

The engagement of BARBARA JEAN MARCUS and Timothy Pierre O'Non has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Marcus, of Manor avenue. An October 15 wedding is planned.

The bride-elect was graduated from Grosse Pointe South High School, attended Western Michigan University and is now a legal secretary.

Her fiancé, son of Mrs. Pierre J. O'Non, of Suttons Bay, and the late Mr. O'Non, is an alumnus of Suttons Bay High School, attended DeVry Institute of Technology and is now associated with Beeby Industries.

Bishop Gallagher High School '76 graduate MARY J. EINHEUSER, daughter of the LEO E. EINHEUSERS, of Allard avenue, and Grosse Pointe South High School '76 graduate KATHRYN B. KIRSCH, daughter of MR. and MRS. JERRY KIRSCH, of Beacon Hill, were among 34 Alma College students studying the theoretical and practical aspects of youth recreation leadership during the college's four-week spring term.

Married in June

HAZEL O. HOLLIS whose late husband, The Reverend Ben J. Hollis, owned the Edelweiss Gardens on the corner of Mack avenue and Vernier road where the A. H. Peters Funeral Home and block of stores now stands, and who founded and served as first pastor of Redeemer United Methodist Church, which originated in Grosse Pointe Woods and is now located in Harper Woods, and JOHN M. ADELMAN whose late wife, Milly Adelman, was an active member of Rebecca Lodge and St. Paul Lutheran Church, were married Saturday, June 4, at a late afternoon ceremony in Lexington United Methodist Church, Lexington, Mich.

Presiding at the 4 o'clock ceremony, which was followed by a reception for 50 guests in the church parlor, was the bride's son, Dr. Joseph H. Hollis, of Lexington, assisted by his brother-in-law, The Reverend N. Donald Cotrone, of Columbus, O. Flora Cotrone played the organ for her mother's wedding.

Grosse Pointe North High School student Gregory S. Hughes gave his grandmother in marriage to his family's Lexington road neighbor. Gregory's mother, Mrs. Floyd E. Hughes, is the third of the bride's three children, and Gregory is one of seven grandchildren.

The bride, in a long, V-necked, pink knit crepe styled with flowing chiffon sleeves, a white tiara in her hair, a silver cross on a silver chain around her neck, carrying a white orchid on a white bible, was attended by granddaughter Pamela M. Hughes whose long, blue crepe dress featured a lace, cape collar. Her flowers were pink carnations.

John A. Adelman came from San Francisco, Calif., to serve as best man for his father, a well-known Grosse Pointe builder, owner of Adelman Lumber in East Detroit and an active member of the Oddfellows Lodge.

The bridegroom also has two daughters, Mrs. Clifford Steggell, of East Detroit, and Mrs. Clifford Rice, of Mount Clemens, and five grandchildren.

Gold vases holding pink rosebuds decorated the altar for the marriage service, after which the guests enjoyed a dinner, including a beautiful wedding cake, prepared by the church ladies' organization.

The bride, who had recently been making her home in South Lyon, and the bridegroom are residing in his home in Lexington road, and plan extensive traveling in the fall.

Cited for Her Service to Red Cross

Among four Pointers honored recently by the Red Cross Southeastern Michigan Chapter for their many years of volunteer and staff service with the organization was MRS. C. HENRY BUHL, pictured receiving a recognition pin for more than 30 years' service from still another Pointer, the Red Cross chapter's board of directors chairman CHARLES W. ELLIOTT. Also cited for more than 30 years' service was Herbert Trix. Donald Hallman received a pin for 25 years' service as a Red Cross volunteer. Sophia Hill received a pin recognizing her more than 35 years as a Red Cross employee.

Mrs. Buhl was first appointed to the chapter's board of directors in 1940. That same year she served as chairman of Production Service, supervising groups of volunteers who made bandages and hospital gowns as part of the war relief effort. She has served numerous terms on the board of directors, of which she is currently a member, and has worked on several committees for the chapter, including the Personnel committee.

Mr. Trix began his volunteer service as a blood program volunteer during World War II. His active participation in Red Cross led him to be elected board chairman of the chapter in 1945, a position he held for two years.

He served as a member of the Red Cross national board of governors from 1947 until 1950.

He was also a member of the chapter's board of directors from 1940 to 1964, and was made a member of the board emeritus in 1974.

Mr. Hallman has been active as a water safety instructor through Red Cross Safety Programs.

Mrs. Hill's 36 years as a Red Cross employee began in 1941, when she was hired as a part-time typist.

Since then she has worked in the purchasing, mail and supply departments at the chapter. She transferred to the Blood Program in 1952.

In 1973 she was promoted to the position of administrative assistant in the Records Department, where she currently works.

Let's Talk Real Estate

by John E. Brink

Some place there was an interesting article about how golf courses were handling the Dutch elm problem with their landscaping. Many of them are now planting as many as 50 and 60 different varieties so they will never be faced with a "wipe out" situation again. The interesting part about the story is how truly beautiful the end result is.

This same beautiful should be every owner's concern also. If we all start now, we could assure ourselves of a calculated appreciation in the value of our home when we decide to sell. The thing that we all overlook is that trees are probably the lowest cost home improvement we can add to our home.

Another way, we at Grosse Pointe Real Estate Co. feel, is our Community Development Program. It will add over 125 beautiful mini parks in all areas of the Pointes! Can you imagine driving through Grosse Pointe as an out of town looking for your new home and seeing these lovely Cul-de-Sacs with their Evergreens and tall trees? Beautiful! This is the season—one like we've never seen before, to sell. Property values are soaring. If you are curious why not call Grosse Pointe Real Estate Co. 882-0087 and see what you might expect from selling your home now. We're sure you will be pleasantly surprised. It's not mandatory that you sell now and smart to know what your assets are worth.

DSO Rehearsal Days Are Offered at Meadow Brook Festival

When Meadow Brook Music Festival experimented last summer with opening a few selected daytime rehearsals of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra to the public, response was all but overwhelming.

"We have scheduled four daytime Open Rehearsals this season," says Leon C.

Petrus, managing director of the Festival, "but to preserve the necessary decorum for effective rehearsal, we are limiting ticket sales to 1,000 for each rehearsal."

The four Open Rehearsals will be supplemented by two Children's Concerts as daytime attractions during the 10-week Meadow Brook Festival season at Baldwin Pavilion on the Oakland University campus. General admission for any of the daytime attractions is $3.

The first of the Open Rehearsals is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, June 29. Aldo Ceccato, in his final season as musical director of the Detroit Symphony, will lead the orchestra through a rehearsal that includes Rossini's "La Gazza Ladra" and Beethoven's Seventh Symphony.

On Tuesday, July 12, eight soloists from the Royal Danish Ballet will present a lecture-demonstration as preparation for their two evening performances that week.

Neville Marriner will direct the rehearsal of Wednesday, July 20, including Mendelssohn's Fourth Symphony and Holst's "The Planets."

The final Open Rehearsal, Wednesday, August 10, will find Otto-Werner Mueller conducting the Detroit Symphony in a program that includes Copland's "Appalachian Spring" and Stravinsky's "Pulcinella Suite."

Open Rehearsals begin at 1:30 o'clock. They are preceded at 1 o'clock by a half-hour lecture on the works to be rehearsed.

"Many who enjoy our daytime rehearsals make a day of it by arriving early enough to picnic on the lawn or dawdle leisurely over a brisk, light salad bar plate that is available on Open Rehearsal days," notes Petrus.

The two Children's Concerts are scheduled for 11 o'clock Saturday, June 25, and Saturday, July 30. They run about an hour.

This Saturday's Children's concert features Philip Greenberg as conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and Kathleen Winkler, violinist, in a program that includes Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro" Overture, Dvorak's "New World Symphony," (excerpts), and the third movement of Mendelssohn's "Violin Concerto."

The July 30 Children's concert, structured around the theme "Penny Candy Suites for the Young Mice," will feature the Mime Ensemble with Tom Aston, artistic director, the Detroit String Quartet, Pastiche Woodwind Quintet and Detroit Symphony Brass Quintet.

Ticket and program information are available from the Festival office, 377-2010.

NOTICE OF HEARING ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS

Notice is hereby given that the Zoning Board of Appeals will meet in the City Hall, 90 Kerby Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, on at 8:00 p.m., to hear the appeal of Mr. William K. Fair of Watkins Harding Company, re- garding the premises located at 18450 Mack Avenue, currently known as "Mr. Lee's Lounge", from the denial of the Building De- partment to issue a Permit for the renovation of the first and second floors of the building located at the foregoing address. Such Permit issuance was denied for reason that sufficient off-street parking would not be available on the property to meet the requirements of the City's Zoning Ordinance. The petitioner is re- questing that the Zoning Board of Appeals determine that there will be sufficient public parking facilities available reasonably nearby to serve the property under Section 1504. Eighteen (18) parking spaces are required ac- cording to building use criteria under Section 1504, Item 9 of the City's Zoning Ordinance, whereas the plan of proposed renovation pro- vides for no parking spaces.

The Hearing will be public. Interested property owners or residents of the City are invited to attend.

NOTICE OF HEARING ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS

Notice is hereby given that the Zoning Board of Appeals will meet in the City Hall at 90 Kerby Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, on at 8:00 p.m. to hear the appeal of Mr. Robert L. Gotfredson, owner of the premises located at 270 Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

Monday, July 11, 1977

Mr. Gotfredson hereby requests that the City Council, sitting as the Board of Zoning Appeals, grant a variance with respect to said property, as more fully set forth below.

Mr. Gotfredson proposes to develop the rear portion of said property into two addi- tional buildable lots. The proposed easterly lot would be located at the rear-most portion of his property and its dimensions are pro- posed to be 95 feet along his southerly and northerly property line by 138.58 feet along his easterly property line. The proposed adjacent lot to the west would be irregular in shape, and its dimensions are proposed to be 141 feet along his southerly property line to 90 feet along his northerly property line by 138.58 feet in depth. A copy of the plan is on file with the City Clerk. This plan contemplates the use of a private road easement with a right-of-way of twenty (20) feet in width located along the southerly property line of the proposed westerly lot.

Mr. Gotfredson respectfully requests that the Council approve a variance in the width of the right-of-way for the private road of twenty (20) feet, rather than fifty (50) feet as provided in Article II, Section 201, sub-paragraph 54 of the Zoning Ordinance.

The hearing will be public. Interested property owners or residents of the City are invited to attend.

ELIZABETH PARCELLS, OF CLOVERLY ROAD

By Janet Mueller

She sings because she can. "If you can, you almost inevitably have the will to," says Elizabeth Parcells, coloratura soprano, finalist, (she placed third), in the 1977 Metropolitan Opera auditions. "From a pastime, it almost becomes an obsession."

Her mother concurs, adding that if you sing, you sing almost from the day you are born. Elizabeth, according to Fran Parcells, "played with noises" as a baby.

So did Fred, one down from Betsy in the six-rung Charles A. Parcells, Jr., Child Ladder, and Fred's a jazz trombonist.

All six siblings are musical, actually, but it's Elizabeth for whom music is, and always has been, life. And music, for Elizabeth, is singing.

There's what she calls the "ugly duckling" voice, the pre- and post-puberty croak that does a complete turn around at 20 or so. Many young people, loving and wanting music but aware of what they sound like when they try to sing, turn to instruments to express themselves. Then the ugly duckling turns into a swan.

Voice Is Preferred "I've known plenty of instrumentalists who started off with an 'ugly duckling' voice. No matter how good they are, if the voice comes, they invariably give up their instruments in favor of voice."

Case in point: Betsy's own Boston roommate, one of the finest young violinists on the East Coast, who's singing now, her viola put aside.

"I've never," adds Elizabeth, "heard of a singer doing the opposite." She didn't have the ugly duckling syndrome. She went into the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church Choir as an 11-year-old. "I'd have gone in sooner, but they didn't want the older kids to beat me up," she laughs. It's unlikely that "the older kids" would have turned physical, but Malcolm and Marian Johns, wise in the ways of children as well as music, advised waiting for the appropriate age group.

For seven years, Betsy sang faithfully with the Memorial Church choir. "Mac and Marian Johns were the best thing that ever happened to me," The Johnses, in charge of music programs at Memorial Church, (they're at Old Christ Church now), are not only well-known but well-knowing in the world of music. Betsy couldn't have found better advisors.

Wanted Formal Study At 13 or so, she decided she wanted to study voice. "I didn't understand the discipline part at all. I was suspicious, but a anxious to learn," Mac Johns said no, not yet . . . formal study should wait until Betsy was past 16: a too-young voice can be ruined by too-early training.

So Betsy waited, and when she was ready, the Johnses helped persuade Elsie Inselman to take on her very first music student: Elizabeth Parcells.

Betsy studied with Elsie for a little over a year. "I was at Liggett then. I was a very poor student most of the time; I even failed math once. Liggett was geared for college prep, and I knew I didn't want to go to college."

But Betsy wasn't unhappy at Liggett. She recognized its discipline as good for her, and she found a sport. "Athletics were the big thing at Liggett. I was no athlete, but fortunately I could play basketball; you didn't have to run." Elizabeth Parcells became an expert at delivering a well-placed ball from a stationary position.

She's still no competitive athlete, but left to her own devices, with nobody clocking her, she loves to get on a horse and ride, get in the water and swim. "I even went out and bought a bike."

Must Keep in Shape Not only does she like to keep physically active, it's important as a singer that she do so. She has to keep in shape. "A singer must have a good heart, a good set of lungs—and nerves of steel!"

She finds athletics, especially out in the country, good for her serenity.

Eventually, Betsy forsok Liggett in favor of the Interlochen Arts Academy. "I hated to leave home that early, but I decided it was the only thing to do."

She spent two summers at the National Music Camp and her senior year at the Academy, and loved it. She gave her first recital as a pupil of Janice Harsanyi. "It wasn't long, but it was the first I'd ever done, and it's probably the hardest thing I've ever done." Firsts are always difficult, the consolation being that they never come around again: with The First behind you, you're a veteran.

Betsy received her Bachelor's degree with honors from the New England Conservatory in 1974, and was elected to Pi Kappa Lambda. She fell in love with Boston on her first visit there. "It's a very eccentric town, and that appealed to me, because I'm eccentric."

A Desert Environment She spent her first two Boston years in a dormitory. "The only animals I ever saw were pigeons. There wasn't a tree in sight of the building. I missed autumn two years in a row."

"But I got a LOT of work done." She stood dormitory life as long as she could, then, having served her time, moved to an apartment. She's just given up her apartment in Boston, and is currently headquartered at her parents' Cloverly road home, which she'll use as a base of operations as she pursues her career.

Nine months ago, that career was in a stall. "It was a slow year in Boston. In the fall, I mostly sat around."

"I got no gigs over Christmas—I didn't do so much as a 'Messiah'—and I sat around wondering where I'd gone wrong."

For Elizabeth Parcells had a strong, solid background. She'd been soloist with the New England Conservatory Chorus under Lorna Cooke DeVaron, the Conservatory Orchestra and the Contemporary Music Ensemble under Gunther Schuller, the Collegium Musicum under Daniel Pinkham and the Opera Theater under David Bartholomew.

Boston Knows Her

She'd done a lot of concert work in and around Boston. She was a regular soloist at King's Chapel under Dan Pinkham, and had appeared as soloist with the Handel and Haydn Society under Thomas Dunn, the Cecilia Society under Donald Teeters, the Cambridge Society for Early Music under Iva Dee Hiatt, the Brandeis Choral, the Concord Symphony, the Master works Choral under Allen Lannom and the Boston Pops under Arthur Fiedler.

She'd sung extensively in the Detroit area, too, performing with, among others, the Grosse Pointe Symphony. She'd gotten good reviews, including her first mention in the "New York Times," which praised her "superbly articulated, precisely pitched performance" at Tanglewood in Betsy Jolas' "Quatour II." She'd first gone to Tanglewood, for a Phyllis Curtin Seminar, in 1974. She was there last summer as a Vocal Fellow, performing on the Fromm Foundation new music concert series. She received the Hi-Fi Musical America Award for her work there.

She'd come in second, in 1975 and 1976, in the Metropolitan Opera New England Regional Auditions. Betsy had had it with the Met's New England Regional Auditions—she wasn't about to come in second for the third time—so she decided to tackle the Grinnell Competition in Detroit. She'd been hearing about the Grinnell all her life. Her first teacher, Elsie Inselman, was a former Grinnell winner . . .

A Slew of Seconds "So I tried for the Grinnell. And I pulled second again! Very frustrating, but there was a light at the end of this tunnel: Betsy was chosen to represent the Detroit area in the Met's Great Lakes Regional Auditions. "I went into it with a chip on my shoulder," she admits. "If I pulled second AGAIN . . ."

She won. And winning threw a monkey wrench into Betsy's career works, for she hadn't planned on it; after the long, cold winter, things were looking up. "I had gigs in Boston: recitals, a concert in a church . . . I had to cancel everything." It was worth it, for Elizabeth Parcells was one of 11 finalists selected in New York from among 23 semi-finalists in the Met's 1977 Auditions. "It was like Christmas. Just to make the finals meant everything. Those kids were so close; they were the creme de la creme: choosing among them was like choosing between apples and pears."

As a finalist, Betsy automatically received a $2,000 Met Opera Guild Scholarship. As third place winner, she captured the $3,000 Fredrick A. Stoughton Prize.

Right to Return She also has the right to come back at six month intervals to sing before the professional committee at the Met, to audition for study and travel grants.

She's a busy girl this summer. She was in town last month to sing Mozart's Credo Mass at Christ Church, Grosse Pointe, during the American Three Choir Festival and convention of the Association of Anglican Musicians.

Grosse Pointe North High School graduate WANDA DOERNER, daughter of the EDWARD DOERNERS, of Country Club drive, is among Adrian College students named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." Wanda was scheduled to receive her Bachelor of Arts

She's coming back to town at the end of next month for "another one of Fred DeHaven's spectaculars." Mr. DeHaven, organist and choirmaster at Christ Church, will conduct principal players of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and guest soloist Elizabeth Parcells in "An Evening with Bach," final program in this year's Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival, July 27 at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

She's local now, preparing for the concert she'll give with James Winn, pianist, and fellow Pointer Liz Gregory, flutist, Friday and Sunday at Phelps Guest Weekend at Huron City, repeating the program Wednesday, June 29, at 8 o'clock at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

"Basically, it's what I would call a 'museum gig,'" Betsy explains. Huron City is the pioneer lumber town at the tip of Michigan's Thumb restored by Betsy's grandmother, Mrs. Russell H. (Carolyn Hubbard Parcells) Lucas. Huron City has been the Parcells Vacation Compound for years. Betsy knows it well.

To Blend, Not Clash "I'm trying not to clash with the atmosphere, so the music I've chosen is pretty much nostalgia: coloratura-type warhorses, a little English thing by Sir Henry Bishop."

"In a way, it's Women's History. In the past, women from 'good families' couldn't go on the stage, into the world, so a lot of their self-expression came by way of parlor soirees."

Times change. Betsy's family is certainly "good." As far as her career goes, they couldn't be more sup-

"The Met's important, too. I feel very confident about my education. Sure, I have misgivings sometimes, but I honestly think I have as good a chance as any to make it in music."

"The future is still sort of a big question mark, but if I can get on the stage and perform . . ."
