Good guy Part I

Time to give a pat on the back to some people who really deserve it.

First on the list is 17-year-old Mark Kreim, of McKinley Road, who works part time as a courtesy clerk at the 7 Mile and Mack Kroger store.

Mark, who recently graduated from Notre Dame High School, found a wallet in the store containing $350 and promptly turned it over to the store manager.

A short while later an older man, described as having gray hair and a moustache, came in and said he'd lost his wallet. When it was turned over to him, the manager suggested he thank Mark, shake his hand and perhaps part with a $5 reward.

Without saying a word, the man turned on his heel and scurried out of the store without a backward look or by-your-leave. Now, it's true that every act of honesty doesn't call for a monetary reward, but a hearty thank you was certainly in order.

That's the way Mark's mother, Lori feels — she turned us on to this story — and we agree with her. El Cheapo who lost his wallet is probably the first to condemn today's teens as dishonest and impolite.

Keep up the good work, Mark, and congratulations on your recent promotion and designation as "Employee of the Month." Both came to him before he found the wallet.

Good guy Part II

And the winner of the Good Guy Part II award is... Frank Messina, owner of Francesco's Beauty Salon in the Village.

We fielded a call from Vicki Gire who told us she recently visited the shop with her 87-year-old father, Frank Hewlett. Mr. Hewlett, who's been a bit under the weather lately, took some time walking the stairs up to the second floor shop, but took it all in stride while Vicki got a haircut.

When it came time to negotiate the stairs again, Messina suggested the lift at the back of the shop and accompanied Mr. Hewlett on his trip down to the back parking lot.

Once there, he noticed Mr. Hewlett's eyebrows needed a good trim, and Vicki remembered a function her father was going to attend that night and thought a haircut might be in order too.

Rather than ride the lift again, Messina dashed upstairs and returned with his clippers and did the 20-minute tonsorial makeover of Mr. Hewlett right there in the parking lot.

An added bonus was that it was at closing time, but Messina put in his overtime with a smile. "There was no problem — I was happy to do it," said Messina later. "I had a favorite uncle who was in a nursing home for two years. I know how seniors can feel when they get older. He'll feel better because he'll look better. No problem."

According to Vicki, her father loved the attention and kept admiring himself in the mirror all day.

Ten thousand "attaboys" to Frank Messina.

Spending, taxes up in school budget

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Grosse Pointe public schools will spend $1.9 million more next year than this and finance the increase with $1 million from its fund equity and a tax increase, according to the 1985-86 preliminary school budget.

The Board of Education spent two nights last week reviewing the document before scheduling a public hearing on the budget on June 3. Budget figures are subject to change before the district sets its tax rate in September, administrators said.

The preliminary budget forecasts spending of $37 million in the general fund this year and $1.55 million in the library fund, compared to a general fund this year of $35.1 million and a library fund of $1.41 million.

Were the tax increase to remain as forecast, property owners would pay an extra $29 in school taxes next year, based on a home with a state equalized valuation of $50,000 according to Superintendent John Whritner.

The district expects to lose 172 students next year, mostly from the middle and high schools. The district has eliminated 11.6 teacher positions, four custodians and one clerical staff member.

The position of assistant to the superintendent has been cut. Administrative interns at the middle schools, originally planned to split their time between administrative and other duties, have been assigned full administrative duties next year.

Maintaining the administrative intern program will help building administrators at the middle schools and give him a year to evaluate the program's future.

Whritner said. The interns gain experience at administrative duties through the program.

Elementary school enrollment is projected to increase from 2,513 this year to 2,531 in 1985-86, according to the budget. The moving of the trainable mentally impaired program to Brownell Middle School will cut the total enrollment at the elementary schools to 2,627 next year, compared to 2,637 this year.

Middle schools will be hardest hit in the enrollment loss. Brownell will lose 101 students, Parcels 24, and Pierce 40 for a loss of 165 students. Total enrollment at the middle school level will be bolstered by the TMI move, but the three buildings will still see a loss of 130 students next year compared to this, when 1,541 are enrolled.

The high schools are expected to lose 32 students next year, compared to this. North's enrollment will drop from 1,419 to 1,392 and South's will fall from 1,695 to 1,690, according to the budget.

New programs next year include the expansion of the science consultant program from its Trombly pilot throughout the district. Two science consultants will be hired and have their schedules set so they can spend one day a week at seven of the elementary buildings and 1½ days at the two larger buildings, according to Elementary Curriculum Director Alfreda Frost.

The pilot program at Trombly has been well received. Other buildings have received science consultants through donations from the PTOs.

Science consultants will have limited contact with students and are meant to aid teachers coordinate.

Administrative salary study due next week

By Mike Andrzejczyk

A management consulting firm will file its recommendations Tuesday, May 28, for salaries and benefits for Grosse Pointe public school administrators.

Representatives from Towers, Perrin, Forster & Crosby will present its recommendations to the administrative compensation committee, which asked the school board in March to appropriate $21,000 for the work.

The committee is made up of board members Joan Hanpeter and Fred Adams, administrators Roger McCaig, Bernard LeMieux, Donald Messing and Leo Warras and at-large members Malcolm Denise and Eric Truhol.

The board could have received information on national comparisons for salary and fringe benefit packages from an educational resource center in Arlington, Va. for about $200.

Educational Resource Services, Inc. yearly compiles data on salaries of superintendents and administrative staff across the country and compiles a biennial survey of fringe benefit packages, a company employee said.

Six volumes covering the salaries and fringe benefits for administrative positions are available for $30 a volume, with postage paid if the volumes are prepaid, the company said.

Information can be further broken down by using the school system's population and can also include data on what districts of comparable size offer, the company said.

Both Adams and Mrs. Hanpeter said the system received more for its $21,000 than raw data. Towers Perrin was to determine the equitability of compensation for members of the administrative staff as well as set a schedule for a long-term salary range plan to insure the system kept itself current with what the market was paying, Mrs. Hanpeter said.

The company is also presenting its study of classification and compensation containing recommendations to determine adequate and equitable compensation for the system's 45 administrative positions, which include central office administrators and building principals.

Towers Perrin performed interviews with administrators to help in classifications of duties and responsibilities and to determine whether different levels of compensation might be warranted, Adams said. Questionnaires were also distributed to help the company review the present structure and determine any inequities, he added.

Both Adams and Mrs. Hanpeter said they were looking forward to seeing what the management consultants would recommend. "We know we have some real inequities," Mrs. Hanpeter said.

Mrs. Hanpeter said she knew ERS was available as a resource. "They generate the information," she said of the company, "but we're looking for a long-term plan."

Adams said ERS didn't come up in the committee's discussion of compensation.

The administration compensation committee was appointed in December and began meeting in January to study the question of compensation for the district's administrators.

The issue arose during the search for a new superintendent in which the system found that some candidates expected fringe benefits it didn't offer.

The school board held a special meeting Tuesday morning, March 19, to consider the bids of three different companies. Adams, when asked at the meeting to review the work of the committee, said it became clear after three meetings the issue was more complex than first considered and would require some expert consideration.

One thing the system has received from Towers Perrin is its experience with a variety of school systems in developing similar studies, Adams said.

With its recommendations, the board may now consider what the program will cost the school system, if anything, and make corrections to its 1985-86 fiscal year budget, scheduled for a public hearing June 3.

League to sponsor candidates forum

The League of Women Voters will sponsor a forum featuring school board candidates Tuesday, May 28, at 7:30 p.m. at the War Memorial.

Four candidates have filed for two seats. They are Carl Anderson, Carol Marr, Cynthia Pangborn and incumbent Ernest Buechler.

The candidates will be allowed a three-minute opening statement and brief closing remarks. The bulk of the evening will consist of questions in writing from the audience directed to one or all of the candidates who will then respond within a specific time period.

The forum will be televised by Grosse Pointe Cable TV and will be aired sometime before the June 10 election.

Shown in a scene from "Agnes of God" are Nancy Sortor, who plays Mother Miriam Ruth, and Anita Barone, who is cast as Agnes. The Grosse Pointe Theatre took top honors in the regional semifinals of the Festival of American Community Theatres held in Holland, Mich. The theater group advances to the nationals at Racine, Wis. in June. The winner there will represent the United States at an international competition in Monaco.

It's on to Wisconsin for the finals

GP Theatre wins regional contest

By Nancy Parmenter

Members of the Grosse Pointe Theatre are jubilant at their win May 11 at the Festival of American Community Theatre regional semifinals in Holland. Although the group has entered plays before, this month's win is the first big success.

The festival "gives the members a chance to expand a little," said Michele Karl, the group's president. "I got real excited about it — it's a chance to do something more avant-garde."

The piece selected for presentation at the festival was "Agnes of God," a play with three female characters about a young nun who gives birth to an unexpected — perhaps miraculous — baby and the efforts of her psychiatrist and the mother superior to help her deal with it.

The festival imposed tight restrictions on the presentations, restrictions which would not normally be experienced in the course of a theatrical production. The play could not exceed one hour in length, and setting up and striking the set could not exceed 10 minutes each, or the entry would be automatically disqualified. Since "Agnes" is a full-length play, Director Donna DiSante had to make extensive cuts.

"I had to eliminate the philosophical speeches and go for the story line," Ms. DiSante said. She had an opportunity to test her theory of cutting against Grosse Pointe's main rival, a theater group from Canton, Ohio, which also presented "Agnes of God."

"It was interesting for me as a director to see what they had done," Ms. DiSante said. "They had done the play as part of their regular season. We started with the cutting and kept it up as we rehearsed."

Continuous cutting was hard for the actresses and the director, but Miss Karl credited the strenuous method with the play's success. "They kept cutting right up to the eleventh hour," she said, "but it kept the human element."

"The cutting was frustrating, but we knew it had to happen," said Carol Purdon, a Grosse Pointe who played the psychiatrist, Dr. Martha Livingston.

The interpretation of the play was unconventional, according to its director. "The play is generally done with a stark set," Ms. DiSante explained. "There are things for the Agnes character to run up. She is rigged to gush blood. The effect is theatrical and shocking. I was impressed with the humanity of the character and I wanted to portray that."

"What we've done is unconventional," Mrs. Purdon agreed. "We took more of the psychological and internal — it's a quiet production."

Grosse Pointe Theatre attracts aficionados from all over the metropolitan area. The cast has had varied theatrical experiences, mostly non-professional.

Royal Oak resident Anita Barone, a bachelor of fine arts candidate at the University of Detroit who played Agnes, had been juggling her theatrical commitments to make space for "Agnes." Just before the presentation in Holland, she played the Baton Twirler in "Talking With," an experimental drama with 11 monologues for women. She opened May 17 in "El Grande de Coca Cola" with the Actors' Alliance, which closes just in time for the "Agnes" presentation in the national competition in Racine, Wis., in June. Following that, she starts a two-month stint in summer stock at Saugatuck, doing "The Robber Bridegroom."

"As soon as that's all done, I'll be ready to go to Monaco," she said with a laugh, referring to the international community theater competition which is the next step after Racine.

Mrs. Purdon has received almost all of her 15 years' experience treading the boards at the Grosse Pointe playhouse. She said she has loved every minute of it, but joked that if anyone knew how much work and responsibility went with the fun, "you just wouldn't do it."

Participating in the competition was "a wonderful experience," she said. "There was such a warmth flowing from all those people. The audience was made up of competitors, but they were all sitting there hoping we would do well."

Nancy Sortor, "Mother Miriam Ruth," agreed that "Agnes" is "the most exciting thing I've ever done." Mrs. Sortor has been active with the Grosse Pointe Theatre since 1973 as an actress, director, producer — "everything except lights and sound."

"I'm one of those people who started when they were four, with sheets in the basement," she said.

As had the others, Mrs. Sortor mentioned the unique cutting experience with "Agnes." "Every actor has his own method," she said. "They're as different as snowflakes. But something unique happened with this show. We became an integral part of the script (through the cutting process). This has a lot to do with the show's winning the award. We were so intimately involved."

While Ms. DiSante said that the "strength of the show is the way the actresses worked together," the three actresses credited Ms. DiSante with the success. Ms. DiSante has had extensive theatrical experience, largely as an actress, but she said this marked her directorial debut. "It was educational and interesting," she said. "I'm so happy to have had the experience."

The national competition will take place June 19 and June 20 in Racine. The same cast and director will attend, supported by Emma Jean Evans, producer; Katherine Morris, stage manager; Bill Heimke, technical director; Chuck Sortor, lighting design; Jac Purdon, set design; and Mary Lou Mantho-Olszewski, costume design.

City okays 2nd license bid, tables 3rd request

By Pat Paholsky

The Grosse Pointe City Council approved a request for a Class C liquor license by the Merry Mouse's Cafe le Chat Monday night, and tabled a similar request by the Clairpointe restaurant.

If the request is approved by the Liquor Control Commission, the Cafe le Chat will become the first business in the city with a Class C license since voters approved ending the ban on the sale of liquor by the glass last November.

Jacobson's request for a tavern license, permitting the sale of beer and wine only, was approved by the city council last month. That application is currently in the process of investigation by the LCC.

Jack King, a lawyer who spoke on behalf of the Cafe le Chat, said the restaurant will expand its hours of operation if it's granted the license. Current hours are from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday. King said the restaurant, located at 17001 Kercheval, would remain open until 11 p.m. at least four nights a week initially.

The room now accommodates 36 diners and the owners plan to add on to the rear of the building. The restaurant opened in April 1984. The lease expires in 1988, however, owner Andrew Moquin said he has the option to renew. King said the expansion hinges on whether the restaurant receives the license.

A sidewalk cafe during the summertime is another service the management would like to add, King said.

The next step in the process, an investigation by the LCC, will take from three to four months, according to City Manager Thomas Kressbach. The Merry Mouse, which has paid $1,500 for the first phase of the investigation, must now pay another $1,000 to complete the process.

Following the public hearing and subsequent approval of the Merry Mouse's request during the regular meeting Monday, the city council then reviewed the request by the Clairpointe, located at 630 St. Clair. Attorney Charles Hrdlicka spoke on behalf of Vito DePalma, owner and chef of the Clairpointe. DePalma opened the restaurant four years ago.

The Cafe le Chat plans to expand its hours of operation . . . and the owners plan to add on to the rear of the building.

"I think you have to view the liquor license with the integrity of the proprietor," Hrdlicka said. "I know Mr. DePalma works at least 12 hours a day and he does have that touch, that supervision."

City attorney Richard Hinks said that the fact that DePalma had been a chef at the Detroit Athletic Club, the Recess Club and Anton's "speaks to his abilities. The only thing that bothers me is I haven't seen any financial statement."

The fact also bothered council members, who voted to table the matter until the next meeting. The council requested a report from consultants hired by the city specifically to review finances of businesses applying for a liquor license.

While DePalma submitted profit and loss statements and a list of his assets, city Director of Finance Dennis Foran said some of the reports could not be verified. One of the criteria council established for a liquor license is that the business be financially sound.

"When I took over that place, it was a complete dump," DePalma said. "The former owner said forget opening after 6 p.m. because you will not get any dinner trade. That's not so. I have people lined up at the door Thursday, Friday and Saturday and I think I've accomplished something."

After the meeting, DePalma said he was disappointed, but he hoped the matter would be resolved favorably at the next meeting.

Based on population, the city is allowed a total of four licenses, whether tavern or Class C. No other applications have been filed, according to Deputy Clerk Jeanne Darlington.

Focus:Hope program offers retraining

The Focus:HOPE Machinist Training Institute is looking for laid-off workers with little hope of being recalled to train as skilled machinists. More than 100 openings are available immediately for qualified Detroit residents who have mechanical aptitude, math and reading skills, and motivation.

A 33-week course in precision machining is taught by master craftsmen — most of whom are retired machinists with many years of experience. It includes shop theory, shop math, blueprint reading, inspection processes, and the set-up and operation of lathes, mills and grinders.

The free training is sponsored and funded by Focus:HOPE, the City of Detroit Employment and Training Department, and the Governor's Office of Job Training.

Applications are taken from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at the Focus:HOPE Resource Center, 1355 Oakman Blvd. between 14th Street and Linwood.

The Institute also has openings for Wayne County residents outside of Detroit who are unemployed or have low family income. For more information, call Focus:HOPE at 883-7440. Equal consideration is given to all applicants without regard to race, religion, sex, nationality, or creed.

Established in 1968, Focus:HOPE is a civil and human rights organization of 22,000 people working to improve the quality of life in the metropolitan Detroit community.

Writer joins news staff

Nancy Wild Parmenter has been hired as a staff writer for the Grosse Pointe News, Publisher Robert G. Edgar announced. She will cover the Farms city council and the Farms and Shores police and fire beats.

Mrs. Parmenter most recently was a staff writer at 'The Source' in Utica and has worked for several weekly newspapers in northern Macomb County.

She has a bachelor of arts degree in French from Mount Holyoke and is working toward a master's degree in American history at Oakland University.

She taught French at the secondary level and has been a bookkeeper, piano instructor, choral and theatrical accompanist, instructor of English as a second language and swimming instructor.

Mrs. Parmenter lists her interests as music, theater, cross country skiing, bicycling, travel, and following politics and international affairs.

Her civic involvement includes serving as secretary of the Armada Township Planning Commission and as a member of the Armada Zoning Board of Appeals. She also serves on the family services allocation committee of the United Foundation of Metropolitan Detroit.

Her husband Bob was a teacher in the Grosse Pointe Public School System for 11 years. She has a 20-year-old son and he has a son and daughter, both married. They live in Armada.

Memorial Day services set

The community is invited to attend the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's annual Memorial Day Service, to be held lakeside Monday, May 27, at 11 a.m.

The program will begin with a flag-raising by VFW Post 393 and American Legion Post 303. The advancing and placing of colors will be a joint effort by the U.S. Marine Corps Color Guard, the Boy Scouts of America Troop 156 and Girl Scouts of America Junior Troop 1393.

The invocation will be presented by the Rev. Louis J. Prues II, of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, and the welcome will be given by William D. Dahling, past president of the War Memorial's board of directors. The current president, William D. Monahan, will address the gathering.

Farms Mayor James H. Dingeman will present the Gold Star Honor Roll, after which the 1st Michigan Colonial Fife and Drum Corps will present a concert.

After the placing of wreaths and benediction by the Rev. Monsignor Francis X. Canfield of St. Paul Catholic Church, there will be the volley, taps and echo. Another feature of the program will be a jet fly-over by the 127th Air National Guard from Selfridge Air Force Base, and then ushers from the Scout troops will retire the colors.

Following the service at 11:45 a.m., a documentary film, "Over There, 1918-1978," by Dr. E.J. Rennell Jr. will be shown in the Fries Auditorium. The film covers the Sault Ste. Marie's Drum and Bugle Corps trip to London and Paris to commemorate the 60th anniversary of the end of World War I.

Students work for safe prom night

By Mike Andrzejczyk
The commercial starts this week on Grosse Pointe Cable. Karen Bokram, a South Junior, sits on a director's chair against a blue backdrop. As she begins to talk, the camera moves in slowly, finally framing her face as she finishes.
The message is simple. "You know, I was thinking. Things aren't going so bad. I got accepted to the college of my choice, he asked me to the prom and I'm finally graduating. I've got a lot to live for. You think I'm gonna mess it up by drinking and driving? No way."
Her delivery is measured. Her voice changes pitch and tone. You can see it in her eyes, the way she flips her hair, the way she smiles. Karen means what she says.

When public high school seniors pick up their caps and gowns, there will be an extra message in there for them on a small card. It reads "Class reunion 1995. Be there. Don't drink and drive."

Graduating seniors at high schools in the Pointes and Harper Woods are working hard to get the message across to their classmates that drinking and driving can bring an unexpected end to a prom or graduation celebration. All three are sponsoring events aimed at eliminating the use of alcohol during graduation while promoting ideas that offer some adult supervision to the prom and graduation night.

North and South High, along with Harper Woods High will offer all-night parties the nights of graduation.

North's will start at the school at 9 p.m. Wednesday, June 13 with the doors locked at midnight. Students who leave after midnight will have their parents notified, according to North senior class sponsor Frank Guns.

A variety of entertainment will be offered during the next five hours before breakfast to keep the seniors together as a class, Guns said. The all-night party ends at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford Estate with a sunrise service at the lakefront of the 80-acre estate.

South's is the next night, Thursday, June 14, at the War Memorial and follows the same pattern, according to Assistant Principal Bernard LeMieux. The class stays together that evening at the center and is served breakfast in the morning before a sunrise service.

Harper Woods High students have their party the same night as South's at their high school on Beaconsfield near Vernier.

The idea is the same, put best in the release announcing Harper Woods' party: "It's a wonderful time for the kids and a party they'll never forget. There are enough activities to keep the kids amused and wanting for nothing — including alcohol."

On Prom Night, SafeRides will accept calls from students who have either been drinking and cannot drive, or those driving with people who should not drive because they have been drinking. The SafeRide number is 88-Home-8. Rides are confidential.

While Harper Woods High and

South are taking part in the Project Graduation promotion developed by community groups and television and radio stations, Guns said North's seniors decided to keep their promotion of a safe evening in-house, with poster campaigns and messages on prom tickets about drinking and driving.

The students didn't think they could get participation in the program, so they decided instead to keep the campaign local, Guns said.

"The students thought they could do better on their own, going for a personal approach, instead of the arm-twisting," he added. "They know their class better than any parents."

South had a class meeting last week where it handed out the Project Graduation contracts, LeMieux said. They are to be signed by parents and students.

Students, for their part, promise to "do my part to have a safe prom/graduation season" by not drinking and driving, driving with someone who has been drinking and calling home if they need a ride.

Parents, for their part, sign and offer their child a ride home, no questions asked. Parents also agree to supervise parties held in their homes and not serve alcoholic beverages.

One way parents can offer some supervision is by offering breakfast at their home following Prom Night, LeMieux said. Parents can invite eight or 10 couples to stop at the home shortly after the prom ends and offer entertainment and activities as well as breakfast.

If the school finds out a student has rented a hotel room in which a revolving party will be held Prom Night, it tries to get in touch with the establishment to warn it, LeMieux said. The school tries to contact all hotels and motels about the possibility of students or their older friends renting rooms in hotels for parties, he added.

Police officials said that when they hear of house parties, they will respond quickly and prosecute to the full extent of the law. In Grosse Pointe City, that means a little extra something, according to Public Safety Director Bruce Kennedy.

Homeowners will be held liable if alcohol is consumed at a party in their home even if they aren't there, Kennedy said.

Other departments have something else in store. Harper Woods and Grosse Pointe Woods have special alcohol enforcement road units who are looking especially for the drinking driver.

Michigan's dram shop law puts an extra burden on those who furnish liquor by holding those establishments liable for damages should injuries incur because the person was served there.

The state court of appeals has also ruled that hosts could be held liable for damages should minors be provided alcohol.

"It's a little easier for parents to keep their eyes on it. They could do it," LeMieux said.

This year's Senior Prom will be held at the War Memorial Saturday night, May 25.

South High School maintenance workers were kept busy Monday morning transferring chairs back to the cafeteria that had been removed over the weekend by pranksters.

South pranksters stash cafeteria tables in attic

By Nancy Parmenter
Last weekend's prank at South High was nearly put back together again by Monday noon. All the king's horses and all the king's men — in this case 12 custodians on overtime — were called in to carry cafeteria furniture down from the attic where a horde of pranksters had hauled it one night during the weekend.

The empty cafeteria and teachers' lounge were discovered early on Monday morning by a custodian. The salad bar and trash compactor from the cafeteria were abandoned on the second floor, and the cafeteria and lounge themselves were completely empty. About 200 chairs and 35 or 40 tables, all built of heavy oak, were missing. They were discovered shortly in the school attic.

A note scrawled on a paper bag gave credit for the prank to the "Students' Non-Destructive Revolutionary Strike Force." It offered to pay for any damages, but specifically refused to pay for any lunches for "fat cats."

Assistant Principal Bernard LeMieux said he does not plan to post an itemized list of damages. "I don't want to play their game," he said. "My position at this point is to just let the thing die."

Grosse Pointe Farms Detective Earl Field said he is examining latent fingerprints obtained from the high window of the gymnasium where the pranksters gained entry. Shoe prints were also found in the earth around the outside of the gym. Field has already spoken to the Michigan State Police about the prank.

A few weeks ago, South's school paper printed the question, "Where are the pranks this year?" LeMieux said he has no idea whether this prank transpired as a response to a perceived challenge, but said it was a possibility.

"This kind of stuff tends to be self-perpetuating," he said.

Field and the state police had considered the same thing. He said they had discussed a rash of hooliganism in Troy which has been publicized in the Detroit Free Press.

LeMieux said he is not aware of any rivalry between suburban high schools to "out-prank" each other.

LeMieux emphasized that the prank was "non-destructive" and that the best way to deal with it is to downplay it. Asked if he had considered making the students move the furniture back downstairs, he explained that liability was an issue.

"One of the thoughts was not to put it back at all and let them sit on the floor," he said, "but in my opinion, that's glorifying it."

Although LeMieux said he preferred to downplay the incident, he also said that it was "well-orchestrated." The pranksters had walkie-talkies. They cut the interior chains to the outside doors. They broke out a window near the top of the gym wall. They also forced their way into a walk-in cooler and stole approximately $50 worth of soft drinks, according to police reports.

LeMieux said he could not estimate the costs of custodian overtime until the cleanup job is completed. The entire afternoon shift was called in to work during the morning, then had to go directly to work on their regular schedule.

KENNY: In memory of a child's murder

By Tom Greenwood
For most parents, the thought of child abduction is no more than a nightmare.

For Marie Edenstrom, the nightmare became reality when her youngest son was kidnapped and murdered. Kenny Myers, 14, left his Ferndale home last July 16 to look for a part-time job in a party store. The youngest of three brothers, Kenny was a hard worker who'd already saved up $3,000 from years as a paper boy.

"He left on his bike and never came home," said Mrs. Edenstrom, in a low steady voice. "I was concerned at 9 but he had a 10 p.m. curfew. At 11 I went to the police station and they were terrific. They took a report immediately and checked with me every hour throughout the night. My Kenny was found two days later beneath some bushes in Hines Park, about 35 miles away. He had been strangled. His killer hasn't yet been found."

Kenny would have been 15 last January, the month his mother began speaking on child abduction prevention through "Kids Everywhere Now Need You" (KENNY).

Mrs. Edenstrom will bring KENNY to St. Paul's School Friday, May 30, at 8 p.m. Her 40-minute seven-part program will help educate parents on how to safeguard their children.

"I'm going to tell the parents of Grosse Pointe my story," Mrs. Edenstrom said. "And I don't intend to scare anyone. I don't go into a lot of details, but I do want to open their eyes. Until you've experienced what I have, you don't know what hell is."

"I just go where people want me to go," she continued. "I've spoken at a number of schools and churches. I've spoken in Lansing and this week I'll be speaking to a congressional subcommittee in Washington, D.C. I'm the only parent they asked to speak and I'm going to share my experiences with them and make some suggestions on how to handle this problem."

One of the items on her agenda is media protection for the victims and their families. "I didn't have any privacy for almost two months," said Mrs. Edenstrom. "Even when I specifically requested it, I was hounded by the media. That isn't right."

She also objects to the viewing policies of the Wayne County medical examiner's office, complaining that viewing hours are restricted from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"If it's after 5 p.m. you're not allowed to identify bodies," she said. "Do you know what kind of agony a parent can go through waiting through the night? I was allowed to view Kenny after hours, but only after their office received a lot of bad p.r. It's not like you can destroy evidence. The bodies are shown in a photo or on a screen. Kenny was brought before TV cameras."

Mrs. Edenstrom also urges police departments to take missing child reports immediately, instead of following a policy of restricting reports to 24 or 48 hours later.

She'd also like to see posters of missing children posted in government buildings. "When Kenny was taken, we had fliers made up and posted them on telephone poles and in businesses," she said. "We also took them to the post office and a library where they refused to let us put them up. The post office posts photos of criminals, but not of missing children. Something's wrong here."

Mrs. Edenstrom will also urge Congress to regulate the large number of groups that are forming to prevent child abduction. "There are a number of groups, but there's no regulation," she said. "Some groups help, but others are damaging. They want to exploit the victims."

KENNY is being brought to St. Paul's through the urging of resident Marlene Hudson, who felt personally affected by Mrs. Edenstrom's story.

"I had read about Marie's story in the Free Press and felt it really hit home," she said. "I've always been interested in trying to prevent child abduction. It's something every parent fears. I've always felt there should be some type of organization devoted to this problem."

"I talked about our concerns with Farms Detective Earl Field and child safety officer Donald Dewey and they were both most helpful. They also urged me to talk to Marie and bring her here. She can help."

Mrs. Edenstrom's tips for parents include having children learn their full name, complete address and phone number including the area code; learning whose homes they are allowed to enter; going to the nearest checkout counter for help if they become separated while shopping; and never entering a parking lot alone.

More tips include teaching children to always walk or play with others and stressing that adults do not usually ask children for directions. If that happens, children should be warned not to go near the car.

"We have to teach children they have the right to say no to an adult," said Mrs. Edenstrom. "They don't have to answer a strange adult's questions. We have to learn to be their best friend. They're little people, but they have a point of view too. We have to take time to listen to it."

"I also suggested that parents don't have their children wear clothes where their names are visible," added Mrs. Edenstrom. "It's too easy for strangers to pick up on it and act like they know the child."

"These are just simple, logical steps to prevent child abduction. Statistics upset me. They show that only a small percentage of abductions are done by strangers. Most are parental abductions in child custody disputes. But there are still a large number of attempted abductions."

"If I'd taken these steps earlier, maybe they would have saved Kenny — maybe not," she said. "But maybe they'll help save someone else's child. KENNY is a memorial to my son."

Professor recalls Antarctic expedition, Admiral Byrd

By Michael McConnell

Among the varied awards and degrees held by Dr. William F. Sosnowsky of the City is a medal he received for Antarctic service as a helmsman and chartkeeper for the legendary explorer, Adm. Richard E. Byrd. Sosnowsky was a 19-year-old second class quartermaster in the U.S. Navy in January 1947 when he sailed on the USS Philippine Sea — Byrd's flagship for the Antarctic expedition known as Operation High Jump.

Sosnowsky, who earned his doctorate in education at Wayne State University where he now teaches, recently recalled his experiences aboard the Philippine Sea.

"As a boy I had read all about Byrd," he said, "And the chance to sail with him was the fulfillment of a boyhood dream."

For Sosnowsky, who grew up on Pulaski street, in Hamtramck, sailing and the Navy way of life had been brought to him through an uncle who was a Navy man and had sent him letters and stamps from all around the world.

"You'd have to know the special charm," he said, "of getting these stamps from all over — bringing into my young mind that there was a world beyond Pulaski street."

Going through his scrapbooks at home, Sosnowsky illustrated his story with old photographs and yellowed newspaper clippings.

It was the beginning of the Cold War era when he sailed from Norfolk, Va., on Jan. 2, 1947, and stories of Operation High Jump had already appeared in most of the national newspapers.

"They really hyped the whole thing quite a bit," he said, pointing out a news story that was headlined: "U.S. races seven nations to seize South Pole." The story reported that one of the nations the United States was racing against was Russia.

One of the main tasks of the operation, however, was to study the Antarctic topography and take aerial photographs for precise mapping of the continent. There was also a theory — later disproved — that the Antarctic was actually two separate masses of land that might contain uranium deposit for fueling the new Atomic Age.

Although Byrd was retired from the Navy at the time of the expedition with most of his career behind him, he was allowed to conduct the operation under Admiral Cruzen, who was commander of the whole task force. More than 4,000 men aboard 13 carrier ships were involved in the operation.

"We carried a helicopter and six DC-3 airplanes on the flagship," Sosnowsky said.

The Philippine Sea had to sail almost 9,300 miles from Norfolk to its destination 100 miles off the Antarctic coast. The trip took 22 days.

The time was passed for Sosnowsky in keeping the charts up to date and steering the ship from behind a large brass wheel surrounded by a series of navigational compasses.

"I kept Byrd's charts," he said, "It was a magical experience. Byrd was a very gracious person. He would always take time to say a few words or maybe autograph a picture for your mother back home. He knew who he was."

"Coming into the Antarctic region is more like a transition than an arrival. I remember after we had gotten past the equator and spotted the first whales, and then later, when we saw our first iceberg, which was probably a mile or two long. There was certainly no chance of smacking into it."

As the journey continued, the crew of the Philippine Sea had to accustom itself to the never-ending light.

"At first the colors were overwhelming. The sky and the sea were a blue like I had never seen before. A lot of us couldn't sleep very well. And after a while many of the crew became irritable."

Sosnowsky recalled the chill that overcame him when two men were killed after their helicopter left the flight deck on a test run and fluttered into the sea.

"I saw it out the port window," he said, "It made one upward flight and plunked into the sea. It shook our faith."

Byrd would be making his first flight from the deck of the Philippine Sea. And after the helicopter incident many of the crew, including Sosnowsky, were understandably apprehensive.

William P. Sosnowsky

Byrd's twin-engine DC-3 sat on deck. Essentially a cargo plane, it was equipped with a jet-assisted take-off system and had skis set just inches above its wheels for landing on the snowy Antarctic terrain. Painted on the nose of the plane beneath the cockpit window was a logo that had been designed by Sosnowsky's chief for Operation High Jump — a penguin clad in swimming trunks.

"I was at the helm when Byrd took off," Sosnowsky said, "We were all tense."

The carrier was brought around so that the planes would be heading into the wind for maximum lift as they left the deck. Byrd's plane would be the first to take off.

"There was scuttlebutt that if Byrd got out OK, then the other planes would follow."

Finally, without mishap, Byrd's plane left the deck of the Philippine Sea, 100 miles off the Antarctic coast.

"I recall, on my part, a great sigh of relief," said Sosnowsky, "It wasn't lumbering. That plane took off so marvelously!"

The medal that Sosnowsky received hangs from a wide ribbon colored in diminishing shades of deep blue. It pictures a man in cold weather gear standing behind the words: "Antarctic Service."

"Everyone in the expedition got one," he said, "It took me nearly 20 years to finally get mine. But that's really another story."

War Memorial offers hot air balloon flights

Three hot air balloon flights at sunset have been scheduled by the War Memorial for June 14, July 19, and August 9.

Participants leave the Center via van at 5 p.m. and are driven to their launch site in Rochester. From there FAA commercial balloon pilot Dennis Kollin takes over. First, the soon to be airborne guests watch one of Kollin's balloons get inflated.

He has two: one that is pink, purple, blue and yellow, and another one that is royal blue, red, white, orange and yellow.

For an hour or longer, just as the sun is setting, the balloon skims treetops for a while and then sails upward and out over a rural landscape. Once the flight is over, all can celebrate over a glass of champagne.

A van has been following closely, so no matter where the ultimate destination is, travelers do not need to trek back to the original launch site. The van will return to the Center by 10:30 p.m.

Kollin suggests that participants dress casually and bring a light jacket, a hat, and a camera. All flights, which cost $105 per person, are subject to wind and weather conditions. Flights will be rescheduled if necessary.

For information on how to reserve space on one of the three flights, call the War Memorial at 881-7511.

Garage sale

Grosse Pointe's Greatest Garage Sale will be held Memorial Day weekend, Sunday, May 26, and Monday, May 27, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The event will be held in the parking garage behind Jacobson's in the Village.

The case for group homes

Recent issues of the Grosse Pointe News have carried a series of articles by the Group Home Advisory Council of Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods to help inform the public about the care of developmentally disabled adults and the need for residential group homes to house them. The News published the series as a public service, hoping the articles would help educate the public and increase understanding of the efforts to integrate the developmentally disabled into local communities.

Perhaps the best service performed by the series was to point out that these people deserve a chance to develop their potentials to the best of their abilities and remember that many of them come from our own communities, wherever we may live. The point was emphasized, for example, that the mentally retarded, one of the groups identified as being developmentally disabled, learn and grow at a more rapid rate when they have the opportunity to live in a home-like setting and interact naturally with people in their community.

But the series also helped dispel misunderstandings that have led to opposition to establishment of group homes. Studies were cited to show that the placement of group homes has no impact on neighboring property values, that residents of group homes pose no more danger to children than average citizens would and that such homes are well monitored by local associations as well as teams of parents.

Some community opposition to adult foster care homes — but not all — has been expressed on the basis of myths and rumor, but court rulings have upheld legislation requiring communities to accept such homes. In a recent decision rejecting an attempt by Shelby Township to bar an adult foster home, the Michigan Court of Appeals said, in part:

"The intent of the Legislature in placing adult foster care facilities in residential areas is clearly stated. The purpose is to assure that persons in need of community residential care shall not be excluded from the benefits of normal residential surroundings."

In this case, however, the township challenged an application for what would be the 11th adult foster home in the township on the grounds it violated a prohibition against "an excessive concentration of community residential facilities" within a municipality. But the court agreed with the Macomb County Circuit judge who had ruled that the home complied with all legal requirements.

Cases such as this one, however, have led to the introduction of legislation to restrict the number of homes for developmentally disabled adults in any community to no more than four for every 1,000 residents. The legislators said they were acting in the interests of the adults shoved into crowded homes that are "in the inner cities or way out in the boondocks on the farms." The residents of such homes then become isolated from the rest of the community, the sponsors said.

Critics of the proposed legislation said, however, that the present law prohibiting two foster care homes from being in the same 1,500 foot radius sufficiently addressed the problems the bill seeks to solve. However, they also indicated that failure of all communities to accept foster care homes has been responsible for some of the concentration in communities that do accept them.

Whether additional legislation is required to ensure more widespread dispersion of the more than 4,000 foster care homes in Michigan is obviously debatable. But the series in the News on the problems of the developmentally disabled adults and the integration of group homes into local communities certainly offers hope that with greater understanding will come greater community acceptance of the group home concept.

Accenting the negative

The saga of William Lucas' conversion to the Republican Party continues to get a big play in the state media with most of the accent on the positive as the county executive goes to Washington, meets with President Reagan and is welcomed into the GOP with warmth and admiration. But the Democrats are planning some counter moves to accent the negative and thus offset the Republican gains from the Lucas switch.

One proposal aired by a county democratic office holder who prefers to remain anonymous is for the Democratic Party to seek out an outstanding black candidate for Wayne County executive to succeed Lucas in next year's election. The theory is that such a candidate would help keep the blacks in Detroit in the Democratic Party in both the primary and the general election, assuming Lucas' nomination, and thus reduce the potential gains that a Republican nominee for governor could make in Wayne County.

Whether such an effort succeeds or not, it does seem clear that the Democrats are devising counter moves to maintain their hold on their party following not only in Wayne County but in the state as a whole. Gov. James Blanchard already has begun to open up on Lucas by claiming that the state really "bailed out" Wayne County and that the county executive's claim to efficient administration has to be considered in the light of the state aid that helped the county balance its budget. Other attacks no doubt will be made on Lucas as time moves along and he is forced to take positions on state issues.

Yet both parties now seem to be more worried about the black reaction to a black Republican candidate than about the white reaction to a black Republican. In effect, the question is whether Lucas is as persuasive among blacks as he appears to be among whites when he contends that he left the Democratic Party because it takes him and his fellow blacks for granted and does not give them as many opportunities as he now sees in the GOP.

Another part of that question is whether blacks who have identified with the Democrats because of the party's stands on social issues can be persuaded to support a Republican party which puts less emphasis on government help and social programs than it does on individual initiative and personal responsibility. That same question can be asked of white voters as well, but Reagan's widespread support by white voters in 1980 and 1984 already has provided some answers in their case.

We do not yet live in a colorblind society and so it is too early to say that Michigan's politics have become colorblind as a result of the widespread acceptance of Bill Lucas by state Republicans. Yet just the announcement of the Lucas conversion and the attention paid to it nationally as well as locally indicates that it is an important event which could move us in the direction of that colorblind ideal.

As Lucas starts his campaign for governor — on an unofficial basis, of course — he will be faced with more and more questions about specific issues. He already has expressed some criticism of President Reagan's stand on South Africa's racial policies, has said he would favor phasing out rather than ending federal revenue sharing, has supported a constitutional right-to-life amendment to ban abortions with no exceptions, and has supported belt-tightening in both defense and domestic spending. Those are positions that do not appeal to all Republicans any more than they appeal to all Democrats. So the opinions he expressed about those issues could cost him votes whether he is a Republican or Democrat.

Yet such issues are the ones that ought to count, of course, as voters weigh Bill Lucas' qualifications to serve in a higher level of government. Whatever the future holds for Lucas, Michigan residents owe him a debt of gratitude for speaking out as he has done, for his service to Wayne County and for his courage in making an important gamble with his own political career.

Woods is missing the boat

To the Editor:

The City of Grosse Pointe Woods is indeed missing the boat or more accurately "the boats" and the revenue that could conceivably be generated over the years from slip rentals.

Stories recently appearing in the Detroit News pointed out the severe shortage of available docking. In light of the shortage commercial marinas have increased their prices 25 to 75 percent putting the cost for a small to medium size boat at about $750 to $1,500 for the summer.

The Woods has slips available for approximately 200 boats. Last year over 75 of these wells went unrented and that number will without question increase. The problem lies in the fact that the existing wells are located on the Milk River. Over the river runs a bridge that at one time serviced the old swimming pool parking area. That pool has since been replaced and the building that was once the boat house is slated for demolition. The bulk of the available docking facilities lie on the Jefferson side of the bridge. With the high water conditions (that have existed for a number of years now), only the smallest of boats can pass under the bridge.

The approximate cost to level the bridge and replace it with a culvert-type at the Jefferson end of the river was estimated to be in the $40-$60,000 range. Some quick math discloses that if this action were taken, a minimum of 75 wells would become available, assuming a rental income of $400-$700 (depending on boat size), $30,000-$52,500 would flow back into the city treasury.

Strange how there is never indecision when it comes to increasing taxes, bumping property tax assessments or raising the salaries of certain officials. With a waiting list that extends back over four years, a favorable economic scenario for taking action, and countless dollars being lost every season it just seems as if the Woods City Officials continue to "miss the boat(s)."

Writers say War Memorial poll defective

To the Editor:

The recent letter to the editor written by our friend, Alex Suezek, as director of the War Memorial Association, in support of a public liquor license at the Center requires a response.

The primary thrust of his letter is that the results of a recent post card poll conducted by the Association indicates that "about half the voters in the Farms" favor a public liquor license at the Center and that a referendum of the Farms voters would "be overwhelmingly in favor of granting the license."

On the contrary, it is quite obvious that the post card poll cannot be considered to be an accurate reflection of the attitude of the Farms voters. In the first place, the requested approval was materially misleading. It erroneously implied that a liquor license could be obtained which would authorize and restrict the service of alcoholic beverages at the Center "within the guidelines established." Actually, the Liquor Control Commission has advised us that it is not legally possible to obtain a liquor license which would contain any special conditions or restrictions.

In addition, the post card poll was also defective in that it failed to give the voter an opportunity to vote against a public liquor license at the Center.

It is reasonable to assume that if the foregoing was known and also if the voter was given the opportunity to vote against a public liquor license, the results of the poll would have been substantially different.

We also wish to point out that the issuance of a public liquor license at the Center would be contrary to the current widespread movement to further limit rather than increase the availability of alcohol to our young people as indicated by the raising of the drinking age from 18 to 21.

It is significant that the several hundred Farms residents who have signed petitions in opposition to a liquor license at the Center have done so completely voluntarily and not as a result of any organized solicitation campaign, but only in the sincere belief that such a public license would not be in the best interest of the Center or the community.

Grand Prix should remain downtown

To the Editor:

It was recently proposed that the Detroit Grand Prix be held on Belle Isle in following years. The condition of a track downtown was the major consideration. The Detroit Grand Prix still remains as one of the few circuits that race in the actual city streets as the purpose of Grand Prix suggests.

The relocation of the Grand Prix to Belle Isle would result in the loss of the many that are not loyal race fans, but watch the race and enjoy downtown Detroit at the same time. Many hotel rooms on the circuit are rented out solely for viewing purposes. These rooms may otherwise be occupied during a Belle Isle race, but not with the people using the hotels' room service while watching the race live.

The Grand Prix should remain downtown to give those viewing it on national television a view of the city at every turn, behind every car. Not the woods of Belle Isle or the Canadian lakeshore.

The city could be seen from a distance, but it would not be the same as the shots of the people crowded into Hart Plaza with no interest in the race, but the people and excitement around them. The downtown Grand Prix allows people to wander throughout the circuit while shopping, etc., adding more business to downtown.

A Belle Isle location of the Detroit Grand Prix would not provide the cultural and social aspects that are present downtown. Keep the Grand Prix downtown.

Welcome home at last!

To the Editor:

Congratulations to the Grosse Pointe Board of Education and to Dr. Claire Hunt for bringing more of our special education students home for their education. The community's acceptance of these special students into our own Grosse Pointe education family is heartwarming and long overdue.

Our outstanding Grosse Pointe general education staff will do a fantastic job with the mainstreamed students if proper support systems are established for staff, for special education students' parents, and for the children themselves.

Tribute to Dr. Andreou

To the Editor:

The passing of Dr. Byron Andreou warrants a moment of reflection and thanksgiving for God's gift to those of us whose lives he touched.

There are those who though spending a relatively short amount of time with us, leave us with an indelible recognition that they are indeed irreplaceable.

A loving husband, a caring father, a faithful friend and a devoted physician, Byron Andreou will not soon be forgotten. A pediatrician who gave each patient his home phone number for those long nights with the sick child. He was a gentle man who made house calls to heal the physically ill child and mend the emotional and tired mothers.

In the crowded office, he always made the time to comfort the apprehensive child. To sit and read the child a book was not uncommon. A personal touch was part of Dr. Andreou's demeanor. He was never too rushed to sit down with the parents and children in his office even though all of his phone lines were blinking. He was the kind of man who would give each child a quarter to play a video game upon running in to him at the local Coney Island.

To his patients, Dr. Byron Andreou will soon be substituted but never replaced. To the community, he will be compared but never paralleled. To his fellow human beings, he will be a fine example.

Thank you, Mrs. Andreou, Eric, Jennifer, Mary and Amy for sharing him with us.

And thank you, Dr. Andreou

Fireworks short of money

By Mike Andrzejczyk

With little more than a month to go, Mack Avenue U.S.A. fireworks organizers say they have raised just about two-thirds of the $15,000 budget for this year's display.

The fireworks and preceding concert by the St. Clair Shores Symphony Orchestra is scheduled to begin about 8:15 Sunday, June 30, with a rain date of Wednesday, July 3. The pyrotechnics will be fired from Lochmoor Club grounds, with the audiences gathering at Parcels Middle School grounds at Mack and Vernier.

Co-chairmen Kathy Forster and Robbie Curry say they have raised about $10,000 for this year's display and add they need financial support from residents and business owners.

Several businesses have made large contributions to the display. One bright spot was the donation of staff and equipment for the symphony's sound system by Sloane Barbour of Pointe Electronics.

The problem remains money, however. While the fireworks are under the sponsorship of the Grosse Pointe Business and Professional Association of Mack Avenue, the fireworks books are separate and have to balance when the event is over, Mrs. Forster says.

At the Soroptimists booth at Grosse Pointe Greatest Garage Sale this weekend in the Village will be a red "firecracker" canister into which people may drop donations, she adds.

Donations may also be sent to Mack Avenue U.S.A., 20327 Mack, Grosse Pointe Woods 48236. Checks should be made payable to Mack Avenue U.S.A. and contributions are tax-deductible, according to Mrs. Curry.

"A more elaborate display is possible this year — a better display, not longer — if we get the funds," Mrs. Forster adds.

This year's evening will begin about 8:15 Sunday night and will feature radio and television personality Gene Taylor as master of ceremonies. Following the introductions, the National Anthem will be sung by "Fat Bob" Taylor while an honor guard presents the flag.

The St. Clair Shores Symphony Orchestra will be under the direction of guest conductor James Hohmeyer, music coordinator at University Liggett school. Hohmeyer, a Woods resident, is also conductor of the Rochester Symphony Orchestra.

During the symphony's two intermissions, business people and public officials will be introduced. The symphony will perform three sets, ending at full dark with the firing of a 27-minute pyrotechnic display from the Lochmoor grounds.

Taylor will also perform other songs accompanied by the symphony. His selections include "The Road to Mandalay," "The Impossible Dream" and "Old Man River" as well as two other arrangements.

Among the symphony's selections that night will be "The Olympic Overture," "American Salute," "Stars and Stripes Forever," "Caravan" and "Fanfare for the Common Man." An audience participation selection is also planned, according to Hohmeyer.

Public and non-public school students choral students will perform "We Are The World" during the second set, with the audience singing the refrain.

Last year's display at Parcels field was the first since 1976 and drew an estimated 8,000 people to Mack and Vernier.

The idea for resurrecting the fireworks came during a luncheon meeting of the business association in June 1983, Mrs. Forster says.

"There were several people sitting at the table and we were reminiscing about past Fourth of Julys and talking about what we were doing that year" when the topic of the fireworks once fired by the Kiwanis Club came up, Mrs. Forster says. Everyone at the table thought it would be good to bring back the display.

State committee agrees with Pointe Realtors

After nearly two years of procedural paperwork, the Grosse Pointe Realty Exchange has received a preliminary approval from a state real estate committee to set up its own real estate board. Grosse Pointe is currently part of the Detroit Board of Realtors.

"We've got a long way to go yet, but we're pleased so far," said Thomas Youngblood, president of the Grosse Pointe Real Estate Exchange. "It would be presumptuous to speculate."

The May 10 approval by the ad hoc committee of the Michigan Association of Realtors is only one step in a long series, explained Cathy Champion Dillaman, who holds directorships in both the Detroit and the Grosse Pointe realty groups. The ruling will proceed through the governing layers of realty associations up to the national level, she said.

"It's a trade matter," Ms. Dillaman said. "It's a matter of legitimizing a situation which already exists." She estimated that the remaining procedures will require at least until fall.

The Detroit board has resisted efforts by Grosse Pointe to separate. Ms. Dillaman said, however, that there is enough precedent for independence that the realty association has written a manual governing jurisdictional changes.

South holds arts festival

The fourth annual Grosse Pointe South High Schools Arts Festival, sponsored by the school and the South Mothers' Club, will be held Wednesday to Friday, May 29 to 31, at the school, 11 Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

Highlights of the festival include an on-going art exhibit, a Wednesday evening program featuring solo vocalists, dramatic readings, a fashion show from the Fashion and Design department and the Annual Arts Awards presentations.

Thursday evening the South High School Band and Orchestra will present a concert on the front lawn of the school, followed by the popular Ice Cream Social.

This year local merchants are assisting South High School in the promotion of the festival. Displays of student work will be on view in the windows of Young Clothes on the Hill and Jacobson's and the Camera Center in the Village. An additional display may be seen at the Central Library.

Departments represented include the Arts department, exhibiting art work, photography, calligraphy, ceramics, weaving, commercial and interior design; Industrial Technology, with wood and metal projects and drafting; Music, with vocal and instrumental performances; English, with Forensics, Imprints and The Tower; and Home Economics, with a fashion show from the fashion and design students.

The art exhibit will be open during school hours in Clemison Hall Wednesday and Thursday and from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday. The exhibit is also open from 7 to 10 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday.

Wednesday night activities include a Tower and Imprints Open House, solo performances by the vocal departments, fashion show and informational speech. From 7:30 to 9 p.m., performing arts awards will be given in the auditorium. At 8:30 p.m., arts awards will be handed out.

Thursday highlights include, besides the art exhibit and Tower and Imprint Open House, an outdoor concert and ice cream social on the high school lawn beginning at 7 p.m.

Foster homes needed

County-wide recruitment meetings for persons interested in becoming foster parents are scheduled for May and June in the administrative offices of Children and Youth Services, Michigan Department of Social Services — Wayne County, 801 West Baltimore, Detroit.

Prospective foster parents will be acquainted with the need for foster homes in Wayne County for both black and white children in need of temporary care. Procedures for applying for state licensure of foster homes will be explained.

Meetings are scheduled as follows: May 23, 7 p.m., and May 29, 10 a.m.

Also, June 6, 7 p.m.; June 12, 10 a.m.; June 20, 7 p.m., and June 26, 10 a.m.

Foster homes are needed for youngsters ranging in age from infants to 17-year-olds, including some brother and sister groups. Foster homes may be headed by married couples or single parents.

The department pays a monthly stipend for care and provides a twice-yearly clothing allowance for children in licensed foster homes. Health care needs of children in foster home placement are covered under Medicaid.

Further information may be obtained by calling the foster home recruitment and licensing unit at 876-6220.

of events in Detroit that are played in between such numbers as "Mood Indigo," "Happiness is Just a Thing Called Joe," "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," "Route 66" and "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy." Talk about nostalgia. I didn't want to go home. If you need some Woody Herman, the trio will be at Tremont's in Detroit for another month.

The night before that, we attended a program at the War Memorial put on by the Friends of Vision. They wanted to open up the world of blindness to those of us who can see and who take it for granted. Not exactly a fun evening, you might say.

Wrong. It was fun and wildly funny at times, entertaining and highly informative.

My interest in visual impairment goes beyond a reporter's curiosity. My father began losing his sight shortly before he retired and he has been blind for a number of years now. He's also stubborn — too proud to accept help or take advantage of any of the services available. So I have been nagging, bribing and shaming him, and with the help of those flesh-and-blood angels at the Friends of Vision, he has another world opened up to him.

He demonstrates his collapsible cane. He doesn't use it, but it's there. He shows us the tape recorder and the tapes available to blind people. He has some National Geographic tapes and he says they're good. My mother looks through the catalogue for tapes she too will enjoy along with him.

Getting back to the evening, I cannot resist saying it was an eye-opening event, listening to people who cannot see talk about their world. According to one speaker, it's the second most feared disease. The first is cancer.

Kay Gee, a former social worker who has the same disease as my father, said, as she sat in the crowded Fries Ballroom, that the program made medical history. Never before had so many people — about 250 — gathered for such a program and never before had such an evening been planned. And even though I know better than to believe that anything is a first, it doesn't matter. I believed her.

If you are losing your sight or you know someone who is, get in touch with the Friends of Vision. It doesn't matter where the visually impaired person lives, because their help transcends city limits. They see clearer than those of us who think we can see. Their number is 824-4710.

And since I'm on the subject of things we did one weekend, I might as well finish with the ballet. Our neighbor to the north, the St. Clair Shores Symphony presented "Sleeping Beauty," which was performed at the Macomb Center for the Performing Arts by two dancers from the San Francisco Ballet and a large cast of local dancers.

Now I have to tell you that the ballet is not something that excites my husband. He would sooner cut the grass, an activity that sets off his allergies. But he agreed to go and I planned to elbow him at intervals to keep him awake.

Well, to shorten this tale, I didn't have to. He not only stayed awake and alert, he got caught up in the story line. I shouldn't be surprised, because it was a highly professional and beautifully staged production. And the music was wonderful.

Such a weekend. So much diversified entertainment in the area.

Party store hit

A thief or thieves forced open the front door of Art's Party Store in the Park early Friday morning, May 17, and escaped with cigarettes and food stamps, according to police.

The culprits entered the building by prying open the door. They fled after tripping an alarm. Police responding to the alarm followed a trail of loose packages of cigarettes apparently dropped by the thieves, but lost it at Alter Road.

Brownell School — a community resource

The Brownell journalism class has started putting out 'The Bulletin' on the computer this year. Tommy Wright and Phyllis Candiotis record the latest hot items on their terminal.

By Nancy Parmenter

About to celebrate its 30th anniversary, Brownell Middle School stands handsomely on a former Nike site, not looking a bit its age.

"I can remember coming by here as a kid and seeing the pup tents for the military," said Donald Messing, who has been Brownell's principal for just one year. Brownell was built in 1956-57 when the U.S. went out of the Nike business.

Named for former school Superintendent Samuel Miller Brownell, the school started out as a junior high. Ninth graders were shifted to the high schools in the late '60s as Grosse Pointe joined the trend toward middle schools.

"Brownell is truly a middle school," Messing said. "The students are in the middle of their educational pursuits, they are in the middle of growth between childhood and adulthood, and Brownell is located in the geographic middle of the district. We're the only middle school to feed both high schools."

Brownell has a modern feel that belies its 30 years. Messing says that is due to the building design, which separates the various curriculum areas. Academic subjects, vocational, vocal and instrumental music, and physical education can all pursue their own goals without infringing on each other.

"It was designed so that the programs wouldn't disrupt each other, so it still seems modern even after 30 years," Messing said.

Brownell is a community resource as well as a middle school. Adults come in as early as 7 a.m. to swim in the pool. At noon, the pool is again open to adults in the continuing education program and most evenings and Saturdays the school plays host to a variety of community clubs and organizations.

"We have good facilities for soccer and softball — and even the rose club meets here," Messing said. "We're used by the total community in the true sense of the word."

Messing said he is particularly excited at the prospect of the program for the mentally impaired that will be transferred to Brownell next year. Already, a group of the trainable mentally impaired is meeting once a week at a workshop to acquaint them with their new quarters.

"TMI has reciprocal benefits for the handicapped and the non-handicapped," Messing said. "The interaction between the students is impressive. As they recognize the handicap, they begin to have a real understanding."

The handicapped program has been located at Poupard Elementary School, but Messing said it is expected to fit in better at Brownell because it is more "age-appropriate" there. In addition, the handicapped students will have the advantage of using Brownell's swimming pool. The TMI program is a magnet program with students up to age 26 from all the Pointes and Harper Woods.

Brownell has had a special micro-computer room for several years and has kept it updated with additional equipment. A computer class is available to eighth graders, but the room is also open before and after school for supervised use by any student wishing to work on a computer project. A computer and printer in the library are also available to students all day long.

"The journalism class puts out 'The Bulletin' on the computer," Messing said. "Going to the computer has really dressed the paper up."

One of the nice things about Brownell is that the students play an active role. They conducted a magazine sale in the fall to raise money for school projects. Their first purchase, just three weeks ago, was a flag for the school grounds, and they are now pondering a good use for the remainder of the money, Messing said.

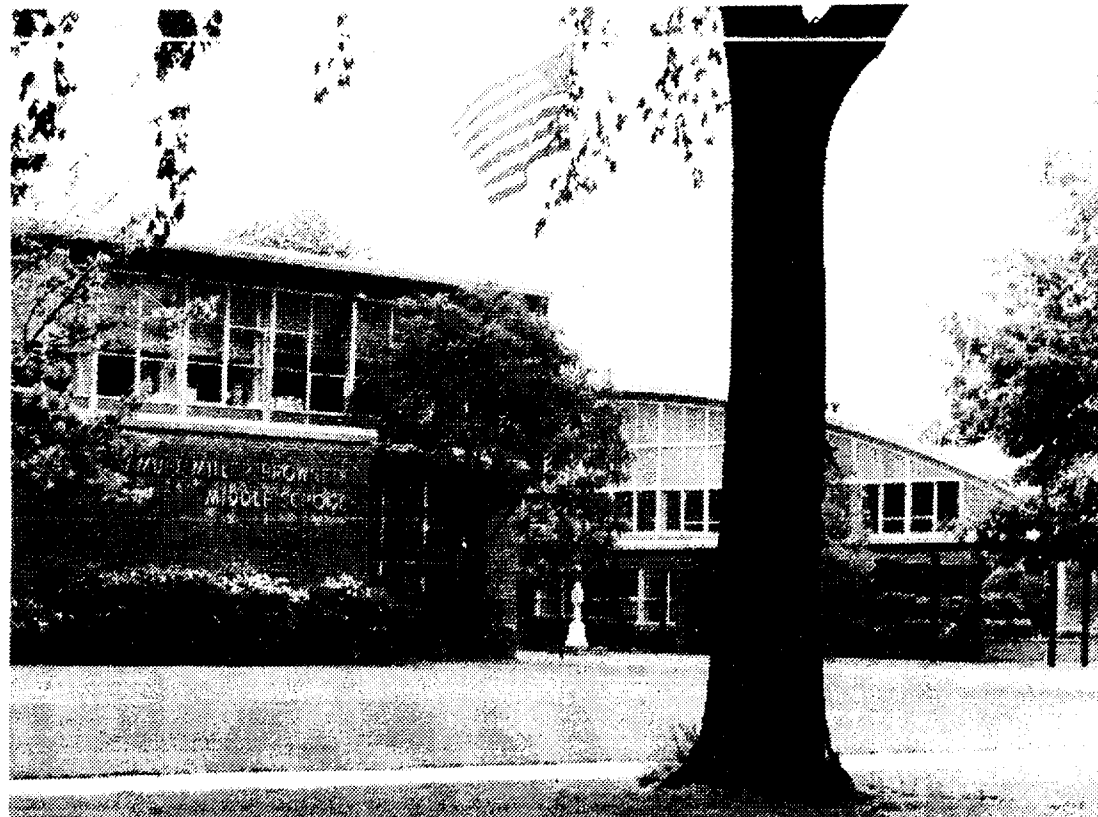

"One of the possibilities is some redwood benches for the courtyard," Messing said, gesturing out his office window. "There really isn't any place for the students to sit, and a sidewalk and benches would be nice."

Brownell parents are active, too. A recent meeting of SAC, a group opposing substance abuse, attracted more than 75 parents, Messing said. "They want to better understand their children's problems."

Messing said he believes the best thing about Brownell is the teachers. "They're student-oriented," he said. "It's critical in terms of the adolescent. You've got to look beyond the subject matter at the total student. Kids have a crisis almost every day. Teachers have to be perceptive."

This is the ninth in a series on the schools of Grosse Pointe.

Take a ride by trolley car this weekend

A pair of former rapid transit electric rail cars (1924 vintage) that formerly carried passengers north from Chicago, is now set to offer rides for the families of this area each Sunday afternoon from May 19 thru Sept. 29.

The trolley-train, operated by the Michigan Transit Museum, a non-profit corporation which collects, preserves and displays historical mass transportation systems, runs from the Caboose-Depot on N. Gratiot Ave. one mile north of downtown Mt. Clemens, Mich. for a 45-minute ride over a route laid around the turn of the century on the north bank of the Clinton river.

The train route includes small industrial developments, farm lands and suburban areas. Also located along the route is the Selfridge Military Air Museum and National Guard Base.

This year the Trolley-Train stops each Sunday at the Selfridge Military Air Museum for visitors to view displays of cut-away engines, photos and paintings, scale models and historically significant relics. The museum outdoor display includes almost a dozen varied sized aircraft as retired from active military use.

The Trolley-Train is powered from a 1942 Alco Diesel locomotive providing 600 volts DC attached to the rapid transit cars inasmuch as overhead wires have not as yet been erected.

Trains run each Sunday, May 19 through Sept. 29, at 1, 2, 3 and 4 p.m. Admission is $2.75 for adults, $1.50 for children, and children under 5 ride free. Charter trips are available weekdays after 4 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays after the 4 p.m. trip.

The Michigan Transit Museum, founded in 1973, has also recently restored the 1859 Depot located three-quarters of a mile west of downtown Mt. Clemens on Cass at the Grand Truck R.R. crossing. It is now a museum back to its 1900 appearance and depicts the site at which Thomas Edison saved the station-agent's child from the path of a runaway box car. In appreciation, the station agent taught young Tom telegraphy and so began Edison's short career in railroading.

Membership to the MTM is open to anyone who has an interest in railroad history and would like to help with the various projects including procurement of additional trolleys and operating the train. For additional information write Michigan Transit Museum Inc., Box 12, Fraser, 48026, or call 463-1863.

"No, no. I'm fine?"

At Kelly Health Care, we know how difficult it is for some people to ask for help.

They don't want to be a bother. They don't want to worry anyone.

That's why we developed our in-home Assisted Living™ programs. Through these programs, qualified professionals provide household, personal and specialized help. And whether it's to lend a hand or hold one, they can be there—from four to 24 hours a day.

Every homemaker, home health aide, companion, live-in, LPN and RN on staff is bonded and insured, and matched to fit the personalities of the clients they serve.

All cases are monitored and supervised by Kelly's specially trained registered nurse. And Kelly will check insurance, then handle claims and forms. Our bills list and explain services in an easy-to-read format. But our clients pay only if they're satisfied with the service they receive.

If you or someone you love could use a helping hand at home, call Kelly Health Care at 884-3001 for more information.

It could make life easier for everyone. All you have to do is ask.

House hunting in today's market — what to know

Making a decision on buying a home this spring demands as much skill as predicting the weather: You have to guess on which way interest rates are heading, decide between hundreds of different mortgages, calculate a budget to make the monthly payments and you have to find just the right home.

Buying a home is the biggest investment most people ever make and it demands some personal financial savvy to get the best deal you can, according to the Michigan Association of CPAs. Only one in four U.S. households has enough income to support today's median-priced home. Mortgage lenders, facing the highest rate of foreclosures since the Great Depression, are talking about stricter income qualifications for borrowers. Qualifying for a mortgage: Most mortgage lenders say your monthly housing costs may not exceed 28 percent of your monthly gross income. Your total long-term borrowings, which includes your housing payments and any other debts with a term of more than six months, cannot exceed 33 percent of your monthly gross income to qualify for most mortgages.

Shopping for a mortgage: "There are two things you have to do in choosing a mortgage," says Jim Kropp, a CPA who buys properties for a major real estate firm. "The first is shop and the second is to shop some more."

A quick way of shopping is by using electronic mortgage brokers. The largest of these computerized mortgage brokers has 25 lenders from around the nation offering variations on eight or nine different mortgages. This allows you to shop for mortgages from lenders across the country. You can usually request printouts of the mortgage payments from computerized brokers and use them for further comparison shopping.

Appreciation: With the current rate of appreciation on real estate remaining steady at about five percent, those who are buying a home as an investment should think twice, says Kropp, of the AICPA's Real Estate Committee. "In the case of a Yuppie, for instance, it may be better to hold off buying a condo or town house," he says. "It may pay for them to rent and invest their savings in a Certificate of Deposit (C.D.), rather than tie their money up in a home they plan to sell soon." Single family homes, by the way, are appreciating at a faster rate than condos.

Taxes: If you're buying a second home, you may want to wait until the battle over the budget deficit ends. The Treasury Department's tax proposal would end mortgage interest deductions on second homes, casting some doubt on the market for vacation homes.

Subsidizing mortgages: Find out about any low-interest mortgages that may be offered in your state. However, these programs are usually directed at first-time buyers.

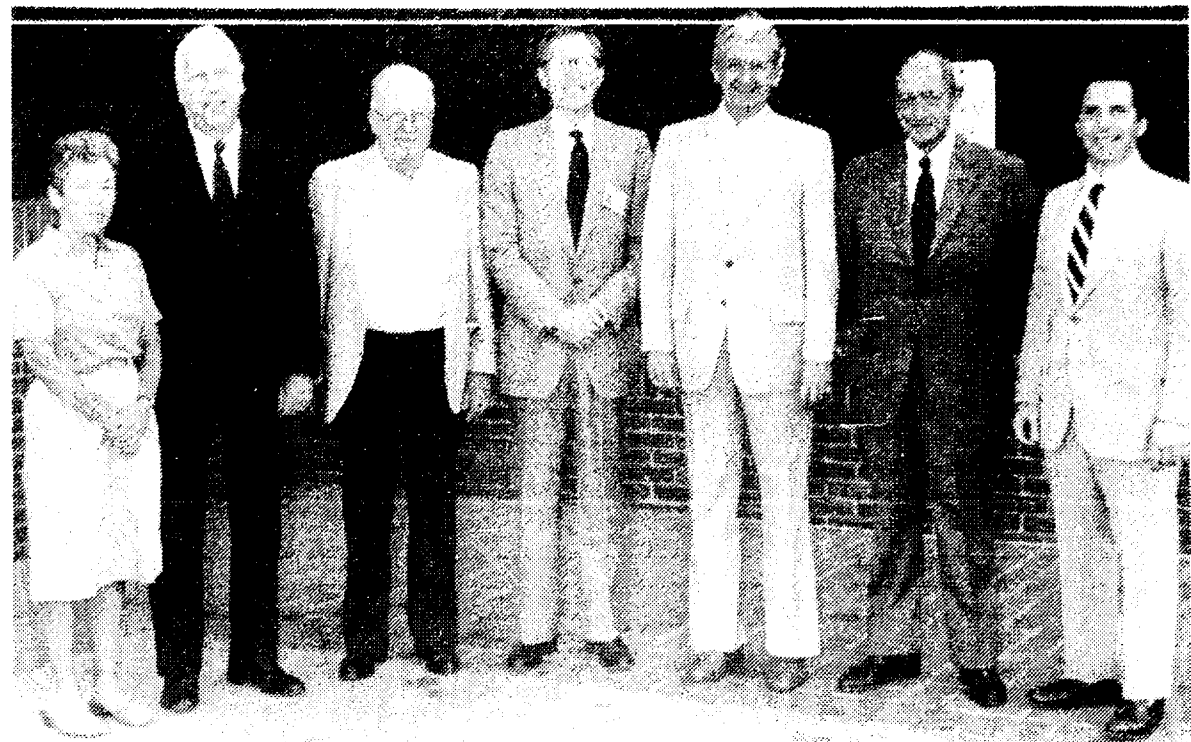

Mortgage points are deductible: When you're purchasing a home, any points you pay up front are generally deductible in the year you pay them. You can secure an immediate tax benefit by paying points up front, rather than tacking them on your mortgage.

Sweat equity: If you can't afford the home you want, find one in the same neighborhood that needs to be fixed up. Generally, a home that needs a fresh coat of paint and some elbow grease sells for 10 to 15 percent below its potential value.

Fix-up costs: Painting and cleaning up the house you're selling may get you a tax break. You can get a tax break for any fixing-up done within 90 days of the sale. The paint, the cleaning fluids, the cleaning service you may hire are all deductible. The deduction is figured by subtracting the fix-up expenses from the gain realized in selling the home.

Shared equity mortgages: Perhaps you're like several million people who want a home, but can't afford the cost. A home buyer who can't make the down payment alone may find a shared equity mortgage is a moneysaver. Find a partner (who may or may not live with you) and share the down payment, the appreciation and the tax breaks for interest payments.

Mortgage insurance: If you can't afford to make a down payment of 20 percent or more on the purchase price, you may qualify for mortgage insurance. Mortgage insurance generally tacks on $15 to $30 on a monthly mortgage payment, depending on your down payment, the mortgage amount and whether you have an adjustable-rate mortgage. Someone who has little cash for a down payment, but is certain to have a rising income, is an ideal candidate for mortgage insurance.

An entire day of golf and other activities including meals, cocktails and gifts are available for a $200 donation. Tickets are available for the 8 a.m. shotgun start. Tickets for the 1:15 p.m. start are sold out. Dinner, docktails and eligibility for major door prizes are available for an $85 donation. All donations are tax-deductible as allowed by law.

No gas pains with 'fuel bib'

By Tom Greenwood
Sometimes great ideas come shooting from out of the blue. Other times they just sort of dribble down the side of your car. At least that's the opinion of

Pointers Dave Sehoyan, 22, Jeff Stenzel, 21, and Steve Showers, 23, the threesome who make up Triple S Enterprises.

The three Ss, all students at Central Michigan University, are the inventors of the Fuel Bib, a rubber apron that attaches to most car gas tanks and prevents fuel from sloshing on the exterior of the car while it's being filled. Once the gas is in, the rubber bib rolls back up for easy storage until the next time a gas station is visited.

"Well, we got the idea after we all washed and waxed our cars one spring day," said Sehoyan, an interpersonal and public communications major at CMU. "The cars looked really great. Then we went to a local station to top off our tanks and the gas sloshed down onto that shiny finish. It sort of got us thinking."

Sehoyan and his partners did a little research and discovered, not surprisingly, that gas can eat through wax, paint and eventually lead to corrosion of the metal.

"At first we thought the bib should be of the same substance as a raincoat," Sehoyan said. "Then we talked to Dow in Midland and they suggested a chemically treated latex-type rubber. That's what we've got now. It resists gas, oil and other chemicals, plus it keeps that area of the car from being scratched or chipped by gas nozzles."

So far, sales have been light, but encouraging, with nearly 800 units sold.

"We're just handling mail orders now," Sehoyan said. "We do all the packaging and mailing from one of our basements. We're not big enough yet to be handled by some of the smaller local stores. They're leery of you if you don't have a proven record."

"However, we are talking to representatives of K mart, Perry Drugs and Murray Discount Auto Parts. If they accept us, well, you'll find us in the section over with the little scented pine trees, fuzzy dice and that sort of stuff."

When it comes to selling, Sehoyan is no novice.

"I used to drive my parents crazy when I was just about seven years old," he said. "I used to sell my toys to other kids on the block. I learned then how to attract customers. I found that if I brought my record player out, the other kids would come running. Then I'd sell my toys. Maybe I'm a born salesman."

Sehoyan reports that so far their parents have given them a lot of moral support, and that's about all.

"And that's just the way we want it," he said. "If we're successful it'll make it that much sweeter and they'll be that much prouder of us. Although I get the feeling they'd pitch in and help if we really asked them to."

Bibs for all you sloppy gas pumpers out there are $3 each and may be purchased by check from: Triple S Enterprises, 903 Woods Lane, Grosse Pointe Woods, 48236.

Community Events

Dancing, fitness

The War Memorial's "Social Dancing" course, led by Ted and Lillian Forrest, will begin a new session Monday, June 3. Beginning students will meet at 7:30 p.m. for an hour, and advanced students will meet at 8:30 p.m. The six-week course costs $18 and students need not have a partner to participate.

Another course that will begin anew is "Walking For Fitness," which features invigorating walks along Lakeshore under the direction of Valerie Pkorny-McHugh. The class will meet at the Center at 9 a.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning June 4. Special warm-up and cool-down techniques will be included along with informational handouts. The cost is $30 for 6 weeks (12 sessions).

"Think Trim" will be given in a one-day workshop Saturday, June 8, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Lorraine Stefano will help participants identify the barriers to successful weight control and how to overcome them. The cost of the workshop is $35.

To register, send a check or money order to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore Drive, Grosse Pointe Farms 48236.

Polish Country Fair

The Moms and Dads Club of St. Mary's Preparatory will sponsor the 1985 Polish Country Fair that will be held Friday through Monday, May 24-27 at the campus located on the corner of Orchard Lake and Commerce roads.

The four-day event will feature Polish food, arts and crafts, casino games, a midway and amusement rides and beer and wine concessions. There will also be bands, magicians and dance groups entertaining.

Hours are Friday from 6 p.m. to midnight; Saturday and Sunday from noon to midnight; and Monday from noon to 6 p.m.

For information, call 682-1885 during business hours.

The Sudan

The Rev. Victor Matthias will share some of his Sudanese experiences as missionary, refugee helper and church leader Tuesday, May 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the adult education room in St. Paul School.

High school students, as well as adults, are welcome to attend.

Voice, opera class

Doris Pagel, a graduate of Juilliard, will lead a class in "Special Voice" at the War Memorial beginning Thursday evening, May 30. Emphasis will be on concert repertoire.

Another class, "Opera Workshop," will begin on Saturday, June 1. In this class students will focus on the study and performance of Grand Opera.

Since times vary depending upon ability of students, prospective students should call the center at 881-7511 to arrange for an interview with the instructor. Each class is $55 for five weeks of instruction.

Chamber players

The last concert of the season will be presented by the Chamber Music Players of Grosse Pointe Sunday, May 26, at 2:30 p.m. at the War Memorial. Preceding the concert, members will elect new officers for next season.

Pianist Lawrence LaGore of Marygrove College will be featured in two of Sunday's groups. Cellist Richard Pippo and pianist Doris Richards, both on the faculty of Wayne State University, will play the Prokofiev Sonata for Cello and Piano, opus 119.

Also appearing in this month's program will be violinist Edward Vabolis and pianist Doris Eubank performing the Brahms Sonata no. 3, opus 108.

Refreshments will follow the program. Admission is $3 at the door. Members are admitted free. To become a member of this group, call 881-1885.

River cruising

The American Heart Association of Michigan, Eastern Wayne Heart Unit, will conduct its annual fundraiser on the Star of Detroit cruise ship Sunday, June 9, from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

For information, call the association at 557-9500.

Pentecost service

St. Clare of Montefalco Church will celebrate Pentecost with a special prayer service featuring the Marygrove Liturgical Dancers Sunday, May 26, at 2 p.m.

The service will be followed by a reception. The public is welcome to attend. St. Clare is located on Mack at Whittier in the Park.

Memorial Day committee

Planning the third annual Memorial Day ceremony in the Woods are members of two commissions. They are, from left, Dr. Albert C. Howe, Joyce Cook, Aileen Hozdich (Beautification Commission) and John Hammel, with Suzanne Dempsey Kent in front, both from the Historical Commission. The event is scheduled for Monday, May 27, at 10 a.m. at the Veterans Memorial Parkway Circle of Honor, Vernier at Mack.

All aboard!

The War Memorial announces last call for anyone who wants to join their 16-day cruise in and around China.

The trip is scheduled for Sept. 19 through Oct. 6 and features passage on the M/S Pearl of Scandinavia. Reservations should be made within the next two weeks.

For details, call the Center's travel department at 881-7511.

Alzheimer's care

A program of the financial and emotional aspects of finding a suitable long term care facility for Alzheimer's victims will be presented by the Detroit area chapter of the Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association.

The meeting will be held Sunday, June 2, at Madonna College in Livonia from 2 to 4 p.m. in room 150. The speaker will be Doris Schuchter, R.N., public health nurse of the Oakland County Health Department. The public is invited. Admission is free.

Senior Adult Prom

In honor of the season and the music played when today's older adults were in high school, the War Memorial's "Young at Heart" dance scheduled for May 24 has been christened "The Senior Prom."

From 1 to 4 p.m., The Standard Five band will play such favorites as "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," "Memories," "If You Were the Only Girl in the World," "Till We Meet Again," "Mack the Knife," "It Had to be You," and the "Charleston."

Tickets are $2.50 per person and may be purchased in advance or at the door.

AARP meeting

The Grosse Pointe Chapter 2151 of the American Association of Retired Persons will meet Monday, May 27, at 1 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore Road.

The Musicians, a group of senior men, will entertain. A social hour and card-playing will follow the meeting.

There were miles of smiles at the Detroit Zoo last week when students from South High School presented the Detroit Zoological Society with checks totaling nearly $1,300. The money is earmarked for the Penguinium, which recently underwent major renovations. The money was raised through bake sales, car washes and noon rock concerts at the school. Making the presentation were, front row, from left, Greg Heffner, environmental science instructor, Jane Lochbieler, Jamie Agney, Wally Guevara, Jay Henze, Don Delplace, Kurt Liebold and Charles Hammond, executive director of the zoo; back row, from left, docents Marilyn Davis, Dorothy Hemming and Carolyn Ewald, followed by Mary Kay Lowrey, Kathy Connell, Tim Holland, Kellie Egan, Curt Edwards, Mike Keane, Steve Ebner, Tim Hudson, Julie Hop, Mike Smith, Jamie Kerwin, Vera Fama, docent Ken Kurtz and Annalise Wood. Missing from the picture are Dylan Cole, Kim DeVrie, John Crissman, Lisa Ferro, Clayton Guensche, Noel Harris, Joe Kennedy, Sean McCowell, Roula Mouthouris, Carol Ann Potts, Tracy Shenkus and Michelle Stupar.

ULS soph is national science winner

Pamela Anne Colby, a sophomore at University Liggett School, was recently named a state winner in the Southeastern Junior Science and Humanities Symposium.

One of 42 winners chosen from the United States, Puerto Rico and dependent schools of Europe, she represented the state of Michigan at the National Symposium at the United States Military Academy in West Point, New York.

The award was given for her work on the topic "Recombinant DNA." A highly technical field that has developed since the discovery of DNA in the early 1950s, genetic engineering research is generally done by graduate bioengineers and under the supervision of the National Institutes of Health Guidelines.

Pamela was exempt from NIH supervision since she was working with organisms that exchange genetic material naturally. She worked in the ULS laboratory, performing all experiments using proper aseptic techniques and destroying resultant bacterial strains by autoclaving immediately after completion of the experiment.

She followed procedures established by Dr. D.R. Headon of University College of Ireland. When asked what special problems her research presented, she replied, "Much of the terminology that Dr. Headon used had to be translated into standard American terms. It resulted in a lot of phone calls between us in order to be sure I was performing the experiments the way he specified."

Pamela plans to continue working with the genetic engineers at Wayne State University. "They have more sophisticated lab equipment and are familiar with specialized techniques that I hope to use."

Science is not her only interest, however. She is also a member of the ULS debate team and a representative to the Student Congress.

Miss Uthappa wins award

Renuka N. Uthappa, a South high school senior, has received a $1,000 National Honor Society scholarship, competing against 15,000 students from throughout the United States.

Daughter of Dr. Seethan Uthappa, of the Farms, she is one of 450 winners announced by the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Each high school NHS chapter could nominate two senior students based on their leadership, scholastic achievement, character, and service. Nominees had to submit a form outlining their participation in service organizations and clubs, accomplishments in the arts and sciences, employment experience and academic record.

While at South, Miss Uthappa has been a member of Forensics, track, captain of the cross country team, president of the National Honor Society, managing editor of Imprints, a National Merit Scholarship finalist, recipient of the Brown Book Award, Dartmouth Book Award, spent a summer at MSU Gifted Students Seminar, recipient of the National Council of English Teachers Writing Award, the outstanding English student at South High and will be one of two speakers at the graduation ceremony.

North, South bands to perform Thursday

Grosse Pointe's Annual Outdoor Band Concert and Ice Cream Social will take place Thursday, May 30, at 7 p.m. on the South High School front lawn.

Grosse Pointe North's Band will begin the program with Montmarre March, followed by Light Cavalry Overture, Marvin Hamlish Showcase, and Stars and Stripes Forever.

The South High Band will then perform George M. Cohan Patriotic Fantasy, Flag of Victory, Selections from The King and I, and 25 or 6 to 4.

Following intermission, both bands will combine to play Pentland Hills, Superman, Black Horse Troop, and Great Gate of Kiev.

Strawberries and ice cream will be sold during intermission and after the concert. In the event of inclement weather, the concert will be held in the gymnasium. Admission is free.

Racing is the theme of the "Trombly 500"

The community is invited to "gear up" for the Trombly 500, sponsored by the Trombly PTO on Friday, May 30, from 6 to 8:30 p.m.

This year's ice cream social features games and prizes with a racing flair, a bake sale and a road rally for the older kids. Pizza will be served as well as ice cream treats from Over the Rainbow.

Tickets to a drawing will be available at $1 each or six for $5. Prizes include a VCR, a TV with am/fm radio, dinner at the Soup Kitchen Saloon, Grand Prix qualifying tickets and more. Winners need not be present to win.

All proceeds will go toward the purchase of new playground equipment.

Grosse Pointe PTA/PTO and Associated Groups Council

The following activities are scheduled through next week in the Grosse Pointe Public School System:

Monday, May 27 — Memorial Day, no school.

Wednesday, May 29 — retirement reception from 4 to 6 p.m. at North.

Wednesday-Thursday, May 29-30 — North/South outdoor concert and ice cream social at 7 p.m. at South.

Thursday, May 30 — ice cream social at 6:30 p.m. at Trombly.

Thursday, May 30 — vocal concert at 7:30 p.m. at Poupard.

Indian Village tour

Early reservations are recommended for the War Memorial's day trip to Indian Village Saturday, June 8. The bus will leave the Center at 10:30 a.m., bound for one of Detroit's most historic neighborhoods.

Participants at the 13th annual Indian Village House and Garden Tour will receive a guided tour of eight gracious homes and three lovely gardens.

This year's homes represent a cross-section of Detroit's rich and diverse architecture constructed during the 1904-1924 period by many of Detroit's finest architects, including Louis Kemper, George Mason and Albert Kahn. To add to the nostalgic atmosphere, keystone cops and antique cars will circulate on the picturesque streets.

The $26-per-person cost includes transportation, guided tour and lunch at the Royal Eagle Restaurant. Tourists will return to the Center at 3:30 p.m. To reserve space send a check, along with a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms, MI 48236.

A compass at the North Pole will point south. In which direction will the other end of the compass point? South.

Spring Studio Sale

Well, they've finally come down from the War Memorial's attic! Service League members, from left, Corinne Dolega, Ruth McNamara, Virginia Kasza and Cindy Carson along with their hearty crew of volunteers have finished spring cleaning the attic and will sponsor a Studio Sale Saturday, June 1, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the War Memorial. Among many miscellaneous goodies are the two pianos that will be for sale and one of the many paintings and picture frames that will be offered. Proceeds from the sale will go toward the restoration of the War Memorial's library.

Prime Time for senior citizens

By Marian Trainor

Holidays are for celebrations. We celebrate the birth of Christ on Christmas, His resurrection on Easter, the Declaration of Independence on July 4.

Then there are days we set aside for occasions for festivities, such as birthdays, graduation, Mother's Day, Father's Day and on and on.

But there is one holiday which is more than just a celebration. It is also for remembering with gratitude and honor those who gave their lives for our country. That day is Memorial Day.

Many will welcome in a season of summer fun on that day with the first picnic, barbecue or boat ride. But there are others who will spend much of the day decorating the graves of husbands and sons who went off to defend their country and never returned.

As Americans we all share their grief and wish that the price of democracy had not been so high for them. We hope that their sacrifice has not been in vain and that our corner of the world will forever be safe.

But we live under the threat of nuclear destruction that will involve us all. It is important on this day of remembrance that we dedicate all of our resources to preventing such a holocaust. In the final analysis, however we spend Memorial Day, this will be the highest tribute we can accord our war dead; negotiation rather than annihilation; peaceful communication rather than belligerent discourse; hands clasped in peace rather than fists raised in threats.

Memorial Day gives us an opportunity to pause and reflect, to remember and resolve. We have done so since the Civil War.

Several places in the United States have claimed the honor of being the first to observe a Memorial Day for veterans of the Civil War. Boatsburg, Pennsylvania claims the distinction because several women visited the cemetery there in 1864 and decorated the new graves of soldiers who had been killed in the war. In 1964 Boatsburg celebrated the 100th anniversary of their 'founding' of Memorial Day.

A suggestion was made to General Logan, the national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic to name a specific day to decorate the graves. In 1868, he named May 30 to be set aside "For the Purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of Comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion and with the hope that it will be kept up from year to year."

In 1892, the G.A.R. urged that the designation Decoration Day be changed to Memorial Day.

Every year just preceding Memorial Day, a new American flag is placed on the grave of every man and woman who served in the armed services of the United States by the local chapters of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Amvets and the Jewish and Catholic Veterans Association. Volunteers from the Sons of Veterans annually decorate the graves with flowers.

The day is marked with parades, bands, assemblies and speeches. Because it was the only war fought on our own soil, the Civil War receives the most attention from speechwriters.

The most quoted speech is Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. One of the most popular places for assemblies is the battleground at Gettysburg. On July 4, 1938 at the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, a celebration on the battleground was attended by 1,800 surviving veterans of the Civil War.

On July 2, before a gathering of 150,000 persons, President Franklin D. Roosevelt dedicated a monument on Oak Hill called the Eternal Light Peace Memorial. A Union soldier of the G.A.R. and a Confederate soldier from Georgia unveiled the shaft rising 50 feet above the ground topped by a steadily burning flame visible for a distance of 20 miles. The inscription reads: "An endearing light to guide us in unity and fellowship."

Arlington Cemetery in Arlington is another scene of impressive Memorial Day ceremonies.

A beautiful custom observed in all important ports in the United States on Memorial Day is one when tiny ships laden with flowers are set afloat upon the water to honor those who have died in the service of the United States Navy.

The custom of selling poppies on the streets is familiar to all of us. Hard-working dedicated men and women under the sponsorship of Veterans of Foreign Wars brave the perils of traffic to sell the tiny red artificial flowers bearing the inscription marked: "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living." The money realized is for the benefit of disabled veterans.

While American soldiers were still in France, there were several Memorial Day services conducted there. Most notable was one held in Suresness Cemetery near Paris in 1919. President Woodrow Wilson made the address and in it made a plea to all countries to join the League of Nations. The United States never became a member.

Woodrow Wilson was not the only president to speak passionately against war, or to lament the sorrow and suffering it caused.

Abraham Lincoln came to the presidency facing the greatest tragedy that war can bring — a divided, ruptured Union and families fighting each other on the battlefield. There was no precedent to guide the president in these circumstances. No wonder that he spoke with unforgettable eloquence at Gettysburg and promised, "We here highly resolved that these dead shall not have died in vain."

Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who was to live through the ordeal of war in both the East and West, in his first inaugural speech outlined his hope for a "world founded on four essential freedoms in a message to Congress January 6, 1941. The first was freedom of speech, the second, freedom of religion, the third freedom from want and the fourth, freedom from fear — "which means a world-wide reduction of armaments — so that no nation will be in a position to commit an act of physical aggression against any neighbor anywhere in the world." It was not to be. This was spoken before the atomic bomb was dropped and the possibility of nuclear war came into being.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, a World War II military hero, spoke of the "proper melding of the huge industrial and military machinery of defense with our peaceful methods and goals, so that serenity and liberty may prosper together."

There was a time when America believed that the American way was the only way, that countries were anxious to embrace our political ideology. We learned that we are not welcomed as saviors in many parts of the world. Yet we must still maintain the role of guardian of the rights of those who are in danger of being victimized by usurping powers.

This was emphasized in a speech delivered at the University of Washington in 1961 by President John F. Kennedy. He warned against those people who sought easy answers, who demanded peace at any price or total victory, who saw the alternatives as being "Red or dead" were equally wrong and that their solutions would be equally disastrous.

The only sane and effective policy in a nuclear age, he said, was one that combined willingness to negotiate and to compromise with a determination to defend basic values.

"In short we must face the problems which do not lend themselves to quick or easy solution or permanent solution" — and — "At a time when a single clash could escalate overnight into a holocaust of mushroom clouds, a great power does not prove its firmness by leaving the task of exploring the others' intentions to sentries or those without full responsibility."

"How many wars," Winston Churchill has written, "have been averted by patience and persistent goodwill — how many wars have been precipitated by firebrands."

World War II ended isolation and brought the United States into the forefront of world politics, but though the war was won, the peace was not. The country found itself involved and committed into every area of the globe with the world divided.

These are thoughts to ponder as we remember and honor those who won our wars but lost their lives.

Can we do less than preserve that heritage of peace they bestowed on us by resisting the forces of arms and insisting on discussion and negotiation?

Parkinson patients to meet Wednesday

The Northeast Parkinson Support Center will meet Wednesday, May 29, at 2 p.m. at Calvary Senior Center, 4950 Gateshead, three blocks south of Seven Mile and just west of Mack.

The speaker will be Gina Bedrosian, a long-time Parkinson patient who has helped herself and others with yoga, which she has been teaching for 17 years.

All Parkinson patients are invited, and a family member or friend will also be welcome. For further information, call Walter Nugent at 886-0815 or the Michigan Parkinson Foundation at 494-8916.

Survival is topic of cancer workshop

"You Can Survive," a workshop for people with a cancer history and their families, will be held from noon until 4:30 p.m., Saturday, May 25, at the Ramada Hotel, located at 28225 Telegraph, Southfield.

Guest speaker Fitzhugh Mullan, M.D., author of "Vital Signs: A Young Doctor's Struggle With Cancer," will talk on "Re-entry: Needs of the Cancer Survivor." Dr. Mullan, a graduate of Harvard College and the University of Chicago Medical School, is secretary of the Health and Environment Department, state of New Mexico.

During the half-day workshop, believed to be the first of its kind in Michigan and possibly the Midwest, Dr. Mullan will explain the problems of readjustment and re-adaptation to non-morbid life caused by long- and short-term cancer survivorship. He believes that fear of recurrence, learning to live with compromise, and economic and social shunning are foremost among these problems. He proposes education as a buffer for the worst aspects of these experiences.

Dr. Mullan will share his thoughts on surviving cancer from a personal perspective. In 1975, from a routine X-ray, he discovered a malignant tumor in his chest. Later, he almost died on the operating table.

State land is off limits for ORVs

Department of Natural Resources state park managers report an increase in illegal use of off-the-road-vehicles on state park, recreation and wildlife area lands. ORV users are reminded that these areas are off limits to ORV use, with the exception of the Silver Lake State Park ORV area in Oceana County, where special rules apply.

Driving ORVs in non-designated areas in Michigan is a misdemeanor punishable by up to 90 days in jail and/or a $100 fine.

DNR state park managers add that in order for any vehicle to travel on roads within state parks, they must be street legal, have a vehicle license, and the operator must have a valid driver's license.

More than 1,400 miles of trails throughout Michigan are designated specifically for ORV use. These trails are listed in the Michigan Cross Country Cycle Trails guide published annually by the DNR. The guides are available at all DNR Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Peninsula regional, district and field offices or DNR's Information Services Center, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing 48909, (517) 373-1220.

ORV users must renew their registration before hitting the trails this spring. In-State ORV registration is handled at any Secretary of State Office. Out-State registration is through DNR's Information Services Center in Lansing, at Silver Lake State Park, and many DNR District Offices.

The workshop is sponsored by the Department of Oncology of Harper-Grace Hospitals, the School of Medicine of Wayne State University and the Bristol-Myers Oncology Division.

There is a $10 registration fee per person for the workshop. However, financial assistance will be made available for people who request it. For more information, call 494-8444 or 494-4700.

Heart line drawing

The members of Second Chance Heart Line Unit, Inc. will sponsor a drawing with prizes at their picnic Sunday, Aug. 11, at the St. Clair Shores Recreation Park.

Tickets are $1 each or six tickets for $5. Second Chance members will sell tickets at the Saint John Hospital cafeteria, area supermarkets and shopping malls.

First prize is $500; second prize is $200 and third prize is $100.

Proceeds from this year's drawing will be used toward programs in the Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory and Cardio-Vascular areas at the hospital according to picnic chairman Russ Antoro.

Second Chance members are former Saint John Hospital cardiac patients who are among the pioneers of open heart surgery.

For more information, call 771-4314.

Business seminar planned for vets

A seminar on Veterans in Business, covering starting, financing and managing a small business, will be held Saturday, June 1, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Washtenaw Community College.

The seminar, expected to be attended by several hundred veterans, has received registrations from as far as the Upper Peninsula. It is sponsored by the Washtenaw Community College, Ypsilanti Chamber of Commerce, Small Business Administration, Michigan Department of Commerce and the Vietnam Veterans Leadership Program.

All the speakers are members of the Vietnam vets organization, and all are successful entrepreneurs. They will address a list of topics including: Legal Aspects of Starting Your Own Business; Public Relations and Marketing Techniques for your Business; Private Financing/Commercial Loan Applications; Government Financing/Small Business Administration Loans; Accounting and Business Record Keeping; and Developing a Business Plan.

The cost per person is $15 and includes lunch if registered before Monday, May 27.

Participation is not limited to veterans of the Vietnam action.

Further information is available from WCC, Continuing Education Services, 973-3668.

DSO chorus auditions

Auditions for the Detroit Symphony Chorus have been scheduled for 7 to 10:30 p.m., Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays, June 3, 4, 5, 10, 11 and 12 at Westminster Church, 17567 Hubbell Drive, Detroit 48235.

Those who wish to audition must be post-high school age and must be able to read music. Each singer will be required to vocalize, sight read, and perform two solos — one in English and the other in Latin, German or French. Auditions will last approximately 10 minutes each. A piano accompanist will be provided by the Detroit Symphony. The auditioning panel will consist of Eric Freudigman and members of the Symphony conducting staff.

Interested singers should contact Carl Vest at the Detroit Symphony, 567-9000, ext. 62, to request an application form, which is due back at the Symphony today, Thursday, May 23.

Fun for youth at Assumption

Assumption Nursery School and Toddler Center will be the site of new enrichment classes this summer for youth aged 7 through 11, fun classes for those 1 through 6, and daycare for kids 1 through 6.

The enrichment classes run from June 17 through July 26 and the fun classes from June 17 through Aug. 9. Participants may choose one or all of many theme weeks from dinosaurs, science, arts and crafts, music, sports and games of dancing and drama.

Further information may be obtained by calling 772-4477.

VA questions, answers

Q: My service-connected disability is worsening. How may I get a re-evaluation?

A: To be reevaluated, you must submit a request to the VA Regional Office in the state where you live along with any medical evidence to support your claim. Be sure to indicating your full name and your social security or VA claim number.

Q: My VA pension is sent by Electronic Funds Transfer to my bank. The bank just forwarded a letter to me from the VA asking for my home address. Why?

A: Although your VA pension is sent directly to the bank, the VA needs to have a current mailing address in order to send you information such as notices to report for physical examination, income questionnaires or other advisory notices.

And the winner is . . .

Dorothy DeFauw, an eighth grade student at St. Paul's School, was recently selected as the recipient of the 150th Anniversary Scholarship for 1985. Dorothy, the daughter of Judy and Norman DeFauw, of Touraine Road, was presented with the scholarship check by Monsignor Francis X. Canfield, while her mother looked on. Dorothy will continue her education at Regina High School this fall. The scholarship was open to any eighth grade student from St. Paul's who maintained at least a "B" average and who planned on attending a Catholic high school. Runners up included: Michael Agosta, Jeremy Bricker, Tim Guthat, Holly McHugh and Michael Thomas.

Korean dance comes to DIA

Samul-Nori, the Korean drumming and dancing troupe, will perform at the Detroit Institute of Arts Auditorium Theatre on Saturday, June 1, at 8 p.m. The four-man troupe presents a spectacular program of traditional Korean folk-festival music and dance.

Tickets for the performance are $15 for general admission, $10 for students and senior citizens. Tickets for the performance and a benefit afterglow are $50; monies from the benefit will be applied toward purchase of a Korean work of art for the DIA.

For tickets and information, call the DIA's ticket office at 832-2730. For mail orders, send a check or money order to Ticket Office, The Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward Avenue, Detroit 48202. Include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

If recent research is correct, many history books will have to be revised. Latest claim is that the flagship of Christopher Columbus was not the Santa Maria, but La Capitana. There was a Santa Maria, it's said, but not in Christopher's lifetime.

Antique Show set for Memorial weekend

Botsford Inn's Spring Antique Show will be held Memorial Day weekend, Sunday and Monday, May 26 and 27, from noon to 9 p.m. on Sunday and noon to 6 p.m. Monday. Botsford Inn is on Grand River near Eight Mile Road. Admission is free.

Among the furniture displays will be Livonia's Gloria Siegert's collection of country items from Pennsylvania. Others in the show will offer a line of antiques including silver napkin rings, jewelry, oriental items, tools, pictures and accessories.

Shores fire damages home, no one hurt

Thanks to a portable submersible pump from the Farms fire department, a three-alarm blaze in the Shores last week was quickly extinguished.

"The quick attack on the back of the house saved the roof," said Shores Director of Public Safety Joseph Vitale. "The pump made it a lot easier — otherwise we'd have had to lay a lot of hose."

The Farms has had the pump for a little more than a year, but this was the first time it has seen action.

"It paid for itself in one shot," said Farms Lt. Arthur Turner.

The pump was bought with harbor fires in mind. In this case, it was dropped into the swimming pool, where it sucked 150 to 200 gallons a minute out of the pool and on to the roof.

The two-story Sunningdale home of James McMillan sustained heavy charring and smoke damage when the fire burned through the kitchen ceiling into an upstairs bedroom, Vitale said.

There was no one home when the fire started, according to Vitale. When the Shores department arrived shortly before 6 p.m., the firefighters saw smoke pouring from the eaves, one sign of a serious fire, Vitale said. A second alarm was requested immediately, with a third when Vitale arrived a few minutes later.

Firefighters from the Farms, the Woods, and Harper Woods responded to the call, and the Park department provided extra air tanks just before the Shores' supply ran out.

The fire was caused by an electrical short in the kitchen. "We're not sure if it was a problem with the house wiring or with the refrigerator," Vitale said.

Vitale said he was pleased with the speed with which the blaze was extinguished. "The mutual aid pact (with surrounding departments) is proving itself again and again," he said.

Local restaurant is star of TV's 'Friday Feast'

By Tom Greenwood

It was lights, camera and action among the pots and pans of the Clairpointe Restaurant in the Village last week when Vita DePalma's restaurant was taped for Channel 7's "Friday Feast," hosted by Jack McCarthy.

Programs are taped approximately three weeks before they'll actually air, according to script consultant Irene McDonald, who hovered just out of camera range during the shooting.

"First the tape is shot and sometimes we'll be at a restaurant for hours before we're finished," she said. "Then it's edited, and a script is written for the spot. Later, Jack comes in and will make his additions and we'll do a voice-over. Twelve man-hours of work can go into a spot that will only be two-and-a-half minutes long on the air."

McCarthy, casually dressed in an open neck blue shirt, khaki pants and running shoes, wandered in to inspect the kitchen before the taping started.

"We've been doing these 'Friday Feasts' for seven years now," he said. "At first, it was more like a restaurant review. Gradually we worked our way into the kitchen to where all the work is done. We felt it was more interesting, plus it gave more exposure to the people in the kitchen who work hard without too much recognition. Waitresses work very hard, but they're in the public's eye. This way the chef gets a little glory, too."

Friendly, but slightly distracted by the bustle in the crowded kitchen, McCarthy looked over the ingredients chef DePalma began to set out before the camera.

An apron was tied around McCarthy's waist, while someone else clipped a small microphone to his shirt.

"We're after the good recipes that people at home like to try for themselves," he said. "We're not interested in the ambience, the wine list or the service. We've even got groupies — people who've told us they sit around in front of the TV waiting for our show. Once it's over they put on a jacket and tie and out they go to the restaurant."

"They're very disappointed when we do a recipe from someone's private kitchen. They feel left out. One added bonus is that we've never visited a restaurant that hasn't seen its business pick up dramatically over the next few weeks after their show airs. It never fails."

McCarthy, who's a long-time TV personality in the Detroit area, is busier than ever these days, and not just with his "Friday Feast" program. He's also the author of a cookbook and he recently opened his own restaurant, Jack McCarthy's, in Keego Harbor.

At the Clairpointe, DePalma was up to his elbows in mashed potatoes, eggs, flour and spinach used to make spinach gnocchi — an Italian pasta. DePalma, who's owned the Clairpointe for four years, seemed almost as much at ease on camera as McCarthy.

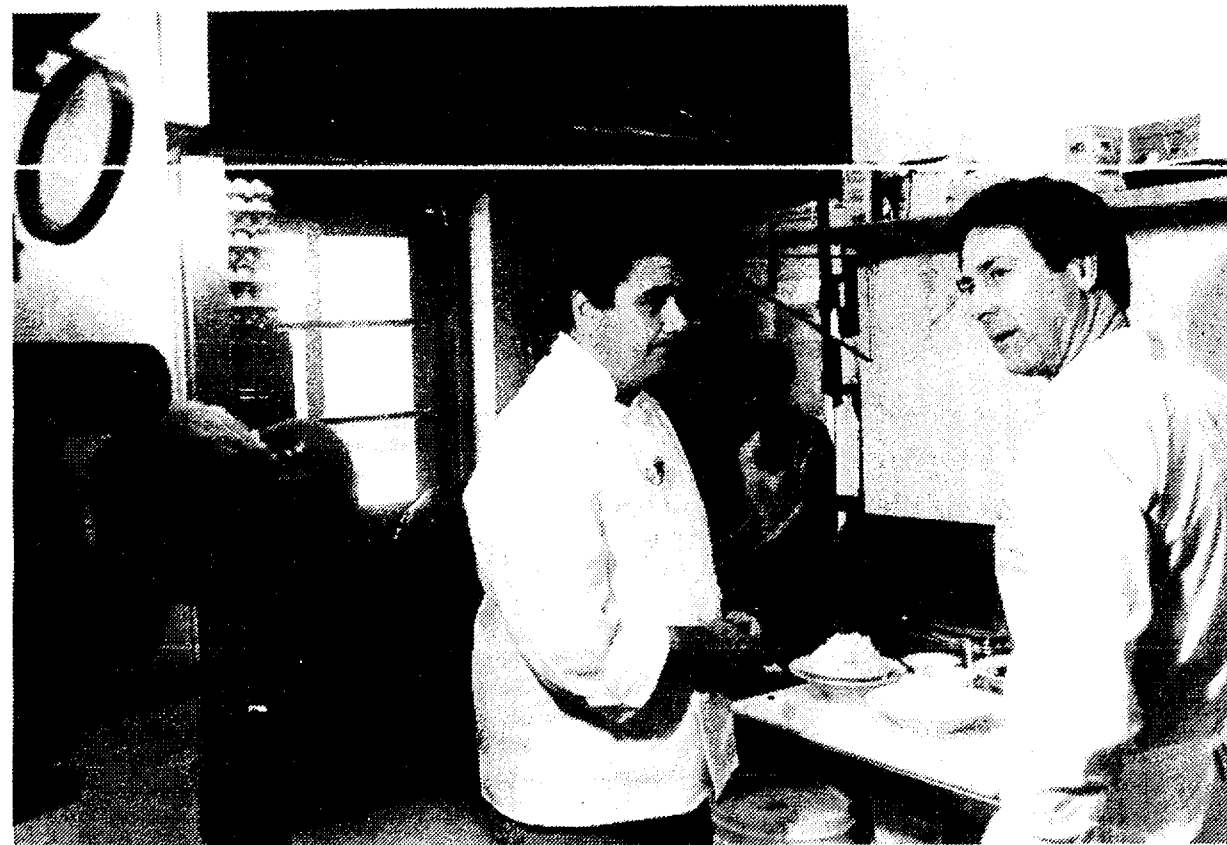

"It's because I was in my element," he said. "A chef in his kitchen, I did get a little worried though when the restaurant began to fill up about 4 p.m. I had one eye on the camera and one eye on my crew to see if they could handle it all right. But everything worked out fine."

And McCarthy? He feasted on New England clam chowder, a fresh salad, rolls and garlic bread and gnocchi with Bolognese sauce.

"It was great, just great," said DePalma, after the film crew departed. "I was so impressed by them. I'm not absolutely sure how they found out about us, but I'm certainly glad they came around. It really impressed my customers too, to see the lights and camera in the dining room. I can't wait to see it on TV."

According to a station spokesperson, the program is set to air Friday, June 7 at about 6:45 p.m. Bon appetit.

Getting ready for a taping are chef Vito DePalma of the Clairpointe restaurant and Jack McCarthy, host of WXYZ-TV's "Friday Feast." In the background is Irene McDonald, script consultant.

Golf card available

Golf Card '85 is now available from the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan (ALASEM). Offering a free round of golf at each of 22 courses in Southeastern Michigan, the card features an additional eight course Northern Michigan vacation bonus this year.

For golfers who enjoy the challenge and diversity that playing nearly two dozen different courses can offer, Golf Card '85 is available for a $20 donation to the Lung Association.

22 free golf opportunities are rounds at Brooklane, Lemontree and Pine Creek in Wayne County. Participating Oakland County courses are Bramblewood, Bogie Lake, Clarkston, Highland Hills, Mulberry Hills and Spring Lake clubs. Cedar Glen, Fern Hill, Northbrook, Romeo and Salt River are the Macomb County offerings. In addition, there are eight courses in bordering Washtenaw, Genesee and Lapeer counties. The Northern Michigan Vacation Bonus offers free or "two for one" golf at Crystal Mountain, Dunes, Lakewood, Mitchell Creek, McGuire's, Sandy Ridge, Spring Valley and Tawas golf clubs.

To order this year's edition of the Golf Card, call ALASEM at 961-1697, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. or write the Lung Association at 28 W. Adams, Detroit, Mich. 48226. Make checks payable to ALASEM and be sure to include the name of the person to whom the card(s) should be sent. Visa and MasterCard are accepted.

Sidewalk art

Some Parcels Middle School students, above, work on a chalk drawing along the school's Vernier sidewalk, part of an assignment by art teacher Mary Fodell, who recently gave a couple of her classes the opportunity to try the different art form. The exercise gives students a chance to work in an art medium that is widely seen in New York City's Central Park, England and other parts of the world, she said, adding the students were required to design their work before they began chalking. Rain has since undone the students' work, she added.

Spending, taxes increase in schools' proposed 1985-86 budget

nate, plan, set up and use science materials, Dr. Frost said.

The district is in its fourth year of a five-year computer education development program and will purchase almost $200,000 worth of computers and related equipment, networking materials and computer-assisted drafting equipment next year. The administrations at the middle and high schools and central office will receive $63,000 in equipment and another $96,000 worth will be made available by the intermediate school district.

Elementary schools will add 30 new Commodore computers, meaning there will be one computer for every elementary classroom, Frost said. The computers are used in computer assisted instruction programs and computer literacy classes for fifth-graders, she added.

The district will also apply for a grant from Commodore for matching purchase of five computers to be used by teachers. The district will buy five if the company will match the purchase, Dr. Frost said.

Each middle school is expected to receive 12 more computers next year, which will greatly improve the computer education programs at the buildings as well as get more of the machines into the hands of teachers in the classrooms, according to Secondary Curriculum Director Robert Welch.

The middle schools are just beginning to use computers in the classrooms and an increasing number of teachers have asked about training and classroom applications, Welch said.

At the high schools, the addition of $129,000 worth of computers, word processors, networking systems and computer assisted drafting equipment will mean two networked IBM labs, a third Apple lab and more Apple computers for department use in both schools, Welch said.

The price tag also includes equipment to begin limited networking of the Apple computers.

Networking allows more flexibility in use of the machines while cutting drastically the cost of software, Welch said.

The high schools' computer programs are "so far ahead of so many other schools that we're almost a model," Welch said. Sales representatives have sent over prospective purchasers to the high schools to show off what can be done with their equipment, he added.

The practical arts programs at the schools will be bolstered by equipment to be purchased next year. IBM computers will be added to the business departments. Computer assisted drafting equipment and electronics and electricity work stations will be added as well, Welch said.

Also in the budget for next year is the purchase of a laser disk system for North's planetarium, allowing the district to expand planetarium programs.

The library has budgeted $10,000 for a consultant's aid in studying the expansion of the current library computer system, according to Libraries director Charles Hansen.

The district will also purchase $63,000 worth of word processing equipment for building offices that will link the high and middle schools with the central office. The ISD is expected to make $96,000 worth of equipment available to the district as well, for which the school system would have only to pay maintenance.

The district will spend $450,000 next year on various building site projects, including roof work at North, Ferry and Richard, playground work at Parcels, a resurfaced parking lot at Defer, an elevator at Pierce and a variety of other projects.

Until the district receives the recommendations from a consulting firm paid $21,000 to study its administrative wage and fringe benefit structure, the district will keep $125,000 in its reserve fund equity. It is not known how much of the amount will be needed to meet the consultant's recommendations.

Board members expressed their Summer job program

Wayne County Executive William Lucas announced today that the county's Office of Public Services will offer summer maintenance and clerical jobs to 230 youths between the ages of 18 and 21. The Office of Public Services maintains roads, parks, airports and public works in Wayne County.

The jobs are offered to young people of Wayne County, exclusive of Detroit and Downriver communities which maintain their own programs, under the Summer Youth Employment and Training Program administered by the Wayne County Private Industry Corporation. The jobs will start in mid-June, last about two months, and pay from $3.35 to $5 per hour.

Youth may apply by phoning two job-recruitment hotlines, (728-JOBS) and (865-JOBS). Those applying must be unemployed and qualify as economically disadvantaged under federal guidelines.

The public-service type projects will range from providing better park and recreational services to improving road surfaces.

In addition to the 728-JOBS and 865-JOBS Hotlines, youth may apply at Information and Referral Centers in Dearborn, Livonia, and New Boston by phoning 943-2028, 591-6400 and 782-1710.

satisfaction with the budget process, saying the presentation and explanation of the process and development was superior to past years. Board Secretary Ernest Buechler said next year's budget was the tightest document he had seen.

Administrators said more than 1,000 worth of requests from departments and buildings were winnowed out during the process, according to Superintendent Whritner, who added he thought the board had done a good job balancing fiscal responsibility with the educational needs of the students.

Board Vice President Jon Gandelot pointed out that a large percentage of the budget is "already cast in concrete" through wages and salaries, fringe benefits and maintenance of programs.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Peggy O'Connor

The beautiful and historic Pewabic Pottery at 10125 East Jefferson Avenue will again be the site for "A Spring Party" next Thursday, May 30, from 5 to 8 p.m. The Board of Directors of the Pewabic Society will sponsor the event, which includes cocktails, buffet supper, entertainment and a one-year membership in the Pewabic Society, at a cost of $35 per person. Mrs. Peter W. Stroh, Mrs. John E. Emery and Dr. Audley Grossman are co-hosts.

On the Pewabic Pottery Party committee this year are Pointers James Bridenstine, Jo Beardslee, Gayle Camden, Julie Corbett, Liz DuMouchelle, Joy Emery, Henrietta Fridholm, Margy Gillis, Joan Hicks, Sarah Hill, Peter Kauffman, Sandi Lacey, Mary Ruffner, Melodie Scherer, Nicole Stroh, Mary Stroble and Jeanne Whitaker-Hines.

They, and "A Spring Party" guests will tour the pottery, watch potters at work and dine on California-style "Nouvelle Cuisine" pizza from Sparky Herbert restaurant which will be baked by board members in the kilns where potters fire the famed Pewabic pottery. A buffet dinner follows and includes salads, cheeses and an assortment of desserts donated by caterers and gourmet chefs including The Money Tree, Lucy Divine, Cafe LeChat, Merry Mouse, State Street Cafe, Sandi Lacey, The Lark, The Cheesecake Shop, The Harlequin Cafe, Gail Camden, Van Dyke Place, John Bloom and Traffic Jam and Snug.

Entertainment will feature music by Peter Tolias and Theresa Norris. Valet parking will be provided. A special feature will be the opportunity for guests, for a $100 donation, to become part of history by purchasing a four-square tile and help Pewabic replace its floor. Donors will get to write their names — or name of their choice — in one square.

All in all, "A Spring Party" sound like an excellent way to spend a Spring Evening, surrounded by the rich historical tradition of the beautiful Pewabic Pottery, founded by Mary Chase Perry Stratton. The Pottery offers beginning and advanced afternoon and evening ceramics classes and sponsors current and historic exhibits and a consignment gallery that are open to the public Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., throughout the year.

Reservations for "A Spring Party" may be made by calling Pewabic Pottery at 882-0954, or by mail to the Pottery at 10125 East Jefferson, Detroit. Reservations may also be made at the Pewabic Pottery offices, Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Honored by His Majesty . . .

The evening of Wednesday, May 8, was a big one for Economic Club of Detroit president Wesley R. Johnson, of Provencal Road, pictured with his wife Doris (above, left) at the annual meeting of the Detroit-Swedish Council at the Bloomfield Hills Country Club. Consul-General Lars Arno came from Chicago to present Mr. Johnson with the Order of the North Star, Officer First Class, from His Majesty Carl XVI Gustaf King of Sweden. Mr. Johnson is a former president of Detroit-Swedish Council and was recognized for his outstanding contributions to the arts and culture of Sweden. The meeting also featured the election of officers, including president William E. Hoglund and vice president Oscar L. Olson (left and right, above), vice president Richard Sahlin; secretary Signe Karlstrom and treasurer Gordon E. Areen. Among the Grosse Pointers present at a cocktail party hosted by Consul E. Jan and Mrs. (Pat) Hartmann, outgoing president Don Borgeson and his wife, Ces, and Mr. Sahlin, were Kay and Gordon Buehrig, Petie and Marvin Anderson, Ingrid Koebel, Arvid Lundell, Carlton Lindell, Jane and Bill Wood, Harriet Genberg, Walter Westman and Dr. Constantine Trued.

Louis H. Charbonneau III, son of Frank and Muriel Charbonneau, of Fisher Road, will play the role of "Nathaniel" in Shakespeare's "Love's Labours Lost," to be presented in May by Oberlin College, where he is a freshman majoring in pre-law at the College of Arts and Sciences. He has been acting with Grosse Pointe Children's Theater under the direction of Sally Reynolds since he was a fifth grader at St. Paul's School, starring in several productions, including "Oliver!" and "Cinderella." His last role with the Children's Theater was as "Charlie" in "Annie Get Your Gun" in May, 1984. He was graduated with high honors from Grosse Pointe South High School in June, 1984.

The trustees of the Michigan Cancer Foundation have honored

Dominic J. Rossi, of The Shores, and Mrs. R. Alexander (Barbara) Wrigley, of The Farms, for their contributions to the work of the Foundation. Elected as Honorary Members of the Board, Rossi and Mrs. Wrigley were cited for their "long and dedicated service in the control of cancer."

Gregory J. Dykstra, of Anita Avenue, received a Master of Science degree from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign this winter.

Among students named to the fall semester Dean's List at Xavier University are Lawrence E. Van Kirk III, of Berkshire Road; Walter V. Bernard III, of Hamilton Court; and Mark A. Flanz, of Lewiston Road.

Community LINC

A unique organization whose purpose is to provide support to victims of crime recently began operation in Detroit.

The Community Based Victim Restitution Program (CBVR) is a non-profit organization developed out of community response to reduce fear and alienation between victims and offenders of non-violent property crimes. CBVR aids the community by providing a monitored system as a means for the offenders and victims to mutually agree on a restitution contract, involving more community residents in resolving conflicts within their neighborhood, strengthening community ties to victims and offenders, providing access and input into the Criminal Justice System, and drawing on the community's own resources and talents of its residents.

This innovative organization currently needs folding chairs for its meetings because, according to Program Director Maureen Taylor, "we have many community meetings here on the premises... and are becoming very well known." They have also requested an adding machine to help with their bookkeeping. If you can help please tell the LINC office at 882-6100.

Another worthwhile organization is Citizens for Better Care. CBC is a consumer organization concerned with improving the quality of long-term care programs such as nursing homes and homes for the aged. Their services include investigating and encouraging the proper government agency to act on complaints. CBC helps persons who wish to make use of government reports and other material about nursing homes and also operates an advocacy program. In addition, CBC is concerned with the care received by released mental patients. CBC initiates special projects, conducts research and is actively concerned with all legislation that affects the well-being of the elderly and others who receive long term care services.

This organization was started in June 1969 in response to the Detroit Common Council's request that the City Health Department encourage the formation of a group to help maintain high quality care where it existed and to improve it where it did not.

PAT DONDRIDGE, nursing home alternative specialist for CBC, explains that the organization assists frail and disabled elderly in finding support services such as housecleaning, medical care and food services in order to help them stay independent in their own homes. She also provides counseling services for the elderly and their families.

CBC is a statewide agency which helps people wade through the confusion of the bureaucracy. Currently, it is in need of a portable 25-foot ramp, wheelchairs (manual and electric), sickroom supplies, and lift chairs. If you can help, call the LINC office.

Easter finery has now been replaced by shorts and sundresses, but it is worthwhile to comment on the holiday just once more. The 1,140 Easter baskets donated to LINC by the Michigan Candy Association were well received by hundreds of youngsters in the Detroit area. One particular administrator took the time to write the following thank-you expressing feelings that make people glad they helped.

"Some of our students received their first Easter baskets through your generosity. It was a touching experience to walk into the classroom with the baskets and hear the ohs and ahs and to see some of the children walk up to touch me and to look at the baskets. At dismissal, when I was outside supervising the crossing of students, many parents thanked us and commented they would always remember this Easter."

Other recent thank-you's included a note and picture from NIF-T (Nurturing Infants and Families Together). They had recently completed a quilt from fabric donated by LINC. The quilt will be raffled off at a fundraiser to benefit the clients of NIF-T. This is a perfect example of helping people help themselves.

LINC volunteers would like to stress that items accepted at the storeroom in the new building should include clothing and small household items such as dishes, curtains, flatware, linens and toys in good, clean condition. If garments have holes and tears, they are not usable by LINC clients. Please call before delivering goods because the storeroom is small and fills up quickly. We want to be sure there is room for your donation. Donations of large appliances and furniture should be called in and arrangements will be made for an agency to pick up the item. LINC, of course, will provide a receipt for tax purposes.

THROUGH THE generosity of donors, the following office machines have found new homes recently in area agencies: a movie hut with projector, three copy machines, a bookkeeping machine, six dictating machines, two transcribers and a word processing machine.

Current requests for items include horseback riding equipment, sports and camping equipment and 10 speed bikes, all to be used at Camp Cavell, a camp for girls run by the YWCA. The bikes will be used by campers while visiting the camp. Many girls cannot attend bike outings because of a shortage of bikes and do not have one of their own to bring with them. If you can help, please call the LINC office. They have also requested a VCR to use with the television which was recently donated.

LINC's second major fundraiser of the year, the annual Flower and Rummage Sale, was a great success under co-chairmen Martha Brosky and Trisha Fishman, bringing in over $2,000. This effort will help LINC continue its work with the agencies in the Tri-county area. The volunteers would like to thank the staff of the Greek Orthodox Assumption Cultural Center for their help in making the day a success. Their cooperation was greatly appreciated.

Curious about the future? What kind of personality are you? What does it mean when you dream? Come to the LINC annual volunteer luncheon and meet Carol Verroen. Ms. Verroen is a psychic with the Institute of Clinical Hypnosis and will speak to the volunteers and their friends on Thursday, May 30 at 11:30 a.m. at the home of Martha Brosky. If you are interested in attending, please call the LINC office at 882-6100 for more information or to make reservations. The cost is $5 per person.

Finally, here's an update concerning the LINC Executive Committee. Mrs. Jeanette Stumpe has accepted the position of second vice president in charge of public relations for 1985-86. Jeanette is a current LINC volunteer and will be a great addition to the coming year.

LINC column space is provided each month by the Grosse Pointe NEWS as a community service. Operation LINC needs your generous contributions and your time. We are a non-profit, volunteer organization which helps numerous Wayne County agencies and depends on your support. To volunteer or donate usable items, please call us at 882-6100. Our office hours are 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday, throughout the year.

Landscape is focus for Grosse Pointe Academy visitors

The Grosse Pointe Academy hosted a workshop for the Michigan Chapter of the American Society of Landscape Architects on Saturday, May 4. A group of five landscape architects representing Michigan State University and MASLA met to study original landscape plans drawn for the Academy grounds.

Picnic time for Phase I

Phase I's annual Pessimist's Day Picnic, tailor-made for those who say "it always rains on Memorial Day weekend," is planned for 6:30 p.m. Sunday, May 26, in the third floor lounge at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

If the weather fools the pessimists, the picnic will be moved outdoors on the grass overlooking the lake. Picnickers should bring blankets or plastic to sit on; volleyball games are planned. Phase I will furnish hot dogs, buns, condiments, ice, pop, chips, paper plates and cups and plastic utensils. Members are asked to bring a dish of food to share with at least eight. Those whose last name begins with A-I should bring salad; J-Q, bring vegetables; R-Z, dessert. Non-food contributors will be charged $5.

Busy days for Concert Band

Summertime means busy times for the Detroit Concert Band, Inc., headquartered on Mack Avenue in the Woods. And this summer will be no exception.

Music Director Leonard B. Smith and the Detroit Concert Band will open the City of Livonia's "Music Under the Stars" annual series on Tuesday, June 18, at 7:30 p.m. at the Livonia City Hall Plaza on Five Mile Road at Farmington Road. (Should it rain, the concert will take place at Schmidt Auditorium at Clarenceville High School on Middlebelt between Seven and Eight Mile Roads).

New Arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Burke, of Allard Avenue, announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Amelia Anne, April 3. Mrs. Burke is the former Mary Anne Schulte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Schulte, of The Park. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Burke, of Dearborn Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Marshall, of Severn Road, announce the birth of their second child, a daughter, Heather Lyn, April 2. Mrs. Marshall is the former Jennifer Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ferguson, of Port Charlotte, Fla. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Morrison Marshall, of Bournemouth Road. Heather's big brother Nathan Thomas, is 5.

Landscape Architects Project Manager, Snell Environmental Group, Inc.; Richard Macias, Resource Design Group, Inc., Ann Arbor; and Marilyn Tuchow, Board of Trustees, National Assoc. of Olmsted Parks, Victorian Society in America, president, Michigan Chapter of Victorian Society in America, Founder and past president, Friends of Belle Isle.

Mr. Bauer pointed out that the basic framework of the grounds has not been altered and has significance as a historic site. The panel of experts will nominate the Grosse Pointe Academy grounds as a historical site in the National Register of Historic Places and the National Trust for Historical Preservation.

The panel and representatives of The Grosse Pointe Academy toured the 22 acre grounds to view the Nun's Walk, the fruit orchard, the berry and grape vines, the barn (an its 1870s chimney), the cottage and the wide variety of trees and other flora.

Newlyweds at home in Woods

Carla A. Gribbs and Timothy J. Brisbois are at home in Grosse Pointe Woods after their wedding Saturday, March 30, in the Mercy College Chapel.

The bride is the daughter of Katherine Gribbs, of Southfield, and Judge Roman S. Gribbs, of Detroit, the former mayor of Detroit. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Brisbois, of Farmington.

Kathleen McNamara was the former Miss Gribbs' maid of honor. Michael Brisbois was best man for his brother.

Mrs. Brisbois is a media representative at Detroit Edison. Mr. Brisbois is a middle school teacher

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy J. Brisbois at Kensington Academy in Bloomfield Hills.

Judith Catalano

Sheila F. Dwyer

July wedding date is made

Mr. and Mrs. John Catalano, of Putnam Place, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Judith, to Gerard M. Shaheen, son of Mrs. Delores Shaheen, of Yorkshire Road, and the late Joseph Shaheen. A mid-July wedding is planned.

The bride-elect was graduated from Grosse Pointe North High School and holds a degree in Dental Technology from Ferris State College. She is employed by Teachout Dental Technicians.

Her fiancé is a graduate of the University of Detroit High School and is currently attending Walsh College in pursuit of a Bachelor of Arts degree in Accounting. He is a self-employed bookkeeper and accountant.

Pair planning August vows

Mid-August wedding plans are being made by Sheila Fay Dwyer and Charles Robert Schwartz. Miss Dwyer is the daughter of Mary Jane Dwyer, of Brys Drive, and of the late Charles E. Dwyer. Mr. Schwartz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schwartz, of Adrian.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Our Lady Star of the Sea High School. She holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Siena Heights College, where she was a member of the Kappa Gamma Pi and Sigma Kappa Alpha honor societies.

Her fiancé is a graduate of Adrian High School and holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Siena Heights College.

Candlelight vows exchanged

The First Congregational Church in Rockford, Mich., was the setting on Monday, Aug. 20, 1984, for the candlelight wedding ceremony of Susan Lynn Graves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. Launs, of Buckingham Road, and Brian Graves, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Graves, of Rockford.

The bride chose a gown of Chantilly lace and sheer English netting, accented by a high-necked bodice and long sleeves, as well as a dropped waist, for her wedding, at which her father gave a special blessing. A Juliet cap caught a fingertip veil, its edges trimmed with matching Chantilly lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white silk roses and Stephanotis, with baby's-breath.

Wendy Kim Launs came from Chicago, Ill., to serve as maid of honor for her twin sister. She wore a cocktail length dress of soft ivory silk, accented in peach and featuring short, tulip-style sleeves and a rolled bow neckline. Bridesmaids included another sister, Tracy Ann, a sister of the bridegroom, Jennifer Graves, and Gerri Fellows, of Mt. Pleasant and Sue Louwers, of Grosse Pointe. All wore cocktail length dresses of periwinkle blue and carried a single white silk rose with baby's-breath accented with a touch of blue.

Mr. Graves asked Michael Jacobs, of Rockford, to act as best man. Ushers included two more brothers, Kent and Brent Graves, and Phillip Cheadle, and a brother of the bride, Fred Launs, of Orlando, Fla.

The bridegroom's nieces, Molly and Megan Graves, served as flower girls and carried straw baskets of white silk roses and baby's breath. Ring bearers were cousins of the bride, Brian and Craig Launs.

Mr. and Mrs. Brian Graves

The mother of the bride wore a cocktail length dress of ivory silk and Quaker lace, trimmed down the front with small pearl buttons. The bridegroom's mother chose an ivory linen suit worn with a peach silk blouse. Each wore a corsage of peach silk sweetheart roses and baby's-breath.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Graves are at home in Birmingham, Ala., where the bride is a manager with Red Roof Inns. She holds a Bachelor of Science in Hospitality Services degree from Central Michigan University. The bridegroom holds a Bachelor of Science in Accounting and Business from CMU and is pursuing a graduate degree in mathematics and science from the University of Alabama while coaching track at Homewood High School.

Lisa S. Kline

Fall wedding date is set

Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Kline, of Balfour Road, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Lisa Suzanne, to James Lowell Brundige, son of Mrs. Evelyn Brundige, of Luther, and the late Clarence Brundige. An October wedding is planned.

Miss Kline was graduated from Grosse Pointe South High School and is currently a junior at the University of Michigan majoring in political science and foreign languages. Her fiancé, a graduate of Walled Lake Central High School, is employed by the General Motors Corporation.

Michelle M. Koueiter

Miss Koueiter will be wed

Fall wedding plans are being made by Michelle Marie Koueiter and Fred L. Andary Jr., whose engagement has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Koueiter, of Kensington Road. Mr. Andary is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Andary, of Edmondton Drive.

Bonnie Khalili is May bride

Former Grosse Pointers Bonnie Carleton Khalili and David Law were married in Yosemite Park, Calif., on Saturday, May 5.

The new Mrs. Law is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Carleton, of Lakecrest Lane. Mr. Law is the son of Mrs. Verneta Law of Boynton Beach, Fla., and the late Dr. Albert D. Law.

Kristin Linnea Finger, of Whittier Road, received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Indiana University Bloomington after the second semester, 1983-84.

Fashion show set for August

The third annual Meadowbrook Fashion Extravaganza with fashions from Saks Fifth Avenue is set for 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 14, following a noon luncheon in the Baldwin Pavilion. This year's honorary chairman is Mrs. Harold Poling; Mrs. Robert L. Smith is chairman of the event.

the time of their need. As such, then, it is a "fund of last resort."

The Tribute Fund Council is a volunteer organization of which Pointers Mary Evelyn Self and Louise TeWalt are chairman and first vice-chairman, and the Fund itself receives most of its money from memorial or honorary donations, through outright gifts and the sale of note cards. Or, at this time, from the generous donations of these who purchase the Revised Edition of the Tribute Fund Salad Cookbook.

The Revised Edition of the Tribute Fund Salad Cookbook is $2 per copy, plus 50 cents handling, and includes old favorites, hot salads, cold salads, low cal salads, pasta salads and lots more, all bound in a washable cover.

It can be ordered from the Tribute Fund, Room 200, 51 West Warren Avenue, Detroit, Mich., 48201. Further information on the cookbook or the Tribute Fund may be obtained by calling 833-0622.

... and fitting tributes

Fitting tributes were the order of the day recently for three hard-working Grosse Pointers. They are: Dr. Betty Brogan, of The Farms, recently elected president of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society International, Michigan's Alpha Iota Chapter; Monsignor Francis X. Canfield, pastor of St. Paul's On-The-Lake, presented with a Michigan State Senate resolution on the occasion of the anniversary of his 40th year in the priesthood; and Debbie Tischler, of Grosse Pointe, former Detroit Symphony League president who has been honored with the "Humanitarian Award for 1985" by the Symphony League.

Betty J. Brogan has been a member of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society International since 1966. She has served her chapter as chairman of the Personal Growth and Services, Nominations and Professional Affairs Committees, and as parliamentarian, first vice-president and program chairman and president. At the state level, she has chaired Professional Affairs, and served as parliamentarian, chairman for Proposal III, Policies and Procedures, and first vice-president and program chairman.

Both Alpha Phi Chapter and Alpha Iota State honored her as woman of the Year in 1977. She holds a Bachelor of Arts from Duke University, a Master of Arts from the University of Detroit, and an Ed.D. in Special Education Administration from Wayne State University. She had a 10-year career in banking before she entered teaching and has been in the East Detroit Public School System for 25 years.

She was installed as state chapter president at the state convention on May 4 in Kalamazoo and will serve a two-year term for DKG Society International, an organization of woman educators.

Monsignor Canfield was honored with State Senate Resolution No. 88, adopted by the Michigan State Senate on March 21 and offered by Senators Kelly, Faxon, H. Cropsey and A. Cropsey.

It is a fitting tribute to Monsignor Canfield, detailing his educational and religious background, his noted work as an author and critic, and his leadership both at St. Paul's and within the community. But perhaps the first paragraph of the resolution says it best:

"... It is with great appreciation for the diverse ways in which his vocation has served others that we are proud to honor Monsignor Francis X. Canfield as he celebrates the 40th Anniversary of his Ordination to the Priesthood. Over the course of his life, he has had a profound impact on many lives through his academic career and through his work as a parish priest ..."

That the Detroit Symphony League chose one of its former presidents to be recipient of its 1985 Humanitarian Award is not surprising ... given Debbie Tischler's wide range of philanthropic activities.

In addition to her Symphony League work, Debbie is now current president of the Michigan Orchestra Volunteers Association. She is a licensed lay reader for Christ Church of Grosse Pointe, is active in the Christian movement "Faith Alive," an organization which delivers the Christian message to others, and is a member of Welcome Wagon and an advisor to the Volunteer Network.

Currently, she is president of the Episcopal Church Women and a member of the Assistance League for the Northeast Guidance Center.

Debbie Tischler served as president of the Detroit Symphony league in 1982-83.

Spring-y May food outlook

The May food outlook is bursting with spring — and good news for consumers. Fresh rhubarb is in the supermarkets. Asparagus, an important commercial crop here in Michigan, is looking good, too.

The Michigan Asparagus Association predicts a crop equal in size or larger than last year's; look for the asparagus supply to peak in mid-May. Special volume packs will be available during the seasonal peak for home canning and freezing.

Sustained warm weather will also move a larger volume of the Michigan strawberry crop to market in May. Look for the home-grown supply to peak about two weeks after the first full week of production. Michigan's strawberry crop has increased in the last few years, after several years of decline.

Fresh sweet corn and green beans give a whole new look to the produce department. Even the hardware vegetables, such as onions and potatoes, look different with their delicate skins typical of new crop tubers.

Eggs are one of the better protein values this month. The large supply has depressed prices to very low levels, and egg producers are hurting.

Broiler supply is up, prices down. More and more shoppers are consuming more poultry and less red meats, so even the increased supply of poultry is selling well.

A decline of only three percent in placements of cattle on feedlots in 13 major beef-producing states is not going to improve the slump in beef prices. Just the same, look for seasonal price increases on the quick-cooking tender cuts.

A 24 percent increase in the stocks of domestic frozen orange juice concentrate may lead to more specials on this popular product.

Keep your eyes open for the traditional special offerings of picnic supplies prior to the holiday at month's end: ranging from paper plates and mustard to charcoal briquets and ice cream, they're as predictable as the Memorial Day traffic.

Among students who were named to the Dean's List for the first semester, 1984-85 at Bucknell University was freshman Oliver Binns, of Sunningdale Drive.

Looking for summer fun? Try Assumption

Assumption Cultural Center's summer brochure of classes and events is as full as always with lots to pique the interest of every age group. To be added to the mailing list of the center, 21800 Marter Road on the border of The Woods and St. Clair Shores, call 779-6111.

The nine-week Kalosomatics program returns with "early bird" sessions and pre-natal fitness classes. The Runners' World Fun Runs are back, too, on the first and third Saturday of each month. Runs of 1/2 to 5 miles are offered and registration includes patch, gift certificate, refreshments and more.

For walkers, Assumption's Fitness Walking Classes will instruct participants in race and pace walking techniques. "Groove to the Beat," teaches those 18 and older the latest dance steps. And ballet, tap, square dancing, 20th Century Yoga and karate classes are back. WSU Hall of Fame golf coach Joel Mason will lead the golf programs for beginners through advanced.

Those who sign up for an evening of self-improvement with Jacobson's experts from the new "Styling Network" salon will discover hair styling in the Montreal mode. Also offered are classes in Makeup Techniques and Gorgeous Nails.

Arts and crafts classes include "Paint Your Own Sweatshirt," "Fresh Flower Arranging," "Calligraphy," "Drawing and Oil Painting," "Get It Together with Color," "Discover Your Voice," "Country Guitar," "Discover Greek Cooking," "Basic Microwave," and "Inside Information on Herbs."

Summer programs for youth include teen and youth golf, beginners soccer clinic, baseball camp, PeeWee karate, gymnastics, and a month-long "Out West" package trip led by U.S. Summer Academy.

Kalosomatics classes begin the week of June 3; all other classes, from mid-June on. Senior citizen discounts are available. Bingo is featured every Monday at 6:30 p.m. and includes prizes and refreshments.

Further information on these and other Assumption offerings may be obtained by calling 779-6111.

Legal secretaries meet June 10

The Detroit Legal Secretaries Association will present Mary Larkin, Victim/Witness Assistant for the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office, at the Detroit Press Club, 516 Howard Street, Detroit, on Monday, June 10, at 6 p.m.

Ms. Larkin, administrator of one of three Victim/Witness Assistance programs in Michigan, will discuss the role of her office in lending support and guidance to the victims and witnesses of crimes. In addition, she will discuss current and pending Michigan legislation, emphasizing the increasingly significant impact of victim/witness issues on the criminal justice system.

Cocktails will be available at 6 p.m., with dinner served promptly at 6:30 p.m. Reservations can be made by contacting Diann Taylor at 961-9700 on or before June 5. Advance registration is required. Non-members are welcome. Dinner choices include Maurice salad ($7.50 members; $8.50 non-members) or chicken ($8.50 members; $9.50 non-members).

Award of Honor

Former Boys & Girls Clubs of Metro-Detroit Women's Association presidents Ginnie Tompkins (left) and Elaine Lynch (right) both of Grosse Pointe, were present when Michigan's First Lady Paula Blanchard received the Matilda R. Wilson Award of Honor from the Association in May 8 ceremonies. Current Association president Suzanne Naas is seated in front of Mrs. Blanchard, who was cited for her work in saving the annual Michigan Thanksgiving Day Parade. The Award of Honor is the highest the Women's Association can bestow and is given annually to perpetuate the humanitarian principles and philanthropic standards exemplified by Mrs. Wilson.

Zena Sheardown is D.B.E. chapter's special new member

The St. Lawrence Seaway chapter of the Daughters of the British Empire welcomed Zena Sheardown, wife of Canadian Consul John V. Sheardown, as a member during its May meeting held at the home of Mrs. Margaret Guertler, of The Farms. Mrs. Sheardown received her pin from Mrs. Carol Kruse, regent.

Also present were Mrs. Helen Arends, Mrs. Christine Armstrong, Mrs. Joyce Bratt, Mrs. June Erskine, Mrs. Brenda Trerice, Mrs.

Curl Tutag and Mrs. Diana Wortman. Mrs. Sheardown was awarded the Order of Canada by the Canadian government for her role in the rescue of American diplomats in Iran. She and her husband harbored four of the six diplomats in their home from Nov. 10, 1979 through January, 1980.

The D.B.E. is a non-sectarian, non-partisan, non-political philanthropic American organization for women. Membership is open to women of British or Commonwealth birth or origin (as far back as a grandparent). Associate membership is offered to the wife of a British or Commonwealth-born man, and to women whose proven ancestry antedates that of a grand-daughter.

The D.B.E. maintain four District Homes for the Aged, open to all nationalities. In addition, D.B.E. chapters assist local charities in their areas. Further information may be obtained by writing P.O. Box 8849, Detroit, 48224.

Off to see 'Pirates' in June

The War Memorial will sponsor a day trip to Stratford to see Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pirates of Penzance," on Wednesday, June 26. Early reservations are recommended.

The bus will leave the center at 8 a.m., allowing theater-goers time to enjoy a box lunch and shopping before the 2 p.m. performance. Dinner will be at Sir Joe in St. Mary's, Ont., a 19th Century-like town of Victorian buildings. The bus returns to the center at approximately 11 p.m.

The cost of $65 per person includes transportation, box lunch, performance ticket and dinner. Further information may be obtained by calling 881-7511.

Garden Club Council meets

The Grosse Pointe Garden Council will meet this coming Tuesday, May 28, at the Central Library on Kercheval at Fisher Road. Garden club presidents, representatives and members at large will gather at 9:30 a.m.

Australia is ESU focus

The Detroit Branch of the English Speaking Union will host a dinner meeting Wednesday, May 29, at the Detroit Boat Club. Terence McCarthy, Australian Consul-General, will be guest speaker. His topic is "Australia and the United States: The Story of a Strong Alliance."

Scott Allen Wesselman, of Lake Shore Lane, received a Bachelor of Arts in history from the University of Colorado, Boulder, in commencement exercises Dec. 23.

What to do with a gifted child?

How do you know if your child is "gifted?" And if he is, how do you help him develop his talents?

"Giftedness" is expressed in many ways, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter. It is not just academic excellence or artistic ability. One child might be gifted in using his hands to make things. Another can be gifted in her ability to understand other people's feelings, or to remember things and events.

There are many children whose special gifts go unnoticed because their talent lies in unexpected areas, or because they seem ordinary in other ways. It is your challenge, and your responsibility as a parent, to discover your child's special gifts and give him the chance to develop them.

But how?

Children are naturally drawn to activities that help them develop their gifts, but they need encouragement and opportunity. For example, you might notice your child singing along whenever he hears music on the radio or television. Encouragement, plus some records of his own, might give him a chance to expand his interests and skills.

A child also needs to develop basic skills before he can use those skills effectively. For example, he needs to know how to cook before he can combine ingredients in new and interesting ways to invent his own recipes.

Your child also needs to use her gifts in order to develop them. Have you ever told your child to do something, and then become impatient when she doesn't do it "correctly" right away? It's often easier to take over for a child than let her do things herself, but it's important to take the time to let her try things until she can do them well. Learning perseverance is an important part of learning to use one's special gifts. It takes a while to learn a new skill, and your child needs the chance to practice it until she masters it.

A child shows potential giftedness by how often and for how long he is interested in an activity. He will naturally be attracted to certain activities and will want to engage in them whenever he gets the chance. For example, your child might especially enjoy pretending to be people he sees on television, or in books. Or he might be very interested in being with you when you're taking care of your plants or gardening. Whatever his interest, you can best encourage it by:

- Noticing and commenting on his interest. "I see you like to be with me when I'm fixing something that's broken."
- Giving him the opportunity for involvement. "Would you like to try to fix this yourself?"

Old Dominion reunion set

Alumni of Virginia colleges and universities will hold their seventh annual Old Dominion Day Picnic on Sunday, June 2, at 4 p.m. at the University Liggett School Science Wing and courtyard, Cook Road and Chalfonte Avenue. Reservations must be made by Wednesday, May 29; there will be a masterlist at the door on picnic day.

Joining alumni and their families or dates at the picnics will be students presently enrolled in colleges or universities in the "Old Dominion," and as special guests, incoming freshmen and their parents. Guests will enjoy Kentucky Fried Chicken and all the fixings, plus beer, wine and pop. There will be games and prizes for the children.

Any Virginia alumnus interested in the event may obtain further information by calling 882-0460 or 882-8471.

GP's Sigma Kappa officers installed

Grosse Pointe Alumnae of Sigma Kappa gathered Wednesday, May 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the Mount Clemens home of Greta Buell to install officers elected at last month's meeting.

Geraldine Matthews will serve as the group's president in 1985-86. Vice-president is Joanne Asbury (Mrs. Mark) Davidson. Secretary is Helen St. John, treasurer is DeLores Parham (Mrs. Don't Little) and delegate to the Detroit Alumnae Panhellenic Association is Mary Margaret Johnson (Mrs. Thomas) Peters.

Chairmanships for the Philanthropy, Ways and Means, Collegiate Liaison and Public Relations committees were determined, and the hostess presented a short history of Pi Kappa Sigma sorority, which merged into Sigma Kappa in September of 1959. Many members of the local Sigma Kappa Alumnae were members of former Pi Kappa Sigma chapters.

The local alumnae welcome all area Sigma Kappas to their meetings. Additional information may be obtained by contacting Joanne Davidson at 775-0360.

Antique Show will send Christ Church 'angels' on tour

By Peggy O'Connor

When it was decided that the fundraiser which would send the Christ Church Choir of Men and Boys on its first European tour in four years would be an antique show — and a major one at that — it was also decided that organizers would look no further than to Wendy Jennings and Susie McMillan for help. For when it comes to the Christ Church Choir and/or antiques, the Jennings-McMillan connection is a natural.

Wendy and Susie, co-chairmen for the Christ Church Antique Show which is set for the South High Gymnasium Saturday and Sunday, June 1 and 2, share a love for both the Christ Church Choir and for antiques. And when they got together to begin planning Grosse Pointe's first major antique show in four years, they discovered another common factor: they wanted to make the show something special.

"We've tried to combine the best of every antique show we've seen into our show. We want it to be a quality show, but with items people can afford. And we want it to be special. . . a show with all the finer points of the top shows, but a unique show, too," says Wendy Jennings.

And they've spent months making sure of just that. Not that either has minded much. Susie admits to a long-time penchant for hitting the highways in search of antique shows and Wendy and two friends actually spent quite some time researching the antique fare of southeastern Michigan in preparation for a book on the subject.

So when Christ Church's Sue Kinard and Mooneyen Fitch conceived the idea of an antique show as a fundraiser and Choirmaster Frederick DeHaven asked Susie, whose 12-year-old son is a choir member, if she'd mastermind the project, she agreed with one condition. That Wendy would be her co-chairman. The rest, as they say, is history.

Wendy, a training specialist with Hudson's, grew up in Birmingham attending the men and boys' choirless Christ Church Cranbrook. But her husband was one of the youngest choirmembers in Christ Church Grosse Pointe history when he belonged back in the 1950's. The Jennings' are devoted Christ Church Choir fans, as are the McMillans. Although Susie admits that they split their time watching Duncan's athletic pursuits with their time listening to him sing. Duncan and his father F.W. McMillan II, a former Yale Whiffenpoof who now sings with the Grunyons, are the most musical McMillans, she says of the family which also includes Annie, 21, Jamie, 19, and Ian, 7.

"With my husband's interest in the choir and mine in antiques, the show was a natural for me. I had started that book and it just didn't pan out for one reason or another. But this is almost a better deal, I get to put all of that research to good use," Wendy says.

AND SHE DID. Wendy's and Susie's main responsibility has been securing dealers for the show, which called for looking at antiques and antique dealers in a whole new angle from that of a buyer. "The results were great. We'd been hoping to attract at least 30 dealers and we ended up with 36. Even those who couldn't help us this year were supportive, offering advice, information, etc. They were excited about being in a Grosse Pointe show," Wendy says.

"And Grosse Pointe has needed an antique show since the Liggett Show. Grosse Pointe is ready . . . and that's good for us," Susie says.

It'll be a good-sized show, they say, with a nice representation of Michigan dealers, dealers new to the area and those from Illinois and Ohio as well as Grosse Pointe collectors who are getting into the antiques business. American and English antiques furniture and collectibles, as well as Chinese and oriental porcelain and silver will be featured; as will an assortment of books, prints, maps, small collectibles, silver, brass and copper objects and toys, quilts, majolica and spongeware.

Some of the dealers present will include Thomas Forshee Antiques, Country Manor, Mack and Berta Reynolds, Pauline Work, Bill Starr, CM Gallery, The Lotus Gallery, David and Camille Purdy, The Butter Churn, Charlotte Franklin, Leonard Berry-Gordon Greek, Mulberry Hill Antiques and Interior Design and Clean Chase.

There will be flowers and flowering and green plants for sale and food will be served in the "Angel Cafe" in the church's undercroft. Angel is the show's logo — modeled, not doubt after the choir's angelic young stars. Church members Mrs. William Kaake will have her quilt collection on display there, as well.

"Our show will offer something for everyone, the young and beginning collector as well as the more experienced collector. We've had a great group of committee members and volunteers working on the show and, we think, contributing to its success," Wendy says.

"WE'RE EXCITED about it and we're hoping it will be an ongoing tradition for Christ Church," Susie adds.

And it's all for a good cause, as anyone who has heard the Christ Church Choir of Men and Boys would agree. They'll begin their tour on July 11 in Paris, singing in a concert in the Notre Dame Cathedral on July 13 and performing the morning service at the American Cathedral on July 14, Bastille Day. Following a tour through Normandy and a trip across the English Channel, the men and boys will arrive to sing Evensong on July 17 in Salisbury Cathedral. From there, they will sing in Christ Church, Oxford, then in Westminster Abbey and Yorkminster. Wherever they are, you can be sure their voices will sound as lovely as they did waiting across the church parking lot one recent sunny, spring afternoon.

"My child has received a tremendous musical background from the Christ Church Choir . . . I don't think he would have gotten that anywhere else. It's just a beautiful group," Susie McMillan says.

Take her word for it. When it comes to antiques and/or the Christ Church Choir, Susie McMillan and Wendy Jennings — who promise they will put on their antique collectors' hats during the show and take home at least one "memento" of their hard work — know whereof they speak.

The Christ Church Antique Show to benefit the Men and Boys Choir trip to Europe is set for 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, June 1 and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday, June 2, in the gymnasium at Grosse Pointe South High School, 61 Grosse Pointe Boulevard. General admission both days is $3, with food and refreshments available.

On Friday, May 31, there will be a Champagne Preview Supper from 7 to 10 p.m. for $25 per person ($15 for viewing only). Reservations to the preview supper are limited. Further information on the event may be obtained by calling 885-4841.

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — collection of Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth, featuring this week, BEAN dishes.

Beans are rich in magnesium, a mineral important for proper heart function, and contain respectable amounts of vitamins B-6 and riboflavin. They also help lower blood fats. Try using a bean puree to boost nutritional value and add flavor to casseroles, soups, stuffings, etc.

OLD FASHIONED BAKED BEANS

- 1 lb. great northern or small white beans
- 1 qt. boiling water
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. dry mustard
- 1/2 tsp. pepper
- Dash cayenne or Tabasco
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup molasses or honey
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 1/4 cup cider vinegar
- 6 oz. Canadian bacon, trimmed of all fat and sliced

Add beans to boiling water; boil 2 minutes, then remove from heat and let soak 1 hour. (Or cold soak overnight, if you prefer.) Drain beans. Combine dry ingredients and mix with the beans. Stir in onion, molasses, brown sugar and vinegar. Pour half of the mixture into a 1-1/2 to 2-cup casserole. Add half the Canadian bacon slices, then rest of the beans. Top with remaining bacon slices. Pour in more boiling water to top of beans. Cover, bake in preheated 300° for 6 hours if to be served at once or 5 hours if to be frozen. Add a little boiling water or apple juice if needed during baking. Makes 6 servings.

Calories about 372 per serving. Cholesterol about 42 mgs.

BAKED BEANS AU GRATIN

An out of the ordinary baked bean dish with three kinds of beans plus two kinds of cheese . . . a divine dish for a picnic or outdoor barbecue.

- 4 slices of Canadian bacon
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1 can (16 oz.) vegetarian baked beans with tomato sauce, undrained
- 1 can (16 oz.) kidney beans, drained
- 1 can (16 oz.) butter beans, drained
- 4 oz. Lite-Line cheese, cubed
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/3 cup catsup
- 2 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tsp. prepared mustard
- 1/2 cup red cooking wine
- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Trim Canadian bacon of all fat. Brown in teflon skillet; set aside. Saute onion in bacon drippings until transparent. Drain off excess grease, leaving small amount in pan. Add bacon, onion and remaining bacon drippings to other ingredients except wine and Parmesan cheese, and place in shallow baking dish. Pour wine over the top and sprinkle Parmesan cheese over mixture. Bake in preheated 350° oven 30 to 45 minutes. Serves 8. Cholesterol about 11 mgs. Very high in calories and protein.

BAKED CHICK-PEA PILAF

- 3/4 cup sweet onion, chopped
- 3 Tbsp. vegetable oil
- 1 can (20 oz.) chick-peas, undrained
- 1/2 cup uncooked brown rice
- 1 beef or chicken bouillon cube
- 1/4 cup boiling water
- 1 pimiento, seeded and coarsely chopped

Sauce onion in oil over moderate heat, about eight minutes or until pale golden. Place chick-peas and rice in an ungreased casserole and mix lightly. Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling water, add to casserole along with onion and remaining ingredients. Cover and bake in preheated 325° oven for 1 to 1-1/4 hours, stirring occasionally, until rice is tender. Makes 6 servings. About 215 calories per serving. Cholesterol 0.

Albion College students who will receive the Webster Scholarship from the school include Colleen Jaeger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jaeger, of Thorn Tree Lane, and Jill Ohorodnik, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Julius Ohorodnik, of Goethe Avenue. Each is a Grosse Pointe North High School graduate.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd L. Marks, of The Woods, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary April 27 at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club following a special Mass of Thanksgiving at Our Lady Star of the Sea Church. They were joined by friends and family at a luncheon reception hosted by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Marks and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Stedem Jr.

Among Central Michigan University students named to the fall semester honors list are senior Daniel A. Small, of Allard Avenue, straight A's; freshmen David L. Burns, of Grosse Pointe, and Kathleen Bakeman, of Beaufait Avenue; sophomores Lachlan F. Mackay, of East Jefferson Avenue, and Sharon M. Attar, of Hollywood Road; and junior Lisa M. Shabander, of Fleetwood Road.

Among Eastern Michigan University students who received degrees from the university in 1984 are William F. Schmidt, of Roland Avenue, and Elizabeth R. Vickers, of McKinley Road, Masters of Arts.

David Glenn H. Rayos, son of Dr. and Mrs. Floro V. Rayos, of Canterbury Road, was among those honored at the University of Michigan's 62nd annual Honor Convocation March 31. A 1982 Grosse Pointe North High School graduate and class valedictorian, Rayos was also among 21 newly inducted members of the U of M chapter of Phi Lambda Upsilon, a national honorary chemical society recognizing students who have demonstrated superior accomplishment in chemistry, chemical engineering and pharmacy.

Marco Morreale, of Cook Road, received awards in academic honors and in French during DeLaSalle Collegiate's eighth annual Honors Convocation Dinner Feb. 28.

Marine Lance Cpl. Curtis A. Young, son of Dr. Jack A. Young, of Fordcroft Road, was meritoriously promoted to his present rank upon graduation from recruit training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot Parris Island, S.C. A 1978 graduate of Grosse Pointe North High School, Young earned a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Michigan in 1982 and joined the Marine Corps in 1984.

Hilda and Edward Pongracz, of Grosse Pointe, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary May 10. Their family, including Mr. Pongracz's brother Otto and his wife, Bette and sister, Eleanor Mackey, and Mrs. Pongracz's brother Robert Erwin, and the four Pongracz grandchildren, gathered at Pernie's restaurant on May 11 to celebrate.

Among 42 area artists whose work was accepted for exhibition in the fourth annual Statewide Print Competition organized by Alma College is Vicki Katlein, of Grosse Pointe. Her inkless embossing with thread titled "Ravine," was exhibited.

Airman Scott W. McCarty, son of Donald J. and Anita L. McCarty, of Lakeland Avenue, has been assigned to Chanute Air Force Base, Ill., after completing Air Force basic training. The 1982 Grosse Pointe South High School graduate will now receive specialized instruction in the fire protection field.

Airman Timothy A. DeLaere, son of Patrick L. and Snirley J. DeLaere, of Three Mile Drive, has been assigned to Lowry Air Force Base, Colo., after completing Air Force basic training; he will now receive specialized instruction in the avionics systems field. DeLaere is a 1984 graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School.

St. Clare of Montefalco students Ann Eckel and Robert Clark were recent winners in the seventh grade essay contest on either "The Statue of Liberty" or "The Contributions Made By Blacks to the American Revolution," sponsored and judged by the Louisa St. Clair Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mary DesRosiers, of The Farms, recently was named winner of the Institute of Financial Education Annual State Speech Contest. As Michigan winner, she represented the 591 savings and loan associations throughout the state at the national conference in San Francisco, Calif., in March.

Tournament talk

Folks, it's Tournament Time, right here in Grosse Pointe city. That's tournament with a "T" and that rhymes with "P" and that stands for "playoffs." And that means it's time for me to gas up the car, haul out my industrial strength ballpoint pen and hit the streets in search of those memorable playoff notes and quotes.

As Grosse Pointe teams head into districts and/or regional play, I've gotten a head start.

The phone in University Liggett School tennis coach Bob Wood's office rang all day on Monday. Everybody but Time and Newsweek was calling to find out "what happened to ULS" in the regionals. The Knights (for those who have been in Tibet since last week) failed to win their state regional for the first time in 13 years and only the second time in 20 seasons. They finished second, but their 13-year hold on the Class C-D title looks shaky.

"We aren't dead yet," Wood said Monday, "but if we were cats, we'd have used up 8 1/2 of our nine lives."

The 13-year-streak of state titles, longest in the nation, is in danger. But win or lose, Wood says his team will be prepared for both the tournament and the outcome. "There's still a chance. Heck, they said Villanova didn't have a chance and look what they did in the NCAA's."

"We're going to go up to Kalamazoo and do the best we possibly can. We're going to make sure we've done everything mentally and physically possible to prepare for this... then we'll see."

Sound just like Wood's formula for ULS for the last 20 years. And why change now? He's been successful a time or 13. (And I'm not betting against 14.)

Don't talk to North coach Guido Regelbrugge about games his team has played. He prepares for them, plays them and that's it. He's always on the lookout for North's next opponent.

"To me, it's always the next game, not the one we just played that I want to talk about. I look to the next opponent because this time of year, all they do is get better as you go along," Guido says.

Which includes North, I assume. The Lady Norsemen were entrenched in the playoff picture at press time. They'd like to keep it that way, Guido says, but that's looking ahead TOO much, which is another thing Regelbrugge doesn't do.

If everything goes right, somebody from Grosse Pointe is going to be playing No. 2-ranked Bishop Gallagher in the districts on June 1 at North High. It's a dirty job, but in this case, somebody from Grosse Pointe is going to do it and both North and South wouldn't mind hanging in long enough to be the ones who played Gallagher.

North has to beat Lake Shore and South has to top Finney in the pre-district on Friday (don't hit me, coaches, if your teams don't do it); but both look ahead a little to a possible match-up with the Lancers.

"Sure, I think North-Gallagher would be a great game," North's Frank Sumner says. "Neither one of us has seen each other's best (pitchers Dave Peralta and Dan Kopitzke, for BG and North). And that would be a fantastic game... but that's looking ahead."

Sumner remembers when North did that last year. North won the 1984 league title by beating Lakeview, but two days later in the pre-district, Lakeview bounced the Norsemen from the tournament.

South's Dan Griesbaum knows if the Devils face Griesbaum, that means they'd face top righthander Peralta. "We have a lot of lefties and that might help. They've got some excellent pitching, but our hitting is excellent too."

"All I know is that anything can happen in the state playoffs. It's a new season. I just keep thinking of Walled Lake Western last year. They were 10-12 going into the tournament and they came right out and won the Class A title with a 16-12 record. We'll just keep remembering that," Griesbaum says.

So will Bishop Gallagher, one of the teams Walled Lake Central beat out for the title last year.

It's early yet, so nominations for most gutsy performance of the season are still open. My favorites so far? It's a tie between South High soccer player June Langs who overcame a defensive lapse in South's tournament game loss to ULS, and her worries about her mother who was a bit under-the-weather last week, to play an inspired game of soccer on defense against league-champ North. Or, ULS trackster Laura Rizzo, a 3200 meter runner who sat out most of the year with a stress fracture, but got back into action in the last regular season meet of the year, participated in the shot put for the first time ever, and picked up two points.

It's that time of year ...

It's playoff time for Grosse Pointe prep teams and as usual, the Pointes are well-represented in tournament action. As of press time on Tuesday, every spring team at North was still in competition; South was close behind with three teams still alive.

In tennis, University Liggett School saw its streak of 13 straight regional titles come to an end last week. But ULS will return to the state finals on June 1. "It doesn't look as good as it has in past years for us, but there's still hope and we'll work hard these next two weeks," said ULS coach Bob Wood.

North High won the Class A tennis regional, beating South out, 20-19. The two teams will participate in the states on June 1.

In baseball, South and North will play pre-district qualifiers on Friday, May 24. South faces Finney and North plays Lake Shore; the winners go on to the districts at North on June 1.

South High baseball players were recipients of All-League honors this week. Pitcher Rico Cordova, catcher Anthony Eugenio and outfielder Rick Waugaman were named to the

All-EML team. Waugaman also shared league MVP honors with Anchor Bay third baseman Mike Perkins.

Pitcher Rick Leonard, second baseman Rob Wood, outfielder Mike Hennessey, first baseman Tom Fellows, outfielder Jason Colegrove, pitcher Jerry Joliet and third baseman Bill Adihoch earned honorable mention, All-League. On the All-Academic team were George Ghazal, Steve Goodrich, Hennessey and Waugaman.

Leonard, a junior, did not make the first team, despite a 4-3 record and a 2.84 ERA. Of the 31 runs he gave up, only 18 were earned and he struck out 56 batters in 44 innings pitched. "I'm disappointed he didn't make it," said coach Dan Greisbaum. "But he's big and strong and throws hard and maybe he'll make people sit up and take notice next year."

North's girls' softball team was to play its pre-district game on Tuesday night, with the possibility of a district contest on Friday against Finney. South was ousted from tournament competition with a tough 6-5 loss to Lakeview in a qualifier last week. "It was a quick end, that's for sure," said coach John

The regular season is over for the boys' baseball teams at North and South High. North (that's Dennis D'Agnes above, left) has its eye on winning a district title and South (Blue Devil Rico Cordova slides into the bag) is also eyeing a district championship. Details on the teams' upcoming pre-district games and recent regular season action are inside. (Photos by Tom Greenwood).

Bruce. "Sure we were disappointed we couldn't go on in the tournament, but I couldn't be more pleased with how the team played this year." South finished with a 17-7-1 mark, second in the Eastern Michigan League. South pitcher Lynn Vismara, who pitched 20 games in 3 1/2 weeks, wound up with a 15-5 record and a 1.4 earned run

South's girls' soccer team was eliminated in pre-districts by ULS, which was also ousted from the playoffs. North won its first two tournament games, beating Warren Woods Tower, 5-1, and Chippewa Valley, 2-0. The girls were to face Sterling Heights Stevenson on Tuesday night (after press time) and the winner of that game is scheduled to go up against the winner of the Troy-Troy Athens game on Saturday, May 25, at 2 p.m. at Troy Athens for the regional championship.

Both the North and South boys' and girls' track teams will send team members to the state finals June 1 and 2.

ULS' regional tennis streak ended at 13

"I guess it was bound to happen," said University Liggett School tennis coach Bob Wood as he saw the Knights' string of 13 consecutive regional championships come to an end last Friday. Detroit Country Day swept six of seven flights to easily outdistance ULS, 20-14.

The Knights' lone winner was Marc Hunt at No. 1 singles.

"I was disappointed. I thought we had a chance of winning six of the seven flights. We didn't win a single doubles flight and that's the first time that's ever happened," Wood said. The regional loss was only the second time in 20 years that ULS didn't take home a regional crown. The other time was in 1971, when seven of the top players were dropped from the squad because of disciplinary reasons.

ULS will close its home season this Friday, May 24, when the University School of Cleveland travels to Grosse Pointe for a 4 p.m. match. The Knights will compete in the state Class C-D finals in Kalamazoo's Stowe Stadium on June 1.

The ULS JV lost to Cranbrook, 5-2, last week. With two dual matches left, ULS is 5-7 on the season.

Against Cranbrook, ULS lost the No. 2 singles and No. 1 doubles easily, but John Shanley played tough before finally falling, 6-3, 6-3, in No. 3 singles. Michael Baks also played well, losing 7-6, 7-6. Robert Nicolini took the No. 1 singles, 6-4, 6-2.

The other doubles matches were three-set marathons. Jeff Buhl and Bill Reuther lost at No. 2 doubles, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2. Varick Foster and Steve Eberhardt salvaged the No. 3 doubles match, 6-3, 5-7, 6-1.

In earlier action, Coach Chuck Wright's team lost, 8-0, on May 8 to the Brother Rice "B" varsity. The JV also played doubles with South Lake on May 9, winning all but one match. And they finished third in the Holly Tennis Tournament on May 11, taking points in every flight but No. 2 singles.

The squad closes the season today, May 23, at home against Detroit Country Day School.

Lacrosse No. 1

The ULS girls' varsity lacrosse team is now ranked No. 1 in Michigan.

On May 15, ULS met Detroit Country Day School to avenge a previous loss. This time the Liggett Knights tied, 8-8. Then last weekend, Coach Melinda Reuter's team traveled to Willoughby, Ohio for the annual Midwest Tournament.

ULS began by losing to Western Reserve Academy, 10-5. Goals were scored by Andra Hirt (two), and Amy Ottaway, Kara Van Dellen and Leah Evanski. Then the Lady Knights faced Kingswood

School, and came from behind to win, 6-4. The goals were scored by: Hirt (two), Angela Navarro (two), Nancy Georgi, and Evanski.

The next game matched ULS with Hathaway Brown School, and ended in an 8-2 ULS defeat. The goals were scored by Tricia Petzold and Ottaway. ULS defeated Sewickley Academy, 8-7. At half time ULS was down by four, but after a short break, returned to the field fired up. Goals were scored by Georgi (two) and Ottaway (six).

On Sunday morning, ULS faced its major rival, Detroit Country Day School. Earlier in the season, ULS had both lost to and tied DCDS. ULS came from a 4-3 deficit behind Barry Hamilton's superb second half goaltending, (saving 83 percent of all shots on goal) to win 6-4. Goals were scored by Ottaway, Georgi (two), Evanski, Van Dellen and Cathy Bianchi.

Park Majors

YANKEES-WHITE SOX
Kyle Hoyer went all the way in pitching the Yankees to a win over the Sox. Dan Minadeo hit a lead-off homer, Matt Reicht and Peter Griem doubled and Jeff Schmidt and Jason Bedsworth had hits. Josh Christ, George Petersmark, Nelson, Rauch, McLaren, Loffredo and Byrne played well for the Yankees. Jason Benavidez and Josh and Dan Cummins pitched for the Sox, who were led on offense by Benavidez and Josh Cummins; John Roberts, Bramlage, Moran, Campagna and Nolan played well.

ORIOLES-PIRATES
The Park Orioles' Tim Gramling went the distance in his team's 12-4 win over the Farms-City Pirates. John Haise and Kelly Graves (two doubles each), Mike Spanich (three hits), Jason Bailey, Brian Forester, Matt Jacklyn, Aaron McNally and Gramling led the hitting attack. Matt Bentley, Joey Michael and Scott Lupo played well on defense by Benavidez and Josh Cummins; McMillan pitched for the Pirates and had timely hits, as did Downs, Johnson, Smith and Whelan.

CARDS-PIRATES
Lance DeBets and Don DeSeranno pitched the Cards to a 5-3 win over the Pirates. DeSeranno had two key doubles and Bill Saylor added two hits and scored three runs. Ed Dorda's single knocked in a key run in the fifth. Dan Commer made a great catch in centerfield. Bednarchik and McMillan pitched well for the Pirates; doing the hitting were Jason Hall (two), Mike McLaughlin, Drew Woodruff and Brian Downs.

ORIOLES-PHILS
Oriole Darren Havern pitched all six innings in losing a tough decision to the Farms-City Phils. Graves' two hits led the Orioles' attack which included hits by Haise, Lupo, Spanich and Gramling. Michael, Bentley, Forester and Bailey continued their fine play. The Phils' Mike Oliver, Jamie Mertz and David Reed pitched for the win. Oliver also had three hits, and stole five bases (stealing home three times) to lead the Phils' attack. Jim Bellanca, Don Vier, Eric Lindsay, David Reed and catcher Johnston played well.

INDIANS-YANKEES
The Yankees topped the Indians, 5-4. Petersmark was the winning pitcher, striking out six. Bonani and John Jung-wirth pitched for the Indians; Bonani struck out five and Jungwirth fanned six. Key hitters for the Park Yankees were Rob McClaren, Hoyer, Griem, Minadeo and Bedsworth; Griem and Bedsworth doubled. Hitting for the Farms-City Indians were Tom Kolojeski, Kevin Brennan (double), Mike Bell, Blake Crawford and Marly Guliewicz (homer).

Park Minors

MSU-WISCONSIN
MSU beat Wisconsin, 9-2, behind a strong six innings from pitcher Fritz Coyro. Charlie Lickford drove in two runs in the second inning with a triple. Brenn Schoenherr doubled and Jamie McCormick had an RBI triple in the fourth. Shawn Darke and John Prom shared the pitching duties for Wisconsin. Paul Hadad and Matt Bower had RBI and John Wortman played good defense, catching two well-hit fly balls for outs in the fifth.

NOTRE DAME-MICHIGAN
Notre Dame took a 10-4 win over Michigan as Patrick Jarvis pitched four scoreless innings. He also went 3-for-3 with a single, double and triple. Tom Rajt and Matt DeBets were each 3-for-3. Brian Brenner and Scott McCain pitched for Michigan; McCain also tripled and drove in a run. Also turning in good performances were Geoff Everham, Steven Manire, Doug Jabara, Paul Sippola and Richard Spencer of Michigan; Brad Kimmell, Robbie Bacon and Brian Urso for Notre Dame.

Farms-City Majors

ASTROS-DODGERS
The Astros topped the Dodgers, 7-3. The Dodgers outhit the Astros, led by Andy VanDeweghe's two hits, but the pitching of Robert Koenle and the hitting of Erik Mathews, Dan LeFebvre and Josh Henry got the win for the Astros. Robert Reynolds and Jim Bunn were outstanding on defense for the Astros. Bill Leins, Jeff Osborne and Tim Malloy pitched well for the Dodgers.

ASTROS-INDIANS
The Astros took a 5-3 victory over the Indians. The Astros were led by Dana's fine pitching and Koenle's three hits, LeFebvre's double and the clutch hitting of Dan Wimsatt. The Indians' pitching duo of Mark Bonani and Dan Teranes and strong fielding of Blake Crawford and Guliewicz kept the game close. The Indians put runners on second and third in the final inning, but Bunn struck out two and retired the side on a ground ball.

PHILS-CARDINALS
The Phils edged the Cardinals, 4-2, behind the four-hit pitching of Reed and Oliver. Bier, Lindsay, Joel Peterson, Brett Brownson, Nick Johnston, Oliver, Bellanca and Reed kept the Phils in the lead. Jimmy Pole and DeBets pitched and hit well for the Cards; Dorda, DeSeranno and Commer played well.

PHILS-ORIOLES
The Phils won a 6-5 squeaker over the Orioles. Oliver, Mertz and Reed pitched for the Phils; Reed had two doubles and Vier, Lindsay, Bellanca and Oliver also hit. Havern went the distance on the mound for the Orioles, striking out seven. Graves went 2-for-3 and Spanich, Haise and Lupo also had hits.

Farms-City Class C

TOLEDO-MIAMI
Tim Miller, Steve Booher, Paul Nichols and Rocky Bryant had three hits each to pace Toledo to an 18-16 victory over Miami. Pat Brennan and Jonathan Morgan-Swartz had three hits each for Miami and Matt Reynolds and Marc Davis doubled.

SYRACUSE-TOLEDO
Five hits from Booher and four each from Tofo Ollison and Robby Lloyd lifted Toledo to a 26-23 win over Syracuse. Michael Werner hit for the cycle to pace Syracuse, while Kip Gotfredson contributed three hits. Jordan Jones made a fine catch of a fly ball to start a double play by the Syracuse defense.

MIAMI-RICHMOND
Richmond outscored Miami, 14-7, as Arthur Scott and Adam Filkin each had two RBIs. Ben Black and Billy Palazzolo rapped doubles for the winners. Matt Reynolds led the Miami hitting attack with a triple and a single and Pat Brennan, Mike Shepard and Bill Shepard had base hits.

COLUMBUS-RICHMOND
Ryan Messacar hit two home runs to lead Columbus to a 15-14 win over Richmond. Ev Meade chipped in with three hits and Billy Palazzolo knocked in six runs for Richmond.

TOLEDO-BUFFALO
Buffalo took a 17-11 win over Toledo as Chris Aliff and John Schoenith had three hits and scored three runs each. Jay Ricci and Robbie King had two hits each for Buffalo. Booher, Ryan Locke and Nick Rutan were each 3-for-3 for Toledo. (In a correction from an error in the May 16 column, Columbus beat Buffalo, 9-6).

MIAMI-SYRACUSE
Matthew Dakko's four hits and Tom Heasley's home run, triple and single powered Syracuse past Miami, 30-17. Morgan-Swartz and Reynolds homered for Miami.

ERIE-ALBANY
Albany topped Erie, 9-3, on May 11. Albany's Matt Cramer had a two-run homer, and added another hit and RBI. Third baseman Tim Frendo combined with Cramer for a rally-killing double play. For Erie, Karl Trost had two hits (single and double) and scored a run and Aaron Zurschmiede added two hits and scored one run.

Farms-City AAA

DENVER-SAN ANTONIO
Riley McCormack and Matt Suberati pitched San Antonio to a 13-6 win over Denver. Nick Kotsis had two triples, Suberati tripled and doubled and John Broutin hit a home run. Jason Hubbarth, Kevin Elliott, Ted Watts and Phillip Kotsis added hits. Jake Louis, Jay Hartling and John Cugliari hit for Denver.

SAN ANTONIO-NEWARK
San Antonio beat Newark, 10-7, in a come-from-behind win effort. Suberati and McCormack pitched; Suberati added a home run and a double. Hubbarth added two hits and Broutin collected a triple and a double. David Ptasnik, Chagnon, Hanawalt, Reynolds, Measelle and Denny Egan had hits for Newark.

LOUISVILLE-NEWARK
Louisville opened its season with a 16-2 win over Newark. Dan Grundman rapped a home run and a double for the victors and Mike Shock added three hits. Dan Henry and Brandon Farmer combined to strike out 13 Newark batters. Jason Chevalier doubled for Newark. Egan, Ptasnik and Matt Stentz pitched for Newark.

LOUISVILLE-DENVER
Farmer pitched a two-hit shutout and hit a home run himself to lead Louisville to a 13-3 win over Denver. Henry had two hits for the winners. Fritz Ollison had a 2-for-2 day for Denver and Jim Harrington and Pat Labadie each singled.

PHOENIX-DENVER
A strong four-inning pitching performance by Beth Weyhing combined with excellent relief work by Tommy Best lifted Phoenix to a 12-7 win over Denver. John Trost blasted a two-run homer and Beth Mozena and Tim Kazul added solo homers for Phoenix. Cugliari and Jay Harrington were perfect at the plate for Denver. Len Cugliari pitched five strong innings for Denver.

PORTLAND-LOUISVILLE
Peter Spivak's three singles and double helped Louisville beat Portland, 27-16. Dan Grundman, Henry and Oliver hit homers for Louisville. Jeff Wheeler had three hits for Portland and Kurt Sowers had an RBI triple.

SAN ANTONIO-LOUISVILLE
Two home runs by Grundman paced Louisville's 10-9 win over San Antonio. Henry rapped three hits for Louisville; Chris Ollivar, Mark Penney and Robbie Tiede each had two hits. Kotsis and Hubbarth had two hits each for San Antonio. Andy Donnelley and McCormack pitched well.

HAWAII-PORTLAND
Portland scored six runs in the fifth inning to break open a close game and take a 12-7 win over Hawaii. Jeff Wheeler and Peter Gracey pitched for Portland; Tom Rhodas, Allen Leitch, Kelly Sanders and Brian Natolie were on the mound for Hawaii. Gary Campbell homered for the winners, who were also helped by Lanny Tracey's doubles. Leitch hit a double for Hawaii.

That's the St. Clare track team — with head coach Steve Zaranek, coaches Tom Ossy, Ferd Keller and Chris Pellerito and assistants Kerry Bruce, Rob Haun, Nick Frontczak and Tim Keller — which completed its seventh straight undefeated season by beating previously unbeaten St. Joan, 60-31, last week. St. Clare now gets ready to compete in the C.Y.O. Metro-Detroit Championship meet to be hosted by St. Clare at South High June 2. The St. Clare girls go after their sixth consecutive city title; the boys, their fifth city championship. Field events and prelims are at 10 a.m., with the finals at 11:30 a.m. Approximately 25 metro-area teams will compete.

Grosse Pointe Soccer Association

The News is happy to print weekly results from the Grosse Pointe Soccer Association, however, the results must be phoned in to publicity coordinator Jean-Claude Elie. Following are the summaries submitted to Dr. Elie this week:

Under 10 Division — Chuck Bentley's Eagles recorded a 4-0 win over the SUSA Silverstreak. Matt Hambright scored three times. Tony DeLuca's Strikers blanked the Ukrainian, 9-0, on goals by Colombo (three), A. Sarniak (two), Hendrie, McHough, Mertz and Moltane.

Under 12 Division — The Eagles (Elie-Tirikian) played to a 1-1 tie with the Lancers (Sarniak) on goals by the Lancers' Bowman and by the Eagles' Scott McCain. Scott Nesom played a strong game in goal for the Lancers; Mike Reynaert and Brian Pope played well for the Eagles. Earlier in the week, the Eagles tied the SUSA

Travelers, 3-3. The Stars (Berger) lost to the SUSA Pacers, 6-1.

Under 14 Division — Tony DeLuca took a pass from Scott Austin and put it past the St. Clair Shores Steamers' goalie to give the Rebels (Fozo) a 1-0 win. Patrick Bond scored the only goal in a 3-1 defeat of the Roustabouts (Nearhood) by the SUSA Fire. Toni Giumetti scored all four goals for the Rowdies (Housey) in their 6-4 loss to the St. John's Atlas.

Under 16 Division — The Nordiques (Lamphier) lost a 2-1 decision to the Warren Spitfire. Daniel Spitz scored the Nordiques' goal on a beautiful pass from John Andary. The Gunners beat Fraser, 2-0, and topped Roseville, 3-0, last week. Abe VanderWyngaard's team remains undefeated and Eric Restum has not conceded a goal in six outings.

Under 19 Division — The Strikers recorded their first setback of the season, a 1-1 tie with the Roseville Sidekicks. John Dittich scored for the Strikers. On May 12, the Strikers (Vreeken) beat Romeo, 14-0. Dittich had five goals, Dan Wood, Ralph Barbier, Chris Colfer, James Ledyard, Feroz Ghandi and Dave Weaver scored. The defensive play by Steven Vreeken and Walter Guevara helped goalkeeper Geoff Centner to his shutout.

The GPSA U-10 Express (Megler-Agnone) remains undefeated (3-0) with a 5-1 victory over the Hawks (Rogowski). Key to the offensive game was half-back play by Christine Howson, Michael Song and Matt Marchese. The defense was ignited by fullbacks Michael Formolo and J.R. Sabol. They combined with Tony Buccellato to hold the Hawks to one goal, despite numerous attempts by Craig Rogowski, Michael Carron and Chris Eldridge.

Babe Ruth

Phillies, Tigers take over first place

The Phillies won two games last week to take over first place in the Park Babe Ruth League with a 3-0 record.

The leaders shut out the Dodgers, 9-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Pat DeLaere, who fanned seven while walking only one. Mike O'Leary notched two hits and scored two runs for the winners. Chris Markus drove in two runs with a triple. Chris Rowan also tripled and scored two runs.

The Padres were 14-1 victims in a "mercy rule" shortened game. Bryan Jones and Scott Mossman garnered three RBI each, while Markus went 2-for-3. George Ayrault, Andrew Lightbody and Karl Striebel collected three hits apiece for the Padres.

The Braves nipped the Dodgers, 2-1, in a nine-inning pitchers' duel. Winner Marcus Wysocki fanned 18 and walked seven, yielding only two hits. He also came home with the winning run on a passed ball in the top of the ninth. Doug Lucas gave up four hits and two passes while striking out eight.

The Padres downed the Braves, 6-4, in the week's other Major League contest. Chad McDaniel went the distance for the Padres, yielding four hits and four walks, while fanning six. He also helped his own cause with a two-run homer. Trace Kershaw added a two-run triple for the Padres, while Jason Whelan's three-bagger drove in one of the Braves' runs.

The Cardinals split their two games in the Minor League, bowing to the Rangers, 11-1, while drubbing the Athletics, 13-0.

John Binder's three hits were the only bright spot in the loss to the Rangers. Kevin Reid was the winner over Athletics in another "mercy" game, fanning 12 while giving up two hits in five innings. Binder again went 3-for-3, including a three-run homer.

The Farms-City league-leading Tigers took two more games last week to continue their undefeated record in Babe Ruth play. The Tigers led off the week with a 7-2 win over the Red Sox. Winning pitcher Jim Johnson and relief pitcher, Dave "Willie" Hall combined to limit the Sox to three hits.

Leading the Tiger attack was Scott Adlloch with two hits and Tim Fellows with two more, including a long triple. Jeff Blovis reached base all four times including a perfect suicide squeeze bunt that he beat out for a hit. John Whall went the distance for the Sox.

In other action, the Tigers erupted for 11 runs over the last two innings to beat the Indians, 17-6. The game was close most of the way, with Adam Franco of the Indians dueling Rusty Knowles of the Tigers. When both pitchers tired, Tigers' relief ace Hall went the last four innings and allowed two hits and two runs. Big hitters for the Tigers were Fellows with three hits; Adlloch and Andy Bryant with two each. D.J. Honslain and Dave Hall each scored three runs.

The weekend standings found the Tigers at 3-0; the Indians, Red Sox and Yankees at 1-2 each.

On the basis of this tournament, the Lady Knights are now No. 5 in the Midwest, and No. 1 in Michigan. (By Amy Ottaway).

Another track win

The ULS boys' track and field team finished its regular season with a victory. ULS scored 120 points, Lutheran Northwest 36, and Bethesda 17.

first in the 800, the 300 meter low hurdles and was a member of the winning 1600 meter relay team. Blasko Ristic placed first in the 110 meter high hurdles and in the long jump. Howard Fauntroy was first in the 200 meter dash and was a member of the winning 400 and 800 meter relay teams. Bob Tumacder won the 100 meter dash and was a member of the winning 400 and 800 meter relay teams and Jack Ferris won the pole vault and anchored the 400 and 800 meter relay teams. Mike Prus placed first in the high jump; Chip Davis won the 400 meter dash.

Members of the winning 3200 meter relay team were Peter Hardy, Matt Schwartz, Kevin Darby and Davis. The other member of the 400 meter relay was Norm Issa. The other member of the 800 relay team was Mark Kozlowski and rounding out the winning 1600 meter relay were Lars Knudson, Darby and Davis.

ULS will compete in the Greenhills Relays on Friday, May 24, in Ann Arbor.

Girls finish at 15-1

The ULS girls' varsity track and field team did what no one expected them to do this season — on May 14, the Lady Knights wrapped up an almost perfect dual and tri-meet record, defeating Bethesda Christian High School and Lutheran Northwest High School, 82-2-50-31-2. ULS' final record was 15-1.

Senior co-captain Judy Go was high scorer with 12 points, winning the 400 meters and the 300 meter hurdles, and placing third in the high jump.

On Friday, May 24, ULS will finish up with a trip to the Greenhills Relays in Ann Arbor. "This time we have two goals," said Schmidt.

The Woods' Cathy Brown, was scheduled to play at the Big Ten Women's Tennis Championships in Iowa City, Iowa, last weekend. Brown, an Ohio State University senior, was slated to start at No. 4 singles. She had a 16-10 (4-4 in the Big Ten) record going into the championships, despite sitting out matches because of an injury.

Western Michigan University sophomore pitcher Dave Babcock, of Grosse Pointe, was the winning pitcher in WMU's 6-4 decision over Eastern Michigan May 14. He has a 4-3 record and a 5.22 ERA.

Our Lady Star of the Sea High School graduate Mary Unti recently completed her first season on the John Carroll University Women's basketball team. Unti, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Unti, of Cloverly Road, is on an academic scholarship at John Carroll after being highly recruited during her senior year at Star. She started every John Carroll game at forward, averaging 10 points and 10 rebounds per game. She set a school record for most rebounds in a season, breaking the old 1979 record by 30 rebounds. Unti was selected to two all-tournament teams — in the Hiram Classic and the Findley Tournament — and would up being named John Carroll's Most Improved Player.

Former North High and Macomb Community College standout John Hackett has been the pitching mainstay of the Birmingham Southern College Hilltoppers this year. After an excellent fall and spring season, the senior lefthander injured his pitching elbow against Auburn University early in the season. After missing several starts, Hackett has come back to win four straight outings. One of his highlights this season was pitching against former North High teammate John Clem, a starter for Western Kentucky. Hackett is a student in Birmingham Southern's nursing program. His team is currently in a battle for the Southern States Championship and in preparation for the N.A.I.A. tournament set for late May.

Washington University in St. Louis junior John Briski, of the Woods, fired rounds of 73 and 74 to lead the Bears' men's golf team in a victory in the Missouri-Rolla best ball tournament April 27. The win ended the team's season with a 2-1 mark. Briski led the squad with a 79.4 average and three medals.

Sophomore Ann G. Sherer of Grosse Pointe is in her first year as a lacrosse starter for the University of New Hampshire women's team which is participating in the ECAC tournament. She played in all of the team's games this year and as of May 9, was fourth in scoring with 16 goals and four assists. Her tallies include four goals in UNH's 19-1 romp over North-eastern and two in the Cats' 10-9 win over Massachusetts. A graduate of University Liggett School, Sherer is also a member of the varsity tennis team at UNH, where she is a communications major.

Sailboard sailor Rob Wood, 23, of the Farms, finished eighth overall and fifth in his weight division in the 1985 Wayer World Championships in Islamorada, Fla. The event is the largest one-design regatta in North America with 287 entrants. Wood, who is the son of Marilyn Wood, has won the Wayer North American Championships in Charlevoix for the past three years. Last August, he won the Open Class, United States Board-sailing Association National Championships in Amagansett, N.Y. Prior to his competition in the Keys this winter, Wood trained with Major Hall and the U.S. Olympic team. He was chosen with five others to represent the U.S. at the University Games in the Netherlands in July. Twenty-two different countries are expected to compete. Wood is a student at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, working toward a BFA in industrial design.

Among the recent recruits to the Kalamazoo College women's soccer program is Stephanie Smith, an All-League defender and captain of the North High soccer team this spring. Stephanie will join the Hornets in time for their new NCAA calendar schedule this fall. Kalamazoo was 9-1 this year.

North vs. South in sports often means close games, hot tempers and one big rivalry. There's a little bit of that in most North-South soccer games, too, but there's a lot more. Like the perpetual motion of South's Renee Stoyka and the steady play of North's Shannon Armstrong (left) ... and the class of All-Staters Kim Wood for South and Amelia Dugan for North (right) ... the torn loyalties of North dads Howard Parmentier and Larry Black, who coached most of the girls on both squads in youth soccer ... the shutout goaltending of North ... the tough defense of South ... the effervescence of North's coach Guido Regelbrugge and the determination of South's coach John Case. And, after last week's 3-0 North win, typical of the camaraderie of girls who have played on the same teams all their lives and who now find themselves on opposite sides in the South-North soccer wars, there was a dip in the lake for players on BOTH sides.

North High baseball team wins seventh title for 'No. 7'

When North High's baseball team began the current season, the Norsemen had the goal of winning a seventh straight Bi-County championship for their coach, No. 7, Frank Sumner. The Norsemen did just that by defeating Lakeview, 11-2.

Earning the championship was the highlight of what Sumner called an "up and down week" which saw his Norsemen win only three of eight games.

On May 18, the Norsemen split a doubleheader with South Lake, winning the first game, 18-4, but dropping the second game, 8-7.

In the first game, winner Dennis D'Agnes struck out seven and benefitted from the 14 Norsemen hits. Dan Kopitzke led North with six RBI, including a three-run homer. Tim Rice, Ken Strasse, Joe Weidenbach, Frank Vento and Pat Kilcline all had strong games at the plate as they each collected two hits.

In the nightcap with South Lake, Craig Engel pitched the first five innings and took the loss for North. Engel gave up a two-run homer in the fifth that proved to be the game-winner. D'Agnes, the winner of the first game, finished the game in relief. Weidenbach's three hits were the bright spots for the Norsemen.

On Wednesday, May 15, North clinched the Bi-County championship with an 11-2 win behind the five-hit, eight strike-out pitching performance of Kopitzke, who helped his own cause by collecting two hits and three RBI. Steve Pochmara led North with three hits and two RBI and Kilcline knocked in two runs on two hits, one of which was a solo home run. Vento and Strasse chipped in two hits apiece.

Immediately following the Lakeview game, the Norsemen headed for Harper Woods High's home field to take on No. 2-ranked Bishop Gallagher under the lights. The Norsemen, who could muster only three hits, fell 5-0. Kilcline, who was relieved by Craig Como, took the loss.

On May 17, North fell to Brablec, 3-1. D'Agnes allowed only five hits and one earned run while striking out six. Weidenbach led North with two hits.

On May 18, North played Denby in the qualifying game for the pre-districts, winning in five innings, 21-0. Engel, pitching the first two innings, and Bill Miller, finishing the game, combined for a no-hitter. North, which scored 15 runs in the first inning, was led by Kopitzke's single and home run for three RBI; by Kilcline who had three hits for three RBI; and by Vento who had a single and a sacrifice fly for three RBI.

The Norsemen finished May 18 by getting swept by Rochester, 5-1 and 9-3.

In the first game, Engel pitched six innings and took the loss before being relieved by Weidenbach. In the second game, JV ace Rob Marshall took the loss. Bright spots for North were Kilcline, with two hits including a home run; Mike Miller, who doubled; and Mike Farley, who collected two hits.

North's next game is Friday, May 24, at home against Lake Shore, in the pre-district game. Game time is 4 p.m. against Dearborn. They were led by Chris Fleming and Barb Labadie, with two first place finishes.

In the regionals, North finished out of the top three but qualified several for the state finals. Among those are Sue Roland, second in high jump (5 feet, 3 inches); Jill Dornbrock, first in long jump (16 feet, 6 inches); Barb Labadie, third in the 300 meter hurdles. North relay teams qualifying include the mile relay team of Labadie, Dornbrock, Chrissy David and Barb Loehner and the 400 relay team of Katie Koller, Tina Strader and Amy Brennan.

feet; and Steve Saigh, in the 100 meters (10.96).

Soccer title

North's girls' soccer team won its league championship last week by beating rival South, 3-0. North had earlier defeated ULS, 9-0. Scorers against Liggett were Shannon Armstrong (four), Amelia Dugan (three) and Bridget Brierly (two).

Goalie Sue Bond and the defense registered their eighth shutout of the year against South; Dugan (two) and Armstrong scored for North.

North is currently in state playoff competition.

Netters win region

North's varsity boys' tennis team edged out crosstown rival South High in the Class A regionals at Mount Clemens last week. North had 20 points to South's 19. Both teams will advance to state finals competition June 1.

In a four-team tournament May 13, North finished third behind Ann Arbor (13) and Grand Blanc (8). North won its league tournament on May 15, with 21 points to beat South Lake's 14, Lakeview's 8 and L'Anse Creuse's 2. Ralph Barbier was a winner at No. 4 singles. In the doubles bracket, Drew McSkimming and Fred Kaleal won at No. 1; Brad Cooksey and Roger Eger at No. 2; Chris Colfer and Dave Colfer at No. 3; and Bret Schneider and Greg Cooksey at No. 4.

North closed out the week with a 7-0 win over Rochester Adams.

Girls tied for first

North's girls' varsity softball team is tied for first in the Bi-County, sporting an (8-1) league mark (9-4 overall). North defeated previously unbeaten Clintondale, 3-0, behind the strong pitching of Paul Harms and an excellent defense. North closed the week by losing to rival South, 7-4, and beating Farmington in a Fraser tournament, 13-7.

Against South, North fell behind 5-3 in the fifth inning and was unable to catch up. Paula Harms, Dawn Cartwright and Leslie Talos each collected two hits in the game.

On May 14, North took two from South Lake, 9-2, 8-4. North's victory kept it in first place and raised its league mark to 8-1. The game's big blows came from Cartwright (three-run homer) and Talos (home run).

Helping children ...

... is what the second annual Children Helping Children Junior Tennis Tournament is all about, according to chairman Trisha Gaskins, pictured above with potential player John Spain. The tournament, which benefits Children's Hospital, is set for 11:30 a.m. Monday, June 17, at the Woods' Lakefront Park. The $15 per person fee includes prizes, trophies, balls and an afternoon barbecue. Deadline for reservations — made by check only — is June 14. It's a boys' and girls' singles tournament with a draw for ages 10 through 18. Players should bring a lunch or snack bar money if they want to eat lunch before the barbecue at the end of the matches. Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Gaskins at 822-6355 or 886-2944, or co-chairman Anita Sohaski at 777-3845 or 886-2944.

Horse show schedules set

The Motor City Horse Show will take place June 12 through 16, followed by the Detroit Horse Show, June 18 through 23. These Class A Hunter/Jumper events will be staged at the Bloomfield Open Hunt, 405 E. Long Lake Road in Bloomfield Hills.

Over $140,000 will be awarded in prize money during the two shows. Among the top prizes is the $20,000 Chrysler Motor City Grand Prix on Saturday, June 16 and the $35,000 Mercedes North American Grand-prix on Saturday, June 23.

South baseball team second in EML

By Stu Whitney
South High

For a while there, it looked like the much-dreaded "maybe next year" cliché wouldn't be used in regard to South's varsity baseball team this season.

Things didn't work out that way, however, at least as far as the EML goes. Coach Dan Griesbaum was forced to spit out the humbling words after his team, which had jumped out to a 7-0 league start, finished at 11-3, two games back of an extremely surprising Anchor Bay.

"We're disappointed, sure," said Griesbaum, "but Anchor Bay is a deserving winner. When you go 13-1, you're doing something right. They got good pitching and timely hitting; nobody had much success against them (South handed the Tartars their only loss)."

Anchor Bay won 11 straight EML contests, after a 2-1 start, to take the title. The Devils, however, didn't go down without a fight. They won three of their four league games last week, but didn't get any help from the Tartars' opponents.

South's only loss of last week came at the hands of a tough Port Huron Northern squad at home last Friday. Rick Leonard and Jerry Joliet had trouble holding off the Husky attack in the 4-1 setback. Mike Hennessey and Tom Fellows each had two hits for the Devils.

A dramatic comeback, which consisted of four runs in the sixth inning and three in the seventh, enabled South to down Port Huron on the road, 8-5. Anthony Eugenio collected two hits and both Fellows and Jason Colegrove had two RBI in the win.

South handed Roseville a couple of losses in a home doubleheader. Leonard earned a shutout in the Devils' 6-0 triumph in game one, which was the only league contest. Sean Bruce belted a solo shot in that one. In the second game, a 6-4 South win, Steve Goodrich posted a win, his second of the season, and Rico Cordova and Steve Kinsley collected two hits each.

The Fraser Tournament, back on May 11, boosted South's confidence a couple of notches if it didn't accomplish anything else. The Devils humiliated Farmington in a 22-2 barnburner and then beat Roseville for the third time in as many days in the finals, 19-8. Rick Waugaman, Eugenio, Hennessey, Fellows and Bruce were all named to the All-Tournament team.

The end of the league season doesn't mean it's hang-up-the-cleats time by any means. Griesbaum and his boys will host Detroit Finney at 4 p.m. Friday to determine who advances to the regional playoffs at North. If South wins, it will take on the winner of the Bishop Gallagher-Notre Dame matchup on June 1. Griesbaum insists, however, there'll be no looking ahead.

"Finney is one of the better Detroit teams," he said. "We expect a good game."

The three hitters that have prevented a lot of games from staying just "good" — Waugaman, Eugenio, and Hennessey are going to maintain, or increase, their production if the Devils are to go far.

Griesbaum apparently believes they can, as he sees defense and pitching to be the key areas in the playoffs. "You've got to have the defense and pitching," he said, "you could be hitting .350 or .400 as a team, but without defense and pitching, you're not going to win."

South's pitching staff has been everything but deep. Four pitchers have accounted for all of the Devils' 18 victories: Cordova (six), Joliet (five), Leonard (five), and Goodrich (two). The father a team goes in postseason, the more it needs pitchers that can do the job.

The major surprise of the staff, according to Griesbaum, is Joliet. "He's done a really great job," said Griesbaum. "We knew that Cordova and Leonard were going to throw well, but Jerry really came as a surprise."

City opens pool May 25

Here are two of the finest Jaguars ever built: the magnificent Series III sedan and the awesome V12 powered S-Type GT.
Both share the inimitable Jaguar qualities of graceful design, quick response and agile handling. Both are equipped with precise power rack and pinion steering, racebred four-wheel independent suspension and decisive four wheel power disc brakes.
Inside, Jaguars provide a level of luxury and quiet seldom, if ever, equalled in a high performance motor-car. Test drive them today.
