Crime up-Kelly down

Well, it looks like State Senator John Kelly is singin' the blues.

John, wife Michelle, and the two younger Kellys were in downtown Detroit last week when some unregistered voter took off with the family's 1984 Buick Century, which they had purchased one year ago to the day.

Parked just off Jefferson in Bricktown, the thieves struck while the entire family was finishing up some homework in John's office. Taken along with the car were a box of Huggies, a stroller, two infant car seats and two-year-old Ryan Mae's "blankie."

"What's really kind of disheartening is that we're trying hard to teach Ryan Mae to be good to people," said Michelle. "We first went to Mass at St. Mary's and outside the church an old man came up and asked us for money. He said he was starving, so Ryan Mae gave him her box of Fig Newtons. Then a good deed like that ends up being rewarded by our car being stolen. Talk about frustration."

The Buick, or what was left of it, was recovered by the Detroit police last Tuesday on the I-75 service drive near Livernois. The only thing left was the sheet metal on the car, the seats and the engine. They even took off the tail lights, according to Mrs. Kelly.

"The car was also filled with fast food wrappers, so it looks like they were in it a while," she said. "The car seats were also taken. I at least hope they might save some child's life."

"I just wish we could get Ryan's 'blankie' back. She really misses it."

Warning

On the very serious side, the Michigan Sheriff's Association is reporting that LSD-permeated stickers shaped like blue "tattoo" stars, or square ones with favorite children's characters, have been circulating in the west Michigan area.

The tattoo, called "Blue Star," is a small sheet of white paper containing blue stars the size of a pencil eraser. Each star is impregnated with LSD and can be removed from the paper and placed in the mouth, says the association. The drug can also be absorbed through the skin, simply by handling the stars.

The paper tabs with children's characters look like postage stamps in size and come five one-inch stamps to a page, packaged in red cardboard with a picture of Mickey Mouse on the box.

The tabs are brightly colored with pictures of Superman, Mickey Mouse and other Disney characters, plus other favorite images like butterflies, clowns and so on, report the sheriffs.

Police are afraid the stickers may find their way into the hands of children, who either may handle them or "tattoo" each other for fun.

Anyone with information about these stickers or about the creeps who produce them, should call the local law enforcement agency.

Tax attack

Well, here's some good news for those of you sweating bullets trying to complete your tax returns at this late date.

The Village Post Office, located in the rear of the Grosse Pointe Book Village, 16837 Kercheval, will remain open 'til 9 p.m. Monday, April 15, for those of us fine-tuning our offerings to the IRS.

The heat is on — thanks and a tip of the hat to Glenn Frye.

Council reverses earlier decision

Park ends spraying for elm disease

By Pat Paholsky

On one side was the Grosse Pointe Park Beautification Commission recommending that the city discontinue spraying for Dutch elm disease. On the other side was a plant pathologist urging the city to continue the tree-spraying program. And in the middle was the city council which convened at a special meeting April 1 for the express purpose of discussing the matter.

By a slim margin — 3-2 — the council agreed to do both: Spray this year and then discontinue the program next year in favor of other methods of control.

That was April 1. When the council met for its regular meeting one week later, April 8, members voted to reconsider the decision. Another vote was taken and this time, the decision to discontinue spraying immediately narrowly passed 4-3.

Nobody changed positions. The voting was consistent, except that two council members who were not at the special meeting added their votes to the minority and made it a majority.

Council members Mark Valente and Patricia Forster joined Carroll Evola and John Prost in seeking a stop to the tree spraying, while Mayor Palmer Heenan, Vernon Ausherman and David Gaskin voted to continue the program for one year.

The matter, which was discussed for nearly three hours April 1 and more than one hour April 8, came up again following a request by the Beautification Commission to approve a spring tree planting.

The request had been tabled last month when the commission was given the responsibility of researching the negative and positive aspects of spraying for Dutch elm disease. The commission was given one month to study the matter and make a recommendation to the council, which it did April 1.

At the time, the Beautification Commission concluded: "We have found no hard evidence that the spraying program in the Park has been successful or even marginally effective in controlling elm losses."

The elm tree population, once the pride of cities throughout the United States, has been nearly decimated by Dutch elm disease. A much-debated issue in the Park over the past two weeks has been whether or not to continue spraying for the disease. The Beautification Commission recommended that the program be discontinued in favor of other methods of control. Shown above are two members of the commission in front of a stand of elms, Carol Ward and Jerry Abbs.

The four-page report, submitted by commission members Carol Ward and Jerome Abbs, cited 13 instances of experiences with the disease by other cities and testimony from experts to support their recommendation.

Elmhurst, Ill., which abandoned spraying in 1979, has a better track record than Grosse Pointe Park in terms of elm losses, according to the report. City officials then concluded that the benefits derived from the spraying program were not sufficient to warrant the expense.

The Elmhurst example is often cited because the city, heavily populated with elms, began keeping comprehensive records of its losses to Dutch elm disease since 1957.

Grosse Pointe Park has budgeted $16,000 this year for methoxychlor, the chemical used in the spraying program. The amount does not include labor costs for city workers who apply the spray nor the cost of the equipment. The city has been spraying for at least 25 years, according to Nunzio Ortisi, clerk-controller.

The Beautification Commission recommended: "If we are to do our best to preserve our elms, we should first devote our dollars to the implementation of a carefully planned and implemented sanitation/monitoring program to include at least the following: a) Use of outside contractors to monitor, prune and promptly remove trees. b) Fines for the storage of any elm

License meeting turnout is light

By Mike Andrzejczyk

The only thunder and lightning at Thursday night's board of directors meeting about the War Memorial's Class C liquor license application came from the thunderstorm that whipped the area.

Despite the weather, 35 people attended the meeting. The total included past and present members of the board of directors of the War Memorial Association, a four-member group representing the main opposition to the license, Farms city officials and a handful of residents.

The audience spent close to an hour grilling association officers about the need for the license and its possible detrimental effect on the community.

Association officers reiterated their stand that the license will give the center more control over the use of liquor at the facility. Those opposed told the directors that better administration of the facility would eliminate many of the current problems.

The center's executive director, Mark Weber, said the association decided to again seek a license in December 1982. The future planning committee began a review of state law to see which type of license would best suit the facility's needs.

The center determined it didn't fit any of the license categories except for the Class C and discussed the matter with its legal advisers, who said the center could impose regulations more strict than state law.

The association has proceeded slowly in seeking the license so it can keep the community involved in the process, Weber said.

Once the audience warmed up, it asked the directors pointed questions about the possibility of liquor sold for a profit, how the center would respond to pressure to serve liquor, whether the availability of liquor would mean more use of the center and how the facility would store, serve and recoup the cost of liquor.

"With the license, you'll have a good deal more pressure to serve (liquor) more often," Charles Parcells said. "I foresee that the number of functions will increase."

Weber said groups are screened and booked months in advance. The facility is operating near capacity now and can't accommodate any more groups, he added.

Paul Marco, part of the group present representing the Committee in Opposition to a Class C Public Liquor License for War Memorial Association, said the officers' arguments pointed to weak administration.

Paul Marco

"I'm not impressed because you're describing a management problem here," Marco said.

Other members of the audience said the War Memorial should consider tightening its rules before it asks for the license.

Weber said the center has four situations under which liquor is served. In one case, it holds a temporary license, and is responsible tor control. It can also decide who is served and ensure that those under age do not receive drinks.

Other groups may obtain temporary permits. The center, although it is dispensing the liquor, has no control over it because it belongs to the group with the permit, he added.

Wedding receptions at the facility are provided a "set-up" table by the center. The host is charged a per-person fee for the mixers, which are supervised by the center staff.

When closing time comes, a host is responsible for removing leftover liquor and can take it out of the building at that time, Weber said. Bottles may end up in the front seats of cars, he added.

With the license, no liquor could be brought on the premises, association officers said. Any that was carried in could be confiscated. In addition, the center would only serve liquor with food so that when the kitchen closed, service would end, they added.

Mark Weber

If it tightened its current rules, the center would lose its sense of community, association members said. Eliminating brown-bagging that occurs at concerts, the least controlled situation, could only be done by searching the audience, other association members said.

To pay for the liquor, the association would have to mark up the price to pay for its employee and storage overhead. Any profit made on the sale would be taxable income, according to attorney John Rickel, a former member of the association board. While there would be some mark-up, the price of a drink served with dinner at the center would probably be less than at restaurants since the center would add no profit, he added.

Monahan said the association would continue to meet with those opposing the license request to seek some middle ground. Marco said the committee was willing to listen to the association's proposals.

There are three other applicants besides the War Memorial for the three licenses the Farms could still issue this year, according to Farms Police Chief Robert Ferber. The city's license allotment will be cut to seven next year. The city may now issue eight Class C licenses.

When Farms Councilman Joseph Fromm asked why the center's request should get precedence over other applicants, Rickel said the council, in planning for the city's future, should see the War Memorial as a strong asset to the community. The strength of the center can benefit the Farms, he added.

Weber said the meeting allowed some residents to voice their concerns about the license request. Although the meeting was meant for those who were opposed or undecided about the matter, there was some support from the audience, he added.

The center's request is still pending for a hearing before the council, Weber said. The War Memorial would like to present its case soon, he added.

Four file for June election

By Mike Andrzejczyk

There's going to be one new face on the school board this year.

Catherine Brierly's decision not to seek re-election leaves four candidates seeking the two four-year terms of office.

Candidates have until today to accept nomination. The nominating petitions will be taken to municipal city clerks for verification of the signatures.

Those who filed nominating petitions before the 4 p.m. deadline Monday were:

• Carl D. Anderson. Anderson, 43, and his wife Judy are parents of two children attending Grosse Pointe schools. They have been Woods residents for 17 years.

An active volunteer in schools, he has served on the PTO boards of Ferry and Parcels and is currently a member of the North Parents' Club Board.

Anderson has also served on the Governor's Education Summit Task Force and the Grosse Pointe Excess Space Committee. He was active in Citizens Against Recall Effort and is a recipient of the Outstanding Volunteer Award.

Trustee calls it quits

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Saying six years on the board was enough, trustee Catherine Brierly said Monday night she will not seek re-election to the Board of Education in June.

Two four-year terms are being sought by four candidates.

In a statement read at the special

Catherine Brierly

This is Anderson's second attempt at the school board. He placed sixth of 11 candidates in 1979. In announcing his candidacy, Anderson said, "I intend to run a positive independent campaign which will address the educational issues within our community. I believe the time has come for all factions within our community to work together to preserve and improve what can only be considered one of Grosse Pointe's finest institutions — its public education system."

Anderson said he decided to run because he has "a genuine interest in education." He added he can bring "a positive, independent voice to the school board."

• Dr. Ernest Buechler. Buechler is seeking his second term on the board of education. Principal of Wayne Elementary School on Detroit's east side, Buechler currently serves as board secretary.

A Woods resident, Buechler was one of the trustees who beat off an attempted recall last year after the board decided to close Barnes Elementary School.

Buechler could not be reached for comment on his re-election bid.

meeting, Mrs. Brierly said she made her decision after "much thought and discussion with my friends. I found my six years of service to the community to be rewarding and challenging and I am grateful to the community for its support."

Contacted Monday afternoon after the filing deadline for candidates, Mrs. Brierly said she felt she was ready to step down from the board seat. She added she was only leaving the board and would remain an active volunteer in the system.

The last two years of service have been particularly difficult, Mrs. Brierly said. Because of the changing administration, the board has been required to become much more active in the running of the district than normally necessary, she added.

"The last year has been like two years rolled into one," she added. "The board has put in a lot of extra time."

In the six years she has served on the board, Mrs. Brierly has participated in the hiring of two superintendents and has worked with four different administration heads to date.

"When I first joined the board, Larry Harwood gave me a booklet on boardmanship. In it, it said the

EPA plans inspection of schools

By Mike Andrzejczyk

The Environmental Protection Agency will send an inspector to the Grosse Pointe public school district in early May to check the system's compliance with federal asbestos regulations.

The scheduled inspection comes after a group of residents complained to the EPA, alleging the district was not in compliance with federal guidelines and hasn't identified all sources of asbestos in local schools.

Certain types of asbestos are believed to cause cancer and other illnesses. Debate continues over the dangers of asbestos contained in pipe wrappings and insulation in buildings.

The EPA in 1982 published rules on how school systems should go about identifying materials in their buildings that may contain asbestos and notifying users of its presence. The EPA has warned or fined 25 districts in the state for not complying with its regulations.

School officials say they have complied with the regulations by conducting a survey of each of the district's 16 buildings, performing air tests where necessary and having copies of results at each school.

A member of the group of parents and residents that complained to the EPA about the local district said she hopes this will push the district to develop a plan of action for the maintenance, inspection and removal of asbestos.

"This is an issue that's hot," Cindy Pangborn said. "Parents are aware of it now where they weren't before."

Mrs. Pangborn is one of four candidates for school board this June.

"I'm confident the district is in compliance with federal regulations," Assistant Director of Support Services and Personnel David King said. The district has carried out testing and abatement work throughout the district in the last two years, he added.

The group has asked the EPA to inspect the district's schools because it questions the testing results and the completion of repairs by the district. Mrs. Pangborn said. There is also some question whether the district has met the posting requirement set by the EPA, she added.

An inspector will review the records of a survey and testing results conducted by the district and choose at random a building to ensure all sources of asbestos are identified, according to a representative of the EPA's Chicago office. The agency does not perform its own testing but can require the school district, at its own expense, to perform testing if necessary, the spokesman said.

Because its toxicity remains in question, the agency can only require that school users be warned that asbestos is present in buildings, the spokesman said.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration has set a current exposure standard of two fibers per cubic centimeter of air for workers in industry.

Federal regulations require each school have available a report of asbestos-containing materials in the building and that employees and school-users be notified of the presence of asbestos in the building.

No "safe" levels have been set by the EPA, the spokesman said.

"Theoretically, it only takes one fiber (to cause cancer) but realistically, you have to remember it's a natural substance we have all been exposed to and we aren't dying of lung cancer," he added.

School officials say they have removed or repaired the trouble spots pointed out in the 1983 building survey. In addition, an annual inspection of all buildings is done and maintenance personnel at all buildings are to check the conditions of asbestos-containing substances and report changes to the support services department.

The district needs to develop a formal plan of action to deal with maintenance, repair and removal of asbestos substances from buildings, Mrs. Pangborn said. Other districts in the state have instituted such programs, she added.

School officials say they are keeping on top of the problem. Work was recently done at Kerby School, where removal of pipe insulation containing asbestos was done from the crawl space under the building. Testing of air samples for airborne asbestos fibers is also being done as part of the system's monitoring process.

Besides setting up a maintenance program, the district should also consider establishing a fund to cover the costs of possible litigation in asbestos-related matters, Mrs. Pangborn said.

Asbestos was widely used as a fire- and sound-proofing material. It has been found in ceiling panels, pipe wraps and air ducts in local schools.

Asbestos is a naturally occurring substance. The fibers may cause

Farmer Webster of Upland Hills Farm will bring back the country to the War Memorial again this year, Sunday, April 14, from noon to 4 p.m. This photo was taken when he visited last year.

Farm to come to War Memorial

There isn't always time to bring kids to the country, so the War Memorial will bring a little bit of country to the city Sunday, April 14, when Farmer Webster of Upland Hills Farm presents "Baby Animal Day."

His menagerie will be on display from noon to 4 p.m., and will include demonstrations in shearing sheep, milking a cow, and spinning and weaving. The cost is $2.50 per person and includes, in addition to the demonstrations, the showing of several first-rate movies that deal with animals. Food and refreshments will also be available at a nominal cost.

Weather permitting, the event, ideal for the 2- to 8-year-old age group, will be held outdoors, so patrons are advised to dress accordingly. Parents and grandparents are urged to bring their cameras for this special event.

Tickets are limited, and advance reservations are strongly recommended. For additional information, call 881-7511.

Common household liquids attract, afflict children

By Harriet Nolan

In proclaiming National Poison Prevention Week recently, president Ronald Reagan noted that 100,000 children under the age of 5 are accidentally poisoned in the home each year.

"We see about five cases a week, usually involving kids under four years old," says Rosemary Robak, R.N., at St. John Hospital.

As the hospital's emergency room nurse, she notes that most of the problems occur when kids drink detergents and soaps that have been transferred from their original containers into pop bottles and other containers.

"Kids don't know the difference," she says. "Some of the younger ones don't have very good taste buds and even drink lighter fluid and nail polish remover.

"Kids also take the pills out of grandma's purse," she adds. "And they like the taste of cough medicine and liquid Tylenol."

Vitamins can cause a lot of problems for children when taken by accident, according to Mrs. Robak, especially those with iron since it's retained in the body and can cause gastritis and irritation of the stomach lining and intestine and can result in bleeding and shock.

Donna Micallef, R.N., emergency room supervisor at Bon Secours Hospital, says about four cases a month are treated there.

"Most involve children who take aspirin or Tylenol which has usually been put within reach of the child."

Prevention is best, advises Leonard Ptak, director of Bon Secours Pharmacy and Health Services located in the Family Practice Building in St. Clair Shores.

"Never take medication in front of children because they might try to emulate you," he warns. "And never call medicine candy."

He recommends that parents routinely clean out cabinets of old and unused medicine disposing of it in the toilet or taking it to their local pharmacist for disposal.

He suggests families keep a one-ounce container of syrup of Ipecac on hand in case of accidental poisoning. While larger doses require a prescription, this small size can be bought over the counter.

Depending upon what was ingested, the syrup can be used to induce vomiting in about three minutes after taking it, according to Ptak.

Most of the area's poison cases are referred to Children's Hospital of Michigan, which since 1958 has been designated as the "core unit" for the metropolitan area.

Mrs. Robak says that parents who call the Poison Control Center are usually questioned, given instructions for treatment or told to bring their child to the hospital.

Golf outing prize

On behalf of Metro Detroit Cadillac Dealers, Chuck Crissman, president, at the left, presented the keys for a 1985 Cimarron to Shores resident Michael Marontate, president of the Variety Club of Detroit. The car will be a prize at Variety's annual golf outing June 18. Priced at $10, tickets will serve as a fundraiser for the benefit of Variety's children's charities that include the Variety Club Electronic Limb Research Center, which supplies bionic hands at the Detroit Institute for Children, Children's Hospital and other children's charities. For more information, call Barbara Moretsky, executive director of the club, at 259-7400.

Tour the library next week

Residents are invited to make a special trip to the library during National Library Week, April 14-20. Co-sponsored by the Friends of the Grosse Pointe Public Library and the public library staff, the following special events are planned:

Free tours of the Central Library facility will be given Monday, April 15 at 7 p.m.; Tuesday, April 16 at 2 p.m.; and Wednesday, April 17 at 10 a.m.

Tours will be conducted by librarians and will include public as well as behind-the-scenes areas. Some local library history, and a slide presentation about the current inner workings of library operations will be featured.

Part of the tour will be devoted to a demonstration of the use of the Dow/Jones data bank. Visitors will also be able to view proclamations received in honor of National Library Week from the five Grosse Pointe mayors. Tours start in the Exhibition Room.

Refreshments will be furnished by the Friends of the Library during Central's tours and at an open house at Park Branch on Monday, April 15, from 12:30 to 3 p.m. and at Woods Branch on Thursday, April 18, from 12:30 to 3 p.m.

Fun time for school-age children will be on Saturday, April 20 when Marjorie Brown and the Storytellers perform at 1 p.m. at Park Branch Library and at 3 p.m. at Woods Branch.

Nosey K-9s upgrade airport security

By Tom Greenwood
Airline security at Metropolitan Airport has gone to the dogs lately — and everyone involved is happy with the situation.

The dogs responsible are Baba, a two-year-old German shepherd, and Bronze, a three-year-old black labrador, who make up one-half of the airport's first on-site bomb squad.

Baba and Bronze's respective human partners are Wayne County Sheriffs Sally Wright, with 11 years on the job, and Bruce Preston, a 13-year veteran of the force.

Ms. Wright and Preston both volunteered to establish the airport's first permanently situated bomb squad, after undergoing a rigorous three-month training session with their canine partners at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas.

Although the teams work standard shifts, they're on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week, according to Lt. Graham McNamee, officer in charge of the special K-9 unit.

"The dogs were selected for us down in Texas by the Department of Defense," Wright said. "There, we learned the dogs' characteristics and learned to recognize when they've really found explosives and when they're just goofing off. There's a definite change in their personalities when they've found something. Ordinarily they're all over the place, but when it's serious, they become very alert and tense. Almost nervous. They'll sit near an object and not move until they're ordered to. You can see the change."

Both dogs live at home with their handlers, in order to strengthen the bonds of trust and loyalty.

"Sally and I both volunteered for this assignment once the position was posted, because we thought it would be pretty interesting duty," Preston said, patting Bronze on the head. "Plus we both really love animals. As you can see, both dogs are very alert and friendly. They're not protection dogs, which are trained to attack and defend on command. Our dogs are friendly and polite."

"When we walk through the airport, they attract all kinds of kids, and adults, too. They're very affectionate animals."

Before the animals were acquired by the sheriff's department, officials would rely on outside agencies for bomb- or dope-sniffing dogs whenever they were needed.

"That wasted a lot of time and money," McNamee said. "Now the dogs are available all the time and at limited expense. We'll soon be acquiring new vans for the bomb squad, which will be converted mostly for the comfort of the animals. They'll be screened and have good ventilation, because our dogs may be required to stay in them for hours at a time."

Once a week the dogs are given a training exercise, in which their handlers will hide various explosive-scented objects throughout the airport for detection.

"It can be anywhere," Ms. Wright said. "In the concourses, on an airliner, a rest room, anywhere at all where the public is allowed. Eventually our animals will explore every place Metro has to offer. The exercises help keep them sharp."

The keen sensitivity of the animals is amazing. During the interview, Baba, the German shepherd sat quivering near a large trash container looking anxiously at Deputy Wright.

"He's letting me know there's something in there," she said. "Earlier I was handling some explosives and wore rubber gloves. I threw them in there. He can smell them at the bottom of all that trash. And this isn't even a training exercise."

For one of the day's exercises, paper scented with one of a large variety of explosives the dogs can recognize, was hidden in one of six suitcases. Singly the dogs were brought into the room and allowed to sniff the containers. Each found the correct suitcase within a minute and were duly rewarded.

"Baba is rewarded with a small rubber ball that he loves to chase," Preston said. "Bronze here is food-rewarded. I give her a small piece of doggie candy. She loves it, but we keep her just a little bit hungry to keep her sharp."

The training day for the dogs and their handlers are eight hours long, enough to exhaust both animals and humans. Other days the teams conduct random patrols through the airport and airlines just to be on the safe side.

"It keeps the animals' endurance up and it's just generally a good idea," McNamee said. "We try and think like a bomber, so we check the airport, vehicles, and concourse, luggage and airplanes. The dogs can check out an entire airplane in a very short time. Much shorter than it would take humans to do it. And more thoroughly, too."

Both Ms. Wright and Preston agree they made the right choice when they volunteered for the K-9 squad. The work is important, exciting and rewarding.

On top of that, how many cops can say their partners sleep at the foot of their bed every night?

Ruffner wins publishing award

Frederick G. Ruffner Jr., president of the Gale Research Company, was presented with the 10th Annual Curtis Benjamin Award, at the annual meeting of the Association of American Publishers held recently in Palm Springs, Calif. He was honored for his creative achievement in publishing.

In accepting the award, the Farms resident said, "It is not one individual at Gale Research Company who has been creative, but our organization as a whole. It is on behalf of all those individuals who collectively are called Gale, and in gratitude to them, that I accept this honor."

Ruffner began his publishing career in 1954 with the publication of the "Encyclopedia of Associations" and has continued to publish reference publications providing information that has not previously been available to libraries and others.

Today, his company's list encompasses dozens of series and individual titles conceived and created by him. The extent to which he has been successful is shown not only by sales, but also by the number of major Gale books which have appeared in the American Library Association's annual list of outstanding reference books.

He acknowledges the importance of the library world not only through the books he publishes, but with his own active support in having served as president of the Friends of the Detroit Public Library and president of the Friends of the Fort Lauderdale Public Library. He is currently president of the Council for Florida Libraries, which he helped found, as well as president of Friends of Libraries, USA.

More light still needed

The small attendance at the public meeting called last week by the Grosse Pointe War Memorial board to discuss the board's application for a Class C liquor license could have been blamed on a number of factors: the electrical storm that evening, lack of support for the board's position or lack of opposition to the board's application.

Whatever the reason for the light attendance, the issue does not appear to be as highly charged with emotion, except perhaps for those who live in the immediate area, as originally believed prior to the meeting. At any rate, it was an orderly discussion that reviewed the pros and cons of the application, but did come up with an additional factor for consideration by the Farms Council which will have to recommend for or against the application in the near future.

The additional factor is that the Farms will be entitled to seven Class C licenses as of next Jan. 1, that five already have been issued and that what is being discussed is whether one of the two remaining licenses should be issued to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial board.

Whether issuance of such a license would enable the War Memorial board to exercise greater control — or lead to less control — over the intoxicating beverages distributed at the center remains the essential point in dispute. The opponents also fear the issuance of the license would lead to more activities at the center, increased consumption of liquor and greater commercialization of the area. The board and its supporters have consistently denied such allegations, and insisted that the control issue is the essential one.

Before the Farms Council finally makes its recommendation to the state Liquor Control Commission, we hope these issues can be resolved. It ought to be possible, for example, to determine whether the Farms police and other Pointe law enforcement officials have opinions as to whether the current controls are sufficient, whether they have contributed to an increase in drunk driving and other law enforcement violations in the Pointes, and whether the proposed Class C license would improve the situation. The community still needs more light on such matters and so, presumably, does the Farms Council.

Those precinct changes

By reducing the number of polling places for school elections from 10 to six, the Grosse Pointe Board of Education will save money in the long run, but a more important question is whether the change will increase or decrease the number of people voting. The June 10 election will provide the first test of the new plan.

While the Pointes have an enviable record of high participation in presidential elections, they haven't done as well in school elections. Even when there are contests and recalls, as there were in 1984, school elections have not attracted half of the eligible voters. Last year board President Joan Hanpeter led the field with 7,559 votes, and only 12,754 voters among the 37,000 registered went to the polls.

Some observers see low participation in school elections as evidence that the people are satisfied with the current leadership. Others see it as reflecting low interest in the schools, especially by families not having children in the public schools. Still others think the light turnout reflects the feeling by some citizens that their votes don't count, whether it's a national, state or local election.

Yet a democracy requires voting by a large segment of the population to make certain that an accurate cross-section of opinion is obtained and that decisions are not being made by a minority. It is true, however, that it hardly serves democracy's purpose if people go to the polls without adequate information on the issues and the candidates. Yet that often happens, too.

The number of voting precincts is not as important an issue in a small community such as the Grosse Pointes as in larger cities. We tend to sympathize with the board in proposing a cut in precincts in view of the light voting in past elections. But isn't the important issue here participation and not just the cost?

By coincidence, the Grosse Pointe school board action to reduce the number of polling places comes at the same time that the Michigan Legislature is considering a plan to make it easier to register to vote. The bill proposes mail registration, limited election day registration and other changes to increase the number of deputy clerks and purge the lists of voters who have not been active in seven years.

Michigan ranks 16th among the states by registering 73 percent of its voting-age population, which is well above the national average of 68 percent. Sponsors of the legislation contend that it could attract 200,000 or more of the 1.7 million unregistered voters in the state. Currently, 5.8 million Michigan residents are registered.

Michigan voters now can register at a secretary of state branch office, with a deputy registrar in their school district or with their city clerk. If a person moves to another community or has not voted for 10 years, he must re-register. Some people feel that postcard registration would lead to more violations of registration laws because such a system would be difficult to control. Yet it is difficult to quarrel with the intent of the proposed legislation, which is simply to make it easier for people to register to vote and thus encourage them to vote.

Whatever happens to the proposed state legislation, the school board already has decided the Pointes will vote in six precincts rather than 10 on June 10 and in future elections. The plan, by providing one voting precinct for each of the municipalities served by the district, is expected to reduce voter confusion. The plan will save money by reducing the costs of voting machine rentals and the number of election inspectors. If, however, the new plan attracts fewer voters in the school election, the savings will be achieved at too high a cost.

Those subsidies to Mazda

The luring of industries to cities, areas and states through a variety of subsidies has been going on for a long time in the United States, but has reached a new frenzy in the auto industry in recent months. Governors of some 20 states have come to Detroit to propose packages of subsidies to attract the General Motors Saturn plant. And now the state of Michigan has apparently succeeded in persuading Mazda Motors Co., a Japanese auto manufacturer, to locate a new small-car assembly plant in Flat Rock in Southern Wayne County.

It is true that it is better for Michigan and its workers if the Japanese company makes cars in Michigan rather than simply exporting more Japanese cars to this country. The question that arises, however, is to what lengths should public agencies go to attract and subsidize such business, especially when they are from foreign countries?

The Detroit News reported that the state's cost of a $21 million loan to Mazda will be $2 million to $6 million and bring to more than $120 million the "incentive package that the state commerce officials put together to lure the automaker to Michigan." That includes about $80 million in reimbursements to local school districts for money they will lose as a result of a 12-year property tax abatement to Mazda, plus labor training and improvements in transportation and sewer services around the site.

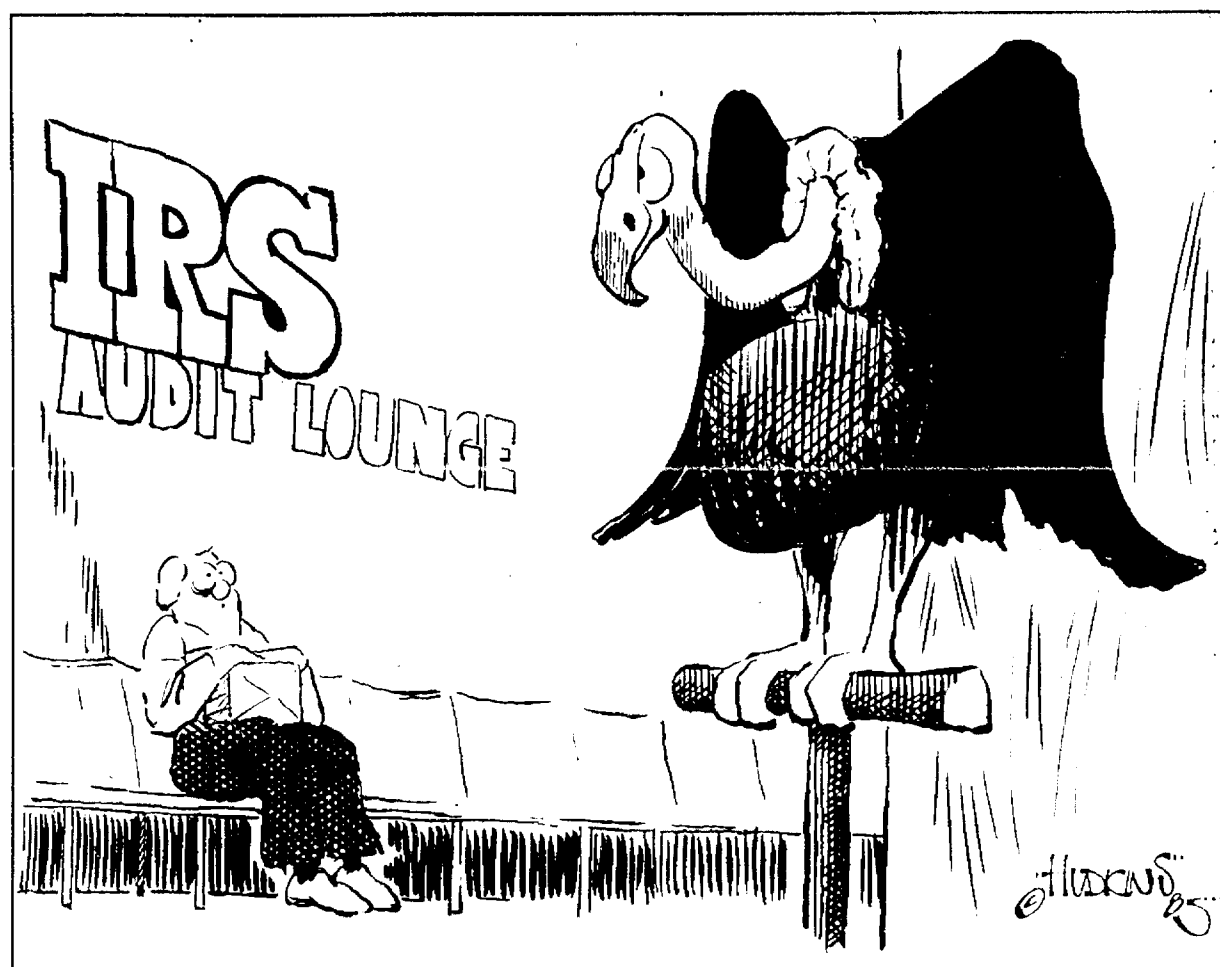

Gov. James Blanchard and his Commerce Department people justify the state's investment on the grounds that the construction project alone will employ 4,000 workers during the 18-month construction period and the assembly plant itself will employ 3,500 to 4,000 permanently. Over time, it is expected that taxes paid by Mazda and its employees will not only repay the state's investment, but provide additional millions of dollars in state revenues for years to come. On such grounds, justification is easily acceptable.

This is not the first instance of such subsidies in Michigan, of course. One of the more highly publicized programs provided a package estimated at as high as $350 million to General Motors to help build the automated Cadillac plant in Detroit and Hamtramck. In that case, too, the mayor of Detroit, the governor and federal officials argued it was a wise public investment in view of the long-term benefits in jobs, taxes and revenues involved.

Yet what about the business and corporate enterprises that pay their own way without subsidies? And while GM and the rest of the auto industry now face new problems from the virtual elimination of the voluntary quota on imported Japanese cars, what about the record profits made last year by all three of the big auto producers? Those profits added to the state's revenues, of course, but didn't directly recapture the public funds invested in the industry's plants in the form of subsidies.

When subsidized American companies become profitable, their returns are largely invested in this country and returned in dividends to their American stockholders. The same cannot be said for foreign manufacturers, except when they invest in additional plants in the United States. However, in both cases the consumer pays twice — first through the purchase of autos and second as taxpayers who help finance public subsidies. It now appears to be the new American way of doing business, but one wonders where it will lead if it continues on the current scale of benefits for foreign as well as domestic companies.

Name names in drunk driving cases

To the Editor:

In reference to your March 28 article, "Wrong-way driver leads police in chase," you omitted the name of the public servant who released this driver, who was charged with drunk driving, on a mere $300 bond.

Your readers have the right to know the name of the judge or public servant who made it so easy for this menace to re-appear on the road. According to your account, this driver "swerved and tried to strike" a police car that attempted to draw abreast of him. This policeman was trying to overtake him after seeing him driving in the wrong direction on Lakeshore Road, and compounding his errors by switching into the other lane and proceeding again in the wrong direction.

Your litany of the driver's misdeeds continues with a report of a 60 mph chase, "swerving right and left at one point forcing" a second police car off the road. After describing more "wrong side of the road driving," you relate that he "was finally brought to a halt by a seven-car roadblock manned by police from the Park and the City." You continue with: "Once the vehicle was stopped, the driver reportedly refused to leave his car and was forcibly removed by the police. Before the vehicle was towed away, it was searched by (Shores Police Officer Michael) Kortas who reported finding a nearly empty bottle of Seagrams whiskey."

I insist on knowing the name of the judge who let this "54-year-old Mount Clemens man" back on the road to endanger more citizens, police and property. I demand, as a subscriber, that you discontinue your policy of hiding the identity of people you report about in your news items about drunk driving. I belong to M.A.D.D. and am urging that organization to initiate steps to move you away from your policy which indirectly enables people like your anonymous judge to endanger the public in this manner.

Joseph J. Walker
Grosse Pointe Woods

Editors note: According to Jan Pretty, court clerk for Shores Municipal Judge Beverly Grobbel, the driver was released on a $300 bond because it was the only avenue available to the police department.

The driver was charged with three misdemeanors under the city, not state, ordinances and was not required to appear before a judge for arraignment. He was instead required to pay $100 bond on each of the three charges of fleeing and eluding, driving while under the influence of liquor and resisting arrest, the maximum allowed under city, not state, ordinances.

According to the law, the police could not require a higher amount of bail then the maximum fine for conviction of the charges under city codes, which in this case is $100 per charge.

Ms. Pretty also reported that the driver could not be charged with felony drunken driving under the state's three arrest rule, because it was the suspect's first arrest of any nature.

Special ed serves students

To the Editor:

A letter published in the April 4 issue of the Grosse Pointe News from Mary Lelli and Suzanne Roland expressed concern that students who are emotionally impaired would be placed for the next school year with students who are learning-disabled in the Grosse Pointe Public School System.

While special education needs are predicated upon Individual Educational Plans of students, plans are formulated at this time of the year which estimate the numbers of students requiring special education assistance. Staffing plans for the middle schools, as well as one self-contained classroom for emotionally impaired students at Brownell Middle School as we had in the past. At the elementary level, there are no plans for consolidation. Rather, it has been a concern that for emotionally impaired students, a continuum of service has not been offered previously. While the numbers are quite small, there will continue to be one self-contained Adjusted Study Program and one program in which students will be mainstreamed for 50 percent or less of the student day. These students will have teacher/consultant services available which will include direct teaching for certain academic subjects. The next step for these students would be indirect assistance with a teacher/consultant and, finally, mainstreamed 100 percent of the time.

Special education services continually must monitor the needs of students so as to provide the best possible assistance to help them reach their maximum potential. Needs of students with different disabilities wax and wane at different levels throughout the system. Parents of all special education students may be assured that the programs designed will best meet students' needs in the tradition of the Grosse Pointe public school system.

Superb instructors

To the Editor:

If there are residents of Grosse Pointe and environs who have a knowledge of and a love for the Italian language beyond the merely elementary stage, let me recommend two courses given in the Grosse Pointe Community Education program: Phase VI, beginning April 16, 7:30 p.m., with Leonardo Fabilli; and advanced Italian, beginning April 17, 7 p.m., with Cinzia Skardarsky.

Both courses are at Barnes

School for eight weeks, $28. I think both instructors are superb, both are natives of Italy, conduct their courses largely in Italian and are, fairly recent arrivals in this country.

I took courses by both in the fall and winter and rarely have I enjoyed language study so much. Phone Barnes School at 343-2178 or pick up a brochure at the public library.

Cancer clinic a success

To the Editor:

Our first annual National Skin Cancer Prevention and Detection Clinic Day was held on May 27 at the Neighborhood Club. This annual event was initiated by the U.S. Congress and sponsored by the American Academy of Dermatology.

The clinic day was administered by six local Grosse Pointe dermatologists. The Grosse Pointe Rotary along with the staff of the Neighborhood Club all participated in making this event a success.

We hope to achieve the same or greater results next year.

Against War Memorial liquor license

To the Editor:
My wife and I have read and considered both sides' opinions concerning the proposed liquor license issue for the War Memorial, and we believe such issuance is not in the best interest of the community.

Our reasoning is based on the following:

1. The residential community bordering the War Memorial will not benefit by a liquor-serving establishment in its midst. Large parties at which liquor is now served have on occasion resulted in unruly behavior of the attendees. Substantial noise and property damage, i.e., lawn damage by automobiles.

2. The viability of the War Memorial does not rest on having a liquor license. I am sure revenues could be enhanced if it did, but that is not the issue. The issue is whether or not the community at large could best be served by having a liquor-serving establishment in one of its most desirable areas.

3. If the War Memorial cannot control who brings liquor to its events now, we are sure it cannot control it in the future. To suggest that by having a license no one will want to bring their own liquor is to be naive.

4. A licensed liquor-serving establishment has an added responsibility according to our courts, that of knowing when to stop serving a customer who has had too much. Who will own up to this responsibility? How will the board comfort the victims of a tragic accident? The question is not will it occur, but when and to whom?

5. While we appreciate the War Memorial board's assurances that the license will not be abused, we take no comfort. Boards have a habit of changing over time as do directors, and with the changes of people, there are changes in policy. What is good to the board today may not be tomorrow. Contracts and agreements can be broken. Take note how the Wayne County Road Commission abrogated their responsibility for the maintenance of Lakeshore.

We urge you to vote against this proposal and affirm your commitment to maintain Grosse Pointe Farms as a safe and desirable residential community.

Asks groups to withdraw

To the Editor:
Last Thursday evening, April 4, the management of the War Memorial Association held an open meeting in furtherance of its campaign for a public liquor license.

In view of the small attendance and the discussions that took place at the meeting, it seems only appropriate for the benefit of the residents who did not attend to make a few brief observations.

In the first place, the attendance estimated at less than 25 could be interpreted as an indication of lack of support for the Association's campaign, and it must have been very disappointing and discouraging to the Association's management particularly in view of the extensive public exposure previously given to the scheduling of the meeting.

The management responded to many questions concerning the procedures for handling the various functions at the Center. However, its explanations with respect to the liquor control problem were not convincing. The management failed to explain why it could not correct the control problem by the adoption and enforcement of strict rules and regulations governing the conduct of guests of the Center.

Also it is reasonable to assume that a public liquor license would inevitably result in additional functions by organizations now scheduling their activities in other locations where a public liquor license is available. The management informed the meeting that during 1984 the Center served over 3,000 functions, which could already be straining the Center's capacity and contributing to management's liquor control problem. Certainly in the opinion of some present, the Center is now operating at full capacity and further commercialization resulting from a public liquor license could aggravate the control problem and would not be in the best interests of the community. Further, it was pointed out that the Edsel & Eleanor Ford Home is operated in a somewhat similar fashion without a public liquor license and it does not have any difficulty in controlling the use of alcoholic beverages on its premises.

In conclusion, in view of the substantial opposition, we are unable to understand why the management continues to persist in alienating so many of the residents to whom the Association appeals for continued financial support and good will. In our opinion the Association would be well advised in the best interests of the community to withdraw its application for a public liquor license and thus avoid the divisiveness necessarily resulting from its present campaign.

Open letter to adults

Editor's note: The following letter was written by a teen who requested that we withhold his/her name "The drinking incident in which I was allegedly involved is an extremely touchy subject to my friends and family. I think this element of the drinking problem must also be brought out, but I can't afford to cause any more trouble," the writer explained.

To all Concerned Adults:

In recent weeks, it has come to my attention that many adults make false accusations concerning drinking minors. There has been so much publicity concerning teenage drinking, that adults are falsely accusing many teenagers. I wouldn't mind if the parents were just in their accusations, but many times they aren't. These premature assumptions have caused many problems.

I, too, have been falsely accused. I tried to convince my parents I was not involved in the alleged drinking incident, but the misinformed adult's story was taken over mine. I would not be as angered if it were only the punishment that I have to endure, but the informer also caused me to lose the respect and trust of my parents; this in addition to many of my privileges.

This is not an isolated incident. Situations like this have risen many times before in and out of school. Just because a child is socializing with a group of people who happen to be drinking, this should not incriminate the child. Before notifying parents or other authorities, have your facts straight and situations like this can be avoided.

I would think with the kind of educated adults in this city, guilt by association would not be the normal assumption, but unfortunately, it is. Whatever happened to innocent before proven guilty? I hope all adults who have or have considered notifying the parents of a minor they think has been drinking will consider my side of the story. Drinking is a serious problem, but let's not get out of hand.

Park arrests man for Detroit

Park police arrested a man about 10:20 p.m. Saturday, April 6, who they believe was involved in an armed robbery in Detroit earlier that day.

Police say the man, for whom they are seeking warrants for carrying a concealed weapon, and three others were stopped by officers on patrol near Beaconsfield and Charlevoix.

Officers picked a call out of Detroit of a woman who had been robbed at gunpoint by four men. They observed four men matching the description given and stopped the group.

On one man was found a loaded .32-caliber revolver. The three others were released.

Detroit police are continuing their investigation.

Yellville, Ark., became so called when a politician named Archibald Yell in 1840 paid $50 to the village of Shawnee Town to change its name.

I say

One of my fantasies, outside of having my nose bobbed, winning the Lotto jackpot and losing 15 pounds overnight, includes having a sexy, carefree and more with-it first name.

There is no offense intended to the other Harriets of the world, however small their numbers may be. In fact, it's a stoic, honorable name that taken from the masculine version of Henry, in German, means house ruler.

But face it, it's old fashioned. I was named after my mother's voice teacher which gives an idea of what generation I'm pegged into. Even my sister got off better than I did, thanks only to being born into a Catholic family near the feast of St. Patrick's Day.

But Patricia had her own share of problems. It wasn't until she got old enough to put her foot down that the steady parade of birthday cakes decorated with green shamrocks, shillelaghs and leprechauns were replaced by pink, yellow and blue decorated cakes.

Even as a child, I felt my name had a different ring to it. It seemed so staid compared to cheerful sounding Lindas and Dianes or graceful and stately Jacqueline and Steph-anies.

I think about Olivia Newton-John and how lucky she was that her parents didn't call her Olive. With that slight variation, she could have grown up to be a string-bean cartoon character instead of a litesome blonde singer.

While I won't go so far as to say my name has genetically restricted my growth to 5 feet, 2 inches, and my hair to mid-length black, movies and books haven't given the Harriets a fair shake.

They've never depicted us as tall or even short frivolous girls with flowing tresses. Instead, we're librarians and spinster aunts.

In my constant fight against this stereotype, my favorite color remains red. I'll never be a librarian while the role of spinster is still up

Harriet Nolan

Like an old glove, my name wears well with age

But I can tell you it's an uphill fight. A few years ago, a local radio talk show host, who bears a strong resemblance to Captain Jolly, was interviewing Helen Gurley Brown about her latest book in which she revealed the secrets of her metamorphosis from a "mouseburger" to successful wife and career woman.

For some ungodly reason, this commentator got hooked on using my name to describe the typical mouseburger of the world and refused to let go. He uncharitably included Matildas, Gertrudes and Bernices in the same breathe. But Harriet, far and away, had the distinction of leading the pack of poor unfortunates.

The most recent blow came a few weeks ago watching my favorite program, "Miami Vice," when I learned that one of the detective's new goldfish was named, you guessed it, Harriet.

To compound matters, cutesy names are in vogue and more and more young people are starting to call me ma'am.

But that's OK, because revenge is sweet. I'm going to grow old gracefully into my old-fashioned name. I can't wait to see how the Kims, Tracys and Muffys look with walking canes and support hose.

Working hard behind the scenes for the upcoming CROP Hunger Walk are the Rev. John A. Schaible, of St. Ambrose Parish, Patti Bologna, St. Paul's on the Lake, Donald Holt, of Salem Memorial Lutheran Church, Sister Eileen Meyers, of St. Paul's, Kristine Gallen, project chairman from Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church and the Rev. Robert Boley, co-chairman from Grosse Pointe United Methodist Church. The walk is scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, April 21, at St. Paul's Catholic Church.

CROP Walk for Hunger is April 21

The Grosse Pointe Ministerial Association will sponsor the CROP Walk for Hunger Sunday, April 21. The event begins at 1:30 p.m. at St. Paul School gym, 170 Grosse Pointe Blvd.

This is the fifth year for the walk and sponsors believe it will be the largest.

CROP is the community hunger appeal of Church World Service. The group helps organize local hunger walks to raise money to "help people help themselves." CROP responds to people in need by providing emergency food and development of crops and technology.

This year, 25 percent of the money collected by participants will be distributed to three local food programs — Calvary Senior Center's Meals on Wheels, Crossroads East and Faith Lutheran Soup Kitchen.

Sponsor sheets are available at participating Grosse Pointe churches. Total distance is 10 miles and water will be provided along the way.

Some of the walkers will include Lorenzo D. Browning, mayor of Grosse Pointe; John Crawford, Park city manager; and Patricia Galvin, Shores trustee.

Groups that would like to participate can contact Richard Tapper, Grosse Pointe Congregational and American Baptist Church, or Rich Butler, Salem Memorial Church, for more information and sponsor sheets.

Hill store robbed

Grosse Pointe Farms police report that Carl Sterr, a men's clothing store at 80 Kercheval on the Hill, was robbed April 1.

Police, called at 10:45 p.m., discovered the front door had been smashed. A cinder block was discovered inside the building which they theorize was used to gain entry.

Display cases were smashed and merchandise valued at $3,093 was missing, according to the police.

Two women's clothing stores, Isabelle's and Maria Dinon, also on the Hill, were robbed recently under similar circumstances.

Advances in eye treatment discussed at Ferry April 17

Dr. Gerald Mullan will be the featured speaker at Ferry School on Wednesday, April 17, at 12:30 p.m. He will address the Food and Friendship seniors program. Members of the community are also invited.

His talk, "Advances in Ophthalmology," will cover glaucoma and its treatment, cataracts, diabetes, retinal degeneration, the use of radial keratotomy as a treatment for myopia, the newer types of intraocular lens implants used during cataract surgery and the use of the permanent pigmented lash liner surgery for cosmetic purposes.

Park home robbed

A Barrington home was reported broken into Thursday, April 4, at about 4 p.m., according to Park police.

Thieves broke a pane of glass in the front door of the home to gain entry. Taken was a cassette recorder valued at $600, reports said.

Dr. Mullan has been in practice in the Woods for 11 years. He is board certified and a fellow of the American Academy of Ophthalmology.

Free vision screening for seniors will follow the lecture. For more information, call 882-6655.

Woods approves DPW bids

At its regularly scheduled meeting April 1, the Woods Council unanimously approved the future purchase of six items for the Department of Public Works.

The items included: a 25-year side-loading refuse collection unit from Belle Equipment for $68,400, including a $1,000 trade in; one vactor-jet rodger, used for cleaning sewer lines for $112,400 from the GMC truck center; one five-yard dump truck for $28,709 from Motor City Ford; one Turf Blazer 727 diesel lawn mower from L and E Distributors for $11,950; one 1985 Plymouth Voyager mini-van or its equivalent from Roseville Chrysler for $9,898; and two 1985 Plymouth Gran Fury or equivalents for $19,200 from Roseville Chrysler.

Woods City Administrator-Clerk Chester Petersen, along with Director of Public Works Leonard Ocelnik, explained to the council that the recommended items were all the lowest bids received on the equipment, and that the purchases would be made over the course of the year to replace outdated or obsolete machines.

Cable offers amnesty program

Grosse Pointe Cable has started an information campaign to alert its subscribers in the Pointes and Harper Woods about theft of cable services and will begin its second amnesty program in three years.

Theft of cable services through illegal hook-ups or jimmied converter boxes costs the cable industry millions of dollars a year nationally.

Grosse Pointe Cable General Manager Michael DuFour said residents who may be using cable television services for which they are not paying may come forward during the amnesty period without fear of prosecution or being charged back payment for the service received.

This is the system's second amnesty in three years. There have been a number of cases recently where residents have brought in converter boxes that appear to have been tampered with, DuFour said. The number of incidents has increased to where the company has decided to offer amnesty again, he added.

The system's problem is not with illegal hook-up but with tampering done to its old-style converter boxes, DuFour said. Newer remote control digital converters are more tamper-resistant, he said, adding the company would like to get the old boxes out of circulation.

"Theft of cable is a crime, like shoplifting," DuFour said. "People should understand that they are violating the law when they intercept cable programming without permission. This is not fair to honest customers or to franchise authorities. Ripping us off is wrong and after the amnesty program, we will seek full protection under the law."

The cable company pays a percentage of gross revenues to the cities it serves; the Woods, Farms, City and Park as well as Harper Woods. "Where people steal cable, we all lose," DuFour added.

As part of its program, the company will start an audit of its cable system using new technology allowing it to determine where theft is taking place, he added.

WHIPLASH

In this age of high speed transportation and sport, "whiplash" has become com-monplace. This is an injury which may cause long-term discomfort, or even perma-nent damage, to the victim. It offers a diagnostic and therapeutic challenge for which the doctor of chiropractic is uniquely suited.

This trauma to the neck and spine results when one's head, an average seven-pound mass, is snapped rapidly backward or forward in a collision, fall, or other accident. Symptoms vary with the degree and nature of the injury to the soft tissue and verte-brae of the upper spine.

Low back and leg pain, neck and arm pain, dizziness, headaches, nausea, and fa-tigue are typical symptoms of a whiplash injury. These symptoms may appear days or months after the accident.

Whiplash victims should not delay chiropractic treatment due to the fact that scar tissue can develop in the soft tissue of the spine, increasing the chances of a per-manent injury.

Brought to you as a community service by Dr. David Jantz. If you have any further questions call or write the clinic, Grosse Pte. Wds. Chiropractic Clinic, 20217 Mack GPW, phone 881-7677. All insurances accepted.

North to offer Shakespeare

Music, dance, comedy and romance will all be part of the Theatre North's production of Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," that will be presented Thursday through Saturday, April 25-27, at the Performing Arts Center in the Woods.

The play will be under the direction of Gael Barr, who has produced, directed and designed 10 Shakespearean productions at North High. A multi-level set designed by him and built by the cast will be enhanced by original costumes of the 18th century designed by Oliver Hanna of Hollywood Costumes of Inkster especially for this production.

Proceeds from the opening night will go towards Theatre North Scholarship and Enrichment. An afterglow is planned for that evening.

Anyone who would like to become a program benefit patron for this special evening can call 885-0191, Marlene Paluzzi.

All performances are at 8 p.m. and general admission is $4. Tickets are also available at the All Pointes Book Store or by calling 343-2187.

Cottage to open lab to public

Cottage Hospital will celebrate National Medical Laboratory Week by holding an open house Sunday, April 14. The public is invited to tour the laboratory from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Certified medical technologies and laboratory assistants will guide small groups through the various departments — blood bank, hematology, chemistry and microbiology. They will explain how lab tests are performed, including manual analysis and automated methods using some of the fastest and most sophisticated testing equipment available.

Visitors can look through a microscope at blood and bacterial samples, learn how micro organisms are grown in the laboratory and then tested to determine how to fight them. They also will see the steps a unit of blood must go through before it can be used for transfusion in a patient.

Laboratory professionals invite students interested in careers in the medical field, along with the general public, to tour their facility. It's an opportunity to look into an area of the hospital not normally open to the public.

For more information about the open house, call 884-8600, ext. 2456.

Dog licenses expire April 30 in Farms

Grosse Pointe Farms police remind residents that all dogs six months or older must be licensed yearly. Licenses expire April 30 each year. On May 1, the police department will begin to issue violations to owners of unlicensed dogs.

Licenses may be obtained at the Farms city offices, 90 Kerby Road from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, and until 6 p.m. on Wednesday.

To obtain a license, the pet owner needs a certificate by a licensed veterinarian showing the dog has been immunized against rabies for the period through Dec. 31 of the licensing year.

Original and renewal licenses cost $5 until April 30. After April 30, the charge is $10.

For more information, call 885-6600.

PUBLIC HEARING COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT PROGRAM

The City of Grosse Pointe Park has applied for participation in Wayne County's 1985 application for Community Development Block Grant Funds. The proposed objectives and use of the 1985 funds are as follows:

1. Implementation and continuation of Mack Avenue Streetscape Project between the Western City Limits and Somerset to include street and sidewalk improvements.
2. Continuation of the minor home repair program through S.O.C., Inc.
3. Continuation of a successful housing rehabilitation loan program.

All projects are designed to meet the needs of the low-moderate income resident. Citizen participation by individuals, neighborhood groups, and/or private non-profit corporations is encouraged and suggestions and comments are invited for the City's 1985 application.

A Public Hearing for this purpose will be held by the Citizens Advisory Board at 7:30 P.M. on Tuesday, April 16, 1985 in the Council Chambers of the Grosse Pointe Park Municipal Building, 15115 E. Jefferson Avenue.

Approximately $180,000 may be available for eligible projects that meet City and County approval.

Workers find cancer a stigma

By Harriet Nolan

Pity the worker who suffers indignation at the hands of a boss who doesn't like him. But for a person suffering from the debilitating effects of cancer treatment, job discrimination can be even more insidious.

"It's another assault on the ego and when the person is already dealing with all the implications of living with cancer, to rally themselves for any legal battle is absolutely overwhelming," says Patricia Schomaker, MSW, Park resident and oncology social worker at Harper Hospital.

Patients have told her of the subtle, hard-to-document forms of discrimination they've received when trying to resume a work career.

"They say, 'I'm getting nothing direct, but I'm real scared they're going to boot me out,'" says Mrs. Schomaker.

In one instance, she recalled a woman in her 40s who held a job with the same company for more than a decade. Throughout that time she received glowing performance appraisals. Then cancer struck.

"Her perception was that the quality of her work hadn't changed," remembers Mrs. Schomaker. "But she got subtle messages of dissatisfaction from her boss and co-workers, such as, 'you're not quite up to par are you?'"

Another career woman who returned to a job she had held for seven years told how people balked at her being allowed to take off two days each month for treatment. She felt she was under constant stress, yet there was nothing she could document.

In another case, a man decided to fight. He had contacted leukemia as a teenager, but went to college when his symptoms disappeared, earned a degree in accounting and proudly captured a good job with a large company.

"It was his understanding that he was cured, and thinking the illness was behind him, didn't tell his new employers about it," says Mrs.

Schomaker. "He began to receive high evaluations until he had a relapse and had to take time off for treatment."

"But the company didn't even talk to him about scheduled options. They simply fired him. He told me that he felt they were dragging out the court case hoping he'd die first," she adds. "And he did."

The American Cancer Society released the results of a survey that found job discrimination greeted 84 percent of successfully treated patients who tried to return to their jobs.

Ivan Barofsky, Ph.D., a psychologist at the Institute of Social Oncology in Silver Springs, Md., and consultant for the society, says his research indicates about 30 percent of recovering patients report some sort of job discrimination.

But he feels this figure is underestimated since many patients limit themselves in the job market so the opportunity for discrimination is reduced. It's also hard to prove since the percentage of people in one specific company is so low at any one time that the ability to demonstrate this issue is difficult.

"All we measure is the frank violations of the law and the willingness of patients to admit the experience," says Dr. Barofsky.

Gwen MacKenzie, R.N., manager of Harper Hospital's Medical Oncology Department agrees with Dr. Barofsky and says patients are sensitive about their work situation and embarrassed when their job responsibilities are changed.

"Many are so loyal to the workplace, they can't face admitting they're being discriminated against," she says. "It takes a long time for it to dawn on the patient that this is what's happening."

She points out that filing a lawsuit often takes a long time to reach the courts and for someone who's the major breadwinner in the family, time is not always available. Another reason many don't press the issue is company bargaining and other options.

"Sometimes the job responsibility changes," says Mrs. MacKenzie, "and work can be shifted to other personnel. In another case, work was actually piled on the employee and he was told he couldn't keep up with the job anymore. For another, early retirement was the answer."

However, former cancer patient Marilyn Gonte, of Southfield, says she's never had any problem.

Also the author of "It Can't Happen to Me," she says co-workers at the Birmingham board of education "have been great and welcomed me back to my job."

"But it's up to the patient to set the scene for his own return. When you're open about it, it puts others at ease," she adds.

The myth that cancer is contagious is a major culprit in job discrimination, according to Mrs. Schomaker, more than the legitimate concern of readjusting work schedules to allow the patient time off for treatment.

Mostly it is the reality that someone that close has cancer and that is what is threatening to employers and co-workers — the uncomfortable awareness and fear that it could be one of them. Therefore, in order to deny the possibility and resist the constant reminders, they reject the patient.

"These messages of dissatisfaction and rejection gnaw on the patient every day of the job," she says. "Others don't want to eat lunch with them anymore or touch the reports they do."

"I remember a young man who was determined to work and even tried sweeping floors in restaurants. But he told me that as soon as employers found out he had cancer, they'd reassign him to a part-time position on an off-shift."

"It's hard communicating with friends who fear you won't be around anymore," she adds. "But patients should try to persevere. Discrimination in any form is another mountain they must climb."

Eugene J. Agnone, M.D., an oncologist at Bon Secours Hospital, also says many of his patients have related job discrimination experiences to him.

He says "while many have an incurable disease, such as diabetes and heart disease, every effort is made to help them live a better quality of life longer."

"It's difficult for many people to grasp that they're still human beings," he adds.

He puts the responsibility for setting the tone of the office on the employer.

"Most cancer patients don't want to be placed on disability," says Dr. Agnone. "Over 90 percent of the ones I deal with are going to die with the disease, so employers know eventually they're going to lose that worker."

"It's important to have the strength, conviction and compassion so they don't feel abandoned," he adds.

John Burrows, M.D., head of St. John Hospital's Oncology Department, notes when the prognosis for cure is good, as in cases of lymph and breast cancer, employers often welcome workers back.

While compensation and disability laws in our state make it harder to fire a cancer patient, Dr. Burrows acknowledges that the probability of prolonged illness and disability can get expensive for an employer but has to be dealt with.

"On the other hand," he says, "we have to consider the needs of someone who is the breadwinner and has to have continued employment."

"We have to understand that this is a tragedy, but it's there," he adds. "A real solution is better communication between the employer and physician as to the likelihood of the employee's cure."

On May 25, Harper Hospital and Wayne State University will offer a seminar for patients, friends and families of cancer patients. The program, "You Can Survive: Life With a Cancer History," is scheduled from noon to 4:30 p.m. at the Ramada Inn in Southfield. The cost is $10. For information, call 494-8444.

Bible study to begin WSU to offer newsletter workshop

Bible Study Fellowship, a non-denominational, international Bible study will begin a five-week pilot program this month at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore Road, in the Farms.

The study, on the book of Philipians, will begin Thursday, April 18, at 9:10 a.m. and each session will last two hours.

There will also be a program for children, ages 2 to 4, at the same time. All women are invited to attend these classes. Call 881-5863 for more information.

Wayne State University, through its College of Lifelong Learning, will offer a one-day non-credit workshop on newsletter Saturday, April 27. The workshop is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the WSU Sterling Heights Center, Heritage Junior High School, 37400 Dodge Park, Sterling Heights.

Under the direction of Leontine K. Cadieux, WSU Special Events

Special education workshop

Parents of children and youth with all handicapping conditions are invited to attend a free workshop on special education Saturday, April 20, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Education Center Discusatorium, 33500 Van Born Road, Wayne. Bring a bag lunch.

The workshop will help parents learn how to work with schools to plan their children's education. Co-sponsors are the Wayne County Intermediate School District and Parent Advisory Committee. Call Clara Hylenski, at 467-1452.

Ticket outlet opens

Village Records and Tapes and Ticket World have opened a new outlet in Grosse Pointe. Tickets for events throughout southeastern Michigan will be available at a computerized facility at the rear of Village records, located on Kercheval, three blocks north of Cadieux.

For a nominal service charge, tickets may be purchased for performances of the symphony, live theater and clubs, the Detroit Tigers, wrestling and tractor pulls. Tickets for all large concerts, at indoor and outdoor venues, will be on-line.

Vegetable gardening

A panel discussion on the best proven methods of vegetable and fruit propagation will be presented by the Men's Garden Club at their Thursday, April 18 meeting in the Central library at 7:30 p.m.

The program will start with a slide presentation on "Advanced Vegetable Gardening" prepared by the Men's Garden Clubs of America. Following a short discussion of the slide program, each panel member will discuss the expertise of growing and selecting of vegetables and fruits.

Boris Kuruchki, a melon and sweet corn specialist, Harold Lee, a squash and snap pea grower, Peter Rocco, a pepper king, Jack Schwan, a fruit and berry authority, and George Vincent, a noted grower of climbing beans and cucumbers, will be on the panel which will be moderated by master gardener Paul Desmet.

After all the panel members have covered their specialty, there will be a short period devoted to selecting the top 10 best tomato plants. A question and answer will follow and a free drawing of growing vegetable plants will be made.

The basic format of the meeting will be for each member to indicate his production process from planting of seeds to the care during the growing season and finally the harvesting and storage. Much of the information will be explained for beginning vegetable gardeners.

This meeting is open to the public and ladies are welcome.

Christian Day schedules round-up

Christian Day School, 1444 Maryland, will have a Kindergarten Round-up Friday, April 19, at 10 a.m.

'Amadeus' is GP Theatre's next offering

The Grosse Pointe Theatre will present "Amadeus" by Peter Shaffer this month at the Fries Auditorium of the War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore Road. The show runs from April 17 to 21 and from April 23 to 27.

The play is a glimpse into the life of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart through the eyes of Beethoven's teacher, Antonio Salieri. Playing Salieri is Cap Blood. Mozart is played by Robert Maniscalco and his loyal wife will be portrayed by Cynthia Szczesny. About two dozen other members round out the cast.

Barbara Bentley is the director, and the producer is John Guadagnoli.

Certain time is 8 p.m., except Sunday, which is at 7 p.m. All tickets are $5.50. For information or reservations call the box office at 881-4004.

Theatre-goers can dine in the Crystal Ballroom before the performances. Buffet tickets are available through the War Memorial until three days in advance of each performance. The dinner is $9.50 tax and tip included.

It is recommended that patrons get tickets to the play first. Call the War Memorial at 881-7511 for more information.

Class on condo operation offered

Wayne State University will offer a non-credit course, "Advanced Condominium Operation" on four consecutive Wednesday nights beginning April 17 from 7 to 9 p.m. at Birmingham Groves High School.

The course is for members of condominium and community associations who have had experience in operating an association as directors, but who want to expand upon and refine their knowledge and experience. It will be taught by Robert M. Meisner, noted condominium law expert.

Tuition is $85 for the first member of the board and $60 for additional members of the same board. For more information, call 577-4665.

Local students on cable commercial

The 1985 spring prom promotions for Valente's Formal Wear will feature a number of local students. The cable spots begin airing April 8.

Students are: South High — Patti Ingrao; North High — Sean Haggerty, Joseph Paluzzi, Lisa Lucido, Mark Rieth, Tim Rice, Brian Nettle, Dina Cholack, Rebecca Wolfe, Joseph David, Jody Maiorana, Drew McSkimming and Tim Van Eckoute; University Liggett School — Tessi Raymo, Jack Ferris, Nick Noecker, Berry Hamilton, DeAnn Patanis, Cary Brooks, Amy Cannon, Paola Luptak, Stefanie Sables and Leah Evanski.

Jaycees begin membership drive

The Grosse Pointe Jaycees are conducting their semi-annual membership drive to recruit men and women between the ages of 18 and 35. The Jaycees support and promote many civic and charitable projects throughout the year.

They take part in the muscular dystrophy fundraising by staging a carnival at the Esquire Theater, complete with clowns and dunk tank. In the planning stages this year is a Liberty Ball to raise money for the Statue of Liberty Fund.

The Jaycees just finished a successful art auction held at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford Home.

To find out more about the group, drop by the War Memorial Thursday, April 11 at 8 p.m. and meet and talk with President Greg Miller and members of the board.

FACTS OF LAW

by Ellen C. Wallaert

An insurance company providing an employer with group health insurance may not cancel an individual employee's benefits without notice to that employee, says a recent ruling.

"The sum of behavior is to retain a man's own dignity, without intruding upon the liberty of others."

— Francis Bacon

A person who is detained by law enforcement officials, who believes the detention illegal, can apply to the courts for a WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS to determine legality of the custody.

In order to meet the standards of fairness established by the Federal Rehabilitation Act of 1973, an employer may not discriminate against the handicapped. Therefore, a deaf person must be given a written test where only oral tests are provided to applicants for a position.

According to an old law in Michigan, if a wife abandons her husband, he can take possession of all of her clothing.

Schools

North honored

Ceremonies were held recently in the offices of the Michigan Board of Education in Lansing to honor Grosse Pointe North High and 18 other secondary schools in the state. The schools had been nominated earlier this year for consideration in a national program to recognize outstanding secondary schools. The schools received a wooden plaque with the outline of Michigan from the state board, a letter of commendation from Gov. James Blanchard and a resolution from the Legislature. Pictured at the ceremonies are, from left, Ray Ritter, department chairperson, Physical Education, North High; Robert Reimer, English Department chairperson, North High; Phillip E. Runkel, state superintendent of public instruction; Joan Hanpeter, president of the Grosse Pointe school board; Nanette Reynolds from the governor's office; John S. Kastran, principal, North High; Linda Rayes, sophomore representative; Pamela Light, North math teacher; Kim Marshall, senior representative; Norman Stockmeyer Sr., member of the state board of education; and Steve Clark, freshman representative.

South Latin Club attends convention

By Chris Herrinton

On March 15 and 16, 44 members of the Grosse Pointe South Latin Club traveled to the University of Michigan for the 35th Annual Michigan Junior Classical League Spring Convention.

Thirteen students won a total of 23 ribbons in academic testing in five areas: grammar, vocabulary, Roman life and customs, derivatives and mythology. Students who won were Brian Fromm, first year, first place vocabulary, first place mythology; Amy Gentile, first year, first place grammar; Tenley Mogk, first year, second place grammar; Chris Astfalk, second year, first place Roman life and customs; Brian Kelly, second year, third place derivatives; Julie McGann, second year, first place derivatives; Tim Walsh, second year, second place mythology; Chris Herrinton, third year, second place vocabulary, second place Roman life and customs; Laura Jones, third year, third place grammar, third place derivatives; Brendan Walsh, third year, first place grammar, first place mythology, second place derivatives and third place vocabulary; Beth Barton, fourth year, first place vocabulary, second place derivatives; Sharon Lee, fourth year, first place grammar, first place mythology, first place derivatives and third place vocabulary.

South's team, comprised of Brendan Walsh, Chris Herrinton, Tim Walsh and Brian Fromm, beat eight other teams from throughout the state to clinch first place. Herrinton was also elected to serve as treasurer for the 1985-86 Michigan Junior Classical League Executive Board.

Science team finishes second

A team of eighth-graders from Parcels Middle School finished second in the regional Mathcounts competition held recently at Macomb Community College.

Mathcounts is a cooperative project of the National Society of Professional Engineers, the CNA Insurance Companies, National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics and the National Science Foundation.

MACLD meets at library

The Grosse Pointe Chapter of the Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities will present "Mock I.E.P.C.: A Trip Through the Maze" Tuesday, April 16, at 7:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Central Library.

The Individualized Educational Planning Committee is the parent's chance to be directly involved in planning the most appropriate educational program for a child with a learning disability and is the single most important document a student will have in school, according to the MACLD.

Under state regulations, the superintendent appoints the members of the I.E.P.C. which may include a staff psychologist acting as program supervisor, building administrator, teacher or other school staff, parents and the student, if appropriate.

The group evaluates tests and develops a program to best meet the learning needs of the child. The plan will include evaluation of the child's present status, setting of short- and long-term goals, definition of services needed and a time schedule for both general and special education.

A "good" and "bad" I.E.P.C. will be presented, featuring check points in each to be considered, goals and expectations of parents, and suggestions of how to achieve what you ask for. A discussion, with handouts, will follow.

This is the chapter's last meeting this school year. It is open to the public.

French winner

April Kepler, an eighth-grader at Parcels Middle School, recently took third place in the National French Contest sponsored by the American Association of Teachers of French. More than 475 students took part in the competition.

North to present cabaret

Grosse Pointe North Bands and Orchestra will present the 16th Annual Cabaret Dance and Stage Band Concert Friday, April 19, 8 to 11 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

"This is a family evening," said Nathan C. Judson, instrumental music director. "The band will play a wide variety of dance music from the '20's through the '80's. Guests may get out on the dance floor and dance, or just sit, eat snacks, chat and listen to the good music."

Students will decorate the cafeteria to match their theme, "Saturday In the Park." Tickets, $1.50, are available from any Bands and Orchestra member, by calling 343-2240 (messages 343-2187), or at the door. Senior citizen school district residents are admitted to all Grosse Pointe schools activities without charge.

Grosse Pointe PTA/PTO and Associated Groups Council

The following activities are scheduled through next week in the Grosse Pointe Public School System:

Monday, April 15 — schools reopen

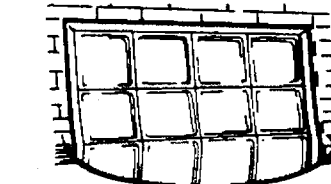

Monday, April 15 — Parent Club meeting at 7:30 p.m. at Trombly

Monday, April 15 — board of education regular meeting at 8 p.m. at Kerby

Wednesday, April 17 — PTO board meetings at 7:30 p.m. at Kerby, Maire and Trombly.

Memorial benefit

The Billy Daniel Memorial Scholarship Fund Committee, in conjunction with Mercy College of Detroit, will sponsor its annual fashion show and dance, "Take Flight: A Fashion Excursion," The benefit show will be held Friday, April 12, at 8 p.m. in McAuley Auditorium at Mercy College followed by an afterglow in the college's Conference Center.

Tickets are $10 each and $6 for students with proper identification. Tickets are tax-deductible. All proceeds will be donated to the Billy Daniel Memorial Scholarship Fund to assist financially disadvantaged students.

The fund was established by students at the college in memory of Billy Daniel, a Mercy student who died recently following an automobile accident in which he was struck by a drunken driver. While at Mercy, Daniel served as a peer counselor for other students and did volunteer work in a swimming and special therapy class for retarded children at the YMCA.

For more information, call 592-6112.

Chinese art

A lecture series for those who have been to China and want to learn more about it, and for those who have only gone there in their dreams, will be offered at the War Memorial on Mondays, April 15, 22 and 29, from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Dr. Stephen Bertman, professor of classical and modern languages, literatures and civilizations at the University of Windsor, will take participants on a color-slide journey of Chinese art and archaeology.

He will show the discoveries made near Peking and in the Gobi Desert that provide clues to the prehistoric origins of a breathtaking civilization. He will talk about the proud emperors and noble ladies of ancient China who continue to live through in eternity. And, in his final lecture, Bertman will discuss the poetry of Chinese art as it is revealed in the majesty of carved jade and in the mystic harmonies of painted landscapes.

The cost for the series of three lectures is $19, or $8 per lecture. For information on how to reserve space, call 881-7511.

Rivertown Review

"Rivertown Review," a slide presentation about Detroit's rapidly growing business area, will be shown Thursday, April 18, at 7:30 p.m. at Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church, 19950 Mack Ave.

The program highlights the new commercial development from the Ambassador Bridge to Belle Isle, and covers the Millender Center, Trappers Alley, the People Mover, Chene Park, the Stroh's project and more.

The evening is sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice as part of its Third Thursday Forum series.

Admission is free and the public is welcome. For more information, call 882-6464.

Scholarship benefit

The Friends of Polish Art of Metropolitan Detroit will present a program of assorted solos and duets by Bach, Persichetti, Jongen, Ravel, Szalido and Chopin at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, 1100 Lakeshore Road, Saturday, April 27, at 8 p.m.

The program will feature Laura Okuniewski, principal harpist of the Cleveland Orchestra, and George Pope, principal flutist of the Akron Symphony Orchestra.

Proceeds will go to the Friends of Polish Art Fine Arts Scholarship. Tickets are $15 and are tax-deductible. For information, call 922-3805 or evenings, 476-6889.

Spring concert

The Grosse Pointe Community Chorus will present its 33rd Annual Spring Concert Sunday, April 21, at 3 p.m. at Parcels Auditorium, Mack and Vernier, Grosse Pointe Woods.

The audience will hear the music of "Michigan Morn" from the folk-opera "Michigan Dream," and "Carousel" by Rodgers and Hammerstein.

Tickets are available at the door at $2 for adults and 75 cents for children. Refreshments will be served after the concert.

For more information, call 886-0710.

The chorus is open to all communities and there are no auditions. Anyone who is interested in joining, who is over 16, can call the above number.

Learn CPR

Learn how to give cardiopulmonary resuscitation in the Heart-saver CPR class at Cottage Hospital, 159 Kercheval Ave. The class will be offered Thursday, April 18, 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in boardrooms A and B.

To register, call 884-8600, ext. 2390. Enrollment is limited.

And all that

... contemporary jazz will be presented at 8 p.m. Saturday, April 20, at the Macomb Center for the Performing Arts by the Larry Nozero Quartet and the New York team of trumpeter Randy Brecker and pianist Eliane Elias Brecker. Tickets are $8 for adults and $6 for students and senior citizens. Tickets may be reserved on credit card by calling 286-2222 weekdays. The center is located on the Center Campus of Macomb Community College at Hall (M-59) and Garfield roads in Clinton Township.

Cinema league

The Grosse Pointe Cinema League will present "An English Essay," a super-8mm movie by Derek Jenkins, when it meets Monday, April 15, at 8 p.m. in the War Memorial's Fries Auditorium, 32 Lakeshore Road.

Some of the leading attractions in London are filmed, such as Buckingham Palace, the horse guards, Westminster, the Tower, and St. Paul's Cathedral, to name a few.

Rural life is photographed in the County of Essex, and in the walled city of Canterbury several castles are visited, from the ruins of Corfe in Dorset to the splendidly preserved Leeds Castle.

The movie ends with a side trip to the Isle of Wight and a tour of Salisbury. Its 700-year-old cathedral is acknowledged to be the purest example of early English architecture in the United Kingdom.

The public is invited to attend. A fee of $1 will be charged to non-Cinema League members.

Western Europe

The Senior Men's Club of Grosse Pointe will present "Let's Cruise Western Europe," a 16mm color film made by Pierre and Elfrida Palmentier, Friday, April 19, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Parcels School at Mack and Vernier.

The movie was made when the Palmentiers joined 100 other members of the Smithsonian Institute on a chartered yacht and followed some of Europe's most famous waterways from Denmark to Portugal.

The cruise traveled through Holland, Belgium, Germany, France and Spain with stops at some of Europe's castles, museums and royal palaces and also includes a visit to the chateaux and wine-growing areas of France.

The film is open to the public. Admission is $1 and includes refreshments after the show.

Ballroom dancing

Ballroom dancing, with emphasis on rhythm, grace, posture and style will be offered at the War Memorial by Ted and Lillian Forest on Monday evenings, April 15 through May 20.

Beginners will meet from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. and will learn the fox trot, waltz, rhumba, cha-cha, swing and some disco maneuvers. Advanced students, who will learn more steps and styling in the above dances, will meet from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Each six-week class costs $18, and participants need not bring a partner.

AARP meeting

The Grosse Pointe AARP Chapter 3430 will meet Monday, April 15, at the Neighborhood Club, 17150 Waterloo at 1:30 p.m.

A U.S. postal inspector will be the guest speaker. There will also be information on a trip in May to the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House and Senior Power Day in Lansing.

Prospective members are welcome. For more information, call Ray Offerman at 884-6795 or Mrs. Hayes at 885-7686.

Las Vegas Night

Bishop Gallagher will host a Las Vegas Night Friday, April 19, from 7 p.m. until 1 a.m. The school is located at 19360 Harper Avenue, near I-94 and Moross Road.

Admission is $3 and early arrivals, between 7 and 8 p.m., will receive two $1 chips. All proceeds will go toward the school's athletic program.

Rummage sale

Christ the King Lutheran Church will hold a rummage sale Friday and Saturday, April 26-27, beginning at 9 a.m. at the church, located at 30338 Mack in the Woods.

Teen workshop

Teens 13 to 17 who would like information on pregnancy, VD or herpes or other subjects can come to Saratoga Community Hospital Monday, April 15, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Clinical social workers Anna Sapern, MSW, CSW, and Gerry Sutton, MSW, CSW, will provide information.

Pre-registration is required for the course. Call 245-1450 for more information and registration. The hospital is located at 15000 Gratiot at State Fair.

PWP meeting

Parents Without Partners, Grosse Pointe Chapter 192, will meet Friday, April 12, at 7:30 p.m. at the K of C Hall on 10 Mile and Little Mack in St. Clair Shores.

Steve Spilos, feature and travel editor of the Northeast Detroit, will present color slides of his film, "Jerusalem and the Holy Land."

An afterglow with dancing, live music and a cash bar will follow. For more information, call the hot line at 881-5892.

Lake discussion

The East Michigan Environmental Action Council will hold a panel discussion, "Lake St. Clair: Changes and Challenges," at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore Road, Monday, April 22, from 7:30 to 9:45 p.m.

Leaders from four citizens' groups and government offices will speak. There is no admission charge.

For more information, call 258-5188.

Library book sale

The Woods Branch of the Grosse Pointe Public Library will hold a used book sale Saturday, April 13, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The library is located at 20600 Mack, at the corner of Eight Mile Road.

Used books, magazines, records and cassettes will be on sale from 10 cents to $2.

Barbershoppers

The Pioneer District of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America will hold its spring convention in Warren April 26-28. The Grosse Pointe chapter will host the event.

About 800 barbershop singers and their family members are expected to attend.

A limited number of tickets for individual events at $6 each are available to the public. Call Jim Kinner at 293-5427 or Ed Sauve at 463-3917 for information.

Adult college week

College Week, a four-day experience in lifelong learning, will be held June 17-20 at Michigan State University in East Lansing. The annual event is sponsored by the MSU Cooperative Extension Service Home Economics program.

More than 60 classes, plus tours, workshops, films, special evening events and other activities are offered.

For a list of classes, costs and scholarship information, call Vanessa L. Harris, Wayne County Extension home economist, at 721-6565. The deadline for registration is June 1.

Piano recital

Detroit-area pianists Doris Eubank and Fontaine Laing will perform a duo-piano recital Tuesday, April 23, at 7:30 p.m. at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House.

The music of J.S. Bach, his oldest son, W.F. Bach, and the Polvetsian Dances by Borodin will be performed.

Tickets are $6.50 at the door and must be reserved by calling 885-7624 or 349-7783.

Piano virtuosos compete this weekend

One of the year's most inspiring musical events takes place this weekend at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. It is the annual piano competition of the Summer Music Festival held each year for young Michigan pianists who are ready to emerge as concert artists.

The preliminaries will be held Saturday, April 13, at 1 p.m. in the Fries Ballroom where the entrants are required to play a work by Bach and a major work of the romantic or impressionistic eras of music.

In the finals, which begin at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 14, the required repertoire is a sonata by Beethoven, a contemporary work and a concerto in the popular repertoire.

The public is invited both days. Jurors are Mischa Kottler, Felix Resnick, and noted concert pianists Fedora Horowitz and Flavio Varani.

At stake is more than $2,000 in cash and fees, and two local concert engagements—a recital in the Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival, to be held Monday, July 15, and a concerto performance next spring with the Grosse Pointe Symphony. The principal award is a $1,000 grant from the Michigan Foundation for the Arts which makes this competition possible.

Every year since the competition began four years ago, as many as 30 pianists ranging in age up to 32 request admission to the competition, submit proposed repertoires and prepare to perform. Noteworthy among this year's group is 10-year-old Ruth Ann Maguire of Detroit whose repertoire will include Moussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition," Beethoven's first piano concerto and a major Haydn sonata. Miss Maguire was granted special admission to the competition as an outstanding musical prodigy.

Equally intriguing is Francois Nezwazky, of Livonia, who has been a performing artist in New Year for the past three years since completing studies at the University of Michigan, Interlochen, Eastern Michigan University and the Michigan Conservatory of Music. His contest repertoire lists a Chopin Barcarolle, Sonatas by Beethoven and Prokofiev and the Mozart Piano Concerto No. 25 in C.

A third is David Strickland, who is currently studying at Wayne State University with a performance scholarship. In the competition he will perform a Chopin Etude, and the Rachmaninoff first piano concerto to meet two of the repertoire requirements.

Tickets are $3 for the preliminaries, $1.50 for students; and $5 for the finals, $2.50 for students. Combined ticket price for both days is $6 and $3 for students. They are available at the door or may be reserved by calling 881-7511.

Council of Sponsors board members who have put together a special Woman to Woman Forum are, from left, Kay Healy, Georgiann Henritz, Clare Kay and Wanda Lincoln. The forum will be held Tuesday, April 16, at 7:30 p.m. and will include a symposium of experts on timely topics.

Forum for women to focus on timely topics

As a result of community input, the War Memorial's Council of Sponsors will present a special Woman to Woman Forum Tuesday, April 16, from 7 to 10 p.m.

The forum, called "Changes and Challenges," will focus on five topics: Being Single Again: A Fresh Start, to be led by psychotherapist Brenda Beron; Menopause: Fact and Fiction, to be led by internist Lyla Leipzig; How to Cope With Cancer, with Michigan Cancer Foundation information coordinator Jane Hoey; Aging Parents: Final Chapters, with social worker Audrey Wasserman; and How and Why to Form a Support Group, with psychologist Virginia Sargent.

The evening will begin with a brief introduction to each topic. Participants will then break up into separate groups of their choice.

Each group will be facilitated by one of the professionals, plus a woman from the community who has had practical experience with the topic. At the end of the evening participants will have the opportunity to express interest in forming support groups.

The purpose of the forum, co-chaired by Clare Kay, Wanda Lincoln, Kay Healy and Georgiann Henritz, is to dispense current information on timely topics, to share experiences and to give support.

Tickets, which are $6 per person, may be purchased at the door, but early reservations are suggested. For additional information, call the War Memorial at 881-7511.

Photo workshop

A photo workshop of 13 sessions, given by Joseph P. Messana, will begin Saturday, April 13. The color slide course will stress composition and how to see a picture. The on-location sessions include a visit to the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House and a sailboat race on Lake St. Clair.

For information, call 773-5815 during business hours.

cuttings or logs on private property. c) Some method for preventing Dutch elm disease spread by root grafting."

The plant pathologist who recommended the continuation of the tree-spraying program, Dr. Harrison Morton of the School of Natural Resources at the University of Michigan, attended the meeting. He supported a report written by William Romzick, who was employed by the city as a forester last summer. Romzick, a graduate student in urban planning at U of M and also a Park resident, will again be working for the city this summer supervising the tree removal program, according to James Ellison, director of the Public Service Department.

Romzick's report stated: "In order to have an effective control program, a holistic approach must be used such as spraying, pruning, removal and therapeutic treatments together. No program can be successful using only one or very few of the elements."

City Manager John Crawford said the council decided to continue with the program for this year, because of "broad community concern."

Mrs. Brierly won't run for re-election more important thing a school board does is select the best possible person to run the district. At the time I thought, 'Oh, come on, the board has to do something more important than that,' Mrs. Brierly said. "Now I know that little boardmanship book was right. The most important thing we try to do is pick the best person for the job of running the schools."

Mrs. Brierly was first appointed to the school board in December 1979 to fill the resignation of Ann Ardussi. She won election to the board in 1981.

She talked about her accomplishments as things the board had done.

"One person doesn't make changes all by themselves. An individual board member doesn't accomplish much on their own, but working together as a group, I think you do accomplish things," she said.

One of the things that has happened in her tenure on the board was the decision to close the first school because of declining enrollment. It was for that decision she and two other trustees faced recall, an attempt that failed.

In her statement, Mrs. Brierly said that "as board members we often have to make decisions that are difficult and unpopular. We have to look at how the consequences of these decisions affect our whole community. But most importantly, we have to look at the educational benefits to our young people."

The recall's virulence didn't affect her decision to step down, Mrs. Brierly said. "You can't let the nastiness get to you. I don't think nastiness is the right word... But the last year did create a feeling of togetherness on the board; a coming together for the good of the community."

Another thing the board had accomplished in her six years is fairness to local taxpayers, Mrs. Brierly said. The district has never levied the maximum amount allowed by state law and one year held the taxes to a zero-increase, she added.

The district has seen great changes at the high schools, both in curriculum and the seven-period day, she said.

The school closing controversy brought to the district "a realization of declining enrollment" and the need to address the issue not only in terms of school buildings but the administration of the district, Mrs. Brierly said.

"It is my hope that this board and the community together in a spirit of cooperation continue to study the effects of declining enrollment," she said in her statement.

"We are entering a new era in our school system next week when we welcome the arrival of Dr. John Whritner as our new superintendent. I was pleased to be a part of the search committee that helped in his selection. I am confident that public education in Grosse Pointe will be in safe and sued among council members and Clerk-Controller Nunzio Ortisi over how much surplus was expected at the end of the fiscal year, June 30. Ortisi estimated a surplus of $150,000, after allowing for about $400,000 to implement the new budget through next year.

Valente, who had not been at the April 1 meeting, apologized for his absence and asked, "Why are we spraying this year and discontinuing next year?"

After Heenan and Ausherman explained their decision, Valente said, "I understand your feelings, but to make a decision that spraying is not good and then to throw good money after bad..."

Resident William Farrant said, "I find myself in the uncomfortable position of agreeing with Mr. Valente for once. You have $16,000 and you want to take the time to educate mostly college-educated people. It looks suspiciously not like a managerial position, but strictly political. Plant trees, save money and put it where it will do good." That precipitated a question by Heenan to the city attorney on the correct procedure to reconsider the vote.

"I would be against it," Heenan capable hands with Dr. Whritner at the helm.

"I wish him and my fellow board members great success in continuing to improve our already excellent school system," she added.

Board President Joan Hanpeter thanked Mrs. Brierly for her service on the board, adding "we on the board respect your decision but we will certainly miss you."

Board Vice President Jon Gandelot said Mrs. Brierly was often considered the "mothers' representative" on the board. "You're always getting out in the community and finding out what's happening," he told her.

Mrs. Brierly often uses the time afforded board members to comment on various items at each meeting to announce upcoming school events.

In a lighter vein, trustee Fred Adams said Mrs. Brierly "makes a great traveling companion when you're looking for a new superintendent." Gandelot noted jokingly that there were three months left in her term and the board expected her "90 days of work."

Mrs. Hanpeter quipped that Mrs. Brierly may hold a record in the district; "three campaigns in six years."

Mrs. Brierly's decision leaves only incumbent Dr. Ernest Buechler seeking re-election to the board. All four board hopefuls — Buechler, Carl Anderson, Carol Marr and Cynthia Pangborn — will try to be the two top vote-getters in the June 30 election.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

The Women's Association for the Grosse Pointe Symphony is the host group for the Michigan Orchestra Volunteers' Association's Spring Conference, set for Tuesday, Apr. 30, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. The day will feature a morning workshop in which volunteers and board members evaluate their organizations and their place in them. Organizational guideline materials will be distributed, and there will be a question-and-answer period.

Conducting the seminar will be Eleanor "Coco" Siewert, parliamentarian and board member of many Detroit area municipal, church and philanthropic organizations.

A Problem Solving Roundtable is on the post-luncheon agenda. This is rather like a duplicate bridge session: participants in small groups "solve" problem cases, then review their decisions with their peers and a panel of orchestra experts from all over Michigan.

Pat Young, a member of the Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra board of directors, is chairing the conference. It's open to men and women, at $15 for the day. Pat may be reached at 886-6829 or 886-6970 for further information.

The Michigan Orchestra Volunteers' Association is an umbrella group representing 19 orchestra volunteer organizations around the state. Its current president is Debbie Tischler, of Bedford Road, who, like her fellow Pointer Pat Young, is a past-president of the Detroit Symphony League.

The conference committee includes Mary Evelyn Self, president, and Mary Baynert, vice-president of the Pointe Symphony Women; Mary Nolan (886-6244), in charge of reservations; Sylvia Rutkowski, in charge of the luncheon; Elly Bundesen, in charge of name tags and decorations; and Alice Reisig and Helen Wiseman, in charge of hostesses.

International Dance Festival

A special patron reception will recognize the teamwork of several metropolitan area residents, among them Grosse Pointe's Kim and Mado Lie, for their dedication to ethnicity and international understanding. The reception will be held in conjunction with the International Institute of Metropolitan Detroit's annual International Dance Festival, sponsored by Northland Center, running from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Sunday, Apr. 28, at Northland.

It's an extravaganza of ethnic dance, on two stages, offering performances by more than 20 metropolitan area groups ranging from the Tagumpay Filipino Dance Ensemble to Tim O'Hare's Irish Step Dancers, from the Sarisan-Slovak Folk Ensemble to the Troupe Ta-amullat Arabic Dancers, from the Studio of African Dance Philosophy to the Mexican Ballet Folklorico de Corktown.

Classic foods to complement classic fashions

Pictured above are committee members for the American Association of University Women Grosse Pointe Branch fund-raiser "Classic Foods and Fashions," to be held on Thursday, Apr. 25, at noon in Grosse Pointe Memorial Church Fellowship Hall, who got together a while back to confer about recipes and sample some of the salads and desserts they plan to prepare for the event. At work on this pleasant chore are (left to right) SANDRA SHAUMAN, VIKI ADIK, chairperson SYBIL JAKQUES, KAREN KNUDSON and GAIL GUARESIMO. Others on the committee are Julie Demchak, Suzanne Goodwin, Marion Hopson, Sandra Lowden, Nancy McCaffrey, Diane McCormack, Glorie Stonisch, Anita Unger and Linda Pankhurst. In addition to a buffet table loaded with tasty foods, the event, which is open to the public, will feature a selection of classic clothes from Miner's Grosse Pointe, modeled by AAUW members, and a mini-concert of Broadway classics sung by the AAUW Chorus under the direction of Mary Jane Starnes. Admission is $5 per person, by advance paid reservation only; deadline is next Tuesday, Apr. 16. Checks should be made payable and mailed to Grosse Pointe AAUW, 936 Lakeshore Road, Grosse Pointe, Mich. 48236; please do not send cash. Proceeds will help to defray local branch expenses. The number to call for additional information is 881-1180.

April's food outlook is sunny; meat's a good buy this month

The April food outlook is sunny in more ways than one. Prices for beef, pork and broilers are all down from a year ago — and supplies of fresh vegetables are getting back to normal.

Several factors are responsible for lower-than-expected meat prices. Supplies of fed cattle are relatively high, pork supplies are greater than anticipated and broiler production is up this quarter. The meat pipeline is full, and overall price movement will be negligible this month.

Shoppers will, however, see the demand for quick-cooking, tender cuts pushed up this month and next. Now is a good time to stock up on such cuts as rib steaks and sirloins, if you have the money and freezer space. All tender beef cuts will almost certainly be priced higher by Memorial Day.

Egg prices have strengthened. But market analysts expect prices to decline after Easter, so buy now for current needs only.

Fresh vegetables will be coming through in greater quantities this month. A good volume of spring potatoes, carrots, cabbage, celery and onions is expected.

Florida shipments of sweet corn will whet Michiganians' appetites for the homegrown variety later in the season. Lettuce quality and prices are likely to be variable, but salad vegetables — cucumbers, green peppers, radishes and green onions — will continue to be featured often.

Fruit choices are more extensive, shoppers will find.

Grand Marais Questers busy

A very special meeting is in store for the Grand Marais Chapter of Questers when members gather tomorrow, Friday, Apr. 12, at the Whittier Towers home of Mrs. Cornelius Egan who will be assisted by co-hostess Mrs. Robert Lucas. The group will be celebrating the upcoming (May 4) marriage of Louise Wright, daughter of chapter member Mrs. Charles Wright, and Curtis Leibbrand, son of chapter member Mrs. Keith Leibbrand.

Grand Marais' officers for 1985-86 will be installed in a special ceremony, with Mrs. Michael Brennan of the Fox Creek Chapter, first vice-president of the National Questers, presiding.

The newly-elected officers are Mrs. Wyman Barrett, president, Mrs. Daniel Brown and Mrs. Howard Draper, first and second vice-presidents, respectively, Mrs. John Makara, treasurer, Mrs. L.J. Tibbitts and Mrs. Leibbrand, recording and corresponding secretaries, respectively.

Mrs. Carl Kasza, president of the Windmill Pointe Questers, who has had a life-long interest in miniatures and jeweled keepsakes, will present a slide lecture on Faberge and discuss other aspects of his work in addition to his popular Easter Eggs.

New members Mrs. Tibbitts and Mrs. E.J. Stedem were welcomed at Grand Marais' March meeting. A mystery trip is to be the group's May program, and plans are underway to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the chapter's founding in June, when husbands will be invited to a potluck supper at the home of Mrs. Urban Boesch. Mrs. Joseph Thompson is preparing a program on the History of Grosse Pointe.

At the conclusion of tomorrow's meeting, the group will go to Greektown for lunch. Pointe members wishing to share rides to the Whittier will rendezvous at the Merriweather Road home of Mrs. Charles Fisher.

Grace United will host sale

Handicrafts, greeting cards, white elephants, jewelry and attic treasures will be featured at the bake sale and luncheon running from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. tomorrow, Friday, Apr. 12, at Grace United Church of Christ, located on Kercheval Avenue at Lakepointe.

Catholic Women assemble in April

Theme for the Council of Catholic Women, Archdiocese of Detroit, annual assembly to be conducted Wednesday, Apr. 24, at Sacred Heart Seminary is "Is It I, Lord?" Registration begins at 8:30 a.m.

The morning program will be devoted to two concurrent workshops highlighting the work of the council's six commissions. His Excellency The Most Reverend Edmund C. Szoka will celebrate the liturgy at 11 a.m., with The Reverend Ricardo Bass giving the homily.

Archbishop Szoka will be the keynote speaker at the luncheon during which annual awards will be presented to five council-affiliated organizations. A business session follows, and the day's events conclude at 2:30 p.m.

Registration and luncheon fee is $15. Deadline for luncheon reservations was Wednesday, Apr. 10. Further information may be obtained by calling the CCW/AD office, 237-5896.

WSU Med School's FRIENDS are busy

Spring is a busy season for the FRIENDS of Wayne State University School of Medicine, who gather Saturday, Apr. 20, at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club for their annual dinner dance. Festivities start at 7 p.m. with cocktails. Music will be by the Tony Dannon Trio.

Official hostesses for the evening include the FRIENDS' past-presidents, among them a pair of Pointe residents, Mrs. L. Murray Thomas (1976-78) and Mrs. Paul Rubel (1982), and the present president, Mrs. C. Jackson France, also of The Pointe.

The party is open to the public, by reservation, at $22.50 per person. Reservation deadline is Monday, Apr. 15. Reservations may be made by calling 577-1460.

The FRIENDS' annual meeting is scheduled for a few days later, on Tuesday, Apr. 23, at the WSU Hilberry Theatre at 11 a.m. Highlight of the "Backstage at the Hilberry" program will be a tour of the Production Center, where all sets and costumes will be displayed.

Wine and luncheon will follow a short general meeting. The number to call for more information is 577-1460.

And the following day, Wednesday, Apr. 24, the FRIENDS open their annual two-day used book sale in WSU's Gordon H. Scott Hall of Basic Science. It will run from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Apr. 24, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday, Apr. 25.

Donations of all types of books are needed to make this event successful. Books to be donated may be brought directly to the school, or arrangements to have them picked up may be made by contacting Ruth Taylor at 577-1168.

AWC will feature 'Megatrends' film

The Detroit Metropolitan Chapter of the Association for Women in Computing (AWC) will meet next Wednesday, Apr. 17, at Computware Corporation on Telegraph Road in Birmingham for light refreshments, served at 6:30 p.m., and a 7 p.m. showing of the film "Megatrends." Further information may be obtained by calling 456-4444 or 588-5404.

GPYC is setting for Pointe ABWA

Sally LePla, founder and president of J.L. Communications Ltd., a public relations firm, will be guest speaker at the American Business Women's Association Grosse Pointe Chapter meeting next Wednesday, Apr. 17, at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

The program also will include installation of nine new members and the annual election of the chapter's Woman of the Year.

ABWA, which currently has over 105,000 members nationally, is an educational association. The awarding of scholarships is one of its key programs. Further information on the local chapter and its activities may be obtained by contacting Ann Newman at 882-3860, days.

YWCA will hold meeting at DAC

Dr. Gwendolyn Calvert Baker, executive director of the YWCA of the USA, will be keynote speaker at the YWCA of Metropolitan Detroit's 92nd annual meeting Saturday, Apr. 20, at the Detroit Athletic Club. She will be guest of honor at an 11:15 a.m. reception preceding the annual meeting luncheon at noon.

Reservations for the program, at $25 per person, may be made by calling any of the six Metropolitan Detroit YWCA offices or Metropolitan Headquarters, 961-9220, Extension 15.

GP Lawyers' Wives setting sail for spring

"Hoist the Main!" "Trim the Jib!" "Come About!" These nautical terms come easily and frequently these days to Grosse Pointe Lawyers' Wives' lips as they set the theme of "Sailing into Spring" for their annual fashion show/luncheon.

A local private club with an unbeatable view of Lake St. Clair will welcome 300 Lawyers' Wives' guests next Wednesday, Apr. 17. They'll watch a parade of latest spring fashions, from Walton-Pierce of Grosse Pointe, and enjoy an elegant luncheon built around seafood salad supreme.

Quester focus on Baccarat

Mrs. Derrill Mannle will open her Shores home to members of the Grosse Pointe Chapter of Questers tomorrow, Friday, Apr. 12, at 10 a.m. and will present the program, "Baccarat — The Crystal of Kings," reviewing the history of the famous crystal company from its founding in 1765 in Baccarat, France.

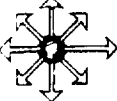

Today, well into its third century, Baccarat has survived the French Revolution, the Napoleonic Wars, various foreign invasions and two World Wars. Interior shots of the Baccarat factory and museum will highlight Bonnie Mannle's presentation.

Mrs. Mannle's other activities and interests include volunteer and docent services at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. She is second vice-president of the Grosse Pointe Woman's Club and a member of the Alliance Francaise, Grosse Pointe Garden Center, Grosse Pointe Symphony Women's Association and Grosse Pointe Cinema League.

She will be assisted at tomorrow's meeting by co-hostesses Mrs. Pierre Palmentier and Mrs. Frederick Schumann.

They promise a Captain Kidd's Treasure Chest of prizes, ranging from a get-away weekend for two (more, and you're not really "getting away," are you?) in the Grand Traverse Bay area to an evening sail on Lake St. Clair aboard the 51-foot yacht Dragon Lady, from boxes of wine to four box seats for a Detroit Tigers game.

Tickets for the fund raiser, which is open to the public, are $17.50 per person and may be obtained by sending checks, payable to Grosse Pointe Lawyers' Wives, to Mrs. Kenny at 970 Shoreham Road, Grosse Pointe Woods, Mich. 48236.

Proceeds are earmarked for the Family Life Education Council, the Wayne County Juvenile Home and Grosse Pointe's "Safe Ride" program. The number to call for further information is 886-1643.

April sessions at Assumption

This month's programs at Assumption Cultural Center, located on Marter Road, include a "Cooking Naturally-Fish" session running from 1 to 3 p.m. Monday, Apr. 15. Chef Diane Watt will demonstrate methods of broiling, poaching and baking a variety of fish dishes, such as stuffed flounder with broccoli, Oysters Rockefeller and orange roughly in filo dough. Fee is $10.

Ultima Salon swings into spring with new hairstyles, make-up and fashions at Assumption on Tuesday, Apr. 16. James Orlando and Olga Tsielos, of Ultima, and Deborah E. Dircze, fashion editor of Grosse Pointe's new Heritage magazine, will conduct the 7 to 9 p.m. program. Fee is $5.

A Silk Flower Arranging class will run on two Wednesdays, Apr. 17 and 24. Fee is $14, plus supplies. Further information on this and all Assumption activities may be obtained by calling 779-6111.

Woman's Club sets election

The Grosse Pointe Woman's Club has scheduled its annual election of officers for next Wednesday, Apr. 17, at 12:30 p.m. in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Crystal Ballroom. Members and guests will gather for tea before the afternoon program, which will feature the Choral Group of the Senior Men's Club of Grosse Pointe.

Mrs. Henri Gelders, social chairman, and her assistant, Mrs. Phil Saverino, will serve as tea hostesses. The Mesdames Paul T. Chapman, James T. Fitzpatrick, Book Review Group to meet

The Book Review Group of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church will meet next Tuesday, Apr. 16, at 1 p.m. after a noon luncheon, to hear Mary Ann Evans, director of Christian Education at the church, review "The Second Self: Computers and the Human Spirit" by Sherry Turkle.

Ms. Turkle has done an extensive study of the effects computers are having on human development, for computers call into question what it means to be human and make the answers to that question more and more difficult to define.

Young children have provided some good answers. What answers will the church provide, and how will that message affect human development?

Visitors are welcome at both the review and the luncheon preceding it, but luncheon reservations are requested. They may be made by calling 882-5330. Child care is available.

Girl Scouts to celebrate

Girl Scout leaders, troop committees and service teams from the Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods area will be celebrating "The Good Olde Days" next Thursday, Apr. 18, at a 12:15 p.m. salad luncheon and awards ceremony at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

Neighborhoods 13, 14 and 15 from Grosse Pointe and Neighborhood 11 from Harper Woods are invited to the awards luncheon which honors those who have given outstanding services to Girl Scouting throughout the year.

Hostesses and coordinators this year are leaders from Neighborhood 13 which encompasses Ferry, Mason, Our Lady Star of the Sea, Parcels and Grosse Pointe North High School. Co-chairpersons are Carol McKenzie and Catherine Pentis.

Team members, leaders and committee persons will receive their awards at the conclusion of the luncheon.

Woods Garden Club lunches

Members of the Grosse Pointe Woods Garden Club gathered for luncheon in a private dining room at Hudson's Eastland at noon on Tuesday, Apr. 2, each selecting her meal from the regular menu. The afternoon program included a short business session.

Spring shows at Youtheatre

The Detroit Youtheatre family entertainment calendar lists three upcoming April shows in its "Something Every Saturday" schedule of 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. performances in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium.

A live musical special, "The Good Time Mime," brings O.J. Anderson to the Youtheatre stage to clown and talk his way through an hour of stories and sight gags this Saturday, Apr. 13. His program is for ages 7 through adult. Children under 5 will not be admitted to the auditorium.

Young people's recording star folk singer Barry Polisar headlines another musical special, for ages 5 and up, the following Saturday, Apr. 20, presenting a selection of "Songs for Rebellious Children" from his dozen albums.

The month closes with a live musical play, "Young Tom Edison," with many special effects, on Saturday, Apr. 27. This, too, is for ages 5 and up. Children under 5 will not be admitted to the auditorium for either the Polisar or the Tom Edison program.

General admission tickets for all Youtheatre performances at $3 for children and adults ($2 each in groups of 10 or more) may be purchased in advance through the DIA ticket office, 832-2730 during regular business hours, and at the door.

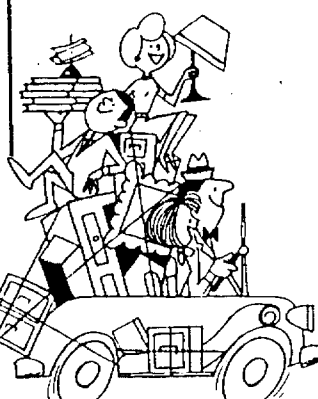

Youtheatre's October through May season includes live, professional musicals, plays, puppet shows and films and offers birthday parties, "Wiggle Club" shows for families with children ages 3 to 8, free, guided backstage tours, young people's club and community organization Salute Days and many special events. A detailed Youtheatre schedule is available at the museum ticket office.

Winning young women

It will feature the United States debut of the Shanghai Ballet's internationally-famous Hui-Fang Mao.

There'll be ethnic foods prepared by gourmet chefs in a special international festival atmosphere. Admission is $12.50, including valet parking, four ethnic dishes, wine, dessert, coffee and all entertainment. Tickets are available at CTC/Ticket World outlets, all Hudson's ticket offices, AAA Branch Offices and the International Institute, where further information may be obtained by calling 871-8600 during business hours.

Speaking of dance . . . if you were one of the lucky ones who caught an American Ballet Theatre performance of "Romeo and Juliet" at Masonic Temple Auditorium in late March, you know you really were a lucky one! My performance, on Friday night, starred Leslie Browne and Robert La Fosse in what was, quite simply, the most beautiful thing I ever saw. Forget a critique, for I'm not capable of giving one: ABT's "Romeo and Juliet" audiences don't observe the ballet — they live it.

'Surv' at the Ford House

The Alliance Francaise de Grosse Pointe has invited Monique Wagner, Ph.D., whose degree is from Columbia University, to give a "Surv'ol de l'histoire de France" (an overview of French history) at its meeting next Wednesday, Apr. 17, at 7:30 p.m. at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House.

Dr. Wagner is an assistant professor of French at Wayne State University. Her special fields are the History of French Civilization and 17th Century French Literature. Her book on playwright Moliere was published in the mid-70s.

She will supplement her talk for the Pointe Alliance with colored slides from her extensive personal collection, showing outstanding examples of art and architecture. She will speak mostly in French, with a few clarifications in English.

A champagne and sweets reception will follow her program, which is free to Alliance members, with a suggested $5 donation for non-members . . . but admission is by advance reservation only, and reservation deadline is next Monday, Apr. 15. Reservations may be made by calling 886-9102 or 885-4313. Those who arrive punctually will find they have time for a brief tour of the main floor of the Ford House.

An Irish Cottage; Greece Re-Visited

You begin at 10 a.m., with a pre-cut kit. You add stucco outer walls, a fieldstone chimney, doors, windows, a thatched roof, basic landscaping. You end at 3 p.m. with a traditional Irish cottage in 1/4-inch scale, created under the direction of last Christmas' "Pointer of Interest" Terry Henson, Grosse Pointe's Mistress of Miniatures.

A sample of the cottage you'll build in Terry's workshop next Tuesday, Apr. 16, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial is on view now in the War Memorial's main lobby. Cost of the workshop is $8, plus approximately $30 for the kit you can get from Terry on the day of the class.

You're supposed to bring your own glue, scissors and sack lunch. Anything else you want to know? The number to call for additional information is 881-7511.

Greece and the Greek Isles, Turkey and Istanbul will be in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial spotlight next Thursday, Apr. 18, when Kay Welchenbach, a member of the War Memorial's Service League, presents a special color slide journey at 1 p.m.

Many of the slides were taken on a 1979 War Memorial tour that brought more than 180 Pointers to that region. Kay says the presentation is ideal for those who have been to Greece and would like to re-live their own journeys, as well as for those who plan/want to go there in the future.

Her slide program will be followed by tea, and is open to the public. Proceeds from the $4 admission charge will go toward War Memorial restoration projects. Tickets may be purchased in advance and at the door.

Phase I plans colorful night

Harriet Isreal, consultant with "Color Me Beautiful" and "Color for Men," will speak on wardrobe planning and clothing personality at a meeting of Phase I, the group of single, young adults, ages 25 to 40, who gather regularly for Sunday evening programs at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, this Sunday, Apr. 14, at 7:45 p.m.

She will select a man and woman from the audience on which to demonstrate the color analysis process and how knowing the right colors to select can make you look your best within your budget.

Her presentation would cost approximately $200 if one were to have a personal color analysis, wardrobe planning, clothing personality, figure analysis and make-up application consultation. Phase I offers it at a special meeting price of $3.

Phase I has scheduled another bowling night at Harbor Lanes, Jefferson Avenue near 10 Mile Road, for tomorrow, Friday, Apr. 12. Play begins promptly at 9:30 p.m.

Miss Rossetti wed in March

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rossetti entertained at a reception at their Lakeview Court home following the wedding of their daughter, Andrea Jean, and Eric Thomas Hollerbach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Hollerbach, who moved recently from Lewiston Road to Bedford Lane.

Presiding at the 10:30 o'clock ceremony Saturday, March 2, in Saint Paul's-on-the-Lake was The Reverend Father John Gaughan, a friend of the Rossetti family, chaplain and treasurer of Assumption University, Windsor, Ont.

The communion gifts were brought to the altar by the bride's brother, Matthew Rossetti, and the bridegroom's sisters, Mrs. Richard Nix, Mrs. Jon Soms, Joan and Kate Hollerbach.

For her marriage, the former Miss Rossetti selected a satinsashed, Victorian-style gown, fashioned with a high collar and leg-of-mutton sleeves, in ivory Alencon lace trimmed with re-embroidered lace at the hem of the overblouse and the tea length skirt.

She wore fresh baby's-breath in her hair and carried a cascade of white Alba lilies and English ivy.

She was attended by her sisters, Dina Leigh Rossetti, of San Diego, Calif., and Miga Christina Rossetti, a University of Michigan student, in identical Laura Ashley dresses of cranberry-colored heavy cotton jacquard, their scoop necklines extending into a deep V in back, carrying arrangements of rubrum lilies and ivy.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Marc Hollerbach, and Donald McKenzie. They also ushered.

A beaded collar accented the

Mr. and Mrs. Eric T. Hollerbach

long-sleeved dress of taupe silk, styled with a flared skirt, that Mrs. Rossetti selected for her daughter's wedding. The bridegroom's mother chose a drape-necked, drop-waisted dress of periwinkle blue silk.

After the ceremony and reception, the newlyweds left for a two-week skiing vacation in Switzerland. Special guests included the bride's grandmothers, Mrs. George Clapp, of Mount Pleasant, and Mrs. Louis Rossetti, a former Pointe resident who now makes her home in Laguna Hills, Calif., and the bridegroom's godmother, Mrs. Irene Kerrigan, of New York City.

Summer rites for Dena Hull

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnard Hull III, of Lancaster, Pa., formerly of Grosse Pointe, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Dena Darden Hull, to Michael John Walker, son of Ralph W. Walker, of Littleton, Colo., and the late Catherine Walker. An August wedding is planned.

The bride-to-be, granddaughter of Mrs. Ford Whelden, of Norich, Vt., attended New England College, Henniker, N.H., and Sussex, England, and received her Bachelors degree from the Boston University School of Nursing. She is employed by Hospice of Lancaster County as a nursing coordinator.

Her fiancé holds a Bachelors degree from the University of Maine, Orono, and is studying for a Masters degree in Business and American History at Claremont Graduate School, Claremont, Calif.

Fall wedding date is made

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Pearson, of East Lansing, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Diane Elizabeth, to Leonard J. Bartoszewicz, son of Dr. and Mrs. Leonard Bartoszewicz, of Kerby Road. The wedding is planned for early October, at the Michigan State University Alumni Memorial Chapel in East Lansing.

The bride-elect was graduated from East Lansing High School and holds a degree in Economics from the University of Michigan. She is employed by Kemper Financial Services in Chicago as a regional sales director.

Her fiancé was graduated from Grosse Pointe South High School, received his degree in Biology from the University of Michigan and is currently in his third year at Northwestern University Dental School.

Sell rummage at St. James

WSU to show art of undergraduates

The Wayne State University Department of Art and Art History's annual undergraduate exhibition opens tomorrow, Friday, Apr. 12, with a 6 to 8 p.m. reception in WSU's Community Arts Gallery. The exhibit includes advertising design, ceramics, drawing, metal-smithing, painting, photography, printmaking and sculpture. It will run for two weeks, through Friday, Apr. 26. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Dinner & program for Health Nurses

Reservations for the Detroit Association of Occupational Health Nurses' monthly meeting on Thursday, Apr. 25, at 6 p.m. at the Engineering Society of Detroit may be made by contacting Jane Darrow, R.N., at 575-0170 before Monday, Apr. 22.

Barbara Silverstein, Ph.D., of the University of Michigan, will speak on "Ergonomics of Cumulative Disorders, Part III, Physical Assessment."

Carnegie Hall date for DSO

Music Director Gunther Herbig will conduct the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in its first New York appearance since 1981 at Carnegie Hall at 8 p.m. on Friday, Apr. 19, leading Mahler's Symphony No. 6. Completing the program is Tchaikovsky's Variations on a Roccoco Theme, played by young Brazilian cellist Antonio Meneses.

Following the Carnegie Hall concert, on Saturday, Apr. 20, the DSO, Herbig and Meneses travel to Middletown, N.Y., for a concert that includes Bach's Suite No. 1, the Tchaikovsky Roccoco Variations and Brahms' Symphony No. 4.

Present 'Aida' in mid-April

Michigan Opera Theatre concludes its 1985-86 season with performances of Giuseppe Verdi's grand opera "Aida" on Thursday, Apr. 18, and Saturday, Apr. 20, in the Masonic Temple Auditorium.

An internationally-acclaimed cast will be featured, including Metropolitan Opera star Leona Mitchell, soprano, in her first North American portrayal of the title role, heldentenor James McCracken as Radames and mezzo-soprano Bianca Berini as Amneris.

"Aida," the second grand opera production presented by MOT at Masonic Temple, is one of the most ambitious projects ever undertaken by the company. Its artistic staff and cast includes more than 300 singers, dancers, supernumeraries and orchestra musicians.

Michigan Bell Telephone and Ameritech Publishing, Inc., who sponsored MOT's opening performance of "Anna Bolena" last season at the Masonic Temple, will sponsor the opening night of "Aida." Remaining tickets for both performances, ranging in price from $15 to $37.50, may be ordered and charged to a credit card by calling the MOT Subscription Hotline, 963-0920. MOT's premiere presentation of "Aida" is already 75 percent sold-out.

"Aida" will be sung in Italian and will be presented with the English translation and projection above the proscenium developed by the San Francisco Opera and referred to as Supertitles.

NEW ON THE MARKET!

Designed by Yamasaki and hidden away on a one and six tenths acre wooded lot at the end of a secluded cul-de-sac, this architectural gem is one of the Pointe's most distinguished homes. The large windows and attractive atrium bring abundant light into the house even on cloudy days. The ingeniously designed floor plan allows for family activities or entertaining while simultaneously affording privacy in other areas. Economical use of space is achieved by the extensive use of built-in cabinets and drawers. Six-seven bedrooms - five baths - family room - wood deck and much more. Located in the Farms, the Yamasaki name, its location and superb design make this a great investment as well as a fine family home.

This classic center hall brick Colonial has an equally classic interior finished in natural woodwork. The family room was added in 1978. The furnace was new in 1981 and the hot water heater in 1980. Large room sizes. Three bedrooms, one and one half baths.

This beautiful brick ranch is well located in an area of meticulously well maintained homes. The family room has a natural fireplace, parquet floors and a doorwall leading to a patio. Three bedrooms and one and one half baths.

This charming Dutch Colonial has been freshly painted and plastered and is ready for you to move in. Three bedrooms, breakfast room and den. It's located within walking distance of Village shops.

This nicely proportioned bungalow has an updated kitchen, a new furnace ('81), a glass enclosed porch and covered patio. Two bedrooms and one bath.

A big apple for a grand U-D teacher

Is it possible for a serious scientist, trained to work in a sterile laboratory among rows of test tubes, to become The Great Communicator?

According to students and colleagues at the University of Detroit School of Dentistry, Park resident John Molinari is just that man. They recently honored him with the 1984-85 U. of D. President's Award for Excellence in Teaching and Research, given by the university to one special teacher on its faculty each year.

It's the first time in the award's seven-year history that it has been given to a dental professor.

Trained as a microbiologist and an expert in infectious diseases including herpes and AIDS, Dr. Molinari leaned to relish teaching when it was part of his training while taking his Ph.D. at the University of Pittsburgh. He came to the University of Detroit in 1977 and became chairman of the Department of Microbiology and Biochemistry at the Dental School.

"I love the lab, but there is nothing as satisfying as teaching," he says. "Every student learns differently, and to be an effective teacher you have to respond to those different needs. That's the challenge I try to meet every day."

Molinari has been praised for meeting that challenge by helping his students bridge the gap between basic science and the clinical science of dentistry. This leaves them with a clearer idea of the scientific concepts behind the practice of dentistry.

Students and colleagues also say it is his openness that makes Dr. Molinari a beloved teacher—open-minded, openly honest, with an open-door policy to his students. It's also the showman in him that keeps his audience wide awake and good humored at an 8 a.m. lecture in microbiology.

"I really believe that when students graduate they take part of us with them. Not only do they carry the name of the school with them, but they are products of the faculty's input. We teachers owe it to the students to give them the best part of us."

Always the communicator, Molinari is a sought-after speaker by many professional dental and medical associations. He is a popular student choice for social and academic activities, just as he is sought by his fellow faculty to serve on almost every important committee of the Dental School.

Park resident Dr. John Molinari, recipient of the 1984-85 University of Detroit President's Award for Excellence in Teaching and Research.

But his love of teaching and all its related activities has not kept him out of the laboratory. Dr. Molinari has made significant contributions in the field of immunology. His work in immunopotentiality — the enhancement of immunity — has impacted cancer treatment as well as dental health.

Combining his roles as a teacher and researcher, Molinari takes great pride in the research he has nurtured in colleagues and students.

He takes special pride in work accomplished with a student under his direction while at the University of Pittsburgh; their finding became a major factor in the development of the caries vaccine, and the student has grown to be a leading scientist in his research field.

Upon coming to U. of D., Dr. Molinari developed and instituted a sterilization monitoring program for regional dental practices and clinics, the first such service offered by a dental school. It has grown to include 160 dental offices in Michigan, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Ontario, and is being copied by other institutions.

He is an active participant in community work and acts as a consultant to the dental departments for several area hospitals. Never far from teaching, he has also worked with several different high schools, advising students on their science fair projects and giving health care career presentations.

TV auction bidding tips

WTVS/Channel 56 viewers can join in "The Auction Adventure, Chapter 17," the 17th annual Channel 56 Auction, by bidding on items offered during the nine-day sell-off of goods and services which opens tomorrow, Friday, Apr. 12, and will run through Apr. 20.

To make the most of the fund raiser for Detroit's public television station, viewers should keep in mind a few bidding tips:

- Keep a pencil, paper and phone close to the TV set.
- When you see an item you want to bid on, jot down its board and item number.
- Call in your bid as quickly as possible to 872-7500. Remember: the higher the initial bid, the greater your chances for success.
- Once you've placed your bid, keep watching — and stay cool! You may want to increase your bid before the board closes.
- The highest bidder will receive a confirming call from auction personnel. You'll be told how to pick up and pay for your item at that time.

Yachtswomen meet tonight

Hostesses for Yachtswomen's meeting tonight, Thursday, Apr. 11, at 8 p.m. at the Great Lakes Yacht Club will be Louise Williams, Lori Kettler and Jeanne Bowen.

Pi Lambda Theta is off to the DIA

The Detroit Alumni Chapter of Pi Lambda Theta, a national honorary society for professionals in education, will meet at the Detroit Institute of Arts on Sunday, Apr. 21, for luncheon and a tour of the "Precious Legacy" display of Judaic treasures from Czechoslovakia.

Rose Society meets Apr. 17

Bunny Skran, of Saginaw, will present a slide program and discussion on the Roses of Germany and Old Garden Roses of the Washington, D.C., area at the Grosse Pointe Rose Society's meeting next Wednesday, Apr. 17.

The meeting will begin earlier than usual, at 7:30 p.m., with a social hour, and will be held this month in Rooms 125-127 of Parcels Middle School, Mack Avenue at Vernier Road. There is ample parking in the Sunningdale Park lot behind the school.

Mrs. Skran, a Consulting Rosarian and Life Judge who has been growing roses for 50 years, attended the 1983 International Rose Convention in Baden-Baden, Germany, and visited many German public gardens.

Her main interests are the Old Garden Rose of Years Past and the History of the Rose. She recently traveled to Washington, D.C., and will include slides of Old Garden Varieties at the National Arboretum and two historic homes in the area in her presentation for the Pointe Rose Society.

She is director of the Great Lakes District of the American Rose Society, and will give a short explanation of the district as well as the benefits of joining the ARS.

Co-hostesses for the evening are Hildegard Neumann and Lillian Tylanda. The Grosse Pointe Rose Society is co-sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Public School System.

Colony Town Club to meet

Spring bouquets will decorate tables as Colony Town Club members and guests celebrate the greening season at a luncheon and bridge tomorrow, Friday, Apr. 12, at 11:30 a.m. at the Grosse Pointe Club.

Chairman and co-chairman are, respectively, Miss Constance Wagner and Mrs. Robert Rousseau. Their committee includes the Mesdames Donald Colwell, John Engstrom, Carl Hassel, Margot Long, George Negri Jr., Ann Schymick and Oswald Ziedler.

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — collection of Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth focusing, this week on foods RICH in FIBER-BRAN.

Fiber foods fight fat. Eating fiber foods is the ideal way to flush fat from your body, helping you lose weight by absorbing liquids, then passing them through your body with a unique brushing action. Fiber also helps decrease the reabsorption of bile salts. It even controls the rate your cells can ingest calories, making you feel full sooner.

BROWN RICE AND VEGETABLE STIR-FRY

Brown rice has a rich, nutty flavor and chewy texture, because the hull and a small amount of the bran have been removed.

- 1½ cups water
- 1/8 tsp. salt
- 1/2 cup brown rice
- 1 cup fresh pea pods halved crosswise, or 1 pkg. (6-oz.) frozen pea pods
- 2 Tbsp. cooking oil
- 1/2 cup bias-sliced carrots
- 1 small green pepper, cut in bite-sized pieces
- 4 green onions, bias-sliced in 1-inch lengths
- 1 small clove garlic, crushed
- 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
- 1 Tbsp. soy sauce

In one-quart saucepan, bring water and salt to boiling point. Stir in brown rice. Reduce heat; cover and simmer 45 to 50 minutes, or until tender.

If using frozen pea pods, run under hot water to separate; drain. Preheat a 10-inch skillet or wok; add 1 Tbsp. of the oil. Add carrots; stir-fry 2 minutes. Add green pepper, onions and garlic; stir-fry 2 minutes more. Add more oil as necessary. Add mushrooms, pea pods and cooked rice to mixture in skillet. Cook and stir 2 to 3 minutes more. Stir in soy sauce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

WHOLE WHEAT OATMEAL COOKIES

- 1 cup raisins
- 1 cup unsalted margarine
- 3/4 cup granulated sugar
- 3/4 cup brown sugar, packed
- 2 eggs
- 1½ cups whole wheat flour
- 1 tsp. baking soda
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. ground nutmeg
- 1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
- 2 cups quick-cooking oats
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts

In small saucepan, cover raisins with water. Bring to boiling; remove from heat. Cover and let stand 5 minutes. Put through fine blade of food grinder; set aside.

In mixer bowl, cream margarine and sugars until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs. Stir together wheat flour, baking soda, salt, nutmeg and cinnamon; add to batter. Stir in oats, walnuts and ground raisins. Drop by teaspoonsfuls on greased cookie sheets. Bake in preheated 350° oven 10 to 12 minutes. Cool on cookie sheets for 1 or 2 minutes before removing to wire racks to cool. Makes 8 dozen.

BARLEY-STUFFED GREEN PEPPERS

- 6 medium-sized green peppers
- 1 lb. very lean ground pork
- 1/2 lb. very lean ground beef
- 1/4 to 1/2 tsp. sausage seasoning
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 1 cup cooked pearl barley*
- 2/3 cup tomato juice
- 1 cup finely-diced celery

Cut 1/4-inch slice from top of each green pepper; remove seeds. Cook green peppers about 5 minutes in enough boiling water to cover. Drain.

Saute ground pork with sausage seasoning and ground beef until lightly browned. Drain on absorbent paper. Combine meats, salt, barley, tomato juice and finely-diced celery. Fill green peppers with mixture; stand peppers upright in shallow baking dish; add small amount of water. Bake in preheated 350° oven 30 minutes, or until tender. Makes 6 servings.

*Note: Quick or old-fashioned, uncooked oats can be substituted for the barley, if desired.

It's Fiesta! time for Casa Maria

Casa Maria's fifth annual Mexican Fiesta is slated for Friday, Apr. 19, at the Detroit Yacht Club, and among the many, many Grosse Pointe residents involved in the project are MRS. RAYMOND REGNER (seated, right), general chairman; MRS. ALAN DEVINE (seated, left) and MRS. GEORGE DAUDLIN (seated, with flower in her hand), hosting the event with their husbands and Mr. and Mrs. William Steiber, also of The Pointe; MRS. RONALD ESCHENBURG (standing between Mary Devine and Vi Daudlin), who shares publicity responsibilities with fellow Pointer Mrs. Ralph Hinz; and (standing, left to right) MRS. ALBERT CERAVOLO, Rose Regner's co-chairperson; MRS. JULIAN ALVAREZ, who shares decorations responsibilities with fellow Pointer Don Jensen; and MRS. JOSE BORREGO, in charge of reservations. Other Pointe residents actively involved in planning the south-of-the-border party are Mrs. Juan Posada, Mrs. William Ireland and Mrs. Clayton Alandt. Proceeds from the event, which features dining and dancing in an authentic Mexican atmosphere, will provide funds for weekend youth programs and much-needed recreation equipment at Casa Maria, the community center that stands in the shadows of Tiger Stadium and serves children and families of 10 different nationalities. Ticket and other information may be obtained by calling 962-4230.

Sports Week

By Peggy O'Connor

I'm so confused...

Every once and a while I get the feeling that I've missed something. It doesn't happen often, but when it does, I get confused. I hate getting confused.

Take last week. I kept reading newspaper reports of how the other teams which play in the Detroit Red Wings' National Hockey League division (I think they call it the Stumblebum Division) where jockeying around for position in order to qualify for the playoffs, but not to have to play the toughest team in the division in those playoffs.

(For those who don't follow hockey too closely, the "toughest team" in the Red Wings' division is the only one which doesn't have to follow the little ice skates painted up and down the ice. You know, like the footprints they paint on the floors of dance studios?)

The way the NHL's divisional playoff system works, the team which finished first in the division plays the team which finished fourth and the team which finished second plays the third-place team. Got that? The team which finished fifth goes to Florida for a nice vacation. (This is the same NHL in which 21 teams each play an 80-game schedule in order that five teams can be eliminated in order to form the 16-team playoff format).

Anyway, some newspaper and radio reports hinted that Minnesota (the team which finished in fourth place behind the third-place Red Wings) may have held some of its better players out of "key" games late in the season in order that Minnesota might stay in fourth place and in the playoffs play the team which finished first in the division. Which makes absolutely no sense, right? Wrong.

See, although St. Louis finished first in the Stumblebum Division, many NHL experts say that St. Louis isn't as good a team as the second-place team, Chicago. Soooo, Minnesota was satisfied just to show up at its last few games, get plenty of rest and be ready to play those really awful, first-place St. Louis Blues in the playoffs.

Here's where I get confused. If Chicago is a better team than St. Louis, then why did it finish second? And if Minnesota had played its best players, wouldn't it have been better than Detroit and finish in third? Or is Minnesota already better than Detroit and did it know all along that St. Louis, being such a bad team would finish first and therefore would be an easy mark in the playoffs? And does all this mean that Toronto, which finished last in the Stumblebum Division, missed the playoffs and whose players are now relaxing in the Florida sun, is really the best team? Who's on first? I don't know. Third base.

What did I miss? I've always thought that the whole point to professional sports leagues was to play the game to win. I've also been under the impression that the best teams finish first and are followed in descending order, more or less, by the teams which aren't quite as good.

Now I find out that the best teams now are the ones which finish second and that most teams fight for the right to say "We're No. 4!" instead of shooting for No. 1.

Thinking like this could really throw a whole new light on professional sports. A lot of tradition and trite old sports sayings would have to be changed. For instance, Leo Durocher's famous quote would have to be amended to something like "Nice guys finish last... if they know what's good for them." And the quote so often attributed to the late Vince Lombardi would probably read "Winning isn't everything... especially when if you win too much, you'll finish first and you probably won't deserve it and other teams will try to finish fourth so they can play you because they think you will be easy to beat." Not exactly the stuff famous, unforgettable sayings are made of, is it?

Coaches would have to go around telling reporters that their teams are only going to "give around 60 percent, because that way, we'll end up in third place which will prove to all our critics that we really are the best team."

I guess I should have seen this coming a few years back. That's when the Cincinnati Reds finished with the best overall record in major league baseball, but failed to win their division because of a special rule change dictated by the baseball strike of that year. What did Cincinnati do? It went right out, bought itself a nice pennant which proclaimed the Reds as the best second place team in baseball and flew the flag proudly.

But real sports fans knew that the Reds weren't really a great team until the year they finished dead last. Now that's what I call a terrific team.

'Young' teams rely on enthusiasm

By Peggy O'Connor

It isn't often that six coaches — from any sport — agree on one thing. But that's exactly what's happened in Grosse Pointe this spring as all six varsity track coaches from North, University Liggett School and South, have reached a consensus: all will have enthusiastic but very inexperienced teams in 1985.

AT NORTH, varsity track coach Bob Collins has found that when graduation takes its toll on a lineup, it doesn't fool around. North lost Chris Bingaman (league champ in the 400) and Tim Monahan (state champ in the 800) from a team which finished third in the Bi-County in 1984, but was tied for first in dual meets.

"We're going to have a very young team, mainly sophomores and juniors," Collins says. "You've heard of rebuilding years — that's what this will be for North. It's going to be a slow process of taking many of the kids through their first varsity year and trying to improve overall at the same time."

Collins faces a different problem than he had last year when his field events didn't quite measure up to what the tracksters were doing; this year, the inexperience is on the track side of the ledger. That was one of Collins' goals for 1985, to improve in the field. "So far, we've done that. Now we've fallen off a bit in the track events."

Collins says he'd also like to see Brian Bergeron get back into state finals competition. Bergeron finished 11th in the state in discus in 1984 and is North's shot and discus leader, throwing around 148 feet in the discus and 45 feet in the shot put so far this spring.

Other top performers for North in this year's chase of Bi-County leaders Clintondale and Lakeview are expected to be Steve Saigh, No. 1 sprinter and long jumper; sophomore Mike Wujek, No. 2 man in the 100 and 200 meters and a high jumper who is averaging around 5 feet, 8 inches so far this spring. Baik Hur is the top hurdler; he ran the 100 high hurdles in 16.07 and 44 seconds in the low hurdles in the Warren Woods Tower meet April 2.

John VanSyckle is North's distance hope, running around 4:50 in the mile at present. Collins says he isn't satisfied yet with the makeup of the relay teams and hopes to play around with the lineup a little more in the hopes of finding a successful combination.

"I'll continue to juggle personnel for most of the season... with a young team like this there's a lot more coaching involved," he adds.

AT SOUTH, COACH Thomas Wise jokes that while he has 82

North, Star ready for '85 softball challenge

By Peggy O'Connor

The varsity softball teams at North High and Our Lady Star of the Sea are well aware of the challenge which awaits them in the districts in late May. But first, each would like to make their mark in their respective leagues. That won't be a piece of cake, either.

"I know this team will be stronger than it was last year. Our success depends a lot on the other teams in the league. And they will be strong," says North High softball coach Bill Taylor. North was 17-7 in 1984, but finished fourth in the very competitive Bi-County League. Taylor notes that defending Bi-County champ Clintondale will be tough again this season, but adds "we're going to be up there, too."

Taylor only has a squad of 12, and admits that his lack of depth might hurt a little if a player or two should be injured. But he says he feels that North's experience will more than make up for a lack of numbers. Eight of those 12 are returning starters from 1984.

Senior Paula Harms will lead the mound corps for North; Taylor says Harms is an outstanding three-sport athlete. Senior Celeste Sartor, another fine athlete, will be behind the plate and North's other senior, Dawn Cartwright, is stationed in rightfield for the Norsemen. Juniors Virginia Sanders is North's centerfielder and Gina Grammatico will be in left. Sanders, Sartor, Harms, Grammatico and Cartwright had excellent years for North's basketball team last fall; each also made the Bi-County Athletic/Academic Team.

Junior Ellen Gouin will be North's first baseman; the rest of the infield will feature returning sophomores Julie Cook at second, Leslie Talos at shortstop and Missy Preston, another Athletic/Academic team member, at third base. Filling out North's lineup are junior pitcher/outfielder Amy Domienik; sophomore catcher/outfielder Jill Cubba; and sophomore infielder Linda Rayos.

"This team is basically a defensive team. We won a lot of games last year with our pitching and defense. This year, if we can improve our hitting, maybe we can win more of those close games," Taylor says.

North has set goals of winning the Bi-County championship, placing at least four players on the All-League team, and winning 19 or 20 games en route to taking a district title. Taylor admits that it's a tall order, especially with tough teams like South, Regina and East Detroit going against North in district play, but adds that he feels he's got the team which can do it.

"We've got a good group of girls. It just depends upon whether we can play together — consistently — as a team. I think we can."

OUR LADY STAR of the Sea's first-year varsity softball coach Cliff Piper says he's got a spirited group of girls, too. The only problem is, a good part of that group is made up of freshmen.

"We're going to be a young team, that's for sure," says Piper, who recently came from coaching grade school softball himself. "Inexperience will be a problem for us this year... that and seeing how well the freshmen go from grade school to high school softball."

"It's a whole new game, especially when it comes to pitching."

Early in the season, Star players were still fighting for spots and Piper wasn't sure where he was going to put the 17 bodies on the varsity squad. He will have to rely a lot upon senior catcher Cindy Winiarski, an All-League volleyball player, and on pitcher Bridget Sullivan and sophomore first baseman Sheila Thompson. Piper notes that freshman Renee Michaels will get a good look at shortstop.

"So far, the girls are working very hard and that's good to see. We'll have to work hard. Our goal is to finish third in the league and make the Catholic League playoffs."

Pontiac Catholic and Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes will be the teams to beat, Piper says. The Tunas will face Pontiac Catholic for the first time on April 22 in Pontiac. Star opens the Catholic League season at home (Parcells Field) at 4 p.m. April 16 against St. Agatha.

"I know this team will be stronger than last year. Our success depends a lot on the other teams in the league... and they will be strong."

G.P.D. wins Mite Division playoffs in the GPHA

G.P.D. capped an outstanding season by beating Major Magics, 1-0, in the Mite Division playoff championship. The game was hard-fought and well-played as the Magics got excellent goaltending from Behi Rabani and G.P.D. was helped by an outstanding performance from goalie Jamie Bufalino. The Magics were coached by Mike Anway.

G.P.D. Paul Huebner scored the only goal of the game at 5:11 of the first period when he took a loose puck at the blueline and skated in to score.

G.P.D.'s C-line turned in a strong game as Huebner, Chris Coates, Alex Bieri, Blair Ridder and Kevin Collins kept the play in the Magics' end. C-liner Gordie Todd, the team's captain for the game, was sidelined with an injury but cheered his mates on from the bench.

The B-line also had one of its best games of the season. The front three of Tim Miller, Weston Norton and Mark Best, took the play to the Magics and had a number of fine shots turned back by Rabani and the Magics' defense. Tim Tracy and Terry Brennan played well on B-line defense.

The G.P.D. A-line also played well, as Val Covacha, M.J. Morris and Mike Collins showed great speed and toughness and Jeff Huebner and Scott Johns worked hard on defense keeping the Major Magics' scoring threats, Mike Anway and Carl Rashid, at bay.

G.P.D. was coached by Tom Brennan and assistants Mark Kossarek, Donny Orlando, Doug Primeau and Chuck Huebner and sponsored by Emmet Tracy.

Hunt Club's winter show is a hit

Clark Denton, of Lima, Ohio, riding Leo Bill Daniel, captured first place in the premier event of the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club Winter Jumper Show and Mini-Prix on March 23. The event, held in the indoor riding arena of the Hunt Club, was the first all-jumper show in several years and offered over $1,000 in prize money.

The event proved interesting for both exhibitors and spectators, Club officials say, and the Jumper Show and Mini-Prix may become a permanent winter fixture at the Hunt Club. The courses were designed by Tommie Smith, riding master at the Hunt Club. Donald Schuster, of Bloomfield, was the judge. Following are the results of the entire event:

Class 1 — Schooling Jumper: Nork, Mark Ferris, first; Rockin Robin, Mark Ferris, second; Leo Bill Daniel, Amy Stout, third; Algona Boy, Garo Kazan, fourth; Dressed to the Nines, Heather Littlefield, fifth; Forced Landing, Mark Robert Carter, sixth.

Class 2 — Low Jumper: On Tap, Cindy Carlson, first; Tuckinor, Ferris, second; Leo Bill Daniel, Stout, third; J.R. Ewing, Christopher Ewing, fourth; Against the Wind, Scott Alder, fifth; Syracuse, Rick Dehner, sixth.

Class 3 — Junior/Amateur

Jumper: Leo Bill Daniel, Stout, first; Here's How, Liz Considine, second; Little Big Man, Kazan, third; That's Incredible, Tom Snudden, fourth; Algona Boy, Kazan, fifth; Times Square, Paula Ingman, sixth.

Class 4 — Open Jumper: Nork, Ferris, first; Leo Bill Daniel, Clark Denton, second; Against the Wind, Alder, third; Rockin Robin, Ferris, fourth; Here's How, Considine, fifth; Ladies Night, Carlson, sixth.

Class 5 — G.P.H.C. Mini-Prix: Leo Bill Daniel, Denton, first; Here's How, Considine, second; Tuckinor, Ferris, third; Ladies Night, Carlson, fourth; Little Big Man, Kazan, fifth.

Hamilton College freshman Jack Nelson, of the Farms, finished 12th in the mile event at the NCAA Division III Swimming and Diving Championships at Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., March 21-23. His time of 16:25.24 in the mile also qualified him for All-American status. Nelson also swam the 500 freestyle in the finals, finishing 17th with a 4:42.78 time.

Grosse Pointer Harry Constant has been issued a World Workers License by FISA, the world governing body for Formula I automobile racing. Constant has been assistant chief steward for all three Detroit Grand Prix. He has been a member of Detroit Region (Sports Car Club of America) SCCA for 30 years and was an active participant in SCCA's national racing program from 1954 through 1969. For the past 14 years, Constant has been one of SCCA's National Chief Stewards, and as such, responsible for directing all the functions at seven to 10 national races yearly. A regional manager for Kawai Corporation, manufacturer of grand pianos and organs, Constant is a charter member of the original Grand Prix Committee.

The Farms' Christian Darby finished 16th in the 200 backstroke in the NCAA Division III championships in Atlanta March 21-23, which also qualified him as an All-American. Darby, a senior at Kalamazoo College, was also voted most valuable swimmer by his teammates.

Ohio State University's 1983 Most Valuable Player on the women's tennis team, Cathy Brown, a 5-7, 135-pound senior from the Woods, returns to the OSU lineup this spring. She won 16 matches last season, will play at No. 5 singles and is a three-year letterwinner. She went to the state tournament all four years at North High and was state runner-up in her senior year. Brown has played tournaments in Mexico and Texas and was OSU's 1982 Scholar Athlete. Her OSU career records in singles and doubles are 42-36 in singles and 13-12, doubles.

Christine Truhol, a four-year letter winner at North High, swam in the Southern Regional Masters Swim meet March 30-31 in St. Petersburg, Fla. Ms. Truhol, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Truhol, also coached the Grosse Pointe Shores swim team for two years.

Bishop Gallagher High School graduate Shelly Ireland has been selected to receive the Michigan Women's Bowling Association Star of Tomorrow Scholarship Award of $1,000. Shelly bowled on Gallagher's girls' team for four years and on the boys' squad for three seasons. She is currently a Wayne State University freshman and is the girls' high average leader with the Bonanza Amateur Pros Traveling League. Shelly is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Ireland of Hampton Road.

The Shores' John Clem, a senior outfielder for Western Kentucky, was chosen Sun Belt Conference Player of the Week for the seven-day period ending March 24. A 6-3, 195-pound North High graduate, Clem was instrumental in the Hilltoppers' 5-1 week which improved their record overall to 16-7. In six games that week, Clem was 11-for-19 (.579), including a double, four homers and 10 RBI. He also was 3-for-3 in stolen bases, scored 11 runs and raised his average to .416. He hit 11 homers and had 11 RBI in 23 games. Clem is a tri-captain for 1985. He was one of three Western Kentucky All-Sun Belt performers in 1984, with a .373 batting average, 50 hits and 51 RBI. Clem was an All-Stater in 1981 after batting .595 for the Norsemen with nine homers and 59 RBI. He has a .400 career batting average, 100 RBI and 25 doubles in his North career, which included North's 1980 Class A state title.

Debby Lubera, a 1984 University Liggett School graduate, is a member of the Smith College varsity lacrosse team. She is also in the Riding Club and has been selected for the Gold Key organization at Smith.

Club crowns basketball champs

The tournament finals of the Neighborhood Club's Men's Basketball Leagues were played recently as championships were decided in the Under 30 competitive, Under 30 non-competitive, Over 30 competitive, and Over 30 non-competitive leagues.

In the young guys' division, Under 30 leagues, J.B.'s Boys tied for first place in the competitive league with Larry's Amoco at 8-1, but went straight through the winner's bracket with four wins to reach the finals. J.B.'s Boys' opponent in the last game was Monaghan's, 7-2 in league play. After losing its opening tournament game, Monaghan's took the next four games to make it to the final, but J.B.'s Boys came from a five-point deficit to win, 58-57. Pete McNight led the winner with 13 points while Tim Kramer scored 19 points for Monaghan's.

The non-competitive division featured a final of Blue Pointe versus the Motor City Mutants. The teams ended the regular season tied for first place with 6-3 records. Blue Pointe took a six-point lead at the half behind John Farmer's 15 points, and took the title with a 55-49 victory. John finished with 25 points for Blue Pointe while Vince Tumminello had 13 points for Motor City.

The Over 30 competitive division saw the first place Jim Saros Agency (6-1) sent to the loser's bracket by Ashers Market (5-1) in a close contest, 52-50, where it was beaten by Callaghan's (4-5), 75-71. Ashers waited in the winner's bracket while Callaghan's fought through the loser's bracket after its opening tournament loss to Ashers. In the final game, Callaghan's took a four-point lead into the second half, only to lose it as Dennis Coleman scored 16 of his 20 points to pace Ashers to a 61-54 victory. Paul Duda led Callaghan's with 14 points.

Diamond Lil's dominated the Over 30 non-competitive league with a 9-0 record, and went into tournament play as the odds-on favorite. Its opponent in the final, Family Footcare (5-4) fell to Mut-schler Sinks, 53-42, in the quarter-finals, but fought back in the loser's bracket. Family Footcare avenged its earlier loss to Mut-schler with a 65-64 victory in double overtime, but lost to Diamond Lil's, 59-48. Charles Warren led the victors with 17 points; Mario Coraci scored 12 points for Family Footcare.

One look . . .

. . . at this photo confirms the claim made by the Grosse Pointe Swim Club: that it's the second largest swim team in Michigan. The 180-member team recently gathered by the North High pool for this team photo after a successful 1984-85 season. The GPSC's annual Spring Brunch for swimmers, parents and families is set for Sunday, April 28 at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club. Scott Teeters, Fred Michalik, Liz Stavale and Alan Faust coached the club this year. GPSC will offer a summer session of long course competition beginning May 1. Further information may be obtained by calling Community Education at 343-2178.

Good smelt season predicted

When sportsmen hit the streams with their buckets and nets for the annual smelt run this spring, they should find a repeat of 1984's productive year along Lake Huron and generally better results in the Upper Peninsula, reports the AAA Michigan.

The hundreds of tributaries of Lake Huron traditionally provide the state's best smelt dipping, especially the East Branch of the Au Gres River in northeast lower Michigan.

Department of Natural Resources officials rated the 1984 season good to excellent along Lake Huron and predict similar results for 1985. Since many beaches are private, fishermen should check if permission is needed before heading out.

In southeast Michigan, the St. Clair River system in St. Clair County usually has the earliest runs of the year and annually good results come from Algonac south of M-29 north to the foot of the Blue Water Bridge in Port Huron.

Smelt action is not as heavy along Lake Michigan, although Deer Lick and Brandywine creeks south of South Haven generally provide good results. DNR officials in the U.P. predict generally better results off Lake Superior in the western section.

Best smelt runs this spring should be in the second and third weeks of April in the Lower Peninsula. Strongest U.P. runs should be from the third week of April into early May.

Smelt runs usually occur between 10 p.m. and 1 a.m. in water temperatures of 40 to 45 degrees, but good runs sometimes occur on dark days.

The small silvery fish, a delicacy when broiled, pan fried or deep fried in batter, first was planted in Michigan waters in 1912. Ten years later, anglers started catching them. The annual smelt run has grown into a spring ritual among Michigan's sportsmen. Age is no factor and the sport doesn't require fancy equipment or a lot of expertise.

Assumption offers spring sports

The Assumption Cultural Center is offering several sports programs this spring, most beginning April 16 and 20.

The Teen and Youth Golf Clinic (ages 10-16) meets four Tuesdays beginning April 16 from 4 to 5 p.m. Fee is $15 to learn the fundamentals of chipping, putting, short irons and woods from WSU Hall of Fame golf coach Joel Mason. Bring a 7-iron, a 9 and a putter to class.

Fitness Walking begins April 20 and runs for six weeks from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Fee is $18; National Masters Race Walker and Marathon runner Frank Soby instructs 63 smelt hot spots, including Pointe Pelee National Park and the Wheatley area southwest of Detroit, both in Canada.

Extended hours from 6 a.m. to 2 a.m. have been set at Point Pelee from April 12-28; but Park officials expect an average to poor season after several years of slower runs.

Smelt dippers are allowed to use hand nets up to one-half mile upstream from any river mouth from March 1 to May 31 south of M-72 and from April 10 to May 31 north of M-72. Large dip nets up to nine feet square are allowed by permit only on some streams.

Additional regulations are noted in the DNR's 1985 Michigan Fishing Guide, available where fishing licenses are sold.

techniques of warm up, walking and paced walking. Come prepared for workout with jogging shoes and exercise clothes.

The Runners' World Fun Runs, sponsored by Assumption Center, will resume on the first and third Saturdays of the month, beginning at 8:30 a.m. April 20. Runners can choose one-half mile, mile, three and five mile runs. Refreshments will be offered following run. Cost per run is $1; certificates will be presented.

Further information on all Assumption Center sports events may be obtained by calling 779-6111.

'Young' teams rely on enthusiasm

boys out for the track team, he only has "150 years of experience. It sounds like a lot but it isn't," Wise says.

Wise's approach, therefore, is going to be "start slowly and build up," this season. The Blue Devils were 5-5 last year, and finished third in the EML. But South does not have the depth in the field events Wise would like in trying to challenge Port Huron Northern and Mount Clemens — the EML favorites — for the league title.

Senior 3200 meter man Jon Roberts and junior Chris Astfalk (800 and 1600) will be South's hopes in the distance events. Senior Jun Yoshitani will run the 800, as will senior Chris Bardeen, a three-time All-EML runner and scholar-athlete. Senior Tim Estes and junior Jeffrey Praendner will be the Devils' top hurdlers.

In the sprint events, sophomore Brian Stratton is expected to be a "big gun" after breaking all of South's freshman records. Senior John Dolan is also a good sprinter, according to Wise. Newcomers Kevin English (sophomore, distance) and Jim Reynolds (junior, sprinter) should add to South's strength on the track.

Four-year discus veteran Brian Kerman is injured, as is Greg Roach who was expected to make South a powerhouse in the hurdles this year before his season-ending knee injury.

Wise says South would like to show an overall improvement this season, in addition to qualifying the 3200 meter relay team of Astfalk, English, Yoshitani and Todd Hawthorne for the state finals.

"All in all, we've got a very good, cooperative group. But we're also very, very young. Did I mention we were young?" Wise laughs.

Girls look for experience, too

South High varsity girls' track coach Steve Zaranek has a lot of girls out for the team: 70. And a good mix of freshman for the future. And the desire to compete in a tough league. Which is exactly what the South girls' goal is: to win the EML track championship.

"The EML is a good, tough league. We like being in it for just that reason. We want to try to win the league, it might be difficult to do, but we'll do our best," Zaranek says. "We also want to be very competitive in dual meets and improve consistently over the season."

Helping to do that this year will be junior All-State selection Nancy Solterisch and senior Barb Giroux in the distance events; senior Kerry Bruce and junior Julie Boyd in the sprints; Erin Kershaw and Karin Seylor in the hurdles; and Katie Ament, who set a school record in the discus as a junior, in the field events.

"We're hoping for some nice surprises in the sprints with the good group of cross country freshman that we have on the team this year," Zaranek added.

Another nice surprise for South would be to finish first in the EML after five straight second place finishes. "But we've got that very strong competition. Anchor Bay is the team to beat and our meets with them are always close. You never know what can happen..."

COACH CHARLES Buhagiar's North girls' track team was 10-0, won a league championship and finished second in the regionals in 1984. But graduation stole five seniors who were scoring a total of 60 points per meet last season.

"We'll have to go some to match that this year," Buhagiar says. "It happens just about every four years, you get a good, enthusiastic group that also happens to be very inexperienced and you have to spend a lot of time teaching the basics of track and field."

North does return six seniors and an experienced junior to challenge perennial Class B power L'Anse Creuse, whom North beat last year for the first time in four seasons. "We'll be young in sprints and field events, but we should be very respectable in the middle distances," Buhagiar says.

Sue Roland will lead North in the high jump and 300 hurdles; she holds the school hurdles record. Barb Labadie and Patty Loehner will also perform the hurdles. Lisa Kopacka, Kelly Fournier and Nicole Lehman are North's distance hopes and Katie Beal and Kerry Rice are also being counted on to help the defending Bi-County champs this year, Buhagiar says.

"We'd like to win the league and finish in the top five in the regionals, taking maybe eight or 10 girls to the states. But it all depends on how some of our 'unknowns' come through this year."

"The girls are all hard workers, doing what I ask in terms of practice and preparation. And that certainly helps," Buhagiar says.

ULS on track again

If enthusiasm is any indication, the girl's and boys' track teams at ULS are headed for successful seasons. After fielding a team of 16 last year, Cathy Schmidt's ULS's girls' squad rounds out at 28 this spring and Mike Bender's boys' team is 30-strong.

The two teams practice together, with Josh Schmidt handling the shot and discus competitors, and Cathy Schmidt and Bender splitting the spirit sessions.

"Our goal is to first have as much fun as we can, then to reduce stress, learn new skills and improve on our personal bests," Schmidt says.

Lydia Alexander will be strong in the hurdles and high jump, she added. Rebecca Boone and Liz Hader will compete in shot and discus, with Judy Go in the high jump and hurdles. In the long jump and hurdles, Carol Ling will start for ULS. Charu Nautiyal is the team's discus and middle and long distance hope. Others in the lineup are team captain Ahunna Nwosu, high jump and sprint; Scarlet Parris, long distance; Paula Rodriguez, long distance runner. Paula was seventh in the 1600 and 3200 in last year's regionals. More are Carolyn Seydel, discus; Linda Vaughan, middle and long distance.

COACH BENDER's boys' team was 4-2 in the MIAC last year and second overall in the league championship meet. He confided that while ULS's strength will lie in the sprint and field events, the Knights may have a problem in the distance competitions.

"What we lack in experience, we make up for in enthusiasm in our distance events. But we will have to prepare well," Bender said. "Our goals are to beat Southfield Christian, to work towards our individual improvement and to perform well in the league championship meet."

"We've got good team leadership with captains Jack Ferris and bob Tumachder. Their hard work sets the tone. They are very enthusiastic and well-prepared," Bender added.

Ferris will lead ULS in the high jump and pole vault; Tumachder in the 100 and 200 runs. He was in the regional finals in the 200 last year. Howard Fauntroy is also a high jumper and pole vaulter, as well as a 100 and 200 competitor. Others on the squad are Chris Liakonis, shot and discus; Mark Kozlowski, 400 dash; Chip Davis, 800 run; and Peter Hardy, 1600 and 3200. ULS begins the home season at 4:15 p.m. April 16 against Dearborn Heights Riverside.

North's Sue Regalado scores one of her three goals in North's soccer win over Bishop Gallagher last week.

North teams start out right

Bill Hoover
North High

North High's girls' varsity soccer team opened its season April 2 on a satisfying note, beating Bishop Gallagher, 11-2.

The Lady Norsemen came out strong, scoring on their first two attempts. Bishop Gallagher, pressing hard offensively, was hurt on the defensive end, allowing many three-on-two breaks on which North capitalized.

North was led by Sue Regalado's three goals, Cindy Bowman's two goals and four assists, and Shannon Armstrong's two goals and two assists. Stephanie Schaeffer, Bridget Brierly, Alexa Parmentier and Beth Eleczko had one goal each. Beth Nearhood contributed with four assists.

North's girls' soccer team, coached by Guido Regelbrugge, is entering only its third year but already has won two titles in two different leagues — the Macomb Athletic Conference (M.A.C.) and the Expressway Girls' Soccer League.

The Lady Norsemen, who last year ranked seventh in the state with a 15-2 record, will return this season to the Expressway Girls' Soccer League after a season in the M.A.C. The Expressway is full of good teams; but North expects the stiffest competition to come from cross-town rival South High on May 14 in a game which most likely will determine the league champion.

North's next game is at 4 p.m. April 16 at home against Garden City.

North's girls' JV soccer team best Bloomfield Hills on April 4, 2-0. Sophomore Chrissy Drummy scored both goals for North. The JV's next game is April 16 at home against South High at 5:30 p.m.

Softball victory

North opened its girls' varsity softball season with a 10-0 victory over Warren Woods/Tower on April 4. The Lady Norsemen, behind the pitching brilliance of Paula Harms, won when the mercy rule was invoked in the fifth inning. Harms allowed just one hit and walked one while striking out 10.

She also led the offense, driving in three runs with a single and a double. Ellen Gouin singled twice and Dawn Cartwright and Linda Rayos scored four and three runs, respectively.

North's next softball game is April 17 at Sterling Heights; game time is 4 p.m.

Tracksters win twice

A 79-39 victory over Warren Woods/Tower last week started North's girls' track season off on the right foot. That triumph was followed by another win, 68-60, over Utica Ford II.

Against Warren Woods/Tower, the Lady Norsemen saw outstanding performances by Lisa Kopacka and Barb Labadie. Kopacka, who was an All-State cross country team member last fall, won both the 800 meter dash and 1600 meter run. Labadie took first in the high jump, the 200 meter dash and the 300 meter hurdles and finished second in the 100 meter hurdles.

North's 1600 meter and 3200 relay teams were also victorious. The 1600 meter relay team consisted of Shannon Andrews, Lisa Kopacka, Barb Loehner and Patty Loehner, while the 3200 meter relay team consisted of Teresa Donahue, Kopacka and Barb and Patty Loehner.

Against Utica Ford II, the meet was an exciting one that was decided by the last event of the day, the mile relay. The Lady Norsemen, who were behind by two or three meters going into the last leg, saw a fine effort by anchor Shannon Andrews. North won the race and the meet on a lean. Sharing the honors were relay team members Andrews, Donahue, Kopacka and Patty Loehner.

Kristin Fleming finished first in the discus and second in the shot; Amy Brennan was first in the 300 meter hurdles; Kopacka took first in the 1600 meter run and second in the 800 meter run; and Labadie finished second in the high jump, the 100 meter hurdles, the 300 meter hurdles and the 200 meter dash.

North's next meet is Thursday, April 18, at home against Lakeview. Starting time is 4 p.m.

Boys drop two

North's varsity boys' track team suffered a 69-68 season opening loss to the hands of Warren Woods/Tower on April 2 before losing to Utica Ford II, 86-58.

Bright spots in the Warren Woods/Tower loss were Brian Bergeron who took first in the shot and the discus; Baik Hur who finished first in the 110 high hurdles and the 300 low hurdles, and Mike Wujek who finished first in the high jump, (5-8), the 100 meters, (11.7), and the 200 meters, (24.1).

Versus Utica Ford II, Bergeron broke his personal record of 143 feet in the discus throw by more than five feet. Bergeron also won the shot. Mike Wujek finished first in the 100 meters and took second in both the high jump and the 200 meters.

North's next track meet is April 18, at home against Lakeview. Starting time is 4 p.m.

ULS netters shut out in Cleveland

The University Liggett School boys' varsity tennis team opened its season in Cleveland, Ohio on Friday, April 5, losing to the University School of Cleveland, 8-0. For the first time in Coach Bob Wood's 20 years at ULS, the Knights did not win a set.

"Year in and year out, the University School has one of the best teams in the country," according to Wood. "They lost seven seniors from last year's team, and this is a rebuilding year for them. They don't rebuild, they just reload," he added.

On April 6, the Knights defeated Shaker Heights High School, 5-3. Individual winners for ULS were: No. 3 singles, Mike Fozo; No. 4 singles, David Barlow; No. 1 doubles, John Birgbauer and Scott Watson; No. 2 doubles, Ashu Nautiyal and Andrew MacLeod; and No. 4 doubles, Jeff Buhl and Rob Glancy. Saturday afternoon the Knights lost to Western Reserve Academy, 5-3. Individual winners for ULS in that match were: No. 4 singles, Barlow; No. 1 doubles, Birgbauer and Watson; and No. 4 doubles, Andrew MacLeod and Buhl.

ULS' next match is April 11 at home against Redford Catholic Central, the pre-season No. 1 pick in Class A. On Friday, April 12, the Knights travel to Kalamazoo to play in the Kalamazoo Central Invitational.

Lacrosse outlook rosy

Although girls' lacrosse is not well-known in Michigan, wherever it is played it is well-loved. Each spring finds close to 40 University Liggett School girls vying for positions on the school's three teams.

ULS' home games are scheduled to be played at 4 p.m. at the Cook Road campus on April 26 (Kingswood), May 7 (Academy of the Sacred Heart), May 13 (Wallaceburg, Ontario), and May 15 (Detroit Country Day School).

ULS coaches Melinda Reuter and Mary Fish are emphasizing basic skills and fitness.

Coach Reuter says she is optimistic because most of the potential varsity players are experienced varsity athletes or members of last year's extremely successful JV team. Reuter is anticipating offensive leadership from Andra Hirt, one of the last year's high scorers, and Amy Ottaway, the team's most skilled playmaker. The defense should rapidly solidify with the return of standouts Kate French and Tessi Raymo, as well as last year's surprise, goalie Barry Hamilton.

THE BOYS' varsity lacrosse program at ULS received a most welcome and important addition earlier this year when Robert Evett was introduced as the head lacrosse coach.

Evett is currently a member of the history department at the ULS Middle School. Educated at John Hopkins University, Evett played three years on its varsity lacrosse team which was NCAA champion in both 1978 and 1979. Recently, he enjoyed further success as an assistant lacrosse coach at Princeton University.

Coach Evett's experience, knowledge and enthusiasm for lacrosse was rewarded this spring by a turnout of 33 candidates for his first ULS team. Returning letterman Mark Blake, Ed Brady, Mike Gouda, Lance Lie, Chris McCabe, Jamie McMillan, Larry Scoville and Marty Tibbitts are joined by such promising players as Brian Curtiss, Tom Giffos and Tim Simonds. The freshman class provided an enthusiastic group of players.

In only its third year as a varsity sport at ULS, the boys' lacrosse team has enjoyed remarkable success playing under the guidance of the Michigan Scholastic Lacrosse Association. Opponents for the Knights include Cranbrook, Detroit Country Day School, Birmingham Brother Rice, Catholic Central, DeLaSalle Collegiate and L'Anse Creuse.

ULS will play its first home game at 1 p.m. on Saturday, April 20 against DeLaSalle at the Cook Road campus.

Prime Time for senior citizens

By Marian Trainor

As we grow older, more than our arteries seem to harden. Our views, our perspectives, our attitudes tend to become fixed. We come to dislike change intensely. We insist that our belongings be left exactly where we put them. We adopt a daily routine and become disturbed if it is disrupted. We establish a pattern of work and leisure-time activities and adhere doggedly to them. We tend to become disoriented and upset if something happens to alter our "modus operandi." We become lost and at loose ends until our own little world shifts back into its proper axis.

Those who would fault such a set pattern of life should remember that those who settle for contentment rather than the excitement and stimulus of the new and untried have experienced much change and growth and what has been called progress during their lifetime have had to adapt. They have assimilated the new with the old and out of that merging have selected what for them makes life peaceful and enjoyable.

In a manner of speaking, this is where they choose to get off. Let others continue on in uncharted and turbulent waters of change. They have earned their place in a peaceful harbor.

This wisdom to live at peace with the world does not come easy. It is difficult to accept and assimilate the many changes that have occurred over the years.

Cities have grown to become unwieldy and hard to control. High speed cars, trains and jet planes have replaced more leisurely forms of transportation. Neighborhoods have been uprooted to make room for high-rise buildings, freeways and urban renewal. Familiar faces have been replaced by what must be termed itinerants by those who were accustomed to live and die in the area of their birth. Landmarks have been dismantled, corner grocery stores have been replaced by supermarket and retail stores where the salespeople knew their customers' names, preference and sizes, have lost their identities in the shopping malls.

Family structures have changed as 'til death do us part has become 'til we grow apart."

Those who are grandparents observe their children's children and wonder at their precocious knowledge of the world and worry at the bewilderment that envelopes young minds not yet ready to know and discriminate between what is real and acceptable and that which is destructive.

They are at once enthralled and bewildered by the complexities that science has injected into our daily life; television worldwide systems of satellite communication, computers that reportedly store more information on persons than they have about themselves; the atom and the awesome task of making it work for the good of man rather than as a means of destruction. Nuclear energy has a twofold power to make life better or to destroy all living things.

All this and more has happened in one brief lifetime — more than has happened in 500 years of lifetimes.

Is it any wonder that there comes a time when those who have lived through these changes fashion a little world of their own and draw it around themselves like a security blanket? They have accepted as much as they can and routine becomes an armor and defense against a disruptive world. They refuse to vary it for fear that one little break in their daily plan of life will once again make them vulnerable to a world that is forever chipping away at precepts, beliefs and modes of life that they hold sacred. Without their own codes, they have no direction and flounder in a sea of uncertainty.

We downgrade those who wish to settle for what they have rather than drift with the winds of change as being stubborn and set in their ways. We try to convince them to try new things, new ways, accept new philosophies. What we neglect to see is that a settled life is not a static life. It is an accepted and comfortable mode of living, developed over a lifetime until it so suits its creator that nothing could be added to enhance it.

What goes on now is bequeathed to those who are still struggling to find their own private corner in a changing, challenging world.

This need to come to terms with one's self, the world and a place in it, is going to become more necessary as we move toward a new century.

We are caught in the momentum of change, changes that whirl and propel us forward at a speed that allows us no time to harness and direct it. We have to deal with it as best we can.

Take family life for instance. As the life span increases, it is not unlikely that one marriage will not last a lifetime. Serial marriage will become commonplace. Children will have more than one set of parents.

A common pattern, we are told, will be for children to see parents divorce and remarry. As adults these children will leave home, marry, divorce, live alone and then remarry. Longevity will be the main reason for these progressive relationships. People will refuse to endure a destructive union in a marriage that is destined to last 50 or 60 years.

These same futurists say that if it were possible to project oneself into the future, the family as we know it now would be as archaic as the patriarchy of Old Testament times.

In the field of education, learning will be a lifelong pursuit. Schools will still teach the basic skills, but the computer will enable people to learn wherever they are — at home, on the job, in the traditional classroom. In every kind of setting the emphasis will be on individual instruction.

Christopher Dede at the University of Houston notes that computers will be effective in teaching subjects such as math, but in areas such as creative writing where there are many right answers, machines will never teach as effectively as people.

To one caught in the time warp of today, that observation seems relevant to any subject. There is more to learning than facts. Most of us remember teachers we had as well as what we learned. A computer flashing, "Congratulations, you got it right," will never take the place, in our minds, of a smile and the spoken words, "That's wonderful! You've improved so much!"

In the field of medicine we are promised miracles. We are told that medical advances will enable Americans to live longer, healthier lives as scientists discover new treatments for disease. The basis causes of cancer and heart disease will be understood. Superdrugs will be developed to counteract acute pain, senility, schizophrenia and depression. The gift of more years will come wrapped in the assurance that they will be good years, not just years spent in confusion and pain waiting for the welcome release of death.

On the down side, what science achieves in insuring a better and longer life could be negated by rising health costs. Because of the high-technology medical costs, resources may have to be rationed. Tough decisions as to who will receive lifesaving treatments, such as the artificial heart, will have to be dealt with in increasing numbers as the population of older citizens grows, since sizeable amounts will need to be spent on the last years of life.

With all their achievements, scientists will still have to leave the province of eternal life to religion. In other words, while life will be longer, no one will become immortal.

Which brings up another question, one which is even yet upon us — what we wish to be done for us after death. There is still the option of being buried in the family plot now, but in the future it may be a choice of donation, cremation or rotation.

There is a great deal to be said for resting peacefully in the earth beneath a sheltering tree that signifies life, death and resurrection as it changes with the seasons. However in the future as space becomes scarcer, there may not be that option.

If that is so, there will be the choice of donating ourselves to science, having our ashes scattered to the winds or being put in orbit which has now been made possible by an entrepreneur who is planning to create a cemetery in the sky.

Survivors could scan the heavens on starry nights searching for the twinkling star that once was a loved one. Without being facetious, that is far out (or up). But then someone is always trying to out-best science fiction.

Marching along to future developments, it is not surprising to learn that the home will be the focal point of leisure activities. Some experts fear that with so much electronic information at home, millions of people will become electronic moles. With technological changes, making it possible for viewers to pick and choose, what will happen if Americans lack a common vision and informational glue that hold society together?

Since shopping from the home for everything from groceries to securities will be possible, shopping centers will lure customers by providing entertainment by allocating floor space to restaurants, theaters and gyms.

Despite its drawbacks, the future looks brilliant and beguiling but also confusing.

If as predicted, life and vigor is extended and we make it well into the next century, that's time enough to think about all the changes that will take place.

In the meantime, let us rest in peace with the accomplishments and gains of our own generations; and leave this brave new future to the brave new people who will inhabit it, deal with it and be changed by it.

THE BEST JAGUAR EVER BUILT:

Breeding tells. While trends in automotive design come and go, the 1985 Jaguar XJ6 remains defiantly true to its heritage: lithe, graceful and utterly distinctive.

It is the nature of automotive styling to be transient. While tailfins have come and gone, and a dozen other design gimmicks as well, Jaguar has consistently created cars of great sculptural beauty. But even among Jaguars, the Series III XJ6 stands out.

While carrying five grownups in great luxury the car has an athlete's cleanlimbed grace. And all of its engineering systems team up to fulfill that athletic promise. Come, experience the many pleasures that have been bred into the best Jaguar ever built.
