Caught in the act

Boy, they're doing some good work catching slob and sleaze-balls over there in the Woods.

Last week I wrote about the coppers catching a slob driver who thought it was pretty funny swerving his car to run over a youngster's expensive radio-controlled model car that was being run in the street. Well lo and behold, they did it again — with the help of an eagle-eyed resident.

According to the Woods police reports, a North High School official was coming home about midnight last week when he noticed three teen boys sitting in a blue Camaro.

The official figured something might be up, so he waited in his car after he pulled into his driveway. Sure enough, the Camaro fired up, jumped the curb with lights off and did a Tiger Paw tap dance across the lawn.

A sharp-eyed neighbor caught the license plate and the Woods police were soon knocking on a North High student's door. The car wasn't there, but the driver was. Sure, he had been out earlier, he said, but only to run to a local pizzeria. No one else had driven the car, honest officers!

After a little more conversation, the lawn job assassin admitted he'd been behind the wheel. Dirt and sod caked on the underside of his car ended any further arguments. Told he would be confronted by the Woods detective bureau, the teen was suddenly very interested in making a sincere effort at restitution.

I wonder what made him see the light?

Now for the sleazeball. They may call it the friendly Free Press, but it's definitely not free, as one St. Clair Shores man found out.

According to the Woods police, the Free Press has been suffering a rash of papers stolen from a box located on the southwest corner of Mack and Brys. So last Sunday, two Free Press circulation supervisors who had received information that this particular box was going to be hit again, stationed themselves a short distance away to wait and see.

They first checked the box at 5 a.m. and noted it contained 15 Sunday papers and no money in the coin box. At 6:30 a.m. a man drove up, put coins in the box, and took six editions. The Free Press supervisors checked the box immediately afterward and found nine papers remaining, and 75 cents in the till.

They followed the man and found him selling the extra papers outside a local church. They asked him to return with them to Mack and Brys to talk things over, but he said he was much too busy to go along. When they flashed their Free Press I.D., he agreed to surrender the extra papers.

The supervisors scopped out his car and found more Free Press Sunday sections on the front seat along with copies of the Detroit News. The supers contacted the Woods cops and said they were going to press charges.

A disappearing act

Their eyes might have been bigger than their stomachs, but not for long. That's John and Christine Kurap, 5 and 8 respectively, heartily digging into a rapidly disappearing foot-long hot dog last Friday during the annual On-the-Hill sidewalk sale. Thousands of persons jammed Kercheval Friday and Saturday seeking the best bargains in town. For John and Christine, that bargain was quickly consumed.

Cottage-Ford hospital merger imminent

By Nancy Parmenter

Discussions of a possible merger between Cottage and Henry Ford hospitals, made public this week, have been going on informally for nearly three years, according to Cottage spokeswoman Kathleen Maslanka.

Finally, the discussion is reaching the decision point. A meeting of the Cottage board of trustees at the end of July could reach an agreement on the proposed merger, Maslanka said.

"At this point, no decision has been made in any way, shape or form," Maslanka said.

What form the getting-together could take is one of the points still under discussion. The two hospitals already have a relationship in the fields of sports medicine and hemodialysis.

"Cottage is a community hospital; Ford is a tertiary care hospital (treating the most complex conditions)," Maslanka said. "We expect that patients from our area who have traditionally used Ford will be attracted (through the proposed association) to Cottage."

Occupancy rates vary from day to day, according to Maslanka, with Ford's rate being somewhat higher than Cottage's. Figures quoted in Crain's Detroit Business show Ford with an average 91 percent occupancy rate and Cottage with an average of 75 percent.

"We hope it would bring more patients to both facilities," Maslanka said.

The merger's effect on patients would be practically nonexistent, she added. It would involve the entirety of both health care corporations; none of Cottage's present facilities would close. She said there would probably be no effect on the joint Cottage-Bon Secours ownership and operation of the recently purchased CAT scanner.

Of immediate interest to the Hill is the merger's effect on the parking plan. Maslanka said further consideration of resubmitting the proposal for the parking structure has been on hold during the intensification of the merger talks.

"As of now, (the merger) has no bearing on the project," she said.

Cottage's application to build a parking structure was denied two weeks ago by the state. The hospital is entitled to make modifications in the proposal and resubmit it, but has not yet decided to do so.

Before news of the Ford merger broke, Don Lamb of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeastern Michigan speculated that Cottage is likely to file an appeal.

"They'll probably try to negotiate something behind closed doors," he said, "but that will take up the rest of the year."

Without major modifications, there would be some question as to whether an appeal would be approved. As the plan stands now, "the need is not demonstrated," Lamb said. "It involves excessive new construction and I think that's the key. It would increase the cost of health care delivery."

The project was expected to cost $30.3 million and would have required the refinancing of the hospital's existing long-term debt, according to a fact sheet distributed by the state public health department in March. Of the $30.3 million, more than $24 million would have been borrowed, according to Lamb.

"We're seeing a lot more elaborate projects than in the past," he said of CHPCSEM's review role. "At today's interest rates, it causes problems. Twenty-four million would approach $60 million by the time you pay it off."

Without the Cottage garage, Hill plans are at a standstill for the moment. Developer Peter Bologna's proposed retail and office building relied on the parking garage to fulfill its parking needs.

"We're waiting to see if (Bologna) can come up with another concept," said Farms Mayor James Dingeman. "We might grant a modest variance — a very, very modest one we would take a serious look at. But I don't think we could give one that would require 100 percent."

Dingeman said that the merchants as well as the city have a responsibility to provide parking. "We already provide a lot of parking," he said, naming the Hill municipal lot, the street parking and the Richard lot. "We have a responsibility to provide some parking, but the merchants also have some responsibility."

Dingeman said the city had not yet received official notification from Cottage of the denial of the application. "A lot depends on what Cottage decides to do," he said. "We will respond as quickly as we can."

North High wins national honors

By Mike Andrzejczyk

North High School was selected last week for national honors in a program to recognize outstanding secondary schools. North was one of three state high schools to win honors.

The high school was among 108 nationwide cited by Secretary of Education William J. Bennett in the U.S. Department of Education's "Excellence in Education" program.

Dr. John Kastran, in his second year as principal at North, will travel to Washington, D.C. in the fall for the ceremony that puts North in the top .5 percent of the nation's secondary schools.

"Of the 40,000 secondary schools in the United States, only 500 qualified for national recognition," Kastran said. "I am most pleased for the entire Grosse Pointe community and particularly delighted for the North community; our parents, students and faculty."

"Even though this recognition is for North High School, we owe a debt of gratitude to our entire district staff, K-12. Our ascent and recognition would not have been realized without the strong foundation all teachers and staff have provided us," he added.

Grosse Pointe becomes one of the few school systems in the nation to have both its high schools honored in the program, school officials said. South was similarly cited in 1983, the first year the awards were made.

North was one of the 19 schools in the state nominated in January for national recognition by State Superintendent of Public Education Phillip Runkel and one of 11 chosen in March as finalists in the program.

National review panels visited each finalist during May and met in Washington earlier this month to make the final decisions of schools to be honored. Seven secondary schools — three high and four middle schools — in the state were chosen this year.

The schools will receive a plaque and flag at the Washington ceremony this fall. During the past two years, President Ronald Reagan has made the presentations at the White House ceremony held to honor the schools.

Outgoing Board of Education trustee Catherine Brierly said she was "elated and delighted" when she learned of North's achievement. "It is a recognition justly deserved," she added.

"I think it shows the caliber of education we offer students when we have a practically new office staff at the school and still qualify for the national honors," Brierly said. There were a number of changes in central office personnel at the end of last school year, she added.

"They really did a super job and I think the community can be justly proud of the high school," Brierly said. "It shows that we are trying to get the best education possible with our tax dollars."

North was the last school built by the system. The school board purchased the 31.7-acre Vanderbush Farm in the Woods for the building at a cost of $927,000.

From inception to completion was four years of higher-than-expected costs and an extra bond issue to cover $3 million in inflation-fueled construction cost not approved by voters in an earlier bond question. The value of the building and equipment is now placed at $13.59 million.

The school opened in September 1968, with 1,969 students. The design of the building incorporated suggestions by teachers and department heads for the amount of space they would need to be effective.

Runkel said 23 Michigan schools have received honors since the secondary school recognition program was started. Five received national awards in 1983 and 11 were honored last year.

Park official gives up seat — for now

By Pat Paholsky

The message from Patricia Forster is don't count her out yet. While she will not seek to retain her seat on the Park council, she said she will be an active working member of the group until November and then she plans to continue her involvement behind the scenes.

"I love this city and I really want to be a part of it," she said.

Her decision not to run for re-election came after she was accepted as a full-time student by the School of Social Work, Wayne State University. With a husband and three children — Julie, 15, Brian, 12, and Andrew, 8, — Forster said she knows her time will be at a premium.

The hours a council member must devote to city matters is more than she would have expected, she said, depending on the issue.

"I think we have an excellent council, very hard-working. This community is lucky to have them. It takes a lot of time and a lot of dedication. I will appreciate them much more now."

The lifelong Grosse Pointe resident (she grew up in Buckingham), said she is gratified by the work done by the Park and Recreation Commission.

"It was one of the things I campaigned for and they've done an excellent job. It's an excellent commission. I'm especially pleased with the small boat park which people with windsurfers and non-motorized boats can use."

She said she is also pleased that "the roads finally got done, although we have more to go."

"I'm very pleased with the city administration. I think our city manager does a very good job. He's involved and creative and stays on top of things."

One example she cites is the upgrading of the business district on Kercheval near the Detroit city limits. All of the exterior work — the awnings, sidewalks and lights — was done by block grant funds and Forster said, "It's become a very viable area."

The beautification of Mack Avenue is also to the city's credit, she added.

Her one regret is that nothing was done to amend the city charter regarding the requirement to hold a primary for local elections.

Patricia Forster

"I wish we would have done away with the primary," she said. "It's an expense for the city and an expense for the candidates."

The Park is the only city in the Grosse Pointes that will have a primary election Aug. 6 for mayoral and council candidates. The top two of three mayoral candidates and top six of seven council hopefuls will then compete in the November general election. The charter requires that if more than two candidates declare for one seat, there must be a primary election.

The most frustrating part of serving in public office is trying to correct false information, Forster said. "It's really aggravating when people are telling you something you know is not true and they choose not to believe you."

The decision-making process, however, is the most enjoyable part of serving on the council, she said. "I really enjoyed being able to steer the city administration into projects the council felt was worthwhile and then seeing it happen."

She is also proud of her involvement with the public safety issue. She served as a council representative with the committee studying consolidation and said, "It was done very well."

Office-seekers abound in Park

There will be plenty of candidates in the Park primary Aug. 6 and interest in the election promises to be high.

Three persons have declared their intention to run for the mayoral position, including the incumbent, Palmer Heenan, who is completing his first two-year term. Other candidates are Mayor Pro Tem John Prost and David Zukowski.

The three council seats will have seven candidates, including two incumbents, Carroll Evola and Mark Valente II, both of whom are finishing their first four-year term. Patricia Forster has decided not to run. The story appears above.

Other candidates are Lee Carlick, John W. Hibbard, Arthur H. Getz, James E. Robson Jr. and Lynn B. Crissman. Rita Bailey, who filed for one of the four-year terms, withdrew from the race.

The city charter requires that a primary election be held when there are more than two candidates for each position. The top two vote-getters in the mayoral race and top six in the council contest will compete in the November election.

There will also be a ballot proposal to amend the charter to eliminate the $1,000 limit now imposed on the administration. The amendment would give council the authority to set a limit. Clerk-Comptroller Nunzio Ortisi said the amendment was proposed to allow for inflation.

Municipal Judge Beverly Grobbel's term expires this November, however, she is unopposed for another four-year term.

Seven in Farms file

Tuesday was the filing deadline in the Farms for candidates for municipal offices in the November election. Five candidates have announced for four council seats and two candidates for one judgeship. City Clerk Richard Solak said.

Filing for the position of part-time municipal judge were Peter O'Rourke and Anthony C. Penta Jr. Municipal Judge Robert Pytell, who has held the position for 18 years, will not run again this year.

Of the four council seats, three are for four years and one is for two years. The top three vote-getters will fill the four-year terms, Solak said.

Two candidates are Farms political newcomers. They are George J. Baer II and John M. Crowley.

Three of the declared candidates are council incumbents. Joseph L. Fromm has served 12 years, Gail Kaess, six years, and Bruce M. Rockwell two years. Nancy Waugaman, a 16-year council veteran, has decided not to run again.

There will not be a primary election for city posts. All candidates will appear on the November ballot.

An uncertain future

... faces this house off Lakeshore Road near Fisher. An agreement to purchase the house, located on a 345 x 870-foot parcel, has been signed by John Blake, it was confirmed by his son, Christopher Blake, Monday. The property, registered to Louis Blau and Anna Ranger, has a state equalized evaluation of $652,656, according to Dennis Foran, assessor for the city of Grosse Pointe. Blake said it was too early to discuss plans for the property. "We haven't presented anything officially to the city at this time and we would like to inform the city first," he said.

Pytell will leave bench after 18 years

After 18 years on the bench in the Farms municipal court, Judge Robert Pytell is calling it quits.

"I'm just not able to take that much time away from my practice," he said. Municipal judges in the Pointes are part time. Pytell has an independent legal practice.

Robert Pytell

When Pytell first sat as municipal judge in the Farms, court met on Wednesday evenings and the caseload was small. "There were times when they'd call me and say, 'Sorry, Judge, don't come in. There aren't any cases,'" he recalled.

Most of the cases in those days were traffic tickets, with the occasional felony thrown in. There were no civil cases, no court clerk, and no need for one, Pytell said.

But civil cases began to proliferate in the suit-happy '70s, and the development first of the breathalyzer and later of the on-the-spot analyzer brought a huge increase in drunk driving charges. The cases immediately escalated from eight to 20 per month.

"That's when I insisted on having a prosecutor," Pytell said. Until then, the police department had been handling the usual prosecutorial duties.

"We're on a par now with cities with full-time judges," he said. "There's a greater degree of lack of concern to obey laws."

By 1984, the Farms court employed two part-time clerks whose time was filled with completing paperwork. The paperwork has now assumed such proportions that the clerks were unable to complete the work from the May drunk driving cases by the date of the June drunk driving court appearances.

"It would be my opinion that we need more court time," Pytell said. The Farms court now meets twice a month.

"I do have some fond memories, too," Pytell said. "I enjoyed working with the city employees and with the police. It was a pleasure. But I can't give them more time, so I just have to stop."

Waugaman to step down

Farms Councilwoman Nancy Waugaman has decided not to run for office again after 16 years.

"I feel I can no longer accomplish the things I want to — I don't have the votes," Waugaman said.

Although the Farms council has accomplished a number of things Waugaman said she is proud of, she also said she is disappointed that her perspective on ordinance enforcement is not shared.

"I think it's important to have automatic enforcement on ordinances without citizen complaint," she said. "I feel strongly that a citizen shouldn't have to make a complaint against another citizen in order to get something done."

Waugaman also favors prohibiting parking on city streets at night, both for the protection of the residents and for practical purposes such as snow removal. She regularly states her concern at council meetings.

Some of her successes as she sees them have been in the development of the Hill district. "I feel very responsible for the Richard lot," she said. "And we've accomplished something on the Hill, but not as fast as I would like it."

Waugaman also feels she was instrumental in upgrading Farms ordinances, in particular the minimum property maintenance ordinance, which requires a certificate of occupancy so that either the owner or the buyer of the house becomes responsible for bringing it up to code. "It has helped preserve our aging community," she said.

Waugaman will be replaced by one of the five candidates for council who met last week's Tuesday filing deadline. There are four council seats up for election.

Policewoman is named officer of year

By Tom Greenwood

Christine Amluxen is one tough cookie. Her fellow Detroit police officers will tell you something else about Amluxen -- they think she's a pretty good police officer.

The International Association of Women Police Officers agrees and recently named her as their police officer of the year. She'll travel to Anchorage this fall to accept her award.

The award has to be the highlight of the year for Amluxen, 38, who was raised in Grosse Pointe and graduated from Grosse Pointe High School. The low point has to be when she was shot and nearly killed in Highland Park by a Jackson Prison parolee in October 1983.

"I was working with my partner in a roving scout car," Amluxen said. "Whatever precinct had an overflow of calls, we'd be sent by the dispatcher to handle the excess. We were constantly on the go. We got a run on a stabbing in Highland Park. While looking for the suspect, a car jumped away from the curb and took off at a high rate of speed.

"We pulled them over and I was talking to the driver," she said. "I had his license and when I told him to get out of the car, he suddenly shoved the door open and jumped out. I had him in a bear hug and he pushed a gun into my stomach and fired. He and his passenger ran. When I was on the ground, I could hear the difference in the sound of their guns as they fired at each other. A .38 and a .357 magnum. My partner shot the driver five times and went after the passenger. I called into the dispatch that I was shot and needed help. Squad cars filled the street in seconds."

Taken to Mount Carmel, Amluxen underwent emergency surgery for the shot that nicked her spine and eventually lodged in her back just below the skin. She'd like to have the bullet, but the Detroit homicide department kept it for evidence.

"Believe it or not, the guy who shot me lived," Amluxen said. "He crawled two blocks away and they found him underneath a bush. We never did find the gun though. A canine unit tracked the passenger and he met with the driver again. We think the gun was passed at that point.

"We searched the car and found another gun that the passenger was sitting on," she added. "The driver has been released on parole just nine days earlier on an armed robbery conviction. He died twice on the table. Ironically, I later discovered that the doctor that saved my life also saved his."

The suspect was convicted of assault with intent to do great bodily harm and also of being a habitual offender and is back at Jackson Prison. "He should be there for a long time," Amluxen said. "We also got his passenger friend. I still had his driver's license when they brought me to the hospital. We tracked him down through that."

Amluxen spent months in a wheelchair and her doctors were convinced she would never walk again. "All the doctors except one," Amluxen said. "Dr. Chris Lee, a classmate from Grosse Pointe High, told everyone I'd walk again and he was right. I'll always be grateful for his help and encouragement."

Another doctor high on Amluxen's list was Grosse Pointe Dr. Maryanne Uznis, who specializes in physical therapy. "She's the best in the world," Amluxen said. "Between them they had me up walking, talking and almost running."

The Detroit Police Department wasn't fully convinced Amluxen could return to duty and offered her a disability retirement which would have amounted to about $26,000 per year. She turned it down.

"I wanted to return to work," she said. "I admit it. I love being a cop."

Amluxen has always wanted to be a police officer. After graduation she attended college for a year before dropping out. She married, had two children and taught horseback riding. She was then hired by Grosse Pointe City as a clerk dispatcher.

"I was the only female there," she said. "I worked with Chief Andy Teethart, a really great guy. I did everything from making coffee to patting down female prisoners. I knew I wanted to be a cop."

The whole time, Amluxen had her application in at the Detroit Police Department. Then in 1974, the city was ordered to increase its number of female officers and Amluxen and 12 other women were off to the academy.

During the next 11 years, she worked with the harbor master, in crime analysis units and with child abuse victims. Along the way she earned 12 departmental commendations and seven citations.

"I'll be back to work full time as soon as I get rid of this thing," she said, tapping a cast on her leg with a cane. "I tripped and broke my ankle when I had to go to court. Can you beat that?"

Current plans have her scheduled to go back to a crime analysis section, but without her old partner.

New Japanese 'Super Pill' Insures Rapid Weight-Loss

No Dieting — Eat All You Want, Pill Does All The Work

BEVERLY HILLS, CA — An exciting new "all natural" weight-loss "Super" Pill developed by the JMA (Japanese Medical Association) has just been approved for distribution in the United States. Reportedly, it can guarantee that you will lose more than a pound a day without dieting, from the very first day until you reach your ideal weight and figure. News of this "Super Pill" is literally sweeping the country. It's called Amitol and there has never been anything quite like it before.

"Flushes Calories Right Out Of Your Body"

What makes Amitol so thrilling and unique is its reported ability to flush calories right out of your body. Amitol is completely safe, it contains no drugs whatsoever. Its ingredients are derived solely from the Konjac root which grows primarily in Northern Japan.

Why the Konjac root? It has been used in Japan for over 1600 years to produce rapid and natural weight-loss! Japanese studies verify that Konjac root actually prevents fat producing calories from being absorbed into your system. They say it does this by surrounding much of the fats, proteins and carbohydrates you have eaten with a protective viscous coating which is then gently flushed out of your system. And according to Japanese research this produces absolutely amazing results.

And who can disagree? Amitol (although brand new to this country) is already being called by many people, "the most exciting weight-loss breakthrough of the century." In fact, everywhere there are reports of easy and fast weight-loss from formerly overweight people (in all walks of life) who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

Company Offers Extraordinary Guarantee

You now can purchase Amitol direct from the North American distributor, and it comes with an extraordinary guarantee.

If you place your order now and then follow the simple instructions for a period of 30 days, you must be completely satisfied with the dramatic visible results or just return the empty container and Dyna Labs will immediately send back your entire purchase price. This guarantee applies regardless of your age or current weight level. What could be better than that! It's just that simple. If you've tried to lose weight before and failed you no longer have an excuse. Amitol is available, it's easy and it works without dieting!

Best of all, ordering Amitol is simple, fast, and reliable! Simply call Dyna Labs Toll Free: (1-800-441-5454) and order with your credit card. If you don't have a credit card Dyna Labs will also accept C.O.D. orders right over the phone! All orders are shipped immediately by UPS, which means no delay and no orders lost in the mail!

$19.95—30 day supply, or $35.95—60 day supply. Operators are standing by and will be glad to take your order. You can order 24 hrs. a day, 7 days a week! Please don't wait to call. You really do deserve to be thin!

Senator confirms stance against capital punishment

The emotional confrontations over a proposed state death penalty on the Senate floor recently didn't change the mind of either senator leading the battle. The vote was 21-13 in favor of maintaining Michigan's 139-year tradition banning the death penalty.

Sen. Kirby Holmes (R-Utica), the sponsor of the resolution, has been fighting for 12 years to introduce the death penalty and still places hope in a petition drive under way around the state. Holmes said he is a "past master" of constituent polling and that both his district and the general Michigan population are heavily in favor of capital punishment. Polls show nearly three-quarters of the state population in favor.

Opponent Sen. John Kelly (D-Detroit) charged Holmes with "pandering to the electorate" in pushing for the death penalty.

"A simple one-line constitutional authorization to engage in killing convicts isn't the right way to frame the issue," Kelly said June 12. He said two weeks ago that the proper way to present the issue to the voters is in the form of a statute specifically governing the sentence's use.

"Everybody can say in their own mind, 'oh, I know when it would apply,' but the way to frame the issue is with a statute," Kelly said. "It's easy to say you're in favor of capital punishment, but my question is under what circumstances?"

Kelly said that he, too, engages in constituent polling, but doesn't consider it an accurate measure because the responses are too few and only highly motivated individuals are likely to return the questionnaires. He said his opposing the death penalty, published in the Grosse Pointe News June 6, had elicited several constituent letters, "All shocked at my position."

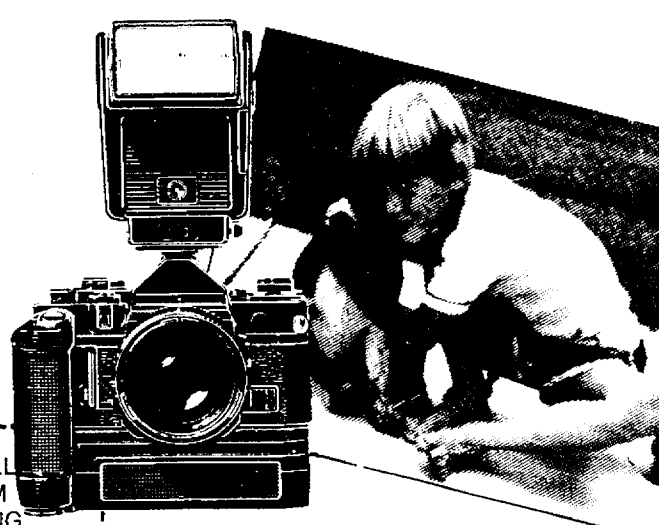

Some legislators say they base most of their votes on their constituents' desires, but not so Kelly.

"I vote on a lot of things that may be against what the majority wants," he said. "I think people want leadership. I base my votes on reason or moral imperative. Otherwise why elect representatives at all? We could just vote by button. It isn't our job to let public opinion polls tell us what to do."

Golf benefit successful

A total of $6,000 in prizes was awarded at the 1985 Bon Secours Invitational Golf Benefit on June 10 at the Lochmoor Golf Club in Grosse Pointe Woods. Proceeds from the event, approximately $28,400, will be used to benefit the Bon Secours Hospital Health and Fitness Center in St. Clair Shores.

The Health and Fitness Center is the first hospital-based wellness facility in the eastern metropolitan area. Since its opening in September 1984, the Center has offered the community exercise and lifestyle programs developed by fitness professionals.

Winners of the golfing competitions were: David Belfore and Jo Meyers, straightest drives; Brother Kevin Gilhooly and Marilyn Meir, closest to the pin. Drawing prizes included a week's rental of a condominium for four on Marco Island, Florida, valued at more than $800. Donald McCain, who lives in Grosse Pointe, held the winning ticket for that prize.

The day began with a morning round of golf, then lunch accompanied by a fashion show sponsored by Miner's of Grosse Pointe and Bayberry Hill of Birmingham. The afternoon round ended with cocktails and music by the strolling quartet, "Just Friends." Guests then sat down to dinner which ended with a presentation of awards to the winners and acknowledgment of the benefit steering committee.

"The benefit was completely successful because of the tremendous support of the business community, the dedication of the committee members, the help of Bon Secours employees, and the enthusiasm of the participants," said Christopher M. Carney, chief executive officer of Bon Secours Hospital.

The steering committee included: W. George Kramer Jr., chairman; Kenneth Adler, co-chairman; Christopher M. Carney, chief executive officer; Archie W. Bedell, M.D., Ph.D., John A. Boll, James A. Pens for Peace winning essays

Editor's note: Recently, the Grosse Pointe branch of the American Association of University Women sponsored a writing contest, Pens for Peace, for seventh- and eighth-graders in the school district.

Students could select one of three topics concerning peace and the essays were judged on creative expression, feelings and emotions, use of research, structure of the essay and basic language skills.

The seventh-grade winner was Courtney Whitehead, 12, of Pierce Middle School. She started her essay with a diamante, a poem shaped like a diamond, something she learned in school.

Courtney said, "I hadn't thought too much about peace before, but when I read the Pens for Peace booklet about the contest and knew I was going to be writing an essay, it made me think about the subject."

The eighth-grade winner was Mara Voorhees, 13, of University Liggett School. She said, "I read Edgar Lee Masters' poem on 'Silence' and it gave me the idea to use different images about peace for my essay. I tried to think of when I felt peaceful with myself."

Following are the winning essays.

Pondering Peace

Peace
Meditative, placid
Loving, caring, pacifying
Armistice, integrity, deceit, bomb
Loathing, fighting, killing
Bloody, corruptible
War

What does peace really mean? What does war really mean? The interpretation can be completely different depending on who you are. For some, peace is a state of being, for others, a state of mind. Either way, peace has an effect on everyone. Maybe a person living in atrocious conditions envisions peace as what we would consider war. For example, in some African countries such as Ethiopia, it wouldn't matter whether they were at war or not; the living conditions would be the same.

I think that peaceful ideas have their beginnings in small groups, such as the family, and are later expressed in school, community and government. The discussion of pacifism and war in my family doesn't usually deal with much more than individual opinions. We do sometimes talk over topics such as Star Wars, President Reagan's nuclear war ideas, but we don't express our feelings through protests or similar actions. We just discuss them at home or with friends or relatives, and suggest alternatives as to how we would solve the problems. This has no effect on world decisions, but it does broaden our family horizons.

The discussion of peace in schools, I think, has decreased since an era such as the sixties, when students were especially concerned about war, probably more so than now. Thus far, in my years of schooling, I haven't had too many class discussions regarding peace. There have been social studies or English essays, and maybe some small talk during current events, but no significant dialogue regarding peace. Actual peace (or lack of it) in my community's school system has been expressed by the behavior of parents and of school board officials. An example of this occurred last year in our school system when there was dissidence over whether to close some of the elementary schools or to move sixth graders into middle school, which had housed grades 7-9 from 1939-1968, 6-8 in 1968-1978, 7-8 in 1973-1983, and now, in 1984, grades 6-8. The parents and the school board couldn't agree on which plan would be the best. They finally negotiated, after many conflicts and compromises, to have the middle school become home to sixth, seventh and eighth grade students.

Our national peace is important to me; I worry about the threat of nuclear war. Some people feel this is something they don't need to think about, but nuclear war is a concern for everyone, everywhere. Even if you aren't the one who, in the end, sets off the missiles, you're still going to be hurt. It doesn't matter who makes the final move, it will be everyone's last.

I think my definition of peace is expressed in my introductory diamante. My feelings on worldly peace are expressed by what Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said, "We must learn to live together as brothers, or perish together as fools."

Peace

Peace? ... Tranquility ... Serenity ...

Peace is everywhere.

It exists in our thoughts, our actions, and our memories.

We strive for it in work, recreation, and everything we attempt.

Before us, others, too, have sought it.

Peace, when realized, is a blessing ...

Peace is agreement among dissenters,

Harmony in a world of discord.

A frail woman in a nursing home hears a red-breasted robin

Singing outside in the springtime sunshine.

Finally, she finds peace in the world,

And the peace in her heart allows her to sing as that robin does.

For love of his country and of life,
General Lee, dressed in splendor,
Surrendered to Grant, who was adorned in rags.

A signed treaty
And a white flag flying in the wind
Showed defeat, humility, and peace.

There is peace between friends,
And peace between foes who have settled their disputes.

There is a peace which timid men possess

Because they are afraid of fighting.

If they do not agree,

They will not speak their mind.

They are afraid to disturb the peace.

Anyone can see when a shy man's soft eyes become frightened eyes.

There is the peace of nature

When nothing destroys it.

A mallard and her ducklings sit on the lake at sunrise.

The water is as smooth as glass,

And the only sound is its gentle lapping.

There is a peace and trust within the very young and innocent —

As a child who has fallen asleep in his mother's arms.

And there is a peace between the young and old.

A girl in pig-tails with her grandfather

Walking together hand in hand.

Hers is small, pink, and smooth

Resting in his rough, wrinkled fingers.

There is a peace which a young girl possesses

After her first kiss —

Which she will remember forever.

There is a peace in true love

And a peace in pure and total agreement.

Patriotism is a peace.

When the last note of the national anthem is sung —

Before the crowds begin to cheer —

There is a moment of peace

Which reminds us of the great country in which we live.

There is a peace in the patter of raindrops falling on the roof.

There is peace in the heat of a summer day.

There is peace in the first snow —

When children try to catch the snowflakes on their tongues

As they come out of church.

And there is peace in the colored leaves

Drifting in the crisp fall air.

Springtime is all peace.

The green grass peeking through the snow,

The unveiling of daffodils,

The delicate buds on the fruit trees,

Even the children's whoops of joy

On the last day of school before vacation.

The peace in a graveyard —

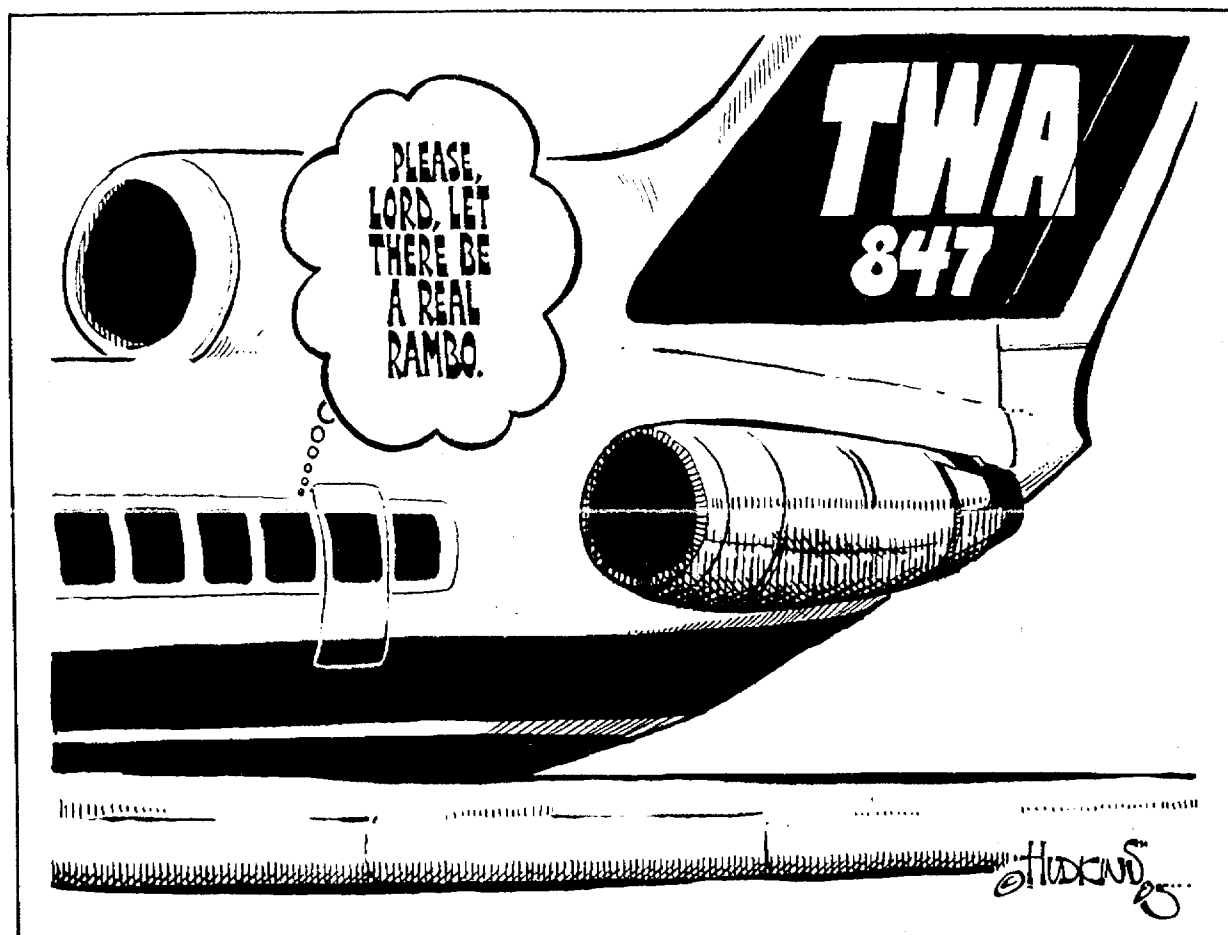

It is caused by serenity of the heart

Of those who are dead.

We, who are alive, may grieve for them,

But the deceased have found their peace of mind.

Experience helps students mature

To the Editor:

Great! Grosse Pointe North has the honor of being a winner, a model school as pointed out by Education Secretary William J. Bennett (June 1985). The fact that Grosse Pointe North can and will continue to provide a highly effective educational program, and that it is honored for such an achievement, certainly should be recognized.

However, too much emphasis is placed on education. A child could go through any educational system, maintain an above average grade point, and still not develop or grow. It's education this or education that. Of course working hard in the classes pays off, but it is not just learning, it's experience that will give the child an opportunity to mature and prosper. The type of experience I'm talking about is that of experience with people, with sports, extracurricular activities, and with the world around us.

Too many kids go through their high school years learning square roots and how to properly write a composition, but somewhere along the line fail to get involved in other activities outside of school. Too many kids do well, educationally, in school, but once they are out of school they find that they have difficulty working with people. And sadly, they realize that by neglecting the development of their individual interests and social graces, and instead focusing on grades, they lost out. Neither one should be stressed more than the other, but instead should work hand in hand to benefit.

The Grosse Pointe Public School System, as well as the private and parochial schools within, have done a fine job of balancing the two, and that's what they should be commended for. More so than most school systems, they, and we the kids, have gotten involved, built spirit, and worked together on inter-community goals. It is this special combination that sends out strong, well-balanced, and soon-to-be-successful high school graduates every June. Not only will these young people become prosperous attorneys, doctors or stockbrokers, but they will have a part in the continual development of their community as well. They will have developed their own interests and social graces and thus provide for a more interesting, active community.

The thanks go to the people in charge of foreign language clubs, sports activities, and the like, as well as the quality teachers and educators. And most significantly, a special thanks to the parents behind the soon-to-be high achievers who have encouraged us to get involved in both extracurricular activities and education, and learning to balance the two. The reward lies in a bright future.

Coast Guard stations preserved

By Dennis Hertel
U.S. Representative

Several weeks ago I hosted a public hearing in Detroit of the Coast Guard Subcommittee of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee regarding the administration's proposal to close or consolidate 13 stations in the Great Lakes. The administration's goal of saving $5 million in operating expenses and eliminating 150 personnel would have resulted in the closure of five Michigan stations and the cutback of one additional station. Two Lake St. Clair stations — one in St. Clair Shores and one on Harsens Island — would have been closed this October leaving the Port Huron and Belle Isle stations with the responsibility of search-and-rescue operations on Lake St. Clair in addition to their current responsibilities.

While Coast Guard officials assured members of Congress that the cutbacks would not result in a serious impairment of Great Lakes search-and-rescue operations, area residents told us what the cuts would really mean to Great Lakes citizens. In testimony at the public hearing, calls and letters to my office and in thousands of petition signatures, the citizens of the Lake St. Clair area related the ways in which the Coast Guard has served them over the years. We heard tales of dramatic rescues and routine safety enforcement which all served to underline the fact that the Coast Guard is needed in the Great Lakes.

With nearly one-third of the 700,000 boat registrations in the state concentrated in southeastern Michigan, the proposed cuts aimed solely at the Great Lakes region seemed unwarranted and inappropriate to anyone aware of the situation. Fortunately, the information gathered from citizens and boating experts helped me and my colleagues to convince the other members of Congress that we should do what we could to save the threatened Coast guard stations in the Great Lakes. The facts and testimony helped to forge a bipartisan coalition of support first within the Merchant Marine Committee and, later, on the House floor.

The solution took the form of an amendment added to a supplemental appropriations bill which came before the House for a vote last week. The amendment earmarks $15 million from the Boat Safety Account of the Aquatic Resources Trust Fund (which was established by the Deficit Reduction Act of 1984) for use by the Coast Guard nationwide. It makes available the $5 million needed to keep the threatened Coast Guard stations open throughout fiscal year 1986. The money will not come from the General Treasury but from this special fund which consists of money derived from that portion of the federal tax on gasoline that is attributable to the purchase of motorboat fuel.

Although the measure must still be approved by the Senate, I am confident that the members of that body will concur with the House, and pass the amendment because it requires no additional appropriation. The measure allocates funds from the Boat Safety Account to be used for one of the best methods of promoting boating safety — preserving the Coast Guard stations which deal with the greatest concentration of boats in the United States.

Passage of this amendment would not have been possible without the help and assistance of so many citizens and officials. In fact, the suggestion to utilize the funds from boating fuel taxes was first presented by one of the experts who testified at the Detroit public hearing. Working with that suggestion, we were able to forge the legislative mechanism needed to keep all of our Great Lakes Coast Guard stations in operation.

I will always be grateful for the help which so many of you provided. You took the time to get involved in this issue and your assistance made a difference.

Park businesses respond to editorial

Editor's note: The following letters were sent to Paul D. McCarthy, publisher of the Pointer, a free circulation paper published monthly. The businesses requested this forum to air their response to an editorial that appeared in the May issue.

To Paul McCarthy:
The Grosse Pointe Real Estate Exchange would like to comment regarding your editorial in the May issue of the Pointer newspaper.

Member firms and sales associates of the Grosse Pointe Real Estate Exchange represent a very significant force in the listing and selling of residential properties throughout the Grosse Pointe communities.

There is absolutely no statistical or substantive basis for your claims regarding prices or demand for housing in Grosse Pointe Park.

At this time there are many sales just completed, as well as pending, where in fact citizens are moving within Grosse Pointe Park.

At this time there are many agents with clients either preferring or, exclusively limiting their purchase options to the City of Grosse Pointe Park.

Let it be made very clear the residential real estate market in Grosse Pointe Park, as well as the entire Grosse Pointe community, is very healthy. Sales are good. Inventory of listed homes is lower than previous years, and the average market time in Grosse Pointe Park is less than several of the other Grosse Pointe communities.

It appears, Mr. McCarthy, that you have a political ax to grind. So be it — why not say so outright. As professionals in the real estate industry the members of the Grosse Pointe Real Estate Exchange object to these unsubstantiated slurs.

In our opinion, responsible journalism should deal in facts. The references to property values and area realtors are anything but factual.

What do you mean "a business district that doesn't exist"? The Park has five business districts — on East Jefferson, Kercheval, Charlevoix and two on Mack Avenue. These business districts support many families. It would seem that the Park members of the Mack Avenue Business Ass'n (of which you are a part) would be offended by your statement.

As to the mayoral election, no one has declared his candidacy yet. Our city manager is not fearful of losing his job. He is well trained,

To Paul McCarthy:
Do you call your May 1985 editorial journalism?

Your blatant editorial about Grosse Pointe Park has made us very angry at you again. For several years you have written derogatory articles about the Park and its administrators. Why do you always have to be so negative? Your editorial is neither hysterical nor scary — it is just plain stupid! It is full of untruths (yes, lies).

Let's take each of your statements one at a time:

It is evident that you are not looking for a home to buy in the Park, because if you were, you would not be able to afford it. The homes are not cheap.

Crime is not any more rampant in the Park than in the other Grosse Pointes. Your tricks with figures are a malicious effort to mislead our citizens.

Why should our municipal judge waste her time giving an interview to someone who writes the way you write?

City government is not at a standstill and never has been. Our city government has always been very hard-working, dedicated and courageous. The elected council debates issues and problems and the majority rules — this is democracy.

The Park has never been without a police chief. At the present time, our chief is temporary, but he is an experienced man with years of service. He knows his job. Committees are formed to ease the burden of our administrators.

What do you mean "a business district that doesn't exist"? The Park has five business districts — on East Jefferson, Kercheval, Charlevoix and two on Mack Avenue. These business districts support many families. It would seem that the Park members of the Mack Avenue Business Ass'n (of which you are a part) would be offended by your statement.

As to the mayoral election, no one has declared his candidacy yet.

Our city manager is not fearful of losing his job. He is well trained, experienced and is doing a great job. His temperament is such that he can work with anyone. He does not have to kowtow to anyone. His job is not political.

With so much crime going on everywhere today, it is only wise and prudent for us to form neighborhood watch groups and do anything we can to make it difficult for the criminals.

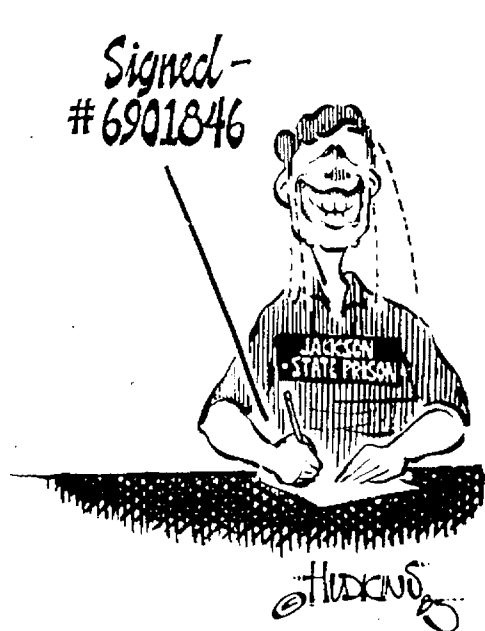

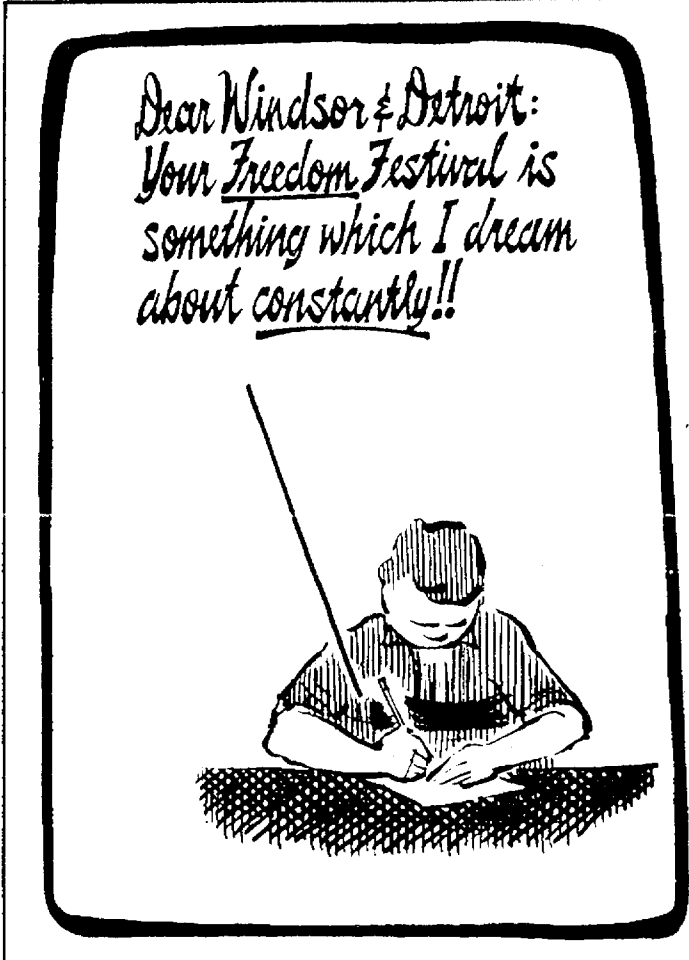

Your last sentence we do not understand. Pay what bill?

The Park, the City, the Farms, the Woods, and the Shores are all Grosse Pointe. We are one — each with a separate city government.

The next time you want to write about the Park, get that chip off your shoulder and write positively. It will make you feel better and us too, because we are alive and well. We love Grosse Pointe Park!

Our lights will be on long after you are gone.

I say

Creeping malaise

I've discovered a new disease; Creeping Malaise.

It's an insidious malady that I hope someday to see enshrined between pique and ennui in Farquar's French Diseases of the Soul.

Creeping Malaise isn't fatal, although its victims take a distinct lack of interest in life around them. Causes are numerous, including rain, Mondays, work and social activities.

Why call it Creeping Malaise? Well, the disease is first marked by a simple, who-cares? attitude. It slowly advances, paralyzing creativity, interest in others and finally strikes down the emotions, one by one. Hence the name.

Why didn't I name it after myself? Could you imagine Andrzejczyk's Disease? Not only would sufferers be saddled with the disease, but they wouldn't be able to tell anyone what they had.

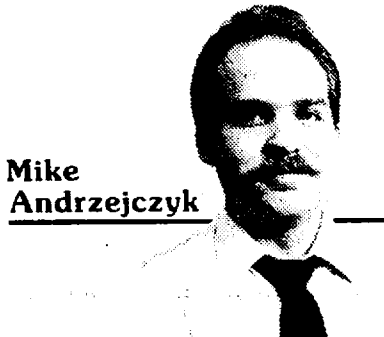

How do you know if you've been stricken? The first symptom, as I said, is you don't care. In fact, if you care to think on it, you remember the last time you cared about something was about six weeks ago. And, you can't remember what it was you cared about.

There are other signs, if you're trying to avoid contact with a sufferer (something you should do at all costs; it's highly contagious!).

Look for slack facial features, punctuated occasionally with furrowed brows, pursed lips or sneers. Also look for hunched shoulders, a loose, shuffling gait and fists jammed into coat or pants pockets.

Most of all, watch the eyes. They are often downcast or partially closed. When a sufferer is walking down a street, past a store window or through a mall, he focuses attention on objects, not people. If you happen to meet those eyes, you'll notice they aren't looking at the outer world.

Meeting the glance of a person with Creeping Malaise isn't easy. The eyes are the windows to the soul and no one likes to show off a sick soul.

There is a variant to the disease. A Creeping Malaise victim will stare out a window, at a car or into space for several minutes. Catch him at it, and he looks right through you, empty-eyed.

Because of the nature of the disease, self-diagnosis isn't always easy. Answer these questions to see if you're a sufferer of Creeping Malaise.

- 1) When you start work, do you:
a) Think about the end of the day?
b) Put everything off until tomorrow and plan to call in sick?
c) Plan your day and get busy?
- 2) When you have a little problem, do you:
a) Blow it out of proportion and blame it on someone else?
b) Ignore it; it's going to happen again, anyway?
c) Solve it with a minimum of fuss?
- 3) You come home from work and your pet dog runs to greet you. Do you:
a) Push him away because there's something you have to do before you pet him.
b) Pet him out of reflex, the way you would flush a toilet, or shut off a light when you leave a room.
c) Cuddle and coo at your adoring pet.
- 4) You're in your car listening to the radio. Do you:
a) Flip from station to station until you hear a song you like?
b) Use the "scan signal" and listen to 10 seconds of every station on the dial?
c) Turn off the radio because it distracts you when you're driving?
- 5) When there's something you absolutely have to do, do you:

- a) Groan and gripe and do a slipshod job?
 - b) Go through the motions with the same feeling you would have while eating a dish of plain warm gelatin?
 - c) Do it quickly, without fuss?
- If you answered (a) to more than three of those questions, you're normal, so don't worry. If you answered (c) to all five of those questions, you're probably a leading cause of Creeping Malaise. Leave the planet immediately.
- If you answered (b) to the five questions, or didn't bother answering them at all because you don't care, you've got a case of Creeping Malaise.
- Still not sure?
- Do you drink cold coffee because you don't feel like getting another cup and don't want to have to make a fresh pot?
- Do you decide to have a single candy and end up eating 18? Then do you feel guilty, so you have three more?
- Do you refuse to shave for days, because you don't trust yourself with a sharp object while you're getting ready for work?
- Did you answer yes to any of these? Well, you've got it.
- The cure? If you find one, tell me. Then again, don't bother. I'll only get it again, so who cares?

Legal fireworks

The Michigan State Police offer some guidelines and precautions to help Fourth of July celebrants have a safe and legal holiday.

The only fireworks that may be sold legally at the retail level and used by the general public are restricted to: toy paper caps, snakes, toy smoke devices, toy trick noise makers, wire sparklers (size #14 or less), flitter sparklers, and both cone and cylinder fountains.

Any other fireworks are illegal for sale and use unless proper permits are obtained from the local governing body. Fireworks which send a projectile into the air, spin, twirl, or emit an audible signal (excluding toy paper caps and trick noise makers) are illegal. Local jurisdictions may have more restrictive ordinances. Contact them for more information.

Many children, and adults as well, are seriously burned or injured each year while playing with fireworks. Fire marshal officers stress that caution should be used and offer several safety precautions:

Make sure fireworks are legal for use by local ordinance and state law.

Check for manufacturer's labels and instructions for use on all fireworks — illegally manufactured fireworks rarely have either.

Carefully follow instructions for use.

Provide adult supervision and don't allow very young children to handle fireworks.

Light only one device at a time; Ignite fireworks outdoors and away from buildings and combustible materials;

Don't attempt to alter or use fireworks in a manner not intended.

Persons having any questions concerning the safety and legality of any fireworks are advised to contact any State Police post or their local police or fire department for assistance.

Sisterly love

In this hurly-burly, fast-lane world, one of the very few things that can be counted on never to change is a sibling relationship. Proof of the eternal dependability of the feeling between sisters was found once again in St. Clair Shores last week when two elderly sisters slugged it out on the median of Lakeshore Road.

Grosse Pointe Shores public safety was summoned to assist at the scene when the two women, 60 and 70, were apparently unable to contain their emotions over the division of a family estate. They pulled their car onto the median strip, got out and settled the disagreement in the time-honored way: with their fists.

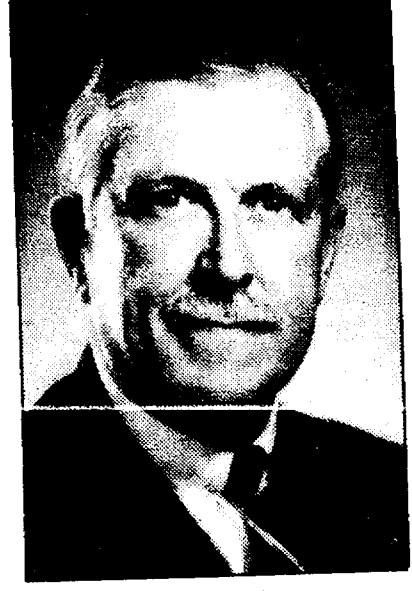

When the Shores police arrived, the women were "covered with cottage cheese among other cuts, bruises, minor cuts (to) noses and lips," according to the police report.

Sisterly feelings run deep. The police were only able to settle it by sending one of the women home in a cab.

Nathan Goodnow dead at 79

Honest, integrity, and style were the words used to describe Nathan Goodnow by his friends and co-workers last week, after learning of the prominent Detroit lawyer's death.

Mr. Goodnow, 79, was senior partner in one of Detroit's most prestigious law firms, Dykema, Gossett, Spencer, Goodnow and of Michigan, University of Detroit Law Alumni Association and the University of Detroit Law Alumni.

He was also a member of the American Bar Association, American Judicature Society, Michigan State Bar Foundation and other national legal associations.

Mr. Goodnow also served as director of many businesses, clubs, and institutions including the President's Lawyers Committee on Civil Rights; Marygrove College; City National Bank of Detroit; Legal Aid Society of Detroit; Abstract and Title Guaranty Co. and Civic Searchlight, Inc.

A prominent figure in the Detroit community, Mr. Goodnow was formerly president of the Detroit Athletic Club, governor of the Country Club of Detroit and director of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce. He was also a member of the Michigan Amateur Sports Hall of Fame in football, rowing and water polo.

Mr. Goodnow was so admired by his classmates at the University of Detroit that they elected him class president for four consecutive years.

Mr. Goodnow died at his Farms home Thursday, June 20, after a long illness. A memorial service was held June 22 at St. Paul's Catholic Church.

Mr. Goodnow is survived by his wife, Ronald; a daughter, Judith Prus; and a son, Daniel.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Capuchin Soup Kitchen, 1760 Mount Elliott, Detroit 48207.

Rash of B&Es reported in Farms

The Farms was hit by a rash of apparently unrelated breaking and entering episodes one night last week. During the night of June 21-22, a garage, a business and the city recreation center were broken into.

The Insurance Center of Michigan on Mack Avenue was entered sometime between the close of business on Friday and opening on Saturday morning. One or more people broke the plate glass window in the entry door of the business, reached inside and unlocked the deadbolt, police said.

All of the offices in the suite were apparently entered. From the front offices, the thieves took an IBM personal computer, an NCR printer and a small hand-held computer. The equipment was worth an estimated $8,000 according to the police report.

A detached garage on Manor was broken into sometime after midnight. The burglar used bolt cutters to cut the quarter-inch tempered glass of a brass padlock.

Stolen were a snow thrower, two 10-speed bikes, a chainsaw and other tools worth a total of approximately $1,200. Neither the resident nor the neighbors saw or heard anything unusual, according to the report.

An amplifier was taken from the office of the recreation building at Pier Park the same night. Police gave no estimate of the value of the item, but said they lifted seven clear fingerprints.

Farms detectives are working on the three cases.

Wayburn home firebombed

Two Molotov cocktails were hurled early Friday morning, June 21, against the back porch of a Wayburn Road home in the Park.

Park firefighters responded to the firebombing at 12:53 a.m., according to reports. The fire was out when they arrived. The homeowners, home at the time of the attack summoned the fire department while a neighbor extinguished the blaze with a garden hose.

Firefighters removed aluminum siding at the rear of the home to make sure there was no hidden burning, reports said.

The incendiaries were hurled from the alley behind the home, Fire Chief Phillip Costa said. It appears gasoline was used in the cocktails, but arson investigators have yet to confirm that.

The attack is the latest in a series of maliciously set blazes in the city, which in the past months have been confined to trash containers in alleys. At least a half-dozen such fires have been set in the past couple months, Costa said.

Two trash fires were reported on Father's Day. The first, reported at 3 p.m., was at Maryland and Hampton, where a city dumpster had been accidentally set ablaze by a group of children. The second fire was reported in the alley behind a Lakepointe home. The fire was extinguished without incident.

The Sunday before, a trash fire was deliberately set at the rear of Mike Maher Chevrolet dealership's storage building. The trash, piled against two wooden double-doors covered with plywood, was found burning when Park firefighters responded to the call.

The blaze was extinguished before it had a chance to work its way into the building, reports said. The plywood was ignited in the fire, however.

Almost all of the trash fires in alleys have been maliciously set, Costa said. The danger is that the plastic containers which the city uses for rubbish collection are flammable, so blazes that begin in the dumpsters may spread to adjoining structures when the containers burn.

Italian language students visit Italy

Instead of heading to Florida this past Easter vacation, a group of second- and third-year Italian students from North High went to Italy with their teacher and a few parents. It was the first time a trip of this nature was organized and taken, according to Italian language teacher Teresa Taranta.

The 10 students, accompanied by five adults, flew from Detroit to Boston to Zurich to Milan. They traveled to Venice, Florence and Rome during the seven days they were in Europe.

The trip was organized through the American Council for International Studies which arranged for the local group to meet with another group of 36 students from Brooklyn. Together they toured by bus and took side trips to Ravenna and Assisi.

Ann Barbieri, president of the North Italian Club, said the purpose of the trip was both educational and pleasure.

"I liked Venice the best," she said. "It was just a different atmosphere. No cars. You read the history, but when you're there, you can't believe it."

Fred DeGrandis said he found the Italian lifestyle appealing. "I like the way they live," he said. "It's kind of laid-back and they have a nice, relaxing way of life. They stop at noon and go back to work at four."

Paper honored

A first class honor rating was recently awarded to North Pointe, the student newspaper of Grosse Pointe High School, by the National Scholastic Press Association at the University of Minnesota.

"North Pointe continues to be a vital, interesting and pertinent newspaper," a judge noted. "The staff works hard to ensure timeliness and accuracy. Readers get a good look at the campus in each issue."

Scott Hess, Jennifer Mager and Raoul Rayos served as editors-in-chief; Cathy Burns as news editor; Scott Hess as opinion editor; and Kathy Bakeman and Christina Cramer as assistants; Jennifer Mager as feature editor; and Kathy Bakeman and Christina Cramer as assistants; Richard Markel as sports editor; John Serwach as business manager, layout editor and circulation manager; Julie Emrick as exchange editor and assistant circulation manager; Mike Jay as assistant circulation manager; and Jay Gaskin and Julie Emrick as photographic editors.

Rite of Passage

Fifth-graders Danny Commer and Dana Bell say good-bye to their elementary principal Robert Shover, left, and hello to their new principal Donald Bassett. For fifth-graders throughout the system last week, there were ceremonies to celebrate their passage to middle school. The mortarboards the students are wearing come from South, which was also holding ceremonies Thursday. North students attended outdoor graduation ceremonies Wednesday, so their mortarboards were unavailable.

Sparling awarded scholarship

Robert Sparling, son of Robert and Louis Sparling of Lakepointe, has been awarded the Beta Xi chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Scholarship.

A June graduate of South High School, Sparling, who was the top 5 percent of his class, will attend the University of Michigan's College of Engineering this fall.

Sparling has been active in South's Marching, Jazz and Symphony bands and the National Honor Society, where he worked on the Red Cross Blood Drive, the Toga Dance and has tutored other high school students. He has also played softball at the Neighborhood Club.

While his interests are in science and mathematics, Sparling has been a capable student in the Advanced Placement Language and Composition class where he exhibited a facility for language.

Beta Xi's $500 scholarship alternates each year between North and South. "There are so many qualified candidates, we just wish we could raise more money to help more students who are going to college," said Susan Reames, scholarship chairperson.

Delta Kappa Gamma is an international honorary woman educators society whose work focuses on educational interests and concerns. The international society provides scholarships for advanced degrees for women in education.

Village shoreline flap spurs lawsuit

By Mike Andrzejczyk

After three meetings and hours of discussion, Shores trustees Tuesday, June 18, approved the filing of an application with the state by three shoreline residents seeking a deed for property that has developed beyond their breakwalls.

The village council voted unanimously to approve the filing of the application of residents Robert Roney, Dr. Robert Songe and Bernard Mullins, which will go to the state Department of Natural Resources.

The application is part of a process by which the three will gain deed for the property that has formed through accretion.

The state may grant a certificate of location for the accreted property, so the property owners may proceed in obtaining recordable title and deed to the accretion.

Accretion has been caused by prevailing currents that have piled sand and silt against the north face of a piece of property jutting into the lake. The owners have riparian rights over that property to the water's edge and those rights expand and recede depending on the water level, Roney said.

The process of gaining the state's recognition for the accretion is set forth in the Great Lakes Submerged Land Act. Under the provision of the act, those applying for the deed to the property need the approval of the local municipality to file the application.

The application has spawned a lawsuit filed by Ralph Wilson, Roney's neighbor, and concern by the council that accretion will become a growing problem in coming years for Shores residents on the lake between the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club and Gaukler Point.

During the three monthly meetings at which it has been discussed, trustees have heard from a representative of the DNR talking about accretion and numerous attorneys from both sides involved in the case.

Roney, Mullins and Songe came to the council in January seeking approval of the filing of the application. The three said health and esthetic reasons prompted their action to seek deed to the eyesore that had been developing behind their properties for a number of years.

Stagnant water has been trapped in the center of the sandy property, becoming a breeding place for insects. The collected water also makes maintenance of the property difficult, Roney said.

The three residents will file two applications, the first one to get permission to fill in the property and the second for the certificate of location, Roney said. The council in January approved their request for filing the application.

Wilson filed suit in Wayne County Circuit Court over the application in February and also asked the council to review the matter, which it took up in April, May and June.

Richard Hinks, representing Wilson and his insurance company, said the lawsuit is over ownership of the accreted land, whether or not the property is because of accretion, line-of-sights rights and uses for which the accreted property may be used.

At the May meeting of the trustees, Morgens Nielsen from the DNR said the state will determine the nature of the accreted property that is now above the mean high water mark, described as three feet above the chart datum for the lake.

Nielsen said "there's no question the land is accreted." He added he has visited the site a number of times. Also, the lake is at the highest level in history, so it is unlikely the emerging property is caused by receding water, he added.

Landowners have rights over the property to the high water mark and the property's use falls under the control of the municipality's zoning ordinances, he added.

At the May meeting, trustee Edmund Brady Jr. asked that the matter be split into two separate issues, the filling of the property and the acquisition of recognition from the state.

He also asked that the three residents seeking the deed return to the council in June with a copy of the application they planned to file, so the council could try to mediate the dispute.

The council in May granted the residents' request to file the application to pump and fill the property with the residents meeting all requirements set by law.

The council approved the filing of Residents protest parking lot use

City attorney Richard Hinks transmitted a petition to the council June 17 from 33 residents protesting the use of the former Verbrugge lot on St. Clair Avenue as a parking lot by Ram's Horn Restaurant employees.

Hinks said that no action would be needed by the council since the lot reverts back to residential zoning July 1, under the terms of a 1977 circuit court judgment.

Residents at the council meeting complained of noise and lights in the pre-dawn hours.

The property, described as Lot 61, except the north 40 feet, was the subject of litigation between the City and Cyril and Helen Verbrugge in Wayne County Circuit Court in 1977. At that time Circuit Court Judge George T. Martin allowed the property to be used for parking for an eight-year period terminating July 1, 1985.

Hinks said the City Police Department has been informed of the impending change and will keep the property under observation for violations.

Monday is it

Monday is B-Day. That stands for buckle up, since July 1 is the day the safety belt law goes in effect.

The law requires drivers and front seat passengers to fasten their seat belts or face a $10 fine until Dec. 31. After that, the fine increases to $25.

No points will be added to the records of violators and motorists will not be stopped for seat belt violations. They will be cited, however, if they are stopped for other reasons and are not wearing seat belts.

Exemptions to the law include vehicles manufactured before 1965; buses; mopeds; motorcycles; physical/medical exemptions; commercial vehicles/U.S. Postal Service; rural postal carriers, school bus passengers; and vehicles not required to have safety belts under federal law.

Those who are physically exempt must have in their possession written verification from a physician that they are unable to wear a safety belt for physical or medical reasons.

Drivers are responsible for themselves and front seat passengers under the age of 16. Those over 16 will receive a citation if they do not comply with the law.

Michigan is the fifth state to adopt a safety belt law. Statistics show that if 70 percent of the state's motorists wore safety belts, about 300 lives could be saved.

Village begins ordinance update

A Tallahassee, Fla. company will help the Shores review, revise and organize its village ordinances.

Shores trustees Tuesday, June 18, decided to pay Municipal Code Corp. $8,000 for the two-year project of reviewing the village's ordinances and publishing them in a single booklet.

The Shores will send the company all of its present ordinances, which Municipal Code will then review to make sure they comply with state and federal law, according to village Superintendent Michael Kenyon.

Company representatives will also meet with village counsel if they find ordinances that don't comply to help officials draft a revised ordinance, Kenyon said. The final documents will then be compiled in a single booklet, which the council can then pass as a single document, instead of having to adopt each ordinance separately, he added.

The same company did the Park's ordinance update, Kenyon said.

Concert will feature early jazz and blues

Pianist James Dapogny and traditional jazz and blues singer Carol Leigh will join forces at the second concert of the Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival series at the War Memorial Monday, July 1. Their cabaret-style evening in the ballroom will begin at 8 p.m. Tickets are $9.50 each.

Their musical review will include selections from early jazz and blues, Tin Pan Alley jazz, vaudeville, depression-era escapism, classics from the 1920s and '30s, from The Cotton Club, and from the movie "Top Hat."

Dapogny is an arranger as well as a pianist who has a doctorate in musical arts composition and is associate professor of music at the U-M School of Music. He is the author of many biographical articles for "Groves Dictionary of Music and Musicians," and of "Jelly Roll Morton: The Collected Piano Music," a landmark edition of a jazz musician's work.

Leigh can best be described by a critic's quote from the "St. Louis Globe-Democrat": "Carol Leigh, after her first song, had the audience transformed from a sedate group of aficionados to a foot-stomping, cheering mob. She performed like a 1920s torch singer ... strutted across the stage and vamped it up ... Leigh has made several recordings, including two with Dapogny. Further cooperative efforts are in the works.

This year the Summer Music Festival committee is offering a special "Festival Fling" package for those who want to get the most flexibility in their summer entertainment choices, and want to get the most for their money.

Residents can buy eight reserved seat tickets to the concerts of their choice for only $60. They may use all eight tickets for one of the six remaining concerts, or split them up for use on several different dates.

Specific tickets may be requested when the order is placed, or by phone at a later date. Tickets to individual concerts are based on availability and are not refundable or exchangeable.

Upcoming concerts on successive Monday evenings are David Strickland, piano competition winner in recital July 8; the Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band, outdoors, July 15; the New World String Quartet July 22; the Johnny Knorr Orchestra and the Big Band Sound, outdoors, July 29; and the Grosse Pointe Symphony Pops, conducted lakeside by Felix Resnick August 5.

For additional information on any of the concerts, call 881-7511.

LOW BACK PAIN

The most common cause of acute and chronic low back pain is due to subluxation of the spine. Subluxation is abnormal movement and alignment of the spinal vertebrae (bones) which eventually causes nerve pressure on spinal nerves. The most common causes are long forgotten falls, bumps, or other accidents which over a period of time disturb the normal mechanical movement of the spine. The majority of low back problems develop over a period of months or years. Many times a simple movement such as taking the leaves can cause severe low back pain. This happens because the spine is not functioning properly and is susceptible to injury. The doctor of chiropractic is a specialist in diagnosing and treating low back pain. Don't delay treatment when help is readily available.

Brought to you as a community service by Dr. David Jantz. If you have any further questions call or write the clinic, Grosse Pointe Woods Chiropractic Clinic, 20217 Mack, G.P.W., phone 881-7677. All insurances accepted.

Take common sense to fireworks

Going to the fireworks Sunday night at Parcels Middle School?

While you're getting the kids dressed properly, folding the blanket and lawn chairs, packing the picnic basket and filling the cooler, remember to pack two common things: courtesy and sense.

And leave the bottle of red wine, hibachi and sparklers at home, officials say.

The Woods is donating police, fire and emergency medical service for the display and preceding concert that will take place at the school beginning about 8:15 p.m. Sunday at the school, on the corner of Mack and Vernier. Last year, the event drew between 4,000 and 8,000 people, depending on whose estimate is used.

With that past experience, those planning to drive to the fireworks should get an early start and leave themselves time at the end of the display for returning home.

Woods Public Safety Director Jack Patterson has a couple suggestions for those attending the display and looking for parking spots. Keep in legal spaces and don't park in fire routes, in front of hydrants, block driveways or stop next to yellow curbs if you're parking on a residential street.

Residents on surrounding streets of the school may consider putting their cars in the driveways when possible to open up more space along the streets, Patterson adds.

For their part, those who park on side streets can show their appreciation to residents by not littering on the way to and from the display. They can also keep to the sidewalks and ask permission before they park on private property, he says.

There are a number of municipal lots in a six-block radius of the school that can be used during the evening. And because it's Sunday, there's no need to feed the meters.

There are two parking lots you will not be able to use; the two Parcels lots. Those will be reserved for orchestra members, special guests and official use. Also, Sunningdale will be closed to traffic from Vernier to Lochmoor that evening.

When looking for a place to sit, ignore the medians. Woods public safety officers and auxiliaries will be on hand about an hour before the display to route watchers to proper relaxing sites. The school's playfield will be open for seating, so the watchers can get a bit closer to the symphony before the fireworks.

You should leave the barbecue and alcoholic beverages behind, however. School officials note that consumption of alcohol is prohibited on school premises, while the use of small barbecues can pose a hazard to other people enjoying the fireworks.

Since the fireworks and concert are meant to be something the entire family can enjoy, there will be a number of children in the audience. Parents should refrain from letting their kids join in the festivities by supplying them with fireworks or sparklers, police said.

The National Society to Prevent Blindness says that last year, 9,857 people were injured and required emergency room treatment in fireworks-related incidents, a sharp increase from the year before. About 12 percent of those injuries involved the eyes, the society says.

While bottle rockets were the major maimer last year, the society notes that a blinding burn can occur if a sparkler makes contact with an eye.

Officers will be circulating throughout the crowd that evening to make sure that the family atmosphere isn't marred, Patterson says. Users of unauthorized fireworks may find their evenings cut short, with possible arrest or a fine for violating the city ordinance against the unauthorized use of fireworks.

City water rates to increase

By Michael McConnell

The Grosse Pointe City Council voted June 17 to increase the combined water-sewage disposal rate by 2.6 percent.

The increase, effective July 1, is in anticipation of a cost increase by the Farms which supplies water to the city. Thomas Kressbach, city manager, also reported that the city has experienced an increase in labor, supply and material costs and contracted repairs.

City residents will pay 40 cents more per 1,000 cubic feet of water from the present rate of $15.50 to the new rate of $15.90. Based on an average quarterly billing of 4,000 cubic feet of water at $62, the increase would mean residents will pay $63.60 or 2 cents more per day.

The rate increase will appear on residents' bills Sept. 30.

Kressbach said it would be best to institute the increase now instead of retroactively so residents could adjust their water usage for the area are asked to use trash cans for their refuse. Because of the numbers of people who will be taking to their cars and heading for major streets, a little extra patience and caution are urged.

For those few who won't be attending the fireworks but will still need to get around, they should be warned that Mack and Vernier are going to be crowded before, during and after the display.

Finding an alternative route around Mack and Vernier is urged. Use Harper or Lakeshore for north-south travel or try Nine Mile or Moross for east-west trips. Using side streets is another alternative, but drivers should remember that speed limits there are 25 miles an hour.

Those few who don't attend the Mack Avenue USA display are missing something. The St. Clair Shores Symphony will be led by James Hohmeyer, Woods resident and conductor of the Rochester Symphony, through three sets of classical, popular and patriotic tunes.

Before the beginning of the concert and during the intermissions, master of ceremonies Gene Taylor will fill in with introductions of local officials, celebrities and some other crowd-pleasing tactics.

If foul weather cancels the fireworks Sunday, the rain day is Wednesday, July 3.

the summer accordingly.

Officials for the Woods, Park and Shores said they do not foresee any increases in their water rates for this year.

Carrol Lock, city comptroller for the Farms, said there have been increases in electrical and labor costs. The Farms city council won't discuss water rates until its July 22 meeting. "If there is an increase," said Lock, "I suspect that it would be relatively minor."

The City along with the Farms and Woods last increased their water rates on July 1, 1984. The Park hasn't adjusted its rates since 1983 and the Shores since 1982.

As of July 1, residents will pay an average of 70 cents per day for water, Kressbach advised council members. By comparison, Farms residents pay 67 cents per day; Park residents, 87 cents; Woods residents, 86 cents; and Shores residents, 74 cents.

School board enacts pay plan

ment, 6; directors of libraries, business affairs and community education, 5; high school assistant principals, administrative assistant in athletics, and assistant director of personnel and support services, 4; middle school principals, 3; and personnel assistant, grade 1. Grade 2 is an empty category.

The firm then surveyed districts that were considered competitive with Grosse Pointe in size, location and per-pupil expense, Schaffarzick said. Those districts include Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills in Michigan, Greenwich, Conn., Shaker Heights, Ohio, and Whitefish Bay, Wis.

From the responses, Towers Perin developed salaries and added a 40 percent range from minimum to maximum to allow flexibility and progression along the pay scale, Schaffarzick said.

After increasing salaries 4 percent on paper, the firm put administrators into their new grade levels to see where they would fall on the pay scales, Schaffarzick said. More than half were found to be making more than the mid-range of the pay levels, a third were in the top quarter of the salary range and one was making slightly more than the maximum in grade 6, for elementary school principals and the research and development director.

No administrator was below the minimum range for the grade level and none were in the lowest quarter of the pay scale, according to the study. Only three of the 31 earned salaries below the midpoints for their grade levels, the study said.

The administration should make its pay recommendations on a percentage basis this year, then apply the study's performance pay formula in coming years, Schaffarzick said. Administrators found to be over the maximum for the pay grades can get the maximum pay and be given a one-time bonus that isn't part of the base salary and won't be figured in retirement benefits, he added.

The grade levels are flexible enough to allow the district to add new positions into the scale after review by the personnel director and approval of the superintendent, the report said.

The director of support services, a position vacant since the retirement of Benjamin Zenn last year, isn't in the current grade level because the district has eliminated that position, Whritner said. It may be added later if the district decided to fill it, he added.

Next month, Whritner will have recommendations for salary increases for administrators. There are certain inequities in pay scale that will be taken care of then, he added.

There is a feeling at certain administrative levels that salaries doesn't fairly represent the duties performed, Whritner said. Those inequities will have to be addressed individually in the salary adjustments in July, he added.

The firm recommended performance increases with five ratings. A satisfactory rating will mean a salary increase equal to the percentage the pay scale will be shifted annually based on salary studies for other districts, Schaffarzick said.

For next year, the surveyed districts plan to increase administrative salaries by 6.4 percent. An administrator with a satisfactory rating should get a 6.4 percent increase. An administrator graded outstanding could receive double that, while a poor performance could warrant no increase, Schaffarzick said.

Every five years, the district should perform a detailed survey to make sure the scales remain competitive.

Board members expressed approval of the plan. Residents who questioned Schaffarzick were skeptical about the choice of competitive districts, however.

187th Airborne seeks members

The 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team Association is actively seeking former members of the regiment who served any time during World War II, Korea, Vietnam or the present.

Members of any of the battalions and attached units, either when the regiment was a glider infantry regiment, a parachute infantry regiment, an airborne regimental combat team, designated air assault, or its present configuration as an infantry regiment are invited to participate in association membership and activities. This is the only airborne infantry regiment whose qualified members are authorized to wear glider wings, parachute wings or helicopter assault wings.

The association publishes a quarterly newsletter, "The Rakka-san," and holds annual reunions in different parts of the country.

For further information, contact Dr. Donald A. Parks, Director of Recruitment, P.O. Box 1406, Carefree, Arizona 85377, or call 602-488-3995.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

She hopes to hone her gardening skills at her Park home, and become a Master Gardener. She's toured China and India, England and Egypt; she plans more travel. She means to pursue a wide range of outside interests — principally art, which is her first love. She works in all art media: oil painting and watercolors, sculpture, photography and the fashioning of jewelry. She plans to teach some art classes.

Her husband, Edward Allardice, director of Well-Being Service for Aging, plans to see her more often. So do their three children and two grandchildren, who live on the East Coast.

But Margheritta S. Allardice — Mickey to her many, many friends — who retired this month after 21 years as executive director of Adult Service Centers, Inc., will never abandon her interest in the elderly.

She will miss "working with our fellow human beings who, with our help, struggle to overcome tremendous problems." She admits to being "awed at all I have learned." She experiences "great humility when I realize how much more there is to know."

She is proud of all she and Adult Service Centers have accomplished together during her 21 years as executive director. "I leave you," she told ASC, "with a legacy of uncompleted and new ideas and tasks, secure in the knowledge that they couldn't be in better hands."

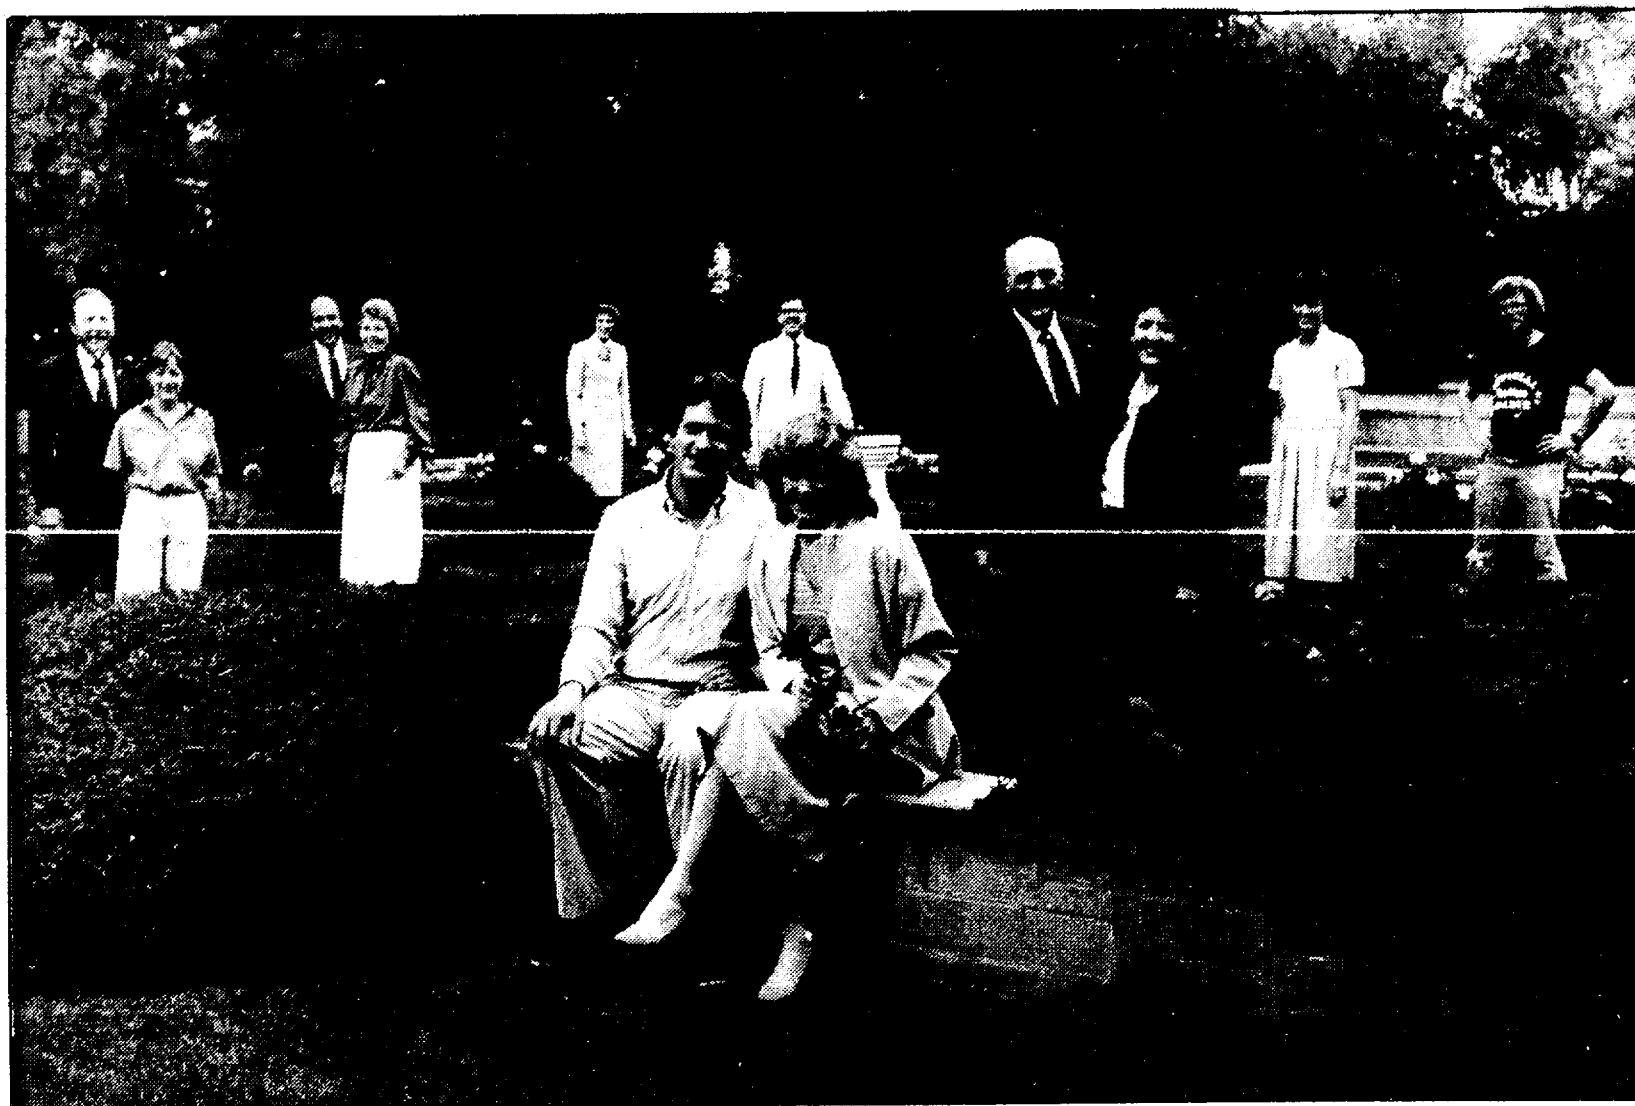

Mickey took over the leadership of ASC (formerly The Senior Center, Inc.) in 1963, after completing her Masters degree in Social Work at Wayne State University. The agency was located, at that time, in a house on East Grand Boulevard, where Mickey was interviewed for a NEWS' "Pointer of Interest" feature.

She was a great subject, bursting with enthusiasm, full of plans, hopes and dreams. Many of them have been realized: ASC has grown into a complex, multi-service agency funded by the United Foundation, Detroit-Wayne County Community Mental Health Board, Detroit Area Agency on Aging, The Senior Alliance, City of Detroit and other organizations.

Under Mickey's direction, ASC expanded into the mental health field, adding these services to its work with the aging. The agency now operates programs for the elderly at the Butzel Family Center, the Coleman A. Young Center on Detroit's East Side and West Central Senior Services on the West Side.

It has contracts to provide social services to six local nursing homes and conducts personal care/homemaker services to the elderly in five downriver communities. It

Berry, Virginia Berry, Dr. Cosme Cruz, Gretchen Russell, Louise Warnke, music director Frederic DeHaven, concert coordinator Ruth Brammeler and Glen Battjes.

Rackham Choir performs 'under the stars'

Imagine the sounds of the 100-voice Rackham Symphony Choir and its 25-piece Orchestra wafting over the waters of Lake St. Clair on a warm summer evening. Imagine hearing selections from Jerome Kern's Broadway musicals, including "Showboat," performed by the choir and orchestra under the stars in the elegant surroundings of someplace like, say, the Edsel & Eleanor Ford estate. Now imagine yourself right there in the middle of it all.

That little scenario is exactly what will take place this Saturday evening, June 29, at 8 p.m. on the grounds of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House on Lakeshore Road in The Shores.

It's the Rackham Choir and Orchestra's third annual cabaret-styled performance under the stars in Grosse Pointe. Tickets for the 90-minute concert are $8 each, and may be obtained at Village Records and Tapes or by calling 863-5828 from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily. Light refreshments will be available; no refreshments may be brought onto the grounds. In the event of rain, the cabaret will be rescheduled for Sunday, June 30, at 8 p.m.

The 10 Grosse Pointers among the Rackham ranks are hoping it doesn't rain. They recall the delightful atmosphere present at the last two cabarets and look forward to a third evening of entertaining Grosse Pointe under the stars.

"We were spectators last year and it was fun. We're excited about performing this year," said Bill and Mary Heller, who are members of the chorus along with their daughter, Jeanne.

Jeanne Heller and David Ludwig are guest soloists for the evening. Jeanne, a soprano, holds a Bachelor of Arts in Music and German from Albion College. Along with previous appearances as a soloist with the Rackham Symphony Choir, she has appeared with the Christ Church Chorale of Grosse Pointe, with members of the Detroit Symphony, and with the St. Clair Shores Symphony and the Grosse Pointe Symphony Orchestra.

Susan Sabo wed in Texas

At home in Houston, Tex., are Mr. and Mrs. Scott David Taylor, who vacationed in London and Paris following their outdoor wedding Saturday, March 16, in the gardens of Vargo's of Houston, where a reception followed the 11 o'clock ceremony.

Mrs. Taylor is the former Susan Carol Sabo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Sabo, of Shoreham Road. Mr. Taylor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Taylor, of Livonia, N.Y., formerly of West Bloomfield.

The spaghetti-strapped bodice of the bride's traditional gown of embroidered white organza was topped with a fitted jacket of embroidered organza. Her waist length veil fell from a ring of silk flowers. She carried a cascade of white roses, daisies, lilies-of-the-valley and ivy.

The Reverend Charles C. Green III, of Geneseo, N.Y., a friend of the bridegroom's family, presided at the rites. The bride was attended by her sister, Lisa Sabo, in a ruffled-sleeved off-the-shoulder dress of mauve taffeta, accented with a long, pink sash, carrying an arrangement of pink roses and baby's-breath.

Kirk A. Taylor, of Lake Ronkonkoma, N.Y., acted as best man for his brother.

The mother of the bride wore a pink lace dress, the bridegroom's mother a print silk dress in shades of mauve and pink. Each mother wore a wrist corsage of pink Sweetheart rosebuds.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Wendell Sabo, of The Woods, the bride's aunt, Mrs. William Neining, of Royal Oak, the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Gerald Mackwood, of Rochester, N.Y., and Mrs. Ronald Mack (the former Theresa Behm, of The Pointe), of Salt Lake City.

Diamonds light love through the centuries

By Linda St. Thomas
Smithsonian News Service

Diamonds have been searched for, traded, smuggled, fought over, cherished and stared at since the time of Pliny the Elder: the first-century Roman philosopher who called the colorless crystals the "most highly valued" of worldly goods.

The shiny pebbles were once believed to have magical charms so powerful that they could not be worn. Later, set in crowns, swords, necklaces and rings, diamonds became symbols for their owners — badges of royalty, wealth and love.

Today, mineralogists are fascinated by diamonds because the natural stones tell them about the properties of earth's interior, where the crystals were formed from carbon. Jewelers are fascinated by diamonds, at least in part because they account for nearly 50 percent of all jewelry sales.

But the attraction for many diamond owners (and non-owners as well) lies in the gem itself. Diamonds, "the king of gems," possess in abundance each of the three qualities that make precious stones precious: beauty, rarity and durability. Most people don't even get beyond the beauty.

"Sometimes people can't even describe what they feel when they look at diamonds," Peter Schneirla of Tiffany & Co. says. "They do know that they are drawn to them, just as babies are attracted to bright, shiny objects."

What has them mesmerized, Schneirla believes, is the brilliance and color flashes of a diamond: it actually looks different from every angle because of its ability to bend or refract light and divide it into the colors of the rainbow. For this reason, a woman showing off her engagement ring will move her hand continuously so that the diamond's flashes of color, or "fire," can be fully appreciated by admirers.

The late jeweler Harry Winston, who donated the Hope Diamond to the Smithsonian Institution, was enthralled by diamonds. Winston, famed for his love and knowledge of the gem, sometimes kept a large diamond in his suit jacket pocket, rolling it between his fingers as he spoke to clients, reports Laurence Krashes in his book "Harry Winston, the Ultimate Jeweler."

What Winston once said of a large flawless diamond could be said of many diamonds: "It was like a great painting. You want to keep on looking at it."

While beauty may be in the eye of the beholder, a fine diamond's rarity and durability are without question. Diamonds — carbon crystallized under intense heat and enormous pressure — are formed in the earth's mantle, between the crust and the core, at a depth of about 100 miles, curator John White of the Smithsonian's Mineral Sciences Department in the National Museum of Natural History explains.

The diamonds were formed in volcanic rock called kimberlite and have been carried, during upheavals, closer to the earth's surface where they can be mined.

DeBeers Consolidated Mines Inc., which markets most of the world's diamonds, estimates that about 250 tons of rock and ore must be mined to produce a single one-carat diamond (the size of a large engagement solitaire). And, of all the diamonds mined, only about one in five is a gem quality stone suitable for jewelry. The rest are used for industrial purposes — grinding, cutting, etching and polishing.

A diamond's durability makes it desirable for both industry and jewelry. Although it can chip on rare occasions if hit at just the right spot, or shatter if smashed with a hammer, it is still the hardest-known substance — many times harder than the next hardest mineral, corundum (source of the ruby and sapphire).

This characteristic hardness makes the diamond exceedingly difficult to cut; that is one reason diamonds were unpopular as jewelry for some centuries. Diamonds were known at least by the fourth century B.C., but it wasn't until medieval times that the shapes of rough stones were changed with new tools for cleaving (splitting like wood with a wedge and hammer), grinding (using diamond as an abrasive) and polishing.

By the reign of Louis XIV (1643-1715), a great diamond lover, this stone had become the number one gem in jewelry, above emeralds, rubies and sapphires. Perhaps the king's most famous gem was his prized Blue Diamond of the Crown which, after several centuries and a recutting, became known as the Hope Diamond, named for one of its owners, banker Henry Philip Hope.

For years, people were as enthralled by the alleged curse that befell the diamond's owners as they were by the stone itself. The tales of gruesome and untimely deaths are fortunately untrue, and the 45.5-carat blue diamond has spent the past 27 years uneventfully in an exhibition case at the Museum of Natural History in Washington, D.C.

Diamonds became the gems of royalty, adorning crowns, tiaras, brooches, necklaces and pendants of kings, queens and other members of the court on grand occasions. At the Smithsonian, a special section of the Gem Hall, "Jewels Fit for a Queen," is reserved for magnificent regal jewels.

Among these treasures are the Napoleon necklace of 172 diamonds given by Napoleon to Empress Marie Louise at the birth of their son, and the earrings believed to have been worn by Marie Antoinette, a gift from Louis XVI.

While it is true that the two largest polished-gem diamonds in the world, the Cullinan I and II, are part of the British Crown jewels, diamonds are no longer exclusively symbols of royalty. In fact, the majority of married women in America own at least one diamond, usually an engagement ring.

In 1984, 15.6 million pieces of diamond jewelry, about half of them rings, were sold in this country for $7.7 billion, according to figures from DeBeers' advertising agency, N.W. Ayer Inc., in New York.

Diamonds continue to be expensive for many reasons. First, the supply (and therefore the price) of diamonds is largely regulated by DeBeers, which controls 85 percent of the world's diamonds. In addition, fine diamonds, especially flawless ones, are rare and expensive to mine. Then the gems must be individually studied, cut and polished, a time-consuming task.

For example, an 890-carat rough stone, the Zale Diamond, is now being analyzed, cut and polished — a project that will take about 18 months.

The popularity of diamonds in the United States goes back to the post-Civil War boom time when all jewelry, especially diamond jewelry, was worn extravagantly by nouveau riche women... but only in the evening, as etiquette required. Even a few men joined the diamond bandwagon of the Gay '90s. Prominent among them was the renowned Diamond Jim Brady, said to have owned more than 20,000 diamonds.

Around the turn of the century, one piece of diamond jewelry was coming into fashion: the diamond engagement ring. Its beauty was enhanced with the introduction of the solitaire Tiffany Setting, in which the stone was raised and supported by six prongs. For the first time, light could pass through the stone, showing off the diamond's unique fire and sparkle.

But the custom of wearing a ring on the left hand to announce betrothal was not new. In fact, the first written records of diamonds used in betrothal rings appeared in 1477 when Archduke Maximilian of Austria gave his wife-to-be a diamond "esposal" ring. The stage was set, though the diamond engagement ring tradition grew slowly over the centuries because of the gems' scarcity and value.

Diamond jewelry sales in the United States increased after World War II, when an advertising campaign for DeBeers promoted the diamond ring as a symbol of love and commitment. The now-famous DeBeers slogan, "A diamond is forever," created by copywriter Francis Gerety at N.W. Ayer, was introduced in 1947 as part of that campaign.

By 1984, 72 percent of all American brides received diamond engagement rings. Considering the number of couples who marry each year, more than two million, this represents big business. The typical ring is a solitaire weighing about one-third carat and costing an average of $827.

And additional millions of couples celebrate an anniversary every year. It is these married couples who are the target of an ad campaign that began in 1981 for anniversary rings. The theme is simple: reaffirm your love with a ring or, as the ads word it, "Say you'd marry her all over again with a band of diamonds." By 1984, diamond anniversary-ring sales comprised 26 percent of the women's diamond ring market.

Though traditions crumble and values change, June is still the peak month for weddings and anniversaries and for the giving of diamond rings. But the gems are bought year-round, especially in the gift-giving months of November and December. Diamond buying knows no season.

Corporal Patrick S. Fragel, son of Anne G. Fragel, of East Eight Mile Road, and of the late William H. Fragel, received the parachutist badge upon completion of the three-week airborne course at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga. He is a 1983 graduate of Michigan State University.

Hall-Bell rites are read

Mary Rose Bell and U.S. Army Captain David Baird Hall exchanged marriage vows Saturday, June 15, in St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church. Pastor Robert Curry officiated at the 5:30 o'clock ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Bedford Road home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. George Peterson.

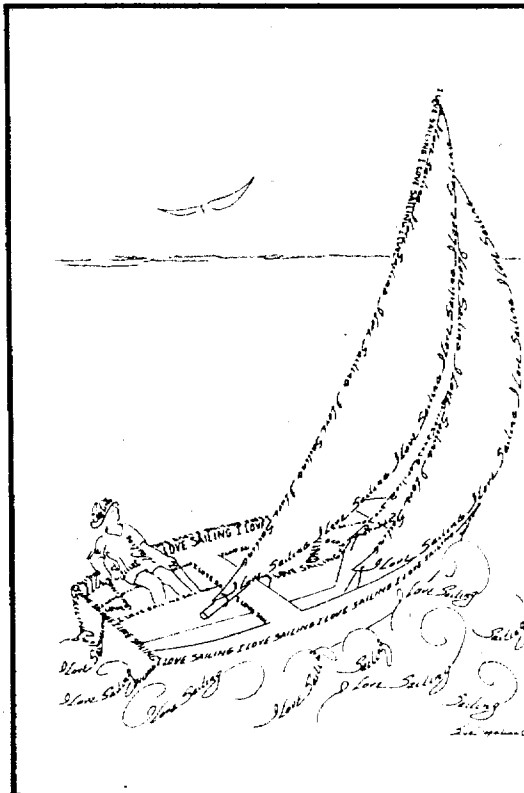

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ignas Kukstys, of Omaha, Neb. She asked her sister, Irene Purchase, of Omaha, to serve as matron of honor.

Stephen Guice, of East Lansing, served as best man for his friend. Ushering was Shawn Lovett, of Roseville, Minn.

The bridegroom's father, Howard Hall, traveled from Newtown, Conn., for his son's wedding.

The newlyweds took a cruise on the Mediterranean and will make their home in El Paso, Texas, where Captain Hall is stationed.

Arleen Kavanagh Plan to wed in September

Early September wedding plans are being made by Arleen R. Kavanagh and Charles Gregory Bentley whose engagement has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Kavanagh, of Kensington Road.

Miss Kavanagh is office manager at Liquid Carbonic Corporation. She is a graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School and attended Western Michigan University.

Her fiancé, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bentley, of The Woods, was graduated from Lutheran High School East and attended Concordia Lutheran College, Macomb College and the Center for Creative Studies.

While serving in the United States Air Force, he attended the Defense Language Institute and the Defense Information School. He now works at General Dynamics.

DIA volunteer hours add up

The 491-member Volunteer Committee of the Founders Society Detroit Institute of Arts celebrated completion of its 23rd year early this month and announced a record 54,553 hours of service donated to the museum during 1984-85.

Guest speaker at the annual meeting was William Woolfenden, consultant for Museum Services at Sotheby's and director emeritus of the Archives of American Art. Prior to joining the Archives staff in 1960, he was curator of Education at the DIA.

Highlights of the business program included announcement that the Volunteer Committee is underwriting a Centennial gift of benches to provide additional gallery seating at the museum.

DIA volunteers donate their time and talents to a multitude of projects, including guided tours, presentation of classroom slide talks in metropolitan area schools, organizing mailings, working in the Museum Shop, assisting visitors and decorating the museum for special functions.

The group's new executive committee includes Marilyn Gushee, of The Farms, as first vice-chairperson and Mary O'Connor, of The Park, as recording secretary. Among the directors is Liz Kuhlman, of The Shores. Among the leaders of service committees are Nancy Edwards, of The Farms, and Carole Peabody, of The Woods, co-vice-chairpersons of Decorations.

Mrs. Randall D. Cain Cain-Noecker rites are read

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall V. Noecker's Warner Road home was the setting Saturday, December 1, for the wedding of their daughter, Nancy Elizabeth, and Randall Dixon Cain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Cain, of Yorkshire Road.

Pastor Robert Rimbo, of Saint James Lutheran Church, presided at the 4:30 o'clock family ceremony, after which the bride and bridegroom were chauffeured to the Country Club of Detroit by George Negri, of The Farms, in an authentic London taxi.

Alexandra V. Noecker attended her sister, who carried a bouquet of two dozen long-stemmed red roses. Albert Cain acted as best man for his son.

At the Country Club, the newlyweds were met by a bagpiper who "piped" them inside to the applause of waiting guests. The reception centered on a Christmas theme. Entertainment was provided by the Sun Messengers, and the former Miss Noecker and her husband were roasted and toasted by their fathers and the bride's brother, William Noecker, of The Farms.

The newlyweds vacationed in Sarasota, Fla. They divide their time between their two residences, in Atlanta, Ga., and Grosse Pointe Woods.

Make August wedding date

Early August wedding plans are being made by Linda L. Knoblock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Knoblock, of Grand Blanc, and Shores resident William M. Kennedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Alex Kennedy, of Palm Harbor, Fla.

Miss Knoblock, a Registered Dietitian, holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Dietetics from Michigan State University and is attending the University of Michigan.

She transferred from the Wayne State University School of Medicine to the Ohio State University College of the Medicine where she is a member of the Class of 1987, as is her fiancé.

Mr. Pallante, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin D. Pallante, of Canfield, Ohio, is an alumnus of Canfield High School and, like the bride-to-be, received his Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Notre Dame in 1983.

operates a center for the mentally impaired, Pathways, at its East Side headquarters on Field Avenue, and provides services to the developmentally disabled at its West Side center on Hubbell.

And Mickey, during her tenure as ASC director, has increased the scope of her own activities in the field of gerontology. She was chairman and is still a member of the State Commission on Services to the Aging. She is a board member of the National Council on the Aging in Washington, D.C.

She has been a delegate to two White House Conferences on Aging, and has made a Gerontology Tour of China. She has taught classes, conducted workshops and served on the boards and committees of a number of agencies, largely those working with the elderly and the mentally ill.

She's gotten around, and word about her has gotten around . . . and this year, she added to her honors the United Community Services' Executive-of-the-Year Award for 1985. She was toasted time after time, and always from the heart, at a Retirement Party hosted last week by the ASC board of directors and her own friends. We'd like to add our personal "Congratulations on a Job Well-Done" to theirs.

More Congratulations

Congratulations, too, to another Park resident, Agnes Kay, who received the Juliette Low Humanitarian Award at the annual meeting of the Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council. The award is given once a year — provided there is an appropriate candidate. It recognizes an adult Girl Scout member who has had a profound impact on the lives of girls in Girl Scouting.

Ms. Kay has been an active adult in Girl Scouting for 42 years. She is currently chairperson of her area's Neighborhood Service Unit and a member/founder of the newly-formed Michigan Metro Girl Scout Alumnae Association. She's been, literally, everything in Girl Scouting, from Senior Troop Leader to President of the Leaders' Association, from chairperson of the Program Committee to Troop Camp Consultant Trainer.

She's been honored before for her volunteer commitment to Girl Scouting, with the Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council Green Angel Award and the Girl Scouts-USA Thanks Badge, highest award an adult can receive in the Girl Scout organization. Now she has the Juliette Low Award, too . . . maybe they'll have to create a new award to pay due honor to Agnes again next year!

David Ludwig holds Bachelor and Master of Music degrees from Indiana University. He has appeared many times in the Detroit area as baritone soloist with members of the Detroit Symphony, the St. Clair Shores Symphony and the Grosse Pointe Symphony Orchestra. He is credited with performances in Mendelssohn's "Elijah," Verdi's "Requiem," Hayden's "Die Jahreszeiten," Brahms' "Requiem" and Handel's "Messiah."

Other Pointe members of the choir are Glen Battjes, Cosme Cruz, Gretchen Russell, Louise Warnke and music director Frederic DeHaven. Pointer Sterling Berry and his daughter Virginia are also members but they won't be able to participate in Saturday's performance — that's Virginia Berry's wedding day and her father will also be busy giving the bride away.

The rest of the choir will be present, however, and promises a delightful evening. The Rackham Symphony Choir is an independent, non-profit organization dedicated to the performance of works for chorus and orchestra. Founded in 1948 by Professor Maynard Klein of the University of Michigan, the Rackham Symphony Choir is currently headquartered at Marygrove College and rehearses at Wayne State University.

Take a safe view of sky

The fireworks that have become such a traditional part of the Fourth of July celebration can cause eye damage and blindness, warns Dr. Henry J. Spiro, ophthalmologist and director of the Cataract and Eye Care Institute in Southfield.

"The only really safe way to enjoy fireworks is at a professionally produced fireworks display," maintains Dr. Spiro.

His words of caution come as a result of figures released by the American Academy of Ophthalmology showing that 14,000 firework injuries will occur this year, with one-fourth of these affecting the eyes.

Bottle rockets are responsible for half of all fireworks-related eye injuries — and three-fourths of the most severe ones. Even sparklers, although often considered to be safe, are dangerous; they burn at temperatures of 1800 degrees.

May wedding vows spoken

Holy Name Church of Birmingham was the setting Friday, May 31, for the wedding of Jeanne Margaret Reaume and Eugene F. LoVasco. The Reverend Father Burke officiated at the 4:30 o'clock ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Detroit Athletic Club.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas P. Reaume, of Bloomfield Hills. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. LoVasco, of Blairmoor Court.

Julie Reaume served as honor maid for her sister. Bridesmaids included two other sisters, Michele Reaume and Aimee Reaume, four sisters of the bridegroom, Mary LoVasco, Angela LoVasco, Margaret LoVasco and Andria LoVasco, and a friend, Sandy Smith.

John LoVasco was best man for his brother. In the usher corps were another brother, Tony LoVasco, Dan McNulty, Jac Coury, a brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and four of the bride's brothers, Tom Reaume, Bob Reaume, Doug Reaume and Tim Reaume.

The newlyweds vacationed in Bermuda and will make their home in Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregory F. Wait

Miss Osborn is April bride

Donna Joy Osborn and Gregory Frederick Wait exchanged marriage vows Saturday, April 13, at a 4:30 o'clock ceremony in Saint Paul's Lutheran Church. The Reverend J. Philip Wahl and The Reverend Raymond E. Peterson, visiting pastor from Immanuel Lutheran Church, Jackson, presided at the rites.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Osborn, of Moselle Place, wore a gown of white peau-ette, styled with a sabrina neckline and long, fitted sleeves of pearl-accented Alencon lace, its bodice slightly lowered and pointed, its skirt featuring a chapel train.

Her fingertip veil fell from a Juliet cap of seed pearls and lace. She carried a cascade of stephanotis, white Sweetheart roses, purple statice and ivy.

Julia Osborn, honor maid for her sister, and bridesmaids Brenda Francis, of Jackson, the bridegroom's sister, Kari Clark, of Troy, and Marla Kanter, of Chicago, Chi Omega sorority sisters of the bride, and Amy Atwell, of Grand Rapids, carried cascades of white miniature Fuji mums, purple statice, baby's-breath and ivy.

Their long gowns of lavender moire faille featured short, puffed and tapered sleeves, portrait necklines and softly-tucked skirts accented at a natural waist with self bow sashes.

Brad Wait acted as best man for his brother. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. G. Fred Wait, of Jackson. Ushers were Mark Osborn, brother of the bride, Jim Witte, of Grand Rapids, and Dan Neumann, of Dallas, Tex., cousins of the bridegroom, and Dan Zielinski, of Lansing.

The mother of the bride wore a jewel-necked, long-sleeved dress of mauve georgette, softly-sashed and styled with an asymmetrical-pleated bodice and formal length skirt. Her corsage was a cymbidium orchid.

The bridegroom's mother, in a long gown of periwinkle georgette, V-necked, long-sleeved and fashioned with a fitted waistline, also selected a cymbidium orchid corsage.

The wedding was followed by a reception at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, where a triple-tiered wedding cake was crowned with fresh flowers and the antique china Kewpie dolls that had topped the wedding cake of the bride's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Emke, 56 years ago.

The new Mrs. Wait holds a Bachelor of Business Administration degree from Michigan State University. She works for Jacobson's Stores, in the Internal Audit Department in Jackson.

The bridegroom, who also holds a Bachelor of Business Administration degree from Michigan State University, is employed by Fredon Handling Company of Jackson.

The newlyweds have returned from a vacation on St. Maarten in the West Indies to make their home in Jackson.

Auto is focus for DIA show

The first major museum exhibition to consider the automobile as a subject for art as well as a work of art itself will remain on view at the Detroit Institute of Arts through Sunday, Sept. 8.

"Automobile and Culture — Detroit Style" presents approximately 250 auto-related works of art together with 12 actual automobiles of significant styling and design and seven cars created by contemporary artists.

It is the DIA's premier Centennial Exhibition and is free to the public. It dominates the museum's Great Hall, Rivera Court, two levels of the Ford Wing exhibition galleries and screening room.

It presents paintings, sculpture and graphics by artists as diverse as Henri Toulouse-Lautrec, Eugene Atget, Giacomo Balla, Henri Matisse, Dorothea Lange, Philip Guston, Jean Dubuffet, Saul Steinberg and Pablo Picasso.

"From its earliest appearance in late 19th century academic art through today's stylistic currents, artists looked at the car as an object of escape, innovation, desire, fear, horror, delight and whimsy," says Davira S. Taragin, curator of the exhibit and DIA curator of 20th Century Decorative Arts and Design.

Early in this century, Italian Futurists deified the car for its virtues of speed and modern technology. The Surrealists perceived it as an object of fantasy. Pop artists celebrated it as an icon of mass culture. Photorealists depict the car as it is; Neo-Expressionists depict it as an emotional experience.

Some exhibition art works document the car's visual impact on roadside, highway and urban landscapes. Others incorporate automotive materials or the object itself. Contemporary fusions of form, function and imagination are represented by cars specially built or altered by artists; Chris Burden's "B-Car" can actually be driven; James Croak offers "Pegasus," the bizarre apparition of a winged horse bursting through the roof of a low-rider vehicle.

The second portion of the exhibit looks at the creative contribution of American designers, who regarded the automobile not only as a functional commercial product but also as an art object with important sculptural presence. A dozen full-size cars and 80 drawings, 10 scale models and photo panels trace the evolution of American automotive form between 1925 and 1950.

The cars range from a 1929 Duesenberg J-129 Dual Cowl Phaeton to a 1949 Ford Tudor Sedan. By the mid-1920s, the Detroit automotive industry had recognized that styling was a significant marketing factor. During the next two decades, designers accelerated the search for the ideal: an aesthetically-based design unifying all necessary parts of the car.

Efforts to weld structure, material and function into visually elegant yet practical automobiles produced highly stylized cars intended to portray, and provide, luxury and comfort.

Officers serving with him include Nancy K. Polk, Philip G. Moon and J. Marne Gleason, as vice-presidents; Meredith Quarrier as secretary; John H. Norris as treasurer and Norah C. Dinger as historian.

New trustees named to the 30-member board are Curtis C. Carmichael, Richard Brodie, Oscar Frenette, Mrs. Hugh G. Harness, Raymond S. Howard, Mark Jones and Mrs. Victor Wertz.

Another Grosse Pointe resident, Mark Stevens, received the Detroit Historical Society Guild's Patriotic Award. Among those on hand to offer him congratulations were several past Patriotic Award winners, including fellow Pointers Ruth Vance and Lucy Hamilton.

Special exhibits continuing at the Historical Museum through July include "All That Glitters," a display of beaded garments and accessories from the museum's costume collection, many of them originally worn by members of prominent Pointe families, and "Glass in Fashion," illustrating the use of glass beads to decorate women's purses.

Also continuing, through September, are "Made in Detroit: Unique Automobiles," an exhibit of 10 cars (1908-1964) that have never been displayed together, and a complementary exhibit, "Automobilia: The Raymond E. Holland Collection" of automotive ephemera.

"Curator's Choice," a selection from the museum's thousands of artifacts representing Detroit's history and material culture, closes July 31. "Black Women in Michigan, 1785-1985" runs through Aug. 1.

Admission to the Historical Museum, located on Woodward Avenue at Kirby in Detroit's University/Cultural Center, is by voluntary donation. Museum hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday. Further information and/or a free schedule of museum events may be obtained by calling 833-1805.

Junior League makes record funds' pledge for 1985-86

The Junior League of Detroit, at its annual meeting held June 5 at the Detroit Institute of Arts, announced a record commitment of $171,640 in projects and programs for 1985-86 benefitting metropolitan Detroit.

The funds add up to the largest sum ever returned to the Detroit community in the Junior League's 72-year history of volunteer service. They will support seven new projects developed to meet important community problems and needs and to reflect diverse interests of Detroiters.

Among the projects launched by the Junior League are a feasibility study and project proposal for a possible Riverfront Community Center, an Alcohol and Drug Community Education Project and a Corporate Community Involvement Council to help corporations mobilize their human resources for voluntary service.

A tutorial program for elementary and middle school children and a Riverfront Artists-in-Residence Project at Chene Park will provide educational and cultural enrichment for Detroiters.

The Junior League will also develop two media projects, including a nationally-distributed video presentation about a hospice concept, as well as several cable television programs for senior citizens.

Each of the seven projects receives not only League financial support but a strong volunteer commitment. This year, Junior League members will provide 41,000 hours of volunteer service to the new projects as well as to a wide variety of cultural, civic and health programs already established.

League projects are supported by members' dues and special fund raisers which currently include the popular "Clockwise Cuisine" cookbook and a Designers' Show House, scheduled for May, 1986.

The Junior League of Detroit is more than 1,100 women active in community service. Its purpose is to promote volunteerism, to develop the potential of its members for voluntary participation in community affairs and to demonstrate the effectiveness of trained volunteers.

Woman's Health

Reconstruction After Breast Cancer

By William T. Mixson, M.D., President
The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

When a woman learns that she has breast cancer, she may not be able to think ahead to life after treatment. Yet someday it may be useful to know that more and more women who have lost one or both breasts to cancer are choosing to have breast reconstructive surgery.

Also known as "reconstructive mammoplasty," breast reconstruction is a safe and relatively simple procedure in which an implant is inserted under the skin in place of the missing breast. The implants consist of breast-shaped sacs filled with either silicon gel, salt solution or both.

Though the new breast will not look exactly like a natural breast when naked, it will feel very similar and will look normal under clothes or bathing suits. Plastic surgeons do their best to match the remaining breast in size and shape, but it may be different from your original shape. In some cases a new nipple can be made from the other nipple, or from dark skin on the genital lips or upper thigh.

How easy the reconstruction will be will depend on the extent of your mastectomy. A woman whose chest muscles were not removed during the operation usually can have the implant inserted in less than an hour and leave the hospital the next day. If the mastectomy was extensive, however, the reconstruction may take several operations. This may require additional hospitalization.

Doctors' opinions vary as to how long you should wait after a mastectomy to have implants done. Some say five years, some two — and some say only as long as it takes for your mastectomy scar to heal and soften.

Also, like any surgery, there are risks to be weighed against the benefits. There is a small chance of infection or blood clots, and the body may try to reject the implant. Sometimes, implants need to be replaced due to leakage.

On the whole, however, breast implants properly done are medically safe. Although women may worry that the implants will hide a new cancerous growth, most doctors feel that this should not be a concern and that the implants themselves do not make you more susceptible to cancer.

Not all women want breast reconstruction. They may choose instead breast prostheses or artificial breasts, which are made to resemble natural breasts.

Your doctor, the local county medical society, a local hospital or the American Cancer Society will probably be able to recommend competent plastic surgeons who perform breast reconstruction.

Have heart-y summer fun

As the dog days of summer draw near, the American Heart Association of Michigan would like to remind people of the extra precautions necessary for exercising in the summer heat.

"Anyone starting an exercise plan should take it easy in the beginning, but people who have a set regimen can be harder to convince when it comes to exercising precaution," says Dr. Joseph Rogers, chairman, Exercise and Cardiac Rehabilitation Committee, American Heart Association of Michigan. "If precautions are not taken during warm, humid days, heat exhaustion or heat stroke can occur."

"The symptoms of heat exhaustion include a body temperature below normal, dizziness, headache, nausea and sometimes confusion. The other and more serious occurrence is heat stroke. Symptoms are dizziness, headache, thirst, nausea and muscle cramps. Sweating stops and body temperature may become dangerously high — which can be a serious problem."

"Both heat exhaustion and heat stroke can be avoided by drinking enough liquids to replace those lost in exercising, and by taking the important precautions listed below."

- Exercise during cooler parts of the day such as early morning or early evening after the sun has gone down.
- Exercise less than normal for a week until you become adapted to the heat.
- Drink lots of fluids, particularly water. You do not need extra salt because you get enough salt in your diet. Also, a well-conditioned body learns to conserve salt, so that most of the sweat is water.

- Watch out for signs of heat stroke.

- Wear a minimum of light, loose-fitting clothing.

- Avoid rubberized or elastic suits, sweatshirts and sweat pants.

Such clothing will not help you lose weight any faster by making you sweat more; the weight you lose in fluids by sweating will be quickly replaced as soon as you begin drinking fluids again. This type of clothing can also cause dangerously high temperatures, possibly resulting in heat stroke.

Dr. Rogers emphasizes that using these precautions as an excuse to avoid exercise isn't valid. "Anytime you're pursuing a physical activity you should use caution," he says, "but in general the benefits gained from the exercise far outweigh the dangers, as long as an individual monitors himself."

"Enjoy the summer with exercise," Dr. Rogers concludes. "You're not expected to be an olympic athlete; start something as simple as a walking plan. The aerobic benefits are great when you do it right."

"For more information on the benefits of exercise, call your local office of the American Heart Association of Michigan, listed in your phone book. They have a great booklet, 'Exercise and Your Heart,' that's full of good information."

"Be it ever so humble there's no place like home."

Across the sea by balloon

Britt Baubie of the Woods, a Mason fifth-grader who will attend Parcels Middle School next year, shows off his response from the school's March 22 balloon-launch with Principal William Mestdagh. Britt's balloon ended up in Birmingham, England, an ocean and a couple thousand miles away. The launch started out as a creative writing pen pal assignment but ended up as being a science lesson as well, Mestdagh said. Half of the responses so far have come from Wisconsin, while the other half have come from New York, Canada and other areas east, he added. Students got to learn a bit about weather and winds because of the different directions the balloons, released at the same time, took.

Music School gets a time-ly gift package

In honor of the founding of Alpha Chi Omega sorority at the School of Music at DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., in 1885, the Alpha Chi Omega Alumnae of Metropolitan Detroit this spring presented mirrors and clocks to the Detroit Community Music School, for use in its practice studios.

Among those attending the centennial gift package presentation, made at the school by Darlene (Mrs. John C.) Krato, of The Farms, were Pointe area residents Joan (Mrs. Kelly) Ketterman, Joan (Mrs. R.A.) Armbruster, Carol (Mrs. Bruce) Tock, Donna (Mrs. Arthur) Weinle, Aline (Mrs. John) Lafferty, Dorothy (Mrs. Arthur) Schmidt, MaryHelen (Mrs. Bruce) Feighner and Donna (Mrs. James) Johnston.

John Smith, director, accepted the gifts on behalf of the Music School. Also in attendance was Alpha Chi Omega's district alumna chairperson for the State of Michigan, Patricia (Mrs. Richard) De Loof, of Rochester.

A plaque to commemorate the presentation was designed by Laura Johnston, of The Woods. Following the program at the school, which has served as a center for arts' education since 1927, the Alpha Chis proceeded to Jacoby's for dinner and installation of officers for the coming year.

Darlene Krato turned over her president's gavel to Joan Ketterman, of The Park. Also installed were Donna Johnston as treasurer, Donna Weinle as membership chairperson and Aline Lafferty as newsletter publisher. Darlene Krato will edit the newsletter in 1985-86. Carol Tock and MaryHelen Feighner will serve as the Alpha Chi Panhellenic delegates.

Alpha Chi Omega, a social sorority located on campuses throughout the United States and Canada, will celebrate its Centennial Year at a national convention to be held in Indianapolis, Ind., June 22 through 26. Delegates from 117 collegiate chapters and 229 alumnae chapters and clubs will travel from the convention site to DePauw, where their organization was founded by seven young women 100 years ago.

Alpha Chi Omega, with Michigan collegiate chapters located at the University of Michigan, Michigan State, Western Michigan and Central Michigan Universities, Northwood Institute and Albion College, has supported the arts through the endowment of the Star Studio at the MacDowell Colony in Peterborough, N.H., since 1911. Faye Barnaby Kent Fellowships for colonists are also provided.

The Detroit alumnae felt they could best celebrate their sorority's centennial via a presentation in the local area to the school that has touched the lives of a multitude of children and adults through its extensive music education programs.

The Detroit Community Music School, a member of the National Guild of Community Schools of Art, is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music as a non-degree granting institution; this distinction has been bestowed upon only 12 other non-degree granting music schools in the country.

The school, located at 200 East Kirby in Detroit's University/Cultural Center, has been affiliated since 1984 with the College of Arts and Design to form the Center for Creative Studies.

2 cups fresh broccoli flowerets
1½ cups fresh mushrooms
1½ cups trimmed fresh green beans
3 carrots, sliced

Sports Week

By Peggy O'Connor

Tell me why . . .

Why are the major league baseball players talking strike again? Don't they know that the ticket-buying public is just about fed up with all this greed? Sure, but when it comes to wanting a bigger piece of the owners' pie, it just doesn't matter, right?

Somehow, I just can't get worked up over a group of folks who are already among the highest paid people in the country talking about going on strike to get MORE. I mean, show me where it's written that employees (ballplayers) should make as much as their employers (owners)? Shouldn't the guys who shelled out all the money in the first place to buy the team reap more benefits than the guys they pay to play, or is that sort of thinking too naive and out-of-date?

Why do the major newspapers bother printing the World Series odds of those denizens of baseball hell, the Cleveland Indians? As of June 20, the odds on the Indians winning the World Series were 300-1, or roughly equivalent to the ratio of food vendors to fans at an average Indians' home game.

Why do they call the Boston Red Sox premier pitcher Dennis Boyd, "Oil Can?" The guy's so skinny, he looks more like "Dipstick" to me.

What's wrong with people? Apparently, WDIV-Channel 4 was flooded with calls on Saturday afternoon from people who were upset by the fact that NBC did not cut away from the California-Chicago game in progress to the Detroit-New York game scheduled for 4 p.m. Okay, I understand why Detroit fans might not want to watch the rest of the Angels-Sox game. What bothered me was that NBC had already switched from the California-Chicago game to a news report on the return of the bodies of U.S. Marines killed in El Salvador. WDIV, probably in an effort to stem the tide of calls, ran a trailer informing "fans" that the Tiger game would be coming up across the bottom of the screen just when NBC was showing pictures of flag-covered caskets, grieving relatives and President Reagan pinning Purple Hearts on the coffins.

Baseball is, after all, only a game. Which just might have dawned on some of the irate callers had they stayed off the phone and watched what was on TV.

Why doesn't the rest of the American League East just admit they can't match the Tigers' top four in the batting order: Lou Whitaker, Alan Trammell, Kirk Gibson and Lance Parrish?

Why can't I get excited about horse shows? The pagentry is great, the horses are beautiful and the time and effort expended training both horse and rider is mind-boggling. But one horse show every five years or so is enough for me.

Why is new Detroit Tiger pitcher Frank Tanana still able to pitch? Judging by the number of folks who range in age from 21 to 40 who tell me their son/brother/cousin/father/neighbor/self played against Catholic Central High School graduate Tanana in high school, the poor guy should have had his left arm bronzed by now.

Why isn't Tiger Stadium sold out for every game? They've been telling fans for months that most of the choice seats for nearly all of this season's games are already sold, so why then do the game-by-game attendance totals always end up around 37,657 or 43,500, instead of 50,000?

Why is it stupid to let baseball fans vote for major league All-Star teams? Because they vote for guys like California's Reggie Jackson (batting .246 with 10 homers and 28 RBI as of June 24) to start while Detroit's Kirk Gibson (batting .297 with 14 homers and 46 RBI) was fifth in voting among outfielders recently.

By the way, there are plenty of All-Star ballots available at the Grosse Pointe News. Only one brave soul has ventured in to take one of the more than 200 ballots off my hands. Stop by and pick one up and if you don't get around to voting for Reggie Jackson, the ballots make excellent dustpans, in a pinch.

Why did the Red Wings bother to hire a new coach? According to The Hockey News figures published in "The Faceoff", the Wings' official publication, Detroit's 1984-85 attendance figure was second in the entire National Hockey League, behind only the Stanley Club champion Edmonton Oilers. The 15th place Wings set a club attendance record with 696,577, or a 40-game average of 17,414.

The Wings must have been doing fine under old coach Nick Polano. After all, how wrong can 696,577 people be?

This week's athletic achievers are the Adidas under 16 team from Grosse Pointe which played in the Michigan Youth Soccer League this season. Not only did coach Abe Vanderwingaard's team win each of its 10 games, but the boys did not give up a single goal all season.

Which should be great news for North and South varsity soccer coaches Guido Regelbrugge and John Case, since most of the Adidas kids play for either the Norsemen or the Blue Devils in the fall high school soccer season.

Want a safe Fourth? Don't dive, AISG says

By Peggy O'Connor

The Fourth of July, traditionally the country's biggest summer holiday, is also one of the most dangerous when it comes to spinal cord injuries. And that's one tradition that Detroit attorney Ronald Gilbert, of the Farms, is trying to change.

Gilbert is chairman of the Aquatic Injury Safety Group, (AISG) a Detroit-based organization which has come up with a no-diving sign as part of its arsenal of weapons against the increasing number of spinal cord injuries caused by diving.

Statistics compiled by the National Spinal Cord Institute show that 92 percent of those who suffer diving injuries are males 13 to 39, that the most vulnerable are those over 160 pounds and/or 6 feet tall and that 98 percent of all who suffer diving injuries become quadriplegics. More than 1,000 persons per year will suffer a spinal cord injury as a result of a diving accident, many of them this upcoming July 4.

"Around 10 to 15 percent of my spinal cord-injured clients are those who were injured on the Fourth of July. It's just the time of the summer when a lot of people are out and the weather is conducive to swimming," Gilbert says.

The AISG's new sign, Gilbert hopes, will eventually have a similar effect to that recorded by the Florida Spinal Cord Injury Group after its preventive campaign, "Feet First, the First Time."

According to Gilbert, spinal cord injuries from diving and other causes have been reduced approximately 10 to 15 percent in Florida, which is also the only U.S. state that has legislation requiring that all spinal cord injuries be recorded within 24 hours.

"I'm told that the Michigan Senate will introduce a similar bill. That would certainly help our preventive campaign. It would enable us to compile comparative statistics which give you an idea of what you're working with when you begin a preventive campaign."

Gilbert and the AISG would like to see those who have a pool or dock put up a copy of the new AISG sign, which is available for $1 from AISG, 1555 Penobscot Building, Detroit, 48226.

"The Country Club of Detroit — where my wife and kids swim — just put one up after a two-year 'battle' I had with them," Gilbert adds. "Basically, the sign informs people not to dive because of what can happen to them. You can't just have a sign saying 'Don't Dive' where kids have been diving all their lives. We think our sign gets people's attention, tells them WHY they shouldn't dive."

"Don't dive. A recreational swimmer doesn't need to dive. Sure it's fun and people have done it all their lives. But the risk is just too great."

—Ronald Gilbert

The AISG's message is simple, says Gilbert, who organized the group after years of handling spinal cord injury cases and discussing the terrible effects of the injuries with his fellow lawyers.

"Don't dive. A recreational swimmer doesn't need to dive. Sure, it's fun and people have done it all their lives. But the risk is just too great."

All-Stars named

To the surprise of absolutely no one, Class A champion Bishop Gallagher High School placed at least one player on the All-Star, All-State and "Dream" teams chosen by the Michigan High School Baseball Coaches Association (MHSBCA) last week. But both North and South High made their presence known among prep baseball's finest in the state.

Righthanded pitcher Dave Peralta of Bishop Gallagher was named to the MHSBCA's 1985 Metro All-Star team, as were North High left-handed pitcher Dave Kopitzke and South High's slugging outfielder Rick Waugaman. Kopitzke and Peralta were also named to the Michigan All-Star team which faced the Illinois All-Stars in the fourth annual Michigan-Illinois All-Star Game in Chicago's Comiskey Park on June 25. The Metro All-Stars played the out-of-Metro area seniors in Lansing on June 22.

Bishop Gallagher outfielder Brian Neil was named to the All-State "Dream Team." The 5-10, 180-pound senior batted .387 with five home runs and 44 RBI. He had no errors and 59 putouts for the Lancers. Neil and teammate Brian Kocan, a junior, earned spots on the All-State Class A first team. Kocan batted .400 with three homers and 43 RBI. He also went 5-for-5 in stolen bases.

Earning second team, Class A All-State honors was the Pointe pair of Kopitzke and Waugaman, as well as Gallagher's Peralta.

Kopitzke pitched 67 innings, giving up 19 runs, 14 of them earned, for a 1.47 ERA. His record was 10-2, with one save. The 6-0, 185-pounder struck out 83 batters and walked just 19 in helping North High win its second straight Bi-County championship.

Waugaman batted .383 for the Eastern Michigan League runner-up South High Blue Devils. He hit six home runs and had 25 RBI. Waugaman had 31 hits in 81 at-bats, striking out 23 times and drawing 25 bases on balls.

Bishop Gallagher finished first in Class A in the MHSBCA's final poll of 1985. North High ended up with the No. 9 ranking in Class A.

Get to Thunderfest early

The Spirit of Detroit Association's 1985 Stroh Thunderfest will bring more than 500,000 people to Detroit's Riverfront for the finals of the hydroplane races on Sunday, June 30.

The racing finals will be held on Sunday as always, but for the first time, a full day of racing events is planned for Saturday, June 29. On both days early arrival is important. Diehard fans camp-out, enthusiasts are there by 5:30 a.m. and the interested spectator without a reserved seat should be at the riverfront by 10:30 a.m.

Parking is always a problem. For all but those ticket holders with parking privileges, the best rule is to arrive early for the closest parking. Be prepared to walk.

Food, good views of the race and pits and reserved parking are provided for the holders of Commodore's Club tickets at $150 for two seats on both Saturday and Sunday. The Corporate area is available for those who want to purchase tickets in a block of 25 for $35 each. (Food tickets are an additional $10).

Seaplane Base is a family picnic area with parking passes for every four tickets at $25 each. VIP Stands tickets cover both race days for $40 per person. Reserved seating is also available in Stockton Park Grandstands for both days for $25. Memorial Park Annex provides a picnic setting for $20 for both days.

For those attending only the Sunday races admission to the picnic areas of Memorial Park and Owen Park is available for $15.

Saturday is Community Day and families are encouraged to view the testing, heats and the Signature Offshore Celebrity Race from Memorial and Owen Parks for $7.50. Ticket information is available at all Ticket World Outlets, (313) 423-6666.

Local netter looks back at college career

By Mike Lombardi

With a broad smile on his face, Hamilton College men's tennis captain Thompson Smith recalls the reason why he attended Hamilton.

"It came down to Hamilton and Colgate," the Park native explained. "The Colgate coach didn't think I was good enough to play for Colgate. Since I wanted to play tennis, I chose Hamilton."

"We played Colgate this year," he continued, "and I beat their No. 1 player. I guess I could have made their squad."

Fortunately for Hamilton, the Colgate coach missed Smith. As a result, the hard-hitting netter roamed the baselines for the Continentals, helping Coach Greg Batt's squad compile an impressive 27-12 record during Smith's four-year varsity career, which ended this spring.

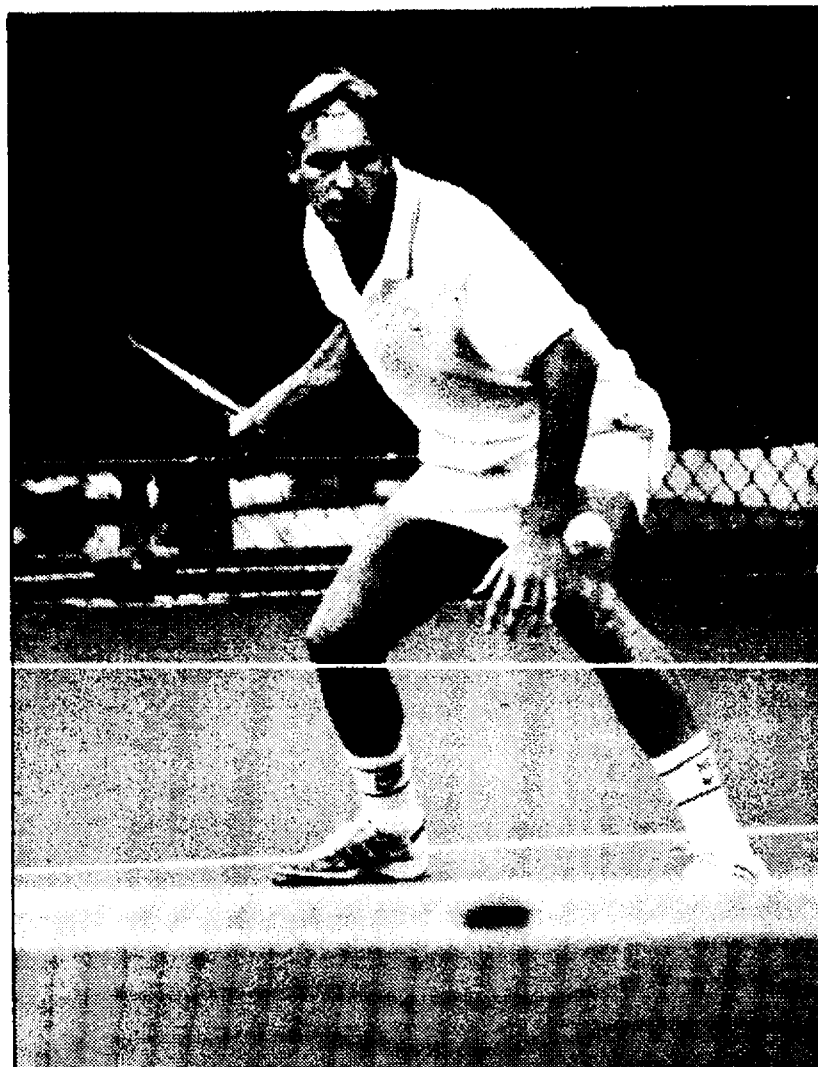

Personally, Smith sported a 40-6 career mark in singles competition. His first three years at Hamilton were spent in the No. 3 slot behind Carl Norbeck and Chris Moran, where he produced 9-3, 9-1 and 11-2 records. This year, Smith leaped into the No. 1 spot, responding with a 11-1 mark against the stiffer competition.

"One of the most satisfying experiences of my career was playing No. 1 this year and being successful," Smith said. "It was frustrating playing third singles because I never got a challenge match with (former teammates) Chris Moran or Carl Norbeck and I blew out almost every No. 3 I faced."

Also on Smith's list of career highlights is his performance in the past two New England Small College Athletic Conference tournaments. As a junior, Smith went to the finals of the No. 3 tourney, before bowing out. This spring, he charged into the fourth and semi-final round where he was ousted by Tufts University's No. 1 player, and the eventual "A" bracket champion.

"It was gratifying going so far in the NESCAC tourney after being No. 3 for so long. I thought I played very well at Middlebury (where the tournament was held), until the semi's. Actually, I have to give the Tufts player credit, he was good."

Smith began his tennis career in local clubs near his Park home.

Thompson Smith, of the Park, on the court for Hamilton College.

After playing one year at University Liggett School, Smith transferred to the Taft School, where he played three years on the varsity and captained the squad his senior year.

Although his personal feats on the court have been many, Smith finds great satisfaction in the accomplishment of the Hamilton tennis team.

"Last year we had the most talent, and our 9-2 record was Hamilton's best ever. I was proud to be a part of that. This year the team had more spirit and unity than any I've been associated with. The players worked very hard and stayed together. Although our record was just 5-5, everyone did the most with what he had."

Smith also has admiration for Coach Batt, saying, "Coach really kept the spirit of old time tennis. He made it both fun and competitive."

While his college tennis career has ended, Smith believes the future of Hamilton tennis looks promising. "The freshmen did a good job and in time they'll be very good players. The next step will be to keep bringing good players in."

"With the type of student Hamilton attracts, and with the cooperation of the Admissions Office and Athletic Department, Hamilton could produce a consistent winner. I hope they will."

Anglers should keep safety in mind

Safety. Now that the sport fishing season is open in Michigan, it should be the first thing on anglers' minds.

As Michigan's one million-plus licensed fishermen move out on the state's lakes and streams, Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) reminds them to plan ahead, use common sense and the right equipment, and remember the rules for safe fishing.

Jim Wood, MUCC southern field representative, says danger is one of the last things that sport fishermen think about when preparing for a trip, but "they should be aware that danger exists and plan accordingly."

Wood says rapidly changing weather conditions pose the greatest danger to anglers whether they fish from a boat or wade close to shore. He recommends they pay close attention to conditions and move to safety at the first sign of threatening weather.

"When the wind picks up and you see the sky darkening, move quickly to get off the lake or out of the river," Wood cautions. "If you're wading, get out of the water immediately. If you're in a boat, get to shore as quickly as possible, beach the boat in a safe place, and move to an open area away from trees, fences, or other tall objects. If you see lightning, lie flat until the storm passed."

FALLING OVERBOARD and drowning is another danger faced by anglers, but according to MUCC northern field representative Ray Rustem, the danger can be cut significantly if anglers observe a few simple rules.

"Anglers should always wear a life jacket, buoyant fishing vest, or other flotation device no matter where they are fishing," Rustem advises. "Even if the person cannot swim, the flotation device will keep his or her head above water until the angler can be rescued or reach safety on his or her own."

Rustem advises wading anglers to secure their waders with a belt around the waist to trap air and prevent water from rushing in if they should fall. In the event of a fall, they should remain calm and avoid fighting the current.

"If you stay calm you will float right to the top, every time," Rustem says. "Once you reach the surface, try to stay vertical and begin a slow, steady breast stroke until you reach shallow water or shore."

Since cuts, bruises, and other injuries are common in outdoor activity, MUCC advises anglers to include a well-stocked first aid kit when preparing for an outing. In addition to the standard first aid items, the kit should include antibiotic cream and isopropyl alcohol to clean and dress wounds.

Wood says anglers often puncture their fingers or hands on fish fins when handling their catch. Because the outer coating of fish bodies is mildly toxic, the injured area can become sore and inflamed overnight. Cuts should be washed, dressed with alcohol or antibiotic cream and bandaged.

Both Rustem and Wood note that a few minutes of careful planning and preparation can mean the difference between a safe fishing trip and an outing that ends in injury or disaster.

their catch, a 70-pound tarpon caught recently in Islamorada, in the Florida Keys. The Taylors fished off "Catch It" with Captain George Wood, out of Bud N' Mary's Marina in Islamorada.

Andrew Beaudry, of Bishop Road, was voted "Most Improved Player" on the varsity lacrosse team at DeLaSalle. Beaudry, who played on the varsity as a starter as a freshman last year and as a sophomore this past season, plays advance forward for the DeLaSalle squad.

The Park's James Stanley, 32, finished 11th in the eighth annual Revco-Cleveland Marathon. His time was 2:29:45.04, which included a pace per mile of 5:42.6.

Pointer Kris Robbins was named "Most Valuable Player" on the Dartmouth men's tennis team. Dartmouth won the Eastern Intercollegiate Tournament in Rochester, N.Y., at the end of May, including a win at "A" doubles by Robbins, a senior, and freshman Bruce Steel.

Western Michigan University sophomore pitcher Dave Babcock, of the Woods, earned a varsity letter for his performance on the Bronco baseball team this spring. The righthander had a 4-3 record and a 4.63 earned run average in 46.2 innings pitched. He struck out 24 and walked 25 batters. WMU finished with a 30-24-1 record overall and was second in the Mid-American Conference with a 20-10 mark.

The Shores' Roger Van Pelt received a letter in boys' tennis this spring from Lake Forest Academy - Ferry Hall, where he just completed his junior year. Van Pelt, a No. 3 singles player, finished with an 11-1 league mark. He is the son of Thomas and Cynthia Van Pelt, of Belle Meade Place.

A pair of Pointe residents recently completed the first-ever women's swim season at Grand Valley State College. Freshman Kristen Campbell, a South High graduate, set school records in both the one- and three-meter diving boards. She was GVSC's first national qualifier, finishing 24th at the NCAA Division II national championships. She also was elected MVP of the team. North High alumna Sandy Wooton, a sophomore, was also a member of the 3-5 GVSC team. She posted quality times in the 50 and 100 freestyles.

Recent Brown University graduate Jeff Measelle, of Grosse Pointe, won the Thomas E. Temple Award for dedication, personal self-improvement and sportsmanship in swimming at the school's annual Men's Aquatic Banquet recently. Measelle was a freestyle and butterfly specialist who played key roles on several relay teams throughout his career at Brown. He served as co-captain this past winter. Measelle is the son of Richard and Susan Measelle, of The Farms.

North High athletes honored

By Bill Hoover
North High

North High School held the Senior Athlete Awards Brunch at the Lochmoor Club on June 1. The brunch was the first of its kind for North, which hopes to make it a tradition.

Some 190 athletes, parents and guests arrived at noon to honor the senior athletes. Each athlete found a plaque awaiting at his/her place at the assigned tables. After a brief introduction by Athletic Director Tom Gauerke, a large brunch was served.

Following the brunch, the Scholar Athlete award, given annually to the senior boy and girl who have excelled in athletics and academics, was given. The minimum academic achievement is a 3.0 overall grade point average. From the 29 seniors nominated, Dan Kopitzke and Celeste Sartor were selected Scholar Athletes of the year.

Kopitzke participated in 12 team sports at North and lettered eight times, twice in football and basketball and four times in baseball. He was All-League in all three sports and Most Valuable Player in the Bi-County for baseball this year. Along with his athletic achievements, he had a 3.7 grade point average for his four years at North.

Sartor, who had a 3.5 grade point average, played on 12 teams at North and earned nine letters, two in basketball, three in volleyball and four in softball. She was named All-Bi-County six times in three sports and was the Bi-County MVP this school year for both basketball and volleyball.

The next award was the Van Hee Award given in memory of Eric VanHee, a 1974 North High graduate.

Van Hee Award nominees were selected by the Varsity Club officers who attempted to identify fellow athletes who worked hard at their sport skills, were team players, respected by fellow players, other students, coaches, and the faculty, contributed to North athletics and were truly dedicated to North's athletic program.

The winners of the Van Hee Award for 1985 are Joe Weidenbach and Paula Harms.

The Varsity Club nominees were Joe Cueter, Kopitzke, Bryan Ulatowski, Frank Vento, Kevin Weidinger and Weidenbach for the boys and Dawn Cartwright, Amelia Dugan, Harms, Patricia Loeher, Sue Roland and Sartor for the girls.

Next on the agenda was the guest speaker Dr. Newt Loken, gymnastics coach at the University of Michigan. Dr. Loken was "full of zip and vinegar" according to Gauerke, and was well received by those present.

Gauerke told those assembled "I hope they (senior athletes) have learned valuable lessons that they can carry with them through life and I hope all the senior athletes are proud they graduated from North and proud they were Norsemen."

The Senior Athlete Awards Brunch was organized by the Athletic Booster Club.

USTA matches in August

For the 43rd year, the USTA National Boys' 18 & 16 Tennis Championships are set for Kalamazoo. More than 270 young male tennis players' seasons' will culminate in challenging competition on the courts of Kalamazoo College's Stowe Tennis Stadium Aug. 3 to Aug. 11. Kalamazoo is the only site to host two junior tennis championship tournaments simultaneously.

The national championships played in Kalamazoo have provided the impetus for prominence to many of the great names in tennis, including John McEnroe, Jimmy Connors, Vitas Gerulaitis, Arthur Ashe, Stan Smith, Rod Laver, Grosse Pointe's Aaron Krickstein and many more. For others the championship tournament has guaranteed them college scholarships to some of the most prestigious colleges and universities in the United States.

An exhibition match between top world professionals adds additional excitement to tournament week on Sunday, Aug. 4, at 8 p.m. The exhibition also sets the scene for the opening ceremonies at Stowe Tennis Stadium, presided over by Kalamazoo College Director of Athletics Rolla Anderson, who has led the tournament for the past 29 years. Anderson will retire from the college this year but will continue to direct the tournament. In 1981 the college named its new athletic center in his honor.

Match play begins Saturday morning, Aug. 3, and continues through Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11. The quarterfinal competitions will be played on Thursday and Friday, Aug. 8 and 9, while the semifinal contests will be decided on Friday and Saturday. The championship rounds will conclude on Saturday and Sunday afternoons, Aug. 10 and 11. Ticket information, may be obtained by calling the Kalamazoo College Athletic Department at 616-383-8427.

Babe Ruth

Leagues face challenge for first

The Dodgers secured their hold on first place in the Park Babe Ruth League's second half with two wins last week.

Dave Salkowski and Ferit Nazarko split the pitching chores as the leaders shut out the Farms' Tigers, 5-0. Salkowski yielded one hit and four walks while fanning two in four innings, while Nazarko gave up three hits and two passes while striking out four. Eric Zihlman had three hits for the winners; Doug Lucas belted a solo home run and a single and scored three runs. Jim Johnson had two hits.

Lucas tossed a five-hitter, fanning 10, as the Dodgers tripped the Braves, 5-1. Nazarko had two hits and Mike Paull drove in a run with a triple for the Dodgers. Matt Wysocki garnered two of the Braves' five hits.

A throwing error in the bottom of the eighth sent Jim Pangborn scurrying home with the deciding run, as the Dodgers dropped a 3-2 decision to the Farms' Indians. Nick Saros scattered six hits and walked only two in a losing effort, as the Dodgers could muster only three hits and failed to take advantage of 10 walks, leaving 13 men stranded. Lucas and Mike Pote doubled for the Dodgers.

The Phillies pulled to 1-2 games behind the leaders with wins over the Woods' Astros, 10-1, and Woods' Cardinals, 12-2.

Bryan Jones tossed a two-hitter, fanning seven while walking three in the Astros game. Ian Thompson homered and Pat De Laere singled and doubled.

Jones and Chris Markus each collected a single, double, and triple against the Cards. Jones' blows accounting for three RBI and Markus', two. De Laere also pitched in with a two-run triple. Dan Wood got the win.

The Padres overcame a 5-0 deficit, scoring nine runs in the final three frames, to defeat the Braves, 9-5. George Ayrault had three hits for the winners, while Eric Nord, Andy Ayrault, Karl Striebel and Lance Harding contributed two hits each. Rodger Hunwick had three hits for the Braves.

The Padres were held to four hits, as they bowed to the Farms' Yankees, 10-4. Nord, George Ayrault, Kevin Dietz and Steve Walsh netted the only safeties.

The Braves dropped a 4-1 decision to the Woods' Cubs. Jason Whelan tossed a two-hitter, fanning four while walking only three in a losing effort. He also chipped in with two hits, while Marcus Wysocki also notched two hits for the Braves.

The Padres bowed to the Farms' Red Sox, 12-2, in the week's other game.

It's a battle for first place in the Farms-City Babe Ruth League, with all four teams entering the last week of the season with a chance for the league title. The Indians and Yankees share the second half lead with 5-2 records, followed by the Red Sox (4-3) and the Tigers (3-4). Head-to-head competition this week determines who will play the first-half champion Tigers for the league championship at Kerby Field at 6 p.m. Monday, July 1.

In action last week, the Tigers led the Red Sox, 6-1, after five, but had to hold on to preserve the 9-7 win. Rusty Knowles and Dave "Willie" Hall shared the pitching chores for the Tigers, who got three hits (including a triple) from Andy Bryant and a triple from Tim Fellows.

The Sox were led by Dave Caldwell, who went all the way on the mound, and by the hitting of Sean VonSchwarz (three) and Belanger. Wilson and Isbey with two each.

One June 21, the Tigers visited the Astros and came away with a 9-1 win over the Woods' team. Jim Johnson hurled a complete-game two-hitter, helping his own cause with a three-hit performance at the plate. Sean Cleland had three hits, Fellows and Dave McCormick had two each for the Tigers.

Rookies Kevin Nugent and Kevin Nesler provided great defense and participated in two ground ball double plays. Scott Adhloch had a 340-foot double off the fence to knock in the game-winning runs.

The Farms Indians scored seven runs in the second and third innings to beat the Yankees, 7-3, in a showdown for first place. The Indians' Scott Fleming and Mike Henry had two hits each; Jamie Pangborn drove in two runs and had a triple. Adam Franco pitched a complete game, giving up just four hits. For the Yanks, Joliet, Dillson, Hays and Callahan singled.

On Friday, the Indians squeaked by the Dodgers, 3-2, in extra innings. Franco and Pangborn were the hitting stars of the Indians with two apiece. Pangborn got his second hit in the decisive eighth inning and scored on a fielder's choice by Tom Smith. Henry, Andrew Hoag and Dan Monahan pitched for the winners. For the Dodgers, Saros pitched an outstanding game. Lucas, Paull and Pote had hits.

Music is more than just a job for the Sun Messengers

By Chris Dellas

There are those who play music as a hobby and those who play music to live. The Sun Messengers, a local 10-piece dance band with roots in traditional jazz, fall into the latter category.

A recent weekend stint at Detroit's infamous Soup Kitchen nightclub was the band's third gig for the day, (the first was at a Grosse Pointe wedding and the second at the Ypsilanti Jazz Festival), and testimony to the fact that this outfit indeed works hard for its money.

"It's either in or out with us," says co-leader and saxophonist Rick Steiger about the group's commitment to their work. "The Sun Messengers is a full-time job for all of us."

Full time if an understatement. These Messengers play usually four times a week and have traveled recently to Chicago, Toronto, Cleveland and Toledo to spread their east-side brand of sunshine.

"That means about one Saturday night off a year," says soundman Dave Martin from Grosse Pointe Park.

The success that keeps the Sun Messengers so busy these days can be attributed to their fresh, original approach which is a hybrid of many musical styles.

Former Pointers Steiger and percussionist R.J. Spangler began jamming in 1977 at block parties and neighborhood clubs in the Jefferson/Chalmers area. The number of good musicians in the area led to the large line-up.

"We started playing together out of our love for the music. We were all jazz buffs," says Spangler. Spangler, who grew up in the Farms, says initially there were no aspirations for great commercial success, but as audience response and the number of jobs increased, so did the realities of turning the Sun Messengers into a viable career. (Career musicianship was not new to R.J.'s family; his uncle is the noted Detroit drummer Bud Spangler, and his grandfather recorded as back-up singer with Bing Crosby).

The band's blend of traditional jazz, blues, rhythm and blues reggae and funk makes for highly danceable stuff while also opening up their audiences' musical horizons. Their eclectic style has focused primarily on the dance side of the musical coin lately, partly as a natural progression and partly out of necessity.

"We started with a modern jazz concept with a heavy groove but I don't think we were necessarily a 'dance band,'" says Steiger. "With the addition of heavy percussion, we locked in right away with the dancing crowd."

The revival of the big band sound makes for an easy dance party atmosphere at the band's live performances, but it also ties in well with today's lucrative dance record business, a fact the Sun Messengers are well aware of.

"We started as a live music band," says Steiger. "And I love the vibes of playing live, but for us to have a real future we have to concentrate on recording."

The band's latest release is a light

The record was recorded at Detroit's United Sound Studio, near Wayne State University and was released on the band's own Sun Sound label, as were their two previous vinyl endeavors.

Their last record, a four-song E.P. included a reggae number called "No War" which ranked high in Toronto's charts. The band hopes "Tiger Dynasty" will do as well for them here at home.

In the meantime, the Sun Messengers will remain very busy with a tight schedule that is booked through for the better part of the summer.

You can catch them at the "New Center Swings Series" at the New Center in Detroit in the afternoon outdoor concert Wednesday, July 3. After that it's off to the Toledo Jazz Festival Sunday, July 7, then a four-day/four-night stint in Traverse City followed by a free concert in the Alfred Brush Ford Park near Jefferson and Chalmers on Sunday, July 14.

Is the grueling schedule worth it? "I just love music in general and I'm happy to make my living at what I enjoy doing most," says Spangler. "Not everyone can say that."

For booking information, call guitarist Paul Bauhof at 343-0828.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything and who show me the way to reach my ideal. You who give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen.

Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish, after third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Thank you for favors received. C.A.B.
