Take it in stride

For all you riders and striders out there looking forward to the upcoming Free Press Marathon, which'll be winding its way through our town on Sunday, Oct. 13, there's been a slight change in plans.

Participants this year will be running on the north side of Jefferson Avenue and on the south side of Kercheval, according to the powers that be at the City Police Department, who called with this information.

Grosse Pointe will most be affected by the race between about 9:15 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., with the areas between Jefferson Avenue and Kercheval effectively landlocked during the busiest parts of the race.

Police are advising residents to be prepared to either put up with the inconvenience or move their cars below Jefferson or above Kercheval the night before to allow for Sunday transportation.

Firefighting friends

The Grosse Pointe Jaycees believe in fighting fire, and burns, with fire extinguishers.

That's why during the month of October, they're offering 2½ pound refillable fire extinguishers for $14.95. The units are 16 inches tall and come with a wall mounting bracket.

They can be located in the kitchen, garage, basement, office, automobile or anywhere a fire might break out.

Proceeds will be donated to the National Institute for Burn Medicine in Ann Arbor. The Jaycees will personally deliver the extinguishers to your home or office. Large orders are welcome.

Mail checks or money orders to Grosse Pointe Jaycees, P.O. Box 36124, Grosse Pointe 48236. Please wait two weeks for delivery. Call Jean Wenn at 885-4008 for more information.

Here's hoping you never have to use one.

Gotta dance, laddie

Hoot mon, they'll be flingin' it at St. Paul's gym on Saturday, Oct. 12, between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m., when the Midwest Highland Dance Association will hold its Scottish Highland Dance competition.

Dancers will be performing the Scottish Lilt, the Flora MacDonald Fancy, the Sailor Hornpipe as well as other traditional highland dances. Scottish food will be served between noon and 1:30 p.m.

Admission is $5 per family, $3 per adult and $1 for children. Phone 885-9332 for additional information.

Please pass the haggis.

Our business offices will close at 4 p.m. on Tuesdays only Tuesday hours 8 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Wednesday 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Monday, Thursday and Friday 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Hoeh case hearing set next month

Proceedings are expected to continue in mid-November in the workers' compensation claim made by the widow of the late Dr. James Hoeh against the Grosse Pointe School System.

Julia Hoeh filed the claim in February against the school system, claiming her husband's death in September 1984, was the result of a "mental injury caused by stress, traumatic neurosis, traumatic neurasthenia, traumatic anxiety, residuals and sequelae (sequela)." Dr. Hoeh died in Westland of a self-inflicted gunshot wound. At the time of his death, he was deputy superintendent of the school system but was handling the duties of the vacant superintendent position.

The workers' compensation claim alleges that it was that work that subjected Hoeh to "excessive stress . . . and aggravation and precipitation and/or flare-up of . . . (a) dormant emotional and mental condition resulting in a mental injury which led to (his) death."

The school system's answer to the petition, prepared by the law firm Plunkett, Cooney, Rutt, Waters, Stanczyk & Pedersen, denies that Hoeh "sustained a personal injury arising out of and in the course of his employment with the defendant employer."

The school system's answer also denies that Hoeh "sustained a personal injury due to causes and conditions characteristic of and peculiar to the business of (his) employer."

102 candles!

You can bet there'll be a big celebration at the Georgian East Nursing Home this Saturday, Oct. 12, when the ever-smiling Pearl Maine celebrates her 102nd birthday. Mrs. Maine says she "outgrew" all of her Grosse Pointe friends. She attributes her longevity to "just being a good girl" and plans on spending the day with her daughter, Gwen Gussow of the Farms, eating up all the cake and attention she'll receive. Possessed of a sharp sense of humor, Mrs. Maine often coyly suggests to visitors that she's just 100, not really 102.

South Lake repays taxes to Ford House

By Mike Andrzejczyk

South Lake public schools last week sent the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House a check for $64,462 to cover the repayment and interest on the estate's 1982 property tax interest.

At the same time, the South Lake Board of Education began the process of asking the Michigan Supreme Court for a rehearing of the state appellate court decision last year that decided the Ford House was tax-exempt and eligible for repayment on property taxes paid to the school system in 1980 through 1982 and those paid to Grosse Pointe Shores in 1980 and 1981. South Lake will also have to repay Macomb County's delinquent tax fund the amount it collected for the 1983 property taxes on the estate. A check for $68,209 is being prepared for the county, according to school officials.

After three years of legal struggles, the Ford House was declared a tax-exempt institution by a 2-1 decision of the Michigan Court of Appeals in 1984. Four units that had collected property taxes from the estate — Grosse Pointe Shores, Lake Township, South Lake Schools and Macomb County — were ordered to repay with interest taxes collected since 1980. The state Supreme Court denied a November 1984 request to review the decision.

Before the appellate court ruling, the village had granted the estate a tax exemption for 1984. Changes in the tax law benefited the home and made it eligible for the $0 tax bill, village officials said at the time.

Also last week, it was revealed that the Ford House has stopped accepting applications for events to be held at the estate for 1986.

"Basically what we're doing is changing the format a bit," Paul Alandt, executive director of the estate, said.

The estate has hired consultants who are looking for ways to develop the home more fully to make it more accessible to the public, Alandt said. "We are aware of the tax exemption for the public facility. We didn't get into that contest so now we can tell people to find another place," he added.

By not accepting activities for the coming year, the Ford House knows it's going to upset some people, but is planning for long-range development of the facility, he added.

Since the decision was just made recently by the board of trustees of the facility, the estate's staff hasn't gotten far enough along with it to make any definite statements about the changes and future plans, Alandt said. The changes have been a topic of discussion for a number of months, however, he added.

"We may end up disappointing people in changing our format slightly, but we certainly don't want to offend anyone," Alandt said.

Shores village officials said they had heard nothing about the format change, but will look into the matter to see if it affects the tax-exempt status of the estate.

When Eleanor Ford died in 1976, the home became "an historic property and cultural center which will be of service to the public" under the terms of her will.

The home was designed by Albert Kahn and patterned after a Cotswold, England country home. Taking three years to build, the home contains 60 rooms and is furnished in 16th, 17th and 18th century English style.

Property owned by the Ford House on the west side of Lake Shore, one of the largest undeveloped pieces of property in the Pointes, remains on the tax rolls.

VDTs hazardous to your health?

Probably not, experts say

By Nancy Parmenter

As computer terminals and word processors proliferate in the business place, so do concerns about potential health hazards. Fears of radiation-caused cataracts have not been scientifically justified so far, but problems with eyestrain and ergonomics — the physical relationship between man and machine — appear to be real.

Although some lawsuits have resulted in workers' compensation settlements, many experts are now saying that with proper precautions, employees and machines can learn to live together.

One of the first video display terminal-related settlements was reported in Ms. Magazine in March 1984. A VDT operator who began to have vision problems within three months of starting a full-time data processing job in San Francisco won a $3,500 temporary disability payment and a $7,232 settlement in private workers' compensation, the magazine reported.

Her problem was caused by a spasm of the eye muscles used in focusing and was so severe that two years later, she still could not tolerate bright light or read for more than 10 minutes, according to Ms.

The magazine reported a Mount Sinai (N.Y.) Medical Center study finding that VDT users show "significantly more eyestrain and deteriorated vision" than the general population. But it also reported a 1983 study by the National Academy of Sciences that found no scientific evidence that VDTs pose a danger to vision.

G.M. Getman, a doctor of optometry, stated more than a year ago in the Education Digest (December 1983) that "employees who had no problem seeing the clock across the office (who were actually farsighted before their assignment to computers) are now finding they are becoming nearsighted if they stay at this specific job."

Getman reported increased nearsightedness among the elementary school-aged population, which he said is attributed to increased visual loads. "There is no doubt among behavioral optometrists that . . . the computer is the newest and most potent contributor to early, extreme nearsightedness in children who drive themselves to mastery of it in spite of the stress," he wrote.

The Grosse Pointe schools are proud of their district-wide computer program. Dr. Edward McKeehan, computer coordinator for the elementary schools, said the key to Getman's argument is the amount of time spent at the terminal.

"He's talking about early primary," McKeehan said. "We have very limited computer use at that age." School children do not reach the point of using a computer every day until they are in high school; middle school students use one every other day, he said.

"There may be a case to be investigated (about eyestrain in general)," McKeehan said, "but it has to be looked at in terms of time on task." He said the primary grades use the computer about one hour a week and that children are more likely to use one (or a video game) at home.

Dr. Robert Nesom, a Woods doctor of optometry, agrees the computers "have opened up a whole new bag of worms."

"It's a completely new way of doing close work," he said. "It brings up lots of potential problems."

Nesom said the entire basic setup of most offices is wrong for VDTs. Offices have windows and bright lights for working at typewriters. When the typewriters are replaced with terminals, the brightness produces a glare on the screen.

Lighting in the office should be reduced. VDT operators should adjust the contrast and brightness on their screen to suit their own eyes. Units with detached keyboards should also be adjusted to suit each individual user, Nesom said.

"This is especially true for people over 40," he explained. "They have less focusing ability and may need special glasses for working at the terminal." Wearing bifocals at a VDT forces the head at an odd angle, "and if you hold your head funny all day, you'll go home with a stiff neck."

Nesom says the key to the problem is not only the amount of time spent at the terminal, but the amount of stress the operator is working under. Kids playing video games are relaxed and having fun, but office workers usually have a quota and can't take a break whenever they want one.

"It's like the difference between reading a professional journal and reading poetry," Nesom said.

One of his patients recently reported a big improvement in his eyes when Nesom prescribed coated lenses to block ultra-violet rays. Nesom said that ordinary tinted lenses may be beneficial to some people as well.

There probably are more nearsighted people than there used to be, and Nesom blames that on the amount of near-point work demanded in our society. "Near work for prolonged periods isn't natural to human beings," he said, "but we do have to live in society."

Health screening done at the time when Alaska became a state showed that people there tended to be farsighted, but statistics on nearsightedness increased when more people began attending school, Nesom said.

Although eyestrain in VDT operators is beginning to be documented, the Michigan Occupational Safety and Health Agency has no standards governing the situation. It does publish guidelines based on the current literature, according to Ron Davenport, a MIOSHA compliance officer.

Kercheval in the Park to host Autumn Festival

The second Kercheval in the Park Autumn Festival will be held Friday and Saturday, Oct. 18 and 19, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Activities will be on the five blocks from Nottingham to the city limits. Some of the events include an antique car display, prizes, live music, food booths hosted by Park restaurants, pumpkins, Chinese lion dancers and free blood pressure testing by Bon Secours outpatient clinic.

On Saturday, S. Charles Bolter will challenge all comers to play chess simultaneously, up to 35 people. All winners will receive a prize and the exhibition will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. Georgia Edwards of Grosse Pointe Botanical Gardens is chairing the event.

MACLD conference is tomorrow

"Diamonds in the Rough," the 20th annual state conference of the Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, will be held Friday, Oct. 11, at the Fairlane Manor, Dearborn.

Dr. Clint Van Nagel, professor of special education, University of Northern Florida, will give the keynote address, focusing on teaching strategies, building emotional strengths and problem solving skills for LD children. The conference will also address attention deficit disorders, peer interaction, special education services and other areas of concern.

MACLD is a non-profit volunteer organization of parents and professionals devoted to defining and finding solutions to the broad spectrum of learning disorders.

For further information, call 661-4816. Learning disabled children are those of normal to above-average intelligence who may have difficulty in being able to read, speak, write or translate their environment into an organized, meaningful one. Such children may be experiencing failure in school, with family and friends, and have low self esteem.

The Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities is part of a national organization which helps to educate the parent and teacher to their child's educational rights guaranteed by law.

For more information, call 471-0790 or write to: MACLD, 20777 Randall, Farmington, MI 48024.

Coping with cancer

"I Can Cope," a free program for cancer patients and their families, will begin at 7 p.m., Monday, Oct. 28, at Grace Hospital. The series will be held on eight consecutive Mondays through Dec. 16.

The program is sponsored by Grace Hospital and the American Cancer Society. During "I Can Cope," people dealing with cancer hear directly from physicians, nurses, physical therapists, chaplains, lawyers and other professionals.

The program's uniqueness lies in its emphasis on the patient's role in dealing with cancer. By making patients and their families informed as well as active members of their health care team, the course helps people with cancer regain a sense of control in their lives.

Health care professionals will review the physical anatomy, explain what is currently known about cancer and the many ways it is treated. Participants will learn how to develop positive responses to stress and changes in physical appearance caused by cancer, be physically fit, deal with health problems as they arise and communicate about cancer within their families.

To register for "I Can Cope," or for more information, call 927-3494.

MACLD will meet

Michigan Association for Children and Adults With Learning Disabilities, Inc. will present "Learning Disabilities: A Family Affair" on Tuesday, Oct. 15, 7:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Central Library.

Mike Stanley, a father of learning-disabled children, will moderate the program and offer a father's perspective on raising his children. The program will open with the film, "Backward: The Riddle of Dyslexia," which will be followed by discussion and sharing of ideas and concerns.

Everyone is welcome. For further information, call 343-9168 or 886-9547.

Oriental Odyssey

The Altar Society of St. Paul's Catholic Church will host its annual gala luncheon and fashion show at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club on Wednesday, Oct. 16. Walton-Pierce will present fall and holiday fashions. The theme this year will be "Oriental Odyssey" and a very special mini-fashion show of oriental designs will be presented by Margaret of Contemporary Artifacts. Pictured above from left to right are co-chairman Irene Gracey, Mary Louise Forcade, president of the Altar Society, and co-chairman Grace Rashid, outfitted in authentic kimonos. The Grosse Pointe Yacht Club's Chef Gabriel has created a very special oriental luncheon menu. Committee chairmen assisting Gracey and Rashid with the luncheon preparations are Therese McGratty, reservations; Barbara Alle, seating; Martha Braun, publicity; Renee DaSaro, decorations; Nancy Rashid, invitations; Shelia Crandall and Mary Gianni, raffle; Sally Jay, Mary Gianni, Helena Muer and Mary Brooks, door prizes; and Ann Jerome reception chairman.

Out-of-formula districts out of luck

By Mike Andrzejczyk

What do Grosse Pointe public schools have in common with Atlanta public schools in the northern lower peninsula's Montmorency County, whose total population is slightly more than the number of kids enrolled in the local school system?

They and 176 other school districts in the state are — more or less — victims of circumstance when it comes to receiving state aid for education. Those 176 districts represent one-third of the state's total school districts and are considered to be out-of-formula by the state.

The formula is set by the state Department of Education to determine which school districts will receive direct aid. This year, the formula sets $2,386.35 as the maximum level a district can collect in property taxes per student.

A district with a state equalized valuation of $50,000 a student and a millage rate of 30 mills collects $1,500 in taxes per student. The state will then pay the district $886.35 to make up the difference.

Grosse Pointe collects almost $4,800 in taxes for each of its students. Harper Woods collects slightly more.

It is circumstance, not choice, that drives districts out of formula, according to Leslie Wessman, executive director of the Michigan Out-of-Formula District Association. With direct aid determined by the value of property divided by the number of students, many get the impression that most out-of-formula districts are those serving affluent suburbs.

Unfortunately, small population districts that serve large areas, like those in the Upper Peninsula, find themselves out of formula, Wessman said. Atlanta public schools has 500 students attending, but serves such a large area that the revenue collected puts the district out of formula, she adds.

It's the same story for 22 U.P. school districts, 55 in the northern lower peninsula, 34 in southwestern Michigan and 67 in southeastern Michigan, Wessman said.

Grosse Pointe school board trustee Dorothy Kennel pointed out at a recent meeting that while state spending for education was increasing this fiscal year by 11 percent, the lion's share of that goes to in-formula districts. What was left ends up going to districts just barely out of formula. The net effect of the increase for Grosse Pointe is about $2,000, she added.

Where out-of-formula districts are losing out is through the state's incentive funding to promote educational excellences through smaller class sizes and institutionalization of certain programs, Wessman said. The state legislature added nearly $200 million to the budget to fund such items and little if any will end up in out-of-formula district coffers.

The idea of setting a formula for state aid was first introduced in 1973. Before then, the state controlled the millage rates for districts that wanted to collect direct aid. By shifting the control over the millage rate to local districts, the state also looked for a way to equitably determine how much state aid a school system needed, finally settling on using the SEV, Wessman said.

In the late 1970s, when the state's economy was nearing rock-bottom, state government began looking for ways to cut back and some of those ways included education. The competition for fewer state aid dollars did a great deal to split the in-formula and out-of-formula districts, she added.

The MOFDA was formed in 1980, when four out-of-formula districts decided to set up an association that could lobby for out-of-formula districts, keep them informed about issues that affected them and help them work together to act in their best interest at the state level, Wessman said.

Ninety-one of the 176 districts that are out-of-formula have joined the association, paying 35 cents a student as dues to support the MOFDA, Wessman said. Grosse Pointe is not a member.

The association has been able to make some changes in the system through its efforts, Wessman said. One of those changes came in the categorical grant recapture system used by the state.

In the past, the state has mandated programs and then made grants to school systems to cover the costs, as required by the Headlee Amendment, Wessman said. But out-of-formula districts could lose up to two-thirds of that money to the categorical recapture by the state, she added.

Through the work of the association, a sliding scale has been developed so that districts which are less able to afford losing grant money won't lose as high percentage, she added.

Grosse Pointe receives $562,000 in categorical grants for its bilingual programs, talented and gifted programs, special education, vocational education, transportation reimbursements and community education, according to Christian Fenton, director of finance for the system. But the state recaptures $357,000 of the grant money through its program, leaving the system with little more than $200,000.

There are advantages to being out of formula, Fenton said. "In essence, we're able to control our own finances by being out of formula," he added.

With 98 percent of revenue coming from local property taxes, the district is less affected by the economic pendulum that alternately increases and decreases state spending.

There are some out-of-formula districts, Grosse Pointe among them, that can consider themselves lighthouse districts because of the willingness of the community to support educational programs that other districts may not be able to afford, Wessman said.

But dependence on property taxes cuts both ways. In some out-of-formula districts, residents have been unwilling to increase their tax burden to continue funding education, resulting in cutbacks in programs, Wessman said.

The association has been doing its work well.

"When I first started here three years ago, there were some very negative feelings about out-of-formula districts... primarily because of the budget cutbacks," Wessman said. "That's easing now, because of the work the districts are doing."

To raise part of the money, the society planned to make proposals to various charitable foundations, such as the Kresge Foundation, Gandelot said. The society won't be able to make those proposals without some kind of agreement with the village, she added.

Vernier was one of the first schools closed and sold to a municipality by the school system. Built in 1916 and designed by Albert Kahn, among whose local accomplishments include the village offices and the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, the building features a Pewabic tile fireplace in one of the main classrooms.

The school system stopped using the building as a school in 1954 and sold it to the village in 1956 for $25,000. It has served a number of purposes for the Shores, including temporary municipal office space in 1983 and 1984 when the village hall was undergoing a $1.3 million renovation.

Become a real estate magnate with Grosse Pointopoly game

"Pay Grosse Pointe Poor Tax of $15," "Advance to Go," and "Get Out of Jail Free," are but a few of the sayings on the personalized game cards that accompany Grosse Pointopoly, our community's own new game. Deed cards bear the names of the local property owners listed on the game board as well.

Grosse Pointopoly was produced by the Grosse Pointe Foundation for Academic Enrichment, an independent, non-profit foundation that is dedicated to providing enrichment programs and speakers not otherwise funded to students of the Grosse Pointe Public School System. Established in 1971 the Foundation for Academic Enrichment has brought more than 50 programs to students in Grosse Pointe schools. The Foundation is using Grosse Pointopoly as a fundraiser to increase its endowment.

Grosse Pointopoly features businesses who purchased space on the game board as property owners who represent a geographical and retail cross-section of the five Grosse Pointes. The purpose of the game is for the participants to try to become the wealthiest residents of Grosse Pointe by buying, selling and operating local businesses. Brightly colored discs are used to represent customers in the stores.

Kathleen Judge, Grosse Pointe South High School senior, has done the art work on the game board. She has featured Grosse Pointe landmarks and superimposed them on top of a sailboat race for the board face, and well-known buildings, that are typical of Grosse Pointe architecture, enhance the back of the game.

Games may be purchased from foundation trustees at fall public school functions, at Barnes School, 20090 Morningside, Grosse Pointe Woods from 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. and at The Needles Point, Ltd. at 397 Fisher Road, Grosse Pointe, during regular store hours.

The Grosse Pointe Foundation for Academic Enrichment approved funding for programs at the elementary, middle and secondary school level at its September meeting. Money was granted toward a program featuring an award-winning illustrator, Trinka Hikes Noble, with a visit to three public elementary schools as well as to the Grosse Pointe Central Library. She will show how books evolve with illustrations, binding and text, as well as share with students how they can develop creative talents in writing.

The University of Wisconsin Heritage Ensemble program entitled "Sandburgland" was approved by the Foundation for March, 1986. It will be a presentation at an all school assembly of "Carl Sandburg's Midwest in poetry and song" at Brownell, Parcells and Pierce Middle Schools, with follow-up discussion in the advanced English classes.

The well-received Poet's Seminar at Grosse Pointe South High School on Oct. 1-3 was supported by the foundation and featured Pulitzer Prize winner, W.D. Snodgrass, Interlochen's Dr. Jack Driscoll and Kalamazoo College's Dr. Conrad Hillberry. These well-known poets worked with students from all the literature classes, creative writing classes as well as the faculty for three days and also gave a community-wide presentation in the auditorium at Grosse Pointe South High School.

Grosse Pointe Foundation for Academic Enrichment officers for the 1985-86 school year are as follows: Peggy Davis, president; John Hammel, vice president; Ruth Zinn, recording secretary; Gordon Morlan, corresponding secretary; Joy Williams, treasurer.

Trustees include Marieke Allen, Anne Berry, Cathie Brierly and immediate past president George Edgington. Alfreda Frost, Joan Hanpeter, Kathy Herschmann and Cynthia Huebner also serve on the foundation board.

Pat Jeffs, Ed Kane, Eva Koch, Lynne Kogel and Crit Leibbrand are also trustees. Sharon Masek, Eugene Matecun, Ann Nicholson, Marge Nixon, Ginny Peattie and Bob Welch complete the board for the foundation.

North among nation's best

North High School will hoist a flag at a 9:40 a.m. ceremony Wednesday, Oct. 16.

It's not just any flag, though. The flag was presented to a delegation from North — Principal John Kasttran, board President Jon Gandelot and English teacher Patricia Fox — when the group traveled to Washington, D.C., to accept national recognition by the U.S. Department of Education for excellence.

The same award was given to South in 1983.

"It was just an honor to be there standing on the White House lawn," Kasttran told the board Monday night. "It was just tremendous... (and) so worth it."

"I was wishing that all the people back home could have been there, especially the students," he added.

Grosse Pointe Education Association president Doris Cook said Fox' participation in the delegation was decided through blind draw after Superintendent John Whritner informed the school he would be unable to attend the ceremony and thought a teacher should fill his place.

"We feel it was recognition of the importance of the role of the teacher in this," she added.

The flag will be flown during the day Wednesday, with all classes assembling for its raising and the reading of a proclamation. The flag will then be displayed at the school with the proclamation.

Group's hope for a home put on hold

By Mike Andrzejczyk

The Shores village council took no action last month on a proposal by the Grosse Pointe Historical Commission to renovate Vernier school. The council instead decided to ask residents what they think should be done with the almost 70-year-old Albert Kahn-designed school.

The village is looking into all the possible uses for the building and has decided to poll its residents to see what they think should be done with the structure, west of the village offices on Vernier, according to Superintendent Michael Kenyon.

The council remains committed to not demolishing the school building, which is now used for storage and as a voting precinct, Kenyon added. Trustees want residents to have a chance to say what they want done with the building, he added.

The council's action does not mean it won't reconsider the historical society's proposal for renovating at least part of the school some time in the future, Kenyon added.

Historical society President Lisa Gandelot said she was "a little disappointed" by trustees' decision. There was some question about the village's commitment to a long-term lease with the society as part of the proposal, she added.

The proposal remains essentially the same as the one presented to the village in July, Gandelot said. The society and village would enter into a long-term lease while the building's seven classrooms were renovated. The historical society would become the developer and handle the subleasing of rooms, with oversight by the council.

The village would need to do between $80,000 and $120,000 worth of work to the outside and roof of the building to eliminate leaks and limit continuing deterioration to the interior. The society would hope to raise between $250,000 and $750,000 to cover the interior work, either through direct or in-kind

Blood drive

The Grosse Pointe Community Blood Council will sponsor a blood drive today, Oct. 10, at Christ the King Lutheran Church, 20338 Mack, from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Babysitters and transportation are available. Walk-ins are welcome. For transportation, call the church office at 884-5090.

Low-speed chase yields stolen car

When a Farms police officer saw a car with a burned-out taillight driving slowly east on Mack last week, straddling the right lane and the parking lane, he decided to investigate for drunken driving. By the time he got his man, he found the car was stolen.

Scout car 35 followed the 1973 Chevrolet around the block, down an alley, west on Mack and through a car wash, according to police reports. Activating the flashers and siren did nothing to stop the driver. He accelerated down Cornwall, struck an AMC two-door and a Dodge station wagon parked near Radnor, spun around and "appeared to be ready to ram" the scout car when his vehicle stalled.

The officer ordered him from the car at gunpoint, according to the report. By this time, a license check showed that the car had been reported stolen in St. Clair Shores.

The car's steering column had been pried open so that the thief could start it with a screw driver. Police reports said the screwdriver was still on the floor of the car.

Police arrested the driver, 18, of St. Clair Shores, and charged him with fleeing and eluding.

Man hospitalized after auto mishap

A 75-year-old Park man was reported in fair condition in St. John Hospital Friday, the day after he lapsed into unconsciousness and drove his car into the back porch of his Whittier home.

According to reports, the man was pulling his Chevrolet into his garage Thursday afternoon, Oct. 3, when he passed out and drove the car into the back porch of the home. Police and fire units were summoned, with firemen putting out the right rear wheel of the Chevrolet. The driver's foot remained on the accelerator after the car came to a rest, causing the tire to spin and ignite.

The man was taken to St. John, where he was "alert and in good spirits," according to a hospital spokesman.

Learn to prevent athletic injuries

In the continuation of the series of free fall workshops, the professional staff of the Bon Secours Hospital Health and Fitness Center will offer "Sports Medicine: Cause and Prevention of Sports Injuries in the Recreational Athlete," from 7 to 9 p.m., on Wednesday, Oct. 16.

Dwight Gaal, B.S., M.S., exercise physiologist, will discuss common injuries and how to avoid them, as well as jogging, running, aerobic dance and similar activities.

The workshop will be held in the Bon Secours Hospital Health and Fitness Center classroom, 22300 Bon Brae, west of Jefferson between 10 and 11 Mile roads. Space is limited, call 779-7040 between 7 a.m. and 10 p.m. weekdays, and 9:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. Saturdays to reserve a seat.

Heart of Gold

Six Grosse Pointe women recently attended the Heart of Gold Award Council meeting to plan for the 1986 awards program. Sitting, from the left, are Sandy Fisher, screening and judging chairman, and Beth Whitney. Standing, from left, are Peg Lewis, Anne Hoag, Shirley Reeves and Nanette Quinones. The Heart of Gold program, which honors outstanding volunteers, is sponsored by the Heart of Gold Award Council and the United Foundation. Any tri-county area resident can be nominated for making contributions in the area of child and family care, retirees and senior citizens, church, culture and educational activities, health care or involvement in citizen groups. Nominations are being accepted now through Nov. 4. For further information, contact the United Foundation at 965-7100.

Diet Pills Sweeping U.S.

Doctor Study Says New 'Hi-Tech' Pills Give You "3 Times" Faster Weight Loss

No Dieting — Eat Normally — Diet Pills Do All the Work

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)— Good news for people who want to lose weight. In a recent highly successful clinical weight loss study, ALL people tested lost weight using an amazing new "hi-tech" diet pill program. The study was conducted by a panel of medical doctors in California on several groups of overweight people and the results proved conclusively that the new hi-tech pills test group lost weight almost "3 times faster" than the group tested using the famous grapefruit pill diet.

All Lost up to 1 lb. Per Day

Best of all, the pills allow you to "continue to eat all of your favorite foods without changing your normal eating or exercising habits and still lose weight easier and faster than ever before, starting immediately." Remarkably, ALL people in the new "hi-tech" pills clinical test group lost weight (an average of 1/2 lb. per day up to 1 lb. per day.) It also helps eliminate bloat and puffiness.

"Pills Do All the Work"

According to the clinical study, "the pills alone do all the work while you quickly lose weight with NO starvation "diet menus" to follow, NO calorie counting, NO special exercise, and NO hunger pangs." You simply take the pills with a glass of water before meals.

Powerful Appetite Suppressants

The new pills contain a powerful clinically proven appetite suppressant that an advisory panel of doctors have determined to be "safe and effective for weight loss."

In addition, the pills also contain a remarkable calorie-free dietary fiber that expands in your stomach and tends to give you a partially satisfied feeling before you eat. Thus, the new combination of ingredients in the pills act 2 ways to aid in curbing your appetite, causing you to eat less, take in less calories, and lose weight without feeling deprived or hungry.

Pills Contain ALL Daily Vitamins

No need to take any vitamins to maintain your good health and energy because the pills are fortified with ALL (100%) of the U.S. Government USRDA recommended daily vitamin requirements.

The amazing 'hi-tech' diet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of easy and fast weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

Now Available to Public

You can order your supply of these new highly successful 'hi-tech' diet pills (now available directly from the manufacturer by mail or phone order only) by sending $14 for a 15-day supply (or $20 for a 30-day supply, or $35 for a 60-day supply) cash, check or money order to: HI-TECH Products, 717 Central Ave., Dept. W24 Kansas City, Kansas 66101. (30 day unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard, and Amer. Express OK. (Send card number, expiration date, and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call anytime 24 hrs. TOLL FREE 1-(800)-222-9969 ext. W24. Nominations open for arts awards

Nominations are open for the Michigan Foundation for the Arts' 1986 Michigan Arts and Patrons Awards. Deadline for submitting nominations is Dec. 31.

The awards are given annually to five artists in varying disciplines in recognition of outstanding achievement in their field. Each award carries a $2,500 prize that will be presented at the Detroit Institute of Arts in May 1986.

For nominating forms and information, write to Barrie Werba, executive director, Michigan Foundation for the Arts, 1703 Fisher Building, Detroit 48202.

The Michigan Arts Awards were established in 1976. Since that time, the foundation has honored 52 artists and 24 patrons.

Earlier this year, awards went to Ann Arbor's Ars Musica, The Baroque Orchestra; Lansing actress

Carmen Decker; Birmingham author Elmore (Dutch) Leonard; Detroit painter/sculptor Robert Sestok; and Ann Arbor ceramist Susanne Stephenson.

Recipients of the Patron of the Arts award for outstanding service to the state in support of the arts were the late Jacqueline Feigenson of Detroit and John E. Perry of Petoskey. Patrons receive a commemorative plaque of Pewabic pottery specially cast for the award.

MFA is a non-profit foundation that encourages and supports excellence in the arts through grants, awards, scholarships and commissions to Michigan artists, students and cultural organizations.

Founded in 1966, MFA is funded entirely by corporations, foundations, and individuals. Over the years, it has awarded more than $1.2 million to grant recipients.

Small business has big impact

Editorial writer Bill Elston is on vacation. The following editorial was written by the National Small Business Association in Washington, D.C., a group that has championed the cause of small business for nearly 50 years.

We take a lot of things for granted — running water, the daily newspaper, electricity, the corner drug store — the list is long. We seldom stop to realize however, how much we need or rely on those things we take for granted until we have to do without them.

One of the difficulties in creating public awareness of how important small business is in sustaining local and national economic strength is, in large part, due to the fact that because small businesses consistently and reliably meet our daily needs, we tend to take them for granted and we lose sight of their importance.

Most of us work for a small business. We buy our houses, cars, clothes and household appliances from small businesses. When we need the toaster, TV or the children's bikes repaired, we call on our neighborhood small business. We get our clothes cleaned and our hair styled at our favorite local shop. The watch for our son or daughter's graduation is available at the local jeweler's and our audio, video and computer needs are conveniently available "from a store near you" as a favorite advertising phrase goes.

But what if everyone in the country had to go to Detroit to buy a car? What if we had to go to the plant of one of the major pharmaceutical manufacturers to buy aspirin or the prescription the doctor ordered for our sick child? What if we had to go to Georgia, Washington or Oregon to look at and buy the lumber we need for our home repair jobs?

Possibly only if these exaggerated examples become realities would we understand the true value of small business. And this in no way devalues or denigrates the value and importance of big business without which our economy could not survive. But through TV commercials and other media attention which centers on the ebb and flow of activity in these businesses, many of the "Fortune 500" names are well known to us and occupy our attention when we think about America's business community.

Local small businesses do not enjoy the same media attention and consequently do not rate high in the public consciousness, but their importance is just as vital to our economic well-being.

The National Small Business Association

New Collar Americans

The following editorial was written by Ralph Whitehead Jr., public service professor at the University of Massachusetts, for the National Forum. The National Forum, funded as a public service by AFSCME, the public employees union, provides views of national experts on public issues.

With the growth of the service industry in this country, a new social and political force is emerging. It's the "New Collar" worker.

The new collars are the Middle Americans of the emerging generation under the age of 45.

Their cultural values are strongly defined. They are dyed-in-the-wool adherents of the baby boom culture. They place a premium on self-expression. They view the world as a world of people rather than as a world of institutions. They are media-wise in the extreme. They tend to view officialdom with what Frederick Baughan calls a genial skepticism. They aren't out to dynamite the establishment, but they do like to kick its tires.

Their economic role is still evolving. Just as family farmers have driven the farming economy, and just as blue collars have turned the wheels of the manufacturing economy, so many of the new collars are the workhorses of the service economy. They generally earn individual incomes from the low teens into the high twenties or low thirties. Their family incomes tend to fall in the range of $20,000 to $40,000.

Their political outlook is fluid and has yet to be defined. They form roughly 15 percent of the nation's electorate. At the moment, they are still up for grabs.

They lead all Americans in split-ticket voting. They are extrapartisan. A majority of the new collars describe themselves as independents. Many of the partisans are extremely weak in their partisanship.

They are postideological. Many call themselves moderates, less because they are moderate than because they resist the conventional options of liberal and conservative. Surveys reveal many new collars to be highly volatile in their choice of ideological labels. They will call themselves liberals in a June survey, say they're conservative in a July study, and opt for the moderate label come August.

As Boston-born pollster Thomas Kiley puts it: "The partisans aren't that partisan, the liberals and conservatives aren't that liberal or conservative."

The majority of new collars are best described as dealigned — or, even more precisely, many of them never got aligned with a party in the first place.

Clearly, the traditional terms of partisanship

(NSB) has compiled a basis of comparison it believes gives scope and dimension to small business' value and importance.

Last year, small businesses provided a livelihood for more than half of the population and jobs for 45 percent of the nation's total, non-farm workforce. That meant jobs for more than 45 million Americans.

Stated another way, jobs provided by small business were:

- 10 times greater than all the jobs in the federal government;
- 3 times greater than all the jobs in state and local governments;
- 3 times greater than the total number of jobs of the "Fortune 500;" and
- 37 times greater than the total number of jobs of the Big Three automobile manufacturers!

Last year small businesses also produced 39 percent of the gross national product. This translated to one trillion, four hundred billion dollars — $1,400,000,000,000!

Put in perspective, that was:

- 6 times greater than the cost of national defense;
- 5 times more than total health care costs, including social security, medicare and medicaid;
- 13 times greater than interest on the debt;
- 13 times greater than income security costs, that is, retirement and disability payments and assistance to the aged and disabled;
- 52 times greater than the cost of all of our education programs;
- 1½ times greater than total expenditures of the 1984 federal budget!

Viewed in this broader perspective of its relative value to the nation, small business can begin to receive the attention it needs and merits to grow, prosper and continue as a bulwark of the nation's economy.

We need small business. We need the diversity that small firms provide in broadening a community's economic base. We need the traditional values that small business alone provides in preserving competition, an independent market economy and our free enterprise system which allows Americans a unique freedom of choice in the products they buy and the prices they pay; and perhaps most of all, we need small businesses' productive capacity and the jobs they generate each year.

You need your local small businesses and they need you. Continue to support them.

The new collars voted overwhelmingly for Ronald Reagan in November of 1984. They tend to be general election rather than primary voters. Their current view of the President's economic leadership is pretty much what it was a year ago: So far, so good.

With their superior knowledge of the baby boom electorate, the Reaganites already have the new collars (or a slice of voters very much like them) in their sights. The president's speech on his tax plan was clearly aimed in large part at new collars. The plan itself, however, does little for them.

The conventional methods of survey research obscure the new collars rather than reveal them as an emerging and distinctive force in the electorate.

Again, many resist the labels of party and ideology. If they accept them, they don't always take them to mean what the pollsters and their politician clients take such terms to mean. Even the traditional job categories, blue collar and white collar, fail to get at the actual nature of new collar working life. The "news" are a little of both of these and a "little" of neither one.

Moreover, though some forces have begun to speak to the new collars, no public figure or major institution has yet tried to speak for them.

The new collars are easy to reach through the media. They form the bulk of the audience for local television news, sporting events, and much of the prime time schedule. However, they are tough to engage through traditional political organization, since they don't frequent the old haunts or respond to the customary organizational appeals.

If the Yuppies disdain traditional values, then the new collars try where possible to adapt them to current realities.

The new collars vastly outnumber the Yuppies. The size of the margin depends on the definition of Yuppies, but is at least six-to-one nationally.

New Collar America crosses the lines of region and race and is far too large to be reduced to or served by a conventional interest group. New Collar America is what's classically known as a community of fate. Its members share a common standing in life, a common array of problems and possibilities, and a common range of prospects.

This "up-for-grabs" group will become more important in the political area as their size increases through demographic change.

Members dedicated to preserving elms

To the Editor:

Lynn Crissman's allegation that cessation of spraying would lead to "the best dead elm tree population in the world" is not based on fact.

The Grosse Pointe Park Council's auction to stop spraying was in response to a report that Mr. Jerome Abbs and I, as members of the Beautification Commission, were asked to make.

We found that most authorities did not support the practice of methoxychlor spraying outright, or found so many difficulties in its practical application that it was of little or no value. But most importantly, we found many cities having excellent Dutch elm disease control programs without spraying.

For example, we read of Washington, D.C. and some Chicago suburbs which had annual losses of 2.6 percent and less, and they hadn't sprayed for years. Here in Grosse Pointe, in 1984 (the last year of spraying), our public elm tree loss was 8 percent. During the years that we sprayed with methoxychlor, our elm numbers declined dramatically. In 1977 our city had 4,446 elm trees, but that figure had fallen to 2,332 by the end of 1984.

I am led to believe by Ms. Crissman's statement regarding cacodylic acid that she does not understand its use. Let me quote from a nationally known expert, Dr. Gerald Lanier of the State University of New York, "... hopelessly diseased (but living) elms are injected with the herbicide cacodylic acid. Within a few days the tree crown turns brown and the trees become very attractive to elm bark beetles. However, the cacodylic acid causes the bark to dry so rapidly that nearly all of the beetle broods fail to mature. In this way a liability (diseased elm) is quickly and cheaply converted into an asset (bark beetle trap).

Both elm log ordinance and the cacodylic treatment are methods we can use to control the beetle population and therefore, the infection rate of the disease. Less disease means more trees.

Will interns be just drudges?

To the Editor:

Even the determined reader would have had trouble deciphering the reasons given by the school board for the institution of the "internship program" at the high school. (Grosse Pointe News, Sept. 26) Just what educational functions will the interns perform?

Will it be to assume the counselors' "drudgework" so as "to free up the counselors for counseling?" Since this is to be a "promotion from within" (Imagine! One is "promoted" from teaching to drudgework!), will an experienced classroom teacher be promoted to "drudging" to be replaced by one of Mr. Tonks' "1,000-1,500" applicants?

Or will the teacher thus "promoted" relieve the counselors of their responsibility for "disruptive students" who prevent the counselors from seeing "the students who are doing everything right?" Can "disruptive students" be taught to Beautification Commission members have for years spent much time trying to save our elm trees by conducting injection programs, collecting data and educating the public on elm tree care; we realize their beauty and value and we want to keep them.

If Lynn Crissman is so concerned about our elm trees, why didn't she speak out publicly on the issues before the 1985 election campaign began?

Enrich community life, don't commercialize

To the Editor:

In its opening statement, the Capital Campaign brochure defines the objective of the War Memorial as being "a place for the enrichment of community life."

Certainly what it describes as its many fine "cultural enterprises" have fulfilled that objective in large measure over a long period of time.

It is hard for me to see, however, why or how these "cultural enterprises" will be furthered by the granting of a commercial liquor license that enables a tax-free institution to compete against private business, through a monopoly in a private residential area.

Oscar Wilde said, "I dislike arguments. They are always vulgar and often convincing."

However, I hope the present community discussions may at least convince some that the War Memorial's "quality institutions" can be preserved, as they have been in the past, without further commercialization.

William D. Laurie, Jr.
Grosse Pointe Farms

be less disruptive by a former science or math or English teacher, or is this a better function of the current school psychologists?

Or, since the "two administrators [are] handling discipline [and] they can get to spending all their time on it [ignoring] their responsibility to the personal development of young people," will the former classroom teachers be put in charge of discipline? Or, indeed, will the interns be assigned all three functions?

In any case, it seems that the "internship program" will cost the students the services of two experienced classroom teachers. But why would a teacher seek or accept a "promotion" to become "administrator" of "drudgework, disruption, and discipline" — even with the prospect of the administrator's higher salary when his internship ends? Why would he leave teaching, the profession for which he was trained?

It is ludicrous. A public school district exists to educate its youth. Teachers are trained to provide this service. Then experienced teachers are lured from the classroom into administration by the promise of a salary higher than that of any teacher. It is not only ludicrous; it is asinine — and expensive.

Ironically, while the board perceived an urgent need for two more administrators, it seems less concerned with oversized classes: "Schools to hire [a] teacher, aides," reports another front page story Sept. 26.

Give students a fighting chance

To the Editor:

While I was a student at Grosse Pointe South, and tri-editor of "The Tower" my senior year, I had many a disagreement with the board of education and some of their policies. Most of my views remained silent. After all, I was only a student, and who would listen?

Well, I'm not a Grosse Pointe student any longer. After spending two months in college (Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn.), I have come in contact with many other freshmen from across the nation and have some concrete evidence and advice for the board and anyone else who'll listen.

The topic? High school grade point averages.

I know. At times this subject has been beaten to death by teachers, administrators and board members. But I bring a different perspective.

Before entering high school, I was told of the variation of electives by my middle school counselor. I arrived freshman year with the goal of getting the best education possible.

For four years I took the hardest possible courses. I graduated with 5 AP courses, a 1300 SAT score, and a "respectable" 3.0 grade point average.

Allow me to let you in on a little secret. "Respectable" doesn't get you into college! Sure, I was instantly accepted into the old GPS favorites: University of Michigan and Michigan State. But many high school students want more. As I discovered in April, the coveted Ivy League was only a dream to the many of us who sacrificed our GPAs for an education.

But I was one of the lucky ones. Because of my outside talents and extracurricular activities, I was enrolled at Vanderbilt University, where I am starting anew.

Enough of the past.

The fact is the Grosse Pointe Public School System has to amend its grading procedure. At high schools nationwide, students enrolled in AP courses have their grades boosted one point, so an "B" becomes an "A". Others work off of a 4.5 base instead of a 4.25 base.

A guy on my hall graduated from a public high school in Birmingham, Ala. with a 4.2 GPA, number one in his class. He was awarded a $30,000 academic scholarship, as were countless others. My SAT scores surpassed his by 200 points, and our AP test scores weren't comparable, but who got the check?

In Grosse Pointe, there is a new superintendent (Dr. John Whittier) and a new principal at South (Mr. Edward Shine). Both of these men claim to have new ideas for the school system.

Before tackling the job of what to do with the disastrous seven-period day, please, take a look at the grading system.

Give high school students a fighting chance... before April comes.

To the Editor:

I find it hard to believe and even harder to accept the fact that the Community Education Department of Grosse Pointe has made the decision to prohibit the children of the Grosse Pointes who are under the age of two from participating in any type of winter swimming program at any of the community pools.

According to the Community Education Department, children who are not "potty-trained" are not welcome at any of the pools at any of the open swim or scheduled swim times. This is 180 degrees from last year when there was a special Kiddie Swim Program. The department states that they have received complaints from people who didn't like the idea of swimming after the kids. It is a shame that the narrow-mindedness of some petty individuals should be interpreted by our civic leaders as a position which is to be adopted regardless of the consequences to others in the community.

The Grosse Pointes are communities which all border on water and/or who have recreational parks on the water. These same "forward-looking" communities have made the unilateral decision that the children of the community have no need to learn to swim until they first learn how to control their biological functions. This is a position which is totally irresponsible to say the least and certainly contrary to anything reported by all the various parent magazines or advisors.

How are the neighboring communities handling this delicate situation? Harper Woods not only has "Kiddie Swim" but they also make sure that the pool is extra warm for the children that night. It is certainly a pleasure to talk with community leaders who care for their children. I was too embarrassed to check with any of the other surrounding communities after being literally put to shame by Harper Woods. How a community with the reputation and pride that Grosse Pointe enjoys can blatantly disregard the needs of its children is beyond me.

Aiming to reactivate CCC

To the Editor:

Two years ago, the National Association of Civilian Conservation Corps alumni (NACCCA) celebrated the 50th anniversary of the establishment of the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC).

The NACCCA is trying to locate about two million former members and persons who were connected or affiliated with the CCC during the 1930s and '40s. It is a known fact that many of these persons reside in Michigan and areas serviced by the Grosse Pointe News.

The NACCCA is a young and growing organization with 120 chapters throughout the nation, and more are in the planning and development stages. One of its major objectives is to have the CCC reactivated.

Anyone interested in the organization can write to NACCCA, Loehmann's Plaza, 7245 Arlington Blvd., Suite 318, Falls Church, Virginia 22042, for more information and literature.

Inexpensive country club?

To the Editor:

It is interesting to see that the board of directors of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association is once again attempting to get a Class C liquor license in spite of the fact that the citizens of Grosse Pointe Farms recently turned down their request through their elected representatives on the city council of Grosse Pointe Farms. It appears the board of the War Memorial is taking the attitude of "the public be damned."

The board of the War Memorial makes the claim that by having a license they will be able to control the use of liquor on their premises. In my opinion this is merely an excuse to cover up the fact that the board wants additional revenue. This has become obvious now that they have offered $70,000 for the Bronze Door's Class C license.

No organization spends that kind of money to "better control" the serving of liquor — rather to make a profit on the sale of liquor. Sales will have to be high, not only to pay for the license, but also for insurance required by the dram shop act, salaries, etc. They state that they will not have an open bar, but I, for one, would be very surprised if they did not have an open bar at the annual art fair, the French Festival and their other large activities.

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial contributes a great deal to our enjoyment in our area, but let us not permit it to be turned into an inexpensive country club in southeastern Michigan by granting them a commercial saloon license.

FLEC to offer aid to latchkey children

Family Life Education Council (FLEC), will once again offer the PhoneFriend program for the newly started school year.

PhoneFriend, a telephone help line for latchkey children, will give support to children who are alone after school. High school volunteers, supervised by staff members handle the calls and are equipped to deal with problem situations.

PhoneFriend is available between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. school days and serves the Grosse Pointes, Harper Woods, and the east side of Detroit. The telephone number is 885-5744.

For more information, call 885-5222 or 885-3510.

I say

A lot of you are asking when we'll be in our new building. I don't know.

One semi-educated guess is February.

We sit here across the street watching the progress, sidewalk supervising from 50 yards away, speculating about the function of each day's addition, wondering what it will be like over there.

It'll probably be warmer in the winter. On the other hand, it won't have as many windows. We won't be able to watch the passing scene: busy shoppers, casual strollers, schoolkids loafing, people pausing to check out this week's Grosse Pointe News photos on the bulletin board, tapping their fingers rhythmically on the glass and driving the society editor out of her (Grosse Pointe elm) tree.

It's going to be a thoroughly modern office. Each of us will have our own work space, fitted out with desk, table, video display terminal — and walls.

You laugh, but our newsroom has no walls now, other than the ones that keep the elements out where they belong. This is the traditional newsroom — one is tempted to say the newsroom as it ought to be. A bullpen.

It's true that there is nowhere to hang news trophies. Many newsrooms boast photos of ballplayers the reporter has met. Hardhats from an auto plant tour. Cartoons. We have no space for that. My space now looks out on the courtyard where the great elm used to stand.

It's true that a bullpen is noisy, especially just before deadline.

Typewriters clack, phone conversations get louder and louder, and a steady stream of visitors flow through. Interviews, press releases, wedding announcements.

There's a lot of activity on Mondays, and I guess it's distracting. Only you get used to it.

With a cubicle, traffic will be diverted away from all desks it isn't actually aimed at. Computers will click softly. Telephones and conversation will be muted by the partial walls.

It might be harder to share information. Questions I ask Mike (our fount) in a normal voice will have to be shouted. Since that probably isn't appropriate, I'll have to get up and go to his cubicle. Or do without.

On the other hand, the walls will offer some scope for decorating. This will require some thought.

After all the flak Jim Fitzgerald has taken for filling his column with his granddaughter Emily, I have been reticent about my new granddaughter Emily. I try not to bore people with wallet photos and I don't tell cute grandchild stories — though it's true that at age two months, Emily hasn't done a lot of cute things yet. But I will hang some photos of Emily on my new wall.

Tradition dies hard

For excitement, maybe I will trot out the photos I took of the lion tamer sticking his head in the lion's mouth. That was a sweaty-palm day I like to remember.

I'll probably retrieve my dog-eared Ernest Hemingway cartoon from the depths of my desk drawer at home. It's a Guindon work — best one he ever did, as far as I'm concerned. "Ernest Hemingway catches a carp and decides not to write about it." To a Hemingway fan, that says a lot.

If there's really a lot of space, posters would be in order. Some of the old Montreux jazz festival posters are lively enough to make you forget there's no window to look out.

Right now, our future cubicles are still a dream in some commercial architect's head. They're spare and clean-lined, efficient.

With any luck, we'll be able to impose our personalities on them. Books falling off their shelves, papers stacked up to here on that clean-lined efficient table, notes and odds-and-ends tacked to the walls, vying with little Emily for my attention.

But I'm gonna miss the bullpen. It just ain't right.

Former estate to be auctioned off on Saturday

Pen and ink rendering by Wilma M. Urban

Parts of the former Dodge/Ranger estate will be auctioned to the highest bidders this Saturday, Oct. 12. Architectural details, such as panelling and light fixtures, will be put up for bids, according to a spokesman for The Blake Co., developers of the 7.63-acre property.

The house is scheduled for demolition next week along with the carriage house, pool house and boat house.

The auction, to be conducted by DuMouchelle Galleries, will begin at 11 a.m. on the grounds. A preview of the property will begin at 9:30 a.m. The admission charge of $5 includes a catalog.

The house will be open to the public Friday, Oct. 11, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. for $3 admission. There is no furniture in the house according to Chris Blake, and the first and second floors will be open for a self-guided tour.

He said the proceeds will be donated to a charity, undetermined as yet. Admission will be collected at the gate.

The future development, to be known as the Dodge Place, will be the site of 18 houses, with prices starting at $300,000, Blake said.

Helen Thomas to speak

Helen Thomas, White House bureau chief for United Press International, will head the list of presenters at the first session of Congressman Dennis Hertel's "14th Congressional District Government Studies Program," Friday, Oct. 11.

Designed to provide high school students with an opportunity to participate more directly in the government process, the first workshop session will begin at noon at East Detroit High School.

Thomas, the first woman to head presidential coverage for a major news service, will present the keynote address, "Covering the White House Through Six Presidents."

This first workshop session is one of four half-day programs to be sponsored by Hertel throughout the school year in cooperation with the Macomb and Wayne County Intermediate School Districts.

The program is designed to provide the students with a better understanding of government and public issues.

Park family hurt in auto accident

A Park man and two of his children were treated and released at Bon Secours Hospital for injuries received in an auto accident Saturday afternoon, Oct. 5, at Charlevoix and Kensington in Grosse Pointe Park.

The man, driving a 1976 Pontiac four-door, apparently failed to stop or yield the right of way and was struck on the driver's side when he came through the intersection. The car continued for a short distance before striking a third car a glancing blow.

Park police, fire and ambulance units responded to the scene. Although equipment to extricate the occupants of the vehicle was brought, personnel were able to muscle open the driver's door to remove him.

CAREER SEMINAR. HAVE YOU CONSIDERED A CAREER AS A STOCKBROKER?

The Ohio Company is one of the country's strongest investment banking firms, dealing in all types of securities. Founded 60 years ago, The Ohio Company has 46 offices in 7 states. We have excellent facilities and a strong commitment to the personal success of our brokers.

We are interested in mature individuals with a successful record in a sales-oriented field. We are not interested in people who are content with a $50,000 per year income. We are seeking people who feel that their long-range potential is several times that amount.

In our seminar we will discuss:

- How demanding a career is it?
- How much can I legitimately expect to earn as a broker?
- How much prior investment knowledge do I need?
- What are the characteristics of a good candidate?
- Are there differences between brokerage firms?
- What is involved in training?

Please fill out and mail the coupon below to reserve a seat at our seminar to be held:

Book Fair kick-off

Kerby school children celebrated the joy of reading Oct. 1 by launching balloons the same day the school's two-week Book Fair began. Each balloon was personalized with a tag that included the student's name and favorite book on it, along with Kerby School's mailing address. If any of the students' tags are found and mailed in to the school, those students will receive a prize of a book and a book bag. Principal Lee Warras explained that the Launch and the Book Fair were planned "to promote reading for enjoyment and to give children and parents the opportunity to purchase good literature in a convenient setting."

Prime Time for Senior Citizens

By Marian Trainor

One of the questions that often arises among readers of newspapers is one regarding follow-ups on interesting and provocative stories.

We read of an incident but we never know the outcome.

A case in point is an announcement that an outstanding senior citizen would be chosen at the State Fair. There are a few local prospects that seemed to deserve that honor. Johnny Adams is one. She has spent not hours, but years in the service of the community. However either no one submitted her name or there were others the judges deemed more worthy. The question is — who did win?

In case you were looking for an answer, A.I.M., a monthly publication distributed by the Michigan Office to Service to the Aging, offered an answer in the September issue.

A busy lady, 82 years old from Yale, Mich., won in the category of service. She is the Rev. Florence Hyde who has earned the confidence of the entire community with the unselfishness and dedication she has shown in assuming responsibility for various activities over the years. She has spent many hours at her sewing machine making clothing for young people she will never see. She has been blind for 50 years.

Pauline Dorn, 73, of Flint was elected as this year's senior citizen of the year in the category of leadership. She was chosen because of the time she spends organizing and urging people to get involved in worthwhile causes.

As a member of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program Advisory Board and chairman of the board's nominating committee, she led the "Flint Day of Respect" this year which identified RSVP volunteers willing to speak before young children in the Flint public schools about what life is like for an older adult.

Sharing the honors as co-winner in the service category was Lillian Hegert, 79, mainstay for volunteerism in Lake County. Because of her efforts, the Senior Center is the focal point for the area's elderly five days a week. Previously it was seldom frequented.

Following these announcements through to learn who the winners were and why they won not only satisfies curiosity, but also provides a view into how much work and dedication goes into making senior's lives better by seniors themselves. The winners are to be commended but so also are the many others out there giving time and energy to make life happier and fulfilling for others. Their reward is personal satisfaction in doing for others.

There is a special debt of gratitude that is owed to those who work for others without any thought of personal gain. There is much they accomplish but there are other tasks and causes which must be attended to by professionals because what must be done demands time and attention, eight hours or more a day, five days a week of the workers. Not many volunteers, particularly if they are elderly, have the energy or can afford the money that must be spent to get the task done.

Nationally we have the National Advisory Council on Aging which sponsors research projects that will improve the health of and add years to older citizens. Locally there are agencies which provide service to older residents. Statewide there is the OSA which oversees programs throughout the state. Money for various programs is designated by OSA. This year the good news is that the budget was increased for the first time since 1970.

Among the many projects was the completion of the Huron Forest Community Greenhouse, one of the five sites where the Intensive Horticultural Older Workers Training Program is conducted. It is known as Project "SELLS" an acronym for Seeing, Enjoying our Land, Lake and Streams. More than an acronym, SELLS stands for an important senior citizen employment agency.

Because of $150,000 supplemental state appropriation to the Office of Service to the Aging, 115 persons were hired to serve as guides throughout the Upper Peninsula at various tourist attractions.

The project, which has been operating for 16 years, is based on the philosophy that senior citizens are the best qualified to explain the rich history of the area.

The guides work 20 hours a week at minimum wage through the end of September. Many of the participants use the money to help with winter fuel bills.

This program is one that could be copied locally. Every community has historic sites which would be of interest to visitors from other areas. Grosse Pointe, which is steeped in historic lore, could well adopt such a program. The history of Michigan abounds in the names of old families who lived here. The War Memorial, for instance which is 75 years old, has tales to tell, and Lake St. Clair is a mine of history and folklore.

The OSA also sponsors conferences to inform and discuss issues that affect older adults. On Nov. 5-6, the agency will join with the Department of Management and Budget, Office of Health and Medical Affairs and the state Department of Mental Health, Public Health and Social Services on the subject of health care delivery.

It is a critical issue because health care costs have increased from 4.5 percent of the gross national product in 1954 to more than 11 percent of today's GNP. The average cost of a hospital bed has risen from $16.46 per day in 1960 to $395.04 a day in 1984.

Over the past four years, budget cuts in community health centers have meant that 725,000 individuals have been deprived of medical services.

Since 1981, 587,000 senior citizens have lost their Medicaid eligibility and federal budget cuts have depleted Medicare for the elderly by $13 million.

Besides those who volunteer and agencies which are supported by local, state and national governments, there are organizations such as the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) with membership of 20 million seniors. AARP maintains a lobby in Washington and every state in the union to see that favorable legislation is passed to improve and safeguard the welfare of its members.

No elected official can afford to ignore the voting power of such a large group of constituents. To this end AARP also keeps members informed of upcoming bills. Once alerted, members are urged to write their congressmen to express their displeasure or to ask that the bill be supported if it is a beneficial one.

Right now in Lansing, the Michigan Funeral Directors Association is pushing for a bill, HB 4577, that would allow them to sell pre-paid funerals and pocket some of the interest paid on the money before the funeral is provided. This would be quite a windfall for funeral directors who have a large established business.

The commission voted to oppose the bill as it came out of the House State Affairs Committee. The concern of the OSA was the need to protect the consumer's money in case a prepaid funeral is cancelled or a funeral is not delivered for any number of reasons.

The bill is now before the house again. Those who oppose the bill should contact the state representative. It is believed that by the year 2000, 60 percent of all funerals will be prepaid. This potentially $2 billion-a-year sales of prepaid funerals should have consumer safeguards built into the law.

Taxes are always a consideration. The Fairness Plan (HB 4699) would result in an additional cut in property taxes for Michigan residents. Seniors would receive a property tax cut on their calendar year 1985 property tax. By comparison, a bill passed by the Senate (SB 77) which proposes to roll back the state income tax rate of 4.6 percent on Jan. 1, 1986, 16 1/2 months earlier than expected, would not cut property taxes.

The good works for volunteers, the efforts of those who work as professionals and organizations such as AARP merit the support of every person who has benefited or will benefit from their work. In unity there is strength that gets things done.

Jim Concannon

Wine-tasting

Jim Concannon, of the Concannon Vineyard in Livermore Valley, Calif., will conduct a wine-tasting Wednesday, Oct. 16, from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at the Harper Woods Community Center, 19748 Harper.

There will be 24 wines available for tasting along with cheese and bread. Tickets, at $2, are available at the door or at Village Food Market, 18330 Mack Ave.

Israel visited

Clay Francisco will moderate "Israel: Yesterday and Today" Wednesday, Oct. 30, when the Grosse Pointe Adventure Series continues its travelogues at the War Memorial.

Among the sites that Francisco's film will explore are Capernaum, Nazareth, the Mount of the Beatitudes and Jerusalem, location of the Wailing Wall.

Viewers will get a glimpse of life in a Kibbutz, travel to the beaches and outdoor cafes of Tel Aviv, and visit the Yad Vashem, the memorial erected in tribute to those who perished in Hitler's Holocaust.

Prior to the film, which begins at 8 p.m., dinner with the flavor of Israel will be served in the Fries Ballroom. Basar Tz Aloouie (sweet and sour pot roast with noodles), Carrots Tzimmes with honey and raisins, and spring salad with sour cream, will be served at 6:30 p.m.

Reserved auditorium seating for the film only is $4.15. The complete evening which includes dinner, service, film and free parking is $16.75. Reserve by check payable to Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Include a stamped, self-addressed envelope and mail to 32 Lakeshore Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, MI 48236.

Piano recital

Grosse Pointe resident Lawrence LaGore, who is a member of the Marygrove College piano faculty, will perform in a recital of solo and duo piano works along with other faculty members. The recital is scheduled for Friday, Oct. 18, at 8 p.m. in the Denk Chapman Hall on the Marygrove campus, 8425 W. McNichols at Wyoming.

Included in the program are pieces by Scarlatti, Beethoven, Debussy, Chopin, Dello Joio and Dvorak. Admission is $5.

For more information, call 862-8000, ext. 290 or 420.

Tennis singles

The Grosse Pointe Tennis Singles will hold tennis parties Saturday, Oct. 12, and Nov. 9, beginning at 7 p.m. at the Wimbledon Racquet Club in St. Clair Shores, one-quarter mile east of I-94 on Nine Mile Road.

Registration and social activities begin at 7 p.m., followed at 7:30 by tennis and racquetball, which continue until 11:15.

Food, refreshments, free tennis lessons, whirlpool and sauna are also available.

Cost is $9 for players, $6 for non-players. For more information, call Walt at 772-5126 or Herman at 885-3953.

Fairy tale workshop

The Center for Jung Studies of Detroit will present Jean Cocteau's classic 1946 film, "Beauty and the Beast," Friday, Oct. 18, at 7:30 p.m. at Miller Hall, Christ Church, Grosse Pointe Shores.

Cocteau's visually stunning rendition of the proverbial story of Beauty taming, and eventually loving, the Beast is portrayed with his unique blend of surrealism and fantasy. Following the film, there will be a short discussion period.

Admission is $2.50 for members and $5 for non-members.

In conjunction with the film, there will be a fairy tale workshop following the showing Friday and continuing Saturday, Oct. 19, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Workshop leaders are Minou Alexander, doctoral candidate in clinical psychology at the University of Michigan, Professor JoAnne Isbey of Mercy College, and Professor Jean Strandness of Michigan State University. Participants are encouraged to bring along their own favorite fairy tale, but it is not required.

The combined film and workshop fee is $35 for members and $45 for non-members. The Center for Jung Studies is a non-profit educational corporation and membership is open to the public. For further information, call 885-8792.

Garden Roundup

"Garden Roundup," a green thumb lecture, will be presented by Vera Sullivan, Thursday, Oct. 17, from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the War Memorial. A mini-luncheon will follow the talk.

Sullivan will discuss how to prepare a garden now for winter. Presented in cooperation with the Grosse Pointe Garden Center, the lecture will instruct in what manner to clean, fertilize and spray garden beds. To ensure early spring blooms, tips will be given on spring flowering bulbs which need to be planted in the fall.

Sullivan is the horticulturist consultant for the Wayne County Extension Services.

The deadline for lunch reservations, at $4 per person, is 9 a.m., Monday, Oct. 14, and may not be made by phone. Tickets for the lecture are $3 for Garden Club members and $5 for non-members.

The War Memorial is open Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. to receive reservations.

Estate planning

Goodwill Industries of Greater Detroit will host an estate planning seminar featuring Terry Mayo, nationally known authority from Amherst, N.H. Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 14 and 15, from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church, 19950 Mack Ave.

Admission is free, but advance reservations must be made through Goodwill Industries.

The two-evening seminar covers intestacy, changing the will, choosing the personal representative/executor, the marital deduction benefit, the use of trusts and other related topics.

For reservations, call 964-3900, ext. 207.

GP Singles

Lido on the Lake, upper level, is the kick-off Sunday, Oct. 13, at 4 p.m. as the Grosse Pointe Singles begin their Sunday afternoon dance parties scheduled for the second and fourth Sunday of each month with the live music of Doug De Maria.

A floor show, "USA Version of French Connection — Bring the Ladies, They'll Scream," will be presented at this first dance.

Free dance lessons by Ann Urban and Leonard LePage, members and former professional dance instructors, will precede the dance at 3:15.

Grosse Pointe Singles meets on the first, second, third and fifth Friday of each month at the War Memorial at 7 p.m. An afterglow dance, following each meeting, is held at 9:30 at the Jefferson Yacht Club, St. Clair Shores. Live music is featured.

The speaker Friday, Oct. 11, will be Ernie DuMouchelle of DuMouchelle Galleries. The Oct. 18 meeting will feature the Rev. Gregory Sammons of Christ Church of Grosse Pointe.

Any single person (30 and up) interested in attending these functions, can call 882-0316 or 445-1286 for information.

North homecoming is Sat.

By Fran Obeid and Thea L. Walker

The Norseman family has started another school year, and the one thing that everyone is thinking about these days is homecoming. "The Student Association has been making some important decisions as to what day it will be, what time, and, of course, what theme," said Lisa Martillotti, Senate Association president.

Saturday, Oct. 12, has been marked on the calendar as the day that every Norseman will meet at 11 a.m. at Monteith Elementary School for the parade. North's theme this year is "Decades."

The parade will start in the Monteith parking lot, work its way down Cook Road, turn left on Morningstar, and proceed to North High. The highlights of the parade will be the class floats which are under construction. The freshman class has the Bicentennial float which includes the Liberty Bell; the sophomore class will take us back to the Gold Rush of 1840; the junior class to the decade of 1910-1920; and the senior class will rock 'n' roll us with a yellow submarine from the 1960s.

Some extra attractions include a float from Band and Orchestra with a 1950s theme and of course, there will be many decorated cars of the different organizations of North. After the parade the football game will be played at 1:30 against the Lakeview Huskies.

After the game, everyone can go home and get ready for the homecoming dance which will be held in the cafeteria from 9 p.m. to midnight. The music will be performed by "Shy Boy" and the dress is semi-formal. Ticket prices are $10 per couple.

The Story Lady comes to Trombly

"The Story Lady," Jackie Torrence, will bring her story-telling talent to Trombly Elementary School at 1 p.m. Friday, Oct. 11. Torrence will perform for Trombly students and 35 third-graders from Detroit's Guyton school.

Torrence has been a storyteller since 1972, when she was working as a reference librarian in High Point, N.C. She was official storyteller at the library until 1976.

The next year, she was invited to perform at a national festival of story-tellers. Since then she has traveled through 42 states, Canada and Mexico telling her stories.

Learning about making music

Monteith's artist-in-residence, Sylvia Wallach, far right, leads students at the school through musical experiences meant to combine drama and language arts with music. Wallach spent two days at the school last month, presenting programs to students at all grade levels, teaching music analysis, instrument identification, improvisation and choral speaking. Wallach has taught at all levels of education, from pre-school to college, in prisons, children's camps and across the country, as well as being a writer of music.

South senior studies west Michigan dunes

Laura Jones, South High senior, was one of 90 high school students who participated in the Michigan Board of Education Summer Institute for the Arts and Sciences at Grand Valley State College in July. The institute brings talented students and professionals together and provides a unique setting for sharing intensive and exploratory work.

The two-week residential program featured "Dune" as its theme. The west Michigan dunes, the largest natural dune formation in the world, provided the classroom for the students.

They chose to study either science or art. Science course electives included: archaeology, where the students learned excavation techniques, surveying, mapping, cataloging and analysis of field archaeological materials; geology, where students explored the evolution of the dunes as well as their present fragile state; land use management, where students discussed the ethical issues in defining land use; and limnology and shoreline processes where they traced the history of the area and studied land use problems such as shoreline erosion and the impact of sand mining and waste disposal.

Students who pursued art studies chose from the following electives: photography, where they worked in teams to learn how the view camera can record the beauty of the dunes; landscape drawing, where students drew the dunes; printmaking, where they developed prints about the dunes from their personal responses and sketches; and video production, where the students produced video tapes and films of the dunes.

There were many special events throughout the two-week institute including a speech by David Dempsey, program specialist to Gov. James Blanchard, on "Environmental Policymaking," an overnight campout at Manistee; and a Lake Michigan science cruise aboard GVSC's "Angus."

Bishop Gallagher to sponsor math contest

Bishop Gallagher High School will sponsor an Invitational Mathematics competition for 7th- and 8th-grade students on Saturday, Dec. 7, from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Participation in this three-part multiple choice exam is on a first-come, first-serve basis with applications due Monday, Nov. 11.

Prizes will consist of scholarships to Bishop Gallagher High School and invitations to attend a computer seminar. Call 886-0855 for information.

South is site for blood drive

There will be a blood drive at South High School, 11 Grosse Pointe Blvd., Tuesday, Oct. 15, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the girls' gym.

Al Jennings was said to be the most incompetent train robber in the record. When dynamiting a safe, he blew everything in it to non-negotiable smithereens.

40 colleges to participate in MCC fair

High school juniors and seniors and their parents can explore educational opportunities at Macomb Community College's ninth annual College Fair, to be held Thursday, Oct. 17, at the fieldhouse (P Building) at South Campus in Warren.

Representatives of 40 accredited four-year institutions will participate in the fair, which is the largest single gathering of four-year colleges anywhere in Michigan.

Fair hours are 2 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. High school counselors are invited to join students and parents in exploring educational opportunities with visiting college representatives.

Four-year institutions participating are: Adrian, Albion, Alma, Aquinas, Calvin, Cleary College, Central Michigan, Concordia, Detroit College of Business, Eastern Michigan, Ferris State, GMI Engineering & Management Institute, Grand Valley State, Hillsdale, Hope, Kalamazoo, Kendall School of Design, Lake Superior, Lawrence Institute of Technology, Madonna, Marygrove, Mercy, Michigan State, Michigan Tech, Nazareth, Northern Michigan, Northwood Institute, Oakland, Olivet, Saginaw Valley, Siena Heights, Spring Arbor, St. Mary's, University of Detroit, University of Michigan (Ann Arbor, Dearborn, and Flint), Walsh, Wayne State and Western Michigan.

For more information, call 455-7211.

School events

The following events will take place within the Grosse Pointe Public School System through next week Thursday:

Monday, Oct. 14 — Student picture day at Kerby all day.

CITY OF Grosse Pointe Farms MICHIGAN NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Public Hearing will be held in City Hall on Monday, October 21, 1985, at 8:00 p.m., for the purpose of considering the formal adoption of:

AN ORDINANCE REGULATING THE USE OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES AND DRUGS AT OPEN HOUSE PARTIES, PROVIDING DEFINITIONS, AN EXCEPTION AND PENALTIES.

The city of Grosse Pointe Farms ordains:

Section 1. Definitions. For the purpose of this section the following terms shall be defined as follows:

- "adult" means a person seventeen years of age or older.
- "alcoholic beverage" means any beverage containing more than one-half of one percent of alcohol by weight. The percentage of alcohol by weight shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of Michigan Compiled Laws, Section 436.2, as the same may be amended from time to time.
- "minor" means a person not legally permitted by reason of age to possess alcoholic beverages pursuant to Michigan Compiled Laws, Section 436.33b, as the same may be amended from time to time.
- "residence" means a home, apartment, condominium, or other dwelling unit and includes the curtilage of such dwelling unit.
- "open house party" means a social gathering of persons at a residence, other than the owner or those with rights of possession or their immediate family members.
- "drug" means a controlled substance as defined now or hereafter by the Public Acts of the State of Michigan. Currently, such controlled substances are defined in Sections 335.301-367 of the Michigan Compiled Laws.
- "control" means any form of regulation or dominion including a possessory right.

Section 2. Alcoholic Beverages and Drugs Prohibited at Open House Parties. No adult having control of any residence shall allow an open house party to take place at said residence if any alcoholic beverage or drug is possessed or consumed at said residence by any minor where the adult knew or reasonably should have known that the alcoholic beverage or drug was in the possession of or being consumed by a minor at said residence, and where the adult failed to take reasonable steps to prevent the possession or consumption of the alcoholic beverage or drug at said residence.

Section 3. Exception. The provisions of this section shall not apply to legally protected religious observances or protected educational activities.

Section 4. Penalty. The penalty for violation of this section is a fine not exceeding $500 or imprisonment in the county jail for a term not to exceed ninety (90) days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 5. Effective Date. It is hereby declared that this ordinance is immediately necessary for the preservation of the public peace, health, and safety, and is therefore given immediate effect.

The Hearing will be public. Interested property-owners or residents of the City are invited to attend.

Clean out that closet — it's a fire hazard

By Nancy Parmenter

Fall means it's time to replace furnace filters and clean out the basement. It's almost time to get the snowblower going and put the lawnmower to bed for another season. But don't put it in that freshly cleaned basement. It could be a fire hazard.

Oct. 6-12 is Fire Prevention Week and all five Pointe fire chiefs are reminding their areas to check the batteries in the smoke detectors and make sure the home fire extinguishers aren't leaking. Fire prevention tips and free home fire inspections are available on request from each department.

Some departments are planning special activities for the week. Park Fire Chief Phillip Costa said his department is continuing its policy of inspecting an entire section of the city. This year's section is from Wayburn to Three Mile Drive.

Officers will go door-to-door offering to inspect the inside of houses, focusing particularly on the basement, Costa said. "That's where most of the hazards are — the furnace, the water heater, major appliances. It's where the clutter tends to gather. Whether it's junk clutter or valuable clutter, it shouldn't be near a source of ignition," he said.

The department will also check fuseboxes to make sure they are not overloaded, warn against excessive use of extension cords and look for improper storage of flammable materials.

"People just don't realize the potential that is there," Costa said. "They think they're being careful — and they turn around and store a gas can next to the furnace."

Park ordinance requires smoke detectors in the basement and the sleeping area of the house and officers will be checking those too. "We're not looking for violators," Costa said. "We want to be helping hands. (Smoke detectors) don't save a lot of property, but they do save lives."

Also as part of Fire Prevention Week, the Park department plans to send an officer to elementary school classes with some Walt Disney videotapes to teach kindergartners through second-graders some basic fire safety. "It's the best way to get material into the homes. We make them our little fire marshals," Costa said.

Residents of the Park who would like a home fire inspection or a telephone sticker with police, fire and ambulance numbers written in large print may call the department at 822-6400.

The Farms fire department is scheduling school tours of the station. "We take the aerial ladder out and put it up and let the kids squirt the hose with a backup helping them hang on to the hose," said fire Sgt. James Mauck.

Residents wanting a home inspection may call the department at 885-1000.

Statistics in the five Pointes are hard to compare. They are not broken down in the same manner in all of the departments and they fluctuate from year to year.

Example: Grosse Pointe City has experienced $30,000 in residential fire losses so far this year, compared to $901,000 in 1983. The Woods has $224,124 in losses through August, compared to $46,000 in all of last year.

There were eight home fires in the Farms and nine in the Park, ling the department at 881-5500.

The City is urging residents to plan fire escape routes and make sure their children understand them, according to Officer Al Fincham. "They should have a family meeting to plan a way out," Fincham said. "They should draw a floor plan and discuss the routes with the kids."

An often-overlooked person who should also understand the plan is the family babysitter. "Lots of times the babysitter gets there after the children are in bed and never even finds out which bedroom they're sleeping in," Fincham said.

The City requires one smoke detector in all new dwellings. Fincham reminded that "a smoke alarm is only as good as the maintenance it gets," so residents should check the batteries. He also suggested that residents test the alarm to become familiar with the sound so they recognize it if it ever does go off.

City residents can request an inspection by calling 886-3200.

Public Safety Director Jack Patterson of the Woods said the department there "always has something going." The department sends out a quarterly newsletter reminding residents of appropriate safety precautions. "Right now we're focusing on leaves and Halloween," he said.

Along with some of the other Pointe fire departments, the Woods distributes window stickers to apprise the firefighters of young children or handicapped individuals who need help getting out of the house. The Farms has dropped the program, fearing it acted as an aid to breaking and entering, but Patterson defended the Woods' bright yellow koala bear sticker.

"It's more important to rescue somebody," he said. "We've never had a breaking and entering because of the stickers."

Woods residents may request a home fire inspection by calling 343-2410.

The state fire marshal is reminding residents to clean their chimneys and make sure wood-burning stoves are properly installed. Make sure fireplaces or stoves have a screen or glass door to contain sparks. If you should have a fire, follow your preplanned escape route, meet outside to count heads, don't go back inside for anything. Children should be taught that if their clothes ever catch fire, they should drop to the ground and roll to extinguish the flames.

If your house is painted white, it has that in common with 70 percent of all houses nationwide.

Keeping the furnace and its surroundings clean is one of the best ways to prevent accidents, Mauck said. More than 5,000 people nationwide died in home fires last year.

Mauck also recommended that homeowners buy one or two fire extinguishers of the ABC all-purpose type. "They make a mess with the dust and you have to vacuum it and wash it, but it's worth it," he said.

Farms ordinance requires one smoke detector in the bedroom area.

The Farms suffered two fatalities and $416,830 in damages in eight residential fires so far this year. Mauck said both deaths and most of the monetary loss were incurred in the massive O'Brien fire in May. It was ruled arson, but the which break down their statistics to specific types of fires, and 65 fires in the City, which does not. Its number includes all types of fires, as well as mutual aid calls, so it does not compare in any way to the others.

The Shores has not planned any special events for the week. But Public Safety Director Joseph Vitale said that at this time of year, he always urges residents to check their furnaces, have them cleaned, and replace the filters.

The department also recommends smoke detectors and fire extinguishers. "You should have a fire extinguisher just outside the kitchen so you can back away from a grease fire," Vitale said. "They're relatively inexpensive for what you can get out of them." He said a good home extinguisher can be bought for about $25.

Fall is a good time to check extinguishers for leaks, Vitale said. The chemical types have a gauge; CO₂ types must be weighed. An accurate bathroom scale will do the job — all you need to know is that a five-pound extinguisher includes the weight of both the case and the contents.

Shores residents may request a fire or security inspection by call-

Alcohol addiction to be discussed

The SAC Fall Series, "Alcoholism/Chemical Dependency: Family Focus," will begin Wednesday, Oct. 16, at 7:30 p.m. at the War Memorial.

The opening speaker for the series will be Douglas Macdonald, M.D., president of the Oxford Institute which is affiliated with St. John Hospital. The institute is dedicated to the treatment, prevention, education and research of alcoholism and chemical dependency.

Dr. Macdonald has been involved in the treatment field for 25 years, beginning his work at St. Vincent Hospital, Rosary Hall, in Cleveland. He has also served as president and executive director of Toronto's Donwood Institute, Canada's leading alcohol treatment center.

He will discuss the addiction process in relation to alcoholism/chemical dependency, its signs, symptoms and progression.

There is no charge for the program. For more information, call 822-1910.

Topics in the following weeks will include the effects of chemical dependency on the family, adult children of alcoholics, adolescents in turmoil and the intervention process.

Deke alumni create charitable foundation

When one thinks of college fraternities, homecoming floats and animal house pictures may come to mind, and three Grosse Pointe-based alumni of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity set out to change that in 1982.

The three, retired Marsh McLennan; R.T. Johnstone, director and trustee of the Detroit Ophthalmology Clinic; Dick Kost, director of Trust Investment, National Bank of Detroit; and lawyer David Easlick, Jr., had played significant alumni roles with their fraternity, nationally and locally.

Easlick said, "We were concerned about an organization such as Deke, which had been around since 1844 nationally and in Ann Arbor since 1855, needed direction and financial support to provide a meaningful existence for young men in the '80s."

The fraternity, which claims three United States presidents, including Gerald Ford, Vice President George Bush, and five sitting senators, while small, is one of the oldest and best known collegiate fraternities.

The problem with a fraternity, Kost said is that they are not tax-deductible entities. "While they command a great deal of loyalty on behalf of their alumni and active members, it's hard to maintain strong educational programs without having the tax advantage to attract major donors."

With the assistance of George Zinn Jr., Farms resident and lawyer with Butzel Long Gust Klein & VanZile in Detroit, they set up the Rampant Lion Foundation as Deke's public charity.

The foundation, which achieved full I.R.S. "public charity" status in 1984, accepts tax-deductible contributions which are invested in mortgages on DKE's chapter houses. The income is used for the foundation's charitable programs.

Kost, who serves as treasurer, developed tough proposals for the grants which go to the fraternity to fund its educational activities.

Under the leadership of foundation president Easlick, the Rampant Lion has embarked upon a three-year $2 million capital campaign. Former President Ford and ex-Treasury Secretary William Simon are the honorary chairmen of the drive which has featured fundraising luncheons across the country.

Park residents George A. Nicholson Jr. has provided a strong educational flavor to the foundation's program. Drawing upon the analogy of the fraternity to the Harvard "house" plan and the Yale "college" plan, Nicholson says that "colleges and universities are now adopting smaller group living situations as they realize that the impersonal magnitude of the university experience can be better lived on a small group basis. What these universities are adopting is nothing more and perhaps something less than our own chapter house experience."

The local campaign, which will kick off with a fundraising luncheon at the University Club Thursday, Oct. 17, is headed by Farms resident and Campbell Ewald President Pete Dow. Other Pointers on the committee are Bill Hurley and Martin Oetting.

Nearly 100 alumni of the fraternity's various chapters are Grosse Pointe residents including some newer alumni, Matt Howell and Terry Bouch, who are scheduled to be added to the local Deke alumni board at its Thanksgiving Eve traditional black tie dinner at the Detroit Club.

Robert Bateman: Artist, naturalist, and conservationist

Art lovers who have not heard of Robert Bateman take note. The man will be in town this Sunday for several hours and it's a good bet that before he leaves, he'll add to his following.

Bateman is the Canadian artist/naturalist of whom Roger Tory Peterson, the highly regarded American wildlife painter, said, "If I could paint like another wildlife artist, it would be Robert Bateman." Bateman's paintings begin at $8,000 for the smallest work and go up to $60,000.

According to a July 18 article in the Washington Post, some 300 people submitted bids for 20 Bateman paintings put up for sale at one gallery. The gallery held a lottery and 20 lucky people got to buy a painting.

Dean Jabara at Wild Wings Gallery said Bateman's appearance is a "one-of-a-kind visit. The excitement is really bubbling up in the store, with people calling."

The 52-year-old Canadian will be at the gallery, located at One Kercheval Ave., from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. to sign his new book, "The World of Robert Bateman." The book promotion coincides with issuance of Canada's first federal conservation stamp, done by Bateman. The United States has been issuing duck stamps since 1934, Jabara said.

"There are probably 25 to 30 people in Grosse Pointe who are Bateman collectors exclusively," Jabara said. "Overall there are hundreds in this area."

One of Bateman's paintings, "Northern Reflections — Loon Family," was commissioned and presented to Prince Charles as a wedding gift from the people of Canada. The Smithsonian Museum of Natural History in Washington, D.C. will exhibit Bateman's work from December 1986 to April 1987.

For more information on his visit, call Wild Wings Gallery at 885-4001.

Fees, from $10 to $14, include all materials. Pre-registration is required. Call 259-6363 for more information.

Lecture will deal with phobias

The Patient Education Center at Saint John Hospital will present a lecture on "Dealing With Phobias" Thursday, Oct. 24, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the hospital auditorium.

Guest speaker for the evening will be Mary Ann Miller, director of A.I.M. (Agoraphobics in Motion) of Michigan. She will discuss anxiety disorders, panic attacks, phobias, the condition of agoraphobia, the role of depression and current successful treatment. Films and literature will supplement the program.

Phobias are irrational, disabling and disruptive fears that afflict some 20 million people nationwide. Phobias are the most common form of emotional disorders and are ranked ahead of alcoholism and depression. Fortunately, most phobias can be cured.

There is a $3 fee for the program and deadline for registration is Wednesday, Oct. 23. To register or for more information, call Camille Klimecki at 343-3870.

"Mallard Pair — Early Winter" by Robert Bateman is Canada's first federal conservation stamp for the benefit of Wildlife Habitat Canada, a national non-profit organization dedicated to the conservation, restoration and enhancement of habitat in order to retain the diversity, distribution and abundance of wildlife in Canada.

Locally, there are students who are better in vocational programs than they are in analytical mathematics classes. The system should recognize that these students have interests other than academics and needs to address those interests while making sure the students still get the basics, he adds.

"Every student has worth," he adds. "It's our duty to give them the resources they need to grow. I've come to a community that's working toward that goal of cultivating students' talents."

The aspirations of the students in high school in Fairfield and Grosse Pointe are much the same, Shine says. The size of the schools is a bit different, though.

Ludlowe High expected about 1,300 kids when it opened for the year, while South's fourth Friday count put its total just shy of 1,700 students.

The size isn't significant, however, Shine says. He has helped run high schools where population was about 2,000.

During the coming weeks, Shine says he will meet with department heads at the school and begin development of some goals for the school in the coming school year, using last year's North Central evaluation as a focus for those discussions.

While this may be a year to learn the names and faces at the school, Shine says he wants to play an active role in the development of programs for the schools and there is a significant role in that development for principals to play.

One of the things he brings to this job, besides experience is a "perspective of creativity," Shine says. The daily running of a building depends on the ability of its administrators to solve problems creatively, he adds.

Maire Elementary celebrates 49 years of service

By Tom Greenwood

In his description of Lewis Maire school, Principal Jay Flowers comes back to the same word — commitment.

"It's evident in the efforts of the parents and the teachers at this institution," he said. "This is my second year at Maire. I transferred from Defer and I'm very happy with this school. Everyone pitches in to make things better for the students. We have an excellent staff of 21, all well versed in the Grosse Pointe curriculum. The parents are solidly behind us, helping with fundraisers and through the parent-teacher organizations. It's a good working relationship."

Maire, located near the intersection of Kercheval and Cadieux, sits upon nearly 6.5 acres of land and was constructed in 1936.

"Next September will be a very special time for us," Flowers said. "We'll be 50 years old. Half a century of serving the students and families of Grosse Pointe."

Seen from the outside, there's nothing particularly distinguishing about Maire. It's exactly what it seems to be — a solid neighborhood school.

Trees populate the front lawn and kids run, jump and yell on the crowded playground. Inside the long, cool marble hallways, student art dots the walls and the lockers greet visitors and children alike in cheery shades of yellow, red, orange and blue.

In Flowers' office, silver mylar balloons try to escape to the ceiling and a green and white bumper sticker reads "Principals care about kids."

"We currently have 285 students enrolled at Maire," Flowers said. "We're built to handle up to 350. No matter what the number, we do our best for the students. We're very proud of our noon hour enrichment program. We started allowing students to join in junior great book discussions, foreign language classes, art activities or computer time during their lunch hours last year.

"The kids really like it and it's paying off," Flowers continued. "Our students took honors in the 1984 Olympics of the Mind. We're involved in the Michigan Math League and in the fifth grade our students become involved in designing their own mini-society. They establish their own governments, money, laws and problems. It's a microcosm of the real world."

Fifth graders receive another glimpse of that real world when they depart on their annual trip to Washington, D.C. In what has become a tradition over the past 15 years, students fly to the capital, tour the city and often receive a visit from their local congressman.

A large photo of last year's group hangs near Flowers' desk. "We had 40 students go in 1984 and 52 in 1985," he said. "We hope to have even more go this coming year. The students and their parents help defray the cost of the trip through fundraisers. The parents here are always willing to help the kids.

"Do you know what the tour guide said? She said our group last year was the most well informed she'd seen in her 20 years on the job. Doesn't surprise me any. Maire kids are sharp."

This is the 14th story in a series on the schools of Grosse Pointe.

Republicans need Michigan, Bush tells Economic Club

By Nancy Parmenter

Speaking to a sympathetic crowd at the Economic Club of Detroit Monday, Vice President George Bush reiterated standard administration themes: budget balancing through program slashes and the failure of Congress to live up to its budgetary responsibilities. He added to it the importance of Michigan in carrying the balanced budget amendment over the top to a constitutional convention.

Bush was only the latest in a stream of Republicans to show up in Michigan. Recent changes in party election procedures have probably made Michigan the state to watch first — even before Iowa and New Hampshire and even before the primary year begins. Bush denied, however, that political aspirations played any role in bringing him to Detroit, the first of two stops in the state.

"It's a crying shame that 1988 politics are on the radar screen so soon," he said. "I'm keeping my sight set on helping others in 1986. We must keep control of the Senate ... I'm just recovering from running against Geraldine Ferraro."

Much of Bush's speech was directed at the "outrageously high" federal deficit, which came about through decades of the "insidious tapeworm" of bracket creep and special interest spending, a "nest of fat ostrich fledglings, huge mouths open waiting for the taxpayers to empty their wallets to feed them." The accomplishment of the Reagan administration, Bush said, was to "strip away the veil" from what had been going on since the 1960s and "put the monster on a starvation diet."

Bush told the crowd of 4,000 that the administration needs reform and discipline of the budgetary process in order to stop Congress from rejecting his spending cuts. As of the beginning of October, the start of the fiscal year, Congress did not have one of the 13 appropriations bills ready for the president, Bush said.

"So we get stop-gap continuing resolutions ... and extensions of continuing resolutions. And we get resolutions to continue the continuing resolutions," he said. "... In the fiscal year that just ended, nine major federal agencies were funded on a stop-gap basis the entire year."

Bush conceded that there is "plenty of blame to spread around" and that the administration must accept its portion, but "the American people aren't dumb — the people believe Congress is to blame."

To control the budgetary process, Bush advocated the line item veto and the constitutional amendment to balance the budget. "With the line-item veto, Congress wouldn't be able to piggy-back the excessive spending, I could call it pork-barrel spending, on critical national security programs."

It feels good to get away from Washington and "feel the sense of confidence among the people," Bush told his audience. The growth in the Republican party is a measure of that optimism: "... We were proudest of all of the overwhelming support we received from young people, a dramatic change for our party. That's how we knew we had rebuilt hope and confidence in our country's future."

Flea products can harm pets

The Michigan Humane Society cautions all pet owners, especially cat owners, to be careful in their use of flea and tick products. If not used properly, these products can cause injury and death to pets.

Over the past six weeks, four cats have died at MHS clinics due to accidental overdosing by their owners. Others have suffered brain damage and skin irritations from the misuse of flea products.

If your pet has a flea problem, consult with your veterinarian. Be certain, also, to read the directions and precautions on the products label. Flea control can be accomplished without harming your pet.

Holiday bazaars are here

Planned Parenthood Holiday Mart

The 1985 Holiday Mart to benefit the Planned Parenthood League is scheduled for Oct. 17, 18 and 19 at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lake Shore Rd., Grosse Pointe Farms.

A Preview Party for benefactors, sponsors, patrons and friends to be held on Oct. 16 from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. will mark the official opening of this annual fundraising event.

The Holiday Mart is a gathering of 24 specialty shops from across the nation which will offer a variety of distinctive items for purchase by visitors. One-of-a-kind items, including sporting goods, traditional and specialty clothing, handcrafted toys, beautiful jewelry, delicious foods and unusual Christmas ornaments and decorations are only a sampling of the merchandise available and shop chairmen, Mrs. Ronald K. Dalby and Mrs. Charles Henritzy, have chosen shops that offer a wide variety of price ranges to accommodate every buyer.

The Mart will be open for public shopping on Thursday, Oct. 17 from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.; Friday, Oct. 18 from 10 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. and Saturday, Oct. 19 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. for a general admission fee of $2. The Saturday hours provide especially convenient shopping time for everyone. Lunch and free parking will also be available.

In addition to the shops, a number of unique items will be available in the Mart raffle, chaired by Mrs. Randolph Agley, Ms. Jane Benson Pooley and Mrs. Robert Graziana. 1985 marks the 27th year in which the Holiday Mart has been held to benefit the Planned Parenthood League which promotes family planning through its programs.

Co-chairmen of the Holiday Mart are Bethine Whitney and Mrs. Neil Georgi who hope to make this year's Mart the best ever.

For information on the Preview Party, call 881-4611.

DEALING WITH PHOBIA

Phobias — irrational, disabling, and disruptive fears — afflict some 20 million Americans and are now the most common form of emotional disorder, ranking ahead of alcoholism and depression.

Although the effects can be devastating, phobias are usually curable. The Patient Education Center of Saint John Hospital is pleased to present a community program on the problem of phobias to be held Thursday, October 24, 1985 from 7:00-9:00 p.m. in the hospital auditorium.

The guest speaker will be Mary Ann Miller, Director of A.I.M. (Agoraphobics In Motion) of Michigan. The speaker will discuss anxiety disorders, panic attacks, phobias, the condition of agoraphobia, role of depression and symptoms and current successful treatments.

Films and literature will supplement the program. $3.00 fee. Reservations necessary. For information and to register contact: Camille C. Klimecki, M.A., Saint John Hospital, Patient Education Center, 22101 Moross, Detroit, Michigan 48236. (343-3870).

Cruising down the river

... on a Friday afternoon is a good way to wrap up the work week. The vessel was the Star of Detroit and the occasion was the first year anniversary of service to Detroit by Ameritech Mobile Communications. Some of the participants included Jim Syrios, Ameritech director of retail sales; Richard Walker, Detroit bureau chief for Reuters, the international news service and a Park resident; and Shelly Czeizler, a reporter for Channel 56 and former Grosse Pointe resident.

Small business financing: What's an entrepreneur to do?

Obtaining financing for an existing or a new small business can be difficult. After all, most small business owners are experts in the product or service they sell, but they're not experts in finance. What's an entrepreneur to do? According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, before setting foot in a bank or meeting with a prospective investor, owners of small businesses should be prepared to demonstrate how they will repay a loan or give a return on an investment.

"Financiers are basically merchants whose stock in trade is money," says Daniel A. Giannini of the Small Business Committee of the American Institute of CPAs. "They want to put their money behind people they trust."

The first step in gaining the confidence of a prospective lender or investor is to present a detailed business plan. "For people just starting a new business, it can be real tough to find seed money. And even if you have a successful business and track record, you need to prove it," says Giannini. "Making a good presentation is half the battle in getting debt financing."

You'll need three financial forecasting tools: projections of operations, cash flow and a balance sheet.

An operating forecast shows what you expect to be left over — if anything — after outlays for materials, payroll and overhead for rent, utilities, shipping and other administrative costs. A cash flow projection displays where you expect your money to be coming from and going to. It shows how much cash will be coming in from sales, accounts receivable, loans and capital contributions by the owners. It will also show how much and when you will lay out cash for business costs, equipment purchases and loan repayments.

The last forecasting tool you'll need in your quest for debt-financing is a balance sheet. It should show assets and liabilities in your business. For all three of these forecasting tools you'll need 12 monthly projections for the coming year and annual projections for the next four years.

When the lender looks at your projections, credibility is important. If your profit forecasts are too optimistic, you may lose credibility. So it's usually best to be conservative. In fact, you may want to draw up an additional set of forecasts, based on a worst-case scenario, to assure a lender that you have adequately planned for downside risks.

If your cash flow forecast indicates a continuous need for financing, you may want to consider applying for a "revolving line of credit." A revolver, which is also called accounts receivable or inventory financing, uses receivables or inventories as collateral. Revolvers are especially appropriate for new businesses, because your credit line grows with your business. A commercial bank or commercial finance company is the most likely source for loans tied to inventory or receivables.

The biggest advantage in dealing with a commercial finance company is that it is usually willing to grant loans to businesses that might not qualify for bank financing. But the effective interest rates on these loans are generally higher.

Revolving lines of credit and accounts receivable financing lessen the likelihood that a business owner will make the common mistake of financing long-term needs with short-term loans.

"Too often entrepreneurs try to start their business with short-term or other loans requiring a fixed payoff," says Giannini. "They fail to recognize that, as they grow, increased volume creates greater financing demands."

As an alternative to borrowing in order to finance the purchase of fixed assets, such as machinery and vehicles, you may want to consider a long-term lease arrangement. Here too, interest rates may be higher than with bank financing. But with a lease arrangement no debt will be shown on a balance sheet.

VDTs hazardous to your health?

mulgated by the legislature," Davenport said. "They're more concerned with things like toxic problems — and even those are hard to get. We've been waiting for a noise ruling for a long time. VDTs are very low on the priority list." Davenport said, however, that the guidelines are proving effective. He said that the state has been interested in health issues in the work place for a long time and that employers tend to be cooperative. "Employers tend to heed our directions," he said. "I was pleasantly surprised. I would estimate 95-97 percent compliance."

MIOSHA's guidelines cover eye-strain and ergonomics, offering detailed advice on lighting and on chair/desk/terminal spatial relationships to avoid back and neck strain.

Joan Wilcox, the supervisor of physical therapy at Bon Secours Hospital, sees a great many back patients. She says she hasn't heard any complaining specifically about working at VDTs, but that many of her patients are office workers — who would have similar problems.

"I can't imagine anything but posture as the cause," Wilcox said. She said there are three key factors: proper spatial relationships, posture, and maintaining the same position too long.

"It's important to interrupt sitting at regular intervals," she said. "Prolonged sitting compresses the disks." Wilcox recommends getting up and walking around the office every 20 minutes for a period of about two minutes. She also suggests a hyperextension exercise — leaning back from the waist five or six times, placing the hands on the hips for support.

But the real key is posture. "Americans bend forward. Our lifestyle is inflexion. We bend over to put on our shoes, we bend over to make the bed." And we bend over our desks at work.

Deskworkers should sit with their hips well back in the chair, their shoulders back, and their heads up. To get the idea, Wilcox recommends rolling a towel into a four-inch roll and placing it behind the waist against the back of the chair to maintain the natural curve of the back.

Employees shouldn't feel silly about doing stretches in the office, nor should employers begrudge the time it takes, Wilcox said. "Interrupting saves employees' time off with injuries — and employees work better when they're happy."

WSU alumni invited to homecoming game

Wayne State University alumni are invited to a homecoming picnic featuring entertainment and food and beverages at 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 19, before the 1:30 p.m. football game against Northwood Institute at WSU Stadium.

Action before the game will center around an Oktoberfest tent just south of the stadium and west of the Matthaei Building at the northwest corner of Warren and Trumbull.

Clowns, helium-filled balloons, face-painting and a concert by the WSU marching band are among the highlights planned to please both youngsters and adults. Hot dogs, hamburgers and other foods will be available, as well as soft drinks, coffee and cider.

Free parking is available in the parking lot in front of the Matthaei Building as well as on nearby streets and service drives. A special reduced ticket rate of $1 for the game is available for alumni who present their alumni membership cards.

Women workers

By 1984, 54 percent of all women 16 years of age or over were working or looking for work. In the prime working age group, 25 to 54, nearly 70 percent were in the labor force, according to "Facts on U.S. Working Women," a fact sheet by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Labels needed

The Macomb County Easter Seal Society is collecting labels from Campbell soups, juices, beans, Recipe dog food, Swanson frozen dinners, Franco American pasta and gravy, V-8 juices and Prego spaghetti sauces.

The labels are sent to Campbell's in exchange for equipment to help children in physical and occupational therapy.

Send the labels to the clinic at 39093 Harper, Mount Clemens, or bring them in Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Starting, buying a small business

A workshop, "Deciding to Start or Buy a Small Business," will be offered Saturday, Oct. 26, from 8:15 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the McGregor Memorial Conference Center on the Wayne State Campus. Sponsors for the workshop are the Division of Noncredit Programs, College of Lifelong Learning and the U.S. Small Business Administration.

Topics to be covered include: guidelines for determining whether to buy an existing business or start a new one, understanding financial statements, and how to value a business. Factors to be considered in starting a new business include: assessments of financial and administrative risk and marketing factors.

The workshop fee of $45 includes handout materials, refreshments and lunch.

Boating recall list available

The U.S. Coast Guard has published a listing of current safety recall campaigns being conducted by various recreational boat and engine manufacturers across the country.

The list identifies the make and model of boat or engine involved in the recall campaign, with a brief description of the safety problem responsible for the recall.

Manufacturers are required to mail a recall notice to all purchasers or owners, whose locations are known, whenever a safety defect is found. A safety defect is defined as either a failure to comply with Coast Guard Safety Standards, or the creation of a substantial risk of personal injury to the public.

Persons who have not yet received a recall notice from the manufacturer, may verify whether they are included in the recall by contacting the Coast Guard's toll-free Boating Safety Hotline at 800-368-5647. Consumers wishing to report a safety problem may also call the hotline.

Think twice before buying stereo TV if you have cable

Grosse Pointe Cable wants to give its customers a word of warning: stereo television and cable TV don't mesh, at least not yet.

"We want our people to understand that current stereo televisions may not be compatible with the cable equipment now in subscribers' homes," according to Mike DuFour, general manager of Grosse Pointe Cable. "These sets may not deliver stereo sound when used in conjunction with a cable hook-up. In fact, use of a stereo television set with a cable hook-up will probably degrade the quality of regular TV sound and picture."

The cable company started a consumer information campaign this week, using the slogan "Why a stereo television may not work for you..." DuFour kicked off the program, which will use newspaper advertising, bill insertions and on-air spots, with a letter to owners of electronics outlets.

"Today's stereo TVs are not compatible with quality cable service," according to DuFour's letter. Stereo TV sets operate under a format that most cable equipment can't transmit and deliver with the quality customers deserve. The format wasn't designed for cable, the letter added.

"When stereo TVs are hooked through cable, stereo cable broadcasting will not come through in the stereo," the letter said.

Customers may receive cable stereo with a hook-up installed to their FM stereo equipment.

Dissatisfied stereo television owners are a problem for retailers and cable companies alike. "At first, customers think the cable operators are at fault, but blame quickly encompasses the retailer who sold them the set in the first place," DuFour said.

In some markets, a small amount of broadcast television is currently provided in stereo, such as The Tonight Show With Johnny Carson. While NBC is beginning to offer stereo broadcasting, ABC and CBS have not committed to providing the service.

A variety of cable programming is now being offered in stereo, including Music Television, ESPN, Home Box Office and others. Cable company research shows that customers are most interested in receiving stereo sound with the types of programming offered on cable — movies, concerts and sports events.

In announcing the information program, DuFour said, "We believe it's necessary for our customers to know — before they buy a stereo television — that much of the over-the-air and cable-originated programming they enjoy over cable will not, in fact, come across in stereo on their new stereo TV sets."

"It is our commitment to end any and all customer dissatisfaction in this area immediately," he added.

Grosse Pointe Cable has asked all operators of electronics stores to cooperate with its program by informing consumers considering stereo television equipment — especially those who are cable customers — that ownership of such equipment will not ensure stereo reception of over-the-air or cable channels.

"It's our customers' right to know the facts," DuFour said, "and we feel it's the joint responsibility of cable operators and electronics stores to give people the information they need (and expect from us) to make an intelligent buying decision."

'Americana' to open GP Symphony season

The opening concert of the 33rd season of the Grosse Pointe Symphony will be performed Sunday, Oct. 27, at 3:30 p.m. at Parcels Auditorium. Pianist Elizabeth Lesesne will be guest soloist.

The theme, "Americana," will feature compositions by Gershwin, Barber, Gould and Kay. Felix Resnick, longtime conductor of the orchestra and a violinist with the Detroit Symphony will conduct.

The 1985-86 season will include five concerts. They are:

Jan. 26 — Music and the Spirit, featuring the Christ Church Men's and Boys Choir, under the direction of Fred DeHaven;

March 9 — Classic to Contemporary with Stacey Woolley, violin, and Vincent Lioni, viola;

April 11 — Evening performance with three winners of the Thomas

Nester scholarship; and May 4 — International Masterpieces, with pianist David Strickland.

Season tickets are $25 for adults and $12.50 for students; single tickets are $6 for adults and $3 for students.

For more information, call 886-6244 or send a check to the Grosse Pointe Symphony Society, P.O. Box 36276, Grosse Pointe 48236.

Program offers law students opportunity to study in Canada

Law students can earn four hours academic credit working under the supervision of Canadian public lawyers and judges in Ottawa. The program will run from May 16 through June 28 under the auspices of the Centre for Canadian/U.S. Law of the Detroit College of Law.

Students may be placed with the Federal Ministry of Justice, the Federal Court of Canada, or with members of Parliament, among other Canadian institutions in Ottawa, concerning subject areas which range from international law to criminal law.

The University of Ottawa will be providing accommodations, and the Faculty of Law there will be cooperating in the academic and social aspects of the summer program.

For more information, call Francis J. Conte at 965-0150.

25 reasons why you'll like the way we do banking.

Standard Federal offers a wide range of banking services. So there are a lot of good reasons for doing all your banking with us. For example:

Savings Accounts

1. Money Market Plus Accounts — with high money market interest rates, no penalty for early withdrawal and a unique bonus interest plan in which you earn extra interest for larger balance accounts.

2. Regular Savings Accounts — paying the highest annual rate available from the date of deposit to date of withdrawal.

3. 7 Day to 10 Year Certificate Accounts — all at competitive interest rates — allowing you to choose the term that fits your own investment plan.

Retirement Plans

4. Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) — tax deferred savings for a working person who may contribute up to a maximum of $2,000.00 per year. A working person with a non-working spouse may contribute up to $2,250.00 per year.

5. Simplified Employee Pension Plans (SEP) — which allow an employer to contribute to an individual employee's IRA.

6. Self-Employed Retirement Programs.

Checking Accounts

7. Interest Bearing Checking Accounts — paying 5 1/4% annual interest continuously compounded and paid monthly.

8. Money Market Checking Accounts — presently paying 6% annual interest for accounts maintaining a $2,500 balance. Interest compounded monthly for a high return.

9. Commercial Checking Accounts — designed for our commercial loan customers.

Home Loans

10. Fixed Rate Mortgage Loan — with 15 year or 30 year terms. Interest rate remains constant during the entire life of the loan.

11. Adjustable Rate Mortgage Loan — with a low initial interest rate, featuring annual interest rate and payment changes which are related to current market conditions.

12. Second Mortgage — a loan secured by a mortgage on property which already serves as collateral for another mortgage and which can be used for a variety of business, personal, family and household purposes.

13. Bridge Loan — a loan which bridges the financial gap when you need the equity from your present home to complete the purchase of your next home.

14. Equity Line Loans — which provide you with a convenient means of converting the equity in your home into cash without refinancing your existing first mortgage.

Consumer Loans

15. Automobile Loans

16. Installment Loans

17. Home Improvement Loans

18. Certificate/Passbook Loans

All consumer loans feature simple interest which means you can actually save money on interest charges when you make additional payments or repay a loan early.

19. Credit Line Loan — a personal line of credit up to $7,500 that gives checking account customers access to ready cash as well as overdraft protection.

Commercial Loans

20. Secured Loans — using equipment or inventory to obtain loans for other business purposes.

On Saturday, Oct. 26, the American Association of University Women — Grosse Pointe branch will present "Shifting Gears — Consider Your Options Early," a Pre-retirement Conference, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, Lakeshore Road, Grosse Pointe Farms. Conference chairman Kay Kirby (right) confers with three women who will present workshops (left to right): Margit Jackson, CPA and visiting assistant professor at Oakland University, Financial Planning; Ellen Preisman, executive director of Reuther Senior Centers, Lifestyle Planning; Margaret Kaiser, counselor and educator, Career Choices and Changes. Keynote speaker will be Elinor Waters, Ph.D., Director of Continuum Center at Oakland University.

Shifting Gears — AAUW presents program on pre-retirement options

By Elsa Frohman

"Our society discourages people from thinking about getting older," said Kay Kirby, chairman of the American Association of University Women's pre-retirement seminar to be held on Oct. 26. "Shifting Gears — Consider Your Options Early," will focus on planning for the future for women of all ages.

"Shifting Gears" is a grassroots conference for women in the community who would like to start planning to enhance both their present and future years," Kirby said. "We're not stressing planning for a lifetime. This is about short term planning with long term goals."

The conference will present women with options for the future.

"Many large businesses now have pre-retirement programs for employees," Kirby said. "But such programs are not available generally to women who have spent most of their adult life working in the home or in volunteerism, as well as those working in small businesses or working part-time. This is a grassroots community program."

The conference will consist of three programs given by experts in varying fields. "Preventive Maintenance" will be a financial workshop given by Margit Jackson, a Certified Public Accountant and visiting assistant professor at Oakland University. Jackson will approach the subject of financial planning through a set of three "case studies" covering a single woman in her 30s, a married couple in their 40s and an older couple in their 50s.

"I'll be showing how they can make changes to enhance their future," Jackson said. "I won't be giving investment advice. Rather, I'll be showing how to plan through careful steps so you can have money to invest."

Part of Jackson's presentation is a financial inventory form that will help participants see where their money is coming from and where it

Drink a Rolls Royce

Fine wine auction to benefit music school

By Elsa Frohman

Can you imagine taking a sip of wine bottled a half century ago in France? Can you imagine pouring from a bottle that cost $300 or more?

Saturday night at Greenfield Village's Lovett Hall, approximately 400 people will gather to bid on some of the most expensive beverages to grace tables in this or any city. The Detroit International Wine Auction is the second largest charity wine auction held nationally, surpassed only by the Napa Valley Charity Auction.

The wine connoisseurs who attend the benefit can comfort their wounded pocketbooks with the knowledge that the whole event helps the Detroit Community Music School, a non-profit educational institution which provides quality music and dance instruction to more than 1,800 students regardless of age or financial means. Last year, the auction raised $120,000 for the music school, out of gross receipts of $195,000.

Though it bears the name of Detroit, the auction has a strong Grosse Pointe connection. Grosse Pointe Albert Thiess Jr. is the co-chairman of the event, and Edsel Ford II will act as master of ceremonies. Last year's chairman was Grosse Pointe Jim Goss.

If pouring a glass of wine from a bottle that cost several hundred dollars makes your blood run cold, Goss suggests you re-examine your perspective.

"It's all a question of your value system," Goss said. "Drinking wine is very much like attending the theater. If you want to see a Broadway play, you pay the price for a seat or you don't see the play. If you want to own a Rolls Royce, you pay off 100 $1,000-bills and you own it."

Goss has been a collector of fine wines for the better part of a decade by his own reckoning.

While Goss is an expert on his own taste in wine, he doesn't advise others on what to drink. He suggests consulting with any local wine merchant on the best wine to serve with tonight's dinner.

"You don't need to be a collector to enjoy wine," Goss said. "There are several fine wine merchants in Grosse Pointe. Most wines are not worth collecting. They are meant to be consumed within two or three years. There is no reason to embarrass the consumer no matter how inexpensive the wine is. But inexpensive wine doesn't have the sensual pleasures of aged wine."

Goss recommends wine collecting to those with a special love for the beverage.

"Before you start collecting, you have to enjoy wine," Goss said.

lot of wine. The other is to put on a pleasurable party that everyone can enjoy."

For the $125 per person admission price, the patron enjoys a seven-course dinner, prepared by some of the best known chefs in the Detroit area. After dinner, some of the most rare and unusual wines available will go on sale.

Again this year, as last year, the Detroit Wine Auction has been selected as the only charity auction in the country to receive the grand Jim Goss maintains a cellar of fine aged wines in the basement of his home.

Goss said he has picked up most of his wine expertise along the way to becoming a collector.

"You learn a lot about wine from worrying about it," he said.

As for whether or not to drink an expensive bottle, Goss says by all means enjoy.

"The only reason not to drink a wine is if you have too much and can't drink it all or if it isn't ready to be drunk yet," Goss said.

Wines mature at different rates, he explained. One wine may be past its prime at 10 years, while another may still be improving after 25, 30 or even 50 years.

But the Detroit International Wine Auction is more than a market for wines.

"We always try to do two things," Goss said. "One is to sell a piano case from the Far Niente Winery in Napa Valley, Calif. This year's presentation case contains the first release of 1982 Far Niente Cabernet Sauvignon and consists of six bottles ranging in size from a half bottle to an imperial. An imperial holds six liters.

Goss explained that only three grand piano cases of this particular wine were produced. One will be sold Saturday night, one will be given to another charity auction in the future and one will remain in the winery. The 1982 vintage is the first Cabernet Sauvignon to be produced by the Far Niente Winery since it came under the new management of Gil and John Nickel, two Oklahoma nurserymen who moved to California to go into

Louisa St. Clair DAR to meet

Louisa St. Clair Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will meet at 10:30 a.m., Thursday, Oct. 17, at the Detroit Yacht Club, on Belle Isle, with Mrs. George T. Edson, regent, presiding.

Anna Frances Houston will present an educational program on the country as seen through the Seimes Microfilm Center. The center, in Washington, D.C., is where all DAR genealogical records are stored and made available to the general public.

DAR State Conference reports will be given by those who attended that event held Sept. 26-28 at the Marriott Inn in Grand Rapids. Representing the chapter were Mrs. George T. Edson, regent; Mrs. Maxwell E. Hunt, honorary state regent; Mrs. B. Thomas Weyhing, III, State treasurer; delegates Mrs. Kenneth J. Brown, Mrs. Frank S. Clark, Mrs. John H. Erwin, Mrs. George F. Ryckman and Mrs. Robert W. Sawyer Jr.; alternates Mrs. Frederick M. Hindley, Mrs. Richard J. Omlor, Mrs. Martin L. Parker and member Mrs. Charles I. Tittle.

The conference adopted resolutions concerning terrorism, imports the English language, seatbelts, the Michigan sesquicentennial and a salute to members.

GP Woods Garden Club

The Grosse Pointe Woods Garden Club met on Oct. 1 at the home of Mrs. Donald Marshall. The co-hostess was Mrs. George Miles. There was no planned program. Instead, members asked questions of the September speaker who talked about Korea.

Grand Marais Garden Club

The Grand Marais Garden Club will hold its October meeting on Oct. 14 at the home of Dorothy Allison. Assisting with the luncheon will be Trudy Miller, Ethel Perkin and Marge Locke, co-hostesses.

The program will be held at the Detroit Garden Center where Margaret Grazier will give a talk on gardening books.

Salvation Army Auxiliary

The ladies' Auxiliary to the Salvation Army will meet on Monday, Oct. 14, at 11 a.m., at the Royal Oak Citadel, 3014 N. Main St., Royal Oak.

Lunch will be at noon. Please bring a sandwich. Beverage and dessert will be provided. Call Enid Gee at 642-5142 to make a reservation.

Esther Kuxhaus will give an unusual demonstration of bouquets made from vegetables for the program.

Gospel Fest

A musical program to benefit the United Methodist Committee on Relief will be held at Grosse Pointe United Methodist Church, 211 Moross Rd., on Sunday, Oct. 13, at 6:30 p.m. Authentic gospel music by excellent musicians will be heard. Refreshments will be served.

All donations will go to the relief fund. Admission will be $2 per person for adults, $1 for children, or $5 per family. For more information, call the church at 886-2363.

Guidelines for submission

Editor's note: Because of the volume of submissions to this column, I have been forced to apply some new guidelines to club and church notices to be published here.

The problem is one of space — there hasn't been enough to get in all the notices people have been submitting. The volume of material submitted for this column has been staggering.

Therefore, in the future I must limit the length of notices published under the Club and Church heading. Beginning this week, club and church notices will not exceed four column inches. This way, I hope I can find room for all the notices that are submitted. Everyone deserves a chance to announce their event or meeting, so let's be considerate of others and keep these notices as brief as possible.

In terms of what you submit, four column inches corresponds to about two-thirds of a page of typed, double-spaced copy.

I prefer all submissions to be typed. I understand that some of the people who submit copy either don't have access to a typewriter or are unable to type. Therefore, I have never turned down a submission because it isn't typed. However, before I can send a notice to the printer, it must be typed. That means I have to re-type anything that comes in handwritten. I don't mind, but lately the volume has gotten to be more than I can handle. So, if you can type your submission, please do. I will appreciate it deeply.

The deadline for submissions to the Second Section of this newspaper is 3 p.m. Friday for the following week. That is a firm and absolute time dictated to me by the printing schedule. It doesn't do any good to ask me to bend the deadline. I have to have my copy to the printer by a certain time or it doesn't get printed.

However, while the deadline is 3 p.m. Friday, I appreciate items that come in early. The more time I have to handle your item, the easier my job is.

If you have any questions about these guidelines, or would like to discuss publicity for your club or church, feel free to call me, Elsa Frohman, anytime during working hours at 882-0294.

Thank you for your cooperation to make this a better and more complete column.

Windmill Pointe Garden Club

The Windmill Pointe Garden Club opened the month with an Oct. 2 Pot-Luck Luncheon and the Annual Auction at the home of Mrs. John Groustra with Mrs. Richard Abbott as co-hostess.

Mrs. Erik Erikson was auctioneer for the day conducting a lively and successful auction of items donated by the members.

The business meeting conducted by Mrs. George Malley, president, preceded the luncheon and auction.

Alpha Delta Kappa

Alpha Epsilon Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa, an honorary sorority of women educators, will commemorate Founders Day with a variety of activities during the week of Oct. 13-19.

Alpha Epsilon will be the guests of Alpha Zeta Chapter of Grosse Pointe, at a meeting to be held in the Library Center at Trombley School. The program will include a Founders Day Ceremony led by the Alpha Zeta members.

The chapter will be making donations to the St. Clair Shores Symphony and the Detroit Symphony, in the name of Alpha Delta Kappa.

Three members of Alpha Epsilon live in Grosse Pointe. They are: Carol Roller and Chris Burt of Roslyn Rd. and Gloria Weber of Lakeshore Lane.

Grosse Pointe Questers Chapter 147

Lillian Meyers Pear, author of "The Pewabic Pottery: A History of Its Products and Its People," will lecture to Grosse Pointe Quester Chapter 147 on Pewabic Pottery on Friday, Oct. 11, at the home of Mrs. Manuel L. Papista of Vendome Court.

Notable for unique glazes, the ceramics and tiles produced by Pewabic's founder, Mary Chase Perry Stratton, were highly prized by architects and builders of fine homes from 1903 to World War II.

Mrs. Pear has been an art columnist, written articles for major antique and historical publications and served as an adult art education instructor in Grosse Pointe, for many years.

Co-hostesses for the luncheon will be Mrs. Frederick Schumann and Mrs. Edward P. Barthel.

Mothers of Multiples

The Eastern Bi-County Mothers of Multiples (twins, triplets, etc.) is holding its semi-annual Clothing and Equipment Sale Oct. 12, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the St. Peters Church, 19800 Anita, Harper Woods (off Eight Mile, between Beaconsfield and I-94, across from Eastland). Items available for sale include children's clothing, baby equipment, toys and more.

Pointer Bridge Club

Due to conflicting programs the Pointer Bridge Club will meet Oct. 24 instead of Oct. 17 at the Alger House for brunch and bridge. The meeting begins at 11 a.m. For reservation or cancellations please call hostesses Marge Taube, 884-2516 or Elaine Micklethwaite, 886-6034.

Guest pastor slated

Dr. Larry L. Greenfield, president of the Colgate Rochester Divinity School, Rochester, N.Y., will be the guest preacher at the Grosse Pointe Congregational and American Baptist Church on Sunday, Oct. 13. Greenfield will preach at the 9:30 and 11:15 a.m. worship services. A coffee reception will be held between the two worship services.

Greenfield has been the president of Colgate Rochester Divinity School for six years. Prior to coming to Rochester, he served as dean of students at the University of Chicago. Greenfield also serves on several national committees for the American Baptist Churches/USA. He is often sought after by churches and academic institutions around the country to lead seminars for ministers, laity and professors of theology for his theological and preaching expertise.

Fort Pontchartrain DAR

Fort Pontchartrain chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution will meet Oct. 18, at the McFadden Ross Museum, Dearborn, Mich., for a luncheon at 11 a.m. An unusual boutique will also be shown with items of interest to everyone.

Reservations will be taken by Mrs. Bernard L. Seitz and Mrs. Frank McKinnon.

Those attending from this area will be: Mrs. Robert Brines, Mrs. Gordon N. Cameron, Mrs. Arthur Elges, Mrs. Paul Honderich, Mrs. Leonard L. Jensen, Mrs. George F. Killeen, Mrs. Edwin Langtry, Mrs. Frank McKinnon, Mrs. Frederick McNamara, Mrs. Charles Ross, Mrs. Frederick Schelter, Mrs. Bernard L. Seitz and Mrs. Joseph Thomas.

Elizabeth Ketchum Group

The Elizabeth Ketchum Group of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church meets tomorrow, Friday, Oct. 11, at 1 p.m. in the Webber Drive home in Harper Woods of Mrs. Raymond W. Eddy. Devotions will be led by Mrs. Gust F. Jahnke.

GP Woman's Club

The next meeting of The Grosse Pointe Woman's Club will be Oct. 23 instead of Oct. 16 in the Crystal Ballroom of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial at 12:30 p.m.

Following the social hour, Mrs. Raymond Duffy, program chairman and first vice-president, will introduce the guest speaker, Helen Leonard, currently Outreach Librarian for the Grosse Pointe Library. Leonard, a native of New York, has been living in Michigan since 1963. Her topic will be: "The Public Library Reaching Out."

The tea hostesses for the day are: Mrs. V.C. Adams and Mrs. William R. Hill. Mrs. Joseph Craig, Mrs. Paul Craig, Edith McKee and Mrs. Merle C. Weaver will pour. Assisting on the tea committee are: Mrs. Vernon Aljets, Mrs. John Koch, Mrs. Robert Marowski and Mrs. Joseph J. Michalak.

Members planning to invite guests are requested to make reservations by contacting hospitality chairman Mrs. Herbert Taube, by Oct. 19.

Book Review Group

The first fall meeting of the Book Review Group of the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church Women's Association is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 15 at 1 p.m. in the church lounge following a noon luncheon in fellowship hall of the church.

Doris Shover Brucker will review the books "The Never Ending Story" and "Momo" by Michael Ende. The former is a best seller in Europe and is the basis of a movie made in the United States. Doris is a graduate of Wellesley College, and has a deep commitment to family, church and community. She has reviewed books for the Book Review Group for more than 10 years.

Mrs. Brucker will be introduced by Mrs. J. Ross Bush, group chairman. Reservations for the luncheon should be made with the church office at 882-5330. Visitors are cordially invited.

NE Guidance Assistance League sets events for 1985-86

The Assistance League to the Northeast Guidance Center has raised $50,000 to date, to help the mental health agency with its programs in the metropolitan area. The group has planned a full slate of events for the coming year to earn more funds for the center.

A progressive dinner will be held on Dec. 7 with a Christmas theme. Chairmen are Beth Moran and Betty Loeher.

The Assistance League is one of the sponsors of the black tie Detroit Association of Auto Dealers event in January. Judy Rutan and Sandi Cook are chairmen and an After-glow will be held at the Sharon Vashir home.

On Feb. 16, the group will have a Sunday brunch at the home of Marge and John Tyrer. Mrs. Tyrer is chairman of the event.

The Guidance Gazette, an annual newsletter published by the league, will be chaired by Tina Mayk this year.

The Wine Tasting-Girls' Night Out will be put on by Nancy Hook and Kiki Robinson at the Hook home.

A Night at the Players is planned for May with Jaye Thursam as chairman.

The year will close with Art on the Pointe at the Eleanor and Edsel Ford House on Lakeshore on June 14 and 15. Ellen Cooke and Toni Stewart will be chairmen.

New Orleans Cabaret benefits Bon Secours

The Friends of Bon Secours will hold their annual Dinner Dance on Friday, Oct. 11, at the Westin Hotel, the Renaissance Center. This year's event, "A New Orleans Cabaret," will feature entertainment by Doug Jacobs and the Red Garter Band. Dance music will be played by Joe Vitale and his Big Band.

Four Bon Secours Hospital physicians will be honored at the Dinner Dance for more than 30 years service to the Hospital and the community. They are: Albert Ceravolo, M.D.; Charles Holt, M.D.; Salvatore Longo, M.D.; and in memorium, Dwight Dutcher, M.D. The honoree chairman is Mrs. Bartholomew Seymour.

Tickets for this black tie event are $100 each, $200 a couple, $500 for patrons, and $1,000 for benefactors. Patrons and benefactors will receive two tickets for their contribution.

Proceeds from this year's dinner dance will be used to purchase advanced anesthesia equipment for the Bon Secours Hospital surgical rooms. Last year, 5,500 inpatient and 3,500 outpatient surgical procedures were performed at the Hospital.

The dinner dance committee is chaired by Dr. and Mrs. Francis P. Shea. Committee members are: Mr. and Mrs. John A. Boll; Mrs. Earl Boonstra; Mr. and Mrs. Edmund M. Brady Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo D. Browning; Mr. and Mrs. C. John Burke; Mr. and Mrs. Craig H. Curtiss; Dr. and Mrs. Francis T. Day; Mrs. Walter B. Fisher; Dr. and Mrs. Robert G. Frear; Mrs. William L. Hurley; Mrs. James Kackley and Mrs. John L. King.

Other committee members are: Mrs. Charles D. La Fond; Mrs. Leo Marx; Dr. and Mrs. Roger F. McNeill; Miss Marilyn Meier; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Mercier; Mr. and Mrs. John F. Monahan; Peter E. O'Rourke; R. Lawrence Roth; Dr. and Mrs. John R. Schneider; Dr. and Mrs. Tymon C. Totte; Dr. and Mrs. Steve Tsangalias; Mr. and Mrs. George H. Williams; and Mrs. Calier Worell.

The New Orleans Cabaret will begin with cocktails in the Westin Hotel Ballroom at 7 p.m. and dinner will be served at 8:30 p.m. Valet parking is included.

For dinner dance reservations call Glory Little, Bon Secours Hospital, development and community relations department, 823-0008.

Detroit-Swedish Council holds smorgasbord

On Sunday, Sept. 30, at the Cranbrook Academy of Art, Detroit-Swedish Council's 9th annual smorgasbord took place. This was a benefit for the Carl and Olga Milles Scholarship at the academy.

Some 100 members and guests attended the $55 per person event. Roy Slade, president of the academy made several tours with the guests explaining the Saarinen House, which is his residence, and talked about Eliel and Laja Saarinen and their early beginning in planning Cranbrook Educational Community.

Among those present from Grosse Pointe were Mr. and Mrs. James D. Tracy, Mrs. Charles J. Koebel, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Buehrig, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wood, their son and daughter-in-law, Mary and David Wood, Arvid Lundell, Walter Westman, Doris and Wesley Johnson.

President of the council William E. Hoglund and his wife, Bev, together with his mother-in-law

PERMANENT EYE LINING

Women have always longed for beautiful eyes. Since the days of Cleopatra they have been lining their eyes for drama and enhancement. Now, thanks to modern science we can present a permanent micro-surgical technique to offer women the help they have been dreaming about to reduce time, hassle and frustration in their all too busy lives.

Dr. Patrick Verb of the Grosse Pointe Eye Center 20845 Mack in the Woods well-known for his expertise in eye surgery, offers permanent eye-liner, a procedure which implants dye microsurgically. The technique, a basic, delicate tattooing, takes about forty-five minutes.

Permanent Eye-Lining is a welcome beauty aid for the patient who wears contact lenses, bifocals, has vision problems or arthritic conditions. Athletes and those engaged in active sports such as swimming and jogging have praised its benefits.

Christ the King marks 45th

Christ the King Lutheran Church, Mack and Lochmoor, Grosse Pointe Woods, will celebrate its 45th Anniversary with a Festival Service of Holy Communion on Sunday, Oct. 20, at 10:30 a.m. followed by a Fellowship Banquet at the Harper Woods Community Center at 12:30 p.m.

The Rev. Toshio Okamoto, pastor of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, Muskegon, will deliver the sermon and the Rev. Joseph P. Fabry, pastor of Christ the King, will officiate. Okamoto will also address the 9 a.m. Sunday Bible Class, sharing the experience of his specialized ministry to Bereaved Persons and Widows Together.

The anniversary theme, "Growing in God's Grace," is symbolized by three trees in various stages of growth. The theme has been highlighted by sermons and banners throughout the year. All members, friends and former members of Christ the King are cordially invited to the Anniversary Service and Banquet. Tickets are: children 3 and under, no charge; children 4-6, donation $4; age 7 and up, donation $7.50. Paid reservations only. For further information, please call 884-5090. The deadline for reservation is Oct. 13.

The parish was founded in 1940 as a new mission of the English District of the Lutheran Church — Missouri Synod. The first pastor was the Rev. Wilbert C. Burmeister, who was succeeded by the Rev. Walter J. Geffert. The Rev. Joseph P. Fabry has served the congregation since 1972.

The first church was built in 1953 and enlarged in 1964. At the current time the congregation has 650 members.

"When you know what's going in and going out, it's easier to make decisions," Jackson said. "We'll be dealing with basics and getting a feeling for where we are."

"You're in the Driver's Seat" will be a session on lifestyle planning by Ellen Preisman, director of the Reuther Senior Centers. She will be talking about the importance of the other people in our lives and the ways we can have more satisfying relationships with family and friends.

"Planning is important," Preisman said. "Even family relationships change as we age. We have to consider the value of the people in our lives. There are assets and liabilities as we have obligations to those people."

"I will be talking about being alone, risk taking and negotiations. We will be taking a quick look at personal strengths and assets," Preisman said.

Part of Preisman's presentation will be on how we find new friends and skills for meeting new people. Margaret Kaiser will present "Your Triptik Through Life," a session on career choices and changes from mid-life through retirement. Kaiser will present a panel of women in diverse careers,

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Smith

Fruehauf-Smith

Grosse Pointe Memorial Church was the setting for the August wedding of Nancy Berns Fruehauf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Richard Fruehauf Jr. of Grosse Pointe Farms, and Michael Shaw Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brewster Smith of Bloomfield Hills.

The 7 p.m. ceremony on Aug. 31, was presided over by the Rev. Louis Prues. The organist, Leslie Sanders, was accompanied by trumpeter Bill Beger. The ceremony was enhanced by soloist Phil Michiel, who sang the wedding song and the benediction.

The reception was held at the Country Club of Detroit at which the music of J.C. Heard added to the festive mood. The newly-weds planned a vacation in Bermuda after which they will be returning to their home in Birmingham.

The bride, a St. Lawrence University graduate, wore a silk gown styled with a dropped waist, cathedral-length train and puffed sleeves. The fitted bodice was adorned with seed pearls. Her headpiece was a pearl tiara and an heirloom veil of Brussels lace. The bouquet was of gardenias, stephanotis and tiny white lilies.

Attendants to the bride wore sapphire blue taffeta tea-length gowns and carried bouquets of white lilies. Honor matron, Lynn Charlton, sister of the bride, and Kimberly Baubie, also a sister, assisted the bride during the ceremony. Other bridesmaids were Eloise Henkel, Janet Peters, Christi Cracchiolo, and Debbie King all of Grosse Pointe and Mrs. David Smith of Birmingham.

The bridegroom, an Albion graduate, asked his older brother David Smith to be his best man. Others honored with usher duties were Douglas Smith, Richard Fruehauf, Kenneth Fruehauf, Michael Fisher and Randall Fruehauf.

Luncheons for the wedding party and out-of-town guests were given on Aug. 31 by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Henkel of Preston Place and on Sept. 1 by Dr. and Mrs. John Lesesne of Kerby Court.

Taylor-McBroom

Margaret Ann Taylor, daughter of Charles and Sue Taylor of Grosse Pointe Farms, and Michael McBroom, son of Bill and Marie McBroom of Grosse Pointe, were married on June 15 at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

The Rev. Lewis Prues officiated at the 3 p.m. ceremony which was followed by a reception at the Country Club of Detroit.

The bride wore an ivory gown and veil with a cathedral train and

Mrs. Michael McBroom

The maid of honor was Sara Taylor, sister of the bride, Grosse Pointe. Bridesmaids were Lynne Cameron, friend of the bride; Eileen Hedges, friend of the bride and Amy Hartmann, friend of the bride. All are from the Grosse Pointe area.

The bridesmaids wore floor-length chiffon dresses in Dafney rose. They carried rubrum lilies and alstroemeria.

The best man was Jeff Valenti, friend of the groom. Ushers were Chick Taylor, brother of the bride; Ed Hedges, friend of the groom; and Steve Dugaro, cousin of the groom. All are from the Grosse Pointe area.

The mother of the bride wore a tea-length dress in lavender. She wore a white jafet orchid corsage.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a tea-length dress in dusty pink with a jacket. She also wore a white jafet orchid corsage.

The couple will live in St. Clair Shores.

Costello-Chandler

Kathleen Costello and Michael Chandler were united in marriage on Saturday, July 27. The nuptial mass and double ring ceremony took place in St. Mary's Catholic Church, Aspen, Colo. at 11 a.m. with the Rev. Robert E. Hehn officiating, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Francis A. D'Ambrosio of Concord, Mass. as deacon.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. P.M. Costello of Monmouth, Ill. and Mr. and Mrs. John F. Chandler of Grosse Pointe Farms.

Organ music was provided by David Dyer who accompanied Joe Pechota, vocalist.

Guests were seated by brothers of the bride, Mark J. Costello, Astoria, Ore., Daniel J. Costello and Patrick L. Costello of Jacksonville, Fla., who also served as lecturers.

Craig Bushong of Monmouth, Ill., served as acolyte.

Gift Bearers were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kirchner, and their children Kevin and Carolyn of Grosse Pointe Shores.

Attending the groom as his best man was Brian Robertson of Basalt, Colo.

Charlyn M. Canada of Vail, Colo., attended her sister as maid of honor.

The reception following the ceremony was held at the Hotel Aspen. Assisting in serving the cake were Carol McAdell and Claudia Deutschmann.

The rehearsal dinner on Friday evening was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. John F. Chandler. Also on Friday evening Dr. and Mrs. Harold L. Stitt and their daughters Kendra and Elizabeth hosted a reception at their home in Aspen in honor of the couple.

The bridegroom is a computer consultant specializing in banking software.

Libby-Beyer

Catherine Irene Libby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Libby of Sacramento, Calif., and Robert L. Beyer Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beyer of Grosse Pointe Woods, were married on Sept. 14 at the Firehouse Courtyard in Sacramento.

The Rev. Elling Ramsey, great uncle of the bride, officiated at the 7:30 p.m. ceremony which was followed by a reception at the same location.

The matron of honor was Tamara Tory, sister of the bride. Stacy Libby, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaid.

The best man was David Beyer, brother of the groom, Tampa, Fla. The groomsmen were Jim Vaira. Ushers were Steven and Ronald Lowe.

Peggy Brown played the harp during the ceremony.

The bride is president of Classic Designs Advertising Co., of Sacramento. The groom is a 1974 graduate of Grosse Pointe North High School and holds a bachelor of arts degree in marketing from Michigan State University. He is vice president and branch manager of Norman Wright Mechanical Equipment Co., Sacramento.

Joining Fontbonnefair general chairman Joan Gehrke at a planning meeting for the second annual Fontbonnefair to be held Oct. 29 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the St. Clair Shores Recreation Center were: front row, left to right, Pattie Klimchuck, Creative Corner chairman; Pam Stanton, publicity chairman; Jane Buhl, arts and crafts chairman; Joan Gehrke, general chairman; Victoria Keys, financial chairman; Constance Foresman, co-financial chairman; second row, Judy Lundell, gift shop chairman; Sister Sylvia Dimeck, secretary; Marie DeLuca, arrangements chairman; Mary Bonten, arrangements co-chairman; Rosemary Gaspar, candy co-chairman; back row, Pat Oshtosh, president; Sister Vernice McQuade, auxiliary advisor; Pat Young, Pantry chairman; Joanne Marcil, Elegant White Elephant chairman; Sandy Fulgenzi, Elegant White Elephant co-chairman; Caroline Bommarito, snack shop chairman.

St. John Auxiliary hosts Fontbonnefair

The Fontbonne Auxiliary of St. John Hospital is sponsoring a "Fontbonnefair," Tuesday, Oct. 29, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the St. Clair Shores Recreation Center.

This second annual event will feature arts and crafts items such as stained glass sun catchers, quilted pillows, prairie dolls, wooden ornaments, Christmas tree skirts, table runners, wicker and wallhangings. An elegant white elephant will also be featured.

A silent auction will contain donated items to bid on from an autographed Aaron Krickstein tennis racket to a personal tour of the Detroit News and lunch with Tavy

Stone, the paper's fashion editor. Proceeds from the event will go toward the purchase of equipment for the hospital's Concentrated Care Building. The St. Clair Shores Recreation Center is located at 24800 Jefferson Avenue, just south of 10 Mile Road. For more information, contact the Fontbonne Auxiliary at 343-3675.

Jansens mark 50 years

On Saturday, Sept. 14, long-time Grosse Pointe Woods residents Adolph and Sophia Jansen celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. The celebration began with a 4 p.m. mass at St. John Hospital chapel, officiated by the Rev. Albert Sandor and attended by many family members and friends.

After mass the Jansens joined their family and friends for a dinner/reception at the DeLaSalle Knights of Columbus hall on Detroit's northeast side.

Sophia wore a lovely turquoise gown and Adolph wore an evening suit with a sprig of the boutonniere that he saved from his wedding day 50 years ago.

Among the guests were their four children, Jack, Shirley, Richard and Ron, and nine grandchildren. Three of their children came from Clinton and Saranac, Mich., as well as guests from other parts of Michigan, Illinois and as far away as Baal, West Germany.

Jane Combrink-Graham: Play on!

By Elsa Frohman

Preparing for a performance is six or seven weeks of hard work. Then, in one night, it's over. But that's all right, the women of the Theatre Arts Club will simply start preparing for their next performance.

The club has existed for 75 years, presenting plays at the Players playhouse with all-female casts. The group is loosely tied to the Players, an all-male group, through husbands and wives and friends. It is also interconnected with Ibox and the Fine Arts Club.

For these thespians, the process is the point. The performances are private, attended by invited guests of the club members. The actresses, stagehands, costume and makeup workers and everyone involved with the productions are working for the fun of participating in a theatrical production, according to Jane Combrink-Graham, director of this season's first Theater Arts production, Gigi.

"All of these people are interested in the arts," Combrink-Graham said. "We do it for our own creative benefit. Many of our members were professionals once and wish to continue. It's a wonderful creative outlet."

The group last performed Gigi in 1959. "The script committee decided to do it again because we have many new members who hadn't seen it before. Since it is our 75th year, we wanted to do something that had been a hit in the past."

Combrink-Graham is one of the former professional actresses in

"There would only be one or two players with running parts and contracts from the show," she said. The life of radio performers was insecure at best unless you had a contract, she explained.

"Probably for a couple or three years I was making it," she said. "But on the whole, no. There was good money in radio, comparatively speaking. But no one makes it big without a big job. You had to have a contract for a running part."

During Combrink-Graham's days in the New York soap operas, a new medium was developing that would eventually overshadow radio drama. She tried her hand several times at this new up-start, television.

"In those days, television was so raw, so new, that you didn't even have to be in the union to perform. I was on several experimental variety shows. They were miserable because the lighting was so crude. It was hot. There was no air conditioning. If you were in a segment for more than five minutes you had to run out into the hall to get out of the studio. It was terribly hard, particularly for the dancers. Sometimes it was gruesome. The makeup was weird. They didn't know what would work."

Combrink-Graham said she performed in skits and short pieces on the experimental television shows. Later, back in Detroit, she worked in training films and commercials for a while.

After giving up the professional theater, Combrink-Graham turned to amateur groups like the Theatre Arts Club to keep venting her creative urge. She was one of the founders of the Grosse Pointe Theater, though she is no longer active in that group.

In the current production, Combrink-Graham has stepped out of the actress' role to become the director.

"It's more fun to be an actor," she said. "But directing has a different set of satisfactions. It's delightful to watch new young people acting. It's nice to watch a show come together. The momentum picks up. There is a lot of work behind the scenes. It takes a lot of committees to see a show come together. Each has its satisfactions."

She says that the all-female aspect of the group doesn't get in the way of putting on first class performances.

"Some of our actresses are excellent. They are so good that after a few minutes you don't realize they are female."

In the years since her marriage, Combrink-Graham, a native Grosse Pointe, has lived in the Chicago area and the Cleveland area. However, that hasn't slowed down her dramatic pursuits.

"No matter where you go there are creative groups like this," she said.

After many years away from professional performing, Combrink-Graham says she doesn't regret leaving public life.

"When I got married I was interested in having children and a home," she said. "Living in a community with these organizations is marvellous. I could be working every day. That's more than most professionals can do."

Gigi will be performed at the Players playhouse on Oct. 18. The cast will include Donna Ridella, Mary Belanger, Jean Ground, Joann Koch, Irene Blatchford, Nancy Mizer and Mary Roehm. Toulou Bonnier Dirksen designed the sets with the help of Gail Weber, Betty Breidenbach, Margaret Lindner and Barbara Braden. Louise Dexter is properties chairman assisted by Kathy Phillips and Mary Blain. Costume chairmen are Mary Krueger and Kathy Billoti. Sharon Conti, Ethel Walsh and Jean Coyle are working on makeup. Marge Locke, Gen Gray and Ethel Perkin are working lighting. Julia Keim and Margaret Lindner are in charge of sound. After the performance, wine and cheese will be served. In charge of refreshments are Pat Worrell, Shirley Worthman, Monica Locke and Johanna Gilbert. Ushers are Marie Therese Levin, Danielle Van Assche, Mahie Skaff. Dress rehearsal hostesses are Sally Jay, Trudie Schmidt. Producers of the play are Marge Kallin and Marge Guertler.

the club. Under the name, Mary Jane McClure, she was a regular performer in the days of dramatic radio, playing a variety of female parts in the Green Hornet, the Lone Ranger and the Call of the Yukon. All three programs were produced in Detroit at WXYZ radio in the 1940s.

"No female ever had a continuing role (in those programs)," Combrink-Graham said. "They were 90 percent male. Usually there would be one female part with very little to do."

But working in professional radio was an education in itself, she said.

"I was right out of school and it was very enlightening to watch these performers. We had one dress rehearsal before the show. Those men were so good, they could read their scripts with such perfection. Some of them were good enough to be two people on the same show by changing their voices."

For trivia buffs, Combrink-Graham says she believes she played opposite Lone Ranger Brace Beemer.

In 1944 and 1945, Combrink-Graham went to New York to play in nationally broadcast soap operas on NBC and CBS radio. Once again, she played various parts, usually

Perk up a tailgate picnic with these relishes

The time has come to trade the summer picnic for a tailgate picnic. October is the favorite month for an elegant or sporty meal, eaten from the car, before the big game. The rule for a successful tailgate outing is to choose dishes that can be packed in thermos containers and eaten with a minimum of mess. Any of the following relishes from the low-calorie, low-cholesterol, budgetwise kitchens of Thera Gray Howard and Helen DeWitt Roth can be taken along in their original jars, to add a special zip to that pre-game picnic.

Zee's Candied Dill Slices

A terrific money saver. These refrigerator pickles are so utterly delicious, so crispy and so flavorful, they will disappear like magic. 1 jar (46 ounces) fresh pack whole dill pickles 2 1/2 cups granulated sugar 1 tsp. celery seed 1 tsp. mustard seed 2/3 cup brown sugar 1/2 cup cider vinegar 3 thin slices medium California orange or lemon Pour liquid off pickles. Slice pickles. Layer in bowl spreading sugar evenly over each layer, ending with sugar. Cover. Let stand in refrigerator overnight. Wash and sterilize original jar. Fill bottom third of jar with pickle slices, put in orange slices vertically in jar, carefully fill jar with remaining pickles being careful not to disturb orange slices. In small bowl mix celery seeds, mustard seeds, brown sugar and vinegar. Stir to dissolve sugar. Pour over pickles in jar; cover; and refrigerate at least 24 hours before eating.

Lime-Zucchini Relish
A real palate pleaser specially when served with lamb.

2 medium limes 1 1/2 pounds fresh, crisp zucchini 1/2 cup lime juice 1/4 cup cider vinegar Pinch of salt 1 1/2 ounces pkg. fruit pectin 4 cups sugar Cut ends from limes and slice very thin; then chop slices very, very thin. Trim ends from zucchini and coarsely shred. In large kettle, stir together lime, zucchini, lime juice, vinegar and salt. Thoroughly stir in fruit pectin. Over high heat, stirring constantly, bring to a boil; stir in sugar, bring to boil again and boil one minute. Turn off heat. With a wooden spoon, stir for five minutes. Ladle into prepared clean hot canning jars and seal. Cool to room temperature and store in refrigerator or very cool place. Makes 6 1/2 pints. Calories about 16 per tablespoon. Cholesterol 0.

Onion Butter Honey
Serve at your next barbecue and listen to the raves ... everybody seems to love this "different way" of serving a favorite vegetable. 2 large Spanish onions 4 Tbsp. unsalted margarine 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar

2 Tbsp honey Peel and thinly slice onions, separating into rings. They should measure seven to eight cups of rings. In heavy skillet, melt margarine and saute onions until soft but now browned. Add sugar and honey. Cook slowly until onions are glazed and liquid is well cooked down. Serve warm with meat of any type. Makes eight servings.

Onion Relish Dressing

This special dressing is so zesty everyone will want to swamp their barbecued hamburgers in it. It is also very good on tossed salad greens. It freezes so well, so plan now to make plenty for next winter. 2 cups finely chopped sweet Spanish onions 1 cup salad oil 1/2 cup catsup 1/2 cup vinegar 1/2 cup horseradish 1/2 tsp. dry mustard 3 drops hot pepper sauce Juice of 1 lemon Salt and pepper to taste Place chopped onion with remaining ingredients in a quart jar. Cover and shake until thoroughly blended. Refrigerate until used. Makes one quart. An excellent base for Mediterranean Baked Fish.

Sports Week

By Peggy O'Connor

From my notebook . . .

Normally, I believe everything I read in L.M. Boyd's column in the Detroit Free Press. I mean, how can you not believe a guy who knows stuff like P.T. Barnum's waist size or how many nose hairs a camel has. Now, I'm not so sure. In Boyd's Oct. 3 column, he stated that tennis players normally come from small families and wrestlers, from large ones.

C'mon, L.M., where do you come up with stuff like that? And don't give me any of that nonsense about wrestlers learning their craft from having to muscle out family members at dinner time. I think I'm going to have to ask ULS's tennis coach Bob Wood and Norseman wrestling coach Larry Aceto to help me do a little research on this.

Aside from L.M.'s less-than-enlightening column, the Oct. 3 Free Press did contain some good stuff. In its weekly Grid Board Report in the sports section, it mentioned North fullback Mike Miller as one of the area's top runners. Miller has 684 yards and six touchdowns in five games. The Grid Board Report also credited North tackle Rob Brumer for his excellent play.

Nice to see some of our guys get noticed downtown, isn't it?

Another local boy making good is South High basketball alumnus Stark Langs. Readers will recall that Langs didn't even play organized basketball until his junior year at South, then averaged 10 points and 9 rebounds per game as a senior while helping the Blue Devils to a 19-3 record, a No. 9 state ranking and a spot in the regional finals. He was named to the All-Metro third team, signed with the Brown University team as a freshman and started at center for Brown for three seasons.

Armed with a degree in applied mathematics and economics, Langs was ready to join the business world when basketball beckoned again this fall, in the form of a job as the starting center for the Perth, Scotland (yep, Scotland) team.

A local Scottish newspaper did a piece on Langs, noting that at 7 feet, 240 pounds, Stark is the tallest player in Scotland. Which gives his family a giggle — they swear that Stark is 6-11 in his stocking feet.

Anyway, Langs is putting his career as a financial analyst on hold for a year, while he enjoys himself playing his favorite sport in Scotland. And aside from not being able to find a new pair of size 15 basketball shoes in the local shops, and having the newspaper quote him as saying he "reckons" basketball is more fun than working nine to five, Stark's family reports that all is well with Scotland's answer to Akeem Olajuwon.

And I reckon that's great.

So is the small mention made of Grosse Pointe Park's 13-15 Babe Ruth team in "Bullpen," the nationally-circulated official publication of Babe Ruth baseball. The Park was saluted as regional champion of its Ohio Valley section.

Champions for a day, at least, were the members of the South High varsity soccer team which beat North, 1-0, in last week's second meeting of the two teams this season. The Blue Devils were on the attack all day, continually frustrating North's offense and maintaining good ball control in evening this year's totals to one win each.

Only casualty in a very rough game was South winger Chris Eschenburg, who went down with a broken leg late in the second half and had to be removed from the field on a stretcher.

But if the game had gone on much longer with North pushing as hard as it was for the tying goal, there would have been a few more candidates for the stretcher — all on the sidelines. To say South parents got "into" last Thursday's game would be the understatement of the season. The pulses were racing and while every eye was riveted to the play going on in the field, the spectators' minds were clearly on one thing: how much time was left?

After fending off a North corner kick and experiencing a few scary moments near the end, the whistle blew and South players jumped for joy . . . but not nearly as high as their parents did.

Hey, if you think watching a 1-0 South-North soccer game isn't spellbinding, try watching it while standing with South parents. They made moves that were almost as good as the ones on the field. Like dads who kicked at invisible soccer balls, leaned against imaginary defenders and stopped pretend shots. And moms who jumped up and down, clapped their hands a lot and covered their eyes when things got a little hairy.

I can hardly wait to see what they do in the playoffs.

Best wishes to the aforementioned Chris Eschenburg, who was to be released sometime this week from St. John Hospital after suffering that broken leg last Thursday. South coach John Case says that doctors will keep Eschenburg in a cast for four to six months. Hopefully, Chris will be up and around and feeling well enough to watch his teammates face North again in the upcoming state playoffs.

A place to talk

Fellowship of Christian Athletes reaches out to high school athletes

By Peggy O'Connor

It's dinner time on a Monday evening. North High School is nearly empty, except for a small group of athletes and coaches. It might be a typical practice session, except this group isn't doing wind sprints or agility drills. It's deep into a discussion about Christian values and how they relate to sports and to life.

The group is North's "huddle," the name for the chartered high school chapters of Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) an international organization of Christian athletes at the professional, amateur, collegiate and high school levels. North has had its charter for 14 years and is led by advisor Ray Ritter; South was granted its charter last year, according to South High math instructor and assistant football coach Al Moebus, who serves as that school's advisor. South meets at 7:15 a.m. on Tuesdays.

North and South, of course, are public schools, a fact which has yet to pose a problem for the FCA chapters there, despite the delicate matter of religion and public schools. Grosse Pointe's private schools, University Liggett and Our Lady Star of the Sea, do not have FCA chapters.

"We've never had a problem in that area. The FCA is strictly a club. The school is good enough to supply us with a room, as it does other clubs. And that's it. We make our announcements about events and meetings and the kids come if they want to. We try not to make it a high-pressure thing," said Ritter, who coached varsity basketball for 15 seasons at North.

Ritter became involved in FCA when he arrived at North 15 years ago. A friend, Bob Miste, was then president of the Michigan chapter of FCA and got him to attend a program. From there, Ritter started a huddle which over the years has included as many as 50 members (both athletes and non-athletes, coaches and teachers) and as few as five or six.

FCA huddle events include outreach programs, sports days, speakers and discussion groups. North has participated in such events as visiting nursing homes, conducting food drives, helping the elderly with home repairs, and in bible study sessions. South has similar activities and Moebus said his group will also participate in sports day at Baldvick Park this Saturday, Oct. 12.

"The main purpose of FCA is to allow Christian athletes to share their faith with others and use it in talking about various situations that occur in sports . . . and in life," said Ritter.

"For example, how as a Christian, do you handle an opponent who cheats, or parents who don't attend their child's athletic events? Basically, we just look at issues like that and share our ideas."

"The value I see in athletics is that they present a lot of the same problems and pressures that a person faces in life. When a person deals with that problem in sports, he can learn to face similar situations in every day life. And that's what FCA is here for, to help do that. Basically, it's just a place to talk," Ritter said.

South's Moebus says that the FCA members at South face similar pressures and deal with them through discussion. "The impact of a program like this can be great. And when you have prominent athletes involved in a program like FCA, that filters down — those principles and ideas — to the high school level. And that's something that's great."

Both Moebus and Ritter admit that occasionally, huddle numbers are a little sparse because some students might feel intimidated by others' perceptions of the group.

That's why organizers put such little emphasis on the theological aspect.

"It's mostly just a discussion group with a Christian theme. It's a place where kids can sit and talk. And our kids come here and do an awful lot of talking . . . that's what's rewarding, to think that they know they can come here and feel free to talk," Ritter said.

"I've had kids tell me when they leave the group and then come back that what they liked most about FCA and really didn't find too many other places was that they could share their feelings about things and not feel threatened."

"We are non-denominational. We're very careful with the kids to indicate that all religious teach different things and we're not concerned with determining which one is better."

"We just make sure the kids know that the FCA is a place where they can air their opinions and their feelings and where those feelings are respected," he added.

Further information on the Michigan Fellowship of Christian Athletes may be obtained by contacting FCA, 467 Fennessy S.W., Grand Rapids, Mich., 49504.

. . . but the war isn't over yet. It was a rough one, last Thursday's 1-0 South soccer victory over North. That's North and South in the thick of the action at midfield (above), North's Dan Regelbrugge waiting for the ball to bounce his way (top left) and at left, South goalie John Rowady makes the stop in front of North's Kevin Tisdale and South teammate Bill Thompson. The season series is tied at 1-1 and they'll do it all over again in the first round of the state playoffs.

By David Schwab
ULS

The University Liggett School varsity soccer team played a tough three games last week against Cranbrook, Plymouth Christian and Grosse Pointe South, collecting a loss, a win and a tie.

On Oct. 1, Coach Dave Backhurst's squad traveled to Cranbrook, where they took a 4-0 beating at the hands of the Cranes. ULS was never able to mount its usual attack. The Knights may get the chance to avenge the loss if the two teams meet again during the second round of the state championship tournament.

On Oct. 4, the Knights traveled to Plymouth Christian School, rolling up a 4-0 victory. The squad came on strong, with Bob Williams scoring two goals in just seven minutes. Early in the second half, ULS scored two more quick goals from Tony Malcoun and John Birgbauer.

Last Saturday, ULS met Grosse Pointe South at home, where the two teams battled to a 1-1 tie. It was a tough game in which the final outcome was not to be decided until the final whistle. ULS senior half-back Malcoun opened the scoring 27 minutes into the game on a Rob Healy assist. It was a goal scored simply because of hustle and determination — two marks which prevailed throughout the varsity squad this season. ULS, unable to capitalize on several more chances, went to the half with a 1-0 lead. Halfway through the second half, South tied the contest. The scrimmage was a battle with no real dominant play or team. The Knights' defense, however, was strong as usual, allowing only 12 shots on goal. ULS had 14.

"We've played and outplayed some very fine teams lately. Hopefully this will prepare us for the state tournament," said Backhurst.

ULS will travel to Southfield Christian on Thursday, Oct. 10. On Oct. 15 at 4 p.m. they will host Cranbrook School in a second round tournament game. Last year

ULS

The ULS varsity field hockey team hosted Greenhills at home on Oct. 2, winning 2-1.

On Oct. 4, the team traveled to Dearborn to play Edsel Ford High School. Coach Muriel Brock's team won the game, 5-0, as senior Kara Van Dellen and sophomore Cathy Petzold played outstanding games. On Saturday, ULS played at Villa School from St. Louis at home. The game was the best played game this season. Even though the final score was a 1-1 tie, the Lady Knights exhibited great skill and technique. The goal was scored by junior captain Laurie Khelokian.

In earlier action, ULS played to a 0-0 tie with Ann Arbor Pioneer and beat Detroit Country Day School, 2-0. Khelokian scored both goals against DCDS; junior fullbacks Cindy Paul and Susan Judge and sophomore Beth Birgbauer played well.

ULS had opened its season with a 6-1 victory over Ottawa Hills in September. Khelokian scored three goals, senior Fay Howenstein added two and sophomore Cathy Petzold, one. ULS traveled to Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 20-21, losing to Laurel, 3-2, and beating Hathaway Brown, 3-0, on goals by Khelokian.

On Thursday, Oct. 10, ULS hosts Academy of the Sacred Heart at home at 4 p.m.

ULS

ULS's girls' basketball team played a spectacular game with Southfield Christian School (SCS) on Friday, Oct. 4, winning 29-10.

Team captain Susan Cleek made half of the winning baskets; Lisa Beizai and Diann Imbraco contributed the other half. Sophia Park, Jennifer Van De Graaf and Phan Lam helped the team to victory with quick and aggressive performances on defensive and offensive plays.

The second half started with the Knights again showing a potent offense that scored easily after sophomore Max Smith ran the ball to the 1-yard line. With the score 13-6 in favor of ULS, Cranbrook threatened to cut the lead in a first-and-goal situation. ULS's goal line defense, however, stopped Cranbrook less than a yard short of a touchdown in what proved to be a pivotal set of downs.

In the fourth quarter, the well-practiced Cranbrook offense fooled Coach Bob Newvine's squad with a halfback pass that cut the Knights' lead to one point. The Knights' goal line defense prevented a two point conversion, by causing a fumble in the Cranbrook backfield. After ULS gained control over an on-sides kick, a few fruitless drives by both teams left the score 13-12 as time ran out.

The Knights, now 1-2-1, will try to revive the traditional ULS/DCDS rivalry on Thursday, Oct. 10, at 4:15 p.m. in front of a home field crowd.

First football win

ULS's football team recorded its first win of the season against an evenly matched squad from Cranbrook, 13-12, last week.

Moving the ball effectively on their first offensive series, the Knights scored on a quick pitch to junior Mike Isp. The young Cranbrook team tumbled twice during its first drive, but gained momentum in the second quarter, making ample use of a misdirection play up the middle. By halftime, ULS held a narrow, 7-6 lead.

Norsemen gridders make it 12 victories in a row, 34-6

By Bill Hoover
North High

Grosse Pointe North's varsity football team picked up its 12th straight win (over two seasons) and raised its 1985 record to 5-0 by trouncing Lake Shore, 34-6, on Oct. 5.

After a scoreless first quarter, North scored three times in the second quarter. Bill Smith capped an 80-yard drive with a 55-yard run for the first score. Smith scored again on a 6-yard run to end a 61-yard drive and Jon Palazzo scored the final North touchdown of the half on a 4-yard pass play which completed a 58-yard drive. Craig Como's extra point attempts were good after each touchdown and North led 21-6 at halftime.

In the second half North scored from 12 yards out after a fumble recovery on a pass to Rob Olds. The point after was blocked and North led 27-6. Mike "The Kid" Miller finished the scoring on a 1-yard run capping a 43-yard drive.

Offensively, Bill Smith rushed for 125 yards on eight carries and Miller rushed for 101 yards on 15 carries. Como was 9-for-11 for 160 yards.

Standouts for the defense, which recovered three fumbles and intercepted a pass were Greg Guest and Rob Brumer, said Coach Frank Sumner.

North's next game is the Homecoming game vs. Lakeview on Oct. 12. Kick-off is at 1 p.m.

Swimmers win

North's girls' varsity swim team defeated Brighton, 103-69, on Sept. 28. North took 7 of 11 first places, and every North swimmer scored points in this winning effort. Laura Verona and Katie Young led the way with two firsts each.

The meet was highlighted by Kathy Kish, who set a new school record in the 500 freestyle (5:27.9), and by Sandy Smith, who set a North pool record in the 100 breaststroke (1:08.34).

North, with eight girls qualified for the state finals, takes on Roseville Brablec at home, on Oct. 17. Starting time is 7 p.m.

Cagers take 4th straight

North's varsity girls' basketball teams raised its record to 4-3 by defeating Lake Shore, 47-34, in the league opener Oct. 3.

The win was North's fourth in a row. The Lady Norsemen, who were in superior condition, out-hustled Lake Shore in the final quarter and outscored them, 21-9.

Leslie Talos led North with 16 points, 11 rebounds, and 3 steals. Barbie Loeher scored 13 points, grabbed 7 rebounds, made 4 steals, and dished off 3 assists; and Missy Preston added 8 points and 6 rebounds.

North's next game is at Clarkston, Oct. 15. Tip-off is at 7:30 p.m.

The JV topped Lake Shore, 45-15, on Oct. 3. Julie Cook led scorers with 12 points in her first game of the year. Kris Eschenbach added 10 points for the Lady Norsemen, who are 1-0 in the Bi-County.

North's game is at Clarkston, Oct. 15, at 6 p.m.

The freshmen reached 7-1 by upsetting Regina, 31-24, on Oct. 1 and topping Anchor Bay, 40-17, Oct. 3. The girls scored eight points in the final two minutes to come from behind and beat Regina. Heather Mergos, who had 6 of them, finished with 10 points, 7 rebounds and 5 steals. Kris Salive scored 9 points and had 9 rebounds, Kelli Gianuzio has 6 points and 3 assists and Cindy Szymanski grabbed 8 rebounds and made 4 assists and 3 steals.

Against Anchor Bay, Gianuzio scored 12 points, had 6 steals and 3 assists, Mergos scored 6 points and grabbed 14 rebounds, Salive had 10 points and Szymanski added 5 steals.

North's next game is at 4 p.m. Oct. 15 against East Detroit Kelly.

Tough week for kickers

By Mark Moore
North High

The Norseman varsity soccer team had a rough week, scraping by Roseville Brablec, 2-1, and losing to rival South High, 1-0.

Against Brablec, North was stunned when the Cougars took an early 1-0 lead. Late in the first half, John Dittrich tied it up and with three minutes left in the second half and after missing numerous scoring chances, North sewed up the win on a penalty kick goal by Dan Spitz.

"We were struggling throughout the game, but we managed to pull out the win. We've been flat lately, but I'm sure we'll come out all right," said goalie Brian Grieve.

At home against South on Oct. 3, North came out flat and it showed midway through the first half when South right winger Jim Fets broke through the defense and scored on Grieve. North looked stronger in the second half, but could not manage to pull the ball in the net.

"Losing to South is a major disappointment... especially after we beat them 3-0. We had our chances but we couldn't finish them off," said senior fullback Jeffrey Ward.

Senior wide receiver Steve Pochmara makes a beautiful catch in the first half of North's 34-6 win over Lake Shore last Saturday.

South sports

Devils win soccer battle

South High coach John Case tried "something different" in last week's varsity soccer rematch with rival North High. Case isn't telling what that something different was, but it was enough to enable the Blue Devils to shut North out, 1-0.

Jim Fets scored the only goal of the match in the first half on a set up from Jim Curran. Both teams played well on defense and were sharp on offense as well in this crowd-pleasing game. The Norsemen had beaten South on Sept. 17, 3-0.

"It was a cross-city game and they are always exciting," Case said. "North did its share of attacking... it was a very well played game on both sides."

Late in the contest, winger Chris Eschenburg suffered a severely broken leg in a collision with a North player. He was removed by ambulance to St. John Hospital and will be in a cast for several months, according to Case.

"I do want to mention the efficiency of Tom Gauerke (North's athletic director) and the athletic trainers... they did a very good job in getting Chris taken care of quickly. As did the doctors from both schools, Dr. Cruz and Dr. Azar," Case added.

"It was just a freak accident. Both players went for the ball, Chris missed it and caught the North player's leg. I spoke to the referee and he told me that it was a wonder that both players weren't injured."

The close, rough play was typical of most North-South soccer encounters and although the season series between the two teams is finished, soccer fans haven't seen the last of the crosstown rivalry this season.

"We're playing North in the first round of state play. It's a tough draw, really... here are two very good teams that are capable of playing very well," Case said.

In other action last week, South defeated Roseville, 5-0, on Oct. 1. Goal scorers were Rudy Cruz (two), Mark Kaczmar, Jerry Joliet and Jeff Lefebvre. Assists came from Geoff Centner, Fets (two); Kaczmar and Lefebvre had one apiece.

South also played a 1-1 tie with University Liggett School in a scrimmage game on Oct. 5. The Devils will travel to Warren Fitzgerald today, Oct. 10, and to Mount Clemens, Oct. 15. They remain in first place in the Macomb Area Soccer League.

Another cc win

South's girls' cross country team won its fourth straight major invitational, finishing first in a field of 23 schools in last Saturday's annual Centerline Classic.

South defended its Centerline title by running a total team time of 98:48 to finish as the only school to break 100:00. Nancy Solterisch, Ellen Mayer, Micha Song, Wendy Berger and Toni Tedesco placed second, sixth, 10th, 14th and 18th, respectively, in the 164-runner field. Toby Ott and Megan Smucker finished 30th and 31st.

The Blue Devil JV was given the chance to compete as a second varsity team and came through with one of the finest cross country accomplishments of the year, winning its varsity division and placing fifth overall. The South varsity II dominated its race, as the first seven runners placed first, second, third, fourth, 10th, 13th and 17th in the 103-runner field. Sophomore Rebecca Wasinger was the race champion, followed by senior Kelly

With a successful invitational season behind them, the Blue Devils will work on improving their 8-0 dual meet record over the next two weeks, said coach Steve Zaranek. They faced North on Oct. 8 (after press time), and will run against Anchor Bay, Mount Clemens and Port Huron in preparation for the state regional meet Saturday, Oct. 26, at Metropolitan Beach. South is the defending state regional champion.

Gridders fail

South's varsity football team saw its two-game winning streak end with a 7-0 loss to Eastern Michigan League rival L'Anse Creuse North last Friday night. North player Keith Mitchell returned a punt 73 yards for a touchdown in the first half of the game for the only score.

It was the third shutout against South this season. The squad is 2-3 on the year (2-2 in the EML) and will host league-leading Port Huron at 1 p.m. this Saturday, Oct. 12.

Cagers come through

South's varsity basketball team bounced back from a 38-36 loss to Fraser the week before to beat EML foe Port Huron, 53-39, in the only game the girls played last week.

"The girls played very well — like a team — against Port Huron. It was super to see. They made nice passes, good shots... not a bad way to start a week," said coach Peggy Van Eckhout.

Scoring totals reflected a well-balanced effort from South, with 10 of 13 girls getting on the board. Heidi Albrecht had 12 points, Patty Hess had 9 and Carmina Amecua and Lynn Vismara had 8 points each.

South played Mount Clemens on Oct. 8 (after press time) and will travel to highly-rated Anchor Bay on Oct. 10 and to Port Huron North on Oct. 15.

Lange excels as Patsy Cline in 'Sweet Dreams'

By Tom Greenwood

Country western legend Patsy Cline was blessed with a voice as pure, sweet and haunting as a summer morning in the rolling hills of her native Virginia.

She was also cursed with a turbulent, passionate marriage to a man who brought out the best and the worst in her. Both came to an end on March 5, 1963 when she died in a plane crash.

Like rock 'n' roll pioneer Buddy Holly before her, Patsy Cline flashed across the music scene in the late 1950s after years of paying dues in the small, smoky back-road honky tonks of the South that specialized in watered-down drinks and Saturday night fights.

A major star for only five years, Cline is still popular today two decades after her death. Her recordings of "Crazy," "I Fall to Pieces," "She's Got You," "Sweet Dreams" and more have sold in the millions.

Starring as Patsy Cline is Jessica

Lange, who turns in an honest, powerful, moving portrayal that should bring her another Oscar nomination. It's hard to believe this is the same woman who portrayed a vulnerable, blond, doe-eyed beauty in "Tootsie."

Her transformation into a rough, tough brunette using her voice to escape from the monotonous, dead-end life in a small mining town is astounding.

Lange's Cline isn't always the nicest person around. She smokes, drinks, feels and loves too hard. Raw-boned and edgy, she's ready to take life on at the drop of a hat. One moment she's soft and loving as a purring kitten, the next gritty and hard as a piece of West Virginia coal.

Forcing his way into her life is Charlie Dick, the man who eventually marries her and fills her life with love, tears, laughs and more than a few lumps.

Ed Harris, (The Right Stuff), captures the bantam rooster, cock-of-the-walk arrogance and vulnerability of Charlie Dick to perfection. Charlie is a good ol' boy who likes his beer cold, his women semi-dominant and his wife successful — until she begins to outgrow him. They're the best and worst things to happen to each other.

Additional fine performances are turned in by Ann Wedgeworth as Patsy's worn, loving mother, and David Clennon as the man who discovers Patsy and ultimately dies with her against the side of a mountain. There's no highly romanticized Hollywood death. The violence of the crash, and the sense of loss felt by the audience was stunning. Sobs could openly be heard throughout the theater.

For fans of Patsy Cline, the greatest joy was the movie's sound track which offered a dozen of her greatest hits. All the music in "Sweet Dreams" consists of Patsy's own vocal tracks, some of which were used in their original form, and some of which were back by new arrangements using today's sophisticated electronic technology. You just don't want it to end.

"Sweet Dreams" should add to the legions of fans of Jessica Lange and Patsy Cline.

If you aren't a country music fan, when you walk into this movie, you will be when you walk out.

Jessica Lange, as Patsy Cline, is pursued by Charlie Dick, played by Ed Harris, in "Sweet Dreams."

Actors and audience enjoy 'Harvey'

By Marian Trainor

There are some modern classic plays that endure. They are so fresh and entertaining that they can be seen over and over and each time prove as entertaining as the first time they were enjoyed. Each time something new is noticed, a phrase, a missed cue, a situation. They are an actor's dream because they allow so much room for personal interpretation. Players can imbue them with many nuances and gestures and have fun doing it. And when the characters have fun, so does the audience. Such a play is "Harvey," now featured at the Golden Lion Dinner Theatre.

"Harvey" is an invisible, long-eared pooka. A pooka is a kindhearted Irish spirit of legend. No such thing? Well, someone (or something) is opening closed doors and mislaying a wallet at a crucial point in the play.

Harvey is friend and confidante of Elwood Dowd, played by Mark Murri. Murri is a veteran of many years both in theater and film. He appeared in the Melvin Douglas tour of "Inherit the Wind" and in film in Richard Burton's "Circle of Two."

This experience shows in his role of Elwood. His soft voice, his gentle manners are just what we would expect from someone who "faced reality for years and finally overcame it."

He loves people and people love him. Even his sister Veta Louise (Sheila Wyatt) tries unsuccessfully to have him committed to the local sanitarium. Instead she is mistakenly committed for a short time.

Wyatt gives a fine performance as Elwood's put-upon sister. While the audience is rooting for Elwood and wouldn't change him, they do empathize with Veta Louise who has to live with an imaginary rabbit. Elwood insists that Harvey be treated as a family member. The rabbit must have a place set for him at dinner and be introduced to his sister's socialite friends.

out of the house.

Either Elwood is lucky or Harvey is watching over him because without even trying, after being driven to the sanitarium, he manages to walk away and deftly eludes those who try to find him.

Not only that, but he and Harvey convert Dr. Chumley (Bill Sinischo), head psychiatrist at the sanitarium. Chumley actually believes in Harvey. One of the funniest scenes in the play shows the stern and self-confident world-renowned psychiatrist Chumley running in terror from Harvey and locking the rabbit in his office.

Sinischo gives an outstanding performance as Dr. Chumley. His tall, lanky build and his commanding voice fits the role perfectly. He has a real talent also for changing his facial expressions, an ability somewhat reminiscent of Joe E. Brown.

Bill Davis is sufficiently obtuse as Wilson, the bullying attendant in the rest home and he does equally well as a cab driver who expounds on the virtues of the before and after behavior of the patients who come to the home. His lines describing the beautiful spirit of those who come and the change in them when he picks them up after their release is a highlight. "When they go back," he says: "They're like ordinary people, and you know what bastards they are!"

Molly Johnson-Dodge, who is Mrs. Chauvenet and Mrs. Chumley in the play, performs both parts to the hilt. She is the well-placed matron who secretly would enjoy stepping out of that role and having a little fun. She also serves as stage manager.

Harvey is an enjoyable dinner companion. The informal atmosphere in the small room adds to the charm of the production. This ability to draw the audience into the spirit of the play is enhanced when the actors mingle with the audience after the play.

Although it has little to do with the play, except in an indirect way of putting diners in a receptive mood to be entertained after a good dinner, a comment on the bill of fare might be in order.

To begin with, the main course is in accordance with the title of the play — rabbit stew. Thankfully, it was actually chicken. It would be tantamount to cannibalism to eat rabbit under such circumstances. Fish was also featured.

The fish, salad and dessert were very good. One would wish that the rolls and apple pie had been served warm. I'm sure Harvey would have attended to that detail had he been consulted.

"Harvey" is performed Fridays and Saturdays until Oct. 26. For reservations and information, call 886-2420.

Fall fling for seniors

During October and November, Henry Ford Museum will again offer the "Great Fall Fling" program — a chance for visitors who have reached "the autumn of their years" to enjoy a specially planned day in the museum.

During Fall Fling days, senior citizens (62 and over) in groups of 10 or more can qualify for a special price of $7 per person. The package includes admission to Henry Ford Museum, lunch and a 10 percent discount at museum stores.

The Great Fall Fling program runs Monday through Friday, Oct. 1 through Nov. 30. No deposit is required, but reservations must be made two weeks in advance. For more information, contact the Reservations Department at 271-1620.

'Joy cars' on exhibit

"The Joys of Packard: The Packard Motor Car Company, 1899-1956" is an exhibit commemorating the 30th anniversary of the closing of the Packard Motor Car Company in Detroit.

It features 14 Packard automobiles. Among them are three, a 1910 Runabout, a 1910 closed Coupled Touring Car and a 1916 Twin Six Touring Car, which were owned by Henry B. Joy Jr., the son of the company's founder and donated by his family. In addition to the famous "Joy Cars," the exhibit includes custom-made coach Packards, famous advertisements and memorabilia.

The exhibit opens Wednesday, Oct. 23, and is sponsored jointly by the Detroit Historical Museum, the Detroit Historical Society, and the Packard Motor Car Company Historical Collection.

The Detroit Historical Museum located at 5401 Woodward at Kirby, in Detroit's University Cultural Center, is open to the public Wednesday through Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is by voluntary donation. For further information or a free calendar of events, call 833-1805.

For actors

Will-O-Way Apprentice Theatre and Repertory Theatre Company will offer "Building the Actor," the first in a series of workshops hosted at various theaters. Classes will be held at the Trumbull Theatre, 4210 Trumbull, on Saturdays, Oct. 26 through Dec. 14, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Students will be given individual monologues and scene studies to reinforce or to learn technique, character analysis and stage movement. The workshop will be under the direction of Francine Bachem.

For more information, call 398-6517.

Virtuoso cornetist

James B. Underwood of the Detroit Concert Band will play Herbert L. Clarke's "Carnival of Venice" during the band's second cabaret pops concert Wednesday, Oct. 16, at 8 p.m. at the Detroit Light Guard Armory, 4400 E. 8 Mile Road, between Mound and Ryan roads. The program will also feature saxophonists Judith Peters, Norman Gladstone, Charles Weiner, Robert Kutscher and David Fletcher in a swinging arrangement of Richard Rodgers' "Blue Room."

Old World Market in 59th year

The 59th Original Old World Market is "Your Passport to the World" at The International Institute Thursday through Sunday, Oct. 17-20.

This four day ethnic extravaganza is a full-fledged international festival complete with food, ethnic dancing, thousands of imports for sale and a host of ethnic crafts from near and far.

The Old World Market began during the depression as a way for new immigrants to make extra money selling their old world crafts. Detroit's original ethnic festival, the Market is the year-round effort of more than 600 volunteers headed by past presidents of The International Institute, Hazel Boltwood of Southfield and Dr. Helen T. Suchara of Livonia.

Observe demonstrations of American and Lao weaving, Belgian and French lacemaking, Estonian woodburning, china painting, Ukrainian pysanky egg decorating and embroidering, American Indian beadwork, Faberge-type egg-decorating, Polish wycinanki paper-cutting, Hmong stitchery, Japanese origami paper-folding and East Indian sari-wrapping throughout the marketplace.

Special Hispanic and Polish activities, brought to the Old World Market by out long established groups, will offer free ethnic dance workshops Friday and Saturday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Friday, classical and flamenco dancers from Maria del Carmen's Grupo Espana and Ruben Cazala's Grupo Gaucho Argentino, will thrill audiences with live music and dance workshops in the Hall of Nations. The Melting Pot Cafe in the lower level Old World Room will also feature Hispanic dishes, and the market will be decorated in a Hispanic theme.

Saturday, the Wawel Folk Dance

Ensemble will delight audiences with their colorful Polish dance traditions, and teach some of their Polish style folkdances to market-ers on Polish Night. Special Polish decorations and foods will also be featured.

Friday's market will open with a Swearing-in Ceremony of newly naturalized United States citizens, sponsored by the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. The new citizens will enjoy refreshments courtesy of the Michigan Department of Jewish War Veterans Ladies auxiliary, and will be guests at the Market that day.

Among the performers at the Old World Market are the Champa Lao Dancers, Hellenic Society for the Performing Arts Greek dancers, G.B.U. Saxonia German chorus, Salerno De Espana Flamenco dancer with guitarist, Elizabeth and the Renaissance Era, Slovak Sokol rhythmic gymnastics, Tancuta Romanian dancers, Gina & Gino D'Allesio Italian pianist and violinist, Detroit Volga Ensemble Slavic dancers, Troupe Ta'amullat Arabic dancers, Mexican Ballet Folklorico De Corktown, Dancers Hungaria, Pelimannit Finnish Folk Ensemble, Sava Croatian Folklore Group, Italian Study Group of Troy dancers, Detroit Recreation Puppeteers, Wisla Polish Dance Ensemble, Maria del Carmen's Grupo Espana, Ruben Cazala's Grupo Gaucho Argentino, Burton International School choir, Tagumpay Filipino dancers, the Rainbow Girls clowns, Wawel Polish Folk Dance Ensemble, Vidyanjali Troupe of Michigan East Indian dancers, Sorina Middle East Exotic Dancer, and Hui Fang Mao, Shanghai Ballerina.

Tickets are $2 for adults, $1 for senior citizens and children. A family ticket is available in advance for $5, admitting two adults and up to three children. Arrangements for groups can be made in advance by calling 871-8600.

The Old World Market will be open Thursday through Saturday, 11 a.m. until 9 p.m. and Sunday, 11 a.m. until 7 p.m. at The International Institute in Detroit's Cultural Center. Located at 111 East Kirby at John R, The International Institute is adjacent to the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Theater for children

"Totem Tales," a collection of American Indian legends and folklore performed by Chicago's Meliken Puppet Theatre, will open the new Detroit Youththeatre season of live, professional family theater on Saturday, Oct. 12. Showtimes will be 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium/theatre.

Tickets at $3.50 for children and adults — $15 per child or adult for the five-part "Ya Gotta Have Art Series," are available in advance through the Art Institute ticket office, and at the door on the day of the show. For ticket information and a Detroit Youththeatre Saturday family entertainment guide, call the DIA ticket office at 832-2730.

This Detroit Youththeatre presentation was especially created for families with young people 5 years old and older. Children younger than 5 will not be admitted.

The first show of the season was designed to introduce families to the museum's current centennial exhibition of ancient treasures of the American Woodlands Indians.

Youtheatre's Saturday series continues through May, offering live, professional performing arts including musicals such as "Barbar" to open the "Wiggle Club" series for ages 3 and up, puppet shows, plays, concerts and specials in the legitimate theatre setting of the DIA's auditorium. Birthday parties, "Backstage Tours" and holiday specials complete each season.

Antique fair

The 14th Annual Poor Richard's Antique Fair will be held Thursday and Friday, Oct. 17 and 18, at Franklin Community Church, 32473 Normandy, in the historic district of Franklin Village. Times are from 11 a.m. until 9 p.m. on Thursday and until 7 p.m. on Friday.

There will be 32 dealers. Poor Richard's Tea Room will serve gourmet lunches and dinners and there will be a bake sale.

Admission is $2.50. The event is sponsored by the Franklin Historical Society.

Mineral show

Among the displayers at the Michigan Mineralogical Society's Greater Detroit Gem and Mineral Show Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 11-13, at the Detroit Light Guard Armory between Ryan and Mound roads on East Eight Mile will be Grosse Pointe's Valente Jewelers.

Admission to the show, which opens at 6 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. Saturday and Sunday, is $3 for adults, $2 for senior citizens and $1 for children aged 5 to 15. A three-day pass is $5 and parking is free.

Arts auction

Theater tickets, dinners, crafts, household items, clothing certificates, mini-weekends, airplane and boat rides are some of the items that will go to the highest bidder at the Macomb Arts Council's Treasure and Pleasures Benefit Auction.

The auction will be held at the Macomb Center for the Performing Arts, located on the Macomb Community College Center Campus, Garfield and Hall roads, beginning at 1 p.m. The items will be on display at noon. A silent auction will run concurrently in the lobby area. All proceeds go to the Macomb Arts Council.

'Commando' is an evening of mindless fun

By Tom Greenwood

If you can imagine Conan the Barbarian with automatic weapons, then you'll have no trouble accepting the mayhem in "Commando," the latest action adventure flick starring Arnold Schwarzenegger.

Schwarzenegger, who displayed a certain android-steroid charm in his latest movie, "The Terminator," plays a retired special operations agent. His daughter is kidnapped by the gang of a deposed Latin American dictator who Schwarzenegger helped overthrow earlier in his career.

Aside from the first few opening moments when Arnold is seen frolicking with his daughter amid baby deer, the action is non-stop and blood-red. Daddy wants his little girl back and proceeds to tear up half of southern California in getting her.

In spite of the ludicrous plot and the incredible amount of violence, the movie works... sort of. The fascination of this flick lies completely with Schwarzenegger. Let's face it, folks, this guy is the original Mr. Bicep.

He has more muscles than the Cadieux Cafe, a bigger jaw than half the combined forces of the Marine Corps and you could show a drive-in movie on his forehead. Every time the camera zoomed in for a close up of some well-oiled muscle group, the audience gasped. The man is hypnotizing.

He also shows a surprising talent for comedy similar to the deadpan one-liners thrown away so elegantly by Sean Connery when he played James Bond.

Appearing with Schwarzenegger is Detroit actor David Patrick Kelly, who plays his usual psychotic shortie. At one point Schwarzenegger dangles him one-handedly over a cliff by his ankle. Three guesses whether the big guy lets go.

A charming source of romantic comedy is provided by the exotic Rae Dawn Chong, who plays the leggy stewardess more or less swept along by the events surrounding Schwarzenegger. Afraid of him at first, she finally falls in love when he uproots a telephone booth, hold it over his head and shakes the bad guy inside like a bottle of vinegar and oil dressing. Who could resist?

If Rambo and Schwarzenegger's characters had really been on our side in Vietnam, you could dine at a Pizza Hut in Hanoi today. This flick has more stunts than the circus, packs more wollop than the bombing of Beirut and sports a plot with more holes than the bodies Schwarzenegger piles up in a day's work.

But forget all that. It's pure escapism if you don't mind putting your brain on hold for more than an hour.

Yoda, Snoopy

... and Jiminy Cricket, along with more than 30 other items including turkey dinners, will be auctioned off Friday, Oct. 11 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Detroit Historical Museum. The auction will kick-off the exhibit, "Heads Above the Crowd — Michigan's Thanksgiving Parade," which will run Oct. 12 to Jan. 5, 1986, at the museum. Ticket information for the auction and preview is available at 884-6699 or parade offices 963-8300.

History by lantern light

Historic Fort Wayne will glow with lantern lights on Saturday, Oct. 26, when the fort presents its Civil War garrison life as authentically uniformed narrators conduct guided tours through the sally-ports, tunnels, casemates and bastions of Detroit's century-old citadel.

Live artillery fire, musketry, guard mounting and drill will show the military side of garrison life while the 5th Michigan Regimental Band serenades visitors on the barracks parade ground. Authentic refreshments will be served.

The lantern light tours will begin at 7:30 p.m. Admission is $3. A limited number of reservations are available. For further information, call 297-9360.

Historic Fort Wayne is located at 6325 W. Jefferson at the foot of Livernois off the I-75 freeway.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything and who show me the way to reach my ideal. You who give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in perpetual glory. Amen.

Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish, after third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Thank you for favors received. R.E.M.

REPORT TO ADVERTISERS:

Dis-ci-pline

(dis-ə-plən) n. system of rules governing conduct.

Discipline—in gathering news and reporting the facts—is the rule in our newsroom. It's also the rule in our sales efforts—our advertising rates are based upon accurate circulation information. The rules of conduct are laid down by a self-governing body and recognized throughout the industry.

At regular intervals, ABC makes an independent audit of our circulation activities—then issues reports on our progress. Facts, without opinion, in an easy-to-read format.

Before you buy any advertising, ask to see a copy of the latest ABC Audit Report. We'll be pleased to show you ours.

We're proud that our newspaper measures up to the standards of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, a not-for-profit organization whose nearly 5,000 members represent all areas of the advertising and publishing industries in the United States and Canada.

WHAT GOES UP BETTER COME DOWN.

Many of the 60 million Americans who have high blood pressure don't know it. You could be one of them. So call the Red Cross and have your blood pressure checked. Because high blood pressure means a high risk of heart attack or stroke. And, unfortunately, the law of gravity doesn't affect it.

JAGUAR

Vanden Plas

From a heritage of coachbuilders to kings and the sporting aristocracy of Europe comes the most exclusive Jaguar sedan you can own.

The Vanden Plas is a limited edition of the Jaguar Series III sedan. It shares the Series III's superb racebred, double overhead cam six, its athletic handling equipment, its uncanny smoothness and silence in motion. Inside, however, the Vanden Plas is unique even among Jaguars. It cossets you with soft leather exotic, buried, walnut panels and individually contoured seats front and rear.
