Mistake earn $10

Hey, hey, hey, the Grosse Pointe News has made it into the prestigious Columbia Journalism Review. What a great honor, right?

Well, half-right anyway. A headline from one of our earlier editions will appear in "The Lower case" section of the magazine. For the uninformed, "The Lower case" is a section devoted to journalistic foul-ups — usually on the funny side.

Past examples have included: "Sandinistan defends regime in Sioux Falls;" "Rebel threats keep traffic light in El Salvador;" and "Never withhold herpes infection from loved ones."

Our contribution comes from a story proof-read by ace reporter Mike Andrzejczyk concerning the Park's decision to discontinue spraying for Dutch elm disease. Mike's headline, "Park ends spraying Dutch for elm disease" was quickly snapped up by the magazine.

They sent Mike their acceptance, their thanks and $10 for his contribution. No word on when the headline would appear though.

We'll keep you posted.

Just harmless fun

Life is full of crumb-burns. They usually get away with things that make the rest of us grit our teeth. Things like spray-painting cars, egging houses or pulling midnight lawn jobs.

Occasionally they get caught. That's apparently what happened in the Woods recently when police nabbed a pair of teenagers boys who thought they'd have a little fun in daddy's car.

According to reports, a 15-year-old boy was operating his radio-controlled car in the street in front of his house when an auto approached. He pulled his car to the side of the roadway to keep it safe.

According to reports, he didn't pull it far enough because the approaching car swerved out of its way to run over the toy, completely destroying it. According to police reports, the driver and his passenger drove off laughing.

As fate would have it, the 15-year-old recognized the passenger and reported it all to the police. Through the passenger, the cops tracked down the 17-year-old driver who admitted seeing the car, but denied trying to destroy it. He said he just swerved to see how close he could get. Yeah, sure.

Anyhow, the driver's mother assured police her son would replace the $75 vandalized toy.

It would be nice to think the career of a slob driver has been nipped in the bud.

But I doubt it.

Ringside seats

If you're into fireworks, the Central Business District Association (CBDA) has a deal for you. We're talking about primo ringside seats on the Lansdowne Restaurant for the Freedom Festival fireworks set for July 1.

Tickets are $35 per person and will include a buffet supper. Cash bars will be open all evening. Boarding begins at 5 p.m., with dinner served at 6 p.m.

Half the floating restaurant was reserved for fireworks watchers last year, according to the CBDA, and more than 500 patrons enjoyed the show. This year the entire restaurant is open and 1,000 tickets are expected to be sold.

Tickets are available by calling the CBDA Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 961-1403 or visiting 700 Penobscot Building. Checks should be made payable to: CBDA, 700

Farms council limits liquor licenses

By Nancy Parmenter

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial had its hopes for a Class C liquor license blasted at the Farms city council meeting June 17. The council voted 5-2 against granting any additional licenses in the city.

The council tried to frame the debate in terms of liquor licenses in general rather than the specific granting of a license to the War Memorial. The effort was only partly successful. The massive publicity surrounding the request brought out more than 50 people, most of whom wanted to address the War Memorial question directly.

Leader of the opposition to the license, Paul Marco, limited his remarks to the agenda question (whether to alter the policy of limiting liquor licenses). But when War Memorial board member Alexander Sucek began his presentation in favor of the license, Marco interrupted him repeatedly until shouted down by the audience.

Liquor licenses are allotted by the state according to a population formula. Grosse Pointe Farms is entitled to eight licenses, but the council has for 30 years had a policy limiting licenses to five. As of the end of 1985, if the city has not granted the three remaining licenses, the formula will revert to a 1980 census base, reducing the total allotment to seven.

Several Farms restaurants have license applications filed with the city. When the War Memorial made its request, the debate at first centered on the pros and cons of a liquor license at the Memorial, and only last week was publicly refocused on the question of the Farms license policy.

After an hour-and-a-half of public input punctuated by partisan applause, Councilman Joseph Fromm moved to place the question on the November ballot as a citizen advisory vote. His motion died for lack of a second. Then Councilwoman Gail Kaess moved to increase the number of licenses granted. Her motion was supported by Councilman Bruce Rockwell, but they were the only two voting in favor of it in the 5-2 denial.

Director of the Memorial Mark Weber said he was disappointed in the outcome. "We didn't get an adequate chance to make our case," he said Tuesday. "The community support is evident. If we had had any opposition from any community group along the way, we would have backed off a year ago."

Weber expressed dissatisfaction with the council's requirement that all argument be directed at the question of increasing liquor licenses in the city. "We can't get up there and argue for more liquor licenses in Grosse Pointe when our interests are in the opposite direction," he said. "Our point is not more liquor, but more control. Many of the arguments made against drinking are the very reasons we want the license."

The basic thrust of the War Memorial's argument has been that a license would make drinking at the center easier to control. Other arguments have stressed efficiency, convenience, cost and insurance benefits.

Those opposing the license argued that the mood in the country today favors curtailing the availability of liquor rather than expanding it.

"The police say that alcohol is the number one drug problem among young people in the Pointes," said opposition leader Marco. "Drunk driving arrests are up. Whether or not that means the Farms police are more diligent, those arrests involved drunk drivers."

Resident Ralph McElvenny said, "There is a groundswell in the nation opposing drinking by young people. States are raising their drinking age in order to control alcohol."

Chris Dodds, a resident who said she is involved in alcohol and drug education, which she teaches at Henry Ford Hospital, said, "We need a different perspective. Not every activity needs to revolve around alcohol. The focus on the need to have alcohol at every social event is not lost on young people."

Dodds said the youth of Grosse Pointe are exposed to too much drinking. In a class she taught in the Pointes, the teenagers had a grossly magnified idea of how much alcohol the average adult consumes, she said. When told that one-third of American adults never drink, one youth told her, "That may be true in the rest of the country, but not here in Grosse Pointe."

Many audience members spoke in favor of granting additional licenses. "I don't think all the drunk drivers in the city were intoxicated in Grosse Pointe Farms," said Ed Bourke, one of the liquor license applicants.

Resident Tom Fox, a neighbor of the War Memorial, told the council, "I don't think it's right to put the War Memorial in a bag with Joe's Bar and Grill — it's a special institution."

"The War Memorial serves all the Pointes. If alcoholic beverages happen to be the desire of the community as a whole, we should give some thought to it," said resident Paul Moreland.

Weber said Tuesday that the directors of the War Memorial have not yet decided what to do. However, liquor has long been legally consumed at the center. It applies for five 24-hour liquor licenses a year. Additionally, at many events, guests either arrange to furnish their own alcohol, as at a wedding, or bring it in in brown bags or hip flasks. These practices will doubtless continue.

Center's non-profit status reinstated quickly Tuesday

The bombshell that the War Memorial's Michigan non-profit incorporation had lapsed apparently had no lasting repercussions, but did send War Memorial officials scurrying to Lansing Tuesday to remedy the situation.

The news was released during a heated meeting June 17 over the Farms' liquor license policy. Paul Marco, an opponent of granting a Class C license to the War Memorial, presented a letter from the Michigan Department of Commerce stating that the center's non-profit corporation was "automatically dissolved" in 1975 for failure to comply with a technical aspect of a 1972 law governing the filing of non-profit annual reports.

"It raises legal questions about tax-exempt status and the status of contributions," Marco said.

War Memorial officials publicly dismissed the issue as "irrelevant" and "just technical," but they headed to Lansing Tuesday with the errant files.

Mildred Chase, in the annual reports division of the corporations and securities bureau of the state commerce department, confirmed that the War Memorial had failed to file the reports.

"They can re-incorporate if they desire," Chase said, "but they no longer have non-profit status." In a second conversation, Chase said center officials were on their way in with five missing annual reports and the $185 filing fee.

"Once they file the reports and pay the fees, they will be reinstated," Chase said.

Checks with other agencies showed that the War Memorial's annual report lapse has not had any apparent effect on its status. The Internal Revenue Service lists it in the "01" or "good" tax-exempt classification.

The state attorney general's office has a license on file, valid through 1987, which authorizes the center to seek donations for charitable purposes. This author-

Park police, fire to merge — maybe

By Pat Paholsky

Instead of swallowing whole the concept of consolidating the police and fire departments in the Park, the council decided Monday night to go at it in small bites.

The council adopted a resolution directing the administration "to proceed in preparation of an operational plan for the consolidation of police and fire services and to report back to the city council."

"It gives us the opportunity to look at the plan, know what it will cost and then have it come back to us," Mayor Pro Tem John Prost said. "It's a reasonable way to proceed."

The action followed a recommendation by new Police Chief Richard Caretti to establish a public safety department.

"It's going to be a lot of hard work, dedication and commitment from this body, from the administrative staff and people involved," Caretti said. "The cornerstone is intensive training and aggressive leadership."

City Manager John Crawford estimated that it would take from six months to a year to establish procedures and negotiate separate contracts.

Caretti said cross-training would take at least two years.

"It depends on how fast we want to go," he said. "We could go with one person a month or two. There are no short cuts. First we'll have to determine how many of our people will qualify. There are tough new law enforcement training standards and they'll have to pass that program."

In response to a concern voiced by Councilman Vernon Ausherman that some provision be made for police officers and firefighters who did not want to cross-train, Caretti said that it would be "untenable to cast someone out after years of service."

Mayor Palmer Heenan praised the council for joining in unanimous approval of the resolution.

"It has been a long and arduous process and it's difficult for council to coalesce," he said. "We cannot go ahead unless we are unified. It's a hard step and I commend council for coalescing."

After the meeting, John Molinari, a member of the citizens committee that studied consolidation, said, "I felt tonight's resolution was the best thing that could have happened. It gives the council the opportunity to look at the cost of public safety. I feel that one of the concepts for efficient use of facilities and personnel has to involve cost and I feel the final report will reveal how much consolidation of departments will cost. I believe it would be prohibitive here."

Molinari, who was one of two members of the 13-person committee who voted against consolidation, added, "I felt the council acted responsibly. I believe they are interested in looking at the cost."

The action, however, did not please all of the residents. Bill Farant asked if the resolution meant the council would continue studying the concept of public safety. He charged that the issue is a political football that has left the city's firefighters uncertain about their status and residents in some areas of the Park frightened.

"I don't think it's fair," he said. "Make a decision about something."

City attorney Herold Deason said the resolution enables the administration to begin collective bargaining with police and firefighter representatives.

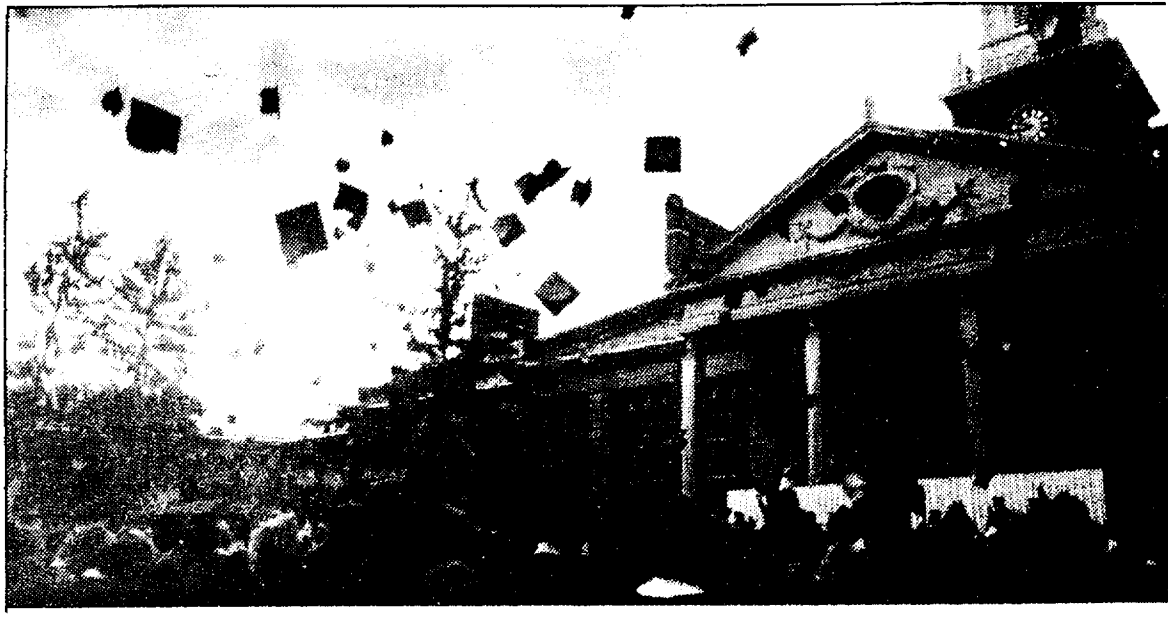

"There are a number of things involved in implementation, each of which requires certain steps by the administration and certain approval by the city council," he said. (Continued on Page 17A)

Hill parking request denied

By Nancy Parmenter

The long-awaited Hill Plan took a bashing last week when the state Department of Public Health turned down the request of Cottage Hospital to build a parking structure on Muir Road.

Every move a hospital makes is governed by state regulations aimed at containing costs by curbing excessive hospital growth. Thus, Cottage was required to go through approval procedures with the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeastern Michigan, which makes recommendations to the state health department.

"We recommended denial in March," said Don Lamb of the CHPCEM. As of Monday, paperwork from the state's denial had not reached Lamb. He declined to speculate on the state's reasons for denial, which he said might or might not be the same reasons CHPCEM found.

Cottage officials have seen the state report, but have not yet decided how to react to it, according to Kathleen Maslanka of the hospital's public relations office. She said the report contained recommendations for changes in the proposal.

"We may submit a new proposal based on those recommendations," she said. She stressed that resubmittal is an option that has not been decided on. There is no time limit on resubmitting the proposal. Until Cottage officials decide whether to resubmit, Maslanka declined to release any details of the denial and recommendations.

Presumably caught in the cross-fire was developer Peter Bologna, who planned to construct a building to contain retail and office space. Because there is insufficient parking available at the site of Bologna's proposed building, its completion hinged on the Cottage parking structure.

Bologna could not be reached for comment.

The Plan has undergone several permutations since it first surfaced in the late '70s. At one time, the city of Grosse Pointe Farms considered underwriting the parking project.

Throughout most of the life of the Plan, there were concerns about the anticipated high cost of parking (as high as 80 cents for a half-hour). Farms officials backed off the idea when they began to fear that the high cost of parking would actually drive Hill customers away.

Cottage completed all the required Farms planning procedures and guided the proposal through the state committees to receive approval three years ago. However, the unfavorable business climate at the time exerted an adverse influence on the project and the state approval was allowed to lapse without Cottage's taking any action.

A revised plan, which added some hospital support services to the lower level of the parking structure, won Farms approval last summer. It was this plan which was denied by the state last week.

Teacher receives award

Sister Martha Goode, a teacher at Our Lady Star of the Sea High School, was recently presented with the first Excellence in Education award by the Lakeshore Optimists. Selection was based on achievement, involvement and commitment to excellence in education.

The award is patterned after the Respect for Law and Youth Appreciation Week programs sponsored by the local Optimists. Nominations were solicited from the five Pointes and Harper Woods for someone in the community who has made significant contributions to the educational system. The person could be a teacher, administrator, public official or citizen acting in a lay capacity.

Learn about Alzheimer's

More than 60,000 families in the Detroit area are affected by Alzheimer's disease. This mind-crippling neurological disorder destroys memory and eventually results in total disorientation and helplessness.

To learn more about the disease, Saint John Hospital's Patient Education Department is offering a community program on "Alzheimer's — A Silent Epidemic" on Monday, June 24, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

in the hospital's auditorium.

Dr. Mary Martinen, guest speaker, will discuss the diagnosis of Alzheimer's, its current treatment, the psychological impact on families and community resources available for help. Films and literature are also available.

For more information or reservations, call the Patient Education Department at 343-3870. Deadline for reservations is Sunday, June 23. There is a $2 charge for the program.

Task force plans amendments

Congressman Dennis Hertel (D-Harper Woods), chairman of the special House Democratic Task Force on Waste, Abuse and Fraud in the Department of Defense, announced that the task force is considering possible amendments to the $322 billion Defense Appropriations Bill when it comes before the House next week.

Hertel said the task force discussed the following measures as possible ways to curb fraud and abuse in defense spending:

- The passage of HR 2262, a bill authored by Hertel, which authorizes the inspector general of the Department of Defense (DOD) to stop payment or debar contractors in cases of waste, fraud, abuse or excessive charges that are uncovered by routine Pentagon audit procedures;

- An amendment to HR 2397, the Armed Services bill which outlines allowable DOD reimbursements to contractors, in order to provide criminal penalties for disallowed costs;

- An amendment requiring the DOD to promptly report any funds appropriated by Congress but no longer required in view of actual costs;

- A measure to establish a commission to make recommendations regarding the possible creation of an independent civilian procurement agency to replace the Pentagon.

"We are just as tired as the citizens of this country of the stories about $7,000 coffeepots, $600 toilet seats and $700 pliers. It is time we stopped talking about the problem and took some meaningful action to correct it," Hertel said.

Hertel elected HCMA chairman

John C. Hertel, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, was elected chairman of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan (Park) Authority for 1985-86.

Hertel has represented Wayne County on the HCMA board since May 19, 1983. The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority has 13 metroparks serving the citizens of the counties of Wayne, Macomb, Oakland, Livingston and Washtenaw.

Throughout his career as a public official, Hertel has received numerous awards, including Legislative Conservationist of the Year from the Michigan United Conservation Clubs and Outstanding Legislator of the Year from the Michigan Agricultural Conference.

He was born in Detroit and is a lifelong resident of Wayne County. He earned a bachelor of science degree from Wayne State University and is a professor of government, environment and technology at Lawrence Institute of Technology.

FACTS OF LAW

by Ellen C.
Wallaert

A lease which gives a tenant a right to use a property for a specific time period remains binding on any purchaser of the property who buys during that time period.

"The life of the law has not been logic; it has been experience."
—Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr.,
United States Supreme Court Justice

In olden times, when a woman was married, she was "endowed at the church door." This meant that she received the rights to one third of her husband's land as long as she lived.

An EMBLEMENT is a crop, such as corn or wheat, which is produced by a person who is usually leasing land. The tenant has a right to keep the crop even if his tenancy expires before time of harvest.

Courts interpret contracts between parties by the language on the face of the document; if the language is clear, they will allow no evidence to vary a clear meaning.

EPA says schools meet federal asbestos rules

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Grosse Pointe public schools received congratulations in the written report from the Environmental Protection Agency on its inspection last month of the district's compliance with asbestos regulations.

In his cover letter to Superintendent John Whritner, the EPA's Midwest Region Chief of Pesticides and Toxic Substances branch, Mitchell Wrich, said the agency found the school committed no violations of the federal school asbestos regulations.

"Your office should be congratulated for your effort and support of the school asbestos program," Wrich added in his letter. "The EPA appreciates your cooperation."

The inspection was conducted May 9, when an asbestos compliance officer checked central office records and walked through Monteith Elementary, Brownell Middle and North High schools to make sure the district complied with federal rules on identification of asbestos-containing materials in the buildings and notification of users of the building that asbestos was present.

At the central office, the inspector reviewed the district's inspection records and selected the schools for a walk-through.

The school system had its school inspected for friable asbestos materials in 1982 and 1983 by Clayton Environmental Consultants. Clayton's inspection of North in 1982 showed from 20 to 80 percent asbestos content in pipe wrap and sprayed-on materials in the school.

Inspections of the rest of the schools the following spring showed asbestos in all schools in pipe and duct wrap, ceiling tile and sprayed-on acoustical material. Ceiling material in Monteith and Brownell had from 13 to 53 percent asbestos, according to the Clayton report.

In September that year, the district summarized its work in asbestos removal and repair in the schools. The ceiling above Brownell's pool was removed and replaced, and an asbestos control and management program was implemented at North while removing asbestos-containing sprayed-on materials in the beams in the storage and fan rooms.

In other schools, the district repaired the pipe wrap that contained asbestos and cracked during the thermal expansion and contraction of the pipes.

The district also adopted a reporting-and-repair program. Maintenance workers at the schools report damaged or cracked pipe insulation to the central office, which then bids out repair contracts.

This year, work was done at Kerby Elementary School to remove asbestos-containing pipe insulation from the crawl space under the school. Testing of air samples was also done at South last month.

During his walk-through inspection, the asbestos compliance officer checked each of the chosen schools' records that were to describe where friable asbestos-containing materials are located in the building and the results of samples taken.

In Brownell, the inspector found that boiler and pipe wrap repairs had been done this year and last. The material used to replace the asbestos-containing ceiling tile above the pool had become friable as well, but doesn't contain asbestos, according to the report.

The inspector also found repairs to boiler wrap in the boiler room. One length of pipe was found to be damaged, covering an elbow, one joint and three linear feet of the three-inch diameter pipe. School officials said the pipe had been damaged during recent repairs to the boiler.

During the walk-through inspection, tion of Monteith, the inspector found the asbestos-containing acoustical ceiling tiles to be in good condition in the building, except for one area less than six inches square which appeared to be slightly friable.

The district estimated there are 50,000 square feet of asbestos ceiling material in Monteith. The EPA inspector said in the report that the tile had been painted and appeared in very good condition.

In other areas, the inspector found that the boiler room has a concrete ceiling and two covered boilers which had been recently repaired. The library was found to contain the same type of material as the classrooms and was in the same condition, the report said.

During the walk-through at North, the inspector found friable materials in areas the district had already reported them. School officials found friable material on structural beams above ceiling tiles in corridors, fan rooms and athletic storerooms. The material was found to contain 20 to 30 percent asbestos.

Although the material was found to flake to the touch, it was located above the grid tiles in an area where air movement cannot disturb or move the particles, the report said.

All the schools inspected were found to have made the proper postings and had notified employees and PTO members of the presence of asbestos-containing materials in the schools, the report said.

The day of the walk-throughs, Director of Maintenance Furrel Fountaine filled out an "Inspection For Friable Asbestos-Containing Materials" form provided by the EPA. According to the form, 14 schools were inspected by the district and found to contain friable materials totaling 350 square feet.

The EPA in 1982 published rules on how districts should identify materials in their buildings that contain asbestos and notify employees and others of their presence. Earlier this year, the EPA found 25 school districts in the state not in compliance with its rules. Twelve of those were fined, while the rest received warnings.

School officials have maintained all along that they are in compliance with the rules set by the federal government. A group of parents this spring complained to the EPA and accused the system of not complying with the regulations and failing to identify all sources of asbestos.

Asbestos is a naturally-occurring material widely used until 1978 as a fire-retardant, sound and heat insulator. The fibers are believed to cause lung ailments when inhaled and skin ailments.

While the EPA has set no "safe" standards for asbestos exposure, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, which sets rules for workers in industry, has a current exposure standard of two fibers per cubic centimeter of air in an eight-hour work day.

The EPA has also revised its guidance book for school districts and has taken the emphasis off removal of asbestos-containing materials in buildings. The new guidance book was written and circulated as a condition set by the House Appropriations Committee as a condition for release of $50 million in federal aid to help schools with asbestos problems.

Three Michigan districts will share $900,000 of the federal money.

Local school officials say they expect to see the new guidance book sometime next month. The EPA is first sending it to 341 school systems who receive federal grants and loans and then to the rest.

There are three methods for abatement of asbestos problems. Districts can choose to remove, encapsulate or enclose the material. Encapsulation is done by coating the friable material with a resin or paste to bind the fibers tighter together. Enclosing is done by placing a physical barrier between the friable material and the outside air, such as installation of drop ceilings.

Removal is the most expensive option. Two local removal projects at Brownell and North cost the system more than $100,000, officials said.

Program seeks to find jobs for mentally impaired

By Nancy Parmenter

Learning to be independent and self-confident is a tall order, but the students in the Grosse Pointe schools' trainable mentally impaired classes are tackling the job with a will.

Armed with a federal grant and hopes for a renewal, job placement coordinator Sue Mack is determinedly introducing 10 students to workplace skills and lining up community businesses where they can put the skills to work.

"Sue wants the kids to grow up," said program booster Lisa Caramagno. "She always expects them to go on and keep growing and they don't disappoint her."

Mack's job is to find a job placement in the community, set up transportation for the student, and establish training programs when needed. Training is conducted at a work center at Brownell Middle School.

"It's set up like a real job," Mack said. "The students punch a time clock and wear work aprons. We take it very seriously."

Some of the training tasks are simulated work situations. Mack bought some Seal-a-Meal equipment for the students to work with. They also practice matching, collating and packaging.

Most valuable are the genuine work tasks brought in by local businesses. A plumber bought out the entire stock of a plumbing store. A jumble of old plumbing packages waits at the work center, where the students bit by bit are sorting o-rings from unions from elbows, rearranging them according to the plumber's instructions, and repackaging them for sale at his store.

Mack has distributed brochures around the business community, offering the services of the work center for collating, stamping, folding, sorting, envelope stuffing or binding.

"We've had a positive response," she said. "We do business for several printers — any business that sends mailings, really. Our goal is to expand the work center to two days a week."

Mack said she is anxious to get the school district's paperwork business. She would like to take the students to Barnes, where the schools' materials are printed and collated.

"We'll be visible and prove ourselves. People are uneasy when you move materials around, but we could go directly there and do the work."

Some of the students are already holding down jobs several hours a week. Mack found 11 local businesses that needed minimum-skilled workers. Currently the students are working at no pay because of potential conflicts with the supplemental social security income received by some of them.

"Bobby" works at Josef's French Pastry Shop in the Woods, painting chocolate on pastry shells, placing doilies on plates and helping put eggs in the egg-cracking machine.

"We try to find things he can do well," said owner Josef Bogosian. "He's easy to train. Everyone gets along with him quite well. We know he likes to bowl and we always ask him how he did."

Bogosian, who carries in his wallet a picture Bobby gave to him, said his young employee has "really opened up" since he started to work at the pastry shop and that he enjoys the work so much that he wants to stay on after graduation.

At Cottage-Belmont Nursing Center, two students spend a couple of hours a week talking to patients and cheering them up. A student stocks shelves at Nino's Supermarket, one polishes the displays at the Grosse Pointe Waterworks plumbing shop, and one does maintenance work at the Grosse Pointe Presbyterian Church.

Still in training are two students learning to work for local dry cleaners.

"This is one of the most difficult tasks," Mack said. "We have 1,000 cleaning labels with four-digit numbers that have to be matched to tags on the cleaned garments. There's a tag code for pressed and unpressed clothes. On top of the difficulty in learning the matching, there's the physical difficulty in reaching up to hang the clothes."

Lisa Caramagno of the Woods has had first-hand experience with the program by having "Sue" one day a week as a mother's helper.

"She's gone up north now and I really miss her," Caramagno said. "She was excellent — a real nice young lady. My son was so excited to have her, he just took her over. She had a real nice rapport with him."

Sue helped Caramagno with child care, folding laundry and other light housekeeping tasks, but Caramagno said she enjoyed her helper for more than just the help. She said it was a pleasure to see Sue grow in skills and confidence.

"You could tell how much her parents care for her," she said.

"She knows she's a worthwhile person. You could see that her mom had really worked with her and taught her things. And she had so much patience."

Mack is hopeful that the program grant will be renewed. There are still things to do. She wants to look deeper into the social security question to see if there is a way the students can be reimbursed for their work. Mobility training, teaching the students to use public transportation, is another must. Many of the students are in their 20s and thanks to the program, are ready to venture further out into the world.

Paul Gamble makes certain his card is straight in the time clock as he punches in at the work center.

Teacher Sue Walny watches as Jim Riddle, Bob Bradley and Paul Cornelius work on a labeling project.

Board modifies position on special summer program

The Board of Education Tuesday night, June 11 decided to pick up half the cost of transportation for students enrolled in its developmental learning program this summer at North High School.

The board in March set tuition for the program at $90, the first year tuition has been charged for the five-week program that offers recreational and vocational opportunities for the students. The board also decided not to pay for transportation to the program for the students.

The district last summer lost $11,500 on the program, which served 27 students from the Pointes and Harper Woods. Transportation and field trips cost $5,180, according to school officials.

Based on an estimated enrollment this summer of 25, with tuition charges and no transportation, the district expected to absorb a $4,700 loss on the program, school officials said.

As of last Friday, only 14 students had enrolled for the program, which runs Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., according to program coordinator Kathleen Herschmann. The district expected to have at least 20 enrolled by Wednesday, June 19.

The district needs at least 20 students to offer the developmental learning program, Special Education Services Director Claire Hunt told the board. By picking up half the cost of transportation, about $3,000, the district may find more people interested in participating in the program, she added.

Trustee Vincent Locicero said the board modified its original action of eliminating the transportation cost because it appeared the board hadn't evaluated properly the needs of the students enrolled.

This year's enrollment is down because fewer students qualify for the program, Herschmann said. A number of students reached the age of graduation, 25, this year, she added.

The program at North High School will combine recreational activities with two, 2½ hour classes in vocational skills four days a week.

Clowning with a serious purpose

By Nancy Parmenter

Intently, a clown concentrates on setting up a high-wire suspended between two chairs. He almost has it — just a little tighter — but it's too tight and the chair is pulled over. Startled and astonished, he starts over again, his paisley polyester legs twinkling as he races back and forth.

But no, now the wire is too high. He is afraid to try. He pushes the chairs closer together until the wire is lying on the floor. Maybe now...

The ringmaster steps in. The frightened clown needs moral support. "You must trust in the net — the net is there to catch you," the ringmaster says. "We must all place our trust in something greater than we are." The clown squares his shoulders and steps out across the wire.

This is the confession/absolution scene as presented by "A Foolish Notion" clown troupe, a quartet of Kalamazoo College sophomores who have spent five weeks touring northeastern and midwestern churches with their Christian message. The ringmaster in that scene is Kristin Neily of the Park.

Neily has just brought the scene to life, sitting in the Park living room, gesturing, pantomiming, giving breath to the characters. The clowning has clearly gotten into her blood.

"Clowning is symbolic of Christianity," she explained. "Putting on the white mask is a symbolic death. The colors make you born again. It's a wonderful way to cleanse yourself and start over."

The four students began to formulate their Christian clowning plans last fall, in preparation for Kalamazoo's distinctive spring career development internship project. Their first effort was a play on liberation theology, performed for faculty and students in February.

"We ended up dropping that one from the tour because it can get so political," Neily said. "Some churches would have thought it was great, but we decided to play it safe."

The play discussed oppressed groups who are not allowed to be fully human and who are rescued from their downtrodden state by a God-summoned liberator, she explained. The sub-human condition was illustrated with a half a clown mask. The liberator painted on the other half, as he symbolically made them whole. God was portrayed as a lamppost; women, blacks, and the poor were the oppressed.

Neily has a double major in English and theater arts. She had received a little exposure to the concept of Christian clowning through her father, who sometimes uses magic tricks in his work as rector of St. Michael's Episcopal Church in the Woods. She decided to try her hand at writing a more religious, less political presentation for the tour.

What she came up with was the Liturgy of the Clown, featuring such scenes as Tantalizing Temptations (wherein we discover what is involved in servanthood) and The Strongest Girl in the World and the Wirewalker (wherein we realize it takes God's love to conquer sin, and we must become free before we can become true servants).

The group toured from Kalamazoo to Detroit to Ohio to Washington, D.C. to Pennsylvania to New Jersey to Massachusetts to Rhode Island to Connecticut and back. They worked on the final form of the play as they went. "We didn't really have it in shape till somewhere in Ohio," Neily said.

They were received with varying degrees of understanding and enthusiasm. Not everybody can relate to clowns in church. Some people told them clowns are inappropriate there; more people said they hadn't known what to expect, but liked what they saw.

"When we do clowning, we respect what we're doing and we respect the church," Neily said. "We're not poking fun. Clowning is a wonderful way to symbolize Christianity. It symbolizes resurrection. The clown is tricked or trumped, but he always bounces back up."

A typical tour weekend involved a church youth clown workshop on Saturday and a clown service on Sunday. Some churches wanted only a few minutes of clowning. Others, like Neily's home church, got the full treatment.

"My father warned them for months that we were coming," Neily said with a laugh. "That way anyone who didn't think they'd like it could stay away. But the church was packed — it was like Easter!"

The troupe's most nervewracking experience came in Massachusetts when members of the Clowns of America attended their service. "We were all terrified," Neily said, "but they were real nice and just asked us a lot of questions. What we do is so different."

The college backed the clowns with advice, some financing, and even the use of a college car. Neily said the clowns returned the favor by acting as unofficial Kalamazoo College ambassadors. "What better way to advertise the college plan — here was the K-plan in action."

"The K-plan," a 10-week term devoted to career development, usually sees somewhat more traditional internships. Neily had originally intended to intern with the Michigan Opera Theater, in keeping with her theater major.

"The Opera Theater would have taught me career skills, but this is making me start looking at education or theater therapy instead of theater administration," Neily said. "I'm very glad I did this instead."

Kristin Neily clowns in the troupe's first liberation theology play in Kalamazoo College's Stetson Chapel.

A new 'healing' period

As two new school board members prepare to assume their posts July 8, the community appears to have weathered the school election without the controversies that marked the post-election period a year ago. A new "healing" period appears to have set in.

That reflects the democratic process, of course. The winners take office, the losers depart and continuity is preserved. Carl D. Anderson and Carol Marr will take office July 8. Dr. Ernest Buechler and Catherine Brierly will leave, and the five holdover members will provide the needed continuity.

A year ago there were dire predictions about what would happen as a result of the defeat of the attempt to recall three board members. Some people were predicting that the school millage renewal would be in trouble the next time it comes up in 1986. Others thought the school closing and reorganization issues would leave wounds for generations to come.

Yet the quiet acceptance of the results this year by all factions involved indicates that the community's customary calm has been restored with respect to school issues. Up to Monday afternoon, for example, the Grosse Pointe News had not received a single letter or phone call of complaint about its endorsements, its coverage or campaign actions by candidates or their supporters. Some people may be licking their wounds in private, of course. But no continuing controversy seems to have survived the campaign, so far as this newspaper can tell.

That doesn't mean there are no school problems ahead. But it does mean that the majority, including people directly involved in the campaign, now seem willing to let bygones be bygones and accept the voters' decision. As the reorganized board starts to function, some new issues probably will arise. But they will tend to be based on the community's support for excellence in education and ways to continue it rather than on what might have been said or done about lesser issues in the campaign for the board.

Perils of a front-runner

Wayne County Executive William Lucas is learning from experience that his position as the front-runner for the Republican nomination for governor in 1986 is making him the target of potential foes in both political parties.

Gov. James Blanchard's backers have pointed out with some satisfaction that Lucas, who has been critical of the Democratic chief executive's tax and spending policies, came out in support of higher state income taxes back in 1983.

That position would appear to blunt the Republican Party's efforts to make a major issue in 1986 of the controversial 38 percent income tax increase recommended by the governor in 1983 and passed by the Democrats who then controlled both houses of the Legislature. It also casts some doubt on Lucas' own integrity although he has explained that he favored higher taxes in 1983 — but not the governor's 38 percent boost.

Because he now is beset at most of his public appearances by reporters and critics asking questions about his positions on state and federal issues, Lucas is also learning that he has to be better prepared than when he was simply campaigning around the state selling the merits of Wayne County and William Lucas. He also is learning to duck or waffle on such controversial issues as abortion, Michigan's business climate and the Equal Rights Amendment.

Lucas isn't the only potential candidate for governor whose qualifications are being examined more closely by the press and the public. Oakland County Executive Dan Murphy who is still considering entering the race, has learned he cannot raise questions about Lucas' positions on issues without being asked to put himself on record. So far, he usually has ducked specific answers, indicating he has not firmed up his positions, but such responses hardly make for a positive campaign effort or good news copy.

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson, who also is considering another race for governor, is learning that he has to express opinions on subjects other than capital punishment and crime if he is to be taken seriously. To date, however, he is regarded chiefly as a single issue candidate, just as Murphy is seen as a single county candidate.

Lucas remains the front-runner but he is hardly likely to be designated the consensus candidate as former GOP Gov. George Romney proposed. Romney's endorsement in those terms made it appear that the party leaders were trying to freeze other candidates out of next year's GOP primary. Charges of attempted "bossism" promptly arose from supporters of other candidates, but Romney defended his views on the grounds he wanted to spare the party a bruising primary that would only enhance the Democratic governor's chances of re-election.

Yet it could be argued that a hard-fought primary that would bring out a big GOP vote would help the Republicans prepare for the campaign against Gov. Blanchard in November 1985. Such a primary campaign would also enlighten the general public about the differences among the GOP candidates and on the many issues that face the state.

It can be argued that such a primary would also help offset the criticism that the GOP powers-that-be are really trying to make Lucas the consensus candidate by "bossing" the party in the primary. Furthermore, if Lucas or some other candidate should emerge as a clean-cut victor in an open, hard-fought primary, he would carry more impressive credentials into a fall campaign against the governor than would any "consensus" candidate.

Lucas has not yet committed himself publicly to a GOP campaign for governor but most signs indicate that is the direction he is heading. Sometimes he must feel nostalgia for his earlier role as the former Wayne sheriff and the Wayne County executive interested chiefly in one county's problems. Yet Lucas knows that all candidates run risks when they aspire to higher office and he apparently is willing to take them by campaigning for the GOP nomination for governor. As the early front-runner, he also knows that his current position on the political track is preferable to being an also-ran at this early stage.

Buckling up for safety

If they carry out their good intentions, a great majority of Michigan residents will use their safety belts when the new Michigan law requiring drivers and front seat passengers to buckle up goes into effect July 1.

Yet good intentions are never enough. While 82 percent of the respondents in a Michigan survey said they would wear their belts all or most of the time once the law becomes effective, the experience of New York, the first state to enact such legislation, shows compliance at a much lower rate. Studies by the New York Traffic Safety office indicate seat belt use averaged only 69 percent in January and 62 percent in February.

The difference between intentions and compliance means that the degree of enforcement will be important. Fortunately, the poll by the Michigan Coalition for Safety Belt Use shows that 71 percent of the respondents want the law strictly enforced. The reason? An overwhelming 79 percent of the respondents think a significant number of lives could be saved if everyone wore a seat belt.

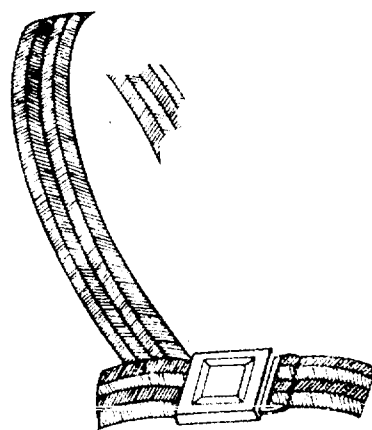

That hope apparently is being achieved in New York. There officials estimate that 68 lives have been saved since the law took effect last Jan. 1 as traffic fatalities declined from 252 in the first three months of 1984 to 184 in the first quarter of 1985.

Michigan's law requires drivers and front-seat passengers to wear safety belts, or face a $10 fine until Jan. 1, 1986, and a $25 fine after that date. No points are entered on a person's driving record at the secretary of state's office for conviction of a safety belt violation. And motor vehicles manufactured before 1965 or not originally equipped with belts under U.S. law are exempt. So are occupants of commercial or postal service vehicles and people requiring exemption for physical or medical reasons.

Michigan lost its chance to become the first state to enact a mandatory seat belt law, but now it ought to try to achieve the best record of compliance among the nine states with such laws. The time to start is now, even before July 1, so that people can get accustomed to buckling up before it will begin costing them money to fail to do so.

School system is one of finest

To the Editor:

Last evening the youngest of our six children who have all gone through the Grosse Pointe Public School System received her diploma from Grosse Pointe South High School.

Now that this milestone is behind us, we wish to take this opportunity to publicly express our appreciation and thanks to the countless administrators, teachers, counselors, coaches and various other school system employees and volunteers who have helped our children so much during the past 21 years. Their expertise and guidance have contributed greatly to the total development of our children as confident, self-sufficient, contributing members of the adult society.

As our sons and daughters proceed on to various fields of academic endeavors and professions, we feel that the elementary and secondary school background that they have received is one of the finest anywhere in the country.

We also realize that the quality of the public school system is largely dependent on the community that supports it, so with sincere gratitude, we'd like to say, "Thanks, Grosse Pointe!"

Woods EMS is proud of record

To the Editor:

In a recent letter to the editor, a reader expressed alarm at what was perceived as an unreasonable wait for the Grosse Pointe Woods Emergency Medical Service (EMS). The incident occurred on May 17 at Grosse Pointe North

High School.

According to the police logbook, a call was received at 7:37 p.m. reporting a knee injury on the playing field. The EMS unit responded immediately and, at 7:45 p.m., reported back that the EMS technicians were on the scene, taking a blood pressure reading. As soon as it was considered safe to do so, the injured athlete was transported to the hospital.

As is our policy when an injury is not life-threatening, the unit did not race to the scene with lights flashing and sirens screaming. This, we have found, often poses additional danger to the public.

In an emergency, everything seems to happen in slow motion. Eight minutes may feel like an eternity. The Grosse Pointe Woods Emergency Medical Service is proud of its record of prompt service. I trust this explanation will hold our record intact.

Weary of fighting city hall

To the Editor:

As the owner of a security alarm system, I am much interested in Mrs. C.D. Blessed's letter of June 13. I, too, was infuriated when, some years ago, the Farms charged me a license fee for its operation. With the system and a considerable expense, I try to protect myself and immediate neighbors over and above the normal protection for which I pay the city.

I refused to pay the fee for many months, and surveyed the rest of the Pointes to determine whether this was Pointe-wide policy. At the time, it was not. I have also written two letters to our esteemed attorney general in Lansing, Mr. Frank Kelley, on the constitutionality of this ordinance. The letters remain unanswered.

BOEC had memorable year

To the Editor:

As the 1984-85 school year comes to a close, I would like to thank everyone who gave so much support to my BOEC students at South High during the past school year. Without the support of community members, merchants, civic groups and certain administrators, South students would not have experienced the success they did.

For paying to have our raffle tickets printed, thank you to Sweeney's Flowers and Gene Vyletel Buick. This is the second consecutive year Gene Vyletel has contributed to BOEC.

For contributing prizes for our drawing, thank you to AAA Travel Services, Edmund T. Ahee Jewellers, Detroit Red Wings, Friendly's Ice Cream Parlor, The Greenhouse, Harper Sport Shop, Harvey's Compleat Traveler, Hudson's, Kinney Shoes, Tom Leman'ski's Marathon Station, Over the Rainbow Ice Cream Parlor, Pointe Cyclery, Sparky Herbert's and the Woods Theatre.

For cash donations, thank you to Richard Beach, Elizabeth R. Brenner, M.D., George Catlin, George Coombs, Grosse Pointe Rotary Club, Grosse Pointe South Dads' Club, Grosse Pointe South Mothers' Club, Neil Madier, Marr & Associates, Charlotte Renaud and Michael A. Shaheen.

A very special thank you to Kari Debets, BOEC president, for two years of enthusiasm and effort that helped make the club the success it was; to Miss Frances French, principal of South High, for continued support through the years; and to Mr. Bernie LeMieux, assistant principal of South High, for encouragement and support at the building level.

Thank you also to everyone who purchased tickets, candy bars and other items BOEC used for fundraising — you all helped make 1984-85 a memorable year for us.

Help us preserve our neighborhood

To the Editor:

As an almost lifelong resident of Grosse Pointe, and now of Harper Woods, I would ask your help, since you are directly involved in the end result of the Woodpointe Inn to be built on a very small wedge of land (between Vernier and Old Eight Mile) at 20811 Harper. Bounded by Harper on one side and the freeway on the other, it already is a traffic hazard with many accidents (and at least one death) because of the sharp curve where Harper divides and the traffic headed toward Vernier Road from Nine Mile crosses the freeway.

We, the people directly affected by the decision to build the inn, have made our views very clear in city council sessions. However, we feel this is going to be rammed down our throats anyway. We know the people of Grosse Pointe Woods have shown their interest in the past and have sent representatives to take part in these very emotional meetings. There are many reasons not to have this inn built on that location, but I'm sure you are interested in how it will affect you.

It will change your traffic patterns because of the large volume of people unwilling to be caught in the jams at Old Eight Mile and Harper, funneling through the side streets into your area.

Not only the inn is planned, but there have been many rumors that a Taco Bell is in the process of negotiation for a location at Anita and Harper, which will make the strip between Vernier and Old Eight Mile on Harper another "fast food" alley with Wendy's and Kentucky Fried Chicken already in place.

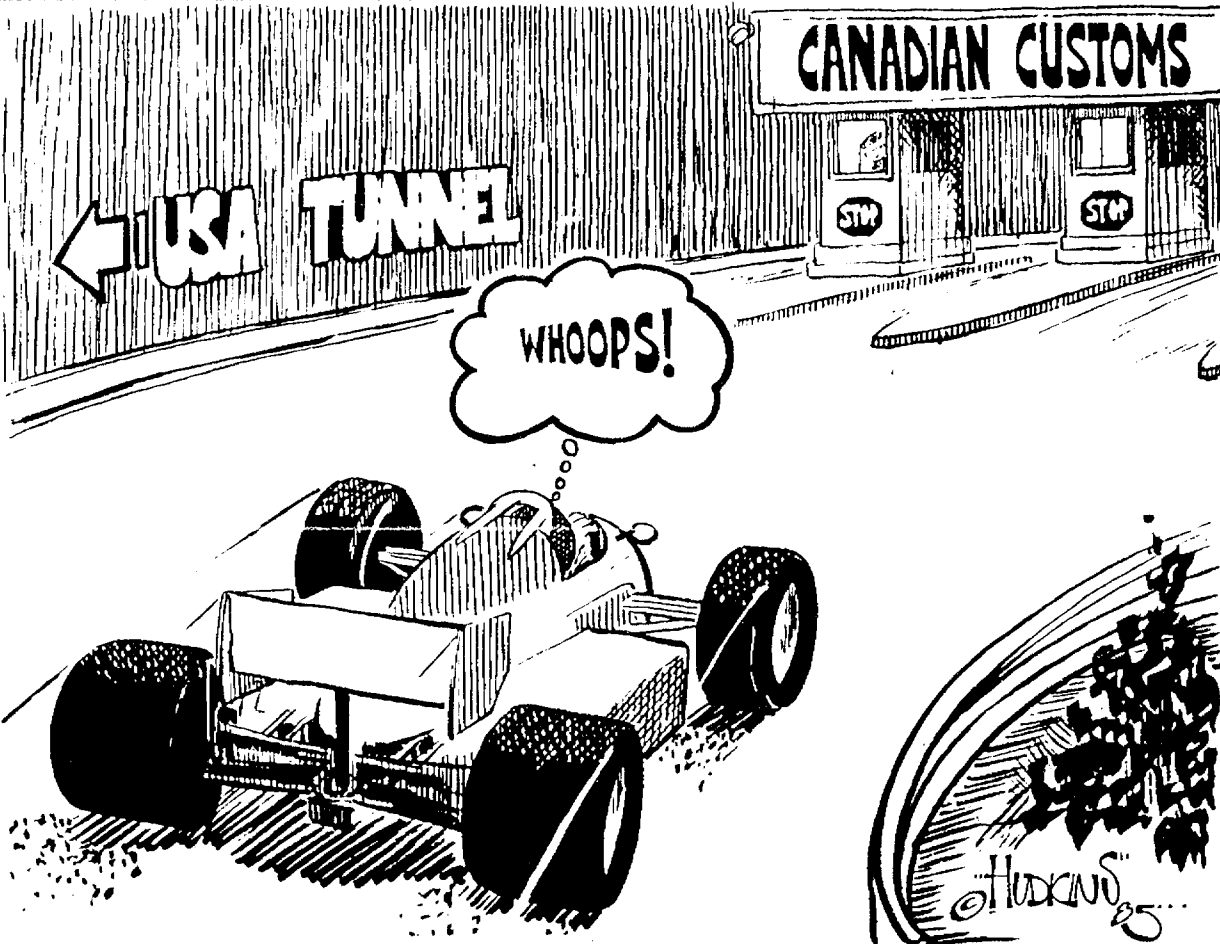

Many of us are afraid of the sort of people all this will bring to our used-to-be but not-as-quiet anymore neighborhoods, especially the kind that seem to follow the hotel trade. Most of us can do without the worry that prostitutes, pushers, con-artists, etc. may have a very close base to work from.

If the area needs a hotel, why not put it in the Eastland area where travelers will have access to all kinds of delights.

There is to be a public hearing on July 1, at 7:30 p.m. in the Harper Woods Council Chambers, City Hall, at 19617 Harper Avenue, Harper Woods.

Would you join us and help preserve our neighborhoods? We need your help!

Message to high school graduates

Editor's note: The following letter, to a fictional graduate and intended for all of this year's graduates, was written by the Rev. Louis J. Prues of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. He delivered it as a sermon June 2, and a member of the congregation brought it in so it could be shared with our readers. Due to its length, it has been condensed.

Dear Sarah:

You know that all too often my tongue and my brain aren't too well coordinated, so I've decided to write down some of my thoughts on paper. This letter isn't supposed to be too profound, or even to offer you advice, since I've tried to do a lot of advice-giving for the last 17 years. I write it because this is a special time for you — it is the time of your graduation from high school.

You know "special" days are an important part of our lives. And this is a time of happiness for you, and, I guess I'll have to admit, sadness for your parents. Our little girl has grown up! They said it would happen. I didn't believe how fast it would happen.

Did I ever tell you the story about the little girl who fell out of bed in the middle of the night — like you often did, usually on Saturday night on the Sunday morning I was to preach. Her papa went quickly to her bedroom and picked her up and quietly said, "What happened, sweetie?" And the little girl said, "I guess I went to sleep too close to the place where I got in."

You know, sadly, sometime people join things, get involved in important projects, and then drop out right away. Sarah, you know the older you get, the more pressure you will be under to quit things. Things that were and are important to you. To "fall asleep" too close to the place where you got in. Please don't quit, sweetheart, and give up the important things in life that will take you through the hard times. The things that have real and lasting value in life. They tend to be things that pay you nothing, at least in dollars, but I want to tell you they're worth a fortune.

I hope that wherever your life takes you, and it's both exciting and frightening for your parents to think about that, wherever you go, you will always find a group of people with whom you can go to church. Believe it or not, even college students need church. I know that many people take worship with a grain of salt. They come and go whenever it's convenient. But I can't help but believe that those who do that are really the losers. You're not a loser.

You and I know that worship isn't always what we would like it to be. So, please don't be too impatient if church isn't always all that you want it to be. If you go there looking for something, you'll find it. That's just the way God works.

Well, not only is worship important, Sarah, but so is giving. How much you give of yourself is a good indicator of how strongly you believe in something. Sarah, you have a lot of talents to share with others. Don't be stingy with them. You have an enormous capacity to love. You have a wonderful, happy smile to share with a lonely person, or a friendly "hello" to someone who needs that word from you. Even though your parents won't be there now to remind you to share of yourself and to give of yourself, just don't forget how much you get by giving.

If you are going to make yours the best generation ever, and your papa sure hopes that you do, then you have to make your life count for something. Sarah, you have to decide whether you're going to take from life everything you can for your own sake — like a miner strips the earth and leaves it bare — or if you're going to be like the farmer who plants the seeds, and waters, and nurtures.

Be positive. Be gentle. Practice more of what your own papa is sometimes short of — humility and patience. Don't take yourself too seriously. Fly like the eagle and don't wallow like the hippo. I want you and I know your mama wants you, to be number one. Number one in your capacity to love, number one in your capacity to heal hurts, and number one in your capacity to show concern for others.

I say

As I write this, I'm squirming a bit under the steady gaze of Yves Saint Laurent, who stares out at me from the cover of a press jacket which sits on my desk. Yves looks oh-so-chic in his striped shirt (fashionable tiny stripes) striped coat (big stripes) and polka dot (polka dot?) shirt.

The Yves Saint Laurent press jacket was just one of 630 million pieces of mail I handled in my recently completed (heavy sigh of relief) sojourn as temporary Feature/Society editor for this newspaper. I took over for permanent Feature/Society editor for five weeks while Janet was in the Gobi Desert.

It was a typical vacation for Janet, who regularly shuns tourist traps like Niagara Falls and Disneyworld for the lure of locales like the Gobi Desert. And, while Janet's most recent adventure was just that — she didn't stay in the Gobi Hilton, that's for sure — my "adventure" as her stand-in here was no piece of cake, either.

From time to time during the five weeks I thought of Janet, riding camels, sleeping in yurts, (look it up) chatting with natives who smiled a lot but who probably hadn't the foggiest notion of what she was saying, and roughing it in what looked in her snapshot like the most rugged place on earth.

Make that the second-most rugged. It probably couldn't hold a candle to "the Grosse Pointe News — Without Its Feature/Society Editor." I know. I was there.

Climbing mountains and schlepping through sands, Janet? Sorry, but that takes a back seat to dealing with Grosse Pointe matrons who are "soooooo sorry they are three days late with their press release, but couldn't you just fit it in somewhere, dear?"

You want adventure? Try writing a wedding story when the only information you have was typed out by a person using a typewriter which printed only half the characters. The real task is explaining to the angry mother of the bride why the description of her baby's wedding gown included details on its "heckline" rather than its neckline. Sorry about that, mom.

Okay, Janet, so you had to sleep in your clothes, watch the natives batter a dead sheep around for the evening's entertainment (don't ask), and eat Chinese food for 30 days. That's rough, but it just can't compare with describing a wedding gown in a sentence containing no fewer than 14 adjectives. Or turning down 30 or 40 invitations to social soirees with gobs (gobs?) of gourmet food.

In fact, after struggling through wedding stories, typing up news items on the Questers (who gave me some very strange looks when I asked them what they were in quest of) and in general, chronicling the comings and goings of interest to the Feature/Society followers of Grosse Pointe, I couldn't understand why Janet had to travel halfway around the world for her thrills.

I guess that's because I'm just a sportswriter at heart and not used to making the switch from writing about strikes and balls to writing about charity balls. From describing points after to peau de soie. From pondering in print about the fate of the Lions, Tigers, Norsemen and Blue Devils to printing anything and everything about weddings, engagements, new arrivals, old departures, meetings, greetings and parties, parties, parties.

And making lots of mistakes. Sorry about that, Grosse Pointe. Sometimes, when the mail would pile up on Janet's desk, I'd whimper a bit, thinking longingly of the days when all I had to do was stand in the sun for six hours watching a doubleheader or worry about insulting Pointe sports fans with one of my columns on golf. Oh, for the good old days, when my toughest task was tangling with the rabid youth sports factions in Grosse Pointe, I thought to myself often during Janet's five-week absence. More often, I'd just mutter "Beam me up, Scotty" to anyone who would listen.

Peggy O'Connor

Looking back on it all now, as I'm safely ensconced back at my own desk and Janet is back to mumbly things about "barely intelligible" press releases over at her desk, I guess I could say things turned out all right. Janet got away from the office for five weeks and had the time of her life. I got a taste of how the other half lives and I also came away from the entire experience a bit richer... in knowledge.

For example, I now know that the next time Janet goes away, I'm getting the address to her yurt first. And then I'm sending the unmanageable matrons to her.

Best of all, I've cornered the market on what to know when one is writing for the Feature/Society section... not the least of which is that Yves Saint Laurent does NOT play defense for the Montreal Canadiens.

Sorry about that, Yves baby.

Cable gets a fitness connection

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Do you know the three parts of an effective exercise routine? How about how to use walking as a way to become physically fit? Know anything about pre- and post-natal exercise?

If you're looking for information about exercise and demonstrations without the frenetic pace of the Simmons-esque aerobics shows, watch Fitness Connection Tuesday and Thursday at 6:30 p.m. on Grosse Pointe Cable's Channel 11.

The show is hosted by Valerie Pokorny-McHugh, director of Super Shape, Inc., an exercise and fitness studio in East Detroit. Formerly of the Park, Pokorny-McHugh is quick to point out that her show is a fitness talk-show, not an exercise show.

"We are going to provide a variety of fitness tips for different segments of the community on the show," she said. "We're going to cover a variety of topics for all age groups, from 10 to 100."

One of the first Fitness Connection shows told viewers a simple way to monitor their pulse rate during exercise.

The technique? Find the carotid artery in the neck on either side and place fore- and index finger firmly against it. Count the number of heart beats in six seconds, then add a zero to the number. You then have the pulse rate for one minute.

"Every day I teach, I'm surprised at how many people don't know how to take their own pulse," Pokorny-McHugh said. "On the show, we try to give good, sound advice about how you can get more physically fit."

She approached Grosse Pointe Cable with the concept of the fitness program and program director Wally Scotten helped her develop the idea of a program that serves all age groups, Pokorny-McHugh said. With cooperation and assistance from Services for Older Citizens, the show will cover topics like foot care and others of interest to older adults, she added.

"Some of the programs are targeted for the older person," Pokorny-McHugh said. "But we also have shows with Dwight Gaal, director of the Bon Secours Fitness Center, and one on pre- and post-natal exercise."

Both Pokorny-McHugh and Super Shape co-director Mary-Louise Selover are certified aerobics instructors and continue to attend dance/exercise classes and take university level classes in health and fitness. They are also members of The President's Council on Physical Fitness, The International Dance/Exercise Association, The American Running and Fitness Association and The American Association of Fitness Directors in Business and Industry.

Besides its 60 classes weekly in aerobics for men and women, the company also offers stretch and tone classes and has developed fitness programs for corporations like Chrysler, Holley Carburetor and others.

Pokorny-McHugh is a graduate of Detroit's Dominican High School and attended Western Michigan University and Wayne State University, where she majored in education. While at Wayne, she began stress relief research as independent study for psychology.

After being diagnosed as having a chronic circulatory disorder, she began a running program and has since organized and participated in several fun runs and fundraising run-a-thons.

A Sawyer Business School graduate and former tennis club manager, Pokorny-McHugh also worked as a public relations director for a local fitness corporation, where she became a certified exercise instructor.

St. Ambrose group schedules auditions

The St. Ambrose Community Players will hold auditions for the October production of "Talking With" on Sunday, June 23, and Monday, June 24, at 7 p.m. at the parish hall on Maryland. The play has an all-female cast.

Calendars mailed

The War Memorial mailed its July/August Calendar of Events to all residents who are on the Center's mailing list. Any resident who does not regularly receive the calendar should call the Center at 881-7511. There is no charge to Grosse Pointe residents.

Extra copies of the calendar may be picked up in any of the three local libraries.

structor. She has helped organize and direct training workshops for exercise instructors throughout the state as well.

Super Shape has been active locally with a walking-for-fitness class offered at the War Memorial. That program has a wide range of participants from all age groups, Pokorny-McHugh added.

"We want to offer information you can use to become physically fit," she said of the show. "There's a lot of concern in the community about becoming fit. We have to begin taking responsibility for our bodies."

Only 13 shows have been taped so far, but the company will consider carrying more if the viewership is there, Scotten said.

There was a little exercise involved in taping the shows, since they were all done in 10 days, Pokorny-McHugh said. The program set a record for taping the most programs in a single day, Scotten added.

Some advice for people considering exercise and physical fitness? "Get to it," Pokorny-McHugh said. "See your doctor, exercise consistently, and choose something you enjoy. But get to it."

Adventure series

Previous series ticket holders for the War Memorial's Adventure Series have until July 15 to reserve the same seats they held last year. After July 15, all tickets will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis.

This year's package of nine travelogues will begin on Monday, Sept. 23, when Fran Reidelburger's "Hong Kong and Macao" will be shown. Subsequent films will include "Israel: Yesterday and Today," "Venice and the Italian Lakes," "The Hawaii Happening," "Ireland Rediscovered," "Incomparable New Zealand," "Egypt, Land of the Pharaohs," and "Undiscovered Europe."

All films, which begin at 8 p.m., are preceded at 6:30 p.m. by optional, regional dinners to add an authentic ethnic flavor to the evenings. The films act as an excellent preliminary run for people who plan to visit a particular region, and are entertaining and educational for those who would like to see the world first-hand, but are unable to for various reasons.

The cost for the series of nine films and dinners is $145; nine films only, $33; single complete evening of dinner and film is $16.75; and a single film is $4.15.

Reserve by check or money order payable to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial and mail to 32 Lakeshore Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., 48236, and in a note indicate the films and/or dinners desired. For additional information, call 881-7511.

Racing films at DIA

On the eve of the city's annual racing spectacular, the Detroit Institute of Arts will present the classic 1966 film "Grand Prix," Tuesday through Sunday, June 18-23, at 1 p.m. in the recital hall, and at 7 p.m. on Saturday, June 22, in the main auditorium. Accompanying the feature will be the 1952 animation "Sloppy Jalopy."

Mid-day tickets at $1 and $2.50 for the single June 22 evening performance will be available at the door. For information about "Grand Prix" and the "Auto And Culture" film series and exhibit, call the DIA ticket office at 832-2730.

In color and wide-screen, "Grand Prix," widely considered the definitive documentation of international racing, features James Garner, Yves Montand, Toshirō Mifune and Eva Marie Saint, with an all-star supporting cast. Action-packed settings include the world-famous racing courses at Monte Carlo, France's Clermont-Ferrand, Brands Hatch in England, Belgium, the Netherlands and Italy's Monza. Of this three-hour epic, The New York Times critic concluded, "You come away with the feeling you've seen virtually everything there is to see in grand prix racing, except the real guys who drive those killer cars."

This series will continue through Sept. 1 with "The Crowd Roars" (June 25-30); "The Grapes Of Wrath" (July 2-7); "The Magnificent Ambersons" (July 9-14); "White Heat" (July 16-21); "Detour" (July 23-28); "Rebel Without A Cause" (July 30-Aug. 4); "Hot Rods To Hell" (Aug. 6-11); "Targets" (Aug. 13-18);

Three new Eagles

Scouting's top honor, the Eagle award, was given to three members of Boy Scout Troop 34 June 4. They received their awards at a Court of Honor dinner at the Sveden House. From left are Shaun Wiedrich, son of Wesley and Ann Wiedrich; Neil Kjos, son of Nelson and Beverly Kjos; and Mike Swaney, son of Robert and Aileen Swaney. All are from the Woods. Their scoutmaster is George Bor.

Pete Schummer and Tom O'Brien believe in the old saying that "the more things change, the more they remain the same." In their case, what's changing is ownership of Schummer's Ski Shop, a skiing tradition for Grosse Pointe and much of southeastern Michigan.

Schummer, who started the shop with his father Jack Schummer 27 years ago, recently sold it to O'Brien, 34, who's been with the store for 21 years.

"That's right, I started working here when I was 13 years old," said O'Brien, a big man with an easy smile. "Back then, it was mostly a sporting goods store. It didn't specialize in just skiing equipment. Later it was a ski and dive shop, for scuba divers. Then it was ski equipment only. It's made a few changes over the years."

The original site of the shop, located on Mack in the Woods, was a gas station with a garage and house attached.

"The house was originally across the street from the gas station," said Schummer. "The house was moved across Mack by a team of horses that rolled it on logs. Naturally, they had to block off Mack to do it."

One of the first things patrons entering the store notice is the front is built along a 45-degree angle. "That's the way the station was constructed," Schummer said. "And right out in front is where the pumps stood."

Schummer kept the store open as a ski shop for only six months a year until last year when O'Brien unofficially took over. Now the store is open all year and offers sportswear, beach accessories, including inflatable boats, as well as ski equipment.

Both Schummer and O'Brien agree on two main changes in skiing over the past 27 years. "First, skis are better now," Schummer said. "New designs, new materials and better safety features. You're seeing fiberglass skis, carbonized plastics and even Kevlar. In the old days everything was wood. And it's less dangerous now too, since the industry standardized the bindings and boots. Not nearly as many broken legs as the old days."

"Skiing is also much more available now to the general public," O'Brien added. "It used to be that learning to ski was more work than pleasure. People would devote years to it and it had almost an elitist attitude about it. Now everybody enjoys the sport."

Both Schummer and O'Brien are avid skiers and both say yes to Michigan and do most of their ski-

Even though he's sold the shop, Schummer won't be going into full-time retirement. "I'm more or less going to be semi-retired," he said. "I'm going to real estate school now and I hope to catch on with a local real estate firm."

As for O'Brien, he and his wife Peggy plan to keep busy for the next few decades at the shop he's worked at for so long. One of the first items on the agenda is to expand their stock of summer sports-wear with the addition of year-round clothes.

"You know, I've been here so long many people think I'm Pete's son," he said. "I think that's indicative of the relationship he and I have developed over the years. I've worked here since I was a kid and I've grown up with Pete. He's taught me everything I know about this business and a lot more."

One thing both Schummer and O'Brien agree on is the name of the store.

"Oh, it'll definitely remain Schummer's Ski Shop," O'Brien said. "Why change a good thing? This shop has built up a good name over the years and we're not about to change it now."

Ham field day

Members of the South Eastern Michigan Amateur Radio Association will join an International Field Day operation Saturday, June 22, near 28 Mile Road.

SEMAR, a club of about 250 radio amateurs from various east-side communities, holds regular meetings at North High School and once a year joins thousands of other "hams" in the 24-hour field day test.

The operation requires setting up of several radio stations in trailers, vans and tents for an around-the-clock operation using emergency power from small generators and batteries.

Members take turns operating the stations on various radio bands with the objective of making contact with as many other amateur stations throughout the world as time and equipment permit, sharpening skills of operating in abnormal situations under less than optimum conditions.

Interested people can visit the 28 Mile Road site anytime after noon Saturday. Take I-94 east to the Marine City exit, turn right past Country Line Road to Bethuy Road, just east of Consumers Power property. Turn left across Springborn Road. The marked field is one-half mile down on the left.

For more information, call 885-6654.

PERMANENT EYE LINING

Women have always longed for beautiful eyes. Since the days of Cleopatra they have been lining their eyes for drama and enhancement. Now, thanks to modern science we can present a permanent micro-surgical technique to offer women the help they have been dreaming about to reduce time, hassle and frustration in their all too busy lives.

Dr. Patrick Verb of the Grosse Pointe Eye Center 20845 Mack in the Woods well-known for his expertise in eye surgery, offers permanent eye-liner, a procedure which implants dye micro-surgically. The technique, a basic, delicate tattooing, takes about forty-five minutes.

Permanent Eye-Lining is a welcome beauty aid for the patient who wears contact lenses, bifocals, has vision problems or arthritic conditions. Athletes and those engaged in active sports such as swimming and jogging have praised its benefits.

Baroque trio to perform

The Cleveland Baroque Soloists will launch the War Memorial's 28th annual Summer Music Festival Monday, June 24, at 8 p.m. The evening, featuring Penelope Jensen, soprano, Don Jaeger, oboe, and Doris Ornstein, harpsichord, will be "A Baroque Birthday Celebration" honoring composers Bach, Handel and Scarlatti. All three composers were born 300 years ago, in 1685.

From Bach, their program will include Cantata No. 187, songs from the Clavier-Book of Anna Magdalena Bach, and Sonata in G Minor, BWV 1020. From Handel, selections will be played from "The Celebrated Water Music" and "The Harmonious Blacksmith," and from Scarlatti, selections will be represented with five sonatas for the harpsichord.

Tickets to the concert, to be held in the Fries Auditorium, are $9.50 each and may be purchased in person or by mail from the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Subsequent Summer Music Festival concerts will include a Cabaret Evening with James Dapogny and Carol Leigh "Singin' the Blues" July 1; a solo recital by David Strickland, this year's piano competition winner, July 8; the return of the Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band in an outdoor concert July 15; the New World String Quartet July 22; the Johnny Knorr Orchestra and the "Big Band" sound July 29; and, the Grosse Pointe Symphony Pops under the direction of Felix Resnick, also outdoors, weather permitting, Aug. 5.

Tickets to all concerts are $9.50 each with the exception of the piano competition winner's recital, which is $6. Lawn seating at $5.50 is also available for both of the outdoor concerts.

All concerts are on Monday evenings and begin at 8 p.m. The War Memorial grounds will open for picnicking at 6 p.m. and concert-goers may either bring their own supper or order one from the Center with at least three days advance reservation. Picnic suppers cost $6.50 each.

For further information, call 881-7511.

Board awards tax note sale

Grosse Pointe public schools will have this year's tax anticipation notes sold by a consortium of bond and investment houses. The school board Tuesday night awarded the bid for the sale of the $15.2 million worth of notes to Morgan Stanley Co., heading a consortium of investment companies.

Morgan Stanley offered the lowest interest rate, 4.493 percent, according to business affairs director Christian Fenton.

Eleven companies tendered bids on this year's tax note sale by the school system, according to George Stevenson, legal counsel for Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, one of the highest number ever received. Five of the bidders offered interest rates to the school system that were within .1 percent of each other, he added.

Banks and investment companies offer to buy the notes and set an interest rate which the school system will have to pay the company. The low bidder on the notes is the company that offers the lowest interest rate.

The school system yearly sells the tax anticipation notes to fund its operation from June to December, when it begins collecting property taxes. Regulations drawn up by the state Municipal Finance Commission allow a district to borrow up to half of its previous year's tax levy by selling the tax anticipation notes.

The school system will save money because of the lower-than-expected interest rate on the tax notes, Fenton said. The district anticipated an interest rate of about 5 percent on the notes, and can expect to save approximately $133,000 in interest payments, he told the board.

That will be offset partially by a lower interest rate which the district will receive on the money it invests, Fenton added.

The district has been able to maintain a very high investment rating, Stevenson told the board. The good rating and the district's name recognition may have helped push down the interest rates of the bidders, he added.

State sets gypsy moth traps here again

By Mike Andrzejczyk

State Agriculture Department workers were busy this week in Harper Woods, Grosse Pointe Woods, Shores and part of the Farms setting orange tent-shaped traps for the gypsy moth.

The state has trapped the area since 1981. Each year yielded a growing number of moths, prompting heavier trap densities and walk-through searches for infestations. Last year, however, only 17 moths were trapped, down from 63 in the area the year before.

Michigan has started a statewide trapping program this year, with the cooperation of major universities, the Agriculture Department and the Department of Natural Resources. Using computers, the trapping information will help the Agriculture Department spot increases to help them organize local efforts to control the insect.

The state will set traps at 32 a square mile in two sections of Grosse Pointe Township, and at a 16 per square mile density in a two-mile-long strip through Harper Woods, Grosse Pointe Woods, the Shores and the northernmost section of the Farms, officials said.

Workers will set the traps on trees considered favorite food for the moth larvae, such as oak, fruit trees and others. Trees will be marked with an orange ribbon and the tent-shaped trap will be stapled to the trunk.

Field workers will collect the traps in mid-August. Residents whose trees harbor traps are asked to keep an eye on them because the state will not be able to replace lost or destroyed traps.

This year's trapping density is halved from last year.

Gypsy moths are destructive imported pests that have defoliated millions of acres of Eastern Seaboard forests since they were accidentally released there in the 19th Century. The moths were introduced into Michigan after World War II and have since worked through hundreds of acres of state

Parkinson group to meet June 26

The next meeting of the Northeast Parkinson Support Group will be held Wednesday, June 26, at 2 p.m. at Calvary Senior Center, 4950 Gateshead, three blocks south of Seven Mile and just west of Mack.

The speaker will be Virginia Tekiel, registered pharmacist, who will speak on "Parkinson Medication." A question and answer period will follow.

All Parkinson patients are invited, and a family member or friend will also be welcome. For further information, call Walter Nugent at 886-0815 or the Michigan Parkinson Foundation at 494-8916.

State Agriculture Department field worker Kelly Weirich sets a gypsy moth trap against the trunk of a tree in the Shores. Weirich, a Mount Clemens High School graduate, is helping set traps throughout the Woods, Shores, part of the Farms and Harper Woods this week.

forests.

The moths themselves are not destructive. The larvae, however, must feed almost constantly to fuel their growth through four of five growth stages in two months.

The caterpillars normally hatch in mid-May. They are black and about a half-inch long. The insects will reach full growth in mid-July, ending up about two inches long.

At this time of year, the caterpillars are nearing their full growth. They will feed at night, climbing down trees during the day to rest in the shade. Moths will be black, with the first few segments spotted with blue, the last with red.

By mid-July, the caterpillars will choose a protected area to pupate. They will emerge two weeks later as male and female moths.

The female moth is flightless. The male is a strong flier and may be attracted from miles away by the pheromone of a female moth. After mating, the female will deposit egg masses of between 75 and 800 eggs, in a variety of protected areas, such as under eaves, wood piles, in the flaps of bark and in the recesses of garden furniture. The eggs appear as dun-colored bits of felt and will overwinter before hatching the following April or May.

The state's traps use a pheromone scent that can attract the male moths from as much as a mile away, state officials said. Once the male moths are inside the trap, they become stuck to the gummy interior.

Except for some areas of Dearborn, the Pointes are the most valuable urban forest in Wayne County. The state asks residents not to take any spraying programs upon themselves until after the collection of the traps, since spraying can destroy data collection.

The state, however, has abandoned state funding of spraying programs and eradication techniques. Should data collected in mid-August and confirmed in walk-through searches show signs of infestation, the Agriculture Department will work with local units of government to help them develop a local eradication program if necessary, state officials said.

The Grosse Pointe Shade Tree Council has for the last two years operated a Gypsy Moth Hotline, but will not this year, according to council representative Jean Rice. The cost of offering the service is high, she added.

Residents with suspicious specimens may call the state's local agriculture department office at 1-368-2230.

Field workers remind residents that there is a difference between the tent caterpillar and the gypsy moth larvae. Gypsy moth larvae do not form the characteristic "tent" of webbing in tree branches that tent caterpillars do.

To help residents identify the life stages of the caterpillar and the gypsy moth, the shade tree council has distributed literature to be displayed at local city halls. The council hopes municipalities will use the literature wisely, by posting in lobbies and in public works department garages so all may acquaint themselves with the life stages of the insect, Rice said. Material has also been distributed to groundskeepers at local country clubs, Rice said.

Also, the Shade Tree Council will now store all its technical data on trees with the Grosse Pointe Garden Center in the War Memorial, Rice said. The information will be available for public perusal, she added.

While the Pointes showed the only decrease last year in moth populations, that could change in coming years as the pests become more prevalent in southeastern Michigan. Three-fold population increases occurred last year in Oakland County and problem areas exist from Port Huron to Monroe County.

In Oakland County, 2,300 moths were trapped last year, compared to 700 the year before. The state has started using a different style of trap that can hold several hundred moths in those areas, because the orange tent-traps become so clogged with insects, they could hold no more, state officials said.

The state also suffered its first truly devastating defoliation last year in the Midland/Mount Pleasant area, according to state officials. Deciduous trees and evergreens were stripped of foliage and residents there reported keeping pets indoors to avoid animals carrying the insects indoors in their coats.

While defoliation doesn't kill a deciduous tree outright, it forces the organism to put out a second, stunted growth of leaves, drawing heavily on its stored food reserves meant to help it weather the winter. Successive years of defoliation can weaken the tree enough to make it susceptible to other illnesses. Evergreens can be killed by a single year of defoliation, state officials said.

Primary food sources for the moths are the leaves of oak, beech, birch, cherry, apple, linden and willow trees as well as mulberry, state officials said.

Fishing rodeo for youngsters

Grosse Pointe Park's annual fishing rodeo will be held Saturday, June 29, from 8 a.m. to noon. It is open to residents 15 years old and under.

The event is held on the main pier facing Lake St. Clair in Windmill Pointe Park. Prizes to be awarded are fishing rods, reels, tackle boxes, nets and other fishing equipment.

Awards will be given for the largest fish, most, first, last and smallest fish. There'll also be a prize for the craziest catch. Refreshments will be served to all participants.

Registration forms are available at the main gate of Windmill Pointe Park. Deadline for entries is 5 p.m. Friday, June 28. For more information, call the recreation department at 822-2812.

Community Events

GP Singles

The Grosse Pointe Singles Group will meet Friday, June 21, at 7 p.m. in the library of the War Memorial.

The Rev. David Blake, "Strolling Guitarist," will offer humorous and witty songs about the adjustment to single life.

Information about the wine and cheese party June 23 and the potluck dinner June 30 for widowed men and women in the area will be announced.

An afterglow dance with live music will be held at the Jefferson Yacht Club, 24504 E. Jefferson, St. Clair Shores, at 9:30 p.m. following the meeting.

Grosse Pointe Singles is a diversified singles group meeting at the War Memorial on the first, third and fifth Friday of every month. Activities include dancing, walking, discussions, widowed group, monthly house parties, and speakers.

All single men and women (39 and up) living in the community are invited to attend.

For more information, call 882-0316 or 445-1286.

Footlight Frenzy

Two residents, Andrea Grennan of the Woods and Nick Dara of the Farms, will appear in the comedy, "Footlight Frenzy," on Fridays and Saturdays from June 21 through July 27. It will be performed at the Heidelberg restaurant, 43785 Gratiot, Mount Clemens.

Tickets are $8. Dinner is optional. For information and reservations, call 468-1405 or 521-8510.

Cedar Point

All Grosse Pointe students who will be entering grades 7-10 this fall are eligible to join the War Memorial's day trip to Cedar Point Wednesday, July 10.

The bus will leave the Center at 7:30 a.m. and return at 9 p.m. The $30-per-student charge includes transportation and admission ticket for all rides and live shows.

In case of rain, the trip will be postponed to Thursday, July 11. Since there are no refunds, students should make sure that they will be able to go on either day. A signed, parental permission slip is required.

Any adult who would like to help by chaperoning the trip should call the War Memorial at 881-7511.

Boat race, art

The War Memorial will sponsor two day trips in July to Michigan events that have become traditions: one to see the start of the Mackinac Race, and the other to see the art in Ann Arbor.

On Saturday, July 20, the bus will leave the Center at 8 a.m. and head toward the Black River where participants can view the race boats and other vessels that have come to join in the merrymaking. The group will then continue on to Sarnia, the starting place of the race. A leisurely luncheon at the St. Clair Inn will follow, and time will be allowed for shopping or a stroll along the boardwalk.

Cost is $26 and the bus will return to the Center by 1:30 p.m.

On Wednesday, July 24, the bus will depart for Ann Arbor at 8:45 a.m. The feature most appreciated by participants last year was the convenience of traveling by air-conditioned motorcoach and leaving their parking worries at home.

Daytrippers will begin their browsing at the University Street exhibit and can then meander at their own pace through the multitude of displays. All will reconvene for lunch at 12:30 p.m. at the Campus Inn, after which there will be additional time to shop. The cost is $23 per person.

To reserve space on either trip, send a check or money order for the full amount to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. 48236.

Pickrel tournament

The 47th Annual Pickrel Tournament, sponsored by the Algonac Lions, will be held from Wednesday, July 3, through Sunday, July 7. The festival site is located near the St. Clair River.

The fireworks display will be Thursday, the boat parade Saturday, and the street parade Sunday. Daily fishing prizes will be awarded for pickrel.

Grosse Pointe High 35th reunion set

The Grosse Pointe High School Class of 1950 will meet for its 35th reunion Saturday, Aug. 10. Organizers are attempting to locate all of their classmates and would appreciate information from friends and parents. Call James Fisher at 885-2291.

A Dutch evening

Elmore "Dutch" Leonard, bestselling author of "Giltz," will speak at the Detroit Institute of Arts Theater Thursday, June 27, at 8 p.m. The author of 23 novels and 13 screenplays, Leonard is known as the "Dickens from Detroit."

Tickets are $8.50 and are available at the DIA box office, 832-2730.

Voice students give spring concert

The voice students of Doris Pagel will present their spring concert at the War Memorial on Wednesday, June 26, at 7 p.m. The cost is $2 for adults and children 12 years and younger will be admitted free. The public is welcome.

The elementary school students will present selections from "Annie"; the teen class will perform segments from the "Music Man"; and adult students will focus on grand opera, including scenes from "La Traviata," "La Boheme," "Don Giovanni" and "Cosi Fan Tutte." Other parts of the program will include a potpourri of numerous Broadway musicals. Tickets may be purchased in advance or at the door.

Any aspiring vocalists who would like to join one of the summer voice workshops may register anytime until Monday, July 1, the first day of the sessions. Adults will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. and children and teens will meet in the morning. All three workshops cost $40 each, and will meet for five weeks. Registration can be made by mail or in person.

AARP meeting

Grosse Pointe Chapter 2151 of American Association of Retired Persons will meet Monday, June 24, at 1 p.m. at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

"Tea for Two and One for Tea" will be presented by Helen Huber, an expert in the culinary arts.

A social hour and card-playing will follow the meeting.

Healthy back

About 80 percent of the adult population will suffer from back pain at some point. Occupational physical therapists at Saratoga Community Hospital will teach a class on how to have a healthy back Thursday, June 27, from 6 to 8:30 p.m.

Pre-registration is required. Call 245-1450.

PWP meeting

The Grosse Pointe Chapter of Parents Without Partners will meet Friday, June 28, at 7:30 p.m. at the K of C Hall, 25003 Little Mack, St. Clair Shores. Speaker will be the Rev. Bob Gallagher, pastor of Trinity Episcopal Church, St. Clair Shores. His topic is "From Prison to Priesthood."

There will be an afterglow at 10:15 p.m. The meeting and afterglow is $3.50 and afterglow only, $5.

For more information, call 885-9467 or 775-3273.

Children's Day

The 7th Annual International Freedom Festival Children's Day will be held Friday, June 28, from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the University Cultural Center, Woodward and Kirby.

Dozens of activities for children from preschool through elementary school ages are planned. There will be food and refreshments available.

For more information, call 831-1811.

Trombly's scientific method

Looking over one of three dozen exhibits at Trombly Elementary School recently are, from left, science consultant Jan Morrison, third-grader Kathy Ownby and reviewer Robert Lytle, president of M.C.U. Engineering Corp. of Livonia. Kathy's exhibit showed the effects of acid on eggs and postulated from that the effect of acid rain on birds. Other exhibits included reviews of photosynthesis, comparative animal anatomy, computers, electrical and magnetic fields and the movement of sound waves. Lytle was one of five reviewers who looked over the models and exhibits and talked with the students to determine their understanding of the concepts involved as well as giving suggestions about how to improve the displays. Each participant received a certificate of merit for preparing a display and took part in a special science program. Parents were able to walk through the displays during the Ice Cream Social at the school that evening.

Man dies after Park accident

A 28-year-old Saginaw man died in Bon Secours Hospital, four days after the car he was driving struck a tree on a Park street.

Dion Latimer died Tuesday night, June 11, a hospital spokesman said.

Latimer's 1974 Chevrolet left the roadway on Essex west of Berkshire and struck a tree, police said. It was unknown at what speed the vehicle was traveling when it struck, police added.

Latimer was found walking in a very confused state about a half-block away from the scene of the accident, suffering from head injuries. He was taken by emergency medical technicians to Bon Secours Hospital, where he was listed in critical condition until his death.

A report from the Wayne County Medical Examiner listed the cause of death as a fracture at the back of Latimer's skull, according to Lt.

Thomas Martin. The investigation has been turned over to Detroit Homicide Division, he added.

There is a possibility Latimer was involved in an incident in Detroit before the Essex accident, Martin said.

Sorrows reunion

Children's Fun Day

... at the War Memorial June 9 drew more than 600 youngsters and adults to the green overlooking Lake St. Clair. Above, children had their faces painted with sequins. John Smigiel of the Park, at the right, enjoys a pony ride.

Memorial regains non-profit status . . .

rization has nothing to do with tax-exempt status, however.

Touche Ross & Co., auditing firm for the War Memorial, had no firm comment until it investigated further, but Tom Ryan, the partner in charge of the War Memorial account, said any loss of status is "news to me."

Chase said the commerce department had informed the War Memorial of its loss of status at the time it occurred, "but the current officers may not have known about it." She said the corporate status confers protection and that the officers have been "opening themselves up to liability."

The tax on income usually doesn't come into play until an organization makes about $40,000, according to Chase. The Grosse Pointe War Memorial grossed approximately $1.5 million in 1984, Director Mark Weber said.

Weber said the War Memorial is 65 percent self-sustaining and makes up the difference in roughly equal amounts from community donations and interest from the center's endowment.

"This (consolidation) does not ment. This year's goal is $200,000 in tax-deductible community donations. Weber said the center is expected to reach the goal.

"(Marco's letter) was a surprise to us," Weber said Tuesday morning. "We will certainly check it out with our attorney and auditors. But it was a totally irrelevant argument (to the liquor question)."

They need your help

The good guys in the white fezzes will be busy this weekend and they'd like your help.

Under those white fezzes will be members of the Michigan Council of Caravans of the International Order of the Alhambra. This Saturday, June 22, members will be stationed at various street corners and shopping centers with canisters and gum drops to enlist your contributions in aiding retarded children.

One hundred percent of the money collected is used for scholarships for qualified students in this field, for wheelchairs and crutches and for trips to the Shrine Circus and Boblo Island.

The money is also used for research into the causes and cures of mental retardation.

ORDINANCE NO. 232

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 2.113 OF CHAPTER 24 OF TITLE II OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF GROSSE POINTE.

THE CITY OF GROSSE POINTE ORDAINS:

1. That Section 2.113 of Chapter 24 of Title II of the Code of the City of Grosse Pointe is hereby amended to read as follows:

2.113. Water and Sewer Rates. Charges for water service to each premises within the City connected with the water supply system, and charges for sewage disposal service to each premises within the City having any sewer connection with the public sewers, for each quarterly (3 months) period, shall be as follows for bills issued covering the period beginning July 1, 1985 and thereafter:

For water and sewer used, a rate of $15.90 per thousand cubic feet for all customers.

A minimum combined water-sewerage service charge of 1,500 cubic feet of water consumed per quarter shall be made per dwelling unit or non-residential unit.

For water and sewer used for non-residential customers, a quarterly surcharge equivalent to three months charges from City of Detroit for Industrial Waste Control meter charges as established from time to time by the City of Detroit, Michigan Water and Sewerage Department.

2. The effective date of the within Ordinance No. 232 shall be ten (10) days after date of publication thereof.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City Council, meeting as a Board of Appeals under the provisions of Section 5-14-1 of the 1975 City Code, will meet in the Council-Court Room of the Municipal Building, 20025 Mack Plaza, on Monday, July 1, 1985, at 7:30 p.m. to hear the appeal of the Our Lady Star of the Sea Elementary School, which is appealing the denial of the Building Inspector to issue a permit to construct a proposed addition to the School. Such proposed addition will create a deficiency in the minimum side yard requirements as provided for in Section 5-7-3 (Community Facilities District) of the 1975 City Code. A variance is therefore needed from the Board of Appeals. All interested persons are invited to attend.

My VCR is a JVC. My PC is an IBM.

My HMO is GHP.

I am what you might call a thoroughly modern man.

I'm into computers, all kinds of video, cellular phones, fitness.

I dropped my old health insurance years ago and switched to an HMO. A Health Maintenance Organization.

HMOs are the wave of the future in health care. In my book, they're also the wave of the present.

Why?

Because they stress staying well, not just getting well.

Also, they cover more and cost less than conventional insurance.

And they're a whole lot easier to live with.

My HMO is GHP. Group Health Plan, headquartered in Troy.

I love it.

They cover the things my old insurance did—and didn't.

Physicals. Allergy tests. Shots. Eye exams. Hearing tests. Unlimited office visits, like when I just want to go in and talk to my doctor about a new exercise program or diet. (My plan even covers eyeglasses and prescription drugs.)

GHP

GROUP HEALTH PLAN

There are no deductibles with GHP.

No forms to fill out.

No claims to file.

No runaround.

No worrying—"Is this going to be covered or not?"

I just walk in, show my card, they take it from there.

Look, if you're still paying the big buck for partial coverage, step into 1985 and join an HMO.

Better yet, join my HMO—GHP.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

Hurray for those hazy, lazy days of summer . . . and the seventh summer series of carillon recitals to be held on Tuesday evenings at 7:30 p.m. from next Tuesday, June 25, to Aug. 27 at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. The recitals, presented by the Musica Series of Memorial Church and gifts in memory of Mary Susan Savage, are offered to the community free of charge. They are held outdoors, rain or shine, with printed programs.

William De Turk, director of Music and Carillonneur of Memorial Church as well as the University of Michigan's university carillonneur, will present many of the recitals, including special programs July 2 (Patriotic Music for the Fourth of July), July 9 (Music of the British Isles featuring Carillon, Highland Dance and Bagpipes) and Aug. 13 (Music for Two Carillonneurs: Four Hands, Four Feet) in duet with Beverly Buchanan, Carillonneur of Christ Church Cranbrook.

Guest artist Andre Wagemans, City Carillonneur of Tienen, Belgium, will play on July 30. "Colleague Collage" will feature the Memorial Church carillonneurs Aug. 27 in the series' final program.

Following each recital, the church tower will be open to the public. Those who climb the 44 steps (I have, and it's well worth it) will get an excellent view of the carillon keyboard, the 47 bells — heaviest weighing more than two tons — and the new practice keyboard, which the public is welcome to try out, as well as such memorabilia as a map of the United States showing some 180 carillon locations, including the five in the Detroit metropolitan area.

Each recital is preceded at 6:30 p.m. by a potluck picnic. Hot dogs and beverage will be available for $1. Picnickers should bring a favorite side dish to share with six others. Everyone's welcome, and everyone who goes (I have) will have a grand time. The number to call for further information — but you don't really need any; just show up and enjoy! — is 882-5330.

Special Summer Garden Spots

The roof garden at Cottage Hospital is more colorful and attractive than ever this summer, thanks to the Grosse Pointe Garden Club's Horticulture Committee chairpersons, Mrs. J. Nall Candler and Mrs. John R. Odell Jr., who called Will Moore, director of Plant Operations at the hospital, this spring and offered to donate and plant an array of pink and white begonias and geraniums.

Will said yes, of course. And soon after, turning their trowels for Cottage, were Grosse Pointe Garden Clubbers Mrs. David Fitzsimons, Mrs. F. Lewis Barroll, Mrs. C. Howard Crane, Mrs. Howard B. Knaggs, Mrs. Donald E. McKnight, Mrs. John E. Park and Mrs. Henry M. Kuhlman. The hospital's patients, visitors and employees will

Christ Church Men & Boys Choir to sing for The Pointe

The Choir of Men and Boys, Christ Church, Grosse Pointe, will perform the premier concert of its Summer 1985 European Tour at a gala benefit for the People in Faith United Housing Corporation on Monday, July 8, at 8 p.m. at Christ Church. It will be the only opportunity locally to hear this unique presentation before the group departs for France and England.

Tickets are $8 general donation, $5 for seniors and students, $25 for patron seating, tax-deductible. Checks should be made payable to People in Faith United Housing Corporation and mailed to Christ Church, Grosse Pointe, 61 Grosse Pointe Boulevard, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. 48236. Reservation deadline is Monday, July 1.

Tickets will be held at the door or may be picked up at the Christ Church office during business hours. Additional information may be obtained by calling Christ Church, 885-4841, of PIFU Housing Corporation, 824-8442.

The non-profit Housing Corporation is part of an ecumenical consortium of local churches and business organizations which began in 1981. These PIFU groups have channeled their resources to improve conditions for the poor and elderly on Detroit's East Side.

PIFU Housing Corporation goals are to stimulate economic reinvestment, to make home ownership affordable for low-income persons and to construct new homes and rehabilitate existing homes, thus improving the quality of life of the residents within Detroit Census Tract 5130 (Chalmers to Alter, Kercheval to Jefferson).

PIFU operates a senior citizen food and friendship program and a youth program. It also supports a soup kitchen, a job placement program (Crossroads Jobs) and an emergency help center (Crossroads East).

Member churches and organizations are Bon Secours Hospital; Christ Church, Grosse Pointe; Crossroads, Diocese of Michigan,

The Christ Church, Grosse Pointe, Choir of Men and Boys, which will preview its Summer 1985 European Tour program with a benefit concert for the People in Faith United Housing Corporation on Monday, July 8, at Christ Church.

Episcopal, Detroit; the Detroit Anti-Hunger/Youth Advocacy Center; Faith Lutheran Church; First Christian Reformed Church; Grace United Church of Christ; Grosse Pointe Memorial Church; Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church; Jefferson Avenue United Methodist Church; St. Ambrose Roman Catholic Church; St. Columba Episcopal Church; and St. Paul's-on-the-Lake.

PIFU has attracted national support, including that of developer James Rouse, the Enterprise housing foundation and the McGregor Fund. Businesspeople, government officials, denominational leaders and housing organizations throughout the United States have expressed interest in the PIFU programs.

As one leader put it: "PIFU offers an entirely new way for ministering with the poor — especially in its housing strategy. It can become a model for churches and businesses to use for years to come."

The Christ Church, Grosse Pointe, Choir of Men and Boys was formed prior to the building of the church itself, in 1929, by organist and choirmaster Beecher Aldrich. He began what succeeding choirmasters have developed into the present group of 20 choristers, six alto boys and 10 professional tenors, countertenors and basses. D. Frederic DeHaven, current musical director, has served Christ Church since 1975.

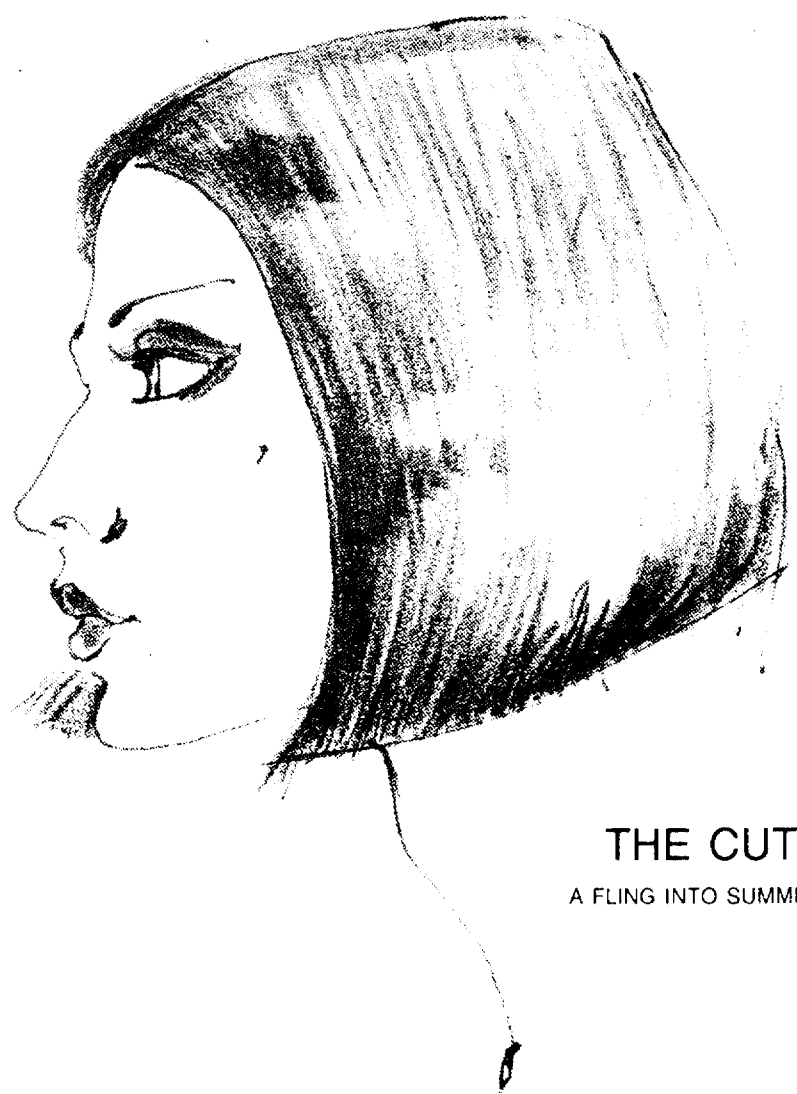

Choir members come from Grosse Pointe and the City of Detroit. Some are members of Christ Church; others are not. They represent a wide geographic area and a variety of public and private schools. They are drawn together by a love of music, a desire to experience the specific training received by a chorister in the English cathedral tradition and the opportunity to perform regularly in concert and liturgy.

The boys begin as probationers at about the age of 8, remain probationers through most of their first season and are then promoted to chorister. Choristers are trained by the choirmaster three times a week in addition to working as an ensemble each Sunday. Their training is musical, liturgical and — boys being boys — social.

The choir has been presented in concert throughout Michigan, in New York's Carnegie Hall and the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C., and has frequently sung with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in Ford Auditorium. The travel it has done has earned it increasing and repeated invitations: to the United States Air Force Academy in 1982, to Europe in 1966, 1967, 1981 and again this summer.

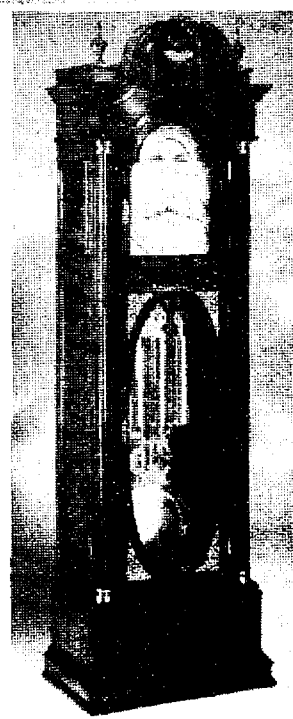

The 1981 European Tour to England and Holland came about through an invitation from the Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, to sing Evensong there on July 29, 1981. When the Royal Wedding was announced for St. Paul's on that date, the Dean wrote his regrets at having to retract his invitations. (Continued on Page 6B)

Pair planning August rites

August wedding plans are being made by Drema M. Kalajian and Michael J. Kopcak whose engagement has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Kalajian, of Bishop Road.

Miss Kalajian holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, a Master of Business Administration degree from the University of Detroit and a J.D. from the University of Michigan. She is a member of the American and Michigan Bar Associations.

Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kopcak, of Bayonne, N.J., holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Fairleigh Dickinson University.

Bonsai Study Club to meet June 24

The Bonsai Kenkyu Kai of Macomb study club meets next Monday, June 24, at 7:30 p.m. at the Kellwood Elementary School Administration Building on Stephens in East Detroit, between Kelly Road and the I-94 freeway, in

Grand U of D party planned for Grand Prix

Take a chance: you may get lucky and snap up one of the VERY few tickets remaining for the University of Detroit's third annual Grand Prix party, which warms up tomorrow, Friday, June 21, when the stands open for viewing, continues into Saturday, June 22, with both outdoor and indoor viewing available, and shifts into high gear Sunday, June 23, beginning with a continental breakfast, followed by an open bar from noon to 5 p.m. and an afternoon barbecue.

Large-screen indoor TV plus an on-site leader board will keep spectators up-to-the-minute as they watch the Formula One racers. Private restrooms will add to the comfort. In between races, there'll be dancing in the street to the '50s and '60s sounds of Steve King and The Ditties.

Auto enthusiasts can also tour a display of special interest and classic cars driven in by U. of D. guests.

The U. of D. party package is "fully equipped and loaded with extras," says its co-chairman, Mike Cavanaugh, Grosjean Insurance executive. "We've brought back all the luxury of last year's sell-out, added exciting new amenities and expanded our facilities to accommodate 2,000 guests — up from our 1,600 capacity last year."

The party, held at U. of D.'s Renaissance Campus on Jefferson Avenue (inside the race circuit) offers a spectacular view. Fans seated in private grandstands see the Formula One cars roar out of the Chrysler curve onto the Congress Street straightaway.

The checkered flags had barely stopped waving last June when plans for U. of D.'s 1985 Grand Prix party got under way. Cavanaugh reports that the planning committee surveyed last year's ticket purchasers, 75 percent of whom are returning for the '85 party, to find out what features they would like added.

The outdoor leader board and live dance band are both new, and guests who find the racing sound overwhelming can pop in their complimentary ear plugs this year.

Another innovation is a special corporate package for groups of 50 or more, including private hospitality suites and viewing rooms, private restrooms, bar service and corporate welcome banners.

The party will sizzle for all guests as 12 outdoor grills prepare what may be the largest private Grand Prix Day barbecue: 1,700 hamburgers, 1,600 hot dogs, 1,500 pieces of chicken and 1,000 ears of corn. The culinary staff will also dish up 390 pounds of potato salad, 390 pounds of cole slaw and more than 1,000 ice cream novelties.

Tickets, covering all party amenities, are $130 per person. Optional two-day parking passes are $20. Information on the corporate suite package and individual tickets may be obtained by calling the University of Detroit's Special Events Office, 927-1008.

As proceeds from the party go to fund university projects, a portion of the ticket price is tax deductible.

Pointe flavor for Walsh College

The first annual Walsh College President's Club dinner was held at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House on Wednesday, May 29. Although Walsh College is located in Troy, the President's Club event had a very definite Grosse Pointe accent.

The Walsh College President's Club has been established by alumni and friends of the college to support the educational mission of Walsh. The college is a private, upper-division and graduate institution granting Bachelors degrees in Accounting and Business Administration as well as Masters degrees in Professional Accountancy and Taxation.

Among the guests at the dinner and reception were Grosse Pointe Shores Village President Gerald C. and Mrs. Schroeder, of Shoreham Road; Mr. and Mrs. Randolph J. Agley, of Lothrop Road; Mrs. Danforth Holley and daughter Deborah, of Lakeshore Road; Mr. and Mrs. Everett M. Hawley Jr., of Oxford Road; Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey W. Barry, of Moross Road; and Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Gofrank, of Windemere Lane.

Guest speaker Robert Lacey and wife Sandi, living in The Shores while Lacey researches a book on the Ford family, were also present. Lacey, author of "Majesty" and "The Kingdom," spoke of his travels through Saudi Arabia and discussed the origins of "Majesty."

Walsh College president Jeffery Barry said, "Through their support of Walsh College, 21 members of the President's Club bring distinction to the college and create a resource that helps to provide the independence that is essential to a private college."

PSI chapter will meet on June 26

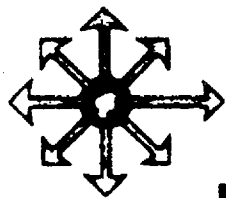

The Detroit Chapter of Professional Secretaries International will meet at the Lochmoor Club at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 26. After installation of 1985-86 officers, there will be a fashion seminar by Lynn Portnoy, of Detroit.

Secretaries and guests are invited to attend. Reservations may be made by calling 354-2942.

Working for Children's

Pictured above at the Detroit Golf Club, setting for the Children's Hospital of Michigan Auxiliary's annual luncheon meeting, are the eight women installed as officers for the auxiliary's 1985-86 season: (back row, left to right) Mrs. Kim Lie, of Country Club Drive, president; Mrs. Frederick Watts Jr., of Higbie Place, president-elect; Mrs. Jesse Cardello, of Hawthorne Road, treasurer; Mrs. Henry Kennedy, of Detroit, recording secretary; and Mrs. Richard Gabrys, of Rochester, corresponding secretary; (front row, left to right) Mrs. James Delaney, of Birmingham, nominating committee chairman; Mrs. Lawrence Taepke, of Troy, vice-president/programs; and Mrs. Lawrence Kuhns, of Plymouth, vice-president/membership. At the meeting, President Mado Lie presented a check for $60,000, money raised through the auxiliary's annual sale of Christmas Cards, Hospital Gift Shop sales, a resale and the gourmet food sampling "Cuisine Extraordinaire," to Children's Hospital President Paul L. Broughton. Membership in the auxiliary, a support organization providing services and financial assistance to the hospital, is open to all persons interested in aiding Children's and promoting its health care services. Interested in joining? Call 494-5373 for further information.

Artists Market salutes autos

The final exhibition of the 1984-85 season at the Detroit Artists Market, located on Randolph Street and open daily Tuesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., is a three-part affair.

"Auto Suggestions," organized to run concurrent with the Detroit Institute of Arts' salute to the automobile and its impact on American culture, features installation pieces in the main gallery created by five invited artists: Jorg Erichsen, Al Hebert, Jim Pallas, John Slick and Ann Treadwell.

Also in the main gallery is the Auto Shop, offering multiple art works by the exhibiting artists and other contributors. Items for sale range from key chains and bumper stickers to greasy spoons, diner crockery and a dashboard icon depicting Lee Iacocca, from T-shirts to ceramic pins, rubber stamps and notecards.

The installation pieces include one by Hebert in which an automobile is disassembled, Slick's triptych for the highway, Erichsen's "Hulks" (trashed cars and inventive designs), Pallas' roadway fantasy complete with blinking barricades and "The Carburetor Cafe," Treadwell's paper environment truckstop diner. Desktop models of "Hulks" are available in the Auto Shop.

In the Upper Gallery is a photographic exhibit, juried by Dorothy Manty of the Detroit Public Library staff, which spotlights images related to the world of the automobile.

The "Auto Suggestions" catalog, underwritten by the Automobile Club of Michigan, takes the form of a Triptik of the show. It contains statements by each of the five installation artists about the pieces on display and the art of installation in general.

Busy week behind Josiah Harmar DAR

Last Friday, June 14, marked the 100th observance of Flag Day and in honor of the occasion, regent of the General Josiah Harmar Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution Mrs. John S. Buchanan, and member Mrs. Florence Moore Davis presented a flag to Redford Township clerk Miss John Reilly for her office.

The chapter held a luncheon meeting last Saturday, June 15, at the lakeside home of Miss Mildred Skaglin, of Milford. Mrs. Buchanan, of Redford, and Mrs. Walter S. Pfeil, of Oak Park, assisted the hostess. Mrs. Davis discussed "Duty and Honor at Valley Forge! Who Cares About It?"

The chapter awarded the ROTC Bronze Medal for Patriotism, Military and Academic Achievement to Joe Sanchez of Southfield High School this month.

Further information on DAR activities may be obtained by calling 533-5351.

John DeBoer, son of Thomas and Mary DeBoer, of Grosse Pointe, is among recipients of the Michigan Association of Governing Boards of Colleges and Universities fourth annual awards.

DeBoer graduated from Central Michigan University this spring with a degree in accounting. He has compiled a 3.66 grade point average and played varsity football for four years. On the Dean's list for five semesters, DeBoer also was selected the 1984 Michigan Scholar Athlete of the Year, was recipient of the Academic All-American Conference Award and was CMU's first Division I Academic All-American Football Player. He is a member of Mortar Board, Sigma Iota Epsilon and Phi Kappa Phi.

Bryns Drive, has been promoted to his present rank while serving with Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadron Light 30, Naval Air Station Norfolk, Va.

Among Central Michigan University students recently inducted into the school's highest honor society, Phi Kappa Phi, were seniors John DeBoer, of The City; an accounting major; and Daniel Small, of The Woods, a biology and oceanography major; and junior Lisa Shabander, of Harper Woods, who majors in marketing and interpersonal communication.

Phil Leon, of Lakeshore Road, and his partner Vince Remey, of Southfield, placed first in their section in the Canadian Bridge Federation Master Pairs, a one-day regional championship which was part of the 1985 Spring North American Championships of the American Contract Bridge League in Montreal, Quebec in March.

Susan Mezger, of The Farms, has entered the clinical portion of her chiropractic education at Palmer College of Chiropractic, Davenport, Iowa, where she is a junior. During the next year, she will give chiropractic care under supervision of a staff doctor on an out-patient basis in the Palmer Public Clinic. She will also pursue a full academic course of classroom study during that period.

Industrial sites delight modern archeologists

By Boris Weintraub
National Geographic News Service

There is the bridge, and then there is the mill.

The bridge over the Little Patuxent River in this village about midway between Baltimore and Washington is a Bollman truss railroad bridge, named for Wendel Bollman, whose name is cast into it as "W. Bollman, Patentee." The cast-iron plates say that it was built by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. in 1869, but it was moved here in 1888.

It was moved to serve the cotton textile mill, established in 1822 and in business as the Savage Manufacturing Co. until 1948. No original buildings remain, but one striking 1838 structure, 142 feet long and 15 feet high plus a belfry, is among the 12 buildings still standing.

Time was when historians would have paid little attention to the bridge or the mill. But now there is a relatively new discipline called industrial archeology. Its aficionados — scholars and buffs alike — are concerned with the physical remains of this country's industrial age. They believe that the source of a society's wealth is as important as what the wealth was used for, that the ways in which an industrial nation worked are as worthy of historical research as prehistoric pottery or the strategy of a battle.

"Industrial history includes studying people from the bottom up, doing an analysis of what working-class people were doing instead of just studying the activities of great white men," says Helena Wright, a curator in the Smithsonian Institution's division of graphic arts and president of the Society of Industrial Archeology.

Theodore A. Sande, director of the Western Reserve Historical Society in Cleveland and a pioneering industrial archeologist who helped found the SIA over a decade ago, puts it this way:

"This is an attempt to give more of a balance to the study of the past than may have been true in earlier historical research. We want the working class represented along with the manufacturers and entrepreneurs, the factory along with the civic building and the church."

Sande emphasizes that industrial archeology is based on going into the field and studying an "artifact" — a factory, a piece of machinery, a bridge, perhaps a railroad signal — on its site. The key elements, says Sande, are investigating a site, surveying it, recording it photographically and in architectural drawings, and, in some cases, preserving what he calls "industrial monuments."

Such a monument is the Bollman truss bridge in Savage. Its importance was first recognized by Robert M. Vogel, who was a co-founder of the SIA. It is, says Vogel, the last example of a major element of 19th-century American railroad engineering.

"The Bollman truss was the first bridging system in iron that was, in a sense, mass-produced by a railroad," Vogel explains. "It was built of a standard design, in multiple and all of iron at a time when iron was still under some suspicion as a structural material." The bridge is now owned by Howard County, Md., and has been restored to its original condition. It now answers questions as no library document can.

"You can never get a sense of understanding something unless you actually can lay hands on it, see it, stand in its presence, feel the proportions of it in the landscape, look at the details of the metal parts and how they were produced," Vogel says. "That bridge is a superb example of the sort of artifact that industrial archeologists can learn from."

So is the Savage Manufacturing Co. mill. Bob Skaggs, a local history buff who has been studying the mill and the community for 10 years, notes that the mill, which produced cotton duck cloth as wide as 17 feet, is important because the company built a complete community around it.

"They had a blast furnace here, they had a foundry, they had an ice plant, they had a farm, they built houses for the workers, they had a company store," Skaggs says. Several of the workers' boarding houses remain, remodeled as private homes, and a huge water turbine still stands in the crumbling ruins of the wheelhouse.

Fortunately, from the standpoint of industrial archeologists, the mill complex will be rehabilitated as part of a joint venture headed by Jay Winer, whose family has owned it since 1950, shortly after the Savage Manufacturing Co. ceased operations.

"My family was always interested in utilizing the buildings that were here instead of tearing them down, which was what they were advised to do," Winer says. "Instead, they spent a lot of money repairing some of the spaces."

Two openings for Hilberry

The Wayne State University Summer Theatre Festival has scheduled two openings for Friday, July 5, at 8 p.m. Beth Henley's "Crimes of the Heart," a Pulitzer Prize and New York Drama Critics Circle Award-winning play, bows on the main stage at the Hilberry.

Meanwhile, Paul Ableman's "Green Julia" will debut downstairs at the Hilberry, in the Studio. "Crimes of the Heart" examines

The first phase of rehabilitation will be completed this summer. The mill complex will house antique shops, craftspeople, artists' studios and restaurants. It also will include a museum and interpretive materials designed to explain to visitors what happened throughout the mill, says property manager Beverly Schwink. The entire project is expected to take five years and cost more than $6 million.

Such rehabilitation and interpretation are becoming increasingly common as efforts by preservationists and industrial archeologists take hold. Helena Wright points to the designation of Lowell, Mass., a cradle of the Industrial Revolution, as a national park, and the creation of a series of "heritage state parks" in such Massachusetts industrial cities as Lynn and Lawrence. In fact, such efforts have become so numerous that some industrial archeologists fear that too much emphasis has been placed on preservation.

"There hasn't been as much interpretation as I'd like to see — that is, the taking of a description of a site and inferring something from it, something of larger cultural concern," says Sande. "That's one area I'd like to see industrial archeology develop if it's going to make a lasting contribution."

Amy Swantek wed in March

Cocoa Beach Community Church, Cocoa Beach, Fla., was the setting Saturday, March 16, for the wedding of Amy Bennett Swantek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Swantek, of Woodland Place, and Mark William Uffelman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Meryle Uffelman, of Satellite Beach, Fla.

The 3 o'clock ceremony was followed by a reception at Hacienda Del Sol, a Spanish villa on the Indian River, after which the newlyweds left to vacation in Hawaii. They are at home in Cocoa Beach.

The bride wore a long-sleeved, tulle-overlaid gown of ivory taffeta, its bodice of lace and seed pearls fashioned with a sweetheart neckline. A floral wreath held her tulle veil. She carried a trailing bouquet of ivy, white roses, stephanotis and miniature lilies.

Molly Swantek, honor maid for her sister, and bridesmaids Susan Swantek, another sister, and Laurie Ward, of Melbourne Beach, Fla., sister of the bridegroom, in long-sleeved dresses of teal green taffeta, carried arrangements of pink azaleas, wild roses and miniature lilies.

Best man was Peter Anderson, of Cocoa Beach. Ushers were Stanley Trepas, of Cocoa, Fla., and the bridegroom's brother-in-law, Craig Ward.

The mother of the bride wore a dress of pale pink silk. Her corsage was a white gardenia. The bridegroom's mother complemented her dress, cobalt blue in color, with a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's grandmother, Anne B. Swantek, a former Park resident who now makes her home in Clearwater, Fla.; her great-aunt Mary Dhein, of Wilmette, Ill.; her aunt and niece, Mrs. Sherlie Kropf and Julie Kropf, of Sepulveda, Calif.; her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs.

Mr. and Mrs.

Garden club closing year

Mrs. George Malley, president, conducted election of officers for the coming year at the annual meeting of the Windmill Pointe Garden Club, held on the first Wednesday of June at the home of Mrs. Bruce Feighner who was assisted by Mrs. Charles Begeman as co-hostess.

Members submitted their own floral arrangements, with comments by Margaret Heffler. The agenda included discussion of the group's garden party, with husbands, scheduled for Saturday, June 29, at Moross House. The club is also participating in the 1985 Grosse Pointe War Memorial Trial Gardens program.

Vows spoken in The East

Diane Curtis, who will continue to use her own name, and James L. Bidigare Jr. were married in May at Saint Paul Church in Cambridge, Mass. Celebrating the nuptial mass was The Reverend Harry S. Benjamin, of Detroit.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Curtis, of Loraine, Ohio, and Bradenton, Fla., is a software development manager for Lotus Development Corporation. She holds degrees from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and MIT's Sloan School of Management.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Bidigare, of Edmondson Drive, is also an MIT graduate, and a graduate. Class of 1974, of Austin Catholic Preparatory School. He is the principal of Bidigare Associates, a consulting firm specializing in computer systems for small businesses.

The bride wore a gown of white organza and satin, its V-neckline bodice, appliqued with silk Venice lace, fashioned with an off-the-shoulder neckline and puffed sleeves, its skirt, edged in a wide, appliqued satin band, extending into a chapel train.

Her French illusion veil was caught by a satin cap. She carried a cascade of gardenias and white carnations, with Ming fern.

Honor matron Kate Joseph, of Waltham, Mass., bridesmaids Linda Curtis Lenge, of Worthington, Ohio, Kathy Lazar, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Erika Bruner, of Newton, Mass., and flower girl Jessica Lenge, of Worthington, wore gowns of ice blue taffeta, styled with sweetheart necklines and full, puffed sleeves.

Best man was Ricky Ewasko, of Fishkill, N.Y. Jim Thompson, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and former Pointe residents Greg Holland and Peter Joos, Austin Prep School classmates of the bridegroom, both now of Chicago, ushered.

The wedding ceremony was followed by a reception and dinner at The New England Aquarium in Boston, after which the couple left to vacation in France. They will make their home in Cambridge, Mass.

Smith Club keeps busy

Twenty-five alumnae attended the luncheon and annual meeting of the Smith College Club of Detroit on the last Thursday in May at the Farms home of Mrs. John Hastings, electing Mrs. John Roberts president and Mrs. Frank Parcells and Mrs. Dwight Black first and second vice-presidents, respectively, of the local club.

Also elected were Mrs. James Williams as treasurer, Mrs. Richard Budinger as recording secretary and Mrs. M. Smith Campbell as corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Michael Carr, of the Birmingham Smith Club, reported on the alumnae council held last fall at Smith, at which club and class representatives caught up on the

Miss Bodman is June bride

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Taylor Bodman, of Lakeshore Road, announce the marriage of their granddaughter, Marie Louise Bodman, of Wayne, Pa., to John David Petrie, of Boston, Mass., on Saturday, June 8, in the Church of the Good Shepherd, Rosemont, Pa.

The bride, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Edward Bodman, of Washington, D.C., was attended by her two sisters, D'Anne (Mrs. Harvey) Nosowitz and Amy McMillan Bodman, as matron and maid of honor.

The bridegroom, son of The Reverend and Mrs. Willard Petrie, of Glenmore, Pa., asked Paul Banevicius to act as best man.

The 4:30 o'clock ceremony was followed by a reception at the Radnor Hunt Club, Radnor, Pa., after which the newlyweds left to vacation on Bermuda. They will make their home in Chelmsford, Mass.

July wedding date is made

Mr. and Mrs. P.M. Costello, of Monmouth, Ill., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen, to Michael Chandler, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Chandler, of Belanger Road.

Miss Costello is director of the Pitkin County Library in Aspen, Colo., where the wedding will take place in late July at Saint Mary's Catholic Church. Her fiancé, a resident of Basalt, Colo., is a computer consultant specializing in banking software.

Genealogists meet in St. Clair Shores

Bill Gillow, of the Roy J. Kaul Funeral Home, will report on the type of records funeral homes keep, and how family history researchers can get access to records of the funerals and burials of their ancestors, at the St. Clair Shores Genealogy Group's meeting next Thursday, June 27, at 7 p.m. at the St. Clair Shores Public Library, located at 11 Mile Road and Jefferson Avenue.

The group's meetings, held on the fourth Thursday of every month, are free and open to the public. Further information may be obtained by contacting the St. Clair Shores Public Library, 771-9020.

enjoy the fruits of their labor and thoughtfulness all summer long.

Do you have a nagging feeling? . . . the feeling you've missed some extra-special Grosse Pointe Garden spots this Greening Season? Fact is, you haven't: this year's Grosse Pointe Garden Club Council Tour of Grosse Pointe Gardens will be a midsummer rather than a late spring one. It's set for July 19, 20 and 21 (Friday, Saturday and Sunday). We'll have details for you later; for now, know that many of them were finalized at the luncheon and Garden Tour briefing session hosted by Mrs. David C. Lowe early in the spring at her Cranford Lane home.

A Penguin Parade at the Zoo

Summer rolled into the Detroit Zoo with the grand opening of the newly-renovated Penguinarium, when more than 700 enthusiastic guests gathered outside the building on the first Thursday of June for a ceremonial ribbon cutting.

They arrived in everything from webbed feet to tuxedos . . . and after the ribbon cutting and remarks from several dignitaries, including Grosse Pointe's Larry Buhl, president of the Detroit Zoological Society, the champagne flowed and the majestic birds welcomed visitors to a tour of their new home.

The life-sized penguins mingling with the crowd were Detroit Zoo Docents. A 45-foot-high helium-filled penguin balloon overlooked the entire celebration. There were mimes. There was music, by the Boblo Islanders, and plenty of popcorn to perk up hors d'oeuvre-sated palates.

So what if you didn't win the grand prize Trip for Two to the South Pole? It was a delightful party, and a delightful way to raise funds for the Detroit Zoological Society, and the penguins hang out slightly south of the Pole, anyway. And at the zoo, in early June, you don't have to bundle up.

A Super Summer Experience

Twelve-year-old Rachel Manning leaves today to travel to Eastern Europe with the Amherst Ballet Theatre Company of Amherst, Mass., chosen by the Yugoslavian Government to represent the United States at the Dubrovnik Musical Festival. After performing in Dubrovnik and other cities in Yugoslavia, the 16 young dancers, ranging in age from 12 to 18, will continue on for performances in Austria and Hungary, returning to the States on — how appropriate! — the Fourth of July.

Rachel is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. David Manning (Barbara Barnes), of Amherst. Her grandmother, Mrs. James T. Barnes, lives on Lakeshore Road, her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Kirchner, on Cameron Place.

Pointe concert date for choir

tation due to Di and Charles' plans (one really couldn't ask THEM to reschedule!) — but offered Evensong the following day, July 30.

The choir sang that service to a congregation of 3,000. It was a form of wedding "fallout" that made Grosse Pointe, Mich., a very much better known place abroad.

The choir went from London to Cambridge, to hear the great choirs of that university sing, then to Trinity Church at Stratford-on-Avon to sing Evensong, then to Winchester Cathedral for a week of daily Evensong services. The tour ended with two concerts in Holland, one in Rotterdam, the second in Dordrecht.

For the Dordrecht concert, sung in a former Roman Catholic Cathedral, the Grosse Pointe choir was allowed to use the choir stalls. It was the first time they had been used since 1547. The awe-inspiring acoustical reverberation in that cathedral continued for more than 10 seconds.

This summer's tour begins in Paris on July 11. Two days later, on Saturday, July 13, at 2 p.m., the choir will present a concert in Notre Dame Cathedral. The next morning (Bastille Day), the choir will sing the morning service at the American Cathedral.

After a tour through Normandy and a trip across the English Channel, the Christ Church, Grosse Pointe, Men and Boys will arrive to sing Evensong on July 17 at Salisbury Cathedral. From Salisbury they will journey to Christ Church, Oxford, where the services and concerts will be sung to an audience which knows a bit about Grosse Pointe — because the Christ Church, Oxford, Choir began its 1984 tour of the United States here.

On the following weekend the tour will proceed to London where, on Monday, July 22, the Grosse Pointe Christ Church Choir will sing Evensong in Westminster Abbey. The trip culminates with a week in York, during which the choir will sing the daily and Sunday services in Yorkminster. In the whole of the tour, there are only six days on which the choir is not scheduled to perform.

Two Meadow Brook dates

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra's second week of Chrysler Concerts at the Meadow Brook Music Festival continues with performances next Thursday, June 27, at 8 p.m. featuring Donald Baker, DSO principal oboist, and Sunday, June 30, at 8 p.m. featuring mezzo-soprano Tatiana Troyanos. Viennese-born conductor Walter Weller will be on the podium for both programs.

Baker will play the Oboe Concerto by 20th century English composer Vaughan Williams. Other works scheduled for the Thursday concert are "The Nocturnal" by Czech composer Dvorak, and Symphony No. 5 by Russian composer Glazunov.

Troyanos makes her DSO debut singing Hector Berlioz' "Les nuits d'été." The Sunday concert will open with Smetana's "Moldau" and conclude with the Glazunov Symphony No. 5.

Tickets for both programs, ranging in price from $16 to $10 (lawn seating) are available at the Meadow Brook Music Festival box office, 377-2010, Hudson's and other Ticket World locations and all AAA branch offices.

Offer amusement park safety tips

Visiting an amusement park with its thrilling rides, journeys through enchanted lands and delights for the senses is a great escape from the Real World. To help insure fun and safety while participating in such an outing, the National Safety Council has produced an eight-page booklet: "Amusement Park Safety Tips."

Subjects dealt with include preparations to make before leaving home; child safety considerations; steps to take once the family or group reach the park; park and personal safety tips.

Single copies of the booklet are available free of charge before Oct. 1, 1985, by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, with the request for "Amusement Park Safety Tips," to Department PR, National Safety Council, 444 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Quantity purchases are available by writing the Order Department at the same address.

The National Safety Council, headquartered in Chicago, is a not-for-profit, non-governmental public service organization of private citizens, corporations and associations working in the private sector to increase the safety and improve the health of the American people.

Artrain offers Music of Art

Artrain, the nation's only traveling art museum housed in railcars, arrives in downtown Detroit, at the former SEMTA train depot, Franklin and St. Antoine Streets, east of RenCen, tomorrow, Friday, June 21, and will be open for visitors through Sunday, June 23, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Marking the tercentenary anniversary of the great Baroque era composers Bach, Handel and Scarlatti, it has mounted a thematic exhibition, "The Music of Art," especially for Grand Prix week-end.

The show features artistically designed musical instruments illustrating a wide range of styles as well as authentic reproductions of instruments used during the Baroque period, and includes an audio-visual presentation highlighting the musical and artistic styles of the Baroque era and large color transparency photographs of Baroque architecture, ornamentation and the environments in which the music was performed.

Also featured are paintings, sculptures and other media forms encompassing a broad spectrum of styles, illustrating the subtle and direct influence of music on visual artists, and live demonstrations by local and staff artists.

Take fall tour to Mackinac

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial will be taking reservations this coming week for an especially designed senior adults' trip to Mackinac Island Oct. 2 through 4.

Participants will tour the historic island via horsedrawn carriage and may attend an optional champagne party, dressed as their favorite actor or actress. Croquet, horseshoe and golf putting tournaments, complete with prizes, will be arranged.

Free golf is available; golfers can either bring their own equipment or rent clubs and a cart at a reduced rate.

The $249 cost per person includes round trip motorcoach transportation, two nights' lodging at the Grand Hotel, two breakfasts and dinners, a round-trip boat ticket, two island taxi tickets for use going to and from the docks, tips and baggage handling, the carriage tour and a complimentary tea.

Payment in full is due at the time a reservation is made. The trip is limited to 44 people. Further information may be obtained by contacting the War Memorial's Travel Department at 881-7511.

Sign up for 1985 summer art camp

The Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association (BBAA) will sponsor a Summer Art Camp, Monday, June 24, through Wednesday, July 3.

It's a visual art camp for grades one through seven offering a variety of creative experiences, including cartooning, clay, drawing, painting and sculpture. Students in third through seventh grade will have three different classes per day. First and second graders will work on projects with the same teacher each day.

Cost is $125 for BBAA members and $130 for non-members.

Hilberry dates for 'Androcles'

"Androcles and the Lion," a children's classic dramatized by Aurand Harris, opens at Wayne State University's Hilberry Theatre Tuesday, July 2, and will play there at 10:30 a.m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays (except July 4) through July 25.

Matinees are also scheduled for 1 p.m. on Mondays, July 15 and 22, and for 11 a.m. on Saturdays, July 13 and 27 — but NOT on Saturday, July 20, as erroneously stated in the Hilberry Summer Theatre Festival brochure.

Harris' one-hour "Androcles" is a musical treatment of the classic legend about the slave who befriends a suffering lion, written in commedia dell'arte style.

Hilberry's adult repertory in July will include "Crimes of the Heart" and "The Bed Before Yesterday" in the main theatre and "Green Julia" and "The Island" in the downstairs Studio Theatre.

Tickets and schedule information for all Summer Festival plays may be obtained by calling the WSU Theatre box office, 577-2972. Group sales information is available by calling 577-3010.

Operation LINC

Dear Friends of LINC:

Summer is upon us. The current board's term is quickly dwindling to its last few days. Please allow us to take this opportunity to thank you for all of your efforts in making Operation LINC's year such a successful one. You can be proud of the accomplishments that have been made.

Operation LINC will have collected and distributed over $300,000 worth of donated goods from July 1, 1984 through June 30, 1985. That is the largest figure ever in the organization's history.

We are also pleased to have added another 18 agencies to the long list of groups we serve. As of last November, LINC's boundary limitations have been eliminated so that we are no longer restricted to serving agencies in Wayne County alone, but can reach those in need in any of the surrounding counties as well.

Our new location at 17800 East Warren has made LINC more convenient to donors and volunteers. There has been noticeably better attendance at meetings and more volunteer hours spent in the office. The convenience of having babysitting available during general membership meetings has been helpful to those volunteers with young children. At present, we are developing a volunteer orientation for those who are interested in learning more about the many facets and opportunities of LINC.

The new brochure, the addition of the NEWS-LINC (a newsletter for volunteers and friends, the monthly Grosse Pointe NEWS article and the presentation of our slide show to various groups — all have helped make LINC's activities known to friends old and new.

The "Fun Raisers" had several successful fund-raising projects. The fall garage sale, the continuing trash bag sale, the marvelous Monte Carlo party in March and the spring garage and flower sale — all played very important roles in the business of balancing the annual budget.

A corporate funding solicitation campaign is still being developed, and we are happy that we were able to attract new contributors.

Two of our most heart-warming programs, the Foster Care Christmas Project and the Toy Chest, were well-received by the community. We distributed thousands of gifts donated by area school children, Girl Scouts, Campfire children, private donors and businesses, making the holidays happier for recipients of all ages.

It was a delight to present the annual Outstanding Volunteer Award at the spring volunteer luncheon on May 30 to Beckie and Sal Cipriano. Beckie and Sal's generosity and hard work have been a tremendous asset to LINC for several years. They have been key figures in the development of many of our major fund-raising endeavors. Congratulations to them both for an award well-deserved.

Happily, Operation LINC can add the selection of a strong board for the upcoming year to its list of success stories. The new board will be guided by Mrs. Chris Litke as president. Chris has previously served as research chairperson and as secretary. The year promises to be an exciting one.

Finally, on behalf of the entire 1984-85 board, please accept our sincere thanks for the interest that each of you has shown our group, whether through a donation of goods, financial support or volunteer hours. Operation LINC helps others to help themselves. It is a rewarding experience. Thank you for sharing it with us.

Sincerely,
Mary C. Matvias
President, 1984-85

LINC (Linking Individuals to Needs in the Community) column space is provided each month by the Grosse Pointe NEWS as a community service. Operation LINC needs your generous contributions and your time. We are a non-profit, volunteer organization which helps numerous service agencies and depends on your support. To volunteer or donate usable items, please call us at 882-6100. Our office hours are 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday, throughout the year.

Benefit for Children's

Mr. and Mrs. Edsel B. Ford II are honorary chairmen of a fine art sale which will benefit Children's Hospital and is set for Saturday, June 29, from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Manor Homes of Aldingbrooke in West Bloomfield.

The event also features wine, hors d'oeuvres and music. Donations of $25, $50 and $100 (includes dinner at the Drake) are tax deductible. Art at Aldingbrooke will be open to the public for viewing on Sunday, June 30, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.; admission is $2.50.

Further information on the benefit sale may be obtained by calling Children's Hospital of Michigan at 494-5826.

'Young Fives' class to open

Fitness is fun for everyone

Two total body workouts will be offered this summer at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial for everyone, regardless of age, sex or size.

"Couture Exercise: Body and Leg Crafting" for those over 40 will meet from 9 to 10 a.m. Mondays and Wednesdays beginning July 1. Another class, open to all ages, will meet from 7 to 8 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays, starting July 2.

Cost is $36 for a card applicable to any 12 sessions, or $24 for any eight sessions between July 1 and Aug. 7. Registration may be made by sending a check or money order to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. 48236.

Assumption Nursery School, 22150 Marter Road in St. Clair Shores, for five afternoons a week from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. The program provides an environment in which the child meets with success while performing tasks at his developmental level.

Further information may be obtained by calling director Norena Bara at 772-4477.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Kennedy, of The Woods, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on May 25, with family and close friends at a reception at Pernie's Lakeshore.

Off to Ohio for AAUW

A delegation of American Association of University Women-Grosse Pointe Branch members, headed by President Peggy Ptasznik and President-Elect Ann Nicholson, leaves this weekend to attend the 33rd Biennial AAUW Convention running Sunday, June 23, through Thursday, June 27, in Columbus, Ohio.

Others who will participate include Mary Leech, Josephine Casgrain, Julie Demchak, Carla Teagan and Sue MacKechnie.

Close to 2,000 delegates, representing the 193,000 members in the United States, are expected to attend the event, during which the new AAUW two-year topic for national study and action, "Women's Work/Women's Worth," will be introduced.

In addition to convention business sessions and elections there will be optional activities, including an Equity Rally celebrating the AAUW's 104 years of work to achieve equality for women, and a Columbus Cultural Evening: a get-acquainted tour of the Center of Science and Industry in downtown Columbus.

On Program Day, convention-goers will have a choice of over 65 workshops dealing with diverse and stimulating issues. Typical titles include "Water for the 21st Century," "Public Education's Crucial Ingredient," "Women in Management," "Aging and Economic Security," "National Museum of Women in the Arts," "An Holistic Approach to Women's Health" and "Cries Against Injustice: The Global Human Rights Crisis."

Two full afternoons will be devoted to workshops teaching leadership skills, designed for AAUW members who wish to work effectively within the organization or in the wider community. Among the topics to be covered are "Media Visibility/Training," "Fundraising: Sources and Strategies," "Managing Time and Stress," "Negotiating Skills, Bargaining for Betterment" and "The Membership Team: You Too Can Play."

The summertime project of AAUW-GP is preparation for its mammoth Annual Used Book Sale, scheduled for Oct. 8 through 13 at Salem Memorial Lutheran Church. Proceeds go to support AAUW national and international fellowships and local scholarships for women.

Woman's Health

Pregnancy and Summer Vacation

By William T. Mixson, M.D., President.

The American College of Obstetrics and Gynecologists Summer, a time of travel and outdoor fun, can be enjoyable during pregnancy if you follow some common sense guidelines.

Before making plans that will take you away from home, check with your doctor to see if he or she has any advice or concerns. The middle of pregnancy — months four through six — is usually the best time to travel because by then your doctor knows how well your pregnancy is progressing. Also, you will have gotten over the minor symptoms of early pregnancy such as nausea and vomiting. Weight gain, fatigue and frequent urination can make traveling uncomfortable later in pregnancy. Keep your comfort in mind when picking how you will travel.

Flying can be a good idea because it takes less time — but whether going by plane, train or bus, sit in an aisle seat so you can easily get up to stretch your legs and use the bathroom. Rest stops every couple of hours are important if you're traveling by car; you'll need to move around to improve your circulation. No matter where you drive in the summer or anytime during your pregnancy, wear your seatbelt (place it under your abdomen and the shoulder harness between your breasts) to reduce the risk of injury to you and your baby in case of an accident.

If going overseas, ask your doctor about any special health risks. Don't take any medications, such as those for motion sickness, allergies or diarrhea, unless your doctor has approved them first.

There's no reason why, just because you're pregnant, you can't enjoy summer activities — with a few exceptions. Waterskiing and scuba diving are best left to the experts because of the danger of a fall or the unknown effects of pressure changes on the fetus during scuba diving. Swimming in calm water, however, is an excellent activity that provides plenty of exercise while supporting your weight. Pregnancy may make your skin more sensitive to the sun, so be sure to wear a sunscreen when you're outside. Drink lots of fluids to avoid dehydration.

Single, free copies of "Travel During Pregnancy" (p-055) are available by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business-size envelope along with the name of the booklet to: The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, Resource Center, 600 Maryland Ave., SW, Washington, DC 20024.

Mix & match in artful style at Fash Bash

Art, fun and fashions are expected to draw almost 3,000 people to the fourth level ballroom of The Westin Hotel in Renaissance Center a week from today, Thursday, June 27. The lure is Fash Bash '85: the 16th annual event sponsored by the Junior Council of the Founders Society Detroit Institute of Arts and Hudson's.

It's a benefit for the museum, of course, and this year the excitement of the DIA Centennial should make the fund raiser especially sparkling.

"Every penny raised at Fash Bash is returned to the community," notes Cara L. Kazanowski, chairman of the party, among whose vice-chairmen is Susan Reck, of The Farms. "Founders Junior Council sponsored Santa at the DIA last year, is helping to purchase an embroidered Korean screen for the museum, helps fund the DIA's Prince Street Players and routinely sponsors art education programs."

Richard A. Cascio, executive vice-president of Hudson's, says Fash Bash reflects "both Hudson's commitment to enriching the cultural community, and our commitment to fashion leadership."

Tax-deductible tickets — $18 per person in advance at the DIA ticket office, Hudson's and all other Ticket World outlets and Nemo's in RenCen; $20 at the door on party night — entitle the holders to an evening that begins at 5 p.m. next Thursday with cocktails and welcome by celebrity guest hosts.

The winner-take-all prize package for Fash Bash '85, set for next Thursday at the Westin Hotel, includes the fox cape modelled above by Grosse Pointe Hadley Mack. Admiring Hadley's elegant outerwear are two fellow Pointers: Susan Reck and Tom Schoenith.

Music, dancing, food and refreshments are available throughout Fash Bash. Hudson's will introduce fall and winter apparel by American designer and 1984 Coty

Award winner Andrew Fezza (men's attire) and French designer Claude Attias (women's collection) at 7 p.m. in a live fashion production that will be simulcast on large screens within the ballroom, so all the 3,000 expected guests may easily view the show.

The emphasis is on "creative coordinating," with paisleys, plaids and other prints mixed and matched to deliver fall's newest message. Crested blazers, ventless suit coats and above-the-knee skirts reflect the Fall '85 Updated Career Look. Knit dressing by Bern Conrad will be paraded for body conscious individuals, along with a wide selection of ski and apres-ski wear.

Fash Bash also features auctions: silent at 6 p.m. and live, conducted by Ernest DuMouchelle of DuMouchelle Galleries, which hosted a Fash Bash preview party in late May, at 8:15 p.m. Partygoers may bid on hundreds of items, valued from $25 to several thousand dollars, including dinners at area restaurants, art work, home furnishings, jewelry, clothing and trips.

At the conclusion of the live auction, the Fash Bash winner-take-all prize package winner will be announced, and will receive a natural shadow fox cape with mink inserts from Dittich Furs, a contemporary diamond necklace from Sidney Krandsall and Sons, dinner for four at Truffles and Hotz Limousine Service for an evening.

Grosse Pointers Lawrence DuMouchelle and Joan DuMouchelle Walker (right) pause at the Fash Bash preview party to chat with Gretchen Snow, Hudson's director of Events and Publicity.

Bugariu; Bishop Gallagher High School seniors Kevin A. Brody, Suzanne M. Coppellie, Laura T. Carroll and Lilith M. Tatham; and Afsaneh Samadani, of Our Lady Star of the Sea High School.

Dr. Annette Rickel, of The Farms, is among eight Wayne State University faculty members who received Career Development Chair Awards for 1985-86. She is an associate professor for psychology at WSU and a community-clinical psychologist whose efforts have been directed toward developing and evaluating preventive mental health programs for pre-school children and their families living in urban environments on minimal incomes. Her current work deals with the psychology of women and therapeutic intervention with children and families.

Pointer Peggy Barrett, a sophomore in Michigan State University's School of Hotel, Restaurant and Institutional Management, is participating in the Residence Internship Training Program, sponsored jointly by MSU and the Residence Inn Company, a nationwide franchisor of all-suite hotels.

Elizabeth Endicott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Endicott, of The Shores, received a Dean's Commendation for the winter quarter at Northwestern University's School of Speech. Students so honored earned at least a grade point average of 3.67.

Among Hope College juniors who were recently inducted into Mortar Board, a national honor society which recognizes students for scholarship, leadership and service, is Ann H. Lootens, of The Shores.

Among local students who have won top honors in the Scholastic Art Awards Program are Grosse Pointe South High School students Jim Dinverno, Hallmark Honor Prize of $100, pencil drawing; Scott Evans, Scholarship, University of Michigan School of Art; Ken Harris, honorable mention, water color; and Kathleen Judge, honorable mention, pencil drawing.

R. Scott Schappe, son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Schappe, of Bedford Road, has accepted a teaching assistantship at the University of Wisconsin — Madison, where he will pursue a Ph.D. in physics following his December, 1984, graduation from the University of Michigan. Schappe was graduated in 1980 from Grosse Pointe South High School.

John T. Van Gelderen, of Hawthorne Road, received a Bachelor of Science, with a major in corrections, from Northern Michigan University at spring commencement ceremonies in May.

Airman Charles D. Scicluna, son of Martha D. Scicluna, of Barrington Road, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force plumbing specialist course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas. The 1984 Grosse Pointe South High School graduate is scheduled to serve at McConnell Air Force Base, Kans.

Donald DeLong, of The Park, was a member of the Wayne State University Law School Moot Court team which finished second among 10 schools in the 1985 Jessup International Law Central Regional Competition held at Notre Dame Law School. DeLong served as briefwriter on the team.

Among students who were named to the Dean's List for the spring quarter at Kalamazoo College are Martha A. Meagher, daughter of Ms. Suzanne C. Meagher, of Nottingham Road;

Alexis Feringa, daughter of Ms. Margaret V. Feringa, of Edgemere Road; Barbara Haug, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Haug, of Bournemouth Circle; Valerie J. Stone, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bradford Stone, of Stephens Road; and Jeffrey V. Tranchida, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Tranchida, of Belle Meade.

Former Pointer Phyllis Ledyard, daughter of Florence Ledyard, of Grosse Pointe, has been honored as one of several outstanding volunteers by the National Society of Fund Raising Executives. Ms. Ledyard has chaired fundraising efforts for the American Cancer Society for the past year as Crusade Chairperson for the American Cancer Society in Michigan.

Susan D. Parke, of Kensington Road, has been selected as one of 12 finalists in the Michigan DeMolay State Sweetheart competition. The finals will be held Aug. 20 at Central Michigan University. Susan was elected the local sweetheart for Acacia DeMolay, which meets at the Grosse Pointe Woods Masonic Temple on Vernier Road. She participates in various school activities at Bishop Gallagher High School, including choir, the school play and homecoming cheer club, and is also active in the Order of Rainbow for Girls.

Among Wayne State University School of Medicine students who received M.D. degrees on June 4 are Pointers Paul T. Adams, Marry Ann Vann, Jeffrey T. Van Gelderen, Mary W. Van Dike, William V. Harry, David R. Cragg, Alfred L. Clavel Jr., James A. Bonner, and James M. Landers.

A selection of recipes from the low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — collection of Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth focusing, this week, on Foods Rich in MAGNESIUM.

Magnesium specialist Bella T. Altura, Ph.D., of the State University of New York's Center in Brooklyn, believes there is a close link between stress, magnesium deficiency and SDHD (Sudden Death Ischemic Heart Disease). Stress causes excessive excretion of magnesium, which is lost in cooking, thrown out in the water ... hence a good, fresh vegetable soup, steam cooking and raw vegetables added to salads are ways to ensure an adequate level of magnesium in the body.

A magnesium-poor meal — as well as one poor in nutrition — would be white bread, a white rice dish, boiled vegetables and canned fruit. You can convert this meal to one that is rich in magnesium and nutrition by using whole grain bread, a brown rice dish, a fresh steamed and a raw vegetable and fresh fruit.

MOLASSES APPLE BREAD

This bread comes near to the aromatic goodness of great-grandmother's dried apple cake: a recipe which has been lost to posterity. Perfect for snacking, for dessert or as a special breakfast treat. Slices may be wrapped in foil and warmed in a 350° oven ... it is so good, and so healthful, that it doesn't need a spread.

2 1/4 cups unbleached flour
1 tsp. baking soda
1/4 tsp. salt
1 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
Dash of cloves
1/3 cup margarine, unsalted
2/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/2 cup Egg Beaters
1/2 cup molasses
2/3 cup skim milk
2 cups diced, peeled apples
1/2 cup chopped English walnuts

Sift together flour, baking soda, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves; set aside. Cream together margarine and sugar; add Egg Beaters which have been beaten until light and lemon-colored; beat well. Add molasses; mix well. Add flour mixture alternately with skim milk, beating well after each addition. Fold in apples and nuts. Turn into greased and floured 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake in preheated 350° oven 1 hour to 1 hour and 15 minutes, or until knife inserted near center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes; remove to wire rack to cool completely. Wrap loaf in foil and store overnight before slicing.

The bread will be quite soft and have a very tender crumb; that is the reason for thoroughly cooling and storing refrigerated overnight before cutting. Makes 20 slices.

Calories per slice with nuts about 142; without nuts 139.

WHEAT GERM LEMON SNACK CAKE

These little cake squares provide valuable nutrients while satisfying a sweet tooth. The lemon-flavored glaze adds a refreshing taste.

1/2 cup margarine
3/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup skim milk
1 egg
1 tsp. vanilla extract
1 tsp. grated lemon peel
2 Tbsp. lemon juice
3/4 cup regular wheat germ
3/4 cup flour
1/3 cup ground almonds
1 tsp. baking powder
Pinch of salt

Melt margarine in large saucepan. Remove from heat; stir in sugar, skim milk, egg, vanilla, lemon peel and juice. In a bowl, combine wheat germ, flour, almonds, baking powder and salt and add to wet ingredients, mixing well. Turn into oiled and floured 8-inch square pan. Bake in preheated 350° oven 30 to 35 minutes, or until cake tests done. Remove from oven and spread immediately with Lemon Glaze. Cool and cut into small squares. Makes 25 small servings.

LEMON GLAZE

1 cup powdered sugar
1/2 tsp. grated lemon peel
2 to 4 tsp. lemon juice

Mix all ingredients until smooth. Spread over cake while warm. Calories per square about 117. Cholesterol about 9 mgs.

Sports Week

By Peggy O'Connor

Before the spring sports season gets too far behind us and before I leave for a well-deserved vacation (my co-workers keep saying "When are you going on vacation, we deserve it") I wanted to give out a few well-deserved sports awards.

The Infield Chatter of the Year Award: To Bishop Gallagher's Mike Downey, second baseman for the Class A champs. Mike's chatter makes Woody Woodpecker sound more like Woody Woodpiker. Whaddyasay, whaddyasay, whaddyasay, Mike?

Best Supporting Chatter: To North All-Everything Dan Koptizke's mom. Nobody, but nobody could yell "c'mon one-niner, c'mon one-nine" like Mrs. K.

The Gloria Vanderbilt Award: To the track coaching staff at South High. In 1984, they lost the North-South dual meet on a technicality when one of the tracksters had on the wrong color shirt. This year, boys' coaches Tom Wise and Al Devine made sure that everybody was perfectly color-coordinated in South's win over the Norsemen.

The Catch-22 Award: To North baseball and football coach Frank Sumner. During the spring season, No. 7 found out that while his North football team would certainly benefit from the NHSA's decision to increase the number of football playoff teams this fall, North's chances of being one of those teams took a blow when yet another Bi-County team — Roseville Braltec — dropped from Class A to Class B. See, the fewer Class B teams on Class A team's schedule the better when it comes to totalling up playoff ratings.

Best Nickname: "Meals," given to North High soccer star Amelia Dugan by her coach, Guido Regelbrugge. Regelbrugge, by the way, finished third in the Best Supporting Chatter category, as anyone who has ever heard him on the sidelines could tell you.

Most Menacing Looking On-Deck Batter: This one's a tie, between South's Rick Waugaman and North's Joe Weidenbach. Give me a blindfold and a cigarette before I throw a pitch to those guys.

Biggest Surprise of the Year: North's girls' softball team. They may not have gotten the attention that rival South High did, but the Lady Norsemen played well this season, beating Roseville in the district finals and forcing East Detroit into extra innings before bowing 3-2 in the championship game.

Silliest Notion of the Season Award: This one's mine, for even thinking about attending the North and South spring hockey tryouts at the Grosse Pointe Community Rink, this week and next. Hockey in the summer? Ridiculous. See you over there.

Biggest Improvement in One Year Award: Has to go to the girls' track team at University Liggett School. Back in 1984, only 15 girls came out for the squad and the focus was on fun. This year, there were 28 girls on the team and they improved the ULS track record to 11-1.

The Look on the Bright Side Award: Virginia Clem can take this one home and put it next to the trophies her son, newly-signed Seattle Mariner farmhand John Clem, has gotten in his years of baseball. She returned home teary-eyed from dropping son John off at the airport for his flight to the Mariners' farm team in Bellingham, Wash., last week, spent a couple of hours thinking about how much she already missed him then remembered that she'd at least gotten her gutters cleaned out while he was home.

Designated Hitters of the Year: To high school athletic department secretaries Andrea, Gloria and Reba at North, South and ULS. They kept their heads and their senses of humor during what had to be the most hectic spring sports season in memory. Take a three-month vacation ladies, you've earned it.

The Now-You-Tell-Me Award: This one goes to me, too. I spent a lot of time this season on the telephone, begging and pleading with local coaches, parents and players to fill me in on the accomplishments of local athletes, since I flunked Mindreading 101 in Journalism School.

Then, a couple of weeks ago, I printed a small request for sports items at the bottom of this column and — voila! — my phone hasn't stopped ringing since.

Think it would work if I put in a small request for a free Mustang convertible?

Speaking of the achievements of local athletes, we've got another one. South softball player Kris Coddens was selected to the first team, All-Region last week. That's just one step below All-State, folks. South, which finished second in the league to the state champion L'Anse Creuse team, placed Coddens, Lynn Vismara, Bev Zuelch, and Sarah Rotta on the All-EML team. Debbie Friedman and Andrea Roesch were South's representatives on the EML's All-Academic team, which means that they managed — very well — to balance their athletic and academic careers at South.

'Last Chance' oldtimers: still a kick or two left

If you're a varsity soccer coach of both boys' and girls' teams in Grosse Pointe, you finish a hectic year and get ready to put your feet up for a bit before the next fall-into-spring year begins all over again, right? Not if you're John Case, David Backhurst or Guido Regelbrugge, the varsity skippers at South, University Liggett and North High.

If you're like those three, you get together a couple of times a week to play in an Over 30 men's soccer league ... for fun. And, somewhere along the way to fun, you manage to score several dozen goals, rack up a 5-1 record and show the over 30 experts how it's done.

"We're having fun, but we're competitive, too," said Case, who organized "Last Chance," the Grosse Pointe squad that plays in the 32-team Michigan United Soccer League's Over 30 East Division. Other Grosse Pointe coaches on the squad are JV coaches Ibrahim Safadi, from North High, Bill Simopolous, from South and Brian Hubbard, from ULS. Local coaches Brian Curtis, Abe VanDerWyngaard and Case's son Richard round out the team.

And sometimes, Last Chance doesn't even have enough players to field a complete team. "We lost one game 4-3 but that was with only 10 men on the field ... so that was almost like a win, really," Case said.

Most of the time, Last Chance plays like it did against Sterling Heights on June 9. Case's squad won that one, 15-0, and Richard Case switched from goal to mid-field at the half, after not seeing much action at all in the first half.

That "star" of that game, as he has been for most of the year, is North's Regelbrugge. Like Case, Regelbrugge was a very fine European soccer player in his youth. Against Sterling Heights, he had six goals by halftime.

"If Guido plays like that at 46, can you imagine him at 18?," Backhurst laughed. Which is probably exactly what Sterling Heights' was thinking about that day, as they watched Regelbrugge weave in and out, past the defense, setting up others and scoring from just about every position imaginable.

"Well, we have fun. That's the way I wanted it when I told John I'd come to play. And I'll keep playing as long as it's fun," Regelbrugge said. "Sure, sometimes I do a little coaching out there, telling a player where to go, what to anticipate ... but mostly we just have fun."

ULS's Backhurst says the playing experience has definitely helped his coaching. "It's made me a better coach because I'm out there doing the things I ask the kids to do and going through what they go through. And it's fun, because I'm a better player now than I was in high school and college."

The second half of that game against Sterling Heights belonged to the "younger" players, with Simopolous and Hubbard doing most of the scoring. It was the kind of game that the spectators — family and friends of the players — enjoyed a lot more than the goals and defenders.

When it was over, Case and his son stayed behind to put away the goal nets and clean up the home field at ULS.

"That's what we do out here. We play for fun, show off a bit and once in a while, things get competitive out there," Case said. "Besides that, we're a pretty good team."

Still winning ...

South High's varsity baseball team hasn't stopped winning since the regular season ended, taking the title in the annual Fraser Baseball Tournament. South beat Farmington, 22-2, behind the three hits and four RBI of Rick Waugaman. Mike Hennessey had two doubles and three RBI and Tom Fellows and Anthony Eugenio each had three-run homers. South won the title with a 19-8 victory over Roseville. Eugenio had another three-run shot, Steve Kinsley drove in four runs and Rob Wood, Sean Bruce and Jason Colegrove each had three RBI. South will open the Connie Mack League season at 1 p.m. this Sunday, June 23, with a doubleheader at Kerby Field. The Blue Devils are, left to right, (front) Mike MacMichael, Rico Cordova, Ted Kolp, Jerry Joliet, Bill Adlhoch, Waugaman, Steve Goodrich; (top) assistant coach Mike Johnson, Rick Leonard, Colegrove, Bruce, Scott Tucker, George Ghazal, Eugenio, coach Dan Griesbaum, Hennessey, Wood, Peter Muer, Kinsley, Jerry Henry and Fellows.

Babe Ruth Bats booming in Park, Farms

The Dodgers hold the top spot in the Park Babe Ruth League's second half standings with a 3-1 record, one-half game ahead of the Braves.

Dave Salkowski tossed a five-hit shutout, fanning four and walking the same number as the Dodgers topped the Woods' Astros, 7-0. Nick Saros had two doubles, Doug Lucas and Mike Paull added one each for the winners. Lucas also had two RBI.

The Dodgers collected 11 hits in beating the Phillies, 11-1. Saros gained the decision, giving up six hits and striking out eight in the first six innings. Paull hit a two-run homer for the Dodgers, while Lucas and Eric Zihlman chipped in with two hits and two RBI apiece. Salkowski and the Phillies' Matt Montagne also had two hits.

Four unearned runs in the seventh inning led to the Farms' Red Sox 5-4 defeat of the Dodgers. Ferit Nazarko had three hits and drove in two runs for the Dodgers; Salkowski had two hits and one RBI. Dale Wilson's bases-loaded double provided the margin of victory for the Sox. Dave Caldwell was the winner and Paull took the loss.

Jason Whelan's three-hit performance gave the Braves a 10-0 verdict over the Farms' Indians. Whelan also aided his own cause with three hits; Jay Verlinden added two hits for the winners.

The Braves let an 8-lead fade away in their 11-10 loss to the Woods' Astros. Eight unearned runs in the fifth inning gave the Braves their first loss of the second half.

In other games, the Phillies edged the Woods' Expos, 9-8; the Padres bowed to the Woods' Cubs, 12-10; the Phillies were beaten by the Farms' Red Sox, 8-1; and the Padres dropped one to the Farms' Indians, 13-8.

In the Farms, the Indians beat the Tigers, 18-3, in a mercy-rule shortened game. Tom Smith had five RBI on a home run and two singles for the Indians. Jamie Pangborn was 2-for-3, scored three runs, had two RBI and a triple. Scott Fleming played well in centerfield and at the plate was 2-for-4, scored three runs and got his second triple of the season. Dan Monahan and Steve McCann drove in two runs each. Adam Franco and Monahan shared the pitching duties. For the Tigers, Blavits reached base three times and tripled once. Rusty Knowles scored two runs and Kevin Nugent reached base in his two at-bats and played well in the field.

On June 15, the Indians outslugged the Padres, 13-8. Mike Henry, Taras Gracy and Andrew Hoag pitched for the Indians. Steve McCann reached base in all four of his at-bats, as did Fleming. Henry upped his team-leading total of walks to 13, and scored two runs to assume the team lead in that category. Hoag was outstanding for the Indians; he also singled. Lightbody had two singles and Ayrault, Streibel and Dietz scored two runs each for the Padres.

Park Majors

CARDS-INDIANS

The performance of Blake Crawford was the story of this game. Crawford went 4-for-4, including three home runs, had seven RBI and made a game-saving stab of a line drive for the final out as the Indians nipped the Cards in extra innings, 7-6. The Cards' Jim Pote (3-for-5) hit a two-run homer to send the game into extra innings. Lance DeBets collected a home run and Don DeSeranno (4-for-5) also homered. Chip Peterson, Chris Holley and Brandon Lulis each had four walks.

CARDS-PIRATES

Pitchers Pote and DeBets combined for 12 strikeouts as the Cards defeated the Pirates, 9-1. Pote, Ed Dorda, Dan Commor and Bill Saylor provided the Cards with key hits. Pat O'Donoghue, DeSeranno, Dan Paull, Ryan McCartney, Commor and Dorda made fine defensive plays. Duncan McMillan hit a home run and Hepler and Bednarchik led the Pirates on defense.

ASTROS-YANKEES

The Astros beat the Park Yankees with seven runs. Bunn and Khoenle pitched for the Astros, who were led by Mathias, Mathews, Khoenle, Henry, LeFebvre and Gandelot. Danny Minado and Jeff Schmidt scored for the Yanks.

Park Minors

MICHIGAN STATE-WISCONSIN

John Prom pitched a strong game with 10 strikeouts in Wisconsin's 6-4 victory over Michigan State. Wortman and Steve Andrew hit home runs. Murphy and Daly added key hits and Bower played excellent defense. Griem also struck out 10 for Michigan State, which got hits from Schoenherr (two doubles), Hermanns, Charlie Lickford and Fritz Coyro.

NOTRE DAME-MICHIGAN

Pat Jarvis pitched a no-hitter for Notre Dame in this 8-0 win. Brian Brenner started for Michigan.

OHIO STATE-NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame took a 12-9 win over Ohio State behind the pitching of Sean Recht. Matt DeBets tripled and Robbie Bacon doubled for Notre Dame. Tim Jogan and Kevin Barnes pitched for Ohio State, which got hits from Jason Kester, Jeff Jogan, Chris Harwick, Joe Wood and Kevin Barnes. Jorgan and Kester pulled off a double play.

OHIO STATE-MICHIGAN STATE

Lickford and Coyro split the pitching duties as Michigan State beat Ohio State, 13-9. Randy Aardema and Lickford both homered and Paul Coyro had four RBI and two hits. Kevin Fitzgerald played well in the field. Hitting for Ohio State were Chris Harwick, Aaron Bookvich, Barnes and Jogan. Gary Severn and Kester pitched for Ohio State.

MICHIGAN-WISCONSIN

Wisconsin beat Michigan, 12-11, as Michigan left the bases loaded in the bottom of the sixth. Chris Hoglund and John Prom pitched for Wisconsin. Hoglund tripled and Andre and Prom doubled for Wisconsin. Michigan pitchers were Scott McCain and Terry Campagna. Mary Meeker had a home run with two RBI. Demian Dreisbach (two) doubled for Michigan. McCain went 4-for-4, including three doubles and a single, and scored four runs. Making fine defensive plays were Everham (two), Donald Leal, Jason Jodway, Nicholas Littell and Richard Spencer for Michigan and Tom Murphy, Alex Doran and Jim Dailey for Wisconsin.

MICHIGAN-OHIO

Michigan edged Ohio, 10-9. Ohio had scored five runs in the first, three on Jogan's triple. Michigan scored twice in the first and twice in the second on a Spencer home run. Leslie Madar batted in one run in the fourth. Everham doubled in one run in the fifth and Dreisbach's triple drove in three more. Brenner pitched for Michigan; Tim Jogan, Barnes and Ron Wood pitched for Ohio State. Everham, Dreisbach, Brenner and Meeker played well on defense for Michigan and Joe Wood, Kester and Harwick did the same for Ohio.

MICHIGAN-NOTRE DAME

Jarvis pitched a no-hitter as Notre Dame defeated Michigan, 11-0, striking out 13 batters. Jarvis also doubled, as did Matt DeBets and Andy Crowley. Brenner and Campagna pitched for Michigan. Leal, Tedesco, Jodway, Paul Sippola and Littell played well for Michigan, as did Recht, Bacon and Brad Kimmel for Notre Dame.

Park Instructional

ARMY-RANGERS

Georgie Massu and Joey Werner homered to lead Army to a 12-4 win over the Rangers. Mike Rubino, John Griffin and Chad Andrus added extra base hits. Mark Campbell pitched well and got help from Matt Edelstein, Amanda Lawrence and Ryan Hathaway on defense. The Rangers' Allen Mederos homered and doubled and Geoff Kimmel cracked two hits. Jake Howlett pitched well and Keith Miller, Tony Cavataio and Brian Everham played well.

AIR FORCE-COAST GUARD

Air Force topped the Coast Guard, 15-4, behind the extra base hits of Corey Schroeder, Chris Milliken and Peter Lech. Kevin Schroeder went 3-for-3. Peter Feldman and Peter Sullivan had hits. Mike Stines doubled for Coast Guard and John Moxey, Billy Summer and Ben Trombley also played well.

RANGERS-NAVY

Mederos drilled a two-run homer in the first inning and also helped pitch the Rangers to an 11-5 win over Navy. Kenny McIntyre and Kimmel scored in every at-bat. Andy Brewer and Howlett pitched well. Navy was led by the hitting of Terry Holusha and the pitching of Jimmy Michaels, Chris Pote and Jamie Whitehead. Ryan Berg, John Solobodowski and Annie Mannion also played well.

MARINES-ARMY

The Marines beat Army, 13-8. Carl Melchior hit a home run and a double and David Barnes, Russel Burch, Tom Choinard, Robert Berger, Bob Yirovec and Ryan McCain had big hits. Justin Braun slugged a homer and a double for Army and teammates Matt Weaver, Chad Andrus and Lawrence had two hits each. Matt Markle, Francois Berube, Matt Debski, Ryan Hathaway, Mike Rubino, Campbell, Edelstein and Werner played well.

COAST GUARD-MARINES

The Marines doubled up the Coast Guard, 12-6. Markle had two doubles and Paul Prentiss, Alan Behler and Edith Berube also had hits. Melchior and Choinard pitched well. Ben Trombley popped a double for Coast Guard. Mike Franzinger did a great job at catcher and Tom Franzinger, Chris Dettmer and David Linne played well.

AIR FORCE-ARMY

Air Force slipped past Army, 2-1, in the first game of "live" pitching this year for both teams. Kevin Schroeder and Chris Hyatt pitched well for Air Force, while Army's Braun struck out nine batters in three innings. Army took a 1-0 lead in the first when Weaver scored on an RBI single by John Griffin. Sarah Brenner and Alex Bieri scored for Air Force in the fifth on a hit by Sullivan and a bases-loaded walk by Schroeder. Matt Mozer, Corey Schroeder, Milliken, Joey Werner, Edelstein and Joey Suski were outstanding.

Farms-City Majors

INDIANS-CARDS

In that 7-6 Indian win over the Park Cardinals, John Jungwirth, Danny Teranes and Mike Bell were the pitchers of record. In addition to Crawford's excellent play (see first game summary) Jo VandeWyngearde and Tom Kolojesi caught fly balls for outs. Peter Bourke and Marty Gulewicz each doubled.

INDIANS-YANKEES

The Indians beat the Yankees, 17-3, behind the pitching of Mark Bonanni, Jungwirth and Teranes. Gulewicz had a home run and two singles, Kolojesi had a double and two singles, as did Mike Bell and Bonanni. Credited with RBI singles were Teranes, Crawford, Bourke, VandeWyngearde, Jungwirth and Strobl. George Petersmarck pitched for the Yankees. Recht had two hits and Josh Christ, Schmidt and Loffredo had singles.

Farms-City AAA

PHOENIX-LOUISVILLE

Phoenix edged league-leading Louisville, 6-5, behind a combination of clutch pitching and fine defense. Beth Weyhing hurled 2 1/2 innings of shutout ball to earn the win. Skye Ho snagged a wicked line drive off the bat of Brandon Farmer to save a run in the sixth. Weyhing led the Phoenix offense with three singles; Scott Cook drove in John Trost with the winning run in the fourth inning. Tim Kazi collected two Phoenix RBI with a third inning triple and Tom Best pitched two innings for the winners. Tim Cassell drove in two Louisville runs with a second inning triple. Dan Grundman had two doubles and Dan Henry and Chris Cassell also doubled. Mark Pincey made a fine running catch.

SAN ANTONIO-HAWAII

Billy Gehrke, Allen Leitch, Matt Meyers and Brian Nottoli combined on a two-hitter to lead Hawaii to a 10-1 victory over San Antonio. Greg Somaek tripled and doubled for Hawaii and Kelly Sanders contributed two hits. Jason Hubbard had a double and Kevin Elliott singled for San Antonio.

LOUISVILLE-RICHMOND

A five-run sixth inning spurred league-leading Louisville to a 15-10 win over Portland. A pair of triples by Brandon Farmer drove in two Louisville runs, while Mark Pinney and Adam Hogan picked up two RBI apiece with key hits. Robby Tiede had three singles for Louisville. Jason Andrews' double and triple drove in two runs for his team and teammate Bryan Clute contributed two hits to the attack.

Farms-City Class C

ROCHESTER-RICHMOND

RBI by Nate Cook and Robbie Joslyn lifted Richmond to a 4-2 win over Rochester. Cook had two hits and John Turnbull and Ben Black had triples and scored one run each. Jonathan Romine smashed two hits for Rochester. Stephen Strehler added a double and Casey Ho and Clayton Busbey contributed singles.

TOLEDO-RICHMOND

Chris Fox, Charlie Janke and T.R. Youngblood each had three hits and scored two runs to lead Richmond to a 17-5 win. Jennifer Bunn collected two Richmond RBI, while Erik Dahlstrom contributed an RBI single. Steve Booher had a three-run triple for Toledo, while Ryan Locke added an RBI triple in the sixth inning. Tofer Ollison and Tim Miller scored for Toledo.

BUFFALO-RICHMOND

Chris Aliff hit a pair of homers to help lift Buffalo to an 8-5 win over Richmond. Cliff Magreta started a five-run first inning Buffalo rally with a double, while Jay and Andrew Ricci contributed key hits. Chris Fox ripped a two-run homer for Richmond. Robbie Joslyn added three hits and Andy Schumacher drove in a fifth-inning Richmond run.

BUFFALO-SYRACUSE

Syracuse outlasted Buffalo, 15-9. Ryan Allard homered and scored three runs to lead the Syracuse attack. Thomas Heasley tripled and Matt Malicki ripped three hits in support of the winners' offense. Jay Ricci drove in four Buffalo runs with a homer and double. Brian Law and Aliff each doubled and singled for Buffalo.

ALBANY-RICHMOND

Three hits by M.J. Morris and a two-run homer by Nick Kallas paced Albany to an 8-2 win. Tim Frendo added two hits and an RBI to the Albany attack; Michael Gerke scored twice. Turnbull's second inning homer with Billy Palazolo on base accounted for the Richmond scores.

TOLEDO-ALBANY

Albany topped Toledo, 11-7. RBI for the game included those by Marco Razzeto, Paul Nichols, David Curry and Ryan Locke.

MIAMI-ERIE

Erie beat Miami, 10-4. Erie's Doug Martin stopped a Miami rally in the fifth when he made a backhanded stab of a shot down the third base line. In the sixth inning, Nino Melchior speared Bill Shepard's bases-loaded liner and turned it into a rally-killing doubleplay. Karl Trost led Erie with a double and two singles; Chris Dely contributed a two-run double. Matt Reynolds slammed an RBI triple for Miami and Jonathan Morgan-Schwartz rapped a double and a single.

ROCHESTER-TOLEDO

Rochester outscored Toledo, 17-3. For the winners, Chris Johnson, Steve Strehler, Elizabeth Bourke, Geoff Prysak and Nathan Kuhl had two singles each; Ian Hall and Jonathan Romine added a hit apiece. Jason Rolka had a double, triple and home run for Rochester. For Toledo, Rocky Bryant had two singles, Razzeto had an RBI, Brian Whelan and Paul Nichols had RBI-singles and Michael Hill, Robby Lloyd, David Curry, Tim Miller and Nicolas Rutan added singles.

ALBANY-COLUMBUS

A seven-run second inning gave Albany a 9-4 win over previously undefeated Columbus. Base hits by Brian Nugent, Nick Kallas, Mike Uznis, Frendo and Brandon Curtis triggered the big Albany inning. Jon Rossman and Joe Cera each connected for two Albany hits. Ryan Messacar drove in two Columbus runs with two hits, while Ian McMillan and Jeff Smythe each picked up an RBI. Brian Beck and Paul Gentile rapped two hits each for Columbus.

COLUMBUS-SYRACUSE

Columbus won, 9-4. Steve Furay, Whitney Holmer, Gentile, Matt Gaimor and Messacar had hits for the winners; Brian Beck scored two runs. Scott Cairo's first inning triple led a three-run Syracuse rally. Ryan Allard, Billy Starrs and Brad Poe had hits for Syracuse.

Firecracker run

The Metro-Macomb Runners will hold their fifth annual Firecracker 10K and mile runs on Wednesday, July 3, at 7:30 p.m. at Selfridge ANG Base. Entry fee is $7.

Further information may be obtained by calling Joe Smetanka at 792-4563.

AYH plans July 4 bike tour

The Metro Detroit Council, American Youth Hostels, will sponsor a "Firecracker 100" bicycle tour on the Fourth of July, starting and ending in the city of Milford. Cost is $10.

Applications may be picked up at the AYH office, 3024 Coolidge, Berkley, or by calling 545-0511.

Athletes in Special Olympics

A delegation of athletes from Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods are back at home now after competing at the 1985 Michigan Special Olympics Summer Games May 30 through June 1. The local participants were among more than 3,000 Special Olympians at the games at Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant.

They are Linda Bogedain, Bobby Bradley, David Brown, Paul Cornelius, Paul Gamble, Kathleen Hardoin, Vince Igoe, Remy Kabore, Kristin Knoblauch, Lisa Kushner, Danny MacDonald, Jeffrey Maci, Jack Mahaney, Susan McManney, David McQueen, Linda Penszynski, James Riddle, Gregory Rosati, William Sivanov, Jennifer Strzempek, Jennifer Urbanek, Philip Werle and Bruce Ziegler. The athletes were accompanied, after local training and competition, to Mount Pleasant by local volunteer coaches Fred

Michalik, Cindy Manetta, Julie Lynch, Sue Walny, Elaine Spina, Mary Ann Gorlitz, Jay Przepiora, Charlie Bay, Alicia Lynch and Lisa Hamilton.

Competitive events included track and field, swimming and bowling. Coaches also took advantage of training clinics and athletes participated in sports exhibitions, recreational and cultural activities.

The Summer Games are part of Michigan Special Olympics' year-round program of physical fitness, athletic training and sports competition.

Animals that run by moving the front and hind legs on one side and then the front and hind legs on the other side alternately include the cat, camel, giraffe and the horse trained as a pacer.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT
Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything and who show me the way to reach my ideal. You who give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen.

Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish, after third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Thank you for favors received. B.G.

FREE BOOKS Looking for romance, so am I. Mr. Romance is now located at the former Mack Ave. book store. Since JAMES (the former proprietor) was getting old before his time and had obviously lost his sense of ROMANCE it seems only appropriate that the store be re-opened as a bookstore selling ONLY romance novels.

The store is open Friday-Saturday-Sunday, 11-5. Please stop in and see the extensive selection of romances at the BEST prices anywhere. All books are 50¢ each, that's right 50¢ each for any book in the place. I need you old romances (in good condition of course) and will buy them or take them in exchange. Come in this weekend!
