

200 students say to heck with hew

By Shirley A. McShane

"Save the trees. Chop down the tower."
The tongue-in-cheek message was delivered last week by a group of nearly 200 students assembled on the front lawn of Grosse Pointe South High School.
Incensed that the Grosse Pointe school district was considering removing a half dozen trees on campus because their leafy cover partially obstructs full viewing of the school tower, the students staged a "peaceful" protest Nov. 5.

"The Gnome," a student rock band, cranked out Jimi Hendrix and Cream tunes between student speeches supporting preservation of the environment.

Shoppers on Fisher Road looked twice and stopped in their tracks, apparently unaccustomed to hearing the sound of beating drums and screaming guitars coming from school property.
Several Grosse Pointe Farms police cars patrolled the campus at a distance.
Students chanted: "Save the trees."

Organized by Students Against Violations to the Environment (SAVE), the rally was intended to let Grosse Pointe school administrators and the board of education know the group is opposed to removing the trees from school grounds.

Grosse Pointers turned out in force in the Nov. 3 election, but with only two exceptions, the candidates chosen here lost in the overall tabulations.
Voter turnout across the nation was up, but the Pointes — with 74 percent combined voter turnout — were far above the national average of 55 percent voter turnout.
Grosse Pointe Shores headed the list with just short of 90 percent turnout, followed by the Farms, with 80 percent turnout, the City with just over 78 percent, the Woods at 77 percent and the Park with 62 percent.
William R. Bryant Jr., the incumbent Republican state representative in the 1st District won both the Pointes and the overall election. The other Republican winner was Andrew Richner, who captured the open Wayne County commission seat by 1,500 votes over his Democratic opponent, George Fitzgerald.

Driver beaten with bat

By Donna Walker
Staff Writer
A 44-year-old Detroit man accused of beating an 81-year-old driver with a baseball bat faces a Nov. 18 preliminary hearing in Grosse Pointe Woods Municipal Court.

Arthur Bremner Renny was arraigned on a charge of "felonious assault with the intent to do great bodily harm less than murder" in 33rd District Court in Westland.

The court entered a not-guilty plea on his behalf and he was released on $1,000 cash bond.

The Wayne County prosecutor has an office in Westland near 33rd District Court, and Detective Steve Backlund drove Renny there on Saturday to get a warrant for his arraignment.

"A lot of the communities around here go there when they need to get a warrant on Saturday or Sunday. Then they walk across the street and have the arraignment in Westland because it's easier that way," Backlund said.

The alleged assault took place about 8:20 a.m. Friday, Nov. 6, on Mack near Hollywood in the Woods.

Woods Cpl. James DaDeppo and his partner, Officer Matthew Flint, were conducting a traffic stop on Hollywood, just east of Mack, when they heard several vehicles sound their horns.

DaDeppo looked in his rear-view mirror and saw that the traffic on north-bound Mack, south of Hollywood, was completely stopped. He then looked to the left and saw a light blue van parked at a 45-degree angle to the right curb on Mack, about 40-feet north of his scout car.

DaDeppo heard several screams come from the van and ran to the vehicle. The driver's door was open, and DaDeppo said he saw Renny beating the 81-year-old driver on the left side of his body with a black, sawed-off baseball bat that he was swinging with both hands.

The driver was wearing his seatbelt.
DaDeppo, backed up by Flint, pointed his gun at Renny and ordered him to stop, drop the bat and lie on the ground.

He said Renny stopped hitting the victim, but started walking toward the officers with the bat in his right hand.

DaDeppo repeated the order, and the suspect finally obeyed. Flint saw a small knife in a case in the suspect's belt, and police removed it.

Renny was arrested and handcuffed. As DaDeppo walked him to the squad car, he asked Renny what happened. He said Renny told him that the driver of the van had

Pointer of Interest

Rod Burton

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer
Rod Burton describes himself as a frustrated jock and a veteran ad man who has had the good fortune of being able to combine two of his life interests into an award-winning career.
And Burton just recently had to update his lengthy resume once again.

The Grosse Pointe Park resident was named chairman of the Michigan Sports Hall of Fame. And almost simultaneously, Burton was elected president of the Detroit Advertising Association (DAA). He also is the current president of the Acraft Club of Detroit.

The senior member of Detroit's advertising community said he isn't prone to brag about his accomplishments and really would rather not.

But, he said, his 86-year-old mother, Mae Burton, who is battling a long-term illness, takes such delight in hearing of her son's endeavors that he looks forward to cheering her up with newspaper clippings and press releases concerning latest activities.

Burton said his appointment as chairman of the Michigan Sports Hall of Fame is an honor that runs deeper than simply his love for athletics. The late Nick Kerbawy, the hall's founder, was one of Burton's mentors and friends.

Brownell students learn parenting is no 'yolking' matter

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

The news made Jasmin Bennett roll her eyes and whisper, "Oh boy."

But a boy it was not. It was a girl — two of them, actually.

Bennett, a seventh-grader at Brownell Middle School, knew she was going to have a baby, but she didn't know she was expecting twins.

So when she was handed two pink eggs on Monday, she was taken by surprise. Luckily, she came prepared with a large wicker basket and plenty of soft covers.

Bennett and 16 other students in Dona Reynolds' life skills class began a week-long unit on child care and responsibility. Each student was given one or two hard-boiled eggs to care for until Wednesday. Students had to name their babies, draw faces on their fragile shells and carry them around.

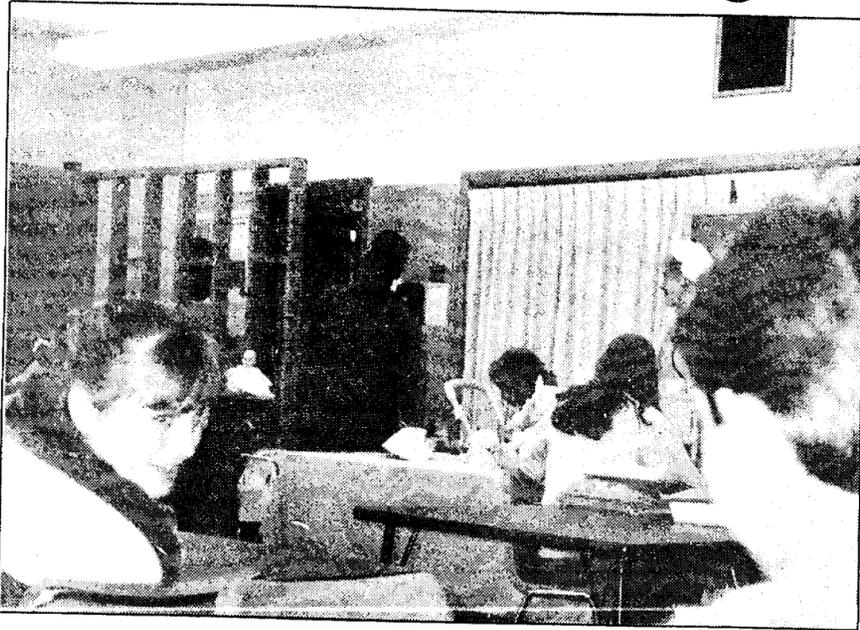

Dressed in hospital scrubs and holding a blue egg in her hand, Reynolds explained to the students the importance of their assignment.

"When a human being is born, it is the most helpless creature on earth," she said. "Whales, piglets and calves all are able to do things for themselves right away. But a human lies there and cries. It can't get food or protect itself."

Reynolds challenged the students to protect their egg babies from becoming egg salad. She said a newborn's head is as fragile as an eggshell; drop either on the floor and the contents are scrambled.

The big day began when Liz Aiken, a registered nurse, visited the life skills class to help the students deliver their new babies. A nest of blue and pink eggs awaited the students, who were called to the front of the class to pick a folded piece of paper out of an envelope.

Students didn't know the gender of their offspring ahead of time, Reynolds said.

Students are surprised to learn Jasmin Bennett, standing, will have to care for twin egg babies.

"A boy," said Mike Schornak, as he unfolded the piece of paper he selected. The blue egg, which Schornak quickly named Dominick, was then placed in a straw basket lined with a small cloth.

Schornak, Bennett and the other students had better make sure their egg babies aren't dropped on the floor, forgotten in a locker or on a desk or mistaken for lunch, Reynolds said.

Students suspected of egg-baby abuse or abandonment will face criminal charges before Grosse Pointe Park Municipal Judge Kirsten Frank, who has volunteered her services for the class project.

Reynolds said she carefully inspects all eggs returned to her. A cracked shell, a missing egg or a counterfeit egg (Reynolds marked all original eggs with her initials) will result in a summons to municipal court.

The negligent parents will then face a Nov. 23 hearing in front of Judge Frank, Reynolds said.

"The classroom will be set up just like a courtroom, with two attorneys, a judge and a court reporter," she said. "We want to get the message to the public as early as possible. Educate the children to avoid problems later in life."

Last year, the first year Brownell conducted the egg-baby project, one egg was thrown into the street and run over by a car, Reynolds said.

"That is murder," she said. While the project seems comical at times and the students may laugh at the demise of some of the egg babies, the underlying message isn't so funny, she said.

Aikens, who worked at Children's and Bon Secours hospitals, said when a baby or young child was brought into the emergency room, it usually was for a senseless accident that could have been avoided.

To illustrate how fragile newborns are, new mother Lidia Prush brought in her eight-week-old daughter, Chelsea. She showed the students how the newborn is unable to hold up her own head and must be handled gently.

Prush told the students they must never leave a baby unattended — not even for one minute — which is all it takes for a baby to roll off a changing table.

Reynolds said her class, which is an elective, may be the only instruction the students receive on parenting before they become parents themselves.

"I feel there should be more classes on parenting," she said. "And students should feel more comfortable taking them. There shouldn't be a stigma attached to these classes."

Of the 17 students in Reynolds' life skills class, nine are boys and eight are girls. She said a student survey revealed most of the students signed up for the year-long class because they wanted to learn how to cook and sew.

Life skills is an updated version of home economics. In addition to cooking and sewing units, students also learn about their self-esteem, nutrition, grooming and child care.

"We try to emphasize the fact that when they are older they will be living on their own and need to be able to take care of themselves," she said. "We also emphasize that a lot more men are involved with parenting."

Bills finally come due on Milk River cleanup

By Donna Walker
Staff Writer

For almost three years, Grosse Pointe Woods residents have read and heard about the Milk River drain cleanup project.

Now, it's time to pay for it. Last week, the Grosse Pointe Woods City Council adopted a resolution to double the current drain tax of 1.85 mills.

The 1.8587-mill increase will be on Woods residents' winter tax bills next month, said Woods city administrator Phillip H. Belcher.

One mill equals $1 for every $1,000 of a home's state equalized value (SEV). The average increase will be $139 for a home with a SEV of $75,000.

Belcher said the revenue generated from the increase will be used to pay the first installment of the Woods' share of a $26-million, 20-year bond issue floated by the Milk River Intercounty Drain Board.

The debt is to be shared by all the communities in the Milk River drain district, based on how much raw sewage they have historically sent into the sewer system.

Created when the Milk River pumping station was built in the 1950s, the debt-sharing formula was reapproved in June 1991 by the three-member Milk River Intercounty Drain Board, which consists of the drain commissioners from Macomb and Wayne counties and the state director of agriculture.

Under that formula, the Woods must pay 60.499831 percent of the cost of capital improvements to and maintenance of the Milk River drain.

Harper Woods pays 35.107571 percent, the state pays 2.299963 percent for water run-off from the I-94 expressway, Wayne County pays 1.673702 percent for run-off from county roads, and St. Clair Shores pays .418933 percent.

"We have no say in the (drain) board," Belcher said. "But I will say that the board has been receptive to our requests."

Last year, the Woods council passed a resolution asking the state Legislature to pass a law that would allow each community in a drain district to have a board representative.

So far, nothing has come of that request, Belcher said.

The Woods' first two installments for the retirement of the $26 million Milk River bond total $811,696, and are due in April and October 1993, Belcher said.

He said the bond issue will pay for two-thirds of the overall combined sewer overflow cleanup project, including two new retention basins with a combined capacity of 18.8 million gallons located at the Milk

River pumping station, a gravity-flow sewer, and improvements to the maintenance and control buildings at the Milk River pumping station near Marter and Parkway in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Wayne County engineer Bob DeLong said the first retention basin should be completed and brought on-line in February. Then the original 3.8-million-gallon-capacity retention basin currently used will be demolished, and work on the second basin will begin. The second basin is scheduled to be completed by Dec. 1, 1994, DeLong said.

The gravity-flow sewer under Cook Road will be completed next spring, and the roadway will be resurfaced next summer, he said.

Work on the river recirculation system will start next fall, and the entire cleanup project will be completed by Dec. 1, 1994, he said.

The improvements will reduce the number of times sewage is released from the pumping station into the Milk River Drain and Lake St. Clair from 44 times a year to 15 times a year.

Sewage that is released into the drain will be cleaner due to the diversion of some sanitary sewage by the gravity-flow sewer and a new chlorination facility at the pumping station.

Belcher said that the drain commission will have to take out another bond in 1994 — this time for an estimated $7 million — to pay for the remaining third of the project, which includes dredging the Milk River and outfitting it with a water recirculation system.

The Woods share of that bond will be less than half a mill, and will probably be added to Woods' residents winter taxes next year, Belcher said.

Since the Milk River pumping station was built, the Grosse Pointe Woods drain tax has included the cost of operating and maintaining the facility.

Starting in 1994, Belcher said, the operation and maintenance cost will be taken off the winter tax bill and placed on residents' water bills as a user fee.

That will increase the average homeowner's annual water bill by about $90, Belcher said.

Of the $1,910,266 the Woods will collect from the 3.7087-mill 1992 drain tax levy, $523,470 will be spent on the operation and maintenance of the Milk River Drain, $8,500 will be spent on the 26th installment on a loan taken out years ago for the Black Marsh drain, $811,696 will be spent on the first installment on the Milk River improvements, and $566,600 will be spent on storm drain improvements.

Farms police catch 2 alleged rapists

By Donna Walker
Staff Writer

An alert Grosse Pointe Farms public safety officer saved a woman who was allegedly kidnapped at gunpoint and raped in a moving car by two men.

Officer John F. Kennedy was conducting a routine patrol, driving west (toward Grosse Pointe City) on Mack west of Kerby about 1:20 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 8, when he saw a car going 50 miles an hour on the other side of Mack. The speed limit there is 35 miles an hour.

The right front tire of the speeding car was flat and strips of rubber were tearing away from the wheel.

Kennedy turned around, activated his overhead flashing lights and pursued the car east to Kerby, then west on Mack. He saw a man crouched down in the back seat.

The car sped northwest on Warren, and then north on Anatole in Detroit, where the driver seemed to lose control of the vehicle and stopped, Kennedy said.

As Kennedy approached the car, Sgt. Mike Deneau of the Farms also responded.

Kennedy said he saw a woman laying on the back seat, trying to pull up her pants. There was also a man in the back seat who was pulling up his pants.

A shotgun and an assault rifle lay across the front passenger seat with the muzzle pointing toward the floorboard, and live rounds of ammunition and spent casings were strewn about, police said.

As the woman got out of the vehicle, she told Kennedy, "Thank you, thank you, you've saved my life. They were going to kill me," according to the police report.

She said she was kidnapped at gunpoint in front of her home and forced into her car by the two men. One raped her while the other drove, and then the men switched, she said.

One of the men is 21 and the other is 23. Both are from Detroit. The alleged victim is a 29-year-old Detroit woman.

The men were arrested and taken to the Farms police station. The woman was taken to St. John Hospital for treatment and then made a report at the Farms police station.

Officers drove her home afterward.

The men were released Monday pending the issuance of a warrant.

Farms Detective Michael McCarthy said the woman has not signed a complaint and that police are having difficulty locating her.

"Without her, we won't be able to bring charges of rape and kidnapping against the suspects," even though the two men admitted they had forced her into the car at gunpoint, McCarthy said.

If she doesn't come forward, police can still get a warrant for the pair's arrest on felonious weapons charges, McCarthy said.

First degree criminal sexual conduct and kidnapping are both punishable by up to life in prison.

Pointes get GOP commissioner

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

For the first time in nearly a decade the Pointes have Republican representation on the Wayne County board of commissioners.

Grosse Pointe Park resident Andrew Richner collected 27,632 votes, scoring a narrow victory over Grosse Pointe Shores resident George Fitzgerald, who received 26,135 votes.

It was 7 a.m. the day after the election before Richner knew he had won, and he says some of his supporters still don't know it.

"People keep coming up to me and offering their condolences, but I won," Richner said. "With the huge voter turnout, especially in Detroit, which is so heavily Democratic, I thought it was over."

But heavy support in the Pointes and Harper Woods, where Richner soundly beat his opponent, was enough to carry the district. Richner also racked up more votes than any other 1st District Republican candidate.

Richner's election means there will be two Republicans on the 15-member board. The other is Thaddeus McCotter. Richner sees that as a chance for checks and balances to finally play a part in the county government.

"The county executive (Ed McNamara) is a Democrat and most of the board is, too," Richner said. "Now (the Republicans) have a seconder, so the motions will have to be voted on. We're in a position to make some changes. We think this is a great opportunity to get some good done."

Richner is currently a Grosse Pointe Park councilmember. He will resign that post later this year, before he is sworn in as a commissioner. As a commissioner he will receive $41,396 a year for his two-year term.

He also hopes to organize a Grosse Pointe Republican Club to allow Pointe Republicans to come together to discuss issues at monthly meetings. Those interested should call 822-5577.

Remember our vets

Twice each year America remembers veterans: Memorial Day and Veterans Day. These are rightful days of tribute to those who gave their lives, and to those who served America.

For those of us at the Department of Veterans Affairs, we remember veterans year-round as we respond to President Lincoln's call to "care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow, and his orphan."

Veterans Day reminds us every third person in America is a veteran or receives a veterans service. You may be a veteran or your spouse, Uncle Harry or Aunt Sally may be, a neighbor, your doctor, Realtor, grocer, banker, barber, anyone. Whoever they are, wherever, whenever, however they served, they are America's 27 million veterans: Men and women (4.4 percent are women) who were drafted, who volunteered, who served in the Guard and the Reserves — inactive and on federal duty, such as those in the Persian Gulf — and those who chose military service to their country as a career.

In caring for an estimated 990,000 veterans in Michigan, the VA distributed more than $903 million fiscal year 1991; more than $508 million went directly to veterans and their beneficiaries as compensation and pension, $7.7 million for readjustment and vocational rehabilitation benefits, and over $46.5 million for insurance and indemnity payments.

As wars become more distant history, the ravages of age and more recent wars change the profile for medical and compensatory care VA provides men and women veterans. Care for Michigan veterans during 1991 by five VA facilities included inpatient care to 26,100 veterans; ambulatory care to 582,000 and nursing home care to 2,500. VA spent more than $10 million for facility construction and more than $330 million for medical services and administrative costs.

In addition, VA guaranteed 4,600 home loans worth $303,910,000.

There were 60 internments in Fort Custer National Cemetery in Augusta, Mich.

Veterans Day, a reminder that America is No. 1, thanks to her veterans.

Lush loses to recession, youth ticket

In October 1991, shortly after Gov. Bill Clinton of Arkansas had announced his candidacy for the presidency, a Grosse Pointe News editorial pointed to the appeal that youth could make for the Democrats in 1992.

We concluded that the experienced Bush administration still would be a very difficult foe for even a Democratic "youth ticket" but that "it might be a good thing for the country to hear the views and aspirations of a younger generation of Americans in the 1992 campaign."

Now we are about to see whether that younger generation — as epitomized in a winning ticket of two baby-boomers born after World War II — will be able to make progress toward solving the nation's knotty problems, including the recession that still limits efforts to get the economy moving again.

With President George Bush leading Clinton by a 58 to 18 margin in Michigan public opinion polls at that time, we regarded Clinton's candidacy as just part of the Democratic effort to provide a token foe for the president in 1992.

The president was still riding high in the wake of the nation's clearcut victory in the Persian Gulf War — or what then was regarded as a clearcut victory — and Clinton was virtually unknown.

So how do we explain the election of the Democratic ticket?

In the nine days since the election, most observers have agreed that it was the recession that killed Bush's hopes for a second term.

Opinion

Like former President Jimmy Carter, Bush was too often seen as a failure because of the condition of the economy. With most world economies in a downturn, he was not alone as a national leader in trouble, nor was he alone responsible for the recession.

But it occurred on his watch; hence he was blamed. Yet he never seemed to "get it." He never seemed to understand how the recession really was hurting people everywhere, from Grosse Pointe to Kennebunkport.

True, he did not run a well-managed campaign. He relied too heavily on negative issues. He did not make effective use of his own excellent foreign affairs record. And his extreme, almost hysterical charges in the closing days were demeaning for a president to utter, even as a harassed candidate for re-election.

Conservatives generally deny that the Clinton victory indicates the conservative tide of the Reagan-Bush era is now ebbing, but perhaps it is, just as one of the GOP's own pollsters predicted as early as two years ago.

In his 1990 book, "Politics of Rich and Poor," Kevin Phillips warned Republicans that the enormous concentration of wealth in the United States in the 1980s — most of it in the hands of 1 percent of the people — would provoke a watershed change in American politics.

Phillips said the evidence was conclusive that the net tax burden on rich Americans as a percentage of their total income shrank substantially in the 1980s because of the sweeping cuts in tax rates proposed by Reagan and adopted by Congress.

He added that in the golden age of the late 1800s and in the 1920s, GOP policies had helped concentrate vast wealth in the hands of a few and that in each case it had led to repudiation of the GOP at the polls. His specific warning was that the policies of the 1980s were leading in the same direction — and toward another defeat.

He turned out to have been right. So today, instead of an elitist Yankee with an impeccable background and ancestry, we have as our 42nd president a "down-home old boy," an Arkansas traveler, if you will, whose rough edges have been honed by exposure to Oxford, Yale and Georgetown but whose experience has been chiefly limited to serving as governor of his native state.

With the Washington gridlock presumably at an end, we now should see whether "the views and aspirations" of President-elect Clinton and his vice president — those two victorious Democratic baby-boomers — will prevail.

We shall also soon learn whether President-elect Clinton is really the moderate who convinced enough voters that it was time for a change — and not the "tax and spend" Democrat the GOP painted him to be — as he seeks to lead his party to adopt national policies to help restore confidence and better times for all the people.

Let's all hope he can do it.

Shores wins 1992 voting derby

The Grosse Pointe communities take justifiable pride in their voting record and they lived up to their reputation again last week.

Overall, the Pointes cast 31,399 votes, which means 74.34 percent of the registered voters went to the polls. In short, almost three-fourths of the eligible voters cast their ballots.

In comparison, Wayne County posted a 66.80 percent voting record for its eligible voters and the nation as a whole reported an estimated 55 percent.

Once again, the Shores topped all the Pointes with 89.95 percent of its registered voters going to the polls. That means almost nine out of 10 eligible voters cast their ballots.

The Farms came in second with 80 percent, the City was third with 78.24, the Woods was fourth at 77 percent and the Park trailed with 62.23 percent.

The five Pointes backed George Bush for president by a 2-to-1 margin over Bill Clinton with Ross Perot running third. The results gave Bush his sixth straight victory in the Pointes since 1980 when Bush captured the state GOP presidential primary by defeating Ronald Reagan.

All the Pointes deserve congratulations for their voting records, with the Shores surely worthy of special commendation for that unusually high nine-out-of-10 record that won the Grosse Pointe sweepstakes award.

Pointe GOP cheers 2 victors

Despite President George Bush's defeat, Grosse Pointe Republicans found consolation in the victories of two of their own in district contests.

The winners were state Rep. William R. Bryant Jr. of the Farms, named to his 12th term in the 1st Legislative District; and Andrew C. Richner of the Park, elected a member of the Wayne County Commission from the 1st District.

Richner's victory in the commissioner race was impressive even though he defeated the Democratic nominee, George S. Fitzgerald, by fewer than 1,500 votes.

While Richner carried out a hard campaign, the district had given more votes to the Democrats than to the Republicans in the primary and was generally regarded as having a population that was evenly divided by party.

Richner is also believed to be the first Republican to represent the Pointes on the new county commission since its membership was cut to 15 under the Wayne County charter adopted in the 1980s.

He will not only give the Pointes a member more likely to be familiar with Grosse Pointe business and residents' views than his predecessor, Democrat David Cavanagh, ever was, but he will provide the GOP with a second voice on a board dominated by Democrats.

WCCC wins

Wayne County Community College finally sold the county electorate on a 1-mill property tax levy to keep the school operating.

The Pointes, however, did not go along, as they continued their opposition that prompted them to vote by better than a 2-to-1 margin against the tax increase for the second time this year. The measure had failed in the August primary.

Buoyed by strong support in Detroit, the measure passed by fewer than 2,000 votes of the more than 500,000 cast in the county.

Without the levy to replace an annual state appropriation now being phased out, the school would have had to sharply curtail its operations or perhaps even close its doors.

That would have been a loss to inner city residents who see WCCC as a major aid to their job and career prospects. That was the reason the Grosse Pointe News endorsed the levy, even though the Pointes already are suffering from high property taxes.

During the campaign, Richner told the Grosse Pointe News that he had already consulted some reform-minded Democrats who were willing to consider on a nonpartisan basis privatization moves and other changes to cut the cost of county government.

Bryant's re-election makes him the senior House Republican and would assure him the important post of chairman of the House Education Committee if the Republicans finally organize the lower house.

GOP gains on Nov. 3 left the House with an even split, 55-55, and the tie is expected to stay that way unless or until recounts or new elections change the results, or one side or the other wins one or more converts to its cause.

A similar tie in 1967 was broken when a Democrat defected to the GOP and made possible the election of Bob Waldron, then of Grosse Pointe and now of Okemos, as the Republican speaker. The Democrats took back control two years later and have kept it ever since.

In the event the GOP wins House control, Bryant has been assured of the education committee chairmanship but he is also a candidate for speaker pro-tem, the third-ranking leadership position.

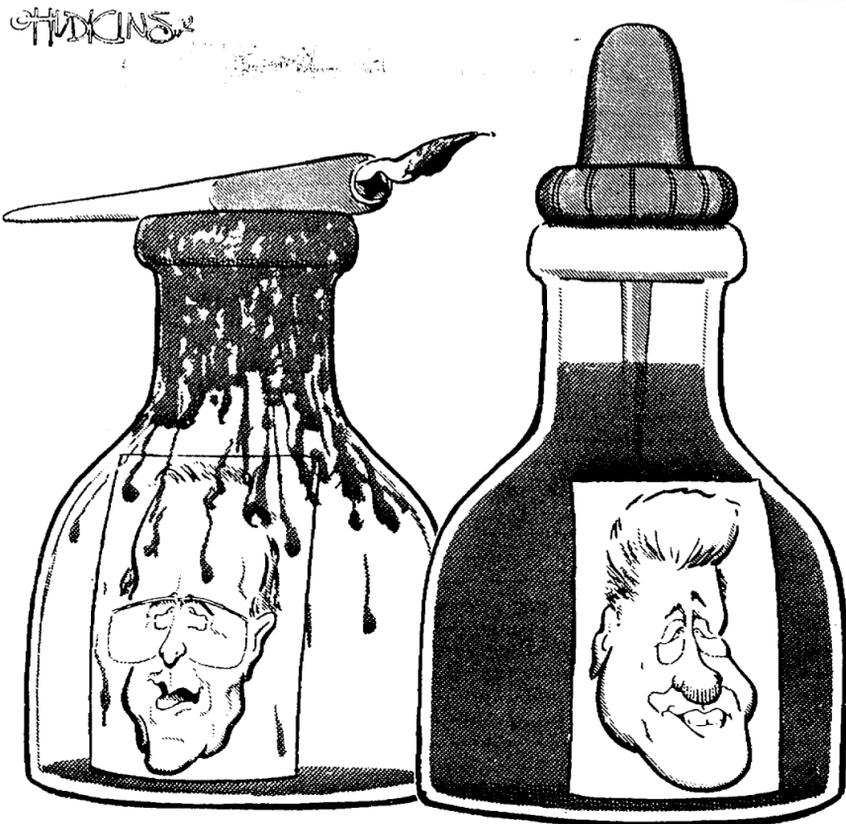

In the education post, which the Pointes would prefer that he take, should he have the opportunity, he would be in a position to protect the Grosse Pointe School District's interests even if, as reported, Gov. John Engler proposes a legislative version of Proposal C, which was defeated in a Nov. 3 referendum.

Through his re-election, Bryant may also have been able to preserve his current legislative district in a reapportionment action that is still pending.

During the campaign, he had warned that if the Democrats had their way on reapportionment of legislative districts earlier this year, the Pointes, along with Harper Woods and the far east side of Detroit, "would have looked like chopped spinach" with little pieces of the present district distributed in three or more districts.

He had feared that a GOP defeat might influence the three-member U.S. District Court panel, which has retained jurisdiction over legislative reapportionment, to decide to reapportion his district out of existence.

Bryant's re-election should end that threat and put a strong opponent of state school aid reduction in a good position to work against tax or school aid proposals that run counter to the interests of the Grosse Pointes.

From this cartoonist's viewpoint.... nice timing, Bill!

Letters

To the Editor:
I had always thought trick-or-treating was about candy. But this year after dreading "the invading hordes" and reading some of the solutions that the council members in the Park were considering, I realized that the candy is just the carrot on the end of the stick.

Trick-or-Treat is about conquering fear and expanding one's horizons. The candy is what entices children to do it. When my children were about 2 years old, they would watch me pass out candy to scary things that came to the door. They couldn't have any; it was just for those who came to the door.

At about 3 or 4, they would venture to a neighbor or two whom they knew. At 5 they started to expand to houses where

Each year the desire for candy led them farther afield as Dad faded further into the background.

This year our youngest decided that, at 15, maybe she should give it up. I had always said they couldn't go unless they went costumed. Maybe the real time to quit is when there is no fear to conquer and they can cover miles in an hour and a half.

I have reconsidered "the invading hordes," which I don't look forward to each Halloween. They come in car-loads, with little children often tired and scared, and adults in costume.

It can't really be about candy. Maybe these adults are still conquering fears and expanding horizons.

If so, then I think I should continue to pass out free candy after dark one night of the year until, I hope, we get to a point where it is mainly children who need this enticement.

Grosse Pointe

They've got their nerve — we suffer

I have a theory. The same person who strolled haughtily into our offices last week demanding — not asking nicely — several free copies of our newspaper is the same person you see waging verbal warfare on service employees everywhere.

You know who I'm talking about. This is the person who marches into your office, store, restaurant or shop with an ax to grind. Forget that this person is probably angry at her husband, or at his boss, or her kids, or those crazy "ozone" people out to save the spotted owl.

This person, and mind you "it" changes faces, age and gender constantly to remain inconspicuous, is of the mind that only his or her agenda is top priority. This person is on a mission, and any person or thing obstructing his or her way is nothing more than a piece of dirt to be kicked aside.

A case in point: the sour person mentioned above who darned our office doorway and demanded several free copies of the newspaper because a friend had been featured for a noteworthy accomplishment.

We told this person that we are a business, that we sell our newspapers to pay our bills. Dismissing this explanation as a bunch of nonsense, this person then demanded to speak to whomever it is that has the final word. After a few more minutes of unpleasantness, punctuated by foot tapping and icy stares, we decided it would be easier to placate the angry visitor than wage out-and-out war.

But the fact remains: newspapers are a business. Would you consider walking into any other place of business and demanding, say, a free sweater, a complimentary dinner or some extra cash? Add a weapon to that scenario and it becomes a felony.

I Say

Shirley A. McShane

I don't mean to be so naive as to believe no one gets a free lunch or a promotional T-shirt once in a while, but to assume you can waltz into a building full of total strangers, step all over everyone, and then balk because you weren't treated like some dear old friend? Come on.

What is it with these people? I know you know who I'm talking about. You see her barking at a bank teller for being so bold as to ask for a piece of identification before cashing a $5,000 check. If she doesn't get her way, she'll kick up her feet, demand to see the manager and then spout off about how much money she has on deposit.

Maybe you've seen him in the grocery store checkout line. After everyone has patiently waited 20 minutes to have their items rung up, this person will make everyone wait another 20 minutes while he argues about the price of a lousy head of lettuce.

Or she'll begin shouting when a clothing store clerk refuses to refund money for a white blouse that mysteriously developed a food stain after leaving the store.

If this person does not get his way, he'll feel compelled to execute a grand exit. He'll probably kick over a display of canned peaches and denounce the whole establishment as a group of conspirators responsible for the Kennedy assassination. And then to the relief of anyone within earshot, he'll proclaim he's never, ever going to shop in this store again.

I know we all have those bad days when things just don't go our way. A check bounces. Someone backs into your parked car and doesn't leave a note. Your candidate doesn't get elected. Whatever.

Is it really worth the high blood pressure to become so incensed over something as silly as a rule? I'm not talking about civil rights violations or crimes against humanity. I'm talking about those little things that make life run smoother and as fair as life will ever be. I'm talking about things like traffic lights, parking meters and the price of lettuce.

Isn't life too short?

Beating death: Did cops just lose it?

Suburban America is always shocked at evidence of police brutality. To judge from the comments of the people in the neighborhoods, however, it's a fact of life. And last week's beating death is only a more extreme example of what goes on every day.

We "civilians" can probably not even guess at the societal degradation that a cop sees daily; in that sense, we aren't in a position to know the pressures that may eventually cause an officer to break.

Nancy Parmenter

One tiny example was given to me by the Park's Bill Furtaw a few years ago, when he was a lieutenant in the detective bureau. Furtaw explained how police are supposed to approach a car they've pulled over: The officer takes a position to the rear of the driver's window — to make it harder for the driver to shoot.

Such a little thing, but it's so greatly suggestive of the danger that is a constant threat to police, even in a quiet place like the Pointes.

But of course no danger justifies the overreaction last week of some police officers in Detroit. If what both the newspapers and the police department say turns out to be true, a couple of cops just plain lost it. And reports suggest that they were a pair of tough cops, who kept the peace on their beat by threatening the neighborhood.

Somewhat that isn't a surprise. A gut feeling says that big-city police departments tend to attract tough law-and-order types, the type who won't tolerate even a little insubordination. And that the departments like it that way.

Some years ago, a man who wanted to join the Detroit force gave Bob's name as a reference (without asking Bob). When the department inquired, Bob, caught by surprise, said straight out that he didn't consider the man qualified to be a police officer because he was a bully with a hair-trigger temper.

The guy got the job anyway.

Seen it all department: A letter to the editor last week charged The Detroit News with being too liberal.

Gosh, everybody's rolling over for Bill Clinton. Columnists, analysts, the guy down the street, they're even using the "h" word, daring to hope that America will take a step toward a better world.

One writer even called Clinton and Gore "bright young knights."

That kind of talk terrifies me. It's like falling in love, wanting to trust, opening oneself to wondrous happiness — or the terrible possibility of rejection.

Meanwhile, the spurned former lover, in the person of Bob Dole, lurks in a dark corner, threatening to make things miserable for both of us. Yikes.

But that's the nature of the thing. We have to hope, we have to try to make it work with Bill. Because to do otherwise, to throw a monkeywrench in the works, to wish he'd fall on his face, is to wish some bad years on a country that desperately needs some good ones.

Besides, ya gotta love the guy.

We keep talking about how young Clinton is. Well, not only have we had two younger presidents (Teddy Roosevelt and Jack Kennedy — Ulysses S. Grant, an April baby, was four months Clinton's senior), this youth thing is all in our heads anyway.

It's because three of our last four presidents were older than 60 (a lot older, in one case). And because our old-timey presidents look such a fusty lot. In actuality, we've had more young presidents than old ones.

Of course, there are those who would quibble at 60 as the dividing line between young and old, but it works pretty well for presidents, if not for the rest of the youth-obsessed population.

OK, here goes: Ten presidents were 60 or older at inauguration; seven were 50 or younger (which leaves 24 between 50 and 60, for you numbers-impaired); between Buchanan (65) and Truman (60) there were 84 unbroken years of presidents younger than 56.

Candy (a.k.a. Brownie)

Shaggy dog story

Remember the hoopla about a lost dog in the North Oxford-Morningside-Birch Lane-Fairford neighborhood that appeared in this space Sept. 17 and Oct. 1?

The timid sheltie-like dog is still sleeping under bushes, snacking on handouts and drinking fresh water offered by kind neighbors. She's extremely wary of people and since last March, has eluded would-be rescuers in the form of neighbors, police, members of the anti-cruelty society and assorted veterinarians.

Residents have been trying to make friends with her for months, but she's extremely cautious and very smart.

Connie Kastran and Bev Sellars, two dog-lovers who live nearby, are worried about what will happen to Brownie (their name for her) when the flurries start to fly or when she wanders into traffic.

Like a true shaggy dog story, it's still unfolding.

The good news: The dog's owner has been found. Kastran was able to win the dog's trust and has been hand feeding her. She's afraid to grab the dog's collar or lunge at her, however, reluctant to destroy the trust that has taken weeks of patience to build.

While hand feeding the dog, Kastran memorized the number on a tag on her collar. A few phone calls tracked down the dog's owner. Kastran called the owner, who was overjoyed to find her lost pet, Candy.

Candy ran away from the owner's sister-in-law's house in

Margie Reins Smith

East Detroit last March, while the sister-in-law was dog sitting. The owner gave up searching for Candy after several months, believing she had been hit by a car and killed.

Kastran and Sellars arranged a big reunion between Candy and her owner.

The reunion was unsuccessful and the dog is still wandering around Grosse Pointe Woods while the owner is in tears most of the time.

Kastran and Sellars are looking for someone in the neighborhood who might know where the dog is during portions of the day when they can't find her. They need ideas and help to catch her.

Can someone entice Candy into a fenced yard, for instance, or a garage?

"We want to befriend this dog and return her to her owner before winter," Kastran said.

Call Margie at the Grosse Pointe News, 882-0294, if you have ideas about how to help.

Millender lecture is Nov. 13

"The Aftermath of the 1992 Election: Its Impact on Minorities and Urban America" will be the subject of the keynote address by noted political scientist Charles V. Hamilton at Wayne State University's 10th annual Millender Lecture and luncheon seminar from noon to 2 p.m. Friday, Nov. 13, at WSU's McGregor Memorial Conference Center.

Hamilton, a William A. Syre professor of political science at Columbia University, is recognized for his analyses on issues concerning minorities and politics. His latest book, "Adam Clayton Powell Jr.: The Political Biography of an American Dilemma," received national acclaim for its portrayal of Powell's turbulent era.

A special tribute will be held during the program in memory of Edward Cushman and Morris Gleicher, who were longtime supporters of the Millender fund.

The annual lecture is named for Robert L. Millender Sr., a prominent black Detroit attorney and political activist who served as campaign manager and strategist for numerous black elected Detroit officials during the 1960s and '70s. Millender died in 1978.

Don't endanger the children

To the Editor:

On election day, at Trombly School I was disturbed to find many cars parked in a "No Stopping, Standing, Parking 8 a.m.-4 p.m." zone on Essex. This is posted no parking for a very good reason - cars parked in this zone make it impossible for young safety children to see oncoming traffic without stepping out onto Essex.

With this in mind, I phoned the Grosse Pointe Park Public Safety Office and requested an officer be sent to ticket the offenders. I was informed that the parking restrictions are not enforced on election days. A public safety car patrols to make sure no crosswalks are blocked, but that is all.

What kind of policy is this? If it's not safe to have cars parked on Essex on any other school day, how can it possibly be safe on election day when there's much more congestion than usual? Isn't it obvious that of all days, it needs to be strictly enforced on election days?

We must not allow our children's safety to be compromised for the convenience of voters. These parking restrictions need to be enforced every school day - election or not. We can all afford to walk a few extra steps, but we cannot afford to endanger our children's lives.

Ratings

To the Editor:

Your recent editorial, "Detroit Bar ratings questioned" prompts me to send you a copy of a letter which I forwarded to Roger Lennert, executive director, Detroit Bar Association, on Oct. 9.

I just read the Detroit Free Press of Oct. 7, which contained the results of the Detroit Bar Association Committee charged with the responsibility of rating candidates for judicial office.

The article mistakenly was headlined "Detroit Bar Calls Talbott Unqualified; GOP Charges Bias." The committee may have reached such a decision, but not the bar association.

I believe you should take action immediately to have published a correction indicating that the decision of the Ratings Committee was not the decision of the Detroit Bar Association.

I have been a member of the Detroit Bar Association for 40 years. For many of those years, I served on Rating Committees and endeavored to reach a rational decision concerning the qualification of judicial candidates. I finally realized that the system was and is a failure and I refused to serve as a panel member.

Not enough information is submitted to Rating Panel Members about a candidate.

Often, the opinion of a Ratings Panel is a result of the opinion of one or two attorney members who have more knowledge and information about the candidate than the other panel members.

From election to election, the panel members change and candidates receive different ratings. The different ratings are based upon changes in panel members, not changes in the candidate's qualifications.

For example, a candidate in one election might receive a "qualified" rating as a Circuit Court candidate and then receive a "not qualified" rating for a District Court.

Political and racial bias have become more persuasive each year. Sometimes, candidates who were "Republican" or "conservative" or "white" have received lower ratings than other candidates of different political persuasion and of different race. Those ratings didn't reflect the candidates' qualifications.

The best example of the foregoing is the latest rating results. Giving Dorothy Comstock Riley a "qualified" rating, Michael Talbott a "not qualified" rating and Conrad Mallet Jr. a "well qualified" rating is ludicrous.

I am confident that if an independent poll was taken of the members of the Detroit Bar Association who have experience in dealing with these candidates, a contrary rating would be reached.

Since some of the ratings are inaccurate and irrational, continuation provides no service to the community and a great injustice to many candidates.

As a member of the Detroit Bar Association, I am embarrassed by the rating results and publication, and I apologize to Michael Talbott, Dorothy Comstock Riley and all other candidates who have received unjustified inferior ratings.

Inspired

To the Editor:

The following letter was sent to President-elect Clinton and is reprinted here at the request of the writer.

Congratulations on your victory. I have never written to a president before, but your campaign so inspired me that I felt the need to communicate with you personally.

I was born and raised in Houston, Texas, and moved to a suburb of Detroit with my husband in 1981. I have worked as a research nutritionist in cancer prevention for the past six years at the Detroit Medical Center which is located a few minutes from downtown Detroit.

I think the poverty, crime, decay and infant mortality in Detroit rivals that of any third world country. And what scares me most is how numb I have become to it driving back and forth to work over the years. To accept it is appalling to me, yet I feel helpless to change it.

I hope, Mr. President, that you are able to keep your campaign promises, to bring this country together again. It breaks my heart to know that 50 percent of the babies born to our largest medical center hospital are crack cocaine babies who probably won't survive their first year of life.

Detroit is the extreme example of government not working. It have lived and traveled throughout the entire United States (including your home state) and have never seen such devastation as exists in the inner city of Detroit. Blacks and whites are terrified of each other and it is unsafe to walk the streets of our city almost any time or any place.

You are the first president elected since the birth of my 3-year-old son, Max. I have decided to keep a scrapbook of the presidents elected since his birth. You will be the first in his book and I hope the one who starts the change to put our government on the right course. I want to take more responsibility to help move toward that change. Please let me know how I can help.

It's hard for me to believe that it is almost Thanksgiving, but "time stands still for no-one," including Operation LINC.

LINC is gearing up early this year for our Holiday Dreams 1992 program. Even though we began our corporate matching program late last year, it was very successful. We are assured that the program will be even better this year with an early start.

Basically, LINC matches corporations, schools, civic groups and churches with a non-profit group or needy families within an agency. Depending on the giving criteria of the benefactors some groups choose to adopt a children's group, others prefer a senior citizen's agency.

All in all, more than 40 different agencies and their clients were touched by LINC and their kind donors last year. Almost 3,000 gifts were distributed in one month's time.

It is not necessary for your group to buy gifts. Monetary collections enable LINC to purchase gifts at wholesale cost for many of the forgotten at the holiday time. Many senior citizens and young adults are left out of holiday giving programs throughout the city. Also, children's toys, hats, mittens and underwear were purchased for hundreds of children.

As far as distribution of donations, we at LINC leave that up to the donors. Most donations, both monetary and gifts, are collected at various donor sites. The gifts are then brought to our warehouse where the agency picks up the donation.

Some agencies pick up from the corporation. Sometimes the groups opt to share the holiday spirit by delivering the gifts themselves, and some even sponsor a holiday party. We also have corporations who are very generous in their giving, but choose to remain anonymous.

LINC takes the hassle out of philanthropy. All of our 80 plus agencies have gone through a thorough application process. They all must be tax-exempt. They all must prove a well-defined program. Your corporation or group can be assured that all donations are going to the right people.

Please call us early for your corporate match-up.

Any questions? Call Cindy at 882-6100 Monday through Friday 10 a.m. till 2 p.m. Also, an answering machine is always on to take your message.

The gift of friendship

Funny word, friendship... how do we relate to friends and they to us?

When we are hurting we wrap our friends around us like a favorite old bathrobe, warm and comforting.

We feel their embraces through unspoken words, acts of kindness, flowers, a meal prepared, phone calls — all serve to dilute pain.

Hugs soothe the aches simmering near the surface.

Friends can be buttresses and strong anchors when storms rage within.

Acts of friendship are all tributes of love, serving as a compass steering us on a steady course.

Friends are like a safe harbor or a loving nanny guiding a child through a dark and frightening corridor.

And there are the good times with our friends.

The times we share and laugh and celebrate our joys and victories and immerse ourselves in circles of friends drowning in each other's happiness and resurfacing to experience the sheer pleasure of feelings shared.

We are grateful to be blessed with so many dear friends, each unique, providing us with balance in our lives, a treasure trove of personalities always there to refuel and energize us, and hopefully, to occasionally be recharged by us in return.

College and the LD student

The Learning Disabilities Association of Grosse Pointe, in cooperation with C.A.U.S.E. (Citizens Alliance to Uphold Special Education), will present a program by Fran Gunderson on "Preparing Your LD Student for College," Thursday, Nov. 19, at 7:30 p.m. at Brownell Middle School.

Gunderson is a C.A.U.S.E. representative and is an instructor at Oakland Community College.

While post-secondary schools are not mandated to provide special educational services under the Michigan Special Ed Rules, they are required to provide an equivalent opportunity to learn and receive services under section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Gunderson will discuss what services are available at the college level, how to access those services, and how to prepare students to advocate for themselves in order to ensure their later success.

For students who desire an alternative to college, or need a more vocational high school and post-secondary program, information will also be available on options open to them.

LDA meetings are open to the public at no charge. Refreshments will be served.

Vet compensation increased

The Department of Veterans Affairs announced that compensation payments for disabled veterans will be increased by 3 percent, effective Dec. 1.

The cost-of-living allowance was included in legislation signed Oct. 24. The increase will be reflected in veterans' January 1993 checks.

Affected are some two million veterans whose monthly payments will range from $85 for a single veteran with a 10-percent disability rating to $1,730 for a single veteran with a 100-percent disability rating.

Also affected are some 312,000 survivors of service members or veterans who died from service-connected causes.

Veterans whose service-connected disabilities are rated at 30 percent or more may receive additional allowances for dependents, based on the number of dependents and the extent of disability.

Photos by Leah Vartanian

The Ferry PTO threw a party last month and about 700 people came, according to Jill Simmon, publicity chair. There was a down-home atmosphere with coney island dinners, petting zoo, jugband, magician, donut-eating contest, crafts and country clogger dancers. Co-chairs were Mary Huebner and Jerry Rauch. The miniature horse, at the left, was one of the animals brought by Domino Farms. Sixteen-month-old Megan Morath, above, of Grosse Pointe Woods, is intrigued by the tunes of Gerry O'Neil.

Lake 9 inches higher than a year ago

Lake St. Clair at the end of October was at elevation 574.95 feet above the mean water level at Rimouski, Quebec, or 32 inches above chart datum.

This was about 9 inches above what it was a year ago, and about 3 inches below one month ago.

The October monthly mean level of 574.95 feet was about 10 inches above the long-term average for October.

The lake, however, remained about 29 inches below the all-time high October monthly mean level, which was recorded in 1986.

The forecast shows that at the end of November, the level of Lake St. Clair will be about 6 inches below what it was at the end of October. The level of the lake is expected to continue its seasonal decline into January.

The water level in April 1993 is expected to be about 11 inches above the long-term average for that month, and about 2 inches above what it was at the same time in 1992.

Michigan group pushes to open adoption records

The Adoption Identity Movement of Michigan (AIM) is joining other search support groups throughout the United States in celebrating National Adoption Week, Nov. 22-28.

AIM is a volunteer-staffed search support organization whose main focus is to assist adult adoptees, birth parents and adoptive parents in searching for their birth parent/adult adoptee. It also assists adoptive parents in dealing with the feelings and emotions they feel during the time when their adult adoptee searches, or is found, by their birth parent.

An additional focus of AIM is help educate the public on issues relating to the opening of adoption records, and to work toward changing adoption laws. To accomplish this, AIM assists with legislation in Lansing, and attempts to assist the public through presentations in community education programs.

Under the current law, adoptees born prior to 1980 are unable to obtain identifying information regarding their personal heritage (ethnic, medical, extended family). Adult adoptees born after 1980 will be entitled to that information, based on the changes in the laws which took place during 1980.

Under the present law, both parties are required to file with the Central Registry in Lansing, in order for identifying information to be released. Under the proposed law, consent is automatically assumed unless a denial is filed by one party.

For further information, call Pam Zimmer, president, Adoption Identity Movement of Michigan, Inc. (AIM) 884-9222 or write to P.O. Box 812, Hazel Park, Mich. 48030.

This Pontiac Grand Am jumped the curb on Kerby at Kercheval in Grosse Pointe Farms after its driver attempted to make a left turn in front of a pickup truck about 12:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 6. Farms police said. The car had been traveling east on Kercheval, and the pickup, which was pulling a utility trailer, had been driving west on Kercheval. The woman in the Grand Am, who had minor injuries, received a moving violation ticket. The pickup and the three men inside were not hurt, said Officer Matt Weber who handled the incident.

Create Christmas in your home

Designer Judy Sieber will help you create the ambience of the holidays on Thursday, Nov. 19, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. She has ideas on how to create theme trees, enhance a class-sic tree as well as how to carry the theme throughout the house and into the yard.

The workshop is $10 a person. For more information, call 881-7511.

How to select, care for your Christmas tree

Choosing a tree can be fun. Here are a few simple guidelines that can make selection of a fresh, natural Christmas tree more fun and the best value for your money.

1. Determine where in your home you will display your tree so that you will be able to tell what size and shape you need.
2. Do a freshness test: The needles should be resilient. Hold a branch about 6 inches from the tip. Pull your hand toward the tip, allowing the branch to slip through your fingers. Needles should adhere to the branch and not fall off in your hand.

3. Another freshness test: Lift the tree a couple of inches off the ground, then bring it down abruptly on the stump end. Outside, green needles should not fall off in substantial numbers. Remember, inside needles do turn brown and shed naturally every year.
4. A good fragrance and green color indicate freshness.

Caring for your tree is easy — the most important thing to remember is that real trees need water — just like a fresh bouquet of flowers.

1. Make a fresh cut across the base of the trunk — about 1/4 inch is enough. When a tree is cut, a seal of sap occurs naturally over its stump which keeps moisture in the tree. It's important to break that seal to allow the tree to "drink" in the water needed to keep it fresh throughout the holidays.

2. Put your tree in a water holding stand immediately. If you are not ready to decorate it, put it in a bucket of water within 12 hours of making the cut.

3. Keep plenty of water in your stand. A Christmas tree may absorb a gallon of water in the first 24 hours it's up and several quarts of water thereafter.

4. Position your tree away from heat sources, fireplaces and television sets.

5. Be sure that all light cords and connections are in good working condition and not frayed. And don't forget to unplug the lights when you go to bed or leave home.

Self-defense for women, teens

The life you save may be your own. Simple, realistic defense techniques will be taught in a two-hour intensive program on Saturday, Nov. 21, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Instructor Katherine Rylien will cover how an attack is likely to occur, preventative measures as well as verbal and physical tactics. Suitable for women of all ages (including teens) and levels of fitness.

The cost is $15 a person. For more information, call 881-7511.

Bicycle hung

A 64-year-old man who lives on Lochmoor in Grosse Pointe Woods found his bicycle in the branches of his tree one morning recently.

The bicycle was stolen from his locked breezeway and tied in the tree with clothesline that had been cut down from his house.

Vandals also picked cucumbers from his garden, sliced them in half and placed them in the spokes of the bicycle wheels.

There were burn marks on the bicycle seat, and the antenna of a car that was parked in the driveway was broken.

The man said he has had trouble with youths in his neighborhood in the past.

Optimists to collect coats for needy

The Lakeshore Optimist Club of Grosse Pointe will sponsor its fourth annual Coats for the Cold Drive for inner-city families who don't have the means to provide for the wintery weather.

The drive will be held one month earlier this year, according to coordinators Marv Redlawski and Dave Hohlfeldt.

"Last year, we were about three weeks late with the delivery of the more than 500 coats we collected due to the cold weather which set in early," Redlawski said.

Members collected hats, gloves, down jackets, socks, boots and "every kind, size, color and shape of winter wear you could image," Hohlfeldt said. "After we delivered it to Holy Trinity Church, we understand that it was all given away within 24 hours."

The coordinators suggest that residents go through their closets and if they see items that haven't been used in a couple of years, there is a strong possibility the clothes will not be used. Donors are requested to place their clothing in a plastic bag on their front porch for pick up on Saturday, Nov. 21. Call the new GPOC hotline at 884-GPOC (884-4762) and leave the address where the clothes can be picked up.

While reproduced here in black and white, early morning light yielded subtleties and tones not obtainable under a noontime sun. Nagler made this photograph at Ash Cave in Ohio's Hocking Hills region.

How color film works

Most of us have been using color film for years and probably have not given much thought to how our film really works. Film is a photographic miracle we take for granted. Let's learn a little bit about it.

Color film contains three separate layers of light-sensitive emulsion that create an image according to the intensity of the light falling upon it during the brief instance of exposure.

One layer is sensitive only to red light, one to green, and the other to blue. At a particular stage in the development of the film, the image is dyed to the appropriate shade in each layer to reproduce the full range of colors in the original subject.

There are two basic types of color film; transparency (slides) and negative (prints). A negative film records light areas in the original scene as dark tones and dark areas as light tones.

Also, colors are shown in reverse so that anything blue will appear as a mixture of red and green which is yellow, anything green will record as a mixture of red and blue called magenta, and anything red as a combination of green and blue which is cyan. These are the complementary colors.

To make a print, the negative must then be exposed again to a similar emulsion on a paper base to convert the colors and tones back to those of the original subject.

With a color transparency, all of this process takes place when the film is developed.

Modern technology has made color films sensitive to even the slightest changes in the color quality of light. Unfortunately, we tend to notice only the drastic changes in light quality because the brain makes adjustments for what we see.

For example, grass will always appear to be green regardless of the color of light used to illuminate it, simply because we "know" that grass is green. We are rarely aware of color changes in daylight, yet they occur as surely as the sun rises and sets, and these variations are faithfully recorded on film. This accounts for the many surprises, and sometimes disappointments, when you see your processed prints for the first time.

The color quality of light is measured on what is called the Kelvin scale and is recorded as a color temperature. Most daylight balanced films are designed to give correct color values when the light source is about 5500 degrees Kelvin or approximately a noon sun. However, light from a rising sun can be as low as 3000 or as high as 8000 degrees on a hazy day.

When you consider that a variation of only a few hundred degrees will be quite noticeable when recorded on film, it becomes easy to understand how a photograph can appear with different tones of color than you thought you saw. It also explains how sunset and sunrise pictures have color values unlike those shots lit by a noon-time sun.

Cadillac Seville STS

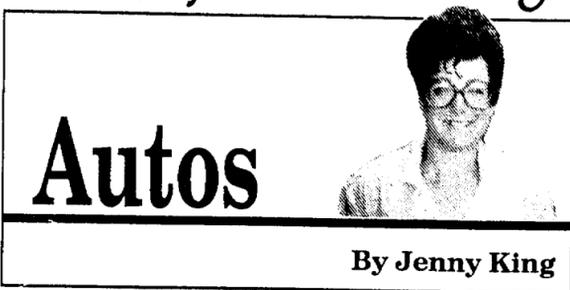

If you've secretly wondered why owners of new Sevilles drive around with smiles on their faces, we think we have the answer. The car is elegant, responsive, tight, quiet, confident and made right here in the Motor City at the Hamtramck assembly operation.

The STS we tested for a few days at the end of the '92 model year might drain your checking account, but at least you'll face bankruptcy in style as well as in a great frame of mind.

On closer inspection, the black four-door sedan was actually a deep plum color, in pleasant contrast to the tasteful taupe leather-trimmed interior. This car, substantially redesigned for 1992, began getting rave reviews as soon as reporters for the enthusiast magazines could get their gloved hands on Seville's leather-trimmed steering wheel.

Many expressed dismay at the conservative exterior design of the front-drive luxury sedan; likewise, for the re-skinned '92 Eldorado, whose boxiness also gives the impression that those responsible for the final styling decisions just couldn't let go.

For 1993, the Seville STS gets an astonishing new electronically controlled automatic transmission (the 4T80-E, for those of you who like to name-drop) that seems to be able to do anything, like providing immediate, smooth, powerful acceleration when the car already is moving at, say, 70 mph and is dawdling in over-drive.

Autos

By Jenny King

This transmission is packaged with the 295-horsepower 32-valve, four-cam Northstar V-8 for thrill-a-minute driving. In our 1992 STS, we had a more conventional 275-horsepower 4.9-liter V-8 with just two valves per cylinder. The Northstar engine debuted earlier in the Cadillac Allante, and got under Seville's hood for 1993.

So, performance aside, what do you get for your $40,086? Just the usual: Delco-Bose sound system with disc player; heated windshield system and heated front soft leather seats; day-night rearview mirror that keeps headlights from behind from blasting you in the eyes; a theft-deterrent system and remote keyless entry; ABS brakes; power everything; and a driver-side air bag.

A feature found on General Motors' high-line products is the radio that continues to play after the ignition key is removed and until a door is opened. A few extra measures of Vivaldi is quite nice before exiting this can-do Cadillac that proves each time it's on the road how much it likes to drive.

Chevrolet S-10 Pickup

About the only option the rascal had was air-conditioning, warned Nancy Libby in Chevrolet's Warren-based PR department as she signed up for the compact truck. Room for two, maybe three on its comfy bench seat, this Chevy S-10 pickup, despite its lack of amenities — for heaven's sake, we even had to crank the windows down all by ourselves — is still a fun-to-drive vehicle that's fairly emotional to buy and operate.

The base engine, a 2.5-liter four, with five-speed manual transmission on a rear-drive vehicle, gets up to 27 mpg and has an estimated cruising range of 540 miles from a full 20-gallon fuel tank. Opening price on the S-10 is about $9,000.

There are a variety of ways to order an S-10. It has a regular cab or optional extended cab with side-mounted jump seats. There is a regular pickup bed and an extended version. In addition to the 105-horsepower 2.5-liter engine (not very peppy), Chevy offers a 125-horsepower 2.8-liter V-6 and its hefty 160-horsepower 4.3-liter V-6. The S-10 comes in rear-drive and four-wheel-drive configurations.

Yes, despite the fact that in the regular cab there's no place to put your stuff — especially if you have a passenger — unless your stuff is such that it can be exposed to the elements in the pickup part of the truck; despite the fact there wasn't even the luxury of a sliding rear-glass window or any kind of defogger on that window; despite the glaring absence of a cup-holder; and despite the bouncy ride, the S-10 remains one of our favorites.

We like riding up a little higher; the visibility is neat, and for some reason, it's just good for tooling around. This is a relatively small vehicle — its overall length starts at 178.2 inches, which is 4 inches shorter than the compact Corsica sedan. Its cabin is about the same size in hip and shoulder room as the front seat of the Corsica.

The S-10, you may have noticed, has looked like it does for several model years. A makeover has been scheduled and rescheduled, a victim of GM's need to keep costs down. Our most recent information is that a new version will debut sometime in 1994 as a '95 model. Stay tuned.

Nissan Maxima

Once upon a time, the Nissan Maxima was a Datsun 810. It was boxy. It looked uncomfortable and awkward standing next to its more popular brothers, the little 210 and the slightly larger 510. But Nissan didn't give up. It stayed with the family-size car in its U.S. lineup, renamed it the Maxima and eventually rounded off its sharp edges to produce the trend-setting Maxima it sells today.

With its current styling, the elegant Maxima attracted immediate buyer attention. Maybe they also liked the Maxima because it looks like the BMW 5 series sedans, but costs many thousands of dollars less.

We like the Maxima because it is a quiet, smooth, responsive, elegant passenger car that does everything well and looks good in the process, in either its luxurious GXE or sporty SE trim versions.

Standard powerplant in the GXE is a 160-horsepower 3.0-liter single overhead-cam 12-valve V-6, teamed with an electronically controlled automatic transmission, four-wheel independent suspension and power-assisted rack-and-pinion steering. This is an engine that is so quiet you'll keep reaching for the ignition key when stopped at red lights because you can't hear it or feel it and you think you have stalled. You haven't.

The SE is immediately recognizable by its body-colored rear spoiler and standard driving lights. This hotter machine has a 190-horsepower dual overhead-cam, 24-valve version of the same 3.0-liter V-6 and choice of five-speed manual gearbox or four-speed automatic. If you pick the manual shift, you also get Nissan's unique viscous limited-slip differential.

The V-6 GXE is the luxury — and cheaper — version of the 1993 Nissan Maxima. The Maxima SE is hotter.

Cadillac's very strong 1993 bid to regain its "Standard of the World" crown is the Seville Touring Sedan.

Founded in 1954, the Michigan Sports Hall of Fame is considered the prototype for all state halls of fame, Burton said. It is also well-known because of its founder.

"Kerbawy was unique, to put it mildly," Burton explained. "Because the hall was new and because of Kerbawy's style, he made some decisions that caused some sports writers to cast him in disfavor."

The hall of fame occupies the corridors of the new Cobo Center in downtown Detroit. Plaques commemorating 164 of Michigan's best professional and amateur sports men and women, coaches and sports writers and announcers line the walls.

As a four-year member of the hall's board of directors, Burton said the board has been responsible for generating financial support for the hall from Detroit's four professional athletic teams. In addition, the board hired the Detroit accounting firm of Deloitte-Touche to audit the vote count each year.

Michigan sports writers and announcers nominate and vote for five candidates each year, Burton said. The hall's board of directors is responsible for fundraising, maintaining the plaques and conducting the annual induction dinner.

As chairman of the hall of fame, Burton said he has two immediate goals: finding a permanent home for the hall and establishing an "old-timers" award category.

Committees have been formed to explore both goals, he said.

While the original plaques would remain at Cobo Center, Burton said the board of directors would like to establish a room or a building where replicas would be on display along with local sports photographs and memorabilia.

He also believes that many

sports giants from bygone eras need to be recognized.

"Sportscasters and writers are getting younger every year," he said. "Many of the heroes from other eras are forgotten and don't get the consideration they should."

Coupled with Burton's love for sports is his enthusiasm for the advertising industry. Burton currently is vice president and management supervisor at the Bozell Inc. advertising agency in Southfield.

"I enjoy the business I'm in," he said. "It's as exciting today as it was the day I started. I look forward to getting up in the morning and going to work; it's a great blessing."

Following service as a photographer in the U.S. Army Air Force during World War II, Burton studied journalism at Michigan State University.

"As a class assignment I was given the job of being an assistant to Kerbawy, then sports information director at MSU," he said. "The word 'assistant' was overstated. As the typical student assistant, I was really a 'gofer' and I loved it."

Burton said he played football and baseball at MSU, although never well enough to make first string.

Burton graduated and Kerbawy went on to serve first as Detroit Lions' general manager and then as the Detroit Pistons' general manager. During that time, the two maintained contact.

Burton landed a job at the Maxon Advertising Agency. Although Detroit-based, Maxon had national accounts, including Gillette, he said.

"Gillette was the first to use sports as a vehicle to sell products," he said. "The thing most remembered was 'Gillette Friday Night Fights.' In those days it was a ritual. If you were a man, you gathered around the set on Friday nights with a case of beer and watched the fights. For a frustrated jock who never made it, it was a great marketing experience."

After working at Maxon for 14 years, Burton opened his own agency, Burton Advertising, which he ran for 20 years.

For various reasons, Burton said he closed his agency in 1985 and took a job at J. Walter Thompson U.S.A. as director of its retail division. After six years, Burton joined DDB Needham as vice president and supervisor of business development. In 1992 he was hired at Bozell.

Best known for its ad campaign using Lee Iacocca as spokesman for Chrysler Corp., Bozell Advertising represents a number of local and national companies, Burton said.

Equally important as his love for sports and advertising is Burton's devotion to his family and community.

"I was raised believing you are supposed to give back to the community," he said.

Burton was born in Detroit and raised on Manistique in a neighborhood bordering Grosse Pointe.

His father was a Detroit police officer and later owned Riley Burton's Bar on Kercheval and Alter Road (the current site of the City Limits Bar), a popular watering hole for many of Detroit's movers and shakers.

"My father was the last John Wayne. That's how everyone referred to him. Being a police officer, he knew how to handle himself. His bar was his customers' living room and you had better mind your manners," he said.

His mother did volunteer work for many years at the family's church — Jefferson Avenue United Methodist.

"Her whole life was her children and her grandchildren," he said. "And the church was the source of her energy; she is the most intrepid soul I know."

His only brother is chief operating officer of the Detroit Radio Advertising Group and his son, Barry, is in real estate, he said.

Burton has served on the United Way committee since 1956, is a founding member of the Michigan Parkinson Foundation, and is a founding member and past president of the Detroit chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences. Currently he is a representative delegate for the southeast Michigan chapter of the American Lung Association.

South principal embarks on education mission to spread word on OBE

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Algebra is not an event that occurs once a day in a typical high school students' life.

Algebra is a set of competencies that every student can master.

Students awarded a diploma after 12 years of education should know more than reading, writing and arithmetic.

Students, upon graduation, should be quality producers, self-directed learners and problem solvers.

These and many other premises are part of a new educational approach being touted by the High Success Network, an organization of educators who have been working for more than a decade to restructure the K-12 educational system.

John Artis, Grosse Pointe South High School principal, is a member of the High Success Network, and will participate in an international program in 1993 to share information with other school districts and bring ideas back to Grosse Pointe.

The Grosse Pointe board of education approved Artis' request for a temporary leave of absence at its Nov. 2 meeting. Artis will be allowed a maximum of 32 absence days between February and June. He will not be paid for days absent.

While he is away from the district, Artis will teach other schools, districts and state departments of education about Outcomes Based Education (OBE). Developed over the last 25 years, OBE is not necessarily a new method of teaching, Artis said. In fact, some of its principles resemble pre-20th century teaching styles, he said.

The best way to understand what OBE is all about is to compare the current educational system with the principles of OBE's restructuring approach, he said.

The current system is time-based: students are expected to learn a particular subject in a set amount of time. The system is also based on a "select and sort" process in which students are directed toward either higher education, vocational training or entering the job market after graduation.

"While that system was fine 20 years ago, it won't work today," Artis said. "Students exiting high school don't have the great job opportunities available 20 years ago."

OBE structures education so that every student leaves high school with the necessary skills and the ability to demonstrate mastery of those skills. In addition, it removes the rigidity of the current system, allowing students more time, if needed, to master a subject.

"One OBE premise is that all students can learn," Artis said. "The old school of thought was that some students can learn in the time provided. It's not that teachers have this belief; but from a system-wide view, that can happen based on a lack of time."

Another OBE premise is that success breeds success. It is the schools' job to build on student achievement. The old way focuses on failure as a motivator. If a student receives a poor grade, it will motivate him or her to improve. OBE also assumes that schools can control the conditions for success, a departure from the idea that the conditions for success are tied to the home and to society. Artis said OBE is a system of greater accountability on the schools' part.

"The idea has a clarity of focus," he said. "Before, we had multiple focuses. If you have clarity of focus, you have to add to that high expectations. Traditionally, schools have high expectations for some and accept lower expectations for others."

OBE is implemented in a school through the "design down" system, Artis said. First, a goal or mission statement is drafted. Then, educators must backtrack, defining each successful step leading toward the goal.

Artis offered an example from his experience at another school district. A decision was made that every student will have an algebra class and every student will pass algebra with a high level of proficiency. Some of the students mastered algebra in less than nine months. Others required additional time, he said.

If the student failed algebra or fared poorly, that student would not repeat the entire course the following year, he said. The student would study an additional two to four weeks, concentrating on the areas of difficulty. Or the student would sharpen weak points using a computer tutorial program.

"There are a lot of possibilities," he said. "But the basic message to the student is: 'We need to give you another chance.'"

In order to make such a system work, Artis said more than teachers have to change. The whole system has to be restructured.

"Teachers alone cannot be held accountable," he said. "And this is important because a lot of what teachers do is called into question. They are just doing what they're told to do. They need to operate in a different kind of school system."

Artis said OBE also suggests a different type of school day should be implemented. He gave an example but cautioned it is not to be considered a definitive model.

The seven periods of 47-minute classes could be replaced with joint classes taught in larger time blocks. For instance, English/social studies/foreign language would be taught in a 90-minute time block. This, he said, would allow a student to spend more time in an area of difficulty and less time covering a topic that is already understood.

Artis said the Grosse Pointe school district is not using this program and it has not been officially endorsed by the school board, although the high schools are experimenting with some of the concepts.

"We are experimenting with some ideas in the high schools," he said.

Board of education president Gloria Konsler said the district is not ready to embrace OBE to the exclusion of other educational approaches but it encourages everyone to use the concepts in the classroom.

At the board of education's Oct. 12 meeting, school superintendent Ed Shine discussed the formation of a high school of the future committee. He said the study should challenge every assumption, every structure and every organizational relationship to assess the high schools' alignment with the district's mission statement. Shine said he hoped to report study findings to the board by June 1993.

100,000 in Michigan aren't aware they have diabetes

Half of the people with diabetes in Michigan don't even know they have an incurable, life-threatening disease — and many never will until they are confronted with one of its terrifying complications: heart or kidney disease, stroke, blindness, amputation.

During November, designated National Diabetes Month, the American Diabetes Association is stepping up its efforts to find the estimated 100,000 Michigan residents unaware of their diabetes.

To help people determine whether they are at risk, the Michigan Affiliate will distribute free written diabetes risk-assessment tests throughout the state.

"Too many people in Michigan are walking around with a disease that can eventually rob them of their sight, their health, or even their life," said Robert Jacober, D.O., president of the American Diabetes Association, Michigan Affiliate.

People need to know that diabetes is serious, especially if it goes undiagnosed.

Nationally, the rate of diabetes has increased from 5 percent to 6 percent. For Americans 20 to 74, their chances of developing diabetes increases to 16 percent. Michigan residents have an even greater likelihood of developing diabetes than the average American. The rate of diabetes in the state is estimated to be as high as 7 percent to 8 percent.

The rate of diabetes in minorities is higher than in whites. The rate in African Americans is 10.2 percent and 13 percent for Hispanic Americans.

According to the Michigan Department of Public Health, diabetes caused the deaths of 6,700 state residents in 1990. Approximately 8 percent of all Michigan deaths can be attributed to diabetes. National figures indicate that 150,000 Americans die annually from diabetes and its complications.

"Take the written test and know the score," says Dr. Jacober, a diabetologist with Wayne State University's School of Medicine, referring to the American Diabetes Association diabetes risk-assessment test. "The two minutes it takes to complete our written self-assessment test could be the most important two minutes you'll ever spend," he said.

An estimated 14 million Americans have some form of diabetes, but only 7 million are aware they have it. In Michigan nearly one-half million residents have this chronic metabolic disease.

Diabetes is a disease in which the body does not produce or properly respond to insulin, a hormone needed to convert food into energy. The resulting high blood sugar levels can severely damage the heart, blood vessels, kidneys, eyes, and nerves.

Diabetes is the fourth leading cause of death by disease in the United States. This year alone, 750,000 new cases will be diagnosed.

The American Diabetes Association is the nation's leading voluntary health organization supporting diabetes research, advocacy, education, and patient programs. Founded in 1940, the association supports an affiliate office in every state and provides services in more than 800 communities nationwide.

For more information about National Diabetes Month activities in Michigan, call the American Diabetes Association, Michigan Affiliate, weekdays between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. at 1-800-525-9292 or 552-0480.

Take those dares, they'll keep you alert, interested

Dare, dare, double dare — the challenge of my childhood. Boy to boy, or girl to boy, it pushed the "daree" to show his colors. It made him dive off the high board when he had just graduated to the low board, or ask the class beauty for a dance. I dare you! I dare you! I double dare you! It was the taunt that tested one's courage or need for acceptance or admiration.

And what has that to do with your health at 60, 70 or 80 or beyond? Perhaps you don't remember those challenges that made your heart pound fast just before you took the world's worst belly flopper or when you tapped that beautiful dream girl for a cut-in. Or many other occasions ending in rebuffs or half failures and, surprisingly often, in success.

And didn't those dares, expressed less blatantly, go through your '30s and '40s? Dares in a sense from within. "I know it's risky but it sounds promising and I've looked into it," so you invested. Maybe you lost or didn't gain, or maybe it turned out to be the best investment you ever made.

Senior Health

By Dr. Roger O. Egeberg

Perhaps you had an opportunity to go from assistant manager of a plant in California to manager of a similar one in Ohio, with a pay boost. You would be leaving an organization where the employees all knew and trusted you, to try to establish a name in a strange town. "Can I turn that feeling around? And if we move, it's new schools for the children and new friends for us." You took that dare and it worked out. Did a double dare ever cross your minds while you and your wife were talking over that decision?

Larger or smaller, the dares are these, often small decisions, or now and then challenges. They change and in the 60s, 70s and 80s in a different environment, they are just as important for the rest of your life as those of earlier adulthood.

The dare, the challenges relate to you and the world about you. Let's say we see it from the point of view of a frail older person. The challenge is more often within:

"Can I walk over to Susan's for a cup of tea and chat?"

"Can I have Harriet and Helen in for supper?"

Or it may come in responding to:

"How about coming down to the church bingo game with us?"

"Why don't you help me down at the community center? We're up to our ears in politics, and I'm sure you and I are on the same side."

"Join me, I've got to mail a letter and I'll treat you to a Danish and a cup of coffee afterward."

Those dares, those challenges can open up your life rather than letting it close in on you. Meet them. Take them, be they physical or social. They can keep you alert, interested, and independent of others' help. Talking, doing and playing — you can't do them alone. Do them with others. Keep taking those dares.

Nurses Bogle, Bush honored

With Bogle, R.N., a home coordinator at Harper Hospital, was one of eight people to receive the Ability Based Most Able award.

Bogle coordinates the transition of patients from hospital to home for patients, many of whom have complex home treatments because of cancer. A cancer survivor, Bogle has worked at Harper for 24 years. She lives in Grosse Pointe Park.

Also receiving the Most Able award was Mary Anne Bush, R.N., formerly of Grosse Pointe Park, now living in Detroit.

Bush is a senior community health nurse with the Visiting Nurse Association of Southeast Michigan. She provides in-home care and outreach education, primarily in the Cass Corridor.

her profession for nearly 40 years, Bush received the Nurse of the Year award from the Detroit News and Free Press. She was also a Pointer of Interest in the Grosse Pointe News in January 1991.

The awards, presented at a luncheon Oct. 29 co-sponsored by AARP, Comerica, Henry Ford Health System, Michigan Bell and WDIV-TV, are under the aegis of Operation ABLE (Ability Based on Long Experience) of Michigan. INTRODUCING THE BMW 740i. A CAR BUILT AROUND A PHILOSOPHY BUILT AROUND A DRIVER.

Some companies build their cars around a price tag. Some build their cars around a gas tank. And some, well, they just build their cars around mere cosmetics.

At BMW, however, we've always believed an automobile should satisfy all the needs of its driver. Not just one or two of them.

So it's not surprising that we decided to build the 740i around you.

AN EIGHT-CYLINDER TESTAMENT TO THE DRIVER.

If BMW builds the ultimate "driver's car," then this must be the ultimate "driver's engine."

Five years in the making, our 4.0-liter V-8 was tested to run, at redline, for over 100,000 miles straight. And showed no signs of wear.

It had sand blasted right into its intake. And didn't falter.

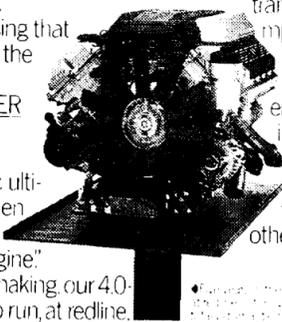

It had ice blasted into its radiator. And didn't miss a beat.

All so that you, the driver, would have a powerful engine capable of transporting you from 0-60 mph in a scant 7.1 seconds.

A fuel-efficient engine due to its featherweight engine block that was cast in aluminum.

And finally, a reliable engine that could survive the kinds of real-life tests other engines couldn't.

Which, in our opinion,

makes those five long years more than worth the effort.

THE VELVET GLOVE APPROACH TO POWER: A 5-SPEED AUTOMATIC.

Linking the driver to this standard-setting power plant is a new 5-speed automatic transmission that is certainly no less noteworthy.

First, because it's sealed, so it requires no additional fluid — and thus, no maintenance whatsoever. And second, because this whisper-quiet, 5-speed automatic upshifts with such "unrivaled silkiness" (Road & Track), it reacts almost intuitively to your commands.

And when you combine that with a chassis, suspension and steering system an editor at Motor Trend magazine deemed "tight, responsive, and confidence-inspiring," the idea of building a car around a driver starts to sound quite compelling.

Of course, this philosophy extends to the entire driver's environment. So the 740i is endowed with everything from driver and passenger-side airbags to all the gathered Nappa leather, burnished walnut trim and various other creature comforts you would expect of a leading luxury car.

And it's covered by a customer care program that includes a 4-year/50,000-mile bumper-to-bumper warranty, a nationwide Roadside Assistance program, an optional, full coverage maintenance plan and a free loaner car if you ever need one.

For more detailed information on the $54,000* BMW 740i, or on the longer-wheelbased 740L, simply call 800-334-4BMW. Or visit your authorized BMW dealer for a test drive.

And see what can be achieved when a car company views the driver as a starting point instead of an afterthought.

THE ULTIMATE DRIVING MACHINE.

Sam Khatib
ULS Class of '91
Entered ULS in First-Grade, 1979
Sophomore,
Duke University

At University Liggett School, we take great pride not only in our outstanding record of college placement, but also, in the preparation we provide to assure our graduates' academic success in college.

Sam Khatib entered ULS as a first-grader in 1979. This year, he is a sophomore in the liberal arts program at Duke University. Sam maintained a 3.3 GPA in his first year at Duke, where he also was an avid participant in intramural sports. Sam found a high level of work and considerable academic pressure at Duke, but says, "ULS did a lot in getting me ready for college. The adjustment to college work was not as tough for me as for some of my friends who came from public schools."

ULS seeks students who, like Sam Khatib, want a serious college preparatory experience. We also welcome families interested in the finest quality education for their pre-school, lower school or middle school child. To find out more about University Liggett School, visit our Open House on Sunday, November 15, from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m.

Let us show you the excellent educational experience we offer to children of all ages.

Honored singers

Bill Drummy and Greg Sharrow from Grosse Pointe South, left and right, and Haley Schollenberger and Bronwen Hupp, center, from Pierce Middle School were chosen from auditions of 300 students at Central Michigan University to be members of the 1993 state seventh, eighth and ninth grade SATB Honors choir. The students memorized a classical music selection and were chosen for their musicianship, vocal tone, blend and musical accuracy. The students will travel throughout the state and perform at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor on Jan. 23.

x-students honor teachers

A dozen teachers from public and private schools in the Grosse Pointe area had their names added to the ranks of educators named in "Who's Who Among America's Teachers 1992."

The teachers were named by former students who are listed in a similar publication recognizing the top five percent of high school and college students in the United States.

Students were asked to nominate teachers who made a significant difference in their lives by helping to shape their values, inspired interests in a particular subject or challenged them to strive for excellence.

Local educators honored in the publication include: Janice Ellen Hendrie, Grosse Pointe South High School; Liza Ann Rogers, Our Lady Star of the Sea High School; Katherine Paige Brouwer, retired secondary English teacher; Anne Elizabeth Cowley, Grosse Pointe South High; Daniel Griesbaum, Grosse Pointe South; Cecil Gatlin Keith, Grosse Pointe North High School; Mildred Prieb Leverenz, retired kindergarten teacher; Donald J. McGaugh, Brownell Middle School; Werner Schienke, Grosse Pointe South High; Margaret Spindler, Our Lady Star of the Sea Elementary School; John Herbert Wargelin, Grosse Pointe North; and George Yacup, Grosse Pointe South.

Pet mental ills can be cured

Jackie Owens of Clinton Township inquired about animal behavior specialists after her dog was professionally diagnosed as having a psychological disorder called "submissive behavior," or constant wetting. I suggested she contact the Animal Behavior Institute in Royal Oak.

Jim Lessenberry, a professional animal behavior therapist at the institute, and his colleagues dedicate themselves to understanding behavioral disorders in animals and the profound effect they have on families as a whole.

These disorders disrupt ordinary routines and can stir pangs of discouragement and frustration, which sometimes leave a family feeling there's nothing left to do but surrender the animal or put it to sleep. Such drastic action is premature and almost always unnecessary. The institute has a tremendous success rate and is a logical and humane alternative.

If your vet diagnoses submissive behavior, consider getting a second opinion. If the two opinions differ, inquire about further medical tests. However, if the two diagnoses are consistent, your next step should be a visit to the institute. Here, a clinical analysis will determine whether your pet truly suffers from a behavioral dysfunction.

The clinical evaluation lasts about 1-1/2 hours and involves an initial interview, your pet's exam and possible tests and consultation. The institute requires all previous veterinary information (doctors' names and phone numbers) to ensure immediate access to your pet's health history, test results and any medications or treatments previously prescribed. Evaluation costs vary, but generally run $85 (quite reasonable when compared with the cost at other clinics).

From the moment your pet arrives, it's observed carefully and assessed by trained technicians and animal behaviorists. When the evaluation is complete, you'll meet with the behaviorist to discuss his or her findings and possible treatment.

The institute's staff has impressive credentials and comes highly recommended by the Michigan Humane Society, which sponsors community service seminars and lectures provided by the institute.

Since Jim Lessenberry is my dog Casey's obedience teacher, I've experienced firsthand how terrific Lessenberry and the institute are. Casey wasn't adopted based on his resume, so we had no idea what he endured at his previous home.

He, too, displayed signs of psychological dysfunction, but after a few obedience classes, we learned how to view Casey and his world from his perspective. With the aid of Lessenberry and his assistants, we've successfully overcome several of the problems that Casey faced.

The institute's staff has a positive outlook for pets with behavioral disorders, and its philosophy that most problems can be fixed if properly diagnosed is reinforced by the example of a 6-year-old dog who was diagnosed with submissive behavior.

The family, at wits end and ready to put the dog to sleep, brought him to the institute. Fortunately, evaluation showed that the problem was not submissive behavior, but an irregular skin flap on the dog's bladder that went undetected by the pet's veterinarian. The dog underwent surgery, and the problem was successfully corrected.

Behavioral problems can be difficult to detect and begin at a very young age — usually within the first few weeks of life with litter mates. Sadly, depending on the animal's living arrangements and surroundings, these disorders can stay with them throughout their lives if not accurately identified and corrected.

Problems like submissive behavior usually have underlying causes that are accompanied by warning signs or "red flags." It's important to your pet's health and overall well-being, that you recognize any red flags for what they are and take action. With the help of your veterinarian or behavioral facilities like the Animal Behavior Institute, your family and your pet can live long and happy lives together.

The institute is on Woodward Avenue, just south of I-696, and is open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., allowing families the advantage of evening and Saturday afternoon appointments. For more information, call 542-4044.

HEALTHWATCH

An early warning sign of heart disease.

The overworked heart

Even if you're slightly overweight, you're increasing your risk of heart disease. When your body has a higher fat content, your heart has to work harder to circulate blood around the extra fat. It may also raise your blood pressure, your cholesterol and your chances of contracting diabetes. Fortunately, a few simple changes can make a difference.

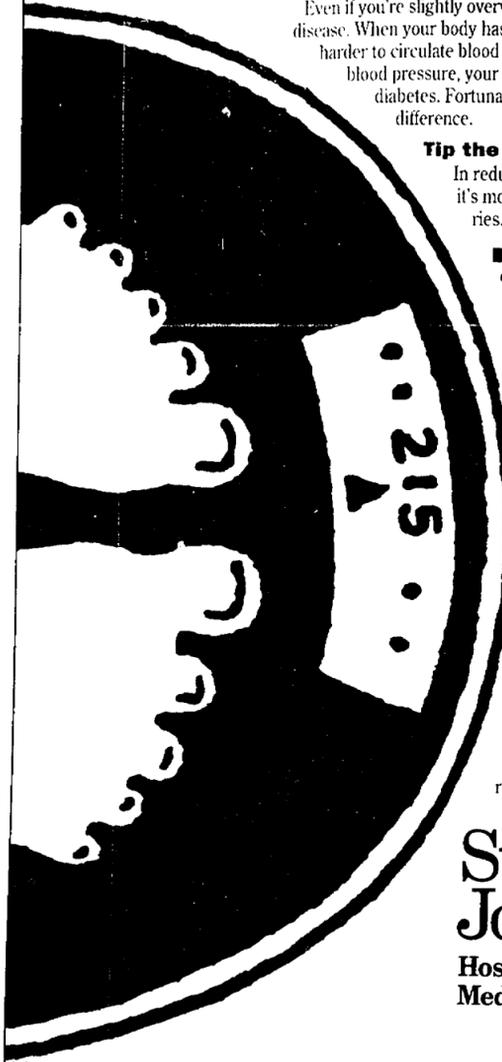

The scales in your favor

In reducing health risks and lowering your weight, it's more important to count grams of fat than calories. A few guidelines may help:

- Less than 30% of your daily calories should come from fat
 - Less than 10% should come from saturated fats
 - Steer away from animal-based foods (whole milk, butter, cheese, ice cream, meats). They're rich in saturated fats
 - Palm and coconut oils are also highly saturated
 - Canola, safflower, corn, soybean and sunflower oils are low in saturated fats
- Exercise is also important. It not only burns fat, it may reduce your LDL "bad" cholesterol and increase your HDL "good" cholesterol.

"I can't see the tower is absurd and illogical," said Kim Mando. "Why plant more trees? They'll just cut them down."

The school administration decided in October to spare the trees. But SAVE members are worried that the decision may only be temporary.

"What we heard is that you're not going to cut down the trees now; they put it on the back burner," said SAVE president Kelly Breslin.

"This is not the end of the issue. Until they say they're not going to chop down the trees, period, we're going to keep doing this."

The Grosse Pointe South Student Association also wrote a letter to superintendent Ed Hine stating its opposition to the proposed tree removal, calling it "an unnecessary and frivolous waste of money that could better be used elsewhere."

Shine, in turn, wrote back to the students assuring them that there will be no hasty decisions regarding the issue.

"I think the administration realizes that we are trying to do something here," Breslin said after the rally. "We didn't really have any power today, but we had a voice."

South assistant principal Bernie LeMieux said he approved SAVE's request to stage the rally in front of Cleminson Hall.

"I think the students' opposition and the article in The Tower had a subtle impact and it may have affected the admin-stration's decision," LeMieux said. "I think it's a healthy sign that the young people are concerned about a non-materialistic issue."

Despite chilly temperatures and rain, Grosse Pointe South students expressed their opposition to the proposed removal of six honey locust trees from the school's front lawn by staging a peaceful protest.

In his 12 years at South, LeMieux said there was only one other occasion he could recall where students rallied for a cause. That was when the board of education considered closing the school campus and the students engaged in protests, he said.

"It's good that the students express their views," he said. "It is a good lesson in civic responsibility and due process. In the end, the board decided to keep the campus open."

Preschool Planners put their experience to work for teachers

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

What do two teachers with specialties in preschool education do when they retire?

Why they form a business lending day care and preschool centers their hard-earned expertise, that's what.

Preschool Planners is the name and that's exactly what Mary Sullivan and Marilyn Keane, both Pointe residents who have known each other for more than 50 years, want to do.

Sullivan retired in June 1991 after more than 40 years of teaching. She specialized in the youngest students and helped set up Montessori schools in Detroit. She built the Focus:Hope day care center and ran it for seven years. She also helped create an after-school program for 6- to 12-year-olds and started a summer day camp program for the group. Although retired, she is still a consultant for the Focus:Hope center.

Keane started teaching in 1946, and quit for 20 years to raise her seven children. When she returned to the workforce she created one of the first preschools in the Detroit school district, and it later became a Head Start program. She was on a committee to establish guidelines for effective preschools. She has a master's degree in education specializing in early childhood. She retired in June 1990 and in 1991 joined the staff at the University of Michigan Dearborn as a field adviser for the Child Development Associates Program.

Between them they have 10 grandchildren. They know young kids, they say.

"We felt it was a shame to waste all that experience," Sullivan said. "Especially when so many people are in need of quality day care."

A lot of women who choose to stay at home with their children think it would be easy to take in other children and call themselves a daycare center, Keane said.

"But it's much more complicated than that," she said.

"The difference between babysitting and day care is that babysitters take care of the physical needs of the child and day care takes care of the emotional

They want to organize preschool and daycare programs in homes or businesses, touching every aspect from choosing equipment to planning the weekly schedule and the daily menu.

"I think a lot of people start a daycare center but give it up because they don't know what's necessary," Keane said. "We will be able to help them."

"We also help people who already have a day care going, but want to know how they're doing," Sullivan said. "In a school you always have someone overseeing what you do, but when you're on your own, it's more difficult to know if you're doing as well as you could be."

The pair will also help existing daycare centers with the licensing process.

They even said they'd help people find reputable daycare centers.

They charge an hourly rate, depending on what they're called on to do, and offer free consultations.

"We're not in this to make a killing," Sullivan said. "We're offering a service that I think is very necessary."

"Day care will only become more important," Keane said. "It's not going to go away."

Introducing Laser Prostate Surgery At Bon Secours

Prostate surgery used to mean a four-day hospital stay and four to six weeks off work.

No longer.

Bon Secours has introduced VLAP—a new laser surgery for men experiencing urinary problems from enlarged prostates. A urologist uses a laser to target tissue causing a blockage. Then, over the next few weeks, the tissue is passed.

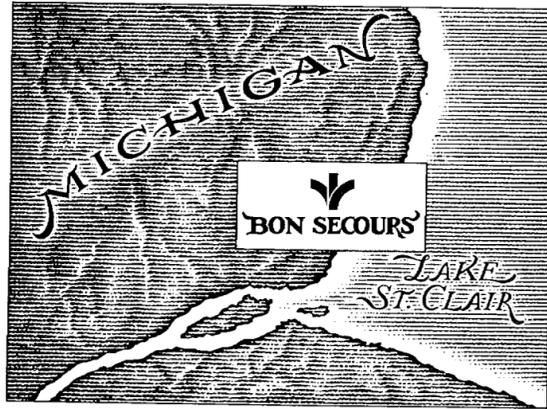

The advantages of VLAP are less pain and faster recovery time than traditional treatment methods. In most cases, the patient goes home the same day he has surgery. And instead of strict restrictions for four weeks, the patient is back to enjoying life in a matter of days.

Nearly half of all men over age 50 will experience difficulty from prostate enlargement. If you're one of them, give us a call at 779-7911.

Doctors weigh alternatives to assisted suicide

By Thomas C. Payne, M.D.
President, Michigan State Medical Society

Most people know someone — a relative, friend, acquaintance or co-worker — who is dying of a terminal illness. Often those deaths are lingering and painful.

What to do for these people is an agonizing dilemma for physicians, who are trained to help people overcome illness. And it is exactly this dilemma which makes the idea of physician-assisted suicide so complex.

It's one thing for some to say that assisted suicide is a natural next step for those terminally ill people who want it. But it's quite another to carry it out.

For that reason, the Michigan State Medical Society holds firm in its conviction that assisted suicide is an emerging societal issue that must be discussed by all segments of our population. We believe a society-wide consensus must be sought. This is not simply a physician issue, but an ethical, moral, philosophical and religious issue requiring considerable dialogue.

The Michigan State Medical Society is working to advance that dialogue as quickly as possible. The Committee on Bioethics has held eight forums on assisted suicide since December 1991, and more are planned.

Representatives from various groups including Right to Life of Michigan, the Michigan Hemlock Society, Hospice of Michigan, the State Bar of Michigan, and the American Civil Liberties Union have attended, as well as state legislators, physicians and ethicists.

Nobody knows where the issue will end, or when any conclusions will be reached. Until some kind of consensus is reached by all segments of society and not just physicians, we've asked for a moratorium on any physician-assisted suicide in Michigan.

However, we have placed no moratorium on compassionate care. Physicians do know that those who are terminally ill and in pain need compassionate care right now. To help physicians better provide that care, the Committee on Bioethics has developed three recommendations for physicians that the Michigan State Medical Society is putting into action.

The first is to help educate physicians about up-to-date methods of symptom and pain control when treating terminally ill patients. We've already organized a half-day course for physicians who attend the Michigan State Medical Society's Annual Scientific Meeting each November in Dearborn.

On Nov. 18, Michael Friedrich, M.D., medical director of Hospice of Southern Illinois, will talk to physicians about the medical, ethical and political aspects of assisted suicide. And we're planning other seminars on the topic, too.

The second recommendation of the committee is to help physicians educate patients and family members about the distinctions between withdrawing and withholding treatment while assuring patients that their wishes will be followed in all decisions to use or forego medical treatment.

The third is to promote the use of the new Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care pulled around him and cut him off, causing him to fear for his safety and the safety of his 5-year-old son.

DaDeppo said that was no reason to hit the victim with a baseball bat, and according to the police report, Renny replied, "I had to do what I had to do." Renny had been driving a dark blue mini-van, which was parked behind the victim's vehicle on Mack.

Police found his son inside the minivan crying.

Renny and his son were taken to the Woods police station, and the boy's step-grandmother picked him up about an hour later.

The victim was bleeding from the left side of his head and couldn't stand up. He was taken by Woods paramedics to St. John Hospital, where he was treated for his injuries.

Backlund said that the victim pulled over to the curb because the driver behind him — Renny — was waving his arms and screaming, and the victim wondered what was the matter.

The Grosse Pointe Clown Corps will begin classes in the basement of the Woods police station on Monday, Nov. 23, at 7:30 p.m.

Registration will be held Tuesday, Nov. 10, and Monday, Nov. 16.

Students from the first through 12th grades are invited. Learn to put on clown makeup and do routines as well as make balloon animals.

For more information, call Arthur J. Kuehnel at 881-8186.

Smokeout is Thursday

The American Cancer Society will host its 16th annual Great American Smokeout on Thursday, Nov. 19.

The society estimates there will be 168,000 new cases of lung cancer and 146,000 cancer deaths in 1992. Cigarette smoking is responsible for 90 percent of lung cancer cases among men and 79 percent among women.

The five-year relative survival rate for lung cancer is only 13 percent in all patients regardless of stage at diagnosis. This is dramatically lower than the five-year survival rate for all cancers, which has risen to 51 percent in the 1990s.

Smoking has also been implicated in cancers of the mouth, pharynx, larynx, esophagus, pancreas, cervix, kidney and bladder. Smoking accounts for about 30 percent of all cancer deaths. At age 65, you are at a significantly higher risk of dying if you smoke than if you don't smoke.

For more information on the Great American Smokeout or local Smokeout activities, contact your local county unit of the American Cancer Society or call 1-800-ACS-2345.

Goodwill Antiques Show comes to Fairgrounds Nov. 20-22

By Margie Reins Smith
 Feature Editor

Hundreds of volunteers will help transform a cavernous building at the Michigan State Fairgrounds into the 45th annual Goodwill Antiques Show Friday, Nov. 20 through Sunday, Nov. 22.

The movers and shakers who make it happen are the 300-plus members of the Junior Group of Goodwill Industries. The organization raises funds for Goodwill at this annual event in dozens of ingenious ways:

- They charge admission. It's $6 at the door; $5 for seniors.

- They charge dealers who set up booths to display their wares.

- The Junior Group raises funds by refinishing and refurbishing selected pieces of donated furniture which are for sale in its Goodwill booth. Chairman Marco Knapp said between 50 and 75 selected items will be available.

- Junior Group members spend hundreds of hours preparing food and canning fruits and vegetables and special recipes for the show's pantry booth. A perennial favorite, Dilly Beans, will probably sell fast, said Isabelle Smith of Birmingham, publicity chairman for this year's show. "Members make the recipe, which is probably the item we're best known for."

- Members bake breads, cookies, cakes and pies for the bakery booth.

- They make hand-crafted items for the boutique. This year's special new items include a figure of Father Christmas and dozens of Christmas ornaments, decorations, wreaths, mobiles and one-of-a-kind gifts.

- There's also a preview party, a silent auction, a catalog which sells advertising space, a quilt raffle and a silent auction.

- Light lunches and suppers, coffee and desserts are available during show hours.

Attendance has been steady for the last few years, Smith said. "It's been about 6,000 people each year. We expect to raise between $75,000 and $100,000."

All the proceeds will benefit Goodwill Industries' educational and vocational training programs for people with physical, mental, emotional and social disabilities.

Fifty dealers will exhibit their wares, including 18th and 19th century American and English furniture, primitives, toys, jewelry, oil paintings, maps, prints, quilts, clocks, dolls, pewter, tin, silver, glass, crystal, spatterware, Staffordshire, Shaker furniture, Oriental rugs — even snuff boxes and nautical accessories.

"The dealers are from all over the United States," Smith said. "We have a waiting list of 12 to 15 dealers this year. The show manager is Edwin T. Palko, who is known nationally. Russell Carrell is the consultant."

Cindi Burke, chairman of the show, said that 15 new dealers have joined this year. "Some of the new ones will be showing Victorian furniture, painted Austrian and German armoires, Shaker furniture and vintage clothing," she said.

The Junior Group of Goodwill Industries is an organization of more than 300 women (and one man) who are dedicated to helping clients of Goodwill Industries of Greater Detroit, Michigan's largest non-profit vocational rehabilitation agency.

Goodwill's services include group homes and day programs for the mentally disabled as well as psychosocial rehabilitation, vocational testing and evaluation, vocational training, sheltered workshops, job placement and no-charge hospital equipment loans. Goodwill also operates four thrift stores which offer gently used merchandise at affordable prices.

The Junior Group's biggest fundraiser is the annual antiques show.

The honorary committee for this year's show includes Grosse Pointers Mr. and Mrs. Mort Crim and Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Moroun as well as Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nine, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Reuss and Mr. and Mrs. Roger B. Smith.

In addition to Burke, other show chairmen are Suzanne Reinhart and Laurie Walters.

The preview party will be from 7 to 10 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 19. A pre-show reception for benefactors and patrons begins at 6 p.m. Tickets are $125 for benefactors; $100 for patrons; and $75 for friends. For preview party tickets, call 549-3150.

General admission tickets are available at the door or from Junior Group Goodwill members. Hours are 11 a.m.-9 p.m. Friday; 11 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday; and 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Sunday.

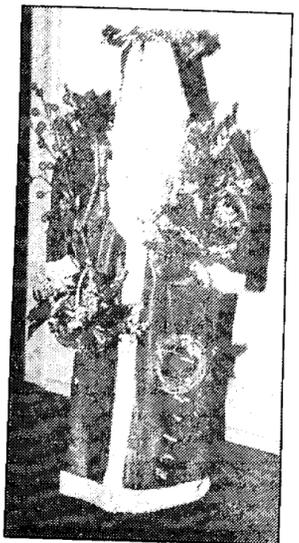

For more information about the show, call 644-8779.

On the table are selected items from Grosse Pointe dealer C.M. Carey.

Among the hand-crafted items for sale at the Goodwill Antiques Show are these free-standing figures of Father Christmas.

WE LISTENED

The condominium homes at Harbor Place are a direct result of listening to your lifestyle needs and desires. Our early sales have been an outstanding success, because we built to your specifications.

Again, we've been listening. The Blake Company is pleased to announce the beginning of Phase II, but this time we're adding a fresh new concept. It's a 2-bedroom, Ranch Home with total one floor living. Like in our successful Cluster Home, our Ranch Home has a large kitchen, luxurious bath, storage, security system and attached 2-car garage. We also listened to your price range which is why we can offer the Ranch Home from $244,000 and our Cluster Home from $264,000. Both models are available with pre-construction pricing.

Our Cluster Homes are located in the private, secure gate-house community at Harbor Place. Harbor Place is the Grosse Pointe area's most exclusive condominium development, situated on the shores of Lake St. Clair. Boat slips are also available for purchase or lease.

Stop by our sales office and see the Cluster Homes at Harbor Place, after all, you helped build them. We listened.

MCF to present ideas on coping with holidays

The holidays can be difficult for anyone who has recently lost a loved one to cancer. Hospice of Michigan Cancer Foundation will hold a program, "Managing the Holidays," to help grieving individuals cope during the holiday season.

The program will be held Tuesday, Nov. 17, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Michigan Cancer Foundation's newly opened Jean and Samuel Frankel Community Services Center, 18831 West 12 Mile in Lathrup Village.

"The grief that occurs after the death of a loved one may cause a lot of emotions for family members who are adjusting to the loss," said Cathy Dominici, hospice bereavement coordinator. "Sometimes people may not understand their feelings and reactions, or may expect them to adjust to the loss fairly quickly."

"Managing the Holidays" will offer ideas on how to cope during the holidays and give participants an opportunity to share their experiences. The program will feature a presentation by Lyn Dunkerly of Sawyer-Fuller Funeral Home. For more information, contact Dominici at 833-0710, ext. 2488.

North to present Christmas bazaar

The Grosse Pointe North High School Parents Club will present a Christmas Bazaar from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 21, in the school's Performing Arts Center.

Items for sale include country folk art, patchwork quilts, items made from quilts, dolls, stuffed bears and rabbits, carved birds, bird cages, bird houses, jewelry and Christmas decorations and ornaments.

Proceeds from table fees of exhibitors will benefit the scholarship and enrichment programs for Grosse Pointe North students. A limited number of tables are still available by calling 885-6267.

The Single Way

The Single Way, a group of interdenominational Christian singles, will hold a dinner at Henry's in Algonac and take a drive along Lake St. Clair Saturday, Nov. 14. Teens and kids are welcome. The group will meet at 4 p.m. near the gas station at the Meijer Shopping Center parking lot at Little Mack and 13 Mile in Roseville. For more information or a calendar of other events, call 776-5535.

G.P. Questers No. 147 meets Nov. 13

Members of Grosse Pointe Questers will meet at 10 a.m. Friday, Nov. 13, at the home of Barbara Crane. "A Lustrous Charm," the program to be presented by Lois Martin and Trude Schmidt, begins in early 19th century England, when Spode and Wedgwood were pioneers in the field of Lusterware.

Co-hostesses will be Bonnie Mannle and Lois Martin.

Slides of Pacific Northwest will be at Brownell

William Lorenz, chairman of the Travel Photography Club, will present a slide show about the Pacific Northwest at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 19, at Brownell Middle School.

Lorenz is a member of the Men's Garden Club of Grosse Pointe, past president of the Grosse Pointe Camera Club and past president of the Grosse Pointe Artists Association.

His slides will feature gardens and wild flowers of the Cascade Range, Sierra Nevada, Mount Shasta, Mount Hood, Portland's Washington Park rose gardens and Yosemite National Park.

The public is invited to the free program; refreshments will be served.

50th rummage sale

The women of the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church held their 50th annual rummage sale in October. All proceeds (about $10,000) will support the Presbyterian church's mission work.

The Pastor's Corner An optimistic view

Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church

The general election may be over, but the voting goes on. Those of us who profess to seek a better world vote every day. We cast a ballot in how we choose to live.

We can choose to follow the pattern of acquiring all we can: "He who dies with the most toys wins"; "Go for all the gusto you can get"; forgetting not only about tomorrow, but also about others.

We can get in the third family car, the gas guzzler, and head for the restaurant which will serve us a 16-ounce sirloin. Thus we will not only clog the highways and smog the air but clog our arteries and squander resources of the land. I'm sure you've heard this statistic: every year one of us takes what sustains 20 people in Africa.

Social critic Christopher Lasch writes: "The American dream (has) degenerated into pure acquisitiveness and self-seeking." He calls upon Americans to reclaim the vision of such American luminaries as Jonathan Edwards, William James, Reinhold Niebuhr and Ralph Waldo Emerson to counter this trend. He calls on us to reclaim "a tradition of responsibility rather than freedom, limits rather than choices, and see human existence as characterized more by tragedy and struggle than endless growth."

What are we — me and you — willing to relinquish in order to better share the resources of the Earth which, after all, nobody owns?

In what private ways will we vote for mutuality rather than individualism in supporting programs, laws, bond issues, and legal practices?

Instead of "killing the lawyers" as Shakespeare suggests, we must more readily kill our desire to use them to express our despair about living in a world without guarantees of perfection. And what of vested interests? If we demand that our interest group, union, cause, ethnic group, victim group or any group be elevated above all others, how can we achieve a nation blessed and nurtured by mutuality?

Only when our highest values start taking over can we expect the kind of changes we need. We need to live them out, talk about them with our families, friends and co-workers and communicate them to the elected officials who serve us.

As a religious liberal, I am an optimist. I believe that there is a better way, a way that keeps calling. Revelation is not sealed; the book of answers is not closed; the ethics of responsibility keep calling us. I hope you share my optimism — and share it generously.

A special item on the block at the Grosse Pointe Presbyterian Women's auction is a doll house. Dr. Carl and Jeanne Reichert have handcrafted and donated the house. Some of the furnishings were made by church members. The eight-room, three-story Victorian mansion is richly appointed and decorated in turn-of-the-century American style with hardwood floors, colonial-style wallpaper and period furniture. It's also decorated for the Christmas season with wreaths, lighted Christmas trees, wrapped packages and more.

Bridge

HAVE A PLEASANT TRY AT PERFECTION
BRIDGE BY WOODY BOYD ♠♥♦♣

John Nanoe "Cactus Jack" Garner was Franklin Roosevelt's V.P. during this first term as President of our United States. He could be a mighty cantankerous bellyful at moments which prompted those who didn't know him to step softly in his presence. On occasion though the "V.P." was gifted in his delivery. Here follows a case in point... "If you have respect for people as they are, you can be more effective in helping them to become better than they are." I think this has significant application to a partnership at the bridge table. Two with mutual respect can serve each other in their pursuit to improve and that ultimately leads to success.

I have played against George and Jeanne Stanhovich of Farmington on numerous occasions these past few years, but never the pleasure till now to partner one or the other. Such became a reality recently when Jules Stoss suggested that George and I had a common denominator in our styles. So be it in Jeanne's absence we agreed to enter SOMBA's September Sectional I.M.P. Pair Play. No one told me till it was way too late that George had driven 800 miles from Virginia that same day. Three and a half sixty's after, to neither of our surprise, we had a 69% first class finish. George played superbly. Joyce Krout later told me that George was quite capable of finishing in the money in any tough game and I could now see why. He is an exceptionally comfortable partner and I love to play under these mutually respectful circumstances. For there is little that deflects ones concentration.

In the course of twenty-four boards, there were a number of exceptional hands. Eight successful slams and most of the field found many fewer. Two games that only two other pairs played and a defense that was quite remarkable. But I was particularly pleased with George's fine performance on this one which was a tie for a top as only four other pairs out of the forty table field found the four spade game and succeeded. When you look at fifty-two, it looks ever so easy, but by the rules of this game, a declarer isn't graced with that advantage.

W led H Ace

Many E/W were playing four hearts down one losing two tricks in each minor suit, but one pair beat it two by executing unusual brilliance or uncommon ignorance. South led the diamond king and when North played the seven decided at trick two to give his partner a ruff expecting he held a singleton. North won his queen and then played his club king! Yes, His club king forcing declarer's ace to get ruffed. The defenders still had to win two clubs.

Seven of George's eight reasons for bidding the spade game was his expected heart shortness in dummy. To his never show emotion disappointment to my thirteen I guessed that he had seldom played a puzzle poser of this proportion. For sure, there were two heart losers and a strong likelihood of an equal number of trumps. East had at least one ace, but not two with his preemptive opener as he was a well recognized disciplined bidder. At trick (4) after ruffing East's heart continuation, George played dummy's club king! East covered and George ruffed which solved that perplexing mystery. West obviously had the spade ace and maybe the lady, but not both missing honors or he probably would have doubled. At trick (5), he played the spade jack and when West inserted his eight George confidently inserted dummy's king smothering East's singleton queen and victory.

After the conquest had ended, I asked the star of our partnership what he would have done at trick (4) if East hadn't played the ace? Believe me there are geniuses out there on defense who might not have. And that would still leave the position of the two missing aces in doubt. With a victory smile, he quietly relied, "I wasn't faced with that dilemma."

Pointe pianist comes home famous

By Alex Suczek
Special Writer

Back in the 60s, "Billy" David was a typical Grosse Pointe youth. Living in the Park with his parents, two sisters and a brother, he had attended Maire and Pierce, played Little League and joined the Boy Scouts.

At Grosse Pointe High he competed on the debating team. At the family's church, perhaps reflecting his father's Hungarian heritage, he showed musical talent and sang in the choir. Boy soprano, later alto.

By high school, music was clearly David's main event. He played bass in the orchestra, and its director, Richard Snook, became a strong influence on his development. He also studied piano with Richard Durant, then with Richard Roeklein, his choirmaster at Christ Church, who added to his inspiration. Later, under "Bunker" Hill, the succeeding director, David joined the choir's summer concert tour to Russia.

It was in high school that David discovered, along with his talent and love for music, the career potential in this endeavor. He formed a combo of accordion, bass, drums and horn or sax to work gigs he said primarily were "bowling banquets and bar mitzvahs."

Like many budding musicians, Bill was able to pick up spending money this way. In the process, he made lots of good friends in music, like pal Tom Liebold, who played drums in the combo and still lives in Grosse Pointe.

As a student at U-M in Ann Arbor, David continued with his combo. It helped to pay the bills. But his studies took a more serious turn. Having pulled a high Vietnam draft lottery number, he was able to stay on for a bachelor's, master's and Ph.D. in music.

Those were big years of growth with classes in performance, composition and theory. There was constant piano study, first with Robert Hood, then with the eminent concert pianist Gregory Sandor and finally with the legendary chamber musician and accompanist Eugene Bossart. And in 1972, with no more degrees to earn, David left Ann Arbor and landed a job in the music department at Iowa State University in Ames.

It was a fortunate move. He met congenial associates and began to play chamber music regularly. In a couple of years he found himself with three other fine musicians in an ensemble that is not very common but has a rich repertory to perform. His cohorts were, and still are, violinist Mahlon Darlington, violinist Laurence Burkhalter and cellist George Work.

Out of their artistic harmony and friendship was born the Ames Piano Quartet, an ensemble destined for international acclaim.

That's what brings David home on this occasion. Recognized on three continents as a world-class ensemble, admired worldwide for its virtuoso performances on the Dorian CD label and represented by a major artist management agency in the East, the Ames Quartet has been booked to play in David's home town.

The concert is the opener of the prestigious Pro Musica Society's season at the Detroit Institute of Arts on Friday, Nov. 20. Many of David's friends and relatives expect to come from Ann Arbor and Grosse Pointe. For quite a few, it will be the first time they have heard a live performance by their friend since he and his partners have become famous artists playing 30 or more concerts a year as far afield as Europe and the Far East.

David is especially enthusiastic about the program since it is made up of three favorite works that are important in the ensemble's story of success.

Highlighting the concert and its finale will be the Brahms G Minor Piano Quartet. David describes it as a huge work both in scope and ideas, representative of the composer's rich style. It's a special challenge and opportunity for him since the piano has the prominent role. So much so that Brahms himself played the work at his own debut in Vienna 150 years ago, instead of giving a solo recital. This is one reason they will include it on a forthcoming Dorian CD. David made special reference to the last movement as a Gypsy rondo with flashy passages imitating the famous Hungarian hammered harp called the cembalom.

Their opening piece, David says, is perfect and one they often use in the leadoff spot. English composer Frank Bridge called it "Phantasy Quartet" and in a style related to Vaughn-Williams, created a lyrical and elegant one-movement work. It is rarely performed and unfairly neglected according to David.

This will be followed with a quartet by a composer in residence at David's old school who is currently enjoying lots of success. That's William Bolcom, whose opera, "McTeague," just opened at the Chicago Lyric Opera.

"This," says David, "is really a stunning piece. In some ways, it's almost a barroom kind of piece. The third movement is a wonderful country waltz. We really enjoy playing it."

For tickets, call Pro Musica's membership secretary, Florence Arnoldi, at 886-7207. Tickets can be mailed or held at the door of the DIA's Recital Hall which can be reached through the museum's Woodward Avenue entrance. For David, however, the high point of the evening may well be Pro Musica's congenial social hour afterwards in the museum's Romanesque Hall and Kresge Court. He'll be surrounded by friends nibbling goodies, sipping their beverages and saying proudly, "We knew him when..."

Richard Kiley and Lauren Bacall star in "Love Letters" at the George Burns Theatre for the Performing Arts.

For Kiley, 'Letters' is a labor of love

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

Richard Kiley has one of the most recognizable faces in the acting world.

At 70, he looks more like a friend's grandfather than one of the best actors of stage and screen. But it is his deep, rich voice, also readily recognizable, that impresses as it resonates across the telephone lines from New York when he talks about his career and in particular, "Love Letters," in which he will be seen Nov. 17-22 at the George Burns Theatre for the Performing Arts in Livonia.

"It's a kind of an unusual thing," Kiley said. "Pete (A.R.) Gurney apparently wrote it several years ago and I was working with David Ogden Stiers at the time and Gurney asked him to do it. When David came back, he said it was the most amazing thing he's done and that I had to see it."

"Love Letters," is called an "epistolary drama" that tells the love story of two blue-bloods from New England. It starts in the second grade and continues throughout the lives of the two characters, Andrew Makepeace Ladd, Kiley's role, and Melissa Gardner, played at the George Burns Theatre by Lauren Bacall.

There is no action in the play: the two characters simply read five decades of letters to each other. They never interact or look at each other.

"It sounds like the most boring thing in the world," Kiley admits. "But it's amazing. It's written so well that the audience gets deeply, deeply involved in it and by the end is truly touched. It's a wonderful evening of theater."

"It reminds me of my days in radio as a kid in Chicago; the actor's voice and good material can create a kind of ambience with the audience that can almost be felt."

The show opened off Broadway, moved to Broadway and has had several successful national tours. It attracts the best actors and actresses, ranging from William Hurt and Kathleen Turner to Jason Robards and Colleen Dewhurst to E.G. Marshall and Elaine Stritch. This is its third visit to the metropolitan area in less than a year.

Kiley first performed in the show with Grosse Pointe native Julie Harris and has also performed the play with Joanne Woodward. Then he was teamed with Bacall.

"I think for this show to be good you have to have a certain kind of chemistry going," he said. "I've never worked with Betty Bacall before and she's just wonderful."

The two are paired again for the six-night run at the George Burns Theatre.

"The nice thing about the show is that you can do it without a lot of rehearsal once you know the material," he said.

Kiley uses "Love Letters" to fill in the gaps in his already hectic schedule.

He won a 1988 Emmy Award for his starring role in the acclaimed television series "A Year in the Life," and more recently starred in the mini-series "Separate But Equal."

He's also seen as the head of a senate subcommittee in Showtime's spoof of political scandal, "Mastergate," and will do a guest spot on the new hit series "Picket Fences." His voice is heard narrating several television programs, including "Nova," "The Planet Earth" and "National Geographic."

"I stay busy," he said. "I'm not as good a target if I do."

He'll stay still Nov. 17-22 at the George Burns Theatre for the Performing Arts. Tickets range in price from $25 to $45. Call 1-800-589-8000.

'Zebrahead' is a homemade love story

By Marian Trainor

Made in Detroit.

Now there's a label that should generate interest and pride among movie-goers in the metro area, a pride that is not misspent in "Zebrahead," an insightful and sensitive presentation of the problems of two high school lovers — one white and the other African-American.

A first effort by writer-director Anthony Drazan, it won the Filmmakers' award at the Sundance Film Festival. It's theme of what it is like to try to love in today's society on untried ideals is timely and evocative. It is the "West Side Story" and "Romeo and Juliet" of the 90's.

"Zebrahead," street slang for inter-racial couple, tells the story of a romance between Zack (Michael Rapaport), a white inner-city Jewish boy who lives on the edge of a suburb. Late for class one day, he meets a beautiful new black student, Nikki (N'Bushe Wright) who has transferred from Brooklyn to Detroit's Cody High School, where much of the action takes place in the school corridors, classrooms and cafeteria.

Nikki is the cousin of Zack's best friend, Dee (DeShonn Castle), a big, likable kid who encourages the budding romance between Nikki and Zack.

Zack has no doubts about their relationship. He confesses that he feels more at ease in the neighboring black community than he does in his own home. It is Nikki who has apprehensions. She is attracted to Zack but believes "you ain't never gonna get no respect from a white boy."

Some of the students accept them, others are outraged. That outrage is fed by an African nationalist racist, Al (Abdul Hassan Sharif), a well-to-do Muslim who expounds on the theory that people should stay with their own kind. He is so rabid he's humorous.

Another who takes violent exception to Nikki dating Zack is the school troublemaker, big, burly defiant Nut (Ron Johnson). He dislikes a "white boy" coming into his neighborhood but more importantly, he is attracted to Nikki. He sits on the porch of his rundown flat and hurls epithets and threats whenever Zack comes to pick up Nikki in his Jeep.

Johnson, who has never acted before, is a real find with his threatening physical presence and intensity. But he's also sensitive in an unconventional way, witness his child-like delight in finding a litter of kittens and caring for them.

Rapaport, a newcomer, is

impressive as the big, blond Zack who defines himself as a person by opting to become part of another culture. Wright, also a newcomer, is appealing. The two together are irresistible.

Their love is not an inter-racial one. Rather it's a love of two people who relate to one another despite racial differences. This is effectively shown in the closing sequence after an eruption in the classroom spills into the corridors. While a vicious fight surrounds them, Niki and Zack hug each other, shutting out the violence.

For the record, Detroit is not given a bad image. There are shots of vacant weed-choked lots and boarded-up houses but they are not dwelt upon. They are more than balanced by shots of neat, well-kept streets, and scenic views of Belle Isle and the river.

All in all it gives a hopeful and refreshing view of a possible future where color lines are erased.

Proceeds from the event benefit the Central Business District Foundation's "Starring Detroit" permanent lighting campaign designed to improve the beauty and safety of downtown Detroit through the illumination of churches, statues, monuments and public areas.

The "Starring Detroit" plan is in its seventh year. Since its inception, 30 projects have been permanently lighted. The projects that will be given 24-hour visibility this year are: Capitol Park (at Griswold and State streets); St. Joseph Roman Catholic Church (near Eastern Market); and the Abraham Lincoln statue (next to the Downtown Detroit Public Library on Farmer).

For the past 35 years, the CBDA has been responsible for decorating downtown for the holidays. Thousands of twinkling lights will adorn trees along Woodward Avenue and Jefferson and special snowflake decorations will grace light poles throughout downtown.

For general information on the Symphony Sing-Along, call 396-7600 or the Central Business District Foundation at 961-1403.

'Annie' is still a great show

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

How appropriate that "Annie," which celebrates optimism in song and story, should open at the Fisher for a three-week stay on election night, that quadrennial exercise in optimism.

Sit in the depths of the De-

While optimism is its theme, comedy, fun and artistic excellence propel it.

In the opening scene we see six little girls in their bed who suddenly sit up and complain because one of them is crying for her mother. This is an orphanage where breakfast is cold mush and the little girls sit at sewing machines all day.

Enter Annie who calms them and cuddles the crying child, comforting her with a plaintive "Maybe." The children are overseen by a heartless drunk, Miss Hannigan, played by Jo-Anne Worley.

Annie, who has never given up on her belief that her mother and father will come back for her, decides that she has waited long enough and escapes, ending up in a park where she finds a friend — a big yellow shaggy dog which she names Sandy. They wander into one of the "Hoovervilles."

The beautiful secretary of the billionaire industrialist, Oliver Warbucks, arrives and chooses Annie to spend the Christmas holiday with the billionaire, who becomes very attached to her and wants to adopt her, but she insists that she wants to find her mother and father.

Annie opened on Broadway in 1977 where it ran for five years and has been touring ever since. It has won seven Tony Awards, seven Drama Desk Awards including outstanding musical book and score.

A perennial favorite, it is welcome whenever it comes to town, especially when it is given an outstanding production such as the offering at the Fisher.

Worley, who won national attention on "Laugh-In" is formidable, but too funny to be scary. Her antics and louder-than-loud raucous delivery that rattles the rafters are comic rather than threatening.

Those who remember the comic strip will be struck by John Schuck's striking resemblance to Daddy Warbucks. His distinctive bass-baritone voice and jutting jaw make him a dead-ringer.

Ten-year-old Heather Soroka is a credible Annie. She has the stage presence and voice of a professional.

The children in the orphanage who politely sing out on command, "We love you Miss Hannibal," and accidentally-on-purpose step on her bunions, are terrific. They bring down the house with "You're Never Fully Dressed Without A Smile," a take on the adult ensemble's song and dance routine.

Mention should be made of Ron Young as Rooster, Miss Hannigan's brother, and his air-head girlfriend Lily, played by Jennifer Smith, as well as Edwin Bordo as Drake, Warbucks' major domo.

Even if you have seen "Annie," you won't want to miss this excellent production.

Nira Pullin and Bill Wilson perform "Treasures in Time."

'Treasures in Time' in studio

"Treasures in Time," a nostalgic celebration of period music and dance, will be performed in the Studio Theatre at Wayne State University, Nov. 19-22.

"Treasures in Time" consists of two one-act pieces, "Ragtime Remembrances" and "Victorian Secrets."

"Ragtime Remembrances" traces the history of ragtime dance and turn-of-the-century America through the lives of one of the country's greatest dance teams, Vernon and Irene Castle.

"Victorian Secrets" is an intimate look at a Victorian household during the Gilded Age, recalling the world of the Astors and Vanderbilts, traveling from the English music hall to an opulent evening ball.

The production is directed and choreographed by Nira Pullin, Wayne State University's professor of stage movement and theater choreographer, and Bill Wilson, tour manager and WSU graduate student. Pullin and Wilson also perform, along with Mary Copenhagen, costume designer for the Bonstelle Theatre, and senior acting majors Kim Fox, Scott Peerbolte and Christy Watson.

"Treasures in Time" will be performed in the Studio Theatre, downstairs at the Hilberry, Wayne State University. Performance dates and times are as follows: Thursday through Saturday, Nov. 19-21, at 8 p.m., and Sunday, Nov. 22, at 2 p.m. For ticket information, call the box office at 577-2972.

Liza Minnelli returns to the Fox Theatre

Liza Minnelli, the grand finale to the 1992 Michigan Bell Variety Series, will appear at the Fox Theatre Wednesday, Nov. 11 through Sunday, Nov. 15. Showtimes are Wednesday through Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 7 p.m.

Minnelli, winner of three Tony Awards, an Oscar, two Golden Globe Awards and an Emmy, is one of the entertainment world's consummate performers.

Her return to the Fox Theatre marks her first performance in Detroit since 1988 when she appeared with her long time friends and mentors, Frank Sinatra and Sammy Davis Jr. The three-star tour, aptly titled "The Ultimate Event," brought the three musical legends together for an unprecedented once-in-a-lifetime experience.

Tickets are $42.50, $37.50, $30, $25 and $15 and are available at the Fox Theatre/Joe Louis/Cobo Arena box offices and all Ticketmaster outlets, including Hudson's and Harmony House. To charge by phone call (313) 645-6666. For more information call the new Olympia Arenas Inc. Event Hotline at (313) 396-7600.

Holiday trip

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial will host a trip to Niagara Falls Dec. 5-6 to see Barbara Mandrell and Jim Nabors.

The annual Festival of Lights display at this special time of year adds a spectacular dimension to the falls.

Main floor seats are included for the two concerts by Mandrell and Nabors. The package also includes one night's accommodations, one dinner, one brunch and round-trip motor-coach transportation.

The trip is $229 a person based on double occupancy, with a $40 single supplement. Reservations are required. For information, call 881-7511.

ession in 1933, conditions in "Annie" bear a strong resemblance to present times. There were homeless people living in Hoovervilles, built of cardboard, and wearing threadbare clothing lined with newspapers to keep them warm.

Just around the corner was the New Deal, but in the meantime there was Annie, an 11-year-old orphan, to lighten the way of all she touched with her songs of faith and hope. "Tomorrow," a signature song, sets the theme of this cheery, irresistible musical. You will leave the theatre feeling better about yourself and whatever tomorrow may bring.

DSO's 'Nutcracker' tickets available

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra celebrates the 100th anniversary of Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker Ballet" with 25 performances at the Fox Theatre, Dec. 10-30. Tickets to this year's newly refurbished production of this timeless ballet and other special concerts in the DSO's annual Christmas Festival are now on sale at various locations in the metro-Detroit area, including the Fox Theatre and Orchestra Hall box offices, and all TicketMaster locations.

The DSO's performances of "The Nutcracker Ballet" at the Fox include guest principal dancers from the New York City and San Francisco ballets, and The American Ballet Theatre. In addition, this year's "Nutcracker" will be highlighted by many newly designed sets, with bolder and brighter colors, as well as new props.

This year marks the fourth season of performances at the Fox Theatre in association with Brass Ring Productions and Olympia Arenas, and the 18th season of the DSO's collaboration with Dance Detroit, Jacob Lascu, director/choreographer. Dance Detroit is the resident company of Marygrove College.

Other features in this year's Christmas Festival include Christmas Pops performances with the ever-colorful Dallas Brass performing baroque and seasonal favorites (Dec. 10-13). The Detroit News Young People's Concerts with the Hudson Vagabond Puppets performing "The Snow Queen" by Hans Christian Andersen (Dec. 12), and Handel's glorious "Messiah" led by renowned choral conductor James Paul, with an international cast of singers, including soprano Marvis Martin (Dec. 17-18). The Christmas Festival concludes with music director Neeme Jarvi leading the orchestra in a reprise of last year's sold-out New Year's Eve gala celebration "Night in Old Vienna," featuring the music of the Strauss family (Dec. 31). For ticket prices and show times, call 833-3700.

DHS pubs and clubs program features the Gem on Nov. 18

The Gem Theatre will be the major attraction for the Detroit Historical Society's fall Pubs & Clubs program. An authentic reproduction of the original Rivoli (c. 1932) was done by the local restoration impresario, Ray Shepardson.

This 64-year-old building is one more attraction adding lustre to a burgeoning downtown theatre district.

On stage an outstanding cast will get your toes tapping and your eyes misting when you hear, again or for the first time, timeless favorites from the '30's and '40's.

"In the Mood," "It Don't Mean A Thing" and a World War II medley will be just a few of many old favorites being presented in the night's performance of "The All Night Strut."

A 6 p.m. buffet dinner will be served at the Elmwood Bar & Grill located in the immediate vicinity of the Gem. Both have ample secured parking.

Prepaid reservations are requested with checks made payable to the Detroit Historical Society, 5401 Woodward, Detroit, MI 48202. Non-members of the society $35; members $30. Call Jo O'Neill at 833-7934 for further information.

It's all downhill from here

As we rake leaves, put away the lawn furniture and clean out our gardens, it becomes more and more obvious that winter is upon us and snow is probably not too far off.

It's the time of year when my family begins looking forward to winter recreational sports. Maybe you already have reservations in Steamboat, Park City or Aspen, but let's not forget all of the great things to do close to home.

To guide us to those activities, the Michigan Travel Bureau has just issued its "Michigan Winter Travel Guide." It includes information on where to downhill and cross-country ski, snowboard, snowshoe and snowmobile. (After all, the state does have 44 alpine ski areas, thousands of kilometers of X-C trails and more than 4,000 miles of snowmobile trails.)

There are also some unusual winter pleasures: watching skiing in the U.P. at the only ski-flying hill in North America; dog-sled racing; winter canoeing on the Au Sable River; and watching ice carvers and snow sculptors perform their wonders at local winter festivals.

The calendar of events also includes such indoor activities as theater and symphonies, plus there is a full run-down of what's going on at Michigan's state parks.

For a free copy, write the Michigan Travel Bureau at P.O. Box 30226, Lansing, MI 48909 or call toll-free (800) 5432-YES.

By the way, from Jan. 4-31, the Michigan Ski Industry Association is again sponsoring its "Discover Michigan Skiing" program. This is a learn-to-ski special that includes a beginner lesson, equipment rental and a lift ticket at more than 20 downhill ski areas throughout the state. The cost is $20 for adults; $10 for children 7-14. Reservations are required. Call 625-0070 for additional information.

On Sunday, Jan. 10, the Northern Michigan Ski Council is sponsoring "Ski the Trails Free Day." Participating resorts are offering free trail passes and group lessons. Some will have cookouts, free clinics, guided tours and other festivities. Inquire at the individual facility or call the Michigan Nordic Ski Council at (517) 821-6661.

Resorts involved include Garland Resort and Lakeview Country Inn, both near Lewiston; McGuire's near Cadillac; Crystal Mountain near Thompsonville; Wilderness Valley in Gaylord; Thunder Bay near Hillman; Sugar Loaf on the Leelanau Peninsula; Schuss/Shanty Creek near Bellaire; and Boyne Mountain and Highlands.

The Nordic Ski Council is also offering Silver Streak Week Jan. 25-29, with free trail passes, instruction and discounts on rentals for those over 55. Some are also including discounts on meals and lodging.

Michigan also makes a special effort to accommodate its snowmobilers. Did you know that the Mackinac Bridge Authority will transport a snowmobile and one machine from one peninsula to the other (across the bridge, obviously) for $1? After all, of the state's 4,000 miles of groomed snowmobile trails, more than 2,200 are in the U.P.

By Cynthia Boal Janssens

Have you ever tried snowshoeing? Looks awkward, doesn't it? Well, it is a great way to see the beauty of the state parks and recreation areas that are open during the winter season. The Iverson Snowshoe Co. in Shingleton is the largest manufacturer of snowshoes in the United States (8,000-10,000 a year) and tours of its U.P. factory are available year around. Some of the resorts which offer snowshoeing include Garland, Love Creek, Nubs Nob, Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore, Ski Brule, Porcupine Mountains Wilderness State Park, Blackjack Ski Resort and the Iverson Snowshoe Co.

OK, we all saw that rather strange event at the Olympics called the luge and we were dying to try it, right? OK, so we weren't so anxious. But the fact is that there are two places that you can luge in Michigan.

The Muskegon Winter Sports Complex, located in Muskegon State Park, has two luges. For $10 — which includes instruction, sleds and helmets — one can take a run down the novice luge. You had better be experienced to try the Kunstbahn luge, the type of track that is used at the Olympics. (There are only two of this type of luge in the United States and the other is at Lake Placid, N.Y.). These will open Dec. 26, weather permitting.

A naturban (unrefrigerated) luge is located at Lucy Hill in Negaunee and has become affiliated with the U.S. Education Center in Marquette. It will open to the public Jan. 1 and will provide training. If you are wondering about the weather before you head north, then just pick up a phone and check it out. The U.P. Travel & Recreation Association provides weekly snow reports to those who call (800) 562-7134.

And if you are heading over the border to Canada, there are also some special offers. Searchmont Resort in Sault Ste. Marie is offering free skiing from Nov. 26-Dec. 11. In support, the hotels and motels in the area have combined to offer special daily rates. Call (705) 781-2340 for details.

Or, if you want to head west, Beaver Creek Lodge, Vail Valley's only all-suite hotel, is offering an "early bird" special of just $75 mid-week and $95 weekends per suite/per night through Dec. 18. That is a savings of just over 75 percent off the season rate. Call (800) 732-6777 for reservations or details.

Apples and chocolate: sweet treat

Apples, original to southwest Asia, came to our continent with early colonists. Hundreds of years of cross-cultivation have produced today's big juicy varieties, as tasty raw as they are in mom's apple pie.

Governor Endicott of the Massachusetts Bay Colony was the first apple grower in the United States. Johnny Appleseed, who really existed in the person of John Chapman, a missionary, established apple nurseries from west of the Mississippi to the Alleghenies.

There are now over a hundred varieties of apples grown commercially in the United States. It is interesting to note that the apple does not come true from seed. A hundred trees grown from the seed of a single tree will differ from each other and from the parent.

Therefore, occasionally a chance seedling will prove better than previous varieties. If the new tree is named and propagated by grafting or budding, it becomes a new variety. While there are hundreds of documented varieties of apples, only about a dozen are grown commercially on a large scale. The top four varieties in the United States are the red delicious, golden delicious, McIntosh, and Rome beauty.

Granny Smith, a recent addition, is gaining popularity. The red delicious accounts for more than 40 percent of the total tonnage of apples produced in the United States.

Here are three recipes for easy-to-make, homemade chocolate and apple desserts that deliver great flavor without having to spend hours in the kitchen.

Autumn would not be complete without dipped apples. Even kids can help make "Chocolate and Peanut Butter Dipped Apples" with easy-to-melt, semi-sweet chocolate and peanut butter chips. (For melting success: Use only solid vegetable shortening, not butter, margarine or oil, which cause the chocolate or peanut butter chips to "seize" and thicken from the moisture in these products.)

Two different cocoas can be used. Try European style "dutch" cocoa for a darker color and more mellow chocolate flavor, or use unsweetened cocoa for a rich, deep chocolate flavor.

If you can't decide between a pie or a cake, make both in one with "Apple Pie Chocolate Brownie Cake."

Chocolate Crumb Apple Pie

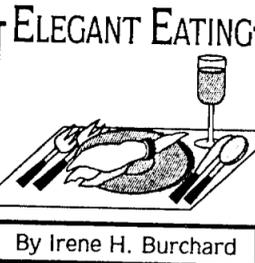

9-inch unbaked pastry shell
1 t plus 1/4 cup all-purpose flour, divided
1 cup Reese's peanut butter chips
1 can (20 oz.) apple pie filling
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter or margarine, melted
1/2 cup rolled oats
1/3 cup packed light brown sugar
2 T Hershey's cocoa or premium European style cocoa

Heat oven to 400 F. Sprinkle 1 teaspoon flour on bottom of pastry shell; sprinkle peanut butter chips over flour. Spread apple pie filling evenly over peanut butter chips. In small bowl, place melted butter, rolled oats, brown sugar, remaining 1/4 cup flour and cocoa; stir until well-blended.

Pinch off pieces of cocoa mixture; place evenly over top of pie filling. Bake 25 to 30 minutes or until crust is golden brown and apple mixture is bubbly. Cool completely in pie plate on wire rack; serve cut in wedges. Cover. Refrigerate leftovers. Serves six to eight.

Chocolate and Peanut Butter Dipped Apples

10 to 12 medium apples, stems removed
10 to 12 wooden ice cream sticks
1 cup Hershey's semi-sweet chocolate chips
1-2/3 cups (10 oz. pkg.) Reese's peanut butter

By Irene H. Burchard

chips, divided
1/4 cup plus 2 T shortening, divided

Wash and dry apples thoroughly. Insert wooden stick into each apple; place on wax-paper-covered tray. In medium microwave-safe bowl, place chocolate chips, 2/3 cup peanut butter chips and 1/4 cup shortening. Microwave at HIGH 1 to 1-1/2 minutes or until chocolate is melted and mixture is smooth when stirred. Dip bottom three-fourths of each apple into mixture. Twirl and shake to remove excess; place back on prepared tray.

In small microwave-safe bowl, place remaining 1 cup peanut butter chips and remaining 2 tablespoons shortening. Microwave at HIGH 30 seconds to 1 minute or until chips are melted and mixture is smooth when stirred. Spoon over top section of each apple, allowing to drip down sides. Refrigerate until ready to serve 10 to 12 coated apples.

Apple Pie Chocolate Brownie Cake

1 cup all-purpose flour
2/3 cup sugar
1/4 cup Hershey's cocoa or premium European style cocoa
1 t baking powder

3/4 cup water
2/3 cup shortening
1 egg
1 t vanilla extract
Apple topping (recipe follows)
Whipped topping or ice cream (optional)

Heat oven to 375 F. Grease and flour 9-inch square baking pan. In medium bowl, stir together flour, sugar, cocoa, baking powder and salt. Add water, shortening, egg and vanilla; beat until smooth and well blended. Spread onto bottom of prepared pan. Carefully and evenly spoon topping onto top of chocolate batter to within 1/2-inch from edges; DO NOT STIR. Bake 35 to 40 minutes or until chocolate is set and cake-like. Cool completely in pan or wire rack; cut into squares. Serve topped with whipped topping or ice cream, if desired.

Apple Topping

There's no horsing around for this young rider

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

It might not have been love at first sight when Kelly Horri- gan of Grosse Pointe Park saw her 9-year-old thoroughbred gelding In Any Event, but it has developed into true love.

"We have a special bond. We trust each other," said Horri- gan, a junior at Grosse Pointe South and one of the top riders in the junior training division of the United States Combined Training Association.

Two years ago Horri- gan was looking for a horse that could compete in the various jumps that are a major part of equestrian. Her old horse suffered from arthritis and had difficulty navigating the courses.

"My mom fell in love with

(In Any Event) when she first saw him, but I didn't like him right away. As soon as Mom knew he was for sale she said, 'That's the one.' Then I rode him and he was so smooth. I'm glad I took a second look. Now I don't think I could ever get another horse," Horri- gan said.

She and In Any Event have competed in several equestrian events in Michigan, Ohio and Kentucky. Last month they were among Michigan's representatives in a team challenge at the Kentucky Horse Park in Lexington and made a good showing among the top young riders in the country.

Horri- gan began riding about six years ago when she visited Sugarbush Farm near Mount Clemens with her friend, Jenna Nutter, also of Grosse Pointe.

"I liked it so I signed up for a class in riding," Horri- gan said. "I did some hunter's shows, but after a while they got boring. I've been eventing now for two years and it's a lot more exciting. It's also more difficult to win a ribbon."

Horri- gan, Nutter and Amanda Brown, who also attends South, competed in several eventing meets during the summer. Brown had planned to ride for Michigan in the team challenge, but her horse was injured.

Eventing, or horse trials, encompasses the three disciplines of equestrian — dressage, cross-country and stadium jumping — without the endurance events of steeplechase and road and track, which take place in the three-day competition.

"By the end of next year I'd like to try a three-day eventing show," Horri- gan said. In the spring she hopes to compete at the next level, which is the young rider preliminary division.

Dressage is done on level ground with no jumping. The horse and rider go through different gaits ranging from a trot to a canter. Both the horse and rider are graded on several points of style.

Cross country is done in open fields with the horse jumping over solid fences. Although it isn't racing, the event is timed and each horse and rider is penalized if the horse refuses to jump or if the rider falls off the horse.

The third phase, stadium jumping, is done in an arena. Penalty points are assessed if a horse knocks down a jump or refuses a jump.

"I think the cross country is the toughest because you can have so many different kinds of jumps," Horri- gan said.

Horri- gan practices under her trainer, Joe Zada of Sugarbush Farm, three or four times a week during the off-season and she rides daily during the summer months when the competi- tions are held.

"I really enjoy it," she said. "I get a big adrenaline rush when I'm going real fast and heading for a jump. I feel close to the horse and can relate to him. But I feel safe when I'm riding him."

Kelly's interest in riding has provided a common bond for her and her mother, Rena Wil- son.

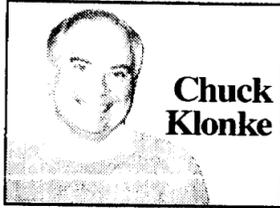

"I used to ride when I was Kelly's age, but we sold our horse when I went to college," Wilson said. "Then when Kelly got interested in it, I started riding again. When we bought our first horse, all my old horse feelings came out again."

Mom doesn't get much chance to ride during the sea- son, however.

Chuck Klonke

There were some long faces at the state cross country championships in Flint last weekend and a few of them belonged to coaches and athletes from Grosse Pointe.

None of the three local teams that competed in the Class A meet — Grosse Pointe South's girls and boys squads and Grosse Pointe North's girls team — finished as well as they would have liked.

South's girls hoped for a top 10 finish and came in 12th. North's girls were last in the 27-team field and South's boys were next to last.

It was a disappointing end to a season during which the athletes and coaches devoted many hours of hard work, but hopefully they'll be able to push one day's performance into the back of their minds and instead remember the highlights of the season.

It's a shame that when a team doesn't do well in the last game or meet of the season it puts a damper on what it accomplished throughout the year.

I prefer to remember that South's girls team dominated all of its dual meets this season and took two teams to an invitational at Saginaw Heritage and had them finish second and third. And who can forget that the Lady Devils have won their league 14 years in a row.

I'll remember that South's boys had their second straight unbeaten dual meet season and also ran to their second championship in the Macomb Area Conference White Division meet. And Dan Quinn's domination of most of his races.

When I think of North's girls, I'll think of all the first-place finishes Jessica McLalin scored and that the Lady Norsemen qualified for the state meet for the 14th straight sea- son.

Some teams don't even make it to the state finals. Our local teams have done it with amazing regularity.

It bothers me to see so much emphasis put on the end of a season.

Bo Schembechler took a lot of undeserved abuse because of Michigan's lack of success in the Rose Bowl. Did anyone stop to think that maybe the Pac-10 representative was just a better team? Maybe Bo didn't always win the "Big One" but he won more "little ones" than anybody else in the Big Ten.

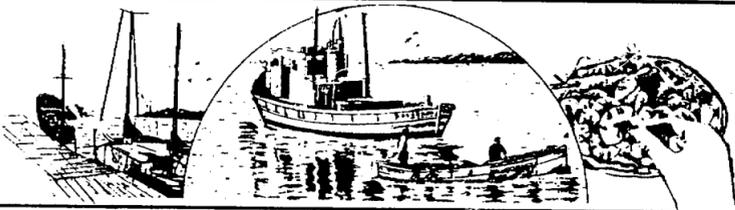

Tom Landry didn't get his due as one of the great coaches in NFL history until Dallas finally won a Super Bowl. And Minnesota's Bud Grant probably never will be so recognized because he took several teams to the Super Bowl but never had a winner.

The Red Wings' Bryan Murray ranks high among NHL coaches in regular-season winning percentage, but his playoff record is no great shakes. Does that make him a bad coach? Hardly, but some folks criticize him for it.

Jim Leyland has done a masterful job of managing the Pittsburgh Pirates for several seasons, but they've lost in the playoffs for three years in a row. He won't join the great managers in baseball until he wins a World Series.

As far as I'm concerned, consistency and excellence over a long period of time means a lot more than having a good series, or game, or meet.

Our cross country teams meet that stan- dard. I hope everyone else realizes it, too.

Knights bow in semis

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Losing a key player and a coin flip might have cost University Liggett School's soccer team a chance to play in the Class C-D championship game.

"There were two keys to that game," Knights' coach David Backhurst said after his team's 4-2 loss to Ann Arbor Greenhills in a semifinal clash at Goodrich High School.

"We really missed having Gary Spicer. He twisted his knee last Saturday (in the regional championship victory over Riverview Gabriel Richard) and we got through the last three quarters of that game without him, but we really needed him (against Greenhills). We don't have enough depth and he leads us in goals and points. We also missed the intangibles he contributes. I think his absence had a psychological effect because the kids didn't come out hopping," Backhurst said.

"No. 2, we lost the coin flip and had to play the first half into a gale-force wind. They say the wind can make the difference of one player. Well, this wind was like having two extra players. That put us back on our heels early and gave (Greenhills) momentum."

The Gryphons scored a goal early in the game, then made it 2-0 with 40 seconds remaining in the first half.

"That was a killer goal because we felt we'd be in pretty good shape if it was 1-0 at halftime," Backhurst said.

The outlook became more bleak when Greenhills went ahead 3-0 at the eight-minute mark of the second half.

"I thought, 'Here comes a blowout,' but our kids called and really started to pour it on," Backhurst said.

Jeff Backhurst, who played a strong game, got ULS on the scoreboard with about 17 minutes to play and sophomore Frank Tymrak quickly cut the lead to 3-2. The Knights had several opportunities to tie the score, but just missed the net.

"It was all us for about 10 to 15 minutes," David Backhurst said.

ULS' comeback hopes ended when the Gryphons scored their final goal with five minutes remaining.

"At least we made them earn it," the coach said. "Vince Harkins played well in goal, especially in the first half when they put on a lot of pressure, and Tom Simmonds was a dynamo on defense."

ULS wound up with a 16-11 edge in shots.

Greenhills eventually bowed to defending champion Kalamazoo Hackett Catholic Central 2-0 in last Saturday's title game.

"Even if we had made it to the final, I think we'd have had a difficult time beating Hackett," David Backhurst said. "They looked very strong. That 2-0 score wasn't indicative of how much they dominated the game."

The coach was optimistic about next season.

"We lose three key seniors in Jeff, Gary and Vince, but we have a lot of experienced players back," he said. "I'm looking forward to next year."

ULS finished with a 12-9-2 record.

ULS beats Harper Woods

University Liggett School's girls basketball team came away with a win and a loss after facing two tough opponents last week.

The Lady Knights beat a scrappy Harper Woods squad 53-43. ULS struggled in the first half, but had a strong third quarter.

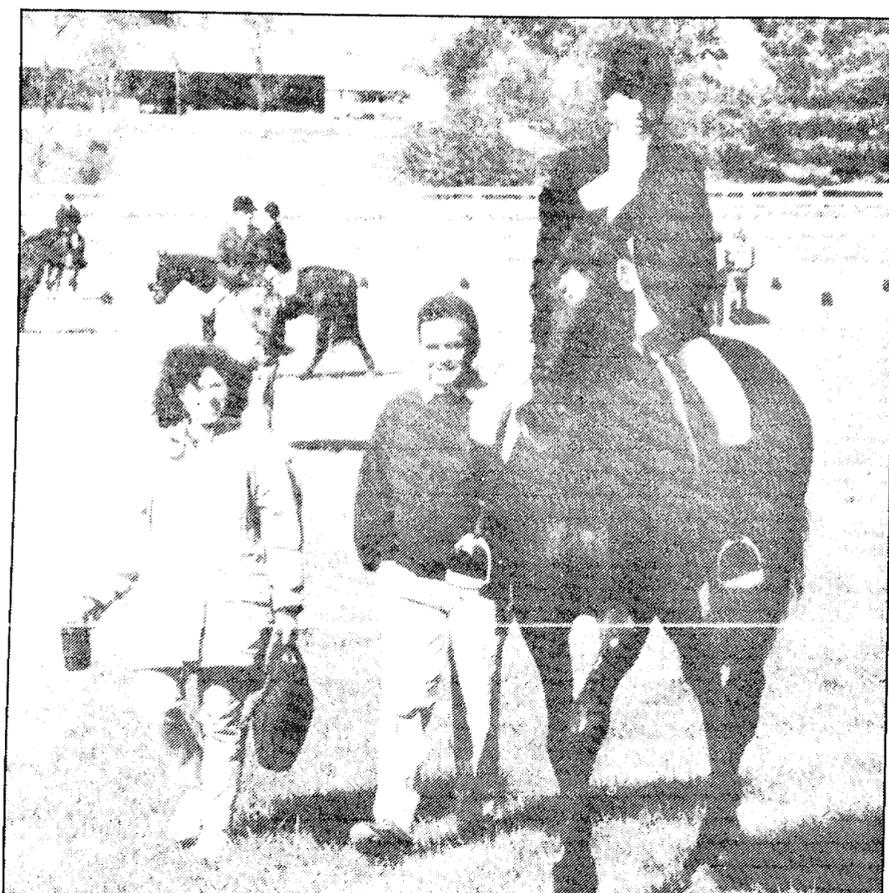

Sophomore Juli Grant led the way with 25 points and junior Magda Chojnacka added 13.

ULS played well at times, but wound up losing to Metro Conference leader Lutheran North 80-33.

Grant led the Lady Knights with 13 points.

ULS is 8-5 in the Metro Conference and 9-9 overall.

she does. "Jumping is a part of him," she said. "I don't think he'd be happy if he wasn't doing that. If you take care of your horse, it isn't hard on him."

Horrigan said that tending the horse is part of competing.

"At the higher levels some of the riders have two or three grooms to care for the horse between jumps, but I wouldn't ever want to do that. I think you lose some of the trust between horse and rider when someone else cares for him," she said.

Horrigan isn't sure how far she wants to go in equestrian.

"The Olympics is there in the back of my mind, but so are a lot of other things in my life," she said. "I want to go to art school and become a fashion designer, so I might have to give up competing because it takes a lot of time."

South's Wise makes all-state in cross country

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Steve Zaranek wished he could have run out on the course and called a timeout during last weekend's state Class A girls cross country meet.

"We were in great shape after the first mile," said Zaranek, Grosse Pointe South's girls cross country coach. "We were looking at a top five finish, but then we made some mistakes in the second mile. I wish I could have called a timeout because I could see some things developing, but this isn't like football or basketball. For 20 minutes the kids are on their own."

"We concentrate so much on positioning but we lost contact between some of our people during the second mile. Then the last mile we ran as well as any team."

The Lady Devils finished 12th in the 27-team field at the Flint IMA Brookfield golf course with 296 points and South senior Heidi Wise earned all-state honors when she finished 10th in the team race in 19:35.34.

"We were disappointed with 12th place to a degree because we had hoped to be in the top 10," Zaranek said, "but one of our goals was to beat the three teams that beat us in invitational meets this year — Chippewa Valley, Berkley and Mount Pleasant. Mount Pleasant didn't even get out of the regional and Chippewa and Berkley took the next two spots behind us."

As expected, Traverse City won the team championship with 117 points and Brighton was second with 160.

Zaranek has made a few adjustments in Wise's running strategy this season and it has paid off.

"We've held her back during the first mile and that has helped her feel under control," Zaranek said. "Then she makes her move in the second mile. For some girls it works to get out early, but it didn't work for Heidi."

"It's great to see Heidi do this well because she's worked so hard," said Tom Wise. "She really wanted this."

Melissa Wise, Heidi's younger sister, was South's second runner across the line, finishing 52nd in 20:39.05. Others who scored points for the Lady Devils were Mary Rowe (20:50.02), Rachel O'Byrne (20:57.37) and Sandy Dierkes (21:10.35). Amy Balok and Katie Weed were South's other two runners.

Christy Goodison of Sterling Heights Stevenson was the overall winner in 18:48.63.

Zaranek said he was pleased with South's performance throughout the season.

"We continued our tradition of excellence that we've developed over a period of time," he said. "I felt the quality of running from top to bottom on our team improved this season. The best way to measure success is how a team comes together and we had 49 people — our biggest squad ever — come together nicely. I don't think there's a team in the state that could run with us if we'd have gone 10 to 20 runners deep, but you only score five."

"We won our 14th straight league championship and qualified a team for the state 13 years in a row. We've never won a state meet, but a lot of teams that have won haven't had our consistency."

North's girls, who made their 14th straight trip to the state meet, finished last in the team competition.

Jessica McLalin, who was 45th, made the best showing for the Lady Norsemen.

"She ran a good first mile, a 5:58, but today she didn't respond like usual when she was challenged in the second mile," said coach Charles Buhagiar.

Nina Misuraca, Alissa Zepke,

Anna Collinson and Anne Maliszewski were the other runners who scored for North.

South's boys had hoped to improve on their 24th place finish posted the last time they qualified for a state meet, but the Blue Devils wound up 26th.

North gets offensive

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North's girls basketball team has always had a strong defense, but now the Lady Norsemen are starting to put a few more points on the board, too.

"We're doing a good job of finding the open person," said coach Gary Bennett after North

Bulldogs win game at JLA

The Grosse Pointe Giffin's Bulldogs Mite A travel hockey team beat the Fraser Kings 5-3 in an exhibition game before the Red Wings' 5-3 victory over the Winnipeg Jets.

The Bulldogs' Mike Hackett opened the scoring with the first of his two goals, but the Kings came back with two goals before Mike Barger tied the score at 2-2.

Goals by Hackett and Todd Lorenger broke the tie and Lorenger sealed the win with his second goal of the game after the Kings closed the gap to one.

Neal Gram collected three assists for the Bulldogs, Lorenger had two and Phil Mannino, Rich Giffin, John Matteson Hackett and Chris Barger collected one apiece.

The Bulldogs had outstanding goaltending by Ryan Kramer and excellent defense from Trevor Mallon, Jimmy Coates, Nick Thomas and Brent Franklin.

John Hackett is head coach of the Bulldogs, while his assistants are Rick Gram, Joe Coates and Brian Schulte.

"We just didn't run well, and I'll have to take some of the blame for that," said Tom Wise. "We were so focused on winning the regional and worked so hard that week instead of resting for the state. Everybody was about 20 seconds behind their regional times. We probably sacrificed a better showing in the state for the regional trophy, but we're proud to have it."

Dan Quinn finished in 17:24.23 to lead a Blue Devils' group that included freshman Tim Nicholson, Adam Rhodes, Josh Wood and Tom Coyle.

Sophomore Bill Stevenson was the only member of North's boys team to qualify for the state meet and he made a good showing in the individual race.

"He ran very well for the first two miles and then one of his contact lenses shifted on him and it was a distraction," said Norsemen coach Pat Wilson. "He was running his second-best time of the year but on that course it was probably his best race."

Although North didn't qualify for the team race, Wilson was pleased with the progress his squad made during the season.

"In four years here, I've never had the commitment to running that this year's team has made," he said. "We have a young team and I'm excited about how guys like Bill and Bob Stevenson, Mike Schmidt, Marty Bogen and Dave Bonkosky, who ran well for us all year, can improve."

Lady Devils ready for Regina

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's girls basketball team has a couple of immediate tasks at hand before concentrating all of its efforts on the state tournament.

"We're working on what we have to do to beat Regina, but we still have a couple of goals to achieve before the regular season ends," said Lady Devils' coach Peggy VanEckoute after her team's Macomb Area Conference White Division victories over Warren-Mott and Romeo last week.

"We want to win our last two league games and finish 28-0 in the league over the last two years and our girls set a goal of finishing the season without a loss after Regina beat us in the opener," she said.

tournament.

"I feel that this is the best shot we've had at them," VanEckoute said. "It all depends on how well our kids play."

South got an outstanding performance from center Angela Drake in last week's 67-35 victory over Romeo. The 6-foot senior scored 38 points on 16-for-21 shooting from the field. She also had 21 rebounds, seven assists and eight steals.

"That's right up there with her best games," VanEckoute said. "Stephanie (Coddens) got hurt early in the second quarter so Angela just took over."

Susie Faramouth had eight points and seven rebounds; Katy Lupo tossed in five points; and Shannon McGratty scored four points and collected seven rebounds.

South built a 39-10 halftime lead, allowing VanEckoute to do some experimenting in the second half.

"We'll continue to experiment in our last two league games, but if we're ever in danger of losing we'll go back to what we've been doing," she said.

Drake, Coddens and McGratty combined for 43 points in South's 58-17 victory over Warren-Mott.

The Lady Devils led 16-11 after the first quarter and then concentrated on defense, allowing only six points the rest of the game.

Drake had 18 points and 10 rebounds, Coddens scored 14 points and made six steals and McGratty, a sophomore, collected 11 points and 12 rebounds.

"Shannon has been playing real well lately," VanEckoute said. "She could make a difference in the tournament."

Six Pointers on title team

Six Grosse Pointe seniors are members of a girls travel soccer team that recently won the Under-19 division of the Michigan State Cup competition.

Grosse Pointe North students Jennifer Clein, Kelly Konsler, Felicia Paluzzi, Amy Shepley and Torrey Teetaert and Sarah Foley, who attends Grosse Pointe South, play for the East Detroit Express, which is coached by Jim Nickens.

The Express defeated Rochester 1-0 in the final game to bring the State Cup to the east side for the first time in several years. Rochester had beaten the six-time champion Livonia Hawks in an earlier game.

East Detroit also beat Rochester to win the Under-19 division of the Marriott Classic at Oakland University in September.

Other members of the Express are Cindy Barton of Troy; Karin Denholm, Birmingham; Jenny Dunbar and Nora Ruttinger, Detroit; Monica Kaltreider and Priscilla Marshall, Bloomfield Hills; Kelley Noles, Dearborn; Rachel Parsley and Nichole Zosky, Mount Clemens; Nicholas Pierfelice and Lori Sierzega, Sterling Heights; and Erika VonGrabe, Fraser.

North freshmen go unbeaten

The future looks bright for boys soccer at Grosse Pointe North.

The varsity team with several young players rebounded from a slow start to post a winning season. The junior varsity had a winning record and North's freshman squad finished the year with an 11-0-2 mark.

"I think everyone is looking forward to the future," said Cindy Bowman, who coached the freshman team. "I had some excellent players on this team and there are some good young players on the varsity and JV teams."

This was Bowman's first season coaching a boys team. She was an outstanding player on North's girls squad in 1985 and 1986 and she has coached North's girls junior varsity for two seasons.

"It was the first time I've coached a boys team and it was a lot of fun," Bowman said. "It took a week for them to get used to having a 'girl' coach the team. Once they found out for themselves that I knew what I was talking about, everything went fine."

North's freshmen outscored their opponents 41-5 and posted nine shutouts.

Among the victories were 3-1 and 3-0 triumphs over Grosse Pointe South; 5-0 and 4-0 shutouts of U-D Jesuit; a 3-1 win over De La Salle; and a 1-0 triumph over Rochester.

North played a scoreless tie with Ann Arbor Huron and a 2-2 deadlock with De La Salle.

Many of the players on this year's freshman team have been together for four seasons, including the first two on a Grosse Pointe Soccer Association team coached by Guido Regelbrugge, who heads North's varsity soccer teams. This was the third time the group has been unbeaten.

Royals have the touch in Farms-City league

Turnabout was fair play for the Royals in the Grosse Pointe Farms-City Little League's Major Division this year.

The Tigers beat the Royals in the final game of the regular season to win the American Division title and also handed the Royals their only playoff defeat, but the Royals came back to beat the Tigers in the final two post-season contests.

The Royals took the first game of the finals 2-1 when Brad Cenko and Jon Bayko hit back-to-back doubles in the seventh inning. Bayko had three hits and pitched six innings, allowing one run.

Cenko had two hits and six assists. Tim Lindow had a hit and drove in the Royals' other run with a sacrifice fly.

Drew Harris pitched the seventh inning and stranded a runner on third base. Bob Smith had three assists in center field.

Jeff Mehr and Matt Vandeweghe pitched well for the Tigers.

Jim Jahnke had two hits and drove in two runs to lead the Royals to a 7-3 victory over the Tigers in the championship game.

Matt Bedan had a key double.

Harris pitched five strong innings before he was relieved by Andy Shelden. Cenko, who had six assists, and Lindow played well defensively.

Mike Getz had two hits for the Tigers, who got good pitching from Steve Luck and Mehr.

The Royals opened the double-elimination playoffs with a 9-7 victory over the Pirates.

Graham Meriwether, Cenko and Smith each went 3-for-4. Ryan Schafer was 2-for-2 and scored two runs. Lindow and Cenko played well defensively.

Shelden's triple scored Schafer, who reached base with a single, in the sixth inning to drive in the winning run in the Royals' 4-3 victory over the National Division champion Astros.

Harris and Bayko divided the pitching for the Royals. Bayko allowed no runs and no hits in his three innings.

Pat Howe hit a two-run homer for the Astros and Karl Freismuth pitched well in a losing cause, striking out six and walking one.

The Royals suffered their only loss of the playoffs when they fell behind the Tigers 7-3, rallied for four runs in the bottom of the sixth to tie the score, but finally lost 8-7.

Bayko's three-run homer, the last of five straight hits by the Royals, tied the game.

The Tigers scored the winning run in the eighth when James Thomas tripled in Mehr. Mehr had four hits, Matt Barry collected three and Matt Vandeweghe hit a two-run homer for the Tigers.

Getz made an outstanding catch to end the game.

The Royals had strong contributions from Jahnke and Meriwether.

Harris struck out five in three innings and Shelden exhibited perfect control in his three-inning stint as the Royals bounced back with a 14-3 victory over the A's.

Lindow had two doubles and Bayko and Smith each collected three hits. Josh Lorence scored two runs.

Six Knights honored

Six members of University Liggett School's football team have been selected for post-season honors in the Metro Conference.

Seniors Dave Martin and Michael Fox earned spots on the All-Metro team.

Martin is a 5-foot-10, 170-pound split end and Fox is a 6-0, 215-pound linebacker.

Senior Matt Hambright and sophomore Matt Corona were named to the All-East Division offensive team. Hambright is a 6-5, 195-pound tight end and Corona is a 6-0, 175-pound lineman.

All-East Division defensive selections were Tom Best, a 6-0, 175-pound senior defensive back; and Joey Grant, a 6-1, 175-pound sophomore linebacker. Best also did the punting for the Knights, who finished 2-7.

500 ANIMALS ADOPT A PET

PLEASE DON'T DELAY! SPAY or NEUTER YOUR PET TODAY!

An altered pet is a healthier and happier companion. Also, it spares you the grief and pain of having puppies and kittens destroyed when no homes can be found. Countless numbers of sweet, innocent little ones are euthanized every day in shelters across the country because a pet wasn't spayed or neutered. If we cut down on the numbers of unwanted litters being born, we will also cut down on the number of abandoned, lost and unwanted animals to destroy.

Business, labor to build luxury apartments

By Liane Smyth

Business and labor, so often at odds, have come together in a unique arrangement to renovate and expand the former Forest Lake Apartments, located on Lake St. Clair in Harrison Township.

The complex, renamed Village Green apartments, is not only being refurbished, but 82 new units will be built by late spring 1993.

The project is the result of a newly formed partnership between the developer, Holtzman & Silverman, and four Detroit-area labor union investors: Carpenter's Pension Trust Fund, Laborers' Pension Trust Fund, Operating Engineers' Local 324 Pension Trust Fund and Painters Union Pension Fund.

However unusual this business-labor coalition may seem — it was arranged by Acquest Realty Advisers — it appears to be working, said Sue Terebelo, public relations manager for Holtzman & Silverman.

"This really is a magical situation — to see everyone working together — especially given the condition of the economy," Terebelo said.

She said that under existing conservative lending conditions, many traditional methods of getting money for development are scarce, leaving companies searching for another avenue of borrowing, and often not finding it. But Village Green overcame such obstacles.

Indeed, more than $10 million will be spent on the 13-acre project to carry out the renovations that have been planned by Holtzman & Silverman, which is also overseeing the construction of Village Green.

Many of the amenities offered to residents will be found in the 6,000-square-foot clubhouse, including a gourmet kitchen, an indoor racquetball court and a billiard room.

The entire facade of the existing buildings will be resurfaced as well as redoing the interiors so they match the new buildings.

The newer apartments will feature cathedral ceilings and New England-style nautical architecture.

Depending on the apartment, rent — starting at $450 — will vary between the price of the old and new complexes. Apartments will range from 550 to 1,250 square feet.

"I really do challenge anyone to find better apartment living anywhere," said Terebelo, adding that Village Green will offer luxury lakefront living at affordable prices — without the commitment of a mortgage.

Village Green's slogan is "The Perpetual Weekend," and that says it all, Terebelo said.

By building a new community, not only will Holtzman & Silverman bring new residents to Harrison Township, but the construction will attract jobs to the area.

Betty Katke, Village Green manager, said, "One thing that I think Candice Miller was really happy about was the addition of jobs to the township. I think it will be a real economic uplift to the community."

Miller, Harrison Township supervisor, said the Village Green developers had demonstrated a commitment to the community and were sensitive to neighboring property owners' concerns.

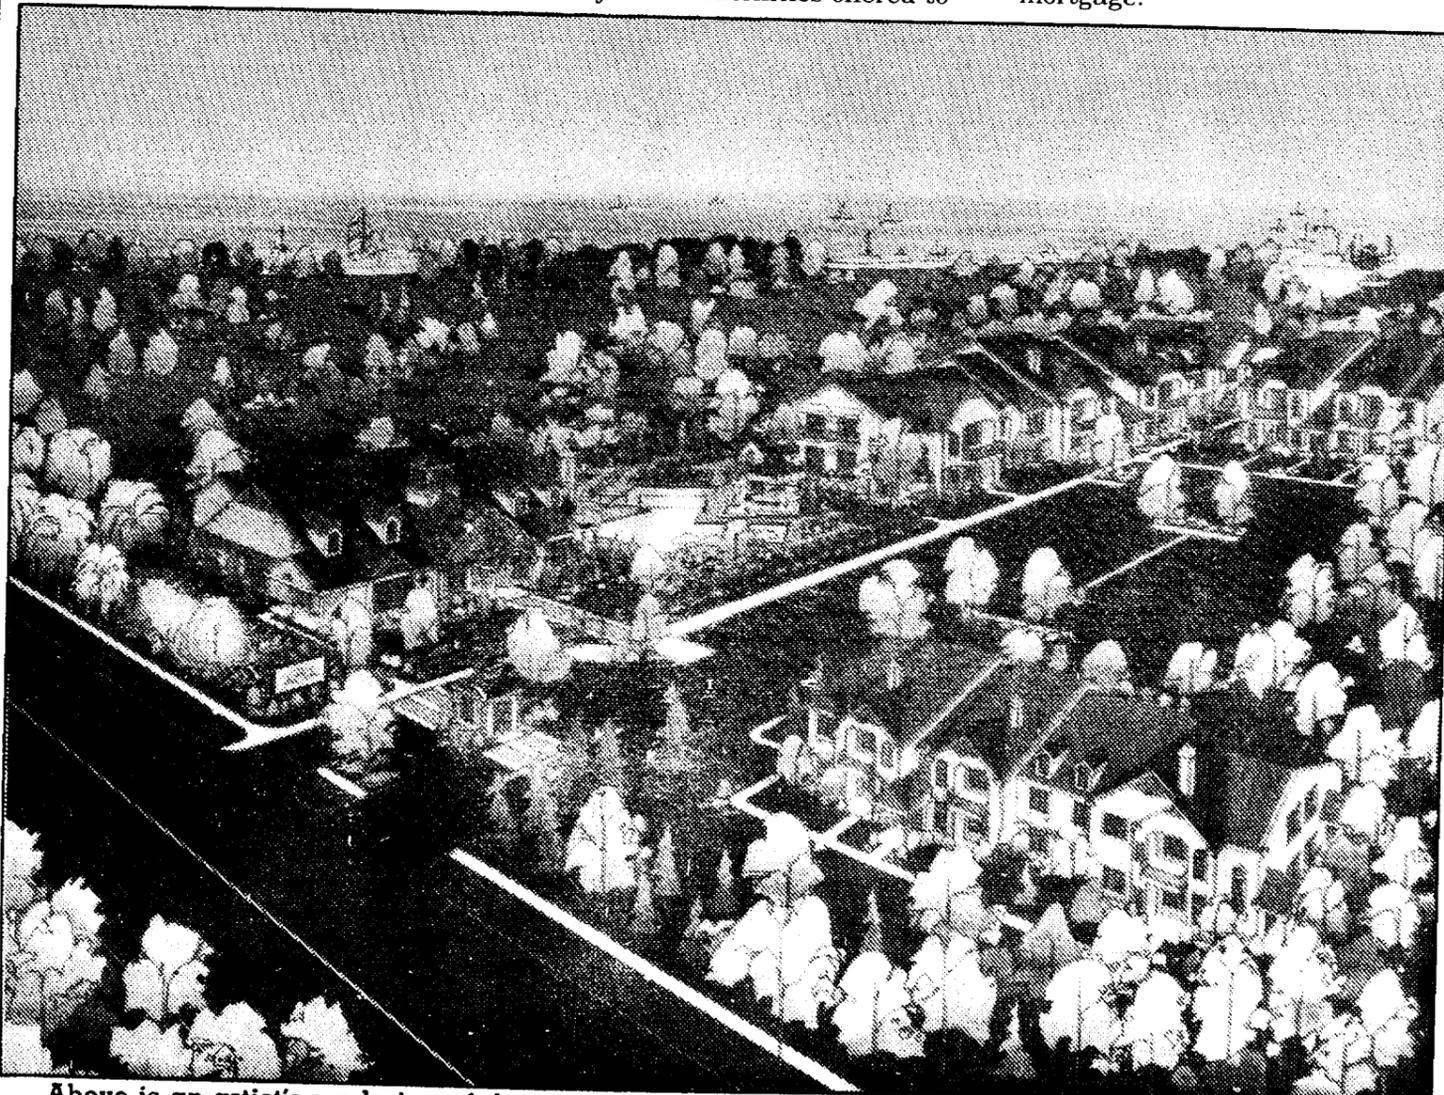

Miller was referring to the purchase and razing of waterfront homes to make way for the new apartments.

The construction of the new apartments will bridge a 20-year gap in which no new apartments were built in the township.

Jonathan Holtzman, co-chairman of Holtzman & Silverman, is pleased that the company is finally meeting a demand for better quality living that has been ignored for the past several years.

"Responding to the unmet demand for the finest quality apartment community, we have created this community so that people can enjoy lakefront views while still renting and being close to where they work, shop and spend their leisure time," he said.

Village Green Apartments is located near the mouth of the Clinton River Spillway on Jefferson, north of Shook Road. For information, call the leasing office at 313-791-3093.

FHA changes will restore accessibility, broaden use

Improvements to the Federal Housing Administration's (FHA) single-family mortgage insurance program have been enacted that will restore accessibility and broaden use of the financing, according to the National Association of Realtors.

President George Bush signed legislation Oct. 6 that rescinds a limit placed on the amount of closing costs that can be financed in FHA transactions, and adjusts the program's mortgage insurance limit to reflect local housing costs. The FHA provisions were part of a bill appropriating funds for fiscal 1993 for the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), which oversees FHA. The fiscal year began Oct. 1.

"This is a huge victory for aspiring home buyers nationwide," said NAR President Dorcas T. Helfant. "The changes definitely will open FHA up to people previously unable to use it."

NAR lobbied vigorously for the FHA provisions, in an effort to make the mortgage insurance program more accessible to the people for whom it was intended — prospective buyers who do not qualify for conventional financing.

FHA has long been a vital tool for helping people achieve homeownership. The program historically has served buyers who have lower incomes, make smaller down payments and purchase less expensive homes than buyers who use private financing sources. However, a closing cost change implemented by HUD in July 1991 made FHA more costly for buyers to use.

Specifically, the department limited the amount of closing costs that could be financed to 57 percent. The resulting increase in buyers' out-of-pocket settlement costs caused FHA to steadily lose business last year.

According to NAR research, between the first and second half of 1991, more than 200 housing markets nationwide experienced a notable fall-off in FHA activity.

The rescission of the closing cost restriction applies to FHA-insured loans closed on or after Oct. 8, according to HUD.

"For many people, the elimination of the closing cost rule will mean the difference between using FHA to buy and not using FHA and not buying," Helfant said.

The legislation enacted Oct. 6 also includes another important change to FHA — a provision to base the mortgage insurance limit on local housing costs.

FHA's new mortgage insurance limit is 95 percent of an area's median home price, up to a maximum of 75 percent of the individual loan amount purchased in the secondary mortgage market by the Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae) and the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. (Freddie Mac). This change raises the maximum loan amount FHA will insure to $151,725 (based on the 1992 Fannie Mae-Freddie Mac loan purchase limit). This adjustment in the mortgage insurance limit also was included in housing legislation recently passed by Congress.

The former maximum limit, $124,875, had rendered FHA virtually useless in areas where home prices typically are much higher.

Raising the maximum by nearly $30,000 will "make a big difference" in expensive areas, Helfant said. "Prospective buyers in high-cost markets will be in a much better position to use FHA. Until now, FHA was not a viable financing option for them, because the limit did not even come close to home prices in their area."

However, the change in FHA mortgage insurance limit will have a positive effect on more than just high-cost areas, she noted. Families in less-expensive markets have been shut out of homeownership due to low FHA loan limits that have not kept pace with home price increases. NAR has determined that FHA limits existing in individual markets have kept approximately 4.7 million potential buyers from becoming homeowners. These are families who do not qualify to buy based on conventional loan terms, but who could buy using FHA financing if the loan limit more accurately reflected local market prices. Tying the FHA limit to 95 percent of an area's median price will "help close the gap," Helfant said.

Adjusting the limit will broaden usage of FHA, giving its portfolio much-needed diversity. Allowing the program to expand will strengthen the mortgage insurance fund by making it less vulnerable to economic downturns in any one market or region, she noted.

Also, the additional mortgage insurance premiums paid by buyers taking advantage of the new insurance limits will further increase reserves in the insurance fund.

"Raising the mortgage insurance limit will enable FHA to serve buyers in more areas, as well as a wider range of buyers. It will be good for buyers and good for the program," Helfant said.

HUD is revising FHA's insurance limit structure to conform to the changes. The department expects to release the revisions within 60 days.

Low interest rates keep September home sales above one year ago

Existing-home sales in September benefited from the lowest interest rates since 1973, with homeowner purchases more than 5 percent above a year ago, according to the National Association of Realtors.

The association reported a 5.1 percent increase in last month's seasonally adjusted annual sales rate for existing single-family homes, compared to September 1991. The resale rate of 3.28 million units for last month contrasts with 3.12 million units recorded for the same time last year.

NAR president Dorcas T. Helfant noted that despite historically low interest rates, some potential home buyers are reluctant to enter the market.

"Even with very favorable home buying conditions, consumers are holding back due to the sluggish growth of the economy," she said.

To stimulate further growth in home sales, government barriers to down payment flexibility need to be removed, Helfant said.

"A choice confronts President Bush — a bill on his desk allows Americans to apply Individual Retirement Account funds toward a home purchase. If he signs, many doors could be opened for potential home buyers. That's his decision," Helfant said.

The Federal Home Loan Corp. reported that the national average commitment rate for 30-year, conventional, fixed-rate mortgages was 7.92 percent in September, the lowest monthly average since June, 1973, when the rate was 7.73 percent. In September 1991, the rate was 9.01 percent. Mortgage rates this year have generally remained one point lower than rates offered last year.

Existing-home sales volume for the first nine months of 1992 continue to exceed the volume for the same time period last year. The association recorded year-to-date sales of 2.62 million units for 1992, a 5.2 percent increase over last year's January-to-September total of 2.49 million units.

"The housing industry is primed for resurgence, but it's waiting for an economic boost," Helfant said.

The national median existing single-family home price for September was $103,200, a 2.9 percent increase over the same month in 1991, when the price was $100,300. The median is the midpoint in the price range — half the homes sold cost more, half cost less.

NAR chief economist John A. Tuccillo said the small percentage price increase is a reflection of the skittish growth of the nation's economy.

"The housing market continues to grow at a steady pace, but in reality, it needs a kick-start," Tuccillo said. More changes in federal regulations are needed, such as "the recent elimination of the Federal Housing Administration's restriction on the amount of closing costs that can be financed in FHA transactions. It makes a sensible difference for many potential homeowners when the FHA represents the only way to finance their purchase," he said.

Recent appropriations legislation for the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, which oversees FHA, rescinded a 57 percent limitation on the amount of closing costs that could be financed with an FHA loan, as well as adjustments to the program's mortgage insurance limit.

Three of the regions posted year-to-year increases in existing single-family home sales. The Northeast pace for September was 530,000 units, a 10.4 percent rise from the previous September. The median price for existing single-family homes in the Northeast was $137,000, down 0.5 percent from one year ago.

In the Midwest, the resale rate was recorded at 870,000 units, 7.4 percent higher than the previous September rate of 810,000 units. The median existing-home price for the region was $81,300, up 6.4 percent from September 1991's price of $76,400.

The South saw 6.1 percent home resales increase last month, with a rate of 1.21 million units, compared to 1.14 million units a year ago. The region's median existing-home price of $91,700 remained the same during September 1991 and 1992.

In the West, existing-home sales dropped 4.3 percent to 670,000 units during September, 1992, compared with the same time last year. Additionally, median existing-home prices in the region edged up by 0.7 percent to $145,200, compared to last September's $144,200 price.

Antiques by Ralph & Terry Kovel

Shaker's rights — The Shakers are a religious group well known for their work ethic, austere life, and simple, beautiful furniture and household goods. The Shakers first settled in the United States near Albany, N.Y., in 1776. They made all of the goods needed for their own use, including buildings, furniture, medicine and tools. They also made extras that could be sold to outsiders.

Shaker boxes and baskets are of special interest to some collectors. The oval wooden boxes were made by the Shakers until 1961 and are being copied today by other craftsmen. The boxes were made with lids or open with handles. The open basket-box was often lined and used as a sewing basket.

The Shakers also made popular straw baskets and boxes fitted with needlecases and sewing needs. Some of the sewing boxes were offered for sale at a Shaker settlement in Maine during the 1940s. They originally cost less than $1 each; today, each box in excellent condition is worth more than $500.

Q. I have an antique table with several shelves. The shape suggests that it was made to fit in a corner. The bottom shelf is plain, and the top shelf has a large center hole and two smaller holes. Would this be an old plant stand?

A. Plant stands were often used in 19th-century homes. The stand was more like a pedestal that did not include holes. You must own an old corner washstand. The large hole held a wash basin and pitcher and the smaller holes held small bowls for waste water or a container for soap, a toothbrush or other necessities. The lower shelf probably held a commode, which was a necessity in homes with no indoor plumbing. The washstand remained a popular piece of furniture until running water, sinks and lavatories could be found in almost every home.

Home Tips

Clean coffee carafe — I've found a way to clean the stains from my glass coffee carafe. I fill it with warm water and drop in one or two denture tablets. I let it stand for an hour or so, or even overnight. Then I empty it, rinse, and the stains are gone.

Virginia H., Pueblo, Colo.

Stand it up — When I'm trying a new recipe, it's hard to read the card when it's lying flat on the counter. I came up with this idea.

Place the recipe card between the tines of a fork and stand the fork in a glass. This makes following the recipe much easier.

Sandy B., Hickory, N.C.

Easy find — Once out of their original package, those little corn cob holders become very elusive in the kitchen drawer. I've found that if I insert them into the sides of a scrap of sponge, not only are they easy to find, but it also eliminates the chance of pricked fingers.

Abby G., Klamath Falls, Ore.

Key finder — I'm definitely not a morning person, so I was always forgetting to take my lunch when I left for work. After doing this several times, my husband suggested I put my car keys in the refrigerator with the lunch.

Now, every night when I make lunches, I put my keys in my lunch bag. The first morning I couldn't find my keys, but I haven't forgotten my lunch once as a result.

Camille H., Bridgeport, Conn.

Dutch apple pie — When making Dutch apple pie, in place of the crumb mixture, sprinkle enough white cake mix (straight from the box) on top of the pie to evenly coat and bake as usual. It's quick and delicious.

Buying a home? Cooperative

When Gail and Steve Delaney built their three-bedroom home in Arkansas' Delta region, it was a dream come true.

The Delaneys were participants in a program developed by the Arkansas Cooperative Extension Service called H.O.M.E. The Home Ownership Made Easier program is one of many cooperative extension efforts around the country, designed to assist first-time home buyers in the often complicated process of buying and owning that initial piece of real estate.

"Our program places particular emphasis on what happens to the homeowner before and after the purchase hurdle," said Eleanor Walls. Walls is an extension housing specialist with a key role in the collaborative campaign that brought H.O.M.E. to Arkansas.

Teamed with First Commercial Bank and several community service organizations, this Arkansas program teaches limited-resource families and individuals the ins and outs of home purchasing and ownership. Topics addressed include budgeting and credit management, how much house you can afford, applying for a home loan, other financing sources, what to look for in a home, decorating with a plan, home care and maintenance, and landscaping and lawn care.

This year, as a result of H.O.M.E. participation, 20 Arkansas families are planning to buy a home, and 54 others are now homeowners.

One important reason for the H.O.M.E. success is its approach to home buyer education. By tailoring the promotion, meeting places and times, as well as the material to suit the targeted audience, H.O.M.E.

Another extension home buyer educational effort making a difference in the Midwest is the "Michigan Initiative," officially called the Home Buyers Program.

In Michigan, as in many states, housing and related costs have increased sharply over the past 20 years. This makes it difficult for people to afford the housing they want and in many cases the housing they need.

The Home Buyers Program offers "pre- and post-" purchase education similar to H.O.M.E. It includes a focus on the decision to buy, community and living conditions, affordability, budgeting, financing, landscaping, repairs, and many other items the home buyer should know.

With the Michigan Department of Commerce, the Housing Authority, and the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp., the program also assists many participants in acquiring their initial down payment, said Jeanne Clark, a home economist with the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service (MCES).

"A lender is more apt to take a chance on a buyer who's been through this program, because he or she knows the consumer understands the process and is ready to buy," Clark said.

Susan Mireley, MCES housing specialist, said that since 1990 the Home Buyers Program has reached 5,000 people.

The Manufactured Housing for Young Consumers program for high school students — and its adult component Manufactured Housing — addresses another big need in the Michigan housing market.

"A lot of people are opting to live in manufactured housing," said Mona Ellard, MCES home economist, Eaton County. Ellard, Clark and Mireley developed the pilot for this program.

Once people learn the facts about manufactured homes they begin to see them as a viable housing alternative.

"The double- and triple-wide structures are not only safe, but attractive, affordable, and the interiors are often equal to site-built structures," Ellard said.

In many instances, these homes are placed on foundations or over basement spaces.

"At times it's hard to tell the difference between them and site-built homes," Ellard added.

From an economic perspective the manufactured home makes a lot of sense. This is especially true for consumers earning between $10,000 and $40,000.

In the 1990s the average price of a site-built home with about 2,000 square feet of living space is roughly $107,000. In comparison, the average price of a multi-section manufactured home with about 1,500 square feet of living space is $35,000.

"The difference between the student curriculum and the adult course is focus," Ellard said. "We teach housing alternatives in general to the students, and focus solely on the manufactured housing topic in the other."

"The first thing we do is dispel all of the myths about manufactured housing," Clark added.

"We teach the history of manufactured housing; construction; the relationship between buyers, dealers and manufacturers; zoning regulations; and we demonstrate the various types of homes on the market, these kinds of things," Clark said.

"Ideally, we like to have dealers and manufacturers participate in the presentations," Mireley added. "This benefits everyone."

"There is so much to know about dealers and manufacturers, and the market in general, participating in a program like this can help," said Sunfield, Mich., resident Jack Smith.

Last year, Smith and wife Dorothy purchased a multi-sectioned manufactured home after participating in the adult program.

Joseph Laquatra, an assistant professor in Cornell's Department of Design and Environmental Analysis, is one of the developers of the emerging Home Buyer's Educational Program.

"For many first-home buyers, the problem is gaining access to funds," Laquatra said. "Through this program people will learn to overcome this and many other home purchasing obstacles. The program will be community-based, and a collaborative effort between governmental agencies and private sector firms.

"It will benefit not only limited resource and other first-time home buyers, but buyers in general."

If you are interested in learning if a cooperative extension program for home buyers is available in your area, call or write your state or local extension office. Check under state or county government for the listing in your area telephone directory.

Haven't the best purchases of your life been those that both made you happy and were of a lasting quality? Certainly the home you buy should be visually pleasing and well constructed.

Piku Management Co. is offering spacious, custom built two-bedroom "ranch villas," off of Masonic, just one block from Jefferson and St. Clair Shores Memorial Park.

The location couldn't be better, and due to current low interest rates, the time might never be better to move into a new home and enjoy a high quality of life for many years to come.

Let's discuss location first.

If your work constantly has you on the go, or you are retired and don't want to spend a lot of time traveling, the purchase of a new condominium for under $100,000 from Piku Management Co. is the right move for you.

Recreation and shopping are close by. The homes are within walking distance of Memorial Park on Lake St. Clair, area shopping, and the St. Clair Shores public golf course. The St. Clair Shores Community Education site is right next door offering adult education classes.

An added plus for the development is that it can only be entered off Masonic, thus eliminating through traffic, lessening noise, and providing greater security.

Everyone agrees location is important, but why buy now?

Aside from being able to take advantage of low interest rates, once the 15 remaining homes (eight one-car garage, eight two-car garage) of this 40 home development are sold it will be near impossible to find a similar quality housing development in the Shores area.

When Piku Management Co. bought the five and-one-half acre site to develop 10 ranch-style buildings with four homes each, they got some of the last land zoned for residential development in St. Clair Shores.

Additionally, Piku Management Co. is offering a Grand Opening Special. On the next three one-car garage homes sold, you can save 50 percent off the Deluxe Options.

A major reason for buying a home at North Shore Villas in St. Clair Shores is the opportunity to choose the design you want from five available floor plans.

Each home has two bedrooms, a basement, dining room, living room, kitchen with eating space, and the option to include two baths and a first floor laundry.

Every buyer gets to make adjustments to their floor plan to achieve a home more reflective of their personality, such as deciding to move a wall back to create more space, or to take a wall out altogether. Buyers can choose to put in a fireplace, or an interior finish to their liking, such as cabinets, counter tops, tile and linoleum.

Chris Piku, the builder, and his father Frank Piku, a developer for 37 years, are always accessible to their clients. They have built three condominium projects on the east side and have the experience to offer the very best in condominium living.

A standard one-car garage home is $98,900 while a Deluxe one-car garage home is $102,550 which includes a 50 percent savings on the Deluxe Option Package. And a standard two-car garage home is $109,900.

With 20 percent down, a buyer can move into the standard one-car home which sells for $98,900 with payments of $645.00 a month on a 20 year 7.65 percent mortgage. The Association Fee includes all exterior building and ground maintenance, landscaping, sprinkler system, snow removal, water, sewer and insurance on the entire home for only $85.00 a month.

North Shore Villas is between Harper and Jefferson off Masonic (13 1/2 mile) in St. Clair Shores. Piku Management Co. can be reached at 293-6760.

OPEN 7 DAYS
Mon. thru Fri. 9 am to 5 pm • Sat. & Sun. 1 pm to 5 pm

Right away Jim and Shirley Kollar admit they have made more changes to their original floor plan than any other buyers at North Shore Villas, located on Masonic west of Jefferson in St. Clair Shores.

That's a big reason why they bought a two-car garage home for just over $100,000 from Frank and Chris Piku, the father and son team who run Piku Management Co. They couldn't resist the freedom (and encouragement) they received to make the changes that were important to them.

The Kollars, who moved to Michigan from Virginia last year, knew in advance the features of a new home that they couldn't live without.

The ranch-style condominiums being offered by Piku Management Co. already satisfied most of the Kollars' desires, and the modifications they did request were taken care of professionally and without question.

"You never get shortchanged with Piku," said Shirley. "Their attitude is that what you want is the way it will be."

Right from the start of construction Chris Piku worked hand-in-hand with Jim and Shirley to accommodate the requirements they had for a perfect home.

"Chris had a kitchen and bath designer come out to the construction site to take our suggestions," said Jim. With the designer, Jim and Shirley drew up all the kitchen specifications on the floor of the future kitchen.

"As they were building our home we got to know all the carpenters, electricians, and everybody who had a part in it," said Shirley.

What the Kollars couldn't live without was already a basic part of every home built at North Shore Villas.

One, they had to have an attached garage to save wear and tear on their car during the winter. Shirley said it was no fun bringing in groceries from the outside during the cold and snowy winters.

Secondly, the Kollars wanted the convenience of having everything on one floor, especially the master bedroom.

"We felt we were getting older and we didn't want to have a move in a few years because we couldn't take three floors, or a larger place," said Shirley.

And finally, Jim said that a full basement was a "must" to store much of their belongings.

Changes they were allowed to make to the original floor plan only confirmed their belief that they were right to buy a home through Piku Management Co.

Changes like moving a wall closet out of the living room to create more space, adding two extra linen closets, having the washer and dryer installed in the basement to free up space to expand the kitchen and allow for an extra long counter to add cabinets, having hardwood flooring put in, putting a cedar closet in the basement, and replacing a wall between the kitchen and dining rooms with a food bar to create a feeling of openness so that it seems the kitchen, dining and living rooms flow into each other.

Jim mentioned other reasons for buying at North Shore Villas. The convenience of nearby shopping, the fact that he is only 15 minutes from his job at General Dynamics, that he and Shirley like to play golf and a course is only three blocks away, and that the two of them can leave on trips without security concerns.

Shirley said it's nice having Memorial Park little more than a block away because she enjoys the view of Lake St. Clair.

The Kollars couldn't be happier with Piku Management Co., who still have homes available.

"This is everything we wanted in a house," said Shirley. "We love this house, it's really nice."
