Library discusses expansion, possible new facility

By Bonnie Caprara
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe Public Library Board of Trustees is looking at building expansion and new construction options to accommodate increased usage and technology at its three branches.

The board discussed possibilities of expansion at the Woods and Central branches, complete reconstruction of the Central branch location, or the possibility of replacing the Central branch at a new location.

"We have a dire need. We need to have some incremental increases about what we're going to do about our library system," said board secretary Robert Klacza.

"If we did nothing, the audio/visual section is starting to push us out already," said library director Vickey Bloom. "Audio/visual is encroaching on the fiction area and a portion of our videos are now in the business room."

"New technology is enough to cover our needs at this time, but we can use more room as the popularity of the Internet increases. I see that growing."

"We have no meeting room space. We have one room upstairs that can accommodate about 15 people, but there is no elevator."

"Our story-time area is very small. We're now meeting on the second level."

"We can also use room just to sit and read. We need to offer some areas where people can read in comfort without a lot of noise." The board is looking to add a line item for capital development in its proposed 1999-2000 budget. The board estimates it can contribute about $250,000 to this new line item through anticipated increased tax revenue for the next fiscal year. "We're putting money into Antoinette "Toni" DiClemente, pictured with her husband Angelo, was recently honored by the Marshall Rotary Club at the Statewide Volunteer Leadership Award luncheon for her volunteer work. The lunch was held in honor of Michigan Week, which this year was May 14 - 22.

The Marshall Rotary has been sponsoring the award ceremony since 1979 as a way to honor those outstanding residents whose efforts make Michigan a pleasant and progressive state in which to live and work.

DiClemente was cited for her work with her church, the PTO, the Girl and Boy Scouts, as well as her work as a member of the Grosse Pointe Business and Professional Association, of which she has served as president for the past two years. She is also a member of the Soroptimist International of Grosse Pointe, which promotes the advancement of women, goodwill, peace and human rights.

WWII vets' legacies on Internet

Ameritech grant gives deal on computer classes

The amazing thing about World War II veterans is how casually they describe their experiences.

In a matter-of-fact fashion that doesn't beg for praise or victimhood, WWII vets tell their stories with a detachment that belies their accomplishments.

Ray Laenen of St. Clair

Shores finds humor in his story of being the victim of a Nazi torpedo attack. While bobbing around the Indian Ocean in an overcrowded life raft, Laenen's fear of dying was tempered by the irony of catching only one small fish during the entire 22-day odyssey.

Bomber pilot Jim Fielding described how gracefully Japanese Zero's peeled off to strafe his B-24 on raids over Truk lagoon in the Pacific.

"But when those guns went off," said Fielding, a resident of the Farms and veteran of nearly 50 missions with the Army Air Corps. "I said to myself, 'What the #%&! am I doing here!'"

In military parlance, WWII vets saw their duty and they did it, then beat it home as fast

Richner votes for unifying, easing CCW law

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

While Grosse Pointe representative in the Michigan House of Representatives Andrew Richner said he opposed the proliferation of handguns he has supported recent legislation that would unify the state's standards for issuing and carrying concealed weapons permits.

Several bills have recently gone before the state House and Senate. The aim of these bills is to make it easier for state residents to get concealed-weapon (CCW) permits. Under current law, permits are issued by a county board. Because there are 83 counties in the state, there are 83 different venues in which permits may be issued.

Richner said that it's much easier, for example, for a resident of Macomb County to get a CCW permit. But if you live in Wayne County, it's almost impossible for a resident to get a permit. House Bill 4530 would change that.

This bill would create one standard that would be applied equally throughout the state. And the criteria of how it was decided who would get a CCW permit would change. Under current law the applicant has to prove why he or she needs a permit.

The new standard would place the burden of proof on the licensing board. In short, those issuing licenses would have to be able to prove that the applicant did not deserve a CCW permit. This shift in the burden of proof is intended to increase the number of people with CCW permits.

"I do support uniformity in permit standards," said Richner. "But if it means more permits being issued, I would oppose that."

Richner said that the House and Senate bills have several differences that must be worked out before the governor can sign the bill into law. He was quick to point out that there are some significant concessions made in this legislation.

For example, said Richner,

State Rep. Andrew Richner

he got an amendment included in the House bill that would deny permits to anyone with a drunken driving conviction. He also supports provisions that create "no gun" zones. So even if someone had a CCW permit he or she would not be allowed to take guns onto the property of churches and schools.

Richner said that there is strong opposition in the Senate to his amendments that bar drunken drivers from having permits.

"I've heard from many in my district," Richner said. "For the most part, they have opposed the recent legislation, but I have also heard from some who support it. But before I have to vote on the final form of the bill, I will speak to all the law enforcement chiefs in my district to see if they have any concerns they want addressed."

Farms public safety director Robert Ferber said that the Wayne County Association of Police Chiefs opposes changing the CCW standards and that he serves on the organization's board of directors.

"We went to Lansing to testify about our opposition to changing the standards," Ferber said. "I went and testified. In my opinion there are too many guns on the streets causing too much heartache, too much suffering, too much property damage and too many injuries."

■ "The rippling of the waves on the seawall and the glint of the bright sunlight on far sails lent nature's gentle threnody and her own matchless lights and shadows to the solemn Memorial Day services on the lakefront side of the Alger House last Monday morning."

Nearly 300 people attended Grosse Pointe's first Memorial Day ceremony at the new War Memorial on Lakeshore "which will henceforth be the living expression of its timeless memory of the brave sons who gave their lives to our country in the last and greatest war in history."

■ The projected cost of operating the new Grosse Pointe inter-municipal police radio, which will be switched on June 15, will total approximately $30,550.

The cost, which includes many nonrecurring items involving set-up, breaks down as follows: Park, $11,000; Farms, $7,000; City, $5,000; Woods, $4,100; and Shores, $3,450.

■ The pension system, new police radio and higher debt were responsible for a tax hike in Grosse Pointe Woods. Rates increased 45 cents per thousand dollars of assessed valuation to 15.30 mills.

Enclosing 29,000-square-feet, the structure will contain four tennis courts and replace an old stucco structure to be demolished this week.

■ Two residents who own lakeside property at the foot of Lakeland in the City of Grosse Pointe asked city officials for permission to build a break-wall between their two properties. The proposed structure would cut off public access to an old boat ramp leading directly into Lake St. Clair.

The ramp was originally built to haul ice from the lake before the days of refrigeration. The council is expected to make a decision at next month's meeting.

■ The City of Grosse Pointe raised its taxes to the highest in the Pointes at 19.15 mills, a one mill increase over the year before.

Other rates in the community include the Farms at 17.25, the Park at 17.5, and the Woods at 9.98. The Shores is expected to pass its budget next week.

Service honors the Pointe's war dead

Few Pointers paused in their holiday recreation on Memorial Day long enough to remember that 122 young men from this community had given their lives in World War II. A scant crowd of 200-300 attended the services at Grosse Pointe's new War Memorial Center on Lakeshore Road. The gift of this magnificent property to the people of the Pointes makes it possible for the community to have one of the finest memorial centers in the country. (From the June 2, 1949 Grosse Pointe News.)

begin with the smallest of dreams.

Since 1914, The Junior League of Detroit, Inc. has had a single, impassioned dream -- to make the Detroit metropolitan area a better place to live. And as we look ahead, we know that investing in the hopes and dreams of children is one of the best ways to succeed.

We are a group of diverse women who believe that, together, we can make a difference. In the last 10 years alone, The Junior League has contributed over $2 million to the Detroit community. And, through our work as trained volunteers, we have had the very personal privilege of helping to change young lives.

Quality of education, especially for children from lower income families, has been a focus of The Junior League. We are currently sponsoring a class of 22 pre-K students at Cornerstone School's Nevada Campus in Detroit. In addition to donating $2,000 toward the tuition of each child and finding an additional $21,000 for enrichment, League members are pairing up with individual students to share special activities throughout the school year.

We hold the future in our hands -- and we can make a big difference by reaching out to the little ones. To join The Junior League of Detroit, call 313-881-0040 or visit our website at www.jldetroit.org -- and share in our dream.

"There is a place for every woman to make an impact within The Junior League. Our group thrives on diversity -- in fact, our 85-year legacy has been built on the skills and talents of women of all ages, backgrounds and walks of life." — Dianne Bostic Robinson, 1914-1999-2000

South student's car vandalized with racial epithets

By Bonnie Caprara
Staff Writer

Grosse Pointe Farms police are still investigating the vandalism of a Grosse Pointe South High School senior's car on Monday, May 24. DeJesus Totty discovered racial epitaphs etched and spray painted on his father's 1998 Cadillac Catera which was parked on Fisher Road between 8 a.m. and 2:15 p.m. DeJesus' parents, the Rev. Darryl and Anita Totty, said they will not let their son return to school or attend commencement and other senior end-of-the year activities.

"He's afraid," said Darryl Totty. "He's 6 feet, 2 inches and 275 pounds, but he's a kid." "The problem is not knowing who did this," said Anita Totty. "That's scary." "We're working with his counselor so he can get his assignments turned in so he can graduate," said Darryl Totty.

The Tottys have a daughter, Krizia, 13, a seventh-grader at Pierce, who is still attending class.

"What happened is very disturbing to our students and staff," said South principal Art Miller. "I'm saddened and shocked this happened to him and his family. We're willing to accommodate him and do what we can do to bring this to a resolution." According to administrators, staff and students at South, DeJesus is a good student and well-liked.

"He has no enemies," said DeJesus' counselor Maragret Carnaghi. "He was on the football team, he has a great sense of humor and everyone likes him."

Crimestoppers is offering a $1,000 reward and South is offering a $250 reward for the apprehension of the vandals. The Rev. Totty has offered to match the rewards.

South students, community gather in candlelight vigil

By Bonnie Caprara
Staff Writer

About 75 students, community members and church leaders gathered on the front lawn of Grosse Pointe South High School on Monday, May 31 to hold a candlelight vigil in support of DeJesus Totty.

DeJesus, a senior at South, had his father's 1998 Cadillac Catera he took to school vandalized on Monday, May 24. The car was defaced with etchings and spray painting of racial epithets while it was parked outside of the school on Fisher Road.

The vigil was organized by several South students and other students involved in church groups in the area. It was not sanctioned by the school.

"It came from kids calling and asking 'What can I do?'" said the Rev. Karen Shipley, pastor of Grosse Pointe United Methodist Church.

"We're here for two reasons," said Shipley. "One, for support for DeJesus. Two, it's an opportunity for the youth to come together to say the community is not like this."

The students led their classmates and adults in prayer and song during the evening vigil. They also brought supplies for people to contribute their best wishes in a notebook of support for DeJesus.

"We are here because this is wrong and we want it to change," said South sophomore Shawn Fraser during a prayer address to the crowd. "We are here to show that DeJesus is not alone and we want him back."

DeJesus' parents, the Rev. Darryl and Anita Totty, were present for the vigil. DeJesus did not attend.

"You are the victims," the Rev. Totty said to the crowd, specifically addressing the students. "I challenge you to challenge your parents about racism. By being here you are willing to break the cycle."

as possible to get on with their lives.

They spent years serving all over the world without the prospect of reprieve, except with victory. In the Second World War, soldiers and sailors served until wounded, killed or they won.

Many of the stories that shaped the generation are being lost. Of America's 16 million veterans of World War II, 31,000 are dying each month.

With age depleting their ranks, who will preserve their legacy?

Laenen's story of survival has been included in a new computer web site that honors him and others like him. The web site was developed by Ameritech and SeniorNet, a company that teaches older adults computer skills.

The site links, according to Ameritech Michigan President Bob Cooper, "two generations — those who lived in the 20th century and those who will build on their legacy."

Essentially an online memorial, the Ameritech World War II Living Memorial Web site will help "future generations learn about the men, women and events of this era, that, until now, they could only read about in history books," said Cooper, a Vietnam veteran whose brother served on a battleship during WWII.

The web site was one of three Memorial Day-related tributes totaling more than $1.1 million Cooper announced last week in a ceremony attended by local veterans at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

"This is exciting, unique," said Mark Weber, president of the War Memorial. "It's one of the best uses of technology we've seen."

On the Internet, people can read how Laenen, then 18, swam to a lifeboat after a nighttime torpedo attack sank his Liberty Ship. He feared being shot as Nazi submarine U-A62 sailed through debris from the sunken vessel, scanning the ocean with a searchlight.

Ameritech recently teamed up with SeniorNet to create the American World War II Living Memorial Web site. By posting the stories of America's WWII vets on the Internet, Ameritech has dedicated a virtual monument to the accomplishments of U.S. soldiers, sailors and airmen. Among those attending the launch of the new web site, Bob Bury, above, resident of the Farms and Ameritech manager is joined by Mark Weber, president of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial; Bob Cooper, president of Ameritech; Ray Laenen, a WWII veteran from St. Clair Shores whose story of shipwreck and survival is posted on the Internet; and Keith Jones, president of the Martin Luther King High School student council. Jones and Laenen worked together to post Laenen's story on the web.

To help seniors access the web, Ameritech has donated funds to provided veterans discounted tuition for the War Memorial's computer and Internet classes.

"Through these classes, veterans will learn how to surf the Net," said Cooper, "so they can add their personal war stories to Ray Laenen's."

B-24 pilot Fielding said, "If this Internet program does anything to increase the level of patriotism, it'll pay for itself a thousand times over."

Joe Trowern, a veteran of Patton's 3rd Army and resident of the Park, added, "I admire the initiative of Ameritech to start this. If somebody didn't get this (web site) running, (the stories) would be forgotten."

In another nationwide program, Ameritech has also donated money toward a WWII monument on the Mall in Washington, D.C.

"It will be a lasting memorial to the men, women and events of WWII, which is unparalleled in American history," said Cooper.

"We're very proud to have this program," added Weber. It is indicative of the mission of the War Memorial.

Laenen is thankful for the opportunity to preserve his story on the Internet.

"I've been so blessed to survive and live 54 more years of a wonderful life," said Laenen. "I thank God each morning."

Cooper said, "I want to dispel the belief of some seniors that the computer age has passed them by. I hope seniors will give (the Internet) a try."

Oops! Park doesn't quite get City budget figures right

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Figures recently released by the Grosse Pointe Park city administration comparing per household and per capita taxes among the Pointes turned out not to be as accurate as they should have been, much to the chagrin of Park officials.

The comparison was released to the public during the first phase of the Park's budget hearings on Monday, May 24. The figures released by the Park showed City of Grosse Pointe residents paying $1,976 in per household property taxes and $867 in per capita taxes for a total of $4.9 million in property taxes.

Unfortunately, these figures were inaccurate. The City actually collected about $3.6 million in property taxes for the most recent fiscal year. That means the actual per capita tax of $636 and a per household rate of $1,450. These figures amount to a $230 difference in per capita and a $525 difference in per household rates.

Park city manager Dale Krajniak said that got the wrong figures for the City's 1998-1999 SEV collections. He said that in fact the City's total property tax collection for that year was the lowest in the Pointes. The Park collected about $6 million, the Farms $7 million and the Woods $8 million.

City mayor Susan Wheeler said that before such figures are released in print, more care should be taken to make sure that they are accurate. She also said that each of the Pointes practice fiscal restraint and are well-run cities and the need to prove that each Pointe somehow has the lowest tax rate is counter-productive.

Krajniak agreed with Wheeler and said each city has different populations, size and demographics. This results in different needs, but each city is run well and in a financially prudent fashion.

the budget to take it to the next level," said board treasurer James Fausone.

The board estimates if it were to construct a 55,000 to 60,000 square foot facility at the current Central branch site or at a new location, the cost would be $9 million to $12 million based on current construction costs.

Board president John Bruce said the library has several funding options to consider.

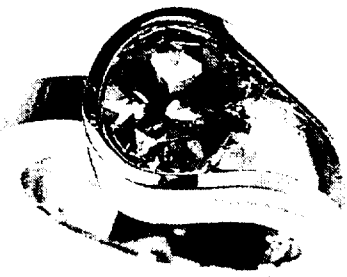

"We have the authority to assess up to 1.7 mills to purchase bonds which will give us in excess of $1 million per year or we have the possibility to go to the public to purchase bonds," said Bruce.

Voters turned down two previous bond requests for library capital development funding in 1987 and 1991.

Does lottery do anything for the losers?

Once again the Bureau of State Lottery is bragging about achieving another record year in fiscal 1998 in total ticket sales, retailer commissions, prizes to players and net revenue to education.

For those of us who dislike the lottery almost as much as we dislike casinos that are soon to open in Detroit, the dollar figures that the lottery alone reported are staggering.

Ticket sales were $1.64 billion; retailer commissions, $114 million; prizes to players, $892 million; and net revenue to education, $616 million.

Opinion

Quoting an International Gaming & Wagering business annual lottery study, this is what the handout said:

"Effectiveness and efficiency are often conflicting goals, and as a result lotteries which perform well by both types of measures are rare.

"In fiscal 1998, only Maryland, Michigan, New York and Ohio made the top 10 on all lists."

Don Gilmer, lottery commissioner, in his introduction to his annual report, says he thinks it "is a good reflection of a true team effort by lottery staff and retailers."

However, there was no attempt to measure the number of lottery users who have become addicts, the number of families who have lost property through their addiction, the number of families that have broken up through excessive playing of lotteries, and the other substantial losses families have felt.

Like the Detroit casinos, the lottery plays up its earnings without attempting in any way to measure the losses suffered through addiction and other excessive playing.

Worst of all, the booklet claims that the "buying power of Michigan Lottery winners is also a considerable factor in the state's economy."

The booklet emphasizes that "winners invest their millions of dollars in windfalls back in Michigan, spreading the wealth among their families and making dream purchases."

The lottery sales pitch concludes that "year after year, the Michigan lottery continues to be a smart bet for state business."

Our view is that year after year, the lottery penalizes Michiganders who waste their earnings in the lottery, even though some of the earnings go to public schools.

But does the lottery contribute any funds to help addicts break their habits, which cost so many Michigan families so much?

Not that we have heard.

Fly in Mack/Moross ointment

Some weeks ago in an editorial we asked whether a recreation center at Mack/Moross was a done deal.

Since then, including in a six page chronology of the Mack/Moross saga by Farms City Manager Richard Solak, we were assured that was not the case.

What we and residents were told was, "It has always been the position of the council that any future use of the property must be determined after careful, thoughtful and informed deliberation, including public input."

But since September 1997, the one and only use being considered for the Mack/Moross property has been a public community center. In fact, at that time the council rezoned the prime property from commercial to community service — i.e., tax-exempt property.

Originally, the council appointed an Economic Development Task Force "to identify and recommend the highest and best use(s) for the property consistent with the overall public interest."

But the task force, working with a local architect, only came back with three site plans: community senior housing, public library and community recreation center.

What's missing in this picture? Any suggestion of commercial, non-public, non-taxpayer-supported uses. Why? Perhaps the task force was directed to only consider taxpayer-supported options. But it seems to us that "public supported" and "Economic Development Task Force" are oxymorons.

Remember, the Farms' reason for spending $3.7 million to purchase the commercial property at Mack/Moross was to eliminate the high crime attracted by the discount retailers and deterioration at the corner.

But it appears now that the council never once considered putting the property back on the tax rolls. In effect, the taxpayers will forever lose property tax revenue from one of the most heavily traveled prime commercial real estate corners in Grosse Pointe.

And while the Farms says a community center at Mack/Moross is only being considered (at a cost of $90,150 in studies), Solak writes, "Council is committed to evaluating alternative competing public uses for this property by following a businesslike approach. The council recognizes that any eventual use(s) of Mack/Moross must meet a desired, publicly supported need and be economically feasible."

It seems to us that "publicly (taxpayer) supported" is not "economically feasible" and that failure to consider uses for Mack/Moross that will return the property to the tax rolls is hardly "businesslike."

Letters

Open letters to Farms officials regarding Mack/Moross Senior housing needed

Dear Mayor Danaher:

I have read articles in the Grosse Pointe News regarding council discussions to determine the best use of the property at Mack and Moross. While several uses of this land have been discussed, the current focus seems to be on a recreation facility. It appears that some residents question this use and they believe there should be further evaluation of the various options.

Of course, everyone realizes that the city has limited land for development and that the council knows it is imperative that a decision reflect the proper long-term use of this valuable property. We are aware that the population of Grosse Pointe continues to age and that, unfortunately, there is currently no senior housing available within the community.

You might be interested to know that the St. John Senior Community Board of Trustees retained a specialized consultant almost two years ago to survey the need for senior apartments with assisted living support available. Our survey clearly showed a need for such apartments, whenever it is financially feasible to build them.

If it would be of assistance to the council, our board would consider sharing the results with the council and with the community. Should the council determine that it would be appropriate to review the issues of older adults and their need for attractive housing in their own community as they reach the point when they are no longer able to care for their homes, such a survey should be quite valuable in your deliberations and decision.

I understand that the St. John Health System has previously expressed interest in providing assistance to the council on this subject. If it would be helpful to the council at this time, St. John Health System representatives and I would be happy to participate in discussions of senior housing needs in Grosse Pointe.

Evaluate more options

Dear Mr. Solak, City Manager:

Your letter of May 17 (mailed to all Farms residents) was an entirely unsatisfactory explanation of the proposed use of the property at Mack and Moross. By its format and length, it appears that you didn't want it read.

Also, why didn't the mayor and councilmembers sign it? Is it because some of them have to stand for re-election this fall? Much emphasis is put on the role of the Economic Development Task Force. Who are the members of it, and why weren't they named?

If as much money, time and effort had been spent on studies for alternate uses, as has been spent on trying to justify a recreation center, Grosse Pointe Farms taxpayers would be better able to evaluate the options. And they are the ones who have to pay for it. There is no evidence of the other Pointes supporting a recreation center. Why has the Farms gone as far as it has without that?

Senior housing has been given insufficient attention. Using the Mack-Moross property for municipal purposes wasn't studied. No mention was made of being able to use the property vacated for some type of senior housing, or for homes for Farms residents who want to downsize.

I am disappointed with the approach taken regarding a matter so important to Grosse Pointe Farms taxpayers. Before an intelligent decision can be made, all alternatives need to be presented.

John K. Roney
Grosse Pointe Farms

Needs further investigation

Dear Mayor Danaher and Council:

Of 127 municipalities ranked for services received for the average homeowner's taxes, Grosse Pointe Farms was seventh from the bottom, according to a Detroit News survey of May 23. While I think our quality of life, municipal services and safety are good in the Farms, I note that only three municipalities have a higher average residential tax bill (earning them the three worst rankings).

Spending more taxpayer money on surveys and studies to promote a recreational-sports complex at the Mack-Moross corner seems totally against the best interests of the Farms taxpayers. I have not talked to anyone in any of the Pointes who would use such a facility, or who thinks we even need one. We have available the municipal parks, Neighborhood Club, school facilities and various private clubs — all conveniently located.

With an Economic Development Task Force in place, I think they should investigate the pros and cons of various potential uses of the Mack-Moross property, including the consequences to our taxpayers of its development either off the tax rolls or back on the tax rolls via private development.

Brits warn U.S. of inflation

Americans, accustomed to the optimistic tone of the American news media when discussing the future of the U.S. economy, would be well served if they read the opening piece in the May 22 issue of The Economist of London.

It warned that the Federal Reserve's recent action (or inaction) that held shares steady was a risky lack of action because "if the beast of inflation escapes, the increase in interest rates needed to recapture it will have to be bigger."

The Economist editorial further warned that while inflation until now has remained remarkably subdued, the rate of growth of wages has been declining. But, it said, there were other reasons "why the central bank should have been more on its guard than usual."

"The pace of growth of real domestic demand — 7 percent at an annual rate in the first quarter — was much too fast for comfort."

"And the labor market seems dangerously tight. If unemployment continues to fall, wages will certainly accelerate. The only question is when."

The Economist's worry is that the recent fall in U.S. inflation over the past two years has been caused notably by lower oil and commodity prices, and a strong dollar.

Furthermore, it argues that while America has seen real economic improvements, the story is that these gains have combined with a lax monetary policy to encourage speculative excesses.

And then it adds, "several signs of frothiness have emerged." It cites the level of share prices, the stock market boom that is spilling over into other assets, and a surge in borrowing by firms and households. . .

Furthermore, in the Economist's opinion, "America's recent economic gains have been over-hyped. Had the Fed acted earlier to let some air out of Wall Street's bubble, America's economy might not now be looking so "dangerously unbalanced," the magazine said.

"These look like the classic symptoms of an overheating economy. . . (T)his is not the time to go soft on the real menace — inflation."

We don't know whether The Economist is right or not, but its warning about inflation is one that Americans ought to be concerned about.

Yet it is also true that The Economist, like other English experts, tends to look with suspicion at all things American, especially when they are going so much better than the British at this time.

One way for Tigers to go: Up

After last week's record 10-run seventh by Cleveland, it would appear that the Tigers have just one way to go this season — and that is up.

The Tigers have fallen into a habit of losing one after winning one, which doesn't lead them anywhere so far as picking up ground on leading Cleveland.

Sunday was another occasion in which the Tigers blew a game after leading 6-1. This time it was another loss by the pitchers who again couldn't hang on to a lead.

And once again homers played a big role in the defeat. It is becoming a habit with the Tigers to blow a big lead in the late innings when relievers seem to find only the center of the plate for the opposition.

True, the Tigers have a couple of pitchers who know where to put the ball most of the time, but overall the Tigers lack consistency both on the pitcher's mound and at the plate.

At the moment, we'd be satisfied with a .500 percentage this season, but that prediction probably reflects over-optimism.

Yet the Tigers are ready for a mid-season rally that could make that .500 percentage mark not too distant to be achieved.

After all, hope never dies in the heart of the true baseball fan.

Greatest lie of the millennium

"Your call is important to us, please hold."

So, how does that statement — the greatest lie of the millennium — make you feel?

"Angry, damn angry," my friend Bill said.

That lie carries a very heavy message to each of us, a message, a warning really, that is dangerous to America. What it really is saying is: YOU HAVE NO VALUE TO US. GIVE US YOUR MONEY. GO AWAY!

For years, I accepted this insulting lie as no big deal, as just the way business is; it's not personal, I thought. Well, it is a big deal; it is personal, and if this indifference and abusive treatment isn't addressed soon, there's going to be terrible turmoil in America.

Every time I hear about someone shooting someone or taking hostage, or a violent rampage at work, I can't help but think that the gunman or woman heard one time too many, "Your call is important to us" and, as we all are, that person was ignored.

That's not meant to be humorous; I'm very serious. Think about it. Think about how you are affected as an individual and us as a society.

What is happening is with this dehumanizing deception you and I are being devalued as human beings. The lie that our call is important is then compounded by indifference. Insult added to injury.

History has taught us that when people are devalued and suppressed, they rebel. When humans are pushed too far, abused too much, they fight back. It is the law of universe. It is the human spirit.

We are being held hostage by the continued demeaning, insulting, abusive treatment of utility companies, airlines, banks, electric companies, insurance companies, government, and just about all of big business.

We are being held hostage because we do not have a choice. In fact everything

I'm afraid, I get angry. The anger leads to more frustration, more resentment, which makes me want to fight back — and I hate conflict.

"What really infuriates me," my friend Bill said, "is while these companies in their greed disregard me when I need service, they have people calling me every evening trying to sell me more. If they cared, which they don't, they'd use those people and those dollars to service my problem, which most of the time is created by the companies."

Bill left off sputtering, "I'm mad as hell . . ." and I'm not going to take this anymore. I finished the famous line from the movie, "NETWORK." A 1970s movie, "NETWORK" showed how big business dehumanized society for the God of big business: "greed."

"Jerry, you're a spiritual man, how do we get these companies to care about us?" Or, "how do we get revenge in a spiritual way?" We laughed, but we were still angry.

Alone, I cannot figure out how to make big business care. I believe together we can. Tell me your ideas on how to fight this abuse. Get your family, your neighbors, strangers involved. E-mail or write and we will find a way.

For the record, I am a supporter of big business and an even bigger supporter of better service from big business. Better service with no excuses.

"I'm mad as hell and I'm not gonna take this anymore!" It's a perfect battle cry for today's embattled — you and me.

From the Sixties to the Millennium

The recent school shootings will be focusing our attention on the problem for a long time to come. From February 1996 to May 1999, just over three years, seven school shootings have taken place.

The series started in Moses Lake, Wash., and then went to Pearl, Miss.; West Padukah, Ky.; Jonesboro, Ark.; Springfield, Ore.; Littleton, Colo.; and Conyers, Ga. There were nine teenage perpetrators in all, 25 students and three teachers killed, and 72 wounded. Another massacre was recently prevented in Port Huron.

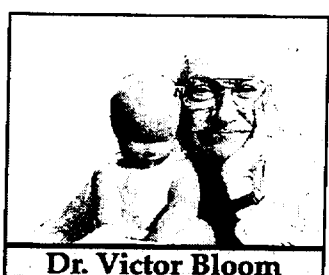

The statistics could be made to look like we are in a war. Every such battle means we are losing a war, one which threatens to undermine our way of life — that is, unless we correctly diagnose the problem and prescribe a means of prevention.

There has been ample discussion of the influence of the media, including violent movies and video games, ugly lyrics in popular music, and the availability of weapons and materials of mass destruction. Information about guns and bombs is easily available on the Internet.

Nowadays there is a relative lack of parental supervision and control. For disturbed adolescents, there is a relative unavailability of adequately trained and experienced mental health personnel.

Many think that abortion-on-demand is a corrosive influence on our attitudes toward life.

The Sixties were a time of rampant anti-authoritarianism. For example, one of the Chicago Seven wrote a best-selling book on how to steal. They extolled the use of illegal drugs, took off their clothes, burned their bras and brought sex to the town square. The famous rock-opera, "Hair," prophesied a "New Age," the Age of Aquarius, in which peace and friendliness would reign in a world softened by marijuana and heightened by LSD. A Harvard professor led the claim to an expanded consciousness, supposedly to escape from the real world to a better world within.

The legacy of the Sixties is still with us: alcohol and other drugs, parental ineffectiveness, recreational and irresponsible sex, outrageous music, anti-authoritarianism and flaunting disobedience of the law.

Police were called "pigs" and "fuzz," while no respect was given to their hard, dangerous and necessary work. Many teenagers became chronic law-breakers, easily accessing marijuana and illegal alcohol. Their sheer numbers were impossible to control and they knew it.

What was lost was a sense of doing the right thing, of not doing the wrong thing. And on top of that was a "party" attitude with no remorse or guilt. Peer pressure was applied against the good students. They were ridiculed as eggheads and bookworms, straight, square, goody-two-shoes.

Religious sermons and parental lectures had little influence, while media "entertainment" inflamed unruly behavior. School kids became like Mafia members, never "ratting," tattling or reporting illegal or dangerous behavior of peers. The adults, parents, teachers and police, were the enemy. Many teenagers preferred to invent their own society, since supposedly ours was hopelessly contaminated by lies and corruption.

Most teenagers are peaceful, friendly and cooperative. They don't want to be associated with the killers; they don't want to be responsible for initiating painful investigations; they don't want to be at risk; they don't want to be bothered. Denial and avoidance are prevalent defense mechanisms.

Our high school students are consciously and unconsciously aware that standards of behavior have fallen, and they have been raised in an atmosphere of permissiveness and indulgence.

Increasingly the media encourage action — talk shows have become fight shows, most sports have become more physically aggressive, verbal slurs and insults have become more prevalent. The whole idea of civility, of restraint and containment, is undermined in a significant subculture.

Where once a depressed teenager committed suicide, now those suicidally inclined seek to go out with a bang, expressing murderous rage both internally and externally. The slogans of the business world say, "Just Do It!" and "Go 4 It!" Action is preferred to thought and reflection. Introspection is all too rare.

Political, professional, business, media, educational and religious leaders must help push the pendulum back the other way. Mental health professionals must educate the public to the dangers of not raising children with adequate guidance, control and supervision. It is a worthy goal to teach youngsters to value the accumulated wisdom of Western civilization, rather than the latest mischief or trend of the peer group.

Children need to be taught how to wait, and think, and think again, before acting.

The simple-but-difficult process of delay and postponement should be taught from early childhood on. It is hard to understand why any parent has abandoned this age-old wisdom.

Hardware is historic

You might expect the window of a hardware store to feature things like the latest ultrasonic pest control system or cordless electric drill, but P o i n t e Hardware & Lumber has a different idea.

There, at the store on Kercheval in the Park, bypassers are treated to a display that includes a wooden Bissell's hand-pushed carpet sweeper, a blue Radio scooter with solid rubber tires, a General Electric space heater with round copper reflector, a galvanized "Soap Saver" washboard, a Brownie Hawkeye camera with flash attachment, a cardboard box of Edison Mazda "Christmas Decorative Lamps," a tin wind-up "Roll-over Pluto" dog, a card of Mendets pot repair washers and a set of steel ice tongs.

Then there's a wooden Yankee Clipper sled, an Arcade Crystal hand-cranked coffee grinder, a see-through glass mailbox, a Laurel furnace draft check lever, a hanging grain scale, a one-handed squeeze-type egg beater, four glass bottles for dairy cream and a "Judy's Deluxe Farm" wood and cardboard toy farm set with barn, silo, corn crib, farm house, windmill and chicken coop.

The real surprise is inside the store, where everything is up-to-date except for the office, which resembles a museum of old tools. Among the antiques that store manager Richard "Ric" Becker proudly points out is a nail rake (for dragging nails out of a bin), a saw set (for setting the angle of saw teeth), a hand-powered reciprocating hedge clipper, a doughnut maker, an ancient curling iron, handmade wooden planes, a hand augur and an old spoke shave for trimming wooden wheel spokes.

"My mom and dad, Nancy and Clarence Becker, started collecting old things about 25 years ago," says Ric. The family maintains the window, which changes every couple of seasons, just for fun. — And no, the old stuff inside and out isn't for sale. "We've had lots of people ask," Ric says.

Fourth grade hits the top

Back in March, FYI told Pointers about the fourth-grade class at Maire Elementary that was collecting Froot Loops, Frosted Flakes and Rice Krispies box tops for a nationwide Kellogg's Cereal/Scholastic Books contest. The grand prize would send the entire class on an educational field trip to New York City.

Guess what: The Maire class won it.

"The kids collected box tops from the usual sources: family, friends and neighbors," says parent Debbie Carmody, who chaired the local drive along with Marian Manganello.

"They also held bake sales where Rice Krispy treats (what else would you expect?) and other goodies could be purchased for a quarter, and held Froot Loop estimation jars," Debbie says. "All money was used to buy more cereal. After the tops were removed, the still-sealed boxes of cereal were donated to Gleaners. Finally, many children participated at the Farmer Jack store in Grosse Pointe Woods to ask for box tops from shoppers who had purchased the specific cereals."

Debbie says the Pointe winners will fly to New York on Northwest Airlines, and activities are to include visiting the American Museum of Natural History, and a double-decker bus tour and Liberty Boat cruise to view the Statue of Liberty, Empire State Building, Ellis Island and the World Trade Center. Dinner will be at the Hard Rock Cafe.

The next day there'll be a tour and lunch at Scholastic Books.

"This experience has shown our kids that you should always shoot for the stars' no matter how unlikely success will be," Debbie says. "Planning, hard work and lots of luck helped us accomplish our goal — and the community also played a big part in helping us accomplish our goal."

2 candidates seek 2 seats in June 14 school board election

By Bonnie Caprara
Staff Writer

Two candidates are running in an uncontested race for trustees of the Grosse Pointe Public School System Board of Education on Monday, June 14.

Linda Farmer, of Grosse Pointe Woods, and Joan Richardson, of Grosse Pointe Park, are running for each of the open trustee spots. Board of education trustees serve for four-year terms.

Linda Farmer

When asked why she wanted to run for a school board seat, one of the reasons Linda Farmer gave was that she had worked in the background for so many years that she had a good idea of parents' and students' concerns.

Farmer, 44, a 17-year resident of Grosse Pointe Woods, is the wife of John and the mother of William, a senior, and Meredith, a freshman, at Grosse Pointe North High School.

Farmer has a long history of parental involvement in the schools as she followed her children through Mason Elementary School, Parcels Middle School and North. She has served on the PTO boards at Mason and Parcels, North PTO Council, the Principal's Advisory Committees at Parcels and North, as secretary of Grosse Pointe North Norsemoms, Grosse Pointe North Athletic Advisory board, Grosse Pointe North Booster board, as Grosse Pointe North Parents Club Committee chair, and was an Odyssey of the Mind Coach at North. She has also served on the Grosse Pointe Administrative PAC, Grosse Pointe Athletic Steering Committee, Grosse Pointe Schools Facilities Committee and the Educational Programs and Leadership Council.

Farmer said she was encouraged by friends to run for a school board seat.

"I've always been involved with the schools. It's the most logical next step," said Farmer.

As a board member, Farmer said she would see to continued involvement for improved curriculum.

"We are facing a world of changing technology," said Farmer. "We need to be progressive in making improvements with new technology. We need to not just instruct students in technology, but how to use it and reason through it."

Farmer said she would also place a priority on providing a safe environment in our schools and for continual staff development to meet the needs of kids and schools.

Farmer is also a big proponent of extra-curricular activities.

"There are many ways for kids to get involved," said Farmer. "I want kids to leave the school system and have balance in their lives. That's what's going to prepare them the best."

One of the biggest challenges Farmer sees her and the board facing are directives from the state.

"There are a lot of directives from Lansing on things we can't control," said Farmer, particularly noting the prospect of cross-district enrollment.

"There are a lot of unanswered questions," said Farmer. "Lansing has not said where the money should go, who makes up the difference. Who determines the available space and how we make that decision? Is it first-come, first-serve? Is it by lottery? How do we deal with students who need additional help? There's a lot they need to work on before they bring this to us."

Farmer sees her involvement as a key qualification to serving on the board.

Joan Richardson

"I have an intense interest in education," says Joan Richardson of Grosse Pointe Park. "I grew up with an interest in education and it's been my professional focus and personal concern for the last dozen years."

Richardson, 47, is the wife of Bob Rossbach, and mother of Jennifer Richardson-Rossbach, a freshman at Grosse Pointe South High School and twins David and Emily Richardson-Rossbach, sixth-graders at Pierce Middle School. The Richardson-Rossbach family has lived in the Park for 14 years.

Richardson is also the director of publications for the National Staff Development Council, a non-profit advocate of professional development in K-12 school districts. Before that, Richardson was an education writer with the Detroit Free Press.

"I've spent hundreds of hours observing teachers and thousands of hours in schools," said Richardson. "I've had a lot of experience listening and observing. I have different kinds of experiences that other board members have. I bring a wealth of knowledge and awareness of what other districts have done and what can be done here."

In addition, Richardson has spent time as a parent volunteer in her children's schools, was a former member of the Defer Elementary School Principal's Advisory Committee, and former chair of the district's staff development action team.

The idea that Richardson should run for a seat on the school board comes as no surprise.

"People have suggested that for years," said Richardson. "The timing was right for me. The time is right to put together a board that can put forth some positive changes."

Richardson brings some primary concerns with her as she gets ready to serve on the school board.

"One of my primary concerns is ensuring the excellence of teaching and insuring that every child has an excellent teacher every hour of every day," said Richardson. "It's going to be a challenge with a looming teacher shortage and an aging teaching staff." She also expressed a more aggressive stance toward recruitment.

Another area of concern is with communication between the district and parents.

"The communication in the district needs some improvement, especially in the communication between homes and schools," said Richardson. "It's the school's responsibility to get the news out to the parents."

Richardson has suggested a district newsletter and using the district's web site to get the word out to parents, yet she insists, "You have to have multiple ways to get the same message out to people."

Another concern of Richardson's is leadership in the schools.

"A high quality of leadership in our schools is very important," said Richardson. "Being a principal is an incredibly difficult job. You have the demands of parents, situations in the building and administrative issues. It's hard to attract and keep good people in that job."

One of her proposals would be to create a network of principals with other districts where they could network and share in professional development.

Technological literacy is another focus of Richardson. "We've spent a lot of time wiring the classrooms and the next step is for the teachers to infuse that knowledge," said Richardson. "Technology has become as important as a paper and pencil. There's a lot more we need to do in that area."

With all the issues at hand, Richardson sees being open-minded and flexible as a key asset to her responsibility as a school board member.

Wanting art center

To the Editor:

Mt. Clemens has the Art Center, Rochester has Paint Creek, Birmingham has the BBAC, St. Clair has the St. Clair Art Gallery, etc. — the list goes on and on. What does Grosse Pointe have? Nothing — for the arts, that is.

Numerous ideas have come forth for the utilization of the vacated property at Mack and Moross. I say build a Community Arts Center for the appreciation and enrichment of art in the Grosse Pointe communities. Grosse Pointe is brimming with artists who would support a community arts building.

I'm wondering, is the Grosse Pointe community ready to support such a project or are we lacking in appreciation for the arts? Grosse Pointe Arts Council and the Grosse Pointe Artists Association are very much in need of a location. Shows, exhibits and a way of showing community spirit and involvement, that's what we need!

Ongoing saga

To the Editor:

It's sad to see the ongoing saga of disgruntled letters to the Editor, about Grosse Pointe Shores, written by the same familiar names, being published regularly in the Grosse Pointe News.

Is it surprising that many of the letters come from individuals listed as "Supporters" of NYCE (Neighbors concerned about Yacht Club Expansion) in their lawsuit against our village? This was an issue the Grosse Pointe News also failed to address in its endorsement of several candidates in the recent election.

One writer complains bitterly about citizens who spoke out against the so called "clean slate." He claims that he never "heard" his candidates bad-mouth the other candidates. He overlooks the innuendo of their self-proclaimed name and the accusatory campaign literature containing a clean slate's charges of "disdain directed toward residents by current village officials whenever concerns and opinions differ from their own were expressed." Ironically, the writer then denounces the "lies" of his close personal friends who apparently betrayed him by their behavior in opposing his preferred slate of candidates.

As an independent citizen, I wrote the truth about real issues confronting our village. Specifically I informed the voters of the lawsuit being pressed by a special-interest group, a handful of shoreline property owners and a group of non-Shores residents, against us. Apparently the voters agreed. I defy your letter writer to prove anything I said to be inaccurate or untrue.

Capturing the essence of miniature landscapes

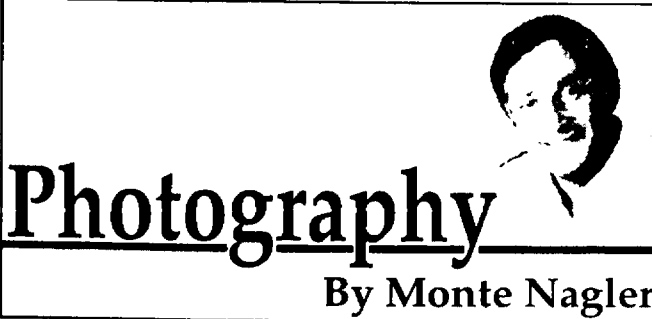

Too often photographers try to shoot the broad panoramic view while ignoring landscape details. Within every large landscape are hundreds of smaller ones just waiting to be captured by your camera.

Lily pads shimmering on the surface of a pond, a cluster of fallen leaves, or a wave gently lapping the shore — each of these and many more can be just as exciting and picturesque as the more expansive view.

Any environment contains an inexhaustible supply of fascinating miniature landscape detail.

Other than a keen eye, no elaborate equipment is needed. At times, a set of close-up filters or a macro lens will help you to move in close. A tripod should be used to maximize sharpness and depth-of-field.

Seeing "simply" is a good way to begin to photograph miniature landscapes. That is, start to look through the viewfinder and withdraw simple elements from the whole that, in themselves, make exciting, dramatic photographs.

Photography

tographs. In other words, begin to see pictures within the picture.

The view of a majestic mountain across the lake will make a beautiful, overall landscape shot, but don't overlook the miniature landscape produced by the velvety row of moss-draped rocks at the water's edge.

Rather than portray the whole plowed field in your country photograph, zoom in on a small section of freshly cut furrows.

Bond Falls, in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, has provided me with many sweeping and majestic waterfall picture opportunities. Yet isolating only an intimate detail as shown in the accompanying photograph, produced an image that "says it all" about these magnificent falls.

Miniature landscapes will give a unique perspective to your picture and will emphasize textures and tones you often won't get by shooting the whole.

Remember, you're making photographs, not taking snapshots.

Let your miniature landscape be a complete picture in itself, while at the same time conveying the flavor and essence of the whole.

Bond Falls in Michigan's Upper Peninsula provided Monte Nagler the opportunity to capture this miniature landscape on film. This was one of many pictures within the picture he was able to make.

South student off to West Point

Grosse Pointe South High School senior Benjamin Visger has been appointed to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point.

Benjamin has participated in the school's Latin Club, cross-country track team and jazz band while carrying a 3.93 grade point average.

"I took great pride in endorsing Benjamin's application," said Congresswoman Carolyn Cheeks Kilpatrick. "He is an exemplary scholar-athlete who has the potential to become a national leader in any field he chooses. I am confident that his training at West Point will help prepare him for an outstanding career."

Benjamin is the son of James and Mary Visger of Grosse Pointe Park.

Committee presents computer curriculum

By Bonnie Caprara
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe Public Schools is working on a revised K-12 computer curriculum.

A committee of administrators, teachers, parents and a student have met to incorporate state and national standards as well as parent input into devising the new curriculum.

"We have to comply with the state guidelines," said district technology curriculum coordinator Grace Smith. "We've gone beyond the state guidelines. The state guidelines are fairly broad, allowing the districts to fine-tune them to their needs."

One of the state guidelines the committee has addressed is a new keyboarding curriculum for fifth-graders which will go into effect for the 1999-2000 school year.

Students will be taught the Typin's Cool method (formerly known as Almena).

"It's very intense," said Smith. "The kids have instruction for about one to two hours. They learn very rapidly in a sing-song way with catchy phrases to learn where the keys are. They get a lot of practice afterward."

The committee has also developed a pilot sixth grade computer literacy class which will be taught at Pierce this year and introduced to the other middle schools the following year.

"It's an abbreviated program where the students will learn a variety of skills like how to use spreadsheets, databases, and they'll learn about technical careers and technical literacy."

The new computer curriculum also calls for elective computer classes for grades 7 and 8.

The revisions to the high school curriculum call for students to use the core computer skills learned in grades K-8 and integrate them in a variety of curricula. For example, a high school student would produce a presentation about an author and write a thematic essay about a particular author on Power Point and create an interactive presentation using HyperStudio for an English project.

A list of projected staff training needs are also cited in the revised computer curriculum.

Needs listed for the K-8 instructional staff include model lesson design, content-related software applications, unit/lesson/template development for technology integration, basic and advanced technology applications, and SchoolVista.

Needs listed for the 9-12 instructional staff include Office 97/2000 software, Internet Explorer, drawing programs, library search engines, computer conferencing, WebQuests, HyperStudio and FrontPage.

The curriculum plan will be presented to the Educational Programs Leadership Council later this month.

TO THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF HARPER WOODS, COUNTY OF WAYNE, STATE OF MICHIGAN: Notice is hereby given that a Annual School Election/Special Recall Election will be held in the City of Harper Woods in the County of Wayne, State of Michigan on June 14, 1999 from 7:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. for the purpose of electing candidates for the office of Member of the Harper Woods Board of Education.

SPECIAL RECALL ELECTION SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF HARPER WOODS JUNE 14, 1999

Shall Forrest S. Boyles be recalled from the office of Board Member for the Harper Woods Board of Education for the following reason(s): On September 14, 1998, at a special meeting of the Harper Woods Board of Education, Forrest Boyles voted to place the district's superintendent on administrative leave indefinitely, with pay. Forrest Boyles voted to hire an acting superintendent at an additional cost to the district of $395 per day. Forrest Boyles then voted to hire an additional law firm to represent the district. On October 6, 1998, Forrest Boyles voted to retain another law firm to act as an investigator, resulting in further cost to the district.

JUSTIFICATION OF CONDUCT IN OFFICE BY FORREST S. BOYLES

QUESTION: If you caught one of your employees stealing from you, would you fire them?

You decide.

FACT: Former Superintendent Dr. Joan L. Tucker knowingly, and willingly took school district monies from the Harper Woods School District, that legally, and contractually she was not entitled to.

FACT: The Superintendent stated that this extra money arrangement regarding vacation reimbursements was done (behind closed doors) because she (the Superintendent), and one or two previous board members wanted to find a way of paying her more money without the community being aware.

FACT: I have done my job as expected of an elected official, and stand behind every vote I have made.

REASONS FOR DEMANDING THE RECALL OF CHRISTINE CICOTTE

Shall Christine Cicotte be recalled from the office of Board Member for the Harper Woods Board of Education for the following reason(s): On September 14, 1998, at a special meeting of the Harper Woods Board of Education, Christine Cicotte voted to place the district's superintendent on administrative leave indefinitely, with pay. On October 6, 1998, Christine Cicotte voted to retain another law firm to act as an investigator, resulting in further cost to the district.

JUSTIFICATION OF CONDUCT IN OFFICE BY CHRISTINE CICOTTE

On September 14, 1998 I, Christine Cicotte voted to place the superintendent on leave, to investigate the possible misuse of school funds. I also voted to hire an acting administrator, with money already in the budget, and to hire a new, not additional law firm and an individual to investigate the boards concerns. This investigator found that the superintendent took approximately $25,000, which she was not entitled to. I then wanted to find a way of paying her more money without the community being aware. She misused school funds. She violated her own contract. I did my job. I held her accountable, and I stand by my decision.

REASONS FOR DEMANDING THE RECALL OF RONALD H. GREVE

Shall Ronald H. Greve be recalled from the office of Board Member for the Harper Woods Board of Education for the following reason(s): On September 14, 1998, at a special meeting of the Harper Woods Board of Education, Ronald H. Greve voted to place the district's superintendent on administrative leave indefinitely, with pay. Ronald H. On October 6, 1998, Ronald H. Greve voted to retain another law firm to act as an investigator, resulting in further cost to the district.

JUSTIFICATION OF CONDUCT IN OFFICE BY RONALD H. GREVE

I had information suggesting that the Superintendent was cheating on her mileage expenses. I also believed she was spreading false information designed to stir up controversy and divert attention from her own poor job performance. An independent investigator found that the Superintendent had paid herself more than $25,000 that she was not entitled to receive. The board fired the Superintendent for dishonesty. I believe I was only doing my duty in suspending the Superintendent. An independent investigator proved that I was right to be concerned. How can we teach our children to be honest and truthful, if we look the other way when a high paid administrator with a gold plated employment contract is dishonest?

REASONS FOR DEMANDING THE RECALL OF AMY HOUGHTALIN

Shall Amy Houghtalin be recalled from the office of Board Member for the Harper Woods Board of Education for the following reason(s): On September 14, 1998, at a special meeting of the Harper Woods Board of Education, Amy Houghtalin voted to place the district's superintendent on administrative leave indefinitely, with pay. Amy Houghtalin voted to hire an acting superintendent at an additional cost to the district of $395 per day. Amy Houghtalin then voted to hire an additional law firm to represent the district. On October 6, 1998, Amy Houghtalin voted to retain another law firm to act as an investigator, resulting in further cost to the district.

JUSTIFICATION OF CONDUCT IN OFFICE BY AMY HOUGHTALIN

The voters elected me to make decisions in the best interest of our children's education and to safeguard district funds. I acted cautiously when Dr. Tucker's integrity was questioned and it was suspected that she might be receiving inappropriate reimbursements. I voted to replace the existing school district legal counsel with an attorney who has an impeccable and stellar reputation statewide. I followed this attorney's advice in the delicate area of employment law to protect the district from legitimate litigation, as well as to be fair as possible to Dr. Tucker. This advice included engaging an independent investigator to examine the facts and determine the truth. I believe my actions were justified when the investigation revealed that the trusted administrator of school assets paid herself $25,000 she was not entitled to receive. The leadership of this school district, including myself, must be held to the highest standards of accountability. Education involves not only the lessons taught inside classrooms, but the way community members live the ideals of citizenship. To condone the actions of a school leader who failed to live up to the same standard she held others to would shortchange our children's education.

REASONS FOR DEMANDING THE RECALL OF NANCY WRUBEL

Shall Nancy Wrubel be recalled from the office of Board Member for the Harper Woods Board of Education for the following reason(s): On September 14, 1998, at a special meeting of the Harper Woods Board of Education, Nancy Wrubel voted to place the district's superintendent on administrative leave indefinitely, with pay. Nancy Wrubel voted to hire an acting superintendent at an additional cost to the district of $395 per day. Nancy Wrubel then voted to hire an additional law firm to represent the district. On October 6, 1998, Nancy Wrubel voted to retain another law firm to act as an investigator, resulting in further cost to the district.

JUSTIFICATION OF CONDUCT IN OFFICE BY NANCY WRUBEL

As a board member, I have done my best to uphold all school district contracts. The investigators report proves that Dr. Tucker has violated her contract by taking money that she was not entitled to. Some residents feel that she should be entitled to exceed the guidelines of her contract or customary amounts. If some of these residents feel that Dr. Tucker should be allotted more money than her contract provides for, then I believe that they should write her a personal check and stop abusing this board and district funds. I cannot make these allowances just for one person. Is it accountability that you are supporting? Or is it accountability that you are avoiding? Holding Dr. Tucker accountable for her inappropriate vacation pay and mileage reimbursements is exactly what this board did!

Mickey D. Todd,
CITY CLERK

Summer's here and time is right for cruising car shows

You can tell summer is here by the increasing number of outdoor auto shows, cruises and swap meets.

Two major events on a recent weekend demonstrated that the season is well under way. And they show something else. DaimlerChrysler is continuing to adhere to Chrysler Corp.'s extensive courting of automotive hobbyists by sponsoring important affairs.

DaimlerChrysler sponsored two events in May that covered a wide range of car hobbyists — the Good Guys Grand Nationals at Meadow Brook, a gathering of hot-rod and custom car owners, and the Orphan Car Show in Ypsilanti, an exhibition by more traditional collectors of old and interesting cars.

The Good Guys event in May was a show with something to appeal to any custom car fan, from traditional early '30s Ford roadsters and coupes with Chevrolet 350 V-8s to unusual pieces like a 1926 Hupmobile with 2.8 V-6 power to an extravagantly customized Star Wars-like '39 Studebaker pickup.

The Good Guys are a national organization of owners of hot rods, street rods and custom cars. A primary function is to raise funds for worthy causes. Another is to meet with their cars and have fun. That's what the Meadow Brook meet was all about.

Representing the traditional street rod were two cars from Clarkston. Walt and Sharon Wiltrip showed their elegantly simple '32 Ford Tudor, powered by Chevrolet V-8 and Butch and Nan Mitchell displayed their '34 Chevrolet with 350 V-8 under the hood. The flamed sedan sports a special-made hood ornament which says "Nan's 34."

The reason Chevrolet's small-block 350 V-8s are so popular in street rods and street machines is that Chevrolet still makes that engine and parts are readily available. But one of the hallmarks of the custom car field is nonconformity, so not everyone takes the traditional way.

For example, a very traditional-looking early '30s Ford Deuce Coupe was displayed, offered by the Good Guys organization as a prize in a drawing for new members. It was powered by a 326 Chrysler hemi V-8, which makes sense, as Chrysler Corp. is a sponsor of the event.

Powered by a Chevy 350 V-8, but quite out of the ordinary was the 41 Willys woodie station wagon displayed by Al Maynard, of Clinton Township.

Moving into the very unusual, Frank Bobek, of Oak Brook, Ill., explained that he sprayed his '48 Dodge business coupe with an industrial compound to give it a bumpy finish, then painted it orange, achieving a total orange peel look. Under the hood was a 502 V-8 big block Chevy.

When Larry Poturn, of Clinton Township, started up the 502 Chevy V-8 in his sleek '37 Willys sedan delivery, he drew quite a crowd. And looking every bit as wild as the Willys was the bright orange '39 Studebaker pickup custom job created by Ron's Toy Box, of Monee, Ill. Under its fiberglass body panels was General Motors running gear.

An unusual piece and one of my favorites was a nicely restored '26 Hupmobile two-door sedan, owned by Richard Feuchbach of Leonard. The car, powered by a 2.8 Chevrolet V-6, had only 62,000 miles on it.

'Orphan cars' in Ypsi

A surprisingly extensive sampling of "orphan cars" were on display at Riverside Park in Depot Town in Ypsilanti. Jack Miller, curator of the Ypsilanti Automotive Heritage Collection, whose

Miller Motors on Depot Street in Ypsilanti is the world's last Hudson dealer, and a driving force behind the show, was pleased.

The Orphan Car Show is a young affair, but has had remarkable appeal in attracting exhibitors and visitors. Everyone seems to like the idea of "orphan cars." Back in the '30s, literally hundreds of auto makers went out of business, leaving owners of their cars with "orphans," that is, cars whose parent firms had died. This put in jeopardy the availability of parts and service for the cars.

After World War II, a consolidation of the surviving industry took place and more "orphans" were created.

For the show, the definition of orphan car included any car that had been discontinued. Thus, there were a number of DeSotos, Corvairs and Edsels on display, despite the fact that their makers, Chrysler Corp., Chevrolet and Ford Motor Co., still exist.

Most of the cars on display at Ypsilanti's beautiful park were "orphans" by anyone's definition, created by the demise of most of the major independent auto makers in the '30s, '40s and '50s. The bulk of the cars on display and the cars that seemed to attract the most interest and arouse the most nostalgia were these American — heavily Detroit — independents.

Parading past the reviewing stand and basking in the glory of being an "orphan" — it was quite an unglorious status back when the car makers were dropping out of business — were Packards, Hudsons, Nashes, Hupmobiles, Willys, Kaisers, Frazers, Studebakers and a Checker, a Maxwell, a Crosley, a DeLorean and a Reo.

Packard, Hudson, Hupmobile, Kaiser-Frazer and Maxwell were all built in the Detroit area. Willys in nearby Toledo and Checker in Kalamazoo. Nashes were built in Kenosha, Wis., but Nash-Kelvinator headquarters were in Detroit and when Nash and Hudson merged to form American Motors, it was headquartered in Detroit.

Studebaker's home was in South Bend, Ind., but many Studebakers were built in Detroit, including in a plant on Piquette street next to an early Ford plant. So there was plenty of nostalgia at this show.

Oldest car at the show was an 1899 Locomobile Steamer, a nameplate which has been orphaned so long that most of the show visitors had never heard of it. Its owner, Wayne Coffman, of Tiffin, Ohio, said it was not very fast and that he would rate it "just a notch better than a horse."

Another old-timer at the show was a one-cylinder 1902 Northern, owned by Eddie Edwards, of Barrie, Ont. The Northern was built in Detroit, designed by Charles B. King, who was the first man to drive his car on the streets of Detroit, in 1896, beating Henry Ford by a few weeks.

The show was sponsored by DaimlerChrysler, the Ypsilanti Automotive Heritage Collection, the Ypsilanti Area Convention and Visitors Bureau and local orphan car clubs.

Summer car show calendar

Here are some of the car hobbyist events scheduled this summer:

June 12: Fourth annual Fiero Festival, sponsored by the Michigan Fiero Club, at Bob Sellers Pontiac-GMC, 38000 Grand River, Farmington Hills.

June 13: Carnival of Cars, sponsored by Michigan Region Classic Car Club of America, at Van Dyke & 22-1/2 Mile, Shelby Township; car corral, car show, flea market; $5 admission, under 12 free.

June 19-20: Motor Muster, Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, Dearborn. Cars, trucks, motorcycles and bicycles from 1933-69 on display. Special feature will be an exhibit of Packards to mark that make's 100th anniversary.

June 20: Eyes on Design, sponsored by Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology, on the grounds of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, Grosse Pointe Shores. Cars and trucks displayed with emphasis on design values. Featured this year will be the Great American Convertible. Admission $8.

June 26-27: Dearborn Food Festival Car Show & Cruise-In, sponsored by Motor State Street Rods at Henry Ford Community College, pre-76 cars, Saturday night cruise-in and Sunday car show; free admission.

July 9: Rolling Sculpture car show, sponsored by Main Street Merchants, held Main on Main Street in downtown Ann Arbor; free admission.

July 11: Mad Dogs & Englishmen car show, sponsored by Southwestern Michigan Motoring Assn. at Gilmore-CCCA Museum, 6865 Hickory Rd. at M-43, Hickory Corners, Mich.; $6 admission.

Aug. 20-21: Car/Capital Celebration 1999, car corral, car show, swap meet, cruise-in, sponsored by R.E. Olds Transportation Museum; two-day car show in downtown Lansing, ending with a cruise through the downtown area; open to all makes, models and styles, no judging; free admission.

Aug. 21: Fourth annual North Woodward Dream Cruise; Woodward Avenue, from Ferndale to Pontiac; admission free.

Aug. 21: Fourth annual Rod Benders Elvis Memorial Car Show, sponsored by Rod Benders Car Club of West Michigan at Gilmore CCCA Museum, 6865 Hickory Rd., Hickory Corners; $6 admission.

Aug. 22: Carillon Concours, "Cruisin' and Croonin'," Christ Church Cranbrook, Lone Pine and Cranbrook Roads, Bloomfield Hills, 4 p.m.; a small showing of selected special interest cars in conjunction with carillon concert in honor of automotive industry; admission free; bring a lawn chair or blanket.

Sept. 12: 17th Battle of the Brits, car show, motorcycle show, flea market; display of British cars and motorcycles, sponsored by Detroit Triumph Sportscar Club at Freedom Hill Park, Sterling Heights; $6 per car admission.

All the exhibitors paraded their cars, grouped by make, past a reviewing stand, where Jeff Godshall, automotive historian and design manager for small and intermediate car interiors for DaimlerChrysler, provided some background on each one.

Backing up Godshall were Jim Coleman, a motor scooter and motorcycle expert; Randy Mason, former curator of transportation at Henry Ford Museum, and Bill Tilden, a Kaiser-Frazer and Studebaker expert from Atlanta.

questions to ask...

...when considering high schools for your child.

will my child be offered a comprehensive one-on-one college guidance program?

At University Liggett School, our college advising system guarantees extensive personal support for EVERY student — beginning in 10th-grade — from a staff of qualified professionals. As a result, ULS graduates annually gain admission to the nation's most respected colleges and universities and are offered many of the country's most prestigious scholarships. More than 20 percent of the Class of 1999 gained admission to America's Most Competitive Colleges — with 50 percent of our graduates earning admission to America's Most Highly-Competitive Colleges. For example, the 68 member Class of 1999 earned acceptances to Yale (4), University of Michigan (24), Vanderbilt (5), Northwestern (3), Princeton (2) and Columbia (3).

will my child be taught in outstanding facilities?

what about class size?

Our facilities are first rate — including a science wing with fully-equipped labs, a computer-based language lab, computer centers with fiber optic backbones, and an extensive library system. Our classes typically have fewer than 16 students, encouraging personal interaction between teachers and students — from our adviser system, to sponsorships of extracurricular activities, to coach athlete relationships.

will my child have access to strong creative and performing arts programs?

University Liggett School students explore the arts on a daily basis. The payoff? ULS students annually earn local, state and national honors in vocal and instrumental music, as well as in theater and drama competitions. Our creative and performing arts wing houses a dance studio, well equipped music and art rooms, a photography and ceramics lab, and extensive gallery space — regularly hosting artist-in-residence programs, as well as exhibits of student and professional work.

rigorous college preparatory program?

EVERY course at University Liggett School is part of our college preparatory curriculum. Moreover, ULS offers a full complement of Advanced Placement courses — with nearly 60 percent of the senior class enrolled in at least one AP class! In 1998, more than 81 percent of ULS students taking AP exams scored "3" or higher and 34 percent scored "5." Additionally, ULS's Honors offerings in every department ensure students a challenging curriculum. Are our students prepared? Here's proof... more than 10 percent of the Class of 1999 were named Finalists in the National Merit and National Achievement scholarship programs.

will my child have the opportunity to participate in interscholastic athletics?

EVERY University Liggett School student participates in one or more of our 13 varsity sports. Do they succeed? In the last three years, ULS teams have won seven state championships in sports including boys' soccer, girls' field hockey, and boys' and girls' tennis. In addition, in the last two years, ULS teams have earned Metro Conference titles in girls' soccer, football and boys' basketball, have been a state semifinalist in boys' baseball, and a regional champion in boys' hockey.

Determining the necessity for joint replacement surgery

Although it is not exclusively an ailment of the elderly, older people are more apt to suffer from arthritis than those who are young. It is not entirely understood why this is the case, but we are told it is associated with the breakdown of the joints.

A joint is a movable connection between the ends of two or more bones. These ends are covered by a smooth material called cartilage and are connected to each other by flexible ligaments.

The joint is lined with a tissue called the synovia which produces a lubricating substance called synovial fluid. Muscles and tendons that surround and cross the joint power its movement.

For the human body to have free and easy mobility, all these components must be working well.

Experts agree that arthritis breaks down the fine-tuning between the bone, cartilage and muscle. Just how the arthritis process works is still not clear, but researchers do know how it affects the joints.

In osteoarthritis, the smooth cartilage covering the joint becomes worn thin so that the bones rub directly against each other causing pain and inflammation.

In rheumatoid arthritis, the synovia becomes inflamed and attacks cartilage.

In either case, the joint can become stiff and painful. The arthritis sufferer then avoids moving the joint to avoid the pain which only exacerbates the condition by making the structure weaker and movement increasingly weaker.

When this happens, joint replacement surgery may be necessary.

However Dr. Adolf Yates Jr., assistant professor of orthopedic surgery at Johns Hopkins University, says, "The first and foremost reason — and indeed often the only reason — for joint replacement is unremitting arthritic pain that doesn't respond to medical treatment. For such cases, it will relieve pain.

Prime Time

By Marian Trainor

"It may very well improve motion and flexibility but that is a secondary gain and not in and of itself enough of a goal to warrant surgery."

Yates offers these symptoms to determine whether surgery is called for: Arthritis that doesn't respond after three to six months of conservative management with different combinations of drugs and injections.

He advises that patients should not give up if they don't experience relief after the first antiarthritic drug because there are lots of different ones and it's often hit-or-miss as to which will work on an individual patient.

Joint pain of sufficient severity to awaken you at night. Joint pain that limits your walking endurance to about a block.

Evidence of joint degeneration on X-rays. Evidence of arthritis is not by itself enough to mandate surgery. He says that pain should still be the motivating factor.

If your condition meets any of these criteria you should talk to an orthopedic surgeon who will help you decide if you need surgery.

The surgeon will take a detailed medical history and rule out other possible sources of pain, such as bursitis or arteriosclerosis.

If you are overweight, you may be asked to shed some pounds, since extra weight puts extra demands on the heart and lungs during surgery, as well as extra strain on the joint during recovery.

You may want to allow two to four weeks before the operation to donate your own blood, since surgery usually necessitates a transfusion.

There are two types of joint implants, cemented or uncemented. Cemented implants are glued to the natural bone, uncemented implants are covered with a porous material unto which the natural bone eventually grows and attaches itself.

Each has its advantages and disadvantages which you will want to discuss with the surgeon before you make a decision.

The real work of joint replacement starts after the surgeon is finished. With hip, knee or ankle replacements you will begin to walk within several days; motion is restored quicker after shoulder, elbow or wrist replacements.

Recovery from replacement surgery usually takes about six weeks. During this period you must follow a timetable of exercise, rest and medication.

Your reward for this investment of time, money and energy will be pain-free movement and better flexibility which should make it all worthwhile.

Street repairs and construction ties up Woods traffic

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Frequenters of Detroit highways won't be the only ones facing road construction delays. This summer Grosse Pointe Woods residents will have to face three separate road construction projects.

Construction on Torrey Road has already begun. Woods traffic safety officer Dan Koerber said the Torrey Road construction started on May 17.

"Work on Torrey extends from Mack to Fairford," Koerber said. "Both sides of the street will be repaved and the contract calls for completion of the project 90 days after construction begins."

Hawthorne, from Mack to the Harper Woods border, will be repaved this summer as well, Koerber said.

The city is replacing a water main and will have to dig up the street. Construction is scheduled to begin by June 30.

It is expected to last until about mid-September, Koerber said. Traffic along Hawthorne won't be disrupted as much as on Torrey because Hollywood and Anita parallel it. Of course, residents who live on the blocks that are being repaved will have to make adjustments, but there's really nothing that can be done.

Work on Vernier that began last year will be completed this summer, said Koerber. Vernier, from Mack to Charlevoix will be repaved.

"We got the builders to hold off until after school lets out," Koerber said. "The work will be around Parcels and many people get to North via Vernier, which shouldn't need major work for another 10 or 20 years."

While Vernier will have at least two lanes open at all times, Koerber said residents who use Vernier to access some of the side streets might want to use alternative routes. Many of these streets can be accessed by Marter.

"This is part of an ongoing effort by the city to improve infrastructure," Koerber said. "There will be inconveniences, but residents will live on these streets who be informed about when construction will begin."

Grosse Pointe Woods looks into upgrading neighborhood parks

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

While a great deal of effort has been put into upgrading the playground equipment at Grosse Pointe Woods' Lake Front Park, the city council is now looking at what can be done to improve the facilities at the smaller parks — Chene-Trombley, Sweeney and Ghesquiere.

Ghesquiere is behind the Woods city hall. It currently has a soccer field and several baseball diamonds. The city recently approved spending about $125,000 to build an ice/in-line skating rink. Chene-Trombley is located between Ridgemont and Hollywood on Mack. Sweeney is also off of Mack between Fair Court and Ford Court.

Mayor Robert Novitke recently appointed three councilmembers to a special ad hoc committee given the assignment of looking at the smaller parks and recommending what could be done to improve them. The committee consists of mayor pro tem Eric Steiner, council representative to the parks and recreation committee Joe Dansbury and former parks and recreation committee member Vicki Granger.

City administrator Peter Thomas said that recently the city council has received some requests to update the equipment at these smaller parks. The city's insurance carrier requires yearly inspections of the playground equipment.

But, said Thomas, while the equipment is safe it is old and looks old. The equipment is also geared toward older children, those between the ages of 6 and 10. Now would be a good time to look at purchasing playground equipment for younger children, say, between the ages of 2 and 5, he said.

"A lot of parents with young children walk to these parks," Thomas said. "We thought it would be a good idea to review everything all at once. Instead of looking at the parks separately, it was felt developing a unified plan for all the parks at once was the most efficient way to go."

Councilwoman Patty Kukula-Chylinski spoke at the May 3 council meeting and suggested that perhaps the city could use some of the money from the park improvement bond to fund the project.

Granger was serving on the parks committee when the council approved spending over $120,000 on the playscape at Lake Front Park. She said that the committee did a lot of research, which she feels will prove invaluable in reviewing the current situation.

"There are a lot of things to consider," Granger said. "Every piece of equipment has to comply with the federal Americans with Disabilities Act standards. That means the equipment must meet a special handicap-accessible formula. Given the size of the parks, it might not be possible to put a lot of newer, larger pieces of equipment in."

Granger said the committee must also consider whether to place the same pieces of equipment at all the parks. It might be more interesting to have different pieces of equipment at each park so that parents could visit each park for a different experience, she said.

"I know that a lot of parents like to walk to the parks with their children," Granger said. "But just about everyone has a car, so maybe people can drive. But that's just one option we have to explore. We also have to look at liability and insurance issues. Parking issues and cost issues. But this is something that we are all looking favorably at. I think it's a good idea."

Harvard medical division on aging is in need of volunteers

The Harvard Medical School-Division on Aging (HMSDA) is conducting two international studies on aging, the Centenarian Sibling Pair Study and the New England Centenarian Study.

Centenarians are a rare and extremely valuable resource for studying successful aging and how to either delay or escape diseases normally associated with aging.

HMSDA is looking for individuals age 98 or older and their living brothers or sisters age 90 or older. Also individuals age 99 or older, no living sibling necessary.

HMSDA's studies involve questioning participants about their present health and mental functioning. They also ask to obtain a small, one-time blood sample-used to search for genes that may be important in understanding aging and the diseases associated with aging.

Finally, HMSDA requests proof of age, or information that would enable verification of participants' ages. The information obtained is strictly confidential. There is no cost to participate. For more information, call (617) 432-2630, or Fax at (617) 734-4432. You can write to request information at Harvard Medical School-Division on Aging, 643 Huntington Avenue, 4th Floor, Boston, MA 02115, Attention: Erin M. Joyce.

The road from Memorial to Labor Day is often bumpy

Because of the holiday, LTS' press deadline was moved back to Friday morning, May 28, which precludes our usual weekend market commentary.

Although the general business outlook continues very favorable, some cracks have appeared that cause nervousness.

April housing starts were off 10 percent, with little comment in the financial news whether this was a statistical aberration or the result of mortgage rates on single-family residences now being over 7 percent.

New-home starts trigger a whole variety of consumer expenditures, starting with furniture purchases.

Recent price retreats in selected stocks have been attributed to "market rotation." LTS cautions that much of this fancy talk is just plain "profit taking."

If your "sleep quotient" is keeping you awake nights, it's an indication that this recent market volatility is a touch beyond your "risk tolerance."

The stock market doctor would probably prescribe reducing your equity exposure. And, remember, savvy market traders usually take their losses first.

How to invest $100,000?

Crain's Detroit Business (May 24) posed this question to four local money managers: Under current market conditions, how would you invest $100,000 new money for a 40-year-old new investor, who has $75,000 annual income and $50,000 home equity?

Two replies came from investment departments of regional banks and the other two from local investment advisory firms. All agreed they needed more information about retirement plans and life insurance. One banker suggested opening a Roth IRA and Spousal IRA, and educational IRAs for the children.

Another suggested any life insurance deficiency be covered with a term policy, because of

Car vandalized

Between 8 a.m. and 2:15 p.m. on Monday, May 24, unknown suspects reportedly vandalized a car parked on Fisher Road near Grosse Pointe South High School.

The car's driver, an 18-year-old student at South, drove the car to his residence in the Park before his father made a police report a short while later. In damage to the car, a 1997 Cadillac, Farms police recorded a cracked rear bumper, scratches likely made by a key, and ethnic slurs spray-painted in silver.

"This is the first incident of this type in the Farms that I can remember," said investigating Farms Detective Mike McCarthy.

McCarthy and another detective interviewed the student on Friday, May 28 in the presence of the youth's attorney. Although police are working with the victim and the school has offered a reward, no witnesses have yet been found. "Any witness that can assist us in this matter would be appreciated," said McCarthy. He said anyone with information should call the Farms police tip line at (313) 885-2627.

Farms gunman

A 30-year-old man from Grosse Pointe Farms has been accused of "pulling a gun" on an off-duty Detroit police officer.

The incident took place under the eyes of a Farms patrolman who was monitoring traffic at Mack and Moross on Wednesday, May 26, at 2 p.m. The Farms patrolman saw the suspect drive by the victim twice as the 25-year-old Detroit officer stood near the intersection.

According to Farms police, after the "suspect pulled a gun on" the victim, the two officers trailed the suspect to his residence in the 400 block of McKinley and confiscated a .45 caliber Smith & Wesson pistol from the Farms resident's black 1999 Chevrolet Blazer.

Car copped

Sometime after 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, May 25, a thief stole a 1997 Lincoln Continental LTD from a residence in the 700 block of Noff in the City of Grosse Pointe.

Two days later, the car was recovered in an alley in the 11000 block of Hayes in Detroit minus wheels, tires, airbags and the radio.

Failed car alarm

A resident of the 300 block of Mount Vernon in Grosse Pointe Farms was surprised the alarm system in his 1996 Jeep Cherokee didn't sound the night of Friday, May 29.

Someone tried to steel the battened down vehicle from his driveway.

The locked vehicle had been entered through a jimmied passenger side door. The ignition was punched out and the steering column damaged.

Poor choices

Police from Grosse Pointe Shores dealt with two Grosse Pointe female juveniles, aged 17 and 16, who were caught with alcohol and drugs in a red 1993 Jeep parked on Sheldon at Clairview at 10:25 p.m. on Friday, May 28.

PUBLIC SAFETY REPORTS

The suspects, both residents of the Park who gave police fake names, denied drinking "any alcohol" but ran away from police after breath tests reveals their blood alcohol levels were .114 and .076 percent.

"Through a little investigation of our own," said the investigating officer, "the (girl's) correct names and addresses were revealed and their phone numbers acquired."

In the meantime, police recovered the following from the Jeep:

- Half-full bottle of rum from underneath the front passenger seat;
- 12-ounce bottles of beer in a back pack;
- 12-ounce wine cooler from the rear of the vehicle; a bag of suspected marijuana;
- Two packs of zig-zag wrapping papers in the aforementioned backpack;
- An empty beer can police said was used in the smoking of marijuana.

In another incident the next night, a drunken 16-year-old boy from St. Clair Shores with a .12 percent blood alcohol level admitted driving a gray, four-door 1990 Mercury Topaz into the curb near the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House on Lakeshore in Grosse Pointe Shores on Saturday, May 29, causing a flat tire.

At 12:21 a.m., Shores police came upon the teenager and car parked on Roslyn near Lakeshore. A search discovered a half-full 40-ounce bottle of beer in the vehicle.

Transformer fire

Police from the City of Grosse Pointe responded to the report of a smoldering electrical transformer near Cadieux and Kercheval Place on Tuesday, May 25, at 11:39 p.m. Officers stood by as representatives of Detroit Edison arrived.

Shoplifting

On Sunday, May 30, at 3:38 p.m., a 13-year-old male juvenile from Grosse Pointe Park was brought to the City police station for reportedly stealing a shirt from a store in the Village.

The youth was turned over to his parents.

Drunken driver

A 20-year-old woman from Grosse Pointe Farms was arrested for drunken driving by City police on Sunday, May 30, at 2:35 a.m.

Police witnessed the suspect speeding on Mack in a Mercedes Benz before making a traffic stop near Moross. Although the suspect said she hadn't been drinking, she failed field sobriety tests. A breath test revealed her blood alcohol level at .21 percent.

She bonded out at $1,200 and was given a court date.

Guitar picked

Someone stole a $2,600 Aria Pro base guitar from a vehicle parked in the 500 block of St. Clair in the City of Grosse Pointe sometime during the day of Friday, May 29.

The victim, a resident of Canton, made the report at 6:30 p.m. after spending the day boating with friends on Lake St. Clair.

Vehicles keyed

Two Jeep Cherokees were reported vandalized while parked in the 400 block of Lakeland at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, May 29.

Damage consisted of scratch or key marks along the driver sides, plus a broken driver side rear view mirror.

Phones stolen

Two cellular telephones were stolen from vehicles in the City of Grosse Pointe last week.

On Friday, May 29, at 12:16 p.m., a man living in the 200 block of Roosevelt Place in the City of Grosse Pointe reported the theft of a Sony digital cellular telephone.

The previous day at 1:12 p.m., a resident in the 900 block of Washington reported a similar incident.

Trash can fires

On Sunday, May 30, at 6:15 p.m., police from Grosse Pointe Farms extinguished a trash can fire on the grounds of Richard School.

Three hours later outside the Neighborhood Club in the City, police extinguished another trash can fire.

Many warrants

A 20-year-old man from Detroit who was pulled over for a traffic stop on Kercheval and Hillcrest was found by police from Grosse Pointe Farms to have three outstanding warrants totaling at least $900. He had never acquired a driver's license. His white 1989 Mercury Sable was impounded.

True to form

A 44-year-old man from Warren with an outstanding warrant for driving without due care and caution had an accident in the 500 block of Lakeshore in Grosse Pointe Shores on Thursday, May 27, at 4:15 a.m.

He ran his 1996 Ford pickup truck that was pulling a tree chipper into a tree. He was arrested and released on $100 bond.

$5,000 warrants

A 34-year-old man from St. Clair Shores was arrested after police from Grosse Pointe Shores learned he was wanted on outstanding warrants totaling $5,000 from Mount Pleasant and Keego Harbor.

The man was a passenger in a pickup truck pulled over for speeding 46 mph on Lakeshore near Provencal at 1:30 a.m. on Wednesday, May 26.

Many violations

On Tuesday, May 25, at 11:39 p.m., police from Grosse Pointe Shores arrested a 41-year-old woman from Clinton Township for drunken driving, refusing to take a breath test, speeding 48 mph in a 35 mph zone, driving with a suspended driver's license and not having valid car insurance.

The woman admitted drinking and failed a field sobriety test before being taken into custody. She was released on $200 bond and given a court date.

Cats and turtles

On Sunday, May 30, at 4:40 p.m., a 44-year-old woman living in the first block of South Edgewood in Grosse Pointe Shores was bitten in the left index finger by a stray white kitten when the woman tried to remove a dead squirrel from a neighbor's yard.

A few days earlier, police recovered a snapping turtle from a yard on Renaud.

Police took the kitten and its litter-mate to a local veterinarian; they put the turtle in the lake.

Senior Men's Club to meet on June 8

The Senior Men's Club of Grosse Pointe meets on Tuesday, June 8, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Lunch will be served at 11:15 a.m.

The luncheon speaker will be Deanna McGraw, the executive director of the Detroit Executive Service Corps.

The DESC was founded in 1982 as an organization of retired executives who give management counsel to non-profit organizations.

Members and their friends are invited.

To make reservations, call Ken Maleitzke at (313) 343-6476, or Peter Corsiglia at (810) 773-0519.

The next special event planned by the club is the Ladies Night Cabaret on Tuesday, June 15.

It will include a dinner show, and the music of Mel Stander and his Gentlemen of Swing. Call Jack King for your reservations at (313) 882-8734.

Toasted Taurus

The driver of a 1988 Ford Taurus noticed smoke coming from the engine after she parked the car in a parking lot in the 19200 block of Jefferson, across from the Park city hall at about 10:15 a.m. on Thursday, May 20. Fortunately the city's public safety department is attached to city hall and help was on the scene quickly.

Even though the pump engine failed due to a broken valve, firefighters were able to ferry water to the scene via water cans. Fire extinguishers were also used. The cause of the fire may be related to the age and condition of the car, which belonged to the son of the driver.

A summer tradition returns with Art on the Pointe

By Bonnie Caprara
Staff Writer

One of the first signs of summer is just around the corner...the 16th Annual Art on the Pointe.

The annual art fair, which is organized and operated by the Assistance League to the Northeast Guidance Center, will be held on the grounds of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, 1100 Lakeshore in Grosse Pointe Shores on Saturday, June 12 and Sunday, June 13. This year's fair is being co-sponsored by St. John Hospital and Medical Center.

"Besides being an art fair, it's a family affair," said general co-chair Char Cisló.

Approximately 150 jury-selected artists from the United States and Canada will have booths and tents set up around the grounds showcasing a broad spectrum of media including etchings, paintings, baskets, stained glass, pottery, photography, ceramics, ironworks, fiber art, jewelry and much more.

In addition to the artwork for sale, the Assistance League will hold a raffle featuring artists' work. "There's something for everyone at every price range," said Cisló.

There's also something for everyone beyond the artists' market. Arts and Scraps returns to host an activity tent for children where kids can create and take home their own masterpieces. Children can choose to make a streamer hat, a spine creature or a star rider.

"Their art projects are so much fun for the children who come to the fair," said children's tent co-chair Carol Meza, of Arts and Scraps. Arts and Scraps is a non-profit organization which gathers industrial discards that are used as art supplies.

The fair will also feature a full schedule of live entertainment including musical entertainment from the Chautauqua Express, Spoonman and Heartbeat; comedian O.J. Anderson; magician Gordon Russ, and a puppet show starring March Thomas with Max the Moose and Ben the Juggler.

The vast, park-like setting is also a big draw for many visitors to Art on the Pointe. Tours of the Ford's cotswold mansion and children's playhouse will also be open to the public for an additional charge during the art fair.

"It's an ideal setting," said Cisló. "Besides it being in our back yard, I don't think we always appreciate having such an architectural treasure."

Watercolor artist and City of Grosse Pointe resident Margaret Pankhurst is this year's Art on the Pointe featured artist.

"I've been working with watercolor for about 40 years," said Pankhurst. "It does what I want it to do. It has a sparkle and a freshness to it that other media doesn't."

Sparkle and freshness were what captured the attention of the Art on the Pointe feature artist selection committee. Her blue and purple wild iris design will be imprinted on aprons, T-shirts and posters commemorating this year's fair.

"It's wonderful to be recognized by your peers for your work," said Pankhurst. "To have people paying for your work is really exciting."

In conjunction with Art on the Pointe, the Assistance League is also hosting Lobster Fest II at the activity center on the Ford grounds on Saturday, June 12 starting at 7 p.m.

"It's a casual get-together for our members and friends," says Lobster Fest II co-chair Kathy Marowska. "It's a picnic-style dinner with 1 1/2 pound lobsters, chicken, dancing and a mini auction featuring a portrait from our feature artist, a Steamboat Resort package and Red Wing tickets."

Proceeds from Art on the Pointe benefit the Northeast Guidance Center, a non-profit organization providing mental health services for high-risk children, adults and families on Detroit's east side, Harper Woods and the five Grosse Pointes.

Admission to Art on the Pointe is $3 for adults, children 10 and under enter free.

Fair hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days. Paid parking is available across the street from the estate, or at the Chapoton pump station lot at Jefferson and Nine Mile Road in case of inclement weather prior to the event, and will be coordinated by the Shorewood Kiwanis Club.

For more information, call (313) 824-5699.

Dominican Literacy Center honors tutors, students

The Dominican Literacy Center celebrated its 10th anniversary April 29, at a dinner at the Roostertail in Detroit. Sister Marlene Lieder and Sister Patricia Glaab planned the event to thank the many DLC volunteer tutors, students, friends and benefactors.

More than 375 guests attended, including Grosse Pointe Devin Scillian of WDIV-TV, who served as emcee; Cardinal Adam Maida and Levona Whitaker, executive director of the Michigan Literacy Inc.

The center always needs more volunteer tutors. It will hold a training workshop for people who would like to become tutors from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. Friday, June 11 and from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, June 12. All materials and refreshments will be provided. To register, call (313) 882-4853.

Promises, promises:
The Juvenile Diabetes

Guests at the Dominican Literacy Center's 10th anniversary celebration included, from left, Grosse Pointers Susan and Don Dungan and Mollie Rentz. Don Dungan and Rentz are volunteer tutors.

Foundation will hold its Promise Ball on Friday, June 11, at the Roostertail. The black-tie gala will feature food, a raffle and dancing to the music of Nouveaute. Proceeds will help fund diabetes research.

Honorary chairmen include Grosse Pointers Dr. Kim and Mado Lie and Diane Egan. Promise Ball tickets start at $175 a person. Sponsor tickets are $250 and $300. For information, call (248) 569-6171.

Italian Interlude

Michigan Opera Theatre will celebrate the artistic heritage of metropolitan Detroit's Italian-Americans with a benefit dinner for the Detroit Opera House "Italian Interlude — An Evening Gala" on Friday, June 18, at the Detroit Opera House.

More than 350 people are expected to attend the event which will include the auction of a painting by Carla Mazzucato signed by Luciano Pavarotti, Jose Carreras and Placido Domingo when they appear in Detroit's Three Tenors concert.

The organizers of the event hope for a strong turnout to welcome new Italian Consul Gianluca Alberini to Detroit.

Village Art Festival

The 13th annual Village Art Festival will be held from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, June 5 and 6, on the south side of Kercheval at St. Clair. The event is sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Artists Association and the Village Merchants Association.

More than 100 artists and artisans will display their work in the juried art show. The free family festival will also include activities for children. Awards will be presented at 1 p.m. Sunday on the St. Clair Plaza.

Survivors' benefit:

The Drug Enforcement Agency Survivors' benefit fund, an educational fund for the children of slain DEA agents, provides financial assistance for spouses and preserves the memory of slain agents and employees.

A dinner dance will be held on Friday, June 4, to benefit the fund. The evening will include the music of Rumpelstiltskin and a live auction.

Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer is honorary chairman. Grosse Pointe Farms residents Peter and Elaine Schweitzer are chairmen of the event. For tickets, call (313) 964-3495.

Sun, medications often don't mix

By Dr. Richard Ferrara
Special Writer

In the 19th century, pale skin was desired because it meant that its owner didn't perform outdoor manual labor. When the industrial revolution moved the majority of the working class indoors, a tan became fashionable and often was associated with wealth, leisure and good health.

Today we know that tanned skin is anything but healthy. In fact, the sun's rays are responsible for more than 90 percent of skin cancers.

To protect yourself from damaging rays, it's best to avoid the sun between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. You should also wear sunscreen of SPF 15 or higher and a hat with a brim when you're outdoors.

Parents should be particularly careful of exposing their children to the sun. One severe sunburn during the first 15 years of life can double the risk for skin cancer.

But even when you've taken the proper precautions it's still possible to get burned, especially if your medication causes photosensitivity.

Over-the-counter pain relievers such as Advil, Naprin, Motrin and Aleve, and topical antihistamines that contain diphenhydramine, like Benadryl, may not mix with UV rays. They make the skin extra sensitive to the sun and are more likely to burn.

Many prescription medications also contribute to photosensitivity. Antipsychotics and antidepressants like Thorazine, Compazine and Stelazine, hypoglycemics (medication for non-insulin dependent diabetes), and diuretics, such as Hydromox and Diuril, also make skin burn easily. Commonly prescribed antibiotics like Ciprofloxacin, "sulfa" drugs, and any antibiotic in the tetracycline family can cause sun sensitivity. Even birth control pills and some after-shaves and fragrances can set you up for a reaction.

For people taking these medications, even those who "never burn," the effect of sun exposure can be severe. The result may be a painful sunburn, a mild allergic reaction, hives, severe reddening of the skin or an eczema-like rash that itches, swells, blisters, oozes or causes the skin to scale.

If you are taking a medication that causes sun sensitivity but plan to be outside, prepare carefully. Choose a sunblock or broad-spectrum sunscreen that shields UVA and UVB rays.

Sunblock reflects or completely blocks the light, which is more effective than sunscreens that absorb and filter the sun's rays. Apply the sunblock or sunscreen at least 30 minutes before you go into the sun and reapply it throughout the day. Wear a hat, sunglasses, and closely woven clothing; when possible, seek shade. Remember that you can get burned on a cloudy day, especially if you're taking a medication that makes your skin sun sensitive.

If you do experience a severe reaction and seek help within about 12 hours, your physician can sometimes prescribe an oral steroid which will shut down the inflammatory process. To relieve local inflammation, use cortisone cream and cool compresses. Add whole milk to the compresses; the fat will soothe and moisturize burned skin. Apply an over-the-counter lotion like Sarna or Sanol HC and take aspirin or an NSAID (non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drug) such as Motrin or Advil for additional relief. Above all, stay out of the sun.

During the summer months, it's important to check the labels on your medications for warnings or to ask your doctor about precautions or side effects when the medication is prescribed. Read the information the pharmacy provides with prescriptions, or ask your pharmacist about side effects. If the medication indicates that it causes sensitivity to the sun, it's best to avoid the sun's rays altogether.

Senior Community thanks volunteers

The St. John Senior Community hosted an appreciation luncheon recently to thank volunteers for brightening the lives of residents, families and staff of the continuing care facility. More than 60 volunteers and guests attended. Residents displayed their watercolor paintings, which were created with the help of volunteer artist Dort Hartemayer of Grosse Pointe Woods, right. At the left is Mary Joan DeNomme of Harper Woods, who volunteers at the center with her husband, Robert DeNomme.

For more information about becoming a volunteer, call Mary Ellen Stempfle at (313) 343-8000, ext. 359.

Bon Secours Cottage Hospital sponsors adaptive golf clinic

Men and women challenged by the effects of illness or injury are finding they don't have to give up their passion for golf. Recreation therapists from the Cottage Hospital Rehabilitation Department of Bon Secours Cottage Health Services, are helping physically challenged individuals get back on the course.

"People who have experienced stroke, amputation, hip or knee replacements or cardiac conditions often are afraid to get back into their former activities because they can't function the way they used to," said Bruce Ogilvy, therapeutic recreation specialist. "But there are all sorts of adaptive techniques and equipment to help people enjoy their favorite types of recreation, including golf."

A free, adaptive golf clinic will be offered by Bon Secours Cottage Health Services and Rammler Golf Club on three consecutive Friday mornings, beginning June 11.

The first session meets from 10 to 11 a.m. in the lower level Boardrooms at Cottage Hospital. At this session, participants are introduced to adaptive equipment, including gloves and gripping devices, specially designed golf clubs to use while seated, and wheelchairs with swing-out seats. A list of area golf courses that are accessible to people with limited abilities and information on adaptive golf associations also is provided.

On June 18 and 25, the clinic participants will meet at Cottage Hospital and ride to Rammler Golf Club in the hospital's 15-passenger, wheelchair-accessible van, for a two-hour session with Corky Marcinkowski. Adaptive techniques and skill development are the focus of these on-the-course sessions.

To enroll in the Adaptive Golf Clinic or for more information, call Bruce Ogilvy at (313) 640-2186.

Class size is limited and participants are asked to bring their own clubs if possible.

The hospital is located at 22101 Moross at Mack, east of I-94. The lecture is part of St. John CareLink's educational program series. CareLink membership offers a special link to health services, education and benefits for people 55 or older. There is no cost to attend, but space is limited.

To register or for free CareLink membership, call (800) 751-5465. CareLink members will receive coupons for free parking.

American Red Cross offers water safety tips

• Always swim with a buddy; never swim alone.

• Know your swimming limits and stay within them. Don't try to keep up with a stronger skilled swimmer or encourage others to keep up with you. Keep an eye on weaker swimmers. If they appear tired, encourage them to rest on land.

• Alcohol and swimming don't mix. Alcohol impairs your judgment, balance and coordination. It affects your swimming and diving skills and reduces your body's ability to stay warm.

• Obey "No Diving" signs which indicate the area is unsafe for head first entries. Enter feet first into water rather than head first if you don't know the depth. In addition, it is important to get instruction from a qualified instructor.

• Watch out for the "dangerous too's" — too tired, too cold, too far from safety, too much sun, too much strenuous activity.

• Swim in supervised areas only.

• Do not chew gum or eat while you swim; you could easily choke.

• Use common sense about swimming after eating. In general, you do not have to wait an hour after eating before you may safely swim. However, if you have had a large meal, it is wise to let digestion get started before doing any strenuous activity such as swimming.

• Always wear a Coast Guard-approved life jacket when boating and fishing.

• Know local weather conditions and prepare for electrical storms. Because water conducts electricity, it is wise to stop swimming or boating as soon as you see or hear a storm.

• Know how to prevent, recognize and respond to emergencies. Remember CHECK-CALL-CARE — CHECK the scene to be sure it's safe and CHECK the victim, CALL 9-1-1 or your local emergency number, and CARE for the person until help arrives.

In the event of a drowning:
• Remove the victim from the water and have someone call 9-1-1 or your local emergency number.

• Check consciousness and breathing.

• If the victim is not breathing, open the airway and attempt rescue breathing. If breaths do not go in, re-tilt the head and attempt rescue breathing again.

• If air still does not go in, give abdominal thrusts (Heimlich maneuver) for children and adults to clear the airway.

• Once the airway is clear, provide rescue breathing or CPR as needed.

To learn about water safety or to enroll in a Red Cross water safety course, call (313) 576-4101.

CPR class slated for June 9

Know Your Skin

by Lisa A. Manz-Dulac, MD

Hives. Referred to as urticaria, the appearance of red, itchy bumps or large areas raised above the surface of the skin (what most of us call a rash) is not in itself a disease, but rather indicates your skin's reaction to another problem.

A sudden onset of hives may be linked to an allergic reaction, such as to a new medication, infections, lotions, chemicals or in rarer occasions foods.

Long-lasting or chronic urticaria may also be caused by an allergic reaction, or it may indicate an autoimmune response.

Patients are most commonly treated with oral antihistamines, and topical or oral steroids. Rashes which do not resolve with typical treatments may require blood tests or biopsies to help determine the cause.

To learn more about hives, call your dermatologist, or call us at Eastside Dermatology (313) 884-3380

Novel combines mystery, murder, cast of comic characters

"The Death of a Constant Lover"
By Lev Raphael
Walker and Company, 276
pages, $23.95.

A prize-winning short story writer, Lev Raphael is also a novelist and critic who turned to crime fiction. His Nick Hoffman series is attracting attention from a reading public fascinated by all things criminal.

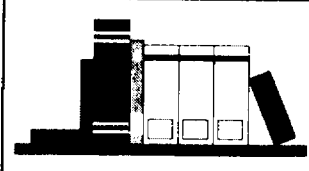

He lives in Michigan where he continues to create fiction, essays and reviews. He is also the mystery review columnist for the Detroit Free Press.

His newest book is the third Nick Hoffman mystery, "The Death of a Constant Lover," a humorous and satirical observation on the extremely peculiar goings-on of a certain faculty at the State University of Michigan.

Nick Hoffman is a youthful member of this elite group, EAR (the Department of English, American Studies, and Rhetoric), who is working hard to maintain his tenure track. Unfortunately, because of his curiosity, he becomes involved in some campus murders which lead him ever deeper into a tantalizing situation in which he attempts to solve the meaning of the dead bodies found on the campus.

Hoffman's roommate and cohort, Stefan, tries to help him with these puzzling crimes. Together, they pursue whatever vague trails and clues come their way, but the case remains stubbornly difficult to resolve.

Biblio File

By Elizabeth P. Walker

As Hoffman tells it: "Two years ago, the body of my office-mate Perry Cross had turned up in the Michigan River, snagged on some rocks right near the bridge. It wasn't a diving accident... All kinds of things showed up in the Michigan River — notebooks, beer cans, sneakers, condoms. But there'd never been a body before."

Raphael displays a masterful sense of the ridiculous and a clever skill in describing his fellow faculty members with all their idiosyncrasies. His portraits of people are often comedic but to the point. For instance, Hoffman relates an encounter with a pair of graduate students: "On my way over the bridge I ran into Betty and Bill Malatesta, the two brightest and friendliest graduate students in my department, English, American Studies, and Rhetoric (EAR). For as long as I had been there, they had both been publishing articles, presenting conference papers, making themselves the stars of the PhD program. They were cheerful, sexy and attractive — a sort of intellectual Bogey and Bacall."

Raphael also describes a number of unforgettable characters. For one, there is "Juno Dromgoole, the rowdy visiting professor of Canadian studies, who dashed across the bridge toward Parker Hall, her chic black leather briefcase clutched under one arm like a large purse."

Hoffman also discusses his new office-mate, Lucille Mochtar, a minority hire, who was generating some ugly comments from other faculty members. Mochtar had been hired right out of Berkeley's graduate school at an amazing salary, without any publications.

The author is not only superlatively skilled in his depiction of the usual faculty crowd with all their peculiarities as well as intellectual specialties, he also paints word portraits of the various aspects of the sprawling campus. Readers are quickly introduced to all the elements that complete this faculty cast as well as the picturesque setting, a setting which provides an excellent background for murderous misdeeds which begin to haunt its citizens.

Raphael comes well-equipped with a disarming sense of humor which often radiates light upon the horrendous misdeeds perpetuated on this campus. His light touch provides frequent relief from the dire shenanigans which have turned the university into a quagmire of suspicion and the object of finger-pointing.

His mystery is an amusing saga of suspicion and misdeeds which entertains readers. There really isn't too much mystery involved; the pleasure is in the odd characters and their frequently funny mishaps.

This book is not really for the dyed-in-the-wool enthusiasts of puzzling murders and dastardly misdeeds; rather it is more of a light-hearted exploration of a Midwestern university with a cast of characters who often light up the screen with their dilemmas.

The author is very clever in his deft combination of the comic and the crime; nothing really profound, indeed. An amusing read.

Michigan-grown asparagus makes delicious local guacamole

Many of us are familiar with guacamole (gwah-kah-MOH-lee) that is made with fresh avocado and served with corn chips or as a garnish on a plate of Mexican food.

This week's recipe takes guacamole to a new level as its main ingredient is fresh Michigan asparagus.

A weekend in Commerce Township led me to a farm stand where the crop de jour is asparagus. At $1.25 a pound, it is by far the freshest asparagus I've ever tasted.

I prepared a cold, marinated salad with the first pound before going back to purchase two more pounds. With my purchase I was given a flier with some recipes, including one for asparagus guacamole.

Fifth generation farmer Rob Long oversees the operation of the Long Family Orchard and Farm, which has been here for more than 100 years. May is harvest time for Michigan-grown asparagus. With optimal climate conditions (which we are currently experiencing, according to Long) the harvest may roll over into the beginning of June.

Asparagus guacamole was super easy to make and surprisingly close in taste to the avocado type. Unlike avocado, asparagus does not become brown when exposed to air. This fat-free version of guacamole will maintain a beautiful presentation throughout the entire party. My tasty green dip looked "just made" even the day after I prepared it.

Michigan Guacamole

4 cups cut fresh asparagus (1 lb.)
1 small garlic clove, minced
2 teaspoons fresh lemon or lime juice
1/4 cup canned, chopped green chilies
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cumin (seeds or ground)
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped, seeded tomato

Cook the asparagus until tender (I chose to steam it). Drain well and cool to room temperature. In a food processor or blender, process the cooked asparagus, garlic, lemon or lime juice, green chilies, salt and cumin until the mixture is smooth. Don't overprocess.

Transfer mix to a bowl and stir in the onion and the tomato. Chill for at least one hour before serving with tortilla chips or as a side dish at your next Mexican dinner party. This recipe yields about 2 cups. Store it covered, in the refrigerator.

If you don't make it out to Long's Farm in time for asparagus, don't fret. June brings strawberry picking followed by late summer sweet corn and autumn pumpkins. Apples and cider are available September through December. There's even a daily availability hotline: (248) 360-3774. It's enough to keep the Long family busy, year-round.

Flirting, French-style

By Sandy Schopbach
Special Writer

Last week I was guiding someone across the French countryside when she accused me of flirting. It wasn't exactly an accusation; it was more of an observation.

We were sitting at a sunny table on the harbor of Honfleur, a picture postcard fishing town in Normandy on the Atlantic. The waiter, admittedly a good-looking man, appeared a bit tired after two hours on the job. All I was doing was what the French call "huiler les rouages" (lubricating the gears). The sun was hot. It was late to be seated. We were hungry and wanted a real lunch, not just a sandwich in a cafe. That waiter had every right to tell us the kitchen was closing. He held our fate in his hands.

In such a social situation in France, that requires a smile or two, along with some gentle humor.

The meal was delicious.

It's a game, really. Like chess. (Don't let me get started on the chess game between Steve McQueen and Faye Dunaway in "The Thomas Crown Affair." That was another thing altogether.) You do this. I do that. And we both enjoy ourselves.

Come to think of it, my tourist had already accused me of flirting the previous night in Mont St. Michel. And the day before that, in the Loire Valley. She was obviously missing the point.

What is flirting? Maybe it's a concept young people don't understand anymore because it's not Politically Correct in an age of sexual harassment litigation. But I come from the era of Doris Day movies when it was OK to flirt, and even socially admired, provided you did it well.

And provided you did it with class.

Maybe a better question is, "What isn't flirting?"

Flirting is not innuendo. Innuendo means, "Well, I wouldn't say no." Flirting is innocent. At least on the Continent. And that's a relief. You can be a woman; he can be a man. (But it's better if the woman starts, or as the French say, "announces the color," a reference to bidding in bridge.)

Flirting should be harmless. It should be light. It should be appropriate. And the situation should be one where you will probably never see each other again. In fact, some of the most delicious moments are when you know you'll never see each other again.

Example: When we got back to Paris, we were driving along near the Opera when I saw a man crossing the busy street. He saw my car and stopped, mid-lane. I saw him, slowed and motioned him across. He shook his head, bowed slightly and waved me through. I smiled to thank him and as I passed he flashed me one of the warmest, broadest smiles I've ever seen.

Looking over at my passenger, I discovered she was smiling back at him every bit as broadly. She was flirting, too. That simple exchange of smiles warmed us for the entire day. And that's what flirting, French-style, is about.

Knights edge South Lake; then romp to district championship

Lauren Ealba of University Liggett School cuts between two South Lake defenders during the Knights' 3-0 victory over the Cavaliers in a Division III district soccer game.

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

The only thing University Liggett School's girls soccer team lost last week in the Division III district tournament was the coin flip before the opening game with South Lake.

"We were playing on their field and (last Monday) was a windy, blustery day so I was hoping we'd get the wind at our backs in the first half," said Knights coach David Backhurst after ULS beat South Lake 3-0, then defeated Central Line 11-1 and Warren Fitzgerald 10-0 to advance to the regional round.

"That way maybe we could score an early goal and get a jump on them, but when we lost the coin toss, I just told the defense to step up and do the job."

That's exactly what happened. Led by sweeper Katie Danaher, the defense corps, which also includes Jessica Cobb, Celeste Hubbard and Nayla Kazzi, held down the Cavaliers' scoring chances in the first half, while goalkeeper Ronita Roy turned back the shots that got through.

South Lake did hit the goal post on one first-half shot and when that bounced away, Backhurst breathed a sign of relief.

"If they had scored on that one, it could have changed the whole outcome," he said. "That would have fired them up in front of their home crowd."

ULS was able to mount more of an offensive attack in the second half and nine minutes into the half, Lauren Ealba found some open space on the field and drilled a hard shot to give the Knights a 1-0 lead.

Seven minutes later,

Hubbard sent a pass to Keisha Bahadu, who scored to make it 2-0.

"Lauren's goal gave us momentum, but when Keisha scored, it seemed to inspire South Lake," Backhurst said. "They through everything at us for the last 20 minutes."

Finally, with 10 seconds remaining, Bahadu scored her second goal of the game to complete the Knights' scoring.

One of the keys to the victory was the outstanding job of marking Hubbard did on South

North wins second straight district title

Grosse Pointe North won its second straight Division II girls' soccer district championship last with a 1-0 victory over Anchor Bay.

Sophomore Beth Colalucia scored the only goal of the game with 15 minutes remaining.

"I'm very proud of the way this team came together," said coach Chip Stencil, whose squad faced seventh-ranked Bloomfield Hills Lahser in a regional semifinal at Bloomfield Hills Andover. "I can't say enough about the seniors on this team. They refused to let this be the last game of their careers."

The Norsemen's roster has nine seniors, including tri-captains Annie Peacock, Claire Kotwick and Jessica Harrell. Other seniors are defenders Julia Rouls and Sara Rahaim, midfielder Andrea Vyyser and forwards Carrie Johnson, Kristie Rogers and Kate Barnes.

North advanced to the district championship game with a 6-1 semifinal victory over St. Clair.

Peacock led the Norsemen's offensive charge with three straight goals to boost North's lead to 5-0.

Junior Kristin Japowicz opened the scoring when she went between two Saints defenders and beat the goalkeeper. Freshman Leah Cherf made it 2-0 when she headed in a Peacock cross with three minutes left in the first half.

Junior Julie Laethem added North's final goal late in the second half.

"That game really showed how deep and talented this team is," Stencil said. "We struggled to find the back of the net through the first 35 minutes of that game, but once we got going, we were nearly impossible to stop."

The Norsemen finished second in the Macomb Area Conference White Division with a 7-2-1 record. North's final regular season mark was

Blue Devils slip past pesky Regina in district soccer title game

It wasn't easy, but Grosse Pointe South's girls soccer team is moving on to the second round of the state playoffs.

The Blue Devils won the Division I district championship at Barnes Field last week with a 1-0 victory over an aggressive Regina squad.

The Saddletites came into the game with a 6-7 record, but Regina played in the tough Catholic League against perennial powers like Madison Heights, Bishop Foley, Birmingham Marian, Livonia Ladywood and Farmington Hills Mercy.

There were three stoppages of play during the game, two for injuries and one for a dog on the field. The latter turned out to be costly for South because the Blue Devils scored a goal before the referee could whistle play to stop.

The goal was disallowed, causing quite a controversy. A report was filed to the Michigan High School Athletic Association in hopes of averting a similar occurrence.

South's Allison Dold scored the only goal of the game that counted when she knocked a pass from Beth Howson into the Regina net less than two minutes into the second half.

Regina goalkeeper Danielle Beaurgard kept her team in the game by making 22 saves — many of them spectacular — on the 39 shots sent toward the goal by nine South players.

Blue Devils goalie Sylvia

Ridgway had to stop only six shots as defenders Christina Bakalis, Kyle Barrett, Meghan Robson and Ann Mumaw worked hard to keep Regina away from the net. South also got strong two-way play from midfielders Hannah Wenzel, Courtney Lytle, Megan Shapiro and Nicol D'Hondt.

During the last 10 minutes, Regina applied heavy pressure and the midfielders were forced to play more defense than offense.

South got off to a good start in the district, scoring a minute and 15 seconds into the game with Fraser when a shot deflected off Caitlin Howe in the goal.

The Blue Devils were never headed after that, going on to beat the Ramblers 4-1.

Howson and Shapiro scored the next two goals with Julie Berschback assisting on both. D'Hondt scored the final goal of the first half, assisted by Shapiro.

The second half saw the Blue Devils aim 17 shots at Fraser's goalkeeper, bringing the total to 38, but South was unable to add to its lead.

A defensive mistake allowed the Ramblers to score on one of their two second-half shots. Ridgway had to make only four saves.

In the district semifinal against East Detroit, South had little difficulty beating the Farms-City-Park Ruth highlights

SSA DIVISION
Athletics 7, White Sox 4
Max Schmidt got the win in relief of Clark and Tom Siskowski each had two hits. The As' Andy Kordalski made an outstanding catch in the outfield. Mohammed Maki played well in center field for the White Sox. Drew Bedan had two solid hits for the Sox, while Ken Francis held the Athletics scoreless for four innings.

Athletics 9, Rangers 2
Winning pitcher Tom Sawicki pitched a complete game. Joe Stelmach led the way with two hits. Grant Leckhart made an outstanding catch and Gerard Martin played well behind the plate. Rangers players Jim O'Neill and Nick Andrews played well during the game. Highlights for the Sox, while Chris Stein and Nick Posavetz had solid hits.

Angels 16, Devil Rays 11
Ken Jernzen and J.P. Wagner combined for five innings of hitless shutout relief as the Angels came from behind for the victory. The Devil Rays opened an early 11-2 lead, but the Angels scored the next 14 runs. Jernzen had four hits, including two doubles, while Nick Fischer had two triples and five RBI. Wagner, Lance Carroll and Tim Lincecum contributed two hits apiece, while Mike Mullings, David Crow and Ryan Thomas collected one each. Chris DeMege, Brian Russell, Andy Spinnery, Matt Stemer and Peter Hirtanek led the Devil Rays' attack.

Red Sox 9, Devil Rays 6
The Red Sox received strong pitching from Mike Snook and Brian King. Snook had two RBI, while King should stole four bases and scored twice. Andy Spinnery hit a leadoff homer for the Devil Rays, while team-mate Chris DeMege pitched well.

Red Sox 11, Cardinals 1
Jeff Stiller led the Red Sox with two hits and three RBI. Alex Lang played a good game at catcher and had a hit. Cardinals' Womertan hit a three-run homer. Highlights for the Cardinals were the play of Bradley Vanderbrack, who had a double and played well at shortstop, and the pitching of Michael Ramanelli.

Red Sox 8, Rangers 1
The Red Sox combined strong pitching by Brian King and Mike Snook with a solid offense game. Left fielder running catch with the bases loaded. The Rangers attack was led by Danny Andriashchko, who had two hits and two RBI. P.J. Janatol and Christian Van Beveler pitched well for the Rangers.

Mariners 21, Devil Rays 13
Mariners' starter Nathan Harrington picked up the win with relief help from Ben Schrade and Charlie Mackinnon. Brian Gaff had four hits for the Mariners, while Justin Buechler, Jon Dyer, Matt Daney, Mike Waters and Mackinnon also hit safely. Dyer's sacrifice fly to right field drove in the winning run during a 13-run fifth inning. Highlights for the Mariners were the play of Dyer, who had a hard line drive at first base and a triple to drive off the runner and Ryan Thomas collected one each. Chris Lake's leading scorer, Jennifer Swalec.

"She scored 24 goals this year, but Celeste did a fantastic job against her," Backhurst said.

ULS held a 23-21 shooting edge in the contest as the Knights beat the Cavaliers for the second time in three seasons but all three games have been close. This was the first time that South Lake, which had only one loss and one tie during the regular season, had been shut out.

"We've developed quite a rivalry with them," Backhurst said. "Each year we both have pretty strong teams. They're moving up a division next year so we won't see them in the tournament. Maybe we can get a 'friendly' with them during the season next year."

The rest of the tournament was somewhat anticlimactic as the opening game was, for all intents and purposes, the district championship.

Bahadu scored the first of her three goals only 1:45 into the Center Line game and ULS went on to an 11-1 victory over the Panthers.

Danaher scored four goals, Ealba had two and Kim Shortreed and Alex Brown added one apiece.

The district championship game with Fitzgerald was just as one-sided.

Bahadu again ignited the scoring outburst when she scored at the 10-minute mark of the first half on the way to her second hat trick in as many games.

Ealba scored three goals to break the varsity record of 34 set by Heather Heidel in 1993. Ealba's 35 goals and Bahadu's 28 also eclipsed the record for two ULS players. Heidel and Shera Fritz combined for 57 goals in 1993.

Millie Tompkins scored twice against Fitzgerald, while Brown and Kazzi completed the scoring.

Roy made three saves in posting the shutout.

Grosse Pointe North's girls soccer team celebrates after beating Anchor Bay 1-0 in the Division II district championship game last week. The Norsemen won a district in the second straight season and played seventh-ranked Bloomfield Hills Lahser in the regional semifinal.

Fitness Firm classes begin on June 14

The Fitness Firm will begin a series of low-impact aerobics classes on Monday, June 14.

Classes will be on Mondays and Wednesdays from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. and Mondays through Thursday evenings from 6:45 to 7:45. All classes will be at the JFK Library in Harper Woods.

The cost for the six-week session is $42 with an additional $3 fee for new members. Participants can attend as many classes as they wish with no extra charge.

For more information, call (313) 886-7534.

10-3-4. The Norsemen's only loss since April 23 was to MAC White champion Utica, which North beat earlier in the season.

"I think we have had an outstanding second half of the season," Stencil said. "The girls didn't let down for one minute in the two district games and when they play like that it makes it very difficult for opposing teams to get any."

University Liggett School's softball team was a decisive winner last week when the Knights met the Academy of the Sacred Heart in a battle of second place teams from their respective conferences.

Jessica and Kelly Harrell, along with Rahaim at stopper, middlefielders Erica Muncy, Amy Socia, Laura Butler, Katie Verb, Desiree Michaels, Colalucia and Kotwick and goalkeepers Natalie Pathoff and Merrie Farmer allowed only one goal during the district tournament.

In the Anchor Bay game, they held the Tars' leading scorer, Sarah Earle, to only one shot on goal.

"Defensively, we were outstanding," Stencil said. "Those girls didn't let down for one minute in the two district games and when they play like that it makes it very difficult for opposing teams to get any."

Offensively, forward Carolyn and Lori Whistler, Caitlin Campbell and Katie Myers joined with the others in the front line to provide North with a deep and potent attack.

Sacred Heart scored twice in the first, but Knights pitcher Nicole Young blanked ASH the rest of the way, striking out eight in four innings.

Junior catcher Erin Galvin scored four runs on two walks, a double and a triple, while Young was 3-for-3 with a triple and five RBIs.

Stacie Hadgkosti and Tracey Greene each hit doubles.

It was the final home game for ULS seniors: Ilyse Morrison, Michelle McGee and Young.

South girls win MAC Red

An excellent combination of sprints, hurdles, distance and field events gave Grosse Pointe South's girls track team first place in last week's Macomb Area Conference Red Division meet.

Depth was a factor once again for the Blue Devils as they won only three events, including two by Erin Smialek, but had 119 points to 99 for runner-up Stevenson.

Sterling Heights was third with 94 points, followed by Warren-Mott 84, Port Huron Northern 61, Ford II 22 and Eisenhower eighth.

Smialek won the long jump and the 400-meter dash, while Anne Laperriere took first place in the 100 hurdles.

South had six second-place finishes, including Shannon Moore in the shot put, Heather Whiteley, long jump; Cassie Weaver, 300 hurdles; Heidi Crowley, 3,200 run; and the two sprinters, Laperriere, Kate Morici, Suzi Piech, Marlowe Marsh and Smialek.

Others with points were Molly Ramsdell, Elizabeth Wolfram, Mary Gibson, Elizabeth Osburn, Amanda Andrade, Caitlin Carroll and Jamie Flanagan.

Last weekend South competed in the state team championships, which included the 10 regional champions, and took first place in two events.

Smialek won the long jump, while the 400 relay team of Laperriere, Whiteley, Marsh and Smialek also took first place.

The Blue Devils also got points from Ramsdell, Kathleen Clark, Theresa Watts, Moore, Krystal Parker, Andrade, Piech, Weaver and Osburn.

Rockford was first for the second straight year.

Erin Smialek of Grosse Pointe South leaps to a first-place finish in the long jump at the state team championships in Brighton.

A costly victory for South baseball team

By Chuck Klone

Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's 12-11 victory over Harper Woods last week was a costly triumph for the Blue Devils.

Shortstop Charlie Braun, an All-State selection a year ago who was one of Michigan State's top baseball recruits, suffered a broken and dislocated little finger on his left hand while sliding into third base.

"We'd like to have him back for Saturday's game with Grosse Pointe North in the Class A district at North but I think he's going to be out for a couple of weeks," said South coach Dan Griesbaum.

"It's a tough loss, but other kids will just have to step up."

Results, highlights from GPSA house league games

UNDER-6
Bulldogs 2, Hawks 1
Goals: Timmy Pankowski (Bulldogs); Will Look (Hawks).
Assists: Mark Stormes (Bulldogs); Jack Clint (Hawks).
Comments: The Bulldogs scored early after pressure from Pankowski, Stormes and Scott Dirksen, but strong play by the Hawks' Riley Walters and Gianluca Scerri kept the score 1-0 throughout the first half. The Hawks scored early in the second half, but then Pankowski moved up to forward from defense and notched the winner.

Jaguars 1, Bears 0
Goal: Will Quinn (Jaguars).
Comments: The Jaguars also had good offensive games from Vinay Gudugunta, Henry Fildes and Cameron Valade. Alla Kedzierski and Mike Alarugi made some good plays for the Bears, while Marcus Kamsen, John Willard and Mark Yanis were strong offensively.

with Catholic League teams. Catholic Central rode a three-run first inning to a 5-3 victory over South.

South scored a run in the first on a double by Rob Starrs, a pair of walks and Andrew Hendrie's sacrifice fly. The Blue Devils added two runs in the sixth. Mayk singled, Jeff Nelson walked and both scored on a single by Starrs.

"Andrew Vlasak pitched well except for some control trouble in the first inning," coach Griesbaum said.

Dan Battjes pitched a six-hitter and Griesbaum went 3-for-3 with three RBIs to lead South to a 5-3 win over Brother Rice.

The Blue Devils picked up a run in the first on a single by Braun, a stolen base and Griesbaum's single. South added two runs in the third on a homer by Braun, a single by Griesbaum and a throwing error on Al Guastello's grounder.

South capped the scoring in the fifth when Starrs singled and Griesbaum homered.

Battjes struck out six and walked two in going the distance.

"He did a nice job," coach Griesbaum said. "He didn't walk people."

South improved its overall record to 14-15. The Blue Devils' district game with North is scheduled for 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

Goals: Catherine Fowler, Taylor Graham, Mark Harp (Bulls); Scott Dirksen (Bulldogs).
Comments: Patrick Lane applied heavy pressure for the Bulldogs, while Trent Gehring, Katie Case and Sam Whittmer provided excellent defense for the Bulls.

Spartans 1, Eagles 1
Goals: Fred Weber (Spartans); Andrew Smith (Eagles).
Comments: Spartan standouts were Catherine Kiroos on defense, Clark Ditzhazy in goal and David Kiroos for his two-way play. The Eagles had good games from Juhanne Grobbel on defense, David Gushee on offense and Andrew Malley in goal.

Panthers 1, Spartans 0
Goal: Chelsea MacGriff (Panthers).
Assists: Nick Faiver, Brian Cleary, Louis Saravolatz (Panthers).
Comments: Panther goalies Kirk Dettloff and Kiera Maloney stopped several scoring attempts by the Spartans. Andrew Achille played well in midfield for the Spartans, Fred Weber had a good all-around game and Clark Ditzhazy was strong defensively.

UNDER-8
Ducks 2, Orioles 0
Goals: Alexander Tomovski, Jeff Graves (Ducks).
Comments: Christine Bedway and William Basse had strong games for the Ducks at midfield and goalie, respectively. Justin Hadden put pressure on the Ducks' defense with his fine offensive play, while Alexander Stewart and Miranda Coe also played well for the Orioles.

Allemon pitches no-hitter for South

It was a perfect day for Grosse Pointe South's softball team when it met Warren Woods-Tower last week.

Kim Allemon pitched a no-hitter and struck out nine, while Dana Etheridge went 4-for-4 with two RBIs as the Blue Devils rolled past the Titans 13-0 in the Macomb Area Conference crossover game.

Colleen Trybus had a double and homered over the fence, while Maggie Katchmark, Allie Schmitt, Jodie Nyenhuis, Dinah Zebot and Lawren Morawski also had hits for South, which improved its overall record to 16-7.

"We've been playing real well lately," said coach Peggy Van Eckoute. "Kim has been pitching great and everybody is hitting again."

South will face crosstown rival Grosse Pointe North in Saturday's district semifinal game at North at 10 a.m.

Earlier, South swept a doubleheader from Lakeview, winning the first game 4-2 and coming back with a 3-2 victory in the second game.

Allemon pitched a four-hitter in the opener, striking out nine and walking three. Zebot had two hits for South, while Nyenhuis hit a double and Allemon and Schmitt hit singles.

In the second game, Betsey Schmitt earned her first varsity victory, giving up four hits and three walks while striking out seven. Allemon picked up the save.

Zebot went 3-for-3 with a double. Morawski hit a triple, while Allemon, Trybus, Nyenhuis, Allie Schmitt and Monica Regan each had singles.

Norsemen set up division showdown

Grosse Pointe North's softball team won twice in Macomb Area Conference play to head into the final week of the season tied for the White Division lead with Fraser.

North set up a showdown with the Ramblers by beating Sterling Heights 5-1.

The Norsemen jumped ahead early when Meg Guillaumin reached base on an error in the first inning and scored on Nicole Schmitt's double.

North picked up another run in the second when Erin Drouillard walked, advanced to third on a pair of passed balls and scored on a fielder's choice. Sterling Heights, which was outscored 26-2 by North this year, picked up an unearned run in the bottom of the third.

The Norsemen got a fourth-inning run on a walk to Lindsay Hawkins, a single by Guillaumin and Schmitt's RBI groundout. Hawkins scored North's final run in the seventh when she walked and eventually came home on a passed ball.

Julie Mack scattered eight hits to pick up the victory, while Guillaumin and Schmitt collected two hits apiece for the Norsemen.

Earlier, North beat Warren Woods-Tower 8-2 in a MAC crossover game that featured four extra-base hits by the Norsemen.

Hawkins led off the first with a single and Guillaumin was hit by a pitch. Both moved up on a passed ball and scored on consecutive squeeze bunts by Schmitt and Megan Simon.

The Norsemen broke the game open in the third. Mack started things with a walk, stole second and scored on Hawkins' double. Guillaumin followed with an RBI single and stole second and third. Simon walked and both runners scored on Schmitt's double. Champine followed with another RBI double.

North added a run in the fourth when Hawkins singled and eventually scored on a throwing error. The Norsemen capped the scoring in the sixth when pinch hitter Andrea Spencer walked and Hawkins tripled.

Mack and reliever Sarah Smith combined on a six-hitter with eight strikeouts and no walks.

Hawkins went 4-for-4 with three runs, two RBI and two steals. Schmitt had two hits and three RBIs, Guillaumin had a hit and an RBI and Simon a hit and two RBIs.

North started the week with a 3-0 victory over Utica as Mack pitched a two-hitter and struck out 11.

The Norsemen opened the scoring in the second on a walk to Jessica Westbrook, a stolen base and two passed balls. North made it 2-0 in the fourth when Champine led off with a single, stole second, took third on a passed ball and scored on Westbrook's single.

North completed the scoring in the fifth. Hawkins singled, stole second, took third on a passed ball and scored on Schmitt's sacrifice.

Hawkins finished with two hits and two stolen bases for the Norsemen. Guillaumin had a single and two sacrifices and Schmitt hit a double.

Blue Devils post three victories

Kim Allemon had her strike-out pitch working last week as Grosse Pointe South's softball team chalked up three Macomb Area Conference Red Division victories.

Allemon pitched a three-hitter and struck out 10 in the Blue Devils' 6-1 victory over Ford II and she helped herself with a two-run double.

Jodie Nyenhuis had two singles and drove in a run, while Katie Van Lith had two RBIs. Monica Regan had an RBI single for South.

Allemon pitched a two-hit shutout and struck out nine as the Blue Devils blanked Port Huron Northern 4-0.

Kathryn Ball and Dinah Zebot each had two hits, while Van Lith hit a two-run double.

Zebot had two singles and a double in a 3-for-3 performance to lead South to a 10-6 win over Eisenhower.

Nyenhuis, Colleen Trybus and Dana Etheridge each hit a single and a double, Van Lith and Ball had two singles apiece and Allemon hit a double.

Orchid and iris — the most enduring flowers

There are not many flowers that give us such an exciting variety of form and color (along with a life-span unsurpassed in the plant world) as the orchid, which belongs to a plant family which is one of the largest in the vegetable kingdom.

Coming to our world from tropical jungles, this fragile-looking flower has become in recent years the "special occasion" flower for most of us. Virtually unknown a generation or two ago, orchid cultivation, began as a hobby for private collections, has developed into a multi-million dollar business. Within the last 50 years, the varicolored hybrid cattleya, sometimes referred to as "the florist's orchid," has become the bouquet and corsage flower in greatest demand.

Many thousands of amateurs now enjoy growing their own orchids. This fascinating hobby has developed enormously, and every year the orchid displays at flower shows become larger and more important, and the American Orchid Society is an ever-increasing organization.

The large cattleya orchid, which is named for an English horticulturist, is the type which grows on trees which it uses for support, not nourishment, and is often thought to be a parasite plant, which it is not. All orchids do not grow on trees. Some grow in bogs, or forests, or in dry, sandy woods or in water. All orchids are herbs; among the tropical genera is vanilla, one of the few with a culinary value, and of great economic worth.

An unusual feature of orchids is their durability, both as plants and as cut flowers. It takes about seven years to grow a cattleya orchid from seed to bloom, but after that the plant will produce from 50 to 500 flowers. Some plants may die after about 10 years, but many of them will live for 70 years or more. The cut flowers, which look so fragile, will with proper care last many days, especially the cymbidium orchids which can last four or five weeks in a bouquet. The orchids grown by American growers are finer flowers than those found in the jungle because the growers have complete control of heat, moisture, soil and other conditions essential for proper development.

There are many varieties of orchids and they come in many colors. Some are large, flamboyant, almost animal in shape, and others are small, delicate sprays of tiny blossoms. All of them are exotic and beautiful.

The many-colored, many-sized blooms of the iris family are numbered among the plants we think of as symbols of spring. Iris was the goddess of the rainbow and in Greek mythology she was a messenger of the gods — a link between mortals and Olympus in that she touched both sky and earth.

The iris goes back for thousands of years. Sometimes called "the poor man's orchid," its roots were among the botanical booty Pharaoh Thutmosis I brought back to Egypt in 1950 B.C. as part of a collection of medicinal plants. It is the state flower of Tennessee.

There are various English names for iris, including flag, orris and flower de luce. In France it is fleur de lys, the national flower. Orris, or iris, powder is made from the roots. This was a household necessity in the Middle Ages and earlier and was used in medicine and cosmetics.

Iris is not only the flower of France and of Tennessee, but is claimed as the flower of Florence and of Tuscany, in Italy, and vies with the peony and the chrysanthemum as the representative flower of Japan.

Ever since the days of Thutmosis I, the iris has been used in medicine and in earlier ages was used as a cure-all for ague, shivering, epilepsy, headaches, loose teeth and snakebite.

In poetry, the iris is often described to symbolize the sky. The many colors of iris are all col-

Home Tips

PETROLEUM JELLY — I use it on all my leather purses, shoes, coats, etc. It's just as good as the expensive leather lotion sold in shoe stores.

CARPET CLEANER — I use Resolve cleaner on my coats, skirts, pillows, etc., anything that would need to be dry cleaned. It works just as well and saves money on dry cleaning.

PASTA WATER — When you boil water for pasta and potatoes, save the water. Let it cool and use it for your household plants, outside plants, bushes and trees. They love the starch and will grow beautifully for you.

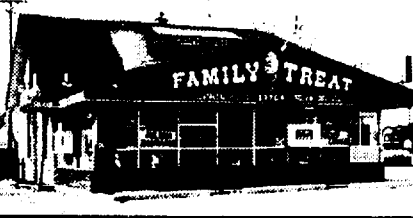

LIPSTICK — When your lipstick gets really low, don't throw it out. Cut it off with a butter knife.

Put it in a bowl and mix it with petroleum jelly. A spoon works best. Then put it in a small pill-like container, and now you have a new lipstick that will be good for your lips. Cynthia C., Buffalo.

EASIER LIGHTING — For Patrice D. of Indianapolis concerning Candle Lighting: Instead of using a clothespin to light the wick at the bottom of the candle, why not use a fireplace match? Amanda E., (11 years old) and M.J. Casey M., Walnut, Calif.

Consider giving an exceptional Father's Day gift

Q. Dear Jewelry Lady, why is it that jewelry stores promote Father's Day so much less than Mother's Day? Dutiful daughter.

A. Dear Dutiful, it's simple. As much as the gender benders would like to change things, men and women are different. That is why women's shoe stores have about five times as many shoes as men's stores. We like shoes, and we like jewelry. It's a fact of life, and not a bad one at that. While there are some women who prefer their Mother's Day and birthday gifts from the power-tool section of Home Depot, and some men who would like nothing more than a Father's Day gift from the family jeweler — these two examples are rare exceptions and not at all the rule.

If your dad is one of the exceptions, consider a gift of cufflinks, a new tie tack (for all those ties you've given him), or maybe a luxurious new money clip or a fine writing instrument (code word for pens over $50) this Father's Day.

Q. Dear Jewelry Lady, on the face of my watch is written "17 jewels." This is not a very decorative timepiece. Where exactly are these jewels? Timely Tina.

A. Dear Timely Tina, what a dilemma, the face of your watch promises more than it appears to deliver. But take heart, the jewels are a part of your watch movement, the innards that make it tick. The jewels in your movement act as bearings to eliminate friction as your watch tells time. They are used in place of metal pieces that are subject to a lot of wear. This is because the jewels are generally made of synthetic corundum (the stuff of ruby and sapphire), which is more durable than metal. So while you can't see the jewels, they do indicate that your watch is well made.

The Jewelry Lady

Less expensive (some say "cheaper") models have a pin-lever movement rather than a jeweled movement.

Q. Dear Jewelry Lady, if pink is the hot color this spring, what gems would you recommend? In the pink.

A. Dear In the pink, The Jewelry Lady has always been a fan of sapphire, and now that pink has become the "in" color, pink sapphire sounds like an excellent choice. Fancy-colored sapphire is available in orange, purple, yellow, white and pink! Sapphire is part of the mineral group corundum which is second in hardness only to diamond. Other transparent pink gems include tourmaline, rose quartz, pink beryl (of the same group as emerald), pink topaz, rhodolite (of the garnet family) and, if you're feeling extravagant, pink diamond.

Fashion tip: Stay away from frilly necklines with lace or bows if you want to show off your necklace. Simple lines in your clothing — and solid-color fabrics — will best show off your jewelry.

Jewelry Lady Note: Store your jewelry wisely! Years ago, one jewelry store patron had a beautiful collection of valuable diamond-set jewelry. Whatever her reason — disdain for banks, thrift, temporary loss of sanity, whatever — she decided to store her jewelry at the bottom of a filled, black plastic trash bag, in her basement. You guessed it. Her husband got the cleaning bug and threw out all the trash in the basement. And there went her jewels. She was covered, but devastated nonetheless, as much of the jewelry had sentimental as well as monetary value.

A bank safety deposit box is your best choice for storing jewelry.

The Jewelry Lady is available to answer all your questions about gems and jewels. You may contact her at rogers@mich.com or fax at (248) 582-9223.

ors that appear in the sky at sunrise, sunset, evening or dawn, or the colors of the rainbow.

Iris blooms are not as durable as orchids, although they survive for a number of days in bouquets and floral arrangements with proper care. In early spring, the tiny lady's slipper orchids are among the first wildflowers to appear in the woods.

In medieval Europe, orchids, and iris, were considered to have aphrodisiac powers. In the 19th century there was a craze for collecting orchids, and auctions in England brought astonishing prices for a single plant.

Jacob Breynius, a 17th century German botanist, described orchids very poetically:

"If nature ever showed her playfulness in the forming of plants, this is visible among the orchids. They take the form of little birds, or insects or lizards. They can look like a man or a woman, or sometimes a clown. They represent the image of a lazy tortoise, a melancholy toad or an agile monkey. Nature has formed orchids in such a way that, unless they make us laugh, they excite our greatest admiration."

Orchids are probably the largest flowering plant family. More than 30,000 wild species have been described and countless man-made hybrids have been developed. The flowers range in size from inch-high tiny ones to 50-foot vines with blooms a foot across. Orchids are next above the iris in the evolutionary scale, both having come from lily-like ancestors to become the most highly specialized of flowers.

Seven steps to ladder safety offered by UL

All across the United States, people will be climbing ladders to spruce up the exterior of their homes, examine gutters, paint walls and perform other tasks associated with spring cleaning. On average, about 145,000 people make emergency-room visits due to ladder mishaps each year. To avoid becoming an emergency-room casualty, the safety experts at Underwriters Laboratories Inc. (UL) share these basic safety guidelines for proper ladder use.

The first step to using any ladder safely is to carefully read the instructions included in the manufacturer's use and care booklet, according to John Drengenberg, consumer affairs manager at UL. The manufacturer's instructions contain guidelines that can help consumers use ladders more safely and effectively and also contain important guidelines for weight and height limits.

"Consumers should choose the proper ladder for the intended task," says Drengenberg. "For example, if the ladder will be used near electrical sources, consumers should use a nonmetallic ladder to reduce the possibility of electrical shock."

Another crucial step is to always inspect the ladder before stepping on the first rung, Drengenberg adds, "Make sure the ladder has been well-maintained, that the rungs are clean and all parts are intact — never climb on a slippery or shaky ladder."

Setting up the ladder correctly may help prevent falls. "When planting the base of any ladder, place all feet on a firm, level surface, not on rocks or boards," says Drengenberg. Spreaders, the devices that hold the front and back sections of a step ladder in an open position, should be completely open and locked before any weight is placed on the ladder. If using an extension ladder, don't place the ladder at too extreme an angle. Remember, different ladders have different safety considerations.

Finally, UL recommends that consumers follow several precautions to help prevent ladder accidents:

- Always look for the familiar UL Listing Mark before purchasing a ladder. The UL Listing Mark on a product means that representative samples of that product have been tested to nationally recognized safety standards with regard to safety hazards.

- Always use a ladder that is long enough for the job at hand.

A great number of ladder accidents are the result of using a ladder that is too short.

- Don't carry equipment while climbing a ladder. Invest in a tool belt or have someone hand the equipment to you.

- Face the ladder when climbing up and down; keep your body centered between both side rails.

- While up on the ladder, don't overextend your reach. Make sure you keep your weight evenly distributed.

- Never move a ladder while standing on it. Always make sure people and equipment are off the ladder before moving or closing it.

- Never stand on a ladder's bucket shelf. Read and follow the warning stickers for highest standing levels.

Ladders, like any other household tools, need to be maintained and used in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions. Following these precautions may help you enjoy longer, safer use of your ladder and help keep you and your family safe during spring cleaning season.

For more information on the safe use of spring-cleaning tools, such as mowers and lawn and garden equipment, visit UL's website at www.ul.com, or call UL's fax-on-demand line at (800) 473-4766.

Household Help

Q. I own a frost-free refrigerator which has an ice maker. The problem I have is that water will flow into the ice bin and freeze solid. At times, if I catch it, I hear an unusual noise coming from the icemaker. The refrigerator is about 8 years old, and this is the first time I've had a problem with the icemaker. What could be wrong?

A. Fortunately for you, the average lifespan for refrigerators is about 15 years. With proper maintenance, your appliance should last another seven or eight years. Now I'll detail several possibilities concerning your icemaker. If you feel inept for the job, call in a professional.

Because you have mentioned that you have water flowing through the inlet valve and into the ice bin, I suspect two causes. Begin by unplugging the refrigerator and removing the ice bin. Remove the screws that hold the cover (you may need to use a coin to pop it off). Now remove the screws around the edges of the mounting plate and carefully pull the plate away from the housing box. Once removed, you'll have access to the switches, motor, thermostat and shut-off arm.

Begin by disconnecting the motor wires and setting a multimeter at RX10. Place a probe to each wire. The tester should read 400 to 600 OHMs of resistance. If not, remove the motor from the mounting plate and install a new motor. For the thermostat, remove the clamp restraint, label and disconnect the wires. Set your multimeter at RX1, place one probe to the shorter of the two wires and the other to the second wire. The thermostat should show continuity through one wire and resistance through the other. If not, replace with a new thermostat, reassemble and reinstall in the reverse.

Here are a few tips on how to restrain old wood furniture to make it look new again.

Surface preparation: Furniture that was previously stained or painted must be stripped to expose bare wood before refinishing. Because old paint and stain is especially difficult to remove, consider using a heavy-duty stripper. By carefully following the directions on the packaging, you should be paint-free in no time.

Some paint and varnish may be a little challenging to remove and will require patience and elbow grease. If the finish still won't come off, sand the surface by hand or with an electric sander using a coarse sandpaper, always going in the same direction as the grain of the wood.

- If stripping the finish reveals cracks and holes, fill them with stainable or matching wood putty and sand smooth.

- Moisture rings and dark spots can be removed by sponging chlorine bleach on the area surrounding the stain. Wipe clean after a few minutes and reapply bleach to the stain. The spot will fade as the bleach dries.

After the old finish has been removed and repairs have been made, sand the entire surface until it's smooth using progressively finer grades of sandpaper. Carefully remove dust with a vacuum and wipe down with a tack cloth to remove all traces of dust.

Applying stain. Always be sure to stir stain well and often during application. This ensures a more even pigment.

To apply stain, you may use a bristle brush, foam brush or clean cloth (depending on what color tone you desire). Be sure to apply evenly in the direction of the grain. Always maintain a "wet edge" by brushing on next to an area that already has stain on it.

Apply stain liberally and allow to penetrate from five to 15 minutes. While stain is still wet, wipe off excess with a clean cloth. Allow drying time according to the directions before applying a second coat of stain.

Protect stained furniture with a polyurethane sealer.

Home buyers fair to be held June 5

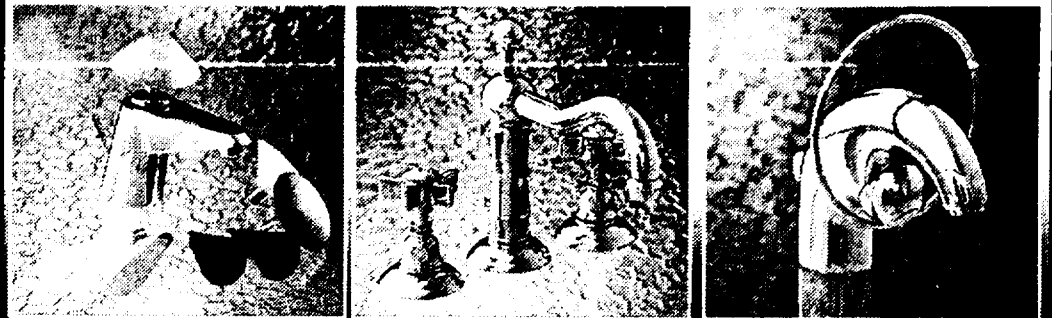

More than 4,500 people are expected to attend the Sixth Annual Detroit Metro Home Buyers Fair at Cobo Center on Saturday, June 5 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The not-for-profit fair is free and open to the public.

The Fair will offer individuals and families informative workshops on home ownership, repairing credit, financing and saving for a down payment. More than 50 mortgage lenders, credit agencies and real estate brokers will exhibit at the fair, sponsored by the Mortgage Bankers Association of Michigan (MBAM).

Fairgoers will have a chance to talk directly with the lending officers responsible for approving loans and Realtors listing property in their desired locations. They will also have an opportunity to register to win autographed Piston merchandise.

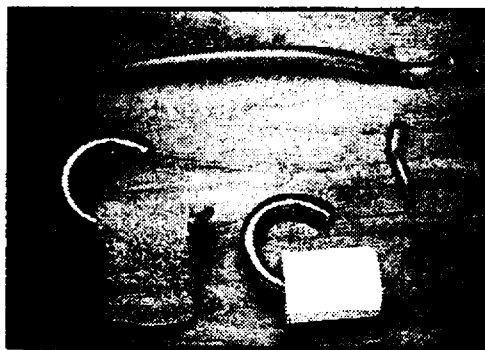

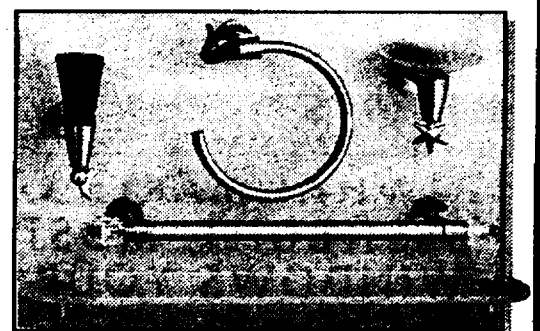

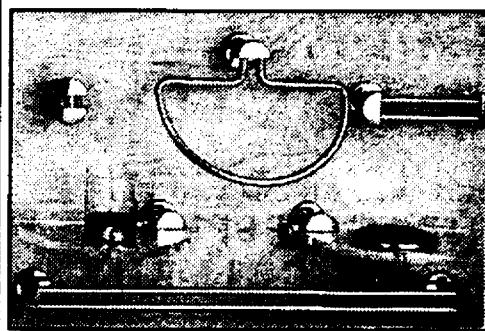

The Fair is "family friendly" with appearances by Beeper the Robot, Winnie the Pooh and Tigger and other family favorites. WJLB will be broadcasting live from Cobo from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

For more information, call the MBAM offices at (248) 945-3875.

Antique "GIFTS GALORE" at the 15TH ANNUAL CHRIST CHURCH ANTIQUES SHOW

Housewarming Gifts For those special people on your list, finely handcrafted gifts or small furniture pieces make perfect housewarming presents. This show features 45 dealers and each one has something that's sure to please recipients. It's an ideal time to add to an existing collection or start a new one.

Anniversary Presents What can you get someone who's been married 10, 20, 30 or 50 years? A tea pot reminiscent of one they had years ago, or an elegant crystal wine decanter to toast the future would be ideal. As the years fly by, a nostalgic present is the perfect way to commemorate a wedding anniversary. Shown are silver, china, and crystal gifts.

Birthday Gifts A birthday present that emulates the grace and charm of bygone days is priceless. From antique clocks to an exquisite writing set, birthday presents abound. The possibilities are endless when you travel through time at this year's show.

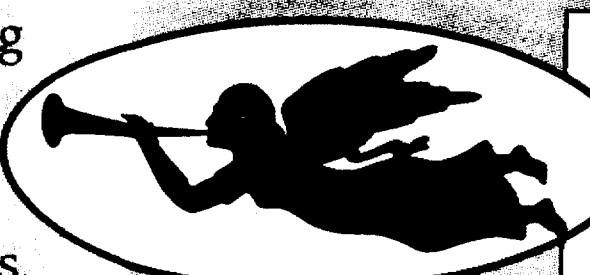

Wedding Presents Give an heirloom. What bride wouldn't cherish an antique teapot and tea cups. The show features dealers that specialize in china, silver, linens, fine art, fireplace accessories, quilts, majolica, and clocks. The gift of an antique will be treasured long after the wedding.

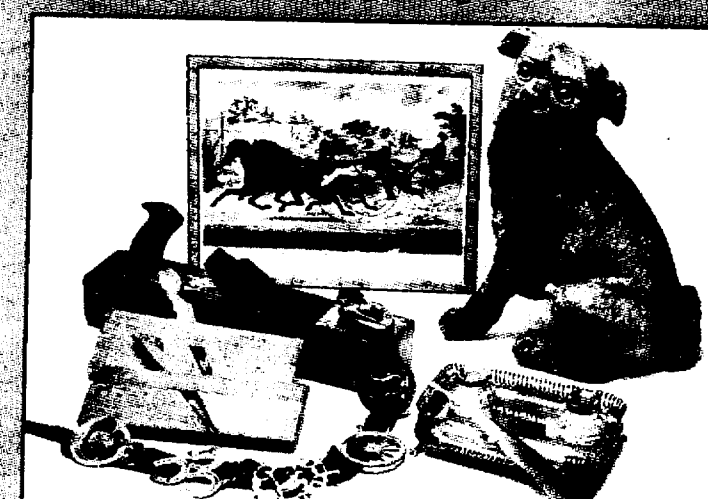

Imagine traveling through time and around the world to shop for presents. This year it's possible to do both. The 15th Annual Christ Church Antique show is bringing world wide antique shopping to Grosse Pointe South June 4-June 6. Forty-five antique dealers from around the United States will bring their timeless treasures for you to purchase. The high caliber antiques dealers, each with their own specialty, scour the world to bring you a variety of antiques. You can be assured of finding the finest and most interesting presents at the show. Get your gift list together and give your loved ones lasting keepsakes this year.

Christ Church is located at 61 Grosse Pointe Boulevard (between Moross and Fisher Roads) in Grosse Pointe Farms. The Antiques Show is held in the adjacent Grosse Pointe South High School gymnasium. Proceeds from the annual Antiques Show benefit the Christ Church Choirs and the Beyond Parish Ministry Projects. This article was made possible by Pentmark/An Agency of the BBDO Worldwide Network.

Electrical safety questions and answers

The following information on electrical safety is provided by NESF to accomplish their mission of teaching individuals to live safer, learn safer and work safer.

Q. What are the latest statistics on residential electrical injuries?

A. According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), statistics indicate there are 40,000 residential fires annually which are caused by problems with electrical wiring systems, claiming more than 350 lives, causing thousands of injuries from electric shocks and burns, and resulting in over $2 billion in personal property damage.

Additionally, electrical cords and plugs were involved in about 7,100 fires resulting in 120 deaths, or about 32 percent of all deaths associated with residential electrical system fires, occurring each year. By comparison, lamps and light fixtures were involved in about 8,900 fires and 60 deaths; switches and outlets are involved in 4,700 fires and 30 deaths. In addition, about 3,000 people are treated for injuries associated with extension cords.

Q. How can consumers help protect themselves from electrical-related injuries?

A. Consumers should check for problems in their home electrical systems. Check outlets and extension cords to make sure they aren't overloaded. Examine electrical cords to make sure they aren't frayed, damaged or placed under rugs or carpets. Make sure that proper wattage light bulbs are being used in light fixtures and lamps. Consider installing ground fault circuit interrupters (GFCIs). One of the most important precautions consumers can take is to test their smoke detectors and replace smoke detector batteries semi-annually.

Consumers should always follow appropriate safety precautions and manufacturer's instructions.

Q. What is a GFCI?

A. GFCI is an electronic device for protecting people from serious injury due to electric shock.

Q. If you have an old house — with old wiring — how do you know if repairs are necessary?

A. Electrical systems age and can be overloaded, particularly in older homes. Over the years as more lighting, appliances and equipment are added, the electrical system becomes overburdened and problems can develop.

If fuses blow or circuit breakers protecting branch circuits trip frequently, new branch circuits or other repairs may be necessary.

Plugs

Q. How does a three-prong plug work? What's the benefit of using it?

A. The third prong on a plug provides a path to ground for electricity that is straying or leaking from a product. This helps protect the equipment and can help prevent electric shock.

Q. How does a polarized plug work? What's the benefit of using it?

A. A polarized plug is a plug with one large or wide prong and one narrow one. It ensures that the plug is inserted correctly in a socket and reduces the risk of electrical shock.

Extension cords

Q. What size extension cords should a consumer use? How can you tell if an extension cord is appropriate for the intended use?

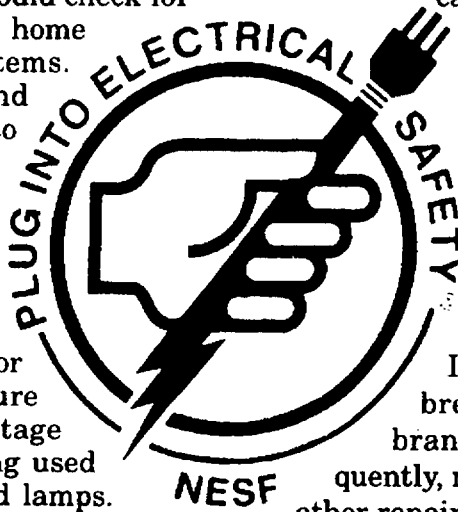

A. Before purchasing an extension cord, consumers should consider how the cord will be used. Make sure the rating on the cord is the same as or higher than the number of watts needed by the product that will be plugged into the cord. Extension cords should never be used as a substitute for permanent wiring.

Circuit breakers

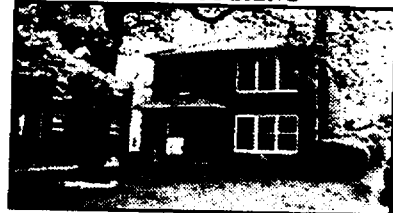

Q. Are there any benefits to using circuit breakers instead of fuses?

A. The main difference between circuit breakers and fuses is that circuit breakers can be reset while fuses operate only once and then must be replaced. If your breakers trip or fuses blow repeatedly, call an electrician because you may have a problem with your electrical system.

Eloquently spacious rooms

A covered porch spanning the front of the home enhances your lifestyle in this creative design. The two-story foyer is open to the living room which is private, but spacious enough to use as a study or media room.

Continuing back from the foyer is a vista across the deluxe kitchen breakfast room. The kitchen includes an island and snack bar counter. The sink overlooks the screened porch accessible from the breakfast room which has glass on two sides and overlooks a sun deck.

Stairs up to the second floor are convenient to both the breakfast room and the oversized family room. The family room is shown with a fireplace flanked by windows. A formal dining room is located adjacent to the kitchen and family room and is flooded with sunlight from a wall of windows.

Discreetly tucked away is a hall where you will find double garage access, a walk-in pantry, half-bath and full laundry room.

Upstairs are four surprisingly spacious bedrooms. The three family bedrooms share a central hall bath, and there is an open rail overlooking the foyer.

The master suite is truly a delight creating a level of unparalleled elegance. The bedroom is huge and a tray ceiling visually increases the size of the room. A luxurious spa bath includes double vanity, corner garden tub, separate shower and toilet compartment, linen storage and a deep walk-in closet.

The popular exterior style is exemplified by multiple gable roof lines, transoms over the front door and the windows in the living room and horizontal siding. Plan No. 2757 includes 2,756 square feet of screened porch space. All W.D. Farmer plans include construction details for substituting brick, frame or stucco exterior finish.

To receive an information packet on this plan, call W.D. Farmer Residence Designer Inc. at (800) 225-7526. You can write to request the information at P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 31145. Visit the website at www.wdfarmer-plans.com.

Trademark figures are sometimes called the "icons of industry." Premiums that were once giveaways now bring high prices.

One popular figure is the Campbell Kid. Joseph Campbell and Abram Anderson started a canning plant in Camden, N.J., in 1869. They did not make the famous soup until 1897.

The Campbell Kids were introduced in ads in 1904. They were designed by Grace Drayton, a well-known book illustrator. In recent years, they have been redesigned. They are now thinner and more athletic-looking.

During the 1930s, many children saved the printed ads that had a cartoon-like picture of the Campbell Kids with a short poem. Postcards and advertising trading cards have also been saved. The first Campbell Kid dolls were made in 1910. Serious collecting did not begin until the 1950s. The first dolls were made of fabric. Most are now in "played with" condition. Rubber squeak dolls were made in the 1930s. The vinyl dolls of the 1950s became collectibles.

The next time you see a Campbell Kid, notice that it has no neck, no ears, and no name. The kids are currently available as dolls, cups, blankets, figurines, key chains and plates.

Q. My children gave me a hair receiver on Mother's Day to add to my collection. It is marked "Trade (drawing of unicorn facing left) Mark/ Wedgwood & Co. Ltd./ Made in England." I cannot find the exact mark in either of the Kovels' pottery marks books.

A. Wedgwood & Co., founded by Enoch Wedgwood in Tunstall, Staffordshire, England, in 1860, is not the same company as Josiah Wedgwood's famous pottery firm, founded 100 years earlier. (Today, however, both companies are part of the Wedgwood Group.)

The unicorn mark belonged to Enoch's company, which used a banner under the mark until about 1908. The words "Made in England" were added to the mark at about the same time. Your hair receiver dates from the early years of this century. Hair receivers were small jars women used to save their hair to be made into rats or falls, adding fullness to a hairdo. They went out of fashion after World War I.

"The Label Made Me Buy It" by Ralph and Terry Kovel is a picture history of labels that once decorated products from cigar boxes to orange crates and salmon tins. There are 320 full-color labels which picture Indians, famous people, buildings and symbols. Learn how to identify and date labels or just enjoy the rare pictured labels (hardcover, 224 pages). Send $40 plus $3 shipping to Kovel, Box 22900, Beachwood, Ohio 44122.

Fungus disfigures crabapple trees

Spotted leaves on your crabapple tree, last year? "Spotted leaves and early fruit drop are typical symptoms of apple scab," says Sandra Goeddeke-Richards, home horticulturist at MSU Macomb Extension.

"Though apple scab rarely kills trees outright, it can weaken them to the point that they will be more susceptible to other problems," says Richards. Apple scab is caused by a fungus. The first symptoms of scab are faint, olive-green spots on the leaf surface. As infected tissue ages, the spots become covered with a greenish black, velvety growth. Severe infection is commonly followed by leaf drop. The fruit of your tree can also be affected. Scab spots vary from light green to dark brown to black. Heavily infected fruits become misshapen, frequently crack open and may drop from the tree prematurely.

"Scab-resistant cultivars of both apple and crabapple trees are available for home gardeners," says Richards. "It's worth making the effort to look for these cultivars and to use them in new plantings."

MSU has tested a number of cultivars for susceptibility to apple scab. Look for M. baccata "Jackii," M. hupensis and M. tschonoskii, and trees specially labeled as resistant.

So how do you control it? "Start spraying a multi-purpose fungicide when the bud tips turn green in the spring and continue to spray weekly until two weeks after the blossom petals have fallen," advises Richards. After that, cut back spraying to once a month until the end of June. After this point, the cool-wet conditions necessary for infection will be less frequent.

This spring, plan to deep-root fertilize trees that have been defoliated by the fungus with a high nitrogen product. This will help give them a boost of energy after two or three consecutively bad seasons.

For specific chemical recommendations and more information, call the Macomb County MSU Extension office at (810) 469-6440 or call the MSU Gardener Hotline at (810) 469-5063.

Detroit Edison offers storm tips

Thunderstorm season has arrived in Michigan, bringing with it the heavy rain, gusty winds and vivid lightning that sometimes can affect electric service to homes and businesses. Detroit Edison crews are ready to restore the power outages that Michigan's spring and summer storms can cause.

But the utility's customers play a role, too — staying safe around electricity when bad weather strikes. Detroit Edison reminds customers who may encounter hazardous situations involving power lines to follow an important safety rule: Stay away from downed power lines and anything downed lines may be touching.

Fallen wires should be reported immediately to Detroit Edison by calling (800) 477-4747 so that the utility's public safety teams can be dispatched to secure the area until its crews can remove the hazard, said Ron A. May, vice president, energy delivery.

"Detroit Edison customers also may use the same '800' number to report power outages or receive restoration estimates using the utility's automated phone system features," said May.

May pointed out that Detroit Edison also has established a Web site that activates when a catastrophic storm strikes. A storm classified as catastrophic is one that knocks out power to more than 100,000 customers. On the Web site, customers can use the buttons on the "Storm Update" banner to:

- Get a Storm Status Update containing general information on the severity of the storm, the areas of southeastern Michigan that are most impacted and the progress of Detroit Edison's power restoration efforts.
- Obtain Storm Tips for coping with a power outage.
- View the latest WDIV

(Channel 4) Weather Report.

The web site address is www.dteenergy.com

If customers experience outages at their homes, they may access the web site from their workplaces or use battery-powered personal computers.

When severe weather happens, Detroit Edison recommends the following tips if electrical service is interrupted:

- Always be prepared for an emergency. A battery-operated radio, fresh replacement batteries, a flashlight and candles, a first-aid kit, bottled water and non-perishable food should be kept in a centralized location. Don't open refrigerators and freezers more often than absolutely necessary. A closed refrigerator will stay cold for 12 hours. Kept closed, a well-filled freezer will preserve food for two to three days. Partially-thawed food or food that has ice crystals usually can be refrozen.

- Turn off lights and unplug all appliances and sensitive electronic devices like computers, compact disc players and videocassette recorders to prevent possible damage when power is restored. Leave on one light switch to indicate when service resumes.

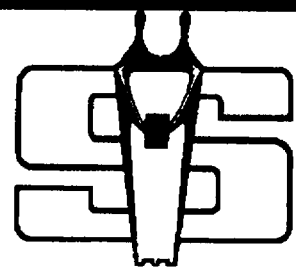

- During low-voltage conditions — when lights are dim and television pictures are smaller than normal — shut off motor-driven appliances such as refrigerators to prevent overheating and possible damage. Sensitive electronic devices also should be unplugged.

- If using a portable generator, disconnect house circuits from Detroit Edison power lines. Pull or switch to "off" the main fuses or circuit breakers to protect repair crews working to restore service. This ensures that electricity is not being transmitted from your house electric system to Detroit Edison power lines while crews are working to restore your service.

- Always operate generators outdoors and away from opened windows or vents to avoid dangerous buildup of toxic fumes indoors.

- Stay out of flooded or damp basements or other areas if water is in contact with outlets, a furnace or any electrically operated appliance that is energized. The water or moisture may serve as a conductor of electricity. This can cause serious or even fatal injury.

Pet Care

Washington State University's College of Veterinary Medicine began operating a Pet Loss Support Hotline to support grieving animal owners in January.

Specially trained WSU veterinary student volunteers are staffing the hotline, which is being funded by grants. The hotline is designed to help pet owners work through difficult decisions in treating chronic diseases, as well as support them after their pet's death. The training students receive prior to operating the hotline includes how to approach a range of situations, such as how to discuss the loss of a pet with children.

Callers can access the hotline by calling (509) 335-5704.

A new website developed at the University of Minnesota provides information on pet selection and care. Veterinarians regularly update the website to provide current, accurate information. The address is www.petcare.umn.edu/care.
