Merchants seek neon vote by residents

GROSSE POINTE WOODS —

They took their case to the city council and lost, now they're turning to the citizenry and hoping for a win.

Several business owners along Mack Avenue in Grosse Pointe Woods ordered to turn off their neon signs are starting a petition drive to force a November ballot referendum asking residents to repeal a portion of the city's current sign ordinance.

The targeted section bans "any neon or neon-type signs as defined in section 32-3" of the ordinance. The petition is expected to be circulating by Feb. 9. The group has 21 days to secure the required signatures.

"We want to spare the taxpayers the cost of a lawsuit," said Alan Domzalski, owner

Grants for SOC and sidewalks

CITY OF GROSSE POINTE — Federal block grants are being disbursed in a familiar pattern this year in the City of Grosse Pointe.

"Allocations are essentially the same as last year," said Peter Dame, city manager.

Grants for 2011 are expected to total $89,000. Prospective receipts are being divided between sidewalk ramp improvements and Services for Older Citizens.

Sidewalk ramps at intersections are an ongoing project. Pedestrian ramps complying with the Americans With Disabilities Act are halfway to being installed throughout the city.

"Last year's monies went to a couple of intersections," Dame said. "We did Kercheval and Notre Dame in the Village by Starbucks. Kroger paid for doing its

Police given cruiser

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE SHORES — Even men in blue need a white knight once in a while.

In Grosse Pointe Shores, aid is coming in the form of a free police car.

"A family in Grosse Pointe Shores, who wishes to remain anonymous, has donated a 2010 Crown Victoria interceptor for the public safety department," said Stephen Poloni, department director.

The gift takes $21,000 of pressure off the budget and comes at the right time.

"It will replace a vehicle that has about 126,000 on it, which is extremely high for a police vehicle," Poloni said.

Shores officials have been putting off replacing cruisers.

"We have forgone the purchase of vehicles for the past two years due to budgetary constraints," Poloni said.

"We are fortunate to have residents whose love for our community is so strong," said Mayor James Cooper. "I am overwhelmed by the enormity and depth of their generosity. On behalf of our council, residents, employees, and especially our public safety department, thank you for your gift."

This isn't the first time the family has helped the public safety department, Poloni said.

"It's hard to put into words the gratitude we have for this couple," Poloni said. "They said they understand the economic conditions, appreciate the public safety department and wanted to do something to ease both the budget constraints we have and help keep the same service levels we have. So, they purchased the vehicle."

Delivery is expected this month.

"We will transfer equipment from the current vehicle to the new one, including the teddy bears in the trunk," Poloni said.

Patrolmen pack stuffed animals among emergency gear as gifts to calm frightened children at emergency scenes.

The department doesn't solicit donations.

"In years past, another anonymous donor bought (protective) vests for police officers," Poloni said. "The same person does that every five years. That's the lifespan of a vest. He and his wife love the police department. They worry about our officers out there."

Taking away parking meters

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

CITY OF GROSSE POINTE — The odds of getting a parking ticket in the Village are slated to go down this summer when two municipal lots are stripped of coin-operated meters.

If things go as planned, meters will be replaced with gated systems, as in the district's city-owned parking structure.

Gates also outfox drivers who park at metered spots without paying.

Work intended for parking lots in a two-block stretch north of Kercheval between Notre Dame and Neff — behind such businesses as Caribou Coffee and Ace Hardware — could begin mid-summer.

The lots are designated Lot 2 and Lot 3, respectively.

Converting Lot 2, between Notre Dame and St. Clair behind Caribou, conforms with the city's master plan for parking in the central commercial district.

"The intent would be to try to fund the extension of the Kercheval streetscape treatment down St. Clair and Notre Dame along the parking lots at the same time," said Peter Dame, city manager.

Lot 3, behind Ace, is due for reconfiguration resulting from an adjacent development.

A partnership exists between the Neighborhood Club and Beaumont Hospital to construct a new facility at Waterloo and St. Clair, located at Lot 3's northern border.

"They're still looking for additional financing at this point, but they expect a project of some sort will move forward this year," Dame said. "Because part of the facility will be built on what is currently a city parking lot, the city has been planning a reconfiguration of the lot. Last year, the city council awarded a contract for redesigning that lot. That will happen in July."

The elimination of parking meters had been requested by Village stakeholders, including business representatives and property owners.

"Stakeholders felt that meter tickets were the most significant issue for their customers when it came to issues about the parking lot, a problem which could be alleviated by the gates system," Dame said.

Mack main and design due

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

CITY OF GROSSE POINTE — Improved water service and a better looking streetscape are expected to result from this summer's replacement of a watermain on Mack in the City of Grosse Pointe.

"The project will increase water pressure and, ultimately, be part of a looped, large main once the project's final legs down Washington are completed," said Peter Dame, city manager.

Installation of larger pipes is being paid for from the municipal water and sewer fund.

"(It) is one of the bigger projects the city had tackled in recent years," Dame said.

Streetscape improvement is a separate project.

"In December, the city received word from the Michigan Department of Transportation that approximately $600,000 in enhancement grant funds could be used for improvements to the streetscape, instead of replacing it as it was," Dame said.

"However, there is roughly a one-third matching requirement the city must come up with before the state will commit to awarding these monies."

The district's property owners and commercial representatives are being consulted about the streetscape design and how the city will come up with its grant obligation.

"The city is working with the business district to develop a matching plan, in part to be funded by a special assessment district on Mack property owners, as well as city funds from sources yet to be identified," Dame said.

Watermain plans were completed last year.

"(They) are ready to bid as soon as the streetscape plan is completed," Dame said.

Annual Relay for Life kicks off Feb. 16

The American Cancer Society Relay For Life of Grosse Pointe Kick-off Party is at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 16, at Grosse Pointe Woods Community Center, 20025 Mack Plaza Drive in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Refreshments and desserts are served. Reservations are appreciated at (248) 663-3418.

Relay For Life is a team approach to raising funds and culminates in a 24-hour celebration event. Teams create names and personalities and raise funds during the months preceding the relay which is 10 a.m. Saturday, May 14, to 10 a.m. Sunday, May 15, at Grosse Pointe Woods Lake Front Park.

Fundraising efforts are as individualized as the teams and have included bake sales, bowling tournaments and on-line donation solicitation through a special relay website, relayforlife.org/grossepointemi.

In addition, teams raise funds by selling luminaria bags decorated and named in honor or memory of special people who have faced cancer. As part of the ceremony, the candles are lit, illuminating the relay path throughout the night reminding participants of the relay's purpose.

All funds raised by the American Cancer Society Relay For Life teams support education, advocacy, research and services to cancer patients and their families.

Russ Chavey climbed Mount Kilimanjaro while raising money for the Grosse Pointe Foundation for Public Education. He texted and blogged so students could follow his mountain activities.

One off the bucket list, lots to go

By Karen Fontanive
Staff writer

Climbing to the top of a mountain is one item Grosse Pointe Farms resident Russ Chavey can check off his bucket list.

The family practice physician climbed to the top of Mount Kilimanjaro in December, and more than just a few family and friends knew about it.

His quest was publicly documented as part of a fundraiser for the Grosse Pointe Foundation for Public Education. Grosse Pointe public school children, as well as anyone who logged onto the GPFPE website, could follow Chavey throughout his six-day ascent and descent of the mountain.

His goal, to raise $1 for every foot he climbed, was easily met. With a two for one matching grant, more than $60,000 was raised to outfit classrooms with SMART Boards and other technology-based equipment.

The trail to the top of the mountain began several years ago. While always an active, outdoor-oriented person, over the years Chavey gained weight.

"I went for my annual check-up and my doctor said something that sounded familiar," Chavey said of sentiments he's often expressed to his own patients. "I commonly see guys who put on three to four pounds a year. It's not dramatic, you don't have to change clothes. My doctor said, 'Russ, you put on five pounds this year and three pounds the year before.'

"I always thought of myself as weighing 170 pounds and I was 207 pounds, and I thought 'Wow, I never thought I hit 200.'"

The admitted somewhat obsessive personality began running to lose weight and get in shape. "I don't just do something a little bit. When I started running, I started running 30 miles a week — although not at first," he said.

That running turned into participating in a marathon. Chavey joined Team in Training with the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society for his first marathon. Through e-mails and a sign posted in his office, he raised several thousand dollars.

After 10 marathons, including New York and Boston, Chavey decided it was time to climb a mountain.

Asked why, Chavey responds, "Yeah, there's no real good answer to that. I was just intrigued. I love challenges. I love trying something that might be hard to do."

And while the adventurous Chavey wanted to climb the mountain, he didn't want to make his wife or children spend a vacation waiting for him to do so. After planning an African safari with his wife, three daughters, son-in-law and his son-in-law's parents, Chavey went a week ahead of the group for his climb.

"Kilimanjaro is the biggest mountain I would climb because I don't do technical climbing" with picks, crampons and other tools.

It was Chavey's wife, Dr. Christy Winder, who suggested he climb for charity. Their support of public education and friendships with people closely involved in the GPFPE led to its selection.

Chavey explains climbing Mount Kilimanjaro is unlike climbing other mountains. It is located in Africa, 200 miles south of the equator.

"Because you're 200 miles south of the equator and you're starting at 3,000 feet, you're surrounded by banana trees and tropical plants. Then when you get through the gates into the national park it's dominated by camphor trees that are 180 feet tall covered in Spanish moss and it's very, very dark in there. But by the time you get to the first camp, the trees are 12 1/2 feet and then you get to the second camp, it's just a little grass."

Added Chavey, "We would usually add or subtract clothes four or five times a day. When you're in an area where the wind is blocked and the sun is hitting you, even at elevation, and it's 2 o'clock in the afternoon, we'd be in shorts. An hour later it'd be 28 degrees and you'd have to put on layers. You have to carry a lot of clothes and every time we stopped for lunch we'd have to put on a wool hat and wool gloves because when you're sitting still you'd get cold."

While Chavey did the hard work — climbing — the foundation gathered interest and financial support for the climb. Various classrooms throughout the school system used Chavey's climb for educational purposes. One first grade class made a Flat Stanley for him to take on his travels and other classes studied weather patterns, plant life and rock composition. Chavey would blog, text and e-mail throughout his climb and these communications were posted on the foundation's website.

Chavey has other adventures planned, other bucket list items to check off, that won't be publicly documented like his climb.

In March, he is cross country skiing across the Rockies, "because I've always wanted to do that," he said. "In August we're going to Alaska. We're not doing the cruise thing. I'm going to Wrangell-St. Elias which is

In addition to guide Freddie, five porters accompanied Chavey up Mount Kilimanjaro. The porters carry food, water and other essentials. The backpack Chavey carried included water, clothes, pillow, camera, binoculars and various other necessities. He took with him to the top of the mountain a copy of the Grosse Pointe News, newspapers from both Grosse Pointe North and South high schools and a Flat Stanley made by a first-grade class.

this huge national park covered with high mountains and glaciers. We're going to backpack in the mountains. The plan is to bring the whole family.

"In April 2012, we're going to raft the Colorado River through the Grand Canyon."

Chavey's adventurous nature goes back to childhood.

"When I was a young kid I was living on a lake and everybody was water skiing, I decided to try barefoot water skiing. Nobody made me do it, I just wanted to do it, so I just did it," he said. "The lake was six miles north to south and one mile west to east and a couple of people swam across the lake, but I decided I would do the long way, so I swam the length of the lake. Some of my friends were riding their bikes over to Boyne and back which was like a 20 minute ride, so I decided I'd ride my bike to the Mackinac Bridge and back. I would do it because people would say you can't do that."

"Now, I'm 57. I'm starting to think, hey, I better do it."

Clear path for letter carriers

To help letter carriers deliver on their appointed rounds, the U.S. Postal Service asks homeowners to clear snow and ice from the approach to the mailbox, including walkways, steps and porches.

Shoveling a path from the street over the grass between the curb and sidewalk also is helpful.

Delivery service may be delayed or curtailed whenever streets or walkways present hazardous conditions for letter carriers.

PUBLIC SAFETY REPORTS

Shoplifting

A 64-year-old Detroit woman with a criminal history dating back decades was arrested last week in the Village for stealing a purse and shoplifting, according to police.

Three public safety officers responded at 12:16 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 27, to a report of the woman taking the purse of a Coldwater Creek employee out of a room off-limits to customers.

The purse's owner pursued the suspect onto the Kercheval sidewalk.

"The perpetrator initially denied having (the purse), then gave it back," the victim reportedly told Sgt. Michael Almeranti.

The suspect also was investigated for allegedly discarding items in a sidewalk trash receptacle.

"Inside the trash, (I) found two women's tops from (Boutique) Bellissima's totaling $303.98," Almeranti said.

Officers searching the woman found 15 pieces of unpaid jewelry totaling $187.85 from the Village Toy Company.

Representatives of Bellissima and the toy store said the woman recently had been on their premises.

Coins pocketed

The owner of a store in the 17600 block of Mack was ready when an 18-year-old male entered at about noon Monday, Jan. 17.

The owner activated a security video intended to document the teenager stealing valuable coins.

Public safety officers responded when the suspect reportedly pocketed 10 Morgan silver dollars worth a combined $350.

"The victim stated the offender has been in the store before doing the same thing," said Officer Joseph Adams.

The suspect was accompanied by his brother, who was let go, but banned from the property.

A 21-year-old woman of unspecified address was investigated for waiting nearby in a blue van. Officers turned her over to Harper Woods police on a $350 warrant for shoplifting.

Never drinks

A 40-year-old City of Grosse Pointe woman registered a

.172 percent blood alcohol level during a drunken driving investigation at 12:39 a.m. Sunday, Jan. 30, on Mack near LaBelle.

The woman reportedly told police she'd been at a bar in Grosse Pointe Park.

"The driver appeared disoriented," said the arresting officer. "(She) stated she had three beers and never drinks."

Major theft

A woman who recently quit a housekeeping job in the Farms is suspected of stealing nearly $370,000 worth of her former employer's jewelry and cash.

The suspect, of Sterling Heights, reportedly left the Farms' family's employment in December.

The employer thinks the thefts began last May, according to police.

Police said missing items include a combined $1,000 cash missing in at least two incidents from the employer's purse.

Missing jewelry consists of a:

- ◆ 30-inch strand of white pearls valued at $30,000,
- ◆ 30-inch strand with silver beads with black onyx valued at $20,000,
- ◆ large gold necklace with a 3-carat heart-shaped diamond in gold worth $45,000,
- ◆ women's large, $50,000 Rolex gold watch with diamonds around the face,
- ◆ platinum teardrop 5-karat ring encased with diamond baguettes with a total value of $150,000 and
- ◆ gold ring with a 3 1/2-carat diamond surrounded by 1/2-carat diamonds with a total value of $70,000.

"Some of the items had (the victim's) late husband's name engraved on them, such as 'Love, George,'" said a public safety officer. "One item had 'NOVA' engraved on it."

Unlawful driver

A 26-year-old Detroit woman was arrested at 10:34 a.m. Friday, Jan. 28, for violating a driving suspension.

A patrolman pulled her over on Moross in Detroit for entering eastbound Mack from a sidestreet without yielding.

"A Ford Escape (had) to take aggressive braking and steering" to avoid a wreck, said the arresting officer.

The woman's driver's license had been suspended twice.

Nabbed driving

Shortly after determining that driving privileges had been suspended for the owner of a white 1994 Cadillac found parked shortly before 5 p.m. Monday, Jan. 24, blocking the sidewalk on Beaupre near Kerby, a patrolman spotted a man matching a description of the suspect operating the car on Ridgmont near Chalfonte.

The officer arrested the man, a 21-year-old Harrison Township resident.

The suspect also was wanted in Harper Woods and Harrison Township for failing to appear in court on unspecified charges, according to police.

of Elan Candies, during an organizational meeting with merchants affected by the ordinance.

"I've never been politically involved," he told the 25 or so gathered at the meeting, "but I can't believe the outrage Woods residents have expressed over businesses being told to turn off their neon lights."

The meeting was spurred by the city council's denial of a request by at least seven merchants to keep their neon signs. City officials recently began enforcing a 10-year-old city ordinance banning the use of neon in store windows. According to city officials, some 50 merchants were told to remove their neon signs. Of the 50, 43 complied and seven appealed the city's order.

Councilwoman Lisa Pinkos Howle, who voted in favor of the merchants, attended the meeting, identified herself as a concerned citizen and did not speak.

Also in attendance was Jennifer Boetcher, president of the Grosse Pointe Chamber of Commerce. When asked if the chamber would take a stand on the issue, she said she was merely gathering information. The board will decide whether to take a position.

Business owners in attendance said they did not think securing enough petition signatures to secure the ballot question would be an issue.

"I talk to people and they can't believe the city is doing this," said Carol Alfonsi, owner of Little Tony's. "I don't think we'll have any problem getting the signatures."

Gary M. Wilson, an attorney representing Merit Woods Pharmacy and Little Tony's, said a ballot question is preferred in attempting to overturn the ban.

"This is the best way to go," he said, "It is very expensive to file a lawsuit, and I have spoken with my clients and they agree that this is the best option for now."

He did not, however, rule out future court action.

"Litigation is not off the table," he said.

Acting on the advice of counsel, city officials declined comment.

GUEST OPINION By Seth Hanlon

The mortgage interest deduction

The mortgage interest deduction is by far the nation's largest housing program. This tax break, the country's third largest, is expected to provide homeowners subsidies totaling about $105 billion this year, more than double the entire budget for the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

And yet this special tax provision, like many tax expenditures, receives far less scrutiny than direct spending programs that serve similar purposes.

The following are a few commonly raised questions:

◆ What is the mortgage interest deduction?

If you take out a loan to buy a house, the interest you pay on the mortgage is tax deductible.

To see how this works, consider two families with equal incomes of $100,000. One family owns its house and pays $2,000 in interest on its mortgage each month, or $24,000 annually. The other pays $2,000 a month to rent an apartment. The family who owns their house can deduct $24,000 from its taxable income and pay taxes as if they only earned $76,000. The renter family is taxed on all $100,000 of its income. (This example ignores other exemptions or deductions that would be available to both taxpayers, lowering their taxable income.) The homeowners pay about $6,000 less in taxes a year.

On its face, that's a powerful incentive to borrow money and buy a house. Or a second house. Mortgage interest is deductible not only on primary residences but on second houses, including vacation houses, on total debt up to $1.1 million.

(The $1.1 million limit is the combined limit for "home acquisition" debt, $1 million; and "home equity debt," $100,000. The IRS has ruled these two limits may be combined for a single mortgage loan, making the limit effectively $1.1 million. Visit irs.gov/pub/irs-drop/tr-2010-25.pdf.)

◆ Why is it a "tax expenditure"?

The mortgage interest deduction is written into the tax code. It is an exception from the general rule that you can't deduct personal expenses — for example, interest on your credit card or the cost of a new television set isn't deductible, and neither is one's rent. Such special provisions are considered "tax expenditures" if they cost the federal government revenue.

Economists use the word "expenditure" in this context because these tax breaks are essentially the same as spending programs. If the government wrote checks to homeowners to help them cover their mortgage payments instead of giving them a tax break, the effect on both the taxpayers and the federal treasury would be the same.

◆ Is the mortgage interest deduction effective at promoting homeownership?

The mortgage interest deduction helps millions of middle-class homeowners. (Homeownership may not have been the deduction's original purpose, but it is clear Congress has preserved it because of its connection to homeownership.) But it helps wealthy families much more.

If the purpose of the deduction is to encourage homeownership, one way to gauge its effectiveness is to see how well it targets the so-called marginal homebuyer, for whom a tax subsidy could mean the difference between being able or unable to afford a house purchase.

It turns out the mortgage interest deduction is poorly targeted according to this criterion. Households with incomes between $40,000 and $75,000 receive, on average, $523 from the mortgage interest deduction. Households with incomes above $250,000 receive $5,459, or more than 10 times as much. Visit real.wharton.upenn.edu/~sinai/papers/Poterba-Sinai-2008-ASSA-final.pdf.

This "upside-down effect" happens for two main reasons:

— Wealthier individuals naturally tend to have more expensive houses and bigger mortgages, and therefore more deductible interest.

— Tax deductions confer a bigger benefit on taxpayers in the highest income brackets. For a family in the 35 percent tax bracket, a $100 deduction is $35 less he owes the IRS at year's end. That same $100 deduction is worth only $10 to the family in the lowest 10 percent bracket.

In addition, the mortgage interest deduction is an "itemized" deduction. Most taxpayers, including most homeowners, claim the standard deduction instead because it is worth more to them. For millions of taxpayers, therefore, the mortgage interest deduction provides no added incentive to buy a house.

It helps the wealthy more. But does this tax break lead to overall higher levels of homeownership?

Council not listening

To the Editor:

Roughly 500 petitions signed by Grosse Pointe Woods residents were submitted by businesses requesting exceptions to the neon sign ordinance. Each of these petitions clearly indicated the residents — taxpayers — have no issue with the neon signs that exist, or did exist, on Mack Avenue.

No one on council indicated any of the signs in question were offensive in any way, and there was general agreement that there has never been any public outcry against these signs. Still, they denied each of our requests.

I attended the Jan. 17 Grosse Pointe Woods City Council meeting, to make a request for an exception to the neon sign ordinance as it applied to Elan Candies. The ordinance was established in 2002, and while it originally had grandfathering provisions for businesses with existing neon at that time, the grandfathering expired, and 58 businesses were notified to remove their signs in October.

Fifty of the businesses who were notified have since removed their signs, and eight owners, including Elan's, exercised their rights to appeal as per the provisions in the ordinance.

It was clear from our first visit with the planning commission there was no consideration given to our appeals. Instead, there seemed to be a pervasive atmosphere of fear for the slippery slope it would create if an exception were granted.

At the meeting on Monday night, the council — with the exception of Lisa Pinkos Howle, who courageously stood up for the business community — held a long charade with these businesses, and said on numerous occasions "how could we grant one if not all." Fair enough, but if that were the case, why did they accept our $150 "appeal fees" if they had no intention of granting any?

I recently counted vacant businesses on Mack in Grosse Pointe Woods. There are 25 today, and I suspect that number is growing. When we took our space in 1996, we had three locations to choose from. I think our government could find better ways to deploy our resources than making it harder for businesses to operate.

Finally, at the end of Monday night, the council appointed a replacement for the vacant council seat. Sixteen applications were submitted, and 16 resumes were supplied — including mine, a 25-year resident and 15-year business owner in Grosse Pointe Woods and a certified public accountant with a master's degree.

No interviews were conducted. (Mine or any of the other well-qualified candidates). It seems a fait accompli, much like the sign appeals.

Voting

To the Editor:

Last week the Grosse Pointe News ran a story claiming my "No" vote on paying a bill was for publicity, and I admitted as much.

That is untrue. The vote had nothing to do with publicity. I never said it did.

I vote in the best interest of the residents — and I always will.

It's a shame some people are brainwashed into believing voting unanimously is a good thing.

If a city council or any body of elected representatives all vote the same way, they are no longer necessary. A dictator can accomplish that.

For the Pointes

To the Editor:

Friends in community:

I want to highlight three issues that could return Grosse Pointe to what it was meant to be:

1) Safety is critical. The pattern of two-way traffic on side streets is illogical and dangerous. Making every side street one-way would increase safety for all of us, especially children on bicycles.

The argument is made changing traffic flow is fraught with turmoil. So what. Safety should take precedence over convenience.

Our neighbors moved from Lincoln Road because of the danger factor in cars attempting to beat each other to the open space where a car is not parked. We park on the street because of a driveway arch created for Model Ts. We contribute to the "problem," but there is no choice, and it could be minimized with new traffic flow.

2) U-turns must be eliminated from the Hill and the Village. Those two areas become war zones of illegal driving. I have witnessed at least three incidents that were near misses — one for a school child, another for myself driving through the village, and another where a mirror was eliminated from a parked car.

U-turns have become the norm in the Village. Again, I worry about safety. In the situation of the school child, the driver was indignant. And although I am sure she was shaken by the near miss, she railed against the child. The young woman who stripped the mirror was non-impressed and oblivious.

U-turns have become commonplace and I am sure she thought she was in the right. Right or wrong, the safety is critical and we can't allow a driver on a cell phone, picking up a Caribou coffee to intimidate people.

3) Clutter is obscene. We get dozens of handbills on our porch and in our door. One comes from our Realtors. They are garbage and distasteful. I am a walker and have picked up as many as 30 of those pieces of trash in my two- to three-mile walk. A simple ordinance would eliminate all of that trash.

Beaumont zoning change

To the Editor:

It was with complete and utter amazement I read the article, "Beaumont could see zoning change," Jan. 27 Grosse Pointe News, which revealed Beaumont Hospital Grosse Pointe — formerly Bon Secour — is currently and has been for years, zoned residential.

That the City of Grosse Pointe has allowed continuous expansion — destruction of residential structures; the commercialization of our neighborhood; additional light pollution, via the expanded parking lot signage; etc. — by the hospital, over the many objections of the neighbors, has always been a sore point with me.

To find out now they have done all this in a residentially zoned neighborhood is not only appalling, but, quite frankly, at best it seems the epitome of incompetence, and at worst, a clear example of criminal negligence.

Thank you, Grosse Pointe News, for reporting this. It proves what I've long suspected, which is the City of Grosse Pointe simply doesn't care what the hospital neighbors think; none of the decision-makers live near it.

GUEST OPINION By Michael D. LaFaive

Four cheers for Gov. Snyder

The first three weeks of Gov. Rick Snyder's administration has provided plenty to cheer about especially fiscal policy issues.

Cheer No. 1: Candidate Snyder said, more than once, the extraordinary cost of providing expensive and generous benefits to public employees would need to be reduced.

He then repeated this as Governor-elect Snyder in a Washington Post article. In his first State of the State speech he courageously brought up the state's massive unfunded post-retirement employee benefits liabilities and costs, which theoretically exceed $50 billion.

Our new governor appears to be ready to address these fiscal policy problems openly and directly.

Cheer No. 2: As in his campaign, Snyder has promised to replace the hated Michigan Business Tax with a flat corporate income tax of 6 percent, which if successful, could mean a $1.5 billion business tax cut. This may have a profound, pos-

Memorabilia brings home to mind

Taking a brass sunburst clock, circa 1950, to the repair shop, the clerk said, this style is highly sought after today. "You're kidding? This is worth something?" I asked.

The brass clock hung in my parents' living room forever. The sweep hand always got stuck on the numeral one and I would have to lift it up, tighten the nut and let it tick for a few more hours until the nut came loose again.

I rescued the clock when the house was sold. My brother indicated he wanted the clock because it reminded him of the wallpapered living room of our youth.

"Where are you going to put it," I asked.

"In the living room," he said.

"No. It's not hanging in there," his wife said.

"In the garage," he consented.

Bless my sister-in-law. We agreed on the clock's placement.

Yet advice-givers say household items meaning home and were really used are objects to be saved and passed on.

Also suggested are objects of significant occasions, i.e. the program handed out when John Mayer appeared in a tiny

Ann Arbor night club, pre-celebrity status; an embarrassing photo; a heirloom or an average piece of clothing. My husband's leisure suit would fit this category. It is in the "You wore that in public?" column.

My daughter's memories surround my blue fleece jacket purchased when fleece was just coming into popularity.

"I really need to replace this coat," I told my daughter a few years ago.

"You can't." She was adamant. "You wore that to all my soccer games. That's the way I remember you."

She's right. I probably wore that jacket to 300 of her 500 soccer games, the other 200 I wore a winter coat or no coat. It was a weather-related jacket.

The button-up jacket was my soccer-mom staple. The large patch pockets held facial tissues, Band-Aids, extra elastic pony tail elastic holders, earrings, rings and watches that couldn't be worn on the field, sunglass case, prewrap and receipts for hot chocolate, juice boxes and oranges.

Christmas 2010, both children received a piece of artwork, which to date has yet to find a place of honor on their bedroom walls.

In my best Mom tone, I said, each would be hauling those 11-inch-by-17-inch pieces of work, that took me three years to embroider, to nearly every abode in which they will reside for the rest of their long lives.

The framed pieces are not what they would have chosen to remember their dear mother because they have chosen some other sentimental item, which today is interwoven in the life they remember as home; a container which says, "I remember when Mom used this for" It's not for me to say what they should want; it's for each to chose a memory, whether it's the coat or clock, vase, Christmas ornaments or a piece of heirloom jewelry.

GUEST OPINION By Bill Kalmar

Pondering the imponderables

As a retiree, at times I find myself relaxing in my favorite home-office chair while I cogitate on the events of the day.

Actually, before I drift off into never-never land, I occupy part of my day by completing a crossword puzzle, thus the reason the word "cogitate" is in this column.

As I sat doing so recently, I started to ponder several items in the news of late. So here is what was running through my mind on a frigid, gloomy day in late January:

◆ Now that two teams have been christened to play in the Super Bowl — Packers versus Steelers — we will be inundated with stories about the "Big Game." Notice I said Big Game, because, for whatever reason, the NFL has a copyright on the words "Super Bowl" and thus that name cannot be used in commercials, ads or contests without the "express written consent of the League." Now I am not a copyright lawyer, but where does this madness end? Is the World Series copyrighted? Or how about World Wrestling? Ponder that if you will.

◆ Speaking of the Super Bowl, have you seen the price of tickets? Back when the first Super Bowl was played or as it was called, "The AFL-NFL World Championship Game," tickets had a face-value of $10. For this year's Super Bowl in Dallas, face-value ranges from $600 to $1,200. Having said that, cogitate — there's that word again — on this for a while: A private suite on the 40-yard line that can accommodate 25 fans has a price of $609,000.

If that is not within your budget, you can sit outside the stadium on the grass while you watch the game on huge screens. The cost? Only $200, but you have to purchase four tickets. As a perk, you get free parking, four programs and each of you gets a scarf.

And if you thought that was ridiculous, how about a parking spot at the Jack In The Box restaurant across the street from Cowboys Stadium for $990! Wonder if it comes with all the "Ultimate Cheeseburgers" you can eat along with a visit from Jack the Clown. I'm pondered out!

◆ Ponder this the next time you attend a sporting event: As reported recently in the Wall Street Journal, it is estimated 8 percent of fans who exit the stadium are legally drunk. Sure makes that drive home trying to dodge all the sots on the street ponderous.

◆ I'm pondering why we are still depleting our corn crop to manufacture E85 gasoline, which to the best of my knowledge, no one is buying. Heck, my new car doesn't even take the corn gas. Everything made with corn has skyrocketed in price, and yet there are few stations that even sell the corn nibble turned into fuel.

◆ Ponder this, if you will: Stacy's Pita Chips sold at Costco are so thick you need teeth of steel to break through the treat. The same chips sold at Sam's Club are thin and easily digested. I called the company and evidently there are two distinct snacks made — one thick and one thin. Guess the people who frequent Costco have better teeth.

◆ You men out there who are pondering what to buy your better-half for Valentine's Day, should cogitate on this: If you lived in Iran you could save a lot of money, because Valentine's Day gifts such as cards, boxes, with the symbols of hearts and red roses have been banned. Iran considers Valentine's Day a spread of Western culture. Even unmarried couples are not allowed to mingle.

So to experience a debt-free Valentine's Day, just travel to Iran. Keep in mind when you depart your flight you will be in the 16th century.

◆ I was in a restaurant the other day and noticed a wall of small lockers containing wine along with the owners' names inscribed on gold plates. Is this the height of ostentatiousness or what? Some of the names were of professional sports players. One that caught my eye was a fellow's name along with his "significant other." Guess each time he brings a new date for dinner, he can explain it is her name on the plate.

◆ Just the other day I was pondering the number of so-called Mafia members arrested. What was particularly interesting was the names of these scum bags: Tony Bagels, Junior Lollipops, Vinny Carwash, The Claw, Meatball and Jimmy Gooch. Most of the names on the list ended in a vowel, except for John Hartmann and Christopher Reynolds. Just like in the movie "It's a Wonderful Life," where each time a bell rings an angel gets its wings, maybe each time a body washes ashore, these two guys will get a name ending in a vowel — "forget about it."

◆ Living in the country as we do, there are a multitude of roads in disrepair and there seems to be a plethora — another good crossword puzzle word — of signs heralding, "Bump." With the time and effort it takes to prepare and install these signs, don't you think it would be easier to just remove the bump? I ponder this every day when my teeth are jarred by navigating the roads out here.

◆ This is worth pondering. Saw a "Letter to the Editor" the other day from a war veteran. He indicated he and his cohorts fought and died for our freedom. As such, he now concludes he should be able to smoke in restaurants and other buildings where smoking has been banned. He feels his being a veteran entitles him to freedom in whatever he wants to do.

That's fine, but just don't infringe on my right to be free of smoke that causes various diseases and cancer. And all along I thought our brave soldiers fought for freedom from the Japanese and the Germans — didn't know some were fighting for the right to smoke. But heck, that's just me.

◆ In a previous column I mentioned I am not a fan of "Alvin and The Chipmunks." After a load of comments from readers who took exception to that stance, I am pondering another group for my "Please just go away" list. So here goes: It's over for the Smurfs. So ponder that!

CHEERS: To Gov. Snyder

itive impact on job growth in Michigan. Not only is Snyder prepared to take less money from business owners, he wants to make their burdens easier to manage, too.

Cheer No. 3: Snyder surprised his State of the State speech audience with the proposal to repeal wholesale Michigan's archaic item pricing law. Even former Attorney General Frank Kelley — who made a career of enforcing it — endorsed its repeal.

This regulatory change will lower the cost of doing business for countless job providers in Michigan, freeing up resources they can use to invest in existing or new businesses.

This was a deft maneuver and one we hope to see more of in matters of regulation.

Cheer No. 4: Snyder has promised to no longer count unverifiable estimates of "spin-off" jobs allegedly created when the Michigan Economic Development Corp. grants special favors to particular firms.

While eliminating the agency's discriminatory tax breaks and subsidies would be better, more honest accounting is a giant step forward in transparency and accountability for an agency that has had little of either in the past decade.

New Michigan Economic Development Corporation President and CEO Mike Finney has directed his staff not to report alleged spin-off jobs in its press releases.

Snyder seems to be off to a good fiscal policy start on balance. Let's hope it continues.

Granholm leaves state to find work

It's recently the 5th anniversary of former Gov. Jennifer Granholm's promise Michigan residents would be "blown away" by the gobs of jobs her latest economic development program would create.

How ironic she, of all people, would flee the state to find work.

She is certainly not the first former governor to do so, but her failed promise of economic nirvana — timed to coincide after she had safely left office — is one that should not be forgotten by those left behind.

MORTGAGE: Homeowners' deductions

The evidence here is mixed. Several studies have found a lack of evidence the deduction increases overall homeownership rates. Anticipated tax savings from the deduction might be built into the prices of houses, especially in high-cost areas. Those higher house prices could be preventing marginal and first-time homebuyers from taking the plunge.

◆ Is encouraging people to take out house loans always a good idea?

The mortgage interest deduction has been criticized for encouraging household debt. It applies to up to $100,000 in home equity loans in addition to mortgages. (Interest on home equity debt that exceeds the house's fair market value cannot be deducted, even if it is within the $100,000 cap.) That encourages people to reduce the equity they have in their houses.

The recent recession underscored the dangers involved in excessive debt and leverage. In the wake of recent housing price declines, 22.5 percent of homeowners are "underwater" — they owe more than their houses are worth.

◆ How might the mortgage interest deduction be reformed?

There have been many proposals to reform or eliminate the mortgage interest deduction, from eliminating it for second homes to limiting it to lower mortgage amounts. These and other proposals would help right the deduction's "upside-down" effect.

The National Commission on Fiscal Responsibility and Reform recently proposed to transform the deduction into a nonrefundable tax credit equal to 12 percent of mortgage interest paid. That would give homeowners in all brackets the same tax savings a household in the 12 percent bracket would receive from the current mortgage interest deduction. (Twelve percent is the lowest tax bracket under the commission's plan.) The commission also proposed to lower the debt cap for the deduction from its current level of $1.1 million to $500,000.

Under the commission's plan, there would be no credit for interest on home equity lines of credit or second-home mortgages.

But reform is difficult. Eliminating the subsidy abruptly would be very harsh on homeowners who determined how big a mortgage they could afford with the assumption they would receive this tax break. In addition, the deduction has probably driven up house prices. Eliminating it would lower house values to the detriment of current homeowners — although future owners could see lower prices. Particularly right now, when falling house prices have hurt the overall economy, this could have an adverse affect on economic growth.

The mortgage interest deduction is closely associated with homeownership and, by extension, the "American Dream." But as a $100 billion government spending program, it deserves as much scrutiny as any program of similar magnitude.

Seth Hanlon is director of fiscal reform for Center for American Progress' Doing What Works project.

"We finally had a full lineup and it was evident because our guys were fresher and played much better and beat a very good hockey team tonight," head coach Robb McIntyre said. "It was nice to see the guys play a solid game after a few not-so-swell outings. This was a nice game for our team."

The host Knights were tied 1-1 after the first period as junior Connor Wiggins scored with sophomore Jacob Soyka netting an assist.

Quick start leads North past Liggett

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North used a quick start to beat city rival University Liggett 5-2 last week.

When the two teams played earlier in the season, the Norsemen used a dominating first period to beat the Knights. "Getting the early lead helped a lot," North head coach Scott Dockett said. "We played pretty well tonight, but not our best. We have the potential to be a very good team."

"We just stood around too much in the first period and let them take it to us," Liggett head coach Laura Aiken said. "After the poor first period, we played an even game with North."

The host Norsemen were in total control in the opening period, scoring three times and holding the Knights to only two shots on net.

Sophomore C.J. McCarthy, who made the switch from defense to forward, scored at the 11:34 mark with senior Kaily Sickmiller and sophomore Bryn Moody getting assists.

At the 7:54 mark, senior Taylor Moody blasted a slap-shot past senior netminder Mariah Passalacqua as senior Megan Bergeron and sophomore Julia Henderson had the assists. McCarthy scored again at the 4:32 mark, poking in a rebound. Taylor Moody and junior Jennifer Cusmano drew assists.

It was an even game after that point, as both teams scored two goals.

The Knights got on the board when junior Haleigh Bolton scored an unassisted goal, but the Norsemen regained their three-goal lead when Bergeron tallied with sophomore Sara Villani had an assist.

It was a 5-1 game when Sickmiller scored. Villani and Cusmano had the assists.

Junior Haley Smith rounded out the scoring, tallying a goal at the 7:27 mark with Bolton drawing the lone assist.

"The girls did a nice job and it was nice for Mariah to get the shutout," Aiken said. "It was close at the end when Mercy had a couple of nice shots on net, but Mariah held her ground and made some big saves to keep the shutout."

Haley Smith, freshman Danielle Lorant and seniors Keegin Fisher and Natalie Peracchio also scored goals. Senior Kinaya Smith, sophomore Aria Ganz-Waple and freshman Caroline Eckrich had assists.

North improved to 12-1 in the Michigan Metro Girls High School Hockey League and 13-1 overall; Liggett stands 7-6 in league play and 7-8 overall.

game. Wiggins had an assist.

The visitors seemed to gain all of the momentum heading into the second intermission, thanks to scoring a goal with a two-man advantage with only 14.6 seconds left in the second period.

The Knights caught lightning in a bottle seconds later when freshman Lordanthony Grissom gained possession of the puck after the face-off and muscled his way through two defenders to score an unassisted short-handed goal with only 7.1 seconds remaining. It was a huge goal for the home team.

"Lordanthony was determined to score that goal and boy was it a big goal for us," McIntyre said. "It gave us new life heading into the third period."

Midway through the final period, Auk scored the game-winning goal on the power play. Juniors Jeff Mott and David Gushee had the assists.

After taking the lead, the Knights buckled down defensively as Mott, junior Jake Hodges, Grissom and Auk smothered De Sales forwards coming into the zone. Junior goaltender Joseph Davenport came up with a few timely saves to preserve the huge victory for the Knights.

Earlier in the week, Liggett blasted visiting Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard 5-2 as Soyka and Wiggins had two goals apiece and Mott added a tally.

"We're getting everyone back and that makes us a deeper team," McIntyre said. "I've had to move guys around and switch some guys from offense to defense to balance the lineup."

Liggett improved to 12-5 overall after a 9-2 win over Dexter last weekend.

Earlier in the week, North hosted Port Huron Northern and won 4-1 behind Aluia's four-point effort. He had two goals and two assists and senior Jeff Ryan earned the win in net.

Junior Anthony Saleh scored 25 seconds into the opening period with Aluia and junior J.P. Lucchese netting assists. The Huskies tied the game, but after that it was all North.

Aluia scored the game-winning goal 18 seconds into the second period with Lucchese and sophomore Anthony Allemon drawing assists and Lucchese made it a 3-1 game with a tally later in the second period. Senior Brad Herron and Aluia had assists.

Knights destroy
MLAC opponent

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Since losing its first game of the season Jan. 18, University Liggett's boys' basketball team has been on a mission.

Last week, the Knights crushed visiting Lutheran Westland 84-47 as sophomore Connor Fannon posted his first-ever triple-double, scoring 13 points, grabbing 12 rebounds and blocking 10 shots.

"Our defensive movement is what we're looking for and tonight it was very good," head coach Sidney Johnson said. "The guys did a great job of contesting shots, creating turnovers, rebounding and dominating the paint."

Fannon did his damage off the bench, coming in at the 2:08 mark of the first quarter after senior Dominic Jamett was called for his second foul of the game.

Fannon scored three points in the second quarter, six in the third and four in the fourth. At one point in the third quarter, Fannon blocked four shots on four straight Westland possessions.

The Knights were on fire from the get-go, scoring more than 20 points in each of the first three quarters and managing 17 points in the final quarter when the game was out of reach.

"We did everything right tonight," Johnson said. "Our guys did a nice job holding them to one shot per possession and then grabbing the rebound, getting a quick outlet pass and heading up the court for a high percentage shot."

The Warriors were never in the game as the Knights won the opening quarter 23-9 and the second 22-14, taking a 45-23 halftime lead.

The Knights put 22 points on the board in the third quarter to stretch the lead to 67-38.

Sophomore KeVaughn Jackson also had 13 points, followed by senior Carl Ghafari with 10, sophomore Eric Ewing with nine, Jamett with eight, junior Eddie Thomas with eight, sophomore Drew Jerome with seven, sophomore Andrew Zinkel with six, sophomore Stephen Benard with six, sophomore Andrew Heaney with two and freshman Ian Clark with one.

The Knights forced 17 turnovers, blocked 12 shots and pulled down 35 rebounds.

Earlier in the week, Liggett crunched Bloomfield Hills Roeper 66-45, improving to 6-1 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference and 9-1 overall.

Grosse Pointe South's boys' basketball team broke its modest two-game losing streak last week, blasting Chippewa Valley 65-50.

"We had a great shooting night," head coach Dave Grauzer said. "They played a zone against us and we were able to hit 10 three pointers against that before they changed to man-to-man."

The visiting Blue Devils jumped out to a 24-7 first-quarter lead and maintained the advantage at the half, up 33-27.

"The guys played very well against a MAC Red team," Grauzer said.

Senior Brandon Barkley had

23 points and 10 rebounds, while senior Victor Mattison chipped in with 15 points. Senior Corbet Conroy had nine points with senior Nick Diehl and junior Alex Bedan had five points apiece.

Three nights later, South lost another tough Macomb Area Conference White Division game, 52-50 at Port Huron Northern.

"This is the third straight league game we lost by two points," Grauzer said. "We had a chance to win it, but just couldn't finish. That has been the case in each of those games we lost the past couple of weeks."

The Blue Devils played well early, leading 14-8, before falling behind 25-21 at the half and by 10 points in the third quarter.

They mounted a comeback and led by a point with 1:13 left in the game. The Huskies scored to take the lead and they padded the advantage after making several free throws.

The Blue Devils hit a three-point basket to cut the deficit to a point, but once again free throws sealed the deal for the Huskies.

Barkley had his third straight big game, scoring 20 points and grabbing 12 rebounds, and Mattison had 12 points.

Grosse Pointe South is 5-7 overall and, 2-4 in the MAC White after the first go-around through the division.

Blue Devils roll by foes

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's girls' basketball team took firm control of the Macomb Area Conference White Division race last week.

The Blue Devils took to the road and beat St. Clair 51-40, improving to 6-0 after the first round of division games. They hold a two-game lead over Warren Fitzgerald.

"They couldn't handle our pressure and we jumped out to a 42-20 lead early in the third quarter," head coach Kevin Richards said. "I have to give St. Clair credit because they never gave up and they battled back to cut it to eight before we got the game under control. "This was a nice road win for us."

The Blue Devils led 27-12 at halftime and used their full-court pressure to bump the advantage to more than 20.

"I think we got a little complacent after building the big lead," Richards said. "It was nice to see the girls finish strong."

Senior Aisha Rodney and junior Caitlin Moore scored 20 points apiece to lead the Blue Devils.

Earlier in the week, South blitzed host Chippewa Valley 56-35 as sophomore Claire DeBoer posted a double-double, scoring 16 points and grabbing 10 rebounds.

Rodney added 14 points, eight rebounds, four assists and four steals, while Moore chipped in with 10 points.

Junior point guard Carmen Engel had her best game of the season, scoring eight points.

"Carmen is the toughest kid on our team," Richards said. "She drives through the lane and takes a beating, but keeps on getting up and is ready for more."

Grosse Pointe South, winners of nine games in a row, improved to 9-3 overall.

Blue Devils beat Dakota, win MAC Red Division dual meet championship

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's boys' swimming and diving team took care of business last week, whipping Macomb Dakota 121-65 to capture the Macomb Area Conference Red Division dual meet title.

Head coach Eric Gunderson and the Blue Devils had no problem with the host Cougars, as the team won eight events, including all three relays. The Blue Devils' depth was too much for the Cougars to handle.

The Blue Devils won the 200-yard medley relay as Craig Campbell, Ryan Graham, Roby Boggs and Sam Effinger had a time of 1:48.51 and the 200-yard freestyle relay foursome of Effinger, Campbell, Cam Johnson and Luke Hessburg took the top spot with a time of 1:36.77.

Gunderson's squad put an exclamation mark on the victory, winning the 400-yard freestyle relay with Boggs, Hessburg, Johnson and Campbell posting a time of 3:35.20. They were more than six seconds ahead of Dakota.

Patrick Johnson won the 200-yard freestyle with a time of 1:57.19 and Graham was second at 1:57.88.

The Blue Devils took the top four spots in the 200-yard individual medley. Johnson won with a time of 2:12.87, followed by Hessburg at 2:12.93, Nicholas Yoo at 2:15.81 and Johnny Allen at 2:16.80.

In the 50-yard freestyle, Boggs, Effinger and Jack Martin finished second, third and fourth with times of 24.39, 24.81 and 24.93, respectively. In diving, Ben Cornillie and Eric Addy finished first and second with 183.30 and 176.10 points, respectively.

Johnson and Jackson took second and third in the 100-yard freestyle with times of 52.19 and 53.88, while in the 500-yard freestyle, Campbell won with a time of 4:56.04, while Hessburg and John Dennehy took second and third with times of 5:17.89 and 5:22.38, respectively.

In the final two individual events, Joe Zampardo won the 100-yard backstroke with a time of 1:00.97 and Allen was second in the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1:08.76 to lead the Blue Devils.

Gunderson said season-best times were turned in by Cornillie in diving, Frank Cusmano in the 100-butterfly, Graham in 100-backstroke, Jonathan Griffin in 500-freestyle, Hessburg in 200-IM, Jackson in 200-freestyle, Johnson in 200-IM, Alex Lagrou in 50-freestyle and 400-relay lead off, Nick Leto in diving, Jack Martin in 100-breaststroke, Chad Ososki in 50-freestyle and 100-breaststroke, C.J. Stafford in 200-freestyle relay lead off, Yoo in 200-IM and Zampardo in 200-freestyle.

Two nights later, South split a double dual meet, beating Ann Arbor Skyline 127-59 and lost 118-68 to Dexter.

The team of Campbell, Hessburg, Jackson and Johnson took second in the 200-medley relay with a time of 1:42.77 and Campbell was runner-up in the 200-freestyle with a time of 1:48.70.

Boggs came through to win the 200-IM with a time of 2:05.47, while Cornillie and Addy took second and third in diving with 173.25 and 164.20 points.

Zampardo was second in the 100-butterfly with a time of 56.53 and Campbell was second in the 100-freestyle at 49.04.

The Blue Devils bounced back to finish second in the 200-freestyle relay as Johnson, Boggs, Hessburg and Campbell had a time of 1:32.90 and Jackson was able to secure third place in the 100-backstroke at 1:00.49.

The team's best finish came in the 100-breaststroke with Hessburg and Boggs taking first and second with times of 1:03.71 and 1:05.05 and the 400-freestyle relay placed third as Jackson, Boggs, Graham and Yoo had a time of 1:47.10.

Knights blast MIAC foe

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Another league game and another blowout for University Liggett's girls' basketball team.

The Knights took their undefeated Michigan Athletic Conference record to Lutheran Westland last weekend as the second half of the league schedule began.

Head coach Wayne Gigante, adjusting his rotation after the loss of sophomore Julia DeRoo for the rest of the season, had four players score in double figures as the Knights won 64-21.

Junior Madison Ristovski had 28 points, followed by sophomores Haleigh Ristovski and Ariana Castillo with 12 points apiece, and freshman Angelia Evangelista with 11.

"Julia is a big loss for us," Gigante said. "She has been coming on strong and really understanding the game. Thankfully she will be back with us in the summer and she has been on our bench, cheering on the girls."

The Knights improved to 7-0 in the MIAC, winning each game by an average of 39.5 points per game, and 12-1 overall.

GROSSE POINTE NORTH

Norsemen split contests

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

After struggling to find its mojo, Grosse Pointe North's girls' basketball team might have found it.

Injuries riddled head coach Gary Bennett's roster, leaving only seven healthy players for a stretch of four games in the middle of the month.

Slowly, but surely, the girls are getting healthy and that was evident last week when the host Norsemen stunned division-leading Sterling Heights Stevenson 42-30.

"This is a nice win and it's nice to get some of our girls back in the lineup," Bennett said. "I have a lot of respect for the girls and they continue to work hard, even through all of the injuries. It was tough practicing with only seven girls."

The Norsemen's bench got a workout through the stretch when the injuries hit and the extended minutes on the court made them deeper. It was evident against the Titans when sophomores Lauren Koepp and Breann Reveley played well in the rotation.

Sophomore Taryn Kiah was also back in the lineup and had 13 points and three assists, while senior Nicole Strickland might have played her best game of the season, pulling down 13 rebounds to go with four points. Strickland seemed to pull down every big rebound when the Norsemen needed a defensive stop.

Strickland also tipped a few balls to teammates when she couldn't get a firm grasp on the rebound.

Senior Micaela Liddane had 15 points, six steals and four assists, and her sister, Maria Liddane, had one point and three assists. Koepp finished with four points before leaving with an ankle injury and Reveley had two points. Sophomore Anajai Gutierrez had three points and played strong defense and senior Kia Tyus was strong on the defensive end of the court, helping to limit the Titans' explosive offense to only 30 points.

The Norsemen led 9-7 after the first quarter and extended the lead to 18-13 at the half. The Titans closed to within three points, 20-17, early in the third quarter, but the Norsemen put together an impressive 9-0 run that took the air out of the Titans.

Later last week, the Norsemen finished the first half of the Macomb Area Conference Red Division schedule, losing 45-37 to visiting Romeo.

The Norsemen struggled offensively in the first half, trailing 20-9. They outscored the Bulldogs 14-8 in the third quarter and cut the deficit to 33-31 midway through the fourth quarter.

"With only seven players, we ran out of gas and Romeo finished the game stronger than we did," Bennett said.

Kiah had 14 points and four steals, while Micaela Liddane added eight points and five assists. Gutierrez chipped in with five points and six rebounds as North dropped to 2-4 in the MAC Red Division and 4-8 overall.

Knights double Clawson

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Senior captain Morgan Walker earned her first ever first place last week to help University Liggett's co-ed swimming and diving team beat Clawson 103-52.

Walker won the 200-yard freestyle with a time of 2:23.47 and teammate Mary Nehra was second at 2:25.37.

The visiting Knights, under head coach Ryan Gunderson, earned several first- and second-place finishes to cruise by the Trojans.

Mallory Jamett and Kara Zmyslowski took second and third in the 200-yard individual medley with times of 2:28.43 and 2:31.86, while the 200-yard medley relay foursome of Jamett, Julia Grimm, Zmyslowski and Connor Borrego won with a time of 2:08.15.

Veeral Patel won the 50-freestyle with a time of 26.64 and Caleb Ninivaggi took third at 32.11 and Ellene Bricolas was the top finisher in the 100-yard butterfly, posting a time of 1:25.92 for the Knights.

Patel also captured the top spot in the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 1:03.50 and Victoria Chochla was third at 1:17.90.

In the 500-freestyle, the Knights took the top two spots with Borrego and Jamett cruising with times of 5:38.31 and 5:42.58, and Borrego and Zmyslowski finished first and second in the 100-yard backstroke, turning in times of 1:08.51 and 1:09.21, respectively.

Walker and Grimm came back to finish second and third in the 100-yard breaststroke with times of 1:23.20 and 1:38.74 to round out the Knights' individual event placement.

In the 200-yard freestyle relay, Walker, Grimm, Ninivaggi and Patel won with a time of 2:05.63 and Clay Ford, Cristina Milenius, Chochla and Bricolas placed third at 2:28.34.

The Knights also won the 400-yard freestyle relay with Patel, Jamett, Zmyslowski and Borrego posting a time of 4:18.19. The foursome of Nehra, Bricolas, Chochla and Walker placed third with a time of 5:10.04.

With the victory, Liggett improved to 5-3 overall.

GROSSE POINTE NORTH

The Grosse Pointe North boys' swimming and diving team defeated Anchor Bay 130-56 last week.

Single winners were Mitchell Gross in diving, Zack Hanna in the 100-yard butterfly, Peter Shea in the 500-yard freestyle and Patrick Turnbull in the 100-yard breaststroke.

In addition, the winning 200-yard medley relay team of Leone, Christian Mellos, Hanna and Rakowicz established a new Division 2 state-qualifying time.

Head coach Mike O'Connor said season-best times were recorded in the 50-yard freestyle by Mellos; 100-yard freestyle by Rakowicz; 200-yard freestyle by Danny MacAskill; 500-yard freestyle by MacAskill; 100-yard backstroke by Scott Adelson and Mellos; 100-yard breaststroke by Patrick Turnbull, Alex Fly and A.J. Owens; 100-yard butterfly by Peter Cherry; and in diving by Joseph Garvin.

Later in the week, North edged L'Anse Creuse North 99-81 as Mellos and Rakowicz each won two events.

Mellos was first in the 200-yard freestyle and 100-yard breaststroke, while Rakowicz earned first-place points in the 200-yard IM and 500-yard freestyle.

The Norsemen's single event winners were Mitchell Gross in diving, Hanna in the 100-yard butterfly and Adelson in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Anoter set of season-best times were turned in by Andrew Hauler in the 50-freestyle; Mellos, John Kohler and Matthew Toenjes in the 100-freestyle; Mellos in the 200-freestyle; Adelson in the 100-backstroke; Patrick Turnbull in the 100-breaststroke; Cherry and Evan Williams in the 100-butterfly; and Rakowicz in the 200-IM.

Grosse Pointe North improved to 2-1 in the Macomb Area Conference Red Division and 6-1 overall.

GROSSE POINTE SOUTH

Blue Devils net division wins

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Head coach, Greg Snider was all smiles after the Grosse Pointe South wrestling team earned two division dual meet victories last week, beating Madison Heights Madison 49-6 and Mount Clemens 60-6.

The host Blue Devils took advantage of three voids to build a quick 18-6 lead over Madison. After each team ran through its voids, the real wrestling began.

Zack Donatiello ran into a buzzsaw in his 215-pound match and was pinned in the third period. He fought off several potential pin opportunities, but finally was taken down for the last time.

His solid effort ran over to his teammates as Andrew Steiber won a 12-1 major decision at 125 pounds and Frankie Pangborn earned a first-period pin.

Josh Alexander went overtime and won an 8-6 decision and Ian Hapanowicz concluded the victory over Madison with a pin.

"Josh definitely has some interesting matches that tend to go down to the wire," Snider said. "He had a good day, as did our guys who wrestled."

The Blue Devils who earned six points via void were Reggie Lewis, Zak Moyer, Alex Manchester, Ryan Ennis and Noland Goodall.

The undermanned Mount Clemens squad had only three grapplers compete against the Blue Devils. Donatiello pinned his foe, as did Lewis and Hapanowicz.

The Blue Devils captured 42 points in voids to easily win the dual meet.

Grosse Pointe South finished its dual meet schedule 2-6 in the Macomb Area Conference Gold Division and improved to 4-17 overall.

GROSSE POINTE NORTH

Short lineup hurts in defeat

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North wrestling head coach Bryan Lorenzo has been trying to piece together a lineup week-in and week-out.

A lack of numbers has left the Norsemen in a bind. The lack of a full lineup has made it nearly impossible to win dual meets and last week's 48-16 loss to visiting Utica was a good example.

Lorenzo had to void four weight classes, giving the Chieftains 24 free points.

"It's tough when we don't have a full lineup because that means our kids have to wrestle even better and pin most of the opposition to try to get team wins," Lorenzo said. "We have some kids really working hard and that is nice to see, but the lack of numbers has hurt the team."

The Norsemen earned one pin as Paul Menth took care of business with his six-point victory in the first period of his 130-pound match.

Other winners by decision were Jadon Cook, 189 pound; and Patrick Salazar, 119 pounds. Shawn Miller won a four-point major decision at 160 pounds to round out the Norsemen's scoring.

Evan Lock and Ken Coleman lost tough decisions at 215 and 275 pounds, respectively, while Zach Kaiser, 135 pounds; Wilson Fisher, 140 pounds; Jermaine White, 145 pounds; and Andrew Lock, 152 pounds, lost by pin.

North finished its Macomb Area Conference White Division dual meet mark at 1-6 and dropped to 4-15 overall.

Coming up for the Norsemen is the MAC White Division tournament Saturday, Feb. 5, at Macomb Dakota.

The team district is Thursday, Feb. 10. North hosts Eastpointe East Detroit, Roseville and city rival Grosse Pointe South.

The individual district tournament is Saturday, Feb. 12, at Beverly Hills Groves.

The top four in each weight class advanced to the regionals the following weekend.

Local rowers prep for 2011

Grosse Pointe teens will take to the water for the 173rd year as the Detroit Boat Club Crew rowing team begins the 2011 campaign Saturday, Feb. 5, at its annual Motown Madness Indoor Rowing Competition at the boathouse on Belle Isle.

The 2011 crew includes students from Grosse Pointe South and North high schools, Brownell Middle School, University of Detroit Jesuit High School, Farmington Hills Mercy High School, Detroit Country Day and Birmingham Seaholm.

This season, DBCC looks to veteran leadership from team captains Alix Chrumka and Laine Maher for the women and Zach Jatkowski, Trevor Duncan and Elijah Dillard for the men.

Head coach Dick Bell is in his fourth decade of leading the internationally respected program under which he rowed.

"We are really looking forward to the spring season," Bell said. "We are returning with varsity crew that has been to the national championships the last several years and we are expecting them to lead their teammates as we move toward the championships in Tennessee in 2011."

The Detroit Boat Club Crew is defending its title as 2010 Women's Youth Double National Champions which Grosse Pointe's Alix Chrumka and Allison DeClercq won last spring.

That DBCC double was joined at the Youth Nationals by the Men's Youth Double, the Men's Youth Lightweight Eight and the Women's Youth Lightweight Eight, which all had medaled at the Midwest Championships to qualify. Many of these rowers are the leaders of this year's crew.

After it hosts Motown Madness, the team heads south to compete in the Cincinnati Indoor Rowing Championships, which are a feeder for the Crash B Sprints National Regatta.

The indoor season ends with a quick trip downriver to Grosse Isle for The Island Sprints Indoor Regatta.

After the Island Sprints, the team will take the next four weeks to prepare for the outdoor competition in some of the most well-known regattas in the country.

The first stop of the on-the-water season will be The Golden Bear Invitational in Columbus April 2.

The next weekend the club hosts its own regatta in the waters of the Detroit River off Belle Isle.

Teams from the Detroit area and Ohio are expected to compete in the Dossin Invitational which is a match race held on the Canadian side of the island which finishes right in front of the Dossin Great Lakes Museum.

Brownell Middle School teacher Tara Wycoff.

Teacher of the Week

They play a key role in every child's development and inspire excellence in and out of the classroom

This week, it's Brownell Middle School sixth grade math teacher Tara Wycoff.

She was nominated by Maddie Thompson: "Well, where do I begin? Ms. Radcliffe is the best new teacher. Wait, Mrs. Wycoff is the best teacher. Period. Whether it's prime factorization, perimeter and area, or even simple long dividing, Mrs. Wycoff is always there to help.

"If you think about it, most people don't like math or new teachers. Neither do I. But with Mrs. Wycoff by my side, I'm a whiz at math and have a bucket-load of fun. Mrs. Wycoff means so much to me and I know she means so much to the students and staff at Brownell."

Years at the Grosse Pointe Farms school: One.

Previous work: I worked as a business consultant with Accenture for eight years before I switched careers and became a teacher. After becoming a teacher, I taught math and engineering at a middle school in Kansas for two years, then I came to Brownell.

Why did you become a teacher?

I became a teacher because I love working with kids and because teaching is a profession that allows me to give back to the community.

What do you enjoy about teaching?

I love interacting with children and I love seeing the excitement in their eyes when something new clicks with them. I really enjoy teaching at the middle school level because it's a very interesting time in a child's life. My students are sweet and funny and always have something quirky to tell me about.

How do you feel about being nominated?

I am thrilled to be nominated! It is such a good feeling to know that you're connecting with your students. It lets me know that I'm really making a difference.

Favorite math tip to share with students?

Always double-check your work!

ULS student takes top math honors

University Liggett School sophomore Joe Renzi took first place in the Kettering Math Olympics, earning a full-ride scholarship to Kettering University and a $1,000 Best Buy gift card.

The Mathematics Olympiad is a state-wide competition for high school students who have an interest in and math ability.

The competition consists of six problems students solved within four hours.

The problems range from those requiring little math skills to problems requiring geometry, trigonometry and beginning calculus. Students are not permitted to use calculators.

Last year, Renzi, of Clinton Township, took 14th in the Michigan Math Prize Competition and was awarded a $250 scholarship.

Following the math competition, Renzi said he is always challenging himself when it comes to math, learning new things and exploring new concepts rather than just memorizing them.

"I see math as a way of talking to God. Everything in the universe can be expressed in numbers," Renzi said.

ULS sophomore Joe Renzi won first place in the Kettering Math Olympics.

Band awards

Four University Liggett School students earned high marks in the Michigan Schools Band and Orchestra Association solo and ensemble festival Jan. 29.

Eighth-graders August Bonacci and Max Yoshida, both of Grosse Pointe Woods, received Division I ranking for their solo trumpet performances.

Eighth-grader Hannah Sword, of Highland Park, and seventh-grader Anthony Galea earned Division II marks, the second highest possible. Sword played the piano and Galea played trumpet.

Michael Grady

Safety patrol

Michael Grady, a Liggett sixth-grader, was recognized in the January 2011 issue of "Boys' Life," the national Boy Scout magazine, for saving lives at a crosswalk.

In 2009, Grady, of Grosse Pointe Park, was a safety officer helping students cross an intersection near Kercheval. He saw a car driving toward children.

"I thought the car would stop when it saw the kids, but it didn't slow down," Grady said.

He stepped in front of the students as they walked out onto the road, spreading his arms and prevented them from stepping in the car's path.

The car drove on, the driver seemingly unaware of the children who came so close to being hit.

"The moms were really thankful," Grady said.

His actions were noted in the magazine and earned him a trip to Washington D.C., to receive the 2010 AAA Safety Service Lifesaving Award. Along with about 15 other Boy Scouts from across the country, he toured Washington D.C., and received a certificate acknowledging his actions.

Grady is still involved with the Boy Scouts and plans to be for awhile.

"I like that we get to go camping and do a lot of fun activities," Grady said.

Speaker

University Liggett School Upper School students learned even an inch can make a difference in rebuilding Detroit.

During a Monday, Jan. 10, assembly, Jerry Paffendorf, co-founder and artistic director of the Imagination Station and Loveland Detroit, told the students that through an "inchvestment," they could help Detroit's revitalization.

For $1, Loveland offers purchasers a square-inch of property in Detroit's undeveloped, run-down areas. Owners can log in to see their micro-neighbors through the Loveland website. The money helps revitalize the area.

Through the Imagination Station, artists and other creative-types are renovating burned out houses and land near the old Michigan Central Station in the Corktown area of Detroit.

Specifically, the group is cleaning up 2230 and 2236 14th Street.

Using art, the group is transforming the space to provide a media center, living quarters for two technologists-in-residence, public art space and three vacant lots repurposed to fit the vision of Imagination Station.

By selling watts of electricity at $25 each through the Imagination Station website, the group hopes to fund the project. Once completed, the area it is expected to generate revenue.

Students learned of the project not only to let them know what is being done to transform the city, but to encourage them to get involved. While something, such as an inch of land, may seem small and insignificant, it can make a big impact, Paffendorf said.

Paffendorf's talk is part of a weekly series of speakers brought in to connect Liggett Upper School students with people and ideas making a difference in southeast Michigan.

Day camp

University Liggett School's annual Summer Day Camp will not be held until the summer 2013 due to renovations scheduled to the Lower School areas of the Cook Road campus.

Due to the substantial demolition and construction work, scheduled to begin in June, the school will not have space or facilities to hold day camp. The safety of the children is paramount and the need to move expeditiously on the construction necessitates this decision, school officials said. The school continues the usual summer sports camps on the north side of Cook Road.

While the school prepares to reopen Day Camp in 2013, it is working with a number of advisors on the structure and scope of its future programs.

Holiday knickknacks

Maire Elementary School students enjoyed a Saturday morning of building holiday crafts. The annual workshop, set up and run by parent volunteers, included items ranging from candy cane candle holders and Santa Claus aprons to ornaments made from recycled felt squares and birch log reindeer. Pictured are Audrey Smihal and Elizabeth Kempa work on their carton candy houses.

Film a commercial, win a scholarship

High school students can win scholarships by creating commercials warning middle school students of the dangers of underage alcohol use.

The program is offered in partnership with Michigan's Secretary of State and Courageous Persuaders. The entry deadline is Feb. 10.

For more information, visit Michigan.gov/sos or courageouspersuaders.com.

Courageous Persuaders plans to award more than $17,000 in scholarships to winners this year.

Courageous Persuaders is a program in which high school students create commercials addressing under-age drinking.

Michigan Secretary of State offices provide informational brochures to the public and broadcasts winning commercials on the digital TV network aired in more than 100 branch offices statewide.

The program, created in 2000 by advertising executive John Barczyk and former Troy District Court Judge Michael Martone, now involves 1,196 students from 383 schools in 45 states.

Samuel Scarfone

Samuel "Santo" Scarfone D.D.S., 88, died peacefully Thursday, Jan. 27, 2011, surrounded by his loving family.

He was born Aug. 15, 1922, in Windsor, Ontario, Canada, the son of Rocco and Vincenza Scarfone.

Dr. Scarfone, one of seven siblings, came from Windsor, with his beloved wife, Patricia Elaine, to attend the University of Detroit Dental School. He established his dental practice in Grosse Pointe.

A man full of hope and the family sage, Dr. Scarfone cherished his wife, each of his six children, their spouses, and his 24 grandchildren. A champion sprinter and football player, proud of his historic roots in Reggio Calabria, Italy, and raised in Canada, he infused his children and grandchildren with a sense of adventure and the idea all of life is a quest for joy. He taught them to strive for all that is possible beyond the immediate moment, but also to live in the potential beauty of the moment.

Throughout his children's lives, Dr. Scarfone taught his children that education is more important than anything else; knowledge allows a person to understand and empathize with other people. He taught that the bonds of family can survive all.

Dr. Scarfone is survived by his loving wife, Patricia; children, Richard (Mary), Suzanne (Joseph Longo), Robert (Patricia), Patricia (Samuel) Sherer, Mary Catherine (William) Nesom and William (Kris); 24 grandchildren and brothers, Joseph (Margaret) and Francis (Anne).

He was predeceased by his siblings, Anthony (Sally), Carmella (Antonio) Gerace, Delina (Carl) Carere and Delia (Orville) Arel and a sister-in-law, Joan Scarfone.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Feb. 1 at St. Paul on the Lake Catholic Church, Grosse Pointe Farms.

John Bruce still remembers the first time, 60 years ago, he walked through the doors of the Neighborhood Club.

"I was 7 years old and my mother signed me up for day camp," he said. "And, in a way, I have been here ever since."

During those six decades, Bruce went from camper to counselor to coach to executive director and is now reflecting back on those years as he prepares to retire just as the club is preparing to launch a new partnership with Beaumont Hospital Grosse Pointe.

"People have been asking me, 'why now?' and I respond this is really the perfect time, as we celebrate our 100th anniversary. We're already looking to the next 100," he said. "And it just makes sense the new director will be in place to oversee the development of the new facility."

Since its founding in 1911 in a small house on Oak Street in Grosse Pointe Farms, the Neighborhood Club has been committed to enhancing health and recreation activities for residents and especially children. It comes as no surprise Bruce has embodied that commitment, as well.

"As a kid, I participated in many of the sports programs the Neighborhood Club had to offer and when I was in high school, I started working for the club and continued through college and even after I graduated and started teaching."

Bruce grew up in Grosse Pointe Park, attended St. Clare of Montefalco School and Austin High School before graduating in 1965 from the University of Detroit with a degree in psychology.

Bruce's neighborhood

Left, John Bruce and Lucas Bower complete a high-five before Bower leaves the nursery school for the day. Above, Bruce stands by the Neighborhood Club sign, a place with which he has been involved with for 60 years.

He taught at St. Lucy's Catholic School while attending graduate school at U of D. He earned a master's degree in teaching and guidance counseling, teaching in the Grosse Pointe Public School System.

"I loved teaching," he said, simply. "I thought I would teach for the rest of my life."

It was a lay-off notice in 1971 that changed the course of his life.

"The executive director of the Neighborhood Club had retired," Bruce said. "And I had stayed active with the club even while I taught. I was approached about becoming executive director after I was laid off from the schools. But I never thought I would leave teaching, so even as I accepted the position, I told the board I wasn't sure if I would stay if I was called back to my teaching job."

◆ CHURCH STARTING BIG ADDITION: Ground breaking ceremonies will be held Sunday at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. Included in the new building will be a Memorial chapel and new rooms for children, including a baby-fold, as well as a music room and new library. The present church house will be re-modeled to provide much needed office space, cloak rooms and a youth room.

◆ WILD CHASE TERMINATED BY CRACKUP: Police of four Pointes and Detroit took part in an 85-mile an hour chase of a motorist in a stolen car that ended in a crackup on the east side of Detroit.

The chase began in the Shores when an officer attempted to pull the car over and it sped off. The officer radioed ahead to the Farms, City, Park and Detroit police departments for assistance and took up the chase. The fleeing driver lost control of the car and crashed into a parked car.

◆ THIEF GETS $80 TO $100 IN GROCERY: Park police are investigating an attempted burglary of a drug store and the breaking and entering of a grocery store in the 1000 block of Maryland. The attempted burglary was discovered by patrolmen James LaPratt and Don DelPlace while they were checking doors of business places on their beat.

The officers found evidence that someone, who was apparently frightened away as the policemen approached, tried to pry open the rear door.

The burglar accessed the grocery store by completely removing a 24-by-26-inch glass

1986: Ice water

Successive freezes and thaws have thrown up large stacks of broken ice along the lakefront in Grosse Pointe. This pile is at the foot of Moran in front of the Grosse Pointe Academy. The ice piles up shore when the thaw breaks the cover on the lake and an east wind forces the chunks up onto the ground. An examination of the ice shows it was six- to eight-inches thick on the lake before the last thaw.

◆ SCHOOLS ASK CITIES FOR INTEREST: Legal counsel from the six cities in the Grosse Pointe Public School System have been put on alert. The district sent a letter and a copy of a state Appeals Court ruling regarding the interest cities collect on invested school taxes before they're paid to the school system.

A state law in effect since 1979 allowed for payment of property taxes collected by municipalities for schools twice monthly, within 10 business days of the first and 15 of each month. Some of the local municipalities follow that payment method and don't forward the interest they earn on the short-term investment of the school dollars to the school system.

The appeals court affirmed a lower court's ruling that interest earned from the investment of the money belonged to the school system.

◆ REDEVELOPMENT: The Woods council last week hired an architectural company to prepare a redevelopment plan for two of the city's four parks. The city will ask voters on the November ballot to fund the work to be outlined in the plan.

◆ NCAA RULE HAS LITTLE IMPACT ON POINTE

ATHLETES: A controversial NCAA rule requiring freshman athletes at Class I schools to achieve a minimum grade point average hasn't had Grosse Pointe's senior athletes hitting the books any harder than usual.

Rule 48 requires incoming freshman at Division I colleges to compile at least a "C" average in high school and score at least 700 out of 1,600 on their SAT tests.

A Grosse Pointe school system official says that while SAT results for Grosse Pointe's senior athletes are not available, it is believed that they are well above the required averages.

◆ CITY HIRES NEW MANAGER: After 35 years under the tutelage of Tom Kressbach, who is retiring, the City of Grosse Pointe council hired Michael Overton as its city manager.

◆ PARK REPAIRS: City of Grosse Pointe residents will be asked to approve a bond proposal that will raise money for a new pool and other improvements to Neff Park.

◆ CHLORINE SYSTEM UPGRADED: The Grosse Pointe Farms water system's chlorination system will undergo a $51,000 upgrade in the late spring. The Farms council approved spending the money in order to replace black iron pipes first installed 37 years ago.

The type of pipe in question is listed as having a work life of 30 years, so the pipes need replacing. In a report to the council, the city manager stated the pipes are "deteriorating with iron scale flaking off inside the pipe and then fouling the chlorine feeders."

◆ SUCCESS: With all the excitement of a Hollywood premier, the new Woods Branch of the Grosse Pointe Public Library opened with rave reviews from local residents who attended the dedication ceremony.

◆ IDEA: The Grosse Pointe Chamber of Commerce had its Super Bowl last week as more than 220 people attended its inaugural dinner at the War Memorial.

◆ FIRE HALTS WORK: A smoke-free restaurant planned for the Village became a fire scene the morning of Jan. 22.

City Kitchen, a locally owned restaurant being outfitted in a storefront on Kercheval near Cadieux, caught fire shortly after 10 p.m.

Fire fighters from three Pointe departments contained flames to portions of the ceiling. Smoke forced temporary closure of adjoining businesses.

It's always about the children, says long-time Neighborhood Club Executive Director John Bruce, back right. He joins the morning song in the nursery school with teacher Sue Sullivan.

BRUCE: Community leader

But stay at the Neighborhood Club he did. For many years he managed to also maintain the connection to teaching, working as the freshman basketball coach at Grosse Pointe South High School for 25 years.

Bruce also served on several community boards, including the Grosse Pointe Board of Education and the Grosse Pointe Public Library Board, roles giving him a different perspective, especially when he reflects on his teaching days.

"The first year I was teaching, the teachers went on strike," he said. "Then here I was, eight years later, as a member of the school board, sitting on the other side of the table. It gave me a whole different perspective."

Bruce was elected to the school board in 1974 when he was 31 years old.

"The Neighborhood Club, the school board, the library board, all gave me an unusual opportunity to meet people at various stages of my life and theirs, and to watch people in different capacities," he said.

And while he moved among community leaders, his first love has always been Grosse Pointe's children.

"Kids have always been a core part of my life," he said. "Just imagine the thousands of children that have moved through the Neighborhood Club and the thousands of volunteer coaches. As word has gotten out that I was leaving, I have started hearing from some of them. I had no idea we were touching as many lives as we did. It's fun to listen to them talk about the great memories they have of the sports and other programs they participated in here."

One of Bruce's proudest accomplishments was the inclusion of sports programs for individuals with special needs. He spoke with high praise for Al and Geri Maci, who have worked with the Neighborhood Club to ensure athletic opportunities are available for all.

"I know it sounds trite, but it has been a privilege for me to work with so many people, from kids to parents to community leaders, and all of us have been part of that village that it takes to raise a child," Bruce said. "You have people like the Macis or people like Stu Dow, who has been a soccer coach with us for years. It has been such a privilege for me to work with these people."

While Bruce does not see the mission of the Neighborhood Club changing as it begins its next 100 years of service to the community under the hand of a new director, he does see the manner in which those services are delivered adapting to changing times and changing needs.

"We know there is going to be a focus on fitness," he said. "We see it now with the programs to combat obesity because it is a health problem with a huge cost in terms of how it affects an individual's health. Fitness has become a health issue, but there is obviously a limited amount of money. While cities have built recreation facilities, they are the first items cut when money is tight. That's why a facility like the Neighborhood Club is so important.

"And now with our partnership with Beaumont, we will be able to meet the needs of the community as we move into our next 100 years," he said.

The partnership with Beaumont includes the construction of a new complex where the club stands. It features physical rehabilitation services, an Integrated Development Center for children with special needs, a warm water pool for both adults and children, a therapeutic pool and a gymnasium. The Neighborhood Club Nursery School will occupy space on the building's second floor. The popular Thrift Store is moving, possibly to nearby retail space.

Construction is expected to begin this fall, with completion scheduled for the fall of 2012.

this far and now begins working on a transition leadership.

A nationwide search has been conducted for this successor, and the application deadline was Jan. 28. While Bruce isn't sure exactly when his last day will be, he and his wife, Linda, have begun making plans for his retirement, which will definitely include spending time with their 10 grandchildren, ages 3 to 10.

"We'll definitely be traveling," he said. "We love to visit Arizona, especially for spring training. We're looking forward to driving and taking out time and visiting places along the way."

But his thoughts will be in Grosse Pointe.

"It has been such a pleasure serving as director of this organization," he said. "I can't believe how blessed and how lucky my life has been."

PASTOR'S CORNER By Rev. Jim Rizer

Jesus offers to quench thirst

The opening lines of Psalm 23 paint a wonderful picture of God as the shepherd who will take care of our needs. Initially we think about this in terms of "daily bread" nourishing the body, but as we continue, we discover this shepherd is actively reaching out to us to heal the wounds and scars deep within.

In John 4, we get a glimpse of this as Jesus meets the woman at the well.

The woman, an outcast in her community, comes to draw water in the heat of the day when no one else will be there. She comes to satisfy her physical thirst when she discovers Jesus at the well. As the conversation develops, Jesus offers her "living water" that will allow her to "never thirst again." (John 6:10-14)

He acknowledges she will be physically thirsty, as he points to the thirst that marks her soul. She thirsts for acceptance. She longs to be more than the sum of her mistakes and bad choices. She thirsts for wholeness. She longs for her soul to be restored.

Are you thirsty not only for still waters, but for the living water, for a restored soul, for wholeness?

The Old Testament concept of shalom, often translated as "peace," is best understood as wholeness. The image frequently used to describe this was a wheel where all the spokes are the right length so the wheel — life — can roll properly.

When some spokes are broken or short, life doesn't roll quite right.

Jesus, knowing the fullness of her brokenness and the stunted or damaged areas of her soul, offers her living water to satisfy her thirst and restore her soul.

Are you thirsty? Jesus invites you, "Whoever comes to me will never be hungry, and whoever believes in me will never be thirsty." (John 6:35)

Rizer is minister at Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church.

How to choose the right hearing aid

One in every 10 Americans has hearing loss. Yet research indicates most wait up to 10 years before seeking help.

While 95 percent of Americans with hearing loss could be successfully treated with hearing aids, only 22 percent currently use them.

Often neglected due to the stigma associated with the condition, hearing loss can create social and emotional barriers for the individuals living with it, or the families of those it affects.

When left untreated, hearing loss can lead to reduced earning power, disruptions in family life and can cause a wide range of psychological problems.

If experiencing hearing loss, speak to a local hearing health professional who can do a full hearing screening and walk the patient through available solutions.

Modern hearing aids are small, comfortable, nearly invisible and work with digital technology to ensure better sound quality and wireless connectivity.

Modern hearing devices improve hearing ability, speech recognition and hearing comfort and have made it possible for those who need a hearing aid to wear their devices with ease and confidence.

The earlier hearing loss is recognized and action taken, the earlier one is able to recover their hearing ability and increase their quality of life.

There are two basic types of hearing aids:

- Custom models are made to fit the shape of one's ear canal for maximum benefit, cosmetic appeal and the best possible comfort. These models are suitable for mild to severe hearing loss.

Technological advances have made it possible to house full wireless connectivity in one small hearing aid. At the push of a button, one can connect a hearing device to telephones, TV, MP3 music players and other audio transmitters.

- Behind-the-ear models are available for all degrees of hearing loss and can be worn comfortably. Incoming signals are amplified and transmitted into the ear via small, unobtrusive tubes.

If it's time to improve hearing with a hearing aid, or an upgrade to a new one, here are three easy steps to choosing the one that's right for you.

- Step No. 1: Consult with a hearing health professional or ear nose and throat doctor.

When deciding what hearing aid is best, it is important to consider the degree of hearing loss, the shape of the ear canals, personal needs, taste and budget. A local hearing health professional or ENT doctor can help answer these questions.

- Step No. 2: Have the hearing aids fitted.

The hearing health professional will adjust the hearing aid to one's hearing loss and preferences. Over the first few days, the hearing aid should be worn for a few hours per day to familiarize oneself with it.

Take note on how you feel in different hearing situations. Additional fine-tuning might be necessary after the initial fitting.

- Step No. 3: Using the new hearing aids.

Like glasses or contact lenses, a hearing aid can feel strange at first. This will change. Give a little time to get used to it. The best use of the hearing aid will be learned and enjoyed for all the benefits it has to offer. However, if any problems or pain is experienced, contact the local hearing health professional.

Guard your Social Security number

Social Security numbers were first issued to identify those who were getting benefits. Now it's become a national ID number, and far too many people have access to it.

Theft of Social Security numbers is big business. With that little number, plus your name and address, thieves can steal your identity and take your money or run up debt in your name. At the very least, it can mean spending untold hours straightening out the mess when your credit report has errors.

With that number, someone can get medical services in your name, and at your expense, or refinance your mortgage and take the profits. For those who've put together a nice nest egg, it can mean losing everything you've worked for over the years.

McAfee, a computer security company, put together a list of the Top 10 places where Social Security numbers are most likely to be stolen. Starting with the riskiest places, they are: Universities and colleges, banks and financial institutions, hospitals, state governments, local governments, federal governments, medical businesses that provide equipment or billing services, non-profit organizations, technology companies, medical insurance and medical offices.

While it's often necessary to give your Social Security number to get services, cut your risk by being careful.

Send for a free copy of your credit report every year to make sure it doesn't have errors.

Invest in a shredder, or share one with friends. Shred any mail — unless you need to file it away — that has your personal information on it.

If you're hunting for a job, don't automatically put your Social Security number on the application. Those applications often end up in Dumpsters behind the business. Instead, wait until they hire you and provide the number to the appropriate person in human resources.

All About Seniors

Know your financial personality

More than 90 percent of people aged 44 to 75 feel the United States is facing a retirement crisis.

Most people have a limited understanding of how much money they'll need and fear they'll outlive their income, according to a 2010 survey from Allianz Life Insurance Company of North America.

Understanding one's financial personality can help them take the appropriate steps to start building a better financial future:

- Overwhelmed. The overwhelmed personality is unsure when, or if, they'll be able to retire. And when they do, they expect to significantly reduce their living expenses and possibly to continue working.

This type of personality should get control of their spending. Looking at their expenses over the next month will show them how extra spending begins to add up.

They also need to reduce debt. The National Foundation for Credit Counseling recommends paying at least double the minimum required credit card payment.

The National Endowment for Financial Education recommends saving money for an emergency fund, money for short-term purchases, and money for long-term goals, such as retirement.

- Resilient. The resilient personality tends to be in their late 50s and is worried the U.S. is entering a major economic depression. They know they need to invest for retirement, but might not have time to save enough.

This type of personality should reduce spending. Look at what they're spending, particularly on bigger ticket items.

Combining Quality, Compassion and Care

Having that money automatically deducted from their paycheck and put into a retirement, savings or investment account now will help them build their nest egg for the future.

They should also delay Social Security benefits. If benefits are received before full retirement age, the benefits will be reduced. Benefits can be calculated at ssa.gov.

Invest now. Consulting with a financial planner is a good way to navigate the options and figure out a solid investment strategy.

- Distracted. This group is the youngest — 40s to 50s. They generally count on receiving full Social Security benefits and relying on 401(k)s more than any other group. While they are worried their savings won't be adequate for the future, they are content to live for today.

This type of personality should evaluate their retirement plans. Visit choose-tosave.org to see if your retirement plans fit your budget, or if the plans need to be adjusted.

Investments should be reexamined. Look at all the investments and make sure they are growing. If not, it may be time for a change.

Make changes to secure retirement income. Protecting assets and guarding against outliving them needs to be a priority. An annuity is a contract between you and an insurance company. In exchange for the purchase payment, the insurance company provides one income, either immediately or sometime in the future. To find out more about annuities and whether they are a good fit, visit allianzlife.com.

Whatever the age or financial personality, it's time to give your retirement plans a check-up and take action to secure a nest egg. Skin-care benefits overall health for seniors

Taking care of one's skin has its cosmetic benefits, but more significantly, it also plays a large role in overall health — particularly for seniors.

When there is dry skin, discoloration, wounds, rashes, bruises or other injuries, people are immediately aware something is wrong on the outside and maybe even on the inside.

Keeping aging skin healthy allows it to offer protection from environmental harms and infections and produce important vitamins.

"Age brings a number of changes that can compromise the skin's ability to protect us," said Cynthia Fleck, registered nurse and vice president of clinical marketing for advanced skin and wound care at Medline.

These changes stem from the inability to retain water, sun damage, smoking, reduced collagen, some medicines and illnesses. Any or all of these factors can lead to skin deterioration.

"When skin ages, it becomes thinner and less resilient," Fleck said. "The layers of skin can easily separate, tearing the paper-like upper-most area called the epidermis. The skin cells do not 'turn over,' or replenish themselves as quickly as when we are young. Therefore, the old skin cells become clumped and do not function as efficiently as young, healthy skin cells do."

In addition, as age increases, people are more prone to dry and/or itchy skin, bruises in odd places, wrinkles, age spots, skin tags and abnormal moles. While aging cannot be reversed, maintaining proper care equals healthy skin and more importantly, healthy people.

Fleck offers the following advice on how to care for aging skin:

- Avoid a daily shower or bath, which can contribute to dry skin. Instead, opt for gentle cleansing with moisturizing soap and detergent-free cleansers that do not need to be rinsed. These cleansers do the job of removing dirt and natural oils, but do not impact the natural acid balance of mature skin.

- Moisturizing on a daily basis is essential, especially since older skin fails to retain moisture as well as younger skin. Look for advanced skin care products that actually nourish the skin from the outside in, delivering amino acids (proteins), vitamins, antioxidants and ingredients that are gentle and soothing, making the skin more resilient and strengthening it.

- Take care to avoid injuries that can tear the skin or caustic substances that can disrupt the skin's ability to protect. If the skin is broken, small wounds can be covered with adhesive bandages designed to be gentle to skin. Immobile seniors who must use incontinence products should have special care taken to keep them clean and free of irritants. Barrier products that contain protectants such as dimethicone and other silicones, as well as zinc oxide, can help protect the skin from these issues.

- Protect skin from the sun. Since melanocytes, the skin cells that protect us from the sun, do not work as well when we age, older skin burns easily.

Stay out of the sun as much as possible, and when out, wear protective clothing, wide-brimmed hats and sun screen.

- Be aware of special skin care needs that often accompany some common diseases, such as diabetes. For example, diabetics are more susceptible to bacterial and fungal infections and itchy skin. Therefore, they need to take particular care in protecting their skin, especially on extremities.

- Avoid strong antibacterial soaps that may have high pH level, which can dry aging skin. Astringents and products that contain alcohol can also be too harsh and damaging for older skin. Moisturizing hands after using a sanitizer or soap becomes especially important for these cases.

Heart conditions can be 'silent'

The image many people get when they think of heart conditions is a grown man clutching his chest. But not all heart conditions are as obvious or pronounced as heart attack.

Ischemia is a term used to describe the restriction of oxygen-rich blood to an area of the body. Cardiac ischemia occurs when the blood cannot reach the heart.

Generally cardiac ischemia causes pain in the chest, known as angina. However, in some cases there is no warning pain and the condition is called silent ischemia.

Silent ischemia affects roughly 3 to 4 million Americans every year. Individuals who have had a previous heart attack are at higher risk for silent ischemia than others. But there are many other risk factors:

- Diabetes
- Coronary artery disease
- Hypertension
- Coronary artery anomalies
- Smoking
- Obesity
- Alcohol and drug abuse
- Cardiomyopathy

If ischemia lasts too long or is especially severe, it may cause a heart attack. It can also affect the natural rhythm of the heart and its pumping ability, which can cause fainting, and sudden cardiac arrest.

Silent ischemia has no symptoms. However, if a person has had previous episodes of chest pain, there's a likelihood he or she could also be experiencing silent ischemia and not know it. Doctors may use an exercise stress test to determine silent ischemia. Also, a special monitor called a Holter monitor will record the heart rate and rhythm over the course of a day and determine if ischemia occurred.

The main ways to treat silent ischemia is to reduce certain behaviors that increase risk. This includes quitting smoking, avoiding alcohol and maintaining a healthy weight and diet.

For those who are diagnosed with silent ischemia, there are some treatment options available. Most of these involve improving blood flow to the heart, which often requires prescription medications. Oxygen also may be given to increase the oxygen content of the blood that is reaching the heart. Other people may take medicines that relax blood vessels, enabling more blood to flow.

In most cases this is all that is needed to fix the situation. For those not responding to treatment, they may need a percutaneous coronary intervention, such as balloon angioplasty, coronary artery bypass surgery or a similar procedure.

Silent ischemia is a potentially dangerous heart condition that's difficult to detect and can result in cardiac arrest.

Recognizing signs of unhealthy relationships

Q My sophomore daughter has been dating a junior for six months. She is with him all the time. When they aren't together, he is constantly texting her or calling. She no longer sees her friends and the relationship seems very exclusive.

When I try to talk about it, she defends him and says that it shows how much he loves her. She doesn't seem as light-hearted as she used to be. What can I do?

A You are wise to be concerned about the changes in your daughter. Teenagers are the fastest growing population at risk for dating abuse. Abuse can be defined as a consistent pattern of behavior in which one person exerts control and power over another. This can be physical, sexual, verbal or emotional.

Today's rules for dating are often shaped by the media and can be confusing. Young men still get the message, "Real men take charge; Real men are strong and dominant." Teen girls with low self-esteem are vulnerable to someone controlling their life in the name of "love."

Regardless of gender, inexperience is a relevant factor, as teens without much dating experience may not know what is and is not acceptable behavior.

Some signs of an unhealthy relationship are: being jealous of friends and family; no boundaries around frequency of contact, constant checking

Like so many social issues for teens, advice is not as important as connection to an adult who will listen and discuss how to help the teen explore possibilities.

SPIRIT OF WOMEN

Family doctor treats total person

Many people who don't have a "regular" doctor often find themselves unable to get an appointment when a cold or flu gets out of hand.

The next step usually involves a trip to the emergency room where getting "bumped" for more emergent cases, such as auto accidents or life-threatening conditions, can result in long wait times just to get something to quiet that cough.

If this sounds familiar, it may be time to consider a family medicine doctor — a physician who cares for your entire family — you, your spouse, your children or an aging parent.

Instead of finding a specialist for each of your health issues, see one physician for most of your health care, then specialize when it becomes necessary.

Family medicine doctors are dedicated to treating the whole person while offering a full range of primary health care for patients of all ages. They provide comprehensive services, including newborn medicine, pediatrics, sports medicine, dermatology, obstetrics, geriatrics and minor surgery.

According to James Rosbolt, D.O., medical director of Beaumont Family Medicine, St. Clair Shores, seeing the entire family is a benefit, as there are a wide array of services family medicine doctors can provide.

"Scheduling an appointment

James Rosbolt, M.D., medical director, Beaumont Family Medicine, St. Clair Shores, watches family medicine resident, Azrael Paderes, M.D., examine Devon LaBara, as mom, Billie-Jo, looks on.

with a family medicine doctor is the first step when seeking medical care. We treat people of all ages from pediatrics to geriatrics," Rosbolt said.

"When looking at diseases, such as diabetes or hypertension, we can learn about a family's eating patterns and exercise habits to understand how healthy or unhealthy their home life may be. This allows us to focus on preventive care and offer counseling to address issues that impact mom, dad and the kids."

Beaumont Hospitals' Family Medicine Centers are run like private medical practices, but with resident physicians practicing under the supervision of senior physicians. With a resident physician, patients receive the benefit of a doctor with the most recent training and exposure to the newest medical knowledge. Resident family physicians are graduate doctors obtaining three years of additional training in the specialty of family medicine.

"Beaumont's comprehensive training experience prepares our resident physicians for future practice in our community," Rosbolt said.

A LA ANNIE By Annie Rouleau-Scheriff

Pure and simple meal with Thai food

Thai food has settled into America like a well-fit glove. My husband likes Thai food so much he bought me a cookbook so I could prepare his favorite Thai dishes at home.

The book, "Thai Pure & Simple" is written by Sandy Arpachinda, founder of the Bangkok Cuisine restaurants in the metro Detroit area.

I'm starting with kow pad, otherwise known as Thai fried rice. This easy, delicious and economical recipe feeds a family of four and can be on the dinner table in less than a half hour, if you cook the rice ahead of time.

Kow Pad with Chicken

(Thai fried rice, adapted from 'Thai Pure & Simple')

8 cups cooked rice
1/4 cup vegetable oil
1 lb. boneless, skinless chicken breasts, cut into thin bite-sized pieces
1/2 cup diced carrots
1 medium onion, halved

Annie's Thai recipe is quick and economical.

and sliced, about 1 cup
1/2 cup sliced scallions
1/2 cup frozen peas, thawed
3 eggs, lightly beaten
1/4 cup fish sauce*
2 tablespoons sugar
sliced tomato and cucumber for garnish

Begin by prepping the chicken and all of the vegetables. Heat the oil in a wok-style skillet over medium-high heat. (A flat skillet will also work.) Add the chicken and cook until almost done, about 5 to 7 minutes. Add carrots, onion, scallions and peas and cook for a minute or two.

Add the egg and cook for a few more minutes, stirring often. Add the cooked rice and toss and stir until well combined with the chicken and vegetables.

Combine the fish sauce with the sugar and pour over the rice, tossing well. Cook until the fried rice is heated throughout. Transfer to a serving platter or bowl and garnish with slices of fresh tomato and cucumber.

The sugar brings a slight sweet taste to this fried rice, making it appealing to a broad range of palates. This is the most basic of fried rice recipes. There are many variations of kow pad.

Different combinations of meat, seafood, vegetables, herbs and spices make up the Thai tradition of fried rice.

Leading edge emergency care at Beaumont Hospital Grosse Pointe.

Today at Beaumont, we're ready for your emergency, 24/7.

Because we know that time matters, we've created a fast-track triage. Which means patients see doctors and are treated sooner than ever before.

What matters even more is an accurate diagnosis. That's why our Board Certified Emergency Center physicians use the most advanced technology.

And the hospital was recently accredited as a Chest Pain Center and certified as a Primary Stroke Center, demonstrating excellence in the diagnosis and treatment of chest pain and stroke.

If a referral is necessary, you have expedited access to Michigan's most preferred doctors — Beaumont specialists in orthopedics, neurosurgery, cardiology, pediatrics and dozens of other services.
