Police consolidation at talking point

By Brad Lindberg Staff Writer

Cameron Lawrence cites gunfire at a Grosse Pointe patrolman last week as a shot across the bow of anyone wanting to solve municipal budget problems by going cheap on public safety.

"One of the cornerstones for our community is security," said Lawrence, owner since 1992 of the BP service station on Mack at Rivard in the City of Grosse Pointe. Lawrence lives in the Lawrence is against cost-saving solutions that rely on reducing law enforcement officers in the Pointes.

"There's been an uptick in violent activity," he told the City council this week. "I'm nervous about what the future holds.'

"It's a concern shared by all of us," His station is located on the corner said City Mayor Dale Scrace. "We're not contemplating whacking the staff or reducing manpower."

James Sullivan, a 20-year City resident, told Scrace, "I hear through the grapevine that we're cutting public safety."

"It is not true," Scrace said. "It's hard to try to comment on every rumor."

"If we cut basic city services," Sullivan warned, "it's a slippery slope that will take away the core of what we are in Grosse Pointe."

Robber puts gun to girl's head

By Brad Lindberg Staff Writer

Three teenage girls stood Friday night at the crosswalk on East Jefferson and Lincoln, their way home blocked by a man with a pistol demanding everything they had.

"He turned to me and held the gun to my head and ripped my purse off of me after call-ing me a stupid b---," said the first girl, 17. There were no injuries.

The gunman had gotten out of a dark blue or black Chrysler Town & Country minivan. He wore black clothes, baggy jeans and, depending on which victim recounts the holdup, a black or white bandana covering his lower face. All victims agree he was accompanied by three unknown males, none of whom exited the van.

Officer shot at during chase

By Brad Lindberg Staff Writer

A public safety officer was shot at last week while attempting a traffic stop on Mack.

"I saw two quick flashes come from the vehicle," said Officer Christopher Lee of the City of Grosse Pointe public safety department. "I was positive it was a muzzle flash. I could hear more than see gunshots coming from the vehicle. It sounded like handgun fire."

The shooting occurred during a car chase across Mack on Detroit's eastside at about 9:45 p.m. Tuesday, April 13.

It was the first time Lee's been fired at during his 3 1/2 years with the City.

"It's just one of those unexpected incidents we try to prepare for," he said.

The suspects are four black males wearing dark clothing. according to James Fox, City public safety director.

'We have suspects, but we're not saying much," Fox said. "We sent their vehicle to the Michigan State Police crime lab in Sterling Heights. They're in the process of processing the vehicle for evidence."

Lee had been cruising east-car as part of the department's right onto the 4500 block of stepped-up patrols of the border with Detroit. Near University, Lee tried to pull over four men in a former Ford Crown Victoria taxicab with a license plate for a Dodge.

The driver slowed near Rivard, then accelerated left across Mack onto northbound Marseilles in Detroit.

Lee activated his cruiser's siren and pursued the car at about 40 mph.

They passed St. Philomena Catholic Church on the left, and 98-year-old Detroit public school No. 17 on the right before reaching the first cross street, Munich.

"Once past Munich (one block up), I heard several gunshots, two bursts of two to four shots each, coming from the suspects as they continued to increase their speed," Lee reported.

At the next intersection, Cornwall, the men turned right, clipping a front lawn.

"I heard another burst of gunshots and observed two or three muzzle flashes from the passenger compartment of the vehicle," Lee said.

Fellow officers were en route.

"You wouldn't believe the number of abandoned houses up there," Fox said. "We had to search every one of them. It took forever."

"Two burnt-out ones were identified a few years ago as the biggest narcotics houses on that side of Detroit," said City Detective Sgt. Alan Gwyn. "One was a product house, the other was used for distribution. A Detroit officer said they'd been raided numerous times."

Officers spent hours searchdog Raleigh, and Patrolman ing the chase route for spent J.P. Cormier - were the first on shell casings. None were found.

Surveillance nets suspect, loot in break-ins

By Kathy Ryan Staff Writer

A Grosse Pointe Woods resident faces life in prison after he was arrested and charged with several counts of larceny from an automobile and possession of burglary tools.

Jeffrey Tapert, 39, was arraigned in Woods municipal court Friday, April 16, on four felony charges and one misdemeanor count following his arrest at 3 a.m. Thursday, April 15. In addition, he is expected to be charged under the habitual offender statute.

Tapert was charged with two felony counts of larceny from an automobile, both carrying prison terms of five years and/or a $10,000 fine; one count of possession of burglary tools, a 10-year felony; one count of possessing a stolen financial transaction device, a four-year felony citing 26 break-ins in the two with a fine of $5,000; and one count of breaking and entering an automobile, a 90-day misdemeanor. If convicted under the habitual offender statue, he faces life in prison.

"We also expect other charges in this case," Grosse Pointe Woods Detective Keith Waszak told the court.

Tapert was under surveillance by public safety officers following a rash of car breakins in both Grosse Pointe Woods and Grosse Pointe Shores. Officers from both departments formed a joint task force to address the problem, cities since December.

According to the police report, Tapert was observed approaching several cars on Hollywood in the early morning hours of April 15 by an officer responding to a burglar alarm at a house on Hollywood. That officer notified task force members who responded by putting both Tapert and his residence under surveillance.

A task force member observed the suspect in the backyard of a house on Hampton that backed up to Tapert's house on Hollywood and drop a bag over the fence into his yard.

As Tapert left the yard on Hampton, the task force member advised his colleagues to stop and pick him up. Tapert was arrested moments later at Hollywood and Morningside.

A search of Tapert's pockets revealed a brass-colored window punch, a flashlight and a pair of gloves. Police also recovered the bag Tapert had dropped over the fence, which was described as a Louis Vuitton purse that contained various items but no identification.

According to court records, Tapert was convicted in 1992 in Macomb County for receiving stolen property, retail fraud in the first degree and a second count of retail fraud.

The foundation's other enhancement to the park this year is a $1,600 set of three new swim team record boards. The boards being replaced were more than 20 years old, mismatched and worn out by weather.

"We have a big one for historical records, and two for current records, boys and girls," Galbenski said. "They'll be hung shortly. The swim coach will populate them with the names of record-holders."

The foundation helps fund projects outside the everyday boundaries of municipal spending.

"Right now, there's things the Shores can't do that we're stepping in and trying to do for the city," Galbenski said. "We're contemplating new projects, but haven't committed to them yet. We're trying to pick projects we can afford and give back to the community."

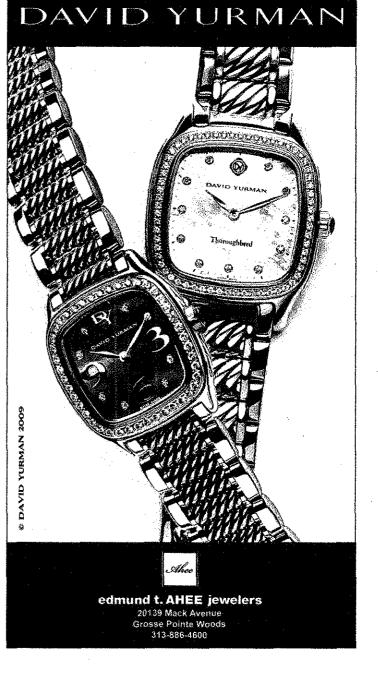

The foundation, 20 years ago, paid for decorative lampposts on Lakeshore.

"Those are starting to wear out," Galbenski said. "The city can't afford the expense to replace them. We're contemplating helping with that."

Falling line

At 1 p.m. Monday, April 12, police were told a power line in the alley behind the 16800 block of Kercheval fell and cracked the windshield of a parked car.

Car stolen

A man said he was at a service station in the 18100 block of Mack putting air in the tires of his silver-colored 2008 Chevrolet Impala when a group of teenagers stole the vehicle and drove into Detroit.

The incident occurred at 4:50 p.m. Monday, April 12.

The man said he'd left his keys in the ignition and the motor running while tending to the tires.

A short while after the theft, OnStar reported the vehicle in the 13000 block of Outer Drive at Wallingford in Detroit. A patrolman was unable to locate the car. Residential Remodeling Over 35 Years of Experience cutting redundant staff.

The analysis, by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, concluded the collective Pointes have too many police officers — 3.3 officers per 1,000 residents versus SEMCOG's recommended 1.8 to 2 officers per the same number of residents.

Revised ratios translated to cutting 30 officers.

"It is not feasible to run five individual departments," said Hiller, the most veteran Pointe chief. "We can't afford it anymore."

Reductions wouldn't come at the cost of road patrols, he

"We don't need five chiefs, five dispatch centers, five lockups and five guys running shifts," Hiller said. "Through attrition, you can reduce. If it was reduced 20 to 25 percent, that's huge savings. We're well over the number of officers we should be."

Surveys

Many of the Pointes' 48,000 line of fire. residents seem comfortable paying for extra cushion.

In separate, unscientific surveys this year of households in the City and Grosse Pointe Shores, crime control ranked two back-up cars were City as the most important city ser-know how it works. They'll take advantage of every chink in our armor."

The task facing municipal leaders is shoring-up budgets so tottering finances don't push cities past the tipping point.

Consolidating public safety departments, which typically consume half of a city's budget, is a short-sighted option, according to James Fox, City public safety director.

"They're seeking a permanent solution to a temporary problem," he said regarding supporters of the SEMCOG report. "I am against consolidation unless it is needed as a last He's concerned that individual cities would lose control of a consolidated department.

"Under any new police authority, the officers and chiefs would answer to the police authority," Fox said. "They won't be answering to the city managers, mayors or councils."

Fox, a former White House Marine honor guard, said his heart almost stopped last week when he got a call at home about one of his officers in the

"Thank God I had the number of people working that night," Fox said. "When you have an incident like that, you want back-up fast. The the first cars."

"Consolidation means reduction," said Dan Jensen, Farms director of public safety. "Its economy driven, not crime driven. The day we just respond to reports, we've lost control. Good police work is done by nomic motive, but not about curbing police presence.

"The Farms is going to be facing some of the same financial problems everybody else is facing," Hiller said.

Self reliance

Jensen, a product of Grosse Pointe Catholic and public schools, began with the department as a patrolman.

He criticized SEMCOG's funding formula for the police and fire authority.

The formula is based on property values, which means Farms residents will pay a greater share than the other Pointes should an authority be created.

"Our taxes have been reduced five times in the last seven years and maintained the last two," Jensen said. "Look whose stuck with most of the funding - the Farms, the city that's doing the best."

Rather than spending a couple years constructing irconsolidation, reparable Jensen wants to batten down during hard times and ride things out until better days ahead.

"The economy is on the rebound, slowly," he said. "Our plan is to make it through to where we're back sufficiently."

Although household survey respondents supported public safety, they didn't necessarily covet five independent public safety departments.

Cooperative, cost-saving efforts between the existing departments ranked high, as did full consolidation.

"One thing that bothered me Hiller agrees about the eco- nored business people," said Fox, whose city has three business districts, including the downtown Village, slated for office, retail and hotel development. "I have to think merchants would be up in arms. They get such personalized service now."

SEMCOG's idea isn't a done

"It's a preliminary, working document to start discussions," Hiller said.

Officials in the City have asked sister Pointes to name two delegates each to a joint committee for discussion of cost-saving efforts among public safety departments.

The Farms and Park have signed on. The Shores and Woods city councils could decide this month.

"This is the start of what might be efforts to work more effectively, efficiently and cooperatively with our neighbors," said Peter Dame, City manager.

"We have had a rash of auto larcenies in both cities, and members of both departments joined forces to work on the case. Mr. Tapert is a habitual offender. Just as Waszak indicated. additional charges may be forthcoming. A Van K Drive resident reported to police on Friday, April 16 that a cell phone had been taken from a car parked in the driveway of his house.

Police said the missing cell phone was found in Tapert's possession.

"This case shows that collaboration between two departments can work," said Woods director of public safety Al Fincham: "Officers from both departments took the initiative to set up the task force and work together on solving the problems we have been having with larcenies. The officers involved are to be commended."

Publish notices in newspapers

aying for baseball umpires is more important than protecting your property from foreclosure.

That is in essence what some groups are saying as they push for "cost saving" legislation to allow the government to post notices of legal actions on government-run websites.

"Baseball umpires ... you can't be serious," you say? I am serious; I'm also worried. You should be too. Here's as umpires for city baseball leagues. It's a fact: The city of Niles spends more each year for baseball umpires than for publishing its legal notices in the local newspaper.

But there's a larger issue at stake. These public notices are legal documents. News-on-paper notices give citizens an independent, authentic and verifiable record of what their government has done. If questions arise regarding ordinances, actions or any other municipal decision, courts will not accept a copy — they want the original document as proof. This news-on-paper publication requirement was put in place to protect public and municipal officials so that there's no question that a document had been doctored at some point in the Requiring legal notices to be published in a venue independent of government is a form of insurance for taxpayers. How can you get unquestionable proof of the contents of a legal document from a website that can be altered with a click of a mouse, or hacked? Heck, even the Pentagon's computers have been hacked.

Some say backups and vetting might address concerns about web-only public notices, but doesn't that then diminish any cost savings? If you have to invest in layers of technology to achieve "official" status, are you still saving money? There are other ways to save taxpayer dollars without putting your rights at risk, such as cutting back on baseball umpires.

♦ Ninety-five percent of 18- to 29-year-olds read a newspaper each week in Michigan.

Newspapers deliver an ongoing information stream, so that if one person misses a property rezoning announcement, others can alert them that a nearby wooded lot could become an adult video store.

Let me be clear: Under the guise of "saving money," this legislation will make it easier for municipalities to have special meetings, make assessments and other important decisions with nearly no knowledge or input from the communi-

Yes, newspapers charge to publish these notices. More often than not, they are done at cost. But without these notices, more than a few community newspapers face the specter of shutting down. So on top of posting these public notices where the public won't notice, there may be no local paper to report on the results of the actions.

And let me be clear about something else: Government officials have thankless jobs. And most of the ones I've worked with are industrious and well-intentioned people. I sincerely doubt that they realized how these bills would disenfranchise the citizens they serve. But the truth is that these bills will hurt you and every other citizen in this state.

So, government officials: Thank you for all the thankless work you do. It is a lot.

And thank you for reconsidering your support of this legislation because the taxpayers you work for deserve better. Mike MacLaren is executive director of the Michigan Press Association in Lansing.

Opponents of the recall fail to understand why the recall has been initiated. They constantly reference the council is volunteer, the recall is disruptive to council business and community cohesiveness, cost to the community and talk about some "10-year clean slate" issue I know nothing about since I have only lived here for seven years.

As far as community cohesiveness is concerned, the nearly 600 residents who signed the recall petitions for each council member did so with a great deal of thought and concern for our city. No one wants to see our city divided. We all want a solvent city, off the Michigan state watch list — with costs contained, and taxes kept as low as possible.

We should not be taking surveys about cutting services or raising taxes, until all possible cost-cutting measures have been taken.

Some people have been very upset at the salaries of the previous city manager, $207,000 plus benefits in 2008, and his wife, the office manager, $149,000 plus benefits in 2008, who have since retired.

Some have said it is in the past and we should move on. But the problem continues as we now, for example, have a current city manager, given 12 full retirement in only 13 years of service, whose salary is again this year, it is on this nancial problems which if not more than $100,000, whose

Constitutional convention won't fix Michigan's problems

he fundamental purpose of the state constitution is to limit government's ability to infringe on people's rights. On Nov. 2, Michigan voters will face Proposal 1, which asks whether a convention should be held to rewrite Michigan's constitution.

Although we can certainly improve that foundational document, most of Michigan's problems could be solved without rewriting it. There is no guarantee a constitutional convention would fix, or even address, whatever problems might prompt voters to call the convention in the first place. Proposal 1 will be on the ballot because the current constitution, passed in 1963, requires the question to appear automatically every 16 years, starting in 1978. That year, 77 percent of voters rejected the constitutional convention and 72 percent did likewise in 1994. Recent polling indicates voters may be more open to the idea this year, but they disapprove by more than 2-to-1 when told the cost could be as much as $45 million.

Nevertheless, a few convention proponents have organized around specific reform ideas. Examples include lengthening legislative term limits, converting to a parttime Legislature, modifying selection of judges, altering the budget process, expanding water regulation, increasing taxation and more. Others who have long

Dress pants parlay into thanks

few weeks ago I attended a meeting about my daughter's eighthgrade trip to Washington, D.C. A comment at that meeting made my blood boil.

As the teacher-chaperones were explaining rules of the trip, they mentioned there would be a dress code. No denim. OK. One of the kids asked about sweat pants. The reply: no. Well, what about yoga pants like what this student is wearing?

The teacher-chaperone most likely wanted to end a litany of questions about what types of pants would be appropriate, but answered with what I consider one of the most insensitive of replies: the black dress slacks she was wearing were comfortable --and we "still had time to shop."

Ah, yes, this is Grosse Pointe where time and money are plentiful.

Time to shop? Maybe. Money to buy slacks my child will wear only a few times? Not really. Actually, do I have money to buy anything extra right now?

Times have been tough. Certainly, there are many, many more people in worse financial shape than my family, but we have had to cut corners this year. There have been plenty of times in the past 12 months when I have had to not spend money on something I would have before. But, this is Grosse Pointe and we don't talk about such things.

While I was angered by the teacher's comment, its insensitivity really hit home later in the evening when I met up with friends — three other moms of students in the Grosse Pointe public schools — for pizza. We all have eighth graders and have known each other since our children were in kindergarten. We used to get together about once a month. Then it slipped to every couple of months and now we're lucky if it's once a quarter.

Yes, it is a time issue, but it's also economic. Our group of four is a microcosm of what is happening in society.

One woman's husband lost his job and was off more than a year, then found another job. worked for several months and was laid off again. Another woman's job was eliminated - after 30 years of service. Another's husband had a significant pay reduc-

We used to meet monthly for breakfast wherever was convenient. Now we meet occasionally at the place with the best deals. And this is Grosse Pointe.

I began our evening spouting off about the teacher's assumption I could purchase these pants just for a trip to D.C., but was quieted by a friend's comment about having to ask her child if his earache was bad enough to go to the doctor or if he thought he could tough it out. Wow.

This is Grosse Pointe. It's time to say an extra prayer of thanks for what I have, be considerate of those around me and what their situations might be and, most importantly, listen intently when my daughter returns from her D.C. trip, thankful she had the opportunity to go — dress pants or not.

GUEST OPINION By Bill Kalmar

On your mark, get set, go exercise!

s some of you may know, my wife, Mary, and I live in an idyllic community called Lake Orion, which is about 40 miles north of Detroit.

There are so many lakes in the area that one is simply called "Lake Sixteen." We are a sports and boating community dotted with lots of tennis courts and baseball and soccer fields.

There are miles of paved safety paths residents use for biking, walking and jogging. The Polly Ann Trail is an abandoned railroad track converted into a beautiful trail that tra-verses miles of countryside.

I mention all of this because if there ever was a theme for our town if would be "Exercise for good health."

As such, our Orion Township supervisor recently announced township eniployees would be encouraged to join a local gym and there would be reimbursement for the monthly dues.

Some looked upon this as a misuse of township funds, but I disagree. Ours is a nation of overweight, out of shape people. The United States is one of the unhealthiest nations in the world. We love our Big Macs. fried chicken, and greasy French fries. On the other hand, there are scores of people who understand a healthy diet augmented with exercise has positive results.

Regular exercise and a sensible diet allows people to lower blood pressure and cholesterol levels. It also contributes to people being more energetic, productive and enjoying a healthy lifestyle. People who exercise on a regular basis have fewer illnesses, make fewer trips to the doctor's office and take fewer sick days with a resultant loss of work time. Don't we want our civil service employees, whose salary we pay, to be healthy? Don't we want them to be in their workplace when we come in for service or to make a payment? Don't the employees themselves want to lead a healthy lifestyle void of illness? Shouldn't we be concerned about health care costs for employees who disdain being healthy? I sure think so!

Gym dues reimbursement is a small cost in maintaining a staff that epitomizes a healthy lifestyle.

I wonder if a similar situation with civil service employees exists in the Grosse Pointes. What would happen if someone suggested part of the budget be earmarked for gym dues reimbursement for employees?

Having lived in Grosse Pointe for a number of years, I am aware how health conscious the residents are. One needs to only look at the number of bikers, walkers and joggers along the roads and sidewalks to realize this is a community that values a healthy lifestyle.

I have a hunch a similar suggestion about gym member-

If I sound like an exercise nut who is concerned about leading a long and healthy life, so be it. Tell me what is wrong with wanting to be healthy. In that regard, here is an opportunity to participate in an event that focuses on being healthy:

Sunday, May 23, Defer Elementary School in Grosse Pointe Park is featuring the First Annual Dragon Run. It is a one-mile fun run/walk and a 5K (3.2 mile) run/walk. The event starts at 8:30 a.m. in Windmill Pointe Park. Entry fee is $10, which includes a Tshirt. There will be children's supporting a convention for the sake of their single issue. Some in the highly energized tea party movement wonder if a constitutional convention might let them effectively open the hood of state government and fix what's broken at a time when the state seems unable to cope with its alarming economic decline.

Proposal 1: Constitutional convention

The problem is, that's not the way it would likely work. A constitutional convention is not like handing your car to a certified mechanic; it's more like giving it to 148 trained and untrained mechanics and letting them do anything a majority of them can agree to, including replacing your car with something much worse. After a lot of time, trouble and expense, you and fellow voters collectively choose between the mechanics' handiwork and exactly what you started with.

The passage of Proposal 1 would set a process in motion. Two elections — a partisan primary and a general - would be held by May 2011 to elect the 148 convention delegates, one from each state House and Senate district. They would convene by October, select their own officers and create their own rules. They'd meet in Lansing and could continue through July 2012.

Whatever they produced would go to voters for approval within 90 days. If it passed by a simple majority, the new constitution would take effect.

Nothing about this process would address our problems any better than the current legislative system. Our most serious economic problems involve chronic overspending in the face of weakening state revenue, which is worsened by rising levels of taxation and regulation that drive people and businesses from the state.

If our current lawmakers can't fix that, it's not because the constitution prevents them from doing so. More likely it's because voters haven't yet held individual lawmakers responsible for reckless spending although this may be changing. If voters aren't yet holding legislators accountable for spending, it's not clear how they would hold convention delegates accountable for potentially bigger decisions.

The fundamental purpose of the state constitution is to limit government's ability to infringe on people's rights. Where constitutional changes are needed, the voter initiative process is a better alternative than a convention, which could be unlimited in scope and cost millions of taxpayer dollars.

reason to believe convention delegates would be more capable than current legislators. Delegate elections would be highly partisan and influenced by the same special interests that dominate regular elec-

The prospect of rewriting a constitution could attract some truly exceptional, public service-minded candidates, but it would probably attract even more of those who would typically run for the Legislature, along with term-limited former lawmakers. It might especially draw highly charged, single-issue candidates whose priorities could make the convention agenda read like the contents of Pandora's box.

The problem with Michigan government isn't so much what's under the hood, it's what we're letting the driver get away with. If your teenage driver is irresponsible, no mechanic can change that. Instead, you need better control and accountability of the resident Barack Obama has an unsettling defense of his health care reform it's merely a version of the plan implemented by Massachusetts

Obama wants to associate his reform with the one championed by Mitt Romney in 2006 when he was governor of the Bay State. If the liberal Democrat Obama and the conservative Republican Romney passed similar plans, what can be so radical about Obama's reform?

This is superficially clever. It not only gives Obama's plan a centrist patina, it shines a light on a significant obstacle to Romney's likely repeat bid for the Republican presidential nomination; except for the fact that Massachusetts reform is spiraling out of control.

If the states are the laboratories of democracy, ObamaCare's Menlo Park is about to blow up. Unsustainably high costs and high insurance premiums are leading inexorably toward price controls and rationing. Obama might as well boast he's adopted a version of the Michigan economic recovery plan, or the California fiscal plan.

Obama is correct his plan and Romney's share essential features: A mandate that individuals buy insurance, fines on business for not offering coverage, heavily regulated insurance exchanges and large-scale insurance subsidies and Medicaid expansion. They share something else — utterly fanciful notions of cost control.

Romney believed — and still maintains to this day --- emergency room visits by the uninsured shifted costs onto everyone else. Never mind in postreform Massachusetts there are just as many nonemergency visits to the emergency room as previously, even though only 3 percent of people are uninsured. Many of these patients simply have trouble finding a doctor, a shortage the Massachusetts reform only exacerbates.

Massachusetts has created a different cost-shift problem through its ObamaCare-style guarantee people can wait to get coverage until they're sick or want medical procedures. The Boston Globe reports,

"Thousands of consumers are gaming Massachusetts' 2006 health insurance law by buying insurance when they need to cover pricey medical care, such as fertility treatments and knee surgery, and then swiftly dropping coverage."

Predictably, costs in Massachusetts — always high -have only gone higher. The state now spends about 30 percent more per capita on health care than the rest of the nation. At first, Massachusetts plugged the holes with more taxes and fees. Now it is moving to the next inevitable phase: Unapologetic price controls. The state's arbitrary clampdown on rates will force insurers to cut access to care, or go out of business. As subtle as a kneecapping, the state's move is rationing by proxy.

Insurers have taken to the courts, and most of them stopped offering new coverage for individuals and small businesses pending a ruling on their request for an injunction. Massachusetts Gov. Deval Patrick, meanwhile, wants the power to review the rates of hospitals and doctors and disallow those deemed too high.

And so the free lunch promised Massachusetts in 2006 devolves toward a fiscally beleaguered government setting prices and limiting care, exactly the downward spiral critics fear from ObamaCare. At least Romney can say he didn't know how his experiment would end. Obama has been warned, and still embraces Massachusetts as our national future.

South actors delight with 'Pippin'

By Amy Salvagno Staff Writer

Their talent is show-stopping; their enthusiasm, infectious; and their versatility, remarkable.

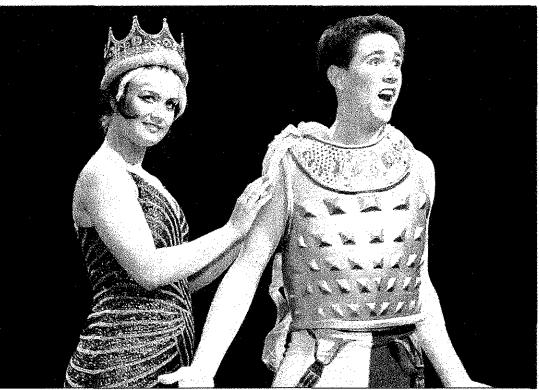

From the enchanting "Beauty and the Beast" to the moving "Les Miserables" to the matchmaking "Hello, Dolly!," performing arts students at Grosse Pointe South High School are now ready to wow with a new kind of musical.

A hip, playful, tongue-incheek fairy tale, "Pippin," details the adventures of a young prince, the son of King Charlemagne, who leaves his royal life to search for true happiness, fulfillment and meaning in his life — in temptations, the glories of the battlefield and the plottings of political

What do you enjoy about teaching?

I enjoy many things about teaching. Working with children is my first joy. Watching a child blossom under your guidance is a feeling like no other. I especially enjoy that as each day of school passes knowing the next day will bring new challenges and triumphs.

Teaching is never boring! It is motivating for me to develop the minds of children and help them learn. I believe teaching is a very challenging endeavor that constantly requires new ideas and a fresh outlook.

How do you feel about being nominated?

I am honored that I was nominated for Teacher of the Week. The students that I work with Why did you become a bring a smile to my face every day. They motivate me to do the I have always known that I best that I can. Also, I work

Robert Michael Wilson

Farms resident Robert Michael Wilson, 62, died Sunday, April 18, 2010, at his home in New Baltimore.

Mr. Wilson, known as "Bob" or "Mike" to friends and family, was born in Detroit to Robert M. and Beverly J. Wilson and graduated from St. Paul Catholic High School in 1966.

He was a retired technical writer and editor in heavy equipment procurement for Tank-automotive and Armaments Command in Warren.

Mr. Wilson was a survivor of Guillain-Barré Syndrome and, although paralyzed in his early teens, refused to abide by the conclusion that he would never walk again. But for a slight limp in his later years, no one would have guessed the travails he suffered at an early age, as he was humble and rarely talked about this medical miracle.

Mr. Wilson's children, grandchildren and greatgrandchildren were his special joys. He was also a lifelong avid boater, enjoying touring and travels on his Marinette with his beloved first mate, Donna.

As the oldest of six children, Mr. Wilson was an especially attentive big brother to his youngest brother, whom he called "Little Guy." His brother, Gary, will be forever grateful for being included in so many wonderful adventures as a child and always proud to be with his big brother.

Mr. Wilson is survived by his wife, Donna; daughters, Donna Moceri and Dawn Gatz; grandchildren, Tera, Marc, Ashley, Brittney and Katelyn and great-grandchildren, Joshua, Jayden, Trevor and Nathann.

Murray Dodge, 81, died. Tuesday, March 30, 2010, peacefully at his home at the Quadrangle Retirement Community in Haverford, Pa.

Mr. Dodge was born March 9, 1929, in Grosse Pointe to Percival and Elizabeth Dilworth Loomis Dodge. He was the great-grandson of 19th-century Connecticut governor Marshall Jewell, and great-great-grandson of William Earl Dodge, founder of the Phelps-Dodge Corp.

He graduated from Yale University in 1950 and did graduate work in information storage and retrieval at Drexel University.

After two years in the United States Air Force, Mr. Dodge entered the computer world at its inception, working with Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and its mainframe computers for a decade, and with the Auerbach Corp. in Philadelphia from 1962 to 1968.

After 18 months overseas designing a computer billing system for Ford dealerships in England, he returned to Philadelphia to serve as vice president for computer services at Drexel Harriman Ripley.

He then became president of the Stock Clearing Corp. of Philadelphia and then president of the Philadelphia Depository Trust Co., subsidiaries of the Philadelphia Stock Exchange.

Leaving the corporate world for the non-profit sector, Mr. Dodge raised funds for Resources for Human Development and served at the Haverford School as its first director of development.

After retiring in 1991, Mr. Dodge became more involved with community service. In addition to volunteering on behalf of Forty Plus, helping out-of-work executives over age 40 find jobs, he also raised money for Endow-A-Home, helping homeless mothers and their children find housing.

He and his wife were foster parents and their house was a designated "safe haven" for runaways until police could find more permanent homes. A deeply caring person, Mr. Dodge encouraged and mentored younger men.

He was a founding member of the Panhandle Civic Association in Chester County, Pa. and served on the board of the Jenkins Arboretum in Berwyn, Pa

Mr. Dodge's life-long love of the outdoors, nurtured by 78 summers at the Huron Memorial donations may be Mountain Club on Lake and her husband moved to dren, Ana, Reilly, Christopher made in her name to the Superior, was supplemented Jupiter, Fla., and enjoyed time and Sandra and her cousins American Lung Association by river rafting in the Idaho National Headquarters, 1301 wilderness, and fishing expeditions in the west and Alaska.

He was a consummate fly fisherman and passed his skill on to others, including his sons and 5-year-old granddaughter.

Despite a gentle nature, he had a daring and adventuresome personality. In middle age he took up windsurfing, and constructed an ultra-lite airplane that he flew all southeastern around Pennsylvania.

Mr. Dodge was a member of the Yale Glee Club, and a founding member of the Baker's Dozen, a 64-year-old singing group at Yale. He performed 25 years with the Grunyons, an a capella vocal jazz group in Detroit, and with the Suburban Squires in Philadelphia.

For many years, with his wife, Pixie, he sang and played guitar in nursing homes and hospitals. To the very end he would trade songs over the phone with his granddaughters.

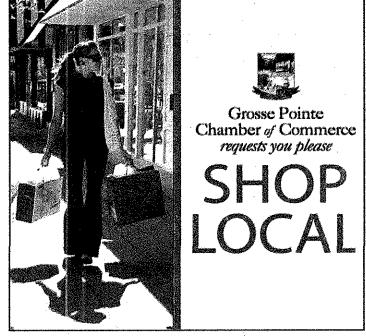

His greatest interest and love was his family. He is survived by his wife of 49 years, "Pixie" Margaret Goodenough) of Grosse Pointe; son, Andy and his wife, Meggan and their daughters, Murrie and Rigel Dodge of Castle Rock, Colo.; son, Perry and his wife, Dianne and their daughters, Hannah and Zoe Dodge of St. Charles, Mo.; several cousins, nieces and nephews.

He was predeceased by his son, Christopher in 1963; his brother, Douglas and his sister, Anne Dodge Heenan.

A memorial service will be held at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, May 1, at Church of the Good 'Samaritan, 212 Lancaster Ave., Paoli, Pa.

Memorial donations may be made to Endow-A-Home, 3721 Midvale Ave., Philadelphia, PA 19129.

For $18K, the 2010 SX4 Sportback offers a good deal with all-wheel drive, 50-plus feet of cargo area, 30 miles per gallon highway and a built-in Navigation system.

It's a car that makes driving fun again

By Steve Schaefer

I'm going to let you in on a little secret, Suzuki sells a really fun, practical and sporty hatchback you may not have considered.

Since 2007, the SX4 has been displayed in Suzuki showrooms across the country, offering the least expensive allwheel-drive car you can buy.

Its four-door sedan sibling, the SX4 Sport, arrived later, ditching the all-wheel-drive for a lowered stance, larger alloy wheels and more on-road amusement. Natural, then, is the genesis of the Sportback. which combines the practicality of the five-door, seat-folding cargo hauling with the urban motoring experience.

What you get is a sweet handling, stuff carrying, stylish little runner for less than $18,000. And to sweeten the deal, it comes with a standard navigation system, which not only directs you to your destination, but also provides you with real-time traffic, weather, movie times, stock updates, headlines, lowest gas prices finder, airline arrival and departures times and on-screen Bluetooth text message displays. Whew!

I had some fun with this little system. For one thing, my tester was quicksilver metallic -$130 extra - and the small navigation screen showed a little silver SX4 on the road. Cute. The system is obviously an add-on, and it pops up on a little door at the top of the dash, but it was easy to use, despite being a long reach to the touch screen.

I was amused by the system's occasional mispronunciations and annoyed when it would, out of nowhere, state "traffic ahead" without any further elaboration - what was I supposed to do about it? It did announce my turns at exactly the right time however, and would willingly recalculate when I strayed from the prescribed route.

This modest but handsome little vehicle is loaded with upscale features. The surprisingly attractive interior comes standard in this model with automatic air conditioning, power windows, power locks and mirrors, cruise control, leatherwrapped steering wheel with audio controls and a trip computer. The silvery accents go a long way to relieving the stretches of black plastic, and the little triangular windows in the windshield pillars reduce their massiveness.

Mechanically, the engine is upgraded to 150 horsepower and 140 pound-feet of torque this year. You can get a snappy six-speed manual or a continuously variable automatic transmission with racing-style paddle shifters on the wheel.

2010 Suzuki SX4 Sport

Beyond that, standard Electronic Stability Control with four-wheel disk brakes and ABS uses the car's computer to keep this front-wheeldrive car on the road when it gets slippery.

With two liters of displacement moving 2,700 pounds, you can expect good fuel economy as the little Sportback earns 22 city and 30 highway with the six-speed manual transmission. EPA Green Vehicle Guide numbers of 6 for air pollution and 7 for greenhouse gas give the Sportback entry into the SmartWay group, your best choices for green driving. I got 27.4 miles per gallon in an honest week of varied urban motoring.

Of course with a small car one wonders about safety. Despite offering mostly fourstar rather than five-star crash ratings, the Sportback offers a full complement of air bags, crush zones, and all the usual standard features one expects these days.

Europeans have known this for years, but hatchbacks are really great for turning a small car into a hauling wizard. The SX4 can handle 54 cubic feet of stuff when you drop the ings in reliability and consumer cost. In addition, Kellev Blue Book's kbb.com has recognized the SX4 as one of its "Top 10 Coolest Cars Under $18,000," while my colleagues in the New England Motor Press Association have awarded the SX4 with its "Yankee Value Award" for three consecutive years. I imagine the allwheel-drive SX4 Crossover does especially well in snowy climes. Suzuki, a 101-year-old com-

OFFICIAL ELECTION NOTICE

TO THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS IN THE SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF HARPER WOODS, COUNTY OF WAYNE, STATE OF MICHIGAN. Notice is hereby given that an election will be held in the City of Harper Woods in the County of Wayne, State of Michigan on May 4, 2010 from 7:00 A.M. to 8 P.M. at which time the following offices will be voted upon: Two (2) Members of the School Board of Education for the School District of the City of Harper Woods.

OPERATING MILLAGE PROPOSAL

This proposal will enable the school district to levy the statutory rate of 18 mills on all property, except principal residence and other property exempted by law, required for the school district to receive its revenue per pupil foundation allowance.

Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property, except principal residence and other property exempted by law, in School District of the city of Harper Woods, Wayne county, Michigan, be increased by .5 mill ($0.50 on each $1,000 of taxable valuation) for a period of 5 years, 2010 to 2014, inclusive, to provide funds for operating purposes; the estimate of the revenue the school district will collect if the millage is approved and levied in 2010 is approximately $22,000 (this millage is to restore millage lost as a result of the reduction required by the Michigan Constitution of 1963 and will be levied only to the extent necessary to restore that reduction)?

STATEMENT OF TREASURER

I, RAYMOND J. WOJTOWICZ, Treasurer of Wayne County, Michigan, do hereby certify that, as of January 28, 2010 the total of all voted increases in excess of the tax rate limitation established by Section 6, Article IX of the Constitution of the State of Michigan, as amended, and the years such increases are effective on property in the county of Wayne as follows:

But it wasn't just the deep exterior color of the five-passenger crossover that captured our fancy: It was almost everything that came in, on and under this mid-size vehicle.

The Equinox began garnering rave reviews from the time of its introduction early last summer. Is this possible, we wondered? Its predecessor was acceptable, but not outstand-

Its roots date back to the Chevy Tracker of the late 1980s — at that time, one of our favorite vehicles because of its smaller size and quirky personality.

The 2010 Equinox is not quirky. But it, too, is likely to join our list of "faves" for reasons including quiet ride, interior space, handsome design, overall comfort and flexibility.

With nicely proportioned lines, the 2010 Chevrolet Equinox holds more than its compact shape suggests. The navy blue metallic exterior of the Equinox added to its already pleasing personality. Interior materials include hard plastic surfaces which are practical and easy to maintain. The overall effect is one of good, uncomplicated design.

The 2011 Lincoln MKZ Hybrid takes SmartGauge with EcoGuide to next level, offering drivers enhanced positive feedback on long-term fuel efficiency and driving performance.

Lincoln MKZ Hybrid fuel-efficient luxury

Lincoln recently introduced its first hybrid — the new 2011 Lincoln MKZ Hybrid - a premium midsize car poised to be the most fuel-efficient luxury sedan in America.

Ford Motor Co. — America's largest domestic hybrid seller is further broadening its aggressive electrification plan and second generation of hybrid technology with the Lincoln MKZ Hybrid. The vehicle was revealed at the New York International Auto Show.

"Lincoln's hallmarks are design, technology and comfort," said Mark Fields, Ford's president of The Americas. "Now, Lincoln also delivers the best fuel efficiency of any luxury sedan in America."

Lincoln's first hybrid is expected to deliver at least 41 miles per gallon in the city and goes on sale this fall.

The new premium midsize sedan hybrid joins Ford's growing lineup of hybrids, including the Ford Fusion Hybrid - 2010 North American International Auto Show Car of the Year — plus the Ford Escape Hybrid and Mercury Milan and Mariner hybrids.

Introduction of the new Lincoln MKZ Hybrid also complements Ford's aggressive global electrification plan. Ford is introducing five new electrified vehicles by 2013. They include the Transit Connect Electric in late 2010, the Focus Electric in 2011, a next-generation hybrid electric vehicle and a plug-in hybrid electric vehicle in 2012, followed by another next-generation hybrid electric vehicle horsepower.

The larger, 264 horsepower engine coupled with the extra weight of the all-wheel-drive system is rated at 17 mpg city and 24 mpg highway.

In our time with the LTZ with the larger engine and all-wheel drive, we noted combined fuel economy averaging just more than 20 mpg. In errands-style driving, it dipped to just more than 17 mpg, which was exactly what the EPA numbers showed for this model.

Both engines use regular unleaded fuel.

As for retail prices, you could purchase a base Equinox LS with smaller engine and front drive and pay about $23,185. The LS doesn't come with a power sunroof or rear camera; rear park assist is not standard nor is the programmable power rear liftgate. But the efficient six-speed automatic will be there as will power mirrors and windows, anti-lock brakes, Stabilitrak and traction control, cruise control and front side air bags and air curtain air bags.

At no extra charge you will be treated to the spacious interior that has world-class room for passengers' legs, ankles and feet. Doors to the second row open wide enough to get in without denting the car parked beside. And they also open out to a 90-degree angle from the side of the vehicle.

The Equinox rocker panels are incorporated into the doors to make it easier to get in and out of the vehicle. They narrow the area over which a passenger must step, Chevy says, offering protection for pant legs or long skirts that could brush against dirty rockers.

The test LTZ also featured trailering equipment with an appropriate rear axle ratio and a gross vehicle weight rating of 5,300 pounds. Translated, this means the Equinox, with a curb weight of 3,770 pounds, can haul an additional 1,530 pounds of passengers, fuel and cargo, including whatever you might wish to tow.

Chevrolet adds that the Equinox has a potential highway driving range of up to 600 miles with the smaller 2.4-liter engine and more than 500 miles per tank with the 3.0-liter V-6.

Six air bags are standard. OnStar and XM radio with complimentary service periods are standard. A remote starting system that also turns on the heating/cooling system and optional heated seats are available.

The 2010 Equinox is assembled in Ingersol, Ontario. It goes up against the likes of the Honda CR-V, Toyota RAV-4 and Ford Escape in the compact SUV/crossover market segment.

ZR1. Black 20-spoke 19-inch front/20-inch rear wheels complement the car's Michelin PS2 tires.

Other mechanical features include Magnetic Selective Ride Control for the first time on the Z06 and enhanced cooling. The car also features a special carbon pattern engine cover.

The Corvette Z06 Carbon is available in two colors: inferno orange and the all-new supersonic blue.

Black headlamps and mirrors, a ZR1-style body color spoiler, body color door handles, carbon fiber raised hood, and black carbon fiber rockers and splitter enhance the Z06's dynamic design and reduce mass and aerodynam-ic lift. For track events, customers can also install the Eurostyled racing numbers that come with each car.

The Z06 Carbon's ebony leather and suede interior is complemented by blue or orange seat stitching to match the exterior color.

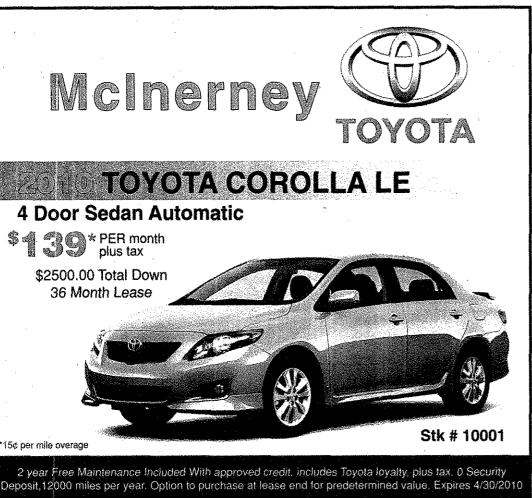

Other features include a unique steering wheel emblem, sill plate and logoed headrest.

The suede used on the steering wheel, shifter, seat inserts, armrests and doors add to the luxury of this limited edition Z06.

An optional Z07 performance package that includes the mechanical upgrades introduced on the Z06 Carbon can be added to a regular 2011 Z06. This package also includes competition gray 20spoke wheels and all the chassis and cooling upgrades.

The CFZ Z06 carbon fiber package includes black carbon fiber rockers, splitter and roof panel with the full-width body color spoiler. It can also be purchased with or without the Z07 package on regular Z06 models.

The 2011 Corvette Z06 Carbon Limited Edition, as well as the new Z07 and CFZ Z06 option packages, will be available in late summer.

French recognize contribution of WWII vet

By Ann L. Fouty Features Editor

William Victor Benjamin of Grosse Pointe Farms fought for a country of which he was not a citizen.

Yet, Benjamin was recognized by both the United States government, and most recently by the French Republic for his feats on French soil during World War II.

Born Dec., 28, 1917 in Swansea, Wales, and not naturalized until after his 1947 discharge from the U.S. Army, Benjamin tells the story of how he earned the French Legion of Honor medal, presented in January 2010. It joins a Purple Heart, Bronze and Silver stars, four major battle stars and an overseas unit citation ribbon all awarded as a member of the 36th Division of the U.S. Army Infantry.

Benjamin joined the U.S. Army on his birthday in 1943, adopted by the Alice and Ivars he said. Benjamin prior to emigrating to Canada. They moved to Michigan when his father got a job at Chrysler.

Benjamin worked at Ford Motor Company before joining the army which shipped him across the Atlantic where he led a rifleman unit into heavy fighting in southern France, pushing Germans into their homeland.

"We started out early in the morning," he said of how he was wounded, earning the prestigious French recognition and his Purple

"We hit this German hill. We had chased them off and followed them. They would go back a couple miles (setting up artillery). They knew where you are. I was exhausted. I fell asleep in one of their foxholes. I fell asleep with my (right) arm on the top (of the foxhole). They shelled us (hitting his arm). I hauled myself two miles back to the battalion and took a couple Germans with me. They were delighted as hell to get out of there. I turned them over to the police and checked myself into the hospital."

The battle in which he was wounded in the fall of 1944 was a few miles from Epinal, France. Some 5,255 American soldiers are buried at Epinal. Troops had been moving north from southern France through the Rhone Valley into Germany.

Benjamin agreed he was one of the lucky ones to survive not only in France and Germany but fighting in Africa and Italy.

Capturing the two young soldiers was easy,

"The war was practically over and there were a lot of kids. They were youngsters," Beniamin said of the two German soldiers. The two had stayed behind on the hill when it changed hands. "I carried a .45 in case they wanted to escape, which they didn't."

After a month of recuperation, Benjamin, a second lieutenant, rejoined his riflemen's unit pushing into Germany. Fate turned.

The company Benjamin was commanding surrendered to the Germans at the end of December 1944 in Kleinstadt, which trans-

DO YOU NEED DRAPERY OR BLIND CLEANING? ANYTHING THAT HANGS ON A WINDOW CLEANED!!

You know from reading the Shopping Reviews in the past that the professionals at Angott's sell and repair anything that hangs on a window. But they want you to know about the extensive cleaning services they provide. No matter how unusual (or usual!) your window treatments are, Angott's has just the right procedure to clean them! Their Ultrasonic Cleaning for your hard to clean mini blinds will have them sparkling clean again. Or, for those unusual window treatments, they can use the Injection Method, infusing the cleaner into the treatment and then extracting it along with every bit of dust and dirt - leaving those treatments beautiful and clean again. Of course there's always the traditional method of dry or wet cleaning of your draperies, curtains and sheers. Today is a great day to have your window treatments cleaned by Angott's. And the best part is - they have a convenient take down and rehang service that saves you time and effort. Call 313-521-3021 and tell them Sally sent you!!!

lates to "small town."

His company was cut off from the rest of the army with no communications, few provisions and the unit sustaining many deaths.

"We were under fire for a week or more. We lost many," he said. "I don't know how many. I didn't want to lose any more. We were cut off entirely, no communications, hardly any food. I couldn't see any recourse except to give up. A German officer came over and said, 'I want you to give it up.' The officer that came over spoke beautiful English."

The German had been born in Brooklyn, N.Y. and had gone back to his parents' fatherland to assist Adolf Hitler. "I'm stuck," he told Benjamin and couldn't wait to get back home. Home to the German officer meant the U.S.

Benjamin's unit, numbering between 35 and 50, crossed the Rhine River moving into the Black Forest. He said he remembers the time of year because it was near his birthday. The captured Americans were transported by train and truck to Stalag 7A at Moosburg, northeast Munich — his home for seven months, along with 14,000 other prisoners of war.

Every day, he was transported into Munich to do menial work, such as sweeping floors in a municipal building.

"Who came to free us?" Benjamin asked, leaning forward. "Georgie Patton."

William Benjamin of Grosse Pointe Farms fought during World War II in Africa, Italy, France and Germany with the U.S. Army infantry. He has recently been recognized by France and holds the French Legion of Honor medal, which he holds in the hand which was wounded while fighting in France. By an order enacted under Napoleon Bonaparte, the "Arms of Honor" were instituted to recognize feats of valor by members of the army. These arms were engraved with the name of the bearer and frequently mentioned the exploit for which they had been awarded. Sabers signified first class. To earn it, an individual had to have distinguished himself in an exceptional manner.

Yet the First Consul was already thinking about instituting a new award that would not be conferred exclusively for military valor. Napoleon conceived the formation of an honorary order reflecting the principle of equality not only between military and civilian but also in services rendered to the country.

Napoleon's project was adopted and by the law and the Legion of Honor was instituted and conferred on individuals in all walks of life, military, magistrates, administrators and civil servants as well as men of distinguished achievement in the arts, fine arts, teaching, agriculture, vices, Consulate General of France, Chicago.

Should seniors consider yoga?

the word yoga, we typically envision young healthy bodies twisted up like pretzels. But the fact is seniors can absolutely benefit from yoga.

Our senior population is growing rapidly as is an interest in leading fit, active lives. On the whole, we live longer than we used to, and we all want high-quality living and good health to be a part of our older years.

As we grow older, however, we typically become more susceptible to ailments linked to aging. As a result, we tend to move less. The less we move, the more susceptible we become to a variety of ailments, so beginning a truly vicious cy-

Although many feel we should "take it easy" as we grow older, that is actually what we shouldn't do. Extended periods of sitting may lead to muscular shortening, tightening and weakening. Lack of weight-bearing activity contributes to osteoporosis. Lack of movement and stretching can lead to joint deterioration and loss of flexibility.

Of grave concern for our senior population is the lack of balance which stems, in part, from sitting rather than standing and not challenging one's balance in various positions. Complications resulting from falls among people over the age of 65 frequently lead to a multitude of serious problems, sometimes culminating in death.

Many health concerns have been linked to the sedentary lifestyle which is typical of many older people, including, but not limited to, the follow-

- ◆ Reduced joint flexibility
- ◆ Arthritis/bursitis ♦ High blood pressure
- ◆ Increased body fat and de-
- creased lean body tissue
- Osteoporosis ◆ Low back pain
- ◆ Breathing difficulties
- ◆ Poor blood circulation
- ♦ Vision problems
- ◆ Chronic pain Stress related symptoms ◆ Inability to sleep peaceful-

In light of our growing senior population and the health conditions associated with aging, researchers are taking a closer look at their health issues. Yoga is considered by many to be a tremendous tool for combating the concerns of an aging society.

Let's face it, whether we like it or not, as we age our bodies naturally degenerate at every level; skin, bones, heart, blood vessels, nerves, lungs, organs, etc. As a result, the three most common conditions in the senior population today are arthritis, hypertension, and osteoporosis.

The sedentary lifestyle leads those and other problems such as reduced flexibility, joint deterioration and loss of balance, not to mention just good old fashioned chronic pain.

So here are just some of the benefits of yoga:

- ◆ Improved balance
- Decreased blood pressure ◆ Improved flexibility and
- overall range of motion
- ♦ Improved posture ◆ Increased lung capacity

Theater and Ford House partner to offer children's acting camp

the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House are partenering this summer to offer "ACTING UP: A Summer Theatre Camp for Creative Kids!"

The camp offers two modules: Basic Acting Skills for the weeks two Performance Preparation the final two weeks.

Camp culminates with an outdoor performance Saturday, July 17.

The theater hosts the first two-week segment, June 21 -July 2, in its rehearsal studio at 315 Fisher, City of Grosse Pointe. Focusing on basic acting skills, the day-long sessions, from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m., use theater games, classroom learning and video feedback to teach basic acting skills.

The second two-week segment, beginning July 6, is held in the Ford House Activities Center and on the grounds, The performance-based module prepares campers for their final presentation.

Campers aged 8 through 10 attend from 9 a.m. to noon; students 11 through 14 attend from 1 to 4 p.m.

Hosting outdoor theater at the Ford House is a concept promoted by landscape architect Jens Jensen, who designed the grounds more than 80 years ago. He was a proponent of using outdoor spaces as places for drama and pageantry. Whenever possible, he incorporated small, natural clearings in his designs that could be used for plays, musical offerings or recitals. According to Ford House great-grandmother.

Grosse Pointe Theatre and President Kathleen Mullins, the and fun learning experience for partnership provides another opportunity for engaging new visitors.

"We are so pleased that our partnership with Grosse Pointe Theatre has grown to bring the performing arts to our wonderful estate," she said. "I think Jens Jensen would be pleased to know that this landscape one of the few private residences he created that is still intact — is being used in a way that he very much supported."

For the theater, this is a natural extension of its Youth on Stage Program.

"Grosse Pointe Theatre has been considering a summer camp for several years," according to Kathleen Conlon, theater president. "Our discussions with Ford House provided the spark that made us believe we could offer a unique mellbee@earthlink.net.

the children. Youth on Stage has been in operation for 11 years and this summer camp is the perfect next step for expanding the program."

Registration forms and information can be downloaded from gpt.org or fordhouse.org. Materials are also available at the Ford House Activities Center or the Grosse Pointe Theatre building from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday - Saturday.

Fees for the camp are $150 per week with discounts for children of members of either the Ford House or Grosse Pointe Theatre. Discounts are also available for families with multiple children attending the Youth Assistance A. Services, offered by CARE (Community Assessment Referral and Education), has served the families in Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods since 1991.

The Youth Assistance Program for males and females ages 9 to 16 years old and the Young Adult Diversion Program for males and females ages 17 to 20 years old act as a diversion to help prevent juvenile delinquency and is designed to address status offenses such as curfew violations, retail fraud, minor in possession of alcohol or other drugs, destruction of property, etc. It offers those who have committed first time offenses an alternative to the Wayne County Juvenile Court.

Local police departments, families and courts refer young people to this program. Services are voluntary and confidential and there is a fee. Components of the programs include work service, mentoring, adolescent group interaction and parenting workshops. A comprehensive psychosocial assessment can be completed and referrals made to counselors and other local programs. There are stringent re-

What kinds of drug problems are you seeing in the young people referred to you?

When I ask teens to A. name the biggest problem facing young people today, drug use tops the list.

Drug use is identified consistently as being among the top problems confronting the nation's schools and communities. Many adults don't recognize the degree to which children, schools, and communities are at risk. One can easily see the correlation between concerns such as school failure, pregnancy, violence, neglect, sexual abuse, depression, family and cultural issues and suicidal ideations or completions.

According to the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration, nearly 1 in 10 high school seniors admit to abusing powerful prescription painkillers. A shocking 40 percent of teens and an almost equal number of their parents think abusing prescription pain killers is safer than abusing "street" drugs.

The National Institute of Drug Abuse Research Report classifies several medications that are commonly abused. The most common medications are: opioids which are usually prescribed to treat pain: central nervous system depressants used to treat anxiety and sleep disorders; and stimulants used to treat sleep disorders and attention-deficit hyperactivity disorder.

The increasing purity of heroin makes snorting/inhaling a realistic alternative to injecting and may be contributing to reported increases in hospital emergency department visits. Also, the street value of heroin is significantly lower than the unlawful sale of prescription vention-oriented. With diversion programs, teens have a much better chance of successfully completing their high school years and developing into strong, independent and healthy adults.

An outstanding lifetime event

uring a long lifetime I've had many memorable moments. But last Wednesday, an event simply took my breath

It happened at the annual Detroit Chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists banquet where awards are given to outstanding media recipi- husband's father was editor enis.

A "Lifetime Achievement Award" was presented to the Cain family. It answered rather dramatically the question I sometimes ask myself as I grow older, "Did my life make any difference?"

All the Cains were honored, including my children and my late husband, Charlie Cain, who was inducted into the Michigan Journalist Hall of Fame in 2001. In my younger days, I worked for the Associated Press, Business Week magazine and more recently, the Detroit Free Press.

It was also mentioned my and publisher of a daily newspaper in Masssachusetts and my brother was a Washington correspondent and president of the National Press Club in Washington, So journalism is probably in our genes.

Ben Burns did the honors and noted that "For journalistic dynasties, few families can rival the Cains of Michigan." He mentioned hiring both my son, Charlie, and my daughter, Carol, when he was editor of the Detroit News. He also hired me to write a column when he was executive editor of the Royal Oak Tribune and Macomb Daily. When we received the beautiful plaque, the audience of journalists and friends didn't simply applaud, but stood up to honor us. What a moment!

Also receiving awards were my son-in-law, Dave Posavetz of the Macomb Daily for best news photo and the Grosse Pointe News' Brad Lindberg for general reporting and criticism.

The award ceremony came on the heels of five wonderful days in Arizona with my four daughters and one of my sons. One interesting thing happened there. For years I have been looking for lapis earrings that were not drop earrings. Every store I visit I ask for

A saleslady told us there was a jewelry store in old Scotsdale that carried lapis jewelry. She wasn't sure of the name, but it was by a pizza restaurant frequented by Frank Sinatra.

When we entered the store, Nancy told the Iranian owner that she taught in Tehran for two years. The two discussed Tehran and the way the city was and how it is today. The owner said she returns once a year to pick up items, including lapis.

The owner was so happy to see us, she invited us to dinner. Unfortunately, we already had other plans.

Oh, and I found the earrings I sought.

Two ladies in my condo complex write a monthly newsletter for the residents. Editors Nancy Harrison and Mary Shields always come up with the most interesting facts about the current time.

Here are a few Easter-related facts: Americans spend nearly $1.9 billion on Easter candy. Ninety million chocolate Easter bunnies are produced each year, with 76 percent of Americans eating the ears first, and adults preferring milk chocolate bunnies (65 percent) to dark chocolate (27 percent).

The most popular nonchocolate Easter candy is Marshmallow Peeps, bunnies and eggs. Each Easter season Americans buy more than 700 million of these marshmallow treats. In 1953, it took 27 hours to create a Marshmallow Peep. Today it takes six minutes. You may have noticed there are now marshmallow versions in hearts and pumpkins for Valentines Day and Halloween.

X-TRA SPECIAL ADVICE

By Mary Beth Langan and Theodore G. Coutilish

Honest answers may not be the desired answers

s parents of a child with Fragile X Syndrome and autism, we are often asked about our son, Andrew, 9.

"Is he getting any better?" "How is he feeling?

"Is there any progress?" The questions are often very well meaning and a way for people to show they care about our family. Our problem is not always knowing how to respond. It's not easy.

Sometimes it requires thought to give a truly honest, well-balanced answer and we don't always have the time, especially in passing - and especially if Andrew is with us and is his usual not-so-patient self.

Like many children, his growth, maturity and development are full of victories and spoils, celebrations and frustrations, pleasant surprises and unpleasant disasters. At times, it's one step forward and three steps back. Minor milestones can be wiped away as fast as you can say "C is for cookie."

There are three basic ways to handle these situations:

1. Politely lie and tell them the short version of what they want to hear "Yes, he's doing fine and growing tall. Thank you for asking. You're so

2. Tell them only the positive parts of the true story. "At age 9, he's using a sports bottle instead of a sippy cup. He is doing much better with his toileting skills. He recently sat through an entire assembly at school! Thank you for asking. You're so kind.' 3. Tell them a mixture of life as we know it. "Some days are exhausting. He had a major meltdown yesterday, ripped up a book and did unmentionable things on our carpet. He's still essentially nonverbal. On the positive side, his toileting skills are improving and when he's happy, he has the best smile in the world! Thank you for asking. You're so kind."

Lately, we tend to choose number three. It takes longer to explain, there are more details and sometimes follow-up questions, you risk bringing down the conversation, it takes more effort and patience, and you may see a pity reaction.

Please, save your pity. We do not need it — or want it. But we do appreciate your understanding of our real life. Not just the glossy version.

Andrew, like all children, has his own beautiful gifts. We know some of them and others are revealing themselves to us in God's own sweet time. He knows the computer better than some children his age, figured out Dad's iPhone faster than his mother, has the most contagious laugh you ever heard, and cracks up all three of us from time to time.

Like a recent Saturday when he gave his dad a baseball hat after seeing him come out of the shower with shower hair. Andrew was the one with bed head.

People in glass houses... you know the rest.

We appreciate the questions about life with Andrew. Please keep them coming and thank It's up to us how to respond. Honesty is still, and always will be, the best policy.

Grosse Pointe residents Theodore G. Coutilish and Mary Beth Langan created this column to share experiences from their journey as parents of a child with Fragile X syndrome (fragilex.org.). Send questions or comments to mblangan@hotmail.com.

his arms out like he wants to embrace me?

"That's the man at the table," called out the child in the kindergarten class. I had knocked on the door and was hardly in when the little guy spoke. I had not even had a chance to greet the teacher.

As the pastor of a parish with an associated school associated, I visit classrooms on a regular basis. My brief visits are my attempt to help the school administration keep the children aware they are in a Christian environment.

"That's the man at the table," is a comment that identified me with the child's Sunday experience. The child saw me up on the platform near the table-like altar. So that is who I was to him.

As many of you experienced recently in the school presentation of "The Emperor's New Clothes," the child almost always speaks up. And the child says it like it is. Not to give away the story, but the emperor had no clothes; the adults allowed their own expectations and hopes to delude them.

An adult, when he is near a child, has to be aware his actions are being recorded on a very impressionable mind and memory. The child goes forward with the image and will speak of it when he sees it. Be careful!

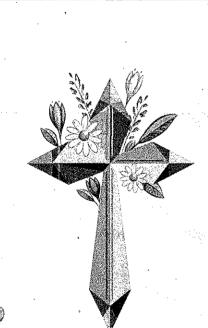

We have just gone through the memory and re-imagination of the crucifixion and death of Christ. How does the child see that? The child has no preconceived ideas or expectations or hopes. The child sees the images as they are. As an adult, am I prepared to tell the child that is the guy hanging like a tree on the wall in front of the church? With the child, am I prepared to say he has

The next time I am the "man at the table," I will need to think about the man on the wall behind me. I need to think with the innocence of a child.

The next time I am the "man approaching the table at the front of the church," I will need to think about the man on the wall above the table - with the innocence of a child!

His arms are indeed out in an extended position! Will I, like the child, allow my self to be embraced by the Lord?

Sheridan is a member of the Order of St. Augustine and pastor of St. Clare of Montefalco Parish.

South gets big victory over North

Rist comes up with huge game

By Bob St. John Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South played its best game of the season Monday night, beating city rival Grosse Pointe North 7-6.

"We really needed a big win and this was it," South head coach Lauren Germaine said. "We played pretty well this past weekend and lost, so this win against North will hopefully get us going.

"The girls played a nice game against a good team and our goalie, Bailey Rist, was outstanding.'

"We shot very, very, very poorly and we had a poor offensive effort," North head coach Bill Seaman said. "We had six or so penalty shots and didn't convert. You know what we will be working on in prac- all. tice, penalty shots.3

Rist, the Blue Devils' sophomore goalkeeper, stopped 26of-32 shots, including a dozen in the final 10 minutes of the second half when the Norsemen continued to pepper

The host Blue Devils got off to a fast start, taking a 4-1 lead on goals by sophomore Libby Griffith, senior Katherine Palms, junior Shelby Stone and senior Melanie Parke.

The Norsemen's tally came from senior Molly Youngblood.

Junior Mackenzie Seaman and senior Hannah Everett scored to pull the Norsemen within a goal, 4-3, but senior Hanna Doyle tallied to give the home team a 5-3 lead with only 1:49 left in the opening half.

It took only 36 seconds for the Norsemen to once again inch within a goal as junior Emily Turnbull scored to make it a 5-4 game at the half.

Stone scored again, but the Norsemen came back to tie it 6-6 when senior Laura Thibault and Everett tallied.

The Blue Devils' defense turned up the heat as senior Torie Palffy, junior Hayley Altshuler and senior Sarah Parker provided Rist with good looks at the incoming shots.

North had no trouble finding the back of the net in its 14-7 win over Lake Orion last week, leaving the Norsemen 2-2 over-

South stands 2-3 overall after dropping tough games to state-ranked teams South Lyon, 11-9, and Rockford, 12-3.

Palffy, Griffith and Altshuler teamed up to limit the high-flying Rockford team to only 12 goals, nine below its season av-

Against South Lyon, Palms, Parke, Stone and senior Lindsey Thibodeau scored two goals apiece with senior Lauren Schmidt netting one.

Grosse Pointe North's Mackenzie Seaman, No. 23, scored a goal for the Norsemen, but it was South senior Torie Palffy, No. 14, who helped shut down a potent offense during a 7-6 Blue Devils' victory.

Knights start with losses

Liggett's girls' lacrosse team opened the season last week with tough road games against Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook Kingswood and Rochester.

The Knights lost 15-7 to Cranbrook Kingswood and 12-4 to Rochester.

"The girls played well and for many of them it was their first lacrosse game," head coach Tamara Fobare said. "The defense worked hard (against CK), forcing 11 turnovers."

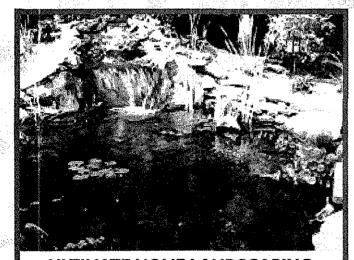

Against the Cranes, Maggie Zinkel had three goals, while Anne Sullivan and Abby Belcrest had two goals apiece.

In the second tilt, Zinkel had two goals with Sullivan and Belcrest netting one apiece.

Goaltender Kelly Usakoski made eight saves as the Knights hosted Tecumseh last weekend, losing 11-8 to fall to 0-3 overall.

Norsemen gain division split

By Bob St. John Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North's girls' tennis team split its division matches last week.

The Norsemen opened the season with a tough 9-0 loss to Port Huron Northern, but came back to beat Chippewa Valley 5-4 as sophomore Holly Gilezan won the clinching match, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3 at No. 4 singles.

Freshman Ali Scoggin, playing No. 1 singles, beat her Chippewa Valley foe 6-0, 6-2, and senior co-captain Kim Woods won her No. 2 singles match 6-4, 6-2.

At No. 3 singles, senior cocaptain Emily Biegas won 6-3, 6-4, and the Norsemen's No. 2 doubles squad of juniors Sarah Warnez and Kiera Maloney took care of business with a 6-4.6-0 victory.

Head coach Matt Eszes and the Norsemen also lost a non-rivals South and Liggett.

Blue Devils win tournament

By Bob St. John Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's girls' tennis team began the season ranked No. 8 in Division 1.

That ranking should move up the charts after the Blue Devils won the Grand Blanc Tournament and beat two Macomb Area Conference Red Division foes last week.

"I was pleasantly surprised at how well the girls played," head coach Mark Sobieralski also finished 5-0 and tournasaid. "The girls played hard and they're not getting too excited about this fast start.

Eisenhower 7-1 and Port Huron Northern 8-0 in division play.

In the tournament, the Blue Devils finished with 22 points, followed by Clarkston with 16, Grand Blanc with 12 and Traverse City West with four.

Leading the way are co-captains Julie Wittwer and Emily Lynch, who are both 4-1 during the first week of matches, playing No. 1 and No. 3 singles for Sobieralski.

Sophomore Emma Hyde is also 4-1 at No. 2 singles and senior E.A. Kennedy is off to a 5-0 start at No. 4 singles.

At the doubles slots, junior Alana Dickson and senior Kiki Fox are 5-0 and tournament champions at the No. 2 flight, as is the No. 3 tandem of senior Courtney Nestor and sophomore Amelia Boccaccio, who ment champs.

The No. 4 doubles team of sophomores Carrie Lynch and Clare Brennan won a tournament title and is also undefeated, while the No. 5 doubles The Blue Devils beat Utica squad of junior Libby Krueger and freshman Madison Skau finished 2-3 in their first five matches.

The Blue Devils' No. 1 doubles team of seniors Carla Schmidt and Molly Andrew had a nice week, winning 4-of-5 matches and won the tournament title.

YOUTH SOCCER

Grosse Pointe Soccer Association goalie aims high

As a goalkeeper for his Pointe Soccer Grosse Under-13 Association's Premier Travel team, Nathan Steinkampf is keeping his eye on the soccer ball and the U.S. Youth Soccer Olympic Development Program.

The Harper Woods resident attends the ODP regional camp this summer in Overland Park, Kansas, and will try to make the cut for one of the two available goalkeeper positions for the ODP regional team.

Players from throughout the country have been invited to try out and compete for spots on this team.

"I'm very excited for the opportunity to play on a highly ranked team," Steinkampf said. "I'm nervous to play in Kansas because I've never played there and I really want to be picked for the next level team.

His first opportunity to try out for the ODP team came at the end of his Under-11 season. He attended a two-day tryout and training session and was good enough to make the first cut for goalkeepers. However, he didn't make it.

After two grueling weekends of two-a-day training sessions, competition and evaluation,

Nathan Steinkampf makes a save during one of his games. He is ready for the next level of competition.

the entire family.

"Much of it made it clear that there was no desire to go through that (process) again," the disappointment was felt by said Steinkampf's father, out last August at the ODP Randy, "When you're 11 years old, getting cut hurts...bad." Still, Steinkampf kept his eye on the ultimate goal and tried camp in Canton, Michigan. He was rewarded for his persistence. He heard his name announced by the coaches as one of the players who would continue with the ODP selection process and the opportunity to make the roster for the regional team.

"We were excited, this was a long and very nerve-racking weekend," said his mother, Pat.

Steinkampf began playing soccer as an 8-year-old for GPSA's house program and later joined GPSA Salvo, a boys travel program.

Most recently, Steinkampf has been playing for Jonathan Pickett's U13 Salvo Premier team. Steinkampf also plays up an age division for Frank Schulte's U14 Salvo team where he plays defense.

Next stop for Steinkampf is the ODP camp at Detroit Country Day School in June where the rest of the team will be finalized. In July, the final team heads to Overland Park. The regional camp features competition between 14 state teams.

The team spends its days training and competing in interstate competition games in the evenings. Select players will be placed in a regional pool and invited to spend an additional week at "Holdover" camp.

Steinkampf doesn't know if he'll make the cut for that select group, but he said he's happy to have made the state

Registration for Red Barons

As baseball and other spring sports are launching their seasons. Red Barons Little League Football began preparing for its 2010 summer/fall program.

The Red Barons program, founded in 1954, is preparing for its 56th season of providing recreation and fun for Grosse Pointe boys and girls ages 9 to Red Barons compete in the Suburban Football League, one of the premier programs in the league. The organization and coaching staff are volunteers, many of which have extensive coaching and playing experience at every level of competition.

Red Barons have squads at each level of competition, join the Red Barons North.

'The high school football coaches and staff enthusiastically support Red Barons football.' DAVE BILBREY. Red Barons spokesman

Based on age and weight, there are three levels of Red Barons squads, freshmen, junior varsity and varsity. When a player or cheerleader enters high school, they are no longer eligible to participate in the program.

A unique and dynamic twist for Red Barons is they are separated into Grosse Pointe North and South teams. If a player or cheerleader lives in the North school district, they

Those at Grosse Pointe South are assigned to South Red Barons.

"Needless to say, the competition and collegial rivalry between Grosse Pointe North and Grosse Pointe South athletes begins with Red Barons and continues until players and cheerleaders graduate from high school," said program spokesman, Dave Bilbrey. "When our players and cheerleaders arrive at their high school they know what to do and are ready to step in and contribute to their teams."

Red Barons registration begins in a few weeks. Registration is online at goredbarons.com. There will be two sessions for registration. The first is for returning players, which begins May 8 and closes May 26.

New players and cheerleaders can register during an open registration, beginning June 5 and continuing until the player and cheerleader slots are full.

RIVALS

Blue Devils beat Mother Nature, rival Norsemen

By Bob St. John Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South got a leg up against defending league dual meet champ Grosse Pointe North with a win last week.

A windy day provided a challenge for the rivals during their round at Gowanie Golf Club.

"Neither team shot particularly low scores considering the windy conditions, but we were lucky to shoot well enough to win," South head coach Rob McIntyre said.

Captain Tommy Pendy and Evan Inger led the Blue Devils with a 41 and Kevin Zak led the Norsemen with a 41. Other scorers for the Norsemen were Patrick Flynn with a 42, Jon Plomaritis with a 45.

Earlier in the week, the Blue Grosse Pointe North is 1-1.

Devils beat Utica Eisenhower 153-173 as Pendy led the way with a 36. Evan Inger and Nate Zymouth were also in the 30s, firing a 37 and 38 respectively.

North won its division opener, beating Utica Ford 156-171 as Freismuth and Flynn each shot a 38.

Steve Demers Plomaritis followed with a 40 to help the Norsemen.

Last weekend, the Blue Devils took second in the Marshall Tournament at Marshall Golf Club. The team fired a 313 and Jackson Lumen Christi won with a 311.

"A couple of shots here and there was the difference," McIntyre said. "Lumen Christi has a nice team and our guys were right there."

Grosse Pointe South is 2-0 Freismuth with a 43 and Alex overall and in the Macomb Area Conference Red Division:

Museum to host rowing regatta

The Detroit River outside Museum is the site of the third annual Dossin Invitational Rowing Regatta, presented by Detroit Historical Society's Dossin Maritime Group.

Weather permitting, the event takes place from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday, April 25, and features match races pitting boys and girls crews from the Detroit Boat Club Crew's Junior Rowers, St. John's Jesuit High School and St. Ursula Academy from Toledo.

Indoor rowing demonstrations are offered inside the Dossin museum and information about taking up the sport of rowing is available.

The races begin at 12:15 p.m. with prime viewing available from DeRoy Hall inside the museum. An awards ceremony and refreshments conclude the event and start at approximately 1:30 p.m.

Admission is free to watch the rowing events from the banks of the Detroit River near the Dossin Great Lakes Museum. Guests may also watch the races from DeRoy Hall. The awards ceremony will follow the races.

The Dossin museum, located at 100 Strand Drive on Belle Isle, is open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. Admission is free at the museum during 2010, however, donations are welcome.

During the week, the musethe Dossin Great Lakes um is open for group tours by advance reservation. Permanent exhibits include the Miss Pepsi vintage 1940s championship hydroplane, a bow anchor from the S.S. Edmund Fitzgerald, the pilothouse from the Great Lakes freighter S.S. William Clav Ford, and one of the largest known collections of scale model ships in the world. New exhibits include "Life on a Long Ship: Great Lakes Sailors" and "Dossin Great Lakes Museum: Celebrating 50 Years. For more information, call

Blue Devils return from road trip, win 2-of-3

Baseball

By John McTaggart Special Writer

Grosse Pointe South head baseball coach Dan Griesbaum has been at the helm for a good long while.

led his share of stellar ball clubs, including a state championship, and his share of allstate players.

He knows how the process of building a winning team

#So, when this year's team squared off for two against a very tough Warren Woods Tower club last weekend, the important things at this point improve, too." in the season than the outcome of the games.

"We want to be there at the end," Griesbaum said. "That's what this is all about. Right now, we're trying to find the right combination. The final score isn't the most important thing. Sure, you want to win and you try very hard to win, but it's really not what these games are all about."

As it went that blustery Saturday against the Titans, South split the twin-bill, dropping the first game 8-4, then snatching victory in extra innings, 6-5, in the closing game.

"You do some tweaking in these games, some adjusting, some experimenting," the coach explained. "You're trying to find the right mix. I really think we have some potential, some real potential, but, off hit down the first-base line right now, we've got a long way to go.'

The Blue Devils seem poised to, at the very least, make a run a Macomb Area Conference Red crown this The Blue Devils' skipper has season, and quite possibly a deep journey into the state playoffs - the talent is there. However, Griesbaum admits, there are some things that must improve.

"We're walking too many guys," the coach said. "You can't do that. Teams are too. good to give them opportunities like that. And we're just making too many mistakes. coach realized there are more That's something we have to Pitching, baseball smarts, and defense are the foundations of South's program, and the somewhat shaky start this year's club is off to in these areas has the coach concerned, but not too worried at this point in the campaign.

"We'll get there," Griesbaum said. "I really think we will. We've got to keep working and we've got to get morè focused and stay focused out there."

At the plate, the Blue Devils are on track to be a very potent baseball team, and the doubleheader against Tower was a prime example of this fact. A four-run sixth sparked the team's victory in the second game of the day. South's Tim Kramer laced a two-run single in the inning to knot the score 5-5 and Ross Muniga's walkin the bottom of the eighth ended the contest, 6-5.

Relief pitcher Steve Walworth gave the squad two scoreless innings in the closing ballgame and earned the victory.

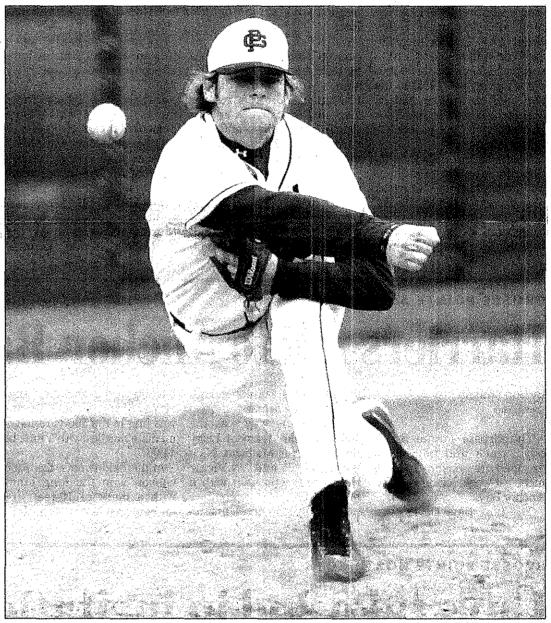

"The first game we hit the ball hard, it was just right at somebody," Griesbaum said. "You have games like that. The second game, we were able to find a few holes. Offensively we've been pretty good so far."

The team's stellar hitting, along with its aforementioned problems, is something that's a little unusual, the skipper

"You know, it is a little bit backwards," Griesbaum explained. "Usually the hitting is the last thing to come around. Early in the season you're outside and trying to get your timing down, that can take a while. Meanwhile, the defense and pitching is usually a little further along at this time of year. It's been the opposite for us, though. That's a little backwards, but we'll get it straightened out."

Backward or not, South has the ability to shore up the defense, rein in the walks, and play a little more focused overall - and with Griesbaum on the bench, it's highly likely they will do this sooner than later.

Earlier in the week, seniors Bobby Peltz, Brad Remillet, Ryan Miller, Karl Brecht and Senior Chris Shirar has been lights out on the mound this season. He closed out this win against Warren Woods Tower.
