Tom who?

Okay, so I was confused when a caller told me Laura Klein was having lunch with a scorpion. What a unique dining experience, I thought!

No, no, came the correction. Not a scorpion. With actor Tristan Rogers, who plays good guy copper Scorpion on "General Hospital."

Laura Klein, 25, a brown-eyed beauty who works for Jacobson's in the Village, won a chance to share lunch with Rogers at Jim's Garage in downtown Detroit last Saturday, courtesy of radio station WCZY.

All she had to do was write, in the ever immortal "25 words or less," why she wanted to meet Rogers. "So I said that he was a 'daytime TV Tom Selleck,'" blushed Laura, of the Farms. "I became a fan of the program while I attended Michigan State.

"I don't watch all the time and I never thought I'd win. Then I thought, 'Why not give it a shot?'" Laura found out she'd won last week and received a call from the station while she was watching, you guessed it, "General Hospital."

She was thrilled, her mother was thrilled and co-workers at Jake's were heavy with their congratulations, although management joked about having her work overtime on Saturday.

When the big day came, a very nervous Laura and friend Debbie Brady shared a table with Scorpion, his manager, station personnel from 95.5 and a spokesman from the Detroit Autorama.

Okay, what's he like? According to Laura, "a very nice guy who seemed exhausted and down to earth."

"He told us he'd flown into Detroit at 2 a.m. that morning and was busy at the auto show and making other personal appearances," said Laura. "He was very nice and answered all our questions about 'General Hospital' and his plans for the future, which include singing."

Laura and Debbie also received passes to the auto show and had their photo taken with Rogers when he took a break. Oh yeah, they also presented him with a Tiger baseball hat in honor of his visit.

Ralph says . . .

Give yourself a pat on the back, Grosse Pointe — that's according to Ralph.

Ralph, who's lived here for 54 years and doesn't want his last name used, called us recently with a nice Christmas story. Seems Ralph was setting off to the post office with 70 Christmas cards tied with a rubber band and he sort of got sidetracked.

In the heat of the moment, he put his cards on top of the car, got distracted, then drove off to mail his mail. When he arrived at the post office, lo and behold, no Christmas cards. He retraced his steps, but still no cards. Hoping against hope, he drove home, thinking they were perhaps still in the house or in the garage, knowing all the while with growing dread in the back of his mind, that he had pulled a "Greenwood."

After keeping an important appointment, Ralph again retraced his steps, but found no cards. Later that afternoon, someone slipped a soiled envelope through his front door. Glory be, it was one of the 70 gone astray.

With hope in his heart, Ralph contacted his out-of-town friends and asked they keep their eyes open for their cards. Two days later the verdict was in. Someone had rescued the cards, mailed them (save one) and given Ralph a reason to rejoice.

"It really made my day to see that kind of thoughtfulness," said Ralph, over the phone. "They even traced our house through our return address so we could send our friends a clean card. I feel repaid for living here in Grosse Pointe all these years where such nice people live."

Twelve, count 'em, 12 eggs and a lot of rolling and cutting went into the fettuccine that Park firefighter Thomas Court made for his hungry crew. Court brought the stand from home and says in the old days, people would hang the noodles on the back of kitchen chairs to dry.

Fire in the kitchen?

No problem!

By Harriet Nolan

Adventure, flair and a taste for the mysterious is what John Streberger, Paul Bazger and Joe Bialk share with Julia Childs, James Beard and Douglas.

"The secret to my meatloaf is the pickles," says Grosse Pointe Park Fireman Streberger. "After all, when you go to a hamburger joint you get pickles . . ."

"I like to use fresh ingredients whenever I can," says shift-mate Bazger. "But for dessert, I like Sara Lee."

And while the sky's the limit when Childs, Douglas and Beard turn out gourmet meals for well-heeled diners, these men feed their captive audience on unmatched, chipped china retrieved from local garage sales and a $5-per-man, per-day allotment.

This budget covers lunch and dinner, and every three-day shift one person is charged with shopping, cooking and cleaning up afterward. What the troops eat depends on who does the cooking. Some of the men make the meals from scratch. Others take pride in knowing how to operate a can opener.

In Streberger's case, it is not only his meatloaf that remains unchallenged. "A typical Streberger menu," says one anonymous source, "is meatloaf, sauerkraut and knockwurst, boiled steak and the third-day — good luck!"

Bazger, a 29-year veteran says he doesn't really like to cook, but takes pride in his chop suey, a station favorite made with "love and fresh ingredients."

"Once in a while I cook at home. My wife, Marlene, says she likes my tuna noodle casserole, but I don't know if she really likes it or just likes me to make it," he adds.

The general consensus is that Bialk makes the best chicken. His specialty is chicken soup. He credits his success to watching and improvising.

Bazger agrees. "Bialk experiments more and likes to cook. But he's on a diet now and cooks for us and makes Lean Cuisine for himself."

One of the newer recruits, Thomas Court, puts his heart and a dozen eggs into Fettuccini Alfredo, making the noodles from scratch with utensils brought from home.

The 30-year-old newly married fireman does most of the cooking at home and even shops on his own time for special ingredients he needs at work.

"Some of the guys are meat and potato eaters," says Court. "One of the guys made tamales, but that didn't go over too well. I liked it though. It was something new."

Court's co-workers have been treated to Cornish hen, chocolate mousse and strawberry fool, strawberries swathed in whipping cream. On New Year's Day, he served cheesecake.

"Sometimes I give them a treat," says Court, taking out a bag of orange-flavored spices for the coffee.

One of the men entered the firefighter cook-off sponsored by "Good Afternoon Detroit" recently. A Detroit fireman won with his version of flaming chicken.

"I entered stuffed cabbage," says 38-year-old Mike Smith. "Next year I'm going to look up other recipes and make something a little fancier."

The contest is scheduled to be aired on "Good Afternoon Detroit's" Jan. 30 program.

And not all the famous cooks are still in the kitchen. Some of them made and left their marks years ago, according to the department scuttlebutt.

"Lieutenant Lee Fallieres was a celery freak," says Streberger. "And the only man who could use every pot and pan in the house to make a meal."

Chief Phillip Costa is known as the unofficial taster and regularly adds his two cents and a few spices to every pot, says an anonymous source.

Costa says when he cooked, "the men ate real good." Fresh baked pies, cakes and lasagna were only part of the meals. Co-workers brought seasonal produce and wild game during hunting season.

"We got muskrats from Belle Isle," says Costa. "They would burrow and plug up the canals so a man there would set traps, keep the pelts and give the meat to us."

"But those were the old days. I used to get $6.50 per man for supplies to last 15 days. Food was cheap then and you were cooking for 12 guys on a unit."

"Now it's frozen and fast foods, six men, 24-hour shifts, ambulance runs, fires and maintenance. The work piles up and it reflects itself in the kitchen," he adds.

Assessments on the rise

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Homeowners in the Farms and City may see slightly higher property values this year, while Park residents may see a slight decline and Woods and Shores homeowners will see little or no change, according to local assessors.

Their predictions are based on preliminary results of 24-month sales studies by the Wayne County assessor's office. Changes this year will only be plus-or-minus 2 percent, they added.

Residential values in the City will be up between 2 and 2.6 percent, according to assessor-controller Dennis Foran, who added there may be a mistake in the county's calculations.

There were 170 sales in the City during the 24-month study, Foran said. There were 105 sales last year, compared to 65 in 1983, he added.

Residential values in the Farms will probably rise less than 2 percent, considering the results of the sales study, assessor Carrol Lock said. There were 271 sales in the city during the study period, he added.

While final figures aren't available, Woods and Shores property values will most likely remain unchanged, according to assessor Frederick Hornfisher. Values may drop, but they aren't going to rise in either community, he added.

In the Park, property values may fall about 2 percent, but that may change before the final change in assessment notices are mailed in mid-February, according to Public Service Director James Ellison. Sales during the 24-month study came in very close to twice the assessed value of property, he added.

Higher property values could mean higher property taxes if schools and local governments don't change their tax rates in the upcoming budget processes. The new assessments will be used on summer and winter tax bills covering the millage levies by municipalities, Grosse Pointe Public Schools, Wayne County Intermediate School District, county government and community college and the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority.

This is the second straight year property values were expected to increase in the Farms. 1984 saw a 4.6 percent rise. Woods homeowners last year saw a 2.25 percent increase, while Park residents had a 3 percent increase in property values. City and Shores homeowners saw property values fall by .8 and 1.7 percent respectively.

Board of review hearings to protest changes in assessments will be scheduled by cities through the middle of March.

Elected chairman of county commission

Hertel seeks cooperation

By Mike Andrzejczyk

John Hertel, First District county commissioner, says he hopes to chair a Wayne County Board of Commissioners that will cooperate with Executive Bill Lucas and continue county reform.

He also hopes to head a commission that will see cooperation between suburban and central city districts, he adds.

Hertel, whose district includes the Pointes, Harper Woods and northeast Detroit, said he was drafted at the last minute as a candidate for the post, says he was undecided about which candidate he was going to support: Samuel Turner, D-Detroit, or Edward Plawewski, D-Dearborn Heights.

Turner came to him last Thursday morning, the day of voting, and asked him to be a coalition candidate, Hertel says. Six Detroit commissioners threw their support to Hertel, along with three others, when it became evident that Turner couldn't garner the necessary eight adds. Before accepting the chairmanship, Hertel says he asked for and received assurances there would be less confrontation with the executive branch.

He said he is looking forward to taking on the duties of board chairman, which includes appointments of chairmen and members to various county committees, presiding over regular meetings, and some administrative and ceremonial functions. The position pays $31,000 a year, $3,000 more than a commissioner's salary.

Although there are extra duties involved, they won't inhibit his ability to represent his constituents, Hertel says.

"I think it will improve my ability to represent my district, because I will be more involved and more aware of matters coming up that will affect my district," he adds.

One thing he hopes to accomplish as chairman is the elimination of the Wayne County Drain Commission, Hertel says.

Many may consider the drain commissioner unassailable, but Hertel notes the same sentiments were once expressed about the road commission, which voters handily decided to abolish last year.

He and commissioner Arthur Carter drafted the resolution the board put on last August's ballot that dissolved the county road commission and rolled it into the Office of Public Service.

"People said we'd never be able to get rid of the road commission, that we'd never get the votes needed to put the proposal on the ballot. But we got the votes needed . . ." he adds.

His influence as chairman of the commission and his appointive powers will aid in getting the matter before the commission, Hertel says.

"I want a commission that is going to cooperate with the county executive to accomplish the goal of reforming county government."

Commissioners can add referenda to the ballot with 10 affirmative votes.

Hertel also hopes to help improve the county's economic development. He was meeting Friday with officials from the county's Chamber of Commerce.

Also on the list of priorities is a solution to the area's crime and overcrowding problem. More prisons need to be built and mandatory sentences need to be meted out to violent criminals, he adds.

Park group plans year-round facility

By Harriet Nolan

A $200,000 campaign is under way in the Park to raise money to convert the bathhouse at Windmill Pointe Park to a year-round facility.

"In less than three weeks, almost $7,000 has been contributed to the Grosse Pointe Park Foundation," says former Park Mayor Matthew Patterson, the foundation's president.

Plans call for the building which now houses the food concession to be renovated, according to John Crawford, city manager. When completed, residents will be able to use a new kitchen, restrooms and a glass-walled recreation room that overlooks Lake St. Clair. The main entrance will be landscaped and a horseshoe drive added.

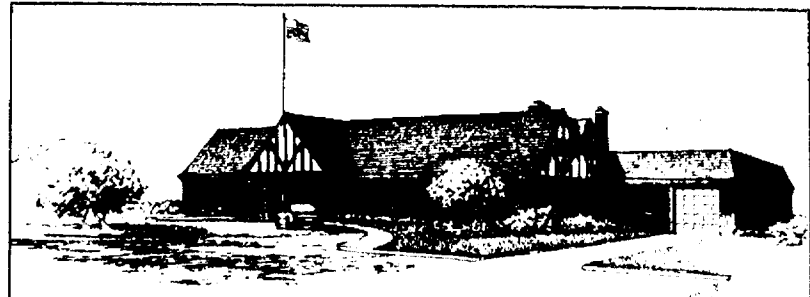

This is the first goal selected by the group charged last spring with soliciting funds and gifts from Park citizens and businesses to benefit the entire community. At that time Mayor Palmer Heenan recommended that former Mayor Patterson be named chairman, since plans for the foundation were spearheaded under his administration.

While future improvements could include streetlights, playground equipment and even establishing prize money for sailing and fishing events, Crawford said no other projects are planned until the activity center is completed.

Contributions of both money and gifts to the non-profit corporation are welcome, Crawford said. Annual membership begins at $25 and goes up to life patron membership for a $10,000 donation. Pledges can be for any amount and spread through the year. Contributions are tax-deductible.

For more information or a pledge card, call 822-6200.

Plans to convert the bathhouse at Windmill Pointe Park to a year-round activity center are under way. Above is an artist's sketch of the entrance. The addition on the right would house offices. The drawing below shows the lake view with the glass-walled recreation room.

Grosse Pointe War Memorial

... as John Lake remembered it

XI. The Beginning of the Trips
(John Lake recounts the evolution of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial educational travel program.)
The Center would often take people to the offerings of other cultural institutions. We would go to St. Dunstan's players in Bloomfield, where we would see their performances. Later on, the Center became even more adventurous, and it was felt that a lot of people would like to see things on Broadway. So trips were planned by air to New York City, the hotel was provided, tickets to the plays were procured well ahead of time and we saw many interesting performances. In particular, we saw Bernstein's "Candide," which was in a theater that had been ripped apart and almost made into a circus with bleachers around the cast swinging back and forth. It was really high camp, but perfectly beautiful music.
In 1967, there was Expo '67 in Montreal; and Thornton Waterfall, then president of the War Memorial Association, talked to Mr. Lake about launching an educational travel program. Expo was the first endeavor — it resulted in two charter plane-loads of people going to Montreal.
Unfortunately, the place we were housed was something else again. It reminded Mr. Lake of nothing more or less than a company street in the Army. There were no phones and for heat these little prefabricated buildings were set up with just plug-in electric heaters and it was cold! The snow was still falling a little bit.
Mr. Lake spent most of his time gathering blankets and running back and forth to people's "huts." Sometimes, there were knotholes in the wall and you could see over into the next hut, or the plumbing facilities were not connected, so it was extremely breezy in the bathrooms. Nevertheless, everybody thoroughly enjoyed the Expo itself.
That was the faint beginning of the Center's involvement in educational travel, which perhaps was the program that put the Center more on the map than anything else. Grosse Pointers who had never paid much attention to the Center found these trips to be great bargains and came down by the hundreds to participate.
The first trip to Britain was in 1971. Lake had chartered a British plane in fear and trembling and began to wonder how he would ever get out of the contract if he was not able to fill it. He began to count up his savings and the value of his house. But the results were entirely different. The trip was offered for eight days for the enormous sum of $249; and there were some 350 people who went. Unfortunately, Mr. Lake had not foreseen this great influx or he would have chartered a 747 and would have died at the expense of that. But, anyhow, this trip was a great success and people were terribly impressed.
It was felt that travel was highly educational; and all of our travel was to be done to educational areas — not to Las Vegas-type places. It was continued; and a whole new way of travel came about as a result of the Center's leadership.

Centenarian
Celebrating her 100th birthday Dec. 29 was Martha Standen of the Woods. She was honored at a party given by relatives at the Warren Chateau. According to her daughter, Grace Biddlingmeier, Mrs. Standen likes to cook, embroider and take five-mile walks.

After 34 years . . .

Farms fire chief is Florida-bound

By Tom Greenwood

After 34 years on the job, Farms Fire Chief Warren Schultz has decided to trade in his fire hose for a fishing line. Chief Schultz, 63, who joined the department in December 1950, called it quits last week and headed to Florida to spend more time on the links and on the lakes.

"I must admit I'm leaving with mixed emotions," said Schultz, preparing to lock his office door for the last time. "When you spend 34 years at one place, it becomes a second home. But after all this time, I decided that I'd had it."

"It's time to have a few years of fun before it gets too late. I looked back on the friends I've lost, people in their 50s and 60s, and decided that life is too short. You just never know."

Fluerette Schultz, the chief's wife and the treasurer for the Farms, will join her husband at their Pine Island home when she retires from her position in three years.

"I used to work for Coca-Cola," he said. "I came to the Farms department for the 'big money.' The salary in 1950 was $3,990 a year. How about that? A lot of things have changed since then, both in the city and in firefighting."

"In the old days, you went to a fire, grabbed onto somebody's shirt tail and went in. You choked on some smoke, threw up later and that was it."

"But you can't do that now," he continued. "So many household items are made from plastics and chemicals today that the smoke and fumes they give off are deadly. They're extremely hazardous to the fireman and the occupants of the home."

The chief feels the other big change in firefighting comes from a very simple device — the smoke detector.

"They alert people to fires earlier," said the chief. "They help people get out quicker and avoid major disasters. There's no reason for not having them in the home."

None."

Like most career men, the chief remembers the bad and the good during his time with the department. The worst fire struck St. Paul's Catholic Church in June 1978. With his crew on the road, he was the only one in the station when the alarm came in.

"It was very frustrating," he said, leaning back in his chair. "I raced over and flames and smoke were all over the place, but I was completely alone. There was nothing I could do."

"I honestly believe God had a hand in our fighting that fire. I knew the fire was in the attic and when the equipment got there, I directed the aerial up to the roof and it was directly over the fire."

"With the help of mutual aid and the work of our own good men, we were able to save this famous old church," he said. "Very few churches are saved, you know."

The years have also been filled with less dramatic, but still important, services, such as rescuing dogs stuck in the ice of Lake St. Clair, home fire prevention checks and tours of the station by school children.

What about rescuing cats caught in trees? "You know, we still get calls on that," said Schultz. "But we stopped it years ago. We ask people, 'Have you ever seen a cat skeleton up a tree?' They get down by themselves."

The funniest moment came when a news team from a local TV station was doing a story on the Farms fire department. Camera crews stood on the drive outside the bay doors, intent on filming a dramatic shot of a fire truck on its way to an inferno.

"The whole thing was set up, of course," laughed Schultz. "Only the driver of our aerial got overly excited and drove through the doors without opening them first. You should have seen those cameramen scatter. We were praying they wouldn't show it on television."

According to city officials, the new fire chief will be Lt. Samuel Candela, a 31-year veteran of the department.

"Sam has my respect and my best wishes," said Schultz. "He's going to need them. It's sometimes tough running a department, but the men have always been very cooperative. Sure, there's been some problems, but nothing out of the ordinary. They all have my respect."

A check of city hall records showed Chief Warren Schultz took just five sick days off in 34 years on the job.

It's hard to find dedication like that anymore.

Baby, you're beautiful

Take a big stretch, big guy. Say hello to one of the newest residents. Young Michael Santo Scarfone checked into the Pointe at 9:41 a.m. New Year's Day at Bon Secours Hospital. His proud parents are Robert and Patricia, of Hampton Road. According to the baby's father, being born at Bon Secours is a bit of a family tradition. Their first child, Alison, was born there, as were all of Robert's five brothers and sisters. Mom was born at crosstown rival St. John Hospital. Welcome to Grosse Pointe, Michael.

Chas. Verheyden dead at 96

Charles Louis Verheyden, 96, who for three-quarters of a century handled arrangements for governors and dignitaries, died Tuesday morning at his residence in Grosse Pointe Park.

Born Dec. 17, 1888, in Grosse Pointe Township, Mr. Verheyden was the founder and owner of Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home, Inc.

A bachelor, Mr. Verheyden was the son of Charles and Paulina and the brother of the late Clara Nonamaker. He is survived by several cousins.

A philanthropist, Mr. Verheyden's name is on the Performing Arts Building at Sienna Heights College that his contributions made possible. He was also active in community affairs and charities locally.

Among those for whom Mr. Verheyden handled arrangements were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reuther, Sen. Patrick McNamara, former Detroit Mayor John W. Smith, Anna

Thompson Dodge and Mrs. Benson Ford.

Mr. Verheyden's success came from his striving for perfection, which he demanded of himself and his business, associates said.

A rosary service will be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the funeral home Mr. Verheyden built at 16300 Mack.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. at the funeral home and 10 a.m. at St. Clare of Montefalco Church. Interment will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Mr. Verheyden was a member of the Belgian-American Association, Belgian-American Century, St. Charles Society, Senior Men's Club of Grosse Pointe, Grosse Pointe Hunt Club, Grosse Pointe Yacht Club, Detroit Yacht Club, Circumnavigators Club, Michigan Funeral Directors Association and the National Funeral Directors Association. He was also an honorary member of the Belgian-American Accordion Band.

It was a long time coming, but Grosse Pointe Farms Fire Chief Warren Schultz earned this retirement toast last week from his wife and city Treasurer Fleurette Schultz, at the left Kathy Bremer and Andrew Bremer, Farms city manager. Chief Schultz also received a proclamation from the city council marking his 34 years of service to the community.

Woods group seeks to publish history

By Pat Paholsky

Did you know that back in 1927 there was a movie studio in what is now Grosse Pointe Woods?

The Woods Historical Commission knows it was located on Vernier Road and was called the Detroit Motion Picture Company Studio. It also knows that the governing body of the area, then Lochmoor Village, held its first meeting there.

But that's about it, according to Suzanne Dempsey Kent, who chairs the commission. "It's one of the areas that is very interesting that we would like to learn more about," she said.

The commission, established by the Woods council in 1980, has been gathering information, photographs, maps, legal documents and artifacts for the purpose of preserving and recording local history. A chronology has been compiled by commission member John Hammel, a former principal of Monteith Elementary School, who is retired.

His records date back to 1679 when Lake St. Clair was christened by Father Louis Hennepin. The chronology marks the institution of local businesses, churches and schools, such as Mason Elementary, for instance, which was opened in 1929.

The first public golf course in the area was built in 1928 and was situated on land south of the Lochmoor Club, Mrs. Kent said. She talked about the Black Marsh ditch, which was traveled by Indians, and drained in 1885.

Hammel also tapes interviews with residents about the old days for the oral history file, Mrs. Kent said.

The group is seeking information about the area including photographs, land abstracts and any artifacts that should be preserved for future generations. She said photographs of people standing in front of buildings that no longer exist or are being used for another purpose can help the group piece together parts of local history. For example, she listed the Lochmoor State Bank on the corner of Anita and Mack. It's no longer in business, but the building still stands. The Community Club is another institution no longer in existence.

Anyone who has information should call city hall at 343-2440. The message will be given to the commission and a member will contact the caller, she said.

In order to raise funds to publish a history of the Woods, the commission is selling full-color post cards of the municipal building. The cards, available at the cashier's window at city hall, cost 30 cents each or four for $1.

The Historical Commission also co-sponsors the Memorial Day ceremonies with the Beautification Commission. This will be the third year the two groups will handle the event, and planning has begun for this year's ceremony.

The group meets the second Thursday of the month and meetings are open to the public. There are currently nine members on the 12-member commission and the group is looking to fill the vacancies. A prospective member need only be a Woods resident with an interest in the development of the community, Mrs. Kent said.

Her interest in the commission is apparent: Although she teaches English at Wayne State University, she has a degree in history, and she and her husband live in the same house in which she was born.

Farms worked on image in '84

By Tom Greenwood

Farms officials feel they did their best in 1984 to make the city a special place in which to live.

High on their list of accomplishments was the creation and construction of Richard Place, a pedestrian walkway that connects the upper and lower portions of the hill.

Highlighted with a mosaic brick sidewalk, gazebo, flagpole, benches, water fountain and decorated with evergreens and more than 1,000 flowering bulbs, the walkway was constructed for a cost of about $65,000.

According to Farms officials, most of the cost was paid with federal funds, with contributions from the Hill Merchants Association, Grosse Pointe Farms Foundation, Grosse Pointe Men's Garden Club and the Grosse Pointe Garden Club Council.

The Farms also intends to install a 10-foot, two-faced grandfather type clock in the park-like walkway early this spring. The construction of Richard Place went hand-in-hand with the placement of a new 72-space parking lot immediately behind the walkway in what was formerly the front playground for Richard School.

The property was leased to the Farms by the board of education in exchange for $50,000 in improvements to the playgrounds immediately behind and next to Richard School.

The parking lot was built to help relieve the crowded parking conditions on the Hill and to provide additional parking for the lower Hill area, including the library and Punch and Judy Theatre.

The Farms was also pretty busy in the maintenance department, according to City Clerk Richard Solak. During 1984, the city planted 89 trees and repaired 77,500 square feet of sidewalks. They also used asphalt to resurface two miles of streets in the city, out of a total of 40.

The city also replaced 17,000 linear feet of curbs, he said.

"We also replaced water mains on Roland, LaBelle and Allard roads. The mains were replaced because of the deteriorating condition of the original pipes, caused by the type of soil in that area."

Although everyone in city hall agrees that the winter of 1984 was bitterly cold, officials were happy that the city didn't experience any major water main breaks and that public work crews were able to handle most snowfalls.

"Luckily, the snow last winter fell just when we wanted it to," said City Manager Andrew Bremer. "Mostly between Monday and Fridays. Our salt consumption was about the same and we didn't have to pay out too much overtime."

Plans for 1985 call for the continued maintenance of sidewalks in the city, with those living in an area encompassing Kirby Road to the northern edge of the city, and from Lakeshore to Mack, to have their sidewalks surveyed for replacement.

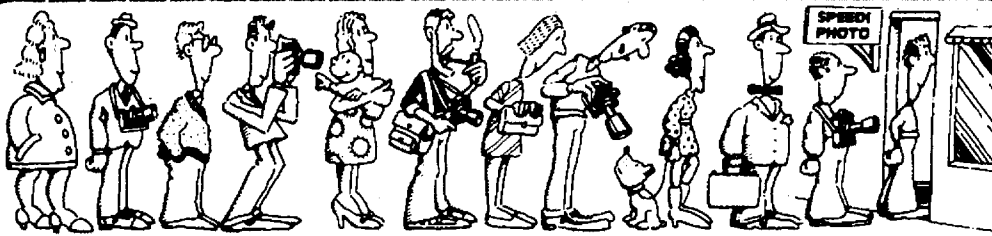

"We also intend to pursue a more stringent code enforcement policy in the coming year, including areas such as the cutting of weeds on vacant lots, trucks stored illegally on streets and driveways and so forth," Bremer said. "This is due in part to some revisions in our zoning ordinance."

The Farms is also expected to proceed with plans to redesign and reconstruct the entrance to Pier Park this spring, with funds donated by the Grosse Pointe Farms Foundation.

One question mark on the horizon is the scheduled razing of old Kirby School, located next to city hall on Kirby Road. The city obtained the structure several years ago from the school board, but has allowed the school system to use the building as a storage facility.

According to officials, the school board's latest lease on the building expires this June. City officials aren't certain if the board will approach the city for an extension of their lease.

City officials don't believe the building would be razed until possibly late 1986.

Plastic surgery can also save lives

By Tom Greenwood

All is not vanity in the world of plastic surgery. That seems to be the philosophy of Brazilian-born plastic surgeon Dr. Luis DeMoura, who recently opened a branch office on Mack Avenue in the Woods.

Quiet, friendly and quick to smile, DeMoura resists the image that plastic surgery is limited to the discrete nose job or face lift sought only by the vain-glorious trying to outdistance time.

At least three days of his working week are spent in operating rooms trying to save the lives and looks of persons afflicted with facial cancer, one of the most physically and emotionally destructive diseases a human can endure.

His reconstructive surgery isn't limited only to cancer patients. He also salvages those whose faces have been scarred from accidents, burns or birth defects.

"Yes, I do a lot of surgery on people's looks, such as reshaping their noses or giving them face lifts," said DeMoura, taking a break in his office. "That type of work is very satisfying to the patient. They feel they look better so they are happier with themselves."

"But working with cancer patients is the most satisfying to me as a physician. You're saving their lives from a dreadful disease that also destroys their looks. But it's a difficult situation to be in as a doctor and a human being."

"Somewhere along the line, patients comes to hate you because you've caused them so much emotional and physical pain. I feel good because I've helped them and possibly saved their lives, but they hate me because I had to hurt them and cut away their faces in order to keep them alive."

Much of the rest of his time, Dr. DeMoura and his wife, Patricia, who is his nurse assistant, work with patients on an outpatient basis and fill in wrinkles on his face.

Dr. Luis DeMoura and his wife/nurse/assistant, Patricia prepare to inject collagen, a substance natural to the body, into Dale Cottrell to combat the formation of wrinkles. Dr. DeMoura has just recently opened a branch office in Grosse Pointe on Mack Avenue.

After having part of his face anesthetized, Cottrell reclined in a dentist-type chair and received the injections into a ridge running just above his eyebrows. He was dressed in a suit, as was DeMoura. Pat DeMoura helped with the injections. There was no pain and only a drop or two of blood.

"Dr. Cottrell here is a good patient," said the surgeon, dabbing away at the forehead. "He read and studied about plastic surgery before I met him. He looks fantastic. I'd estimate that 20 percent of my patients now are men, up from 10 percent 10 years ago."

DeMoura's second patient was a 53-year-old former secretary who also had a face lift. She, too, was there for shots of collagen.

"The collagen fills in the wrinkles, firms them up and pushes them out," DeMoura said. "It takes years for them to fall in again."

"I've always been prideful of my looks," said the woman, neatly and conservatively dressed. "Then I got to the point where I was unhappy with my appearance. I researched the idea of plastic surgery very carefully for two years before I decided to go ahead with the operation. I've had a face lift and had my eyes done."

"I'm very happy with what the doctor has accomplished," she added. "Now I'm trying to talk my husband into having his neck done. I don't see any problems with my looks for the next 10 years."

DeMoura feels plastic surgery isn't for everyone. It can't cure everyone's problems, he feels. "We give potential patients a series of interviews," he said. "We also give them a psychological test. Some people can't be helped because their problems are in their heads and not on their faces."

He told of one woman who was turned away because she was overweight and wanted to look as she did when she was 19.

"She was in her late 50s when I saw her," he said. "She brought out this picture of herself at graduation. We turned her down gently, but she was still quite upset."

He says patients fall into five categories in plastic surgery: beautiful, pretty, normal, fair and ugly.

"This is strictly a professional evaluation," he said. "The most you can elevate anyone is two levels, making an ugly person look normal, or a fair person to pretty. No one can go from ugly to beautiful, but often patients feel you can do it. It's impossible."

Sometimes with patients who hope surgery will correct scars and moles, the doctor discovers cancer in its early stages.

"Some patients don't know they have cancer until we detect it for them," his wife said. "Detected early it's about 80 percent curable, as opposed to 60 percent 10 years ago. Surgery is the best cure for cancer, but the most damaging."

DeMoura entered medical school in Brazil at 17. He came to the United States on a fellowship in 1965 and has educational and research affiliations with Harvard Medical School, Vanderbilt University, the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology at Walter Reed Memorial Hospital, Henry Ford Hospital and Bon Secours.

He came to Michigan after learning plastic surgery at Vanderbilt University. It was there he also became interested in ear surgery. As a certified ear, nose and throat surgeon, Dr. DeMoura is one of only three physicians in Michigan certified to install the newly approved cochlear implant.

The implant is a manufactured device implanted in the ear that works in connection with a small, cigarette-sized transmitter worn on the belt or pocket.

The operation was recently approved by the Food and Drug Administration and it offers hope to perhaps 200,000 Americans afflicted with a serious hearing loss.

"I'm quite excited about the possibilities," he said. "It's a one-and-a-half hour operation that usually offers few complications to the patient. The only problem now is the cost. The operation runs about $12,000 and is being studied now by Blue Cross/Blue Shield here in Michigan."

"I have written them asking for a ruling whether or not their subscribers can receive the operation, but have not received a reply," he continued. "I'm willing to do the operation for free if I can get the 3M Corporation to supply me with the implants."

He feels the implant is just the beginning in technology to aid the deaf. "This implant will get smaller with time as microchips begin to enter the industry," he said.

"You know another thing that has aided the deaf lately? It's when President Reagan was discovered to be wearing a hearing aid. When people saw him with one, sales in custom-made hearing aids took off."

He and his wife live on an island home with their children off the Clinton River in Mount Clemens. His spare time is spent boating, sailing and generally relaxing. He became a U.S. citizen in the late 1960s, and spends much of his time traveling conducting lectures and seminars.

"I also like to sculpt," he said. "I took a class with Vargas at the Grosse Pointe Academy, and do you know I learned more from him concerning plastic surgery than I did in some of my courses?"

Overseas trips discussed

The public is invited, at no obligation, to attend any of four travel information nights detailing this year's overseas sojourns sponsored by the War Memorial.

"Tee Off in Portugal," a dream vacation for golfers and non-golfers alike, will be discussed Monday, Jan. 14, at 7:30 p.m. Golfing at some of Europe's most celebrated golf courses will be featured, along with discount shopping, sightseeing and nightly Las Vegas-style revues.

The trip, which is limited to eight travelers, will be from March 9 to 23, and includes privately chauffeured visits to Lisbon; Obidos, an enclosed village with a 12 century monastery hidden within its walls; Nazare, a picturesque fishing village; Batalha; Fatima; Evora; Mafra; Sintra; Quelez; and Arrabida.

The $1,700 cost per person includes airfare, local Portuguese transportation, greens fees, and hotel accommodations at the Estalagem Belvedere.

The information night for a "China Explorers Cruise," scheduled for next September, will be Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 7:30 p.m. By day on this 16-day odyssey, travelers can explore, among other things, the Imperial Palace, the Temple of Heaven, the Summer Palace, the Ming Tombs, and China's Great Wall. By night guests will return to their cruise ship, the M/S Pearl of Scandinavia, and enjoy the best of international cuisine prepared by master chefs. The cost and further details will be available at the information night.

On Tuesday, Jan. 22, at 7:30 p.m., there will be a meeting for a trip to Amsterdam/Paris/Brussels, scheduled for March 26 through April 2. Included in this tour package is three nights in Paris, a canal cruise and motor tour of Amsterdam, and one night in Brussels. The $995 cost includes airfare, superior first-class hotels in the prime areas of each city, daily continental breakfasts, drivers, guides, transfers and portage.

Also on Jan. 22 at 8:30 p.m., there

Police elect 1985 officers

Grosse Pointe Park Police Officer David A. Hiller has been elected president of Grosse Pointe Lodge 102 Fraternal Order of Police for 1985.

Other Pointe policemen elected included Michael C. Kortas, vice president, of the Shores; Andrew L. Meeker, secretary, of the Park; Phil Hamel, treasurer, of the Woods; Gerald Kolakowski, conductor, of the Park; Gary Mitchell, guard, of the Shores; Al Abend, corresponding secretary, retired Woods police officer and Paul Crook, past president, of the Woods.

Department trustees are Steven Johnson, of the Park, David Teollis, of the City; Clarence Reichling, of the Park; Archie Grieve, of the Shores; Robert Setchell, of the Woods and Ralph Selvaggi, of Harper Woods.

Elected as associate officers are Robert Estabrook, president; Tom Nelson, vice president; Vincent Ames, secretary; and Tony Carr, treasurer.

All of the men will be honored at a dinner dance Jan. 12 at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club.

A boon to county reform

Selection of John Hertel, First District county commissioner, as the new chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners is an encouraging sign from the standpoint of county government.

Hertel probably has been the strongest supporter of reform on the current board and one of only a handful of board members to back Wayne County Executive William Lucas on most controversial issues. Hertel and Lucas have not always seen eye to eye, but both can be regarded as supporters of the county charter and the reorganization of county government that it required.

Hertel's election was something of a surprise. He says he did not seek the post, but was asked to take it when supporters of other candidates were not able to muster a majority. In view of Hertel's disappointing defeats in earlier bids to serve as sheriff, to run as county executive and to be appointed state agriculture department director, the new appointment must come as a pleasant and rewarding surprise. It even means an additional $3,000 a year in pay on top of his regular commissioner salary of $28,000 a year.

In his new post, Hertel intends to seek a general policy of cooperation rather than confrontation with Lucas. That ought to pay dividends in continued reform. The next step in that process apparently will be renewed efforts to eliminate the Wayne County Drain Commission. Hertel played a leading role in dissolving the road commission and putting its functions into the Office of Public Service. Hertel and Commissioner Arthur Carter drafted the resolution that put the issue on last year's primary ballot and resulted in strong public backing for getting rid of the road commission.

Wayne County has emerged from what one newspaper called "a quagmire of cronyism, mismanagement and red ink" and another identified as "the rotten borough of Michigan politics." Most of the credit for the startling change belongs to the county executive, Lucas, but some also should go to Hertel who has backed Lucas on the critical issues when he needed county board support.

Wayne County government is not yet perfect by any means. But the future looks bright as a result of Lucas' performance during the first four years of county home rule and the prospects of better cooperation ahead between the executive and the county board.

from our readers

Shocked at lack of compassion

To the Editor:

During my Christmas visit home to Grosse Pointe, I had an experience that I feel is important to report to your readers.

My father, a Grosse Pointe Shores resident, is terminally ill with ALS and heart disease. During the night, he had an attack which required emergency oxygen. The next day the tank was empty and I took it to the medical supply center for refilling. Since we'd been up most of the night, I'd left in a rather rattled state, especially since I left my parents at home without a car.

On my way home, I was stopped for speeding in Grosse Pointe Woods at 8 Mile and Mack. I told the officer it was an emergency and that I needed to get home immediately.

Because of the Michigan economic crisis, I was forced to relocate to the Dallas, Texas area after college and I have a Texas driver's license.

My only thought was to get home and I really thought the officer would help get me there. Instead he, in a disorganized and unprofessional manner, was more interested in getting a $50 cash bond rather than oxygen to an ill resident. I did not have the money in cash and after much discussion and wasted time, surrendered my driver's license, which he, in the confusion, gave back to me, requiring him to stop me again. I could understand the suspicion under the proper circumstances, but I was driving a Michigan-licensed car with a handicapped certificate, two fresh oxygen bottles and I was in an emotionally upset condition only a worried son could be in.

Obviously, Grosse Pointe Woods is not in the public safety and service business. It is in the ticket-giving business and their desire to collect funds supercedes any other cause.

As a lifelong Grosse Pointe, I was shocked and saddened at the lack of compassion, professionalism and clear thought by their officer, especially since at each visit here, I notice the continual increase of the crime rate and decrease of the residents' feeling of security in my hometown. An additional sad note is that in my new home in Carrollton, Texas, where I am a virtual stranger, I would never have been treated in such a ridiculous manner, because their police officers are trained, compassionate and interested in the welfare of their residents. Property tax is approximately one-fourth of what it costs here and the services are better.

As a child growing up here, we always joked that the Pointe police rescued cats from trees and sold bicycle licenses. Obviously times changed and so did police work, but that does not mean treating people, who pay dearly to live here, with compassion and understanding should stop.

Race, ridicule, roguery

To the Editor:

The Jan. 3 GPN reviews the year. Front page fyi awards reduces the year to race, ridicule, roguery.

Does freedom of speech and press give writers license to smear community papers with racist diatribes? Does hating Detroiters make Grosse Pointers more lovable?

As a reader, I hope to be spared bigoted tirades in the future. I hope the paper will become more responsible, if not neighborly, in printing commentary on Metro Detroit.

You can do better

To the Editor:

Tom Greenwood's tongue-in-cheek column last week in which he gave Mayor Coleman Young the "If the Pigeons Smoke Kools and Eat Coney Islands, it Must Be Detroit" award, was neither clever, amusing, nor particularly insightful.

The Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith

Center for Racial Justice, Inc. (whose members have senses of humor and good sense) say, "Tom, you can do better than this (and, if you can't, we have a real problem)!"

Austin issues year-end statement

By Richard H. Austin
Secretary of State

For traffic safety, the year 1984 held both a disappointment and a promise for the future.

I saw a Senate-passed mandatory seat belt bill come within four votes of passage in the House. This is the best we have done to date in mustering support for adoption of this vital traffic safety legislation and I am confident we will see this adopted in 1985. It also saw the promulgation of a federal rule to mandate airbags if states do not pass seat belt laws. Three states - New York, New Jersey and Illinois - have complied.

Another disappointment was the fact that traffic deaths rose in 1984 for the first time since 1979. This underscores the need for safety belt legislation to reduce deaths, injuries, costs and personal pain and suffering. State Police statistics still incomplete for 1984, show 1,486 highway deaths compared with 1,317 in 1983.

The past year also saw these major accomplishments by the Department of State for service, efficiency and consumer protection:

—Complete installation of two-way computer terminals in all 172 full-time branch offices to instantaneously register all branch office transactions in Lansing, eliminating time, paperwork and reducing staff. This new system also provides law enforcement with a daily record of all driver licenses and license plates issued.

—Registered the five millionth voter in branch offices. Since 1975, individuals may register to vote or change their registration address in branch offices when they purchase licenses or plates.

—Worked with local election officials to successfully administer a presidential election which posted a near record voter turnout.

—Improved testing of first time applicants for motorcycle licenses. In 1984, the Department of State set up 61 testing sites statewide to perform required testing under a new law requiring stricter testing for new motorcyclists.

—Joined the International Registration Plan to make it easier for truckers to register all trucks in all states, provinces and countries in North America.

—Took initial steps to plan the observance of Michigan's Sesquicentennial (150th birthday) in 1987.

—Began an investigation of used cars sold with unlawfully altered mileage readings. Of the thousands of vehicles investigated, a total of 2,800 proved to have altered mileage readings and their owners were notified. Because lower mileage vehicles bring greater prices, the so-called practice of altering mileage has become a major serious consumer fraud in Michigan.

Reversing the brain drain

There was good news for Michigan and the Midwest in the recent report by the Census Bureau that showed this area of the United States reversing its population losses of recent years.

Michigan was one of four Midwest states that showed a population increase from mid-1983 to mid-1984 after having reported losses in the two previous years. The other states which reversed the loss trend were Ohio, Indiana and Iowa, which means all of the Midwest states gained in the past year. Illinois reported an increase for the second straight year and seven others in the Midwest showed continuing growth since 1981.

It is true that Michigan's gains still haven't offset its losses in the earlier years of the 1980s, but its decline for the four-and-a-half year period was only two-tenths of 1 percent. Losses for the same period were four-tenths of 1 percent for Ohio and one-tenth of 1 percent for Iowa. All the other 47 states showed gains.

Biggest percentage increases since 1980 were recorded by Alaska, 24.4 percent; Nevada, 13.8 percent; Utah, 13 percent; Florida, 12.6 percent; Texas, 12.4 percent; Arizona, 12.3 percent; Colorado, 10 percent; New Mexico, 9.3 percent; Oklahoma, 9 percent; and Wyoming, 8.9 percent.

California, the biggest state with 25,622,000 people, gained 8.3 percent over the four-and-a-half-year period, but in the past year growth dropped sharply in Texas, Louisiana and Colorado, and the energy-producing states of West Virginia, Oklahoma and Wyoming even lost population.

By and large, however, the shift of the U.S. population to the West and Southwest — to the sun-belt — appeared to be continuing as the population rose by 9.6 million from 1980 to mid-1984. But the state of Michigan and its neighbors can take hope from the evidence showing that the Midwest population decline has finally been reversed.

While the Census Bureau doesn't examine the reasons for the shifts in population, the economic recovery that finally began to be experienced in Michigan and the Midwest in 1983 and 1984 no doubt played an important role in the population recovery that occurred during that period.

Best of all, of course, is the fact that the "brain drain" that had cost Michigan and the Midwest so heavily in the recent recession is being sharply reduced. There always will be some movement of people between states as they respond to new opportunities, but newly revived Michigan now can make a bid to attract brains from the outside and reverse the "brain drain" that cost it so many bright young minds in the recession years.

In a period of high unemployment, large populations are not necessarily an asset. But the recent reports of the unemployed being called back to work and of new plants being opened offer reasons for optimism about Michigan's future. So does the effort of the state government and state educators to avoid further increases in college tuition that have tended to promote rather than reverse the "brain drain."

The quality of education as well as the quality of public services are among the factors that businessmen take into consideration in planning to expand or to open new plants. Taxes obviously are another factor that affect plant location, and Michigan ought to make certain its tax burden is competitive with nearby states. By working together, business, labor and the government ought to be able to create a cultural and economic climate that assures a continuing recovery and the permanent reversal of the "brain drain."

Prime Time for senior citizens

By Marian Trainor

The New Year is a good time for examining the past and making resolutions to be a better person in the future.

It's a good time to shore up our lifestyle and to improve the structure of our lives.

Resolutions to get more rest, to exercise and to watch our diets are commendable. Heads will be clearer on important issues if we plan to flesh out television snippets of news with solid newspaper reading where the whole story is presented without undue editing. We can strengthen our minds by reading those good books we meant to read last year and by enrolling in adult education courses to broaden our perspective.

Most of us have friends whom we cherish but neglect to call or visit. Good friends should not be neglected, so we might include in our list the firm resolve to let them know we care about them and think about them by inviting them to our home if they live a distance away, by writing them a newsy letter.

Add to the list patience in trying circumstances, empathy and charity when dealing with difficult people and the resolve to maintain a positive outlook and you have what most aspire to but often fail to achieve — a road map for 1985 that will result in a better, happier person.

As a reward for having such high aspirations, there should be trade-offs, concessions and adjustments granted, some remedying of situations that vexed and outraged us in 1984.

One of them is the ban and abolishment of a ridiculous recording that was demeaning and insulting to older women; "Grandma Got Run Over by a Reindeer." It portrayed grandma as leaving the local watering hole inebriated, falling down in the snow and being run over by Santa's reindeer. That's funny? It's sick.

Older people have a sense of humor. They can laugh at themselves. They just don't like being ridiculed.

For instance, the popular television commercial, "Where's the beef," was funny and at the same time acceptable. Clara Peller, the star of the commercial is a completely likeable character, whimsical, forceful, a person to be reckoned with, an individual who demands that there be some beef in a bun when she buys a hamburger.

You'd never hear of Clara being run over by Santa's reindeer, no more than you would find your grandmother or favorite aunt in that situation. They were demanding, a little authoritative, perhaps eccentric, but they had a dignity that demanded respect.

Now that the older population is growing so rapidly, the need to portray older citizens as they are and not as mutations is one that advertisers (and songwriters) should give some thought to.

According to a study by Langer Reports, people older than 50 don't like the way they're portrayed in ads. In her interviews she found:

"The old people in commercials are ridiculous. They're old in the way people were old in 1890 — the voices they pick sound like someone who is 150 — they're mostly portrayed as being senile."

Langer found the group saw themselves quite differently; as active vital, forward-looking people concerned about looking attractive.

Therefore in 1985, those in the media will kindly adjust the focus of their portraits of older people and present a better, truer picture.

Another hoped-for happening: 1985 should be charted to eradicate poverty among the elderly. Let us not read any more stories about a Jesse Carpenter, a decorated World War II hero who froze to death in a park across the street from the White House that has become a place for the homeless in the nation's capital. It is ironic and a disgrace that a man who fought for his country and all that it stands for should die deprived of the basic comforts that are supposedly intrinsic to the American way of life.

Jesse Carpenter was one. There are many more like him for whom success, even the basics of what is needed to survive has evaded their grasp. They are labeled as failures. But when an American citizen perishes from cold, hunger or both, the image of America as a country that cares for its people is tarnished.

While we are at it, we would like those private research groups who spend so much time compiling statistics showing that because people are living longer, society will be unduly burdened with elderly people who will need expensive care, to spend that time and money on research to slow the aging process and fight specific diseases. What we need is not questions about what to do about a swelling older population, but answers concerning how to add vigor and health to added years.

One way is to keep older people well to see that they are properly nourished. Unpleasant as it is to acknowledge, there are older people who after they pay rent and medical bills have very little left for food. During the past holiday season, this was pointed out daily in the media.

It was distressing to see the numbers who lined up at distribution centers for food. It was disquieting to read of people so hungry, they ate dog food. It was even more disturbing to read that while thousands of Detroit area people were fed, many were turned away. This is definitely a problem that needs some working on in 1985.

Another front that needs to be reinforced is the continuous battle against Medicare cuts. Again, it is the elderly who will bear the brunt.

Last year the Medicare hospital deductible rose from $204 to $260. When the hospital deductible goes up, the co-payments go up. These co-payments are the amounts a Medicare patient must pay beginning with the 61st day of hospital stay and the 21st day of a stay in a skilled nursing home.

Moving away from what is present and urgent, we look to the future. The future, no matter how large or small our estate, is the most important request we leave.

With this in mind, we should consider our resources and the need to conserve them.

Locally we are blessed with the finest fresh water system in the country. It is imperative that we see that this wealth of water is kept free of pollution. It is important also to see that it is not piped out to states which have lured industry and people away from Michigan because of climate and job opportunities, but now lack the necessary water to sustain industries and supply the needs of their increased population.

Our waterways are one of Michigan's selling points. To those who now find it difficult to carry on without that valuable asset, we say, come back and welcome. The diversion of water would not only be an economic disaster, but our lakes would recede and the fish would die.

Recently the Michigan United Conservation Club refused to sign the Great Lakes Charter drawn up by the task force of the Great Lakes Governors designed to limit and control water consumption from the Great Lakes. However it would not have prevented it. It has now been pushed back for further negotiations with an eye to strengthening it.

We hear so much about senior power and the political strength of older citizens because of their increasing numbers. What better use could be made of that clout in '85 than letting our lawmakers know that any move to deplete or divert Michigan's waterways will be protested.

Those interested in preserving Michigan's water wonderland or in environmental protection in general can take another approach. There is an organization called the Sierra Club which is involved in many environmental issues; clean air, clean water, public lands, oil and gas leasing, soil and water conservation. Along with the Audubon Society and the National Wildlife Federation, the Sierra Club works hard to preserve the environment. These groups have local and state chapters and a highly trained staff of ecologists, economists, editors and educators.

The Sierra Club, which has a Great Lakes Chapter, publishes a Sierra bi-monthly. Membership for a retired person is $15. The address is Sierra Club, 530 Bush St., San Francisco, Calif. 94108.

Besides becoming a student and an advocate for environmental protection, the organization, if you so choose, has hiking and biking trips.

While we fervently hope '85 will solve some of our social inequities; that the poor, the hungry will be taken care of; that our lives will not be diminished by federal cutbacks or restrictions on such benefits as Medicare and Medicaid, we will also stand guard over our natural resources. The preservation of them is our finest heritage.

Those feet are made for watching

Grosse Pointe Park police tracked a suspect's tour of local garages with the help of the snowfall on Dec. 27.

Police were called to a home on Buckingham by the owner who noticed his attached garage door partially open at 10:36 p.m., said Henry Counce, Park police chief.

They followed a trail of footprints to garages on Devonshire, then to the 1300 and 1400 block of Three Mile Drive, where they arrested a man Counce says, "is a regular customer of ours."

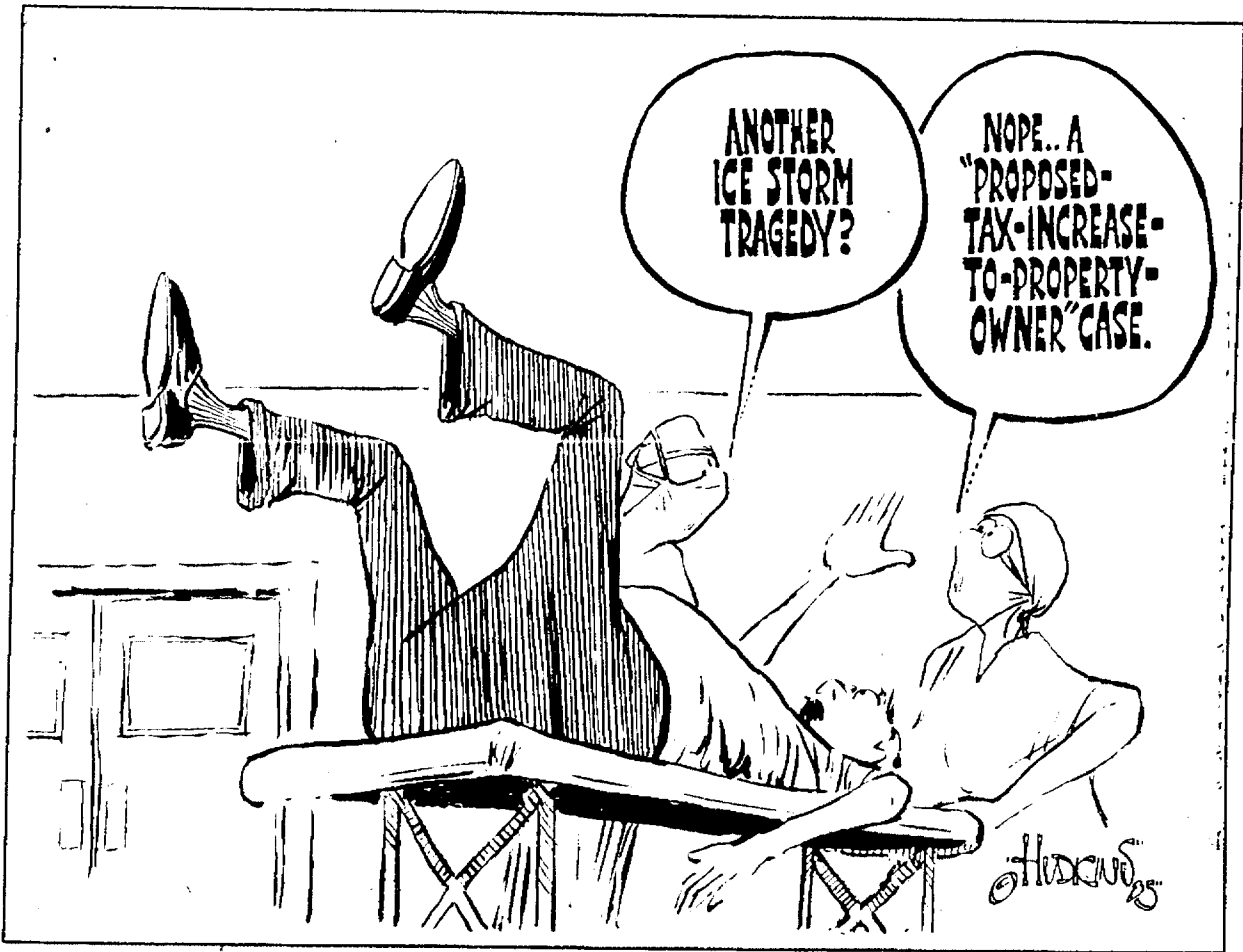

The 29-year-old Detroit resident was charged with breaking and entering garages and possession of burglary tools. He is in the Wayne County Jail being held on $5,000 cash bond, adds Counce.

Computer stolen

An Apple computer valued at $900 turned up missing during an inventory of equipment on North High Dec. 21.

Thomas Teetaert, assistant principal, reported that the computer had been placed in a room for storage after school ended. It is believed that the computer may have been stolen during the summer school program held in July and August.

Woods police are investigating the theft.

I say Home sweet home

Most women empathize when they hear one of their own moaning about a spouse who can't fix a leaky faucet, unclog a drain or get a door to close properly. They think happiness is being married to a fix-up, paint-up, clean-up type who keeps all of the appliances in the house humming in harmony.

Well, this is me, the voice of experience, here to tell you that living with a do-it-yourselfer is not always so not either. All I have to do is tell my husband that the washer is making a funny noise and then I stand back and watch the sparkles spring from his eyes and the steel settle into his jaws as the adrenalin changes him from an average guy to — The Fixer.

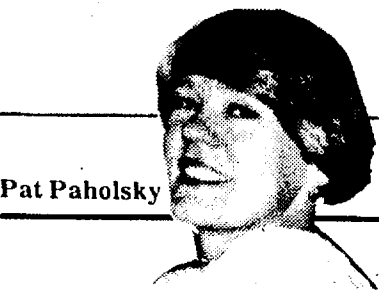

Some men climb mountains, some free-fall from airplanes. My mate approaches a recalcitrant washer with the same derring-do. It's man against machine and you better believe a piece of steel will not triumph.

And you better believe I relate this with tongue-in-cheek, because it's nice not only to have a man handy, but one who is. It's the other side of his fix-it nature, however, that makes me weep. That other darker side harbors a demon called — change. Change means alteration, variation, modification, transformation, renovation, conversion. It means whatever is now just won't make it, babe. No such thing as the status quo around our house.

You say you have a room with no window? Cut a hole in the wall and put one in. What, no skylight anywhere in your house? Knock a hole in the ceiling and enjoy the stars in the comfort of your couch. A wall is blocking some of the heat from the fireplace? Remove the wall, or as they might have said in the '60s, off the wall.

I could go on and on. Fifteen years we have been in this house and 15 years he has been rearranging the walls and the ceilings and the floors. The people we bought the house from had occasion to visit a few years ago and the poor things walked through totally disoriented. There's a doorway that was a window in a previous life, a built-in bookcase that once was a window, an arch that was the back door, and believe it or not, a front door that is no longer there. Actually, it is and it isn't. It's sealed up in the wall and what do you think future archeologists will make of that?

To be fair, I have to admit that the changes are an improvement. He does do good work. It's just that I'm looking for calm and quiet when I get home. Instead I get the ear-hurting, teeth-gritting screech of a saber saw and the pounding of a hammer, each whack beating a kettle drum in my brain. It's enough to make me want to go to the bar and drink with the boys.

Normally, I get over these evil feelings pretty quickly after he's finished a project and I'm assured the house will look the same when I come home as when I left in the morning.

But he's at it again. Half of the kitchen cupboards have been ripped out of the wall, my dishes are in cardboard boxes and I can't find a thing and my psyche is turned upside down once more. I'd stay at my mother's until the dust settles, but I know better — when I'd return, I'd be a stranger in my own house.

Learn to grieve

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial, in cooperation with the University of Michigan Family Practice Center, will offer a six-week course, "New Beginnings: Coming to Grips with Grief," beginning Wednesday, Jan. 16, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

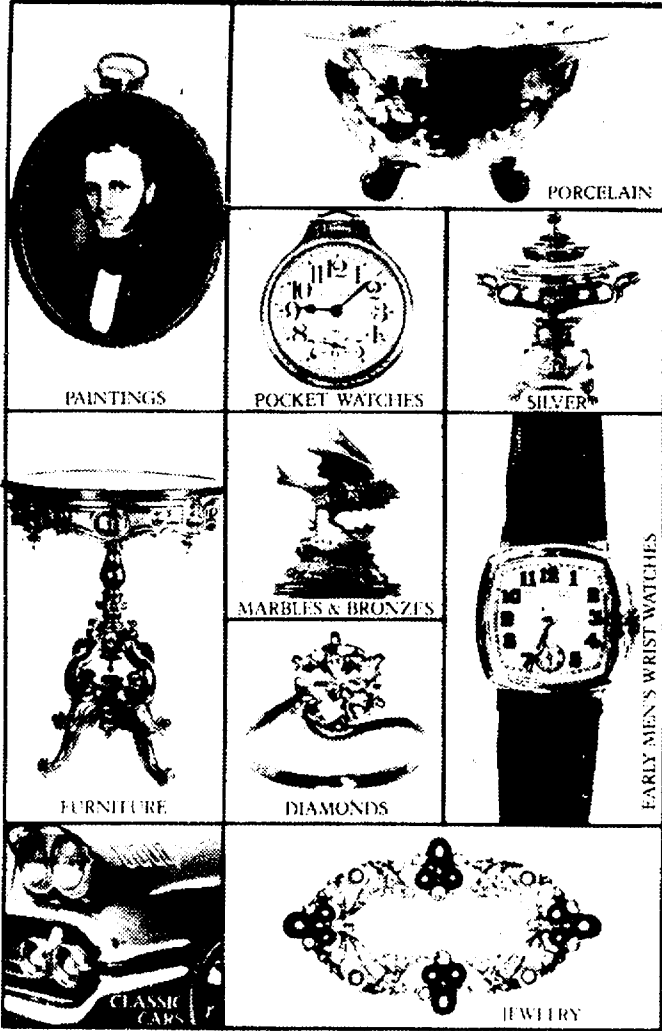

Participation is open to anyone who has lost a loved one by death, divorce or estrangement, no matter how long it has been since the loss occurred. There is no charge.

Founded by Dr. Robert Weikart, who specializes in grief counseling, the program is based on the premise that "by helping people grieve openly, they can keep physically healthy."

At its first session the program facilitator, the Rev. Russel Manney from the Cathedral Church of St. Paul, will present the process of grief and what is necessary for a healthy recovery. The second session will deal with the importance of storytelling and remembering in the grieving process. Another session, led by a medical doctor, will describe the physical effects of grief. The ways in which grief can lead to negative or positive results, and the resources of faith and community that give people strength, will be the focus of the fourth session.

Succeeding evenings will deal with values and how they may have changed since the loss, and preparing participants to build an ongoing support network if they so choose.

Those who cannot attend the first meeting are invited to join in the second. Although there is no charge for the program, reservations are requested by calling the Grosse Pointe War Memorial at 881-7511. The War Memorial is located at 32 Lakeshore Road.

School team meets at Pierce

When Pierce Middle School students and their parents meet at the school tonight, they will lay the foundation for solving some of the problems that affect adults and children.

The meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in the girls' gymnasium at the school is the first big meeting of the Pierce School Team, according to coordinator Sue Jones. An offshoot of parent peer groups, the school team concept brings parents and their children together to talk about a variety of subjects of interest to both in moderated discussions, she added.

Topics include academic and social pressures on middle school kids, substance abuse, social activities for students and curfews. The suggestions came from the middle school student council and parents, according to Mrs. Jones.

By talking about the topics, the school team hopes to interest parents and students into looking at each subject more closely and try to find some solutions, she said. Tonight's meeting is only a brainstorming session to open up communication between parents and students.

Participants will take part in 10-minute brainstorming sessions with eight to 12 other people at the table devoted to a single topic. A moderator will be on hand at each table, Mrs. Jones said.

Each person will probably take part in four different groups of his or her choice, during the evening and then be able to return to one of interest to them. It's hoped that people will become interested enough in finding a solution to a certain problem that they will form a group, she said.

Pierce started to develop the School Team program this school year, Mrs. Jones said. While the school wanted to form a parent peer group program, similar to others at local schools that were developed with the assistance of the Substance Abuse Community Council, it also decided to bring students into the discussions. Mrs. Jones said that half that participants in each brainstorming session will be middle school kids.

It's hoped that those who take part in the session tonight will work together as a group to develop interest and membership in the school team program, she added.

Winter survival tips

Don't let the winter weather take a toll on your mind or your body. There is a smart and healthy way to enjoy the winter, says Dwight Gaal, director of the Bon Secours Health & Fitness Center in St. Clair Shores.

"There's no doubt that winter will wear you down — if you let it," said Gaal, an exercise physiologist. "The key is to enjoy the colder weather, and if you can't do that, then at least accept it and make the most out of it."

Gaal offers these tips to make this winter your best ever:

1. Exercise regularly outdoors. It lifts your mood and gets you out of the house, avoiding the dreaded "cabin fever." Dress warmly in layers, wear a hat and be sure to protect your face and hands.

2. Maintain a positive outlook. Increase social activity, go places and have something to look forward to.

3. Eat well. A normal, healthy individual should take in about 60 to 70 percent carbohydrates. Most of these should be complex carbohydrates such as fruits, vegetables, pasta and potatoes. Another 10 to 15 percent should be protein and the remaining 10 to 15 percent should be fat — mainly polyunsaturated fats.

4. Avoid alcohol, nicotine, caffeine and drink a lot of water. Gaal points out that these substances disturb blood circulation, making weather changes more stressful.

Beginning Wednesday, Jan. 9, at 8 p.m. host Wagner will present the winners of the 13 semi-finals in a one-hour recital. Persons interested in participating in the 1985-86 competition can call 833-6105.

Self-image is MACLD topic

The Grosse Pointe Chapter of the Michigan Association of Children with Learning Disabilities will meet Tuesday, Jan. 15, at 7:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Central Library, Kercheval at Fisher.

Speaker for the evening is Dr. Ronald Friedman, who will talk about self-image and socialization.

A good self-image is necessary for learning disabled children to handle the obstacles in the learning process before them, Dr. Friedman says. Socialization enhances a child's life, making a well-rounded, well-adjusted individual.

Friedman uses his "down-to-earth" professionalism to treat the problem. His knowledge, experience and sensitivity for the learning-disabled child help him reach children.

Friedman is a practicing child and adolescent psychologist in St. Clair Shores and the author of between 30 and 40 articles in medical and psychology journals. He is also author of the book "Hyperactivity," which he wrote for parents to explain "attention deficit disorders."

Most recently, Friedman has published articles in "Baby Talk" and "Single Parent Magazine" about dating.

Dr. Ronald Friedman

MACLD's upcoming meetings and programs include Success in College, Feb. 19; Meet with Success, March 19; and a Mock IPEC: A Way Through the Maze, April 16.

Marygrove College will sponsor a one-day workshop on careers in the health field, designed for students, homemakers, and anyone interested in finding out what is available.

Experts in health careers will be on hand for this one-day program, ready to describe careers in EKG technology, X-ray/radiology technology, central supply, cardiovascular technology, operating room (sur-

Bird feeder survey participants sought

The Michigan Audubon Society is looking for people who are interested in taking part in the Eighth Annual Feeder Bird Survey to document the state's winter bird populations.

Nearly 1,000 Michigan residents have participated during the past six winter surveys. The founder of the project, Ray Adams, said:

"Feeder counts are helpful in determining range changes in birds, such as the spread of the cardinal and tufted titmouse into Northern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula, where they did not previously occur. Many people are unable to get out and participate in the Audubon Christmas bird counts, and their observations of the numbers and kinds coming to their feeders can be as valuable as data collected in other research projects."

To take part in the survey, participants count the number of individuals of each species that visit their feeders on one day each month from January through April. The Society will provide the proper forms and instructions along with suggestions on a variety of bird food items, and how to distinguish flocks and individuals, so they don't get counted twice in one session.

Those interested are asked to send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with $1 to help with the cost of printing and postage to Michigan Audubon Society, 409 West E. Avenue, Kalamazoo, Mich. 49007.

Lutheran Hour speaker to preach Jan. 20

Dr. Oswald Hoffmann, noted Lutheran Hour speaker, will preach Sunday, Jan. 20, as Peace Lutheran Church celebrates a Festival of Evangelism. He will deliver the sermon at the 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. worship services.

Ordained into the Lutheran ministry in 1939, he was active as a parish pastor and as professor of classical languages until being named director of Public Relations of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod in 1948.

The church is located at East Warren and Balfour. For more information, call 882-0254.

gical) technology, nurse's aide, ward (unit) secretary, medical laboratory assisting, medical records clerk, medical insurance billing and respiratory therapy.

Cost is $15 and the date is Saturday, Jan. 12, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on the college campus, 8425 West McNichols at Wyoming.

For more information or to enroll in the workshop, call 862-8000, extension 240.

Workshop teaches how to talk to teens

The Family Life Education Council (FLEC) will again offer workshops for parents of teenagers. The program, Systematic Training for Effective Parenting of Teens, or STEP/Teen affords parents the opportunity to learn and practice effective communication and problem-solving skills while gaining insight into the specific concerns of adolescents.

Afternoon and evening workshops will be offered beginning Wednesday, Feb. 6, for eight consecutive two-hour sessions. The cost is $15 a person or $25 a couple. To register, call FLEC at 885-3510.

Teen beach party

Grosse Pointe students in grades 6 through 8 can go to a beach party Saturday, Jan. 12, at the War Memorial. Everyone who is dressed in beach or Hawaiian attire will receive a $1-off coupon for a future dance.

The fun will begin at 7:30 p.m. and music will be provided by J.R. Entertainment.

Students will not be permitted to leave before 10:30 p.m. unless a parent or guardian comes into the Fries Ballroom to pick them up. Tickets, which are $3 each, must be purchased in advance. There will be no door sales.

Any parent who can chaperone this dance, or the next one Feb. 22, is asked to call the War Memorial at 881-7511.

Romanian Symposium

The International Institute will celebrate the 135th anniversary of the greatest Romanian poet, Mihai Eminescu, at a full day symposium Friday, Jan. 18.

Dr. Lucian Rosu, visiting professor at University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Department of Romance Languages, will chair the symposium with Professor Norma Goldman, Wayne State University, and George Aleke, chief editor of "Romanian Communism" review.

A presentation of Eminescu papers, Romanian books and an art exhibition including literary works and paintings by artist Mrs. Didi Alexe will be featured. A performance by the Tarancuta Romanian Folk Ensemble, a film on Eminescu and readings by American Romanian poets and local poets will be featured during the dinner hour.

Registration is $5, and reservations are preferred. Dinner reservations are $15 and must be made by Jan. 16. Call Mary Ann Suciu at 871-8600 during business hours to register.

French concert

The Lyric Chamber Ensemble will present "The Friendly French," Sunday, Jan. 13, at 3:30 p.m. at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House.

Pianist Fedora Horowitz, LCE's artistic director, will perform with Detroit Symphony Orchestra musicians Shaul Ben-Meir, flute; Douglas Cornelson, clarinet; Paul Ganson, bassoon; John Snow, oboe; and Corbin Wagner, French horn, in an all-French program.

Selections include Poulenc's "Sextet for Piano and Winds," Ibert's quintet "Trois pieces and breves," Milhaud's quintet "La Cheminee du Roi Rene," Francaix's trio "Diversitisme," and Bolling's "Suite for Flute and Jazz Piano."

Tickets are $8, $6 for senior citizens and students, available in advance or at the door. Prices include an after-glow wine reception. Visa and MasterCard are accepted with advanced phone reservations.

The Ford House is located at 1100 Lakeshore in Grosse Pointe Shores. Call 357-1111 anytime for tickets and information.

Katalenic-Kwek

The Katalenic-Kwek Band will appear at the Macomb Center for the Performing Arts at 7 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 27, as part of the Center's Big Band Bash series.

The 22-member group, co-led by composer-pianist John Katalenic and baritone saxophonist Gary Kwek, will be the second to perform in the four-part series. They will be followed on March 24 by the Jimmy Wilkins Band and on May 5 by the Austin-Moro Band.

Tickets are $6 for adults and $4 for students and senior citizens. They may be obtained at the Center's box office or reserved on credit card by calling 286-2222, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The Center is located on the Center Campus of Macomb Community College at Hall (M-59) and Garfield roads in Clinton Township.

Concert

The Detroit Metropolitan Orchestra will present its season premiere concert Sunday, Jan. 13, at Orchestra Hall, 3711 Woodward at 7 p.m. under the direction of Harry McTerry, conductor.

The concert will feature works by Beethoven, Stravinsky, Ulysses Kay and James Hartway of the Park.

Special guest soloists include Stephanie Leon of the Farms and the Donald Walden Jazz Quartet.

For ticket information, call Orchestra Hall at 833-3700, Bill Ross at 577-4065 or Dick Stacey at 861-3371.

Plant nutrition

Dr. Dean Krauskopf, the newly appointed extension horticultural agent for Wayne County, will address the Men's Garden Club of Grosse Pointe on Thursday, Jan. 17 at 7:30 p.m. at the central library.

His subject will be "Plant Nutrition" with an emphasis on diagnosis of plant problems through soil tests and foliar analysis. Krauskopf is responsible for supervising the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service and assists Michigan agriculture through educational programs.

A question and answer period will follow his address. Guests are welcome.

Women Republicans

Reed Irvine, of the Washington-based Accuracy in Media (AIM), will be the speaker at the annual meeting of the Women's Republican Club of Grosse Pointe Thursday, Jan. 17 at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club.

Irvine, author of "Media Mischief and Misdeeds," founded AIM to counteract irresponsible journalism. He edits the bi-weekly AIM Report, writes a weekly syndicated newspaper column and broadcasts a daily radio commentary. He has appeared on Nightline, The Phil Donahue Show and C $15 admission includes dinner. Cocktails are at 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 7 p.m., and the program at 8 p.m.

Drunk driving

The Bishop Gallagher High School Mothers' Club will sponsor a program on drunk driving Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Panelists for the forum include Russell La Barge, prosecuting attorney for the city of Harper Woods; Chief Ford of the Harper Woods Police Department; Sharon McWhorter and Allan Slonim, representatives from MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Driving); and two representatives from SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving). The evening will also include an open discussion on the legal responsibility of parents.

The school is located on Harper Avenue near Moross Road in Harper Woods. There is ample lighted parking adjacent to the school.

Saturday workshops

The War Memorial will offer four "Special Saturday Workshops" Jan. 19, for the man or woman who cannot attend classes during the week.

"Hot Hints for a Perfect Closet," led by Ewa Bielski, will be from 10:30 a.m. to noon. "Most people are not very organized," Ms. Bielski says. "The blouses are with the skirts and the skirts are mixed up with pants. Or one shoe is one side of the closet while its mate is clear across on the opposite end. The result of the melee is that people don't even know what they have." The cost of the workshop is $4.

"Think Trim," from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. is a workshop for those who are tired of dieting and would like to change their relationship with food by developing a positive self-image. Instructor Lorraine Stefano, who is a therapist in private practice, will take the psychological approach that being trim starts with thinking trim. The cost is $35.

Color I consultant Sandra Lowden will teach "Wardrobe Wizardry Through Color," from 1 to 2:30 p.m. The focus of her seminar will be on eliminating costly clothing mistakes by learning to choose versatile garments to suit every occasion. Tips on color and shopping will also be presented. The cost is $6.

The art of "Stenciling Floor Cloth" will be taught by Greenfield Village artisan Jessica Keaton from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. This class will feature a design for a 2 feet by 3 feet canvas cloth all ready to be stenciled. Though patterns will be available, the instructor will assist anyone who wishes to design his or her own pattern. Registration must be made by Jan. 12. The cost, including supplies, is $28.

For additional information on any of these workshops, call 881-7511.

"Chef" is short for the French "chef de cuisine."

Kids and animals programs scheduled

New-for-winter as part of the Youth Enrichment Program offered by the Department of Community Education of the Grosse Pointe Public School System is a two-part program, Animal Family: Introduction for Tiny Tots and Animals, Animals, Animals, a movement/dance workshop.

The dual program, which will be held from 9 to 10 and 10 to 11 Thursday morning, March 14, at Barnes School, 20090 Morningside Drive, is an opportunity for pre-school and kindergarten children to meet birds, reptiles, amphibians and mammals in an animal experience, and enhance their understanding of basic principles of creative movement.

During Animal Family: Introduction for Tiny Tots, students will have science come alive through hands-on contact with live animals during a 50-minute program, co-sponsored with the Living Science Foundation.

A Living Science educator, a specialist in working with young children, will stimulate the student's interest in science. Those enrolling will be offered a package of pre- and post-program activities for four- and five-year-olds designed by the Living Science staff.

During Animals, Animals, Animals: Movement/Dance Program, preschoolers will use their bodies and their imaginations to enhance real-life experience with animals under the direction of Lorrie Schulte, professional assistant and recreation specialist in the public school system's Department of Community Education.

"Sound effects, music with animal themes and guided imagery exploration will allow the child to think and feel about the animals that they will see or have seen and react to their feelings through movement," Ms. Schulte said. "Children are creatures of movement and feeling. Any effort to educate a child must take this dominance of movement in the life of the child into account," she added.

Fee for each of the two sessions will be $1, payable in advance to the department of community education. Call 343-2178 for space availability.

Services to elderly offered

Calvary Senior Center, 4950 Gateshead, will offer home chores and homemaker services again this year.

Grants were awarded the center for continuation of two programs to enable seniors to continue living in their own homes with independence and dignity, despite chronic illness and disease and waning physical abilities. Added to the problems of aging are the high cost of hiring someone to take care of simple maintenance chores, on the one hand, and a limited or fixed income, on the other.

On federal grant, through the Detroit Area Agency on Aging (DAAA) is to take care of small home chores, such as replacing fuses and door locks; installing screens and storms; shades and curtain rods; shampooing and tacking down rugs; scrubbing floors and repairing furniture.

A second grant (half federally funded through the DAAA and half by the state) helps seniors with light housekeeping, food preparation and laundry.

The area covered by these services — Kelly Road to Lake St. Clair and 8 Mile Road to Alter Road — includes part of northeastern Detroit, the Pointes and Harper Woods. In this area, 30 percent of the population is over 60 and 31 percent of the homes were built prior to 1939.

Last year the homemaker services were provided to 124 clients and the chore service to 261. Referrals came from social workers, relatives and individuals needing the services.

Older adults in need of home services can call Carol Severn, director of Calvary's Home Services Department, at 881-3374.

In addition to the home services, Calvary sends a newsletter to homebound elderly and offers a Friendship Line where weekly phone calls are made to reassure clients they are not forgotten.

Although services are supplied without cost to individuals over 60, donations are accepted from those able to pay and go toward funding the program.

Last year, the program served 385 individuals in the target area.

Hello, Kristen

Brad Dubay of the Woods was one of a handful of March of Dimes volunteers from southeast Michigan who met national poster child Kristen Ellis at a recent gathering in Chicago. Dubay, who just completed a one-year term as chapter chairman of the newly formed Southeast Michigan March of Dimes, has been involved with the voluntary health organization for more than a decade. He is vice president and cashier of the Security Bank of Richmond.

Grow your own tree

Civic organizations, parents and teachers can obtain an educational unit about trees from the National Arbor Day Foundation.

The 'Grow Your Own Tree' unit includes two full-color filmstrips, audio cassettes, a teacher's guide, wall posters, student activity materials, and student awards for participating children. A special feature of the unit is individual student kits containing everything children need to grow trees from seeds. The kits include seeds, planting instructions, a planting container, and a growing medium. The students just add water.

To obtain free information about the unit, send your name and address to "Grow Your Own Tree," National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, Neb. 68410. 68410.

Cubs help Marines

The Toys for Tots program sponsored by the U.S. Marine Corps received some help from Grosse Pointe Cub Pack 290. The 51 members of the pack, under the direction of project chairman Steve Backlund, a Grosse Pointe police officer, collected two large containers of toys which were donated by students at Mason Elementary School. Shown, from left, are Michael Garzel, Doug Brown, Bob Backlund, Officer Backlund and Britt Bauble.

'Morning's at Seven' begins Jan. 16

Grosse Pointe Theatre will present "Morning's at Seven," a comedy by Paul Osborn, Jan. 16 through 20 and Jan. 23 through 26, at the Fries Auditorium of the War Memorial. Curtain is 8 p.m. except for Sunday which is 7 p.m.

The play is about four sisters, their families and relationships. It's set in a small midwestern town in 1922.

One house is occupied by Cora Swanson (Sheila Wyatt), her husband Theodore (Jim Ozinga), and her spinster sister Aaronetta (Lois Bendler) who has lived with them for 40 years.

In the other house lives Ida Bolton (Carolyn Kaump), her husband Carl (Ken Lister) and her son Homer (Don Ross). Homer's fiancée is played by Pat Villegas.

The oldest sister, Esther Cramp-ton (Gigi Gaggini) lives down the road with David (George Valenta).

George Hunt is the director, Kathy Fish, the producer, and Ruth Richards, the assistant producer. Micki Pizzimenti is stage manager. Co-technical directors are John Casey and Robert Montgomery, set design is by Bill Taylor, costumes are by Marge Guertler, lights by Jeff Fisk, makeup by Emma Jean Evans, props and set design by Dianne Peters, and sound is by Ciro Vitale.

Theater-goers may dine in the Crystal Ballroom of the War Memorial before the performance. Buffet tickets are available until three days in advance of each performance at $9.50 each. Call the center at 881-7511 for more information on the dinners.

For ticket information or reservations, call the Grosse Pointe Theatre box office at 881-4004.

Two sisters play tug of war with the third in Grosse Pointe Theatre's production of the delightful comedy, "Morning's at Seven." Cast members are, from left, Gigi Gaggini, Lois Bendler and Carolyn Kaump.

Cars stolen

Grosse Pointe Park police report that three cars were stolen in a 24-hour period.

On Dec. 23, a 1977 Chevrolet was stolen from the 800 block of Westchester. Detroit police found it about four hours later on Newport Street in Detroit, partly stripped.

At 6:15 p.m. that evening, a 1984 Oldsmobile was taken from a city parking lot. It was recovered two hours later by Detroit police who stopped a man for a traffic violation at Chalmers and Piper and discovered he was driving a stolen car.

On Dec. 24, a homeowner discovered that his 1972 Buick was gone. He told police it had been left unattended for two days, so he wasn't certain when it was taken.

Fire lights up Christmas Eve

A flooded carburetor that dripped fuel onto the hot engine may have caused the fire that damaged a 1975 Volkswagen motor home that was parked in front of a Neff Road home about noon Christmas Eve in the City.

Two scout cars and a fire truck responded to the fire at 12:16 p.m. Monday, according to City police. No dollar estimate of damage was given. The vehicle was towed from the scene.

Police say the motor home was registered to a Harper Woods man. The fire began in the engine compartment and was extinguished using water and dry chemicals. No one was injured.

Arrested again

A 17-year-old youth, out on bond pending trial for attempting to steal a car in the Park Dec. 9, was arrested for a similar crime two weeks later.

The former resident, now living in St. Clair Shores, was found sitting behind the wheel of a car parked in the 15000 block of Hampton at 5 a.m., on Dec. 23, said Henry Coonce, Park police chief.

The owner told police that when she and a friend heard the car engine start, her friend went outside and held the intruder until police arrived.

The youth is being held in the Wayne County Jail on $7,500 cash bond set by Park Judge Beverly Groebbel.

Schools report fewer students, teachers last year

Have you ever wondered how much the buildings and equipment at the high schools are worth? What happened on Feb. 1, 1983? What's the average salary and educational background for a teacher locally? How many films and video cassettes were borrowed by the schools from the Instructional Materials Center?

Those are only a few of the bits of information available in the Grosse Pointe Public School System's 1983-84 Annual Statistical Report.

The report summarizes information about school district geography and historical data, enrollment, employment, finances, instructional achievements, special education services, instructional media services, research and development, community education and public libraries.

Last school year, the district's 15 schools had a maximum physical capacity of 13,075 students, based on 25 students a classroom. The maximum physical capacity is not operating capacity, according to the report.

The system has $50.6 million invested in the site, improvements, building and equipment costs for its schools, central library and administration buildings and Elworthy Field.

Since 1925, 34,128 people have graduated from Grosse Pointe High Schools. The largest number was in 1973, when 1,248 students at North and South received diplomas.

There were 7,515 enrolled in May, 1984, 290 less than the same time the year before, the report said.

The district's 130 elementary classrooms had a median size of 22.8 students and ranged in size from 12 to 32 in October 1983, according to the report. By school, the median class size for Barnes was 24.5; Defer, 26; Ferry, 20.8; Kerby, 22.4; Maire, 22; Mason, 22.8; Monteith, 23.9; Poupard, 25.8; Richard, 21; and Trombly, 23.9.

More than 19 percent of the classrooms had less than 19 students, while 46.9 percent had 20 to 24. More than 30 percent of the classrooms contained 25 to 29 students and 3.1 percent of the classes had 30 to 34 students. None of the classes contained more than 35 students in October 1983, the report said.

At the middle schools, class sizes varied from a median of 22.4 students in English classes to 31.7.

At the middle schools, median class sizes ranged from 22.4 students in English classes to 31.7 students in physical education classes. Median class size for the 61 math classes in the middle schools was 25.4 students, while the 50 science classes had 26.8 students as a median class size as of October 1983, according to the report.

Median class sizes at the high schools ranged from 18.4 students in each of the 51 home economics classes to 35.5 in the 46 physical education classes, according to the report. Science, math, foreign language and English classes had median class sizes of about 23 students.

The school system employed 841 people in professional and support positions in 1984.

The number of teachers employed by the system dropped from 501 in June 1982 to 467 in June 1984. Seventy aides, monitors and attendants boosted the system's number of employees to 841 in June 1984, up from 787 at school's end in 1982.

The average salary last school year for a teacher in the district was $34,979. Public library employees earned an average of $33,521. Plant and office personnel earned $18,741 and $13,003, respectively. Administrators earned an average $45,935 while non-instructional supervisors earned an average $28,779. Paraprofessionals and other district employees who aren't in other categories earn an average $15,421, according to the report.

Better than four-fifths of the district's teachers have a master's degree and training time toward a doctoral degree. Sixteen percent of the teachers have bachelor's degrees and extra hours toward their master's, while only 2 percent had doctorates at the end of last school year, according to the report.

Also contained in the report is a reprint of the district's financial statement released earlier this year. Also, the elementary, secondary and special education departments review their services and accomplishments during the 1983-84 school year.

Other sections of the report deal with the Instructional Materials Center's operations and services, the number and description of tests and studies completed by the office of research and development and reports from the libraries and community education.

And, if you've read this far just to find out, the high schools are worth a little better than $28 million. Grosse Pointe South, then the only high school, was completed and occupied Feb. 1, 1928. Public schools used 7,484 films and video cassettes from the Instructional Materials Center during the previous school year.

theft reported

Woods police are investigating the theft of 16 pairs of expensive eyeglass frames from a shop on Mack Avenue. The frames are valued at $2,513.

On Dec. 13, a salesperson received a phone call from a woman who asked if the store carried Cartier frames, which are imported from Paris. The woman, accompanied by two men, came in the store in the afternoon and asked to see the frames. When she wanted to know the price of one pair, the salesperson went to the back to find the invoice. At this time, one of the men left.

The other two stayed in the store for about 45 minutes.

The theft of the box of frames plus four frames of the same make from the window display was not discovered until the next day. Each frame is marked with a serial number and half of the missing frames are sunglasses.

Bold thief steals six-foot Santa

The police report read: Larceny of Santa Claus. Seems someone walked off with a six-foot plastic Santa Sunday afternoon between 12:30 and 5 o'clock.

The Christmas decoration graced the front lawn of a house on Paget Court and Woods police would like to hear from anyone who has information on the theft. The Santa was valued at $75.

Learn to write for profit

Freelance writer Jeanne Paul will present an intensive one-day workshop, "Freelance Writing For Glory and Profit," Saturday, Jan. 19, at the War Memorial.

The workshop, which is from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., will focus on how to sell articles to magazines and newspapers. The deadline to register is Jan. 16. The $75 fee includes materials, lunch, coffee and the workshop.

"A lot of people talk about writing articles, but only those who know the ins and outs of selling to a constantly changing market succeed," says Ms. Paul.

The workshop will begin at the beginning with the article idea and will carry participants through all of the important steps, such as focusing, identifying types of feature articles, analyzing consumer and trade markets, finding the right market for each article, writing query letters, organizing articles, overcoming fear of editors, preparing manuscripts, dealing with rejection slips, understanding your rights, copyrighting, getting the "free" out of freelance, and being a business.

Ms. Paul has written for the Detroit News, Ann Arbor News, Milwaukee Journal, Philadelphia Inquirer, Dallas Times-Herald, Parade, American Educator, Humanities and other publications. Her book reviews appear frequently in the Detroit News, Baltimore Sun and several other newspapers. In 1981, she received a distinguished achievement award from the Educational Press Association of America. She is a former ghostwriter for Sen. Charles Percy, and has spoken recently at the Cranbrook, Midland and Oakland writers conferences. She is a member of the board of Detroit Women Writers and a member of the National Book Critics Circle.

Registration at the door is $85. For further information, call 881-7511.

Artist marketing

"Marketing the Arts and the Artist" is the title of a new speech and drama course offered at Mercy College of Detroit this semester. Subtitled, "How to Blow Your Own Horn," the course is designed for actors, artists, dancers, musicians, writers—and others whose talents lie out of the mainstream—to appraise their talents, identify a place in the market, set goals and prepare a plan of action to achieve them.

"Marketing the Arts and the Artist" meets Tuesday and Thursday evenings and may be taken for credit or non-credit. No prior course work is required. Enrollment is limited to 17 students, however, so early enrollment is necessary. Registration began Jan. 3.

Students in the course will gain marketing experience as production coordinators in a new musical comedy to premiere at Mercy College in May. Instructor for the course is Mercy College's playwright-in-residence, Joe Marrocco.

Interested students should call Mercy College of Detroit at 592-6053.

Quit smoking

The Patient Education Center of St. John Hospital will offer a Stop Smoking Clinic Monday through Friday, Jan. 14 to 18, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the hospital auditorium. The fee is $20.

Each session will feature physicians who will provide technique training and supplemental information for successful smoking withdrawal. Literature will be distributed and films will be presented to help encourage positive actions to quit smoking.

Early registration is requested because of limited class size. Registrations will not be accepted at the door.

Call the St. John Hospital Patient Education Center at 343-3870 to register for more information.

Headache program

Foster K. Redding, M.D., Ph.D., neurologist, will be the featured speaker at Cottage Hospital Thursday, Jan. 17, "I've Got a Headache," which will be held from 7 to 9 p.m., in the boardrooms on the lower level, 159 Kercheval Ave. in the Farms.

Headaches are caused by a variety of causes including physical or emotional conditions, trauma to the head, exposure to toxic chemicals, infections or dental problems. The character, degree and placement of pain varies widely from case to case.

For more information and reservations for this free program, call Cottage at 884-8600, extension 2390.

Saint John Hospital

Q: I have recently been hired as a mail carrier for the post office. I have always been sensitive to cold weather and I am concerned about working outside during the winter and possibly developing frostbite.

A: The two main dangers that you face on your route delivering mail in the winter are frostbite and hypothermia (extreme lowering of the body temperature). With frostbite the liquid between the cells freezes and the cells become dehydrated. Frostbite can happen almost instantly when bare skin is exposed to frigid conditions.

When you dress to go outside and deliver the mail, your main job is to insulate your body to keep as much heat as possible. Here are the two most important rules for dressing:

1. Wear several layers of clothing.
2. Cover as much of your skin as possible. By layering your body with several garments rather than one bulky outside wrap, you create air pockets of insulation between each layer. When it is extremely cold, cover your face with a scarf or ski mask. You should wear an extra pair of socks inside your boots. This is to protect your fingers, toes, nose and ears which are the most susceptible parts of your body to be affected.

Warning signs of frostbite are a feeling of pain and extreme cold in the affected part of the body, a burning sensation generally follows and the area becomes hard and numb. The skin turns yellow and white or a combination of blue and white.

If you do get frostbite, immerse the frozen area in warm water with a temperature no higher than 108 degrees Fahrenheit. If normal sensation and color do not return, quickly consult your family physician.

Hypothermia is an equally serious problem and a loss of body heat of 10 to 20 degrees has been known to cause death. If you are a senior citizen, there may not be the advance warnings of shivers and shakes as is the case with younger victims. In older persons, the signs are slowed speech, dizziness and drowsiness.

Again the treatment calls for a rapid rewarming of the body by wrapping in blankets and drinking hot liquids.

This column is a service provided in the public interest by Saint John Hospital. Questions should be sent to Christopher Goldsby, M.D., 22151 Moross, Suite 334, Detroit, Michigan 48236.

Schools

Program mixes art and education

Trombly Elementary School's day at the opera turned out to be quite a learning experience.

The school 233 students watched the Michigan Opera Theatre's Overture to Opera troupe perform "The Musicians of Bremen" the day before Christmas vacation began, and rave reviews are still coming in from parents, students and staff, according to principal Sheila Joyce.

"The troupe brought a wonderful, intimate experience to the school," she said. "It was outstanding."

Besides the 45-minute performance and the question-and-answer period afterward, MOT provided the school with material for use by different grades, including a synopsis of the story and background material about opera. Teachers were able to use the material to prepare students to understand, participate and appreciate the opera, Mrs. Joyce said.

The opera is based on the fairy tale by the Brothers Grimm of three animals who decide to leave their masters, thinking they are to be killed. The three, in their travels to the magic town of Bremen, learn they can do new things even though they can't do as much as they did when they were young.

The program is designed to offer students a number of educational opportunities, giving students a chance to practice their skills in reading and language arts while giving them some music appreciation, Mrs. Joyce said.

"To do a program like this is to bring it alive for the students," she said, adding parents and staff have said they enjoyed the event so much they said they would like to see the program appear annually.

The students in the audience, asked to dress in their best to attend the opera, had a few lines to say during the performance. Five fifth-graders were able to get even more involved. Aaron Bookvich, Chris Harwick, William Judkins, Alexandra Papapanos and Rebecca Smith were all on stage as actors, portraying robbers.

The program is designed to offer students a tion for performing arts and allows them to have that experience in school instead of having to go to the Detroit Institute of Arts, for instance, Mrs. Joyce said.

The Overture to Opera troupe was brought to Trombly by the Fine Arts Committee of the PTO. Members, school officials and students all chipped in to pay the $475 for the appearance, according to fine arts committee chairman Linda Glaser. With nearly all the students donating $1, the committee will be able to stretch the budget and bring more events to the school, she added.

"We're trying to bring as many things as possible to the school," Mrs. Glaser said of the committee's work. "Kids come away from something like this (opera) with a lasting impression of the performing arts."

This is the largest event the committee, in its first year, has brought to the school, she said. The PTO committee wants to give students a varied fine arts experience while keeping in mind the kids are there to learn reading, writing and arithmetic. Special programs in school are "the icing on the cake," she added.

Some other things the fine arts committee is working on are improvements in "site aesthetics," cleaning and acquiring art works for the school, according to Mrs. Glaser. The committee would like to offer students some hands-on experience in art by bringing potters, portrait artists and clay and paper modelers to the school to show kids how it's done, she added.

There's also the possibility of a spring interpretive dance program titled Meet Mr. and Mrs. Cadillac, which will tell in music and dance about the founding of Detroit in 1701 by the French, Mrs. Glaser said.

Besides the performing arts experience, students will be able to apply some of the geography and history they've learned in order to follow the story from Paris to the New World, she added.

Bringing programs into the schools has a number of advantages over field trips, she said. Besides eliminating a good part of the cost and transportation worries, special programs are also more easily incorporated into the school-day routine, causing less interruption, she added.

"The kids are tickled to have something like this come to the school," Mrs. Glaser said, adding the committee has had financial and moral support from parents and the school administration. "We're lucky to have a principal who's very interested and wants to see this sort of thing happen at the school," she added.

Harvey

... will be presented by Theatre North Thursday, Jan. 10, Friday, Jan. 11, Wednesday, Jan. 16, and Thursday, Jan. 17 at 8 p.m. at the Performing Arts Center. North High seniors featured in the comedy are, from left, Sue Miller, Randy Kuntzman and Pennie Tsangalis. Others in the cast are Joe David, Becky Wolfe, Brian Nettle, John Dwaihy, Paul Grammatico and Pat Cosgrove. Tickets are $3 and are available at the door.

South sets winter concert

Grosse Pointe South will present a winter concert Thursday, Jan. 17, at 8 p.m. in Parcels Middle School auditorium. Dr. Harry Began will be the featured guest conductor.

Began recently retired from the University of Illinois, where he was director of bands, positions he held at Michigan State and Wayne State universities. His work at these universities furthered the reputation he earned during his years at Cass Tech, where he developed one of the finest high school bands in the country.

In addition, South's band, under the direction of Ralph Miller, has been invited to perform at the 40th Annual Midwestern Conference for Michigan's music teachers on Saturday, Jan. 19, at 9 a.m. at the University of Michigan Hill Auditorium. Miller said South is the only public school that will be presenting both a band and orchestra at the concert.

The Symphonic Band will perform later at 2 p.m. at U of M's Power Center.

Harry Began

Classes to be dismissed early

Grosse Pointe North High School will dismiss school at 10:54 a.m. on Thursday, Jan. 17, so the staff may meet to complete its upcoming North Central study. Only first, second, and third hour classes will meet and lunch will not be served on that date.

North High will dismiss school at 2:06 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 28 so the faculty may meet with the visiting North Central Accreditation team for the summary session.

Some 25 to 30 educators from throughout Michigan will visit North on Feb. 27 and 28 to evaluate its self-study, which includes instructional program, curriculum, staffing, facilities, resources, philosophy and objectives, policies, co-curricular programs, community, guidance and auxiliary services, library services, class size and professional preparation.

The visiting team will be chaired by David Lathers, principal of Utica Ford High School.

ULS students math scholars

Seven students at University Liggett finished in the top 5 percent of Part I of the 28th Annual Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition. They are among approximately 1,000 students in the state who competed in the final exam held last month.

They are seniors Gillian Darlow, Bob Tumacder and Mike Wilkie; juniors Robert Niccolini, Carolyn Seydel and John Birgbauer; and sophomore Karl Meyer.

The competition is designed to foster a wider interest in math to focus attention on the need for mathematical training in most professions and trades, and to identify and provide scholarships for students in the state.

Get oriented at high school

An orientation for parents of eighth-graders, who will be attending Grosse Pointe South High School next fall, will be held Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the gymnasium at the high school.

Administrators and department chairpersons will give presentations, highlighted by a 35-minute slide show of course offerings available for South students, with emphasis on selections for ninth-grade students.

Other topics to be addressed include student activities, athletics and scheduling procedures.

This orientation is designed to make parents more familiar with the program available at South. Students will begin the course selection process on Monday, Feb. 4.

Get kids ready for kindergarten

Grosse Pointe public schools will offer parents of next fall's kindergarten students a three-program readiness series at Monteith Elementary School in the next three months.

The first program, titled Language Development and School Readiness, will meet Wednesday, Jan. 23, at 7:30 p.m. The panel for the evening includes Dr. Claire Hunt, Dr. C. Suzanne Klein and Anne Speicher-Basco.

They will review for parents the types of skills which signify a child is ready for kindergarten and will answer questions about normal language development, what parents can do to enhance language skills, what skills are included in preschool testing, how to tell if a child is ready for school and what readiness skills are.

The system's Special Education Department handles preschool testing and sponsors several programs for preschoolers.

Dr. Linda Clinard will present Reading Can Begin Naturally at Home on Thursday, Feb. 21, at 7:30 p.m. A parent of three young children, reading instructor for Michigan State University, author of The Reading Triangle and frequent speaker to parent groups, she will tell parents how they can help as their children are developing listening, speaking, thinking, reading and communication skills.

The third program, School Program and Services, will be held Monday, March 18, at 7:30 p.m. A panel consisting of Dr. Alfreda Frost, Linda Bachtel, Darlene Cooper, Pat Gorman, Blaine Morrow, Mary Paone and Henry Pichla will present the curriculum for kindergarten.

The blend of skill-building activities, readiness and psycho/social experiences which make up the school day will be discussed by panel members. Information about other school services, the full-day kindergarten and public library offerings will also be available.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

Robert Lacey, author of "Majesty," "Princess" and "The Kingdom: Arabia and the House of Sa'ud," will address members and guests of the Grosse Pointe Woman's Club next Wednesday, Jan. 16, at the Woman's Club's first tea and program meeting of the New Year.

Lacey is now living in Grosse Pointe, where he is researching a book on the history of the Ford family. He was born in Guildford, Surrey, in 1944, brought up in Bristol and studied history at Cambridge. His first books, the critically acclaimed "Robert, Earl of Essex" and "Sir Walter Raleigh," were historical biographies, published in the early '70s while he was on the staff of the London Sunday Times.

He became a full-time author in 1974 in order to research and write "Majesty," the best-selling biography of Queen Elizabeth II which came out in 1977, the year of her Silver Jubilee, and was published in countries and languages around the world, from Sweden to Japan.

After the success of "Majesty," the Lacey family moved to Saudi Arabia while Robert researched the story of "The Kingdom." He spent four years in all gathering material, learning Arabic and traveling around that vast and mysterious country which is larger than Western Europe.

The result was a massive and wide-ranging book chosen, like "Majesty," as a Main Selection by the Book of the Month Club. Sandi, his wife, could have written a book of her own about her experiences in a country where women are not allowed to work or drive cars, and where the shops close five times a day for prayer.

"Princess," in a lighter vein, is a largely pictorial celebration of the new Princess of Wales. Lacey, who had carried out the commentary on the Queen's Silver Jubilee with Tom Brokaw on NBC-TV, participated with the Today Show team in the television coverage of the Royal Wedding. In 1982 he shared NBC coverage of Princess Grace's funeral in Monaco with Jane Pauley.

Lacey's latest book, "Aristocrats," will come out in America next fall, in conjunction with his BBC television series of the same name, but it will be some years before his study of the Fords is published, since it is a wide-ranging survey of the history and character of the family.

He's chronicling the Fords from the first Henry to the present, fourth generation, conducting extensive interviews and research in local archives, particularly those of the Edison Institute at Greenfield Village.

The Woman's Club program begins at 12:30 p.m. in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Crystal Ballroom. Mrs.

Grosse Pointe AAUW wants YOU!

Members of the Grosse Pointe Branch of the American Association of University Women, including the three pictured above, are busy spreading the word about their group's Prospective Members Coffee. It's scheduled for Wednesday evening, Jan. 16, at 7:30 p.m. at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. Left to right, LENORE MARSHALL, AAUW public information, MARY LEECH, newsletter editor, and JULIE DEMCHAK, membership vice-president, look over the list of projects and special interest groups their branch offers to women with baccalaureate or higher degrees, who live in East Side communities. For further information on this active and many-faceted organization, call 886-3597 — or come to Memorial Church next Wednesday night (no reservations needed), and check out the Pointe AAUW in person.

Julia R. White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. White Jr., of Bedford Road, is a member of this year's first-year medical student class at the Michigan State University College of Human Medicine. Ms. White holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in biology from Rosemont College and has been working as a research assistant at the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

David K. FitzSimons, of Cloverly

Road, is among the 313 freshmen who enrolled at Lake Forest College this past fall. He is a 1984 graduate of Portsmouth Abbey, Portsmouth, R.I.

Frederick George Rinke, son of Fred Rinke, of The Shores, pledged the Delta Tau Delta fraternity at Hillsdale College, where the Grosse Pointe North High School graduate is a freshman.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Patrick G. Siemon have returned to the Pointe area from Heidelberg, Germany. Mrs. Siemon is the former Marilyn Meech, daughter of Mrs. J. Harold Meech, of the Woods. They will make their home on Blairmoor Court for two years while Lt. Col. Siemon is commander of the Military Entrance and Processing Station in Detroit. Wendy Siemon, 13, and Brad Siemon, 17, are attending Grosse Pointe schools.

Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity pledges at Hillsdale College included freshman Darren DeSmyter, son of Dr. and Mrs. Christopher Lee, of Grosse Pointe. He is a Grosse Pointe South High School alumnus.

Stuart Pettitt, AIA, of The Park, was part of a delegation of architects who attended the 69th annual convention of the Michigan Society of Architects held in Detroit in October.

Take up art this winter

Art instructor Marilyn Derwenskus returns to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial to begin two five-week classes on Monday, Jan. 14. Her "Magic of Watercolor" will meet from 9 a.m. to noon, "The Figure in Watercolor" from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m.

The former class will explore a variety of watercolor techniques, including mixed media with emphasis on flowers in early winter. Individual interpretation is encouraged in this $40 course.

Models, both costumed and nude, will be used as a basis for watercolor explorations in "The Figure in Watercolor," offered at $50, including model fee.

Robert Maniscalco also returns to the War Memorial, on Friday, Jan. 18, to teach "Portrait Painting in Oils" from noon to 3 p.m. His eight-week course is designed to provide a solid foundation for persons who are serious about improving their skills, and is intended to satisfy the needs of students of all levels of proficiency. Cost is $60, plus model fee.

"Oil and Acrylic Painting," taught by Daniel J. Keller, will meet for eight weeks from noon to 3 p.m. beginning Tuesday, Jan. 15. This class is open to both beginners and experienced painters. The first hour will deal with drawing principles. The remainder of the course will be devoted to exploring composition through the painting of a model. Fee is $80.

To avoid class cancellations, students are requested to pre-register in person or by sending a check to the War Memorial. Further information on these winter term art classes may be obtained by calling 881-7511.

Tasty winter
tomato tips

Supermarket tomatoes have been called all kinds of names, most of them unflattering, unkind and, according to the January Reader's Digest, unjustified.

If handled properly, the supermarket, or winter tomato, while not a true replacement for the garden tomato, will be not only fit to eat but a treat.

Specifically, The Digest recommends the following:

• Like bananas, tomatoes should never be refrigerated — "not until they're dead ripe anyway."

• They should not be kept in temperatures below 55 degrees F., or they will not finish ripening and be tasteless.

• Tomatoes should be stored stem side up, and never in the sun.

Two dates for Phase I

Phase I, the single, young adults, ages 25 to 40, who gather regularly for Sunday evening program meetings at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, will hear Detroit City Councilman David Eberhard speak this Sunday, Jan. 13, at 7:45 p.m.

He will tell what Detroit has to offer singles, and relate some of his experiences as a City Council member.

For the athletically-minded, Phase I will hold a Volleyball and Game Night tomorrow, Friday, Jan. 11, at the church. Set-up is at 7:15 p.m., with volleyball play beginning in earnest 15 minutes later.

Non-athletes are invited to bring cards or their favorite board games for play beginning at 7:30 and ending around 10 p.m., when the athletic and sedentary groups join forces to go out for a snack to complete the evening.

Get in shape
for the spring

How about using winter to get in shape for spring via classes at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial? Alice Belfie's "Couture Exercise: Body and Leg Crafting" will be offered at the War Memorial beginning Monday, Jan. 14, at 9 a.m. for men and women over 40.

Another Belfie class, for people under 40, meets on Tuesdays, starting Jan. 15, from 7 to 8 p.m. Both classes meet twice weekly and cost $70 for 24 sessions.

"Pre-Natal Exercise" for women who are at least three months pregnant will be taught by Mary-Louise Selover, of Super Shape, Inc., on Tuesdays and Thursdays starting Jan. 15. This physician-approved workout is designed to keep women toned and fit during pregnancy.

Participants will need their doctor's permission when registering for the 14-session pre-natal course, offered at $42. A seven-session (one class per week) option is available for $25.

Claudanne and Amy Cooper will teach "Modern Jazz Dance" for adults and teens from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Wednesdays, Jan. 16 through Mar. 20. No previous dance training is required. Course fee is $30.

"Tae Kwan Do Karate" kicks off its new season tomorrow, Friday, Jan. 11, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The eight-week course costs $28.

Further information on any of these fitness classes may be obtained by calling the War Memorial, 881-7511.

Busy winter for Pewabic

Winter activities at Pewabic Pottery, the historic ceramics center on East Jefferson Avenue, opposite Detroit's Water Works Park, have begun, with adult ceramic classes starting last Monday, Jan. 7. Tom Phardel, Ann Arbor sculptor and potter, is the instructor, teaching all aspects of clay work, making objects, firing and glazing, in all techniques.

Each 10-week course is $100, with a discount price of $180 for students who enroll in a double class. Classes meet Monday and Tuesday afternoons from 1 to 4 p.m. and evenings from 7 to 10 p.m.

Children's classes begin this Saturday, Jan. 12, and will run for 10 weeks from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. Parents are welcome to enroll with their children. Fee is $70 for parents, $65 for children.

David Shaner is coming from Bigfork, Mont., as part of the National Endowment for the Arts visiting artist series, and will conduct a lecture-demonstration Friday, Feb. 1, and Saturday, Feb. 2, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Fee is $15 for one day, $25 for both days.

Shaner also will conduct a limited enrollment hands-on workshop for serious potters Monday, Feb. 4, and Tuesday, Feb. 5, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Fee is $50.

The season's final Endowment grant visiting artist will be Thomas Bohnert. Fee for his lecture-demonstration, running from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Mar. 9, is $10.

Pointe home for Duncans

At home on Hollywood Avenue are Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kingston Duncan who cruised in the Caribbean, visiting St. Thomas, Puerto Rico and Nassau, following their midsummer marriage in Our Lady Queen of All Saints Church, Fraser.

Mrs. Duncan is the former Denise Marie Samelko, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene J. Samelko, of Springfield, Va. Mr. Duncan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Duncan Jr., of Michaux Lane.

The 2 o'clock rites Saturday, August 11, at which Father Art Fauser presided were followed by a reception at Fern Hill Country Club.

The bride wore a gown of light ivory taffeta, its off-the-shoulder bodice, trimmed with lace and seed pearls, extending into a V at front and back. Matching lace hemmed her train, and a pearl accented lace hat held her veil.

She carried a cascade of peach roses, carnations, baby's-breath and Stephanotis, set in ferns.

Honor attendant Susan Zmick and bridesmaids Debbie and Donna Samelko, sisters of the bride, Jayda Bellah, their cousin, of Fort Collins, Colo., and Barbara Glovac, the bridegroom's sister, carried brown baskets filled with white and peach carnations and baby's-breath and accented with draped, peach ribbon.

Their low-backed, floor length dresses of peach taffeta were styled with short, puffed sleeves. Embroidered lace detailed their front bodices.

Flower girl Heather Walczak wore an off-the-shoulder, hoop-skirted dress of peach and ivory taffeta and carried a basket similar to those of the senior attendants. Ring bearer was Eric Evenhouse, the bride's cousin.

Best man was Lawrence Simon. John and William Duncan, brothers

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce K. Duncan of the bridegroom, Harold Michaux and Thomas Gilligan, of Angleton, Tex., a fraternity brother of the bridegroom, ushered.

The mother of the bride wore a tea length dress of ivory chiffon, styled with a pleated skirt and scalloped sleeves, its dropped waist trimmed with scallops. Red Sweetheart roses and white carnations formed her corsage.

Rhinestones accented the bodice of the bridegroom's mother's tea length dress of sea green over darker green chiffon. Her corsage was fashioned of white Sweetheart roses and green-tinted carnations.

Special guests included the bridegroom's grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Floyd Straith, of The Park, and Mrs. Maude Duncan, of Port Washington, N.Y., and the bride's grandmothers, Mrs. Henry Rodriguez and Mrs. Ruperta Sanchez, both of Chama, Colo.

More were the bride's uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Sanchez, of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Samelko, of Columbus, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Davis

Fall wedding date revealed

Greenfield Village's Martha-Mary Chapel was the setting Saturday, September 1, for the wedding of Ann Elizabeth Rabbideau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Rabbideau, of Touraine Road, and Michael James Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. James O. Davis, of Kokomo, Ind.

The 5 o'clock ceremony at which The Reverend David Eshelman presided was followed by a reception at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club. The bride was attended by her sister, Karen Moss, of Pittsburgh, as honor matron, and by bridesmaids Sandy Lawson, Angela Vieira and Mary Megan Evans.

Timothy Nickens was best man. Groomsmen were Michael Mathias, Jim Davis, brother of the bridegroom, and Paul Rabbideau, brother of the bride. David Rabbideau, another brother of the bride, was acolyte.

The newlyweds vacationed in San Francisco and are at home in St. Petersburg, Fla., where the bride, a graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School and Boston College, is a real estate appraiser.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Hawthorn High School and Indiana University, is a newspaper editor for the St. Petersburg Times.

Pointer Girls meet Jan. 17

The Pointer Girls begin the new year with a meeting Thursday, Jan. 17, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Members are requested to contact Mrs. Martin Daher, 881-8083, by Saturday, Jan. 12, to advise her if they are or are not coming.

Salvation Army's Auxiliary to meet

The Auxiliary to the Salvation Army meets at 11 a.m. Monday, Jan. 14, at Salvation Army headquarters in Royal Oak. Following a noon brown bag luncheon (dessert and beverage are provided), "The Kids on the Block" program will feature two foot-high puppets in an educational and entertaining presentation on understanding the handicapped.

Stylish talk for Alliance

The Alliance Francaise de Grosse Pointe will feature a lecture and slide presentation, "French Decorative Arts in the 19th Century: in Search of Style," by Henry Matthews on Wednesday evening, Jan. 16, at 8 p.m. in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Matthews, consultant to the Education Department of the Detroit Institute of Arts, was born in Austria. He earned his Bachelors degree in Fine Arts from Alma College and his Masters degree in Art History from Wayne State University and has been affiliated with the DIA for six years.

In his present post, he trains volunteers as museum docents and as participants in the Art to the Schools program. During his career he has also taught Art History and was assistant professor of Architecture at Lawrence Institute of Technology.

His Pointe Alliance presentation, which will be followed by refreshments, is free to Alliance members. Entrance fee for non-members is $3, payable at the door.

Newcomers to sip wine

The Grosse Pointe Newcomers Club will toast the New Year at a wine tasting party this Saturday, Jan. 12, at 8 p.m. at the University Club. Arrangements for the French wine presentation by Vintage Pointe were made by Craig and Margit Jackson, chairmen, and their committee members: Steve and Vicki Adik, Robert and Trisha Fishman, Ray and Linda Wheeler Jones and Craig and Cindy Wheeler.

Couples new to the area and interested in Newcomers are invited to contact the club's membership chairmen at 823-4379 or 886-2966 for further information.

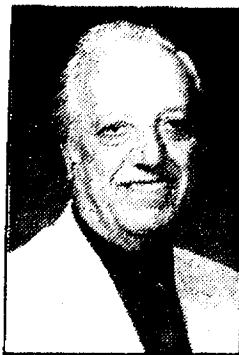

Colony Town Club to lunch

Colony Town Club members and guests gather at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club next Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 11:30 a.m. for their first luncheon of the New Year. The day will begin with cocktails and conclude with bridge for those who wish to play.

Assisting Mrs. Kenneth Steketee, luncheon chairman, is a committee consisting of the Mesdames Donald S. Colwell, Frank J. Frischkorn, William H. Hall, Robert W. Reas and Fred A. Rohn Jr.

Grand Marais Club to meet

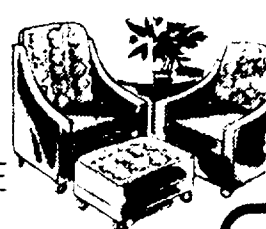

Mrs. Cecil Shuert will be assisted by co-hostesses Mrs. John Foley and Mrs. Clinton Hardy when she opens her home Monday, Jan. 14, to members of the Grand Marais Garden Club. Following luncheon, Mary Herbert will present a program on "Baskets."

June wedding date is made

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Sherman, of Culver City, Calif., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mara, to Jack Bommarito, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bommarito, of Lakepointe Avenue. A mid-June wedding is planned.

Miss Sherman, a graduate of the University of Southern California, holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Spanish and English and a Master of Science degree in Education. Her fiancé received his Bachelor of Science degree in Education from Wayne State University.

Dutch treat for Questers

Mrs. Charles Wright will present a paper on the Pennsylvania Dutch at the Grand Marais Chapter of Questers' meeting tomorrow, Friday, Jan. 11, in the Neff Road home of Mrs. J. Charlton Pennell.

Mrs. Wright will give an overview of Pennsylvania Dutch history and culture and report on the furniture unique to their particular life style. Members are asked to bring any examples of Pennsylvania Dutch decorative arts they may have and/or recipes for characteristic Pennsylvania Dutch dishes.

Pi Lambda Theta has new member

Bloomfield Hills' Kingsley Inn was the setting in early December for the candlelight installation of Father Charles Peter Sarelis, noted for his accomplishments in clinical pastoral education and fraternal organization, into Pi Lambda Theta national honorary organization in education.

Father Sarelis holds degrees from Athens University, Athens, Greece, Boston University and Holy Cross School of Theology. He is presently pastor of St. Nicholas Greek Orthodox Church in Detroit, chaplain to the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Allen Park and on-call chaplain for the Veterans Hospital, Ann Arbor.

He is also president of the Eastern Orthodox Council of Churches and a member of the executive board of Boy Scouts of America. Special holiday entertainment for the installation event was provided by lyric soprano Elena Mouzakes, who led the Pi Lambda Thetans in a sing-along of English carols.

A good start for Methodist Women's year

The United Methodist Women of Grosse Pointe United Methodist Church begin their 1985 activities with a roster of newly-elected officers, installed during a worship service last Sunday, Jan. 6.

Positions on the executive committee were accepted by Mrs. Robert Reas, president; Mrs. Kenneth Maletzke, vice-president; Mrs. Bert Wriston, secretary; Mrs. Herbert Ralph, treasurer; Mrs. William Martin and Mrs. W.E. Davey, co-secretaries of local church activities; Miss Ethel Osborne, publicity secretary; Mrs. Herold Deason, program resources secretary; Miss Shirley Lewis, cheer chairman; Mrs. John McHugh, membership chairman; and Miss Mary Lu Eyster, historian.

Serving as mission coordinators are Mrs. Larry Deck, Christian Personhood; Mrs. Keith Evans, Supportive Community; Mrs. Pieter Van Horne, Christian Social Involvement; Mrs. William Saxton, Christian Global Concerns; and Mrs. Dennis Dailacqua, baby sitter coordinator.

Chairing 1985 Fellowship Groups are Mrs. Gary Brasseur, Mrs. Rudolph Oila, Mrs. James Greer and Mrs. Charles Johnson. Mrs. Robert Boley is in charge of Friendly Visitors. Mrs. John Momeyer chairs the Committee on Nominations.

Co-chairmen of Memorial and Funeral Services are Mrs. Arthur Batten and Mrs. Fred Winfield. Co-chairmen of special events are Mrs. Momeyer, Mrs. E.A. Hershey and Mrs. Vernon McGiverin.

The United Methodist Women's first monthly general meeting of the New Year is scheduled for Tuesday, Jan. 15. Mrs. Peter Manos will lead the devotion. Mrs. Walter Griffith will conduct a pledge service, with missions, at home and abroad, the beneficiaries.

Fellowship Groups meet at the church on Moross Road the following Tuesday, Jan. 22, at their usual times. Further information on the Pointe UMW may be obtained by calling the church office, 886-2363.

Wedding, Engagement Submission Guidelines

Yes, Virginia... the NEWS welcomes news of your wedding or engagement, but, to make it easier for us — and for You — there are a few simple rules we'd like you to follow.

Submission of Copy: Forms for both weddings and engagements are available at the NEWS office. If at all possible, we'd like you to use them. It's not that we think you're not bright enough to write your own engagement/wedding notice; it's that (a) every newspaper has its own style, and our forms conform to our style, (b) in the heat of the moment, you may overlook a piece of essential information, such as your own or your bridegroom's name. Don't laugh: you'd be surprised by how many people give us detailed descriptions of their wedding gowns, but neglect to mention such items as when and where they were married.

How to Get Forms: Stop by the NEWS office and pick them up. Send us a stamped, self-addressed envelope and we'll mail them to you. Specify which form, (wedding, engagement, both), you want.

How to Fill Out Forms: LEGIBLY! The typewriter is, we think, a grand invention. We appreciate those who use it. If you can't type, please PRINT. Your handwriting may be distinctive, exquisite... but if your name is Moarley, and your "o" is indistinguishable from your "a" — don't blame us if your name comes out Moorley.

Submission of Pictures: We accept black-and-white photographs, 5x7 or 8x10. We DO NOT accept color photographs. We do not return photographs. We do hold them, upon request, at the NEWS office, for pick-up within a reasonable time, (up to three months).

How to Submit Pictures: With the wedding/engagement form. DO NOT send them in separately: the result is (a) a "mystery picture" sitting on top of someone's desk until that someone can manage to slough it off on someone else's desk — nobody likes a mystery picture, (b) a story written, edited, set in type — and then the whole process must begin again, because a wedding/engagement with a picture is captioned and set in a different manner than one without a picture.

What Pictures to Submit: We are sorry, but because of space limitations we accept engagement pictures of Grosse Pointe girls only. We accept wedding pictures of (a) Grosse Pointe girls alone, (b) Grosse Pointe brides and their bridegrooms, (c) Grosse Pointe bridegrooms and their brides. The rule is: the Grosse Pointer MUST BE IN the wedding picture.

How to Get Copy and Pictures to the NEWS: By foot, By horse, By car, By US Mail. The NEWS office is located at 99 Kercheval on-the-hill, next to Perry Drugs. That's in Grosse Pointe Farms. Zip Code: 48236.

Finally... the Golden Rule for those who submit ANY information to ANY paper: always include a telephone number WHERE YOU CAN BE REACHED DURING THE DAY in case there are any questions.

Mr. and Mrs.
Roger D. Brandell

Miss Hassig is fall bride

A reception at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial followed the autumn wedding of Dawn Laura Hassig, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Hassig, of Stephens Road, and Roger David Brandell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brandell, of Lansing.

The Reverend George Schelter presided at the 11 o'clock rites Saturday, September 15, in Saint James Lutheran Church. The bride wore a traditional, Victorian style gown, white in color, its bodice accented with embroidered Venise lace flowers and pearls, its train semi-cathedral length, and a matching, fingertip veil. Three orchids, with ivy, formed her bouquet.

Marcia Lynn Hassig was her sister's honor attendant. Her tea length dress was dusty rose in color. Bridesmaids, dressed identically in periwinkle blue, were Wendy Elitawageshik, of The Pointe, and Sandra Gatzke, Sharon Donnenwerth and Denise and Wendy Brandell, the bridegroom's sisters, all of Lansing.

They carried arrangements of Fuji mums, the honor maid's accented with two pink roses.

Best man was David Geer, of Lansing. Ushers were Terry Brandell, brother of the bridegroom, Randy Briggs, their cousin, and Al Champagne, all of Lansing, and the bride's brothers, Dr. William Hassig and Walter Mark Hassig.

The newlyweds vacationed in the south over Christmas. They are at home in Midland.

Museum visit for Pettipointe

The Pettipointe Chapter of Quarters gathers at 10 a.m. today, Thursday, Jan. 10, at the Lewiston Road home of Mrs. Paul Woerner from where they will depart for the Detroit Institute of Arts and an 11 a.m. docent-conducted tour of The Thyssen-Bornemisza American Masters Collection, followed by luncheon at Scallops.

To convene Detroit Genealogical group

The Detroit Society for Genealogical Research convenes Saturday, Jan. 12, at 2 p.m. in the Explorers Room of the Detroit Public Library on Woodward Avenue, opposite the Detroit Institute of Arts, to begin the new year by evaluating material members have collected, determining "next moves" and setting goals for 1985.

Betty Lou Morris will referee this Sharing Session. Genealogical aids, publications and supplies will be available before and after the meeting, which is free and open to the public.

MSU Alumni Club is busy

The Michigan State University Alumni Club (Eastern Wayne/South Macomb) is alive and well, and held its annual Christmas party at the Park home of Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence Herzog. Events scheduled for the new year include the annual Stroth's dinner and tour in early February and a winter tennis league. Information on membership and club activities may be obtained by contacting Alice Baetz at 882-9260.

Auto Show Charity Preview

The work of 40 of Michigan's leading artists, including Grosse Pointers Heather Hyslop (fiber/weavings), Dorie Krusz (figurative sculpture) and Mary Louise McCarroll (contemporary surrealism, watercolors), will help dress up what is already one of the Motor City's poshest nights: the annual Detroit Auto Show Charity Preview.

This traditional, black tie affair runs from 7 to 9 p.m. tomorrow, Friday, Jan. 11, at Cobo Hall. Proceeds from $25-per-person tickets benefit whichever of four children's charities — Boys' and Girls' Clubs of Metropolitan Detroit, the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults, the Assistance League to the Northeast Guidance Center and The Children's Center — the purchaser designates.

The tickets are available in advance from the charities involved, such as the Guidance Center which may be reached at 824-8000 for further information, or at the door, where each charity will have representatives on hand to record its donation designations.

The Charity Preview is the official kickoff of the Auto Show, open to the public Jan. 12 through 20 this year at Cobo Hall. Special features include a Van Conversion Exhibit as well as the "Festival of Fine Art" coordinated by Susan Thomas, who brought together fellow artists who work in many media and nearly every discipline.

The artists will be displaying their work themselves in the various auto exhibits on Charity Preview Night. "We wanted to do something different at the Preview this year," explains Bill Cook, chairman of the Detroit Auto Dealers Association-sponsored Show. "I kicked the idea around with our Auto Show committee, and we decided we liked it enough to present it to the charities. They were most enthusiastic."

DSO Previews Continue in Pointe

The Detroit Symphony Preview Series, sponsored by the Detroit Symphony League and Village Records and Tapes, continues next week with the second of five 1984-85 programs highlighting forthcoming DSO performances. Free Press critic John Guinn will discuss works by Rousset, Verdi, Barber and Elgar next Wednesday, Jan. 16.

All programs in the series, produced in cooperation with WQRS-FM and Music Center USA, are free, open to the public and begin at 8 p.m. at Village Records and Tapes, located on Kercheval Avenue in the Village. Seating is, however, limited — so it's a good idea to arrive early.

Later in the year, DSO Previews will feature Charles Greenwell, of WQRS, discussing works by Tchaikovsky, Spohr and Walton (Jan. 30); Dave Wagner, also from WQRS and organist at St. Paul's-on-the-Lake, at the harpsichord, playing and discussing Bach/Beethoven/Brahms (Mar. 20); and Detroit News critic Nancy Malitz examining a program of Brahms, Mozart and Shostakovich (Apr. 24).

The series is a fine one, offering a unique opportunity to know more about music performed by the Detroit Symphony. The speakers, all experts, delve into both the performances and the personalities being featured this year, in a manner designed to interest all ages and levels of musical knowledge.

Money goes up in smoke

Smokers have been told for years that their habit may cost them their lives; often to no avail. Perhaps a more effective approach would be to tell them how much it hurts their pocketbook.

According to the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan (ALASEM), higher medical expenses, state and federal taxes, wages and other factors have sent the price of smoking skyrocketing. Individuals under age 54 who smoke one to two packs of cigarettes a day will lose, on average, $34,000 in extra medical bills and lost earnings in a lifetime, says a recent study, released at a meeting of the American College of Cardiology and conducted by Policy Analysis, a Brookline, Mass., firm that researches health cost issues.

The study also found that men under age 54 who smoke two or more packs a day will run up approximately $39,000 to $58,000 in health costs and lost wages. These same expenses average $16,000 for men between 55 and 64.

Women under 54 smoking two packs or more a day will stand to lose $16,000 to $20,000; losses for women are less because their average income is lower than that of men.

Despite the enormity of these figures, a spokesman for Policy Analysis believes the expense estimates are conservative. According to Gerry Oster, the figures only include cost of treatment for heart disease, lung cancer and emphysema, excluding other diseases smokers are susceptible to: cancer of the mouth, throat, bladder and pancreas.

In addition, the health costs are averages for all United States smokers, not just those who are ill. Actual expenses would be much higher for an individual suffering from a smoking-related disease.

Unfortunately, society also pays the price for smoking — and the bill is staggering. A 1981 study done by the American Lung Association found that smoking accounts for an estimated $13 billion in direct health care expenses every year. There is an additional annual cost of $25 billion in lost productivity, wages and absenteeism.

Dr. Charles Tate, former chief of the Pulmonary Division at the University of Miami School of Medicine, estimates that the country's insurance premiums would be reduced by as much as 50 percent if United States smokers quit. To make up for these huge costs to society, smokers would have to pay an additional $3 tax per pack of cigarettes.

Breaking the figures down reveals that employers also bear a great deal of the financial burden caused by smoking. Studies have shown that an average figure of $4,789 is lost each year by an employer for every employee who smokes on the job.

Costs include:

- Absenteeism — $220 (each year more than $80 million work days are lost due to smoking).
- Medical care — $230.
- Morbidity and early mortality, lost earnings to the company — $765 (smokers retire more often on early disability).

- Insurance, excluding health — $90 (insurance costs go down as the percentage of non-smokers increases).

- On-the-job time lost — $1,820.
- Property damage and depreciation — $500.

- Maintenance — $500.
- Involuntary smoking — $664 (researchers have found reduced lung capacity among non-smokers who worked for years in offices with smokers).

The American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan offers a variety of quit programs for smokers. ALASEM can also provide resource material to businesses that wish to implement non-smoking areas or corporate smoking cessation programs.

Both the well-known Cigarette Send-Off and Freedom From Smoking "kick the habit" clinics are available to employers who wish to offer a work-place cessation program. Call 961-1697 for details.

Dupuis-Shea rites are read

Susan Maureen (Molly) Shea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester C. Shea, who moved recently from Sunningdale Drive to The Shore Club, spoke her marriage vows Saturday, November 3, to Mark Wayne Dupuis, son of Wayne Dupuis, of Briarcliff Drive, and the late Josephine Dupuis.

Father Hector Saulino officiated at the 1 o'clock ceremony in the Grosse Pointe Academy Chapel. A reception followed at Lochmoor Club, after which the newlyweds left to vacation in San Francisco and at Lake Tahoe. They are at home in Grosse Pointe.

The bride's tea length gown was fashioned of ivory satin, styled with a lace overblouse which fell free at the waist and was trimmed with iridescent and seed pearls. Her satin and lace sleeves ended just below the elbow, and her waist was cinched with pale pink satin ribbon.

Two circlets of lace, accented with matching ribbon, caught her fingertip veil. White orchids, roses, stephanotis and baby's-breath formed her bouquet.

Lorrie Miller, of Chicago, and Mary Patricia Lavezza, of Baltimore, Md., were honor matrons for their sister, Patricia Kearny, of St. Clair Shores. Lynda Kraus, sister of the bridegroom, Suzanne Johnson, of Rochester, N. Y., and Mary Ellen Fausone, of Chicago, were bridesmaids.

They carried rubrum lilies and wore tea length dresses of raspberry taffeta, styled with short, puffed sleeves and embroidered bodices.

Flower girl Karyn Kraus, the bridegroom's niece, also in a raspberry colored dress, wore a wreath of baby's-breath in her hair and carried a basket of pink roses. Ring bearers Kevin Kraus, the bridegroom's nephew, and Sean Miller, and bride's nephew, wore navy blue suits.

Richard Ghidoli acted as best man for his cousin. Ushers were Martin Roy, Robert Brown, Fred Schneider, of Saudi Arabia, Michael Dimond, of Hastings, and Daryl Bush, of Delray Beach, Fla.

The mother of the bride wore an afternoon length dress of dusty rose georgette and a gardenia wrist corsage.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. James G. Law, of Bloomsburg, Pa., Becky Holden, of Chicago, Doreen Kizysik, of Watertown, Mass., Robert Marsdin, of Atlanta, Ga., Roy Goree, of Scottsdale, Ariz., and Stuart Bryant, of London, England.

Weave a basket at Lakeshore 'Y'

Basket weaving instructions for beginning or experienced students will be given during two upcoming classes at the Lakeshore Family YMCA, located on Jefferson Avenue at the border of Grosse Pointe and St. Clair Shores.

A cookie basket (round, with a handle) will be made on Tuesdays, Jan. 22 and 29, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. A Valentine heart basket will be made on Wednesdays, Feb. 6 and 13, also from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Fee information may be obtained and registration for either class made by calling 778-5811.

First Society aids charity

The 300 persons at the First Society of Detroit's benefit at Forest Lake Country Club in early December were entertained by "Rainbo" — and raised $3,500 for the Tribute Fund, which provides emergency assistance to individuals and families for whom there is no other community resource available.

The Fund, headquartered in Detroit, will utilize the First Society donation in cases relating to children throughout the year.

Why not try new interest to inaugurate a New Year?

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial will offer three new special interest classes — and one tried-and-true course — starting this month.

"Map Collecting and Early Great Lakes Charting" meets at 8 p.m. for six Wednesdays beginning Jan. 16. Instructor Douglas Marshall will review early maps and the history of Great Lakes exploration, with emphasis on sea charts. Map collecting and printing methods used will also be discussed. Course fee is $24.

"Fun Guitar," open to beginners at 7 p.m. and advanced students at 8 p.m., will also meet on Wednesdays, Jan. 16 through Mar. 20. The 10-week course, taught by Colleen Lough, will include instruction in fingerpicking, strumming and chord variations, using the Laura Weber method. Students must have their own guitars. Fee is $30, plus $2.50 for music.

A special "Needlepoint" class for men only will be taught by Grosse Pointe's Eugene Davis on Thursdays, Jan. 17 through Mar. 7, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Ten different stitches will be incorporated into an attractive pillow top. Fee is $32 plus materials, available for purchase at the first meeting.

Ted and Lillian Forrest are returning to the War Memorial's dance floor to teach "Social Dancing" Monday evenings, starting Jan. 14. Beginners will meet at 7:30 p.m. for an hour of instruction in the fox trot, waltz, rhumba, cha-cha and Latin rhythms. Continuing and advanced students will gather at 8:30 p.m. to learn additional steps and more style, plus the tango and merengue. Cost is $18 for six weeks of instruction.

Additional information on any of these classes may be obtained by calling 881-7511.

Artists Market spotlights pair

An exhibition of paintings by Sheldon Iden and Charles McGee opens tomorrow, Friday, Jan. 11, at the Detroit Artists Market with a 5 to 7:30 p.m. reception for the artists. The two-man show will run there for a month, through Friday, Feb. 8.

Also on exhibition beginning tomorrow at the Artists Market is an Upper Gallery Show of textiles by Lee Bale, paintings by Adam Thomas and James Pujowski and sculpture by Bob Vandervennet.

The Market, a non-profit gallery which has spotlighted the work of southeastern Michigan artists for 51 years, is located on Randolph Street in Harmonie Park. Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

'Compadrazgo' reduces risk of depression

An Oakland University School of Nursing instructor has found that many women considered to be high risks for depression do not suffer from the illness because of strong support from family and friends.

Anna Dugan, of Ford Court, discovered that in one high risk group in particular — single mothers of Hispanic origin — far fewer cases of depression were found than statistics for the general population would predict. This contradicts the generally-held expectation that low-income family female heads of household have higher rates of depression.

Mrs. Dugan attributes the finding to "compadrazgo," an invited relationship among adults that provides support and comfort. "It's like an aunt and grandmother rolled into one," she explains.

The Oakland University professor studied 50 women living in the Vernon/Clark Park neighborhood of Detroit, a predominantly Hispanic area. All had strong views in support of their Mexican and Spanish traditions.

The women were selected following interviews with a social worker and a Catholic priest from the neighborhood. Some were recommended by the other women involved in the study. The fact that this sample group suffered less from depression than had been anticipated was important to Mrs. Dugan.

"I WOULD HAVE expected their depression rate to be high," she says. The value of the research, she feels, is that the information can be useful to doctors and nurses who treat members of ethnic communities. If these health professionals better understand such factors as "compadrazgo" when prescribing health regimens for their patients, she believes, the patients will benefit.

All of the women in the study were either mothers who had never married or had been divorced. They had from one to eight children living with them, although the mean was three. Income varied from below the official poverty level to the $30,000 range.

For those in the lowest income group, Mrs. Dugan says, food supplies often ran out in mid-month. The family then had to rely on churches and civic groups for assistance.

But she found, despite such problems, that depression was not a major factor in the women's lives. Their children were sources of pride and pleasure, and they countered negative aspects of the women's lives.

Anna Dugan, of Ford Court, has found that "Compadrazgo" assists women of Hispanic origin to cope with everyday life in a major North American metropolitan area.

"It's almost as if they redeemed themselves through their motherhood," Mrs. Dugan observes.

The mothers accepted their situation without complaint. They offered each other a lot of support, and a lot of them were fatalistic, saying, "Well, this is the way it is and this is the best that it can be," Mrs. Dugan notes.

Few of the women had any desire to assimilate completely into American culture. This, Mrs. Dugan says, is due in part to the geographical and psychological closeness of Mexico. It is a contrast to the situation some ethnic groups find themselves in: of being separated from their home country by an ocean that they see as a permanent barrier, and letting their traditions slip away.

FOR THE HISPANIC women, many of whom were bi-lingual, even if third generation "American," retaining their ethnic identity was important.

Anna Dugan is a mother herself, of three daughters: Amelia, 17, Zara, 14, and Patricia, 11. Her husband, Patrick J. Dugan, is a civil engineer, a civilian employee of the United States Army Corps of Engineers.

Anna is originally from New Haven, Conn., Patrick from the Buffalo area, but they've lived all over, Philadelphia to Alaska, going where his work takes them. They've been Grosse Pointers for the past six years.

Mrs. Dugan began her research on the Hispanic single mothers four years ago, while a doctoral student with Bryn Mawr College, although she lived and worked in the metropolitan Detroit area. The field work took two years to complete and involved extensive interviews and psychological tests to determine depression rates.

She has presented her research to the American Anthropological Association and a paper by her is being considered for publication.

Mrs. Dugan received her professional training at Columbia University, Philadelphia General Hospital and Yale University before attending Bryn Mawr. Prior to coming to Oakland University last fall, she taught at Wayne State University.

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — collection of Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth featuring, this week, PLAIN FOOD for POST-HOLIDAY PALATES.

CHEESE-VEGETABLE POCKET SANDWICHES

3 Tbsp. low-cal mayonnaise
1 tsp. lemon juice
Few grains salt
Dash pepper
1/2 cup diced, peeled cucumber
1/4 cup finely-diced celery
1/4 cup finely-diced radishes
1/4 cup chopped black olives
1 Tbsp. sliced green onions
3 seven-inch pita breads, cut into semicircles
12 slices cholesterol-free cheese
1 cup alfalfa sprouts
Mix mayonnaise, lemon juice, salt and pepper in a small bowl. Stir in cucumber, celery, radishes, black olives and green onions. Tuck cheese slices inside bread; top with vegetable mixture and sprouts. Makes 6 sandwiches.
Calories per sandwich about 259.
Cholesterol about 25 mgs.

BULGUR-BEEF SALAD

1/2 cup uncooked bulgur wheat
Tomato-Cucumber Dressing
1/2 cup alfalfa sprouts
2 cups cooked leftover beef, cut into bite-size pieces
6 medium-size tomatoes
Pour boiling water over bulgur in a medium-size bowl. Let stand 15 minutes; drain. Prepare dressing and stir in bulgur, alfalfa sprouts and beef. Place tomatoes stem-sides down; cut each almost through to bottom into sixths. Spoon about 1/2 cup beef mixture into each tomato. Chill. Garnish with onion slices, black olives or more alfalfa sprouts, if desired.

TOMATO-CUCUMBER DRESSING

1/2 cup low-calorie mayonnaise
1 medium-size tomato, chopped and drained
1/2 medium-size cucumber, seeded and chopped
1/4 tsp. salt (or less)
1/4 tsp. leaf sage, crumbled
Combine all ingredients in a small bowl. Makes 6 servings.
Calories per serving about 362.
Cholesterol 40 mgs.

TURKEY AND CUCUMBER IN PITA BREAD

4 pita breads, split
4 Tbsp. low-calorie Thousand Island dressing
12 oz. sliced cold turkey breast
1 medium cucumber, peeled, thinly sliced
4 lettuce leaves
Fresh ground pepper to taste
Open pockets of pita and spread each side with 1/2 tablespoon Thousand Island dressing. Tuck in 1/4 of the turkey, cucumber slices and a lettuce leaf. Season with pepper. Makes 4 sandwiches.
Calories per serving about 215.
Cholesterol about 52 mgs.

ALL-IN-ONE CASSEROLE

1 large onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 Tbsp. oil
2 large carrots, peeled, diced
2 large stalks celery, sliced
1 can (16 oz.) tomatoes
1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste
1 bay leaf
1/2 tsp. dried basil
1/2 tsp. dried oregano
1/4 tsp. dill weed
1/4 tsp. fresh ground pepper
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach, thawed
1 1/2 cups red cooking wine
8oz. "bow ties" or shell macaroni
1 1/2 cup grated Lite-Line cheese
Cook onion and garlic slowly in oil until transparent. Add carrots and celery along with tomatoes, tomato paste, herbs and pepper. Cover and simmer 20 minutes. Add spinach and wine; simmer uncovered about 20 minutes longer. Meanwhile, cook macaroni in boiling salted water according to package directions; drain. Add vegetable mixture and turn into baking dish; sprinkle with cheese. Bake in preheated 350° oven 25 to 30 minutes. Serves 7 to 8.

Winter's busy at Assumption

A winter program of activities for the whole family begins this month at Assumption Cultural Center, located on Marter Road at the border of Grosse Pointe Woods and St. Clair Shores. Assumption provides a variety of classes to the community. Its winter brochure lists returning favorites along with new offerings.

Leading the list of returnees is the popular Kalosomatics Fitness Program, certified by leading Wayne State University doctors in the field of sports medicine, affordable and fun. Kalosomatics (the state of well-being through body movement) is metropolitan Detroit's original three-level, nine-week progressive exercise program. It incorporates aerobics, calisthenics, isometrics, brisk walking, jogging and yoga.

Kalosomatics classes have been offered since 1977, but they are by no means Assumption's only fitness programs. The center's classes on fitness walking and yoga, plus health seminars, round out its offerings in this area.

Scheduled winter term health seminars include "Treat Yourself to a Low-Sugar/Low-Fat Diet" with Paula Gerow on Thursday, Jan. 31; "Low-Sodium/Low-Cholesterol Diets Can Be Tasty," again with Paula Gerow, on Thursday, Feb. 7; and "Live a Healthy and Longer Life through Proper Nutrition" with Dr. Lawrence Power on Friday, Feb. 15.

Assumption's winter arts and crafts classes include needlepoint, pillow finishing workshops, sweat-shirt painting, fresh flower arranging, quilting, grapevine wreaths, stained glass, photography, calligraphy, drawing and oil painting.

Among the new arts and crafts classes are "Pot-Pourri of Hearts," "Cut and Pierce Lampshade," "Valentine Grapevine Wreath," "Canadian Goose Welcome Sign," "Stenciling," "Custom Silks for the Home," "Paint a Wall Mural" and "Copper Enameling."

In the self-improvement field, Jacobson's Beauty Salon presents "Looking Your Best Can Be Easy" on Wednesday, Jan. 30. "Secrets of Fashion Success" with Kathie Chalou is scheduled for Monday, Mar. 4.

Richard Bak will conduct a Resume Workshop on Monday, Feb.

25. Other classes geared toward self-improvement of the mind and body are "Eyebrow Analysis and Shaping," "Get It Together with Color," "Make-Up Techniques," "Gorgeous Nails," "Writing for Publication," "Basic Italian for Adults," "Investment Seminars," "Real Estate Investing," "Drawing a Will," "Organ for Beginners," "Beginning Music Theory," "Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR)" and "Discover Your Voice."

Assumption offers culinary craft classes, too, ranging from "Chocolates for Your Valentine" to "Cooking Naturally" with Diane Watt, "Discover Greek Cooking" and microwave cooking. Greek language classes for adults and children are available, along with classes in the history and culture of Greece and Greek Folk Dancing.

Teen and youth classes are available in dance, karate, gymnastics and art. Assumption also offers driving lessons and babysitting tips, Cuisine for Teens or Tots and Kiddie Kalo.

And Assumption is a travel center, with a pair of spring and summer trips planned: a Las Vegas Weekend for April and a tour of Israel, Egypt and Greece in June. A special travel information night has been scheduled for Friday, Jan. 25.

Further information on Assumption Cultural Center's winter term classes may be obtained and brochures requested by calling 779-6111.

Bach Brunch is continuing in January

You missed out on the Eighth Semi-Annual, P.D.Q. Bach Festival with the Zug Island Chamber Players, featuring such classics as "The Art of the Ground Round" and "Sonata for Viola Four Hands," but you have time to make a date for one or all of the remaining January Sunday morning Brunch with Bach concerts at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Enid Sutherland, viola da gamba, and Bradley Brookshire, harpsichord, will offer works by Handel, Frescobaldi and Ortiz this Sunday,

New Year begins for Sigma Kappa

Grosse Pointe Alumnae of Sigma Kappa will hold a general business meeting next Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the St. Clair Shores home of Helen St. John. Reports on Delta Alpha Chapter, the local alumnae's assigned collegiate chapter at Eastern Michigan University, will be given, and final results of the alumnae's holiday bazaar will be reported.

Plans will be made for alumnae representation at the initiation of 100 pledges into Sigma Kappa's newly re-colonized Alpha Mu Chapter at the University of Michigan.

A social hour will conclude the evening, with dessert provided by co-hostess Heidi Hartwig (Mrs. J.H. Jr.) Denler.

Reservations for the meeting, to which all area Sigma Kappas are invited, must be made by Saturday, Jan. 12, by contacting the hostess at 776-2530 or any member of the membership committee: Ruth Saur, 331-5812, Delores Parham (Mrs. Don) Littlefield, 881-1042, or Maryn Cation (Mrs. John) Horn, 884-3018.

Jan. 13. Music of Debussy and Bernstein will be performed by Laurence Liberson, clarinet, and Tana Beard, piano, the following Sunday, Jan. 20.

The month closes with the Intrada Woodwind Ensemble playing trios by Haydn and Mozart on Sunday, Jan. 27.

Performances of Brunch with Bach's informal chamber concerts are given at 10 and again at 11:30 a.m. in the DIA's indoor continental garden cafe, Kresge Court. Guests

Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, N.C. He is a 1979 graduate of Albion College.

Kenmore Drive, Bachelors of Business Administration.

Mary J. Cornillie, of Grosse Pointe, has been selected for the 1985 edition "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." She is a student at Siena Heights College.

Among students who were accepted for enrollment at Heidelberg College for the 1984-85 school year is Lee Sutton, son of Lee and Sally Sutton, of Deming Lane. A Grosse Pointe South High School graduate, Lee plans to major in environmental biology at the Tiffin, Ohio, college.

Sharon Vasher, of Moross Road, is among recent paralegal graduates of the Oakland University Legal Assistant Program.

Flag is presented by Louisa St. Clair

Louisa St. Clair Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. George T. Olson, regent, recently presented a new American flag to The Whittier. Among those on hand for the presentation were Mrs. Cornelius G. Egan, former regent, Mrs. B. Thomas Weyhing III, Mrs. Myron B. Mountz, Mrs. Frederic Hindley, Mrs. Kenneth J.

Brown, Mrs. Alvin G. Russell, Mrs. Frank S. Clark and Mrs. Clyde F. Kell.

Whittier staff members present included L.O. Browne, executive director of the Michigan Baptist Homes, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Axelson, Mrs. Lois Nair and Mrs. William Pfaff.

The chapter's homecoming at the residence of Mrs. George F. Ryckman, national vice-chairman of Constitution Week, was conducted by Mrs. George T. Edson. Mrs. Robert W. Sawyer Jr. and Mrs. Brown were elected to represent Louisa St. Clair at the DAR's Continental Congress, along with five alternates: Mrs. Weyhing, Mrs. Hindley, Mrs. Ryckman, Mrs. Charles Tittle and Mrs. Chester H. McFarland.

Mrs. Robert C. Palmer brought her collection of pieced quilts, to display and to promote participation in the art of quilting. Quilts were also brought by other chapter members, to compare with Mrs. Palmer's collection.

Sports Week

By Peggy O'Connor

The play of another day

I should have known something was up back in 1979, the day a seventh grader told me that some of her classmates amused themselves during lunch hour recess by playing a game they called "Iranians and Hostages." They'd blindfold some kids and run around yelling a lot.

At the time, I merely thought: "What clever youngsters! And how aware of current events they are, too."

Now I know better. Kids just don't know how to play anymore.

When was the last time you saw a kid skating in a backyard ice rink in the winter? Or monopolizing a side street for touch football or for a quick game of pickle? Or building snow-forts and igloos on the front lawn in January?

Nope, they're all too busy inside the house, watching MTV or programming their personal computers to build a tiny little dot matrix snow fort for them.

I can remember the games I played as a kid, and they had nothing to do with floppy disks or cable TV. And it wasn't all that long ago that I was a kid, either.

Oh, we had our concessions to current events and popular topics. Like when 12-year-old, extremely well-developed Phyllis from down the street used her adolescent wiles to force the neighborhood boys away from touch football and into her favorite game: "Divorce Court." The girls of the neighborhood went along, grudgingly. I didn't know how to act divorced, so I had to be the judge. Phyllis always got to be the courtroom's sobbing female defendant. Phyllis knew how to act divorced.

Another time, my brother invented a game which took 12 hours to play. It was called "Over the Berlin Wall" and consisted of the four of us (my siblings and I) taking turns playing escaping East Berliners or "heavily armed" border guards. The object of the game, just as it remains today for real East Berliners, was to get over the Wall (in this case, the fence between our house and Mr. Connolly's next door) without getting shot.

A two-foot snowfall that day made the game all the more interesting. It was cold and wet, but it was fun and we played until around 8 p.m., when my dad had to practically drag us inside. I remember thinking that we should have asked him to be a border guard... then we could have played until midnight.

Mostly, we just played simple, uncomplicated, non-topical games. Like touch football. We played on the front lawn and since we lived on a busy Detroit street, it added just the right element of danger when you ran from the house toward the street to catch a pass.

In the spring, it was baseball. My dad had painted home plate on the cement in our backyard. The only problem was, nearly the entire backyard was cement. The only grass the place had was reserved for our pet ducks, Duke and Downy. They weren't very good at baseball, either.

At first, the neighborhood kids were tough to convince that cement baseball was a worthy game. But since we had the only real ball and bat on the block, they soon saw the light. They didn't even mind that the four of us had one "home field" advantage: we already knew enough not to slide.

That same cement made a terrific ice rink in the winter. My dad would spend the required three days building a beautiful rink, we'd pray for a long cold spell and then we'd hit the ice for hockey, skating or just sliding around on our bellies. One year, we even used the rink as an added obstacle for "Over the Berlin Wall."

Behind the cement yard was a great alley. It was nice and clean (usually), had wire trash baskets for burning paper (before the EPA cared if you did) which also doubled as end-zones for football when we couldn't play in the front yard, and as goals when we played dodgeball or kickball.

The latter two games were our favorites. Kickball is just baseball played with a volleyball, which one kicks instead of hitting with a bat. The beauty of kickball was that it could be played in a narrow alley; actually, the narrower the better, since one tends to kick a ball straight ahead rather than off to the side.

When one tended not to kick straight, kicking off to the side had its own built-in penalty: three bad kicks and you were out — and you had to chase after the ball, too.

Dodgeball was another fun game, except that it had to be played only by the actual residents of the neighborhood, those of us who knew the rules. The rules were pretty simple: no throwing at the head unless you mean it, no throwing at anybody's baby sister, no faking a hit so you can sit down and rest, no squealing when the ball breaks a window.

We kept the game exclusive because we knew that any interloper would most certainly wind up severely injured, or at the very least, starting a fight over what he considered unfair play. Maybe it looked a little unfair, but we thought we were fair. Tough, but fair.

Nobody really knows how to play anymore. I had some hope for the current generation when I heard that my sister's three children spent most of their playtime playing with the kids down the block. As it turned out, it was only a pretense to the kind of play I remember; the girls were armed with Barbie Dolls and the boys had their Big Wheels. In my time, a Big Wheel was the richest kid on the block.

Anyway, none of my nieces or nephews has ever even heard of Over the Berlin Wall.

Which gives me an idea of what we can play the next time I'm babysitting the little darlings.

Gymnastics previews

North counts on 'second half'

By Peggy O'Connor

Forgive the North High gymnastics team if it doesn't exactly set the world on fire in January. You see, coach Gretchen Madison figures her team will be the type that comes on strong at the finish.

"I call it my second-half team," Madison laughs. "I think the first couple of meets will be kind of rough, but I think by February, we'll really be strong. I'd like us to be strong enough to win the league... but that will be difficult."

That's because league member Fraser is much improved and North, after losing three top-ranked seniors to graduation, isn't quite as strong as 1984, when it was 11-0, finished second in the regionals and eighth in the state finals. And an injury to Jill Boardman, one of two all-around gymnasts on North's squad, will further weaken the girls in the early going, Madison says.

"But I think it will be kind of interesting. It's good that the league is improving and offering better competition."

Like University of Michigan football coach Bo Schembechler, Madison says she's working on a "two-year plan." She has no seniors on the current squad, but sees enough talent to keep North a contender this year and bring even brighter things next season.

Among those returning is North's other "all-arounder," Cindy Dundon, plus Jill Dornbrock, Nicole Lehmann, Sue Haskell, Kathy Kurnert, Amy Andris, Sue Rutherford, Kim Rayment, Wendy McBride and Sharon Frakes. Michelle Dietrich, Melanie Thompson, Michelle Zablocki, Lisa Inoue, Stacey Tsangalis, Tina Francis, Liz Hopper and Kathy Wines are new to the North team this season.

"I usually have a lot of girls come out; I don't like to cut anybody. The sport has gotten a big boost from the Olympics... that's why I hate to turn down anyone who is interested," Madison says.

Assisting Madison this season is coach Bruce Bentley. He teaches health at North High and is a former member of the Central Michigan University men's gymnastics team. "He really loves coaching the girls... and it's nice for me," Madison, who is expecting a baby, says.

Madison points out a few of the areas in which North must improve in order to meet the challenge the season brings. "For the first couple of meets, we'll have a few more faults on the beam than we've had before because we have a little less experience on that apparatus. We'll be a little weak on the bars at first, too. We have the routines, but they're not as polished as I'd like them to be yet," Madison says.

"But this is such a growing team. By February, I really think we'll be looking good. It's just that people will have to be a little patient with us during our 'doomsday' month —

January."

She adds that North is already on target with its vault and the floor exercises. But whether the expected February improvement will be enough to repeat as league champion is still a question mark.

"I'm curious to see how good Fraser is going to be. If Jill (Boardman) gets well quickly, we've got a shot at first."

Madison admits that qualifying again as a team in regional competition will be more difficult this year because of a tougher scoring system at the regional level. She says she would like to see Boardman and Dundon go on to state competition as individuals.

Despite the uncertainty of a season which follows a year that was the finest in North High gymnastics history, Madison says she's looking forward to the 1985 schedule.

"I really have a good group of girls. What we lack in experience, we more than make up for in spirit... and that makes it nice."

North opened its season Jan. 9 (after press time) at Ann Arbor Pioneer and will host its only home meet until Feb. 6, tonight, Jan. 10, at 7 p.m. against Farmington Harrison.

Improved South faces challenge

By Peggy O'Connor

South High's varsity gymnastics team is stronger than it was in 1984... unfortunately, so are many of the other teams in its league.

Coach Janice Mason points to the improved depth and experience on her 1985 squad, but warns that the girls will face an even more difficult challenge than they did in garnering a 3-7 meet record in 1984.

"We'll be stronger, but we face a lot of tough schools. In gymnastics, you can see ahead of time how you'll stack up against some other teams. It's going to be difficult," Mason says.

Three seniors are among the eight girls returning to the lineup this year; they are Jennifer Tyrer, Karen Howe and Patty Leppala. Howe and Leppala are South's two all-around gymnasts. Other returnees are Michelle Ames, Jenny Austin, Lucia Bridenstine, Sonja Shellum, Kathy Trefzer, and Amy Tyrer.

New to the squad this season are senior transfer Gwen Adik, and Jenny Dahl, Jessica Hartman, Heidi Heilman, Lisa LoCicero and Micha Song.

Mason expects Howe to be a standout on the floor exercise and on the beam and says that Adik appears to be doing well on the beam. The bars are another story for South, however.

"That's definitely our weakest event because we have only the three returning seniors who have enough competition experience on the bars. But in the other events, I feel we're pretty strong," Mason says.

Competition-wise, Mason expects Dearborn, Fraser and Troy Athens to pose the most difficulty. Her team opened against Dearborn on Jan. 9 (after press time), will face Troy Athens on Feb. 11 and host Fraser on Feb. 20.

"Dearborn is one of the toughest teams in the state. And Fraser, this year they might just make the states as a team. Troy Athens and the rest... well, it could go either way."

Overall, Mason says she's pleased with the increase in numbers in this year's program; some years, she says, she's had a tough time convincing girls to come out for the squad. And while placing individuals in state finals competition in March seems a bit far-fetched, Mason feels that one or two of her squad should make it to the regionals.

"We don't really set any goals, other than we'd certainly like to improve our record. That means winning the meets against people we lost to last year. We're stronger and we have more depth, so we should be able to challenge them," she adds.

All Pointes wins dual meet

"This was our best all-around performance this season," exclaimed excited coach Glenn Momeyer following All Pointes Swim Club's dual meet victory over longtime rival Southfield.

The 8 and under 100 yard free relay team of Kirles, Swan, Booher and Matous got things started with a second place finish (1:29.24). Reaser, Reinke, Vallan and Zeller were first in the 10 and under 200 free relay (2:16.81) and Bucciero, Swan, Howbert and Reinke touched second in the 12 and under mixed 200 free relay (1:57.35).

In the 14 and under 200 free relay, Crane, Crenshaw, Ball and Brooks were second (2:07.84) and Kimmel, Brady, Osgood and Peleman won the 18 and under 200 free relay (1:52.33).

Paul Swan's time of 19:28 was good for first place in the boys' 8 and under 25 yard fly. In the boys' 10 and under 50 fly, Charlie Roddis (41:10) was second and in the girls' 10 and under 50 fly, Lisa Vallan (35:75) finished first. The Vallan family was well represented at this meet with Tony Vallan also taking a first, his in the boys' 12 and under 50 fly (31:92).

In the girls' 12 and under 50 fly Denise Vittiglio (32:77) was first and finishing one-two in the girls' 14 and under 50 fly were Jennie Olmstead (38:27) and Anne Ball (41:56). Another one-two finish was turned in by Kathy Keller (33:35) and Jennifer Pierce (33:40) in the girls' 18 and under 50 fly.

Leading off for All Pointes in the backstroke events was first place finisher Geoff Kirles (22:74) in the boys' 8 and under 25 yard back. In the boys' 10 and under 50 back, Charlie Roddis was second (38:23) and finishing an outstanding one-two-three in the girls' 10 and under 50 back were Kim Higel (38:44), Abbey McIntyre (41:20) and Anne Cavanaugh (44:70).

In the boys' 12 and under 50 back, Craig Winger (31:54) and Steve Swan (33:55) finished a close first and second. Another winning team, Tina Higel (35:18) and Denise Vittiglio (35:47) touched one-two in the girls' 12 and under 50 back. Barclay Crenshaw swam to first place (37:09) in the boys' 14 and under 50 back and in the girls' 14 and under event, Leslie Winger was first (40:52). Ann Osgood was a close second with her time of 40:57.

All Pointes swept the I.M. events from Southfield, starting with Mike Bucciero taking first in the boys' 12 and under 100 yard I.M. (1:12.15). Touching one-two in the girls' 12 and under 50 fly were Jennie Olmstead under event were Kim Higel (1:15.50) and Anthea Howbert (1:23.57). In the boys' 13 and up 100 I.M., second place went to Chris Candiotis (1:15.78). And finishing first and second in the girls' 13 and up 100 I.M. were Nora Brooks (1:16.04) and Jennie Olmsted (1:18.45).

In the breaststroke, Sarah Booher (26:21) started All Pointes' string of victories in the girls' 8 and under 25 yard event. David Reinke (46:04) was second in the boys' 10 and under 50 breaststroke and Laura Cartwright (44:93) was first in the girls' 10 and under 50 yarder.

In the boys' 12 and under 50 breaststroke, Mike Bucciero (35:52) was an easy first place finisher and in the girls' 12 and under 50 breast, Pam Reinke (39:01) and Phyllis Candiotis (42:51) finished one-two. The All Pointes team scored another first and second finish in the 14 and under girls' 50 breaststroke from the tough duo of Nora Brooks (36:37) and Bridgette Brooks (37:73).

Adam Brady (35:03) was first in the boys' 18 and under 50 breast and the strong team of Kathy Keller

(38:75) and Kim Taylor (39:10) gave All Pointes another one-two finish. The freestyle portion of the meet gave All Pointes a chance to show its ability to cover each event and place well. In the boys' 8 and under 25 free, Paul Swan (18:40) and Geoff Kirles (18:25) were first and second. Sarah Booher (22:10) was second in the girls' 8 and under 25 free. Paul Reaser (35:47) finished second in the boys' 10 and under 50 free.

In the girls' 10 and under 50 free, Abbey McIntyre (33:66) and Marcia Zeller (34:19) touched one-two. Steve Swan (29:27) was second in the boys' 12 and under 50 event and Pam Reinke (30:84) and Anthea Howbert (32:53) finished first and second. In the 14 and under girls' 50 free, Bridgette Brooks (27:83) was first and in the 10 and under girls' 100 free, Leslie Winger finished second with her time of 1:26.02.

The winning medley relay teams of Winger, Koddis, Candiotis and Brady (2:15.18) in the boys' 200 yard and Higel, Brooks, Vittiglio and Keller (2:16.62) in the girls' 200, put the finishing touches on the meet for the victorious All Pointes squad.

North icers win, 9-2

The North High varsity hockey team opened the new year with an impressive 9-2 win over league opponent Southfield at the Grosse Pointe Community Rink on Jan. 5.

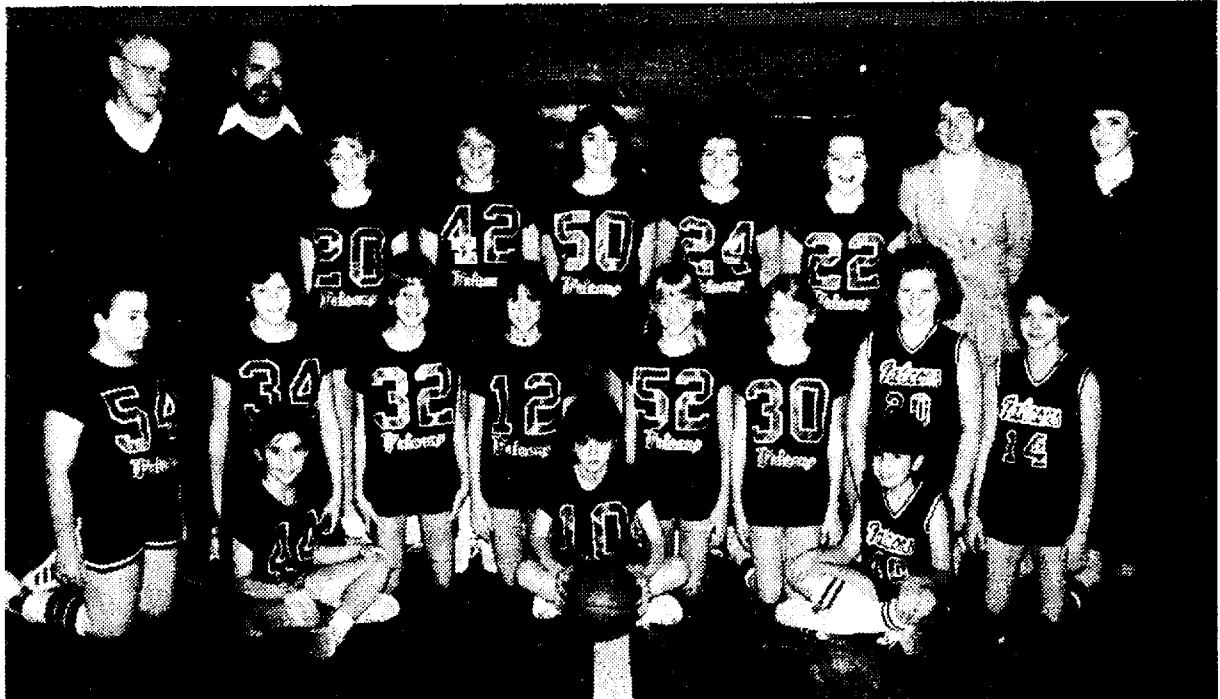

Southfield, a top-ranked team last year and rebuilding this year after the loss of 12 seniors, couldn't stay with the speedy Norsemen. Grosse Pointe got out in front early and was never headed. Senior captain Frank Vento provided all the scoring punch needed with his three-goal hat trick.

Six other Norsemen turned on the goal light, including seniors Jon Spitz and Greg Henchel and juniors Kevin Tisdale, John Russell, Tom Ugval, Casey Quick and Bob Alcott. North's netminding chores were ably handled by sophomore Matt Dennis, who stopped several point-blank Southfield shots.

The victory evened North's record at 4-4. North was to meet rival South High on Jan. 9 (after press time) and is scheduled to face Saginaw Arthur Hill on the road this Saturday, Jan. 12.

Bruins win regional

December was a banner month for the Grosse Pointe Pee Wee AA Bruins — winning both the Silver Stick Regional championship and the Falcon Christmas Tournament.

A 4-3 victory over the strong Taylor Murray's Mean Machines in the 15th Michigan Regional Silver Stick Tournament earned the Bruins the honor of representing Metro Detroit in the International Silver Stick Finals in Port Huron on Jan. 31. The Bruins will compete against other regional champions from Ontario and the United States (east of the Mississippi).

The Bruins took the week off before Christmas before returning to the St. Clair Shores Civic Arena for the Falcon tournament. Despite playing short due to injuries and absence, the Bruins emerged victorious in the final, 8-1, over the Flint Icelanders.

Grosse Pointe went undefeated in both series, thanks to goalies Marc Orsini and Archie Kadlitz; a hard-hitting offense of Bobby Beltz, Adam Boyd, Anthony Buzzelli, Joey DiMarco, Peter Donaldson, Mark Grebik, Sean Kolodge, Dickie Maly and Bradley Russell; as well as the stand-up defense of Don Berninger, Michael Coello, Ross Kogel, Nicky Leone and Jason Weid. The Bruins scored an average 5.44 goals per game in the two series, while holding the opposition to 1.88 goals.

The Bruins will now devote their efforts to finishing out regulation Little Caesar's Amateur Hockey League play before meeting West Central Ontario in the Silver Stick finals on Jan. 31.

The team, sponsored by Ken Meade and coached by Wayne Coatney, Tim Grebik, Dick Maly, Gary Weid and Geoff Donaldson, sported a 33-6-4 record entering play the week of Jan. 7.

Tourney titles for St. Clare

St. Clare of Montefalco's girls' varsity and junior varsity basketball team each captured a tournament championship title over the holidays, with the JV winning its own tournament and the varsity taking the crown in the annual Dominican High School Christmas Tournament.

St. Clare's varsity drew a bye in the first round of the Dominican event, then went on to defeat Detroit Queen of Heaven, 28-15, and St. Clair Shores Joan of Arc, 25-20, to earn the title. Cece Rettig was named to the tournament All-Star team; she was high scorer for the Falcons, who are now 8-0.

The Falcon JV girls played host over the holidays, beating East Detroit St. Barnabus, 24-15, St. Paul, 18-6, and Mount Clemens St. Mary, 19-11. In individual free throw and hot shot competition, St. Clare also took top honors. Beth Wronikowski won the free throw competition, while Jill Johnson took first in the hot shot competition.

Center Ice in the GPHA

Mite Division

The first half co-champion Penguins opened the second half with a 2-1 victory over the Major Magics. Justin Braun scored two goals eight seconds apart midway through the second period; Jamie McMillan contributed an assist. Mark Campbell posted his second win in goal while Mike Weyhing, Andy Scott, Billy Faber and Patrick Kerwin played key roles. Mike Anway scored for the Magics on a breakaway.

GPD-RANGERS
GPD closed out the first half of the season with a 4-0 win over the Rangers. GPD's first half record was 9-3, good for a first place tie with the Penguins.

Tim Miller opened the scoring in the first period from Chris Coates. GPD exploded for three goals in the second period when Miller scored again on a breakaway, Kevin Collins added an unassisted tally and Alex Bieri closed out the scoring from Gordie Todd. Mark Best had an outstanding game in goal, shutting out the Rangers. He drew defensive help from Scott Johns, Jeff Huebner, Timmy Tracy and Terry Brennan.

GPD-RANGERS
GPD's 3-0 win over the Rangers opened their second half. GPD scored once in each period while Jamie Bufalino was shutting out the Rangers with his strong performance in goal. Miller got the first two goals, one unassisted and the other on a set up from Bieri. Weston Norton, skating with the A-line, got GPD's third goal with an assist from M.J. Morris. Also playing well were GPD's Mike Collins, Paul Huebner, Blair Ridder and Todd.

Pee Wee Division

BLACK HAWKS-LIGGETT
The Black Hawks topped the Liggett School Knights, 4-1, at McCann Arena in December. Gabe Benvenuto opened the scoring on a breakaway. Renato Roxas then converted. Roxas added his second tally; Scott Soule for the second Black Hawk goal. After the Knights scored Roxas added his second tally; Grundman assisting. Benvenuto tipped in Jeff Antonenko's shot from the point to close the scoring.

NORTH STARS-BLACK HAWKS
The Hawks and the Stars played to a 3-3 tie as each team scored once in each period. Linemates Soule and Roxas combined for all the Hawks' scoring as Soule notched two goals and one assist and Roxas sandwiched a goal between two assists. Defensemen Billy Wilson and Grundman drew assists.

BLACK HAWKS-PORT HURON
The Hawks gained a first place tie in the second round of the GPCR's Christmas Tournament by beating Port Huron, 4-2. Benvenuto opened the scoring by taking Antonenko's pass, skating past the Port Huron defense and whistling a shot past the goaltender. Kevin McCracken took a perfect pass from Benvenuto for the second goal and Soule made it 3-0 on a pass from Roxas. After Port Huron closed the gap to 3-1, Soule fed Roxas, who scored from the other side of the Port Huron net.

BLACK HAWKS-MAPLE LEAFS
The Hawks and the Maple Leafs returned to league action in this 3-2 Black Hawks win. The Leafs opened the scoring when Juan Ganum got one past goalie Jim Bunn. Peter Masouras tied it up on his first goal of the season for the Hawks, David Chute assisting. Soule scored an unassisted goal to give the Hawks a 3-1 lead. Scott Nesom narrowed that gap to 3-2, but Bunn turned aside a flurry of shots in the third period to preserve the victory.

Good ski outlook

Michigan ski operators estimate that millions of dollars in improvements, a healthier economy and good winter weather will help increase last season's $134 million in revenues by 5 percent, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

More than one-third of the state's 55 public ski areas have improved facilities, double last year's total.

State travel officials expect revenues to rise to approximately $140 million this season. The record $145 million in revenues was set over the 1978-79 season.

The Auto Club's 1984-85 ski guide lists 55 public ski areas compared to 54 last year. Missaukee Mountain near Lake City and Mt. Mancelona at Mancelona will open after being closed last winter. Boyne Falls' Thunder Mountain, which operated weekends, has closed permanently.

Lift tickets average $10.81, up 21 cents over the 1983-84 season. Eleven lodges raised their prices as much as $3 while three resorts dropped prices by $1 to $2.40.

The biggest improvements in Lower Michigan are at East Michigan's Sylvan Resort near Gaylord, formerly Sylvan Knob and now under new ownership.

A multi-million dollar expansion includes a new 20-unit hotel featuring a heated indoor pool and whirlpool. There also will be a 172-seat restaurant, 80-seat lounge and 150-seat banquet facility at the top of all runs and reached by a new road.

Also new is a 1,400-foot intermediate run served by a triple chair lift, snowmaking covering 60 percent of all runs and cross-country skiing on loops of three, five and seven kilometers. All slopes have been reshaped or graded.

No other ski facilities in the region report major improvements. East Michigan daytime skiers will pay from $8 to $14 per lift ticket. West Michigan weekend daytime lift fees range from $5 to $20.

Owners of Caberfae, near Cadillac, invested $2 million to widen the top of a new hill opened last year by 75 feet and to raise the resort's vertical drop by 20 feet to 470 feet. The lodge dining room is remodeled, more than doubling seating to 240, and new snow grooming equipment was purchased.

Hilton Shanty Creek at Bellaire invested $1 million, adding a new building for equipment rental, a ski school and lift ticket sales as part of a two-year expansion.

Other major improvements were reported by Boyne Mountain at Boyne Falls, which made 32 main lodge rooms into 16 suites with sitting area and wet bar. Boyne Highlands near Harbor Springs added two whirlpools next to its heated outdoor pool.

Nub's Nob in Harbor Springs, added a second power groomer and expanded snowmaking capacity 35 percent. Pando has improved its kitchen facility and added lighted cross-country ski trails. Royal Valley has a new snowmaking machine and has remodeled its cafe, lounge and rental department.

Schuss Mountain, Mancelona, built a second beginner-instructional hill, a 600-foot intermediate trail, a 1,600-foot-long expert run through heavy woods, a 1,100-foot run for racers and racing clinics only, expanded snowmaking 60 percent and added 12 chalets. Bittersweet near Otsego built two 700-foot beginner slopes, made one advanced run 20 feet higher and recontoured one expert run.

Southeast Michigan skiers will pay from $4 to $13.50 per day for lift tickets.

Largest improvements are reported by Mt. Holly, where a new 1,250-foot-long expert-only run boasts a 250-foot vertical drop. Parking is expanded 25 percent and 1,000 sets of rental equipment have been added.

At Pine Knob near Clarkston (now owned by the Nederlandse Theatrical Corp.), snowmaking capacity is doubled, and a disco-style bar is remodeled to offer a ski-lodge atmosphere. The lodge restaurant, closed last season, will reopen. There will be 500 new sets of rental skis, a small ski shop, NASTAR (National Standard Race) racing and weekly promotional events.

Other regional facilities which have made improvements include: Mt. Brighton, increased snowmaking 10 percent; Alpine Valley, Milford, and Mt. Grampian, Oxford.
