

Detours . . .

They've become an all-too familiar sight for drivers in Grosse Pointe Woods during the last few weeks and the headache is likely to continue for some time, according to officials.

Several Woods streets have been blocked off for repairs and new construction under the largest street repair program in the city's history, according to Administrator Chester Petersen.

The most visible project is work at the Mack-Vernier intersection (where the picture at right was taken). Because of two traffic fatalities at that corner, the city has obtained a Federal Highway Safety Grant to completely redesign the intersection.

In the meantime, traffic flow in the east and west bound lanes of Vernier is being realigned. The turning radii off both directions of Mack are being widened so large trucks and buses can turn more easily. The sidewalks next to Parcels Middle School are being moved farther from the street and the entire intersection is being resurfaced and its traffic lights retimed. In addition, a double turn-around cut is being added to the Mack Island.

Petersen expects construction to be complete by September when school starts again. Until then, residents will have to tolerate detours that route both east and west bound traffic onto the east bound side of Vernier.

At the same time several side streets are blocked by construction, including Charlevoix, between Anita and Hampton, and Gothe between the same two streets.

Sunningdale is blocked at Vernier to route traffic away from the Mack-Vernier construction.

The total cost of this summer's street projects in the Woods is more than $500,000. The city has hired four cement contractors and three asphalt companies to do the work.

Petersen said the city is getting all its street work done at once. "We kind of saved up our money to let all these contracts at one time," he said.

Woods disputes population drop

By Joanne Goulecho

Grosse Pointe Woods City Administrator Chester Petersen charged this week that the 1980 census figures recently released for his community were off as much as 20 percent.

"We are going to make an official challenge to the figures. We haven't completed our check yet, but the figures appear to be 20 percent off as far as we are concerned," Petersen said.

Rough census information was sent to city administrators earlier this month for their review to insure accuracy and success of the 1980 count.

Locally, the figures showed a 12.4 percent decline in total population for all five Grosse Pointe cities. Grosse Pointe Shores was the only community which experienced population growth.

Ford House opens for pianists

Grosse Pointe's most celebrated mansion, the 60-room Edsel & Eleanor Ford House on Lakeshore road, will be open to the general public for the first time ever on August 11 for a concert featuring the piano team of Cameron Grant and James Winn.

The musical event is a special send-off for the artists who will soon travel to Munich, Germany to compete in the International Duo Piano Competition in September.

This will be Grant and Winn's second appearance in Grosse Pointe. Last winter they entertained in a two-piano concert at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

The duo will perform in the Gallery of the Ford House, which was donated for cultural, charitable and community events by the late Mrs. Ford when she died in 1976.

THE HOUSE, located on 65 acres of lakeshore property, has been maintained almost exactly as Mrs. Ford left it and is financed by a $15 million endowment.

Admission to the August 11 concert is open to the public, but by reservation only. Tickets are $3 per person ($5 per couple) and are limited to 140. To reserve a seat, call 885-3300. The concert will begin at 8 p.m. and the gate at 1100 Lakeshore will open at 7:30.

The concert is presented by Great Lakes Performing Artist Associates and the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House. A reception will follow the performance.

PETERSEN SAID the census household and population count doesn't add up to the number of park passes the city has issued. Communities can demand a recheck if they support their claims with detailed evidence, according to the bureau.

"After cross-checking with our water billings, we think we can substantiate the challenge," Petersen said.

City administrators are particularly concerned that the figures are accurate so they may receive their fair share of federal and state-shared revenues.

Petersen said the Woods receives more than $1 million in such funds each year based on the census data. The figures also may be used to reapportion state and county electoral districts.

According to census figures, the count for Pointe communities reveal:

• City, an 11.7 percent decrease, from 6,637 to 5,858.

• Farms, a 10.4 decrease, from 11,701 to 10,486.

Draft office does brisk business

By Elsa Frohman

During the first two days of draft registration last week, the Grosse Pointe Branch of the U.S. Post Office registered more young men than any other post office in the Detroit area. The office, located on Mack at Moross accepted approximately 200 forms on Monday and Tuesday, July 21 and 22.

Aside from a few scattered demonstrations during the week, the registration has been proceeding in an orderly manner. Men born in 1960 registered from July 21 through July 26, and those born in 1961 registered from July 28 through August 1. The young men showing up at the station show little of the anti-draft sentiments that made the draft registrations of the 1960s so painful.

DAVID WALKER, a 19-year-old graduate of Grosse Pointe South filled out and turned in his card Thursday. He said he thought the registration plan is meaningless.

"It is supposed to save time if the need to raise an army arises," he said. "I don't think it will save any time, they already know who and where we are."

Carl Vogler dropped into the Grosse Pointe Post Office Thursday and registered even though he is a Detroit resident. He was shopping at the Seven and Mack shopping center and decided to kill two birds with one stone. He said he had no objection to draft registration.

"I don't mind as long as it is just registration," he said. "Just as long as they don't get the idea that because they have all these people on the rolls they can go and start a war."

Vogler went on to say he wouldn't mind fighting to defend the United States.

"I think the United States is worth fighting for," he said. "I'd probably be upset if I was just called up to mess around for two years."

Employees at the Grosse Pointe Post Office declined to comment on the registration procedure. Charles Schwab, the Detroit area Selective Service coordinator for the post office said that the registration has been going about as planned.

Race for Nedzi's Seat Tops Tuesday's Ballot

By Gregory Jakub

For the first time in 19 years, voters in Tuesday's primary election will not see the name "Lucien N. Nedzi" on the ballot under Democratic candidates for the 14th District.

Instead, the approximately 25 percent of registered voters who vote in primaries will be faced with 12 names—eight Democrats and four Republicans—who have designs on Washington, D.C.

Also, for the first time since Nedzi took office, Grosse Pointe Republicans may have a chance to send one of their candidates to Congress.

"NEDZI WAS A unique individual," Jim Pyrros, Nedzi's long-time administrative aide said, referring to the congressman's ability to maintain his popularity among the diverse populace of the 14th district.

Because of Nedzi's crossover appeal, Pyrros agrees with political experts who say that his seat could be claimed by a Republican who makes all the right campaign moves in the heavily Democratic 14th District.

"The seat has been a Nedzi seat, not a Democratic seat," Pyrros said.

The Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods, which make up about 40 percent of the district's Republicans, may well determine who the Republican nominee will be.

Republican front runners appear to be Vic Caputo, former TV-2 personality and Grosse Pointe Shores resident, and Pointer John Lauve who works for Cadillac Motor's quality control division and has been politically active in the Pointes for 10 years.

Pyrros said that Nedzi is familiar with all the leading candidates but will not endorse anyone until after the primary.

Five other cities—East Detroit, Warren, Centerline, Hamtramck, and part of Detroit—comprise the 14th District which includes lakefront mansions, blue collar neighborhoods, and the most Polish-Americans of any Congressional district in the country.

It is not surprising then that Nedzi's plans to retire and pursue a new career have produced colorful campaigns that emphasize images over issues.

CONSIDER THE following:

• Political lawn signs, a long-standing tradition in the Warren-Centerline portion of the 14th District, have caught on in the east side of the district and Grosse Pointe. Most candidates are using lawn signs, but their number is not really an accurate barometer of who may be leading the race. A drive down Whittier will impress the name of State Rep. Dennis Hertel on your subconscious while a trip down Cadieux does the same for State Sen. John Kelly. Both are top contenders for the Democratic nomination.

• On a larger scale, billboards have popped up throughout the district and reveal some candidates' campaign strategies. Kelly's billboards duplicate his orange-on-green lawn signs—the color scheme used in his successful

1978 Senate campaign. Republican Caputo is considered to have a good chance at winning the nomination because of his wide exposure as a TV personality. His billboards offer a simple message: "Vic Caputo for Congress—It makes sense."

• Republican Lauve has literally taken his campaign to the streets by enlisting several vans which transport huge "Lauve for Congress" signs throughout the district.

Signs are an important factor in any community based campaign as are endorsements and 14th District candidates have begun racking up theirs.

CIVIC SEARCHLIGHT, a non-partisan rating agency, last week designated Kelly and Hertel as preferred and well qualified. Other Democrats, Helen Irving, 14th District Democratic

August 5 vote to decide fate of Wayne County

By Dean Brierly

Wayne County voters could take the first step toward reorganization of county government when they go to the polls in the Tuesday, August 5, primary to decide the fate of Proposal A.

If passed, the proposal will establish a commission to draw up a new home rule charter to govern the county. Charter commissioners will be nominated from each of the 27 districts. In the Pointes, nine candidates are seeking the two nominations for the First District seat.

Final selections of charter commissioners will take place on the November 4 general election. That ballot will also ask voters to approve a 3 mill tax increase, from the present 15 mills up to 18. The increased revenue would benefit townships, school districts, Wayne County Community College and the county's general fund.

Following the November 4 election, 27 charter commissioners would draw up two charters to restructure the county, identical except for the provision of a county executive. One charter would call for an executive elected by the voters of the county and the other would specify a manager appointed by the board of commissioners and subject only to removal by cause.

THE VOTERS will eventually be able to choose one or the other of the charters, vote them both down, or send them back to the charter commission for revision and subsequent resubmission to the voters.

Both charters, however, will have provisions for the following measures:

• Allow the charter commission to combine or eliminate many existing officials and department heads.

• Provide for the abolition of many existing offices, boards, commissions or departments.

Tax cut is issue for state seat

By Susan McDonald

On the ballot at least, State Rep. William Bryant, Jr., is facing the very conservative Republican Pat Higgins in Tuesday's primary election.

But in campaign speeches and releases, Grosse Pointe's veteran representative appears to be attacking a more distant threat than the 43-year-old dental hygienist who's after his job.

BRYANT'S PRIMARY concern has been taxes, and the looming battle over property tax limitation inspired by the Tisch proposal.

As Republican leader in the House, Bryant, 42, is acutely aware of the state's gloomy financial picture and its expected deficit, caused in part by a state unemployment rate approaching 15 percent. He's taken a strong stand against Tisch and has spent a great deal of time and words in recent campaign appearances attacking the proposal.

His opponent Mrs. Higgins, supports the proposal, which would cut

Correction

The News inaccurately reported in last week's edition that Superintendent William Coats would be placed on sick leave during the first year of a contract recently offered to him by the University of Michigan's school of education. The school has, in fact, offered to give Coats a leave of absence (not sick leave) for one year so he can serve as Grosse Pointe's superintendent full-time for the 1980-81 school year, before joining the university staff as a professor. Coats has not yet announced if he will accept or reject the job offer and is expected to do so within a few weeks.

Charges dropped against Coins & Stamps employes

Charges of receiving and concealing stolen property were dismissed against three employes of a local coins and stamps shop last week after two of the prosecution's witnesses failed to appear in Wayne County Circuit Court.

The three employes, Richard Spieske and William Stockwell, both 33, and Don Fryer, 55, were arrested on the charges this past April after local juveniles told City police they were selling stolen coins and jewelry to Coins & Stamps, 17658 Mack.

The youths admitted taking the valuables from Grosse Pointe homes when they were arrested in mid-March after trying to sell a stolen watch chain to a local hair salon owner.

One of the youths later testified in City Municipal Court that Spieske gave him $87 for three silver dollars. Another youth testified that Stockwell paid him $16 for a gold ring after examining it.

Coins & Stamps owner William Fiskus was not charged in the scheme.

City police made their arrest when they visited the coins and stamps shop along with one of the juveniles, who pointed out the gold ring in a "junk box" as the one he had sold earlier to the coin dealer.

The trio was later indicted on two charges of receiving and concealing stolen goods and on one count of conspiracy and were bound over for trial July 22.

Stockwell of Detroit, Spieske of Fraser, and Fryer of St. Clair Shores have no prior criminal records.

City Detective Sgt. John Drummond said no charges will be sought against the witnesses, all juveniles, who didn't appear in court last week.

7,500 Attend GPF Regatta Weekend

Threatening weather and an earth tremor notwithstanding, an enthusiastic crowd of approximately 7,500 joined in the fun and games of the Grosse Pointe Boat Club's annual regatta weekend.

Saturday morning saw Sonny Gorenflo sail to a first place finish in the PHRF A category of the sailboat races with Gary Vasher taking second.

In the PFRB class, Rich Schrage beat out the Laitner-Colby combination for the first prize. The JAM class went to Ed Franks with Gary Dysert and Bob Chapelle taking second and third. The centerboard class trophy went to B. Brieden as S. Davis took second and D. Hadden third.

Under Carney Johnson's direction, the Decorated Bike and Trike contest was once again divided into two categories. In the amateur division, Kathy and Donnie Pierce took first place with their "Raggedy Ann and Andy." Michelle Smith took second with "Miss Piggy" and Ann Krapman placed third with "Annie's Farm."

In the semi-pro class, David Asker and Jeannie, Kathy and Mike Schrage teamed up to win as "Mr. Kool-Aid," a three-bike combination. Second place went to Brodie Brockie as "COP Elephant." Third place was taken by Sarah Huthwaite as "Kermit the Frog."

The afternoon's activities consisted of running races, a nuckle scramble and three-legged races under the direction of Clark Johnson and Peter Frame. More than 80 couples participated in the water balloon toss, which was won by the Greg Chowders. Liz Bojalad and Jim Hastings came in second.

A new event this year was the two-man life raft race. The course ran from the Farms' boat house, around the pier and down to the swimming beach.

With Peter Frame timing the event, the winning team of Karen and Jim Kolp was just one second ahead of Lissa Dunohoo and Tom Hampton.

The annual Miss Grosse Pointe Farms Pageant was won this year by Susan Smale. Mary Sue Stonisch was runner-up. Smale's court includes Gina Bartoszewicz, Julie Burns, Annmarie Monahan, Dorie Carlan, Pam Hughes and Susan Mezger. Last year's winner Kathy Connell was on hand to crown the new queen.

Sunday morning a parade of antique cars, modern fire engines, a Dixieland band and the Plymouth Fire and Drum Corps wound its way from the Kroger parking lot down to the Pier Park.

Wayne County sheriff William Lucas and undersheriff Loren Pittman joined a contingent of Farms city officials in the parade. At the reviewing stand, Farms Boat Club Commodore Jerry Austerberry welcomed the guests and past commodore Jerry Malooly introduced the dignitaries and officers.

Wrapping up the weekend's activities was an exhibition of synchronized swimming by the Grosse Pointe Swim Team and a raffle drawing for a video tape recorder won by Vincent Lewis.

Summer Music Festival Hosts Leonard Pennario

By Irene Moran

It was due to pianist Leonard Pennario that the extraordinary Pennario-Staples-Chanteaux Trio was heard on July 16 in the Fries Auditorium of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Center.

Last summer Pennario made his Grosse Pointe debut with the Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival. The trio was born when, together socially one evening, Pennario took his place at the piano, violinist Gordon Staples and cellist Marcy Chanteaux unpacked their instruments and did some impromptu playing together.

At the War Memorial concert the trio opened the program with Beethoven's Trio No. 4 in D Major, Opus 74, "The Ghost." The program included Trio No. 1 in B-flat, Opus 99, D. 898, by Schubert and Trio No. 1 in D minor, Opus 48, by Mendelssohn.

Pennario has played with virtually all the world's major orchestras and is a frequent soloist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. He is no stranger to Grosse Pointe. A Life Master at bridge-playing, he manages to join friends at the War Memorial tournaments about once a year. His stays are spent in the Grosse Pointe home of Philip Leon, an ardent supporter and promoter of the music festival, and also, an avid bridge-player.

"I feel as though Grosse Pointe is my second home," said Pennario, "and I enjoy the beauty of its ambience."

Staples, a well-know violinist, has been concertmaster of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra since 1968. He joined the orchestra in 1955 and has been featured frequently as soloist with the DSO. The festival was founded in 1958 by Alexander C. Sucek, but not without the inspiration and assistance of Staples, who was then part of the performing chamber groups.

Chanteaux joined the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in 1970 and was the orchestra's official pianist and recently was given the post of assistant principal cellist. Her cello studies have been with Ernst Silberstein, principal with the Cleveland Orchestra and Samuel Mayes, a principal in both the Boston Symphony and Philadelphia Orchestra.

The Trio's chamber recital was the third in a series of five concerts presented by the Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival, sponsored by the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association.

GPW Police Okay Pact

A contract agreement between the Grosse Pointe Woods Police Officers Association and the city was approved last week by the Woods Council.

The contract is for the 1980-81 fiscal year and involves 36 patrolmen and three corporals. All received a nine percent salary increase bringing patrolmen up to $24,000 and corporals up to $25,680, according to Officer Patrick Fagan, president of the Woods' Police Officers Association.

Life insurance coverage which corresponds to salary level was increased by approximately $5,000, Fagan said.

An improved pension option was also bargained in which offers deferred compensation at the time of retirement.

Added to the contract's existing Blue Cross coverage is a prescription rider and major medical coverage for retirees and spouses, Fagan said.

Still under negotiation is a 24-hour work schedule, similar to one used in the City, whereby officers would work 24-hour shifts followed by 24-hours off. If such a schedule is agreed on, it will be included in the final agreement, Fagan said.

He added that negotiations will continue this week, possibly for a future multi-year contract.

Blood Drive at War Memorial

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial Center and the Red Cross are sponsoring a blood drive at the center's Fries Ballroom, Thursday, August 7, from 2 to 8 p.m.

The Red Cross has emphasized the greater need for blood donations due to the recent storm which has depleted supplies.

Most adults between the ages of 18 and 60, except for pregnant women and those with a history of heart disease, are eligible to give blood.

Appointments should be made in advance, to eliminate waiting, at the center office, 32 Lakeshore, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Saturday. Appointment cards may also be filled out at various churches and Pointe organizations participating in the Grosse Pointe Blood Council.

Babysitters and rides will be provided to donors where necessary.

Mrs. Shirley Goolsby, in charge of the volunteer effort, is assisted by the Grosse Pointe Woman's Club. It is hoped that 200 pints of blood will be given during this campaign.

One may give to any individual or organization specified.

Donors should avoid a heavy meal prior to contributing.

"Good Bight" Wins Coveted Mackinac 'Pickle Boat' Honor

W.B. Rabe
Sundance won the Port Huron to Mackinac Island Yacht Race in 44 hours, 9 minutes and 8 seconds corrected time and was given a cloth pennant.

Good Bight's crew, whose saga covered the same course but took five calendar days ending Wednesday, July 23, gathered in a jar of pickles, a fresh copy of the morning newspaper, six pounds of Ryba's fudge, and an invitation to breakfast at the Grand Hotel combined with a radio interview by WJR radio's J. P. McCarthy.

Don Shumaker, Good Bight's skipper, blamed his tardiness on the crew's inability to pronounce "Siachail," the next-to-last boat they beat by five hours in the crawl to the finish line, thus earning the traditional "Pickle Boat" designation as the last of 288 starters to finish.

He declined the radio interview and traditional Grand Hotel breakfast of strawberries and whipped cream and eggs benedict saying "we must hasten to Chicago to lose this weekend's Chicago to Mackinac race."

The Bayview Yacht Club race committee was not surprised that Good Bight finished last because they didn't even know the boat had started the race.

Good Bight's crew said they knew they had the boat on course whenever they saw the stern-lettering "Siachail" looming ahead through fog, mist, thunderstorms, high seas, dead calms and illuminations by lightning bolts. ("We had every kind of weather," Shumaker said, "except snow.")

"Unfortunately," the skipper complained, "none of the lookouts speak Gaelic and consequently were unable to pronounce Siachail. They simply couldn't shout to the helmsman, 'Siachail quarter mile off port bow' so he could set his course."

(According to owner Brian Geraghty, it's pronounced "Sea shell.")

Their menu also slowed them down because it required a freezer, ice box, full range, toaster, blender, grille and hot and cold showers for the cook.

This menu - prepared by and named for crew wives - included chicken cordon bleu with wild rice, spaghetti Debbie with mushrooms, quiche Dayna, brownies Val, beef stroganoff with garlic bread, and nine and one-half cases of beer for the six crew members.

According to the crew, they didn't serve wine "because we didn't want to seem effete."

Crew members have won awards on other boats, including third overall in the 1977 Lake St. Clair and Bill Drexler's Boat of the Year in the Western Great Lakes series.

Crew member Jed Mooney said he believed the skipper, a Grosse Pointe architect, would write off the entire MacArthur's Stand Alone Maj. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, who served in the Civil War, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur of World War II fame, are the only father and son ever to have received the Medal of Honor.

trip as a tax deduction because he "sat on the foredeck most of his watches sketching building plans he was supposed to present to a client today."

The crew included another architect; a dealer ("Not poker; boats"); the skipper's son, Dan, a medical student and boat physician who removed the stitches from the cordon bleu; and another son, "Harry Truman," who is a business administration student at Central Michigan University. He declined to give his real name.

The crew has sailed together for several years and Skipper Shumaker plans to use them all in the next race. "I don't want to break up an award-winning team," Shumaker said.

Editor's note: This dispatch was hand carried from Mackinac Island by a tourist who received it on the Star Line dock from the writer. It is, as readers will note, several days late since the tourist apparently did not drive to Grosse Pointe, but ran the entire way carrying the article in a cleft stick. However, since the article concerns a boat which finished the Port Huron to Mackinac Island Yacht Race two days late, a little tardiness in publication seems appropriate.

Voters May Launch Wayne County Reorganization August 4

● Permit a reduction in the number of county commissioners to a number not less than five.
● Provide that reorganization will not decrease the revenues of the county or change allocations, formulas or distribution of millages and that all existing millages shall continue.

In addition, the three-member road commission would be appointed by the executive and could be removed at his pleasure. The board of commissioners would lose most of its administrative and executive functions and exist basically as a legislative body.

All the measures will be directed at correcting many problems charged to the present county structure which have accumulated over the years—charges of duplication and overlapping of services and responsibilities, a lack of coordination between departments, too many county commissioners answerable to no one but their constituents, department heads overspending on the budgets allocated to them, and no centralized control over county functions in general.

In addition, a report recently released by the Citizens Research Council of Michigan charges that salaries for county employees are significantly higher than for employees in similar jobs and of similar ability working for the city of Detroit and in private business.

THE STRONGEST concern is over the issue of the executive to run the new county structure. An elected executive would have more power than an appointed manager and might constitute a rival power base to that of Detroit Mayor Coleman Young.

However, Sen. John Kelly, who introduced the reorganization bill, and several of the candidates for charter commission, say an appointed manager would be a professional administrator, rather than a politician, and say he or she would be better suited to manage what Kelly calls "an increasingly sophisticated county government."

An executive would be in charge veto power including a line-item veto over appropriations, something the appointed manager would not have. Otherwise, the duties and powers of both would be identical.

An executive would be in charge of supervising all county departments except those headed by elected officials—the prosecuting attorney, sheriff, treasurer, clerk and register of deeds, although the last two could be combined into one office.

The executive would also be responsible for preparing and submitting the budget to the board of commissioners and appointing, supervising and removing at his pleasure all non-elected department heads, members of boards and commissioners.

As a result of its problems, the county has been operating at a deficit for three consecutive years. This year, it is expected to face a deficit of around $20 million. The county earlier this year went before the Municipal Finance Commission in search of a $22 million loan and a $5.4 million note. Since the county would still have come up $7 million short, both were denied.

At this point, Gov. Milliken stated that no further state aid would reach the county until extensive reorganization had taken place. Eventually, Kelly drafted legislation which was later approved by both the House and the Senate detailing a reorganization plan for the county.

OF THE NINE candidates competing for the First District seat to represent Grosse Pointe, five are Republicans and four are Democrats. With the exception of one Detroit resident, all reside in the Pointes.

All nine agree that reorganization is needed to turn the county's financial difficulties around, but don't all agree on how the new charter should best be written to accomplish that. Interviews with seven of those candidates are on pages five and six of this week's News.

On the Democratic side, three of the candidates responded to the interviews. Jane Stevens, 23, of Blairmoor court in the Woods, is a former employee of the county, working for the register of deeds and the medical examiner. She is single and a student at the University of Detroit Law School. A North High graduate, Stevens has been endorsed by the UAW and the Central Citizens Committee.

Anita Jordan McIntyre, 33, of Edgemont Park drive in the Park, also worked for the county, from 1969 to 1974 in the Health Department. McIntyre is a 1969 graduate of Smith College and 1975 graduate of the University of Detroit Law School. She is presently a visiting associate professor at the Detroit College of Law.

Edward R. Wilson, 39, of Hollywood road in the Woods, is principal attorney with the Wayne County prosecutor's office, a position he's held since 1976. Wilson was formerly an assistant prosecuting attorney with the county from 1971 to 1974. A graduate of the Harvard law school and University of Detroit law school, Wilson is also a member of the Michigan and American Bar Associations. Erma J. Allen lives on Courville road in Detroit.

Of the Republican candidates, four were able to interview with the News. Barbara B. Gattorn, 43, of Lochmoor road in the Shores, is a member of the New Detroit Urban Resources Committee and the sub-committee on Wayne County Reorganization. She is working on a business/economics degree at the University of Detroit and is the assistant treasurer of the League of Catholic Women and was the 1979 co-chairperson of the Torch Drive. Gattorn previously ran against County Commissioner Ervin A. Steiner for his position.

Leonard C. Jaques, 52, of Lakeshore road in the Shores, is a lawyer with the Jaques Admiralty law firm. He attended the Washington College of Law of the American University in the District of Columbia.

Anne O'Hara, 49, of Hampton road in the Shores, has a long history of Wayne County employment, beginning with her first appointment by then Gov. G. Mennen Williams as the Common Pleas Court official court recorder from 1955 to 1959. She has had four appointments since then, the last one as official court reporter of Probate Court by Judge Willis F. Ward, a position she still retains. O'Hara has reported on county board of supervisors hearings, zoning hearings and election hearings.

Randy R. DuFour, 34, of Yorkshir road in the Park, was an Administrative Analyst with the Board of Wayne County Auditors from 1973 to 1975. He received a Master of Health Services Administration from the University of Michigan school of public health and a bachelor of science degree in psychology from Wayne State University.

Republican Terrence J. Kosky, lives on Renaud road in the Woods.

Tax Cuts

property assessments by more than half and limit growth of property valuations to two percent a year.

"Sure, Tisch has been called radical and drastic, but no one's ever tried it before, that's why it has a chance," Mrs. Higgins explained in a recent interview. "You just have to take money away from these politicians. Cutting taxes is good business, but nobody wants to do it because it means giving up their share of the pie."

MRS. HIGGINS thinks the proposal has a "good chance" of succeeding when it goes before voters in the November election.

Bryant is not quite so sure Tisch will pass, but in the meantime, he's doing all he can to debunk the tax cut proposal, including helping hammer out an alternative ballot question for the November election that will cut property taxes at least $100,000 million a year. State and local revenues would be made up, by a 1.5 percent increase in sales tax, under the proposal which was signed by Gov. William Milliken this week.

Bryant finds the Tisch amendment "impossible and far too drastic." He claims that under Tisch, cities such as Grosse Pointe Woods, would lose 42 percent of their revenue in one year, without state reimbursement.

While Mrs. Higgins does not dispute that claim, she said local and state programs that are not vital can be cut to balance budgets.

"In Grosse Pointe Woods, for instance, a garbage truck driver earns $8 an hour. That's simply too much. I wonder if people really want expensive services like that, like street cleaning," she said.

On the state level, Mrs. Higgins proposes that cuts in welfare budgets and allocations to state colleges and universities,

Intense Race for Nedzi's Seat

Chairwoman and Detroit city employee, and Detroit attorney Herbert Schebor were listed as well qualified, having also secured a Free Press endorsement last week. Qualified candidates were Hamtramck city officials Walter Gajewski, Richard Kusmar of Warren, and Larry Rocca, a Warren real estate agent. Another Democrat, Peter Signorelli of Detroit was not mentioned.

Vic Caputo received the Searchlight's well qualified rating on the Republican side while John Cunningham, a Detroit businessman, and John Lauve were listed as qualified. Mark Wise of Harper Woods was not mentioned. Caputo also received a Free Press endorsement last week.

The UAW's endorsement went to Hertel and is considered significant since much of the 14th District is blue collar. But Kelly supporters quickly point out that four current Michigan state legislators, including Kelly, defeated UAW endorsed opponents in the 1978 election.

The Republican nominee may well carry the support of the Pointes through to the November election but will have to cut into the support of the district's Catholic, ethnic voters to beat a Democrat, according to a recent GOP survey.

Posing a formidable challenge to candidates hoping to win the Polish-Catholic vote is Walter Gajewski, Hamtramck city clerk for 20 years.

Gajewski said his biggest opposition is from other Democrats. If Kelly and Hertel can split up the rest of the district, Gajewski said, he is confident of carrying Hamtramck and the nomination.

Lurking in the background of the heated competition for Nedzi's seat is the imminent reapportionment of districts in 1982 according to 1980 census figures. Experts say at least one district, possibly the 14th, will be eliminated.

That means whoever is elected to Congress from the 14th may serve only one two-year term before his or her district disappears, or is redrawn.

There is a group of people who spend a great deal of their time collecting and talking about corkscrews. They belong to the International Correspondence of Corkscrew Addicts. The group originated in England but claims many American members, some of whom are particularly interested in the history of the American corkscrew. It seems that until the mid-nineteenth century, the United States was dependent on other countries for their corkscrews. However, after 1860, Americans began to enthusiastically produce their own in all different shapes, sizes and degrees of effectiveness.

Questions and Answers for Commission Candidates

Nine candidates from Grosse Pointe are running for the District I Charter Commissioner seat which will be voted on during the August 5 elections.

The News talked to seven of the candidates last week on a number of important issues concerning Wayne County reorganization — the concept of an elected executive or appointed manager, how the new charter should be drawn up to help eliminate the county's deficit, reduction in the number of county commissioners, and the lawsuit filed by out-County communities to force apportionment based on the 1980 census.

REPUBLICAN BARBARA B. GATTORN, 43, of Lochmoor road.

Q. Why did you decide to run? A. One of my prime reasons to become involved is to draw attention to the real problems with the road commission. I'm amazed it's able to operate without any supervision. I've been interested in the county for the last four years and have been able to keep up on what's going on.

Q. What factors are responsible for the current deficit? A. One reason for the mess is that the state asks the county to do things without funding. There is also a general redundancy of services. For example, the personnel, labor relations board and civil service departments. The labor relations board negotiates with the union without regard to what the situation is with the civil service board.

In the Finance department, the auditor, treasurer and board of fiscal directors do not talk to one another. Plus there is too much overlapping of job descriptions.

Q. How should a new charter be drawn up to correct these problems? A. The charter commission's job is to write an organization chart and write general job descriptions. I would hope that with a viable charter and workable government, more attention can be paid to the road commission and it eventually can be brought into line.

Q. Should there be an elected executive or appointed manager? A. I would like to see an elected official. An appointed manager would be a continuation of the politicization of the county and would be appointed by the unions and Coleman Young. The county needs a good politician. A very strong, very tough executive to say "I don't care what you think, this is what needs to be done."

Q. Should there be a reduction in the number of county commissioners? A. I'd like to see the board of commissioners reduced. I think 27 is too many for the work they do and the salaries they earn ($18,000). Their absentee rate is horrendous and they don't have to account to anyone but the voters. With a strong executive, I would see the board of commissioners in more of an advisory capacity.

Q. Do you support the lawsuit filed by a number of Wayne County communities to force apportionment based on the 1980 census? A. The lawsuit was ill-conceived. The city of Detroit will lose little more than one district and out-county would pick up one. If we waited for new districts, reorganization would be delayed possibly until 1984. Chances are good the county would be bankrupt by then.

REPUBLICAN LEONARD C. JACQUES, 52, of Lakeshore road.

Q. Why did you decide to run? A. I think with my background I can work effectively, plus I have the time to devote to the position. I view it as the most significant single event in Wayne County for the last 100 years.

Q. Reasons for the deficit? A. When you have a deficit of that size, some of it has to be due to a lack of efficiency in county government itself. It has a built-in lack of proper design. The predicate of our form of democracy is absent from the county structure. There is no balance of power, no checks and balances. There is no power to effect non-interest type of legislation.

Q. How should a new charter be drawn to reverse the deficit? A. The most important thing is to be made aware of the problems and options and solutions to those problems. I would be in favor of eliminating some of the elected officials — sheriff, register of deeds.

Q. Should there be an elected executive or appointed manager? A. Because of the size of Wayne County and to avoid problems inherent in the appointment of an executive, a strong elected executive form of government is essential. I would not favor an appointed manager. He wouldn't have the clout and power to walk in and set forth his proposals. He would also be at the will of the person who appointed him.

I'd like to see him elected through a set-up similar to the electoral college. Since the greatest number of people live in Detroit, an electoral college might weaken the impact of those votes. It might help assure the rest of the county that the city of Detroit won't dominate the new structure.

Q. Should there be a reduction in the number of county commissioners? A. They should be cut down drastically. I think beyond a dozen you have a mob. Ten to 12 is all you need to effect proper representation. With 27, you hardly have much representation anyway.

Q. Do you support the lawsuit? A. It has merit in the sense of the population shift. I think there's been a significant shift. But from a practical point of view, it can go nowhere.

REPUBLICAN ANNE O'HARA, 48, of Hampton road.

Q. Why are you running? A. I'm interested in the county and in what's going to happen to it. Because there was so much publicity about the county's financial condition, you could easily get people as charter commissioners who are very beholden to the present county commissioners. I'd like to see people in there on an independent basis.

Q. Reasons for the deficit? A. There are a lot of unnecessary jobs and departments in the county which could be eliminated. Plus there are 27 commissioners with individual interests in particular groups than in the county as a whole.

Q. The new charter? A. I would draw up a charter along with the 26 others which would have a lot of things spelled out, such as having all elected officials answer to the county executive budget-wise. I would like to see them have to stick to their budgets.

Q. Elected or appointed executive? A. I'm strongly in favor of an elected official. An appointed manager would be appointed by the 27 commissioners, and what purpose would that serve? He would try to please them rather than the electors. I would like him to answer for everything in the county and I would like everyone in the county to be responsible to him.

Q. Reduce number of commissioners? A. The 27 commissioners are not serving the county as a whole. I would say around 15 are needed, but I would be flexible. You have to have enough to have a quorum, so I would not cut it down too much.

Q. Lawsuit? A. I would prefer to see the 1980 census used because it's more current but I would hate to see the charter held up. I think the county should go ahead with the 1970 census under the circumstances. The longer they wait, the more difficult it's (reorganization) going to be.

REPUBLICAN RANDY R. DUFOUR, 34, of Yorkshire road.

Q. Why run? A. I think Wayne County government needs reorganization drastically. I have knowledge of county government operations plus finan-

REFORM COUNTY GOVERNMENT!

IT'S YOUR TURN

On August 5th, Wayne County voters will have the opportunity to reform and streamline county government. Your YES vote on Proposal A will establish a Wayne County Charter Commission authorized to draw up a new Charter which will reorganize and restructure county government.

At the same time, voters in each of the 27 Districts will nominate candidates to serve on the charter commission. Voters will make the final selection of these charter commissioners at the November 4th General Election.

The charter commission will draw up two alternative county charters for presentation to the voters. The charters will be similar except that one will provide for a county executive elected by the voters and the other will provide for a chief administrative officer appointed by the Board of Commissioners. The voters may choose one charter or defeat both and send them back to the charter commission for revision and later the voters.

CITIZENS TO REFORM WAYNE COUNTY Dear Friend, As suburban co-chairpersons of the Citizens to Reform Wayne County, we are asking your help in encouraging all voters to join us in urging a YES vote on County Home Rule Proposal A. We feel strongly that passage of Proposal A is important for all residents of Wayne County and, in particular, the suburban residents who rely so heavily on county services. Sincerely, REP. WILLIAM BRYANT, State House Republican Leader, SEN. WILLIAM FAUST, State Senate Democratic Leader, ROBERT GEAR, Republican - Northville, FRANK W. Vote YES on County Home Rule Proposal A

"COUNTY GOVERNMENT . . . A SHAMBLES"

The long record of Wayne County government ineffectiveness and mismanagement led to formation of a 25 member Citizens Efficiency Task Force composed of business, labor and civic leaders to analyze the problem.

They found that waste, inefficiency, cronyism and lack of central control in county government are costing taxpayers millions of dollars and affect the quality of services vitally needed by citizens in every one of the county's 43 cities and townships.

For several years, Wayne County has operated with a large and growing deficit. By the end of 1980, reliable estimates indicate that expenses will exceed income by far more than the county's public admission of a deficit of twenty-five million dollars.

The inability to maintain a workable budget, to provide vitally needed services and to operate county government in an organized, effective manner make it imperative that changes be made now.

End the waste of your tax dollars by reforming Wayne County Government!

cial and administrative experience. I see this as an opportunity to reform Wayne county through elected office.

Q. Reasons for the deficit?
A. Wasteful operations, such as duplication and overlapping of officials and offices. The Wayne county employee pay structure is high compared with the city and private business.

Q. The new charter?
A. There should be an executive supervision of all county functions. The board of commissioners should be reduced and its function limited to legislative policy functions. Certain officials who are now elected would be appointed. Plus there should be fewer boards. For example, the county clerk and register of deeds could be combined into one office.

Q. Elected or appointed executive?
A. I favor an elected head. The people should have a direct say. If the board of commissioners appoints him, he is one step away from the electorate. With an elected official, there is increased accountability.

Q. Reduce number of commissioners?
A. With 27 no one is responsible. Six to nine can be more efficient and provide adequate representation.

Q. Lawsuit?
A. I think they have a valid point. The demographics have shifted over the past 10 years. On the negative side, it could cause a delay of a year. I think the sooner the reform the better.

DEMOCRAT EDWARD R. WILSON, 39, of Hollywood road.

Q. Why run?
A. Although this is my first time as a candidate for public office, in 1971 I was an assistant prosecutor for Wayne County so I'm a person in a position to have some knowledge of the problems of county government.

Q. Reasons for the deficit?
A. Problems of the county are not that the people are malevolent or bad. The problem is organization. The form of county government is from a century ago. Nobody is responsible.

Q. The new charter?
A. The strongest issue is to have a strong executive with responsibility and accountability. Also the head of the road commission would be appointed by the executive. Presently, the road commission is a separate entity — accountable to no one.

Q. Elected or appointed executive?
A. I have a bias in favor of an elected official in general. The most significant difference between the two is that the elected executive has veto power over the board of commissioners. For me that's a necessary power for the executive to have.

Q. Reduce number of commissioners?
A. The board of commissioners should be smaller. The present board is unwieldy. Los Angeles has five, and they do just fine. There ought to be maybe five to 10. I see the board purely as a legislative body.

Q. Lawsuit?
A. I don't want to wait. I don't see how there will be a significant shift in the power base. I think we ought to go ahead and do it.

DEMOCRAT JANE STEVENS, 23, of Blairmoor court.

Q. Why are you running?
A. I've worked seasonally for the county in the registered deeds department and for the medical examiner so I'm aware of some of the problems. I've been endorsed by the Central Citizens Committee and the UAW.

Q. Reasons for the county's deficit?
A. The state requires implementation of a number of services and then does not supply funds for them. Plus there is no real centralized control. A county executive is needed.

Q. How can the new charter help?
A. By consolidation of departments within the county. Also the road commission should not be separate — they are too autonomous. And there should be a provision for an executive.

Q. Elected or appointed executive?
A. An elected official would be more responsive to the people, but might not be qualified to be an executive. An appointed manager would probably be the more qualified person, being picked for their ability. The question is, who is going to make the appointment?

Q. Reduce number of commissioners?
A. I would want to keep them the same, answerable to an executive, a person who would be able to act. The executive would balance competing interest groups within the commissioners themselves.

Q. Lawsuit?
A. The 1980 would be more accurate, but I would use the 1970. Something has to be done.

DEMOCRAT ANITA JORDAN McINTYRE, 33, of Edgemont Park.

Q. Why are you running?
A. I've worked for the county and maintained an interest in it over the years. With my background I felt this was something I was particularly well-suited to do.

Q. Reasons for the deficit?
A. The county was structured piecemeal over the last century. Because of that structure — or lack of structure — there is a great deal of duplication, no coordination and a lack of comprehensive administration. They don't collect taxes properly and there is no coordination between labor relations and the civil service departments. This results in excessive pay rates and employees having a tendency to rewrite their job descriptions when they want a raise.

Q. The new charter?
A. The first hurdle is to get a strong executive with veto power over the board of commissioners and with line item budgetary power over the whole county and with a centralized personnel office.

Q. Elected or appointed executive?
A. The issue is whether it will be a strong elected or appointed executive and that's something the charter commissioners have to write into the charter. It will be up to the voters to decide whether that person is to be elected or appointed. Since he will have to work with other elected officials, an elected executive would probably be better able to work with them on a one-to-one basis. On the other hand, an appointed manager would probably be a professional administrator rather than a politician.

Q. Reduce commissioners?
A. 27 commissioners are too many. I'd like to see somewhere around 15. I think you could save Grosse Pointe's representation by combining districts 1 and 2.

Q. Lawsuit?
A. I don't think it's the most well-conceived thing they've (out-Wayne county communities) ever done. I think county reform is too important. If they continue the lawsuit, they'll be putting a monkey wrench into the whole process.

Summer Speech Program Held

Ralph L. Wilgarde, administrator of Cottage Hospital, 159 Kercheval avenue, announced July 25 that the Speech Therapy department's summer speech program for children has completed its 1980 session.

The summer speech program, now in its ninth year, is a six-week session of group and individual work to treat youngsters ages three to 15 for speech, language or hearing problems.

The program is designed to supplement the speech and learning disabilities therapy services children receive at school. It is also an opportunity for them to receive more intensive treatment for individual problems.

The speech therapy program is under the direction of Gary J. Cooper, Ph.D., and Margaret LaGrant, M.Ed. According to Dr. Cooper, this is the only program of its kind in the area. Students came from as far as Washington, Michigan and from surrounding suburbs.

In their final session, students and their families were treated to a puppet show and refreshments.

For information about next year's program, interested parents should contact the Cottage Hospital Speech Therapy department at 884-8600, extension 2187.

Park Girl Chosen for Scout Event

Michelle Raymond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Raymond of Bishop road, has been selected to attend "Why Texans Stand So Tall," a national Girl Scout Wider Opportunity, sponsored by the San Antonio Area Council of Girl Scouts this summer.

Michelle, one of 96 girls from across the United States and Europe to participate in this event, is exploring the multi-cultural city and its surrounding area. In San Antonio the girls will visit La Villita, the Alamo, dine on a floating barge on the San Antonio River and shop for curios at "El Mercado."

The scouts will take part in the ninth annual Folklife Festival at the Institute of Texan Cultures. The girls will tour the Y O Ranch where they will cowpoke for a day, learn about environmental preservation and enjoy a chuck wagon barbecue.

The trip also includes a visit to Fredericksburg, where Michelle and the others will dine on German cuisine and spend time at the ranch of former President Johnson. The scouts will have four days of hospitality with a Texas family in addition to these other activities.

The national event takes place from July 29 to August 13 in cooperation with Incarnate Word College.

Fully 82 percent of the Wayne County Department of Social Services employees are females.

Prime Time for senior citizens

By Marian Trainor

The guiding light of one of the largest senior groups in the Pointes is a young man who any parent would be proud to have as a son. His name is Jon Austin, senior adult director of the Village Club, headquartered in the Neighborhood Club.

Handsome—a John Denver look-alike; caring—"hopefully someone will do the same for me when I need these services;" enthusiastic—proud of what has been accomplished but full of plans for even better things to come, Jon quietly conveys the impression that his work with senior citizens is important to him. It is something he believes in and something he likes to do.

JON CAME TO the Neighborhood Club in 1976 to work with the men and boys sports program and as a part-time worker in senior citizen activities. Under his direction, the senior program grew to the point where he was designated full-time director in 1978. The program has since expanded and now includes Betty Heidt, a recreation major from Central Michigan, as an assistant. Jon also is a graduate from Central Michigan with a M.A. in recreation. He came directly from Central to the Neighborhood Club. However, between earning a B.A. in recreation at Lake Superior College and his M.A., he served as a helicopter pilot in the Army for four and a half years. One year was spent in Vietnam.

"It was during this time that I made up my mind what I wanted to do with my future," Jon said, "and when I had the opportunity to come to the Neighborhood Club, I was sure that this was where I wanted to work."

Jon is particularly proud of the club's new building next to the main building at 17150 Waterloo, which cost a modest $550,000. He is pleased that it is fully paid for and openly boasts that the Village Club Seniors played a big part in helping to raise money to build it.

Although the Neighborhood Club sponsors a full range of programs which includes nursery school, instructional classes, athletic leagues and clinics, summer camps and special activities, the major emphasis of the new building is for senior citizens. With somewhat more than 18 percent of the total Grosse Pointe population at least 60 years old—the national average is about 10 percent—it seems appropriate that the Neighborhood Club place an emphasis on their needs.

AMONG THESE NEEDS is that of social contact. Under Jon's direction, programs designed to bring older people together to share good times have flourished. There are now 1,000 members in the club with a projection in a few years of at least 2,500.

Some of the activities offered in the new building—which opened on St. Patrick's Day, March 17, 1980—are card games on Monday and Thursday, craft classes on Tuesday and Thursday, and a group called the "Knitting Ladies" who meet on the second and fourth Wednesday of the month.

Again Jon's pride in his groups surfaced as he talked of the members.

"All classes are taught by senior volunteers who give generously of their time and skills," he commented. "Marie Barbart, who is so talented and creative and a fine teacher, instructs the arts and crafts classes. The articles fashioned in her classes are donated to the Thrift Shop, which is an important source of income for the Neighborhood Club."

"MRS. WILLIAM Christenson, a retired librarian from the Grosse Pointe school system, is currently cataloging the books in our library," he continued. "All the books there have been donated by members."

"Bob and Helen Douglas supervise the card games and Alda Zukas keeps our members informed through a newsletter which she edits. Volunteers are the backbone of our program. Their contributions and the fact that the members help to plan and implement our activities has helped to make the Village Club a dynamic, thriving organization."

Special mention should be made here of the 'Knitting Ladies' who gather to knit and share conversation. Their articles are donated to orphanages, and they are looking for more members to enlarge their circle. They also would be grateful for donations of yarn. If you would like to contribute yarn you may drop it off (Continued on Page 9)

Gerontology Courses at WCC

Gerontology, a new career education program at Wayne Community College, is entering its second year of operation this fall. The program explores the aging process and social, legal and economic issues associated with aging while preparing students for direct service occupations in the field.

This fall, classes will be held at the WCC downtown Center, the Austin Center, the Greenfield Center and the Downriver Center.

Three gerontology courses will be offered at the Austin Center at 18300 East Warren. Introduction to the Study of Aging is an overview of the field with emphasis on the normal aging process. Classes will be held Tuesdays from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Sociology of Aging, an introduction to the field of social gerontology, is designed to familiarize the student with sociological concepts and theories in the study of aging.

Legal Issues of Aging discusses several topics and helps provide more efficient access to legal services.

Registration is at any of the WCC centers listed above, from August 13 to August 23 and August 25 to August 29.

Tuition is $18 per credit hour for residents of the WCC service district and $22 for out-of-district residents. Tuition is free to all persons over 60 years and those 55 to 59 who are retired.

Car Strikes Kresge's

A Kalamazoo man was charged with careless driving last weekend when his car ramed into the front window of Kresge's in the Village.

Police said James Campbell, 23, lost control of his 1979 Oldsmobile as he was driving west on Kercheval July 27. Campbell suddenly veered over the curb and struck two bikes and knocked over a City tree before smashing into the storefront window.

Campbell suffered minor injuries in the mishap and was later treated and released from Bon Secours Hospital.

Census Shows Housing Up

Preliminary evaluation of unofficial 1980 census statistics indicate distinct population shifts and significant changes in housing growth in Wayne County outside Detroit, Highland Park and Hamtramck, according to a report from the County Planning Commission.

The projections are based on the earliest returns to the U.S. Census Bureau and are subject to change after final federal figures are released. Even tentative data is not yet available for Detroit, Highland Park and Hamtramck.

While the County's population apparently is decreasing, the number of families appears to be increasing, Turner said of the report. County Planning Director, Maurice W. Roach said, "It would seem that there are fewer family members in each house, but more families. If these preliminary figures hold up, it indicates that Wayne County families aren't evaporating, but instead are spreading out into homes of their own."

The preliminary census count, excluding Detroit, Highland Park and Hamtramck, show a 2.54 percent population decline for the county, from 1,094,078 to 1,066,269 but an increase in housing units — up 20.2 percent from 316,736 in 1970 to the present 380,585.

Exceptional population growth since 1970 is reported for the communities of Huron Township with a 51 percent increase; Plymouth Township, a 55.9 percent increase; Sumpter Township, 67.3 percent; Brownstown Township, 202.9 percent; and Canton Township, 403.4 percent. These communities also experienced substantial growth in number of housing units, according to the early data.

Ecorse, River Rouge and Wyandotte are the only communities showing both a population decline and a decrease in housing. According to the report, Ecorse is down 20.2 percent in population, 2.6 percent in housing; River Rouge, down 20.5 percent in population, 4.6 percent in housing; and Wyandotte, down 18 percent in population and 4 percent in housing.

All other communities, even those with population declines up to 19 percent, showed gains in housing in the report.

All of the Grosse Pointes show an increase in housing units from 1970 to 1980. The City is up 4.4 percent, the Park, 2.3 percent, the Shores, 13.7 percent, and the Woods is up 3.9 percent

"Our staff review of this data show that in general the outer ring of Wayne County is continuing to gain in population, while the more central communities adjacent to the city of Detroit are declining," said Turner.

Roach said the report shows a pattern similar to that of both Oakland and Macomb counties.

'Nighy' Thief Strikes Again

All it is known for certain is that he has expensive tastes—in underwear, that is.

A 34-year-old Park woman reported to police last week that her $38 nightgown was taken from her clothesline in mid-day by a young man on a blue ten-speed bicycle.

The woman, of Beaconsfield avenue, told police that her neighbor spotted the long blonde-haired thief bike into the yard and snatch two nightgowns off the line. The thief then stuffed the nighties into his shirt and pedaled off.

Last month another Beaconsfield woman reported her Oscar de la Renta undies stolen off her clothesline.

Another outreach project is Foster Grandmothers who go into schools to work on a one-to-one basis with children who need that little bit of extra help to succeed in their studies.

SPORTS ARE AN important segment of the Village Club. Members of the Walking Club are taken by van to such places as Stony Creek and Seven Ponds Nature Center where they combine outdoor exercise, nature study and good company in a pleasant afternoon of recreation. This outdoor activity served as good training for a weekend visit to Tau Beta Campe, a 300 acre wilderness where members walked the trails at a nearby nature center.

A full range of sports activities is offered to members in cooperation with the Grosse Pointe school system. A Senior Olympics is being planned for the fall when members will compete for fun, recognition and ribbons.

Spectator as well as sports activities are part of the club's program. Members have cheered the home team at Tiger Stadium and have been spectators at professional basketball, hockey and football.

Travel also is an important item on the club's agenda. There have been trips to local points of interest such as Mackinac Island, the River Cruise and Drawbridge Inn and the Star Theater in Flint, where members are taken in a van driven by Jon. Longer trips are handled through a travel agency. Members are looking forward to going to Stratford in August, Martha's Vineyard and Boston in September and West Virginia in October.

Another service of the club is the bi-monthly newsletter "Pointe In Time" a calendar of events and service articles.

While the club's program seems comprehensive now there are still more things to come in the future. Jon has plans for square dancing classes in the fall, new instructional classes and offerings by Wayne County Community College.

It is obvious that the Village Club is an enthusiastic organization determined to provide worthwhile activities for all of its members, fulfilling Executive Director John Bruce's opinion that since most members have been long-time residents of our community it seems just that the community provide services that will enable them to live out their lives with fullness which they have earned.

Some people spend so much time feeling big that they never have time to get that way.

Cable TV Connection

By Mike Reynolds
General Manager
Grosse Pointe Cable TV

This is the ninth of a series of articles explaining the services soon to be offered by Grosse Pointe Cable TV.

The Reuters News-View service soon to be offered by Grosse Pointe Cable TV is produced by one of the world's most famous news organizations—so famous, in fact, that Hollywood made a movie about it called "Dispatch from Reuters," starring Edward G. Robinson as Paul Julius Reuter and showing how he started back in 1851 using pigeons to fly stock market quotations from Aachen to Brussels.

Reuters has come a long way since then and has for many years been acknowledged as one of the world's major wire services.

But wire service does not quite describe Reuters' role in the information business. The traditional role of a wire service is to supply information to the news media. No matter how wealthy it is, no newspaper or broadcasting organization can maintain correspondents in every part of the world, so they rely on wire services for much of their coverage.

But Reuters' correspondents in over 200 countries not only supply the media with news but also contribute to a wide variety of specialized services for bankers, brokers, commodity traders and cable television.

Reuters' great strength is that each editor producing a service has access to all the information in the others.

That's the reason Reuters can keep Grosse Pointe Cable TV subscribers so well informed on news developments, and is able to produce a lively package of features—including a daily horoscope, pet care advice, Hollywood news and a sports quiz. The whole purpose being, to use Reuters' own words, to inform and entertain.

News-View gives viewers an update within minutes on what is happening in the world at large, in sports and on Wall Street. The General News channel uses the renowned newsgathering resources of Reuters to keep viewers abreast of the latest news developments.

addition to news, the Financial also displays a number of key statistics which indicate how the market is performing overall and how individual stocks are faring. These widely followed displays include stock market averages, most active stocks, shares showing the biggest change and, of course, regularly updated stock market reports.

The Sports News channel includes not only news, but also constantly updated displays of scores and league standings.

News-View includes features designed to amuse or fascinate. It's a magazine-type package that includes the Daily Horoscope, supplied by Miss Kathleen Johnson, the well-known astrologer, and Hollywood Chit-Chat.

Sports Quiz offers a challenge to the sports buff. Questions for the daily Sports Quiz are compiled by Reuters' North American Sports Editor. Answers are supplied the following day. Pet Care is prepared by the American Animal Hospital Association.

Church Gets New Home

Unity of the Infinite Presence, the little church over which there was much controversy in Grosse Pointe Farms, in 1977, will break ground for a new building, on Sunday, August 3, at 2 p.m. near 11 Mile and Burg in Warren.

The autonomous, non-denominational church is leaving its base at Gratiot and Seven Mile in Detroit because it needs more room because of its tremendous growth within the last seven years from 50 to over 1,000 members.

The local Unity Church was founded in Grosse Pointe in 1950 and operated out of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial until 1970. The national Unity Church was established about 100 years ago in Kansas City, Mo., and there are presently close to 50 institutions across the United States.

The church tried to purchase the Punch and Judy Theater, 21 Kercheval, in May, 1977. However, because of Farms zoning laws, it needed approval from the city council. The Punch had been exempt from the ordinance because it was built before the laws were adopted.

The public debated over the issue of whether or not the council should waive the zoning ordinance for the church at two public meetings and in several letters to the editor in the News.

At a special June 20, 1977 meeting, the members of the Farms Council voted unanimously to deny the church the right to operate out of the Punch and Judy on the basis that the area should be kept a business district and property should not be converted from commercial to community service organizations.

Rev. Jack Boland, minister of the Unity Church, anticipates continued growth and says they may have to expand the new building within a short period after it is built.

Quake Felt in The City

At least four City residents reported to police that their homes were shaken from the earthquake that hit Kentucky last weekend.

Thieves Hit Park Homes

A daring thief gained access to a second-floor window of a Barrington road home earlier this week by climbing a tree in the backyard.

Pointe, Christine Kaiser of Charles place said she was lying in bed when she suddenly felt the bed shake.

"It was scary, but exciting," Christine said. The Elvidge family was sitting in a second-floor room of their Rivard home when they noticed their chairs moving.

"It was a good thing there was another person in the room besides myself or else everyone would think I'm crazy," said Lynn Elvidge.

Lynn said she's lived through earthquakes in San Francisco, but didn't suspect that was what was happening at her house because "I didn't think we get earthquakes in Michigan."

Residents said the tremors only lasted for a few minutes.

Psychologist Disputes Stereotype of Senility

The problems of aging face all of us — sooner or later — but most of them are not as damaging as the fears, myths and stereotypes people identify with growing older, says an associate professor of psychology at Wayne State University.

Many people equate aging with an inevitable pathway to senility, according to Dr. Gisela Labouvie-Vief, but she quickly adds that this belief is not only wrong, but it may well create a vicious cycle by which people undermine their own sense of competence.

Dr. Labouvie-Vief, a Park resident, admits that senility is a problem to be taken seriously, but points out that it afflicts a much smaller percentage (an estimated 5 to 10 percent) of the older population than is ordinarily believed.

"Even so," Dr. Labouvie-Vief said, "its causes are rather poorly understood. Some researchers believe senility is the result of normal deterioration changes in the brain, but controversy is mounting on whether this long-held belief should be discarded." Signs of mental disorientation and memory loss, often associated with senility, can arise from a score of reasons which are not directly medical, Dr. Labouvie-Vief said.

The psychologist notes that memory load can reduce efficiency, and as daily demands on the memory load rises, lapses are more likely to occur. This is not unique to older people, adds Dr. Labouvie-Vief.

"However, older people are more likely to be preoccupied with lapses. Such anxiety arises from the vicious fear of aging and may increase lapses. Research has shown that when anxiety was reduced, older people increased their memory functioning," said the psychologist.

Sometimes older people may score poorly on tests of memory or intellectual alertness because of a kind of intellectual generation gap, said Dr. Labouvie-Vief. In one study, for example, young people were better at words relating to routine educational subjects, but older people were better at words relating to finances, health care knowledge and business.

Dr. Labouvie-Vief said in some cases, older people do show severe signs of disorientation. Sometimes this may result from the experiences and living conditions to which the elderly are subjected.

"Whatever the causes of senility our understanding of it is still very poor. Unfortunately, however, our understanding is even worse in the area of positive skills that older people do, in fact, have," said the doctor.

Results of Dr. Labouvie-Vief's research disclose that it is wrong to say older people have a poorer memory. "Rather, they attend to different things. Young adults, for example, may remember a lot of detail, while older adults focus on logical relationships and a abstract meaning."

Dr. Labouvie-Vief believes that with the age structure of our society changing and the total population "greying," there will be a stronger need to create positive roles for the older adult. She is convinced that the elderly of the future will be better educated, healthier and probably live longer than in the past.

The Village Association will hold its first sidewalk sale this Friday, August 1, from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Kercheval avenue.

The event dubbed "Friday Night Live," will feature special bargains both on the street and within the stores. Approximately 80 percent of the merchants in the area will take to the sidewalks with racks and tables, while another 20 percent will conduct sales in their stores.

The senior citizen group from the Neighborhood Club will sell its craft boutique items on the street.

Entertainment during the evening will include a mime group, a magician, a juggler and an Irish balladeer with guitar, flute and cello accompaniment.

Coney Islands, beverages, popcorn, ice cream and pastries will be sold throughout the evening.

Kercheval will remain open to vehicles, although merchants and City officials will watch traffic patterns carefully to determine the feasibility of closing the street in future years.

Mortgages Do June Flipflop

Home mortgage recordings, which in May fell almost to the deepest level of the 1975-76 recession, recovered somewhat in June in the four key counties of the Detroit metropolitan area.

Mortgages under $200,000, tabulated as residential, numbered 3,361 involving $110,225,778, the monthly summary of Lawyers Title Insurance Corp. Those figures compared to 2,973 mortgages worth $106,022,821 in May and suggested that the turnaround has arrived.

However, they were far below the pace of June last year, when 9,072 such loans totaled $339,030,579, according to Edward A. Blaty, Michigan manager and vice president of Lawyers Title. They also were short of the volume in June, 1975, as that recession eased toward 1976 recovery, when 4,926 home mortgages were recorded.

The June report disclosed that the big U.S.-guaranteed borrowing program of Chrysler Corp. had reached the mortgage recordbooks. Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit, as trustee, recorded $1.5 billion in Chrysler mortgaging.

In residential loans, the June activity broke down like this: 1,423 loans for $38,448,650 in Wayne; 1,120 mortgages for $47,738,044 in Oakland; 575 for $19,550,318 in Macomb, and 243 for $10,488,766 in Washtenaw.

Woods Officials Dispute Population Drop

• Park, a 13.7 decrease, from 15,041 to 13,498.

• Shores, a 1.5 increase, from 3,042 to 3,082.

• Woods, a 14.7 decrease, from 21,878 to 18,863.

Grosse Pointe City Manager Thomas Kressbach said his figures appear "to be essentially correct."

"The long and short of it is that there are no major discrepancies."

Reaction to the census figures in the Park also is in doubt. There, City Manager John Crawford said that while he is not going to file a formal recheck of his figures, he has written to census officials questioning data in three of the city's districts.

"According to the census people, we have fewer people than we have counted on our park passes," he said.

Crawford said one problem with the census count was that college-aged kids, who are Park residents, were counted in the city in which they attend school. The discrepancy adds up to about 300 people, Crawford said.

Farms Assessor Carrol Locke said his community also will be asking for a recheck in the number of households in the Farms.

How much of the population decline in four Grosse Pointe communities will take its toll on state revenues is hard to pinpoint right now, most city administrators will agree.

"There is sure to be some negative impact of some consequence, but it is difficult to predict the amount," Kressbach said.

Administrators say that until the state nosecount is finalized and the state budget brought into line, they will just have to wait and see.

After all census recheck requests are made, a preliminary count will be published this fall. A final count will go to President Jimmy Carter's desk next January.

Explore State History and Visit Villages, Forts

Take an inexpensive journey back through time by visiting a restored Army fort or 19th Century village, suggests Automobile Club of Michigan.

Traveling from Detroit to the tip of the Keweenaw Peninsula and from Lake Michigan to Lake Huron, Michiganders can explore the history of their state back to the days when soldiers fought Indians, lumber was king and copper ruled.

At Fort Wilkins State Park near Copper Harbor, travelers can tour the last original wood fort east of the Mississippi River. Built in 1844 to protect copper miners from Indian attack, the fort is filled with furniture, tools, clothing and other relics of the past.

At Mackinac City's Fort Michilimackinac, the 1763 capture of the British fort by the Indians is re-enacted every Memorial Day. Mackinac Island's Fort Mackinac dates from the 1780s and was built by the British after they abandoned Fort Michilimackinac.

Detroit's Historic Fort Wayne, completed in 1851, still has the original stone barracks and powder magazine. It served as an important troop training center during the Civil War, remained a key garrison in the Spanish-American War and World War I and was a supply depot during World War II.

World famous Greenfield Village in Dearborn offers rides in horse-drawn carriages, a paddlewheel boat, a steam locomotive and Model T cars. This collection of 19th Century buildings includes an inn from the old Detroit-Chicago stagecoach route, the home where Noah Webster completed his first dictionary and auto pioneer Henry Ford's birthplace.

Historical Crossroads Village near Flint is the preservation of a typical community of the 1860s and 1870s. There is a grist mill, one-room schoolhouse and depot, where the Huckleberry Railroad boards hourly for a 9 1/2-mile round trip via steam-powered locomotive and vintage wooden passenger coaches.

Shoppers will look forward to the delights awaiting them at three restored shopping districts. Squires Street Square along the Rouge River at Rockford has more than a dozen establishments selling everything from weaving supplies to red flannel underwear.

At Apple Barrel Farms near Washington, home baked goods, stained glass items and antiques are sold in buildings dating back to the 1860s. Chief attraction is the Octagon House, an eight-sided home which has been designated a National Historic Landmark.

School buildings from the 1800s make up the Guest Country Store Museum at Lake City. They house a general store, apothecary, barber shop and school room.

Elegant homes of 19th Century lumber barons can be seen at both Muskegon's Heritage Village and Huron City in the Thumb. Huron City was destroyed by fire in 1881 and 1882.

ANITA JORDAN McINTYRE SPEAKS TO THE ISSUES

- Should the Wayne County Government be reorganized?
 "Yes. The present form of Wayne County Government dates back to the last century when society was less complex. Wayne County's present problems stem partly from this antiquated structure which inhibits any type of comprehensive planning and fiscal control." Vote "YES" on County Home Rule Proposal "A"
- Should Wayne County have a strong County Executive?
 "Yes. The statute authorizing county reforms calls for the Charter Commission to draft two charters to be submitted to the voters, one with an elected executive and one with an appointed executive. It is important that either an elected or appointed executive be given sufficient power to allocate county resources in the most efficient manner."
- Should Civil Service be reformed?
 "Yes. The present Civil Service system is rife with abuses and is not efficiently organized to deal with County employees."
- Should present county employees be on the Charter Commission?
 "No. When one is making decisions relating to one's own employment, the employment of one's spouse, or the powers and duties of one's boss, even the most upright of individuals can be placed in a compromising situation which may result in a conflict of interest."

JOHN J. CUNNINGHAM

REPUBLICAN

United States Congress

14th District of Michigan

PRIMARY — August 5

ALLOW ME TO INTRODUCE MYSELF...

On June 5, 1980, I announced my candidacy for the office of United States Congressman in the 14th District of Michigan. In the Republican primary to be held on August 5, 1980, The 14th District includes Northeast Detroit, part of Warren, Centerline, all of Hamtramck, East Detroit, Harper Woods and the five Grosse Pointes

I am thirty years old and married to Nancy LaCharite. I have two children, Amy Christine, 7, and Patrick Michael, 4. I am a lifelong resident of Detroit's Eastside and a member of ST. MATTHEW parish.

The past four years I have been an independent business man. My business is Wyandotte Welding Supply, Inc., a Downriver supplier of welding materials. I attended Wayne State University majoring in Business Administration and have attended numerous business, technical and legal seminars during my ten years with Wyandotte Welding Supply, Inc. I have no previous political experience and I am not a lawyer.

My belief is that we, the public, cannot expect our problems are going to be solved by big government and international corporations. Our dilemma of inflation, unemployment, disproportionate and high taxes, excess regulation and environmental abuse are, in part, caused by a grossly overdrawn Federal checking account and a corps of business managers, who in search of worldwide profits, have lost their American character.

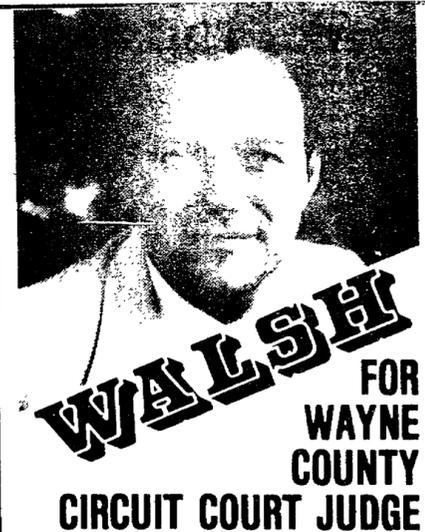

As Congressman I would strive to restore a free competitive market system of enterprise. I believe that by supporting and initiating legislation to strengthen and create opportunities for small and independent business, our problem of unemployment will be reduced. As Congressman I would support and initiate legislation to reduce, if not remove, the obligation of our welfare systems from the middle class working American.

As Congressman I would support and initiate legislation to provide renewed confidence in our national values, led by the restoration of GOD in our public schools.

A return to productivity, energy independence, national security, and the pursuit of happiness will require a majority of middle class working AMERICANS taking charge of the affairs of government and economic activity. I look forward to speaking with concerned district citizens and businessmen to discuss these problems and their solutions. My favorite topical issue is "How can the excess oil profits tax turn into a ten cent a gallon gasoline tax that we, the consumer and businessman must pay?"

GPW Considers Tree Insurance Policy

By Gregory Jakub
How valuable are your community's trees? That's the question Grosse Pointe Woods residents may have to answer if a proposed one mill tax levy for an innovative tree maintenance and reforestation program makes it to the November ballot.

The program was developed by the Woods' Community Tree Advisory Commission and could cost up to $250,000 obtained through 1981 taxes. But it could cost much less depending on the need to spray, trim, remove, and plant trees, according to Jean Rice, advisory commission chairwoman.

The $250,000 figure is "just the starting point" for the commission which is spending July and August determining whether such an ambitious tree maintenance program can be done.

THE WOODS' TAX Study Committee is also studying the one mill proposal and will eventually make recommendations as to its feasibility to the city council.

Both groups will know by September 1 whether the proposal will make the November ballot.

If approved the program would dovetail with the Woods' Master Street Tree Plan which the city council approved last week.

The program in effect would be an "insurance policy" that would provide timely maintenance, removal, and replantation for the Woods' 5,151 trees including those on public and private property for the next four years.

That makes the proposal unique since no one has yet studied the needs of trees in the city's parks, Rice said.

"No one wants to raise taxes but we don't want to lose trees," Rice said adding that fighting Dutch elm disease and gypsy moths is a costly battle for the city. But she said that if the proposal makes the ballot it should be seen as a question that "goes to the basic ecology of the area."

Basically, the program would identify diseased elms, take steps to delay the trees' loss, and in the meantime replant so that a denuded situation is avoided, Rice said.

The idea is to avoid losing great numbers of trees at once as happened in Toledo, Ohio where the cost of removing 50,000 diseased elms was "staggering," Rice said.

While the cost of the proposed program could cause a one mill jump in the Woods' tax rate which traditionally has been the lowest of all the Pointes, Rice said the program would cost homeowners about $35 a year—less than the cost of spraying two trees.

The program will address the needs of principle shade trees of which there are two on each lot, Rice said.

It proposes bringing in forestry experts who could teach city employees maintenance and disease prevention techniques.

Another part of the program is related to the Master Street Tree Plan and emphasizes replantation. Putting the "proper trees in the proper places" and keeping trees properly trimmed can minimize storm damage to buildings, Rice said.

Many of the most important questions to be answered are economic, such as whether it is cheaper to hire staff to implement the program or contract the work to private firms, Rice said. And since inflation has driven up the cost of tree removal to about $1,500 each, she said maintaining trees could prove to be much cheaper.

Rice said the Woods can expect to lose about 10 percent of its trees next year and the situation is becoming "very serious."

"If we don't at least consider something like this (disease control program) we're going to lose the whole thing," she said.

New Students Must Register

Students who expect to enroll at Grosse Pointe North High School for the first time, either because they have recently moved into the district or because they are transferring from another high school, may do so from August 4 to August 15. They should call 343-2201 to arrange an appointment with the counselor, and should have report cards from their previous school and a birth certificate available.

Two Paychecks Will Mean Higher Taxes

Whoever said two can live as cheaply as one obviously did not foresee the two-paycheck marriage. With an estimated 60 percent of married women working outside the home, two-income families are often caught off guard when their large combined income increases their expenses, including taxes, and erodes some of the anticipated benefits.

One of the biggest problems affecting the two-paycheck family is the increased tax bite, says The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants. The second paycheck is piled on top of the existing one, then taxed at the higher rate on the combined income.

For instance, John Black, a college professor was the sole wage earner while his children were young. In 1978 his income was $30,000. Then, in 1979 his wife Nancy obtained a part-time job earning $8,000. John, meanwhile, got a $2,000 raise. Their increased income precipitated additional expenses which consumed most of their additional $10,000 income.

Worse yet, John and Nancy had neglected to adjust their withholding tax from weekly paychecks to compensate for their higher tax bracket.

John's withholding assumed a maximum tax rate of 32 percent while Nancy's withholding was based on a maximum of 16 percent. But when they filed a joint income tax return, Nancy's income added to John's was taxed at the 32 percent margin from the first dollar and went up from there.

Actually, Nancy's income with John's raise brought their combined income into the 43 percent marginal tax bracket. If they had planned ahead, their withholding would have reflected that. As an alternative, they could have laid aside additional money to cover the tax bill, CPAs say. But John and Nancy ended up borrowing to pay the additional $2,000 tax bill they had not anticipated.

John and Nancy would not have saved money filing separate federal tax returns. As married taxpayers filing separately their tax rate would be higher than two single taxpayers. According to CPAs, it is seldom economical for married people to file separate returns except when there have been unusually large expenses such as medical bills. In that case, the partner with the lower income might take fuller advantage of the three percent exclusion on medical deductions.

Besides the higher tax bill, two income families often increase spending for child care, commuting, clothing and food. With two incomes, there is twice the need for sound financial planning, CPAs say.

Two-paycheck families also need to adjust their retirement planning. Perhaps one will delay retirement to allow the other to continue working. Both spouses need to consider their social security benefits which are likely to be based on each one's lifetime earnings. They may consider reducing life insurance coverage if the surviving spouse could manage on one salary.

Childless couples with two incomes may be able to acquire more appreciating assets at an earlier age. In that case, wise investment planning is necessary.

Before you decide to become a two-paycheck family, CPAs advise drawing up a financial plan to be certain you come out ahead. If the spouse returning to work can command only a modest in-

RICHARD C. KAUFMAN RUNS FOR CIRCUIT COURT

Do the presidential election prospects have you leaning toward "None of the Above"? Do the candidates for local office seem to be coming out of the woodwork? There is one name to watch — Richard Kaufman. "Richard Kaufman?" you say, "the name sounds familiar..."

You may recognize the name as the attorney who championed the cause of Wayne County residents and unmarried drivers against the automobile insurance companies who charged them higher rates. Attorney Kaufman also worked for years as legal advisor to the Wayne County Organized Crime Task Force.

Kaufman, an honors graduate of the University of Michigan and Wayne State Law School, is a candidate for Wayne County Circuit Court in the August 5 Primary Election. He has strong feelings about the quality (or lack of quality) in the Michigan judiciary after practicing law in Wayne County for years. "Often a judge in Michigan retains his office for so many years that he ceases to be a servant of the law, and instead views the law as his servant. I believe there are strong arguments in favor of a limitation on the amount of years a person can hold judicial office."

On August 5, when you pull the lever or punch the holes on the primary election ballot, take a moment to read down the list of candidates and find the name, RICHARD C. KAUFMAN. He will make a fine judge and he deserves your vote.

Information provided and paid for by Kaufman for Circuit Court Committee, 19952 Stratford, Detroit, Michigan 48221.

Blood Drive Successful at Bon Secours

Bon Secours Hospital employees and friends made an important contribution to the community by donating 234 pints of blood to the American Red Cross on July 14.

A total of 330 employees volunteered for the annual drive. According to Betty Navin, director of food services and drive chairperson, it was a success because "Our employees realize the importance of donating blood."

Under the Red Cross Community Coverage Plan, the responsibility of donating blood is placed on the entire community, not just the friends or relatives of individuals requiring blood.

Because of the coverage plan, all southeastern Michigan residents receive blood when they need it, regardless of their donating history.

Income Tax Exemptions
 Cut the Cost of Moving

A job in another city awaits you and the family must move. Is there any way to save money during this tedious process?

Yes, says The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants, schedule your move between October and May when prices are lower. Local moving companies generally base their prices on hourly rates while the cost of a longer move depends upon the weight of the shipment and the distance to be traveled.

You can deduct some moving expenses in full on your federal income tax return. Costs of transportation, meals and lodging are deductible if incurred while the family travels to the new home. You also can deduct food and lodging the day before you leave your old house and the day you arrive.

When moving household appliances you can deduct the cost of connecting or disconnecting utilities from your federal return. However, the cost of installing a telephone is not deductible, say CPAs. Be sure to check with the utility companies to find out if you have refunds coming. These refunds are not regarded as taxable income.

The costs of pre-move house-hunting trips are deductible so long as the costs of such trips plus the costs of temporary living expenses don't exceed $1,500. The trips must be made by you or a member of your household with the main purpose of looking for a place to live. You do not have to find a house, though, to qualify for the federal tax deduction.

When your employer pays your moving expenses it must be reported as income, CPAs advise. However, you can still take a deduction for your expenses, so if they are within the allowable limits set up by the IRS, the income and the deduction should offset each other. If your employer reimburses you for a loss incurred on the sale of your former home, this reimbursement is taxed as ordinary income.

A close-mouthed person never has to swallow his words.

Michigan Waterways Delight Shipwatchers

Michigan, steeped in maritime tradition, is a shipwatcher's mecca with thousands of huge freighters and ocean-going ships plying the state's busy waterways each year, reports Automobile Club of Michigan.

Ship-watching vantage points are varied as the cargo aboard the vessels. They include restaurants, state parks, scenic bluffs overlooking Lake Michigan, an island, an international bridge and a 21-story observation tower.

It's little wonder why the Detroit River claims title to the world's busiest waterway, with more than 25 million tons of freight passing annually. Detroit's Belle Isle provides excellent views of huge Great Lakes freighters and foreign ships.

The 29-mile stretch along M-29 from Algonac to south of Port Huron offers some of the best ship watching in Michigan. Algonac's state and city parks front on the St. Clair River which connects the upper and lower Great Lakes.

Algonac State Park, two miles north of Algonac, is extremely close to the passing vessels since the river is only one-half mile wide at that point.

Many restaurants in the St. Clair area offer a pleasant river view. Two popular eateries—the Voyageur and St. Clair Inn—are connected by the world's longest freshwater boardwalk spanning seven blocks. North of town is Chuck Muer's River Crab, another fine waterfront restaurant.

The Blue Water Bridge connecting Port Huron and Sarnia, Ont., is open to pedestrians and provides a good spot for ship watching. Also offering a panoramic view are the North Scenic Turnout at the foot of the bridge; Pine Grove Park, on M-25 three blocks north of the business district, and the Fogcutter restaurant atop the Peoples Bank Building.

Grain is a main export from Bay City to Canadian ports via the Saginaw River, and Wenoah Park and Bay City State Park are good vantage points.

The mineral-rich northeast section of the Lower Peninsula lays claim to two "world's largest" titles. The Cement Division of National Gypsum Co. (formerly the Huron Portland Cement Co.) of Alpena is the world's largest cement plant while close to the two open locks, and several blocks away there's the 21-story Tower of History. The 45-second ride to the top is $1.50 for adults, 75 cents for youths.

Other U. P. ship-watching spots include Marquette's Presque Isle Park and Sand Point near Escanaba.

Major shipping points along the Lake Michigan shoreline include Traverse City, Muskegon, Holland, Grand Haven and St. Joseph.

Elmwood Park in Traverse City is near the loading docks, but for more aesthetic surroundings, try Peterson Township Park, three miles west of Northport, or Pt. Betsie near Frankfort.

Prime locations in Muskegon include Pere Marquette Park or Muskegon State Park. In Holland, there's the Kollens Park near Lake Macatawa; at Grand Haven, it's Grand Haven State Park and in St. Joseph, there's Margaret Upton Memorial Park on the St. Joseph River.

Although in financial trouble, Lake Michigan's "Love Boats" still run from Ludington and Frankfort-Elberta to three Wisconsin ports. The car ferries, which depart Frankfort-Elberta twice and Ludington thrice daily, are subsidized by the State of Michigan.

While freight is their main business, the ferries still transport passengers with or without automobiles. State rooms, a cocktail lounge and a dining room are available. Persons can watch the auto-passenger ferries load or unload from Stems Park public beach in Ludington or from the Elberta side of Betsie Lake near Frankfort.

BCBSM Leads National Plan

Nearly one of every 10 workers tested at three Detroit area worksites by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan had possible high blood pressure, the nation's No. 1 killer, BCBSM reported today.

The nation's 110 Blue Cross and Blue Shield programs will lead an unprecedented national attack on high blood pressure (hypertension), the major factor in heart disease and strokes.

"Worksite blood pressure control projects could be the single most effective means of dramatically improving the nation's health while actually reducing health care costs," John McCabe, BCBSM president declared.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan served as a test site in development of the program which calls for annual screening of Blue Cross-Blue Shield subscriber group members at their work places.

As in the BCBSM program, workers with above-normal readings will be referred to physicians for diagnosis and treatment.

Nurses and other volunteers provided free by the Michigan Red Cross and the Wayne County Department of Health conducted the tests.

"Blue Cross and Blue

Shield has developed plans for assisting employers with program planning, health staff training, obtaining outside assistance, employee education, and on-going consultation and follow-up," McCabe said.

At present, only workers with Master Medical coverage get any reimbursement from BCBSM for visits to doctors' offices, McCabe said.

But, he added, BCBSM is considering a pilot project of paying for hypertension control office visits. Feasibility of other alternatives to assist and encourage employers to undertake programs is also being studied, he said.

"The real incentive for hypertensive employees should be the likelihood of a longer, happier life with far less chance of crippling or fatal heart attack, stroke, diabetes or kidney failure," McCabe stated.

"For employers, the real incentive should be the savings of a substantial portion of the estimated $300 annual cost of cardiovascular disease per employee in large manufacturing plants."

Nearly one in every five adults in Michigan has high blood pressure and the disease is a factor in half the state's annual death toll, according to Michigan Department of Public Health statistics.

Dog Virus On Increase

A viral infection of dogs that primarily causes severe diarrhea (enteritis) has apparently become more common in the last two years, according to William Schall, D.V.M., associate professor of small animal surgery and medicine at Michigan State University.

The disease is caused by a parvo virus, which usually infects the lining of the dog's intestinal tract causing severe diarrhea and sometimes vomiting.

"Most mature dogs that contract the disease survive with veterinary medical treatment," says Dr. Schall. "However, many puppies do not survive in spite of treatment."

Although the dog parvo virus most often affects the intestinal tract, the virus also is known to affect the bone marrow and the heart. When it affects the heart, the virus can cause quick death without any indication of illness. When the bone marrow is affected, dogs usually have diarrhea and are vulnerable to additional bacterial infections because the disease diminishes the animal's white blood cell defense mechanisms.

"Fortunately, a vaccine is now available and highly effective in preventing the disease," Dr. Schall reports. "Unfortunately, demand for the vaccine has temporarily exceeded the manufacturer's production capabilities."

Church Hosts Texas Artist

Professor of Music at Texas Tech University, Dr. Judson Maynard, will present a carillon recital on Aug. 4 at the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore Drive at 7 p.m. His program will include original carillon music, folk songs, and transcriptions of music by Chopin, Mozart, Franck and Mendelssohn.

Dr. Maynard is a carillon member of the Guild of Carillonists in North America and received his Final Diploma in Carillon at the Netherlands Carillon

School in 1979. He has played organ and carillon recitals in various parts of the U.S. as well as in Europe.

The public is invited to attend the free recital. The audience can listen from their parked cars or bring chairs and blankets and sit by the lakeside and enjoy the view of the boats on Lake St. Clair.

The following recital will be presented by Memorial Church Carillonist, William De Turk, on Aug. 11. For this recital the tower will be open to the public.

Less Gas Is Consumed

Last year the average driver used seven percent less gasoline compared to the year before and saved the equivalent of all the gas used in an entire year by Alaska, Arizona, Hawaii, Nevada and Oregon.

That kind of energy conservation also cuts air pollution, says the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan, since cars are one of the chief causes of pollution.

Small cars that get more miles per gallon are the shape of the future. While full-size cars took 40 percent of the market in 1972, last year they dropped to four percent. General Motors has announced plans to slim down its average-sized cars another 700 pounds by 1987 and alter its average fuel consumption goals from a current 19 miles per gallon to 27.5 miles.

The gas-guzzler is becoming an endangered species. Consumers, says the Wall Street Journal, still spend some six percent of their after-tax incomes on cars, only slightly less than in 1950, a boom year for U.S. automakers. But—incredibly—for the last four years, people have spent more for gas and motor oil than for new autos.

Keeping older cars properly maintained is important, says the American Lung Association. They recommend having engines and car exhaust checked at least once a year to save gas, money, and health. More fuel-efficient cars, shorter trips, car pools, increased use of public transportation, walking and biking can help cut gas consumption and air pollution.

Some futurists feel tomorrow's world may involve even less car travel because telecommunications will help families and coworkers talk to one another on video screens rather than meeting in person or going to a central place to work.

Lawmakers Close Loophole

A law signed last month by Gov. William Milliken quickly capped the loophole in Michigan's liquor control law that would have allowed customers to bring their own alcoholic beverages into restaurants.

The loophole was revealed when the Michigan Court of Appeals ruled that Le Cafe Francais in Grosse Pointe Woods could allow its patrons to tote their own beer and wine for consumption with their meal.

THE DECISION confused some restaurant owners and law enforcement and city officials because it apparently opened the door for booze to be carried and served in unlicensed establishments.

The ruling was of particular concern to Grosse Pointe Woods city officials since they had just spent a year trying to prevent Le Cafe from getting a tavern license on the grounds that the number of liquor-serving restaurants in the Woods should be limited.

The appeals court decision came the day after the Woods council backed down and granted Le Cafe its license.

That same day, the council also considered a new ordinance for the August primary election that would prevent the issuance of more licenses. There are currently six establishments in the Woods that are licensed to sell and serve liquor, beer or wine.

John Dankel, Woods public safety director, said that there were no problems reported during the two weeks that the loophole was opened.

Dankel and other city officials had earlier expressed concern that the loophole had negated the purpose of the liquor licensing process.

Thieves Take 'Their' Time on Kercheval Avenue

Thieves smashed their way into the Pointe Clocks on Kercheval last week and took over $2,000 worth of merchandise, according to the store at 15121 Kercheval barometers were reported missing. Police said they have no suspects in the incident.

Owners of the shop discovered the front window of several small clocks and broken when they opened for business on Friday, July 25.

Oil Enriches Scotland's Shetlands

Scotland's Shetland Islands, in the heart of the North Sea oil producing area, have already received nearly $34 million in tax revenues from the activity. The area of the islands is 225 square miles; population, about 20,000. Lerwick has 6,000.

New Trustees Sworn In

Know Your Schools

By Superintendent William Coats

Although most students ended their 1979-80 school year with the last day of classes in June, 165 high school students chose to spend the lazy, hazy days of summer continuing their learning in classes and activities of this year's summer program.

For the past five weeks these 185 students, who regularly attend the community's public, private and parochial secondary schools, and some 20 adult residents participated in a variety of educational experiences offered in the school system's senior high and adult summer program.

While it is true that the program didn't offer everything from A to Z, there were some interesting and challenging courses available. A combination of automotive and small engine repair workshop was taught by South High instructor David Basehore. He showed students how to diagnose malfunctions and avoid trouble in automotive systems and taught those studying small engine repair about preventive maintenance and how to fix power lawnmowers and similar small engines.

In the area of business education, 480 fingers got pretty familiar with a typewriter keyboard as 48 students enrolled in two typing workshops conducted by Jane Leonard, an instructor at North High during the regular school year. Advanced students in those workshops were also given the opportunity to prepare for office practice and secretarial training courses.

Those who enjoy painting and pictures were also accommodated. An art workshop and a photography class were taught by Paula Miriani, who gave the aspiring artists help in drawing, painting and various crafts and taught the basic fundamentals of photography to 14 young shutterbugs.

"Reading, writing, and arithmetic" courses were available in this session of summer school. John Shanley, a South High instructor, taught a class in speed reading, which was designed to improve their vocabulary, comprehension, and reading rate skills. A writing workshop class was taught by North High's Eva Koch, and Veronica Law taught a combination class of introductory high school English and individualized English, providing make-up credit for graduation requirements.

In mathematics, combination classes of algebra and advanced algebra and geometry and general math were taught by Carl Justice of South High while North High's Herm Bryant taught a section of beginning algebra. By successfully completing these courses, students were either able to move from a regular course into an accelerated program or earn credits for graduation requirements.

Also offered for make-up credit was a combination American Government-Civics-U.S. History class taught by Rod Scott of South High School.

According to Donald Messing, the administrator who directed the senior high and adult summer school, the session was very successful and everyone seemed to enjoy the session.

Wayne County: A head for the headless horseman

Wayne County voters, including those in the Grosse Pointes, will have an opportunity to strike a blow for more effective government when they go to the polls Tuesday, Aug. 5, to decide whether to create a commission to draw up a new charter to govern the county.

Wayne County's government has been a disgrace for years but little has been done to improve it. Instead, the county has sunk deeper into debt, its employees continue to be chosen by a civil service system that masks a spoils system, and its services and facilities face financial starvation caused in part by waste and duplication.

WHY HAS WAYNE County government gone downhill so rapidly in recent years?

Recession and rampant inflation have hurt the county as they have all units of government and all citizens. But the county's problems go deeper than these external conditions that affect revenues and costs. The county is governed in large part by nine elected officials plus an unwieldy elected board of county commissioners of 27 members. The diversity of the responsibilities of these officials and the number of people involved make efficient administration impossible.

When no one is held responsible, nobody really minds the store. Department heads tend to make their own decisions without consultation or meaningful review. There is little uniformity in purchasing and personnel policies. There is a great amount of costly duplication and overlapping of services. And the many elected officials tend to become easy marks for strong labor union organizations, as illustrated by the recent finding that Wayne County employees receive wages well in excess of those paid by the City of Detroit and private industry in the Detroit area for similar jobs.

Inefficient and costly government is a heavy burden for taxpayers to bear under any circumstances. But when the size and complexity of county government are considered and when it requires an annual budget of $400 million a year, including County Road Commission funds, to service a population of 2.7 million, sweeping reforms obviously are required.

The Grosse Pointe News believes that a new home rule charter for the county would definitely lead to improvement. Voters could start the move by voting YES on Proposal A to establish a commission to draw up the county charter and by nominating candidates for the charter commission in the August primary.

IF PROPOSAL A carries, the commissioners elected in November would draft two versions of a charter to submit to the voters. One would provide for an elected county executive and the other for a county manager appointed by the board. Voters then would be given the opportunity to choose one charter or reject them both. If both were rejected, the commission could submit a revised version but if it, too, failed to pass, the commission would be dissolved. Obviously, we hope it doesn't come to that.

There are obvious differences of opinion about the relative merits of elected and appointed county executives. But in either case one administrator would be in charge and could be held accountable to the voters or to the board. In either case, such an executive would end the reign of the "headless horsemen" who preside over the county range in all directions and more often serve their own interests than those of the people of Wayne County.

In addition to setting up a county administrator, the charter commission would be authorized to reduce the county board from its current representation of 27 to as few as five and to consolidate or abolish other county offices or make them appointive or elective. Even the powerful Wayne County Road Commission could be brought to heel by giving the appointment power to the county executive or manager with the approval of the county board. The board of commissioners would revert to a legislative body dealing with policy rather than day-to-day administration.

WAYNE COUNTY IS the only county over one million population in the country that has failed to use either its constitutional right to adopt a charter or its statutory authority to reorganize its form of government. By voting YES on Proposal A on Aug. 5 county voters can start to correct that deficiency and in November elect a charter commission to bring about long needed reform.

The Grosse Pointes are fortunate in having several first-rate candidates among the nine running for the charter commission in the First District who will, if the voters approve, help draft two charter proposals for submission to Wayne County voters.

Whether they favor an elected executive or an appointed manager, these candidates share a conviction that the county needs a single strong administrator who can and should be held responsible for making the county operate effectively and efficiently. They also tend to agree that the board of county commissioners should be reduced in size and administrative authority and should become essentially a policy-making legislative body.

Because the Charter Commission will be elected on a partisan basis, the Grosse Pointe News recommends the two candidates it regards as the most able and best qualified on the Republican and Democratic tickets. While other observers no doubt will make different recommendations, part of the responsibility of any newspaper serving its local community is to express its own choices based on interviews and other information about the candidates.

On the basis of such information, the News recommends that the voters in the Tuesday, August 5, primary nominate Barbara B. Gattorn on the Republican ticket and Edward R. Wilson on the Democratic ticket.

Mrs. Gattorn has had experience in banking, has run for the county board, is working on a degree in economics at the University of Detroit and has been active in community, civic and church organizations. She is a member of the New Detroit Urban Resources Committee and has served on the subcommittee on Wayne County Reorganization, an experience that heightened her concern for improving Wayne County government. Civic Searchlight, the nonpartisan rating agency, says she is well qualified.

Wilson, a Wayne State University Law School graduate, has been the principal attorney in the Wayne County prosecutor's office since 1978 and has held other legal posts with the county and state government. He favors reorganization that would unify all aspects of a function in a single unit of authority and responsibility and accountability. He gained special insight into county problems while trying a civil lawsuit by the prosecuting attorney against county government over funding and staffing. He is rated preferred and well qualified by Civic Searchlight.

As we indicated earlier, there are other capable and qualified candidates on both tickets.

On the Republican ticket, we cite especially Leonard C. Jacques, a maritime lawyer with broad experience in public affairs who is a graduate of the Washington College of Law of American University in Washington, D.C., and who is rated preferred and well qualified by the Civic Searchlight; and Randy R. DuFour, a Wayne State graduate with a master's degree from the University of Michigan, who is director of support services for Hospice of Southeastern Michigan and served as an administrative analyst for the Board of Wayne County Auditors for two years.

On the Democratic ticket, we call attention to the qualifications of Anita Jordan McIntyre, a University of Detroit law professor, who is a graduate of that law school as well as of Smith College and who gained experience in county government as a health inspector. Civic Searchlight rates her as well qualified.

Running on a record

For the first time since Rep. William Bryant was elected to the State House of Representatives 10 years ago he faces primary opposition this year. As a result voters in the 13th District have had more opportunity than usual to hear Bryant defend his record and discuss the major problems facing Michigan.

Patricia A. Higgins is the Grosse Pointe Woods housewife and community activist who is forcing Bryant to defend his record and who can take credit for stirring up interest in the contest for state representative from this district.

Mrs. Higgins is a forthright candidate who says what she believes and obviously believes what she says. Active in church, school and community affairs, she is president of the Grosse Pointe Motion Picture-TV Council and vice-president of the Better Literature for Youth organization. She is a housewife, mother of five and works as a dental hygienist.

Her campaign centers on her criticism of the "due on sale" clause of House Bill 4426 which Bryant supported, her demands for stronger anti-pornographic legislation and her support for the Tisch Amendment. She sees the Tisch measure as a means of cutting government spending, providing tax relief for senior citizens and making possible a 50 percent tax cut for property owners.

While the Grosse Pointe News credits Mrs. Higgins with enlivening the primary campaign, we still believe Rep. Bryant deserves to be nominated on the basis of his record of achievement in Lansing which was climaxed by his selection as House Republican Leader.

That position gives Bryant unusual standing among the outnumbered Republicans in the House and provides his constituents with greater influence than other GOP legislators can offer. Bryant's leadership also has been recognized by the National Republican Legislators Association which has picked him as its next president.

WHILE THESE STATE and national roles have taken a good deal of time—and resulted in some criticism that he has neglected his own constituents—he has continued to represent his district effectively on a wide range of legislative interests.

He helped work out acceptable language for the legislation authorizing the Wayne County reorganization plan. He appointed a GOP task force to seek reform in the state workmen's compensation legislation. He pushed for enactment of legislation providing a single district judgeship for the Pointes, although last-minute delays scuttled implementation of the plan. He championed fair treatment for Cottage Hospital on the bed reduction threat. He helped draft a model pornography bill.

On the tax issue, which shapes up as perhaps the major state controversy of the 1980 campaign, Bryant takes strong issue with the Tisch Amendment which he regards as simplistic and a potential disaster because of "the loss of income to local government as well as the state."

Instead, he supported a tax cut averaging $100 million per year as part of a tax shift proposal made by the Democratic majority and finally put on the November ballot. On this issue, he won Democratic acquiescence in a plan to index the personal exemption on the income tax so that it will rise as inflation continues. On the tax issue, Bryant declined to go along completely with Gov. William Milliken, proving he is not a rubber-stamp for the governor.

With the state buffeted by recession and inflation, Bryant's experience in and knowledge of tax issues and the other problems facing the state strongly recommend his re-nomination August 5.

Vote 'Yes' on Wayne County

To the Editor:

At long last Wayne County voters have an opportunity to do something constructive about our antiquated and inefficient county government.

Incredible as it may seem, the structure of county government has remained virtually unchanged since 1796. The result is lack of flexibility, overlapping responsibilities, and no executive to oversee and coordinate county functions.

The first step in the process of revitalizing the county would be the election of a charter commission. This group would be responsible for writing a charter, a blueprint for an orderly and responsive county government, to present to the voters for their approval.

A charter commission is vital to correcting the obvious deficiencies in the structure of Wayne County.

The League of Women Voters of Grosse Pointe urges you to vote "yes" on County Home Rule Proposal A on August 5.

The League of Women Voters is a national, non-partisan organization established 60 years ago to encourage citizen participation in government.

From Another Pointe of View

It's time for members of the Michigan Chapter of the Circumnavigators Club and their ladies to embark on another of their super Summer Safaris.

They set out this Sunday, from north, south, east and west, for the Belleville Lake estate of Circum Vice President H. Fred Campbell and an afternoon and evening of boat rides, dancing, horse shoes, shuffleboard, fun, games and festivities.

They set out knowing they're in for a good time, for they've always had a great one at Fred Campbell's. He's put his lakefront acreage at the disposal of his fellow Circumnavigators for several Summer Safaris now, and these world travelers, who've checked out Shangri-La's from the Himalayas to the Hebrides, are agreed: Fred's place may not be heaven, but it's pretty darn close to it.

Circum President James J. Trebilcote, of Alger place, indicates that this year's safari will be particularly noteworthy, for several international of-

To Present Annual Art Festival in Fall At War Memorial

It's midsummer, but planning already is well underway for one of autumn's premier events in The Pointe: the 21st Annual Fall Art Festival co-sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Artists Association and the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Center.

It's set this year for Saturday, September 13, all day—10 in the morning to 5 in the afternoon—on the War Memorial's Lakeshore road grounds.

General chairman is Corinne (Mrs. Stanley F.) Dolega. Her co-chairmen are Elizabeth (Mrs. Thomas) Jefferis, in charge of printing, and Lee (Mrs. John R., Jr.) McKinley, in charge of security, public parking and exhibitor parking.

Entries chairman is Molly (Mrs. Edgar) Flintermann. Jury chairman is Marge (Mrs. Bruce) Caulkins. Flower and poster chairmen are, respectively, Sharon (Mrs. Garrick) Lowe and Chloe (Mrs. Frank) Boehm.

Sylvia (Mrs. Richard) Mitchell is responsible for publicity. James Stelma is information and grounds chairman.

All of them, along with Pointe Artists Association President Edna (Mrs. Frank) Bakewicz, are busy right now arranging this year's festivities.

They are preparing for over 170 painters and artist-craftsmen who will be coming from as far away as Florida and Colorado to exhibit and sell their wares.

A special feature of the festival this year will be the participation of Jon Buechel, illustrator for the Detroit Free Press, who will be appearing in the Library Room of the War Memorial's Alger House with an exhibit of his work.

Mrs. Dolega reports that Buechel is an animated conversationalist who enjoys meeting people and discussing his work. Born in Centerline, where he now lives, his first inspiration came when he used to spy on weddings at the church next door to his family's house, then run home and sketch the gowns.

With Navy service in the Aleutian Islands during World War II and art school classes in Detroit behind him, his drawings became more worldly, and he was discovered by a former Free Press fashion editor.

His illustrations have been delighting Detroiters for 30 years now, but at home, doing watercolors and oil paintings, he presents a different image from the perfectly coordinated fashion artist at work.

"Around the house," he says, "I'm happy to live in blue jeans, old sweatshirts and bare feet." At home, sketching and painting, he likes to listen to circus music, Broadway musicals and Gregorian chants.

Leslie Kujawski Wed to Mr. Carr

She Carries Godmother's Prayerbook with Single Orchid and Ivy at Late May Ceremony in Memorial Church

Mr. and Mrs. Kevin F. Carr, who vacationed in Toronto following their wedding Saturday, May 31, in Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, are now at home in Detroit.

Mrs. Carr is the former Leslie Ann Kujawski, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter F. Kujawski, of Barclay road. Mr. Carr is the son of the William Carrs, of Birmingham.

The 6 o'clock rites at which Dr. David Antonson presided were followed by a reception at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

The bride selected an Ivory gown for her early evening wedding, styled with long, leg-o-mutton sleeves and featuring a satin bodice and a chiffon skirt bordered in satin. Seed pearls embroidered the cap that held her Alencon lace-bordered, cathedral length veil.

She carried her godmother's mother-of-pearl and gold-bound prayerbook, with a single, ivory orchid and streaming ivy, and wore the strand of pearls given to her by her godmother, Mrs. Edward Milewski, who is also her aunt.

Honor matron Mrs. Mark Kujawski and bridesmaid Patricia Carr, the bridegroom's sister, were also in ivory ensembles: two-tiered sheer skirts and off-the-shoulder spaghetti-strapped bodices.

They wore sprigs of baby's-breath in their hair and carried bouquets of ivory cymbidium orchids, stephanotis and ivy.

Best man was Leon Le-Brecque. Guests were seated by three brothers of the bride, Walter F. Kujawski, Jr., of Charlevoix, Mark and James M. Kujawski.

Beading and brilliants accented the waist and wrists of the floor-length, scooped-necked, long-sleeved gown of sea green chiffon Mrs. Kujawski chose for her daughter's wedding. She carried a single, long-stemmed ivory rose.

The bridegroom's mother selected salmon chiffon, full length and hand-painted, and pinned a single ivory cymbidium orchid to her purse.

The former Miss Kujawski holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Journalism from the University of Michigan, is now in her final year at the University of Detroit School of Law and is working for the law firm of Rifkin, Kingsley and Rhodes in Detroit.

The bridegroom received his Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science from the State University of New York and his Juris Doctorate from the University of Michigan this May. He is with the law firm of Stahlburg, Bean and Laritz.

Out-of-town guests included the bridegroom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kelly and their son Bill, of Columbus, O., and his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. James Gill, as well as another aunt, Mrs. David Reardon, from New York, and another uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ducker, plus a fourth aunt, Mrs. William R. Keahon, who came from Pennsylvania, and, from New York, Mrs. William Spinelli.

W. S. Laitner To Claim Bride

Father Michael Donovan presided at the noon rites for which the bride, the former Mary Ellen Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. John Burke, of Lewiston road, wore a wedding gown of English net and appliqued lace, and a short veil with a headpiece of Rose-pointe lace first worn by her grandmother, Mrs.

Cyril J. Burke, on her wedding day.

She carried a cascade of white roses, with stephanotis, delphinium and ivy.

She was attended by a sister, Colleen Marie Burke, as honor maid, and bridesmaids Peggy Varty, of Littleton, Colo., another sister, Shirley Juip, of DesPlaines, Ill., Maryanne Miller, of Schaumburg, Ill., Anne Bincelli, of Lombard, Ill., and Nellouise Schatz, of Hoffman Estates, Ill.

They wore sleeveless dresses of powder blue chiffon, and flowers in their hair, and carried Colonial bouquets of white carnations and pink miniature roses.

Louis F. Agocs came from Dayton, O., to act as best man for his brother. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Agocs, of Berwyn.

In the usher corps were John and Robert Burke, brothers of the bride, Thomas Dymann, of Champaign, Ill., Gilbert Grossi, of Elmwood Park, Ill., and Gary Lundin, of East Rochester, N.Y.

For her daughter's wedding and the reception following at the Country Club of Detroit, Mrs. Burke chose a dress of floral print chiffon, long-sleeved and featuring a ruffled neckline.

The bridegroom's mother wore pale grey chiffon, also long-sleeved, styled with a pleated bodice and a pink belt.

Unearthing America's 'Prehistoric' Past in The Mississippi Valley with Modern Day Explorers

By Madeleine Jacobs
Smithsonian News Service

For most of us, American history begins in the 1600s when European colonists settled on the East Coast. But clues to America's more distant past may actually be buried in our own backyards, especially those in the Mississippi Valley.

It is there, in the rich, fertile floodplains of the valley that many "prehistoric" Indians, living hundreds of years ago and predating modern Indian tribes, built their homes and left evidence of their cultures.

Time and dirt have covered these over, but archaeologists looking for America's roots are digging into these prehistoric sites. Among these modern-day explorers is Dr. Bruce Smith, of the Smithsonian Institution's Museum of Natural History.

"We now know that man lived in America for many thousands of years before European explorers and settlers arrived and we want to learn more about these cultures," he explains. "Unfortunately, many sites are disappearing because of construction and agricultural practices."

"By the year 2000, virtually all evidence of prehistoric occupation of the Mississippi Valley will have vanished. If we don't make an attempt now, we'll never know about these cultures."

Smith has studied the Temple Mound builders who lived between 800 and 1600 A.D. in the Mississippi Valley and elsewhere in the United States. His research is an outgrowth of pioneering studies of these indigenous American Indians by the Smithsonian's Mound Exploration Division nearly 100 years ago.

"From their research, we know that the Temple Mound builders were primarily farmers who attained the highest level of cultural development in North America prior to the European involvement," Smith says. "This took the form of a sophisticated 'chiefdom' level of organization, with an elite group that made many of the decisions facing their society."

The mounds themselves marked the ceremonial, administrative and defensive center of the chiefdom, which ranged in size from 500 to more than 1,000 people. Most of these people lived in small villages and on single-family farmsteads.

The elite, however, lived in a fortified ceremonial center with their structures and houses built on rectangular flat-topped earthen mounds, constructed from thousands of basket-loads of dirt from the river valley.

One of the 1,600 mound centers investigated by the Mound Exploration Division was the Powers "Fort" in southeastern Missouri. Division members excavated and described the ceremonial center of the chiefdom in the early 1880s, but further research was not undertaken until the late 1960s when a University of Michigan research team, including Smith, excavated several outlying villages.

In 1974 Smith directed a group of students in the first excavation of a single-family farmstead of the Powers Chiefdom. "Our goal was to learn more about the everyday life of an average, non-elite Indian family," he recalls.

How does an archaeologist reconstruct the lives of people who left only fragmentary shreds of their existence?

"It's like putting together the pieces of a complex puzzle," he says. "The objects by themselves do not tell us very much—we have to see how they are located in relationship to each other and in what context they are found. That's why excavations are so slow and tedious. Also, even before you select a site you have to know what questions you want answered."

Smith wanted to learn how long and during what seasons the site was occupied, the size and composition of the occupying group, activities carried out at the site and the overall role of the site in the chiefdom.

Student archaeologists took 10 weeks to excavate the 8,000-square-foot site. Soil disturbed by the plow was first removed, revealing the remains of two houses and a series of pits where different activities such as butchering and cooking apparently were carried out.

The remaining soil was then carefully scraped away with small trowels, grapefruit knives and spoons, uncovering additional artifacts one by one. Each item was photographed in place, assigned a number and bagged. Next, all dirt excavated was washed through a fine screen, revealing very small items.

Ultimately, almost 50,000 objects—ranging from flakes of stone and ceramics, clay fragments, bones of small animals and fish, to nut fragments, seeds and other plant remains—were recovered from the site.

Smith personally examined each of these items and was able to identify the function of about half, a process that took three years and hundreds of laboratory hours.

To distinguish man-related artifacts from those formed by nature, objects were compared with other known documented objects and with those found at the site. Patterns of wear were examined with a microscope. Radiocarbon dating was used to determine the age of organic materials, such as wood.

Armed with this detailed analysis, Smith began to put together a picture of life at the farmstead. He concluded that around 1300 A.D. an extended family of five to seven males and females lived at this site for one to three years.

"From bones and tools found, we know that the males hunted white-tailed deer, raccoon, fox, squirrel, beaver, rabbit and wild turkey during the fall and winter and fish and waterfowl during the spring and summer," he says.

"One of the two houses seemed to be used for sleeping and keeping warm during the winter. The other house was the center of daily life at the farm, with broken pottery vessels and tools recovered from inside testifying to the wide variety of activities that were carried out there. From this evidence, we concluded that the site was occupied year-round."

He also found evidence of food preparation such as cooking equipment and remains of wild plants and nuts from hickory and oak trees. Just as hunting is traditionally a male-oriented activity in Indian cultures, food preparation is the province of females, Smith says.

Both males and females probably raised squash, corn and beans in a domesticated garden. The farmstead was about two miles from the

Health Quack Help Is Never A Bargain Says State Medical Society President

"If you want to save money on health care, don't be taken in by health quackery," says John R. Ylvisaker, M.D., president of the Michigan State Medical Society.

He makes the remarks at a time when everyone is feeling the effects of a tight economy and looking for ways to save money.

"Physicians are very sensitive to public concerns over the costs of health care, hospitalization and physician fees," notes Dr. Ylvisaker. "Yet we continue to wonder why otherwise intelligent people will insist on spending large sums of money on questionable remedies, nostrums and outright phony promises of health, beauty or relief from pain."

Before spending hard-earned money on any of a variety of health remedies, weight-loss schemes, bust developers, hair growers, arthritis relievers, etc., Dr. Ylvisaker recommends asking yourself a number of questions about the advertised item, device or service:

—Does the product promote itself as a "new, scientific breakthrough?"

—Does the promoter refer to the product as a "secret" cure or remedy?

—Does the product rely on testimonials from users?

—Does the ad seem vague and refer to ill-defined pains or feelings?

—Does the product or service claim effectiveness for a whole host of ailments?

In explanation, Doctor Ylvisaker notes that "Many questionable promotions talk about 'medical studies' or 'reports in leading medical journals' without ever identifying authors, journals or the supposed 'scientific institutions.' Add to this the fact that such ads and claims usually appear in the more sensationalized publications, and you can generally bet the whole thing's a sham."

Likewise, beware of the claim for a "secret" cure, especially when the promoter of it claims to be persecuted by the medical establishment or the government.

"As physicians we are simply too busy to spend our time chasing down every phony promising secret cure and therefore are certainly not persecuting these people. Yet such claims often win popular support, Americans like to root for the underdog," says Ylvisaker.

Sometimes such ads will go so far as to use the words "medically approved" or "A.M.A. approved." Such claims are completely untrue since neither the AMA nor the MSMS ever endorses any commercial product or service, explains the MSMS president.

"We are also very skeptical about testimonials from satisfied users of a product or service, because they may be paid statements or honest comments from persons who simply are unaware that the product they used had nothing to do with their improved conditions," says the doctor.

"Many diseases and conditions are self-limiting or spontaneously appear and disappear. If a person happens to use a particular product or treatment just prior to a disappearance or easing of a condition, he may mistakenly assume the product was responsible. As a result he continues to spend money for the product while promoting its virtues to his friends, even though it is actually worthless."

Another problem with many of the health promotions is their reliance on self-diagnosis. "There's an old saying that 'The doctor who treats himself has a fool for a patient,' and it is likewise even more foolish for an untrained layperson to try diagnosing an ailment or condition," says Dr. Ylvisaker.

"Not only may a person be treating him or herself for the wrong or non-existent condition; such self-diagnosis may put off proper medical care for a serious problem until it is too late or, at the very least, far more costly than a visit to a competent physician for early diagnosis and treatment."

Offering advice about products and treatments to be suspicious of, Dr. Ylvisaker points out several favorite items and services which organized medicine, federal and state agencies and legitimate organizations have repeatedly cautioned the public about:

—Effortless exercise and dietless reducing plans. No exercise is any good until it forces you to exert yourself, and the only proven way to lose weight is to eat less. Most diet pills are worthless; some may even be harmful. Be especially wary of any product promising amazing results in a very short time.

—Vitamins and dietary supplements. A recent Food and Drug Administration survey indicated that three out of four Americans mistakenly believe that no matter how adequate their diets, taking extra vitamins automatically provides more pep and energy. The fact is that most people eating reasonably balanced meals on a regular basis get all the necessary vitamins and minerals they need. The body doesn't store excess vitamins, but flushes them out through the kidneys. And remember — very few American illnesses are due to a diet deficiency.

—Hair growers and baldness preventers. Some 85 to 95 percent of all cases of baldness are of the male pattern type, a hereditary condition for which there is no known cure.

—Bust developers. Usually promoted as hormone creams or exercise devices. Despite "unretouched photos, before and after," these products do not build buxom bosoms. Exercise may build muscles, but the female breast is a gland, not a muscle, and therefore is unaffected by exercise per se.

—Quit-smoking products.

There is no known drug or drug combination that will, in itself, cure or permanently eliminate the desire for tobacco. They all lack the most important ingredient: will power.

—Finally, Dr. Ylvisaker recommends a good deal of healthy skepticism in viewing any health claims for products and services. He reminds the public that many people assume that such advertisements must be true or else newspapers and magazines wouldn't run them. Quite the contrary: few publications screen ads for accuracy.

The best cure for quackery is education, since quackery plays not only on the emotions but on lack of knowledge as well.

Miss Zinn Married To Dr. E.V. Larson

They Are at Home in Minneapolis Suburb While Bridegroom Continues Orthodontics Studies at University of Minnesota

The 7 o'clock candlelight service in First English Lutheran Church at which Karen Marie Zinn and Dr. Edwin V. Larson, Jr., exchanged marriage vows was followed by a dinner dance reception at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club.

The bride, granddaughter of Mrs. Joseph Krajci, of Albany, N.Y., was given in marriage by her brother, Richard W. Zinn, of Vincentown, N.J.

Following the Saturday, May 31, ceremony, at which The Reverend Paul Keppler presided, the newlyweds left to vacation in Jamaica, at Ocho Rios.

They are at home in Eden Prairie, Minn., a suburb of Minneapolis, while the bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin V. Larson, of Shoreham road, continues his study of Orthodontics at the University of Minnesota.

The former Miss Zinn, of Costa Mesa, Calif., formerly of Long Island, N.Y., wore a gown of silk Venise lace and chiffon, styled with a soft, flowing skirt and full, bishop sleeves. Seed pearls accented her fitted bodice and high neckline.

Matching lace trimmed her waltz length veil. White and pink roses, baby's-breath and ivy formed her bouquet.

Linda Bouris, who came from Nova Scotia to serve as her sister's honor attendant, and bridesmaids Karen Arnold, of Denver, Colo., and Carol Reiman, of Warren, both sisters of the bridegroom, D. J. Favele, of New York, and Dawn O'Malley, of San Francisco, college friends of the bride, wore dresses of seafoam green Qiana featuring spaghetti-strapped bodices and sheath skirts with split, rounded overlays, and bolero jackets, gathered at their shoulders.

They carried arrangements of pink and white roses, carnations and baby's-breath, and wore sprigs of baby's-breath in their hair.

Dr. Win Ahrens, of Cincinnati, O., the bridegroom's former Denison University classmate, was best man.

Ushering were Skip Remter, the bridegroom's cousin, Charles Haulick, of San Diego, Calif., a former naval officer with the bridegroom aboard the aircraft carrier USS Constellation, and two former University of Michigan Dental School classmates of the bridegroom, Dr. Jim Berg, of Ann Arbor, and Dr. Steve Echols, of Canton.

Mrs. Krajci selected a floor length dress for her granddaughter's wedding, V-necked, long-sleeved and beige in color. Her corsage was a green cymbidium orchid.

A lace inset accented the waist of the bridegroom's mother's long gown. It was bright pink in color, and featured chiffon sleeves. Her corsage was a white cymbidium orchid.

Two Meadow Brook Delights in August

Guest of honor at the Meadow Brook Festival Women's Committee's pre-concert supper party Saturday, August 2, in a tent on the festival picnic grounds where a strolling musician will play for diners' delight, will be Gunnel Ehrling whose husband, Sixten Ehrling, for 10 years conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, returns to conduct the DSO at Meadow Brook that evening.

The party is designed to say "thank you" to husbands of committee members, who often act as partners for their wives on staff duty at The Treble Clef, the Trumbull Terrace gift shop that raises funds for the festival, Maestro Ehrling is now director of the conducting staff at Juilliard. Guest artist appearing with him this Saturday will be Miriam Fried, the young Israeli violinist who was the first woman to win the prestigious Queen Elizabeth Competition in Brussels.

During her husband's engagement at Meadow Brook, Mrs. Ehrling is staying with her long-time friend Mrs. V. Everett Kinsey, president of the Women's Committee.

Since the committee takes every opportunity to raise funds to support the festival, Saturday's party will double as a fund raiser... but the committee's BIG August benefit is set for midmonth, Friday afternoon, August 15, when Tex Benecke's "Salute to the Big Bands" will be featured in a gala performance in the Meadow Brook pavilion.

On stage will be the legendary Helen Forrest, who introduced many great hits when she was the featured singer with the bands of Benny Goodman, Harry James and Artie Shaw — her recording of "I Don't Want to Walk Without You" has been reissued many times — as well as Johnny Desmond, Paula Kelly and the Modernaires.

A meet-the-stars afterglow will follow the concert. Benefit tickets, at $10 per person, may be obtained through the Meadow Brook office or by calling 377-2010.

Mary Louise McCarroll Shows 'Luna' in Ohio

Park resident Mary Louise McCarroll's painting, Luna, has been included in the 44th annual mid-year show at the Butler Institute of American Art in Youngstown, O. The show opened in early July and will run through August 31.

After a preliminary screening by an institute committee delegated to choose 300 paintings from slide entries submitted by artists throughout the United States, artists chosen were notified to submit their actual paintings for final jury selection.

Juror Sidney Goodman, of Philadelphia, selected the 175 paintings for the current exhibition. Ms. McCarroll is one of two Detroit area artists whose work was selected.

Take A Walk On Waterfront

Detroit's Waterfront will be the focus of a Sunday Stroll, sponsored by the Detroit Historical Society and the Detroit Historical Museum, Sunday, August 10, starting at 2 o'clock and lasting approximately three hours.

The tour will go on rain or shine, and will offer participants an opportunity to learn about the waterfront area's historic past, present day renaissance and the dynamic plans for its future.

Advance reservations are required. They may be made by sending checks, ($3.50 per person, $2.50 for Historical Society members), to the Detroit Historical Society, 5401 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Michigan 48202.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the Detroit Historical Society office, 833-7934.

Wayland-Tamblyn Vows Exchanged

Bride Selects Ivory Chiffon Gown, Accented with Lace and Pearls, for Candlelight Rites in Late May

Lochmoor Club was the setting for the reception following the wedding of Nancy Sue Tamblyn and William Lee Wayland Saturday, May 31, in Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church.

The Reverend John Curphey presided at the 6:30 o'clock, candlelight service for which the bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. John Tamblyn, of Moorland drive, chose a gown of ivory chiffon.

Alencon lace and seed pearls formed her Sweetheart neckline and bodice, and matching lace accented her long, fitted sleeves.

Her lace-edged fingertip veil fell from a cap of lace and pearls. She carried a cascade of ivory roses, stephanotis, baby's-breath and ivy. In soft pink chiffon dresses, sprigged and bordered in print, styled with spaghetti-strapped blouse bodices were Peggy Tamblyn Glick, honor attendant for her sister, and bridesmaids Sheila Tamblyn and Marty Wayland, sister of the bridegroom.

They wore matching stoles and carried arrangements of white daisies, pink Elegance carnations and baby's-breath.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wayland, of Hampton road, asked Bill Diedrich to act as best man. Jack Diesing and Jack Tamblyn, the bride's brother, ushered.

The mother of the bride wore a long, turquoise gown and a jacket, beaded at neck and cuffs. The bridegroom's mother selected V-necked chiffon, long and beige in color, with long, sheer sleeves. Each mother pinned a gardenia to her purse.

The newlyweds, who vacationed on St. Thomas in The Virgin Islands, will make their home in Norwood drive.

Mrs. W. L. Wayland

NANCY SUE TAMBLYN, daughter of the E. John Tamblyns, of Moorland drive, was married Saturday, May 31, at an evening ceremony in Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church to Mr. Wayland, son of the Robert Waylands, of Hampton road.

(Continued from Page 20) fortified mound village and Smith believes that the family went to the village for important ceremonies and to seek protection against attacks.

"These prehistoric Indians were not eking out a precarious hand-to-mouth existence in a hostile landscape," Smith says. "They existed in a naturally abundant environment and used a variety of its energy sources in a way that did not endanger nor drastically modify it."

The single-family farmstead provided a piece of the puzzle, but the larger puzzle is how the mound-building way of life developed and how chiefdoms emerged from earlier cultures. Smith plans to continue this investigation in an area about 100 miles northeast of the Powers Chiefdom.

The goal of this long-term project is to determine changes in settlement and subsistence patterns throughout the entire prehistoric period in this particular region.

"We may never figure out what caused these cultures to decline and fade away around 1500 A.D.," Smith says, "but perhaps we can learn something from these people who lived so successfully with their environment for hundreds of years."

What can you do if you feel you've been taken by one of these offers or have not received what you understood the product or service to be?

If you think you've been swindled, notify the appropriate government agency. The Food and Drug Administration deals with cases of mislabeled or harmful food, drugs, cosmetics and health devices. Check your local phone directory for the FDA office nearest you, or write Food and Drug Administration, Rockville, Maryland 20857. The United States Postal Service handles complaints of fraudulent or misleading promotions involving use of the mails, either to advertise or to receive orders for products. Contact your local postmaster, postal inspector, or write to Inspector in Charge, Special Investigation Division, United States Postal Service, Washington, D.C. 20260.

The Federal Trade Commission is concerned with cases of suspected false advertising. Write to Federal Trade Commission, Sixth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C. 20580.

Local consumer agencies, state attorney general offices and local offices of the Better Business Bureau also may be able to help.

Trace History Of Our State

Michigan's new historical museum, across from the State Capitol in Lansing, offers a unique view of Michigan's past on the "Walk Through Time Line," a chronological arrangement of photographs, artifacts and drawings which takes visitors from the present back through the state's history to the glacial ages.

Along the line, you can view development of the auto, logging, pharmaceutical, furniture and breakfast food industries. The Civil War, the Revolution, fur trappers, French voyageurs, British, Indians and early settlers all are represented.

Many exhibits, including an early typewriter, a Michigan seal, wood planes, telephones and household appliances, are displayed so visitors may try their hands at actual operation.

The museum is operated by the History Division of the Department of State, and exhibits are periodically rotated from the Department of State bank of more than 30,000 artifacts, now stored in Lansing.

In addition, every half hour a slide and sound presentation, "The Promise of Michigan," is shown in the museum's 60-seat mini-theater.

The Michigan Museum is open from 9:30 to 4:30 o'clock Monday through Friday and noon to 4:30 o'clock Saturday and Sunday. Admission is free.

Seeking Michigan State Fair Exhibitors

Do you have an "undiscovered" Clydesdale who should be in a beer commercial? Is your piccalilli relished by friends and neighbors? Proud of your pet pigeon, pumpernickel, patchwork quilt, petunias or palomino?

The 1980 Michigan State Fair will be the state's showcase for these, and thousands of other, agricultural, culinary and artistic wonders. In addition to being in the public eye, State Fair exhibitors vie for a wealth of blue ribbons, trophies, plaques and critical acclaim.

Entry forms are now available for distribution to anyone who wants to submit an exhibit or display a talent at the 1980 Michigan State Fair.

The deadline is August 1 for all entry forms—except those for the horse show, which had a July 20 deadline. The 1980 Michigan State Fair will run from August 22 through September 1, Labor Day.

Entry forms and premium books outlining fees and requirements for all competition categories may be obtained by writing the Entry Department, Michigan State Fairgrounds, Detroit, Michigan 48203, or by calling 368-1000.

There are six premium books available. They cover Community Arts, Fine Arts, Horse Show, Youth Division (ages 8 through 18) and Livestock, plus Poultry, Rabbits, Pigeons and Cavies.

The last premium book also contains contest rules and entry forms for agriculture, horticulture, floriculture and wine show categories. When writing or calling for registration material, please specify the premium book desired.

Anyone who has entered an exhibit during the past five years of the State Fair will automatically be sent a premium book. Almost all premium books have new categories.

Fair officials are anticipating another record-breaking turnout of exhibitors at this year's State Fair, notes acting general manager William Upina. The 1979 Michigan State Fair attracted more than 4,000 exhibitors. Admission prices will be $4 for those 12 and over. Children under 12 will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

The Michigan State Fair, the nation's oldest state fair, celebrates its 132nd anniversary this year. The State Fair is administered by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Another classic tailored look is put together for you by Devon Hall. A gray flannel jacket comes with a gray flannel skirt, pants and a gray and white scarf. Robert Courtney's dresses are classic and the new gray and tan fine line print is cut with elegant simplicity, high jewelry neck and long graceful sleeves. It's good alone in early fall and great under coats later. For those of you who like color for evening there's a Delft blue crepe dinner dress from Carri Couture that's side buttoned and self sashed. For evening, Lee Jordan's raspberry crepe looks like a two piece dress but actually is one piece. The over blouse is pleated as is the long slender skirt. In the Lingerie Department you'll find the look of fine satin de lys that is really easy-to-care-for polyester in a lovely hostess gown by Claire Sandra for Lucie Ann of Beverly Hills. It comes in soft pink and ivory. Another look by David Brown is a red hostess gown with a purple zigzag down the side. Would you believe that fur hats are arriving and customers have already bought them? That's fashion, foresight for you.

Officers and members of the board of governors have made plans to attend.

International President G. Oliver Smart and his wife, Valerie, and International Vice Presidents Knud Winkel and William T. Archibald will be there.

In all, the contingent of Circums, men who've made it around the globe in one, continuous passage, and their wives, from New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and other (relatively) far away places will number about twenty.

Several Grosse Pointers are working on party arrangements. Maureen and Jim Trebilcock are among them, of course. Others include Fern and Rip Zwickiey, Paul and Charlotte Moreland, Fred and Ruth Flom, Les and Margaret Elliott and Vic and Betty Breidenbach.

One thing they don't have to worry about is food and drink. That will be provided, as it has for several years' running, by Cregar's Pickwick House, and if this year's spread is anything like those of the past . . . well, all we can say is if the group got up from the dinner tables to board a plane for Pago Pago—and knowing this group, they MIGHT!—they'd all be charged overweight.

Another International Party

A week after the Circumnavigators Summer Safari there's another party scheduled to bring together internationally-minded residents from all over the metropolitan area for a late afternoon/early evening of fun and festivities.

It's "Sunday on the Seaway," a riverfront picnic, set for August 10, from 4 to 8 o'clock, at the Roostertail.

It's a fund raiser for the International Visitors Council of Metropolitan Detroit, and among those planning it are Grosse Pointe's William Vance, Mrs. Joseph Vance and Gail Kaess. The ladies are IVC board members. Mr. Vance is IVC president.

And what, you're asking, is IVC? Exactly what its name indicates: an organization (non-profit) which assists foreign visitors selected by American Embassies around the world.

IVC, for instance, handled arrangements for many foreign guests at the recent G.O.A. National Convention. It placed Joseph G. Chami, chief editor of Lebanon's French language weekly "Magazine," in the capable hands and home of Frank and Stephanie Germack, who moved recently from Perrien place to Warner road.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Moore, of South Renaud road, served as host family for Martin Schulze, chief of German TV's Brussels Bureau.

Two visitors, Mahmoud Abel Raof Zohny and Chahid Mawardi, were quartered farther down Renaud road, at Joyce Murphy's home. Mr. Zohny is an Egyptian, foreign editor of the weekly magazine "Rose Al Youseff," producer/commentator for Radio Cairo's "Voice of the Arabs" and a member of the Foreign Relations Committee of Egypt's National Democratic Party.

Mr. Mawardi is a member of the Indonesian Parliament, Deputy Secretary of the Unity for Development Party and chairman of Indonesia's Committee on Defense Security, Foreign Affairs and Information.

"Sunday on the Seaway" is this year's edition of the annual benefit that provides funds to help IVC continue its good work. It's also, this year, a tribute to Frank Angelo, past-president and chairman of the International Visitors Council, now its honorary chairman.

Midsummer's parade of pleasure boats and international freighters on the Detroit River will be backdrop for the informal party. Complimentary wine and a cash bar will be available. An abundant picnic buffet will be served.

There'll be a special prize—a weekend "up north" during the color or ski season—and an auction of other fun weekends and miscellaneous items. Hans Von Bernthal's jazz band will play for dancing and a sing-a-long.

It's all open to the public, at $25 per person. Ticket information may be obtained by calling 259-2680.

Beginning August 1 . . . you'll find some super bargains in all departments at HARVEY'S COMPLETE TRAVELER . . . 20% to 50% off items of luggage, business cases, handbags, etc., etc. Our SALES are infrequent so don't miss this one at 345 Fisher Road.

U-D Honors Farms Man

University of Detroit will hold its Fourth Annual Sports Hall of Fame Induction at a formal dinner and cocktail party on Friday, September 12, in the Cabot Ballroom of the Detroit Plaza Hotel in the Renaissance Center.

Among the 17 outstanding athletes and coaches to be inducted is Grosse Pointe Farms attorney Nate Goodnow who played U-D football from 1926-28. Goodnow was an end on the undefeated team of '28 and was known for his part in the famous "flea-flicker play." In his senior year, Goodnow received the John P. Scallen Scholarship Medal for the athlete with the best sports and academic records.

Other inductees include 18-year fencing mentor Richard Perry, top amateur golfer and former Western Open Champion Bob Babbish and U-D's first professional basketball player Larry Bleach. Five sports will be represented by the inductees. Football heads the list with 10 inductees, followed by fencing with three, basketball with two and one each in baseball and golf.

Athletic Director Larry Geraciotti explained the reason behind the relatively large number of inductees.

"With more than 80 years of athletic tradition established prior to the advent of our Hall of Fame, it was the feeling of our Hall of Fame Committee that we had a bit of 'catching up' to do in respect to the proper recognition of our many outstanding athletes and coaches," Geraciotti said.

"Football, in particular, spanned seven decades while earning its place among the

Swim Program Is Offered

A free summer swim program for children with orthopedic impairments is being jointly sponsored by the Easter Seal Society of Wayne County and the Detroit Recreation Department, and began Tuesday, July 22. The program will be offered at two recreation centers in Detroit.

Two one-hour sessions for children are planned for the central and northeast Detroit areas. Considine Recreation Center, located on Woodward near Holbrook, hosts the program on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 10 a.m. to noon.

Heilman Recreation Center, located north of 7 Mile road between Hayes and Kelly, is the site designated for the Wednesday and Friday morning programs, offered from 10 a.m. to noon.

The four-week program is under the operation of certified water safety instructors on the staff of Detroit Recreation Department and Easter Seal volunteers.

In arranging the sites and personnel, Ms. Margaret Hosack of the Detroit Recreation Department explained: "Swimming has long been a highly valued form of therapy for persons with a temporary or permanent health impairment.

BANANAS! Yes, Wacky Jack's gone absolutely bananas. Despite the fact the Colonial's filled to the rafters with exciting collectibles, Wacky plans to keep on spending thousands of dollars for darn near everything, Fiesta, Depression Glass, Hummels, Royal Doultons, Blue Ridge, old dolls, old jewelry, Heisey Roseville Pottery, furniture, china, cups and saucers, and knick knacks are just a few of the items the Madman's dishing out for. One item or better still, a houseful, if you can't bring your things to him, he'll gladly call on you, and all transactions are strictly confidential. Call him Mon-Sat. 11-6, at 772-0430.

SHEER TERROR She hadn't wanted to make the trip at all but everybody insisted that an antique was just what the empty space on her coffee table needed. She was sorry she believed them. For the moment she entered the Antique Shop door, the very core of her being had been permeated by a pervasive gnawing sense of dread. What unspeakable overpriced horror awaited her. Timidly, she crept down the aisle and, suddenly, she froze in sheer terror, her worst fear had come true, there on the shelf in the corner was the perfect accoutrement for her coffee table, her first instinct was to run madly from the shop but an unexplainable force propelled her forward. Trembling she made her way toward the object of her desire, her heart pounding she carefully picked it up. A thousand questions raced through her mind. Was it really an Antique? What was the hidden meaning of those squiggles on the bottom? What kind of glass was it made of? Why was it priced at $48.50? Why the 50 cents? Why was this mysterious item for which she was about to write a check, a treasure, or was she about to become a victim of THE DREAD ANTIQUE RIP-OFF? If this story reflects your feelings about shopping for Antiques, you should be doing business with Colonial. Every item in our shop has been carefully researched, and, whenever possible, labeled as to what it is and who made it. Our money back guarantee takes the terror out of Antiquing, so, don't be afraid, come on out and browse in air conditioned comfort at The Colonial Shop, 25701 Jefferson near 10 Mile, Mon-Sat. 11-6, 772-0430. Your Master Charge and Visa are welcomed, and don't forget, we buy, too!
