Prosecutor: No charges for officers

Wayne County Prosecutor Kym Worthy announced her office will not authorize charges against two police sergeants for conduct during an arrest Jan. 12.

The two ACTION officers, Highland Park Sgt. Ronald Dupuis and Grosse Pointe Park Sgt. James Vogler were filmed during an arrest of a carjacking suspect in Detroit. The suspect fought being handcuffed and the officers' actions led to an investigation by the Michigan State Police and the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office.

The suspect, Andrew Jackson, 51, of Detroit, faces several felony charges and a June 15 trial.

Worthy said the conduct of the officers did not support criminal charges during a press conference Monday, April 20.

"We take allegations of police misconduct very seriously and our investigations in these matters are thorough and take time," Worthy said. "Our task in this case was made more difficult by the refusal of the alleged victim to cooperate with my office. Some of the actions of the law enforcement in this case, while disturbing and inexplicable, do not rise to the level of criminal charges."

Farms budget building

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE FARMS — Councilman Louis Theros doesn't want residents complaining 30 years from now that the current city council didn't prepare for the future.

Hence, the Grosse Pointe Farms council focuses on the future as a means of improving the present.

"In the 13 years I've been (in office), we've not thought just three or four years down the road," said Theros, chairman of the finance committee. "We've done much more long-term thinking."

He credits multi-year budgeting, five-year capital improvement plans and saving money for emergencies as reasons the upcoming fiscal year municipal budget is being built on a property tax rate that hasn't changed in five years.

"We'll still have the lowest operating millage in the Grosse Pointes, a 14-mil rate," Theros said.

"The fund balance is extremely healthy," said Councilman Lev Wood, a member of the finance committee.

"Roads, infrastructure, the water plant and treatment facility are top-notch," Theros said.

Although the upcoming budget isn't firm — the new fiscal year starts 2 1/2 months from now July 1 — a draft is expected to closely represent the final document.

The proposed 2015-2016 general fund budget totals $13,342,710, a 2.4 percent increase over the present one.

Bill mandates bodycams

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

THE GROSSE POINTES — Legislation regulating police body cameras is getting a second showing in the state House of Representatives.

A bill introduced this session reprises one from last year.

The main difference — and backers see this as positive — is a conservative Republican from an Oakland County suburb introduced the original bill while the second feature is by a liberal Democrat from Detroit.

"It has bipartisan support," said Rep. Brian Banks, D-Harper Woods, representing the Grosse Pointes.

Banks co-sponsors the legislation, HB 4229, introduced Feb. 24 by Rep. Rose Mary Robinson, D-Detroit, and referred to the Committee on Criminal Justice.

"This bill would add protection for law enforcement officers as well as citizens," Banks said. "It also provides proof of what happened, so it's not an officer-versus-citizen situation."

The bill creates the Law Enforcement Body-worn Camera Act.

Provisions require:

- ◆ law enforcement officers to wear and use body cameras,
- ◆ agencies to retain images as evidence,
- ◆ reimbursement of certain costs to local jurisdictions and
- ◆ policies prescribing powers and duties of public employees.

Mandatory use allows exceptions during private times, such as personal conversations, lunch and bathroom breaks — a concern of City of Grosse Pointe Officer Joe Adams.

He's worn a bodycam at work for 1 1/2 years, he said.

"The Fraternal Order of Police has been following it in Lansing," said Adams, second vice president of the statewide Order. "We've turned it around and said if they want us to film every waking moment, OK, how about them carrying cameras in the bathroom?"

Ongoing expense

Cost also is an issue.

Bodycams used by Grosse Pointe Farms police jumped in price the last two years from $150 to $899 each.

Don't forget the cost of cataloging, reviewing, storing and retrieving images and audio.

"Where they kill you is data storage and everything that comes with it," said Mark Porter, an attorney in private practice representing police officers through the FOP Labor Council.

He compared it to buying a cheap computer printer

Business rules tighten

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

CITY OF GROSSE POINTE — The next time Prince Harry prowls the Colonies playing strip pool, he'll have to rack 'em up somewhere other than in this Puritanical province.

Killjoys on the City of Grosse Pointe council this week made it tough to open the type of business of which royal scandals are made.

Council members adopted Ordinance 418 putting tight restrictions on things shunned for "serious objectionable operational characteristics."

City leaders intend to make it as onerous as possible, without imposing an outright ban, for certain types of businesses to locate in the community.

"This ordinance governs, limits and restricts, to the degree possible, commercial uses that are generally recognized as objectionable," said Peter Dame, city manager.

Essentially verboten are: pool halls, hookah lounges, gaming establishments, pawn shops, adult bookstores and movie houses, cabarets, fortune telling, check cashing businesses, adult motels and personal service businesses, smoke shops, body art parlors and massage parlors.

Such operations, "when concentrated, can have a documented negative impact in terms of property values and activities in the surrounding area," said John Jackson, executive vice president of McKenna Associates, the city's planning consultant.

The ordinance mimics those in other communities that withstood court challenges, Jackson said.

"The courts have recognized these uses can be treated differently," Jackson said.

Businesses targeted by the ordinance are restricted to the C-1 zoning district, a small portion of Mack.

In addition to requiring a special use permit, the owners and major investors must pass background checks.

Moreover, the businesses can't locate within 1,000 feet of each other, schools and churches, even if the school or place of worship is located outside the city.

"The primary tool we have is separation requirements to prevent their concentration," Jackson said.

A ban is illegal, he added.

Dine in GP this week

The community is invited to celebrate the exceptional flavors offered in the Pointes during Grosse Pointe Restaurant Week 2015, April 24 to May 2.

The fourth annual event, a celebration of food and the joy of eating, includes a number of participating eateries that offer some of the best the Pointes have to offer.

"GP Restaurant Week gives visitors and residents a chance to dive into the unique culmination of culinary delights throughout Grosse Pointe," said Jennifer Boettcher, executive director of the Grosse Pointe Chamber of Commerce.

During the week, select establishments offer discounts or percentages off specific menu items.

This year's participants include Andiamo, Atwater in the Park, Bogart's Food and Spirits, Champs Rotisserie and Seafood, Chocolate Bar Cafe, City Kitchen Restaurant and Bar, Cornwall Bakery, Edsel and Eleanor Ford House, Irish Coffee Bar and Grill, Jersey Mike's Subs, Jumps American Cuisine, Luxe Bar and Grill, Marais, Mimi's Bistro, Rockefeller's Oyster Bar and Grill, Sunrise Sunset Saloon and The Jagged Fork.

"This 8-day celebration of Grosse Pointe's restaurant scene pays homage to the culinary heritage that makes our city unique - and is held in tribute to the restaurants that are becoming such a vital part of Grosse Pointe," Boettcher said.

Missed the turn

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE FARMS — A motorcyclist fleeing state police for racing nearly became a flesh-and-blood variety of sliced bread upon missing the turn at the foot of Moross and crashing toward the closed double-wrought iron gates of Pier Park.

He bailed off just before impact, however, and slid through the gates, knocked open ahead of him by his bike gone ballistic.

Grosse Pointe Farms Patrolman Richard Rosati, first on the scene to assist two troopers at 2:29 a.m. Friday, April 17, found him lying motionless on the parking lot pavement about 20 feet inside the municipal lake-side park, unmoving, unconscious and seemingly dead.

"About 30 seconds after that, he came to," Rosati said. "He was bruised a little, had a couple scratches and complained of shoulder pain. Other than that, he was fine."

The impact thrust both gates, constructed of iron rails spaced about 5 inches apart, off hinges anchored in pillars made of brick and mortar.

"The force of the impact sent both gates into the parking lot," reported Officer Ed Wierszewski, one of many Farms officers responding. "One gate landed in a manner that caused damage to shrubs by the guard house."

"The bike went about 50 feet into the park," Rosati said.

Farms medics took the rider, a 41-year-old Detroit man, to a hospital.

"It's unbelievable that he walked away with minor injuries instead of being paralyzed or dead," Rosati said.

Police closed north-bound Lakeshore while troopers wrote an accident report.

"There was a chain on one of the gates locked to itself, not locking both gates together," Wierszewski said.

The driver owes the Farms the cost of repairs, according to Shane Reeside, city manager.

"We'll make a claim with our insurance company," he said. "Typically, the insurance company will go after the insurance carrier of the individual."

If the rider lacks insurance, the city goes after him.

Gary Chapman, author of "The Five Languages of Love," was the guest presenter at a seminar sponsored by Grosse Pointe Memorial Church and Grace Counseling Center Saturday, April 18. The seminar, titled "The Marriage You've Always Wanted," was sold out.

Cameras have helped in Farms

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

THE GROSSE POINTES — Sgt. Antonino Trupiano was primed to deal with infantile behavior long before his wife bore triplets.

He's a 12 1/2-year veteran of the Grosse Pointe Farms public safety department and faces suspects who lie, manipulate and blame others for their failings all the time.

Some offenders think the best defense is a good offense, including trying to deflect the focus from evidence of their guilt to claims of the arresting officer's misconduct.

A couple months ago, a woman tried that on Trupiano during a traffic stop on Mack.

But, he recorded the encounter on his body camera. She laid an egg.

"She claimed I called her dumb and intimidated her," Trupiano said. "My in-car camera and wearable video recorder were working."

A second patrolman backed him up with on-screen proof.

"His wearable video recorder was working," Trupiano said.

The videos vindicated Trupiano.

"I never said she was dumb or anything," he said.

Farms police are on their fourth generation of bodycams.

Cameras have risen in price over two years from $150 to $899 and are the size of a deck of cards.

Cameras clip to an officers uniform, activate with the flip of a switch and can make a defendant's false claims of mistreatment fade to black.

Not an end-all

"We swear by them or we wouldn't be on our fourth generation, but they're not the catch-all," said Dan Jensen, Farms chief.

Nor do they tell the whole story, essential for thorough post-incident analysis.

Primary shortcomings are relatively narrow and static fields of view.

"There's tunnel vision," Jensen said. "You don't see (on camera) what officers perceive around them."

"The camera's only going to see directly in front," said former Detroit Policeman Mark Porter.

He's now a lawyer in private practice representing police officers through the Fraternal Order of Police Labor Council.

"You're not going to see where the officer is actually looking," Porter said. "If I'm looking to my left, you're going to think by looking at the camera video that I'm looking at you when I'm looking at something else."

Lack of perspective extends to personal experience.

"You don't see what an officer feels," Jensen said.

"A bodycam's not going to tell you this is the 17th time I've dealt with a particular guy and, out of those 17 times, he's run in 10 of them," Trupiano said.

Fido friendly at Lake Front Park

The dog park at Lake Front Park is open all year, but the warmer weather means an increase of furry friends to the facility.

The park, which is a fenced-in area located between the Milk River and Ford House property in Lake Front Park, is a Fido-friendly area where dogs can romp and play, leash-free, and features a double gate at one end to ensure the highest level of safety for each pooch.

For resident dogs to enjoy the park, however, there are certain criteria and hoops to jump through to gain membership.

First, dogs must be licensed with the city and residents must provide proof of current vaccinations.

Second, proof of a homeowner's insurance policy, with at least $100,000 minimum coverage, is also required.

An application for the park is available at the community center.

The cost is $20 per dog for the entire calendar year.

-John McTaggart

BILL:

without calculating the cost of ink, which can equal nearly $3,000 per gallon.

Farms Public Safety Director Dan Jensen is seeking a new, $30,000 server to store videos.

"Our current server is at capacity, plus it only stores for 30 days," Jensen said.

A new server retains data six months, well within the 90-day period cases must be adjudicated, Jensen said.

Robinson's legislation requires video and audio storage from two weeks to three years, the latter if the recording is:

- ◆ of a violent incident,
- ◆ an incident leading to arrest,
- ◆ relevant to a complaint against law enforcement or
- ◆ used for prosecution.

Videos also are kept three years if a person filmed requests a copy.

"This is shoving tremendous costs on local governments that they're not going to be able to handle," Porter said.

Banks agrees.

"It has to be paid by the state," he said.

The bill requires the state police to reimburse local or county agencies for "reasonable costs" of obtaining the equipment, but doesn't specify where the money comes from.

Banks said, "We are going to work with the appropriations committee, and I serve on the appropriations committee, to try to find funding to assist agencies get the equipment they need."

Options may include federal grants, he added.

"It comes down to the eternal question," Porter said. "Who's going to pay for all of this?"

Proposal 1 has city's support

By John McTaggart
Staff Writer

It's certainly a hot-button issue not only in the Pointes, but across the entire state.

Proposal 1, which will be decided when voters hit the polls Tuesday, May 5, calls for an increase in the fuel tax of almost 15 percent.

Should it pass, it also means the elimination of sales and use tax on fuel for vehicles, an increase in the state sales tax from 6 percent to 7 percent, and it would allow municipalities to finance road projects through competitive bidding, requiring performance-based evaluations for state projects and require road warranties for projects costing more than $1 million.

Passage would also increase the state's Earned Income Credit from 6 percent to 20 percent.

The House Fiscal Agency estimates the sales tax increase would generate more than $1.6 billion per year, with $1.2 billion slated for road projects throughout the state. Mass transit is expected to receive a windfall of roughly $130 million. The school aid fund can expect $300 million, and local governments can look for $95 million.

It's also estimated the bill would cost the average Michigan resident an additional $477 to $545 in taxes per year.

For Grosse Pointe Woods, passing Proposal 1 would mean more money to fix the roads, plain and simple.

"Obviously, we (the Woods and the state as a whole) are in desperate need of our roads being fixed," City Administrator Skip Fincham said. "We need for Proposal 1 to pass from a city standpoint. We will receive additional funding for roads as well as additional constitutional revenue sharing dollars."

The Woods is slated to receive and additional $606,154 for roads and $153,938 in additional revenue spread out over three years, according to the Michigan Municipal League.

"The state has neglected the basic infrastructure for far too long," Fincham said. "You hear far too many stories about people losing their tires and vehicle damage from potholes across the state. Our bridges are in horrible condition and several incidents of concrete falling and hitting vehicles has been reported. We need Proposal 1 to pass."

FARMS:

represent nearly 73 percent of next year's projected municipal revenue.

Public safety is the largest anticipated expense, $4,598,460, or 43 percent of total.

A 9.2 percent increase in assessed values, the third increase in three years, fuels the budget.

"We're seeing a big turnaround, even though the most anyone's taxes could go up is 1.6 percent because of Proposal A," said John Lamerato, Farms controller and treasurer.

Officials are working toward a $3.6 million fund balance, or rainy day fund, equaling 2.4 percent of the general fund.

Many cities aim for a 20 percent fund balance.

"We're putting $1 million from our general projects fund into the capital projects fund for road projects, vehicle and equipment replacement," Lamerato said.

More than $400,000 is for roads and sidewalk improvements.

The city's top-tier, AAA+ bond rating from Standard & Poor's is expected to yield lower interest rates.

Moreover, higher rating will save $100,000 on $3,575,000 bonds issued recently to improve water and sewer infrastructure in the inland sewer district above Ridge Road, according to City Manager Shane Reeside.

"The new bond rating allows us more favorable advantage in the marketplace to undertake larger projects that the city and (Grosse Pointe Farms) Foundation would like to pursue," said Councilman Peter Waldmeir.

Foundation members privately fund municipal enhancements, particularly to the park system.

"One thing the foundation does well is identify a project before raising funds," Theros said. "They work well with the city to partner on projects that make sense for the entire municipality, then they raise the money."

Theros also credits operational savings to municipal employees extending the life of capital equipment.

"They do a lot of the machining themselves," he said. "They are able to keep rubbish trucks an extra two or three years. It's an amazing effort by everyone in the city that lets us be fiscally conservative."

City of Grosse Pointe
Picture perfect

A patrolman cruising the Village at 9:21 a.m. Monday, April 13, did what patrolmen do when seeing a CVS Pharmacy employee standing on the Kercheval sidewalk photographing the license plate of a blue 2005 Chrysler 300 pulling away from the curb.

"(I) stopped to find out what happened," said the officer. "(The employee) stated the driver just took an unknown amount of razor blades and tooth whitening strips."

Officers couldn't find the Chrysler, last seen northbound on Neff.

They used the photograph to trace the registered owner to a 46-year-old man living in Roseville.

Officers will review store security video to confirm the suspect's identity before making an arrest.

"(The employee) got a good look at (the) suspect before he exited the store," said the officer.

Deadbeat dad

A man wanted by Monroe County authorities on a $1,905 warrant for child support was caught last week driving a black 2007 Chrysler 300 with an illegally tinted windshield, according to the arresting officer.

At 9:22 a.m. Tuesday, April 14, the officer arrested the man, 34, of Roseville, during a traffic stop at the intersection of St. Clair and Mack.

A search of the Chrysler revealed one gram of marijuana within reach of the driver, for which he presented a medical marijuana card.

In addition to the warrant charge and window tinting, officers cited him for improper transport of medical marijuana and lacking proof of car insurance.

"The vehicle was turned over to his girlfriend at the scene due to a baby inside," reported the officer.

Numbers game

The numbers didn't add up for a 41-year-old Detroit man, arrested at 11:14 a.m. Saturday,

Public Safety
Reports

April 18, for possession of a tan 2003 GMC Yukon XL reported stolen October 2013 in Detroit.

A patrolman pulled him over on Mack near Hillcrest because the Yukon's license plate was listed stolen March 31 in Dearborn.

A manufacturer sticker on the driver-side door had been "altered and replaced with a fake sticker," said the patrolman.

Police also took the man into custody on two outstanding Wayne County warrants for child neglect and a probation violation from the 3rd Circuit Court criminal division.

Takes tires

The last time a 22-year-old Detroit man was seen at his employer's tire shop in the 18700 block of Mack, he was stealing two tires, according to the store manager.

At 11:30 a.m. Thursday, April 16, the manager saw the employee load two tires in the trunk of his silver 2014 Dodge Charger, drive away and not return, even the next day.

At that time, the manager filed a complaint with police alleging the suspect stole four Kenda Klever H/P KR15 tires worth a combined $241.65.

Stolen purse

Two unknown men are accused of getting away with a purse stolen a few minutes before 6 p.m. Thursday, April 16, from a car parked in the U.S. Postal Service lot in the 18600 block of Mack.

A witness reported them arriving in an older model white Ford Crown Victoria, parking next to the victim's car, breaking the driver-side window and making off with the purse toward the Mack alley.

Officers couldn't find them.

The victim, of Grosse Pointe Woods, reported the following missing items:

- ◆ a burgundy Juicy Couture purse containing a black wallet, Wayne State University student identification and credit cards, makeup, perfume and
- ◆ a Victoria Secret shoulder bag containing a black coat, note book, piano book and ear training book.

Here we go again

The same 73-year-old Grosse Pointe Farms man, arrested Monday, April 6, in Grosse Pointe Shores for violating six suspensions of his driver's license, was arrested last week in his hometown for disregarding seven suspensions.

A patrolman spotted him at 12:36 a.m. Thursday, April 16, weaving a white 2007 Chevrolet Uplander between lanes of eastbound Lakeshore near Newberry Place.

"A check of the license plate revealed the owner of the vehicle suspended seven times," said the officer. "The driver informed (me) his license was suspended and he had no insurance on the vehicle because he could not afford it due to numerous driving violations he was not up to date on paying."

The man is known to police for drug-related incidents and unsavory acquaintances at his flat in the Farms.

Officers oversaw the place being padlocked last August because the man, then living in Detroit, let two women with criminal histories live there without obtaining a certificate of occupancy.

Patrolmen searching the property at the time reportedly found it littered with syringes.

The man reportedly said he drove illegally the night of his most recent arrest because he "needs to have a life" and "wanted to get out of the apartment."

Police impounded the Uplander.

A game

A 62-year-old Detroit man is characterized as goofing off during the balance portion of a roadside drunken driving investigation shortly before 2:30 a.m. Wednesday, April 15, on East Warren and Opal in Detroit.

"(He) began mocking this test and was purposely acting like he was intoxicated," said the arresting officer.

A patrolman pulled him over for turning a red 1995 Chevrolet pickup sharply from westbound Mack to East Warren.

The man initially refused to take a Breathalyzer, but changed his mind at headquarters, where he registered a .08 percent blood alcohol level, according to police.

No burning

A patrolman arrived at a house in the 300 block of Kerby shortly after 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 14, to tell an 18-year-old male resident to stop burning grass near the driveway.

An ordinance forbids outdoor burning of grass, leaves and yard waste.

"(He) was argumentative," reported the officer. "(I) reiterated (the) ordinance and advised (him) a citation would be issued if further burning is done."

99 suspensions

The investigation of a 29-year-old Detroit man for operating a 1979 Chevrolet Impala with tinted windows revealed his tally of 99 driver's license suspensions, according to a public safety officer.

The officer arrested him during a traffic stop at 8:15 p.m. Monday, April 13, in the alley behind Mack west of Moross.

Buzzed

Police said a 29-year-old Harper Woods man being investigated for driving a blue 1995 Chevrolet Tahoe 58 mph on eastbound Mack at 2:29 a.m. Monday, April 13, possessed one gram of cocaine and a straw coated with narcotics residue.

Officers found the substances in his pockets during a traffic stop near the intersection of Lexington, they said.

"During sobriety testing, (he) made spontaneous utterances, stating, 'I'm buzzed,' and 'I shouldn't be driving,'" reported an officer.

Charges consist of cocaine possession, possession of narcotics paraphernalia and driving while under the influence of drugs.

The Community Unity Walk is May 2

By Kathy Ryan
Staff Writer

A walk to honor the lives of homicide victims Paige Stalker and Christina Samuel will be held Saturday, May 2, a day Detroit Mayor Michael Duggan has declared Detroit's Day for Peace and Unity.

The walk, organized by the families of Stalker and Samuel, is being called The Community Unity Walk, and while it is meant to honor the lives of the two young women, it's also intended to bring communities together to reduce violence.

"This is a walk for unity, which means all neighborhoods," said Dave Lawrence, Paige Stalker's grandfather and a resident of Grosse Pointe Park. "It's just as important for the Grosse Pointe neighborhoods as it is for the Detroit neighborhoods."

Participants will gather at 11 a.m. at Mack and Cadieux and proceed down Mack to Alter Road where Duggan will speak, along with several other community leaders.

Lawrence and Detroit resident Christopher Samuel, father of Christina Samuel, were brought together by tragedy, as both of their loved ones were murdered within days of each other in December. Both were shot as they sat in cars parked in Detroit. Paige was 17, Christina was 22. The two men forged a friendship that has inspired them to work together to combat violence, forming the Save Our Children's Future of Michigan, the organization sponsoring the walk.

According to Paige's mother, Jennifer Stalker, about 1,000 people are expected. She said several churches will participate, as well as the Martin Luther King Jr. High School marching band, the Detroit Children's Choir, the Detroit Mounted Police, the East English Village Academy drum line, Crime Stoppers, the Detroit Crime Commission and Mothers of Murdered Children.

"Everything is coming together well," said Christopher Samuel. "We have had enormous support."

According to Stalker, participants can park at Warren and Cadieux, and shuttle busses, provided by Trinity Transportation, will take walkers to the beginning point at Mack and Cadieux and then transport them back to their cars following the conclusion of the program at Mack and Alter. The walk will take place on the Detroit side of Mack, with a partial closing of Mack being coordinated with the City of Detroit.

The parking lot at St. Clare of Montefalco Church at Mack and Whittier will serve as additional parking and a water stop for walkers.

Volunteers will assemble at Maire Elementary School at Cadieux and Kercheval at 9 a.m. the morning of the walk.

"We are still in need of volunteers," Stalker said.

Information on volunteering and the walk is available from the group's website, saveourchildrensfuture.com.

Organizers of the event, including Lawrence, Stalker, Samuel, Jennifer Steinhebel and Russ Wright, all agree that while the walk is important, what happens after the walk is the true focus for the organization.

"The real goal is to bring awareness," said Lawrence. "If all we do is walk, that's not doing much. We have a lot going on after the walk."

The organization is planning events on women's safety and educational sessions for children.

"We've done a wonderful job of bringing neighborhoods together. That's what we hope will come of this," Lawrence said. "We want to get as many people out for the walk as possible, but it's what we do after the walk that's most important."

HELPED:

"There are things that can't be summed up just from a body camera," Jensen said.

Both Jensen and Porter cited caveats summarized by the Force Science Institute, an organization of scientific and behavioral specialists studying "officer behavior in force encounters," according to its website, forcescience.org.

Caveats include, but are not limited to:

- ◆ Cameras can't verify sensations of a suspect tensing to flee or attack.
- ◆ Non-do they show three-dimensional depth of field.

◆ In low light, cameras may see images better than the human eye, skewing interpretation of the playback by over-representing an officer's perception.

Smile ...

Joe Adams, the City of Grosse Pointe's officer of the year two years straight, said he's worn a bodycam each day at work for the last 1 1/2 years.

"I was walking the Village one day and had my body camera going," he said. "An employee from T-Mobile ran out asking for help."

A female customer was accused of trying to fraudulently open an account in someone else's name.

"She said it was for her mom," Adams said. "Long story short, she later claimed I was lying, that she never said that."

Time to check the video evidence.

"It captured her statements on body camera," Adams said.

Suspects aren't the only ones making camcos.

"Within the last six to eight weeks, I've run into people during arrests and tickets who are filming me with a cell phone camera," Adams said. "We're on camera every day. Some we know about, some we don't. Everybody has a cell phone camera. Everybody."

Adams considers body cameras another layer of protection.

"I've worked 15 years for a good name in this area," he said. "I've done a lot of good things. But, it takes just one incident to turn my name into something bad."

GROSSE POINTE NEWS MISSION STATEMENT

To provide the Grosse Pointes the most relevant, accurate and timely information in our print and online publications.

I SAY By John McTaggart

It's great to live where you feel safe

It's a testament to all five communities. Looking over crime reports and year-end statistics recently, it dawned on me how fortunate we are to have the public safety departments we do in each of the five Pointes.

Crime was down in the Woods by 4 percent, and down significantly in both the Shores and the Park, for example.

All of this comes with the looming awareness that a city with a crime rate that ranks among the worst in the entire nation sits, in some cases, directly across the street from many Pointe neighborhoods.

In fact, Detroit was the worst in the country in both murders and violent crimes when compared to cities with populations of more than 100,000 people.

Now, this isn't a knock on Detroit at all.

There are plenty of people working very hard to change this reality, and they are making headway.

That said, it's a testament to how well the departments in the Pointes do, how well they go about the business, in most cases very subtly, of protecting residents, businesses and property in the community.

Woods Mayor Robert Novitke told the council after reviewing his city's annual report at a recent meeting the standard is high and public safety is a top priority.

The statistics back up his sentiment.

"I feel very safe," Woods resident Gregory Haas said. "In fact, I don't even put too much thought into it. I would say that's a compliment to the kind of job these officers do."

As a resident of the Pointes myself, I feel the same way.

Granted, I still lock the door at night and when I leave, but I feel safe if in fact it slips my mind for a while and they remain unlocked.

Part of my job is to look over crime reports, talk to public safety officials and essentially pay attention to what crime does crop up in both Grosse Pointe Woods and Grosse Pointe Park.

I'm amazed at the efficiency both these departments display in getting the word out about potential dangers to residents or scams that we all should be on the lookout for.

Just recently, Woods public safety officials issued a press release regarding a scam where people were posing as city employees to gain access into residents' houses. In no time flat, this release was issued on NIXLE, a service that notifies subscribers to such news, thus allowing residents to be aware of such a scam in the city.

It's easy for all of us to take for granted such exemplary work by our public safety officers and departments, but this is, as Mr. Haas pointed out earlier, a compliment to the job they do.

I feel safe living here.

I feel my family is as safe as possible calling Grosse Pointe home.

I just want to take a moment to say "thank you" to our public safety departments for that - we all should take a moment to do that.

Believe it or not, these officers are putting themselves in harm's way to keep me out of it. For that, I am grateful.

Good work

I was glad to read Brad Lindberg's article on handicap parking cheats and the response by the police departments to those cheaters. I have Multiple Sclerosis and I have a handicap parking card. I only use it when I feel that my risk of falling is greatest, but when I do use it, I need it. It's upsetting to me to drive through the parking lots and find handicap spaces that are filled by drivers who don't display a permit or a handicap license plate. Until you are someone who needs one, you can't appreciate how important they are. To use one for convenience when you aren't handicapped puts the true handicapped driver in a difficult situation. Thank you to the police departments and the courts for taking this matter seriously.

JERI KRUEGER
Grosse Pointe

Thank you

On behalf of the board of directors of The Family Center, I would like to thank the Grosse Pointe News and Grosse Pointe Memorial Church for their partnerships during our recent presentation 'Drugs and Alcohol: What Parents and Professionals Need to Know.' Scott Chambers, Joe Warner and Rev. Peter Henry acknowledged, with their presence, coverage, open doors and availability, the growing need for conversations and awareness on this important topic.

It was wonderful to see so many parents, professionals, and other community members join together to start the dialogue about this terrible trend affecting so many of our young people. We look forward to continuing the conversation in the days, weeks, and months ahead through discussion groups, One Book One Community book discussions, and Family Center presentations planned for 2015-2016.

In the meantime, our website familycenterweb.org, offers many more resources that are immediately available, including videos. Ask the Experts articles on a myriad of topics, and our exclusive resource guide entitled 'Navigating the Adolescent Years: A Road Map' with information and resources on issues confronting adolescents and their parents. It includes sections on homework, stress, teen parties, sex, substance abuse and more. Also available is the listing of our Association of Professionals - visitors can search for resources among a wide range of caring professionals.

Again, we thank you all for helping us to continue this necessary conversation as we strive to serve our community through programs and resources vital to today's families.

CATHY LEVERENZ
President of The Family Center Board of Directors

What a day

This past Saturday, over 450 registrants and another 50 volunteers participated in a one day marriage seminar underwritten by Grosse Pointe Memorial Church and Grace Counseling Center and sponsored by the Grosse Pointe News and the War Memorial, among others.

The seminar was conducted by Dr. Gary Chapman, best selling author of The Five Love Languages. Couples from as far away as Western Canada gave up their Saturday to invest in their marriage.

The Pew Research Center has noted that the divorce rate for first marriages approaches 47 percent and for second marriages 67 percent. Divorce in America is like an explosion with terrible side effects emotionally and financially, particularly on the fabric of society: family units and children.

These rates are only going to come down if individual couples take action. We change the oil in our cars and tune up the engines far more times than we check in on the most important of our relationships. That is ridiculous.

Kudos to the people who attended; it's a start. To those couples who didn't, attend a seminar together or read & discuss a chapter a week in a book like "The Marriage You've Always Wanted" by Dr. Chapman or organize a regular mentoring group with other couples.

By all means check in with your spouse and start the first of many conversations. You'll never regret reaching out; you will regret leaving it to chance.

HOWARD B. HILL

Like it now

As a 55 year resident of the Grosse Pointes and frequent user of the War Memorial, I was disturbed after reading the Free Press article, April 19, in which new President Charles Burke outlined his "ambitious efforts" to bring in new events and to build a new building at the site. In describing his ambitions for the War Memorial Center. He is quoted "This could be the tent where every presidential candidate comes through."

Is this what our community is about? He further states that the board of directors needs to be doubled in size.

He has hired a vice president of Institutional Advancement (translation: fundraising). Vice presidents need staff, so plans are under way to hire new personnel "to aid in other efforts."

Does this increase in overhead and operating expenses lead to increases in admission fees for current programs?

Our War Memorial is a treasured asset to the community.

Over the years it has been purposely designed to fit in harmony with the adjacent church and residential surroundings, with minimal vehicle congestion. The current program offerings and events are adequate to the community's needs.

Hopefully, Mr. Burke's description of the site as a "tent" was not Freudian in nature, and his plans for expansion do not result in a future carnival atmosphere and increased traffic congestion.

I SAY By Ann Fouty

Goodbye and thank you

My telephone goes unanswered. My e-mail is unopened.

There will be no more greetings for people who come in to see me because I'm not at my desk. It's time for a new chapter in my life.

My husband and I, and one cat, are moving. The house where we raised our children has been sold and household goods are slowly finding new homes. Though we will have a permanent Michigan address, it won't be close enough to commute.

Goodbye Grosse Pointe and metro area. Goodbye loyal Grosse Pointe News readers. It's been a gratifying, eye-opening, amusing and pleasurable experience living in the area. I've met many really great people here.

Thank you for allowing me into your life. And thank you to all the people who have allowed me the privilege of telling your story, sharing your passion, the good, bad and sad times.

Thank you for the memories.

I looked forward to coming to work Monday through Friday because of those who kept my phone line ringing and my e-mail stacking up and those who had a story to tell their fellow Grosse Pointers.

And coming to work was made more enjoyable because of the Grosse Pointe News staff — you know the meaning of teamwork and how to share a good laugh. Your quality of caring is remarkable.

There are a handful of people with whom I became good friends because of working here. And there are so many more with whom I looked forward to seeing and talking with on a regular basis.

I was amazed at the kindness, manners and intentional gratitude expressed to me and my work.

Just as important, I thoroughly enjoyed listening to stories being pitched and the differing views in this community.

It was a good run for me due to those with whom I came in contact.

I sincerely thank you for the opportunity to be a part of this little corner of the world.

And be sure to keep reading the Grosse Pointe News.

REPORTS:

Drug dog

Police searching the center console of a white 2004 Ford pickup operated by an 18-year-old Grosse Pointe Woods man said they found a marijuana grinder, pipe and scale coated with suspected marijuana residue.

Prior to the search, the department K-9, Duke, indicated the presence of narcotics in the console, according to his handler, Officer Tim Harris.

A patrolman pulled over the driver at 8:47 p.m. Sunday, April 12, on eastbound Mack near Colonial Court because the pickup had a defective headlight.

Officers cited the driver and a 17-year-old female passenger, also from the Woods, for possession of narcotics paraphernalia.

The driver faces an additional charge of unlicensed driving, police added.

Broken panes

Someone vandalized the upper windows of a carriage house in the first block of Lakeshore.

Police confirmed the damage, discovered by the property owner on Saturday, April 11.

"(I) observed several broken window panes on the north side of the garage," said an investigating officer. "(I) observed several golf ball-size rocks in the gutter and around the front of the garage."

—Brad Lindberg

Report information about these or other crimes to the Grosse Pointe Farms Public Safety Department at (313) 885-2100.

Grosse Pointe Shores

Just in case

The department's fire inspector, Lt. Bill Nicholson, took no chances responding to a residential fire alarm at 10:41 p.m. Sunday, April 12, in the 800 block of Lakeshore.

Due to the 100-year-old, three-story dwelling's wood frame construction, Nicholson deployed a fire truck to the scene just in case.

The homeowner helped officers check for trouble. "All was in order," Nicholson summarized in an incident report. "(Alarm) believed to be set off by steam from (the) shower."

Wrong way I

An unknown caller alerted police at 11:16 p.m. Saturday, April 11, to a man driving a white 2002 Saturn northbound in the southbound lanes of Lakeshore from the southern city limits.

The driver, 51, of Warren, wised up approaching Vernier, switching to the northbound side.

Police stopped him near the intersection of North Edgewood Drive.

He registered a .239 percent blood alcohol level, according to police arresting him for drunken driving.

The level is just shy of three times the .08 percent legal maximum to operate a motor vehicle in Michigan.

"His driver history shows a prior (drunken driving arrest) in 2001," according to an officer.

Tipped off

For the second time last week, citizens tipped off police to a suspected drunken driver on Lakeshore.

"Numerous phone calls from drivers (reported the suspect) driving poorly and possibly under the influence of alcohol," said a Shores officer.

A patrolman stopped the driver, a 53-year-old man from Traverse City, operating a purple 2004 Dodge Durango near Webber Place, at 6:09 p.m. Sunday, April 12.

A roadside sobriety test revealed a .124 percent blood alcohol, according to police arresting him for drunken driving.

His record includes a prior arrest for the same offense, according to police.

Wrong way II

A drunken driver heading southbound in the northbound lanes of Lakeshore nearly became a one-man rolling wrecking crew, according to police.

"Several motorists were forced off the roadway due to the careless actions of (the man)," reported one of many responding public safety officers.

The suspect, a 69-year-old Detroit man in a white 2014 Lexus, nearly rammed a patrolman's cruiser head-on at 30 to 40 mph, according to police.

He finally stopped near the intersection of Fontana Lane.

Officers arrested him for drunken driving.

He refused to take a Breathalyzer test to indicate his blood alcohol level.

Police said his record includes drunken driving convictions in Detroit in 1977, 2004 and 2011.

—Brad Lindberg

Report information about these or other crimes to the Grosse Pointe Shores Public Safety Department at (313) 881-5500.

Grosse Pointe Park

Bike taken

A men's Trek bike was stolen from the 700 block of Westchester sometime between 6:45 p.m. Monday, April 13, and 7 a.m. Tuesday, April 14, from an unlocked garage. According to police, the bike is valued at $355.

Police bust up theft

In the early morning hours of Tuesday, April 14, Park public safety officers were notified of a vehicle theft in progress in the area of Maryland and Goethe. Officers gave chase to a pair of suspects when they arrived at the scene, catching one. The juvenile then identified the second suspect. An investigation continues.

Rear window

The rear window of a 2014 Dodge Journey was broken out Tuesday, April 14, in the 1200 block of Wayburn. No other damage was reported to the vehicle and nothing was believed to be stolen from inside the car.

Butter knife used

Public safety officers responded to a house in the 1200 block of Maryland when the resident woke Wednesday, April 15, to discover damage to the ignition switch in his 2008 Dodge Avenger. A butter knife was found near the vehicle and was believed to be used to attempt to start the Avenger without the key. Police are investigating.

Smash and grab

An unknown male suspect threw a brick through the window of a business in the 15000 block of Kercheval on Sunday, April 19, shattering the front door of the establishment. A cash register containing about $200 was taken in the robbery. Video surveillance of the incident captured the crime. Police are investigating.

Academy salutes traditions

By Joe Warner
Editor

Grosse Pointe Academy's Action Auction will celebrate its traditions this year, the 48th for the fundraising event.

The one-night party begins at 5 p.m. Saturday, May 9, with cocktails and a silent auction, followed by dinner, a live auction and the club Action Auction.

This year's auction co-chairwomen, Lindsey Buhl and Fay Savage, certainly understand the traditions theme.

They attended Grosse Pointe Academy together, remained friends, were in each other's weddings and both have four children who are or were Academy students.

"We couldn't have done this without a lot of help," Savage said. "The community has been very generous with its support of the auction."

Buhl said this year's auction will celebrate the academy's families along with traditions of the Grosse Pointe Farms campus. The auction catalog has a new feature with an alumni section.

Both Buhl's and Savage's mothers attended the Academy, along with Buhl's mother-in-law and her husband, Tom.

"Our families being here will make it a great night," Buhl said.

Savage pointed out the support of several businesses, including a custom jewelry piece from Edmund T. AHEE Jewelers.

"The community and so many local businesses have supported us," Savage said.

Among the items for auction will be several trips in the United States and abroad, a special dinner prepared in the high-bidder's house by the owner of Marais, a party for 30 at the Detroit Historical Society, special sports packages, fashion shows and a newcomer, The Academy Cup, a golf event that promises to be a popular item for years to come.

Several family and Academy related items also are up for auction, creating a buzz among the Academy's students, Buhl said.

Neiman Marcus returns as a sponsor and donor, with topaz and peridot Verdura Byzantine Earrings up for raffle. One hundred tickets at $100 each will be offered for a chance at the $11,000 earrings.

In the past, the auction has been a two-day event. Savage said the party will keep moving with a one-night ordeal, which will be action packed.

The online auction opens at 3 p.m. Friday, May 1, and closes 10 p.m. Saturday, May 9, at gpa.cbo.io.

That allows those who can't attend the auction a chance to bid on items in the online auction.

A silent auction, super silent auction and live auction will be fast-paced the night of the Action Auction.

A listing and description of many of the auction items will follow in next week's Grosse Pointe News.

The auction will be held at the Academy, 171 Lakeshore Drive, Grosse Pointe Farms. Valet parking will be at the Moran Road entrance.

A LA ANNIE

By Annie Rouleau-Scheriff

Summer
barbecue favorite

Last weekend's warm weather brought everyone outdoors. Summer was in the air. A family barbecue gave me a reason to try a new recipe — baked beans, cooked on the stove. This backyard-style recipe creates a delicious legume that arrives at the table with flavors of the southwest. Remember: Starting with a dry bean calls for planning as the beans need to soak overnight.

Stove Top "Baked" Pinto Beans
(adapted from Food Network)
1 lb. dry pinto beans
4 cups chicken broth, plus 4 cups water
1 cup finely chopped onion
4 garlic cloves, finely chopped
1 1/2 lb. bacon, uncooked, finely chopped
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon chili powder

A summertime favorite is ready to go.
1 tablespoon apple cider vinegar
1 bunch scallions, chopped
Begin by soaking the beans overnight in a large pot of water, covered. Make sure to pick through the beans for stones before soaking. Drain the beans and rinse thoroughly. Return to the pot, add the chicken broth and the water. Bring the mixture to a boil and add the onion, garlic, bacon, Worcestershire sauce and chili powder. Lower the heat to medium. Cook, uncovered, stirring often, for about 30 minutes. Lower the heat to a low simmer, cover and cook for another hour or so, stirring about every 15 minutes. Uncover the beans and continue to cook another 30 to 45 minutes. The beans will be juicy at first, then become creamy the longer they cook. Stir in the vinegar and the scallions just before serving. Taste and season with salt and pepper. The first time I served the beans was at breakfast — just as they do in many parts of Europe — with eggs and meat. Really good. These tasty beans reheat fabulously covered with foil at 300 degrees. Add your favorite herbs or seasoning to make these beans your own.

Enriching students' lives

Imagine grade school students playing Vivaldi and Bach on the violin. Imagine students performing Menotti's opera "Amahl and the Night Visitors", classical cantatas, and spiritual music. Cranbrook Academy? Detroit Country Day? No.

CORNERSTONE SCHOOLS IN DETROIT!

Rooted in the teachings of Jesus, Cornerstone Schools provides the children of Detroit with an excellent education. This education is made possible by the generous support of a broad and beloved community of friends, including many from the Pointes. The students showcase their incredible music talent to the delight of all at quarterly Partner Mornings.

As a music major myself, I have taken particular attention to the music program at Cornerstone. It provides great stimulation to academic success, and opens a children's awareness of their own inner gifts. I am amazed at the talent, poise, and excellence demonstrated by the students. As a Partner, I am so blessed to be an influence in my student's life, and I would recommend this program to anyone!

ASK THE EXPERTS

By R. Bart Sangal M.D.

Attention deficit and sleep apnea: What can we do?

Q. I'm concerned that my teenage daughter may have an attention disorder. She's easily distracted, disorganized, forgetful and loses things all the time. College is only two years away. How can we help her?

A. She may very well have attention deficit (ADD/ADHD), a brain disorder that begins in childhood. Left untreated it can cause poor performance in school. It can affect her ability to do her homework and maintain positive personal relationships. It can have a general negative impact on her well-being. Attention Deficit can be confirmed using EEG based testing. EEG is a painless test that records brain waves. EEG during tasks requiring attention can also predict which medicine will control it best. With successful treatment there's no need to panic about her potential to succeed in college and beyond.

The FDA has approved an EEG based test to confirm the diagnosis of ADHD. With successful treatment attention can be normalized. It is a life-long disorder and does not go away in adulthood.

Q. I think my husband may have sleep apnea.

He snores, is always fatigued and has blood pressure issues. His sleep patterns disrupt my sleep, so we both are struggling with work and family. What can we do?

A. The symptoms you mentioned definitely suggest he has sleep apnea. People who snore loudly, have been noticed to stop breathing in sleep, are tired or have high blood pressure often have sleep apnea. So do people who are obese or have large necks, especially if they are over 50 or are male. Sleep apnea can cause heart attacks, strokes or premature deaths. It can make you sleepy, impair attention and affect erections.

Three-fourths of people suffering from sleep apnea don't even know they have it. Diagnosis by a sleep specialist using sleep testing is crucial. Continuous Positive Airway Pressure therapy (or CPAP) is the best treatment. Depending on the physician, compliance can range from 60 to 90 percent.

Sleep apnea occurs in children as well as adults. Treating sleep apnea prolongs life and improves quality of life. Your husband should see a sleep specialist.

Both ADD and sleep apnea can be treated successfully. The first step is a proper diagnosis by a qualified specialist.

Sangal is the director of the Sleep and Attention Disorder Institute. It is accredited by American Academy of Sleep Medicine. He is board certified in Clinical Neurophysiology and in Sleep Medicine. The

PASTOR'S CORNER By Roger Skully

He is and He touches the world

"Hear, O Israel, the Lord is our G-d, the Lord is One" (Deut. 6:4). These words express the faith of Israel (Judaism) that there exists one, indivisible G-d by whose will the universe and all that is in it was created. Indeed, this was a departure from polytheism and idolatry. Abraham, often called "our father," was the first to give effective expression to this monotheistic faith. He was, in effect, the founding father of the Israelites, Jews, and later, Christians and Muslims.

He was not the first human to recognize or believe this. In fact, the Torah mentions Hanoch and Noah, who preceded Abraham as "righteous men" who "walked with G-d." They too must have believed in a single deity and desired to live by His principles. The 12th century philosopher Maimonides believed at one time early men did know the one true G-d, but this knowledge and faith was lost to them. There were probably others, such as Pharaoh Iknaton, whom some also considered a monotheist. However, his religion did not survive. Abraham did pass his faith down to his descendants.

Abraham made a covenant, or what in that time was a legal contract, to recognize Him as G-d in exchange for the promise of many descendants and protection from adversities. This history is pointed out in the Passover Haggadah, the book of the story of the Passover. "In every generation, there are those who rise up against us, to destroy and annihilate us, but the Holy One, Blessed be He, delivers us from their hands."

There is no proof for the existence of G-d. Neither is there any proof of His non-existence. In fact, Judaism only says two things about Him: He is, and He touches the world and men (also women). Speculation about his nature and proof of existence rests with the philosophers of the non-Jewish world. Their "proofs" are often rather forced and sometimes not too believable. In any event, it seems to be a human need to ponder the numinous. Hence "faith" enters where proof fails. The Psalmist begins "When I behold Thy heavens...what is man that Thou are mindful of him?" (Psalm 8:4-8) His words echo the theme of mankind's search for meaning and answers to his (our) existence.

Some would, in disbelief, seek to substitute man for G-d. To worship man as all knowing and subject to the rules he himself creates is probably their height of idolatry and arrogance. Acceptance of the yoke of heaven allows us to throw off the yoke of human oppression and dictatorship. It historically has been the vehicle of elevating ourselves and defeating tyranny. It also has given us a rich diversity of fortitude and strength in the face of adversity.

Why G-d? Jews historically have argued the name of the Lord is unknowable. The biblical usage of the tetragrammaton, His Name, are consonants not punctuated with vowels in the Hebrew (yad, hay, vav, hay) and it was not pronounced, except by the High Priest when officiating on the Day of Atonement, Yom Kippur. Other names are used to represent the Holy Name and denote its unknowability and mystery. Hence the custom has arisen in English usage, by some, to not write out the full word, but to hyphenate it, G-d. This is not unlike the circumlocutions, which are used in Hebrew text and language, and differ when used in general or specifically in prayer.

We celebrate His gift of this season, and His promise of life and freedom, with an awareness of human dignity and meaning. Amen and Amen.

Skully is cantor of the Downtown Synagogue and president of the Grosse Pointe Ministerial Association.

Landuyt's Meat Market, 15028 Mack, Grosse Pointe Park, served the community with freshly cut meat and groceries from 1923 to 1968.

Landuyt's Meat Market, circa 1927.

Old-time neighborhood shop

Landuyt's Meat Market was the neighborhood place to shop from 1923 until 1968.

Located between Maryland and Wayburn at 15028 Mack, Grosse Pointe Park, groceries were sold, but the meat market was the main draw.

Belgium native Sylvain Landuyt hired many Belgians to staff his store. He built the 5,400 square foot building in 1923 to house two businesses. One side was the meat market where Landuyt continued the trade he learned before emigrating. Cutting beef in the European style, he catered to the many Belgians who had settled in the area. A European cut means retail cuts are boneless. The second side of the building was the grocery store. Around 1940 the dividing wall was removed, the meat counters moved to the rear of the building and groceries moved to the front of the store.

Landuyt's son, Richard, began working in his father's shop while in grade school and continued until 1968, except for two years he served in the United States Army.

Sylvain Landuyt retired in 1963 and Richard assumed ownership of Landuyt's Meat Market with the most popular sales being hamburger, pork chops, stewing meat, chicken and sausage. Richard, along with his children and an aunt, Selena Staels, manned the store during the 1960s.

As times changed, the staff took customers' orders over the telephone and a delivery service was established in 1962. With the addition of an oven, the market provided cooked roast beef, chicken and other items for takeout.

According to Richard Landuyt, business was very good, employing seven butchers who worked six days a week to keep up with demand and all but one spoke Flemish. At times, Sylvain used to comment, it was like being back in Belgium because Flemish was the most pronounced language spoken in the store.

Richard Landuyt sold the store in 1968. A few years later the meat market caught fire and was destroyed.

At one time, Landuyt's Meat Market employed seven butchers to keep up with the demand for European-style cut meat.

I remember when...

I was born in 1936 and came from the hospital to Notre Dame in the City of Grosse Pointe, near the Kercheval Village. After 40 years, I moved to Shelbourne in Grosse Pointe Farms.

I attended Maire Elementary, Pierce Junior and Grosse Pointe High schools. During the war years, I remember victory gardens, war bond drives and new recruits marching through the Village from the Neighborhood Club.

We would practice air raids with a total darkness. All street, house and car lights were out so enemy bombers could not have a target.

My father, Melvin Beatty, was head of the water department, building and plumbing inspections. My uncle, John Rabaut, was a police sergeant and my cousin, Ledger Chauvin, was fire chief, all for the City of Grosse Pointe.

Businesses in the Village included Cunningham, Kroger, A & P, Tuttle & Clark (furniture store), Kresge 5 & 10, Lingeman's (florist shop), Treasure Chest (toy store), Notre Dame Drugs, Kopps Drugs, Piches Barber, Henry's Best & Co. (clothing), Sanders, McMillan, Sfires (grocery store), Jacobson's and the shoe repair.

Additional stores were Verfaillies, selling dry goods; Proppermen's clothing, D.J. Healy clothing, Standard, Shell and Gulf gas stations, Watko Funeral Home, Kinsel Drugs, Peck & Peck clothing and Village Manor, a restaurant in the Village.

During the pre-Christmas season the Village held men's night.

We would go to the Punch & Judy, Aloma, Colony and Esquire theaters. Some of the theaters would give free dishes on Wednesday. I am still using these dishes.

My French forefather was Jean B. St. Aubin, who came to the area in 1709. I am also a descendent of John Frech in 1840s and English; and John Martin, in 1824, a descendent from Edward Fuller, who came on the Mayflower.

One of the French farms was at Cadieux and Jefferson, owned by Ferdinand Pfeifer.

My great-great-grandfather, John Martin, was a light keeper of the Windmill Lighthouse. He founded the village of Catlin, N.Y., and was a captain in the New York militia in the War of 1812.

Defer Elementary School was named for my great-uncle George Defer.

Grosse Pointe Park's city hall was built on my great-grandparents', Charles and Sara Frech, property. My mother's first husband, Eddie Meyer, and his Grosse Pointe police partner were shot and killed at Wayburn and Jefferson June 1, 1930, by bootleggers.

In 1998, I moved to my family's lake house at Sugarloaf Lake, Chelsea.

Pointes in history

April 22, 1943

- ◆ Even ships' mascots are pulling a laboring oar in the bond campaign. Young Glen Forcier, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Forcier, Grosse Pointe Farms, went to bat for his father and enrolled as a "gallant" on Saturday morning and by Monday he had sold over $3,600 worth of bonds.
- ◆ Grosse Pointe came into the legal spotlight with the filing of a test case to determine the extent to which the federal government is liable for injuries suffered in the line of duty by a volunteer defense worker.
- ◆ A ride in an Army Jeep inspired students at the Vernier School to participate in the Second War Loan in a manner that astonished even their own faculty last week.
- ◆ The horticulture equivalent of the Nobel prize for scientific achievement or the Pulitzer prize for journalism has been won by Vincent DePetris of Hampton Road.
- ◆ Join the Easter parade with a Patrick hat said Patrick's ad. A Stratoliner cost $7.50, an Eagle style hat cost $7.50, a Playboy $5 and an Airliner $6.
- ◆ The Punch and Judy Theatre was showing "Arabian Nights," "Unexpected Uncle" and "Gentleman Jim."
- ◆ A plan to raise chickens brings a complaint by Cottage Hospital to the Farms Council meeting. The Farms ordinance would permit the project.

In a battle for early season bragging rights, Grosse Pointe South swept a double-header from Grosse Pointe North, winning 6-5 and 14-10 in front of the home fans.

"We battled back in game one and game two wasn't exactly a well-played game, but we were able to get another win," South head coach Dan Griesbaum said.

The Norsemen led 4-0 in the first game, thanks to Tristin Richardson and Dan Robinson's run-scoring hits.

The Blue Devils scored six runs in the third inning and held on for the win.

Dallas Clem earned the win in relief and Andrew Fabry pitched the seventh inning to get a save.

James Fishback had a two-run double and Justin McMann and Ryan Liagre drove in runs.

For the Norsemen, Richardson had two hits and two RBIs and Robinson had a two-run double. Sam Cross also drove in a run.

North all-state outfielder Dan Robinson played a large part in the Norsemen's offensive output against Grosse Pointe South.

Steven Levick took the loss.

It was less than stellar play in game two with Fishback getting the win in relief and Malik Bruton the loss.

For the Norsemen and head coach Frank Sumner, Tommy Burke was 5-for-5 with five RBIs and Robinson had two more hits and two RBIs.

For the Blue Devils, Brad Thompson had two hits and three RBIs, Will Poplawski had a two-run single and Alex Parthum had two hits and three RBIs.

Earlier in the week, South swept a three game series from Utica Eisenhower, improving to 3-0 in the Macomb Area Conference Red Division and 9-0 overall.

In game one, a 12-1 win, Doug Graham was the winning pitcher, giving up only one hit, walking two and striking out two.

Will Norris had three hits and four RBIs and Poplawski drove in two runs with a single.

Game two was a 4-2 victory with Fabry going the distance.

He scattered six hits, struck out four and walked one.

Fishback had two hits, including a home run, and three RBIs, and Liagre drove in a run.

The third game was a 4-3 outcome as Norris was the winning pitcher, striking out four and scattering five hits in six innings, and Graham picked up the save, pitching the seventh.

For the first time in a long time, Grosse Pointe South girls' softball team beat city rival Grosse Pointe North.

Behind a potent offense, which produced 13 hits, and sophomore Emma St. John's one-hit, 10-strikeout performance on the mound, the visiting Blue Devils won 11-0 in six innings.

Senior Katie Kish was 3-for-4 with a triple, three runs, two stolen bases and two RBIs, and senior Eliza Bourke was 2-for-3 with two doubles, a walk, two runs, a stolen base and one RBI to pace the offense.

Senior Cam Zihlman was also 2-for-3 with two RBIs, and St. John was 2-for-3 with a walk, two stolen bases, and one RBI.

Senior Andie Anger had a single and run scored, while freshman Grace Foster doubled and scored twice and junior Claire Drew nearly hit a homer, but settled for a run-scoring triple.

For the Norsemen, senior Nicole Haggerty had the lone hit off St. John, a third-inning triple.

Freshman Rebecca Alway walked twice and suffered the loss on the mound.

North played earlier in the week, losing a tough 6-3 division game to Fraser to fall to 0-3 in the Macomb Area Conference Blue Division and 0-4 overall.

As for South, it was another offensive explosion and a perfect game for St. John in a 10-0 win over Detroit Cass Tech.

St. John struck out 13 and had three hits at the plate, while Kish, Drew and freshman Lauren Sancya had two hits apiece.

The play of the game came on the final pitch when a Cass Tech player looked to single to right with two outs, but Anger came up with the ball and fired it to senior Ashley Borowicz at first base to get the girl by a step and preserve the perfect game.

South also played non-league games against host St. Clair and won 5-3 behind St. John's one-hitter and Kish's two hits.

Grosse Pointe South is 1-0 in the MAC Blue and improved to 9-0 overall after repeating as champions of the Detroit Renaissance Tournament last weekend.

The Blue Devils started with a 6-0 win over Westland Huron Valley.

St. John tossed a one-hitter, striking out 15 and led the offense by going 3-for-4 with a double, triple and one RBI.

Kish had two hits, stole two bases, scored twice and drove in a run, and Sancya had two hits and scored a run. Others with hits were Bourke, Zihlman, junior Christina Ambrozy and Foster.

The Blue Devils' offense was stuck in neutral the next two games, but they pulled out a 2-1 win over Fraser and 3-2 victory over Renaissance in the title game.

Against Fraser, the Blue Devils trailed 1-0 before scoring their runs in the top of the fourth inning.

Kish singled, stole second and moved to third on a Bourke single. Kish and Bourke both came around to score thanks to wild pitches.

St. John was the winning pitcher, giving up two first-inning singles and retiring the final 13 hitters she faced.

St. John struggled early on the mound against Renaissance, giving up two runs, four hits and two walks, including one intentional, in the first two innings.

She settled in to strike out 14 and the offense was led by Kish, Bourke and Anger.

South hosts a round robin Saturday, April 25, with Rochester, Warren Woods-Tower and city rival Liggett competing.

The University Liggett boys' lacrosse team dropped a tough 7-6 double-overtime game to visiting Motor City Lacrosse Club Monday evening. "We definitely had our chances to win this game, including some shots right in front of the net, but we didn't get it done," head coach Bill Brusilow said. It was a 3-3 tie at the half and 5-4 Motor City after three quarters. The Knights scored late to tie it and both squads had chances in the first overtime. Sam Brusilow led the Knights with three goals, while Harrison Wujek, August Bonnaci and Robert Whitaker had a goal apiece. In other recent action, Liggett beat Royal Oak Shrine 15-5, Detroit Southeastern 17-1 and Port Huron United 5-4, but lost 15-8 to Romeo. Liggett is 4-2 overall.

Late goals lift Liggett by North

City rivals University Liggett and Grosse Pointe North girls' lacrosse teams battled last week and one of the squads came away with its first win of the season. After two tight halves, host Liggett won 10-8. The Knights led 5-2 at the half, but the Norsemen stormed back to tie it 5-5 and again 8-8 with a few minutes left. The Knights scored two quick goals in a 60-second span to put the finishing touches on the victory. "The girls played hard and did a nice job passing and scoring some goals," Liggett head coach Jenny Calver said. "The girls were confident, even when North made its runs in the second half. "This was a nice win today."

Alison Stapleton led the Knights with three goals, while Grace Scarfone, Meg Shannon and Olivia Wujek had two goals apiece. As for North, Sydney Eger, Caroline Bock and Alli Schaden scored two goals apiece. Anna Gruber and Lindsay Gallagher also scored as the Norsemen were able to make half-time adjustments and put six goals on the board in the second half. "We came off a tough game the day before and I thought the girls played well, despite not picking up a stick for a week due to spring break," North head coach Lauren Nixon said. "We're getting used to my system and some of the older girls, I'm the third different coach they had in three years, so there is an adjustment period for all of us."

The University Liggett girls' softball team is struggling out of the gate. Last week, the Knights lost 17-10 to Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest and the following day dropped an 8-4 decision to St. Clair Shores Lakeview. A combination of defensive mistakes and pitching woes has been the culprit for the slow start. "We're hitting the ball very well and that is not the problem, but giving teams five and six outs some innings has been our problem," head coach

Ted Alpert said. Against Northwest, the Knights jumped out to a 5-0 lead in the first inning, but the home team scored nine runs in the second and six in the fifth to beat Liggett for the first time in seven years. Senior Kacie Wuthrich had four hits, while senior Taylor Slayton, junior Emily Kanakry and freshman Maddie Hamilton had two hits apiece. Senior Zarine Minwalla suffered the loss. The Knights played their third away game in three nights, playing at conference favorite Huron Valley Lutheran. Alpert watched Minwalla pitch effectively in relief, earning a 6-3 victory. She pitched the final 5 2/3 innings, giving up six hits, zero earned runs, two walks and three strikeouts. Offensively, Kanakry led the way with two hits, including a double, and two RBIs, and Hamilton had one hit and two walks. Liggett improved to 1-1 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference and 3-3 overall after winning two games last weekend, 12-2 over Wixom St. Catherine and 14-2 over city rival Grosse Pointe North. Both were mercies.

GROSSE POINTE SOUTH

Girls start fast

The Grosse Pointe South girls' track and field team returned from break with a busy week.

The Blue Devils began with a 112-25 win over Farmington Hills Mercy, then beat Romeo 106-31 in a division meet and finished with a third-place finish in the Dexter Relays last weekend.

Against Mercy, South took 16 first place finishes in the 17 events and two days later took 15 of 17 first place finishes against Romeo.

"Our team depth was easily brought to light in our first two dual meets. It was great to take so many firsts, but even better to display our depth with so many seconds and thirds," head coach Steve Zaranek said. "Our girls are off to an outstanding start."

On Saturday, the team traveled to Dexter for the 24th annual Dexter Relays.

South shined in the sprints with the 4x200 (Elizabeth Calcaterra, Cierra Rice, Christy Ford and Elise Grever) and the 4x100 (Calcaterra, Kayli Johnson, Ford and Grever) team taking seconds with times ranking them among the top five in the state. The winning team in both relays, Ann Arbor Pioneer, is the top-ranked team.

The Blue Devils also excelled in the distance races placing in the 4x800 (Kamryn Leonard, Maddie McDonnell, Katie Kuhr and Anna Piccione) and the distance medley relay (Piccione, Kendall Graczyk, Kuhr and Leonard).

South's shuttle hurdle team of Natasha Boelstler, Katie Marschner, Madeline Dice and Spencer Graczyk also medaled for South.

In the field events, the shot relay team of Johnson, Leigh Farquhar and Claire Berg took second place with pole vaulters. Hadley Diamond, Hadley Griffin and Natalia Szura all clearing 7-feet, 6-inches, to round out the day.

South junior Kayli Johnson set a new all-time state track and field record in the shot put at the Michigan Interscholastic Track Coaches Association state meet held at Eastern Michigan University Feb. 28.

She bettered the old record by one foot with a toss of 47-feet, 9-inches. Johnson earned all-state honors last spring at the MHSAA division 1 track finals with a toss of 40-feet, 1-inch.

As for the boys, they lost a tight 71-66 meet to Romeo, dropping them to 0-1 in the MAC Red Division.

In the field events, senior Mitchell Donovan and sophomore Horatio Williams won the discus and shot put with throws of 115-feet, 7-inches, and 36-feet, 3-inches, respectively.

The Blue Devils also won several running events, but the Bulldogs were able to squeeze out five more points to win the MAC Red Division opener.

Against Northwest, senior Haley Neuenfeldt, from freshman Delaney Bandos; freshman Alexis Wenger, from Rebecca Lohman; and Olivia Yates, from Wenger, tallied for the Knights.

Wenger scored, from Yates, in the first half against Greenhills. In the second half, it was freshman Annelies Ondersman from Yates. Yates scored from junior Ellie Withers; and Bandos finished off the scoring off an assist from Yates.

Sophomore goalkeeper Kara Francis was a wall in net and posted the two shutouts.

Liggett improved to 2-0 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference and 2-2 overall.

North & South results

Grosse Pointe North and Grosse Pointe South finished its non-league schedule last week with not so favorable results.

The Norsemen lost 3-1 to Stevenson.

Head coach, Olivia Stander, however, has her team ready to begin the Macomb Area Conference White Division slate this week.

Grosse Pointe North dropped to 1-3 overall and Grosse Pointe South is 1-5 after losing three games last week, 3-0 to Detroit Country Day, 1-0 to Fraser and 1-0 to L'Anse Creuse North.

"We played very well against Fraser and should have won the game, but I was disappointed with our effort in the first half against L'Anse Creuse North," South head coach Gene Harkins said.

Board talks to final candidates

By Kathy Ryan
Staff Writer

After interviews Monday, April 20, the Grosse Pointe Public School System Board of Education was expected to narrow the choices for superintendent a day later.

An update is available at grossepointenews.com.

The candidates, Steven Matthews, Gary Niehaus and Matthew Wandrie, faced 90 minutes of questioning, with each applicant being asked the same 20 questions.

Among the topics covered were:

- ◆ how to handle district technology,
- ◆ the top challenge facing district,
- ◆ candidates' experience with diversified high school academic programs,
- ◆ residency,
- ◆ the application of least restrictive environments for special education students, and
- ◆ the role of the school board.

There were also questions related to transparency, staff development and how a superintendent should address divisions within the school board.

Niehaus was the first candidate to face the board. He served as superintendent of the McLean County Unit District No. 5 in Normal, Ill., retiring in 2014. He began his teaching career in 1975 in Louisiana. He served as a principal and district superintendent in several districts in Illinois. He holds a doctorate in educational leadership from Loyola University.

He told the board he had spoken with former superintendent Suzanne Klein, and said the district didn't need change as much as it needed to realign its priorities.

"We can improve technology," Niehaus said. "You're not as far behind as you think."

He said he felt the biggest challenges facing the district are the "rivalry" between North and South high schools, saying there should be no inconsistency between schools; the decline in enrollment; how to improve technology and the infrastructure needed to support technology; and the need for least restrictive environments for special education students.

In his closing remarks, Niehaus said he and his wife would plan to live in Grosse Pointe and be active in the community.

"I plan to live here, go to church here, play golf here, go to Rotary here," he said, saying he and his wife had visited Grosse Pointe a few weeks ago. "We fell in love with the community. I feel it fits my personality and leadership style."

The board then interviewed Steven Matthews, who currently serves as superintendent of the Novi Community Schools District. Matthews, a former Harper Woods resident, served on the Grosse Pointe public school board of education from 1996 to 2004. He holds a doctorate in education from Wayne State University. He began his career as a teacher in Hale Center, Texas, was an assistant professor at WSU and previously served as superintendent of the Grand Ledge Public Schools.

Matthews said the biggest challenge facing the district is declining enrollment. He also said the major focus of the district should be the students, not technology. He is not in favor of individual devices for each student, rather he encourages engaging students and ensuring they become interested learners.

"We need to focus on the four C's," he said. "And while content is important, that information is readily accessible to our students through technology. We need to ensure they become critical thinkers, collaborators and communicators."

"We need to prepare students for their future, not our past."

While he addressed the issue of a federal lawsuit filed in December against the Novi Community Schools by the family of a special education student, he declined to comment on the ongoing litigation, citing privacy laws. The suit alleges the student was sexually assaulted by another student over a period of several months, and the district did not act to protect the student.

In his closing statement, he cited Grosse Pointe as being a significant part of his family's life.

"I believe in the Grosse Pointe schools," he said, "and the superintendent is just one piece of a larger puzzle. People here make a difference."

Wandrie, who currently serves as the superintendent of the Lapeer Community Schools in Lapeer, was the final interviewee.

Wandrie earned a Master of Arts degree in educational leadership from Eastern Michigan University. He began his teaching career at Holly High School, was principal at Waterford Mott

High School and director of human resources for the Dearborn Public Schools before becoming superintendent in Lapeer in 2011.

Wandrie said it was imperative the district act on the recommendations put forth by focus groups and the survey conducted by SCHOOL EXEC CONNECT during the superintendent search.

Grosse Pointe, he said, needs to "rise above the complacency of being a good district."

Wandrie is a strong proponent of technology, and favors a policy that provides a device for every student. However, he said it was important to develop a plan that addresses technology by grade level and by the needs of individual schools. He said in Lapeer, one school uses iPads, while another school believes ChromeBooks best serves its needs. High school students operate on the "bring your own device" policy.

Wandrie said a problem with technology is how rapidly it changes, and districts need to be able to respond quickly to those changes to provide students with the skills they need to be successful.

"Any discussion of K through 12 education needs to include technology," he said.

He said one of his biggest challenges as Lapeer superintendent was merging the two high schools and attempting to realign middle school enrollments. He said listening to the community caused some changes in the initial plans, but it was important to building community trust.

He also cited the importance of partnering with parents of special-needs students.

In his closing statement, Wandrie said he considers the Grosse Pointe schools a "destination district," and one that demands dynamic leadership.

"You're not comfortable with the status quo, and neither am I," he said.

The board was expected to bring back two candidates for final interviews Tuesday, April 28, and Wednesday, April 29. Information on these interviews, including times and locations, can be found on the district's website, gpschools.org.

Meet the Gearheads in St. Louis

By Kathy Ryan
Staff Writer

Pointe Gearheads 1189 — the robotics team comprised of Grosse Pointe North and South high school students — are heading to St. Louis, Mo., this week to compete in the world-wide robotics competition sponsored by For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology.

FIRST is an international organization founded in 1989 by inventor Dean Kamen to inspire high school students in engineering and technology and encourage students to pursue STEM courses in college. The combined Grosse Pointe North-South team works under the direction of Grosse Pointe North physics teacher Don Pata.

This trip to the championship culminates an award-winning season for the team. Not only did the team rank in the top 3 percent in the state, the Gearheads also won the “Engineering Excellence Award” at its first competition in Howell.

Sponsored by Delphi Automotive, the award recognizes engineering excellence. The Gearheads have competed in three district competitions this season, winning silver medals at each, and finished in seventh place at the state finals in Grand Rapids. The performance of this year’s robot, nicknamed “Spock,” was the best in the team’s history and helped the team qualify for the World Competition. The team is featured in a number of episodes on the TV series, “Robozone,” which airs at noon Sundays on CW 50.

In addition, the media arm of Team 1189 has won the 2015 “Innovation Challenge” from FedEx which gives four students and two chaperones the opportunity to travel to FIRST headquarters in Manchester, N.H., to pitch a future game design idea to members of the FIRST Game Design Committee and receive a visit from a FedEx representative who will help develop and refine their game idea. This year’s prize also includes dinner at Kamen’s home with top FIRST representatives.

A stellar season and team spirit can’t get the team to St. Louis. The financial challenges are numerous. In addition to generous support from committed sponsors, Team 1189 has mounted a number of fundraising campaigns. Those interested in donating to the team through its Go Fund Me campaign can visit gofundme.com/Gearheads1189. Tax-deductible donations also can be made to the Grosse Pointe Foundation for Public Education indicating Gearheads on the memo line.

The team is registered with Kroger Community Rewards as Grosse Pointe Robotics Club. Barnes and Noble Bookstore recently hosted a book fair for the Gearheads. Look for upcoming events at Barnes and Noble (with a visit by “Spock”), Which Wich in the Village and Buffalo Wild Wings on Harper in St. Clair Shores.

For competition updates, follow the team on its website, gpgearheads1189.org, Facebook page, FRC 1189 – The Gearheads, and on Twitter @FRC1189.

fulfilling life beyond the classroom.”

The DCCP program will engage students in fifth through 12th grades, with focus on early adoption of professional skill-building and career awareness in the classroom. Students will receive progressive exposure to professional training as part of their day-to-day curriculum through lessons on critical thinking, public speaking, team building and ethics. As students progress through the program their exposure to experiential learning, via integrated mentorship and internship programs with Deloitte, will prime them for academia and careers beyond high school.

“Cornerstone’s corporate supporters have a significant impact on our students and their success. This program demonstrates a unique opportunity to provide Cornerstone’s students with professional role models,” said Clark Durant, founder of Cornerstone Schools. “As we actively explore ways to collaborate with other corporations to extend the Career Pathways program, our goal is to expand opportunities for our students in all industries using the platform established with Deloitte as a basis for future programs.”

Current and prospective students in grades five through nine will be automatically enrolled in the DCCP. Students enrolled in grades 10 and above can apply for enrollment in the program upon registration for the 2015-2016 school year.
