

Students prepare to show their 'Nerd' to America

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

It may not be the Big Apple, but if the students from Grosse Pointe South and North high schools who travel to Muncie, Ind., for a theater competition next month make it there, they'll make it anywhere.

And South theater teacher Mary Martin has something she wants to show the country — Grosse Pointe has talent, and lots of it.

Martin's group — 20 from South and one from North — were invited by the International Thespian Society to perform on the main stage at its 1992 festival which will run from June 23-28.

It's an honor Martin has been working for three years to earn.

The first year she took students to the festival they performed, but weren't judged. The second year she presented the school's "Second Suburb Comedy Troupe" at a smaller venue at the festival.

This year she is bringing South's production of "The Nerd" by Larry Shue. The cast is the same as when the school presented the show in November.

Martin invited a judge from the International Thespian Society to see it. The judge liked it enough to recommend it be performed as one of only 15 productions which will compete on the main stage. More than 2,000 students from across the United States, Canada and New Zealand will participate in the festival.

"There's going to be 3,000 people seeing this production," Martin said. "The kids are really excited about it. So am I."

Martin has been getting the students back into shape, but is hampered by several worries — graduation and other year-end festivities not the least of them. The original set was built to fit South's 25-foot-wide stage. The ITS requires a 45-foot set, so the technical crew is busily expanding the dimensions. Money is also a worry. Registration for the 21 students — seven actors and 14 crew people — cost $7,000. And they have to rent trucks to haul the

Group to produce video of community history

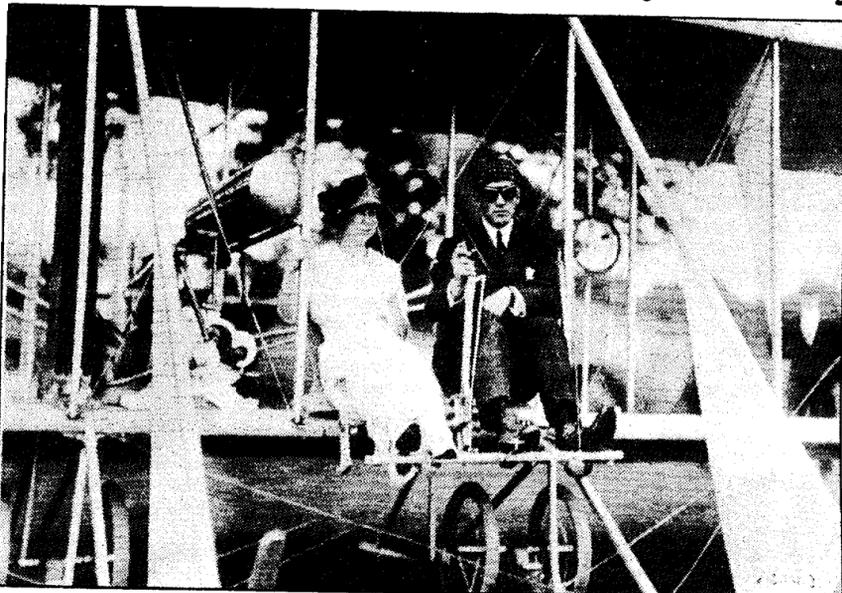

The Grosse Pointe Historical Society is embarking on a project to produce a video that will focus on the history of the community.

The society hopes the film will inspire viewers to take a more active role in preserving the cultural and architectural inheritance of the area for future generations.

The story of the character and accomplishments of residents will be told through still photos and film footage of people and structures backed by interpretive readings of historical period letters, documents and interviews.

The group is seeking the loan or donation of photographs, home movies, letters, diaries and other memorabilia relating to Grosse Pointe and its history.

People who would like to participate in the project through research, contribution of materials or oral remembrance are asked to contact the Grosse Pointe Historical Society office at

Woods seeks tax hike for ambulance service

By Donna Walker
Staff Writer

After 10 years at the same rate, the Grosse Pointe Woods City Council has decided to ask voters to approve a .3 mill tax increase for the operation its advanced emergency life support ambulance service.

On Aug. 4, Woods voters will be asked to approve a levy of up to .8 mills for the service, starting with the 1993-94 fiscal year, which begins July 1, 1993.

The city has levied .5 mills for the service since 1982, when the city went from a basic life support ambulance service to an advanced life support ambulance service.

"Under the ballot proposal, we would only levy what we think is necessary to balance the advanced emergency life support budget," said acting city administrator Phil Belcher. "We probably wouldn't levy the full .8 mills right away. For example, if we needed $50,000 more to balance the budget (in fiscal 1993-94), we'd raise the tax by about one-tenth of a mill, from .5 to .6 mills. We wouldn't bring it up to the maximum .8 mills unless we needed to to meet our budget requirements."

He said that if the proposed increase is approved, the city won't have to ask voters for another one for 10 or 15 years.

"But that depends on what transpires with property assessment laws," he said.

For example, if a law is passed that keeps property assessments at 3 or 4 percent below the rate of inflation, the city may have to ask for another increase a few years sooner than expected, Belcher said.

One mill equals $1 for every $1,000 of a property's state equalized value (SEV), which is roughly half of a property's fair market value.

Was letter a factor in election?

By Ronald J. Bernas

Grosse Pointe Shores voters returned two incumbents to the village board of trustees in the May 19 election, but ousted 12-year veteran Patricia Galvin, who's disturbed by the campaign tactics used by her three opponents.

In the election, incumbents Dr. Richard Mertz and Jack Monahan were re-elected to the board with vote totals of 528 and 576 respectively. With 577 votes, newcomer Barbara Willett replaced Galvin, who garnered 337 votes.

Also re-elected were board president Ed Brady Jr. and clerk James Wright. Both were unopposed.

"I've enjoyed my years on the board and now I wish the council well," Galvin said.

But Galvin is disappointed by what she said was a "discouraging" method of campaigning by her three opponents.

Galvin is one of at least two Shores residents who have been ordered to hook up to the Grosse Pointe Shores sewer system because their faulty septic systems are discharging pollutants into the lake.

Galvin told the board last year that her septic system was failing and asked the board to extend a sewer line so she and the others could hook up. The board refused, saying that was the residents' responsibility.

The DNR originally agreed with Galvin, but then reversed its position and ordered Galvin and the others to hook up by Jan. 10. To date, at least Galvin and one other homeowner have not hooked up because they believe it is the village's responsibility to provide a sewer line in front of their properties.

Earlier this month, Circuit Judge Helene N. White ordered Galvin and one other property owner to explain why they have not connected to the sewer system yet.

That hearing is set for June 5.

Galvin said she wouldn't make her sewer problems a

Come to the fair

As a culminating activity to their school year, the sixth-grade academic teams at Brownell Middle School will present a Medieval Fair tomorrow, May 29, from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. The project is a result of an in-depth interdisciplinary study of the Middle Ages. The fair will include a student-researched and -built cathedral, castle, guild booths, marketplace and jousting site tournament as well as visual presentations of the life of Leonardo da Vinci. Students have researched all areas and will give oral interpretations of their specialty. The event is the result of a collaborative effort of teachers, students and parents, who have volunteered their time, talents, and material.

2 teachers who make a difference win recognition for their talents

By Maureen McNulty
Staff Writer

In an age when teachers are regularly blamed for the often disgraceful academic performance of American teenagers, two Grosse Pointe educators were nominated and honored by students, administrators and fellow teachers for being the best in their field.

Carolyn Caste, English teacher at Our Lady Star of the Sea High School, received the school's Teacher of the Year Award at a recent annual Excellence in Education awards dinner, sponsored by the Catholic Association of Secondary Administrators.

"I consider it quite an honor," said Caste, who's been teaching for 26 years, the last 14 at Star of the Sea.

Principal Jane Herb had nothing but praise for Caste.

"The students in her English classroom find that they are well qualified once they leave," said Herb.

Herb said Caste is a role model for the many alumnae who come back to visit her and that many former students have also written her, saying that their solid background in English really helped them once they reached college.

Benjamin Walker

Asked what the biggest difference is between teaching 26 years ago and now, Caste said that today's high school students have many more problems to deal with outside of school and, not unexpectedly, those problems interfere with their concentration and learning.

"Students need positive affirmation now more than ever before. They get so much negativism everywhere else that you really need to give them extra affirmation so that they can proceed with accomplishing their goals," she said.

Benjamin Walker, vocal music director at Grosse Pointe North High School, was one of 12 teachers in 34 school districts from Oakland, Macomb and Wayne counties and the city of Detroit to win the Newsweek/WDIV "Outstanding Teacher" award, which honors the top elementary, middle and high school teachers from each region.

But Walker, who found a moment to speak while preparing his concert choir for an upcoming tour, is too busy to dwell over the award.

"I was absolutely thrilled and honored," said Walker, who also received $2,000 and whose picture will appear with other honored teachers in an ad in Newsweek magazine.

"But right now I'm even more excited about the concert choir trip. We're leaving at 4:30 tomorrow morning."

Walker and about 100 ninth-through twelfth-graders were in the middle of practicing a major work they were going to sing at Carnegie Hall in New York City. The concert was held last Sunday and the concert choir returned home late Monday night.

"We've sung at various concerts outside Michigan before, but nothing as prestigious as Carnegie Hall," he said.

John Kastran, principal at North and the person who nominated Walker for the award, said Walker is a teacher for all students.

"He doesn't care if you're bright or not so gifted. He's sensitive to everybody and he goes out of his way for youngsters like you wouldn't believe," Kastran said.

"I don't think many people are aware of this, but he received $2,000 from that award and he put it right into the fund to take the concert choir to Carnegie Hall. That's just the kind of person he is."

Walker has taken North's concert choirs to Washington D.C., Chicago, New York and they were invited to sing at the pre-Olympic festivities in Barcelona this summer but he had to decline because the invitation and acceptance commitment came during the Persian Gulf War.

"Locally, he's always doing concerts for various civic groups, seniors and hospitals. During the month of December alone, he and his choir do about 18 concerts," Kastran said.

100 reasons to celebrate in the Park

By Donna Walker
Staff Writer

Olcha E. Van Dresser of

Olcha E. Van Dresser

Grosse Pointe Park got a day named after her the hard way — through 100 years of "good, clean living."

Mayor Palmer T. Heenan and the Grosse Pointe Park city council have proclaimed June 3 as "Olcha E. Van Dresser Day" in the Park, in honor of her 100th birthday.

Van Dresser was born June 3, 1892, in Climax, and grew up about 12 miles away in Battle Creek.

Her father, Alex Lawrence, worked for the Advanced Machinery Co., and traveled to Europe and South America to help set up thrashing machines the company produced.

Her mother, Ella, stayed home to take care of their two daughters, Olcha and Vera (who was born in 1893).

Van Dresser graduated from high school in Battle Creek, and met her husband, Frank, on a blind date.

In 1913, she and her sister had a double wedding in Battle Creek. Her sister and brother-in-law stayed in Battle Creek, and Olcha and Frank Van Dresser set up house in Grand Haven.

They moved to Detroit three years later, and to Grosse Pointe Park in 1950. Van Dresser has lived in the same house ever since.

band, who owned a tool company in Detroit with his brothers, died in 1962.

Van Dresser has five children: Leah Rudge, 77, of Mount Clemens; Duane Van Dresser, 74, of Ohio; Adele Lindeman, 68, of Cheboygan; William Van Dresser, 63, of Washington, D.C.; and Richard Van Dresser, 62, of Akron, Ohio.

She also has 30 grandchildren (18 boys and 12 girls), 33 great-grandchildren, and eight great-great-grandchildren.

They're all planning a birthday party for her in Ohio.

"We have 105 people in the family, and most of them will be at the party," said Van Dresser, who looks decades younger than her age.

Asked the secret to her longevity, she said, "Nothing, really. Just good, clean living. I never had much sickness."

She said she doesn't know why the council chose to honor her.

"I think it's very nice," she said, "but I'm not in any special clubs or anything."

Heenan, however, said he thinks she's very special.

"I hope that I live to be her age, and that I'm as active as she is if I do," he said.

Woods considers zoning change for proposed restaurant on Mack

By Donna Walker
Staff Writer

A local developer has asked the Grosse Pointe Woods City Council for permission to tear down the vacant "Steak & Egg Kitchen" on Mack and build a new restaurant on the site.

The land is currently zoned RO-1 (restricted office), which means it can only be used for office space.

The Steak & Egg Kitchen was allowed to operate as a non-conforming establishment because a restaurant existed there before the zoning ordinance was enacted.

Developer Edward J. Russell III, who owns the land, does not need permission from the council to open a restaurant in the existing building.

However, he said the building is in such poor condition, it would be better to tear it down and start again.

"There's been about three additions to the building since 1950," and the transitions between the different additions are not as smooth as they should be, he told the council.

A new building would not be grandfathered in. It would have to be used as office space. For Russell to open a restaurant in a new building, the land would have to be rezoned to "C" (commercial) status.

Russell had previously asked the city's planning commission to consider his request. The planning commission held a public hearing and then voted on the matter. One of the commission members was absent, and the vote was tied 4-4.

The existing building had been leased from Russell by Diversified Hospitality Inc., the parent company of Steak & Egg Kitchen, and from some of its predecessors, for many years, Russell said.

Diversified Hospitality filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy in March, and Russell hasn't received rent on the property since January, he said.

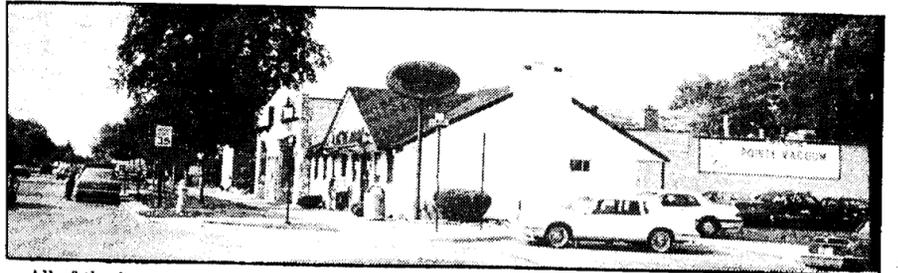

That's why the restaurant is no longer operating, and why the red and white outdoor "Steak & Egg Kitchen" sign has been covered with black paint.

Russell already has a tenant lined up for the new building he has proposed — Boston Chicken Rotisserie, a New England restaurant chain.

"We currently have 40 restaurants, mostly in the northeast," said David Stanchak, the company's senior vice president.

The company, which opened its first restaurant in 1985, specializes in chicken roasted slowly on a rotisserie, not fried. Roasted chickens are sold by the pound and are available for dining in the restaurant, or for customers to take home.

The menu includes other chicken dishes (pot pie, for one), and side dishes, such as salads, potatoes, vegetables and desserts.

All of the items are prepared by hand daily at the restaurant, Stanchak said.

About 20 to 25 percent of Boston Chicken Rotisserie's business is carry out, Stanchak said.

"But it's not your typical carry-out fare," Russell said. "You can't unwrap the product in your car and eat it there. You have to take it home and cut it up. It's something you would buy for an impromptu dinner party."

Russell's attorney, Richard Scarfone, said, "It's a higher ticket item. That's why they've targeted restaurants for Birmingham, West Bloomfield and here. We have the perfect demographics for the upscale clientele they're looking for."

The existing building is 1,100 square feet. Russell wants to replace it with a 2,200-square-foot building.

The new building would have fewer seats than the existing building offer, and a much larger kitchen. The existing building has 43 seats, and Russell projected that the new building would have 20 to 25 seats.

Russell has presented two site plans to the council for consideration. The plans differ in the placement and number of parking spaces behind the building.

Plan A calls for 13 spaces. Four of the spaces could only be reached from the alley, and the other nine would be off Norwood.

Plan B calls for 11 spaces, with access off Norwood only. It also calls for trees and shrubbery to be planted along the rear lot line, to act as a buffer for the homes that are behind and across the alley from the restaurant.

Russell and Stanchak said they prefer Plan B, and Chester Petersen, outgoing interim city administrator, said that the planning commission also preferred Plan B.

The problem with Plan B is that it needs two more parking spaces to meet the minimum number of spaces that are required by the city for the size of the proposed building and the number of people who will be working there during peak hours, Petersen said.

Russell said it may be possible to create more parking spaces by making the building smaller.

Another option would be for Russell to apply for a parking variance. However, parking variances are very controversial in Grosse Pointe Woods, and the council hasn't been too keen on granting them recently.

Councilman Bill Wilson said he preferred Plan B because of the proposed buffer.

"The homes that are back there have had problems with youths congregating in back of the restaurant," Wilson said. "I don't think they'll congregate in back of the proposed restaurant, because it would be too pricey for them. But if you can provide a buffer, that's great. I hope it would be so quiet back there that residents could fall asleep in their back yards."

He also said he likes the proposed hours of the restaurant, 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.

The council will hold a public hearing on the proposed ordinance change and afterward will vote on it at its June 15 meeting. The council meeting will start at the usual time, 7:30 p.m.

The proposed $43,000 rest room/storage facility at Elworthy Field

Rest rooms planned for Elworthy Field

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

John Hoben has been coaching little league in Grosse Pointe City for 20 years. His teams called Elworthy Field home, and frankly he said he got tired of explaining to fans and players where the rest rooms aren't.

During baseball season the four baseball diamonds at the City park host approximately 325 players daily from the Little League, the Babe Ruth League, the Neighborhood Club adult league and the Grosse Pointe South junior varsity and freshmen teams.

The fields are also heavily used by soccer leagues in the fall.

And there are no rest room or storage facilities. "Equipment is stored in my trunk, in my garage, in other people's trunks and garages," he said.

So Hoben, a Realtor, got together with Neighborhood Club director John Bruce and attorney Dick Hurford and formed the ad hoc Elworthy Field Improvement Committee.

Working with architect Peter Gormley, they designed a $43,000 rest room/storage facility that will be built at Elworthy Field near the baseball diamonds. It will be Colonial style to fit in with the tennis shelter. The building will be given to Grosse Pointe City.

The plan was approved unanimously by the Grosse Pointe City Council at its May 18 meeting.

"The neat thing about this project is that no tax dollars are going into it," Hoben said. "Those baseball diamonds get a lot of use so we knew we'd get interest. The community has really recognized the need for this."

Many felt it was so necessary that they made donations of time and money to ensure the building will be completed.

Gormley did the design and schematic drawings gratis. Others have donated everything from the roof to the cement to the labor. A resident who showed up at the council meeting saw that the small cupola planned for the top of the building still hadn't been paid for — so he pledged the $350 it will cost.

The Grosse Pointe South Dads Club, the Farms-City Little League, the Farms-City Babe Ruth League, the Neighborhood Club and the Grosse Pointe City Foundation donated $2,000 apiece to the project.

To date, more than $32,000 has been raised, and Hoben is still accepting donations.

Construction will begin when the rest of the money has been collected, and after the summer baseball season. It should be ready for the fall soccer season.

It will be the City's responsibility to maintain and operate the new facility. To donate money or labor to the project, call Hoben at 882-5200.

Students to wash cars

The Parcels seventh-grade class is holding a car wash to raise money for a service project.

It will be held in the school back parking lot on Saturday, May 30, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The cost is $3 for cars and $4 for vans. An alternate rain date will be May 31.

Proceeds from the car wash will be used to support the students' school beautification project, which includes planting shrubs, annuals and perennials around the school.

Blessing of the fleet set

Farms

The Grosse Pointe Farms Boat Club will hold its annual Blessing of the Fleet on Saturday, May 30, at 11 a.m. at Pier Park.

A hospitality booth will be set up to serve free coffee and doughnuts.

The Coast Guard Auxiliary will participate in the ceremonies and will inspect boats upon request.

Park

The Grosse Pointe Sail Club invites members of the club and Park boaters to the fourth annual Blessing of the Fleet on Sunday, June 7, at 2 p.m. at the Windmill Pointe dock.

Giving the blessing will be the Rev. Tim Cuny of St. Clare of Montefalco Church.

Color guards will include Cub Scout Den 8 of Defer Pack 147 and Boy Scout Troop 86. A bagpiper will provide music.

Mayor Palmer T. Heenan, City Manager Dale Krajniak, Park city council members and club officers will preside at the blessing. Boats will parade past the reviewing stand, each receiving a cannon salute.

For more instructions and information, call Denise Cotter, fleet chaplain, at 881-5877.

Some of the dolls who will appear in Grosse Pointe Theatre's production of "Guys and Dolls" include, from left, Caren Bernert, Pat Ellis, Madeline Alexander, Judy Giesecking, Melissa Marie Pesta, Lee Anne Shaheen and Jennifer Carmichael. The musical will be presented in the War Memorial's Fries Auditorium June 2-7 and June 9-13.

Grosse Pointe Theatre's season finale is classic 'Guys and Dolls'

"Guys and Dolls," a musical featuring the best of Frank Loesser's music and lyrics, is the closing show for the 44th anniversary season for Grosse Pointe Theatre. The "musical fable of Broadway" opens Tuesday, June 2, and runs each evening through Saturday, June 13, with the exception of Monday, June 8.

"Guys and Dolls" is based on characters created by Damon Runyon and features a book by Jo Swerling and Abe Burrows. It's the story of New York gamblers, chorus girls, Bible missions and "the oldest established permanent floating crap game in New York." Nathan Detroit runs that crap game, and his longtime fiancée, Miss Adelaide, wants him to give it up.

Colorful characters include Bennie Southstreet, Harry the Horse, Nicely Nicely Johnson, and the smoothest gambler of all, Sky Masterson.

Sky wagers Detroit that he can have any "doll" that Detroit chooses. Detroit chooses Sister Sarah Brown, the head of Broadway's Save-A-Soul Mission.

The story takes place in Cuba, the sewers of New York City and on a "boat to heaven."

The Grosse Pointe Theatre production is directed by Gwenn Samuel. Choral director is Ruth Ellen Mayhall; musical director is John Diebel; choreography by Don Ross and Stephanie Samuel; stage manager is Donna DiSante; producers are Marty Bufalini and Marie Devlin. Art Thompson is the set designer as well as co-technical director, with Dean Erskine.

Cast members include Judy Giesecking as Miss Adelaide; Vince DeRita as Nathan Detroit; Eileen Kent as Sister Sarah; Mark Maccagnone as Sky Masterson; Michael F. Edick as Nicely Nicely Johnson; Dean Gaboury as Benny Southstreet; Sal DeMercurio as Big Julie; and Dick Vreeland as Detective Brannigan.

Barbary Roney, appearing as General Cartwright, and Harry Stutt, as the Drunk, are reprising the same roles they played in Grosse Pointe Theatre's version of "Guys and Dolls" more than 25 years ago.

Each performance begins at 8 p.m., except Sunday, June 7, which begins at 7 p.m. All performances are at the Fries Auditorium in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore.

Tickets are $12. Special group rates are available for Tuesday evenings only. The War Memorial also offers buffet suppers before most performances. For more information about the suppers, call the War Memorial at 881-7511. For information about tickets, call the Grosse Pointe Theatre hotline at 881-4004.

Village Art fest is June 6

Nearly 100 artists will participate in the Village Art Festival on Saturday, June 6, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the Village on Kercheval at St. Clair, next to Jacobson's.

The sixth annual show, sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Artists Association and the Grosse Pointe Village Merchants Association, is based on the theme, "The Magic of Art."

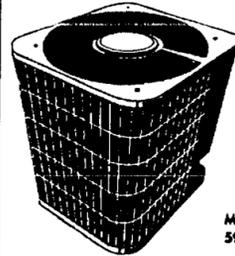

One of the highlights will be a portraiture demonstration by Jerry Lemenu, WDIV's courtroom artist. Lemenu is noted for his courtroom sketches of the Noriega trial in Miami. Using a live model, he will begin demonstrating pastel portraiture at 1 p.m. on St. Clair.

Other demonstrations will include watercolor painting by artist Shirley Hathaway of Roseville; quilting by Marion Kelly of Conklin, and Vicki Hester Davison will demonstrate teddy bear making.

There will be a variety of arts and crafts. In addition to oil, watercolor and pastel painting, collage, oriental brush painting, sculpture, reed and splint baskets, herbs, dried flowers, leaded glass, weaving, pottery, folk art furniture and jewelry will be included.

Fiscal crisis is key issue in school vote

In view of the fiscal crisis and other problems facing the Grosse Pointe School District, it is a wonder that anyone would file for the two seats on the school board to be filled at the June 8 election.

Despite the dismal outlook, six community-minded Grosse Pointers have volunteered their services for what could be described as hazardous duty in a combat zone for the miserly pay of $30 per meeting.

Yet not since the early 1980s when the community split sharply over the board's decisions on school closing issues has there been as much controversy over public school policy as now appears to be raging in the Pointes about the school financing issue. As one result, a big voter turnout is expected.

The crisis already has led the superintendent to order, with board approval, the layoff of 30 teachers and five administrators and the reduction of assignments for 11 other teachers to prepare for the possibility that the "worst case scenario" may have to be followed in writing the 1992-93 budget.

As most residents understand, the fiscal crisis arises from Lansing's decisions to reduce state reimbursements to the out-of-formula, more prosperous districts such as Grosse Pointe's.

Opinion

Those actions have caused the possibility of a $2.3 million shortfall in next year's local school budget — which could get worse. Whether that occurs will depend on possible moves in Lansing and the people's decisions in November to approve or disapprove one or more of the proposed constitutional amendments to cut property taxes and cap future assessment increases.

Not that the six candidates agree on how to meet the funding crisis. Instead, one candidate, like President George Bush, pledges "No new taxes." Several others would consider levying one or both of the two mills currently authorized but not levied and still available without a vote of the people. The two mills would produce an estimated $3.6 million in revenue.

Other savings proposed included delaying maintenance, charging student fees for participation in sports and other extracurricular activities, increasing class sizes, eliminating programs that benefit chiefly a limited number of students, and cutting back on staff development programs. Admittedly such cutbacks are not popular and some, including delayed maintenance, are not cost-effective over time.

In appraising the candidates, we were struck by the qualities they share. All are college educated. All volunteered to run out of a desire to serve their community. And all possess some experience that qualify them for the posts.

However, experience in dealing directly with school problems is a major asset for candidates. In our view, the two incumbents, Gloria Konsler and Frank Sladen, have performed well on the board, have answered questions about their duties in responsible ways and deserve re-election.

Mrs. Konsler, elected in 1988, is the only board member certified by the Michigan Association of School Boards on the basis of her participation in a series of conferences, classes and workshops. Sladen, elected a year ago, is a former teacher and headmaster at Liggett School who had business experience as a Grosse Pointe book store owner.

Both are sensitive to the strong opposition expressed in the February vote extending the current millage. Even so, Mrs. Konsler said if proposed savings prove to be insufficient, she leans toward levying one of the two unlevied mills still available to offset the budget shortfall. Sladen said he'd probably vote against levying even the one mill.

Both withheld specific views about the proposals for a different and more independent library administration because the governance committee studying the issue is only now preparing a recommendation. Reportedly it will propose the library remain under the control of the school board but with a new commission to oversee library administration.

Both incumbents showed an excellent understanding of the board's role in policy-making while working with the superintendent, the chief administrator. Both also see the board as a sounding board for the community on school problems. And both offered sensible suggestions for budget cuts if required in the "worst case scenario."

If some voters wish to reject the incumbents to protest past board actions, we suggest that the best qualified among the four alternatives are David Hunt, a young mortgage banking industry executive with youngsters just starting in school, and Frank Hogan, a retired marketing specialist, who has seen children graduate from Grosse Pointe public as well as private high schools.

Our campaign comments are intended to reflect an informed opinion and do not represent any attempt to dictate to anyone. Before they go to the polls, however, we urge prospective voters to review carefully not only our own newspaper's interviews with the candidates in today's news columns but to consult the League of Women Voters guide published elsewhere and other substantial sources of information about the candidates.

This newspaper regards an informed citizenry as democracy's greatest protector, and especially when the people exercise their right to go to the polls as we hope a majority of Pointers will do June 8.

An upsetting Shores issue

After a last-minute flurry of charges and countercharges, Grosse Pointe Shores voters last week upset a veteran member of the village board of trustees, and replaced her with a challenger.

The circulation of the charges, which we regard as lacking the usual high standards of Pointe campaigning, was, however, only the latest development in a long-simmering controversy over the pollution of Lake St. Clair from leaking septic sewer systems serving several Shores residences.

One of the residences involved is owned by Patricia Galvin, a six-term trustee who sought re-election, and who was one of two property owners who had been ordered to show cause on June 5 why they should not stop their systems' discharges into the lake.

The other three candidates had deplored the pollution but had indicated, in separate interviews with the Grosse Pointes News, that they did not think it would become an election issue.

But it did last weekend.

Then Barbara Willett, the challenger, and John F. Monahan and Richard C. Mertz, the two incumbents seeking re-election, signed and distributed a flyer attacking Mrs. Galvin for her failure to comply with the Wayne County Health Department's earlier request that she take steps to stop the pollution.

Mrs. Galvin promptly circulated a response to what she termed "the gross misrepresentations, distortions and exaggerations" in the letter circulated by the three candidates.

The result of the exchange of charges was that Mrs. Galvin was defeated, Mrs. Willett was elected to succeed her and Monahan and Mertz were returned to the board.

The News had endorsed Mrs. Galvin on the basis of her 12 years of independent service as a trustee and because she had told us she wants to hook up to the village system, had welcomed the opportunity to get a court hearing on the dispute and was confident the agencies involved "would do what is right."

Although she had wanted the Shores to pay for extending the sewer line to her property, Mrs. Galvin's explanation sounded reasonable because she was the person who first reported the failure of her own septic system to the village.

Shores voters, however, disagreed with our interpretation of the issue, both in their voting and in several letters to the editor, which surely was their privilege.

We are disappointed, however, that the issue prompted those last-minute charges because a court hearing had been set for June 5, only two weeks from now, and Mrs. Galvin had, in effect, promised to take whatever steps would be required by any order issued.

So while the Shores voters have spoken, the adjudication of the pollution issue still awaits an early decision by the court.

Letters

Unnecessary

To the Editor:

The P.T.O. executive board of Mason Elementary School would urge all registered voters in the Pointes to vote "yes" to exempt our school district from the state-mandated "schools of choice" plan on the ballot June 8.

The Grosse Pointe Public School System has had a "choice" plan in place for residents since 1986. This means that students may choose to attend any Grosse Pointe public school as long as there is room and their parents can provide transportation.

The only difference between our plan and the state's is that the state requires that we provide buses for transportation. This requirement would cost the Grosse Pointe taxpayers between $400,000 and $500,000. This would be an unnecessary burden on the taxpayers of our community.

Our community is relatively small, our schools strategically placed and the majority of us can easily provide transportation to and from school for our children. Any and all money raised for our schools are better spent on teachers and curriculum — not on buses.

Geri Day
Corresponding Secretary
P.T.O. Executive Board
Mason Elementary School

Outstanding

To the Editor:

Your Pointer of Interest,
Jeff Perry, (April 16) is an outstanding example of the accomplishments a person with Down Syndrome can achieve. Too often, differences and limitations are emphasized, rather than abilities and love of life.

Congratulations, Jeff, you certainly are a Pointer of Interest!

Barbara Campbell

Term limits

To the Editor:

A recent editorial stance disagreed with the concept of term limitations for elected officials. You reasoned that newly elected officials would be more dependent on staff or aides than the more senior officials. This is correct as far as it goes.

Not that there aren't some beauts in Washington who are due for a long rest.

Vote 'Yes' to reject busing

An important issue facing the Grosse Pointe School District at the June 8 election has been almost ignored because of the campaign emphasis on the contests for the two seats on the board of education.

The issue is a ballot proposal on which the school board has recommended that the people vote "Yes" to deny its application here. The proposal reads as follows:

"Shall the Grosse Pointe Public School District be exempt from having schools of choice within the school district?"

In effect, a district "Yes" vote would exempt Grosse Pointe from the provisions of a new state law that requires all school districts to provide a schools-of-choice plan and offer transportation for students to their schools of choice. In the Pointes, the cost to start such a system, never provided here, is estimated at almost $500,000.

By exempting itself from the proposed state requirement by a vote of the people, the Grosse Pointe district also would be able to retain its own schools-of-choice plan that has been in effect since 1986. That plan permits students to attend any public school they wish as long as there is room at the school, but no busing is provided.

The Grosse Pointe News strongly endorses the board's recommendation that voters reject the state plan but emphasizes that to do so, and to retain the district's own plan, voters must mark their ballots "Yes."

Checks and balances

Supermom and me. We both put on our pantyhose one leg at a time.

It takes extraordinary muscle control, balance and concentration to remain vertical, on one foot, while cramming the other foot into a stretchy, form-fitting, flesh-colored pre-packaged one-size-fits-all tube of sheer nylon.

Wimps do it sitting down. Supermoms do it standing up, waiting for the coffee to perk, watching the "Today"

The routine is as follows: Pull wrinkled lump of 100 percent sheer-to-the-waist nylon out of its shiny plastic nest. Discard nest. Shake lump. Two stretchy tubes will emerge, joined by an elastic band.

Stand, feet forward, facing TV.

Place thumbs firmly inside open end of double tube and hold fast while creeping index and middle fingers gradually down to the end of one of the tubes.

Carefully. This stuff is fragile, run-prone nylon. One jagged fingernail can create havoc.

carefully into tube and slowly unfurl the fabric, creeping upward over toes, instep, heel, calf, to a point just above right knee.

Release the fabric.

Bend forward at the waist, both feet on the floor. Place thumbs inside the other side of the double tube and repeat the hopping, unrolling and stretching act on the left leg, this time while bent forward at a 90 degree angle.

If you've been doing everything right, at this point your knees will be shackled together. This is when the phone rings.

Alternate unfurling the fabric, gradually creeping up each leg while doing occasional deep knee bends, wiggling from side to side, flexing calf muscles and pivoting both feet right and left, until the pesky garment is waist high.

Give the waistband a triumphant snap. Do another knee bend and wiggle toes.

I have perfected this routine. Supermom has perfected other balancing acts that still elude me. She serves balanced meals, for instance.

And she balances her checkbook 12 times a year.

I have a double-whammy approach to the problem: old fashioned pencil-fingers and brain math as well as new fangled calculator math. Nevertheless, a squiggly 8 sometimes looks like a 3. A 7 slips into the wrong column. A decimal point disappears. I forget to subtract. I subtract twice. Most often, I subtract wrong. Less often, I add wrong.

When the tedious balancing act is done, I write "BASTARD!" in block letters with a wide, jagged line on the last space of my checkbook register.

I celebrate by leaping into the air, crowing, bragging and cheering.

I announce the good news to my children.

Sometimes they lift their cell phones for a few seconds and favor me with wan smiles.

My father claims banks never make mistakes. Never.

If you can't reconcile your checkbook balance with the bank's monthly statement, he says, YOU have made an error.

I've spent a gazillion hours balancing my checkbook to the final penny. Ninety percent of my anguish concerns a search for something less than $5.

Wrong address

Lisa, Bill, Ellie, Alexandra and William bought a beautiful gift for a new baby named Melanie.

They delivered it to the wrong house, however. Nobody was home, so they left it on the front porch. The homeowners don't have a new baby — and don't know anybody named Melanie.

They want Melanie to get her gift.

Call us in the newsroom (882-0294) and we'll help get the gift back on the right track.

her house to take the report.

As he was leaving, Loomis' phone rang.

Doug Adams of the City said he was walking along, minding his own business, when he found a $20 bill. He thought it was his lucky day.

He found another $20 bill. Then he found the wallet.

Wieczorek drove to Adams' house, picked up the wallet, delivered it to Loomis. Everything was intact, she said — money — credit cards — even the change.

How's that for city services?

How's that for old-fashioned honesty? Old-time family values?

make quite amusing reading.

It'll set you back $5 to get your pet listed and the book will cost $35. You don't have to buy a book to get your pet listed, he said.

Walk on

Here's another chance to walk for a charity.

The American Heart Association Wayne County Heartwalk, a fundraiser to fight heart disease, will take place from 7 a.m. to 10 a.m. on Sunday, June 7, at several places, including an outdoor version at Grosse Pointe North High School and an indoor version at Eastland Center.

The event is sponsored by Henry Ford Heart & Vascular Institute, Health Alliance Plan, Daniel W. Williams & Sons Inc. Construction Co., Sinai Hospital, Bon Secours Hospital, Cottage Hospital, Grosse Pointe Lions Club, First of America Bank, Cavanaugh's Office Supply Inc. and Aunt Mid Product Co.

No entry fee is required, but walkers need to collect a minimum donation of $20.

Blood pressure and cholesterol screenings will be available at both sites for a $7 charge and complimentary refreshments will be available.

For more information, call Christine Giuliani or Kathryn Alexander at 557-9500 or 800-632-7587, ext. 540.

Loose change

Margaret Loomis put her wallet on top of her car Tuesday, May 19, while she strapped her 'baby' into a car seat.

She drove off, forgetting about the wallet.

When she realized what she had done, she backtracked, but couldn't find a trace of it. She called the public safety department in Grosse Pointe City and officer Ron Wieczorek came to

Who's Hoot?

Does your dog or cat have a story to tell?

Most pets are procrastinators when it comes to writing their autobiographies or their memoirs, so we humans just have to do it for them.

John R.F. Breen, editor of the first edition of "Who's Who of American Pets" is looking for biographies, anecdotes or interesting habits of specific pets.

Most of the listings will be dogs and cats, but any pets are fair game, Breen says — turtles, snakes, parakeets, even rats.

The new directory will be printed in the fall and will list pets by name along with their biographies, just like the human version of "Who's Who."

"This directory will provide a permanent record of pets," Breen said. "Pets definitely have their own personalities and this is a way of capturing their lives in print. It will

Kirtland celebrates survival in song

"Twit twit twit, sweet sweet chew," comes the song, clear and loud and repeated. Variations and improvisations confuse the amateur ear, but don't stump Doug Munson for a minute.

Nancy Parmenter

Munson keeps up a stream of information so we won't lose interest — an unlikely prospect, in any case.

"Here's a birdfoot violet, a wildflower of the plains," he points out. Or, "listen, that's a hermit (thrush) — it sounds like a flute."

Munson is a ranger with the U.S. Forest Service. He conducts warbler tours to the Mack Lake Kirtland's warbler management area, which is closed to the general public ("a mandatory court appearance," he warns, just in case we were thinking of coming back and marching through the woods to flush the secretive little bird). But anybody who wants to at least listen to a Kirtland's can do so by going to the Forest Service office in Mio in spring or summer.

Kirtland's nest almost invisibly on the ground and it would take an earthquake to get the female off the nest. "I've come this close to stepping on a nest," Munson says.

"Mayfield and the other old-timers who have studied the bird used to lift the female off the nest and band her, then pick the chicks out one by one and band them, then put the mother back. There are old photographs of researchers sitting in the field with Kirtland's perched on their shoulders."

Practically everybody in Michigan knows by now that the Kirtland's is an endangered species which nests only in a small section of the northern Lower Peninsula. Any serious birder who wants to see a Kirtland's has to come to Michigan to do it. (They winter in the Bahamas, but have rarely been identified there. Must be that confusing fall and winter plumage.)

of weather, the male will sing from the highest perch he can find. Unfortunately, we have picked a windy day.

Munson darts back and forth, seeking better vantage points. He unerringly aims his spotting scope and actually sees a bird pop up — but it pops down again before we can take a look.

"I guess I'll try to pish him up," Munson finally says. We gather around, staring into the woods in case the pish works.

"Pish," Munson whispers. "Pssshhh, pssshhh." Nothing happens.

I tell about pishing a common yellowthroat. Munson nods knowingly. Yellowthroats are easy.

"I pished a yellow warbler last year," he says. "It popped up — and a sharpie sitting in a tree shot out and grabbed it. My mouth just hung open. I never saw the hawk." He's not so quick to pish now.

Suddenly, a Kirtland's pops up. He perches on top of a snag, singing valiantly into the teeth of the wind. Munson spots him in the scope and we all get a good look.

Head thrown back, the little bird warbles loudly, confidently, to the sky. He must know his kind is making a comeback.

One of the reasons the Kirtland's is able to start increasing its numbers (from 41 singing males in 1972 to more than 350 last year, with 500 predicted for this season) is that humans are carrying out cowbird control. The cowbird isn't a native of Michigan, so Kirtland's evolved without any protective behaviors to guard against this nest parasite.

Traps in the warbler nesting areas have snared 80,000 cowbirds over the years, targeting specifically the cowbirds that lay in warblers' nests (cowbirds will lay eggs in any bird's nest).

The Forest Service euphemistically says the program "removes" cowbirds; in fact, they are gassed and "recycled" as food for peregrine falcon chicks raised in hacking boxes high atop buildings in Detroit.

Recycling has reached new heights.

Speaking of protecting endangered species from well-meaning people, the Nature Conservancy has found it necessary to conceal the location of its newest Michigan purchase.

Tamarack Swamp is a last-ditch sanctuary for the Mitchell's satyr butterfly, which, until recently, lived in several locations in New Jersey, as well as in Michigan. But butterfly collectors virtually wiped out the population there.

Collectors are certainly a breed apart. Egg collectors in Great Britain threaten a number of bird species — and, perversely, the rarer the species becomes (owing to over-collecting), the greater the pressure to collect more before they go extinct. Apparently, a number of Michigan plants and animals are collected for their monetary value. But if the rest of us refuse to buy, the market will dry up.

We owe it to our fellow travelers on the planet.

There are many, including some from Michigan.

What you failed to mention was the real problem, the staff and the aides. Our solons (Greek — lawgivers) construct through their staffs the body of regulatory clap trap, bureaucratic nonsense and legislative balderdash that is paralyzing industry and commerce.

I do not wish to take lawyers to task, for some of them are my best friends — well not really — acquaintances.

I do wish to attack a portion of the legal system: the unelected staff of lawyers to every committee elected, or appointed official in Washington, who nurse on the taxpayer's mammaries. They are, truly, the lawgivers.

Many lucrative legal courses have come from the creation of complex legislation, which the staff creator, now retired from government counsels at $500/hour on methods to circumvent.

If you would parallel this with the medical profession, you would create a class of disease-giver doctors, to create business for the balance of the profession.

State and federal staffs have grown exponentially. Politicians come and go (sometimes) but staffs remain. Who runs the government? Guess.

It's time for the government to do the same agonizing downsizing that American industry has done. As a start, write Senators Reigle and Levin to match the automobile industry and cut their staff by 30 to 50 percent. What a refreshing example.

Perhaps the cuts would improve the Washington Beltway drive time, which looks like downtown Tokyo. The Beltway Bureaucrats disdain American-built automobiles.

If we don't limit the terms of our solons, at least limit the size of our unelected government, our Beltway Bureaucratic legal regals.

Personhood

To the Editor:

Sadly, as the moral issue of abortion is being fought out in the press and on the streets as a political issue, the pro-abortion forces contend that a woman's right to an abortion is protected under the Constitution.

That's a far reach. The right of privacy is not even mentioned in the Constitution. However the Ninth Amendment, a catch-all amendment that says things not mentioned in the Constitution may still exist as rights, is cited as sufficient justification for abortion.

Thus, pro-abortion's fanatics insist a woman, for any reason whatsoever, may have an abortionist kill the baby she is carrying right up to, practically, the moment of birth.

Given the benignity that permeates the Constitution as far as American citizens are concerned, could you possibly imagine the Founding Fathers writing into basic law a right that may be exercised only in the killing of a yet-unborn American citizen?

However the Constitution does contain, in the language of the 14th Amendment, the means to end abortion — finally and completely.

That language says, "No state shall . . . deprive any person of life, liberty, or property." So just establish in the courts the personhood of the fetal child and it is brought under the protection of the 14th Amendment; wanton killing of a yet-unborn American citizen would be forbidden under the Constitution.

This fetal personhood already is recognized in law to a limited extent. A pregnant woman may be prosecuted for use of alcohol or drugs because of harm it threatens to the child in fetal state. So — the fetus is not a person? Ever hear of anyone being prosecuted for harming a tumor?

At present the word "person" cries out for legal definition. Random House dictionary uses 528 words, and 14 separate descriptions, in an effort to define "person."

Were personhood legally established, an American child whose life begins at conception according to best medical authority, would be constitutionally protected during its nine-month progression toward American citizenship. Absent illness or injury, only the ultimate violent act — death by deliberate killing — could interrupt that progression to citizenship.

Since Roe v. Wade we've killed 28 million American citizens-to-be. With Roe v. Wade apparently doomed, the pro-abortion mob has readied-up a new and far more horrific escalator to genocide. It's called the Freedom of Choice Act. An examination of its provisions shows it to be, probably, the most vile, corrupt piece of legislation ever introduced in the history of the United States Congress.

U.S. Attorney General William P. Barr has stated that "this legislation would impose on all 50 states an unprecedented regime of abortion-on-demand, going well beyond the requirements of Roe v. Wade and its successor cases." Frightening? Well, I guess. However, even this Herod-like slaughter of the innocents would collapse, I believe, under a constitutionally-defined personhood for all children, born and unborn.

The U.S. Congress mostly ignores the will of its constituents, in favor of the money and influence of the lobbyists by whom it lives, as we have seen in scandal after scandal. So it might be well to get to Congress now — before the abortion mob gets there with its corrupting push for its horrific, newest kill-bill, its Freedom of Choice Act. This time demand recognition of personhood for all children — born and not yet born.

Choice

To the Editor:

The ballot proposal on June 8th certainly contains confusing language. Grosse Pointe has had "schools of choice" since 1986. Students can choose to attend any school in the district (except Monteith and Parcels which are at maximum enrollment) as long as there is room and the parents provide transportation.

To continue our "choice" policy we now have to vote "yes" to exempt ourselves from having the state's idea of "schools of choice." What we really are voting for with a yes vote is exempting ourselves from the transportation aspect even though the word transportation isn't mentioned on the ballot.

A no vote could cost the taxpayers up to $500,000 by requiring the school district to provide buses, taking money from current programs to pay for an extra service that contributes nothing to the education of students. So vote yes on June 8 to continue choice and excellence in our Grosse Pointe schools.

New horizons, old friendships

She wasn't born yesterday, but she still has plenty of living to do. She has raised her four children as a single working mother and the last child has almost completed his college education. She has paid her dues.

She is a risk-taker, but has the smarts to do her homework before she leaps. She left today to begin a new life in a new town, a life for herself. I salute her courage and admire her tremendous strength.

After her divorce she didn't have the luxury of choice as to whether she would have to work. She took the necessary courses to hone her skills and attacked the working world with a tenacity that has held her in good stead for many years. Each time she made a career decision, it was with considerable thought and planning, always bettering herself, and building respect in her chosen field.

She moved to Grosse Pointe, her childhood home, after her divorce and stayed for eight years. She wanted to give her children the excellence in education that our community offers as well as a comfortable environment at bargain rates.

She knew that she needn't belong to a club to realize the myriad benefits of Grosse Pointe. She took the courses offered, went to the exercise classes, walked our safe streets for several miles each night after work, used our libraries and filled her life with good friends.

Now she wants more. Hooray for her that she is able to verbalize these feelings and act upon them. Acknowledging that she is at heart a country girl, and given her druthers, would rather live in blue jeans and wander the hills with her dog, she has left us for steeper climbs. She reasons that she is in fantastic physical shape and is young enough to seek new employment in a more rural setting. She knows from experience that she is an expert at making friends, because she is such a good friend herself. She will not be lonely. Of this I am certain.

Her friends wanted to plead with her to stay, but we knew she had a better fix on what was right for her than we did. That still won't keep us from missing her and from telephoning often, just to hear that comfortable giggle and partake of her great common sense. She knows there will always be plenty of beds waiting for her return visits and we hope they will be often. Godspeed, good buddy.

2 teachers would like to expel Bryant in contest for state House seat

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

One thing's for sure in the race for the 1st District state House seat — whoever's elected will be a Grosse Pointe Farms resident.

Rep. Bill Bryant, who's held the seat for 22 years, is the only Republican who filed. He's being challenged by two Democratic candidates, Elaine Hartman and Deanna Maher Scallen, both relative newcomers to politics.

Bryant said he enjoys his job too much not to run for a 12th term. And he said the Legislature is wrestling with issues that will affect the state for years.

"The main issue now is school finance reform.

"I will still fight the continuing threat to our school system and try to find some lasting remedy to school finance ills which will not take away our ability to have excellent schools," he said. "The last couple of years I haven't done too well, but it's a continuing battle and I want to see it out to its conclusion."

He says there are simple things the state can do to raise money for education, but still retain local control.

"There's so much pressure for property tax relief and so little common sense in approaching it," he said.

Bryant said he worked hard to keep the reapportionment favorable to the Republicans and thinks a GOP controlled House is within reach.

"I would love to be here when it's a Republican majority," he said. "It's never been as long as I've been here."

Hartman, one of Bryant's challengers, has been involved with the Farms government for years.

She is on the Grosse Pointe Farms planning commission, the preservation committee, has served on the city's traffic commission, and works with the preservation committee for Corktown's Holy Trinity Church.

A retired Detroit public school teacher, Hartman now runs her own interior decorating business.

But she may best be known as the woman who saved the Cadieux farmhouse from demolition last summer. When a developer wanted to tear the building down, Hartman got together a group of investors to buy the property and restore and renovate it.

"Being involved in so many organizations I felt I could bring a unique perspective," she said. "And having taught in the Detroit portion of the district I have a knowledge of that area."

Improving education and revamping the state's school finance laws are high on her list of priorities if elected. She's also interested in women's issues, she said.

Scallen, the other contender for Bryant's job, is also a teacher who taught in various school districts throughout the state. She also worked as an educational coordinator at a home for abused and neglected children, which is where she got involved in politics.

While working at the home, Scallen noticed several violations of state laws and after 13 months and 10 complaints to the Department of Social Services, the home was closed.

"I found out that not only was this shelter not monitored, but none of the others were, either," she said.

She was appointed to the Michigan Foster Care Review Task Force, which studied the situation. She successfully showed that it is unconstitutional to deny decent schooling to students in such homes.

She still works to revamp the way DSS treats abused and neglected children. In 1989 she founded Anawim Inc., an organization to help provide secure shelter for homeless mothers and children.

Because of her work on behalf of children she was the first non-attorney inducted into the juvenile law section of the Michigan Bar Association.

Scallen is also interested in seniors' issues.

"We need to provide better funding for medical care and nursing care for senior citizens," Scallen said. "They deserve that."

She is affiliated with Citizens for Better Care, an advocacy group for seniors, the National Nursing Home Reform Coalition and the Racial Justice Center.

"Bill Bryant is one of the politicians who doesn't want to look at these issues," Scallen said. "I think that complacency should be challenged."

Bryant is running unopposed in the Aug. 4 primary. Hartman and Scallen will square off on the Democratic side to see who takes on Bryant in the November general election.

Kelly makes cities issue in House race

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

The plight of America's cities — especially Detroit — will be the main issue of Democratic state Sen. John Kelly's campaign for John Conyers' 14th District seat in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Also filing for the Democratic nomination are Martha Scott of Highland Park and Frederick Strickland of Detroit. John Gordon of Detroit is the only Republican candidate running.

Kelly, of Grosse Pointe Farms, has been a state senator for 14 years. He ran for Congress once before, in 1980, but was defeated. He says winning a seat this time is "within the realm of possibility."

He's already been campaigning in Detroit and said the response has been good.

"My name I.D. in Wayne County and in Detroit proper is 75 percent and it's five to one favorable," Kelly said. "The people who have a negative image of me think I'm combative, but to me that's not a negative."

Studies show Kelly has considerable support among blacks who would normally vote for blacks. He says that's because he campaigns heavily in the neighborhoods.

One of the main issues in Kelly's campaign will be the decay of the cities.

"From Los Angeles to Detroit to Washington, the cities are hemorrhaging from neglect and we need a new messenger in Washington to get something done," Kelly said.

"Just look at Detroit. The city government is taxed to the max and the state is coming down, too. There has to be a federal solution. South central Los Angeles shows what happens if we fail to respond to those concerns."

He said there has to be quality employment — including international companies — recruited to declining areas to keep those areas vital. Laws that discourage investment in those areas should be eliminated, he said.

Kelly's current Senate term expires in 1995, offering an opportune time to run for another office. If he loses, he's still got a job.

But even if he is defeated, he sees a positive result.

"I want the issues of the neighborhoods raised," Kelly said. "And if we get people talking, or thinking about these things, it's good."

And there's one other thing that may be in Kelly's favor. He's a relative newcomer to national politics in a year when incumbents are in wide disrepute. Conyers, on the other hand, has amassed 14 terms in Congress.

"Detroit's an underdog's town," Kelly said. "They love an underdog."

The showdown between Kelly and Conyers will come in the Aug. 4 primary.

Play it safe, win a pizza

"Geesh, what did I do wrong?"

That's what a lot of drivers probably thought as they were stopped by Grosse Pointe Farms public safety officer Brian Bilinski on Monday, Memorial Day, while entering Pier Park.

But he wasn't handing out tickets. Rather, he was giving pizza coupons to people who were wearing seatbelts.

"A lot of people were shocked that I was doing that and laughed. I had a real good response," Bilinski said.

The coupon entitles the bearer to one free personal pan pizza from Pizza Hut when another pizza is purchased.

"Pizza Hut is sponsoring this program throughout the state to get people to wear their seatbelts," said Lt. Jack Patterson of the Farms' traffic bureau.

The Farms received 500 coupons to hand out this year, and 100 were awarded on Monday, Patterson said.

"We're concentrating on giving them out around three major holidays — Memorial Day, the Fourth of July, and Labor Day," he said.

While the program is aimed at creating goodwill and getting people to wear their seatbelts, it may have caused at least one minor family argument.

"I pulled over this car," Bilinski said, "and the driver wasn't wearing his seatbelt, but his wife, who was in the passenger's seat, was wearing hers. I told him, 'You know, I wish I could give you a coupon, but I can't. But I'm giving your wife one.' Then she smacked him on the arm and said, 'See. I told you you should wear your seatbelt.'" set to Ball State University and back. They have to print 3,000 programs.

"And the props are outrageous," Martin said. "We have to cook a full dinner with cornish hens, there's three-bean salad, deviled eggs. I just hope there's a kitchen somewhere we can use."

Although the school supports the trip, finances are tight, so the kids are raising money themselves.

Several raffled a date with themselves to raise money. Two cast members are in a band and held a dance, all proceeds of which will go to the trip.

The big fundraiser will be Friday and Saturday, June 12-13 when they present the play again at the Performing Arts Auditorium at Grosse Pointe North High School.

"We're hoping to get enough money from those two nights so the kids don't have to pay too much," Martin said.

The Rotary Club and the South High Mother's Club also have donated money toward the trip.

In addition to the competition, students will be able to participate in workshops presented by professionals and audition for scholarships to more than 30 colleges and universities.

The students are excited about the competition, and a few are already nervous.

"This will give us a chance to show the rest of America that New York and Los Angeles don't have the only good theater in the country," said Heather King, the female lead in the play.

To make donations, call Martin at 343-2130.

Mazda's 'family' ranges from pizzazz to practical

Car of many hues

It's blue. It's green. It's black. It's gorgeous. "What color is it?" asked Dave at Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church. He had seen the RX-7 at midday; he saw it again at twilight. Once it was green, then it was deep blue, or even black.

The roofer took a break from a neighbor's shingling project to admire the '93 RX-7. "Is it an import? I'd buy American, but this one sure is tempting," he said. He had seen the ad campaign for the sports car on television. "Bet the tires are $200 apiece," he said. We didn't kick them.

Peter Smith, senior pastor at Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian and a Grosse Pointe Park resident, offered nary a protest when asked if he wanted to take the 225-hp rotary-engine two-seater for a test drive while I trudged up to practice the 23-bell carillon on East Jefferson at Burns. His test took a little longer than my scales and arpeggios and minuets (he was having a good day; I wasn't). He liked it, though we agreed his new deep-green Bonneville SE was a better choice for a family man who wanted to remain one.

A stunningly beautiful and fast car like the new RX-7 is like many a spring romance. It sweeps you off your feet; your heart beats a little faster when you're together, but the relationship may not survive the test of time. The new Mazda is fast as the wind; the seats are quite comfortable and supportive; the seamless interior design is amazing, and handling makes it fun to drive.

On the flip side, there's barely room for anyone or anything inside; you must lower yourself in and raise yourself out, and the dog absolutely refuses to settle down on the molded plastic package area behind the seats. (Maybe that should be in the plus column?) Oh yes, with a base price of $31,300 plus luxury tax, this relationship is unlikely to make it to any significant anniversary celebration. But it was an affair to remember.

Van of many uses

Another Mazda family member is more likely to please folks over 30 who have places to go and people and parcels to take with them. That vehicle is Mazda's MPV, the mini-van that has been the darling of several automotive enthusiasts' books for several seasons. I suppose that's why we snubbed it. But when we had the use of a top-of-the-line MPV earlier this month, we were just as impressed as all the guys at all those monthly publications that like to rate cars and trucks on a 10-best basis, or give whatever-of-the-year awards.

The MPV (multi-purpose vehicle) offers a higher-horsepower (155) 3.0-liter V-6 engine,

Autos

By Jenny King

power moonroof, headrests all-around and an eight-passenger seating option all new for 1992. The base engine is a 2.6-liter 121-hp four. The V-6 provides plenty of power for the 3,500-pound truck (add another 500 pounds for 4WD); the four-speed automatic transmission was quiet and smooth, but had a noticeable flat spot during acceleration on freeway entrance ramps in which nothing seemed to be happening.

The refined mini-van drives and handles more like a car than a truck, as it's officially designated. In fact, we asked Bob Seroka and Bill Ziegenbein for their opinions when we were out taking massive notes on their Memorial Day holiday auction a couple of weeks ago. Both men agreed it was a pleasure to drive, and seemed surprised at its quiet efficiency and creature comforts.

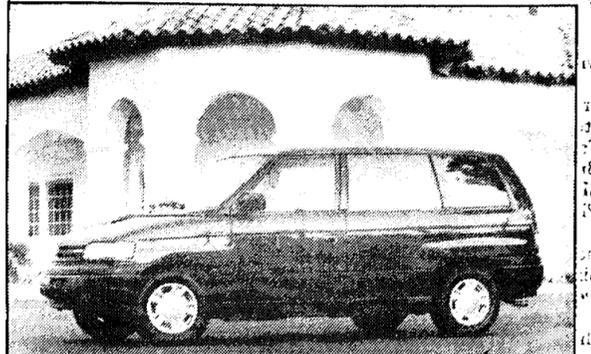

The van in question had seating for eight, though the third bench appeared to be very close to the second, with little or no legroom. We didn't test it, but we did play with the generous-size power moonroof which was positioned more for the pleasure and benefit of passengers on the middle bench seat.

Mazda chose a hinged rear-passenger door instead of the traditional and annoying sliding door. Nice. I once read that in order to maintain a certain rigidity or structural integrity, there is no rear-passenger door on most vans (Nissan's little Stanza wagon and its successor, Axxess, were exceptions). That lack of easy access to the back seat from the driver's side is a main pain in vans.

The MPV is available in 2WD and 4WD models. New alloy wheels are available on the former; the latter features its own alloy wheels as standard equipment, Mazda says. Headrests are standard on second and third passenger seats in 1992.

MPV prices begin at around $15,700 for the 2WD five-passenger model. They climb to Adequate interior space and amenities, plus car-like handling, make the Mazda MPV mini-van a most popular vehicle.

Emulating its larger 929 sibling, the Michigan-built Mazda 626 for 1993 has rounder lines. Two new engines are offered.

about $23,500 for the 4WD eight-passenger version.

Domestic bliss

The third-generation 626, with the MX-6 sport coupe, is the first model line built by an import auto maker expected to be classified domestic by the EPA, Mazda reports.

Introduced to the Detroit automotive press in April and already at dealerships, the mid-size Mazdas for 1993 are built at Flat Rock. Domestic content is said to exceed 75 percent.

The 626 LX and DX come equipped with an all-new 2.0-liter, multi-valve, 118-hp 4-cylinder engine and driver's side

'Wheels of Michigan' pumps pride in local auto industry

Thousands of Michigan residents attended the "Wheels of Michigan" car and truck exhibit May 1-3 and most said they would consider buying or leasing a car made in Michigan.

Forty-four car and truck models assembled in the state by Chrysler, Ford, General Motors and Mazda were on display at the event held in downtown Detroit.

A survey conducted during the exhibit indicated that 85 percent of those who attended would now consider buying or leasing a vehicle made in Michigan.

The results are based on an initial sampling of 500 of 4,900 total surveys returned. Of the 500, 431 indicated that they would consider a vehicle assembled in Michigan before they make their next new car purchase or leasing agreement.

Originally developed by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan to encourage its own employees to know and buy the cars and trucks designed by their friends and neighbors, the event gained momentum and grew into a statewide effort with support from community and industry leaders, local automakers, the United Auto Workers and the Michigan Manufacturers Association.

"More than 200 people were involved in organizing this successful event," said Richard Whitmer, president and chief executive officer of Blue Cross. "It was well worth the effort."

Six candidates compete for two school board seats

By Maureen McNulty
Staff Writer

Four challengers, each in their first attempt to hold public office, and two incumbents will face each other for two open seats on the Grosse Pointe Board of Education. The four-year positions are unpaid.

The professional backgrounds of the six candidates range from headmaster of a private school to a photojournalist to an assistant vice president of a mortgage firm.

The election will be Monday, June 8.

Grosse Pointe Park — Pierce Middle School;

Grosse Pointe City — Maire Elementary School;

Grosse Pointe Farms — Btownell Middle School;

Grosse Pointe Woods — Parcels Middle School;

Harper Woods — Poupard Elementary School.

Profiles of the candidates follow.

Bert Emanuele

A 20-year resident of the Farms, this is Bert Emanuele's first bid for public office.

Emanuele, a photojournalist for the Detroit Free Press, feels there needs to be an emphasis on global understanding in today's schools.

"I've been interested in education advances since my youth, when I became aware of the need for global understanding in our schools. This would help our students reach out to compete with European and Japanese methods of education in the areas of math, science and technology for a productive and competitive future," he said, adding that emphasis should be placed on foreign languages and cultures.

He was the founder and director of Global First, a college faculty studies program which sent 40 educators abroad to further their careers with new insight into cultures and teachings of a variety of foreign countries.

He believes the role of a school board member is to supervise the operations of the school system and to be interested in the feelings of parents and students.

Emanuele, who said he has not been able to attend any school board meetings, finds no fault with the current school board.

"Anyone can sit back and find fault, but I say, don't rock the boat if there's nothing wrong," he said.

But he also believes he has something to offer to Grosse Pointe schools.

"Your community is just as good as the quality of the youth you produce from the community," he said.

"I believe there should be more education in computer systems and that the high schools, middle schools and public libraries should be inter-linked."

Emanuele does not think the public library system should be separated from the schools.

"They should be expanded in a joint approach and should be considered a community service," he said.

Although he has no specific ideas about how he would handle the current budget crunch the schools face, he did say he would not be opposed to levying extra mills and raising taxes for the schools.

See our endorsements,

"The two extra mills ($3.6 million) is not a lot of money when you're talking about our students and our future. Sometimes you have to face the hard facts — we're all hesitant about having increased taxes, but the question is, where do you place your priorities?" he said.

Emanuele said although he favors special programs, such as those for elementary school children with very high IQs, they should be among the first to be cut if the district's budget is slashed by Lansing.

As a board member, he said, he would "tap into the human resources of our Grosse Pointe community."

"There are a lot of influential people and businesses here that have a lot of talent and knowledge and would give us their support. We should utilize that," he said.

Emanuele has a wife, Ruth, and a daughter, Phyllis. He is a veteran of the U.S. Army Signal Corps and has been a photojournalist with Knight newspapers for over 25 years. He is a member of the National Press Photographers Association, Detroit Press Club and Disabled American Veterans.

Frank P. Hogan

Since deciding to run for the school board, first-time challenger Frank Hogan, whose slogan is "Be a Hogan's hero," has done an about-face on what he thinks the board should accomplish.

Hogan, whose campaign literature stresses the importance of technological efficiency and computer literacy in schools and proposes a new, electronically sophisticated library system, now says those things are "unimportant."

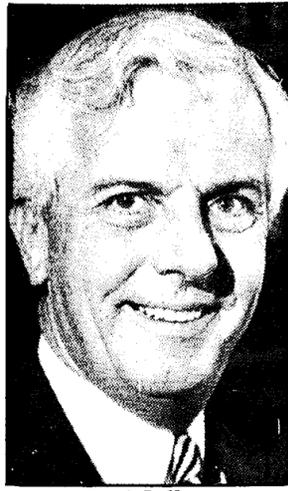

"I've sat in on several meetings and observed what's been going on and what I've learned this past few weeks is: Survival is what it's all about," he said.

"We, the Grosse Pointe schools as we know them today, are on the verge of bankruptcy. It's scary. The school board's total concentration has to be on the budget.

"As a communicator and a motivator, maybe I'm an alarmist who's saying the sky is falling, but it is, and we can't sit there in blissful ignorance.

"We're all alone now. School districts like Grosse Pointe, Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills are targeted by the state."

Retiring last December after 15 years with the marketing department of Delta Dental Plan of Michigan, Farms resident Hogan, 54, initially was interested in running for the school board to promote greater computer literacy in the Pointe's public schools.

Frank P. Hogan

"I'm a weekend artist and consider myself a creative person and I loathe slashing the arts. But that is one proposal," he said.

"But I'm very big on technology and computers. We have to wire the entire school system together. Someday, maybe instructional computers will replace teachers. Computers, to me, are of high importance. Electronic sophistication in our schools is what every kid needs to be computer literate."

Hogan believes that if the school board controls the purse strings of the library system, then they should be electronically wired into each other.

"That would be the most valuable thing the libraries would provide. If that's not going to happen, then maybe they should be separated," he said.

When asked what differences the role of a school board member from that of the superintendent and administration, Hogan said they should act as system of checks and balances on each other.

"It can't be a sweetheart arrangement," he said.

Hogan believes programs at serve only a segment of the schools' population, such as those for gifted elementary school students, might be one of the first areas to look at when making cuts.

"It might be considered an elitist program that has to go. It's the age-old struggle of equity vs. excellence," he said.

"We're so proud of Grosse Pointe schools, but we have to pay the piper. We have to make cuts at all levels."

He believes Pointers are not aware of the potentially massive financial problems in their schools and that he is the best person to communicate a sense of urgency.

"I think I heard only about 25 percent of Grosse Pointers have school-age children, so they're thinking 'this is no skin off my back.' The board needs a motivator and someone to market its interests. We're in a crucial period here and every citizen needs to be involved," he said.

"Youth and Grosse Pointe property values are linked and I think a lot of people moved here because of the school system."

Hogan, immediate past president of the Lakeshore Optimist Club of Grosse Pointe, has a wife, Mary Louise, of 31 years, and two sons and two daughters.

David Hunt

assessments has gone mainly toward teachers' salaries," he said.

Meanwhile other things in the school system, such as class size, have gone unattended.

"My sense is that, to some extent, my children will not enjoy the things my wife did or some of the things they had in the past," said Hunt.

"I think there are a lot of people out there without school-age children and, to some extent, the function of a board member should also be like a public relations campaign. We need to convince the people that this is a worthy school system."

Hunt, who lives in Grosse Pointe Park and is an assistant vice president for residential mortgage operations at National City Corp., a bank holding company, said he's attended some school board meetings and understands the budget problems.

While his own property taxes have more than doubled in the past five years, he said most people don't realize that much of that money really benefits the schools.

"Ninety-seven percent of the Grosse Pointe school budget comes from property taxes. The average size class in the school system is 21 kids," he said.

Which is why he became upset when his 5-year-old's kindergarten class at Defer had 28 kids and one teacher.

"Their class sizes were quite a bit larger than their anticipated, especially their kindergarten class. We (the parents) insisted they hire an aide, considering where we live and what we pay and the average class size in this system," he said.

As for special programs, such as those for gifted elementary school students, in the face of the current budget, he says it's "cost vs. benefit."

"My initial impression is that we need to focus on a certain ground level of education rather than the special few," Hunt said.

"Our primary goal should be K-12. Everything outside of that comes second."

Hunt favors levying the district's two available mills, but only if there is community support behind that decision.

He also favors expanding the main library and thinks the libraries should be independent of the school system.

"It's more a community problem. My personal opinion is that the main library is in bad need of updating but it's going to take some good public relations," he said.

Hunt believes computers are a priority, but only if they're used as a teaching aide that's more cost-effective than a teacher or teacher's aide.

"What I find in my own line of work is that I can teach someone to use our computers in hours. But what they don't know is how to construct a sentence. Reading, writing and mathematical skills are much more important. The kids need a good base," Hunt said.

Gloria Konsler

time. She says she spends anywhere from 20 to 50 hours a week on board activities, ranging from luncheons to budget meetings.

She believes the most important issue facing schools today is funding, or lack thereof. Should the Grosse Pointe school system find itself in financially dire straits, she said she's not sure what the school board should do.

"I really have a divided mind," she said. "My one mind says, the community has never given us credit for not levying the maximum amount of mills which are available to us. My other mind says I don't want to displace their trust. I think the solution to the problem is that we will have to levy a portion of those mills."

"We said we'd raise taxes by 9 percent — and that passed by only 307 votes. If we levied at a 15 percent tax rate, we've cut our necks. I don't think we can levy the full 2 mills. Maybe if taxes were raised from 9.1 to 9.6 percent, that would provide something additional to address some of the schools' needs."

Gloria Konsler

Gloria Konsler is seeking her second four-year term as a school board trustee.

Konsler, who describes the school board's function as one of writing policy and telling the superintendent what needs to be done in the district, says public relations and acting as community liaisons also are important.

"People might be afraid or put off going to the superintendent about a problem in the schools, but we're just citizens, so people come to us," she said.

Konsler, 47, of Grosse Pointe Woods, said because she does not work outside the home, she's able to devote more time to school board activities than some members who work full

David Hunt

In his first try for public office, David Hunt believes he would be a voice on the school board for parents with elementary and kindergarten-aged children.

At 29, he has three children, ages 5 to 1.

"My major reason for running is because I want to take an active role in our children's future," he said.

Hunt, whose wife, Kimberly, grew up in Grosse Pointe, said teachers have enjoyed a "pretty good" three-year contract, with steady raises of 6 and 7 percent.

"The average teacher's salary in this district is over $55,000. We pay very close to the top in terms of highest teachers' pay. But now we're looking at cuts. I think a very large portion of our past large

"As trustees of the school system, we have to do what's right."

Before levying extra mills, however, Kopsler said there is fat that could be trimmed first.

"When the three-year teacher contract was negotiated at a 7 percent pay increase back in 1989, that was the going rate. But today's climate is completely different. In light of today's economy, that's an astronomical amount," she said.

The three-year teachers' contract expires in June 1993. Kopsler said the board is expecting a lot of teachers to retire at that time.

There are also the salaries of teachers and aides who were hired when Grosse Pointe's high schools added a seventh hour to their day, she said.

"We also have to look at the seventh period that was added. That's a professional duty period for the teachers and a study hall for students," she said. "I'm not sure we're using that period as well as we could."

Kopsler said class size, which averages around 18 to 22 students, should be increased to 25 to 26 students if the budget crunch hits Grosse Pointe.

"Then we should combine four classes into three or so and save on a teacher. But I wouldn't want class size any bigger than that," she said.

Criticism that elementary school programs for gifted children (magnet classes) are elitist, she says, boils down to philosophy.

"First, it's very important we realize that the average IQ for a child in Grosse Pointe is near 120. It boils down to whether you want your classes to be homogenous or heterogenous. But I think it's important that children spend at least part, if not all, of their day together," she said.

She also said she would not be opposed to the libraries being separated from the school system but is waiting to hear the report of the Library Governance Commission, which is investigating a possible split, before making up her mind.

Kopsler, who lives with her husband of 24 years, Gary, and a daughter (their son is away at college), is the only board member certified by the Michigan Association of School Boards.

Walter Kosy

If elected to the school board, Walter Kosy intends to be a spokesman for the large minority of residents who voted against renewing the school millage early this year. His platform is familiar — "No new taxes."

"There seems to be a loss of confidence in this school board. In the last election, the millage renewal was turned down by the Woods and the Shores," Kosy said.

"We have to give some information to the people who voted against it. The school board should represent the whole community."

Kosy, 71, who worked for 35 years in corporate engineering and sales at Chrysler Corp. before becoming a self-employed consultant to small businesses for 14 years, has lived in Grosse Pointe Woods for 32 years.

A first-time challenger for

public office, Kosy said he was active in school activities in the past when his children were attending Grosse Pointe schools.

"The superintendent and the school board should be a cooperative body. The superintendent's job is to try to make the teachers, the school board and the public happy. But the school board is supposed to represent all citizens," he said.

For instance, Kosy said, senior citizens on fixed incomes are overlooked when decisions are made to increase taxes for schools.

Kosy declined to comment on where cuts should be made in the schools, or how extra funding could be found, should the state take an additional $2.3 million from the district's budget.

He is in favor of enlarging the libraries and separating them from the school system.

"The millage increases for the library have not been significant," he said.

Kosy, a member of the Grosse Pointe Senior Men's Club, lives with his wife of 49 years, Helen, and has a daughter and a son.

Frank J. Sladen Jr.

Elected to finish the last year of a four-year-term left vacant by Fred Adams, who died unexpectedly, incumbent Frank Sladen would like a chance to serve a full four-year-term on the board.

"I don't think anyone new coming in right now would be very effective and know what's going on, especially if they don't have children," Sladen said.

"The hardest part is fully understanding the total budget process. There are so many facts. It's a huge undertaking."

Sladen hopes the public does not view the board as simply a vehicle for carrying out administrative wishes.

"Sometimes I think, publicly, we do look like a rubber stamp for the superintendent. Our hope is always that we can have a consensus. But privately, it's not like that at all," he said.

Sladen, 71, a retired teacher at the Detroit University School and former headmaster of The Liggett School and Harrisburg Academy in Pennsylvania, believes the board needs to be creative and innovative in dealing with the budget cuts it's now facing.

The public has told us over and over again, they will probably vote 'no' to an increase in taxes. We need to be creative and step up to what we feel is right, he said.

Sladen cited the ice hockey program as an example of where extra funding might be found.

"Do we start charging the players to play it? It's an enormous amount of money. It's something we can look at," he said.

He also feels the 7 percent increase in teachers' salaries is not in tune with the current budget crunch.

"Who in the world is getting that kind of increase? I would like to see us holding the line. We asked the teachers' union if they can't help us get back on our feet by negotiating what is affordable and realistic," Sladen said.

"There are so many areas (that could be cut), it's hard to put your finger on any one. But one thing that gets knocked a great deal is staff development."

"My own improvement as a teacher came from staff development. We have good stuff in this community. There's no need to spend a lot of funds when we have more than enough competency here, and staff development helps with that."

Sladen supports programs like the elementary school magnet program and hopes that middle school teachers will adopt it.

"It's a totally different approach. It should have happened long ago," he said.

He said he also favors the partial separation of the library and school systems, leaving legal authority with the school system but establishing a library board of directors which would make all decisions and be in charge of operations. But he's waiting to read the Library Governance Commission's report on the possible separation before making up his mind, he said.

"To ease the financial burden of infrastructure repairs, such as painting or lawn care, Sladen thinks those who benefit most from the school system — the students — should help out."

"The student body should be responsible young people and help us in some of these areas as part of their civic duty. We should install community service hours in the schools," he said.

Requiring students to donate community service hours before graduation is a growing part of curriculums at many schools nationwide, he said.

He also believes there are a good number of senior citizens who could help the school system by volunteering.

"A lot of people out there still need to be wanted, needed and loved. And they have a lot of expertise," he said.

Sladen, who lives in Grosse Pointe Park with his wife, Betty, is a member of a number of organizations including the Friends of the Grosse Pointe Public Library; the board of directors of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial; past district governor of Rotary International; and the board of directors of the Wayne Oakland Library Federation.

Now is the time to protect your elm trees from the elm leaf beetle, said Al Mazur of the Grosse Pointe Park beautification commission.

Unlike Dutch elm disease, "the elm leaf beetle doesn't really hurt the tree itself, but it can defoliate the entire leaf canopy," he said.

The adult beetle is green, about one-eighth of an inch long, and it can fly, he said.

"Many residents have seen the beetles flying around inside their homes, and have called city hall to find out what they should do about them," Mazur said.

He advises people not to spray elm leaf beetles they see in their homes with insecticide, because the chemicals can be harmful to pets and children. Rather, he said, do what the Wayne County Extensive Service advises — try sweeping them up with a vacuum cleaner.

The elm leaf beetles have a one-year lifecycle, and within the next few weeks, a new crop of beetles will be hatching from their eggs, he said.

"Starting this week, people should have a professional spraying company come out and spray the leaves of their trees to kill the beetles before they emerge from their eggs," he said. "It isn't very expensive. It costs about $40 or $50."

It's best to leave that kind of aerial spraying to a professional, he said.

Two weeks after the aerial spraying is performed, the owner should apply Sevin or Malathion (two chemicals available at lawn and garden stores) to the trunk of the tree.

"After the beetles gorge themselves on leaves, they come down the tree trunk to pupate, or go into their cocoons," Mazur said. "If you apply Sevin or Malathion to the trunk of the tree, you'll kill them before they go into their cocoons."

The elm leaf beetle population has become progressively larger over the last few years because of the warmer winters southeastern Michigan has been experiencing, he said.

"More of them have been surviving over the winter, because the winters have been so warm," he said. "Also, a lot of them survive by hiding out in people's homes, in their attics or between the walls."

The insects prefer European and Oriental elms to American elm trees, he said.

The Park doesn't have a spraying program for either the elm leaf beetle or Dutch elm disease, Mazur said. However, for the past several summers, the city has employed a forester, Bob Tarabula, to inspect the city's trees.

Tarabula walks down each street in the city inspecting trees, and advises owners what should be done about trees that have been damaged by disease or insects. He also advises owners on how they can prevent such damage from occurring.

For more information about Grosse Pointe Park's forestry program, call city hall at 882-6200.

Caper was a no go

Someone tried, unsuccessfully, to steal a car from the 1300 block of Yorktown in Grosse Pointe Woods last week.

The owner said he knew something was wrong when he saw the driver's side door open on his car, which was parked in his driveway, at 6:30 a.m. Friday, May 22.

Both of the car's door locks had been punched and the left side of its steering column had been damaged, sometime after 9 p.m. Thursday, May 21.

campaign issue because she felt it was a matter for the courts to decide.

But the three other candidates wrote and distributed a letter to all Shores residents "to clear up any misconceptions that may have been circulating, and to establish the truth about the continued pollution of Lake St. Clair."

The letter attacked Galvin for not dealing with the sewer situation.

"Clearly, trustee Galvin knows she can connect with the existing sewer, as most of her neighbors have done at their own expense," the letter said. "As a result of her refusal to comply, the pollution of Lake St. Clair... continues."

The letter was dated May 14 and most residents received it May 16, three days before the election. It was signed by Mertz, Monahan and Willett.

Mertz said the letter was prompted by the dissatisfaction of the administration and the candidates that the issue had not been resolved.

"I'm pleased that the issue of the pollution of the lake has been explained," Mertz said. "I feel that the issue was being distorted by the polluters."

Mertz said he felt Galvin has a responsibility to the village and as a citizen to hook up her sewer and determine who would pay for it later.

Monahan said he didn't believe the sewer was going to be an issue, but after several residents asked him to explain what was happening, he felt the facts needed to be addressed.

He also said Galvin campaigned negatively, saying the board of trustees refused to look closely at the case. He said the board listened to her, and that her allegations needed to be addressed.

"I don't understand her position," Monahan said. "I assume there's a problem or the health department wouldn't have gotten involved."

Willett said she signed the letter because there were misconceptions that needed to be cleared up.

"All the letter did was clarify the position of the board," she said. "People have a right to know how Barbara Willett feels. If they were going to vote for me they couldn't see me waffling on an issue before I'm even on the board. I did a lot of research on this and thought the voters should know the truth as I see it."

All three said they wrote the letter after days of debate.

"In retrospect I wish it didn't happen," Monahan said. "But it did and I'm sad about it. Quite honestly, I wish Galvin were on the council."

Galvin and her campaign workers hand-delivered a rebuttal saying the letter was full of "gross misrepresentations, distortions and exaggerations." She said the letter was an insult to the intelligence of the Grosse Pointe Shores community and to her 12 years of service on the council.

Galvin denies all allegations of negative campaigning and said she was personally hurt by the letter.

"But I don't have any bitterness," Galvin said. "Considering that method of electioneering, I feel I suffered a noble defeat. If you can't find anything, you can always create an issue. I know the outcome is not indicative of my years of service. I have an impeccable record of service."

While she wished the board well, she also had a warning.

"They may have won this election," she said. "But voters won't soon forget that letter. It will come back to them."

Ambulance

currently pays $40 a year for advanced life support service.

At today's SEV, the resident would pay $24 more if a total of .8 mills were levied for the service.

It is unknown what that resident would pay in fiscal year 1993-94, because his SEV may be different, and because the city could levy an increase less than .3 mills if voters approve the ballot proposal.

Mayor Robert E. Novitke said it would have been simpler for the city to place the proposal on the Nov. 3 ballot, but the council said it didn't want to overburden voters, who, they felt, would have enough on their minds with the election of the president and other government officials.

"We also wanted to address this quickly, so that we'll know in advance if we'll have the necessary funding," he said.

If the proposal is not approved, the city will have to explore other options, he said, such as charging a user fee, or replacing the current Woods-operated system with a private ambulance contractor or an Echo system.

Until January, the Woods was the only one of the Grosse Pointes to have advanced emergency medical service, the highest form of emergency service available.

The other Pointes had basic life support ambulance service.

Basic life support ambulances are manned by emergency medical technicians (EMTs), who can perform CPR, first aid, and — if they are licensed to do so — operate an automatic defibrillator to stabilize a patient's heart rhythm.

Advanced emergency medical ambulances are manned by paramedics, who have a higher degree of training than EMTs and who can perform more services, such as administering intravenous drugs.

In January, Grosse Pointe Farms hired a private contractor, Ruehle's Ambulance, to provide the city with advanced emergency medical service.

Bon Secours Hospital has been trying for the past year to find a cost-effective way to provide Grosse Pointe Park, Grosse Pointe City and Grosse Pointe Shores with paramedics, said Dr. Ronald Laskowski, emergency room director at the hospital.

The hospital has given the three cities a proposal, and the cities are currently considering it, he said.

One of the ideas in the proposal is to provide either the Park (which is the City's contractor for ambulance service) or the Shores with an Echo unit.

Under an Echo system, the city would keep its own emergency medical technicians and basic life support ambulance at the municipal complex, and a paramedic would be on stand-by at a nearby location.

On certain calls, such as a possible heart attack, the EMTs would arrive at the scene in the city's basic ambulance, and the paramedic would meet them there in a utility vehicle.

The paramedic would transfer his equipment to the ambulance, and treat the victim in the back of the ambulance while an EMT drove the ambulance to the hospital. An EMT would drive the paramedic's utility vehicle back to its designated location.

The other idea contained in Bon Secours' proposal is to provide either the Park or the Shores with a second ambulance, manned by two paramedics.

William Glass

The following poem was written by William "Willie" Glass, a third-grader at University Liggett School, based on an experience when he and a friend discovered a dead Goshawk up the tree. His parents are Charles and Susan Glass of Grosse Pointe Farms.

William Glass

A Ceasing of Power

A twisted path among the trees,
The death of power between the leaves.
A day and downy feathers mixed,
A boy and bird seemed awfully mixed.

Had gone exploring with a companion,
It found feathered strength ahead in a canyon.
A courageous Goshawk had ceased to be,
A courageous, indeed — he faced it boldly.

Had encountered the Bald, the Peregrine,
But a live Goshawk? No, never I'd seen.

I'm sure its life was good and pure,
But we lay him under a pine,
So his rest was assured.

I was sad that I'd never seen him fly by the sun,
But I have yet to see his young.
And above the trees, they soar along...

3 among state's best singers

Three local students have been selected as among Michigan's best high school singers by the Michigan School Vocal Association.

They are Julie Hathaway, a senior at Grosse Pointe North; Jennifer Andary, a junior at Grosse Pointe South; and Heather King, a senior, also from South.

They performed in a recital of the top high school vocalists May 9 at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo.

Hathaway is a member of choral groups at North, where her director is Benjamin Walker. She studies voice with Maggie Rees-Andrews.

Andary and King are members of choral groups at South, where their director is Ellen Bowen, who is the voice teacher of Andary. King studies with Dorothy Cormie.

Andary King

The recital is held in conjunction with the Michigan Youth Arts Festival which celebrated its 30th anniversary this year. Each year the festival honors and features the state's most talented students in music, drama, art, dance and creative writing.

The first Michigan Youth Arts Festival was organized in 1963 by Dr. Joseph Maddy, founder of the National Music Camp, who also inaugurated Interlochen Arts Academy. Today the festival, with its eight-month adjudication process including 40,000 students, is considered one of America's unique multi-arts events.

Murg, Sweeney are first

Two seventh-grade students at the Grosse Pointe Academy received first place awards of excellence from the Detroit Free Press Writing Awards contest.

Stephanie Murg and Ryan Sweeney entered essays on personal thoughts and reflections. Murg's essay, "Dance for Us," told an inspiring story of her ballerina cousin who was diagnosed with cancer and later died. Sweeney's essay, "An Older Sister," takes a light-hearted look at having an older sister.

Another seventh-grader, Court Messacar, received a certificate of commendation for his essay, "When You Are the Oldest..." The Detroit Free Press opens this annual writing contest to students in the metropolitan Detroit area each year. More than 6,200 entries were submitted.

Garage sale

Third- and fourth-grade students in Cathleen Sullivan's class at Kerby School held a garage sale May 1, earmarking all profits to buy a tree for the school. From left are Blake Goebel, Chris Frenedo, Dan Carr, Ryan Cordier and Nick Schlaff.

We've Concluded that Words Alone
Can't Describe
The Grosse Pointe Academy.

Certain things are described more easily by pictures. Especially when it's a beautiful, historical landmark along Lake St. Clair.

Every classroom, from pre-Kindergarten through Grade 8, has a low pupil-to-teacher ratio. A Montessori program created especially for children aged 2½ - 5 capitalizes on each student's most important learning years.

Our teachers aren't satisfied to simply instruct a class — instead, we strive for each individual child's maximum academic and personal growth. As a result, our students develop a love of learning.

Although this child's artwork captures the Academy's spirit well, one thing works even better than pictures for fully appreciating a school like this one — a visit to The Grosse Pointe Academy. Call Molly McDermott at (313) 886-1221 today for more information or a personal tour.

practicing for more than 20 years with a special focus on women's health and the family, and who is a Detroit Free Press columnist, served on the panel.

The next forum will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, June 24 at the Radisson.

For information about the session, call Patton at 1-800-554-2705.

"If I'm not there, leave a message," Patton said. "There should be a live person at that number at all times, and I return all phone calls myself."

Patton was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., and grew up in Ohio, New York and New Jersey.

Her father was a public accountant with a trust and estate planning firm, and her mother stayed at home and raised Patton and her two sisters, Shirley and Janice.

Shirley married Arthur Duffy, who grew up on Barrington in Grosse Pointe Park, just down the block from where Patton now lives. The Duffys reside in Ohio.

Janice lived in Ohio as adult, and died at the age of 46.

Patton graduated from high school in Summit, N.J., at the age of 17, and was encouraged by her family to go to college.

Instead, she spent three years in a hospital nursing program in Orange, N.J.

"In our family," Patton said, "there were only girls, and each one of us was encouraged to go into teaching or some kind of service position, but my parents were not happy with my decision to be a nurse. They didn't want me living in a hospital setting for three years."

However, they grew to appreciate her calling, she said.

"For the last 20 years of their life, I took care of my parents," she said.

Her father, George Byron Pillsbury, died in 1987, and her mother, Lillian Johanna Franz Pillsbury, died last year.

After receiving her nursing diploma, Patton got married and went to the Ohio State School of Nursing for her bachelor's degree in nursing. She became a registered nurse in 1960, and went back to New Jersey to work. Her oldest child, Robert Gardner, was born that year. He now lives in Ohio with his wife, Laurie, and infant son, Trent Gardner.

On Nov. 22, 1963, the day President John F. Kennedy was slain, Patton and her husband got divorced.

"My husband was in the National Guard" she said, "and Kennedy kept moving us, because of the Cuban missile crisis and the riots that were happening across the country. We moved five times in the short time we were married. That was part of the problem. And, part of the problem was that we were too young when we got married."

In 1967, Patton and her son moved to Ohio, to be near her sisters. Her parents followed to be closer to their children and grandchildren.

Patton was one of 40 women nationwide to receive a U.S. Public Health Service Fellowship in 1968. As a fellow, she received a full-tuition scholarship and a cost-of-living stipend to study the hard core sciences, including chemistry.

Her family took turns watching Robert while Patton attended graduate classes in Ohio State's Department of Physiology.

"If I hadn't had a wonderfully supportive family, I don't think I would have had the educational opportunities that I did," Patton said. "Having them as a safety net helped me feel more secure."

In 1970, she and her second husband were married, and the following year, she received her master's degree in physiology.

In 1976, she received her doctorate while she still in the hospital after giving birth to her second child, Christina-Anne Pillsbury Patton, who is now an eighth-grader at the Grosse Pointe Academy.

"I was supposed to receive my doctorate before I gave birth to her, but she came two weeks early, so I received my doctorate while I was in the hospital," Patton said.

"I was the only woman who came home from the hospital with a new baby and a new degree."

Carol Pillsbury Patton does a lot of her work at home.

United Press International picked up on the story and people across the country read about Christina-Anne and her mother.

In 1974, Patton became a partner in a women's health clinic in Ohio that was owned by a group of lawyers.

The clinic specialized in helping women who didn't have financial resources obtain proper health care.

Working with those lawyers made her think she could better help women find their way through the legalities of the health care system if she were an attorney, Patton said.

But she let those thoughts simmer awhile before acting on them.

In August 1977, she moved from Ohio to Washtenaw County to work as an assistant professor in the University of Michigan School of Nursing.

Two years later, the federal government announced that it was going to stop funding graduate nursing programs. Most of her students were recipients of federal grants, and would have had to give up their studies without them.

"I went to my graduate class, and asked my students what they wanted to do," Patton said. "One of them, Lynn Rinke of Grosse Pointe, said, 'I want to go to Washington and ask them not to cut the program.'"

"Being a young and very naive professor, I organized a national movement to go to Washington. I only had five days in which to do it, but I did it. We had 125 to 130 people from 25 states meet at Catholic University in Washington."

The students stayed at Catholic University, and Patton stayed at the home of her second husband's aunt and uncle. With her in-laws' help, she came up with five questions to ask members of Congress.

The questions included things like, "Do you support nursing?" "Do you support nursing research," and "Would you support an amendment to keep the federal grant program for nursing studies at the graduate level?"

On March 17, 1979, Congress passed a bill that retained 95 percent of the government funding for graduate nursing programs, and Patton credits that to the lobbying efforts of her group.

Through that experience, Patton came to know Michigan Rep. Carl Purcell of Ann Arbor.

In 1980, Purcell asked Patton if she would host a tea at her Ann Arbor home for Barbara Bush, who was campaigning for her husband, George.

Patton had about 10 days to plan the event, and 40 to 50 people attended the tea.

"It was an opportunity for her to speak to a community that was notoriously Democrat," said Patton, who maintains that she is neither a Republican nor a Democrat, but a person who votes "on the issues."

"If I have to tell you of a woman I truly admire, it is Mrs. Bush," Patton said. "She is one of the most delightful women I have ever met."

"I remember that as we walked into my house, she asked if I liked my floor tile. She said that she was redoing a house, and was thinking about what kind of tile to get.

"I thought that was so nice of her. My tile wasn't anything special, but she seemed interested in it. I told her that I hadn't lived there very long, that the tile was put down by a former owner and that whatever tile she chose, it would probably be much nicer than mine."

Patton had been a medical consultant for prosecuting and defense attorneys since 1980. That and her lobbying experience in Washington renewed her desire to become an attorney, and she enrolled in the University of Detroit Law School in 1980.

"I was afraid to tell my family that I was going to school again, so I waited until I was about six months into it," she said.

She continued to teach at U-M while attending law school, and graduated from U-D in May 1984. She was admitted to the bar the following year, and had her own civil practice in Ann Arbor before moving to Grosse Pointe Park in 1988.

She joined a Detroit law firm and worked there for 16 months before leaving in October 1989 to resume her own practice again.

In January 1990, she started working with attorney Robert Plume to get some criminal trial experience. She still has her own practice in Grosse Pointe Park, and also works for a law firm in Washington, D.C.

Her practice is not limited to medical lawsuits. Her clients are involved in divorce, real estate, personal injury and other kinds of legal cases. Some of her clients are indigents.

What does she like best about law?

"Helping individuals learn how to integrate in a system," she said.

Patton and her second husband were divorced last year, and she said she doesn't have much free time.

In her elusive "downtime," she said she likes to read, travel, walk, sail, go to the theater and ballet, and most of all, spend time with her children and grandchild.

Farms seeks residents to adopt an island

Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

Ever wanted to own your own island? Well, Grosse Pointe Farms is giving you a chance.

OK, so it's a traffic island, but it will be a pretty one. The Farms is gearing up to begin work beautifying the islands on Lakeshore with new sod, lighting and flowers.

The $370,000 cost is being partially underwritten by the Farms, which will donate $70,000, and the Farms Foundation, which is chipping in $50,000. The foundation is hoping to find enough private donors to adopt islands and pick up the rest of the tab.

Farms residents who live on Lakeshore were asked first to adopt islands in front of their residences. Islands go for $1,500 up to $16,000. Plaques or stones will bear the names of the person or group which put up the funds to pay for that island.

Residents living on roads adjacent to Lakeshore are now being asked to adopt an island.

"Essentially, the idea is to pretty much follow what Grosse Pointe Shores did," said city manager Rich Solak. "The Shores has done a super job in beautifying their islands and we want to continue that so there will be a uniform look from Warner in Grosse Pointe Farms to the northernmost part of Grosse Pointe Shores."

The plans are to berm, irrigate, sod, and plant flowers on the islands, and to install ornamental streetlights which include street signs.

Solak said about half the 35 islands are spoken for, but adopters are still needed.

Work is expected to begin in early July. Completion is expected before the Farms celebrates its centennial in July 1993.

For more information on the adopt-an-island program, call the city at 885-6600.

Chester Petersen closes the door on a Woods fire truck and his 30-year career with the city.

Petersen trucks home

Chester E. Petersen ended his long career with Grosse Pointe Woods last week with a ride home in one of the city's firetrucks.

Petersen officially retired Dec. 31 after serving 30 years as the Woods' city administrator-clerk, but agreed to continue working as interim city administrator through the 1992-93 budget process.

The budget was adopted Monday, May 18, and Petersen's last day was Thursday, May 21.

Petersen drove his city-owned car to work that day, but didn't have a way home after he turned in the keys. The public safety department came to the rescue by offering him a ride home in the firetruck.

Public safety director Jack Patterson gave the vehicle a police escort, and Petersen was met at home by his wife, Roberta, and applauding neighbors.

The Woods is conducting a national search for a new city administrator. Until one is hired, former assistant city administrator Phil Belcher will oversee the day-to-day operations of the city. His new title is acting city administrator.

Pearsall to speak to cancer survivors

Dr. Paul Pearsall will speak on "Happiness, hardiness, healing and hope" Thursday, June 4, in Henry Ford Hospital's Buerki Auditorium in observance of National Cancer Survivor's Day.

Pearsall is a clinical psychologist, author and educator who has also had personal experience with cancer. His lecture is open free of charge, but pre-registration is suggested.

Cancer survivors and their families will be given first preference, but others are invited as space permits.

The hospital is located at the John Lodge Freeway and West Grand Boulevard. Call 876-7285 for information and to register.

House burgled while family's away

Grosse Pointe Shores detectives are investigating a burglary that occurred in a house in the 10 block of Fordcroft sometime between 12:15 a.m. and 12:05 p.m. Saturday, May 23.

The crime was discovered by a friend of the homeowners' who was feeding and watering the family's pets while they were away.

The friend said that when she stopped by the house about noon May 23, the front gates, which she had closed the night before, were open and the owners' dogs were running loose.

She caught the dogs and brought them into the house, and then noticed that the back door was open and that its screen had been broken.

Jewelry was scattered all over the house, and it looked like someone had searched through drawers in the bedroom and kitchen, according to police.

Some jewelry and the owners' car were stolen. The car was later recovered.

Flora's gone

Sometime between noon Friday, May 22, and 10 a.m. May 23, someone stole the flowers from a flower box in front of a store in the 20900 block of Mack in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Taken were several live geraniums and impatiens and their plastic containers, and several silk flowers.

Boat cleaning is a dirty job, but First Mate does it

By Donna Walker
Staff Writer

Many owners would rather spend their free time using their boats, than cleaning or repairing them.

And, some owners don't know how to properly clean or paint their boats.

To fill their needs, Eric Goosen and Chris Rupp of Grosse Pointe Woods founded First Mate Boat Cleaning and Detailing Co. three years ago.

Goosen cleans and paints boats of all sizes, and works at the customer's home or where the boat is docked.

He's only 21, but he knows a lot about boat maintenance. His family has had a boat for as long as he can remember, and he's been working with boats for five years.

He worked at the Jefferson Beach Marina gas dock when he was 16, and worked under the harbor master at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club for two years.

Goosen and Rupp graduated from Grosse Pointe North High School in 1988. Rupp is in Italy this year studying architecture, and Goosen will graduate in June from Michigan State University with a bachelor's degree in advertising.

In the future, Goosen said he'd like to work in boat sales or for a boat brokerage firm, and, if possible, maintain his boat cleaning business on the side.

One threat that boat owners face is zebra mussels.

The pesky mollusks have made Lake St. Clair crystal clear, but they have a nasty tendency of clinging to whatever is in the water. When they attach themselves to boats, they have to be scraped off, which is a difficult and time-consuming process.

Asked if the zebra mussel problem has improved his business, Goosen said, "Not really. They can't stick to the gelcoat, which is on the underside of most boats. Where they are usually a problem is in the engine, and we don't do engine work."

He said that the worst case of zebra mussels he's seen was on a "smaller boat that didn't have the fiberglass gelcoat and that had been left in the same place in the water for a long time."

To prevent mussels from becoming more attached to your boat than you are, the craft should be moved out of its dock on a regular basis, and the hull should be coated with a special paint, from the waterline down, Goosen said.

This will also prevent algae buildup and will improve the boat's fuel efficiency, he said.

The paint is available at marine stores and comes in many colors. The most common colors are blue and black. White bottom paint has been prohibited, Goosen said, because of its high lead content.

"A boat should be rubbed-out and waxed every season to prevent the oxidation of the fiberglass. A good wax will keep dirt and harmful elements off the boat's surface, and keep the boat looking new the entire summer," he said.

He offered these tips for do-it-yourselfers:

- Do not use car waxes on a boat's fiberglass gelcoat, because it can leave swirl marks or stains on the porous surface. Rather, use a white, non-abrasive rubbing compound and wax. These items are available at boating supply stores.

- A power wheel may be used to wax the hull of a boat, but the smaller areas around the deck should be waxed by hand.

- Although it's thicker than normal paint, bottom paint can be applied with a roller or brush. Masking tape shouldn't be used because it can damage the boat's surface; use a special striping tape when painting fiberglass.

- Over time, the wood trim on a boat can turn gray. Chemical products are available that can restore the wood's natural color. These products usually require a two-step process: the first chemical cleans the wood, and the second chemical reacts with the first to bleach the wood.

- New or just-cleaned wood should be treated with golden teak oil or sealer every year to keep it looking beautiful. Some boaters choose to varnish their wood trim instead. Wood only needs to be varnished every five years or so, but it is very tricky to apply, especially for first-timers.

- When cleaning the deck, use a long-handled brush and a mild detergent. Do not use a soft-scrub soap or other harsh detergent, because they can strip the wax from and scratch the surface of the deck. Also, do not use degreasing action soaps because they can strip wax, as wax is a petroleum-based product. Safe detergents are available at marine stores.

- Use a chamois cloth to dry the windows and deck of the boat, and clean the cabin as you would a regular room. Spiders can be controlled by cleaning the cabin frequently.

For more information about First Mate, call Goosen at 882-8453.

"Of course my life is hectic, but I wouldn't have it any other way!"

— Joyce Doyle, grandmother, community volunteer and Whittier Resident Services Coordinator

Joyce Doyle just doesn't know when to stop! For over 14 years, the residents at The Whittier have watched Joyce's family and her job responsibilities grow. When she isn't instructing a pool exercise class, or arranging a gala celebration, Joyce spends her days getting acquainted with each new resident. As if that weren't enough, Joyce has great interest in developing her "second career" — her grandchildren, all nine of them!

It is because of outstanding employees like Joyce that The Whittier continues its tradition of excellence. By providing the finest living accommodations, and a warm, friendly and caring environment, we remain the residence of choice to area mature adults.

The Whittier ... a riverfront residence with a difference. After almost 70 years, there is no stopping us now!

Grandmother earns a degree of satisfaction

Margie Reins Smith
Feature Editor

Two years ago Josephine Mashour of Grosse Pointe Woods had to drop one of the classes she was taking at Wayne State University because her daughter had a baby and she wanted to give the new mother a hand.

The class she dropped? History of the Family. "Ironic," Mashour said, "but I didn't want to get behind in the class."

Mashour put on a cap and gown May 5 and marched into Cobo Arena to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" to pick up the bachelor of arts degree in English honors English, summa cum laude that she started working toward 16 years ago. Three children's weddings, the births of eight grandchildren, and a variety of family events have interrupted her quest.

But Mashour persisted.

"I started college in 1976. My youngest child was 7," she said. "I usually took two classes at a time and I dropped out from time to time because my family kept me busy. I took time off for weddings and babies."

All her children and the older grandchildren attended her graduation ceremony. "I wanted the grandchildren there to see their grandmother. I wanted them to see I persisted. I wanted to be a role model," she said.

Mashour and her husband, Alexander, have been married 41 years and have lived in Grosse Pointe for 25 of those years. They have five children: Gina Walker of Bloomfield Hills; Mary Basse of Grosse Pointe Park; Christie Galli of Plymouth; and Susan and George Mashour, both of Grosse Pointe Park.

All the children graduated from Grosse Pointe North High School; all graduated from college; two have advanced degrees; one is preparing for medical school.

Mashour is embarrassed by all the attention she's getting. She doesn't think her accomplishment is all that spectacular. She agreed to be interviewed for her children's and grandchildren's sakes.

"Education is one of the most important things we can do for ourselves or for our children. It opens up new worlds," she said. "It's good for the children to know I went back to school. It's a good example for them."

Mashour was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa national honor society. "My 8-year-old granddaughter, Rachel, went to the ceremony," she said, "and now she wants to 'join' Phi Beta Kappa some day."

Mashour said she never considered going to college after she graduated from high school in St. Louis.

"It was a cultural thing. My mother emigrated from Syria. We (children) didn't feel we could go to college. We felt we should work and help with family responsibilities," she said.

"My mother was very supportive when I started going to Wayne, though. She was proud of me."

College educations were always part of the Mashours' plans for their children, however. "They all did it in four years, too," she said.

"My husband was my Rock of Gibraltar," she said. "Many times I was under pressure. He was always there to encourage me."

Volunteer work didn't take a back seat to classwork during Mashour's college career, either. She has always donated time to her church, Christ Church Detroit. "After my husband, children and friends, my church family was most important in providing the support I needed. They fostered my desire to improve and go on," she said.

Mashour was a member of an interfaith group in 1990 that went on a fact-finding mission to the Middle East, led by the Rt. Rev. R. Stewart Wood of the Episcopal diocese of Michigan. She has been active in her church's outreach programs, such as a soup kitchen in the inner city and a homeless shelter program, and she has worked with the church's youth groups and the altar guild.

She now works in the church ofice as a volunteer coordinator. She recently began volunteering at Harper Hospital, where she spends a half day each week visiting cancer patients. She also volunteered in the library at Grosse Pointe North while her children were students.

She's not job-hunting yet. "If something interesting — and part time — comes along, I would like to work," she said. "My husband is semi-retired now and we like to travel."

A master's degree is part of her plan. "I'll start in a year or so, when I have a goal in mind. I think I'd like to get a master's in history or I would like to teach adult education."

As for a Ph.D.: "I don't know. That's a dream."

Mashour encourages older adults to work for a college degree. "If I did it, anyone can do it. If you have that dream, keep it alive until you can see your way to accomplish it. It's not impossible."

Josephine Mashour, third from right, is surrounded by her children at Wayne State University's graduation ceremony May 5. Mashour earned a bachelor of arts degree in English, summa cum laude, while raising five children, doing volunteer work and taking time out to plan three weddings and help after the births of eight grandchildren. She was in Wayne's honors English program and was also inducted into Phi Beta Kappa.

Our Pre-Kindergarten is Individual

Individual needs form the basis for the pre-kindergarten programs at University Liggett School. Determining what is best for each child begins with the admissions process and remains a constant goal of our curriculum. We seek to discover a child's individual learning style through observation, assessment and parent communication. Our flexible daily planning offers challenges appropriate to a child's needs. Our program meets the diverse needs of 3-, 4- and even young 5-year-olds. For an individual appointment to learn more, call the Head of Pre-Kindergarten, Centie Strong, at 884-4444.

** Special Note**

Due to the tremendous success of our new, three-day option for 3-year-olds, we have decided to open another section for this limited offering. Please hurry, only six spaces remain available in this special program!

Garden party fundraiser will feature city's finest cuisine

The St. Vincent & Sarah Fisher Center will present "La Fete au Jardin," a benefit garden party featuring food from more than 50 of the city's finest restaurants, from 2 to 6 p.m. Sunday, June 7. The fundraiser will be held on the grounds of the center, 27400 W. 12 Mile in Farmington Hills, and proceeds will help abused and neglected children served by the organization.

Co-chairmen are Dick Pur-tan (of WKQI-FM) and his wife, Gail, and Bill Bonds (of Channel 7 news).

Guests will get to mingle in the garden under tents (let it rain!), sample wines and food from eateries like Excalibur, Ginopolis, The Lark and the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club, and listen to the music of local jazz flutist Alexander Zonjic.

The St. Vincent & Sarah Fisher Center provides care and treatment for more than 200 children and their families through its residential and community programs in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

Members of the honorary committee for the event include Grosse Pointers Beth and Charles Fisher, Alexander and Ellen Nick, Emmet and Fran Tracy, Dana Loeniskar and Marie Vanerian.

Tickets are $80. Call Artist Wells at 626-7527, ext. 224, for more information.

Goodwill benefit: The Junior Group Goodwill Industries will hold its ninth annual golf/tennis/bridge fundraiser Monday, June 8, at the Bloomfield Hills Country Club and the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club.

The 1992 Goodwill Classic will begin with a continental breakfast from 7 to 9:30 a.m. at the country club. Golfers pay $150 to play a four-woman team scramble with a shotgun start at 8 a.m. sharp at the country club.

Tennis players pay $50 to play doubles on the new clay courts of the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club.

Bridge players pay $50 to play as individuals, partners or foursomes starting at 10 a.m. at the country club.

Proceeds go to Goodwill Industries of Greater Detroit, an organization celebrating its 71st year giving "not charity but a chance" to physically and emotionally disabled men and women in the area.

Toni Malac of Grosse Pointe Woods is a member of the committee planning the fundraiser.

Honored: Grosse Pointer Edye Longyear was recently honored at the spring luncheon of the Women's Association of Boys and Girls Clubs of South-eastern Michigan. Longyear received the Matilda R. Wilson award of honor for outstanding community service. She is a past president of the women's association and is an active volunteer with a variety of organizations such as the Women's Auxiliary of the Salvation Army, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, PIME Missionaries and the Fashion Group.

Chairman of the luncheon was Jill Williams of Grosse Pointe.

Discovery Ball: The third annual Discovery Ball, a benefit for the Leukemia Society of America, will be held on Friday, June 5 at the Ritz-Carlton in Dearborn.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Wrigley and Mr. and Mrs. R. Alexander Wrigley are members of the honorary committee for the ball.

Tickets are $150.

Grosse Pointe United Church welcomes new assistant pastor

The Grosse Pointe United Church, 240 Chalfonte in Grosse Pointe Farms, has named the Rev. Karen Schulte as its new assistant pastor.

Schulte comes to the Grosse Pointe church with a bachelor of arts degree in music from the University of Wisconsin and a master's in divinity from the United Theological Seminary of the Twin Cities.

Schulte has served several churches in Wisconsin. She was co-pastor of the Congregational United Church of Christ in Armada with her husband, Joe, who continues as pastor there.

The family resides in Armada and includes a son, Gordon, and a daughter, Hilary. At Grosse Pointe United, Schulte will be responsible for pastoral care, general ministry, home and hospital visitation, preaching, youth programming, adult education and confirmation.

Senior minister at G.P. United is the Rev. Roy Hutchison.

Bridge

"HAVE A PLEASANT TRY AT PERFECTION" BRIDGE BY WOODY BOYD ♠♥♦♣

"Novices always practice the rules they've been taught and the pros know the exceptions."

Bridge Proverb

Howard Schennen once said, "A little knowledge is often dangerous and I believe that to be true, but show me the player who knows so much that he's always out of danger."

At the expert level, declarer play is almost flawless, but at local clubs where the untrained mingle at play with the average and above anything can happen and often does. So if you want to dramatically improve your declarer play, I urge you to first count your winners and losers when the dummy comes down. Then before you play to trick one, develop your playing plan. This doesn't mean that you can't alter your strategy if something unforeseen happens, but at least have a strategy. Those who do are usually winners and those that don't most often fail, especially with difficult hands.

Today's seemingly easy hand from the bridge and whist club in West Bloomfield caused an awful lot of anguish. In fact, not one of the sixteen declarers that played this one found a plus score and some were pretty fair players. Every south was in four hearts off one trick which caused a totally flat board. Imagine a top would have been ten tricks or a top would have been nine winners if you'd only played at the level of three, but it's impossible to stay out of the game.

There was some variance in the bidding with many souths not opening the hand. This is the way it was bid at the table I was kibitzing. (See diagram at right.)

South chose to open and then bid two clubs at her second turn. This certainly suggested a better hand, but some styles insist that once you've opened, even a bad hand, you must show your shape and so this one did in spite of the low, high card holding.

W led D. 8

The favorable lead was to declarer's advantage and guaranteed ten tricks, but this lovely lady never pressed the advantage by pitching three losing clubs on dummy's two high spades and diamond.

I can only surmise what happened at the other tables, but obviously the experience must have been somewhat similar to what I witnessed. Declarer must have concluded that a finesse of the heart queen could be guessed or dropped which held the hand to three club losers. This was an extremely inferior line of play. As stated after the diamond lead, declarer should play her spade king, diamond jack letting it ride and then the king, ace of trumps ending in dummy to make club discards on dummy's high cards. With a spade lead, you win with the king and play clubs to insure a ruff. An opening trump or club lead is to declarer's advantage yet you know the result. Sixteen similar atrocities on the same board really seems very difficult to believe, but that is what happened and most likely it was because no declarer counted and then developed a plan.

Center for Jung Studies to present workshop June 6

Did you know there are ways you can enhance your general well-being, moods and health through visualization and meditation?

The Center for Jung Studies of Detroit will present "The Inner Healer: Evoking the Archetypal Image," on Saturday, June 6 in Bloomfield Hills.

Beverly Daniel will present a workshop to guide you in discovering your own inner sources of healing and wholeness. It is designed for practicing professionals and for psychologically minded individuals interested in increasing their own self-understanding.

Daniel is co-director of the college preparation program at Mercy College of Detroit, a practicing psychotherapist and founder and president of the Lyda Center.

The workshop is $30 for members; $40 for non-members. It will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at 718 Browning Court in Bloomfield Hills. Bring a pillow, blanket, writing materials, and a sack lunch. Dress warmly and comfortably; some of the class may be held outside. An indoor pool will also be available.

The Center for Jung Studies of Detroit is a non-profit, tax-exempt educational organization established to disseminate the psychology of C.G. Jung. Call 881-7970 for more information.

Village Art Festival is June 6

The Grosse Pointe Artists Association and the Grosse Pointe Village Merchants Association will present the sixth annual Village Art Festival Saturday, June 6 from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. on the St. Clair Plaza (next to Jacobson's) in the Village.

The rain date is Sunday, June 7. More than 100 artists will display their works for sale, including watercolors, oils, pastels, weaving, metal sculpture and pottery. Music, food, demonstrations, and a prize drawing will be held. Everyone is welcome.

Outdoor grilling season arrives

By Ada Shlnabarger
MSU Food Marketing Specialist
Retail food stores geared up for the Memorial Day weekend by stockpiling charcoal and other outdoor grilling supplies.

In the meantime, be aware that Michigan's fresh asparagus harvest is in full swing and will probably peak by the end of May.

A late frost, combined with less acreage, will limit the harvest, so consumers who prefer Michigan's all-green, snapped asparagus will want to act quickly this year.

Shoppers will continue to see lower retail prices on good quality lettuce through the end of the month. Cucumbers, green peppers and tomatoes have declined from earlier highs. Celery prices should be in the 69-to-79-cent price range (per bunch) this month. Sweet corn prices will decline as supply sources move closer to home.

Citrus products remain plentiful and low-priced. The quality of grapefruit and most oranges will decline markedly after this month.

California strawberries continue in good supply. Prices have bottomed out for the season. Other California fruits coming this month include apricots, sweet cherries, grapes, peaches and nectarines.

Melons will be heavily featured by retailers this month. Look for lower prices on cantaloupe from Texas. The watermelon harvest has begun in Florida. Look for prices to moderate by mid-June as supplies increase.

To date, Michigan's crop development is slightly behind normal. The strawberry crop has been delayed, but it looks good. Unless a sustained heat wave occurs, look for Michigan's first strawberries after Memorial Day. Major varieties include Allstar, Earli Glow, Guardian and honeoye — all good for eating fresh and freezing.

Memorial Day officially kicked off the picnic season. Be alert for specials on disposable picnic supplies, catsup, mustard, olives, pickles, potato chips, hot dogs, buns, marshmallows and other traditional picnic items.

Symphony Women's Association presents annual scholarships

The Grosse Pointe Symphony Women's Association annually awards one-year scholarships to outstanding members of the Grosse Pointe Symphony Orchestra who wish to add to their knowledge and perfect their individual performances. The recipients are required to play with the orchestra for one year. Forty-four awards have been given since 1973.

Those receiving the awards this year are Sister Rose Mary Sam of Grosse Pointe Woods, who plays the viola and has played with the orchestra for about 20 years; Nancy Sutton of Grosse Pointe Woods, who plays the flute and piccolo and has been with the orchestra for seven years; and Jonathon B. Boyd of Farmington Hills, who is the principal bassoonist with the orchestra and has been a member for 10 years.

Dorothy Schmidt is chairman of the tribute fund committee. Other committee members are Dorothea Bush, Ruth Collins, Molly Flinterman and Helen Kipka.

12 local garden groups plant annual Trial Garden

The Grosse Pointe Garden Center sponsored its annual planting of the Trial Garden at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial on Monday, May 18.

This year, 12 Grosse Pointe garden clubs participated.

A panel of three judges bestows a first and second place award based on design, execution of theme, plant materials and overall care of the plot. The winning garden club chooses the theme for the following year. Last year's winner, Grosse Pointe Farm and Garden Club, has chosen "Pallette of Pastels" as this year's theme.

The Trial Garden at the War Memorial is sponsored primarily by the DePetris Fund in honor of Vincent DePetris. DePetris was responsible for the founding of the Grosse Pointe Garden Center and was a lifelong resident of Grosse Pointe. He was a landscape designer, florist, gardener and a world-famous hybridizer of chrysanthemums.

Windmill Pointe Garden Club

The annual meeting of the Windmill Pointe Garden Club will be Wednesday, June 3 at 11:30 a.m. at the home of Hanna Mammen. Dorothy Guy will serve as co-hostess.

On Friday, June 19 the club's summer party will be at the home of Roger and Joanna Garrett.

BirthCare™ at Bon Secours.

It's a child's game, but it's also good advice.

Bon Secours was the first hospital in the Detroit area to offer single-room maternity care. This alternative to traditional childbirth allows the mother-to-be to stay in the same warm, comfortable room throughout her delivery. We call it BirthCare, and when we first introduced it, other hospitals were still wheeling their laboring mothers from one room to another.

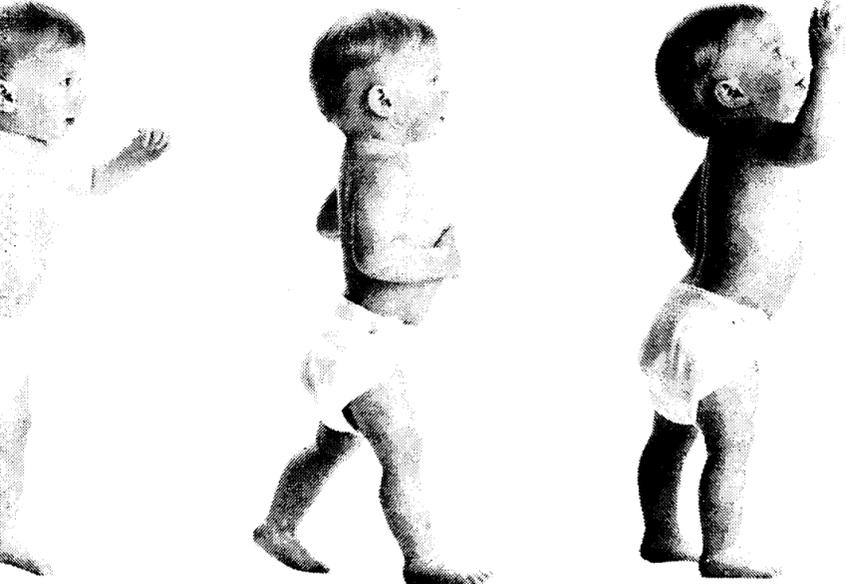

We thought it was a good idea to design a delivery around the mother, not a delivery around the hospital. That's why BirthCare has become so popular. And that's why a lot of women have chosen Bon Secours as their hospital. Maybe you should, too.

For more information about BirthCare, a tour of the unit, or referrals to qualified obstetricians who can answer questions about your pregnancy, call 779-7911.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal. You, who give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen.

Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish, after third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Thank you for a very special favor received. F.A.F.

Lawyer by day, actor by night Bellanca lives the life he enjoys

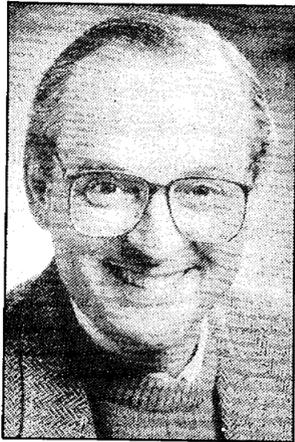

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

Anyone who lists "making the truth out of a lie" under "Hobbies" on his resume has to be an actor or a lawyer.

Grosse Pointe Park resident Peter Bellanca is both.

By day Bellanca is a semi-retired partner in the Harper Woods law firm Bellanca, Beatie and DeLisle. By night he acts.

Currently he can be seen on stage at the Attic Theatre playing a nasty lawyer in "Love and Anger." The show opened last week and runs through

Peter Bellanca

June 13. (See review below.)

Bellanca wasn't always an actor, but he thinks that if Holy Cross, where he earned his business degree, had had a performing arts department, he might have ended up on stage a long time ago.

Instead, he became a lawyer. He said he specialized in negotiation instead of litigation because he wasn't cut out for trial work. He didn't like the stress of standing in front of a jury.

"And that's ironic because now I go on stage, in front of an audience which is like a jury," he said. "The tools that a good litigator needs are exactly the tools a good actor needs."

He doesn't mean the "L.A. Law" histrionics. Rather, he says a lawyer has to make the jury believe the lawyer is feeling everything his client is, that they are, in fact, the same person. Just like an actor must make an audience believe it's watching a real person.

"If I can get the jury to believe me, that's what wins cases," he said. "If we can get the audience to believe that it's two real people talking, then we're going to be successful."

At 59, Bellanca is still an acting novice.

About 10 years ago a friend introduced him to The Players, one of the area's oldest theater groups. He did a little acting with the group and liked it.

Then, in an effort to improve his skills, he took a workshop with nationally known acting coach Michael Shurtleff.

"He changed my life," Bellanca said. He has since taken the workshop several times, always learning, he said. "An actor is like an athlete, he has to continue to work out if he's going to stay in good shape."

then Bellanca was diagnosed as having particularly virulent cancer and that changed his life.

"When I was lying in the bed with all the tubes and the pumps all around, I thought that if I got out I'd do what I wanted to," he said.

"Now I say acting is my profession and law is my hobby."

But he couldn't have done it without Janet, his wife of 33 years.

"She is my biggest supporter and has had to put up with a lot of personal sacrifices to allow me to pursue this," he said. "And she's also my best critic. She'll tell me when I stink, or when something just doesn't work and she's always right."

He's acted in paying jobs from Detroit to Ann Arbor, winning a best supporting actor award and two runner-up best actor awards from the Ann Arbor News.

He's even done three stints on NBC's "Unsolved Mysteries," once playing a kindly mayor, once as a judge who took a bribe, and another time as a judge who took a woman's children away on Christmas Eve.

He's playing another crooked lawyer in "Love and Anger," an excellent supporting part in a play he finds exciting.

"The play is fascinating for an actor to perform because of the range of emotions and different things required," he said. "It ranges from Noel Coward drawing room repartee to broad comedy to slapstick."

In addition to the great part, he likes the way the script deals with the ironies of life.

"You have a lawyer who wants to fight the bad guys and he intends to use illegal means to do it," Bellanca said. "And although the greedy people are bad, they are the ones who support the arts and the symphony and the theater, and without their money, what would these institutions do?"

For Bellanca, the beauty of George Walker's script is that none of these questions are answered. It's up to the audience to create their own answers.

Bellanca has already answered his own life's questions and is pleased with the results.

"Acting is the most personally satisfying experience I've had," he said. "It's like winning a big case every night. To me it's my cocktails, my golf, my candy and cake."

'Love and Anger' chronicles losing battle for just cause

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

Near the end of "Love and Anger," the Attic Theatre's season closer, an evil newspaper publisher and his nasty attorney tell each other how good and kind and necessary they are.

While they build each other's ego, four people who they have harmed, probably irreparably, lie in their wake and try to help each other. There's an attorney on a crusade to change society, a schizophrenic woman who thinks she's black (maybe), a harried secretary who longs for the easier days, and a young black woman whose husband has been unjustly imprisoned.

That's part of the point of George F. Walker's tragi-comedy which opened last week at the Attic. The rich get richer, the poor get more miserable and no matter what is done to stem the tide, it's no better than a finger in a dike.

"Love and Anger" is made up of equal parts of optimism and hopelessness. It's the kind of play where you root for the underdog, but wish the underdog were more in control. But then he wouldn't be an underdog, would he?

The story begins in a dingy basement on the wrong side of town. Petie Maxwell (Arthur J. Beer), an attorney, has set up his law offices there. Formerly a high-powered attorney in a huge law firm, Maxwell has recently suffered a stroke which changed his way of thinking. He no longer wants to be the one in control — now he wants to take them on. He is fighting to change society, to wrest it from the grip of the powerful and the heartless.

Even though tilting at windmills has fallen out of fashion, Maxwell sees that they need to be fought, by any means possible.

He's doing that by harassing John "Babe" Conner (David Regal), the publisher of a sleazy newspaper which panders to the lowest common denominator. Conner has hired Maxwell's former partner Sean Harris (Peter Bellanca) to stop the harassment.

A modern-day Don Quixote, Maxwell is also fighting the cause of Dave Jones, who is in prison unjustly, says his wife Gail (Tiikomarla Reese).

He is aided in his fight unwillingly by his secretary Eleanor (Mary F. Bremer) and willingly by her schizophrenic sister Sarah (Miriam Yezbick).

Walker's sometimes meandering and often hilarious script ranges from drawing room one-liners ("So, if I slip into a coma for a few hours, it's not such a bad thing," says Maxwell as he suffers through a stroke) to broad slapstick and the cast moves well in synch with it. The cast handles the physical comedy as capably as it does the emotions the script explores.

That's not just a tribute to the great ensemble acting, but also to the direction by Lavinia Moyer.

One hesitates to single out any of the actors because they form such a tight ensemble, but Yezbick, as the paranoid sister who blames all the world's faults on "beefy white guys" stands out for not overplaying a role that could easily have been overdone. And Regal, as the beefy white guy in this particular instance is also quite good.

At the end when the three women pick up Maxwell's torch — quite literally — it's a moment that pulls love and anger out of the audience. One feels love toward three people who are willing to fight for justice. But one also feels anger that the three aren't better equipped for a battle and a war they will undoubtedly lose.

"Love and Anger" plays at the Attic through June 13. Call 875-8285 for tickets.

'Lucia di Lammermoor' scheduled to close MOT season

One of the greatest opera masterpieces of all time, Gaetano Donizetti's tale of vengeance and violent love, "Lucia di Lammermoor," returns to the Masonic Temple Theatre stage as the finale to Michigan Opera Theatre's 1992 Spring Grand Opera Season.

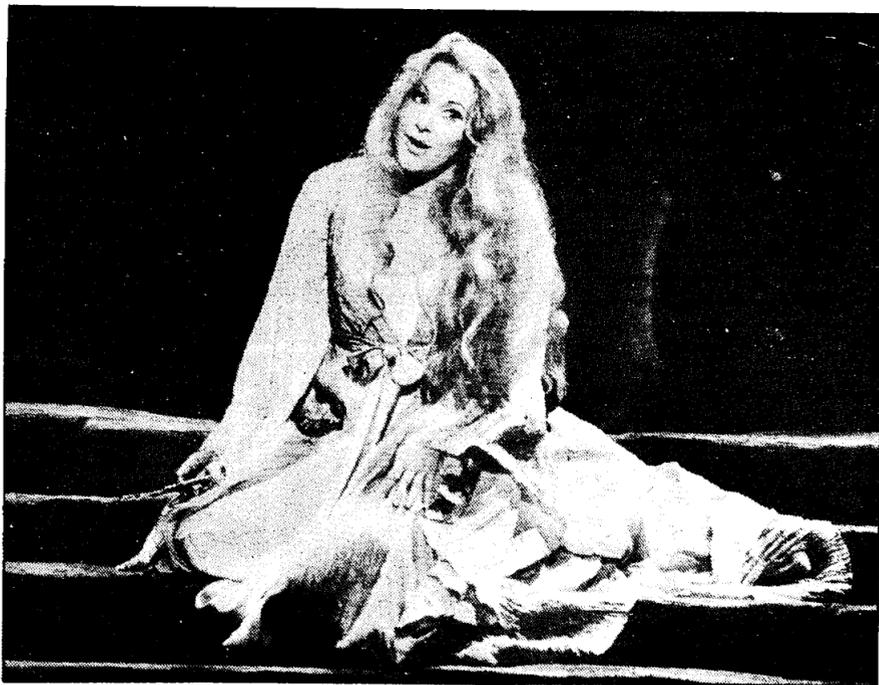

Sung in Italian with English surtitles, "Lucia" is scheduled for three performances only, Saturday, May 30, Wednesday, June 3 and Saturday, June 6, all at 8 p.m.

The production is co-sponsored by Royal Maccabees Life Insurance Company with additional support for the June 3 performance by DeRoy Testamentary Foundation.

Since its premiere in 1835, "Lucia di Lammermoor" has been a star vehicle of coloratura sopranos from Adelina Patti to Maria Callas to Joan Sutherland. For this production, MOT general director David DiChiera has engaged beautiful Metropolitan Opera artist Ruth Ann Swenson to sing the role of the tragic Lucia Ashton. Swenson made her stunning company debut as Juliette in Romeo et Juliette (1990). As her lover, Edgardo the master of Ravenswood, MOT welcomes back internationally renowned tenor Vinson Cole, who was first seen on the MOT stage as Faust in 1983.

Ruth Ann Swenson stars as the tragic "Lucia di Lammermoor" in the Michigan Opera Theatre's final production of the 1992 Spring Grand Opera season.

Baritone Mark Rucker, whose company debut as Rigoletto (1990) was highly praised, returns to sing Lord Enrico Ashton, Lucia's vengeful brother. Gregory Stapp, The Old Hebrew in MOT's current production of Samson and Delilah, is Raimondo the chaplain of Lammermoor; Robert Breault assumes the roles of Normanno, a follower of Lord Ashton, and Lord Arturo Bucklaw, Lucia's intended husband. MOT Vocal Intern Jeanne Wentworth is Alisa, Lucia's companion. The production is under the baton of New York maestro Arthur Fagen, with staging by young American director Timothy Ocel. MOT resident lighting designer Kendall Smith lights the Scottish settings of Metropolitan Opera designer Robert O'Hearn. MOT chorus master Suzanne Acton leads the chorus.

Set on the misty moors in late 16th century Scotland, "Lucia" is a Romeo and Juliet story of love destroyed by feuding clans, culminating in Lucia's tragic descent into madness and murder. Lucia is secretly betrothed to Edgardo of Ravenswood, mortal enemy of Lucia's brother Enrico. When Enrico discovers their betrothal, he forges a letter from Edgardo which seems to prove that he has betrayed Lucy. She is forced to marry the wealthy Arturo, but on their wedding night goes mad and murders her husband.

The opera is based on a novel by Sir Walter Scott, "The Bride of Lammermoor," which in turn is based on the true story of Janet Dalrymple. Without her parents' knowledge, Janet betrothed herself to Lord Ruthven. Her parents forced her to break the engagement and marry the wealthy David Dunbar. Scott recounts the events of the wedding day: "Of a sudden the most wild and piercing cries were heard from the nuptial chamber ... On opening the door, they found the bridegroom lying across the threshold, dreadfully wounded, and streaming with blood. The bride was found in the corner of the large chimney, having no covering save her shift, and that dabbled in gore. There she sat grinning at them ... absolutely insane." Janet died soon after.

famous tour de forces in the opera repertory.

"Lucia di Lammermoor" has not been seen in Detroit since the Met tour of 1983. MOT's previous productions of the bel canto masterpiece featured Mariella Devia and Pamela Myers in the title role (1983), and Catherine Malfitano in 1976.

Michigan Opera Theatre continues to offer its popular Wednesday dinner/lecture series at the Masonic Temple, 6 p.m. prior to the 8 p.m. curtain. Dr. Wallace Peace is the guest speaker, and Bowman's catering provides the menu chosen especially for the occasion. The dinner/lectures are priced at $20 a person; call the MOT marketing department at 874-7850 for reservations.

On Saturdays, MOT offers complimentary lectures in the fountain ballroom, 7 p.m. prior to the 8 p.m. curtain. Buffet dinners are also available; for reservations, call 398-1030.

Tickets to "Lucia" range in price from $14.50 - $63.50. Single tickets may be purchased by calling the MOT ticket services office at 874-SING Mondays through Fridays from 10 a.m.-6 p.m., Saturdays and Sundays from noon-5 p.m. Tickets are also available at all TicketMaster outlets or by calling 645-6666. Group ticket discounts are available for parties of ten or more by calling 874-7889. Students and seniors may purchase half-price tickets one hour before performances, subject to availability.

Drabble's 'Gates of Ivory' finally let the reader in

The Gates of Ivory
By Margaret Drabble
Viking, 464 pages, $22.

Margaret Drabble, one of England's best writers, has a new novel out. "The Gates of Ivory" is a sardonic look at London's middle-class intellectuals as well as the beleaguered people of Southeast Asia.

The double-threaded plot is a convoluted exercise in flashbacks, meditation, and what-ifs. It is long on rationalization but brief on action, and the huge cast of characters seems to be stymied, from time to time, as far as taking decisive steps toward their ultimate fates.

When they finally do lurch forward, the reader is often left to surmise, amid the narrative confusion, what has really happened.

To explain the selection of the title for her book, Drabble quotes a passage from Homer's "The Odyssey": "Dreams, said Penelope to the stranger, may puzzle and mislead. They do not always foretell the truth. They come to us through two gates: one is of horn, the other is of ivory. The dreams that come to us through the traitor ivory deceive us with false images of what will never come to pass: but those that appear to us through the polished horn speak plainly of what could be and will be."

The major characters are Dr. Elizabeth Headleand, a middle-aged London psychiatrist with a successful practice, and Stephen Cox, a nomadic writer, and long-time friend of Elizabeth's, who has unaccountably disappeared into the Vietnamese jungle. He was on his way to do research on the miasma that was post-war Southeast Asia, in spite of the continuing dangers of civil war and suspicious villagers.

To make a long story short, Elizabeth and other friends of Stephen become concerned about him when a mysterious package arrives by mail containing an odd assortment of baffling objects such as a disjointed boney finger, scattered bits of Stephen's writing, and undecipherable jottings — all of which, quite naturally, upset Elizabeth and their mutual friends.

Thus Elizabeth's reaction to this package: "She distrusted her own impatience. She had always wanted to make sense of things immediately. She had a tendency to leap to conclusions, to cut Gordian knots. She would never have made a scholar. How much she now regretted the impetuosity with which she had burned her mother's old papers! She had destroyed them through fear, and though curiosity had long since devoured fear, she could no longer recover them, for they had been consumed by the Ideal Boiler. She was not afraid of Stephen's papers (was she?); there could be nothing personal lurking there?"

She muses on in a strange manner: "At the very least we can get some bibliographical collection in America to make an offer. Isn't there a library in Austin, Texas, with a room full of Erle Stanley Gardner's hats? They'll like a finger bone." She continues to dither and worry about what to do. Should she herself fly to the forbidding East and try to find Stephen or at least learn what happened to him and why.

In the meantime, Stephen is in Thailand pondering his political philosophy: "The flaws in his logic are blindingly obvious. A child could spot them, let alone a democratically elected back bencher. Stephen Cox can spot them all too well himself. He lost faith in Paris in 1968. He has already written one highly successful, cynical novel about that loss of faith. Yet, as he rolls himself a little cigarette while waiting for his bowl of soup in the dark and arctic restaurant, and listens to the hum of the world's cooling machinery, he admits that he is still curious. Communism has failed and capitalism has been rendered obtuse. But had Pol Pot known that? Stephen has come here to try to find out. He is still curious."

Drabble speaks in a sarcastic vein while describing displaced Asians uncomfortably crammed in England's packed tenements: "One of the oddest things about the refugees is that they seem to want to go back to their own country. You would think they would have learned better by now, but no, many of them — most of them — continue to dream of getting out of Here and going back There. They dream of fishing boats and rice fields and lakes and blue skies. They dream of markets and temples and tea when they ought to be dreaming of television sets and washing machines and motorcars and frozen convenience shepherd's pie. Occasionally, on a street corner, unexpectedly assailed by a familiar odor of hot oil or pungent spice or seed wafting from a Chinese or Vietnamese restaurant, they are ready to die from nostalgia."

Upon reading Joseph Conrad's "Victory," Elizabeth complains that "she finds the chronology confusing. What is the point of all this skipping about from one time scale to another? Is it incompetence or ingenuity? And if it is ingenuity, what is Conrad being ingenious about. Liz likes to know where she is in a novel. She likes a novel that begins at the beginning and moves inexorably to its end. She does not like confusion for its own sake. There is plenty of confusion in real life, without inventing more of it."

I wish Drabble had followed her own words regarding this novel, which, incidentally, has a two-page bibliography of books pertaining to Southeast Asia.

New exhibit highlights decades of discovery

A summary of the Mackinac State Historic Parks archeology program might read as follows: Thirty-three years of continuous research; two million artifacts unearthed, analyzed and conserved; an 18th century fur trading village carefully reconstructed; site of the longest ongoing archeological dig in the nation.

These years of discovery are the focus of a unique underground exhibit premiering June 15, at Colonial Michilimackinac in Mackinac City. "Treasures From the Sand: Archeology at Michilimackinac" will reveal how three decades of archeological research have illuminated a colorful period of Michigan history. It promises mystery and intrigue to summer travelers exploring the Straits of Mackinac region.

"Since our archeology program began in 1959, we've accumulated vast quantities of information," explains Phil Porter, curator of interpretation at Mackinac State Historic Parks. "We want visitors to learn how this extensive research contributes to our understanding of Michilimackinac history and to what visitors see throughout our historic sites

The 2,000-square-foot underground tunnel is the first of three "walk-through" museums planned by Mackinac State Historic Parks for this decade. A major emphasis will be the "original" nature of the exhibits. Visitors will see hundreds of artifacts actually recovered from surrounding soil, along with original documents more than 200 years old. The exhibit will be fully climate-controlled to protect fragile relics.

Visitors will enter "Treasures From the Sand" through the reconstructed British Trader's House in the northwest corner of Colonial Michilimackinac. A stairway leads to a display area focusing on the archaeological process. The centerpiece is a re-created archaeological dig explaining how artifacts are unearthed and recorded by field archaeologists. Onlookers can follow an artifact through the entire process — from initial discovery to final preservation.

As visitors go further into the tunnel, a series of exhibits — "The Five Forts of Michilimackinac" — will examine how and why the fur trading post changed through the 18th century, from the French reign in 1715 to eventual abandonment by the British in the 1780s.

One of several additional topics is "A World of Ceramics." Shards of stoneware, porcelain and other ceramic wares provide clues to 18th century trade patterns at Michilimackinac. Many of these fragile remnants originated in England, France, Germany and China.

Porter believes visitors will gain a greater appreciation for archeology through "Treasures From the Sand."

"The word 'treasures' refers not only to the specific artifacts we unearth, but also to the valuable information that archeological research provides," Porter said. "Treasures From the Sand" should instill in our visitors an appreciation for archeology as a critical link to the past."

The Mackinac State Historic Parks archeology program began in 1959 and remains active today. Graduate and post-graduate students from major universities gather each year to study under professional archeologists. Colonial Michilimackinac, as well as Mill Creek historic park, are among only a few sites nationwide where the general public can regularly watch field archeologists at work. As they carefully sift the earth, a full-time interpreter describes the intricate process.

Colonial Michilimackinac, along with Mackinac Island State Park, Fort Mackinac and Mill Creek, are the Mackinac State Historic Parks.

Mackinac State Historic Parks was established in 1895 to preserve the cultural and natural resources of the Mackinac area. The four sites welcome over 1.5 million visitors annually.

Outdoor art is on display at Junior League Show House

In conjunction with the Junior League of Detroit's 1992 Designers' Show House, Detroit Focus Gallery is proud to present "Sculpture in the Garden," an exhibition of art in an outdoor setting.

For this project Mary M. Denison, director of the gallery, invited 11 of Michigan's most respected artists to enhance the Show House garden with works of art.

The exhibition encompasses a variety of media, including ceramic, stone, metal and wood, and a range of artistic styles. Standard Federal Bank will underwrite "Sculpture in the Garden."

The Junior League of Detroit's Designers' Show House is located at 243 Lakeland Drive, east of Jefferson and north of Cadieux in Grosse Pointe. It runs through May 31. Call the Junior League of Detroit at 881-0040 for hours.

Admission is $10 at the door. Proceeds will benefit several Junior League of Detroit programs.

Located downtown, Detroit Focus Gallery is a nonprofit artists' alternative space which provides a forum for diverse cultural viewpoints through exhibitions, publications and other programs.

Detroit Festival calls for artists

Artists of wearables are invited to apply to the Detroit Festival of the Arts for inclusion in a lunchtime runway show Friday, Sept. 18, from noon to 2 p.m. in Detroit's University Cultural Center.

All entries must be original and one-of-a-kind garments or accessories. Mass produced garments will not be accepted. Artists should contact the University Cultural Center Association at 577-5088 before June 15.

In addition, artists and craftspeople are encouraged to apply for booth space at the festival which runs Sept. 18-20. Deadline for application is June 26.

More than 200,000 people attend the festival annually, making it one of the largest in the region. The celebration on the streets is enhanced by complementary programming in the Cultural Center institutions, including Wayne State University, Center for Creative Studies, the Detroit Institute of Arts, Detroit Historical Museum, Detroit Public Library, International Institute, Museum of African American History, the Scarab Club and Your Heritage House.

The Detroit Festival of the Arts is presented by The Detroit News, Health Alliance Plan, Wayne State University and WJBK-TV2 and is produced by the University Cultural Center Association.

Altman proves he's at the top of his game with 'The Player'

Marian Trainor
Social Writer
"The Player," a brilliant satire that takes the viewer inside Hollywood and its happenings, already being heralded as an scar contender.

And that means director Robert Altman has come into his own again.

man magic dimmed. Beginning with "Buffalo Bill" in 1976, movie after movie flopped. Even the $22 million "Popeye" failed to please.

Now at age 67 he has hit his mark again and is on a roll. "Talk to me about my next movie," he has quipped.

It will be hard to surpass the brilliance of "The Player," which Altman describes as an "inside Hollywood romantic comedy suspense chiller with a heart."

It is all that and more. It is a morality tale with the message that producers have lost touch with reality and can no longer distinguish it from the movies. Story lines are reinvented. Executives are so pressed for time that they prefer their stories to be presented orally in a synopsis.

The first few minutes of the film we see Griffin Mill (Tim

Robbins, head of production in a large studio, listening to a series of proposals by real-life screenwriters pushing lack-luster movie ideas.

Among them is Buck Henry proposing a ridiculous sequel to "The Graduate." Other past successes are drawn on with such recommendations as "Out of Africa Meets Pretty Woman" and "Ghosts Meets Manchurian Candidate."

And then there's Mill's nemesis Larry Levy (Peter Gallagher) who suggests at an executive meeting that all writers be dispensed with. It is an interesting sequence in which Levy has each one read a headline from a newspaper. Off the top of his head with no hesitation he proposes a synopsis for a script. In effect, he trivalizes the whole process of story selection.

Mill worries that Levy has been chosen to replace him. He is worried also by postcard threats he receives from an irate writer whom he brushed off by promising to get back to him. Apprehensive that he will be laughed at if he reports those fears, he decides to track down the writer himself.

He identifies his quarry by a process of elimination and decides to pay him a visit. When the writer turns up dead following the meeting with Mill, he becomes a suspect.

Since Mill was the last person to see the writer alive he is visited by the police who are investigating the murder. One of them, Detective Avery (Whoppi Goldberg) laughs at everything Griffin says as she sits at her desk twirling a tampon. The other is an odd-looking character. Detective Longpre, played by rock star Lyle Lovett.

It's back to business for Mill and he turns his attention to a script by Andy Civella (Dean Stockwell) and Tom Oakley (Richard Grant).

It looks like a winner, which makes his co-workers wonder why he hands it over to Levy. It is not an altruistic gesture. While it is a good script, it has in it elements that will not make it a popular one. In other words, he is setting Levy up.

A major attraction of "The Player" is the 67 extras — all of them well-known movie stars playing themselves.

Watch for such luminaries as Julie Roberts, Jack Lemmon, Harry Belafonte, Angelica Huston, Nick Nolte, Bruce Willis, Sydney Pollack, Cher, Burt Reynolds, Lily Tomlin and others on a screen crowded with faces familiar to movie fans. Not only are they there but Altman gets them to dig deep into their own personalities.

At the heart of the fun is Mill, who can no longer distinguish reality from the movies. He succeeds because he knows what matters — style, cool aggression — and what doesn't matter — good movies. In a low-key performance, Robbins rates a star for his role as the stressed-out, amoral Mill. Greta Scacchi gives an off-beat performance as June, a painter from Iceland with whom Mill falls in love. Interestingly enough, she is someone outside the movie industry.

Because of its inside view of Hollywood, its clever inclusion of star cameos, but most of all because of Altman's successful presentation of a movie as movie, it is meant to be, "The Player" is a winner on all counts.

'Alien³' is more of the same

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

Just when you thought it was safe to launch yourself adrift in space again.

If "Alien" was a schlock horror film raised a notch by setting it in space, and its sequel she's appealing), 25 prisoners who haven't seen a woman in decades, and one alien. Then stir and you have the perfect summer movie: There's not a lot to think about; there's action, adventure and suspense; there's a few good scares; and it's two hours in an air-conditioned place.

Ripley is the only person who survives the crash landing onto a planet which serves as a penal colony. The child from the second movie doesn't make it nor does Rogers, her droid friend.

But there is also an alien on board who finds the empty prison is a perfect hunting ground and the convicts perfect prey.

Ripley befriends a strange doctor played by Charles Dance who helps in her mission to convince the warden that an alien is among them. "Alien³" offers more humor than the other two, some of it gruesome. As the warden denies that there is any sort of strange being on the planet that is eating his prisoners, the alien falls from the ceiling and eats the warden.

That convinces the guards and inmates, and Ripley is put in charge. The problem? It's a prison, weapons aren't allowed. Nerve, ingenuity — and, oh yeah, the long-forgotten foundry in the back of the prison colony — are her only tools.

The set is an interesting mixture of tunnels and air ducts and those cool little doors that open and close with a "whish" the way they did on the old "Star Trek."

The finale is a confusing, but effective, chase through those air tunnels to the foundry, seen from the alien's viewpoint.

There's not much else to say about the movie; it's much the same as the two previous outings. There's blood, there's gore, one person even lives up to the title and gets cubed.

Director David Fincher, who cut his teeth on videos for Madonna, uses his camera to its fullest, creating suspense even in the boring exposition scenes.

But there's no outright terror as there was in the previous two — maybe it's gotten old. And there's no more character development from Weaver, who earned an Oscar nomination for her performance in "Aliens." And aside from Dance and one other, none of the convicts stand out so it's hard to feel for any of them. One of them shows up late in the movie looking suspiciously like someone who had already died.

But as a whole, for escapist entertainment, you can't do much better than this.

"Aliens" worked because of character development not normally found in slasher films. "Alien³" is a combination of both that doesn't pay off on either score.

But it's still a lot of fun. Sigourney Weaver stars once again. Her Lt. Ripley finds that even after escaping a vicious alien twice before, she must face it again, this time in a lice-infested all-male penal colony with only the aid of a bunch of rapists, murders and torturers who've found God and don't care to help anyone.

But combine one woman of Weaver's uncommon looks (even shorn to eliminate lice,

Henry Ford presents comedy 'The Loud Red Patrick'

An Irish-American widower faces the challenge of raising four daughters with comedic results in "The Loud Red Patrick," playing at Henry Ford Museum Theatre May 29-June 28.

Based on a book by Ruth McKenney (who also created the classic "My Sister Eileen"), the play takes the audience back to 1912 and the home of an Irish-American widower named Patrick Flannigan.

Flannigan is a modern man who believes in democracy and allows his children, aged 7 through 17, to vote on family issues. His principles are tested when his offspring out-vote him on the issue of eldest daughter Maggie's choice between marriage and college. Comic turmoil erupts when Dad tries to renege on the deal, and the daughters stage a revolt.

To make matters worse, Flannigan faces an additional challenge in the form of a Mr. Finnegan, an old acquaintance of dubious repute, who drops by for a visit — and moves in to stay.

Performances of "The Loud Red Patrick" are Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. May 29-June 27 plus Sunday matinees at 4:30 p.m. on June 7 and 28.

Tickets are $9 for reserved seats, available daily at the information desk in the entrance to Greenfield Village; at the Museum Theater box office one hour before each performance, or by calling the reservations center at 271-1620. A combination dinner and theater package at $27 is also available.

Henry Ford Museum Theatre presents plays that reflect history, customs and performing arts in America. Plays written more than 30 years ago represent a variety of time periods, styles and subjects.

Joffrey Ballet dances to DSO June 25-28

The Joffrey Ballet, one of the world's most esteemed dance companies, comes to Detroit in a week-long residency to perform six shows with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra at the Fox Theatre June 25-28.

The special production with the DSO takes place in conjunction with Olympia Arenas, Inc., and Brass Ring Productions.

The Joffrey Ballet will perform three programs of mixed repertoire from its extensive selection of more than 200 ballets, with choreographies by George Balanchine, Paul Taylor, Laura Dean and Gerald Arpino, among others. Renowned for its athletic prowess, refined and sophisticated movements, as well as its sheer beauty, The Joffrey Ballet is like no other ballet company in America. Founded in 1956 by Robert Joffrey and Gerald Arpino, The Joffrey is now in its 35th year. It is a national touring company with home-bases in New York and Los Angeles, and has performed in over 400 American cities. The 1992 tour includes stops in Minneapolis, St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, and San Francisco.

Mark Volpe, executive director of Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall, said, "As part of the revitalization of our summer activities, we are proud to sponsor the return of The Joffrey Ballet to Detroit. Our collaboration with Olympia Arenas, Inc. and Brass Ring with 'The Nutcracker Ballet' at the Fox Theatre and our new relationship with them at the Meadow Brook Music Festival, have helped to make this exciting event at the Fox Theatre possible."

Piano students to give recital

The piano students of Rose Bachmann-Bonder will perform in a recital at 7:30 p.m. Friday, June 5, at the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lake-

Shakespeare in the park begins

Southeastern Michigan will experience kismet in 1992 as Summer Shakespeare presents its fourth season of outdoor theater with performances of Shakespeare's, "As You Like It" and the musical, "Kismet."

The program got a boost when Summer Shakespeare's director, Alice Morin, was honored as Volunteer of the Year by the Macomb Arts Council in February. As founder and director of Richmond Community Theatre and its outreach program, Summer Shakespeare, Morin brings 30 years' experience and working theatrical knowledge to the growing project.

The shows are performed in tent at Stony Creek Metro-park's Eastwood Beach. Performances begin in June and run through mid-August. Open auditions are scheduled for early June. Call the Richmond Community Theatre for further information at 313-727-9518.

TO AVOID BURNING YOUR MITS OFF... DON'T TOUCH HOT ROCK!!!

$5.00 OFF HOT ROCK COMBINATION - REGULARLY $15.95. ONLY $10.95 WITH COUPON!!!

No, we're not talking about heavy metal music, but quite possibly one of the most "IN" dishes that any Detroit area restaurant has ever come up with!

The centerpiece of a "Hot Rock" Dinner is literally a very hot rock. A flat chunk of granite heated to about 600 degrees is brought directly to the table along with your chosen selection of the finest red meats, chicken, shrimp, fish, vegetables - whatever - and then you literally cook your meal to order right in front of yourself! In other words, "Rock" it and you're ready to roll!

That's one sure way to keep the fun of summer cooking all year long!

Meadow Brook Hall hosts gardening fest

By Tracy Wilson

After months of plotting, directors of the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association (MDLA) and Meadow Brook Hall say the seed of their partnership has germinated into the Meadow Brook Hall Landscape and Garden Show.

"There was no such thing as an outdoor garden show in Michigan," said Diane Andrews, executive director of the MDLA. "We are planning for 15,000, but with all of the publicity we've had combined with the right weather, there could be many more."

Completed in 1929 for an exorbitant $4 million, Meadow Brook Hall is a 100-room Tudor mansion in Rochester which once belonged to Matilda Dodge. Oakland University inherited the property, which is now a self-sustaining enterprise.

"They have tours and rent out banquet facilities," said Andrews. "It's just a fabulous place. The money it takes to maintain the place comes strictly from the renting of the facilities for different things."

The show will be on the grounds of the hall, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday, June 6 and from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, June 7. Admission is $6 for adults, $3 for children from 6-12 and kids under 6 are admitted free.

There will be a consumer trade show, demonstration gardens, workshops and speakers, including PBS' Victory Garden host, Jim Wilson.

Speakers' topics range from antique gardens to urban pest management. There will also be demonstrations of deck construction, outdoor lighting, walks and patios, tree pruning and underground sprinkler systems.

The show also heralds the restoration of gardens on the Meadow Brook grounds, as well as construction of some new ones.

"There were old (landscaping) plans and different things in the archives that had never been done," said Andrews. "So they thought it would be nice to get someone in-involved in redoing the grounds, and called the association to get people to do free work."

Eight of these gardens will be highlighted, from the Woodland Retreat which features ornamental plants that were used at the turn of the century, to the Breakfast Garden, with a wisteria-covered arbor and antique statuary.

Most of the gardens have taken from two to five days to plant, and some of the more complicated ones are still under construction.

Putting in a garden costs anywhere from $5,000 to $15,000.

Find out how an ARM can be the right mortgage for you.

An Adjustable Rate Mortgage from Republic Bank can be the answer for many home buyers. With an ARM, you can:

- Qualify with a lower income
- Buy "more house" thanks to the lower initial interest rate
- Save money in the short and long run
- Convert to a fixed-rate mortgage at a later date
- Benefit from easier approval, faster closing

- For a free brochure on ARMS call Cheryl Gauss or John Vitelli

Gardens

"There were 48 members who really had a keen interest in getting involved," said Andrews.

MDLA membership has mushroomed in the last two years, growing from 190 to 295 members. Members are drawn from the 4,000 "green industry" companies in the metro Detroit area — landscape contractors, tree service companies and companies which supply landscapers.

"Our association's goal is to educate the green industry companies, especially on new laws or on ones that are changing," said Andrews.

Good fertilizer helps keep lawns made in the shade

Has your lawn looked a little ragged lately? Then give it new life by planting the seeds of success — shade-tolerant grasses. A shaded lawn competes with trees and shrubs for available sunlight, water and nutrients, so it's important to use a seed that is up to the challenge.

Fine-leaved fescues and rough bluegrasses are the perfect example. Developed specifically to grow well in the shade, these varieties are quick to establish. Select fine-leaved fescues for dry, shaded areas and rough bluegrasses for damp shade. Other grass types are prone to diseases and will lack the growing strength necessary to survive in these areas.

Having a great lawn is not as simple as just planting the right grass seed, however. A shade-tolerant landscape needs special care and maintenance to ensure that grass plants stay strong and healthy.

Here are five easy ways homeowners can maintain the healthy good looks of a "made in the shade" lawn, according to the experts at Lofts Seed:

- Occasionally prune or thin trees and shrubs to increase the amount of air and light the lawn receives. Remove only the tree's inside or low-hanging branches. To protect against unnecessary tree damage, visit your local lawn and garden center and ask about appropriate pruning tools and procedures needed for the job.

- Replace large trees and shrubs with dwarf types, which will reduce competition with grass for sunlight and space. This may seem like an expensive option, but the long-term benefits will quickly outweigh the short-term costs in labor and money.

- Limit the amount of foot traffic on shaded lawns, which are generally thinner and more easily damaged than grass grown in full sun. Heavy wear also increases soil compaction, especially when the soil is wet, making it difficult for roots to grow in their search for food, water and air.

- Mow shaded lawns 3 to 4 inches high, rather than 1-1/2 to 2-1/2 inches normally recommended for sunny areas. Longer grass plants have more surface area available to catch sunlight needed for photosynthesis, which allows plants to take energy from the sun and convert it into food.

- Water shaded lawns deeply but infrequently, as they tend to stay moist longer than those in sunny areas. Allow the area to dry before watering again.

Follow these simple instructions and your lawn will have it "made in the shade" this summer.

Home Tips

Rubber-band ball — With all the hoopla regarding the conservation of paper and plastic, I'd like to know why nothing is being done about the rubber bands that come around our daily newspapers?

Long ago, I began collecting them in a kitchen drawer. Then, to keep them from getting tangled, I began looping them into a ball. Now, somewhat larger than a golf ball, it serves a double purpose. My grandchildren play with it when they come to visit, and I always know where to get a rubber band when I need one.

Connie P., Southington, Conn.

Ad transfer — Recently, when my husband and I were looking through the newspaper classified ads for homes for sale, we found that transferring the ads we were interested in onto a blank piece of paper made our search much easier.

To transfer an ad, I took a piece of clear tape and placed it directly over the ad. I rubbed the tape with a coin to help adhere it to the print, then I lifted the tape carefully.

I taped each ad to a separate sheet of paper so there was plenty of writing space for information and questions.

Evelyn H., Fort Myers, Fla.

New Shores condominiums for less than $100,000

Imagine buying a brand new condominium in St. Clair Shores for less than $100,000.

Piku Management Co. is offering two-bedroom homes, known as "ranch villas," on Masonic, just a block from Jefferson and the Shores' Memorial Park. The development consist of 40 North Shore Villa homes, 15 of which are sold and over half occupied. 5 homes are available, 3 with immediate occupancy and 2 to be custom finished to the owner choice.

North Shore Villas is what city planners call a "planned cluster residential community." The development is comprised of 10 ranch-style buildings with four homes each. On June 1st we will be breaking ground for additional homes which will be available for September occupancy.

The development is unique for St. Clair Shores. The builder is Chris Piku. His father, Frank Piku, is the developer for the 37-year-old family business.

Piku Management bought 5-1/2 acres from the neighboring St. Clair Shores Community Education site and, under strict city planners' supervision, is developing the ranch-style, cluster-home neighborhood.

The homes are within walking distance of the lake, area shopping and the St. Clair Shores public golf course.

The homes are designed to blend in with the neighborhood, and they fit in so well many people don't even know they're there — which means home buyers might not even know they exist.

Because there is a single entrance located off Masonic into the development, through traffic is eliminated, providing greater security to residents.

Buyers can choose one of five floor plans available, each including two bedrooms and a full basement. Most homes have a one-car attached garage, but a few have two-car garages.

Other options are available at no cost — such as removing a wall between the kitchen.

On June 1st we will be breaking ground for additional homes which will be available for September occupancy.

Piku Management Co. is actually building custom homes. The company originally planned to offer only a few plans, but he found customers wanted flexibility.

Besides the bedrooms and basement, each home features a dining room, living room and kitchen with eating space. Floor-plan choices include two baths and a first-floor laundry.

Buyers also have all the choices of new-home purchasers, such as carpeting, tile and linoleum.

The Pikus pampers the buyers. Many are empty-nesters moving out of bigger homes. Even though they're downsizing, they've collected numerous belongings over the years, and that's where the full basements come in handy.

Plus the extra space can also be used for an additional bathroom, bedroom, recreation room, den or laundry.

Now is the best time to purchase a new condominium. Interest rates are lower now and Piku has also reduced the cost of North Shore Villas.

The single-car garage model is selling for $93,900, while the deluxe one-car home going for $99,900. Both prices have been reduced by $5,000 on only the next two homes sold.

We also offer a $6,000 deluxe package with features worth $7,300 for our deluxe home.

The best time to buy is right now, while interest rates are low.

North Shores Villa is the third condominium project that Piku Management has undertaken on the east side. The company built the Lakeview Club townhouse condos on Jefferson between 11 and 12 mile in the Shores and the impressive Riverview Club condos on the Clinton River.

The Pikus are always accessible to their clients. They can arrive at the site in a matter of moments. That's the advantage of going with a local, established builder.

Piku Management Co. stands behind its projects.

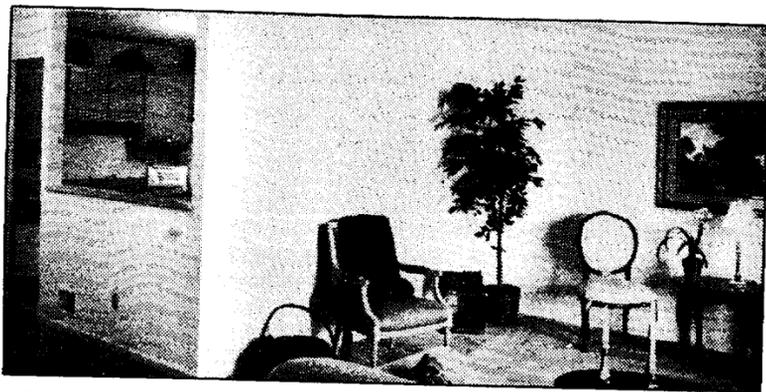

Condominium living has many advantages other than no yard or exterior maintenance and snow shoveling. Condo owners have the option of leaving leave for extended periods without having to worry about security and who's taking care of the yard.

With 20 percent down, a buyer can move into the $93,900 home with payments of $729 a month on a 15-year, 8.25 percent mortgage, or $652 for a 20-year, 8.5 percent mortgage.

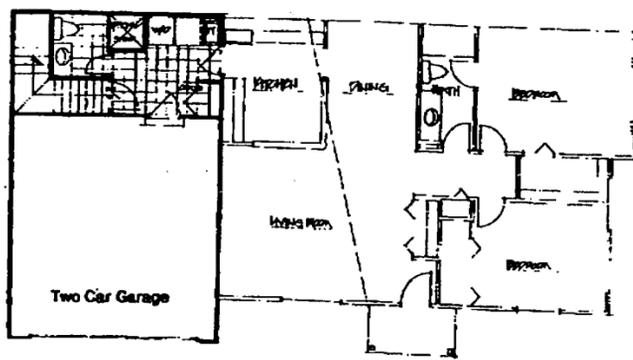

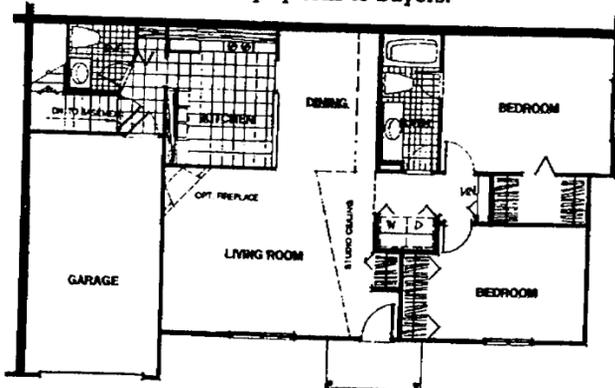

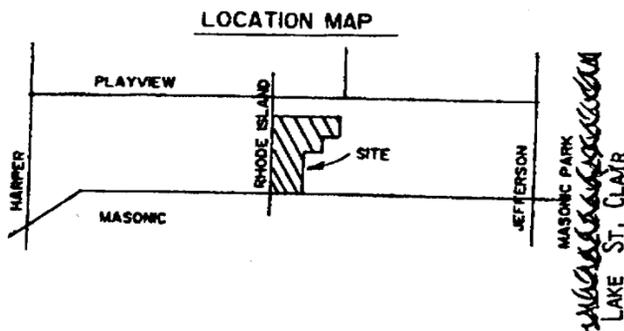

The Association fee for all exterior ground maintenance, landscaping, sprinkler system, snow removal, water, sewer & insurance is only $85 a month.

Blue Devils are primed for state tourney run

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's baseball team seems to have all the ingredients necessary for a long run in the state tournament.

"Earlier in the year we had to depend on our pitching, but lately we've been hitting well as a team," said coach Dan Griesbaum, who'll send his Blue Devils against Detroit Southeastern on Saturday at 12:30 p.m. in a district semifinal game at Grosse Pointe North.

A victory over Southeastern will send South into the championship game against the winner of the East Detroit-Detroit Kettering semifinal.

"Seven of our nine starters are over .300. We have a team batting average of .325 and our team earned run average is 1.98," Griesbaum said.

It's no wonder South has won nine of its last 10 games to improve its record to 21-4 and a No. 10 ranking in the state Class A poll.

Last week, the Blue Devils won the Macomb Area Conference White Division championship with victories over Grosse Pointe North and L'Anse Creuse North. South then beat the Norsemen 15-9 in a state tournament pre-district game.

"The league was real tough this year," Griesbaum said, "so that makes the championship even more satisfying. You could never relax when you were playing a league game."

South finished the league season with an 11-3 record after starting 2-2. Grosse Pointe North and Romeo tied for second at 10-4.

The Blue Devils needed a miracle to beat North in a MAC White game last week and they got it, scoring six runs in the seventh inning to eke out a 6-5 victory.

Jason Jaworski blanked South through the first six innings and retired the first batter in the seventh, but Dan Minadeo singled and Brian Brennan homered to cut the Norsemen's lead to 5-2. Matt Recht grounded out, but Brian Blake, Matt Haack and Tom Rajt walked to load the bases. An error on Colm Moore's grounder let two runs score and Scott Van Almen and Bill Gough followed with RBI singles to give South the victory.

Brennan came on to pitch the bottom of the seventh and blanked North on one hit, while striking out two.

Fritz Coyro pitched the first six innings, and allowed three earned runs in picking up the victory.

Shane Barr had two doubles for North, Jeff Jensen had a single and double and Paul Straske added a pair of singles. Van Almen was the only South player with two hits.

The victory over the Norsemen clinched a tie for South, but the Blue Devils still needed to beat L'Anse Creuse North for the outright title. They did just that, posting an 8-1 victory over the Crusaders as Kyle Hoye, Jay Harrington and Tom Kolajeski combined on a three-hitter.

South scored twice in the first inning. Minadeo tripled and came home on Brennan's single. Brennan eventually scored on Blake's groundout.

The Blue Devils broke the game open with a five-run fifth, featuring two-run doubles by Haack and Van Almen and an RBI single by Minadeo.

South started right where it left off against the Norsemen a few days earlier when the crosstown rivals met in their pre-district game.

The Blue Devils erupted for five runs in the first inning, highlighted by an RBI single by Rajt and Van Almen's three-run double.

South picked up an unearned run in the fourth and scored three in the fifth on a solo homer by Brad Dunlap and RBI sin-

North rolls into soccer regional

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North's soccer team advanced to the regional round of the state Class A soccer tournament with a 4-0 victory over Regina in the district championship game, but Lady Norsemen's coach Guido Regelbrugge felt his team actually won the district a few days earlier.

"Our game with South (a 3-2 victory in the district opener) was by far the toughest," Regelbrugge said. "Regina is a hard-working team, but I'm sure if South had beaten us, they'd be the ones playing in the regional."

"It's unfortunate we always have to meet each other (in the district) because a good team is going to go home early. Some years it's South, others it's us."

North's victory over the Saddelites in the district championship game at Fraser didn't come without a few uneasy moments for Regelbrugge and his squad, which improved its overall record to 16-1.

Goalkeeper Julie Hielscher made an outstanding save with about 10 seconds remaining in the first half to preserve North's 2-0 lead and she later tipped a shot over the crossbar to keep Regina off the scoreboard.

"If Regina had scored that goal just before the half, they'd have gone in at halftime trailing 2-1 and they'd have had the wind at their backs in the second half," Regelbrugge said.

"I was disappointed at halftime that we hadn't scored more because we kept the play in their end and I thought they might come on in the second half because the wind was such a factor."

Gretchen Szazama's deflection of Kelly Konsler's free kick with 12 minutes left in the first half opened the scoring for the Lady Norsemen. Holly Brooks scored on a high shot two minutes later to give North a two-goal cushion.

Maureen Zolik scored in the 10th minute of the second half when she fought off two defenders and drilled a shot past goalie Danielle Wyszczelski. Felicia Paluzzi scored North's final goal from close range with about 12 minutes left in the game.

"We didn't play a real good game, but we played well enough to win," Regelbrugge said. "I look at the way we're going to have to play to keep winning and we must keep improving."

North played Farmington

Mercy in a regional semifinal on Wednesday at Troy Athens.

North's 3-2 victory over South featured goals by Szazama and Paluzzi in the last 10 minutes after the Lady Devils had taken a 2-1 lead. Paluzzi got the winner with about four minutes left.

"I was just hoping we'd tie and then take our chances in overtime," Regelbrugge said. "In our last two games with South, they played us tougher than (state-ranked) Troy."

Konsler also scored for North in the game between the crosstown rivals.

Hielscher recorded her 10th shutout.

A Harbor Place Cluster Home Has Everything You Need On One Floor... And Then Some

The "Some" we refer to is the entire second floor which consists of two large bedrooms and a full connecting bath. This floor may be used on a daily basis or utilized occasionally when family or friends come to visit.

There's "some" thing else too, a large unfinished storage area and additional optional storage.

First floor accommodations are totally complete. A great room with an 11' ceiling, master bedroom suite with walk-in closet, luxurious bath, kitchen with top-of-the-line appliances and cabinets, breakfast room, library, first floor laundry room, and a two car garage. Total one floor living with a little extra built in.

"Some" more things to be considered are an old world style fenced in courtyard entry and rear yard with all the privacy you desire.

This may be purchased for the affordable "sum" of $259,000 to $289,000, "some" thing to think about. Visit our sales office at Harbor

First loss ousts Lady Knights

By John Miskelly
Special Writer

University Liggett School girls soccer coach David Backhurst became painfully aware last week of the consequences of losing a game late in the season.

The Lady Knights lost their first game of the year, and it couldn't have come at a worse time. The 3-2 setback at the hands of Lakeview knocked ULS out of the Class B-C-D state tournament.

Lakeview's Abby Gilhool broke a 2-2 tie late in the second half to send the Huskies into the regional, hosted by ULS.

"We were hammering away in the first half," Backhurst said. "I thought we had a lot of opportunities."

However, they yielded only two goals for the Lady Knights, who finished with a 14-1-3 record.

Lakeview, which hosted the district, took a 1-0 lead on a goal by Karen Pruitt with the game only 30 seconds old.

Senior Beth Weyhing, the Lady Knights' main offensive threat during the contest, tied the score in the sixth minute of the half with a goal from deep in Lakeview territory.

The Huskies' Dawn Depape and Rebecca Ortega spent the rest of the game shadowing Weyhing, forcing her to pass instead of shooting.

ULS also got some strong defensive play as it held Lakeview's high-scoring freshman Kathryn Quinlan (17 goals in 15 games) to only one assist.

The Lady Knights' edge in size and speed became apparent as the first half wore on. The resulting pressure finally paid off during the 21st minute when Lauren Gargaro scored on a corner kick from Beth Paul. Lakeview's defense had a momentary lapse and Gargaro slipped behind them for an easy goal.

Heather Heidel nearly gave the Lady Knights a 3-1 lead when ULS was swarming the Huskies' end of the field. Heidel had the ball at the corner of the net and sent it through the crease along the goal line, but it just missed going in.

Just before halftime, Lakeview's Alison Napieraj tied the score at 2-2 when ULS goalkeeper Beth Mozena was bumped out of position.

During the second half, the 80-degree heat and bench strength became factors in the game. Lakeview used 16 of its 18 players, while ULS dressed only 15 players and used 13. "Their depth was an important factor. We got worn down," Backhurst said.

The Huskies scored the winning goal 27 minutes into the second half off a direct kick. Gilhool picked up the loose ball and deposited it behind Mozena for a 3-2 lead.

Both goalies played well. Lakeview's Lisa Feleo turned back 14 shots, while Mozena made 11 saves.

ULS tennis heading in Wright direction

University Liggett School's girls tennis program is going to be under new leadership next fall.

Chuck Wright, a ULS teacher and boys varsity basketball coach, will take over the head coaching duties and ULS kindergarten teacher Sarah Mayer will be Wright's assistant.

The two take over from Knights' athletic director Bob Wood, who has coached the girls varsity team since 1987, winning three state championships in Class C-D and one in Class A.

Wood, who also coaches the ULS boys tennis team, decided at the end of last season to step down from coaching the girls.

"Our girls tennis program couldn't be in better hands," Wood said. "Chuck and Sarah will do an outstanding job. I'm very excited for the young ladies who will play tennis at ULS in the years to come. They couldn't receive better coaching anywhere."

Wright, a 1966 graduate of Grosse Pointe University School, has a bachelor of arts degree from Trinity College. He has taught third grade at ULS since 1983. Wright has played tennis since he was 8, and is currently ranked No. 3 in the 40 and older Western rankings, which encompass Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and West Virginia.

Wright has coached for 18 years, including stints coaching middle school tennis and soccer, freshman and junior varsity basketball and tennis and varsity basketball at ULS and in Massachusetts and Charlevoix. He has been ULS' varsity basketball coach for seven seasons. Wright has high hopes for the 1992 girls tennis team, which will feature several seniors.

"The expectations are high, what with the experience we have coming back," Wright said. "I just hope the girls will enjoy being one of the top teams in the state.

"Obviously, we want to win but we also want to have fun. My goal is to keep the ULS girls tennis program — which has a winning tradition as strong as our boys team — a top program. To our girls credit, they all wanted to remain in Class A this year. They like the challenge of Class A-level tennis."

ULS is the only team in Michigan high school history to move from Class C-D to Class A and win a state championship, a feat the Lady Knights accomplished in 1990.

"Hopefully, we'll keep girls tennis at ULS a competitive program with lots of class," Wright said.

Mayer is a graduate of St. Mary's College and Grosse Pointe South. She played varsity tennis for the Lady Devils from 1983-87. As a senior, she was the No. 3 singles player on the South team that won a national-record 11th consecutive state championship.

Mayer has played tennis since she was 5. In addition to her high school experience, she plays tennis in several USTA leagues and has taught the sport at the ULS day camp.

"I can't wait until opening day," she said. "We have an outstanding team returning, but that's pretty much always the case at ULS. I can remember when South played ULS. It was always the best match of the season. I'm excited about being part of that tradition."

Lady Devils still rule MAC track scene

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

It was business as usual for Grosse Pointe South's girls track team last week after its thrilling regional victory over Detroit Cass Tech a few days earlier.

"It was nice to see we didn't have a letdown after Saturday's meet," coach Steve Zaranek said following the Lady Devils' first-place finish in the Macomb Area Conference White Division meet at Romeo.

"We were strong right across the board, just like at the regional. We took the same approach in the league meet — try to pull points from everywhere. We especially wanted to win all four relays, because that's the best indication of a team's depth."

South, which finished with 177 points to runner-up Romeo's 104, swept the relays and set division records in three of them.

The Lady Devils have won seven league championships in eight seasons, including two straight since joining the MAC. South athletes have set seven league records in two MAC seasons.

"The key is our senior class," Zaranek said. "They keep the team together through example. They don't have a lot of wavering emotions. They just go out and do the job. The younger kids see that and think that's the way it's done. Year after year, the standards are set." Senior Robyn Scofield, who won the 200-meter dash (27.3) and was second in the long jump (16-foot-1/2), led off the record-breaking 800 and 400 relays. She teamed with Amy

South wins lacrosse final

Grosse Pointe South's lacrosse team saved the best for last as the Blue Devils beat Grosse Pointe North 12-0 in the season finale.

South got three goals apiece from Bill Simonson and Jamie Mertz, while Drew Woodruff, Jeff Osborne, Peter Mertz, Brian Urso, Brian Rebain and Geoff Everham added single tallies.

The Blue Devils scored three quick goals, but a young North team settled down midway through the first half to keep the score at 4-0 at halftime.

South took 14 penalties and played shorthanded for much of the contest, but goalie Jason Hall turned away several quality scoring chances by the Norsemen to record his second shutout.

David Auld led the South defense, while Peter Mertz and Woodruff played well in the midfield and provided scoring opportunities off fast breaks. All three midfield lines played well in the second half.

Earlier, South dropped a 12-9 decision to L'Anse Creuse. The Blue Devils fell behind 2-0 early in the game and took seven penalties in the first half, forcing them to play short-handed much of the time.

South rallied late in the first half and cut the L'Anse Creuse lead to 5-3 at the intermission.

L'Anse Creuse dominated in the midfield area early in the second half, winning several faceoffs that led to fast-break goals.

Cameron Craig scored four goals for the Blue Devils and Peter Mertz and Osborne added two apiece to lead the offensive attack. Simonson had the other South goal.

Auld and Steve Solaka played solid games on defense.

South wound up with a 2-9 record. Craig, a junior attacker, led the Blue Devils with 20 goals.

Coach Hank Lewandowski praised the play of co-captains Auld and Woodruff.

"(Auld) was consistently outstanding at his wing defense position. He was often responsible for clearing the ball from our defensive end of the field," Lewandowski said. "(Woodruff) played consistently well in providing experience for our younger players."

Other senior contributors for the Blue Devils were midfielders Osborne, Geoff Everham and Norm Rice; attackers Simonson and Jamie Mertz; and defenseman Pat Rutledge.

gled by Brennan and Recht. Van Almen hit a run-scoring double and Dunlap singled home a run in the sixth. Then South scored four times in the seventh with Blake knocking in one with a single.

Brennan held North to two runs through the first five innings, but left during a three-run rally in the sixth. The Norsemen scored four times in the seventh.

Jaworski, Kurt Barr and Jensen each hit a double and single for North, while Gary Corona and Straske each had two singles.

Earlier, South won the Home Plate Tournament with a 12-8 victory over East Detroit. The Blue Devils tied the game at 5-5 with three runs in the third inning, then broke it open with three more in the fourth and four in the fifth.

Sophomore Paul Gentile picked up the victory in relief. Brennan led the offensive attack with three hits, while Minadeo, Van Almen, Blake and Rajt each had two. Recht, who hit a double, Minadeo, Blake and Rajt each had two RBI.

South opened the tournament with a 9-3 victory over Farmington. Brennan, Blake and Rajt each had two hits and Brennan and Van Almen knocked in two runs each.

Kolajski scattered seven hits and struck out eight, while walking one in the complete-game victory.

Dunlap's homer in the bottom of the seventh inning gave the Blue Devils a 3-2 victory over Notre Dame and sent them into the title game. Blake and Moore had RBI singles for South.

Harrington pitched the first five innings and struck out five. Hoyer picked up the win with two innings of hitless relief.

Our Pre-Kindergarten is Experiential

At University Liggett School's Pre-Kindergarten, manipulative materials abound which satisfy the child's need to learn first through concrete materials. A balance of self-correcting and open ended hands-on activities encourage creativity and problem-solving. Abundant art and drawing materials provide opportunity for creative expression, exploration and fine motor development. We promote dramatic play to extend language skills and social interaction. ## Majors

Cardinals 6, Tigers 5

The Tigers took a one-run lead on Marc Bertelsen's triple and Armand Bove's single in the top of the seventh, but the Cardinals won the game as they pushed across two runs on Andy Beaupre's double, Ben Peters' fielder's choice and Mark Borushko's sacrifice fly.

Orioles 6, Reds 5

Charles Thomas belted a three-run homer, Joey Baratta and Will Solomon had two hits each and Frank Werner allowed only three hits in five innings for the Orioles. Brian Kasiborski and Andy Jones shut out the Orioles after their six-run first-inning and Buddy Briles led the Reds' hitters with a double.

Yankees 20, Braves 6

Thane Laymon and Craig Ziolkowski combined on a strong pitching performance and Nick Aubrey collected three hits for the Yankees. J.J. Kinkel homered and Brent Nielubowicz tripled for the Braves.

Blue Jays 9, Dodgers 8

Kevin Diedrich went 3-for-3, scored the winning run on Cameron Lovelace's single and pitched two scoreless innings to lead the Jays to the win. David Legwand had two hits, including a homer, and Michael Spath went 4-for-4 for the Dodgers.

Cardinals 6, Orioles 2

Joel Parrot and Andy Beaupre went three innings apiece on the mound and Jon Rudolph had a two-run single for the Cardinals. Chris Mikula paced the Orioles with two doubles and an RBI.

Braves 20, Blue Jays 5

Angelo LaPiana, J.J. Kinkel and Ryan Dempsey drove in three runs apiece and Kinkel teamed with Jon Paquin to keep the Blue Jays' hitters in check. Ryan Zangrilli, who had a pair of hits, and Danny Griesbaum had key hits in the Jays' three-run sixth-inning rally.

Yankees 6, Dodgers 2

Thane Laymon, Eddie Ahee and

Paul Thursam combined to pitch the Yankees to the victory, aided by a key hit from Jonathan Kosmas and an outstanding defensive play by third baseman K.C. Cleary. David Legwand pitched three shutout innings and Mark Touhey, Michael Jaquet and Mike Spath had two hits each for the Dodgers.

Reds 9, Tigers 3

Brothers Brian and Michael Kasiborski did the pitching for the Reds, while Buddy Briles (two hits) and Andy Jones (two runs) supplied the offense. Marc Bertelsen collected three hits, including a homer, for the Tigers.

Orioles 13, Braves 2

Charles Thomas went 3-for-3, including a homer, and shortstop Rory Cleary threw out two Braves' runners at the plate to lead the Orioles' sparkling defensive effort. Brent Nielubowicz had a pair of hits and J.J. Kinkel struck out six in three innings for the Braves.

Cardinals 8, Blue Jays 4

Andy Beaupre pitched three hitless innings, Ben Peters had two hits and Mark Borushko drove in two runs as the Cards pushed their record to 7-0. Ryan Zangrilli had a double and triple and scored twice for the Blue Jays.

Tigers 7, Dodgers 4

Jay Minger pitched three shutout innings, Adam Santangelo and Joe Slavik made tough catches and Michael Sorgeloos hit a two-run triple for the Tigers. Joe Fikany and Frank Lutfy led the Dodgers' hitting attack with timely hits.

Yankees 5, Reds 4

The Reds scored four runs in the first inning with key hits from Eyan Roulis and Buddy Briles, but the Yankees won the game with four runs in the sixth. Paul Thursam doubled during the winning rally, backing the strong pitching of Nick Aubrey and Craig Ziolkowski.

Crosstown foes tie

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

The only thing Grosse Pointe North and Grosse Pointe South decided at the Macomb Area Conference Red Division tennis championships was that no one else was even close to them.

The Norsemen and Blue Devils finished in a tie for first place as they each won four of the eight flights.

"We couldn't have done any better," said North coach Ken Gutow. "We won the two flights where South beat us in the regional."

South coach Tom Berschback wasn't disappointed that he had to share the title with his crosstown rival. The Blue Devils won the dual meet on a tie-breaker after a 4-4 deadlock in matches.

"We're both strong in certain areas," Berschback said. "Between us we wouldn't lose many matches."

Gutow was especially happy with his second doubles team of Ajit Sarnaik and Kyle Foresman, which beat South's Jeff Huntington and Tom Rhoades 6-2, 6-3.

"Ajit and Kyle lost to the South kids in the regional and at the University Liggett invitational so this was a big victory for them," Gutow said.

North's Bryce Kenny and Ken MacDonald beat M.J. Morris and Rob Hostetter in No. 3 singles and the Norsemen's No. 4 doubles team of Jeff Barlow and Sean Brady took a 6-4, 2-6, 6-4 decision against South's Andy Giraldo and Pete Devries.

North's lone singles victory was Mark Gregory's 6-3, 6-2 triumph over South's Todd Scallen.

South dominated the singles competition as Emiliano Lorenzini beat North's Craig Rogowski 6-2, 6-1 in No. 1; Cullen McMahon downed the Norsemen's Mark Levine 6-1, 6-3 in second singles; and Jeff Wheeler posted a 6-4, 6-2 triumph over Mike McHugh in third singles.

South's Chad Yates and Shawn Coyle won first doubles with a 6-2, 6-1 victory over North's Rob DuRoss and Brian DiLaura.

Later in the week, South beat Brother Rice 4-3 in a thrilling match that lasted well into the evening.

"We were tied with the first doubles left to complete and Coyle and Yates came back from 4-1 and 5-2 deficits in the third set," Berschback said.

Coyle and Yates dropped the first set 3-6, then won 6-4 and 7-6 (7-3 in the tie-breaker) to give the Blue Devils the victory.

Lorenzini, McMahon and Wheeler also won their matches. Wheeler, who is seeded No. 1 in the state in third singles, improved his overall record to 23-1.

PREP

Athletics 8, Angels 7

The A's batted around in the seventh inning as they scored five runs to overcome a four-run deficit. Stuart Satrun, Tim Brady, Adam Roulis, Jim Simon and John Choike had key RBIs for the A's. Simon had two hits and Choike picked up the victory, allowing two runs and four hits in four innings. Mark Conrad had three hits for the Angels, who got a strong performance from starting pitcher Brad Hohfeldt (five innings, two runs, five hits).

Athletics 11, Orioles 4

Troy Bergman knocked in three runs with a pair of doubles to lead the A's 11-hit attack. Westleigh DeGuvera had a triple for the winners. Jim Simon, John Choike and Bergman combined on an eight-hitter.

Twins 16, Athletics 7

Twins' starter Nick Arrigo allowed five hits and three runs in five innings to record the victory. He blanked the A's after a three-run first. Troy Bergman had a double and three RBI for the A's.

Red Sox 8, Orioles 4

Red Sox 9, Athletics 6

Rob Bennett and David Scrae had key hits that drove in two runs apiece for the Red Sox. Bennett also robbed the A's Troy Bergman of an extra-base hit with an outstanding catch in center field in the seventh inning. Billy Crandall and Chad DeFever hit doubles for the Red Sox. David Kazma was the winning pitcher.

Twins 7, Brewers 1

Nick Arrigo allowed only one hit through four innings to pick up the victory. Mike Hamers finished up for the Twins. Arrigo had two hits and Scott VandeVusse knocked in two runs with a hit.

Twins 11, Orioles 5

Winning pitcher Frank Bommarito had three hits and five RBI. Twins' teammates Nick Arrigo and Mike Hamers had three and two hits, respectively.

Zanglin, Leslie Arbaugh and Kristine Mueller to win the 800 in 1:49.4 and joined Zanglin, Mueller and Katy Lupo to break the 400 relay mark in 51.8.

The Lady Devils broke the meet record in the 3,200 relay when Emily Burkett, Rachel O'Byrne, Michele Evans and Heidi Wise ran a 9:59. South also won the 1,600 relay in 4:15.8 with the team of Lupo, Evans, Arbaugh and Becca Walter.

Junior Angela Drake was a double winner for South with firsts in the long jump (16-2 1/2) and the 300 hurdles (49.1). Drake also took second in the high jump (5-2).

finished 1-2, respectively, in the 400 dash with times of 60.4 and 61.3.

Other runners-up for the Lady Devils were Rebecca Schultz in the 100 hurdles (16.8) and Burkett in the 800 (2:28). Third-place finishers were Sue McGahey, high jump, 5-2; and Evans, 1,600, 5:35. O'Byrne was fourth in the 100 hurdles (17.9) and Melissa Wise took fourth in the 3,200 (12:27).

Taking sixth places were Jenny Mangol, shot put, 30-1/2; O'Byrne, 1,600, 5:39; Amy Balok, 800, 2:31; and Sandy Dierkes, 3,200, 12:41.

Rounding out the team scoring was Grosse Pointe North with 54 1/2 points, Eisenhower, 54, L'Anse Creuse North 48, Fraser 37 1/2, Ford 16 and Anchor Bay 1.

500 ANIMALS ADOPT A PET

PLEASE DON'T DELAY! SPAY or NEUTER YOUR PET TODAY! An altered pet is a healthier and happier companion. Also, it spares you the grief and pain of having puppies and kittens destroyed when no homes can be found. Countless numbers of sweet, innocent little ones are euthanized every day in shelters across the country because a pet wasn't spayed or neutered. If we cut down on the numbers of unwanted litters being born, we will also cut down on the number of abandoned, lost and unwanted animals to destroy.
