Tree's spirit lives on

The corkscrew willow in the Kilmisch family's Grosse Pointe Shores back yard died, but its spirit will live on in the form of a wood sculpture of a shaman. The sculpture represents the Earth and various creatures including a fox, a fish, a bear, a raven and an owl. The point of the sculpture, based on native American beliefs, is to bring luck, plenty and good fortune, as are symbolized by the creatures. The Kilmisch family lost a white pine 10 years ago and had chainsaw artist Kenneth D. BoShell, left, carve it into a pagoda. Romanian emigre Milan Szkipala, right, joined BoShell three years ago. He perfected his woodcarving craft in his homeland and much of his work is featured in Romanian churches.

Report charts almost everything you want to know about school district

Did you know . . . that the average daily attendance rate for high school students in Grosse Pointe is 93.44 percent? . . . The district's high school graduation rate is 97.53 percent? Its dropout rate is 2.47 percent? . . . Five of the district's nine elementary schools have 100 percent participation in parent-teacher conferences. The remaining schools have between 75 and 98 percent participation.

that test scores for everything from the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP), the High School Proficiency Test (HSPT) as well as how many students are enrolled in Advanced Placement (AP) classes and their scores on the AP exams are all available in one comprehensive report?

Required by Public Act 25 of 1990, each school district in Michigan must compile and present an annual report.

Grosse Pointe schools did so in October, with presentations at each of the district's 14 schools and an overall report at the Oct. 13 board meeting.

The reports don't generally generate a lot of interest or draw big audiences, but Marjorie Parsons, assistant superintendent for curriculum and evaluation, said they do encourage schools to be accountable to their public. Split goosenality?

"My husband and I never went to U. of M. or MSU," the unnamed reader writes to PT columnist Ken Eatherly. But they do have an alum from each school in their family, so on Football Saturdays their concrete porch goose wears the "S" for State half the time, and the "M" for Michigan the other half. "The problem begins when these two teams play each other, since I have to be impartial," she says. The solution? To avoid a potential flap, their goose wears both hats and both team jerseys, one on each side. And since State plays Michigan at Lansing this Saturday, the goose is now appropriately clad.

Clock is running for SOC; no new home in sight

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

The meetings held between Services for Older Citizens (SOC) and representatives of the six municipalities it serves, as well as Grosse Pointe school officials and Realtors have failed to turn up a suitable site for the social services agency to call home.

The clock continues to tick away the time left for SOC to relocate. Its lease of two classrooms at Barnes school, part of the Grosse Pointe Public School System, expires June 30, 1998.

SOC already is living on borrowed time. Its original lease expired last June and was extended one year by the

At issue is the school system's need for the space SOC is leasing. At the same time, SOC desires a permanent facility centrally located within the Pointes — from which to operate.

A plan developed over the course of several years, which included a capital campaign, blueprints and the go-ahead from the school system to build on land adjacent to Barnes, was rescinded earlier this year when residents in the area objected to the proposed non-educational or commercial use of school property.

SOC faces losing $200,000 in a capital fund allocation from the United Way if it doesn't launch a plan and capital campaign by June 30, 1998.

"Time is of the essence and everyone needs to think and consider ways in which they might help solve the situation in which SOC finds itself," SOC representatives said in a statement issued last week. "The necessity to alter (SOC's) relocation plans was forced upon (us) by the desires of a few citizens."

SOC is interested in building or restoring a 4,500- to 5,000-square-foot facility to house its offices and services.

Founded in 1978 by a group of local residents, SOC is a non-profit organization dedicated to helping the older citizens of the Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods maintain their lives in independence and dignity.

Services offered include Meals at Home, Food and Friendship, home repair and case coordination. It is funded through the Detroit Area Agency on Aging, Community Development Block Grants and by each of the six cities it serves.

"One wonders if there is a building within the community that someone or some organization might be willing to donate or lease for a nominal rent to Services for Older Citizens," SOC officials said in their statement.

The Grosse Pointe Public School System, which has leased space to SOC since its inception, made a pledge earlier this year when both parties rescinded their land lease, to facilitate meetings of community leaders to help SOC find a home.

At the last meeting on Oct. 14, SOC informed the school district that it was stumped in its search. The school system suggested SOC send out a direct mailing to real estate agents to see if there's any property out there that might be suitable, said Chris Fenton, assistant superintendent for business.

If SOC doesn't make any progress in its search before June 30, will the school system extend its lease another year? Fenton said it is too early at this point to say.

Fenton is part of a committee studying the feasibility of opening Barnes as an elementary school. If the district decides to reopen the school next fall, SOC would have to be out by July 1. If the opening is delayed another year, they may be able to stay on.

The vacant property at Mack and Moross, owned by the city of Grosse Pointe Farms, was explored by SOC as well. SOC executive director Ann Kraemer said SOC expressed its interest but "the ball is in

■ School board members urge voters to be aware of the dangers if Proposal C is approved. On the ballot this November are two amendments to the state Constitution. Proposal C virtually eliminates the property tax base for financing public schools. Proposal D would remove the ban on the graduated income tax. Board president William F. ■ An army of 200 volunteers descended upon the southwest corner of Elworthy Field on Oct. 21 and transformed the half acre into a fully landscaped park. In the space of six hours 2,000 pachysandra and 30 trees were planted and 1,150 square yards of sod were laid. Volunteers also installed an assortment of playground equipment. The project was the joint effort of NBD and Environmental Action Now (EAN).

■ Developer Hugo Higbie gained Grosse Pointe Farms city council approval to go ahead with plans for subdividing his family's estate at Lakeshore and Moran. He intends to divide it into 16 lots with three cul-de-sacs off Moran and three cul-de-sacs off Grosse Pointe Boulevard. A decision on whether the Higbie house will remain standing has not been made.

'Lumber Jill' solves knotty problem

Mrs. George Mutter of Grayton Road didn't like what a big willow tree in her back yard was doing to her eavestroughs, so she decided to take the matter ... and a 50-year-old saw ... in hand. Neighbors trembled when they saw her attack the big tree, fearing the consequences, both to Mrs. Mutter and to the buildings in the vicinity. But Mrs. Mutter went at things like a professional. She first undercut the tree to guide its fall, then devoted an hour a day to sawing away the big trunk. Her figuring was just right. When the willow walled its way earthward, it toppled just where she said it would, missing a garage by inches and causing no damage whatsoever. (Grosse Pointe News Oct. 23, 1947. Woods traffic studies don't state what residents want to hear

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe Woods City Council released two traffic studies concerning high traffic areas in the city and did not please residents who heard the results.

The two studies centered on Brys Drive and the Cook and Chalfonte intersection. They were commissioned by the council in response to separate requests by citizens, who demanded that the council do something about the traffic.

The first report, dealing with the Brys traffic situation, stated that no new traffic control measures, such as stop lights or stop signs, be erected. But the report did suggest the painting of a yellow centerline down the middle of Brys to better define safe lanes of traffic. Also placing a "Slow curve" sign to warn drivers about the turning nature of Brys.

Cpl. Joseph Cardosi, who wrote the reports and is the city's traffic expert, further suggested that strong enforcement of present traffic laws would act as a deterrent against unsafe driving.

This response did not please several Brys residents. Beau Burton, who approached the council a few weeks ago with a demand for reduced traffic on the street, said that his sister, a traffic expert working in California, was able to come up with four suggestions after reviewing the situation for a couple of hours. He said he expected the city to do better when it had 20 years to review the situation.

Elena Hunt, another Brys resident, asked why the city couldn't put up "no thru" signs like it did at Allard a few years ago. Cardosi responded, saying that when the city did that, Harper Woods reacted by placing "no right turn" signs at every street on Harper between Allard and Vernier. This has resulted in a lot of Woods residents having to take much longer alternative routes home.

Brys resident Paul Burgoyne also spoke, saying that the problem has been going on for 20 years and that the council has had its chance to fix it. He wondered why the city didn't hire an outside consultant.

He also expressed doubts that public safety director Jack Patterson, who lives a couple of blocks away from Brys and would be affected if some of the street's traffic were shifted to other streets, was the person to be in charge of finding a solution.

Mayor Robert Novitke defended Patterson, saying that he had the council's complete faith and that the city had hired a variety of outside consultants over the years, but the solutions they suggested required the cooperation of both Harper Woods and St. Clair Shores, which both have streets that feed into Brys.

Burgoyne then said perhaps it was time for the city to act unilaterally, and then once the two other cities saw the shifting traffic, they would have an incentive that they currently do not have to cooperate with the Woods. Novitke pointed out that just as the Woods can act alone, so can other cities. He pointed out that acting alone in the case of Allard just moved a traffic problem, it didn't solve it.

Novitke concluded by saying that education, strong enforcement of current laws and meeting with representatives St. Clair Shores and Harper Woods are best ways to handle the situation. He ordered Patterson to set up the meeting, saying that it appears to have been a delay in such a meeting. He also said that the centerline should be painted now, and not in the spring, which was the time set aside by the public service department for the job.

Cardosi's second report, based on a AAA of Michigan study, rejected placing another stop sign or traffic light at Cook and Chalfonte. He told the council that under Michigan standards the number of car accidents at that location since 1990, five, did not warrant such traffic control devices.

Cardosi added that improperly placed devices often cause more accidents instead of preventing them, which is why the state adopted criteria for placing traffic control devices in the first place.

There are two schools on Cook, Monteith and ULS, said Cardosi. The city has always encouraged students to walk on the north side of Cook and cross over to the school where there are crossing guards. This route is safe and does not require students to walk in pedestrian lanes that cars also cross. He pointed out that the intersection is a "T" intersection with three, not four, traffic convergence points.

Larry Wilson, the husband of the original petitioner Sharon VanDenBrouck, said that he thought the intersection was dangerous and despite the AAA report, a stop sign was needed. He said that he had his son cross Cook on the south side of the street to get to school because he felt it was safer. Councilman Al Dickinson expressed surprise at this and said perhaps his son should use the north side and cross Cook in front of ULS.

Wilson said that ULS does home and need to know about the local public schools, call the school administration office and request a copy of the annual report for 1996-97. In Grosse Pointe, call (313) 343-2010.

The report includes information on the district's accreditation status, high school enrollment data, the number of special education students served both in district and sent to specialized schools within the intermediate school district, the district's school improvement plans, implementation of the state's core curriculum, scores on student achievement tests, and the district's progress in meeting national goals. The report also includes individual reports on each of the district's schools as well as the overall curriculum.

Parsons pointed out that the material in the book, including the various standardized test scores, are but a snapshot of a school system.

There are other factors — not evident in a report — that make a school system what it is. Those things include the standards upheld in the schools, in the classrooms, by teachers on a daily basis.

their (the Farms') court."

The city council recently revealed some development options for the site. Farms city manager Rich Solak said the council appreciates the work SOC does for the community and has considered its needs in its discussions on how to develop the site. However, nothing has gone beyond the discussion stage. There are no promises, no guarantees and no final decisions.

"If there was some feasible way we could help them out, we'd like to," he said.

Kraemer said the agency has looked at a number of buildings. In terms of developing a contingency plan should they not find a suitable site before June, Kraemer said the main concern is the cost of having to move twice or having to split up the operation into multiple sites.

"If anything, we'd have to close the agency," she said. "The upside of all the negative publicity is we are now much better known and have much more support from all quarters."

Chance made Park doctor creator of a new medical speciality

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

For Dr. William Beierwaltes, becoming the creator of the medical specialty called nuclear medicine was more of a happy accident than a planned career move.

Beierwaltes, 80, attended the University of Michigan medical school and during the middle of his internship in Ohio, he was diagnosed as having tuberculosis. So from Feb. 20, 1942 to Feb. 1, 1943, he was kept in a hospital for TB patients.

During those days, Beierwaltes explained, public health policy required the hospitalization of people while they were in the contagious stage of TB. So for a year he was on his back, which gave him plenty of time to read medical journals.

After his release from the hospital, the University of Michigan offered him the chance to complete his residency at their hospital. The advantage offered by U-M, said Beierwaltes, was that they, in light of his health, would not require him to work nights or weekends.

"They were interested in protecting me," said Beierwaltes. "This was during the war, so I had my pick of hospitals. A regular resident's schedule would have killed me."

It was during Beierwaltes' medical studies and the early years of being a doctor that a series of coincidences led him to become an expert in the human thyroid, he said. During 1939, his mother developed an overactive thyroid. Later on his sister-in-law had a "thyroid crisis," Beierwaltes said. This meant that her thyroid was producing an excess sive amount of hormones, which puts the body in hyper-drive and can lead to death.

Beierwaltes said, also, during medical school each student was assigned a cadaver and had to determine the cause of death, and then defend his conclusion in front of a panel of fellow students, professors and doctors. Beierwaltes' cadaver was the victim of thyroid problems.

Later on Beierwaltes had to write his senior thesis, which was assigned by a professor, on the human thyroid. When he did his internship in Cleveland, the senior attending physician on his ward was the city's top endocrinologist.

"Dr. Beard was my senior doctor in Cleveland," said Beierwaltes. "It was during the war, and we were seeing a lot of thyroid cases because of the stress of family separation. Unbeknownst to me at the time, one of the precipitating factors in an overactive thyroid is emotional stress. During the war there was a lot of that."

Dr. Beard, said Beierwaltes, had a friend at Harvard University, Ted Astwood, who had invented a drug to slow down overactive thyroids. This friend asked Beard to clinically test the drug and Beard then had Beierwaltes do much of the actual work.

When Beierwaltes returned to U-M in 1944, he was as experienced as anyone in treating and curing the overactive thyroid, he said. In 1945 the chief of medicine for the hospital, Cyrus Sturgis, said that a former resident of his, Gifford Upjohn, had a new medication to slow down overactive thyroids. Sturgis asked Beierwaltes to do the clinical testing.

Shortly after that Sturgis contacted Beierwaltes and told him that the Atomic Energy Commission was going to release a few atomic isotopes to medical facilities for the purpose of medical research. Sturgis thought it might be a good idea to use these isotopes in treating thyroid diseases.

Only five doctors applied for the isotopes, so they were invited to Oak Ridge, Tenn., for some training regarding the isotopes. When Beierwaltes returned to Ann Arbor he spent a lot of time teaching others what he had learned.

During the late 1940s and early 1950s, Beierwaltes spent a lot of time experimenting with radioactive isotopes in the treatment of thyroid cancer. He was successful, along with his resident Dr. Philip Johnson, who suggested that they write a book on the use of isotopes in the treatment of thyroid diseases.

"My wife, Mary Martha, had a relative in the law school who had us to dinner," said Beierwaltes. "This guy knew someone in the medical text book publishing business. He turned out to be the president of the No. 1 medical text book publishing company, W.B. Saunders. Our book came out in 1957 and was the company's best seller for 20 years."

All of his work, said

Trio of women face 3 men in Woods vote

In Grosse Pointe Woods' municipal election Nov. 4, three women are challenging three male incumbents for city council seats, but the women are running as individuals without citing the gender issue.

But obviously the gender issue is present. If you recall, President Clinton's re-election was directly attributed to his success in winning women voters. But who knows how such an issue will affect a municipal election of this kind?

In the Woods, the male incumbents are Thomas Fahrner, 67; Al Dickinson, 66; and William Wilson, 63. Fahrner is the senior member with 20 years of service, Wilson has served for 16 years, and Dickinson was appointed in 1995.

The challengers are three women who have their own records of service to the Woods community, although not in the council seats that they are now seeking.

They are Vicki Granger, 48, a member of the planning commission and formerly on the city parks and recreation commission; Lisa Pinkos Howe, 40, an owner of a small business who became involved in politics partly through the influence of her father, once mayor of the Woods; and Patricia Kukulka-Chylinski, 41, who based her campaign chiefly on the city's slow reaction to the Aug. 20 storm that flooded many Woods' basements.

In our interviews with all the candidates, we were impressed by the fact that they were united on one subject: The Woods is a good place to live and they want to make it even better.

Overall, we think Woods residents have an excellent slate of candidates for the council, and we recommend that our readers review the lengthy coverage of their views in our news department today.

In the following paragraphs we offer samples of those views, which include some questions about the future.

Dickinson, for example, feels the council must develop a long-range plan, which would include expansion of parking, which he believes could best be done by buying property on Mack.

Fahrner, too, believes the most important issue facing Woods residents is the maintenance of city services generally, but he emphasized the expansion of available parking space.

Wilson wants the city to complete the closing of the Clinton Refuse Authority's incinerator and negotiate a new contract with City Disposal. He also would like to see the Woods encourage more recycling.

Each of the women candidates also has her own views about what she would like to see done in the Woods.

Granger, through her work on various city commissions, cited the importance of preserving the quality of life through maintenance of excellent city services while not raising taxes.

Howle sees the Woods municipal government as somewhat similar to her own small business operation. She understands the dilemmas of the small business owner, but concedes that the quality of life cannot be sacrificed for business.

Kukulka-Chylinski believes the council should cooperate more with the business community and the residents. She, too, favors a long-term city plan, especially for the business community, that would include more parking.

After our interviews and viewing their records, we recommend two of the three incumbents, Wilson and Dickinson, and Granger from the trio of challengers, with Howle also deserving voter consideration.

2 big issues in Farms election

In the municipal election in Grosse Pointe Farms, three incumbents are being challenged by three impressive challengers for four seats on the council.

Mayor John E. Danaher is running for re-election to the council which will pick a new mayor, or return Danaher to office under the Farms' unique method of electing the council's presiding officer.

In interviewing the council candidates, we were impressed by the views of the incumbents, and also by those of their challengers, which made our recommendations as difficult to make as the votes the residents will cast Nov. 4.

In addition to Danaher, the incumbents running for the council are Elizabeth M. Gandelot and Edward Wilberding II, while the challengers are Fran Schonenberg, Martin West and Sue Vogel.

In our interviews with all six of the candidates, we centered our attention on two major problems for the Farms: what to do about the Mack-Moross property, and how to cooperate with area-wide efforts to lessen the pollution of Lake St. Clair.

All had ideas about both subjects as well as other matters of interest to the Farms. Their comments will be reported in detail in John Lundberg's coverage in the news section of next week's issue of the Grosse Pointe News.

In a sampling of candidates' opinions, Danaher said he believes the future of the use of the Mack-Moross property will depend on the cooperation the Farms gets from the other Pointe communities. His feeling is that it could be best used as a recreation center.

As for the lake, he feels that the Farms should seek a multi-county plan with all lake communities represented to coordinate the policies needed to protect the lake.

Elizabeth (Lisa) Gandelot, seeking re-election, proposes mixed use for the Mack-Moross property. It would include recreation, 40 to 60 units of senior congregate care, and possibly other uses.

As for the lake, she says the city will be soon required to provide separate storm and sanitary sewer systems and is now preparing for that eventuality.

Edward Wilberding II, seeking another term, would like to see the Mack-Moross property used primarily to benefit Farms residents but is not endorsing any specific use or activity at this time.

He points out the Farms still must prepare to fund the sewer separation project, but it is already moving to curb pollution by requiring properties that are sold to have disconnected downspouts.

Fran Schonenberg, who has been a leader in many Pointe civic activities, thinks multi-use was the general reaction when people were asked about the use of Mack-Moross, but she would also like to see a community center to accommodate SOC and other community activities.

She recommends cooperation of the three counties affected in order to build a hammer (a strong organization) to get broad cooperation on curbing lake pollution.

Martin West, another challenger, wants the city to control future use of the Mack-Moross land, but says it's more important to make the right decision than to make it speedily.

He also sees a multi-county approach to battling pollution of Lake St. Clair, but wants our own community to control any problems with our drinking water.

Sue Vogel, the third challenger, favors the community recreation plan as a more practical alternative to the use of Mack-Moross than senior housing. But she would prefer to see SOC located in the community center along with other community organizations providing activities for Farms residents.

She thinks the Pointe community could cooperate in a five-county organization to curtail pollution and provide other services to the lake.

After reviewing the backgrounds and records of all of the candidates, we concluded that the city needs to retain its incumbents, and that the election of Fran Schonenberg could fill the other open seat.

'All the news that's fit to print'

It is good to read that the New York Times, still regarded as the best newspaper in the United States and perhaps in the world, will not relinquish family management in a shift that

Runner-up Hill

Mike Hill, the major Michiganiaan playing the senior golf circuit, showed last week that he still can play with the stars in the senior tournaments.

In the Maui Kaanapali Classic, at Kaanapali, Hawaii, Mike tied for second place in a big field, and earned himself $68,000 by shooting 70, 64, and 69 on the 6,590-yard, par 71 course.

A couple of months ago, Hill was quoted as saying he might retire this year, but still wanted to see how well he could do in a few more tournaments. His finish in the important Hawaiian tournament ought to have convinced him.

In fact, it's only a generational change, as Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, 71, the newspaper's chairman and chief executive, has turned over corporate leadership to his son, Arthur Sulzberger Jr., 46, who became the Times chairman.

The elder Sulzberger was named chairman emeritus and remains a company director. In his emeritus capacity, the Times said, he will lead a transition team.

The company's largest newspaper possession probably is the Boston Globe, but it also owns smaller papers, chiefly in the East, which are commercial successes in their own cities.

The Times still carries on its front page, in a box on the left-hand top of the page, the famed Times slogan, "All the news that's fit to print." The newspaper still comes closer to living up to that motto every day than any other paper in the United States and probably in the world.

MEMORIES of the Woods THEATER:

Jarboe for judge in the Park

For a second time, two Grosse Pointe Park attorneys with excellent records and first-rate reputations are competing for the job as municipal judge of Grosse Pointe Park in the Park's only contested election on Nov. 4.

They are the incumbent, Judge Carl Jarboe, who has held the office for almost three years, and challenger Donald Berschback, making his second run for the office after losing to Jarboe in 1995.

Jarboe was first appointed by the Park City Council in February 1995 to succeed Judge Kirsten Frank, who had been named to the Wayne County circuit bench. He was elected to fill the two years remaining on Frank's term in the November 1995 election.

This is the classic case of the challenger contending that he could do a better job and save the Park money if he were elected its municipal judge, while the incumbent claims he has run the court in the way "all courts should be run — in a fair, efficient and prompt manner."

The challenger contends that the court under Jarboe has shown a 25 percent decrease in the number of days it has convened.

However, Berschback says that if he were elected, he would increase the number of days the court meets, but petition the council to roll back Jarboe's $2,500 pay increase that boosted the judge's pay to $15,000.

Berschback further contends that he has greater experience than Jarboe in handling criminal cases, because at times his practice has been as much as 30 percent in that field. He also claims valuable experience as an arbitrator in Macomb County.

From his side, Jarboe says he's proud of the way his court has been run in the last three years, and contends everyone is treated with respect in his court as well as in a fair, efficient and prompt manner.

His court, he emphasizes, opens at 8 a.m., and he tries to minimize the time spent on each case. He has reduced the so-called traffic days from two to one a month, a move that reduces the time officers spend in court to aid in prosecution of traffic offenses.

With respect to controlling crime in the Park, Jarboe praises the police department but thinks he can share in the credit for reducing major crime by 18 percent.

In view of Jarboe's record, and his endorsement by the mayor of the Park, Palmer Heenan, and all members of the council, we recommend Jarboe's re-election as the Park's municipal judge.

Letters

On water and memory

Handyman Glenn Hagee says "Water always wins!" especially when 3 to 5 inches of rain falls in six hours. No drainage system can be constructed to cover all weather events.

Instead, cities settle for an optimum statistically based system. In 1990, the projected cost of sewer separation would have been $70 million and digging up and resurfacing the streets.

So, disconnect the downspouts; cover window wells with plastic covers to divert water; regrade to channel water away from foundations; ream out obstructions in drains. For those who have sump pumps, a small generator is vital. Elevate washer, dryer, furnace, water heater and file cabinets on blocks at least 8 inches high, and protect any precious items on the floor.

I am sure the governing body of the Woods would welcome information on how to write an ordinance forbidding Mother Nature from creating thunderstorms. Let's get real! Turn our energies toward individual solutions. It appears we are in for a number of years of unusual weather patterns. We chose to live on the clay filled-in swamp because of the beauty, the school system and the lake, and there is a price we all willingly pay.

Great couple, great sendoff

The Park's Rudy and Margaret Olila have been fixtures on Harvard Road for over 40 years and last Sunday a hall full of their friends and neighbors was invited to to honor them — and say goodbye.

Ken Eatherly

"Rudy and Margaret are moving to a new home at Henry Ford Village and the people in the 1200 block of Harvard decided to have a party for them," said Meeky Connolly. "It just goes to show you what kind of street we live on."

Meeky organized the potluck bash along with neighbors Cindy Littman and Kirkie Stevens, and her husband, Jim Connolly, took responsibility for the financial arrangements. "Everybody chipped in — even people who couldn't come — and we ended up with more donations than we needed," said Meeky.

"(Rudy and Margaret) are the kind of people who bring joy and laughter with them everywhere they go," Meeky said in a champagne toast to the block's senior couple. "We'll miss them."

Dottie Renaud, who with her husband, George, moved into the 1200 block a few months after the Olilas, recalled them back then. Rudy was an auto designer for Ford Motor and built his own custom car, featuring a Fiberglass body with a Willys engine and chassis.

"We called it 'the Olila' and he drove it around for years," Dottie said.

"I commuted to Dearborn every day for 19 years," Rudy reminisced. "Now we're going there to live."

Bess scores a triple play

"Jazz is America's chamber music," says Pointe jazz pianist in residence Bess Bonnier, and she aims to put a few musical rounds in the chamber and fire them off Sunday, Nov. 2 at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

That's when the City's Bess, with Chris Collins on tenor sax, Paul Keller on bass and

Dave Taylor on drums, kicks off the church's Music at Memorial series with their own brand of "Celestial Jazz."

The weather may be getting cooler, but fall is shaping up as a hot season for Bess, who just released her latest CD, "Love Notes," with the Bess Bonnier Ensemble that also includes Keller. The disc showcases three of Bess' compositions: "Cote d'Azur," "All of Paul," and "Las Notas de Amor."

The group celebrated the CD's release at a concert in Ann Arbor's Kerrytown Concerthouse last Saturday, but you can preview it right here in GP: The Hill's beam-meister, John Jutte, has been airing the latest Bonnier disc at the Coffee Grinder and getting good reviews. It's being privately distributed at (313) 882-2781.

Finally, on Nov. 8, Bess is set to perform at the opening of a new Starbucks Coffee House at the Troy Sports Arena in Troy.

G.P. Park today, world tomorrow

The Park's Susie Scheiwe is about to become a songbook editor published in 136 countries around the globe and she says she's "a bit awed" by the whole thing.

Work on the book started three or four years ago when Susie, who's leader of Michigan Metro Girl Scouts Council Troop 1838, joined with four other leaders to create a songbook at the request of the World Association of Girl-Guides and Girl Scouts World Center in Pune (Poona), India.

Getting it all together took a huge amount of polling for preferences, researching origins and getting copyright releases. The result includes songs of all the World Centers, the "World Song," songs from the Asia Pacific region, campfire songs and graces from around the world and at least a couple of Susie's own favorites.

"I've never done anything like it before," says Susie. "I was amazed when I found it was going to be sold in Girl Guide shops all over the world."

Needed: Some 'proper' people

The schools' Pointe Players are looking for some people to help prop them up — with some props for the Victorian-era comedy, "The Matchmaker," set to open here Nov. 19.

It's a big show, requiring over 200 props, and technical assistant Michael Posch is out beating the bushes to bring them in. "We need large quantities of 1880s-period fabric in velvet or silk with floral patterns," he says.

Other items being sought include period women's hats, hat boxes, domed wicker bird cages, a desk chair, upholstered foot stool and ottoman, one-sided chaise lounges, a barber's neck brush and a pouf, which is something like a small circular sofa built around a plant stand (very Victorian).

The Pointe Players promise that prop items loaned for the play will be returned in their original condition.

The student production is also looking for financial donations to help with the costs. "This is deductible and donors will be mentioned in the program credits," Michael says. You can contact him at the Performing Arts Center at (313) 343-2241.

If you have an FYI tip, call Ken Eatherly at (313) 822-4091.

Dan Friesen

Senior men to discuss Windsor gambling

The Senior Men's Club of Grosse Pointe will meet at 11:15 a.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 28, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

The topic will be "How Gaming in Windsor Affects Its Community."

We "older folks" like to joke about our long and short term memories. Forget what you went upstairs for but remember who tries to do you in.

The events surrounding the pending eviction of SOC from Barnes school are distressing. The group of SOC neighbors and politicos who filled the air and newspapers could not have been more wrong about the mission of SOC.

Pointe seniors are an independent lot. Except for a few who have no support group, seniors depend upon SOC for information only. Most of them know that someday they might need help to wend their way through the chaos of Medicare, Medicaid and a pile of insurance programs.

The official record of the May 27 planning commission meeting reveals that 17 people spoke against the SOC/Barnes plan. Among them are such familiar Woods political names as Potter, Perry, Kalagian, Kuhne and Chylinski.

Drag out the long term memory when you fill out your ballot. Consider carefully because the person who "talks the talk" just might "walk the walk!"

The damage has been done, don't compound the political problem.

Changes do more harm than good

To the Editor:

Use whatever word you want, but the "scheduling changes" at Brownell Middle School drastically affected its instrumental music "curriculum." Why is it that of the three middle schools, Brownell is the only one that no longer has a full-time instrumental teacher? Brownell deserves a full-time instrumental music instructor.

Mr. Bauer has spent years developing an excellent program called the Band Awards System, which allows for individuals to excel at their own pace.

Because of this system, Mr. Bauer has been able to take both his band and orchestra to festival competition and his groups have always walked away with top honors. Brownell is the only Grosse Pointe middle school to do this.

For eight years they were undefeated in regional festival in five states. Because of the changes, Mr. Bauer had to scrap his program and will no longer be taking the group to festival competitions.

His class size has increased by 65 students, his assistant has been taken away and he is not able to be at Brownell before and after school.

Fifty five percent of the student body at Brownell is in band and orchestra. Employing two part-time teachers at Brownell has cost the taxpayers an additional $36,000 a year.

For 12 years Mr. Bauer has offered on his own time a jazz band and full orchestra before school.

Due to the changes, the jazz band and full orchestra are no longer available.

You know the saying, "If it's not broken, don't fix it?"

Now that the administration has broken something, how will they fix it — by spending more tax dollars?

Senior housing needed here

To the Editor:

Many towns have already got senior housing for their elderly residents. Why do so many of our elderly in Grosse Pointe have to move somewhere else once they are forced to sell their homes because of health problems?

Don't any of our elected town officials care about this serious problem that affects our elderly residents?

It is time for senior housing now while the land is available. We have already got places where our youth can go for recreational purposes. Our elderly deserve housing in Grosse Pointe and hopefully our town officials will agree and do something about the problem now and stop procrastinating on this issue.

We live in a youth oriented society, where growing old can be extremely hard for most of our citizens. We worry about child abuse but how many of us care about the abuse of the elderly in this country?

Grosse Pointe is a wonderful place to live for the elderly as well as young people so let's put up senior housing like so many towns have already done. If they can do it so can Grosse Pointe.

Thank you, from Arthur's mother

To the Editor:

We would like to thank all of the wonderful people in Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods who responded so kindly and lovingly when they learned of the death of my son and our brother, Arthur.

It was so heartwarming for us to know that Art had touched so many lives in the community.

Arthur loved people. He loved his church and the many friends he made through the years. His main goal in life was to help others, and he especially loved helping children.

We will be forever grateful for the tribute he received at the memorial service, for the scholarships given in his name, and for the dedication in his honor at the homecoming game. Arthur would have been so proud and happy.

So many have told us they will always remember Arthur as someone who was a friend to everyone and who left the world a lesson about what it means to be a good person.

Words cannot express our gratitude. We can only say, "Thank you with all our hearts."

We would also like to give a special thanks to Jay Masinick for his editorial cartoon of Art in the Grosse Pointe News of Sept. 18. It really lifted our spirits. Thanks, again, to all.

Schedule mistake

To the Editor:

I must apologize for a scheduling mistake that left me waiting for residents wishing to discuss state issues at Grosse Pointe Park's municipi-pal offices rather than Grosse Pointe Shores last Monday.

To all those who I missed at the Shores offices, please call me, toll-free, at (888) 254-LAW1 to set up a personal meeting.

I will, in any case, be at the Grosse Pointe Woods Community Center on Monday, Oct. 27, from 9 - 10 a.m. for regularly scheduled office hours for anyone wanting to meet with me regarding state concerns.

Why would a hospital buy a movie theatre?

Answer: More parking for patients and visitors.

IT'S no secret that the hustle and bustle in the Mack Avenue-Moross Road area symbolizes the vitality of our community. Along with that vitality comes a great demand for parking.

By purchasing the recently-closed AMC Woods Theatre, St. John Hospital and Medical Center is better able to meet the parking needs of visitors, patients and their families. St. John plans to tear down the theatre this spring and use the space for ground level parking.

The hospital had offered to continue leasing the building to AMC Theatres, but the company had no interest in continuing to operate the Woods Theatre. As St. John Hospital and Medical Center continues to evaluate the community's need for health care services, we will consider other long-term uses for the property. (Contrary to rumors, a drug rehab facility will not be built on the theatre site).

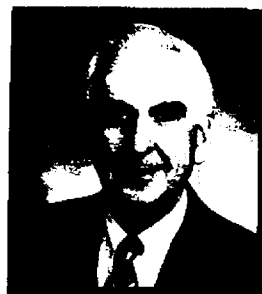

St. John Hospital and Medical Center is committed to serving our community in many ways. Purchasing the Woods Theatre is consistent with our dedication to maintaining Mack Avenue, Moross Road and the surrounding neighborhoods as vital places to live and work.

We welcome your questions or comments. Please call our Public Relations department at 313-343-7454, or visit us on the Internet at <http://stjohn.org>.

Beierwaltes, resulted in the creation of a new medical specialty with its own separate medical society to help educate doctors in the latest techniques.

These education efforts took Beierwaltes all over the world, but in the end he returned to U-M, which always managed to offer him what he wanted and needed.

Beierwaltes retired when he was 70. But because of a technical problem with his pension plan, he retired a couple of months before the checks arrived. Also his neighbor, a certain pizza magnate, had done some work on his property that adversely affected Beierwaltes. So when a couple of his former students, now in charge of the nuclear medicine programs in Detroit area hospitals, offered him consulting positions, he moved to Grosse Pointe Park.

He stopped seeing patients in 1994, and during the past few years wrote a book titled, "Love of Life." It's been an experience he's enjoyed greatly.

But Beierwaltes' life hasn't been all work and no play. An avid sailor since he was 5, he counts as one of his favorite memories the Newport, R.I., to Bermuda race of 1960. During that race he was crewing for John Pierpont and the boat experienced the strongest winds ever recorded for the race.

"There was a five-hour period where the winds did not drop below 60 knots," said Beierwaltes. "We didn't lose our mast or rudder like a lot of boats. One of the crew likened the experience to being on the front lines during a war."

Beierwaltes hasn't let retirement slow him down. He still swims 20 laps a day at the Detroit Yacht Club.

Come pick up your two free bagels and prove it to yourself.
The fresher the bagel, the better.

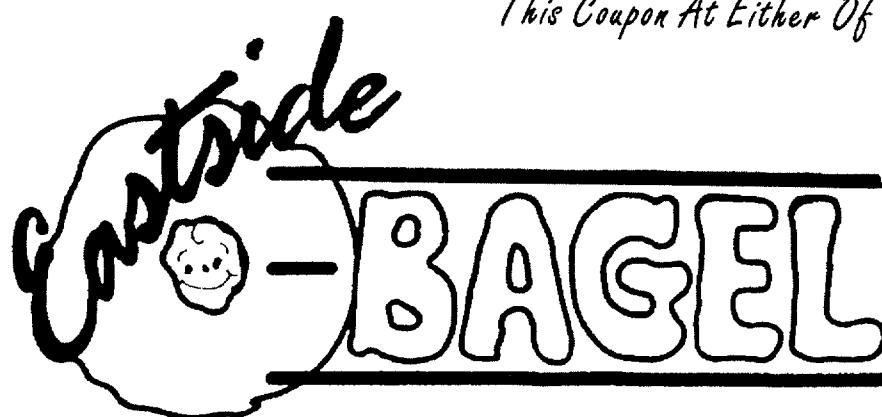

One bite and you'll taste the fresh difference an Eastside bagel makes. More bagel chewiness on the inside. Just the right bagel crunchiness on the outside. Come visit our friendly family bagel shop. Enjoy two free fresh baked bagels on us! You may never eat any other bagel again!

What could be grander than an Eastside bagel?

Our family-owned shops are still serving crusty, homemade bagels - kettle boiled and hearth baked the old-fashioned way. Not to mention breakfast bagels with scrambled eggs and crisp bacon, fresh-sliced ham or lean salami. And don't forget the freshly brewed gourmet coffee.

But now Eastside bagels are even better to come by. With two convenient locations - one in St. Clair Shores and a brand new shop in Sterling Heights - there's always an Eastside Bagel right around the corner. Hmmm...this could be habit forming. Ain't life grand?

Michael W. Scoville

A memorial service was held in the Church of the Transfiguration in New York City on Monday, Oct. 13, for former Grosse Pointe Farms resident Michael W. Scoville, who died in New York on Friday, Oct. 3, 1997.

Mr. Scoville, 51, attended Grosse Pointe High School and Northern Michigan College. He worked as a production electrician for many theatrical productions in New York, including "A Chorus Line" and "Dream Girls." He was co-founder and a director of the Animation Art Guild.

Mr. Scoville is survived by his wife, Pamela; a brother, Laurence Scoville; a niece, Evelyn Scoville; and two nephews, Robert and Laurence.

Interment is at West Cemetery in Harwinton, Conn. Memorial contributions may be made to Broadway Cares, c/o Susan Leone, 165 West 46th Street, Suite 1300, New York, N.Y. 10036.

Marie B. Schervish

A funeral Mass was celebrated in St. Paul Catholic Church in Grosse Pointe Farms on Friday, Oct. 17, for Farms resident Marie B. Schervish, who died on Wednesday, Oct. 15, 1997.

Mrs. Schervish, 79, was born in Massillon, Ohio, and graduated from the Academy of the Immaculate Conception in Massillon in 1936.

A homemaker, Mrs. Schervish was an expert knitter and life master bridge player.

Mrs. Schervish is survived by four sons, Herbert, Thomas, David and Dr. Edward; and 10 grandchildren. She was predeceased by her husband, William.

Funeral arrangements were handled by the Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Park. Interment is at Resurrection Cemetery in Clinton Township.

Township.

Memorial contributions may be made to the William and Marie Schervish Memorial Trust, International Institute, 111 East Kirby, Detroit, Mich., 48202.

Harold Jinks

A memorial service will be held today, Thursday, Oct. 23, at 1:30 p.m. in Grosse Pointe United Church in Grosse Pointe Farms for Grosse Pointe Park resident Harold Jinks, who died in St. John Hospital in Detroit on Saturday, Oct. 18, 1997.

Mr. Jinks, 88, was born in Chatham, Ontario, and moved to Detroit in 1922. He went to Northwestern High School and attended what would become Wayne State University, graduating in 1930.

A teacher in the Detroit public school system, Mr. Jinks retired in 1972, spending the last 12 years as the head of social studies at Southwestern High School. A veteran of the U.S. Army Air Corps during World War II, he spent three years in the service.

A great lover of music, Mr. Jinks sang in church choirs all his life and was choir director of the Grosse Pointe Senior Men's Club on two different occasions, even writing the lyrics to the club's official song.

Mr. Jinks is survived by his wife of 65 years, Ruth Werrell Jinks. He was predeceased by his sister, Dorothy MacPetrie.

Memorial contributions may be made to Grosse Pointe United Church in Grosse Pointe Farms, or to the charity of the donor's choice.

You and Your Car

A BETTER UNDERSTANDING OF ABS

The Highway Loss Data Institute (a nonprofit research group funded by insurance companies) reported early in 1994 that anti-lock braking systems (ABS) were not preventing crashes. Further research by the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety helps to explain the findings. The fact is that researchers have concluded that half of the owners of cars with ABS do not know how to use it. Most importantly, ABS requires steady, firm pressure on the brake pedal; no pumping of the brake pedal by the driver is necessary. In addition, owners of cars with ABS should not see it as a license to drive wheels from locking and permit drivers to steer their cars during hard braking on slippery surfaces.

It's worth knowing whether your car has ABS brakes so you know how to use them under slippery road conditions. Pumping the brakes is not helpful, though it may be instinctive since many of us owned cars before these brakes became standard features. At Rinke Toyota, making you a happy customer is what we're all about. Our technicians are very highly trained and routinely update their skills. You can reach us at 758-2000, or stop in and see us at 25420 Van Dyke.

Marie M. Smith
A funeral Mass was celebrated in St. Matthew Catholic Church in Detroit on Friday, Oct. 17, for Grosse Pointe Park resident Marie M. Smith, who died in the Bon Secours Nursing Care Center in St. Clair Shores on Tuesday, Oct. 14, 1997.

Mrs. Smith, 92, was born in Detroit and was the wife of the late Raymond Smith, who was past owner and founder of Meldrum & Smith, which is now run by their sons.

Mrs. Smith is survived by four daughters, Patricia Adams, Doris Decker, Marilyn Funk and Karen Smith; two sons, Raymond and Lawrence; a sister, Alice Plotzke; 26 grandchildren; and 43 great-grandchildren.

Interment is at Mount Olivet Cemetery in Detroit. Funeral arrangements were handled by the Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Park.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Capuchin Monastery, 1740 Mount Elliott, Detroit, Mich., 48207-3496.

David F. Weber
A memorial service was recently held in Mishawaka, Ind., for former Grosse Pointe Park resident David F. Weber, who died in his home in Mishawaka on Saturday, Oct. 11, 1997.

Mr. Weber, 59, was born in Chicago and was the valedictorian of DeLaSalle's class of 1956. He received his undergraduate degree and his master's in art and teaching from the University of Notre Dame.

After finishing school Mr. Weber became a teacher in the South Bend Community School Corporation, finishing his career at Adams High School in 1993. He also coached the B-team and varsity basketball and baseball teams for the school system, as well as for the South Side Little League. Active in the community, Mr. Weber was a member of the St. Anthony's Sick Benefit Society, the St. Joseph Young Men's Society and the Marine Corps League.

Mr. Weber is survived by his wife, Loretta; a daughter Mary Maureen Weber; two sons, Michael and Matthew; three brothers, Walter, Barry and Mark; and two grandchildren.

Josephine Evola
A funeral Mass was celebrated on Wednesday, Oct. 22, in Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church in Grosse Pointe Woods for Woods resident Josephine Evola, who died in St. John Hospital in Detroit on Sunday, Oct. 19, 1997.

Mrs. Evola, 75, was born in Detroit. She is survived by her husband, Joseph J. Evola; a daughter, Constance Catalfo; two sons, Benedict and Dr. Joseph Jr.; a brother, Salvatore Russo; and eight grandchildren.

Interment is at Resurrection Cemetery in Clinton Township. Funeral arrangements were handled by the Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home of Grosse Pointe Park.

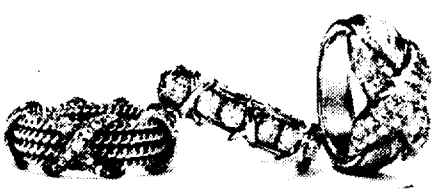

Memorial contributions may be made to the St. Jude's Children's Hospital, P.O. Box 1000, Dept. 300, Memphis, Tenn., 38148-0552.

Janice S. Root
A private family memorial service was held in St. Gregory's Episcopal Church in Boca Raton, Fla., for former Grosse Pointe Woods resident Janice S. Root, who died on Sunday, Oct. 5, 1997.

Mrs. Root, 84, was a graduate of the Henry Ford Hospital School of Nursing in Detroit and was a public health nurse. An active member of the United Way, she was a founding participant of the Torch Drive of the 1950s and was a member of Christ Church Grosse Pointe where she was involved in the church's missionary work in Central America. She also created several community blood banks as a part of her volunteer activities.

Mrs. Root is survived by her daughter, Jann R. Turner; her son, Sheppard Root; and four grandchildren. She was predeceased by her husband, George R. Root.

You're thinking...

- How many pounds of fudge go across it every year?
- Who got stuck building the part that's underneath?
- Is there a health care company out there that believes in two-way communication?

At HAP, we know most people want a health care company they can relate to. That's why, if you're new to HAP, we'll not only send you a welcome package, but we'll also call and ask for your comments. All our members get prevention, health and wellness information on a regular basis. And our Member Services Staff will bridge any possible gap by answering your questions — one on one. After all, you shouldn't have to spend a lot of time thinking about health care. That's what we do. For more information, call us at 313-872-8100. www.hapcorp.org

What you can expect from your professional Grosse Pointe Travel Agent

PERSONALIZED SERVICE.

*We're not an impersonal reservationist thousands of miles away.
We're right here. We get to know you and your family, and what you value in your travel experience.*

- Unbiased Information. We work for you not the airlines (or any other travel provider for that matter). Our job is to sort through thousands of fares and present you with your best options.
- Choice. Call us and we'll give you every airline's fares and departures at once. You choose the flight and price that works best for you. Call an airline and you get their fares and schedules alone.
- Expert Guidance. We're experts in understanding the intricacies of the system, and in helping you take full advantage of them. Call an airline and they'll sell you a ticket on the flight you ask for. Call us and we'll ask you questions, such as your departure flexibility, that might help us find you a cheaper alternative flight.
- Lowest Price. On any given route, fares can vary by hundreds of dollars. Sometimes even on the same flight. We make sure the price you pay is the lowest one available.
- Convenient One-Stop Shopping. We'll get you the best price on your air... and your car rental... and your hotel... and any other vacation planning need you might have. All at the same time. Trying to do this on your own would take hours, even days. And you still would never be sure you got the best value. Save the hassle, leave the bargain hunting to us.
- Professional Advice. We're experts in making sure people get where they need to go, at the best price, and in the most pleasant way possible. We'll find you the best value. But we're also here to be your consultant on the entire travel experience — from packing to sightseeing.

Woods car thefts

Grosse Pointe Woods public safety officers were called to investigate the theft of two motor vehicles last week. On Friday, Oct. 17, officers were called to the 19300 block of Mack after receiving a report from a clothing store employee that her 1997 Ford Taurus parked behind her place of work was taken. The victim says the incident must have happened between 5:30 and 9:30 p.m. There were also three dresses in the trunk worth about $200 apiece.

The second theft took place between 10:30 and 11:30 p.m. in the 1800 block of Newcastle. A 1994 Plymouth Voyager parked in the victim's driveway was taken in that time period. Police continue to investigate both thefts.

Played with fire

Grosse Pointe Park public safety officers were called to the 1200 block of Wayburn at about 1 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 17, in response to a report of a fire at a two-family flat.

When fire fighting personnel arrived at the scene they saw flames around the front window of the lower unit. When they entered the home, they discovered a couch on fire. It was here where the blaze started, spreading to the front windows and to the roof over the front porch.

Firefighters were able to put out the fire using preconnect lines from engine No. 1 and extinguish the fire before it spread out of control. Damage was confined to the living room and porch area.

Investigators determined that the fire was started by a three-year-old playing with a cigarette lighter left out. Apparently the child accidentally ignited a blanket on the couch, which in turn caught on fire. By the time an adult discovered the blaze it was too large to extinguish without the help of public safety. No injuries were reported.

City of Grosse Pointe Woods, Michigan

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City Council will be considering the following proposed ordinance for second reading and final adoption at its meeting scheduled for November 3, 1997, at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Room of the Municipal Building. The proposed ordinance is available for public inspection at the Municipal Building, 20025 Mack Plaza, between 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Comcast @Home is helping the Internet live up to its promise...transforming web surfing from a tedious, brain-twisting experience into a fast-paced adventure.
How? In a word: SPEED! Comcast @Home is up to 100 times faster than the standard 28.8 telephone modem.

But the important thing isn't just speed, it's the experience of getting around the Internet effortlessly, intuitively, and enjoyably. Comcast @Home's High

On the route to road rage

I received a call from a friend in Florida this week who wanted to give me a chuckle. After hearing her tale, I was grateful for her sense of humor. Given the circumstances of her story, an unbalanced type could have reacted differently.

My pal was listening to a talk show radio host who was lamenting the new phenomenon known as road rage. He was asking his listeners to phone in their stories concerning the subject and the winner would receive a pair of tickets to a local event. Recalling an incident that had happened to her a couple of years ago, she knew it was worth sharing and made the call to the radio station.

My friend and her husband had recently moved to Florida from a midwestern state. Like many others from the north they soon became aware that driving defensively would be a priority. Given the fact that many Florida drivers have lived in big northern cities for much of their lives where they did little or no driving, their experience with the big cars they buy in the southern climes is often limited, however their gall remains unbridled.

One day my friend pulled into a local shopping area that is always crowded, but felt lucky when she saw a car about to pull out. She put on her blinker and waited to take her spot. While waiting she saw another car approach from the opposite direction and it became apparent that the driver wanted the same spot.

My pal rolled down her window and signaled that she was there first and would be taking the parking place, at which point the passenger of the car jumped out and ran to the parking area and stood in the middle of the space. By this time a crowd had gathered and were yelling at the lady, whereupon her husband got out of the car and handed her a lawn chair. As she seated herself she attempted to taunt my friend by asking if she intended to run her over to which my friend replied, sure if necessary.

Finally, after several minutes of haggling and hassling by the two parties involved and the spectators on the sidelines, the interloper picked up her chair and with a few choice comments relinquished the space.

Fifteen minutes later, as my friend was pushing her grocery cart through Publix, she was rammed from behind and gashed just above her heel. As she turned to see what had hit her and bent to stop the bleeding, she saw her nemesis who screamed, Gotcha!!!!

There was no contest. My friend won the tickets hands down.

City election uncontested

Considering nobody took out election petitions to challenge incumbents in the City of Grosse Pointe's fall election, residents must be very satisfied with the performance of the current city council. The Oct. 11 filing deadline passed with nobody but the incumbents filing petitions.

"(The residents) seem quite content with the status quo," said Chris Bremer, assistant city manager.

Those up for reelection are Mayor Susan Wheeler, and council members Joseph Jennings Jr., Patrick Petz and Dale Scrace.

Wheeler has been mayor since 1994 and has served on the council since 1987. Scrace has finished his second term, starting his council tenure in 1987; Jennings and Petz have both served one term each.

Council members serve four-year terms once elected by the general public.

not have crossing guards. When Patterson was asked why, he said that the school had never asked for them. One member of the audience said that she wasn't trying to be funny, but it was her observation that almost no one walks to the school, they are driven.

Councilman Eric Steiner said in the name of fairness the city should offer the use of crossing guards to the school even if they have never asked for such a service.

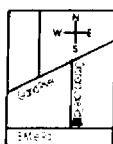

Patterson said the best way to handle the traffic situation at Cook and Chalfonte was education. The city should continue to work with the schools to educate children on the safest routes and to continue to vigorously enforce the current traffic laws. The council agreed, but this policy recommendation did not please Wilson, who firmly believes that intersection is dangerous.

G.P. South students enlist help from peers for COTS

By John Lundberg
Staff Writer

In necessary things, unity; in doubtful things, liberty; in all things, charity.

— Richard Baxter

For those who believe that the younger generation consists of disaffected youths who are only into their own thing, a glimpse into our backyards would dispel part of that notion.

An emerging group of teens at Grosse Pointe South High School has banded together to help those less fortunate.

Inspired by the Detroit-based Coalition on Temporary Shelter (COTS), the youths have started a local chapter dedicated to helping those who need a boost in order to lead productive lives.

Kids Organized Coalition on Temporary Shelter (KOCOTS) is the brainchild of three South juniors who became aware of the program last summer and have since been donating clothes, money and energy to the program. Led by the efforts of Libby Wayman, Dayna Santoro and Christine Ritok, all 16 years old, COTS has benefited from the energy only inspired teenagers can provide.

"It all began when (we) started going downtown with the Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church to drop off clothes," Wayman said. "This past summer, we decided to expand our efforts. Our goal is to be a permanent source to become involved in helping people less fortunate."

The three girls started working with Amanda Drozer, a COTS volunteer, to start recruiting their peers to help with the program. They held a recruitment drive the first week of school and received a huge response, Wayman said. Currently the group has enlisted the help of 200 volunteers from the high school.

Last month the three girls held their first official fundraiser, a car wash in Grosse Pointe Woods. The event raised $700.

"It's incredible that kids really care like this," Ritok said. "I believe we have a good foundation. It's such a nice feeling when you can touch a child's life."

COTS started in 1982 as a coalition of local churches, working out of the basement of a Corktown church, said Ross Kogel of Grosse Pointe Farms, COTS chairman.

COTS' goal was to address the problem of homelessness in the city of Detroit and the organizers wanted to make an immediate impact.

The organization has evolved and now has three shelter locations in the city that not only provide temporary shelter, but also a range of social services to help people escape the grip of poverty.

"This began as a cutting edge organization," Kogel said. "We wanted to start helping people immediately."

COTS' mission statement is simple. It seeks to alleviate homelessness by providing emergency services, which then enable people to successfully pursue economic self-sufficiency and decent, affordable housing. It also strives to find long-term solutions to the problems of homelessness.

Kogel said the group now provides child care, literacy services, transportation, drug abuse counseling and job placement services and more. It now has more than 100 people working in the organization and helps more than 5,000 clients a year.

"Our dream is to put ourselves out of business," Kogel said.

Wayman said its next big fundraiser will be a Halloween party from 3 to 10 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 25, at the Unitarian Church on Maumee and St. Clair in the City of Grosse Pointe. Donations will be accepted at the door.

"I was (particularly affected) by meeting a girl at the shelter who used to go to South," Wayman said. "It really opened some eyes. It's nice to have the community coming together for a good cause."

KOCOTS is working with South high school vice principal Ben Walker to have the fundraiser without the group becoming an official school club. Wayman said Walker has been extremely helpful and receptive to the group's efforts. "It has been very impressive what (the girls) have done," Kogel said. "They did it all themselves."

Ritok said the group has expansion on their minds, but will keep activities at South for at least this year. The group also is working to open a special checking account for money raised to go to the COTS program. There will be a check presentation in the near future.

"We are extremely appreciative (of the support we've received)," Wayman said. "They (the organization) are just doing hard, hard work."

Below, Maria Tocco and Colleen Tribus happily work in the mild weather. The car wash raised $700 for the emerging organization. The students plan a Halloween party Oct. 25 at Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church. KOCOTS was organized by the students after learning about the efforts of the Coalition On Temporary Shelter (COTS), which began in the early 1980s.

Meetings

Garden Center

Mary Lou Borech, president of the Grosse Pointe Garden Center, will hold a harvest wreath workshop from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, Nov. 1, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Participants should bring their own needle-nose pliers and clippers. The cost is $20 a person. The workshop will be limited to 20 participants and reservations must be made by Saturday, Oct. 25. Send a check to the G.P. Garden Center, 32 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe 48236. For more information, call (313) 881-4594.

Camera club

The Grosse Pointe Camera Club will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 28, at Brownell Middle School, 260 Chalfonte, for a monochrome and color print competition and pictorial and nature slide competition. The pictorial assignment is "Three of a Kind."

Visitors are welcome. For more information, call (313) 824-9064 or (313) 822-7080.

Alliance for Mentally III

The Alliance for the Mentally Ill-Eastside will co-sponsor a program about schizophrenia with Grosse Pointe Community Education.

The speaker will be Dr. Hussein Manji, director of the schizophrenia and mood disorders clinical research division at Wayne State University. He will discuss how schizophrenia affects mental processes, such as thinking and judgment.

The charge is $5; half of the fee will go to brain research. For more information, call (313) 343-2178.

Cinema league

The Grosse Pointe Cinema League will present a 35 mm slide show, "Mother Nature's Paintbox" at 8 p.m. Monday, Oct. 27, in the Fries Auditorium of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

The speaker will be Julie Champion, who has been a naturalist with the Huron-Clinton Metroparks.

Guests are welcome. Admission is $4 for non-members. For more information, call (313) 881-7511.

Woman's club

The Grosse Pointe Woman's Club garden and discussion group will travel to the Olde World Canterbury Village on Wednesday, Oct. 29, for luncheon and shopping.

A bus will leave the parking lot of the Grosse Pointe Woods Municipal Building at 9:30 a.m. and return by 4 p.m. For more information, call (313) 882-0578.

Grand Marais

Questers

The Grand Marais Questers met on Oct. 9 for a tour of historic Farmington. Fourteen members toured the Victorian Italianate mansion of Fred Maltby Warner. The house was built in 1867.

Arrangements were made by Rachel Kurtz.

Detroit history

The Mme. Cadillac Dance Theatre will present a program of dance and music at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 5, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Historical Society as one of its series of Bicknell Educational programs, it is designed for the whole family and those who attend will meet Detroit's first citizens, hear the music of early Detroit and learn about the search for Mme. Cadillac.

Admission and refreshments are complimentary. For further information or reservations, call (313) 884-7010.

HAVE A PLEASANT TRY AT PERFECTION
BRIDGE BY WOODY BOYD ♠♥♦♣

"To Be Fond of Learning is to be near to knowledge."

-Chinese Proverb

We start counting in our first year at school when our mentor beseeches us to tally two plus two. From that tender age on we spend many waking hours engaging in that intellectual exercise. If you count sheep to get to sleep, even more.

The legendary Ozzie Jacoby once told me if you don't count in bridge, you can't win, and this drill isn't singular. In the earliest stage of learning you count HCP to determine hand value. As your technique progresses you count out card probabilities, winners and losers, the shape of partner's and the opponents' hands from the bidding and play. Then when you've finally become some kind of an expert, you learn phenomena like correcting the count in accomplishing the glamorous squeeze coup.

It's no wonder that Joan Dewitt McKean spends substantial time emphasizing this requirement.

Here's 52 she told me about from a recent Grosse Pointe game that is as pretty a picture of effective defensive technique as I've seen in some time. The contributors were a couple of Anns named Hudson and Roberts, who've been two of our long-standing duplicate devotees. To succeed in scuttling this enterprising, but makeable slam, they employed skill, chicanery and count most effectively.

Fontbonne Auxiliary plans Holiday Spree on Nov. 8

The Fontbonne Auxiliary of St. John Hospital and Medical Center will hold its ninth annual Holiday Spree auction from 7 to 11 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 8, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Funds raised from the auction will be earmarked for a high-tech neonatal intensive care unit infant incubator.

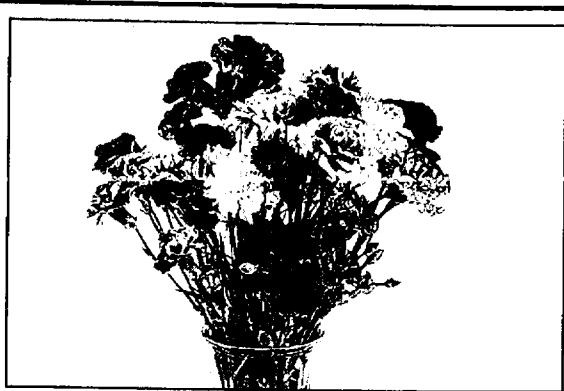

Among the Holiday Spree auction items: dinner for two at Chianti Tuscan Grill, tickets to Detroit Symphony Orchestra concerts, a two-hour Detroit River tour, gift certificates, cash, a landscape plan, Red Wings tickets, car washes, wine and more.

Director of the Fontbonne Auxiliary is Sister Jacquie Wetherholt of Harper Woods. Gayle Boutros of Grosse Pointe Woods is president.

Reservations deadline is Friday, Oct. 31. For reservations, call (313) 343-7584. For more information about the auction, call (313) 343-7586 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays.

Shoot: The fifth annual "Shoot for a Cure," a benefit for the Henry Ford Hospital Will Robinson Neurosurgery Fund, will be held on Friday, Oct. 24, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Palace of Auburn Hills. The event will include silent and live auctions.

Former Detroit Piston Vinnie Johnson and Shoot for a Cure founder Richard Krolicki will be the honored

Flower show

The Garden Club of Michigan has invited garden clubs which are members of the Grosse Pointe Garden Center to participate in a juried flower show from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 30, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

The public is invited.

The theme? "Absolutely to Die For."

The event will offer floral displays, internationally known speakers, classes, conservation ideas and children's events, as well as information related to gardening, arranging, horticulture and environmental issues.

Classes will include "The Butler Did It," "Off With Their Heads," "The Shadow Knows," "The Scene of the Crime," "Mass Murder," "If Looks Could Kill," "Things That Go Bump in the Night" and "Clue."

There will be a boutique — "The Little Shop of Horrors." The Hemlock Cafe will be open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m., serving light lunches, coffees and soft drinks.

Chairman of the event is Lydia Taylor of Grosse Pointe Farms.

The show is free, but admission to the lectures is $15 for each program. For more information, call (313) 881-7511.

Awesome Auction

The seventh annual Awesome Auction will begin at 7 p.m. Friday, Nov. 7, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. The benefit, sponsored by the Grosse Pointe South Mother's Club, will include a silent and live auction.

Among the items to be auctioned: Waterford crystal, a lobster party and a trip to Chicago. Ernie DuMouchelle will be the auctioneer.

Tickets are $20 in advance; $25 at the door. The evening will include a light dinner, beer, wine and soft drinks. For reservations, call Barb Cline at (313) 882-2006.

A new American Cancer Society Discovery Shop will open in November on Mack, north of Seven Mile in Grosse Pointe Woods. Of the 68 shops nationwide, the newest one will be the third in the metropolitan Detroit area.

The cancer society needs volunteers to help with the new Grosse Pointe Shop. Available positions include: cashiers, sales, promotion, display, pricing and acquisition.

To volunteer, call (248) 557-5353.

The Pastor's Corner

You can work miracles

By the Rev. Robert E. Neily
St. Michael's Episcopal Church

We all love the magical and we have a hunger for miracles. Miracles are God's magic, signs of power that make bread appear in the wilderness or disease disappear from someone who is ill.

Among the many apocryphal stories from the life of Jesus is one that speaks of the miraculous. It tells how an 8-year-old Jesus asked for permission to go see a holy man turn stones into bread.

His mother whispered something into his ear and he stayed home. Again, at the age of 11, he asked to go see a prophet who could foretell the future and make fire descend from the sky. His mother asked if he had forgotten what she had taught him and again she whispered in his ear.

At the age of 30, he went with others from his village to see that wild, hairy prophet of the desert, John the Baptist.

When Jesus was baptized by John and came up out of the water a voice said: "You are my beloved son; with you I am well pleased." Then the voice whispered something else in the wet ear of Jesus. Neither the crowd nor John heard it, but Jesus did.

The words were the same as his mother's, but this was the voice of God: "If you are hungry for miracles, then work them yourself."

What God and Mary said to Jesus is also spoken deeply within us: "If you wish to see a miracle, don't just pray for one; perform a miracle yourself."

When someone offends you, you can "miraculously" forgive that person. When you are busy and someone asks for your help, you can "miraculously" put your activity aside and with a smile come to that person's assistance. You can raise the "dead" with acts of kindness. You can open eyes and ears with a caring note or card or phone call. The possibilities are endless.

People travel far and wide to shrines and sites of great miracles because they believe that such places are God-filled. Jesus, however, said that the kingdom of heaven is all around us, even within us.

"If you are hungry for miracles, then YOU do something wonderful."

Bess Bonnier

Grosse Pointes, Harper Woods plan projects for Make a Difference Day

The Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods will mark the fifth annual Make a Difference Day with a project hosted by the Interfaith Caregivers program. Local churches, schools, youth groups, the Grosse Pointe Rotary Club, individuals and families will unite on Saturday, Oct. 25, to serve the elderly residents of the community by raking and cleaning their yards and delivering cards and flowers.

Make a Difference Day is sponsored by USA Weekend magazine and the Points of Light Foundation. The annual challenge for people all over the nation is to do good by serving food at homeless shelters, helping children to read, gathering clothes for the needy, beautifying parks and more.

In Michigan, the Michigan Community Service Commission, the Volunteer Centers of Michigan, the Michigan Campus Compact and the Council of Michigan Foundations are working to encourage people of all ages to participate in the day of service on Saturday, Oct. 25.

"I encourage you to consider the good that could be done if every one of us joined together in volunteer service to the community on Make a Difference Day and every day," said

Jazz pianist will kick off first concert in annual 'Music at Memorial' series

The Bess Bonnier Quartet is back for a heavenly opening program, "Celestial Jazz," at 4 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 2, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

Bonnier will perform on the church's recently refurbished 1883 Steinway rosewood grand piano. Performing with Bonnier will be composer, arranger and conductor Paul Keller on bass; Dave Taylor on drums; and Chris Collins on tenor sax.

Bonnier's name is synonymous with fine jazz pianists. A native Detroit, she began playing the piano as a child and later studied music and earned a degree in English from Wayne State University. Bonnier's first album, "Theme for the Tall One," was released in the late 1950's and earned her national attention. It is now a collector's item.

She plays everything from classic jazz to music with a unique sound of her own.

"I find her style warm, expressive and witty, and her singing is distinctive," said Robert Moncrief, artistic director of music at Memorial.

"Jazz is America's chamber music," Bonnier said, "and is often inspired by Broadway shows, big band sounds and the classics."

An "informance" will accompany the performance, where Bonnier discusses the repertoire with the audience.

A reception will follow the concert in the church's Fellowship Hall. Suggested donation is $15; $10 for students and seniors.

Other performances in the "Music at Memorial" series will include the Detroit Chamber Winds Brass Ensemble on Sunday, Dec. 7; the Detroit Chamber Winds Brass Choir on Sunday, Feb. 1; soloists from the Memorial Church Choir on Saturday, Feb. 21; the Memorial Church Choir on Sunday, March 15; and Elizabeth Parcells on Sunday, April 19.

For more information, call Betty Young at (313) 886-4210.

Dance/exercise classes slated at G.P. Unitarian

Line dance/exercise classes are offered at Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, 17150 Maumee in the City of Grosse Pointe, from 8 to 9:30 p.m. Friday evenings.

Classes will run through Nov. 21. No previous dance experience is necessary and the public is invited. For more information, call Dawn at (810) 792-5897 or Kathy at (810) 939-8742.

Grief support is available for children, teens

A bereavement support group will begin today, Oct. 23, for children ages 3-18 who have lost a friend or loved one.

Sandcastles, a division of the Hospices of Henry Ford Health System, will provide a physically and emotionally safe environment for children to explore their emotions and memories. The group will meet twice a month from 6:15 to 8 p.m. at St. Margaret's in St. Clair Shores.

Aerobics class is for diabetics

Bon Secours Hospital will offer the low-impact, personalized aerobic class LEAD (Living with Exercise And Diabetes) which incorporates the special needs of individuals with diabetes. The class includes blood sugar monitoring, individualized aerobic segments and resistance work.

The program will be from 8:30 to 9:55 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays, Nov. 4 through Dec. 18 (excluding Nov. 27 and 28) at the Bon Brag Center Gym, 22300 Bon Brag, St. Clair Shores. The cost is $36 a person. A physician's consent form is necessary.

To preregister or request a physician's consent form, call Bon Secours Community Health Education at (810) 779-7900 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. week days.

DON'T PAINT YOUR RADIATORS

Paint drastically reduces the efficiency of steam & hot water radiators and wood enclosures are poor heat conductors.

Affordable Ace Radiator Enclosures...

Evans-Murphy

Wendy Allington Evans of Boston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Evans III of Grosse Pointe Farms, married David Lawrence Murphy, son of Kathleen Murphy of Boston, on Aug. 2, 1997 at Trinity Church in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. David Lawrence Murphy

The Rev. Bruce Jeniker officiated at the 5:30 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at The Country Club in Brookline, Mass.

The bride wore a white gown with a satin bodice and a full organza skirt.

The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Jody Riddel Evans of Washington, D.C. The matron of honor was Laurie Evans Bond of Charlotte, N.C.

The flower girl was Caroline Bond of Charlotte.

The best man was the groom's son, David J. Murphy of Boston.

The ring bearer was John Bond of Charlotte.

The bride graduated from Babson College. She is an advertising sales manager with the Boston Globe.

The groom graduated from Suffolk University. He is president of Hamilton Co.

The couple honeymooned in Paris. They live in Boston.

Rockwell-Carlino

Dr. Amy B. Rockwell of Grosse Pointe Park, daughter of John and Mary Rockwell of Alger, married Dr. John P. Carlino of St. Clair Shores, son of Dr. George and Jan Carlino of St. Clair Shores, on Aug. 23, 1997, in St. Clare of Montefalco Church.

The Rev. Jack Burkhart officiated at the 5:30 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Gourmet House.

The bride wore an ivory satin gown that featured a sweetheart neckline, a beaded bodice, long sleeves and a cathedral-length train. Her fingertip veil was held by a beaded headpiece and she carried a cascade of stargazer lilies, roses and ferns.

The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Ann J. Rockwell of Grand Rapids.

Bridesmaids were the groom's sisters, V. Lynn Carlino and Cathy Carlino, both of St. Clair Shores; Kari Gesell of Grosse Pointe Park; Julie Leipprandt of Chicago; and Alicia Ellis of West Jefferson, Ohio.

Attendants wore burgundy suits with satin collars, French cuffs and long skirts. They carried bouquets of stargazer lilies, roses and stephanotis.

The best man was the groom's brother, Joe Carlino of St. Clair Shores.

Groomsmen were Mike Ancona of Mt. Clemens, Kevin Violet of Hillard, Ohio, David Gesell of Grosse Pointe Park, Dennis Laughlin of St. Clair Shores and Roger Fong of Grosse Pointe Woods.

The mother of the bride wore a long black beaded dress and a rose corsage.

The groom's mother wore a long champagne two-piece dress and a rose corsage.

The soloist was Dunya Atisha. Readers were Barbara Zamenski, Josephine Ancona, Judy Ancona and Jamie Ancona.

The bride graduated from Alma College and the University of Detroit School of Dentistry.

The groom graduated from the University of Michigan-Dearborn and the University of Detroit School of Dentistry. Both the bride and groom are dentists in the metropolitan Detroit area.

The couple traveled to Hawaii. They live in Grosse Pointe Park.

Dr. and Dr. John P. Carlino

Orhan-Hudson

Jennifer Leigh Orhan, daughter of Judith and Zafer Orhan of Grosse Pointe Woods, married Timothy Buhl Hudson, son of Patricia and Arthur B. Hudson of Grosse Pointe Farms, on May 17, 1997, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Buhl Hudson

The Rev. Michael Foley officiated at the 4:30 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Dearborn Inn.

The bride wore a silk satin organza gown that featured a scoop neckline, an embroidered bodice and a full skirt. She carried a bouquet of gardenias, stephanotis, white roses and ivy.

The matron of honor was Laura Mott Clutterbuck of Grosse Pointe Farms.

Bridesmaids were Shana Lynn Sine of Grosse Pointe Farms, Michelle Marie Orhan of the City of Grosse Pointe, Eryn Weber Shifrin of Chicago and Jennifer Jone Roy of St. Louis.

Attendants wore long fuchsia column dresses and carried arm bouquets of roses and dendrobium orchids.

The best man was the groom's brother, Arthur Buhl Hudson Jr. of Grosse Pointe Park.

Groomsmen were the bride's brother, Jeffrey Scott Orhan of the City of Grosse Pointe; Joseph Brendan Mooney of Chicago; Henry Adams Pillsbury of Toronto; William Hefferan Jewett of Denver; Loomis Ives Lincoln of Chicago; Kevin Sean Moore of Philadelphia; Nicholas Lowe Alford of La Jolla, Calif.; and Robert Hatch Jewett of Grosse Pointe Farms.

Readers were Kathleen Hudson and Mary O'Connor.

The bride graduated from the University of Michigan with a bachelor of arts degree in psychology.

The groom earned a bachelor of arts degree in political science and a master's degree in environmental management from Boston University.

The newlyweds traveled to southeast Asia. They live in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Continuing Care Services at Bon Secours Healthcare System:
A network of resources when continuing care is prescribed.

There's no place like home for health care.

BON SECOURS HEALTHCARE SYSTEM has long been recognized as the Eastside's preferred provider of hospital-based care. Today, we also lead the way as Continuing Care specialists — from home care and long-term care to rehabilitation and home infusion services. We offer a variety of enrichment and self-care programs designed for health conscious area residents.

No matter where care and treatment is provided, the Bon Secours commitment is equally strong. Because, at Bon Secours, when it comes to Continuing Care, there's no place like home for health care.

For more information, call us at 1-888-222-8912.
We're available to answer your questions and send you a comprehensive information folder.

Benjamin MOORE PAINTS

The fibroid uterus

By Dr. Donna Graf
Special Writer

You may have overheard isolated conversations whispered among friends in the ladies' room or at a social gathering. But do you really know what it means to you or one of the thousands of women in our community to have a fibroid uterus?

Fibroids are generally benign muscle tumors of the uterus or womb. Presumably one smooth muscle cell grows and duplicates itself into a mass of similar-looking cells. The usual pear-shaped uterus then becomes distorted and enlarged with firm white lumps that look like small white potatoes.

Who gets fibroid tumors?

As many as 20 to 50 percent of women have fibroids, but because the condition may not be accompanied by any symptoms, many women will not even be aware that they have them. Women in their reproductive years, ages 20 to 50, have the highest incidence of fibroids. Older women in this group tend to have a greater number. In addition, African American women seem to have a disproportionately higher incidence and a faster growth rate of fibroids, although researchers cannot explain this trend.

What symptoms should I look for and discuss with my doctor?

The most common complaint is abnormal uterine bleeding; usually heavier and longer menstrual periods. Some women will pass large clots and may become anemic (extremely weak, tired and lacking energy) while others have severe cramping due to strong contractions of the misshapen uterus.

Occasionally a fibroid begins to break down, causing acute pelvic pain or a chronic dull pain and pressure sensations. Due to their space-occupying effect, some fibroids can cause an increase in abdominal girth and compromise the bowel or bladder. Some women experience an involuntary loss of urine or constipation due to these compression effects. In some rare cases, a woman may have difficulty conceiving or carrying a pregnancy to full term due to fibroids.

How can I be sure that I have a fibroid uterus?

Diagnosis for all age groups is generally based on a careful history and pelvic examination. Pelvic ultrasound, a painless relatively inexpensive imaging tool, is often used to confirm a pelvic mass as a fibroid uterus.

What are my options? Will I need a hysterectomy?

While uterine fibroids do represent the most common reason for a hysterectomy, it is important to remember that surgery is not always mandatory.

Conservative nonsurgical management is a viable option chosen by many physician-patient partners. For many women, menopause may offer welcome relief from symptoms because the decrease in estrogen production causes fibroids to shrink. For those who wish to preserve fertility or avoid surgery, education and close observation are often successful.

When nonsurgical approaches have not worked, your doctor may recommend surgery. Reasons for surgery include heavy bleeding that causes progressive anemia or decline in your blood count, persistent pelvic pain or compromise to nearby organ systems. Some women may be preoperative candidates for Depo Lupron injections which shrink the fibroid tumors, allowing for a shorter, safer surgery.

For a very small group of women with infertility or a complex obstetrical history, a myomectomy, a major surgical procedure to remove isolated fibroids, may be an option. A myomectomy requires a minimum three-day hospital stay and a six-week recovery period. Newer outpatient surgical techniques, hysteroscopic or laparoscopic myomectomies, allow selective removal of fibroids, but they are an option for very few.

At present fibroids remain a major health concern for women. It is true fibroids are not contagious, but their effects are pervasive and invade into the lives of many. Yes, some will need surgery, but it is my hope that greater knowledge and awareness will empower women to seek answers and treatment and demand new solutions.

Dr. Graf is an obstetrician/gynecologist on staff at St. John Hospital and Medical Center. She is a resident of Grosse Pointe Park. For more information, call toll free (888) 757-5463.

Women can free themselves from abusive, controlling behavior

By Dr. Vicki L. Seltzer

President, American College of Obstetricians & Gynecologists
October is National Domestic Violence Awareness Month.

Abuse of women by male partners is so prevalent that an estimated one quarter of U.S. women will experience some form of abuse from a current or former partner at some point in their lives. More women between 15 and 44 are injured by domestic abuse than by rape, muggings and car accidents combined.

Fortunately, resources exist to help women get advice or break free of their abuser's destructive control. A safe place to start seeking help is in the privacy of your doctor's office. He or she can listen and may be able to treat any physical conditions or refer you to community services for assistance.

By definition, abuse is any controlling behavior that forces another person to do what the abuser wants, without regard to that person's rights, body, health or happiness.

Abusive behavior toward a woman can include pushing; hitting; throwing objects; forcing sexual intercourse; making verbal threats; depriving the woman of money, food, or transportation; isolating her from family and friends; or limiting her reproductive and contraceptive choices.

Abused women can suffer everything from bruises, black eyes and broken bones to hearing loss, chronic headaches, digestive and gynecological problems, depression, anxiety and sleep disorders.

Abuse that occurs during pregnancy can include injury to the fetus from blows to the mother's abdomen. Children who witness abuse may complain of physical ailments and are more likely to be involved in abusive or violent relationships as adults.

Men who abuse come from all income levels and races. Many abuse alcohol and drugs or have witnessed violence in their childhood homes. They may be excessively jealous of their partners' relationships or blame their partners for provoking their own violent acts.

Some women may feel bound to abusive relationships by complex emotional and financial factors. These can include feelings of low self-esteem, fear of retaliation, fear of being alone, money worries, or concern that their children need a father. Abused women may believe they deserve the abuse or can avoid it by not angering their partner.

Breaking the cycle often starts by talking to someone—a friend, relative, doctor, clergy member or social worker. Women can also call the 24-hour, toll-free, Domestic Violence Hotline at (800) 799-SAFE (7233), for information about abuse, community services including safe shelters, and legal and law enforcement assistance.

If you are suffering from abuse, remember that you are not alone, and that you never deserve abuse. You can reach out, and gain control of your life.

Conflict resolution seminar is offered at Bon Secours

Learn creative ways to recognize and resolve conflict at work and in your personal relationships by attending a "Creative Conflict Resolution" workshop with Katharin Weiss, Bon Secours organizational development specialist. The seminar will take place from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. Friday, Oct. 24, in Connelly Auditorium at Bon Secours Hospital. The cost is $10 a person.

During the program, Weiss will look at the many causes and forms of conflict and formulate different ways to handle them. She will offer solutions for maintaining effective working relationships with the people in your life—whether they are co-workers or family members.

"Though we often wish the conflicts in our life would just disappear, they must be dealt with on a daily basis," Weiss said. "The best way to handle conflict is to meet it head-on."

For more information or to preregister, call Bon Secours Community Health Education at (810) 779-7900.

Cottage offers flu shots

The influenza season is fast approaching and Henry Ford Cottage Hospital will offer low-cost flu shots to the community.

The shots will be given in the hospital lobby on a walk-in basis. No appointment necessary. Shots will be available on:

- Wednesday, Oct. 29, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.
- Tuesday, Nov. 11, from 2 to 5 p.m.
- Wednesday, Nov. 19, from 5 to 8 p.m. The cost is $5 a person. There will be no charge to Medicare subscribers.

Anyone over age 18, and particularly the elderly or those at high risk for influenza, are advised to get a flu shot for their protection. Persons allergic to egg products, however, should not receive this inoculation.

Cottage Hospital is located at 159 Kercheval.

Cottage plans CPR classes

Learn how to give cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) to an infant, a young child or an adult by attending a CPR class offered by Henry Ford Cottage Hospital and the Grosse Pointe Public School System's Department of Community Education.

LIFE TAKES UNEXPECTED TURNS

When it Does... We Can Help

Illnesses, surgeries, and accidents can suddenly take away the independence of a family member. The emotional stress of coping with a health crisis is often compounded by the realization our family member needs more care than we can provide at home.

William Beaumont Hospital has five affiliated nursing centers in Oakland and Macomb counties. Dr. Michael Maddens, Chief of Beaumont's Department of Gerontology and a nationally respected leader in the field of geriatric medicine, heads a team of geriatric physicians at these centers.

ULS gets a pleasant surprise at state tennis finals

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

There are a lot of years when University Liggett School's girls tennis team goes into the state finals expecting to win another championship.

But this year wasn't one of them.

The Knights had fallen from first to fourth place in the final Division IV state rankings and it looked like their three-year reign as state champions might be over.

Guess again.

In a three-way battle at the new Michigan State tennis center, ULS wound up on top with 29 points. Detroit Country Day had 24 and North Muskegon finished third with 22 points.

"I was very surprised," admitted ULS coach Chuck Wright. "And I think the girls were, too. I've never seen them so excited. After it was over they were singing the school song. I didn't even know they knew the words to it."

The team faced some tough times. Two players who had won individual state championships last year left the squad. The Knights played the toughest schedule in the state of any Division IV school and finished 5-6-1 in dual meets.

All the adversity did was bring the team closer together.

"We got beaten badly by some good Class A schools, but the girls never stopped trying," Wright said. "They had fun together and they supported each other."

"Every time a match ended at the finals, the girls who weren't playing swarmed the court to congratulate the ones who had played. I've never seen that at ULS. I was in tears most of the day."

"What a special championship. Earlier in the season, Country Day was the stronger team in our dual match and we knew North Muskegon had a great young team. But our girls stayed positive all year, showed terrific caring and support for each other and never stopped believing in themselves."

Although ULS won all three doubles championships and Marite Schulte-Trux took the individual title at No. 3 singles, there were many others who contributed to the Knights' 17th championship in 24 seasons.

"Everybody on the team collected critical early points for us and put us in the driver's seat at the end of the first day."

Christina Oney had an impressive first-round victory at No. 4 singles, worth two points, before failing to North Muskegon in the quarterfinals.

Freshman Julie Megler picked up three points with two victories at No. 1 singles and lost to North Muskegon in the semifinals.

By the end of Friday's matches, ULS had 25 points and Country Day and North Muskegon each had 22.

"We played great tennis late on Friday," said co-coach Bob Wood. "Other competitors were tired and had trouble playing a third match. Because of our tough schedule we played out best tennis in the semifinals."

Kendall Wrigley, who was seeded fourth at No. 2 singles, posted a key semifinal victory for the Knights when she beat the second seed from North Muskegon 6-2, 6-4.

"That girl was a powerful player and Kendall counter-punched beautifully," Wright said.

At No. 2 doubles, Amy Silverston and Melissa Berger led a 4-1 first set lead slip away, but they came back for a 5-7, 6-2, 6-3 victory over Byron Center.

ULS clinched the championship Saturday when the first doubles team of Stephanie Roehl and Allison Ricci beat Country Day's Sara Balgandorth and Ann Singla, 6-3, 6-0.

"What an incredible win that was for Stephanie and Allison," Wright said. "At the regional, we lost 7-6 in the third set to Country Day. Stephanie's and Allison's experience really paid off. I think the Country Day girls were overwhelmed by the situation."

It was the third state title for Roehl and Ricci, who won at No. 2 doubles in 1995 and 1996.

Moments later, the No. 3 doubles team of Alaina Powell and Sejal Parikh completed a tense 6-4, 7-5 victory over Country Day's Sangeeta Jain and Julie Kim. It was the same score the ULS team had beaten the Yellow Jackets pair by in the regional.

Wrigley lost, 6-0, 6-0 to Country Day's Cecelia Thomas in the No. 2 singles final, but Schulte-Trux battled to a come-from-behind 6-3, 3-6, 7-5 victory over North Muskegon's Abby Cooper.

Schulte-Trux, an exchange student from Germany, was a key addition to the ULS squad this year.

"What can I say about Marite?" Wright said. "She has been a tremendous addition to our team. What a fine year she has had."

Silverston and Berger also battled from behind in the third set to beat Ovid-Elsie's Stephanie Hardaker and Marissa Nitura 6-4, 4-6, 7-5.

"Our doubles play was outstanding this weekend," Wright said.

"We swept the doubles largely because we were so prepared. Bob Wood does a tremendous job teaching doubles strategy."

And Wood credited the rugged schedule.

"Our tough Division I schedule prepares us so well for state tournaments," he said. "We like to call it the AP (advanced placement) of high school tennis."

And the finish couldn't have been more satisfying for the ULS coaches.

"We saved the best for last," that comes from knowing you did your best and never gave up," Wright said.

"There's some peace of mind up."

Grosse Pointe North coach Gary Bennett gave all the credit to his players for the Norsemen's thrilling overtime victory against Sterling Heights last week.

The 52-50 defeat was the first loss in nine Macomb Area Conference Red Division games for the Stallions.

The victory also ended a string of frustrations against Sterling Heights. Last year North led the Stallions by 16 points at halftime and lost. And earlier this season, North let a 15-point halftime lead get away.

"Ray (co-coach Ray Ritter) and I didn't do a thing," Bennett said after the Norsemen battled back from an 11-point deficit with less than 3 1/2 minutes remaining in the fourth quarter.

"The kids deserve all the credit. They didn't come out and compete early, but when it was on the line they did."

The comeback was spearheaded by senior Lindsay Simmon, who had 15 of her 24

Blue Devils surprise league contender

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South doesn't have a chance to win the Macomb Area Conference Blue Division football championship, but the Blue Devils certainly made the division race more interesting.

Josh Lorence scored three touchdowns and South piled up 387 yards in total offense last Friday as the Blue Devils beat Anchor Bay 35-25 to hand the Tars their second division loss.

South is 2-3 in league play, while Anchor Bay fell to 3-2. Fraser has a one-game lead over Grosse Pointe North, Anchor Bay and Port Huron.

"The kids played great," said Blue Devils coach Mike McLeod. "We thought we had a clue to stop their offense but you don't know until you get on the field."

South accomplished something offensively that hadn't been done so far against the Tars.

"We ran the ball against them," McLeod said. "Nobody has been able to do that consistently this year."

Anchor Bay jumped out to a 6-0 lead but South went ahead 7-6 on a 40-yard run by Lorence and Andrew Hendrie's extra point.

A blocked punt by Jeremy Linne led to the Blue Devils' next touchdown. Greg Peppler ran the ball back to the Tars' 10 and Lorence scored from seven yards.

South increased its lead to 21-6 at halftime on a 40-yard pass from Mike Kaselitz to Colin Morawski.

Morawski, who joined the team late because of hockey tryouts, has caught three touchdown passes in the last two games.

Kaselitz completed eight of 12 passes for 115 yards for his second straight strong performance.

"He's passed for 405 yards in the last two games," McLeod said. "Last week he was 21 of 30."

South controlled the ball for nearly 19 minutes of the second half and got touchdown runs from Dan Griesbaum and Lorence.

"We ran off tackle most of the time and threw on third down," McLeod said. "And we completed most of those passes."

Lorence finished with 149 yards rushing and Griesbaum picked up 70 yards.

"He did a great job of pass and run blocking. James Feagin gets better each week and Adam Maloof had one of his better games."

"Frank Mabry started his first game at cornerback and played well and our inside linebackers, Dave Bilbrey and Matt Vande Weghe, continue to play well. Bilbrey stuffed a two-point try with a great tackle."

South also got excellent punt coverage from Jesse Walker.

McLeod also praised the two-way play of Pat Howe.

"He made a key third-down reception in the first half and dragged the defender out of bounds to stop the clock," the coach said. "And he had a good defensive game. He called 90 percent of our coverages."

South completes the division schedule Friday at 7 p.m. at Warren-Mott.

The Blue Devils are 3-4 overall.

One win gets North a title tie

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

It's all pretty simple for Grosse Pointe North's football team.

All it has to do is beat Fraser Saturday and the Norsemen will share the Macomb Area Conference Blue Division championship.

"It's all in our hands," North coach Frank Sumner said after the Norsemen ended a three-game losing streak Friday night with a 31-22 victory over Warren-Mott.

"We're right back in the hunt. (Grosse Pointe) South did a job on Anchor Bay and Port Huron gave Fraser its first loss. We could have a four-way tie for the title if everything goes right this weekend."

And that means a North victory over the Rams.

"They're tough," Sumner said. "They have a very good quarterback in Jim Sorgi and three excellent receivers. Their go-to receiver is Brendan Levy, but Jason Smalarz is a 6-4, 210-pound tight end and Frank Surzynski is a good receiver, too. We'll have to cover better than we have been."

North came from behind to beat Mott and improve to 4-3 overall and 3-2 in the MAC Blue.

"At halftime we knew we had shot ourselves in the foot a couple of times, so we figured we had to establish control of the game again," Sumner said.

Tailback Nick Aubrey continued his excellent play as he carried the ball 30 times for 289 yards and scored touchdowns on runs of 54, 25 and 63 yards.

"Nick also made a couple of nice plays in the secondary," Sumner said.

North's other scoring came on a 27-yard touchdown pass from Brian Kasiborski to Michael Fine and Gene Baratta's 31-yard field goal.

The Norsemen scored on their first possession of the game as they drove from their 20 to the Marauders' 16 before Baratta kicked his field goal.

Mott attempted to tie the game with a field goal in the final minute of the first quarter, but the 33-yard attempt was blocked by North's Blake Muccioli.

A high snap on a punt attempt by North gave Mott the ball on the Norsemen's 39 and six plays later the Marauders took a 7-3 lead on a seven-yard pass from Matt Corbett to Rob Hilt and Trevor Rinko's extra point.

That was a short-lived lead, however. Aubrey picked up 12 yards on the first play after the kickoff, then raced 54 yards for his first touchdown of the game. The extra point attempt was blocked and North led 9-7 with 7:12 left in the first half.

Mott came back to drive 80 yards in 11 plays with Corbett hitting Hilt for a 49-yard touchdown pass.

The Marauders threatened to add to their 14-9 lead in the final minute of the first half when an interception by Corbett and his 38-yard return gave Mott a first down at the North 27. But two sacks by Tony Strickland, who had an outstanding game at defensive end, pushed the Marauders back to the 41 where they were forced to punt.

The teams exchanged punts to start the second half, but on North's second possession it drove 77 yards in nine plays. Aubrey had six carries for 44 yards, including a 25-yard run for a touchdown, and caught a 15-yard pass from Kasiborski. Kasiborski also picked up 15 yards on a run.

"He had a very solid game," Sumner said of his senior quarterback.

"He threw the ball well and had that big run."

Kasiborski passed to Ben Staperfenne for the two-point conversion that gave North a 17-14 advantage.

The Norsemen also scored the next two times they had the football.

Jess Thibodeau's interception set up the touchdown pass to Fine, who made a diving catch in the end zone.

North's final touchdown — Aubrey's 63-yard run — came on the first play after the Norsemen stopped Mott on downs at the North 37. Another pass from Kasiborski to Staperfenne gave the Norsemen the two-point conversion.

Mott scored against North's second unit with 1:48 remaining when backup quarterback Beau Weiss passed 15 yards to Corbett for the touchdown. Weiss passed to Hilt for the two-point conversion.

Sumner was pleased with the play of his revamped offensive line.

"Joe Callies keeps improving at tackle, Jason Aubrey did a good job at center and Jack McHale played well at left guard," Sumner said.

Strickland had a hand in six of North's eight sacks. He finished with 10 tackles, including five solos. Gary Bordato played his second outstanding game since moving to line-backer, making 15 tackles, including three solos.

Jerry Cardani had 11 tackles and Rick Pesta made eight. Pesta also had an interception and a key one-armed tackle for a loss to end a Mott drive in the third quarter.

"Wesley Holman played the whole game at defensive tackle and did a good job," Sumner said.

Blue Devils inch closer to first place in MAC Red race

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's girls basketball team took care of business last week and then got a little help from crosstown rival Grosse Pointe North.

The Blue Devils improved their Macomb Area Conference Red Division record to 7-2 with victories over Fraser (40-30) and L'Anse Creuse North (47-31) and moved within a game of division-leading Sterling Heights, which lost its first league game to North.

"Sterling Heights losing makes things a lot more interesting in the league," said South coach Peggy Van Eckoute.

Van Eckoute expected a tough game with Fraser and she wasn't surprised.

"I knew they'd be fired up to play us," said Van Eckoute. "All the Fraser girls know Jan (co-coach Jan Stephan) so they wanted to do their best. They played hard."

Stephan had been the Ramblers' head coach for several years before joining Van Eckoute at South this season.

South led by four points at halftime and had a seven-point advantage going into the fourth quarter. It wasn't until there were two minutes left that the Blue Devils' lead reached 14 points.

Caitlin Shapiro, Meghan McGahey and Dinah Zebot led the way for South. Shapiro had 12 points, six steals and five rebounds. McGahey collected 11 points, eight rebounds and three steals, while Zebot finished with eight points and 10 rebounds.

Sophomore guard Beth Howson also contributed three points, two assists and three steals.

A 16-2 second-quarter run helped carry the Blue Devils to their victory over L'Anse Creuse North.

The Crusaders jumped out to a 9-1 lead and held an 11-9 advantage after the first quarter, but the South surge quickly erased the lead.

"We picked up our defense boost the Stallions' lead back to three points, but a putback by Simmon drew the Norsemen within one.

Sterling Heights was called for traveling with 28 seconds to go and North worked the ball around for a shot by Claire Kotwick.

It was off the rim, but Simmon kept the ball alive under the basket and finally was fouled by Rozek with 1.7 seconds remaining.

After Simmon made the second free throw, the Stallions attempted a long pass on the in-bounds play, but it sailed out of bounds without being touched.

That gave North the ball under its offensive basket but Hawkins' desperation shot missed at the buzzer.

There were several outstanding performances in North's victory.

"Claire Kotwick did a great job defensively on their best player (Rozek)," Bennett said. "She had to work for every point she scored. All last week, Claire played well. She really competed defensively.

"Jenny Pagel had a good and we did what we have to do offensively," Van Eckoute said.

LCN's Dana Doescher, who had nine points in the first quarter and finished with 18, was held scoreless in the second period.

Shapiro led South with 15 points and also had three assists and three steals. Zebot had nine points, eight rebounds, two assists and four steals, while McGahey collected eight points and three steals.

"And all three of them were sick," Van Eckoute said. "They were all fighting hard colds."

Melissa Brown had four assists and four steals for South, while Howson wound up with six points.

game, too. She did a good job defensively and blocked a couple of shots."

Pagel finished with 11 rebounds and six points. Kotwick had six assists. Hawkins wound up with 10 points for North, while Champagne had eight points and three assists.

Rozek and Crum each scored 13 points for Sterling Heights.

"Maybe a win like this will help our confidence," Ritter said.

Earlier, North rolled past Port Huron 49-34 as Simmon scored 24 points and pulled down 11 rebounds and Sarah Smith added 12 points, four steals and two assists.

The Norsemen held a 25-12 halftime lead against the Big Reds.

"We think we're a good team, but we just haven't always played well," Bennett said.

"Sterling Heights is the first real good team we've beaten. But I think we've been capable of beating most of the others."

North is 5-4 in the MAC Red and 6-6 overall.

points in the fourth quarter and the overtime, including a free throw with 1.7 seconds remaining to send the game into overtime.

"She made the tough free throw," Bennett said. "She missed the first one, but made the second to tie the game. Lindsay showed a lot of poise. I wish it didn't have to come down to."

Simmon also had 12 rebounds, including two during that final flurry of shots during the final seconds of the fourth quarter.

"If she didn't keep after it on the offensive boards we wouldn't have won the game," Bennett said. "Her attitude was one that I like to call 'refuse to lose.'"

Simmon has improved at the free throw line since last season.

"Last year she maybe shot 40 percent from the line," Bennett said. "But she worked on it a lot and now she's around 60 or 70 percent. That's important because she's going to get fouled a lot."

Simmon scored the first basket in overtime to give the Norsemen a lead they never relinquished. Then Lindsay Hawkins and Michelle Champagne hit key free throws to seal the victory.

North started slowly and trailed 15-4 at the end of the first quarter, but the Norsemen tied the game at 18-18 after two free throws by Hawkins and a layup by Jenny Pagel with about three minutes left in the first half. Sterling Heights answered with baskets by Sara Crum and Adrienne Nassar to take a 22-18 lead to the locker room.

The Stallions led 35-30 after three quarters and Sterling Heights started the fourth quarter with an 8-2 run. The Stallions still had a 45-34 advantage after a layup by Crum with 3:28 left in regulation.

North started its comeback with a free throw by Simmon. She missed the second, but Pagel got the rebound and put it back to cut the lead to eight points.

A three-point play by Simmon, a free throw by Hawkins and another basket by Simmon made it 45-43 with 1:21 left.

Sterling Heights' Alicia Rozek made one of two free throws with 1:16 remaining to Purchase

Until Spring 1998!

If promotional purchases and any optional credit insurance charges are paid in full by the payment due date shown on your April, 1998 billing statement, finance charges will be waived. Offer applies to approved purchases of GE, GE Profile™, GE Profile Performance™ and GE Monogram® appliances made from October 2 through November 30, 1997 on the GECAF® credit card. Monthly payments are not required on qualified purchases during the promotional period. Finance charges and any optional credit insurance charges on your promotional purchases will be billed from the date of purchase, but finance charges will be credited if you pay the full purchase price and any optional insurance charges by the April 1998 billing date. If you do not, you will be responsible for these charges. The APR may vary, except in IA, where the APR will be a fixed 19.8%. The variable APR as of August 31, 1997 is 22.34%. The minimum monthly finance charge is $1.00, except in IA where the minimum is $.50. Regular credit terms will continue to apply on your non-promotional purchases. Offer is subject to credit approval by Monogram Credit Card Bank of Georgia.

The warmth, light and romance of a wood-fueled hearth

North America's oldest form of home heating has come of age. With all the time-honored, traditional amenities you would expect, the wood stoves, fireplaces and fireplace inserts of the '90s are hardworking, highly sophisticated appliances. They offer longer burns, higher efficiencies and dramatically decreased emissions with 25-33 percent less fuel than wood heat appliances built just a decade ago. The bottom line is more heat with less wood, and less work.

EPA-approved, high-tech wood heat appliances are also safety enhanced, because they produce a full 90 percent less flammable creosote, which can promote chimney fires.

Two key technologies produce these notable results: catalytic and catalyst-free. Catalytic models ignite unburned gases with one or more catalytic combustors. Stoves without catalysts burn gases as well, through the use of high internal temperatures, heat retentive masonry or steel baffle systems, and precision-tuned incoming combustion air.

Introducing the romance of the hearth into your home has never been more versatile. Wood stoves, fireplace inserts and fireplaces offer something for every homeowner.

Freestanding wood stoves run the gamut from traditional to ultra-modern, in materials such as cast iron, steel or soapstone. A rainbow of exterior colors is available, as are stylish hearth pads as fashionable as they are functional.

Options include blower systems for forced air heat distribution, and viewing doors and embellishments trimmed in 24-karat gold, nickel or solid brass plating. Some models offer etched viewing glass, while others sport futuristic curved glass, bay windows or cast-iron latticework doors. An added amenity available on some models is an ash pan system that makes maintenance both clean and convenient.

For existing masonry or metal factory-built fireplaces, there is a broad choice of inserts that turn a drafty, energy-eating hearth into one capable of heating an entire home with an efficiency boost of up to 750 percent. Most freestanding wood stoves have fireplace insert counterparts with many of the same options. A variety of panels that surround the insert are sized to fit most any fireplace opening.

In new construction or remodeling, a metal, factory-built fireplace is a smart addition that can add significantly to the value of your home at a fraction of the cost of a site-built fireplace. Adding a factory-built fireplace is an especially versatile project, because the surround and mantel materials and design are up to you. And models are available at every performance level.

Antiques

Q. My dad saved my old marble collection. It includes some painted china marbles. Are they valuable?

A. China marbles can be expensive. It depends on the condition of the paint, the decoration and the size.

The most rare china marbles are painted with scenic designs. A one-inch diameter scenic marble in mint condition might sell for $1,000. A one-inch china marble with lines painted on it, in comparison, is worth about $5; with an intricate floral decoration, $100.

Q. My sister paid $45 for a cobalt-blue covered butter dish at an antique shop. The pattern looks like the caramel-colored Holly Amber pieces. Did they make that pattern in cobalt?

A. Holly Amber was first made in 1903 by the Indiana Tumbler and Goblet Co. of Greentown, Ind. The pattern of holly leaves was molded into amber glass.

It also was made in clear glass and called "Holly Clear."

In the 1970s, several companies began making Holly pattern reproductions. The covered butter dish was one of the first. It was made in cobalt, chocolate and red amber slag glass.

Reproduction items have one holly berry alternating with each leaf. The originals have from one

Fall is an ageless, busy, beautiful time of year

Garden Shed

By Ellen Probert Williamson

October, beside being one of the most beautiful months of the year, is also one of the busiest, with plant exchanges, chrysanthemum sales, apple and pumpkin sales, trips to the cider mill and planting bulbs for next spring's flowering; not to forget old-fashioned fall housecleaning chores, making jams and jellies, potpourris and pomanders.

Color tours abound to scenic sites where the trees are in festive splendor and we all look ahead to Halloween and the holiday season beyond.

Chrysanthemums are traditionally the symbols of optimism and, in the Chinese flower language, of rest and ease. They are the flower for October in the Chinese flower calendar and were the badge of the old Chinese army.

In Japan, the chrysanthemum is the flower for September, the symbol for long life and happiness, and appears in the imperial crest of Japan.

The fruits and vegetables of the autumn harvest are legion. Grapes and rose hips make wonderful jam. Roadside stands are heaped with decorative and delectable squashes, pumpkins and ornamental gourds. Apples seem to be in endless variety in every shade of green, red and gold. Harvest festivals and county fairs are awarding prize ribbons for the best of these all across the country.

There is a great deal of confusion in most people's minds as to whether tomatoes are fruits or vegetables. And it's all the fault of the United States Supreme Court. Botanically speaking, the tomato is a fruit but in 1893, after an importer claimed that tomatoes were fruits and therefore not subject to duty, the court, apparently realizing that the government was more interested in collecting duty than in accuracy, ruled that it was a vegetable. People have been debating the point ever since.

Incidentally, did you know that one mature tomato plant gives off one gallon of water on a dry day?

In one growing season, a single tomato plant requires 349 gallons of water; one corn plant, 54 gallons; and one sunflower plant, 130 gallons. No wonder farmers are upset during a dry summer!

The Native Americans ate many varieties of vegetables and fruits along with meat or fish, but because of the religious beliefs, would not touch certain foods. The Navajo and Apache Indians would not touch fish or the meat of beavers or bears. Some Indians would not eat turkey because they believed it to be a cowardly bird and if they ate turkey they would become cowardly too.

The most important cultivated vegetable was maize, or corn. Next in importance were beans, peas, root vegetables, squashes, melons, pumpkins and wild foods such as seeds, nuts, wild rice and flowers of various kinds. Leaves and parts of plants used for greens or for flavorings were gathered and eaten. In the Southwest, cactus and yucca fruits, mesquite beans and agave were enjoyed. Most tribes ate

Household Help

Q. Several years ago, we bought a brand-name, frost-free refrigerator. We purchased a one-year extended warranty and did not continue it any further. The refrigerator was trouble-free and worked perfectly. However, we recently started having problems, such as mild to warm temperatures in the refrigerator compartment. We were fortunate enough to have an extra large refrigerator/freezer in the basement and moved all the food there.

We have always maintained the appliance, such as vacuuming the condenser coils and cleaning other parts too. Can you explain what the problem could be?

A. Of course, without an actual hands-on troubleshooting test of your refrigerator, I can't pinpoint the exact problem. However, mild to warm temperatures in the refrigerator compartment narrow it down.

I also must ask you to be sure that some overlooked causes aren't the culprit. Things such as a faulty temperature control dial or even having it set too high can be problems. Also, check the door gasket around the entire door and see if it has a tight seal. Place a piece of loose-leaf paper between the gasket and door and see if you can pull out the paper. If you can, then you don't have a tight seal and you must replace the door gasket.

A major cause of the lack of cold air flow to the refrigerator is clogged evaporator coils. Ice will block the metal "fins" and prevent any air flow. If you can carefully remove the evaporator cover on the floor of your freezer, the job is half done. Next, remove the Styrofoam insulation shield and then turn on the temperature control dial. If the evaporator fan does operate, you are closer to the solution.

Now, use your household hair dryer on the solid ice and carefully melt it down to the evaporator coils. You must empty the drain pan under your refrigerator after you are done.

Return the parts to their proper place and check on the interior temperature after 12 hours. If all is well, you have succeeded. If not, you may need to call in a professional.

Woods' rich grains and unique character have a greater perceived value, say many furniture design trend watchers.

Distinguishing features mean your hardwood furnishings have more character.

These characteristics occur naturally in hardwoods, such as cherry, oak, maple, ash, poplar and walnut. As they grow, trees absorb minerals and other essential elements that help to develop their unique qualities. These natural characteristics authenticate hardwoods, and ensure that what you're buying is not an artificial wood imitation.

The following are several types of character marks found in hardwoods:

- Bird's-eye — A decorative natural marking with small circular or elliptical figures occasionally found in maple, but rare in other hardwood species.

- Burl — A curly, irregular, decorative woodgrain figure. Also a natural swelling on a tree trunk that produces such a figure.

- Knots — Hard, cylindrical regions marking locations of branches encased by later growth of the tree.

- Fiddleback grain — A fine, wavy pattern found in some maples and other hardwoods; traditionally used for the backs of violins.

- Figure — The pattern or design seen in wood, caused by variation in color and arrangement of grain, rays and contours around knots.

- Grain — The direction, size, appearance and quality of the fibers that give hardwoods strength and distinctive patterns.

- Growth rings — Layers of wood added to a tree during a single growing season.

- Pitch pocket — A small decorative spot or character mark sometimes found in cherry surfaces.

For free information about buying and caring for solid hardwood furniture, contact the Hardwood Manufacturers Association, Department NE27, 300 Penn Center Boulevard, Suite 530, Pittsburgh, PA 15235; or call (800)373-WOOD.

Many herbs were used for seasoning. Wild thyme and wild onion especially. Some tribes used salt, but it was taboo in others. It was obtained by evaporating water from salt springs, the ocean or by trade. Some tribes used lye as a salt substitute and some used wood ashes, which are high in mineral salts.

The early explorers of this country found corn cultivated from Canada to Chile, and the Spaniards introduced it into Europe from where it spread all over the world. It is estimated today that more people around the world are nourished by corn than by any other grain except rice.

Columbus spoke of the Indians making an intoxication beverage from corn. Champlain left the first record of the cultivation of corn in New England. The Pilgrims, soon after arriving on these shores, were taught to cultivate it by chief Massasoit.

The Indians have many legends about the origin of corn. Some believed it was the gift of their gods. Some termed it "mother corn," the giver of life. The Pawnees thought that corn had visited the Earth first as a beautiful fair-haired woman, whose locks were still preserved in the corn silk. The six nations held a corn festival every year, and the Greeks held a Green Corn Dance.

The times of planting and harvesting corn were times of festival among the Indians. Corn has been used for food for a very long time. Recent excavations in New Mexico have shown that corn was grown in that area several centuries before the birth of Christ.

Flowers as well as fruits and vegetables are prolific in our gardens in the fall. Cosmos and chrysanthemums and marigolds and zinnias abound, and yet we can look forward to the perennials we plant in the fall for spring flowering. One of the most popular of these is the peony.

Many Greek legends mention this flower and the peony has been deeply revered since ancient times all over the world.

In pre-Homeric times there was a nation called "Paeonia," the only country ever known to bear the name of a flower.

Pliny gave a detailed account of the uses of the peony "herb" as a medicinal plant. Centuries later, in England and in Siberia, the peony was used as a seasoning and condiment.

In Europe, in the 18th and 19th centuries, the peony was often the subject of paintings by prominent artists, either by itself or as embellishments to portraits.

Peonies have always been a leading motif in oriental art and poetry and as the traditional "flower of prosperity" prized for its symbolism as well as its beauty.

DO IT YOURSELF

Two simple home repairs

Seemingly tough home repairs are a lot easier than imagined. Even if you've never attempted any. Basic jobs can be completed by almost anyone. The experts at The Home Depot give their seasoned advice on two of the most popular homeowner problems:

Q. How do I stop the drip of a leaky faucet?

A. Provided you have a stem faucet that has separate controls for hot and cold, the culprit is probably a broken washer underneath the faucet cap. If you have a rotating-ball faucet with one handle, you may need to call a plumber or handy relative. For the two-handle version, turn the water off underneath the sink and use a screwdriver to remove the faucet cap to get to the washer. This repair takes less than 30 minutes with the assistance of an inexpensive washer assortment pack. That irritating drip can waste as much as 100 gallons of water a day.

Q. The garbage disposal is on the fritz. Is it time to call for help, or is there hope of fixing it without spending lots of money?

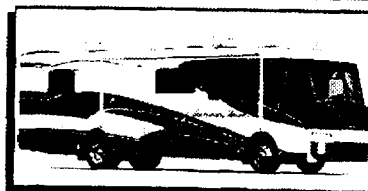

A. There is most likely some hard food substance caught in the blades. Try the reset button on the under side of the unit. If that doesn't work, make sure the unit is turned off, insert a broom handle and give the blades a counterclockwise turn. There's also an Allen wrench on the bottom of some units that can be turned to release the clogged blades. One of these remedies will probably correct the problem.

It's that time to start thinking of feeding the birds

With the onset of cooler nights, we humans begin to think of the birds that visit our yards, singing to us throughout the spring and summer. Snug and warm in our houses, we wonder what will keep them warm in the colder months ahead.

Fall is the perfect time to begin feeding the birds. Even though there is a plentiful supply of natural foods during this time of year, birds begin to look for places that they will include in their daily scheduled stops.

If you plan to travel in the winter and wonder whether you should feed the birds while you are here, you can be assured that the birds will not depend solely on one source of food. In natural circumstances, birds have to adapt to changes in food sources. One of the skills that they learn is to constantly look for additional sources of food.

If trees are available to you in your yard, tube feeders are the best way to offer seeds to those birds that prefer to travel among the branches as they approach the feeder. Their bodies are built for clinging to branches and they feel uncomfortable on the ground. The exception is the cardinal, adaptable enough to come to tube feeders that have a tray or ledge to accommodate this larger-bodied bird. Cardinals can also be welcomed to wooden feeders and will make themselves at home feeding on the ground.

Those birds that commonly rely on tube feeders would include chickadees, nuthatches, tufted titmice, house finch and house sparrows. Tube feeders should be filled with their favorites, either mixed or offered separately. The seeds that these birds prefer include black oil sunflower, striped sunflower, sunflower chips and safflower.

There are also tube feeders that are made specifically for thistle seed. With smaller openings for this tiny imported seed, the thistle feeders are a favorite of goldfinches as well as being enjoyed by house finches. Winter visitors that are attracted to thistle include purple finch, pine siskin and redpoll. These birds reward our efforts by adding color and variety to our feeding stations, as well as amusing us in typical finch-like fashion.

For many, a wooden feeder is still the preferred way to feed birds. Some of the advantages of a wooden feeder are its greater seed holding capacity, the old fashioned appeal of its looks and the fact that it can accommodate more birds at one time. With an abundance of squirrels in this area, it is advisable to use safflower in any wooden feeder that is accessible to squirrels. If your yard-space allows, mount the feeder on a pole with a squirrel baffle underneath the feeder to keep the squirrels away from the bird seed.

Offer the same variety of seeds mentioned above, adding white proso millet for those ground feed-

ORGANIZATION — When I go grocery shopping, I do all the obvious things, such as putting my coupons in an envelope and writing my grocery list on the outside of the envelope. In addition, I place the amount of the coupon next to the item.

When I start my shopping, my first stop is the directory that shows where items are located. I then mark the aisle number by that particular item. This saves me much time, plus I avoid all the other aisles of tempting items which I don't need. Carol L., Colorado Springs, Colo.

SHOE REPAIR — I often nick the back of my shoes when driving. I just use a fine-point permanent marker to cover the marks. It works. Pauline W., Glens Falls, N.Y.

VIDEO FILE — Our newspaper prints summaries on Fridays of the new movies being released. I cut them out and save them until the videos are available. That way, I know what I'm renting. Lisa J., Gaithersburg, Md.

FLOOR MATS — When my wife and I went grocery shopping and put the bags of groceries in the back of the car they would usually fall over and spill.

I came up with the idea of buying some inexpensive rubber-backed car floor mats and turning them upside down. Now the groceries are secure, resting on rubber teeth. James R., Queensbury, N.Y.

MORE ON SLOW COOKER TRANSPORTATION — I'd like to jump into the slow-cooker transportation fray with my own tip.

Put your slow cooker in a carton with crumpled newspapers around it to make it fit tightly. Also, tape the slow-cooker lid shut with masking tape.

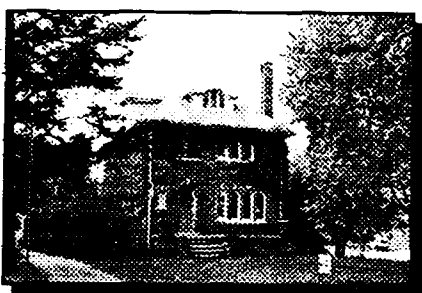

This will not spoil the pot or burn you when you do this. Nydia G., Los Alamitos, Calif.

KEEP IT CLEAN — Take your old newspaper bags and cut them in half to use for trash bags in your car.

You can punch a little hole on top to hang it. Melissa H., Mansfield, Ohio.

Peeling paint may indicate a moisture problem

Q. I have paint peeling from my front room ceiling. I had my roof replaced two months ago; why is it peeling now and how do I repair it? Flaked of Harper Woods.

A. Moisture from the rain, although your roof was tarped, dampened your insulation and plaster. Now with the first heating cycles of your furnace, your house is drying out. Moisture being what it is, is trying to equalize itself and being greater in the attic, it's trying to come in.

A good indicator of this is when

side of the house will bloom first and give beautiful flowers year after year. There is an old saying that the best way to grow peonies is to plant them and then leave them alone for 50 years.

This is a good time, too, to pot mint, chives, parsley, tarragon and basil for your kitchen windowsill. After about six weeks give them a plant food watering about once a month and you will have fresh herbs to use all winter.

Many other things can be plantthe paint peels clean down to the bare plaster.

Usually the moisture comes from the lack of circulation in the attic, or too few roof vents. What happens is the moisture trapped in the attic condenses when the temperature outside drops. More vents in the attic help prevent this.

So before you work on the ceiling, correct the source of the problem, or at least prepare to do so.

Patching the peeling on the ceiling can be easy if you keep your patience. A rushed or skipped step here may make it very difficult to repair later.

Peel all the loose paint off the area using a scraper, putty knife, or even a small pocketknife.

Wash the area with a mild solution of T.S.P. (trisodium phosphate) and water. About one tablespoon per gallon of water. Then rinse well. Let dry.

Prime the bare area with plaster bonder or a shellac primer, like Bin Primer.

Using a 6-inch putty knife, the wider the better, apply a layer of drywall joint compound around the peeled area. Keeping one edge of the knife on the paint you can feather the compound to the bare plaster. A professional will need two coats to do a good job, you will need three. Don't try to do this in one coat, rushing this will only leave the repair visible. My favorite trick here is: 1) keep the coats of compound thin and 2) use a sponge to clean up excess compound in between coats eliminating sanding.

Now you have a smooth spot in a ceiling with a slight orange peel texture from years of painting. Take the sponge, used for cleaning in between coats, and lightly dip it in the compound. Now tap the repaired area (it should look good by now) with the sponge until you emulate the texture of the old ceiling. The thinner the better.

Prime and paint your ceiling and move on to the next project.

A good job done, is a job done for good.

Choose plants for fall color when color's at its peak

What better time of year could there be to select landscape plants with good fall color than fall itself? Though fall color from foliage and fruits isn't as important a trait as hardiness, ability to survive transplanting, mature size and freedom from serious pest problems, it is another characteristic to consider, suggests Sandra Goeddeke-Richards, home horticulturist at Macomb County's MSU Extension office.

"Once you've narrowed your selection of plants to several that will meet your top priority needs, why not select for fall color," Richards says. "And fall is obviously the best time to do that because you can see what the tree or shrub looks like at that time of year."

Another approach is to check your local nurseries and greenhouses for attractive plants, then research their other characteristics to see if they match your needs. You can keep an eye out for outstanding plants in residential, commercial and park areas, too, Richards notes, but it may be difficult to identify them precisely.

Trees frequently recommended for fall color in the landscape include the red maples "Autumn Blaze," "October Glory" and "Red Sunset," which turn orange-red, rich golden yellow and flaming red, respectively.

Sugar maples provide shades of yellow, orange and red. For reddish purple, consider Japanese maple or callery pear; for deep red, red or white oak; for yellow, honey locust, hornbeam and poplar; for lemon yellow, larch; and for purple, ash.

Colorful shrubs include the viburnums, some of which are known as "burning bush" because of their bright red fall foliage. Chokeberries' glossy green foliage turns purplish red in the fall, and the dwarf fothergilla ranges in color from yellow, orange to scarlet.

Another plant for autumn interest in the landscape is the common witchhazel, hamamelis virginiana. It flowers in late October to early November, just as its foliage turns golden yellow, and perfumes the air with its distinctive sweet fragrance.

Ground covers and vines can also add splashes of color to the landscape, Richards points out. Ivy and some other creeping plants will stay green long after deciduous landscape plants have lost their leaves. Virginia creeper and Boston ivy both turn red in the fall.

Colorful fruits on plants not only add color to the landscape but provide a winter food source for birds and other wildlife.

Some of these plants have other traits that are not so desirable, Richards notes. Some crabapple varieties have serious disease problems, particularly scab; and mountain ash has both disease and insect problems that tend to make them short-lived in the landscape. If you know this, you can choose another plant with fewer problems, or you can choose to plant the problem-prone tree or shrub for its desirable traits with the knowledge that trouble may occur.

Home Tips

CLUTTER BUSTER — Once a month, my aunt goes through her house with a large, plastic bag and puts all loose items that get brought in and thrown around into the sack. She puts the sack in the basement. If nobody asks for any of the items or wonders where they've gone for six months, she takes the whole bag and puts it in a Goodwill box. Martha S., Auburn, Ala.

POSITIVELY MAGNETIC — Tell people who use magnets to hold papers on the refrigerator to be careful.

I let my grandchildren put the pictures they colored on my refrigerator. One day, the fan that cooled the refrigerator wasn't working, so I called the repairman. The fan was so hot, we had to plug in another fan to cool it off before the repairman could touch it.

When it cooled enough to work on, we found one of the pictures had sucked up in the fan and stopped it. If nobody had been home, it could have caused a fire. Julie F., Syracuse, N.Y.

ing birds such as doves and sparrows. There is also the option of using a low platform feeder to offer seeds specifically for ground feeding birds. If you choose this option, a combination of white proso millet, cracked corn, and oil sunflower will satisfy your ground feeders.

Specialty feeders can attract a whole new spectrum of birds to your yard that you may not otherwise be able to enjoy. Try suet feeding in order to attract chickadees, woodpeckers and nuthatches. Suet can be placed in an onion or orange bag or a commercial suet cage made of plastic coated wire.

Suet comes in many varieties in addition to plain — there are added peanuts, seed, and raisins in different combinations. The same birds that enjoy suet will also enjoy shelled peanuts which can be hung in close proximity to the suet in a feeder made specifically for peanuts. Keep in mind that the birds that prefer these foods do not prefer to be out of reach of tree branches. Situate suet and peanut feeders from tree branches with a baffle over them if squirrels get to be a problem. Alternatively, hang these feeders from a pole with a baffle, placing the pole close to trees so the birds can easily return to their safety net of the tree branches once they are done feeding.

Window feeders are another great option to bring the birds close to you. A window feeder does not hold as much seed as other feeders but can be easily reached for refilling. It gives children, pets and shut-ins a form of entertainment. Window feeders can even be placed on second story windows. Safflower would also be the seed of choice in a window feeder that could be reached by a squirrel. If squirrels are not a problem, try sunflower out of the shell for ease of maintenance.

For those of you who already own tube, thistle or window feeders, now is a great time to clean them and check them for good repair. Most feeders can be taken apart for thorough cleaning in a solution of warm water and detergent. Let them soak to loosen caked on dirt, cleaning afterward with a brush designed for that purpose. If the feeders need disinfecting, a weak bleach solution (10 percent) is recommended.

Let feeders dry thoroughly before reassembling and filling. The same steps can be followed when cleaning wooden feeders with the exception of soaking. Once dry, treat them with an appropriate water based stain.

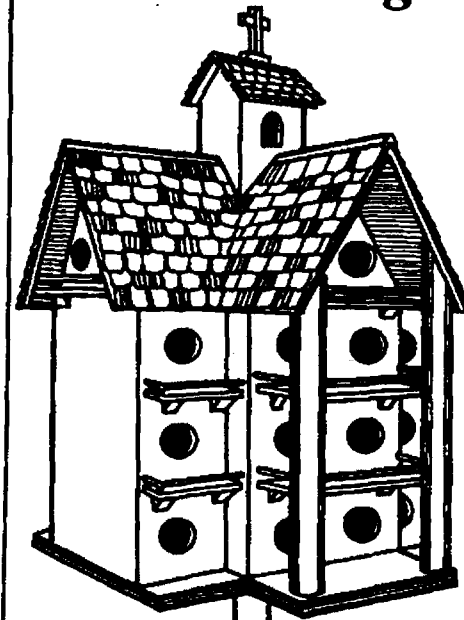

Make sure that you use non toxic treatments on feeders as they will come in contact with seed.

Take a moment to review how your feeders are hung. Are they easy to reach and fill? If not, check out some of the newest hardware that will make this aspect of feeding more enjoyable. Check out your existing hardware touch up paint where needed, adding lubricant to bolts, replace screws where necessary, and check any hanging lines or wires for sturdiness.

Make sure your seed, especially thistle, is fresh and kept cool. If seed is placed in the house where it can get warm, the cereal grain moths that have laid eggs in sunflower while it was growing in the fields may hatch and cause an infestation in your house. Keep "pantry pests" on hand, a commercial moth trap that works by using moth pheromones instead of sprays that can be harmful to humans. If you store seed outside, invest in an aluminum trash can to hold seed in and keep mice and squirrels out.

Now that you have the basics of feeder type, seed and placement, use this time before winter sets in to get your yard ready to attract a variety of birds. Their bright plumage and colorful personalities will warm your heart in the cooler months ahead.

Dust off cleaning supplies for a feathery faux finish

Remember the feather duster your grandmother used? That same cleaning aid is being put to work these days to add texture and softness to ordinary walls.

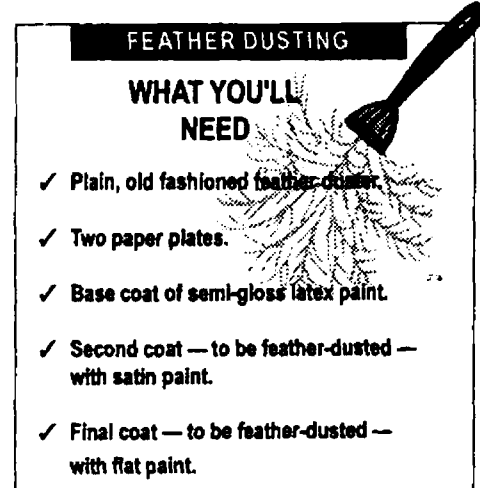

The novice who has wanted to attempt faux painting but hasn't built up the courage to do so will find this technique both simple and inexpensive compared to other processes.

Vickie McCann, an interior designer with The Home Depot, says the technique produces a soft, arbitrary and random look which is great for a powder room.

"You can easily go with trendy in the powder room because it's usually easy to change if you get tired of it," says McCann. "The feather dusting look is different, dressy and unique all at the same time and will really impress your guests."

McCann suggests using a minimum of two paint colors, but that you can bring in as many as four. If your powder room has no natural light she suggests using three paint finishes — semigloss, satin and flat paint — to add texture.

"The first thing to do is determine your colors and style. Do you want a traditional look? Does your powder room lead to a formal dining room or is it adjacent to your kitchen? Look at those colors and pick the ones which are dominant because you will want to maintain continuity," says McCann.

Before you start on the walls, test your technique and color scheme on a poster board, making sure to paint it first with the base coat you plan to use so that you feel comfortable.

After you have determined your color scheme, choose a semigloss latex paint as your base coat. Although this will lend the least amount of color to the room, the semigloss will create dimension and perspective once the light hits it. Use a paint brush to cut in and a roller to cover the entire surface with your base coat.

Choose a satin finish latex paint for your second color. Put the roller and paint brush away and get out your feather duster. Pour a minimal amount of paint into a paper plate because you won't need much.

Always use "V" or "W" strokes up and down the wall in a random fashion, rather than painting in strips or panels.

When your second coat is dry, you're ready to finish with your darkest color, which should be a flat latex paint. It will be the least amount of paint used and will tone down the previous layers. Use the same feather dusting technique in the second step, using a fresh paper plate and new duster.

"After you're finished, you should be amazed at how much dimension you have added to a small space using color, texture and your creativity," says McCann.

Home Tips

DRY SOAP POWDER — I store dry washing powder in a large liquid soap container. The powder stays dry, pours easily and goes to the laundromat without spilling, as boxes sometimes do. A funnel from a large soda container fills the liquid soap container easily. Lizzie R., Basking Ridge, N.J.

FAT SKIMMING — Recently, I cooked beef ribs to make stew. They had been trimmed well, but there was still too much fat. In a hurry, I sat the pot in the sink with cold water to set the fat, so I could skim it off. Soon the sink water was tepid, so I decided to put ice cubes into the water.

I accidentally dropped a cube into the beef and it coated with fat immediately. I discarded the fat from that cube and put in about six at a time and discarded the fat the same way.

It was one of my better accidents. Renee B., St. Charles, Mo.

At this time of year, there's a chill in the air. An afternoon spent raking leaves or clearing the garden, leaves you with pink cheeks and a deep down yearning for a quiet evening at home. You can picture it. You're curled up on the sofa, hot tea on the end table, a soft fleece throw over your feet. The picture isn't complete, though, without a fire crackling in the fireplace. It's the most important part, what you've really been looking forward to — one of the things that makes a cold Michigan day appealing.

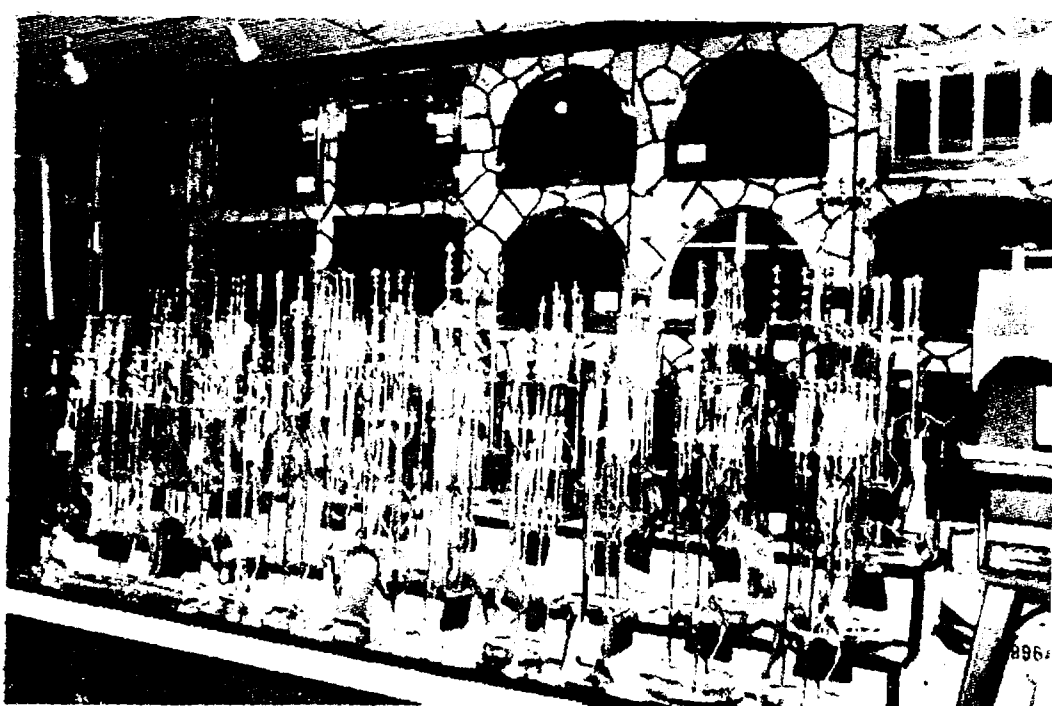

Did you think it was going to be a lot of work? Think again. Visit Michigan Fireplace and Barbecue, 2908 East Long Lake Road, Troy, and see how easy it is to convert your wood-burning fireplace to gas with gas log sets that are virtually indistinguishable from wood. There are a number of compelling reasons why gas logs are so popular. At the top of the list is the fact that gas log generated heat is up to 45% efficient, compared to wood which hovers around 23%. Gas logs are not expensive to maintain, the average gas fire costing only 25-35 cents per hour to operate.

The Surefire Triple-Burner Gas Log System feels as good as it looks. Three burners make for a fire that burns reliably for up to six hours at a time. At bedtime, simply turn down the valve which is hidden by the pinecones on the right. The valve can also be connected to a conventional wall switch.

They produce a "cleaner" fire since there is no smoke or soot residue. Those with allergies or asthma will find that gas log fireplaces are easy to live with. The design of the logs, complete with imperfections and a more natural, random composition, makes for a fire which burns efficiently and realistically, without creating a mess. Many customers at Michigan Fireplace are incredulous when they hear that the showroom displays are composed of gas logs. Manufacturers have made tremendous improvements in appearances, in the last five years. Probably the biggest draw is the convenience factor. Just open the valve, hidden among the gravel and pinecones, and voila! Instant fire. No more hauling wood from a frigid woodpile or coaxing a temperamental wood fire to life. Instead of you doing the work, you can sit back and let your fireplace work for you.

Michigan Fireplace carries both single-burner and triple-burner gas logs. The Triple-Burner System by Surefire is the only vented set that creates fires with smoldering embers which glow beneath the grate. A burner pan on the bottom holds the embers and sand, which helps to produce a yellow flame. There is a middle burner for the coals, which sits below the logs. A third burner hides behind the logs. One of the benefits of a triple log system is that as the fire burns, the glow of the coals and embers intensifies. In addition, triple burners produce 60% more heat than conventional single burner systems. And at any time you want, you can decrease the fire's intensity by turning down the valve. It's as easy as adjusting the heat on your stove. The valve can even be connected to a wall switch.

Conversion to either single- or triple-burner gas log system is simple. Michigan Fireplace can make a gas line connection to your existing water heater or furnace, and bring it into the fireplace. Then the grate cradling the logs is put in place. Gravel and decorative accessories like chunks of wood or pine cones complete the look.

A Complete Fireplace Store

Michigan Fireplace sells a full line of products, including fireplaces by Majestic and custom doors by Fireplace Door Manufacturing Company. Since 20% of home energy loss is due to poorly fitted flue dampers, a custom-fitted fireplace door is a good way to keep out drafts in the winter and heat in the summer. Sparks stay in your fireplace where they belong, and tight fitting doors mean you can doze comfortably knowing that your fire is safely contained behind glass.

A TEC infra-red gas grill is the ultimate outdoor appliance for dedicated barbecue enthusiasts. Constructed of heavy gauge carbon steel, aluminized steel and/or stainless steel, it is built to last a lifetime.

This handsome custom oak mantel frames a single-burner gas log set. A toasty fire in the fireplace prompts us to slow down a bit. Suddenly you have time to read the entire Sunday paper.

With a custom door, you are guaranteed a perfect fit. Professionals will measure your existing fireplace first, eliminating mistakes born out of guesswork. The range of choices in custom doors assures a design to fit every decorating style.

Choose an iron door with Aztec embossing or copper with an antique victorian design. Doors can be square, arched or rounded, and there is even a bay window door with 24 kt. gold overlay. Michigan Fireplace carries a full line of the highest quality accessories. Solid brass andirons, log baskets, fans, fenders and bellows are available — and not just a couple of design choices, but numerous ones. There are over 60 solid brass tool sets on display, as well as a beautiful collection of fireplace screens. Catalogues are available if you don't see what you want in the showroom. As the manager put it, "We are a specialty store. We have everything for your fireplace, and if we don't have it, we can get it."

Winter Is a Great Time To Barbecue

While the logs are crackling in the fireplace, your dinner can be sizzling on the grill. Stainless steel barbecues are specially designed to be used year-round and Michigan Fireplace and Barbecue carries top quality products in this category. Two popular brands are Broilmaster and TEC.

Michigan Fireplace was recently designated "National Dealer of the Year" for 1997 by Broilmaster for outperforming over 1000 Broilmaster dealers nationwide. Broilmaster stainless steel gas grills are recognized by Consumer Digest as excellent performers, which is why they were awarded the magazine's respected "Best Buy" label. There are three grid levels for simultaneous cooking of different foods, a rotisserie, a degree calibrated built-in heat indicator, and a stainless steel twin bowtie burner. Broilmaster grills are an excellent choice if you are searching for a mid-priced grill with a solid reputation.

If the latest in grilling technology is what you're after, consider a TEC Infra-Red Gas Grill. Thermal Engineering Corporation holds the patent on infra-red heating technology, and its unparalleled design is the reason why many gourmet steak houses use a TEC gas grill. TEC grills heat up in two to three minutes, to an incredible 1600 degrees Fahrenheit. Steaks are seared almost immediately, leaving no time for flavor-packed juices to escape. Ceramic burners assure even heat distribution. On the coldest winter evening, a TEC Infra-Red fires up immediately, ready to grill your filets to perfection.

Don't let the winter chill numb you. Come to Michigan Fireplace and Barbecue for the most extensive collection. See how you can harness the power of fire and make it work for you.

Misconceptions about need and cost of renter's insurance

When a tornado slammed into Detroit last spring, many victims who rent apartments were shocked to find out that their landlords wouldn't pay for replacing their property. Like many other renters, they mistakenly believed that landlords are responsible for their tenants' belongings.

That misconception is one reason why it's estimated that only 41 percent of renters nationally have renter's insurance, according to the Insurance Information Institute.

"Every renter needs insurance," says Terri Miller, vice president of personal insurance with Citizens Insurance Company of America in Howell. "It's inexpensive, and if you don't have it, you could have to pay out-of-pocket to replace everything you own."

Before consumer electronics became popular, young people in their first apartment often owned a beanbag chair, a cheap stereo, some used furniture — and little else.

Today, insurance is more important because renters of all ages usually own a great deal — a color TV, a VCR, a CD player, perhaps a computer, a microwave, recreational equipment and expensive clothing. Replacing it all could easily exceed $10,000.

Renters face higher risks for fire and theft than home owners because they can't control the behavior of other tenants, Miller points out. "If your neighbor likes to smoke cigarettes in bed, there's not much you can do about it," she says. And, unlike many home owners, most apartment dwellers don't have alarm systems to deter burglars.

A renter's policy covers your property for fire, theft, vandalism or windstorm — no matter where it's located. For instance, it would cover you if someone stole your camera from your car.

Miller recommends buying a replacement-cost policy, which pays for the cost of replacing your belongings, instead of the old-style policy, which pays "actual cash value." With a replacement-cost policy, if your 5-year-old television is stolen, the insurer will pay for a brand new one (after you meet your deductible). With an actual-cash-value policy, you'd get what your used TV is worth today — usually a fraction of the replacement cost if it's a few years old. A replacement-cost policy costs a small amount more than the older-type policy.

Additionally, a renter's policy provides $100,000 of personal liability insurance, with up to $500,000 available. This is valuable protection in case you're sued. If, for example, your dog bites and injures a child, you could be hit with a big lawsuit.

Prices for renter's policies vary depending on how much property insurance you choose ($10,000 is the minimum) and where you live. In Michigan, the most basic $10,000 policy with a standard $250 deductible can cost as little as about $40 a year. More coverage costs only a little more.

In Lansing, for example,

The Hearthside

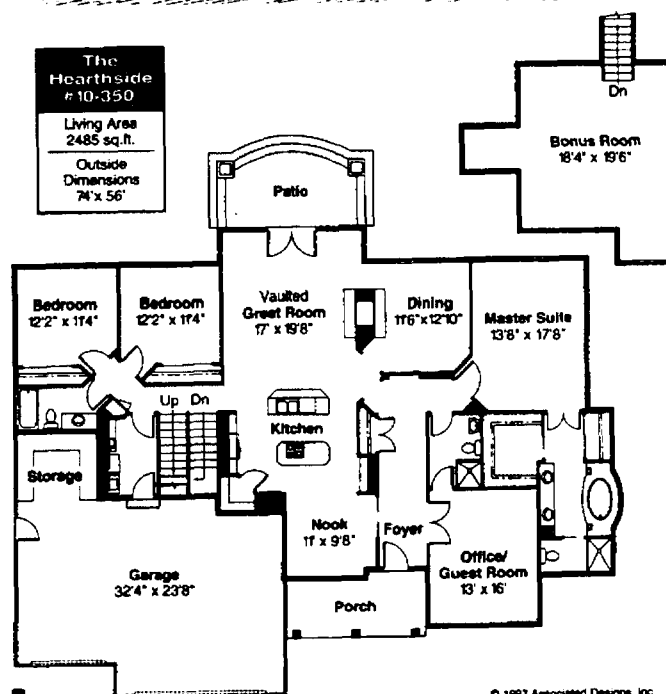

Solid, warm and substantial, brick is in, and the Hearthside glories in it. A full coat of bricks covers its entire exterior. Columns, keystone arches and corner quoins add to the dignified appearance.

But the floor plan is far from stuffy. Family living areas dominate, with a swath of informal rooms cutting right down the center. The 18-foot ceiling in the foyer carries over into the street-facing, richly windowed eating nook.

A plant shelf that overlooks the passageway wraps around to the front, while another plant shelf marks the juncture of kitchen and great room. Potted plants flourish on these bright shelves, producing cascades of green foliage.

In the kitchen, two islands house a cooktop, sink, dishwasher and eating bar. From the sink, you can gaze into the vaulted great room and enjoy the vista beyond. Windows fill most of the rear wall, naturally illuminating the space. On gray days, the two-sided fireplace offers cheerful flames and warmth.

The front-facing study could be outfitted as a living room or guest room. A bathroom there is accessible from within, and from the hallway. Master suite and dining room both have classic coffered ceilings. In the master bathroom, a curved glass block wall next to the spa tub rounds out the space. Other features include: dual vanity, large walk-in closets, and separately enclosed shower and toilet.

Secondary bedrooms are in the Hearthside's opposite wing, as are steps leading up to a bonus room and down to the basement. A pass-through utility room connects the house to a roomy three-car garage with added space for a shop.

GP Market Trends

The Grosse Pointe Real Estate market remains a strong Sellers' market with limited inventory compared to the healthy demand. Traditionally, homeowners who are looking to sell their existing home to buy another are primarily concerned with making sure that the existing home is sold and closed prior to closing on the new home. They don't want two houses and two mortgage payments. Over the past two years, however, the primary concern has shifted toward ensuring that an adequate replacement home is secured. People are still afraid of selling too quickly and having no place to go. As a result, there is a significant backlog of frustrated buyers. These buyers and their REALTORS are sleeping with their track shoes on, so that when the right house does hit the market, they can be the first in with an offer. They won't settle for just any home, but when the right one hits... one that has been prepared and packaged properly... watch out!

As you can see from the table... sales activity is up slightly while the number of homes available for sale has dropped. Marketing times have shortened and Sales Price to List Price Ratios have gone up as more buyers compete with stronger offers for the few available good homes. Home values are rising as can be seen in the change in Average Price Per Square Foot. (Price per square foot varies dramatically from one neighborhood to the next... ask your REALTOR for a relevant number for your home.) Based on the number of homes currently available and the average sales per month, we presently have just a 66 day supply of homes listed. This doesn't mean that a seller can put any home on the market and sell it without thought for 97% of their asking price in 66 days. If they are not packaged, priced and promoted properly, many homes stay on the market for six months or more, don't ever sell, or perhaps sell for much less than they should.

Opportunities: Smart clients are taking advantage of this market by hiring sharp REALTORS who leverage their knowledge to sell higher and buy lower. Sellers benefit from working with a REALTOR... who prepares, packages, prices and promotes each home in a way that creates focused competition among buyers. This makes a significant difference (several thousand dollars—more than the expense of the fee) in the sales price of the home. For buyers, the right professional can effortlessly guide them through the process of finding and acquiring the right home at a price that makes sense. A REALTOR that understands the market will assure that a buyer doesn't pay more than she needs to for her home.

The REALTORS at Century 21 Associates know the Grosse Pointes and are constantly trained to use that knowledge to help their clients. If you are planning to buy or sell, call on your Grosse Pointe Century 21 Associates professional to see what he or she can do for you.

TIP: In about three-quarters of all home burglaries, the burglar enters through a door, and most of those doors are unlocked.

Q. I have an old 7.5-inch silver fork with two tines that point out. It is useless to stab pickles or olives. I was told it is actually a baked potato fork. How was it used?

A. Victorian dinner parties were more elaborate than some of our state dinners. There were about 12 courses. Each course had special utensils for serving and eating. A complete silver tableware set for 12 could have as many as 1,900 different pieces.

There was an asparagus fork, an ice cream fork, a pickle fork, a lemon fork and many more, including a baked potato fork.

Your fork was used to puncture the potato and place it on a dinner plate. Some experts call it a "sandwich fork," although how it might have been used to serve a sandwich is a mystery.

Eating out in Victorian times was an important social event. Those who had been brought up with "old money" and experience at large parties knew the correct fork to use. If you didn't know the proper silver piece to use, it indicated that you were not well-bred.

Today a fashionable table might be set with some of the odd serving pieces, but it is considered clever to use the server any way that works. A sugar sifter could be used for grated cheese, for example, or an asparagus server for small rounds of pizza bread.

A pair of sterling silver baked potato forks sold recently for $225.

Tip: Moving can be a collector's nightmare, but you can use some common items to protect your fragile pieces. Rolls of paper that schools use to cover lunch tables are ideal for protecting plates and other items. Wrap the plates individually and then use paper plates to cushion them further. Put paper napkins between the cover of a teapot and the upside-down lid. Toilet-paper tubes and disposable diapers can protect other pieces.

Q. Are rhinestones clear stones made to resemble diamonds? I've heard people refer to colored gems as rhinestones. Who's right?

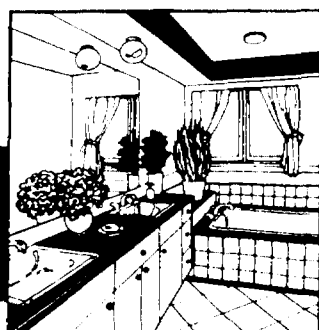

A. Most dictionaries define rhinestones as colorless stones made from glass, paste or gem quarts.

Collectors consider faceted-glass artificial gems of all colors to be rhinestones. Rhinestones come in every color, plus clear and black.

Track lighting helps to accent points of interest

One of the best ways to create a cheery environment is with appropriate direct and indirect lighting. Like other design considerations, light influences the emotional response of the people who are in the room. Look around the rooms in your home and check traffic patterns. Is a functional space too dimly lit? Is an area meant for relaxing too bright? Fixtures should provide needed light as well as enhance basic architectural and decorative elements in the room.

"Many people are looking to change their lighting. We are also finding more and more people who are looking at track lighting because it's versatile and relatively easy to install," says Scott Webb, an associate in the Home Depot electrical department.

Track lighting helps accent points of interest, such as artwork or sculptures. Mini tracks are available with 40-watt reflector bulbs to show off objects such as a small wall hanging or a curio shelf.

There are a variety of globe styles and finishes available in track lighting. The rounded-back globe, which resembles a softball in shape and size, is one of the most popular, says Webb. For a more contemporary look, you'll want to use the step cylinder, which is more tapered toward the back.

The energy-conscious home owner may want to look at low-voltage lighting, called the "gimbal ring" style, which is more expensive to purchase than the other models, but saves money in the long run.

Most fixtures are available in black, white and polished brass, although Webb says white is the most popular because it seems to fit into most surroundings.

If the do-it-yourselfer is familiar with the principles of electricity, track lighting is not difficult to install, particularly if an existing fixture is being replaced. Attaching the wires is easy if you know which colors to hook up to which.

If you are installing lighting in a new area, you must add an electrical box in the wall or ceiling and run cable to it.

Insurance

value policy; a similar replacement-cost policy costs $102 a year.

Some insurers offer discounts. Citizens, for instance, gives a 10 percent discount to nonsmokers and a 5 percent discount to customers who buy both renter's and auto insurance from it. The 5 percent discount applies to both the automobile and renter's policy — so the savings on auto insurance can sometimes offset the cost of renter's insurance.

"For a small price, renter's insurance gives you peace of mind and a financial safety net in case of a major loss," Miller says.

SEWING TIP — I like to sew and find this works well for me. I prefer to wash the fabric first so it is preshrunk. I take a little time to serge or zigzag the ends. That way, they don't ravel, so I save material. And at the cost of fabric, I find this is a major plus. Claudia O., Peyton, Colo.

DEFROST TIP — After grocery shopping, I always repackage the meat into zipper-type plastic freezer bags. I pound the hamburger meat out flat in the bags before freezing. The hamburger stays flat and is easy to store. It also thaws in one-fourth of the time it used to take. Karen B., Crossville, Tenn.

YOU WILL "FALL" IN LOVE with this handsome colonial on Mt. Vernon in the Farms. Its spacious interior is complemented by the gourmet Mutschler kitchen with Woodmode cabinets, beamed ceiling and SubZero refrigerator and the wonderful family room with recessed lighting and views of the low maintenance rear yard.

Upstairs, there are three bedrooms with uncompromised space and a fourth bedroom or study for an additional bonus room! The lower level has been divided into several useful rooms including a recreation room and laundry area. With over 2400 square feet, this is one of the best buys on the market!!!

MASTERPIECE OF PERFECTION...

Country French architecture designed and built by master craftsmen for those who appreciate and demand the very finest in quality, construction, design and taste. There is over 7000 square feet of gracious living on the first floor with an additional 3000 square feet of relaxed living on the lower level.

The gallery features Italian marble flooring. Windows are German leaded and beveled glass. The doors are solid black walnut with gold plated hardware. The kitchen and pantry are a Mutschler design done in pickled oak with pegged oak flooring. A cozy breakfast area is complemented by a fireplace. Hand carved fireplaces are featured in the living room, dining room, library and master bedroom. A detailed brochure will be offered upon request. By appointment only.

Let's Talk About Real Estate

"ROSE COLORED GLASSES"

Do you look at your present home through rose colored glasses? I hope you do if you are planning to live in it a long time. I don't advise it, however, if you are planning to sell your property. You must be able to see your house as a potential buyer will see it. This requires an honest evaluation of its strengths as well as its shortcomings. Here are some suggested things to consider:

ITS LOCATION

Although you may like the area in which you live, is this area a popular location with present and future homebuyers? Buyer demand drives home prices.

ITS FEATURES

Does your house have all the features a potential buyer would expect in your price range? If similar homes in your area have an eating area in the kitchen, and your home doesn't, this can have a material effect on your eventual selling price. There may be certain improvements that are expected such as central air conditioning and built in appliances in the kitchen.

ITS CONDITION

Is everything in good working order? If not, get it fixed. Does your home appear to be well cared for? As homeowners become more knowledgeable with the home selling process, competing properties are being made more attractive by aggressive sellers who want their home to sell before yours. Your property must be in good condition and look that way.

ITS DECOR

This is always a sensitive subject. You may decorate your home to suit your personal tastes and life-style. That is as it should be. After all, this is your home. When it goes up for sale, however, it becomes a product that must compete with other products. Be willing to consider some decor changes in order to make the sale.
