Pool needs work

By Brad Lindberg
 Staff Writer

CITY OF GROSSE POINTE — In swimming pools years, the 11-year-old one at Neff Park is entering old age.

Time for a facelift, especially the heavily-trafficked shallow end.

"The deep end is more-or-less protected by the depth of water," said Chris Hardenbrook, City of Grosse Pointe parks and recreation director.

A low-bid, $17,900 resurfacing contract was awarded this month to SAM LLC. Two competing bids ranged $200 to $350 higher.

"Over time, the main pool's shallow end surface is showing its age with sharp, jagged cracks and fissures," Hardenbrook said.

Repairs are being delayed until the pool closes Labor Day weekend and non-summer rates begin.

"There may be a 10 percent decrease in price," Hardenbrook said.

The current surface is past its 10-year expected lifetime,

GROSSE POINTE SHORES — Someone's headed to dry dock about failed marina decking.

The Grosse Pointe Shores city council approved spending up to $5,000 to find out who's responsible for the deck falling apart at Osius Park municipal marina.

Artificial wood planking installed during the marina's reconstruction four years ago is splitting, bowing and cracking in advance of its advertised lifespan.

"We selected a firm to test the decking, as well as extra stock at the public works department," said City Manager Mark Wollenweber. "It will cost $5,000 to do that."

"Part of (the problem) is installation and part is a bad batch?" asked Mayor Ted Kedzierski.

"A combination of those things," Wollenweber answered. "The report will tell us who to point fingers at and how much has to be repaired."

Summer picnic

It was a perfect day for a picnic in Grosse Pointe Woods' Lake Front Park Aug. 4.

With temperatures in the 90s, events centered around being in the water as Sarah Westrick found out when her father tossed her into the air and she landed with a splash in the pool.

Sweet Little Sheila's awnings

CITY OF GROSSE POINTE — Sheila Taylor is banking on people chasing burgers with pastry.

Her Sweet Little Sheila's Pastry & Crepe Cafe is located in space formerly occupied by Burger Pointe on Kercheval in the Village.

City of Grosse Pointe officials welcomed Taylor this week by approving proposed signs and awnings for the business.

Officials even advised her to increase lettering on a sign of the company name. "We worked with (her) to try to maximize the impact of the sign and putting other information in the windows as decorative window signage," said John Jackson, City of Grosse Pointe planning consultant. "They took off some letters to get bigger images."

The proposed awning met city code.

"(They are) in keeping with the design guidelines of the Village," Jackson said.

This classic Corvette was among the hundreds of cars to take part in the cruise.

A trip down Memory Lane

By John McTaggart
Special Writer

They came from as near as St. Clair Shores and as far as Texas and perhaps even beyond.

Cruisers came out by the hundreds, and spectators by the tens of thousands, last Wednesday evening to take part in the Kiwanis Harper Avenue Charity Cruise.

Classic cars, muscle cars, antique cars and just about everything in between entertained crowds lining Harper from Old 8 Mile to just north of Martin.

"It's my favorite cruise," said St. Clair Shores resident Brian Hilliwere who came in his 1962 Corvette. "It's up-close-and-personal and a very good time for everyone."

"I'd be out here in hurricane-force winds," Clawson resident Douglas Cooper said. "It's a great cruise because you're right here. You can literally reach out and touch the cars if you want. And, everyone is so friendly. I think because it's on a week night, you don't seem to get a lot of the trouble-makers you get with weekend cruises. I love this cruise and wouldn't miss it for anything."

Cooper and several of his car-enthusiast friends spent the evening walking the route, stopping to look at the hundreds of cars parked along the avenue, as well as those cruising Harper.

"What more could you ask for?" said Stephon Willis. "It's a beautiful night. It's a beautiful cruise. Everything is beautiful."

"Let me tell you, if you're feeling down or had a tough day or something, nothing cures those blues like a car cruise. I can't wipe this smile off my face since I got here."

The event is geared toward families, with tents set up all along the route with food, entertainment and activities for all ages.

Among the hot spots

Cars from all eras lined Harper Avenue last Wednesday during the Kiwanis Harper Avenue Charity Cruise.

Blake Bouldrey and Robin Cook arrive at the cruise in the back of a Ford Fairlane.

for children this year was Joe's Trailer just south of 10 Mile. A face-painting station, along with several clowns making balloon animals parked there, bringing smiles to many children's faces.

"I didn't think they could do it," said Trevor Soote, 4, grinning from ear to ear. "But they painted my face to look like Spiderman."

Numerous companies and businesses were officially sanctioned Harper Cruise party spots, playing host to party-goers while others simply found a patch of grass along the cruise route and set up lawn chairs.

"My wife, my brother and my nephews come every year," Cameron Drogosh, 32, said. "My brother and I just bought a 1950 Mercury that we're starting to tear apart and restore, so hopefully next year we'll be cruisin' instead of watching from the sidelines."

"This year though, we're walking around asking lots of questions to the guys who have cars we like the look of. It's really helping us get an idea of what we have to do to our car. Everyone is real helpful too."

Sandra Crouch, a cruise regular, said she looks forward to it every year.

"We come up from the Toledo (Ohio) area every year for the past few years," Crouch said. "It's worth the trip. We see some friends from year's past, meet some new ones, get some really good burgers and fries, and just have a great time."

"This is the last cruise of the year for most of these people and they really enjoy it. I'm already looking forward to next year."

he added.

"There are delaminated sections exposing the concrete subsurface in many areas," Hardenbrook said.

Deterioration is becoming a safety issue.

"In order to ensure a safe and properly maintained facility, the shallow end will need Marcite resurfacing in order to open the pool for spring of 2013," Hardenbrook added.

The city's contracted pool maintenance company, Aquatic Source, is being paid 15 percent of the project's total cost to oversee resurfacing.

"Aquatic Source will extend a two-year warranty of the project and resolve any issues, mistakes or hurdles that may develop," Hardenbrook said.

POINTER OF INTEREST

Bradley Foster started his first business at 10. Now a junior at the University of Pennsylvania, the City of Grosse Pointe resident owns numerous businesses and continues to add more while finishing a business degree.

A mogul in the making

By Michael Maas
Special Writer

At 14, most teenagers are learning to live as a high school freshman. At 14, City of Grosse Pointe resident Bradley Foster was hiring his first employee.

That was six years ago. Now 20, he manages multiple businesses and attends college full-time.

Foster started his computer sales and repairs business, Spark Force, at 10 years old. When it first started, he called the business BCS Computers (Brad's Computer Service) and did repairs himself.

"Spark Force has always been near and dear to my heart. It was the first business I started," Foster said. "(I changed the name because) I wanted something that was memorable and not tied to a certain type of technology that would go out of date or something."

Spark Force helped Foster branch out, as the money it made allowed him to start other businesses.

"Spark Force had no up-front money that I needed. It made money as it generated business. Spark Force still doesn't have any overhead costs — it's all run by the technicians out of their house or the client's house,"

Foster said. "Spark Force was kind of the thing that helped me fund everything else, because it needed no up-front money."

Over the years, Foster began a chauffeur service, bought a hotel and travel agency in Costa Rica, opened a restaurant in northern Michigan, created Foster Equities, a finance company, began a water sports camp named EDGE Water Sports in northern Michigan, and started a website, Pics From Last Night. He made $800,000 in revenue last year.

While managing these entities may seem like a full-time job, Foster still attends the business school at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. Juggling schoolwork and business can be tough sometimes, he said.

"Figuring out what the priorities are, that's probably the hardest thing. My parents are all about school and sometimes I get too hung up on the business stuff," Foster said. "But the biggest thing I need to remember is that when I'm done, I know that I've picked up something that's worth it from going to school. You don't know everything. You always have something else to learn."

Foster adds while his experience growing up was unconventional, he never felt he missed having a childhood.

"(My childhood) was different from most kids, but I never felt like I was deprived of a childhood because I always had a lot of fun. I don't let the business stuff get in the way and if anything, I think I've had a better childhood because I've had the resources to do what I want to do," Foster said.

Aside from being where he lived for the first 18 years of his life, Foster credits the school system in Grosse Pointe as being impactful in his formative years.

"The biggest thing has been the school systems. The education obviously, but not only the education, but the people in the school system," he said. "I've had some really, really good teachers and I think that's been a big part of it."

Foster has always started his businesses based on what he loves to do: working on computers, so he started Spark Force; water skiing, so he started EDGE Water Sports.

This is key, he says, in having success in business.

"No matter what you do, whether you're starting a business or working for someone else, it's important that you love what you do," he said. "The best advice is find what you love, find a way to do something like that, and find a way to make money with what you love."

After college, he plans to continue running Spark Force and other businesses that appeal to him.

"It's something I enjoy doing and plan on doing for a long time," Foster said. "I hope to do some more international business because that's what really interests me."

EPA's action on extraction industries

President Barack Obama has placed big bets on Michigan, plowing $85 billion into the state's automotive industry and creating about 128,000 new jobs. But other agencies in his administration are undermining the recovery effort with regulatory actions that hobble manufacturing and force jobs overseas.

Given the geopolitical threats we face with such a heavy dependence on China in the metals sector, I closely follow the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's efforts to regulate U.S. extraction industries. And recent EPA actions have been confounding Obama's efforts to stimulate the U.S. economy.

The EPA's expansion of its veto power under section 404C of the Clean Water Act creates profound regulatory uncertainty. Just look at how this is playing out in West Virginia. In 2007, after a comprehensive environmental review, the Army Corps of Engineers granted a 404 water discharge and dredge permit to the Spruce No. 1 mine project. Four years later, the EPA, based solely on its new interpretation of unchanged facts, moved to revoke the permit, bringing the operation to a grinding halt. A federal judge — appointed by Obama — ruled the EPA lacked the authority to do this and relied on "magical thinking."

In view of these actions, companies considering capital investments in domestic mining projects will think twice before going down this road.

The EPA is attempting to expand its perceived authority under the Clean Water Act to preemptively deny a permit before it is applied for. The agency is singling out Pebble Mine, near the headwaters of Bristol Bay in southwest Alaska, even though there has been no permit application. Over the strong objections of Alaska Attorney General Michael C. Geraghty, the EPA is usurping permitting authority through a "watershed assessment" to lay the groundwork for a preemptive denial.

This power grab is jeopardizing $220 billion in yearly investments in projects relying on the nearly 66,000 Clean Water Act 404 permits granted each year — projects ranging from agriculture to manufacturing to resource extraction to infrastructure. That includes hundreds, if not thousands of projects that power Michigan's economy.

These actions will have an even more direct impact on Michigan's economy, for example, by increasing costs for its budding clean-tech sector. There are more than 200 wind and solar power companies in the state, employing more than 10,000 people. As in any manufacturing operation, the cost of raw materials has a big impact on the overall project viability — from the cost of labor to the profit realized from a finished product on the market.

The Pebble Mine in Alaska would likely be the largest copper mine in American history, and each industrial wind turbine requires about three tons of copper. By increasing the costs to access domestic mineral resources that underpin wind and solar technologies, the EPA is making it much harder for Michigan's clean-tech industry to do business, put people to work and help America transition to a more energy independent economy.

Without predictable U.S. resource supplies, Michigan's wind and solar companies will have to source these metals outside the U.S.

Obama has shown great effort to shore up the U.S. manufacturing sector, but he must work to align policies across his administration. A balanced policy approach that addresses the complexities of American manufacturing — starting with critical raw materials such as copper — will ensure a vigorous economic recovery.

McGroarty is the president of American Resources Policy Network, a non-partisan education and public policy research organization headquartered in Washington, D.C.

Thanks given for successful Racing For Kids to the Hill

To the Editor:

The race cars have left and the smoke has cleared, but the memory of the Sixth Annual Racing For Kids to the Hill will last a long time.

We would like to thank our many wonderful friends from the Hill Association, the city of Grosse Pointe Farms and the community at large, who pulled together to make it such a great event.

First of all, we would like to thank our Honorary Committee: Lynn and Paul Alandt; Fay and Larry Buhl; Elaine and Sam Bush; Shery and David Cotton, M.D.; Benson Ford, Jr.; Donna Hoban, M.D.; Sue and Dan Pienta; and Gretchen Valade.

Sincere thanks to our steering committee: co-chairs Ed Russell and Tom Buhl, and members Kristen Townsend Buisch, Julie Corbett, Dan Jensen, Dan LaLonde and Mary Wells who worked hard for more than a year to make sure all the details came together.

Next, we are most grateful to the gracious individuals at Northern Trust, who once again opened their doors to us and let us take advantage of their beautiful facility for our cocktail reception and auction.

We really appreciate the support of our sponsors — our winner's circle sponsor: Meridian Health Plan of Michigan; our grand sponsors: Northern Trust and the Grosse Pointe News; our pole position sponsors: which include Backer Landscaping, Beaumont Hospitals, Bodman Attorneys and Counselors, Henry Ford Medical Center, Huntington Bank, Firestone Racing, Kercheval Development Company/ Bologna Building Company, Legacy Wealth Management, Mutschler Kitchens, Russell Development and Wolverine Bronze; our front row sponsors: Dirty Dog Jazz Café, The Hill Association, Grosse Pointe Florists, Fergie's Rentals, Ferrari Club of America, Morgan Stanley Smith Barney, Pointe Capital Management and Woods Financial; and finally our finish line sponsors: include Chase Bank, Connell Building Company, Grosse Pointe Farms Department of Public Safety, Just Breathe, LaLonde Jewelers, The League Shop, Merrill Lynch, PIP Printing and Marketing Services, Pointe Alarm, Pointe Towing, Salon Seventy-Six, Scott Advertising, A Slice of Life Photography, Wayne County Community College, and Ralph Wilson Enterprises.

Their underwriting made this spectacular event possible and we are deeply grateful.

We were delighted to have the restaurants of the Hill come together again as our pit stop sponsors and to put on a gourmet feast: Café Bella, Café Nini, Dirty Dog Jazz Café, The Hill Seafood and Chop House, Jumps and Fresh Farms Market.

The city of Grosse Pointe Farms, which allowed us to close off the street for our street fair and reception was most supportive of our efforts, particularly the crew from the department of public works as well as Police Chief Dan Jensen and his excellent officers. They all did a great job.

We would also like to thank Panther Dreyer & Reinbold Racing for bringing IndyCar driver Oriol Servia and his race car, as well as the Indy Racing Experience for the unique IndyCar two-seater, which added to the excitement immensely.

Thanks also to the owners of the "dream cars" who brought their beautiful vehicles for display on the Hill.

Special thanks to Harry Kurtz and MRA for bringing Art Road and to Borg Warner for loaning us the exquisite "Baby Borg" — replica of the Indy 500 trophy for our centerpiece. Special thanks to Bob DuMouchelle, Crest Automotive Group, Benson Ford, Jr., the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, Dan LaLonde and LaLonde Jewelers, Jeff and Madeleine Swallow, Jane McFeeley, the Detroit Lions, Delta Airlines, the College for Creative Studies and the Dirty Dog Jazz Café for helping to make the live auction a terrific success.

And additional thanks to the many merchants on the Hill and in the Grosse Pointe community, who contributed some of their best merchandise to our most successful silent auction.

And finally, thanks to our dedicated volunteers, including some terrific young men from Boy Scouts as well as a team of volunteer workers from Auto Traders. It may sound like a cliché, but it's the truth — we couldn't have done it without you.

Thank you for helping us put smiles on the faces of hospitalized children in our community and across the country and helping them get better, faster.

The bar is high

To the Editor:

Cottage Hospital was founded some 80 years ago to serve the Grosse Pointes and surrounding communities. It has fulfilled that mission exceedingly well.

A group of fellow senior citizens and I have been referred by our various cardiologists to participate in a cardiac rehabilitation program sponsored by Cottage.

This program consisted of regular monitoring, blood pressure evaluations and exercise.

As survivors, we owe a lot to Cottage for our present stable condition. We were pleased when the nationally recognized Henry Ford Hospital took over at Cottage.

Since this takeover, we have become concerned by the actions of the unknown "bean counters" — certainly not physicians — at the headquarters who have reduced the fine staff of professional therapists, eliminated the warm up and exiting exercises and have altered our physicians' directions, calling for a minimum of three days a week to a twice-a-week plan.

Repeated attempts to resolve this issue have been ignored. It's too bad the needs of Grosse Pointers are being ignored by absentee landlords.

Check it out

To the Editor:

My message to readers of the Grosse Pointe News is this: If you plan to vote in the November election, I urge you to see the documentary "2016 Obama's America."

It is very thought provoking. In our area it is showing at the Star Gratiot and MJR Cinema. You can also find show times on the Internet by visiting "2016 Obama's America" and entering your ZIP code.

Remanufactured/rebuilt engines

To the Editor:

There are many car owners across the country who simply love the way their car looks, drives and feels, and they want to keep it forever.

When serious engine trouble strikes, installing a remanufactured/rebuilt engine is an ideal way to economically extend your vehicle's life so you can keep the "coolest" car around.

For the cost of an average down payment on a new car or truck, a vehicle's engine can be re-powered with a remanufactured/rebuilt engine, gaining years of reliable service without monthly car payments and higher insurance rates.

With repowering, a vehicle's engine or an identical one from another like-vehicle is completely disassembled, cleaned, machined and remanufactured/rebuilt. Unlike used or junk-yard engines with an unknown performance and maintenance history, remanufactured/rebuilt engines are dependable, reliable and backed by excellent warranty programs.

To learn more about the "cool" benefits of remanufactured/rebuilt engines, visit the Engine Builders Council at enginebuilder.org.

Grosse Pointe Woods' recent family camp out and movie night carried a Christmas theme. In keeping with the theme, the movie, "Elf," was shown and campsites sprouted holiday decorations. Michaela Nash and Lorelei Carr and Ava Carr joined a snowman for a "swim" in a pool filled with bubbles.

PUBLIC SAFETY REPORTS

Grosse Pointe Woods

Purse taken

A purse was taken from a 2012 Chrysler parked behind a restaurant on Mack at 4:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 30. Two witnesses told police a purple Dodge Intrepid pulled into the alley. One man exited, entered the Chrysler and left with a purse. The owner of the Chrysler told police the purse contained $50. The witnesses were able to give a license number to police, who determined the Intrepid was registered to a Taylor resident. They continue to investigate.

Burgers too?

An unknown suspect drove up to front of a store on Mack at 12:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 31, and loaded several bags of charcoal into the trunk. He then drove away without paying. A "be on the lookout" announcement went out for a black Chrysler 300 driven by an adult male with brown hair, as the suspect has apparently stolen from several stores in the past few weeks.

Tools taken

A crew working on the re-opening of a restaurant on Mack at 11 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 30 confronted an unknown suspect who was carrying an air compressor he had just removed from their truck. The suspect dropped the compressor and fled in a teal blue Pontiac Transport with windows covered in white plastic wrap. It was after the suspect fled that the crew noticed a $3,500 pipe threader was missing from the van.

Attempted fraud

A 32-year-old Detroit resident attempted to cash a fraudulent payroll check at 3:15 p.m. Monday, Aug. 27 at a bank on Mack, but the teller refused to cash the check and the suspect fled. Based on a description given to police by the teller, police found the suspect walking on Mack. He was arrested. A LEIN check showed he was wanted on several other charges, including probation and drug violations.

Tried to steal

A Stanhope resident leaving for work at 3 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 29, found damage to her car in what appeared to be an attempted car theft. While police were checking the area, they found another car had been damaged and had to wake the owner. Both owners said nothing was taken from their cars.

Phone found

A cell phone was found at Mack and Lochmoor and is being held at the Woods police station. The phone is password protected, so police are unable to trace the owner.

Porch collapse

A second-story balcony pulled away from a house on Somerset at 7:15 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 29. Four occupants were on the balcony at the time. Two adults were treated at the scene and transported to the hospital with non-life threatening injuries. The other two occupants escaped with minor cuts.

Theft arrest

A Middlesex resident called police at 12:15 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 2, after hearing noises coming from a backyard shed. Police found the suspect hiding in the backyard, armed with a crowbar, screwdriver and a flashlight. The suspect admitted to being a heroin addict and was attempting to steal property to support his addiction.

Home invasion

A house in the 1400 block of Three Mile was entered through an unlocked back door the morning of Saturday, Sept. 1. A laptop and jewelry were reported missing.

School's in session

While a broken power line at the top of the 'S' building delayed the start to Grosse Pointe South High School's school year another day, more than 6,000 students from the district's 13 other elementary, middle and high schools officially opened the 2012-2013 school year Tuesday, Sept. 4.

It's the district's 91st year.

Decision leaves unanswered questions

By A.J. Hakim

An unprecedented action from the Grosse Pointe Public School System Board of Education last week, though solidifying the board's stance against illegal residency, left several members' questions unanswered.

At its regular meeting (Aug. 27) the board approved, 4-2, establishing a tuition rate of $13,030 for students found in violation of the state's and district's residency requirements. Treasurer Brendan Walsh and vice president Lois Valente dissented and trustee Joan Dindoffer abstained from voting on the issue, which for the first time places an actual value on the tuition penalty sought in Policy 5111, the board's enrollment eligibility policy since 2005.

"There are a variety of legal issues that remain unanswered and leave uncertainty in my mind in reviewing the statutes and in reviewing (legal counsel) Mr. (Mark) McInerney's opinion," Dindoffer said.

Actualizing the tuition rate acts as an additional deterrent to families contemplating violating the policy. But among the concerns of Dindoffer and others is the district's ability to collect from those families and repercussions of collections regarding the State Foundation Allowance.

According to Chris Fenton, deputy superintendent of business affairs and operations, the district isn't authorized to charge a tuition penalty. Instead, it must file a complaint to the local municipality asking to press charges for perjury or other criminal offenses for a violator providing false information on the notarized affidavit, a document all new students have signed since 2005. Aside from tuition, other fees sought include

Six Foundation grants approved

By A.J. Hakim
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe Public School System approved $26,761 in grants and a directed gift from the Grosse Pointe Foundation for Public Education last week at its August regular meeting.

In all, six grants, recommended by the Foundation's grant committee, were approved and directly benefit Barnes Early Childhood Center, Ferry Elementary School, Kerby Elementary School, Grosse Pointe North High School and Richard Elementary School. Grants include:

- A Barnes peer-to-peer program, for $4,900 and submitted by Betty Lou Rowe and Dori Martinuzzi, pairs students from North, Grosse Pointe South High School, Parcels Middle School and Poupard and Maire elementary schools with specials needs students from Barnes.

"The goal of this program is to educate students about special needs students which will allow them to interact more naturally together," said Christie Scoggin, Foundation vice president.

- Barnes cozy corner, for $12,800 and submitted by Sue Banner and Kelly Vess, is an interactive sensory classroom area designed to aid in the development of students with Autism Spectrum Disorder, attention deficit disorder, sensory processing disorders, emotional regulatory difficulties and other such developmental disorders.

- Ferry and Richard F.A.S.T. Spelling pilot phase two, for $1,393 each and submitted by Gloria Hinz, Susan Moores, Christina Gill, Jenny Tyler and Claire Horn for Ferry and Mary MacDonald-Barrett and Beth Rainbolt for Richard. It's a continuation of the pilot program for first and second graders. F.A.S.T. Spelling uses a multisensory, phonetics-based approach to teach sound awareness, symbol imagery, letter patterns and word meaning.

- Kerby FISH! Philosophy, for $225 and submitted by Linda Brock, is a set of educational tools grounded in the philosophy of interconnectedness and building relationships. It'll be used in second grade.

"It's about community building, teaching self-responsibility, taking more ownership of the actions," said Maureen Bur, former Kerby principal.

- North school store, for $4,000 and submitted by Michelle Davis and Brian Levinson. The money is start-up funding for a school store entirely run by business class students.

"The three Rs of education have changed dramatically in relevance, relationship and rigor," said Tom Harwood, GPPSS Superintendent. "And one of the things we were impressed with with their proposal is it wasn't just a lecture within a business class, but actually a hands-on opportunity for students who actually put into play and take responsibility for the things they were learning in the classroom. So that relevance and that relationship of what they were learning was now having an opportunity, with the support of the foundation, to be carried out in real time, real world situation that would benefit that school."

The directed gift of $2,050, raised by auctioning student artworks at the Foundation's annual spring gala, benefits North's and South's art departments.

"We're pleased to have a great relationship with the Grosse Pointe Foundation for Public Education," Harwood said.

Since 2006, when the foundation received its 501(c)(3) status and began raising money to enhance education in the GPPSS, it has given more than $2 million in grants and directed gifts.

costs for investigation and educational costs.

But without prior precedent, the success of fee collections remains in question, as does whether or not the district benefits financially. Because still under investigation is, in adding a tuition penalty for those found violating residency, does it force the district into paying back all or a portion of the state per pupil funding received from the State Foundation Allowance?

For the 2012-2013 school year the district expects $7,374 per pupil from the allowance. While the state's approach to repayment is uncertain, in speaking with McNerney, the district's legal counsel, Fenton believes the deciding factor might be the determined date of a student's illegal residency. The state may require some payment, the amount of which, Fenton said, varies depending on the time of year — there are two count days a year.

"In making a determination in this regard, the District will need to balance all the benefits, including the chances of obtaining and collecting a judgment and the deterrence that might be achieved in pursuing collection activity against all of the costs," Fenton said via e-mail. "We will continue to remove students found to be illegal. We take this very seriously."

Setting a tuition rate was a consideration of the Residents for Residency, a community group made up of residents of the five Grosse Pointes whose primary goal is to ensure students attending district schools reside within district boundaries. They felt a need for more deterrents and more specific and stringent consequences to the district's policy.

Prior to last week's approval, Policy 5111 stated only that "the board may establish a higher tuition rate for those who are found to have enrolled or remained students in the District without any right to do so."

"The actual policy was approved by a past board and I would hope these questions and due diligence were done during that approval process," board president Judy Gafa said via e-mail. "If not, the current policy should be revisited."

Should the board revisit the policy, Gafa added, "any changes to our current practices have to be equitable, cost effective, efficient and work."

Administration is currently working on administrative guidelines, a second affidavit and other documentation supporting the board's policy.

Workshop educates parents in testing toys for toxins

Congressman Hansen Clarke and several former and current State Rep. candidates collaborated with LocalMotionGreen and the Ecology Center for an interactive workshop designed to test toys for toxins and educate parents and children about environmental health issues.

Held Saturday, July 21, at the Grosse Pointe Public Library Ewald Branch, parents brought in shoes, toys, clothes and other products for testing, many of which were found to contain safe levels.

Clarke (D — Detroit), candidates Alberta Tinsley-Talabi (2nd District), Tim Bledsoe (D — Grosse Pointe), Anthony Zander (2nd District) and Valerie Kindle (1st District) and Ecology Center President Gerald Ford Oct. 11, 1976. The act provides EPA authority to police reporting, record-keeping and testing requirements and restrictions relating to chemical substances and mixtures, excluding substances in food, drugs, cosmetics and pesticides.

Senate Bills 893 and 894, Safe Children's Products Act, would update the Act, requiring annual written statements, made available to the public, from manufacturers and distributors detailing chemicals of greatest concern present in their toys. Noncompliance would be punishable by civil fines up to $150,000.

The bills were referred to the Committee on Government Operations in January and have since been at a standstill.

Ode to our throwaway society

By Sarah Wolpov
Special Writer

I liked my light, aluminum beach chair, with the wooden armrests and canvas seat. It broke last summer.

Sometimes it seemed to scold, "Throw me out, you idiot! It's too expensive to have me fixed."

Other times it would say, "Fix me, you dimwit! My sturdy frame is fine. Are you going to landfill me because you can't replace a simple piece of fabric? Do you have any idea how much energy it takes to make aluminum?"

Well, I didn't, so I checked. More land surface is destroyed mining the primary ore from which aluminum is extracted — bauxite — than the mining of any other ore.

I did not want to landfill my chair. I wanted to honor it. By fixing my chair, I would honor the tree that was felled for the armrests, the wildlife whose habitat was blasted to mine the bauxite, the fish whose rivers were dammed to power the ore processors, and the child-laborer who stitched on the canvas.

Maybe I should just sit on a blanket, I thought. But no, I like my chair, and I will make my stand on the side of fixing it, though it was designed to be discarded.

The frame could not be disassembled. To fix it, the remnants must be cut off and hand-stitch new fabric in place with the whole chair gangling about in your lap.

I can't fix it, I concluded. I don't know which thread to use. I don't have the right needles. So, I asked, who can fix my chair?

"Not us," said the children, "you haven't taught us how to sew, and we are too busy with homework and sports."

"Not I," said the husband, "you're much better at sewing."

"Not I," said the sister, "unless you want to mail it to Illinois."

"Not I," said the father,

"I'm not a tailor."

"Not I," said the seamstress, "it's too much work and it will be too expensive."

What the seamstress really meant is it defies common sense to spend more money to fix something than it would cost to replace.

Who can fix my chair?

"I can fix it," said the mother, who grew up on a farm, sewed before she could read and makes her own clothes. "You come wash my windows and I will fix your chair."

I will not have to buy a new chair after all.

The price of new goods is steadily rising as the costs of energy soar and the costs to the Earth and to our health of making throwaway things becomes ever more apparent.

Soon, it will again be cost-effective to fix things. It will make sense to everyone.

Fortunately the people who know how to do it are still around. They are your parents, grandparents and elderly neighbors.

Enjoy the smiles on their faces when you ask them to show you how.

Wolpov is a columnist and lives in Brunswick, Maine.

Make the most of small bathrooms

Renovating bathrooms is commonly at the top of home improvement to-do lists. Though some rooms may remain timeless, bathrooms and kitchens show their age — and era — more easily.

Small bathrooms are common, particularly in older houses. They may be a half-bath on a main level or a full bath, depending on the house. By thinking creatively, homeowners can maximize their spaces and redo bathrooms in ways that bring out their best assets.

Here's now:

◆ When space is at a premium, it's best to look for fixtures and items that fit with the scale of the bathroom, such as pedestal sinks.

◆ Use optical illusions to make the bathroom appear more roomy. Lay tile diagonally to create the impression of space. A large mirror will reflect the room back and make it appear larger.

◆ Select lighter hues in paint colors and accessories. Dark paints and fixtures could make the room feel cramped. Dark colors are generally used to make spaces feel cozy. In a small bathroom, it may make the space feel claustrophobic. Instead, think light and bright and the room will instantly feel more airy.

◆ Minimize wall hangings and keep fixtures smaller. Filling the walls with knick-knacks may contribute to clutter and make the space appear closed in. Use decorative items sparingly.

◆ If possible, store towels in a closet outside of the bathroom.

◆ Look for a combined shower and bath, or select a walk-in shower.

◆ Cover a window in a shower stall to free up space. Install a venting fan to reduce moisture.

◆ Maximize wall space if you need storage. Find cabinets that will fit beneath windows or fit in thin areas between sinks and toilets. Over the toilet is prime area for cabinetry.

◆ Consider a frameless shower. This is a partitioned area of the bathroom that's set aside for the shower and is typically only cordoned off by a thin wall or piece of glass. Or a shower with no walls — the ultimate in space-saving. The entire bathroom floor is decked out in tile, and a portion is sloped toward a shower drain.

◆ Think about installing a skylight for natural light.

Thinking creatively can help turn a cramped bathroom into a space-saving and well-designed room homeowners desire.

A frameless shower can take up less space in a small bathroom.

Choosing a Qualified Caregiver

Over 70% of Grosse Pointers recovering from surgery, dealing with chronic illnesses or wanting to remain independent in their homes seek-out in-home care services. How do I know if I am receiving the best in-home care?

Quality home care is marked by three key factors: safety, comfort, and skill. Your caregiver should protect your safety by taking precautions against potential falls and other accidents in your home. Standard guidelines and checklists can help. They should also ensure your comfort in each caregiving task they complete whether it's preparing meals or providing personal care. Proficiency in their caregiving skills is essential to high quality care. The best companies have standard employee training programs.

Of course, you want the highest caliber of caregiver attending to your needs, so keep these factors in mind when interviewing in-home care providers. Be sure that the caregiver has gone through a screening process that ensures the above qualities in each applicant. Great caregivers are absorbed with providing excellent care, and go above and beyond by taking steps to prolong the well-being of the person entrusted with their care.

Before making decisions about your in-home care, consult with your loved ones to ensure that everyone is confident in your caregiver and their abilities. Submitted by GPBR Member, Thomas Gordon, SYNERGY HomeCare of Grosse Pointe (313) 794-9036.

Small spaces

Living large in a small house may simplify life, minimize costs and reduce environmental impact. These easy tips can help make rooms feel bigger and brighter.

- ◆ Open floor plans and furniture placement that leaves views open make the room feel bigger.
- ◆ Light colors on walls and furniture help small spaces feel large. Letting in natural light extends the feel of the room beyond its boundaries.
- ◆ Use tables and ottomans with hidden storage space to keep clutter out of sight. Clean spaces look bigger.
- ◆ Shelving units maximize wall space for storage. Fill clear containers with seasonal clothing and items and slide them under couches and beds.

Little Rio dazzles and performs

Korean automaker Kia describes the exterior of the 2012 Rio in terms of “hunkered down” and “muscular.”

Well, a bit of hyperbole doesn't hurt. And the positive reactions of passers-by to the redesigned Rio tells us its looks — though not terribly muscular — has lots of appeal. We suspect the red paint job on the test five-door hatchback was largely to blame for the enthusiastic response.

The Rio, which goes up against subcompacts such as Ford Fiesta, Mazda2, Hyundai Accent and Nissan Versa, had a serious update for 2012 which transformed it from a ho-hum econobox into a ready-to-pounce and stylish five-seater.

The 2012 model was designed at Kia's Irvine, Calif., studios. It is available in LX, EX and SX trim levels and two body styles: four-door sedan and five-door hatchback. All are powered by the gasoline direct-injection 138-horsepower 1.6-liter four which Kia shares with Hyundai. Our Rio EX five-door had a window sticker promising 30 miles per gallon city and 40 highway.

The new 1.6-liter engine has an aluminum valve cover and block. Estimated annual fuel cost for the Kia with automatic driven 15,000 miles and using gas priced at $3.70 per gallon is $1,682. A six-speed manual transmission is available only on the LX model, Kia says.

The five-door Rio EX had a list of $16,500; the test car also had a $1,000 convenience package plus $95 carpeted floor mats.

The EX, then, comes with the six-speed automatic, antilock brakes, traction control, electronic stability control, vehicle stability management and hill assist control.

Air conditioning, power windows and door locks, cruise control and Bluetooth wireless connectivity are standard.

Safety features such as front seat-mounted side air bags and side curtain air bags are standard. However, a spare or temporary spare tire is not. Instead you get a tire repair kit. There is a well for an optional spare.

The $1,000 option pack-

Kia's Irvine, Calif., studios produced the design for the 2012 Rio, which is built in South Korea.

Cargo space increases as the backs of the rear seats are folded forward.

age added alloy wheels, front fog lights, automatic on/off headlights, outside mirrors with turn signals, power folding outside mirrors, rear camera display, dual map lights and a soft-touch instrument panel. There were steering wheel-mounted controls. The rear camera display is on a tiny screen in the center of the instrument panel — small but completely visible and helpful.

The 2012 Rio SX has 17-inch wheels and a sport-tuned suspension. Leather seats are available in the premium package that also includes a navigation system, heated front seats and a power sunroof. The SX starts at $17,700 for the five-door body style.

Inside the Rio, we found the front seats comfortable; they are manually adjustable. And everything is within reach in this subcompact.

The outboard rear seats are acceptable — plenty of headroom — but ankle and foot room is comparable to that in economy class on an overseas plane.

The split-folding rear seat backs increase the cargo-carrying capacity of the subcompact. The backs, when folded forward, are not completely flat or flush with the floor of the cargo area.

Rio prices start at $13,400 for the LX sedan and $13,800 for the LX hatchback.

6A II | AUTOMOTIVE

TEST DRIVE By Greg Zyla

2012 Toyota Prius III

We recently drove Toyota's 2012 Prius

Three, the electric hybrid that continues to sell very well — base price: $24,050; price as tested: $26,374.

Currently, Prius models are receiving "second looks" from consumers who are aware the price of gasoline could reach $5 per gallon.

For 2012, Prius outwardly receives some minor tweaks featuring a freshened front fascia, nicer wheel covers, upgraded interior amenities and new rear tail lamps.

The Prius mechanical nucleus is Toyota's Hybrid Synergy Drive system, a "gas engine-electric motor union" that features a full electric mode for driving less than 30 mph. There's also an ECO mode that combines the power of the gas engine and electric motor while minimizing fuel consumption by reducing the throttle opening and restricting the air conditioning. A "power" button allows full engine capability, but I recommend leaving the mode switch in ECO as this will automatically actuate to full power and then switch back to economical ECO mode with less throttle input.

2012 Prius III

Under the hood sits Toyota's proven 1.8-liter 96-horse internal combustion 4-cylinder engine that unites with the 80-horse electric motor resulting in a net Hybrid power system of 134 horsepower.

As for acceleration, expect to see 60 mph in nine seconds. Transferring power to the ground is a continuously variable transmission that delivers infinite gear ratios and works impeccably.

Inside, you'll find more standard features for 2012 in the Prius Three model, most notably a previous near $2,000 option navigation package that adds rear backup camera, touch screen DVD Navigation, AM/FM/CD with MP3/WMA playback, eight speakers, Sirius XM radio with NAV traffic and 3-month free trial, HD terrestrial radio with iTunes, USB port, iPod, Entune that includes Bing and Pandora; real-time info including traffic, weather, fuel prices, sports and stocks. Apps available spring 2012 at no charge include iHeartRadio, MovieTickets.com and OpenTable. Access to Entune is complimentary for three years.

Inside, there's a good amount of room and cargo space for the average Prius owner, considering its small car classification. Seating is comfortable, and the dashboard highlights all of the electric-gas power distribution on a seven-inch touch-panel display monitor.

Prius also features standard items such as 15-inch tires, air conditioning, XM Radio, 3-door remote keyless entry, push button start, steering wheel controls, tilt and telescopic, rear wiper and defogger, 4-wheel disc brakes with ABS, electronic brakeforce, brake assist, overhead and center consoles, advanced air bag system and all the powers. Our tester had only one option, a cargo net for $49 which pushed the final tally to $26,374, including $760 destination.

Important numbers include a wheelbase of 106.3-inches, (the larger Five is 109.4 inches) 11.9-gallon fuel tank, 3,042-pound curb weight, and 21.6 cubic-feet of cargo space.

Toyota and every other manufacturer is diligently working on Compressed Natural Gas powered vehicles, as a move to this fuel, currently selling for $1.39 a gallon, must be a major push in our car building future. Insiders feel that in a three-to-five year span, thousands of CNG filling stations will be installed across the country, while a current gas to CNG conversion kit will cost in the range of $1,250.

Likes: Fuel economy, return on investment, proven technology.

Dislikes: Ride can be bumpy at times, rear visibility.

2013 Mazda CX-5 Grand Touring

We drove Mazda's all-new 2013 CX-5 Grand

Touring, a compact crossover delivered to us with Active Torque Split all-wheel-drive and roomy five-passenger seating — base price: $28,295; price as tested: $30,415.

Mazda's marketing of its new crossover centers on CX-5's versatility, all-weather capability, spaciousness and advanced features. It also boasts the best highway miles per gallon of any SUV in America. To make this possible, Mazda relies on its Skyactiv Technology, which finds all components working in harmony via high tech engineering.

The new CX-5 is Mazda's best compact crossover effort to date. Notable is CX-5's entry level front-drive Sport, which is the same vehicle less the bells and whistles for $20,995 with a six-speed manual. For $22,095, you'll receive the Skyactiv six-speed automatic with a shift gate that has favored forward to downshift and back to upshift sequencing.

If you want the AWD Sport, it goes for $23,345, giving the consumer a range of prices and models to choose from. There is also a mid-level Touring model that starts at $23,895 for the six-speed manual.

If there is an Achilles heel to the CX-5, it is the lack of an optional engine. The only motivation available is the aforementioned high-tech Skyactiv 2.0 liter 13-1 compression four-cylinder that pumps out 155 horses at 1500-pound-feet of torque. It's the highest compression motor available today, assuring combusting every ounce of gasoline.

On the flip side is Mazda's excellent fuel mileage, as 25 city and 31 highway are great numbers for an AWD. If you choose the front-drive with a manual, expect 26 city and 35 highway.

Underneath an all-new unibody construction features a fully independent front and rear suspension with front and rear stabilizer bars. The result is a nimble, lightweight and fun-to-drive vehicle that is easy to park and a pleasure on the open highway. Overall, it is a highly capable handler, albeit a bit underpowered.

Standard features, even on the entry level Sport, are many, but when you select the top line Touring models more amenities come your way. Included are power sunroof, blind spot monitoring, Bluetooth, Sirius/Bose stereo AM/FM/CD, Halogen headlights, 5.8-inch display with rear back-up safety camera, 19-inch tires on alloy wheels, dual zone air, 20/40/20 rear split seat, leather trim, power driver seat with lumbar, heated seats and much more.

Important numbers include a wheelbase of 106.2 inches, 3,426-pound curb weight, 15.3-gallon fuel tank and 34.1 to 65.4 cubic feet of cargo space and 2,000-pound tow capacity.

Likes: Design, roominess, standard amenities, safety, handling.

Dislikes: No optional engine, expensive option packages, towing questionable.

In the category of 'what are they doing now,' Julie Upmeyer has lived abroad for years helping artists find spaces in which to be creative.

On the verge of change

By Ann L. Fouty
Features Editor

Julie Upmeyer is working on a big neighborhood art project with her friend and business partner, Anne Weshinsky, formerly of Chicago.

With a multitude of their artist friends, the exhibit is to show how their piece of the city is on the verge of change — again.

Upmeyer, a Grosse Pointe South High School graduate, does not live in a local neighborhood. For the past six years, she has been living on the European side of Istanbul, Turkey.

"People are not that different," she said on a hot August day.

Upmeyer was sitting on a couch in her parents' City of Grosse Pointe house dressed in a light gray sweater, burgundy skirt and navy blue T-shirt talking about the Turks and the amalgamation of her friends and associates. She came home for a six-week visit and to indulge in a Michigan summer. She returns to Grosse Pointe every 15 months because, she said, she enjoys Michigan's seasons.

"Living in Istanbul is not that different than living in Chicago, so many things are the same. We go to the store, we cook dinner. But I like being close to Europe, the mix of friends from all over the world. It's normal having many friends of different nationalities."

Upmeyer, who graduated from high school in 1998 and from Grand Valley State University in 2003 with a bachelor's degree in fine arts, worked for the Art

Train for 10 years. She has lived in Berlin, New Delhi, Amsterdam and Athens, both pursuing her own interactive art of food and encouraging other artists with art space.

For example, a teacher on sabbatical or an artist with a large art project to complete can devote an extended amount of time to completing a project in a space devoted specifically to their needs at

Julie Upmeyer returns to the City of Grosse Pointe every 15 months to visit her parents in the City of Grosse Pointe and enjoy Michigan's various seasons.

Caravansarai.

The use of the word "Caravansarai" was a deliberate choice, she said, an old world word. Camel caravans traversing the Silk Road would stop in villages and enjoy three free days of lodging. During their stay,

Upmeyer related, those in the caravans would share stories and experiences. Upmeyer's building is much the same. Visual artists, filmmakers, musicians, circus performers, architects, choreographers, writers and curators gather to expose and enhance their crafts. The site offers artists space and a place for artistic exchange and conversation. Upmeyer followed this path because she was interested in how artists and the community homogenize.

As the director, she runs both the residency and space for artists from all over the world. With those artists and some whom are invited, the coming show highlights what type of people are coming and buying the wares offered in the district.

Located in a hardware district where everything from home repair items to renovation materials are sold, Upmeyer predicts the venue will be gone in five years. This is much like how the area, steeped in history, has gone. Once a major seaport, it has also been the heart of the banking and financial center, she said.

"Now there are hundreds of small businesses, anything needed to renovate the house. As an artist I'm infatuated with the system and stuff. The way things come and go.

The terrace of the six-story building in the Karikoy area of Istanbul Upmeyer uses as an artist space located near an old shipping port and in the city's former financial district. It is now in the heart of a small business district. In the background is the former Ottoman Bank building which has been renovated as an art space.

What kinds of people are coming and buying," Upmeyer said.

It's a labor of creative documentation.

The exhibit is much like the work she did in an amusement park about to be torn down.

Upmeyer transformed a grassy area and turned it into Julie's Jungle after answering her own question — people go there to have a good time.

She created an interactive place in which people could, pass through and lose the city in a jungle-type setting.

"It was about a special location and meaning and what viewers think or do, more of an experience," she said.

The class is at the Provencal-Weir House, 376 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Isabelle Donnelly, the society's education director, offers this cooking project based on a recipe from early 20th century. Children also will learn the old fashioned way to make whipped cream.

Recreation

While art is her career, swimming is an extension of who she was in high school and college and how opportunity is always there.

Upmeyer swam in high school and college and retired from swimming professionally for Grand Valley 10 years ago.

"I haven't raced since then," she said.

Four to five mornings a week, to keep in shape and hang out with friends, Upmeyer takes to the pool near her apartment.

When the chance to race 6.5 kilometers across the Straits of Bosphorus in the Bosphorus Cross-Continental race came up, she decided the timing was right.

With 1,200 other swimmers, Upmeyer swam the distance in 48 minutes and 23 seconds in July. She won her age group, women 30 to 39, and placed fourth overall in the 24th annual event which ends on the European side of the strait.

"I always wanted to swim it, but the timing was never right," she said. "I wanted to try open water swimming, as I've never done it before."

Completing a major open-water swimming event and installing a major art exhibit, what's next.

"I may have jobs in eastern Europe, the Balkans. Things are starting and there are opportunities. I leave myself open."

PASTOR'S CORNER By Rev. Fred Harms

Encourage the discouraged

Many times encouragement comes through affliction. We would rather not have any challenging hardships but it is often in the difficulties we find growth, insight and a new purpose and vision.

There was a very attractive Christian girl in India who was about to be married, however, sores appeared on her hands, and it was discovered she had leprosy. Now she would have to be sent to the leper asylum.

As she walked with her brother into that awful place where dirt and filth were everywhere and faces were affixed with sadness and gazes of hopelessness, she wept on her brother's shoulder.

"My God," she said, "is this my plight also?"

The missionaries sympathized with her and asked her if she would like to be a help to those poor women. A ray of hope came to her and she caught the vision. She started a school, teaching the women to sing, read and write. She could play the organ so the missionaries bought her a folding organ. She was now able to fill the whole space with beautiful music. With her encouragement, the place was made neat and clean. The women washed their clothes and combed their hair; and that dismal place became a place of blessing.

After being there for some time, she said, "When I first came to the leper asylum, I doubted that there was a God. Now I know that God had work for me to do and if I had not become a leper, I never would have discovered my work.

Every day I live, I thank God for having sent me here and that God has given me this work to do."

Sometimes when afflictions strike and severe discouragement confronts us, we are prone to exclaim, "Woe is me" and bemoan our sorrowful fate. We can forget that God has the power to transform tribulation, tragedy and testing into triumph.

This is what God did for all of us in the cross of Jesus Christ. Discipleship means participating in every aspect of the call, the miraculous as well as the dangerous in which one literally loses one's life for the sake of the gospel.

The Apostle Paul, writing to the Romans, once said, "Rejoice in your hope in Christ, be patient in suffering, be constant in prayer." (Romans 12:12). There is always something that can be done regardless of the darkness of the day.

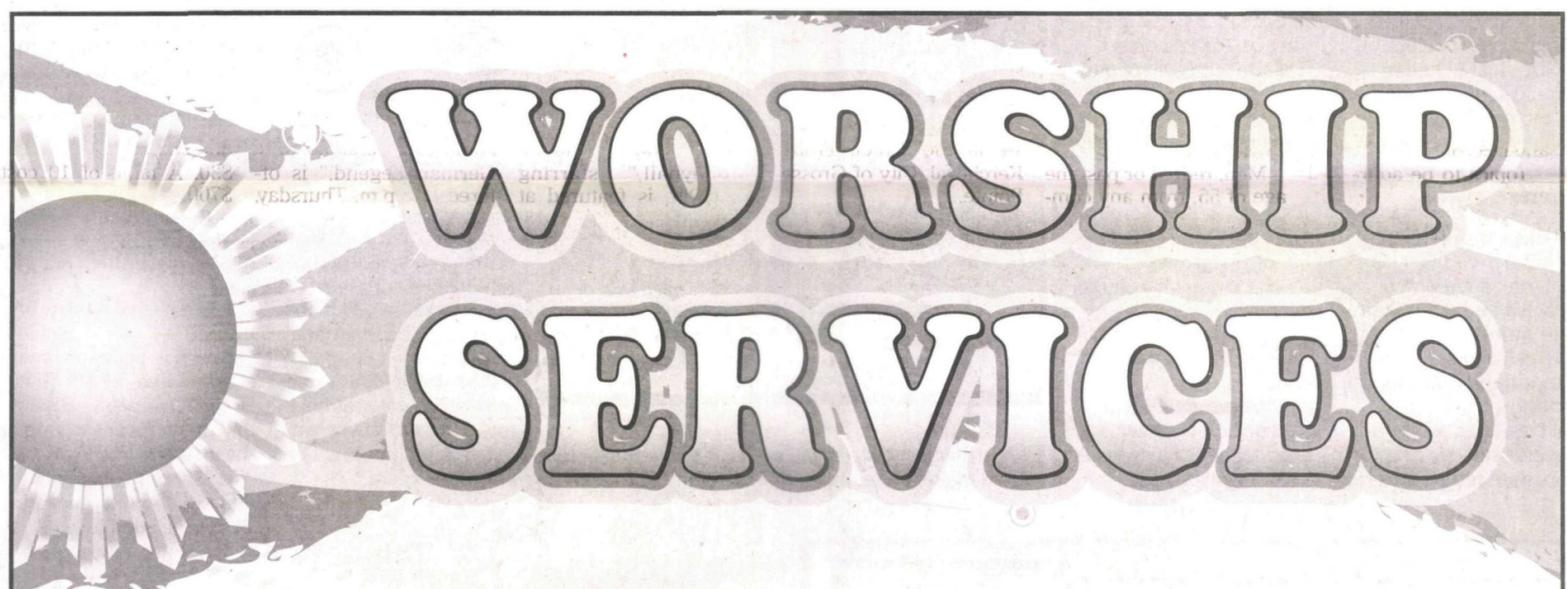

Encourage the discouraged.
Harms is senior pastor at St. Paul Lutheran Church, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Festival gives lively treatment to 'Pirates'

In a welcome revival of one of Stratford's great past successes, the Festival is celebrating its 60th season with a new production of Gilbert and Sullivan's perennial hit, "The Pirates of Penzance." While it may not bear close comparison to past productions, the G&S original shines through as indestructible. True to its tradition, the festival gives this Victorian operatic spoof a lively treatment although some touches in the staging seem to miss the spirit of the Victorian spoof. Lyricist William Gilbert's practice of skewering an occasional public figure or popular issue in his clever patter songs has given rise to updates in revivals. There is just one here but instead of a take-off it amounts to an acknowledgement that this is the Festival's 60th anniversary season. The pirate ship set also seems to miss the boat. A massive scaffold structure hung with heavy ropes that crew members slide down apparently from the cross trees to the deck is not convincing as frigate rigging. Otherwise the merriment of the satire on Victorian values comes across delightfully in the company's expert rendition of the show's original book and music. In Pirates the title character roles, a crew of 10, are unusual examples of their trade. All orphans, they live by gentlemanly values. It compromises their piratical trade but makes this chorus of handsome scoundrels highly appealing to the gaggle of girls who stumble onto the beachside hideout of the pirate gang. The pirate that stands out is Kyle Blair as Frederick whose vibrant tenor highlights a first rate performance. He discovers there are prettier, younger girls than Gabrielle Jones, as Ruth his former nursemaid. Having mistakenly apprenticed him to the pirates, she has been counting on a lifetime attachment and is dismayed when through a paradoxical fluke, he announces his resignation from the crew. Her last vain effort to hang on to him is an amusing but mystifying gimmick when she rises from the sea in an old fashioned dive suit, helmet and all. Performing the role of a spurned woman a couple of decades Frederick's senior, Gabrielle Jones wins audience sympathy in her efforts but so does Blair's Frederick when his plea for a sweetheart his own age gets a response from the maiden Mabel in the gaggle of girls. As Major General Stanley the father of the girls who does not want to lose his daughters, C. David Johnson delivers the role's famous song with the show's one fully contemporary touch, acknowledging the anniversary. It comes off as a pale example of that tradition and brings little relief from an otherwise casual rendition of his famous self description as a model Major General. In the colorful costume of the Pirate King, Sean Arbuckle looks the part and plays the role with style but could benefit by a little more swagger. That touch is more evident in Steve Ross' Constable Sargeant and his team of policemen as they sing and dance their constabulary number dressed in kilts. One amusing touch they bring is the surprising revelation of what those Scottish officers wear underneath. The humor and charm of this enduring entertainment comes through even though it does not quite match the witty staging of the Festival's past productions. Yet dyed-in-the-wool G&S fans will end the evening with chuckles as they savor once again the mischievous innocence of this unique musical satire. "The Pirates of Penzance" is presented in repertory at the Avon Theatre through Oct. 27. For reservations and more information visit stratfordshakespearefestival.com or call 800-567-1600.

Simple year 'round flavor

When I catch a simple "recipe" that is over the top good I just have to pass it along. Grilled avocado bread (pulled straight from Bon Appetit) looked so fresh and delicious that I had to try it. It is so good that I have prepared it several times in the past few weeks, most recently with a loaf of Italian bread sent to me by Joey Crocitto, direct from a bakery in the Bronx, N.Y.

Grilled Avocado Bread

4 slices round rustic Italian bread
1 large garlic clove, peeled and cut in half (or more)
2 fresh avocados, peeled and slightly mashed (or more) extra virgin olive oil coarse salt crushed red pepper (optional)

Grill the sliced bread over a hot grill (on both sides) until toasted. Rub toast with cut side of garlic.
Spread mashed avocado over toasted bread. Drizzle with a bit of olive oil.
Sprinkle some coarse salt and crushed red pepper over top.
That's it. Serve as an appetizer, side or light lunch on its own.
If you don't like garlic, skip it.
If you don't have a grill, toast the bread in the oven.
This summer flavor can be enjoyed year 'round thanks to the ever pleasing avocado.

X-TRA SPECIAL ADVICE By Mary Beth Langan and Theodore G. Coutilish

Slowing down can be rewarding

Ted attended his Grosse Pointe North High School Class of 1982 reunion at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club Aug. 4. Several classmates commented how they miss this column and encouraged him to keep writing.

One classmate, Barb Haug, said she was inspired.

While attending the 13th annual International Fragile X Conference in Miami in late July, we heard from others who echoed these sentiments.

So, without delay, here is that next column, our 100th.

At the conference, Ted interviewed 37 parents, grandparents, siblings and those affected by Fragile X Syndrome on camera. Here are the most-often repeated comments:

◆ Children with Fragile X Syndrome, similar to most children with special needs, force us parents to slow down and experience the simpler things in life. We are all so busy with work, life and responsibilities we often miss life's simplest pleasures. In our lives, that translates to a leisurely stroll along the Detroit RiverWalk, including trips up and down the escalators inside the Renaissance Center, visiting Grandpa at Sunrise, a walk along the winding path to the lighthouse on Detroit's Belle Isle or around the Detroit Zoo.

◆ Hope is powerful, building and what we cling to like oxygen. With human medication trials well under way, we believe there will be a cure soon or, at the very least, more focused, advanced treatment. We believe tomorrow will be more positive than today. We expect a better future for our children. And we will never stop advocating for them. Never.

◆ Family means everything. Parents need the support and encouragement from family members — close and extended — and friends. Continue to give it to them. Small gestures are welcomed and appreciated. Big gestures are also appreciated. As in when one of our sitters became sick while we were in Miami and Mary Beth's sister, Anne Marie Langan, dropped everything in her life and stepped in for the last 36 hours while we were away. Very appreciated!

◆ We are not alone. There are countless families going through similar challenges, struggles and issues. Our bonds are strong. Though the Fragile X spectrum is wide, our journeys are parallel. Being a member of the international Fragile X family is an emotional bond for which many are thankful. Sharing our feelings is helpful, even cathartic. About three of every four parents cried on camera over three days of videotaping. Those behind the camera shed tears too, even the videographer who had no ties to Fragile X.

◆ Siblings love their brothers and sisters affected by Fragile X for who they are, don't want them to be any different, are fiercely loyal and protective, and care deeply. They are accepting and have an unwavering appreciation for the things their brothers and sisters can do, not all of the things they cannot do.

During the conference, we were awarded the Halstead-Bresnahan Family Award for dedicated and generous efforts on behalf of the National Fragile X Foundation and the Fragile X community. We were surprised, honored and humbled all at once. Thank you to the National Fragile X Foundation and all those who believe in us and in what we are doing.

Know we will continue to work harder to slow down more and never stop advocating for our son and for all people with special needs.

Never.

ASK THE EXPERTS By Ed Lazar

Be a responsible host

Q. Are parents responsible for the consequences of underage drinking in their home? If so, how serious are those consequences?

A. Kids love to celebrate. Whether at a family graduation party or a spontaneous late night get together, some kids celebrate with alcohol. What's worse, 65 percent of kids under age 21 who say they drink admit they get alcohol from family and friends. That means they get it from their parents, their friends' parents, or older siblings. Make no mistake about this: If you provide alcohol, directly or indirectly, to someone under the legal drinking age you can be held responsible for what happens after they have consumed it.

Even when children are old enough to be held liable for their actions, their parents can still be held equally responsible and subject to severe and permanent consequences. Those consequences can be punitive, civil, or even criminal.

It does not matter what you did when you were younger or what you think your personal privacy entitles you to do.

While there is a perception that it is "safer" if minors are consuming alcohol under the "supervision" of an adult, it is still illegal and can have serious and dangerous consequences. Minors can leave your home, drive under the influence, and get into a serious car accident. There is a serious risk for alcohol poisoning, especially when youth are involved with binge drinking.

Zero tolerance for providing alcohol to anyone under 21 at any time in any place is the only safe way to live under the laws of this country.

Don't worry about being a buddy, be a parent. If you leave your children on their own, give them some back up with neighbors or close-by family or don't leave them. It will be a hard and unpopular position, but not as hard as standing by a hospital bed or a gravesite.

St. John re-accredited as chest pain center

Heart attacks are the leading cause of death in the United States, with 600,000 people dying annually of heart disease. More than five million Americans visit hospitals each year with chest pain. When these patients come to St. John Hospital, they are treated by the hospital's re-accredited staff at the hospital's chest pain center.

The re-accreditation comes after a thorough review of the hospital's procedures to reduce time to treatment during the critical early stages of a heart attack, when treatments are most effective, and its procedures to monitor patients when it is not clear whether or not they are having a coronary event.

Such observation helps ensure patients are neither sent home too early nor needlessly admitted.

The Society of Chest Pain Centers has deemed St. John Hospital has again demonstrated the following:

- ◆ Integrating the emergency department with the local emergency medical system,
- ◆ Assessing, diagnosing, and treating patients quickly,
- ◆ Effectively treating patients with low risk for acute coronary syndrome and no assignable cause for their symptoms,

- ◆ Continually seeking to improve processes and procedures,

- ◆ Ensuring the competence and training of Accredited Chest Pain Center personnel,

- ◆ Maintaining organizational structure and commitment,

- ◆ Having a functional design that promotes optimal patient care,

- ◆ Supporting community outreach programs that educate the public to promptly seek medical care if they display symptoms of a possible heart attack.

The new bleachers at Grosse Pointe High School's athletic field are practically complete. Work on the press booth is all that remains to be finished. The stands, which stretch from goal line to goal line, have a capacity of more than 2,000 spectators. They are a long overdue replacement for the wooden portable bleachers which have been considered a safety hazard for many years. The 10-row stands are of steel construction permanently mounted on concrete foundations. The first row is sufficiently elevated so spectators seated there will enjoy an unobstructed view of the field at all times.

South able to best North, Liggett

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's boys' tennis team battled city foes University Liggett and Grosse Pointe North on back-to-back afternoons last week.

After 16 hard-fought matches, South prevailed 6-2 over Liggett and 6-2 over North.

"We had a couple of great days of tennis and it's nice to play such competitive matches with our friends at Liggett and North," South head coach John Willard said. "They were close and several could have gone either way."

"Our kids played hard and pulled out some nice wins."

Against the Knights, Nick Paolucci beat Garrett Mallires 6-0, 6-0, but Philip Pierce came back for the Knights to beat Colden Gosselin in three sets.

Alec Petitpren of Liggett defeated Brendan Clune 6-3, 6-5, but Nick Costakis beat Patrick Diaz 7-5, 6-2 to even the singles matches 2-2.

The Blue Devils won all four doubles matches with David Wittwer and Michael Schaller beating Neil Sekhon and James Jurcak 7-5, 7-6 at No. 1 doubles. This match could have gone the Knights' way if a few points went the other way.

Victor Flynn and Patrick Dietz beat Alan Jurcak and August Bonacci 6-1, 6-1 at No. 2 doubles, and the No. 3 doubles squad of Stephen VanWallegghem and Isaac Piecuch defeated J.T. Mestdagh and Jeff Shell 6-1, 6-0.

In the final doubles match, Brian LHeureux and William Norris beat Vijay Policherla and Steven Kneiser 3-6, 6-2, 6-3. This was another tough loss for the Knights. A win could have forced a 4-4 tie.

"Our kids played pretty well and we had a couple of opportunities to win," Liggett head coach Drew Mascarin said. "We're getting closer to South, but just not there, yet."

South had another tough time against North. Even though it won six matches, most were hard fought, including the main attraction, the No. 1 singles battle Paolucci won over Bryan Butts, 6-0, 6-2.

The score was misleading because both players were hitting rockets at each other and most games were prolonged.

Costakis, at No. 4 singles, beat Tom Vismara 6-1, 6-0, but North's Bobby Mulpuri and Matthew Kain prevailed in lengthy three-set matches. Mulpuri beat Gosselin 6-3, 2-6, 7-6 at No. 2 singles, and Kain won 7-5, 4-6, 7-5 in a match lasting 3 1/2 hours at No. 3 singles.

At No. 1 doubles, South's Wittwer and Schaller won 6-4, 7-5 over Nick Cusmano and Jake Zacharias. This was another tough loss for the Norsemen.

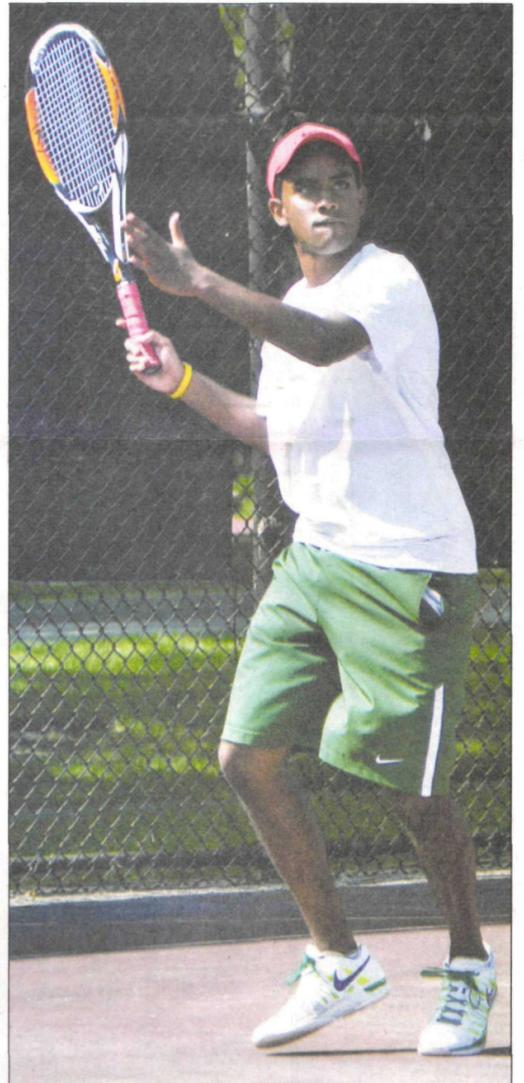

"I'm proud of our kids," North head coach John VanAlst said. "They played with a lot of poise today and that is what we're trying to teach. We lost, but played better."

At No. 2 doubles, Flynn and Dietz beat Jeremy Harr and Connor Olzem 6-2, 6-1, and VanWallegghem and Piecuch defeated Garrett Freismuth and Joe Andreolli 6-1, 6-4.

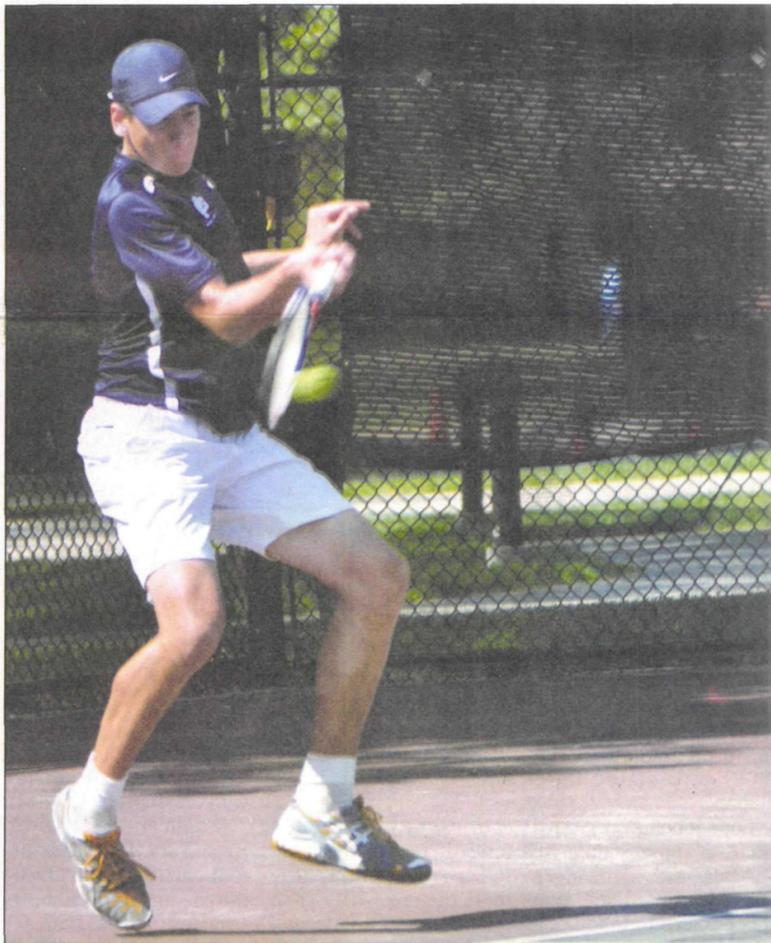

LHeureux and Norris prevailed at No. 4 doubles, beating Josh Champney and Tom Raffail 6-3, 6-4.

In other matches last week, South lost 8-0 to Ann Arbor Huron and beat Eastpointe East Detroit 8-0, standing at 4-1 overall.

North also played two matches, beating Warren Cousino 5-3 and East Detroit 7-1, improving to 3-1 overall; Liggett is 2-1 after the loss to South and a 7-1 win over St. Clair.

North's Bobby Mulpuri eyes this return in his No. 2 singles win over South's Colden Gosselin.

South's Nicholas Paolucci won his matches against the No. 1 singles players from North, Bryan Butts, and Liggett, Garrett Mallires.

City foes battle to draw

By Bob St. John

For the better part of the second half, host University Liggett's girls' field hockey team took the play right at city rival Grosse Pointe South.

The Blue Devils scored first when senior Lindsey Mestdagh tallied.

The Knights tied it at the end of the opening half when junior Jacqueline Diggs scored on a penalty shot.

"Penalty shots are pretty rare in field hockey, but we will take it," Liggett head coach Tamara Fobare said.

The Knights had several scoring chances and several corners in the second half, but couldn't score.

During a two minute interval late in the second half, both teams came inches from scoring, but shots sailed just wide or were blocked.

"We're playing more as a team and passing a lot better," Fobare said. "We had our chances to win this game, but couldn't convert those chances into goals."

"The girls did a nice job against a Division I team."

The game ended in a 1-1 tie as both Liggett and Grosse Pointe South stand 1-0-1 overall.

GROSSE POINTE NORTH

Record-setting run, defense lead way

By John McTaggart
Special Writer

For the second time in as many tries, the Grosse Pointe North football squad's defense blanked its opponent.

This time, it was Macomb Area Conference Blue foe L'Anse Creuse, 28-0.

"We bent a little bit, but we didn't break," North head coach Frank Sumbera said of the team's defensive effort. "When they (L'Anse Creuse) got it down inside the 15-yard line, they really buckled it up. This defense really played solid."

North's (2-0, 1-0 MAC Blue) defense entered the Friday night contest against L'Anse Creuse on the heels of a 35-0 performance to open the 2012 campaign and continued this momentum against a Lancers squad that scored 33 points in its season-opening victory over Anchor Bay.

A goal-line stand on fourth-and-inches in the second quarter seemed to fire up the Norsemen defensive unit that finished the night holding L'Anse Creuse to 196 yards of total offense.

"Our defense is our strength," Sumbera said. "Our secondary is all over it, we've got good hitters, and we got some turnovers tonight."

The Norsemen defense forced four Lancers' turnovers in the victory.

"Our defense takes a lot of pressure off the offense," junior running back Tod Long said. "It proves to us that our defense wants to win, and I feel like we (the offense) need to give them something on offense to help them too."

Long gave plenty to the defense Friday night, rushing for 196 yards on 13 carries and two touchdowns, including a school-record-setting 95-yard run for a score late in the third quarter.

"It was really good blocking. My fullback (Martice Dunlap) blocked really well for me and once I got past him my wide receiver, Jack Guest, had a really good block for me," Long said. "After that I took it to the outside and got a touchdown."

"He popped it," Sumbera said of Long's historic rush. "No matter where he is, he can bust it. He's got the speed and he's a tough runner. It looked like they had him a couple of times there, but he got through them. He's an excellent, excellent running back."

Long's touchdown pushed the North lead to 14-0.

Long's second touchdown run of the contest may not have been as long as the first, but it was a 60-yard rush filled with excitement, as the junior shed would-be tacklers en route to the end zone, giving his Norsemen a 21-0 cushion with 3:37 remaining.

"I don't know how many guys there were," Long said with a smile. "Some of my friends told me I had three or four guys on me and I broke all of them. And just took it. I'm not really sure though."

North signal-caller, Sean McHale, sealed the victory with a 56-yard bootleg play for a touchdown — a play that wasn't supposed to be, according to Sumbera.

North opened the scoring with a touchdown pass from McHale to Robert Tillman in the second quarter. The 47-yard strike put North up, 7-0. It was a score that would hold through the opening half of play.

"I think we can be an incredible team this year," Long said. "I think we can go all the way if we keep working hard and playing like this."

Next up for North is a game at L'Anse Creuse North Sept. 7.

Blue Devils extended to overtime in victory

South senior Renell Perkins hits the outside en route to the end zone and the winning touchdown.

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

It wasn't pretty, but after more than three hours of football, Grosse Pointe South prevailed, 28-27 in overtime over L'Anse Creuse North.

"It is a relief," head coach Tim Brandon said. "We didn't play well enough to win, but the kids showed some guts and came through in the end to win it."

Senior running back Renell Perkins ran two yards for a touchdown in overtime and senior Liam McLroy kicked the extra point, giving the host Blue Devils a 28-21 lead.

The Crusaders benefited from a pass interference call to score a touchdown on their overtime possession.

However, instead of attempting to tie the game and send it to a second overtime by kicking the extra point, head coach Anthony Kiner decided to go for the win and tried a two-point conversion.

Quarterback Alec Duffiney's pass over the middle was knocked down and the Blue Devils escaped with a narrow win in the Macomb Area Conference Blue Division opener for both teams.

"We have come from behind to win games the past couple of years, so this wasn't a surprise for us," Brandon said. "We made some big plays on both sides of the ball."

Each team scored a touchdown in the second, third and fourth quarters.

The Blue Devils' first touchdown was Perkins' 5-yard run on the first play of the second quarter and the second tally was an 11-yard pass from junior quarterback Richie Kish to junior wide receiver Jordan Spratt at the 8:08 mark of the third stanza.

Both touchdowns gave South a 7-point lead.

After the Crusaders scored the next two touchdowns to take a 21-14 lead, the Blue Devils tied it when Kish threw a 47-yard scoring pass to senior Tom McShane with 5:18 left in the fourth quarter.

McLroy converted all four of his extra points.

The Blue Devils had a chance to win at the end of regulation, but Kish's pass on a fake punt was dropped at the Crusaders' 10-yard line in the final 90 seconds.

The Blue Devils' running game was held in check, gaining only 71 yards on 31 carries, but Kish was able to gain 225 yards on his 10 completions with two touchdowns.

McShane had three receptions for 96 yards, followed by Spratt with 58 yards on four catches.

Grosse Pointe South is 1-0 in the MAC Blue Division and 2-0 overall.

University Liggett's football team drove 230 miles and spent a little more than four hours in a bus to play a non-league game at Hillman High School last week.

The Knights were originally scheduled to face Hamtramck, but the Cosmos dropped their football program, leaving a void to fill on the schedule.

"They had an open date and so did we, so we thought it would be a nice way for the guys to bond on the bus ride up," head coach Lou Ray said.

The bonding did the team well as Liggett rebounded from an opening game loss to beat Hillman 42-0.

"We got off to a great start and kept rolling," Ray said.

The Knights built a 28-0 halftime lead and scored two second-half touchdowns to round out the scoring.

Senior quarterback Nate Gaggin was 14-for-25 for 208 yards and three touchdowns, plus ran for 60 yards on 10 carries with one score.

Freshman Daryl Lewis rushed for 101 yards on four carries with a touchdown and sophomore Charles Jones had 69 yards rushing on 13 carries with a rushing and receiving touchdown.

Senior Drew Jerome led all receivers with 96 yards on seven catches, including a touchdown. Jake Smith also caught a 20-yard TD pass and Thomas Jackson had a couple of receptions.

Defensively, the Knights held Hillman to only four first downs, thanks to efforts keyed by Dan Baird, who had nine solo tackles and eight assists, Jerome, Caleb Stokes, Tommy Fair (five tackles) and Antonio Malkoun (five tackles).

Robert Whitaker kicked two extra points to help Liggett improve to 1-1 overall.

Liggett plays its home opener at 5 p.m. Friday, Sept. 7, against Michigan Independent Athletic Conference foe Southfield Christian.

LIGGETT

One goal is enough for Knights

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

University Liggett's boys' soccer team opened its home schedule last week with an impressive 1-0 win over Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest.

"This was a very nice win for us," head coach David Backhurst said. "Northwest already beat a good team in our division (Michigan Independent Athletic Conference), so we knew it would be a tough opponent."

Sophomore Andrew Lohman scored the lone goal. It was his third in two games.

After that, it was the play of the Knights' defensive unit, keyed by senior Andrew Zinkel and junior Anthony Simon, and junior goalkeeper Patrick Broder, that led the home team to victory.

"We had our chances to get a couple more goals, but we couldn't convert," Backhurst said. "It would have been nice to get a two-goal lead, but that didn't seem to matter to our defense, which played very tight and Patrick was great in net."

"He is a first-year goalie, so he's learning on the job and doing very well."

Broder read several corner kicks and either caught the ball or punched it away from Northwest forwards.

It was also his second straight shutout.

Liggett improved to 2-0 overall and in the MIAC.

With school back in session, Liggett's schedule increases.

Next on the slate is an away game Tuesday, Sept. 11, against Inter-City Baptist, and home games Thursday, Sept. 13, against Southfield Christian and Saturday, Sept. 15 against Greenhills.

Norsemen in division lead

Grosse Pointe North's girls' golf team won a big match last week, beating Macomb Dakota 196-199.

Paige Micks was the medalist, shooting a 46. Ali Scoggin was next with a 47 and Madison Vens broke 50 for the first time in her career, posting a 49.

Another key to the win was Jordyn Parent posting a 54 with Kit Maher and Oliva Beniot playing in the varsity match, gaining experience.

"We knew Dakota was a good team and it came down to the wire," head coach Brian Stackpoole said. "These types of matches really help us prepare for the end of the year."

The Norsemen improved to 4-0 in the Macomb Area Conference White Division and 5-0 overall with a 189-219 victory over Utica Ford at Rammler Golf Course.

Micks shot a 44 and Parent had a fantastic turn around from the previous day, shooting a 44. She took 10 strokes off her score.

Scoggin, Jenna Paglino, Vens and Marisa Mieczkowski also played with the varsity.

GROSSE POINTE SOUTH

Blue Devils slip to second

The Grosse Pointe South girls' golf team won 2-of-3 matches last week, dropping to 3-1 in the Macomb Area Conference Red Division.

Head coach Michael Rennell and the Blue Devils opened the week with a 162-194 win over Utica Eisenhower at Plumbrook's front nine.

Tenley Shield had a 37 and Lily Pandy posted a 38 to lead the team.

Hannah Buzolits and Katie Motschall followed with a 43 and 44 for the Blue Devils.

Two days later, South battled Utica and Port Huron Northern in a tri-match at Stoney Creek.

Utica won with a 152, followed by South at 159 and Northern at 171.

Shield had an even par 36 and Pandy shot a 37, but it wasn't enough as the Chieftains had three players shoot in the 30s.
