GROSSE POINTE WOODS — With the city council giving its final approval, officials from the Grosse Pointe Woods Foundation are teeing up their fundraising drive for a miniature golf course at Lake Front Park.

The course, which will be located next to the activities building, is expected to be completed by summer 2017.

Plans for the course were unveiled in June. At the time, Foundation President Rob Nederhood said the course

Park thanks Hiller

GROSSE POINTE PARK — It's official.

Stephen Poloni has been named director of public safety, effective Jan. 1, 2016, and will do double duty as chief in the Park, as well as continuing as chief in the City of Grosse Pointe.

"He will serve both communities and will lead us to more shared services," said Park Mayor Greg Theokas as he introduced Poloni to the city council at its Sept. 28 meeting.

Poloni will replace David Hiller, who is retiring after 44 years of service to the Park.

"If I were going to be in a foxhole, I would want to be with Dave Hiller," Theokas said. "He has been a part of this community for a very long time. This is a bitter-sweet moment for us."

Hiller, 65, received a standing ovation from the 100 people attending the council meeting.

Councilmembers thanked Hiller for his service.

"It's hard to imagine you not being here," said Dan Clark. "I want to thank you personally. We live in a safe and secure community and nothing is more important than that."

City Manager Dale Krajniak cited Hiller's role in combining the police and fire departments into a public safety department in the 1980s.

Dan Grano cited Hiller's support following the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attack.

"We had three Michigan Supreme Court justices living in Grosse Pointe and my mother was one of them," Grano said, explaining how, when court operations were shut down over security concerns, Hiller assisted with moving those operations to city hall and allowing the business of the court to continue.

Laurie Arora thanked Hiller for his assistance when residents contacted her with concerns, while Bob Denner thanked Hiller for making the Park a safe place for families to live and raise children.

James Robson expressed the feelings of the council.

"You are a dedicated servant to this city," he told Hiller. "You rose from the ranks and sometimes you have walked a lonely and thankless path. But we appreciate all you have done. You're a great guy. Thank you."

would be a "unique offering that would appeal to a broad range of the community, from pre-schoolers to senior citizens."

According to Foundation member Lisa Fuller, the final plans approved by the council consist of a 12,000- to 15,000-square-foot 18-hole course with nine handicap-accessible holes.

"We are thrilled with the approval," she said. "This will be an amenity that can be used by all our residents, from age 4 to 104."

She also said the course will increase park usage, since it will operate outside the traditional Memorial Day to Labor Day season.

The cost of the project, estimated at $175,000, will be covered by the Foundation, which kicks off a fundraising drive Thursday, Nov. 5, at Lochmoor Club.

According to

Nederhood, the Foundation will have several sponsor options available, including naming individual holes.

Information on the Foundation and the fundraiser are available at gpwfoundation.org.

Miedema earns honor

Grosse Pointe Farms resident Ernie Miedema was honored as the Attractions and Casinos Category Winner at Detroit Metro Convention & Visitors Bureau's Recognition of Service Excellence Awards. Miedema, an engineer at MotorCity Casino Hotel, was among more than 200 hospitality superstars recognized at the ceremony Sept. 23 at the Detroit Opera House.

Miedema has worked at MotorCity Casino Hotel 15 years. He is a positive team player who is always the first to lend a helping hand. Miedema believes in giving back to people who are less fortunate and dedicates thousands of hours volunteering for various community outreach initiatives through his company and outside of work.

When a fellow associate was terminally ill and received a Habitat for Humanity home, Miedema stepped in and performed more than 100 hours of time on his coworker's behalf. Every year he organizes a Habitat for Humanity event for MotorCity's Helping Hands volunteer team and outside of work he is a liaison for Habitat for Humanity's Grosse Pointe Partners.

He served as a leader in a room renovation for Christ Child House, which included painting and carpeting the recreation room and installing wall-mounted televisions. He also serves as a chaperone at the Vista Maria prom sponsored by MotorCity Casino, as well as assists with annual barbeques for Christ Child House and Mariners Inn.

"Metro Detroit's hospitality community plays a huge part in the visitor experience of the 18 million people that come to the region each year," said DMCVB President and CEO Larry Alexander. "Individuals like Mr. Miedema make a difference in our region and we are honored to recognize their contributions in making Detroit shine."

Payback cuts premium

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

CITY OF GROSSE POINTE — A third annual increase in the city's liability insurance premium has a council member thinking about changing the policy or provider.

Councilman Andrew Turnbull, vice president of Sterling Insurance Group, suggested the City of Grosse Pointe increase its deductible to qualify for a lower premium with current provider Michigan Municipal Liability & Property Pool.

"We should explore bids, (and) other options," Turnbull said.

The City has belonged to the pool since 1985.

Premiums increased in recent years: 2.1 percent in 2013, 2.85 percent in 2014 and 3.2 percent this year at a current cost of $118,380.

"The city has a $10 million general liability with zero deductible," said Judith Thomson-Torosian, MML service and sales manager handling the City's account. "This includes general liability (and) law enforcement liability. This also includes a $100,000 sewer backup supplement. The city has auto damage liability with zero deductible."

"This policy covers all city-owned property, including vehicles, contractor equipment and electronic data processing equipment, buildings and liability coverage," said Peter Dame, city manager.

"We are happy with the MML's service."

The cost of the premium is mitigated by the prospect of MML distributing year-end surpluses among its 442 members.

"Since this is a pool, the members own the surplus," said Thomson-Torosian.

Distributions of surplus are called dividends.

"For the fifth year in a row, for renewing coverage with the MML, the city will receive a dividend of $15,585 after the upcoming year's premium is paid," Dame said. "Overall, this results in a cost to the city of about $15,000 less in 2015-2016 than a decade ago."

"With that return of $15,585, the next premium for the city for this upcoming term is $102,795," said Thomson-Torosian.

"The reason we don't deduct it from the premium is dividends are not guaranteed."

"The tricky part is, even if there were a lower bid, premiums make our net cost lower," Dame said.

Fireworks still a problem

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE SHORES — Council members want state legislators to turn back the clock on Michigan's fireworks law.

They've passed a resolution seeking repeal of the Michigan Fireworks Safety Act 256 of 2011.

"It's a non-bind resolution," said Grosse Pointe Shores Mayor Ted Kedzierski. "It's a matter that has to be resolved at the state level."

The effort pleases resident Frank Tenkel, annoyed by a fireworks barrage during the Labor Day weekend.

"I think most people in the village will heartily support that resolution," Tenkel said.

"We'll forward it to the governor's office," said Mark Wollenweber, Shores manager.

Legislators liberalized the law to let citizens shoot a wider variety of more powerful pyrotechnics during three-day periods around 10 holidays per year.

Unwanted consequences "resulted in far more fireworks-related noise, litter and potential safety issues," the resolution continues.

"We've had a number of complaints," said Kedzierski.

Yet, current state law "severely restricts the authority of a local unit of government to regulate sales, possession and use," according to the resolution.

The Pointes' then-state Rep. Tim Bledsoe, D-City of Grosse Pointe, said shortly after the measure was enacted he regretted supporting the original change.

He tried to revise it and restrict fireworks purchases and usage.

"There were amendments the second year to make it less onerous, but it still is a problem," Wollenweber said.

"It's gotten a little out of hand," said Dale Scrace, mayor of the City of Grosse Pointe. "Every corner seems to have a tent selling fireworks. I hear them going off all the time."

Farms harvest set

GROSSE POINTE FARMS — Children meet their barnyard counterparts at a petting zoo during Autumn Harvest at Pier Park.

"In the past, we've had a little pig, miniature cow and small donkey," said Michele Eickhorst, recreation coordinator for the Grosse Pointe Farms parks and recreation department.

Harvest is for Farms residents, 12:30 to 3 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 10.

Admission is $5 per person.

"We usually have 600 people," Eickhorst said. "We're going to have a lot of kids' stuff, a big apple bounce house, hayrides, marshmallow roasts and candy hunt for the kids. We hide it in bails of hay."

A juggler replaces last year's magician.

"The harvest runs itself," Eickhorst said.

There are doughnuts, cider and pumpkin decorating.

City-issued park passes are required for entry to the residents-only park.

Lock your cars

Monday, Sept. 28, was not a good day to be the owner of an unlocked car. Several parked in the 1000 block of Devonshire were entered during the early morning hours, as well as a car parked in the 1100 block of Bedford. Cars entered on Devonshire included a 2015 GMC Yukon, a 2015 Lincoln and a 2006 Saturn. Items taken included money and sunglasses. On Bedford, a 2014 Cadillac was entered and a laptop with a Kate Spade case was taken. Police arrested a 41-year-old Inkster man at 1:39 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 4, for drunken driving. A patrolman reported him operating a maroon 2003 Mercury Mountaineer up to 50 mph before stopping for a red light at Moross nearly halfway through the intersection.

The man had a .16 percent blood alcohol level, according to the arresting officer.

Phone scam

Scammers used a common con last month to fleece an 88-year-old Grosse Pointe Farms man of $2,000.

When they tried again this month, he caught on and called police.

It started when he answered a telephone call Sept. 1 from someone impersonating his grandson claiming to need $2,000 to get out of jail on a marijuana charge.

"(The caller) asked (the man) to keep this a secret because he was embarrassed and didn't want other family members to find out," reported Officer Geoff McQueen.

The man followed the caller's instructions to buy four $500 debit cards at a local pharmacy and provide him the account numbers and related security codes.

Then, on Friday, Oct. 2, the impersonator called again. He asked for another $2,000 to pay court costs.

"(The victim) refused and hung up," McQueen said.

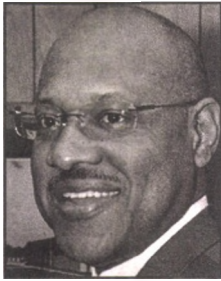

The victim called his son and learned his

Curto a girls' sports pioneer

By Monica Sabella
Editorial Intern

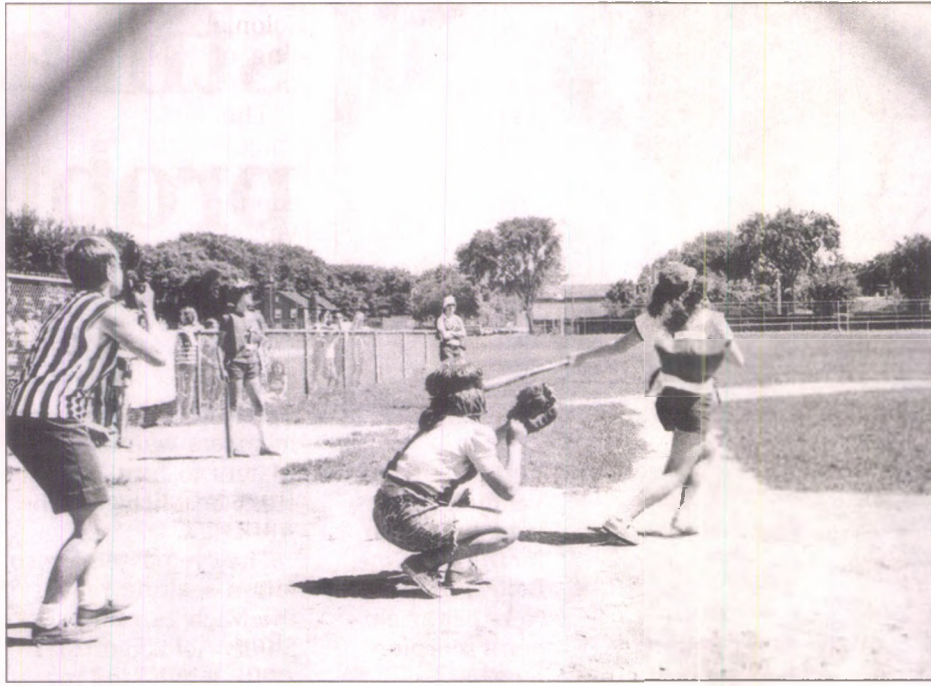

Joan Curto has been a resident of Grosse Pointe since the 1940s. It's easy to notice her vivacious personality, wit and love of baseball. However, less apparent is how truly influential her love of sports has been to the women of the Grosse Pointe area.

"She is a trailblazer in girls' sports," said Sierra Donaven, a neighbor and friend of the family.

Curto moved from Toledo to the metro Detroit area when she was young. As a child, she attended Maire Elementary School.

"I was a real tomboy," Curto said.

Her father was athletic and she inherited her passion for sports from him. She described the tall play structure she loved to climb that stood behind Maire with long ropes dangling from the beams above. In sixth grade, her teacher came outside to bring the children back to class and noticed Curto, then Campbell, was missing from the group.

COURTESY PHOTOS

Joan Curto, nee Campbell, played her first season with the Detroit Tigerettes in 1948. At left, she took a turn as an umpire at an all star game.

"Where is Joan Campbell?" she asked.

"Here I am!" Joan called from above. She had climbed to the top of the rope before her teacher arrived and there she sat high above her classmates, waving her arm and smiling away.

A few years later she was walking the halls of Grosse Pointe High School.

"I played every sport they had; they didn't have much for girls."

The school allowed female students to play badminton, tennis, hockey, volleyball and basketball, however those options didn't compare to the long list of sports made available to boys. Once a girl won a sport, she would be presented with a dark blue circular badge made of felt with the letters "GP" in gold across the front.

"I got one almost every week," recalled Curto. "I just threw them in a drawer when I got home."

Many years later, she ran into an old teacher who said if she had been a boy she would have gotten a scholarship to any college in the country.

"But," said Curto, "for the girls, we got nothing."

In 1948, Curto graduated and during the ceremony, to her surprise, she was presented a trophy for "Outstanding Girl Athlete." It was the first time in the history of the school a girl had been recognized for athleticism, she said.

"(Receiving the award) was probably the biggest thing of my life."

Curto went on to play a season with the semi-pro Detroit Tigerettes.

"It was somewhat like the movie 'A League of Their Own.'"

They wore orange silk uniforms that came to the knee. After her contract expired, Curto was ready for a more leisurely game of softball. She met with two of her girlfriends and told them, "Round up as many girls as you can and let's have some fun of our own."

A woman named Pauline Masak, the Neighborhood Club's recreational director at the time, saw the girls playing and having a good time. She asked where they were from and what they were doing.

They told her they were from Grosse Pointe and never got to play sports like the boys, so they decided to organize their own teams. Masak thought it was a great idea and shortly after arranged to hold tryouts for a Grosse Pointe girls softball team for grades 4 to 12.

"Some girls were really great and some other girls couldn't even lift the bat," Curto said, but all were eager to play.

The mothers thought it was wonderful their girls were able to do something, too, Curto said. They would bring lemonade and cookies for after the games. Fathers and volunteers from the Neighborhood Club served as umpires.

The club spread the word to local businesses in hopes of finding sponsors for the girls' uniforms. The response was overwhelmingly supportive. Curto recalled one restaurant, The Purple Pickle, jumped in on the action and was by far one of the most popular primarily due to its unusual name.

"Some of the littler girls were so excited to wear a shirt like their big brothers with their name on the back ... and that's how the neighborhood girls' softball started."

The teams would play on the baseball fields around town, sometimes on Kerby Field and other times on the grounds behind Brownell Middle School. Most of the girls didn't care about the scoreboard. They were simply proud to be part of a team, Curto said.

There were a few teams that were competitive, but she remembered one that hadn't won a single game all year; she liked them best.

"They were so happy. They would sit in a circle, eating cupcakes and just having a good time and that's what it was all about."

Curto played ball for a short while and coached for a year, but eventually found her place behind home plate. She attended training and umpired for nine years. She said she would have to remind the girls to watch the ball to prevent injury.

"Don't be picking daisies out there or dreaming about what your boyfriend's doing tonight," she'd tell her girls. Curto said she used to arrive to the games early and wait in her car as they warmed up.

"One day as I was walking on to the field, I heard one little girl say, 'Oh great! We got the good ump.' It was one of my proudest moments," said Curto.

Every once in a while she receives a call from one of them and they still greet her with a cheerful, "Hi, ump. How's it going?"

Curto lives with her husband near the Village. All three of her sons live close by. Curto paints and often attends activities at Services for Older Citizens, but still loves baseball the most, cheering on her Detroit Tigers at almost every game. She expressed how proud she is of the number of sports available and how far girls' sports have come since she was a girl.

"I guess I was just born a generation too early," she said.

(Joan) believes in people. She believes in the goodness of people," Donaven said, adding Curto is a natural teacher, the type who believes anybody can do anything they want.

"It is so important for young girls who are aspiring athletes to hear her story," Donaven said. "She is such an inspiration."

Hockey theft

On Tuesday, Sept. 29, a man reported the theft of a black and gold Warrior bag containing about $1,000 worth of assorted hockey equipment, including skates, from an outdoor porch of his house on Lakeview.

Disorderly

While patrolling the area of Mack and Moross at 7:47 p.m. Monday, Sept. 28, an officer spotted a man sleeping on grass near the Mack driveway to Chase Bank.

"(I) approached (him) to check his welfare," said the officer.

"(He) indicated he was having a stroke, (complaining of) chest pains and shortness of breath."

The man, 37, of Dearborn Heights, stood and urinated in view of "several" customers of a service station on neighboring property, prompting his arrest for disorderly conduct, the officer said.

Due to the medical complaint, the officer summoned medics to take him to a hospital.

Trouble

A public safety officer logged numerous reasons for pulling over a Warren man, 52, at 2:36 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 4, and arresting him for operating a 1993 Ford while drunk.

The officer reported him driving through a red light from southbound Lakeshore to westbound Vernier, accelerate to 47 mph in a 30 mph zone while twice crossing over the center line into oncoming lanes.

During curbside sobriety tests near the intersection of Morningside, the man reportedly registered a .189 percent blood alcohol level.

Broken main

Water escaping a broken pipe under the Lakeshore median at Colonial during the evening of Friday, Oct. 2, undermined a light pole.

"The pole base was being washed out by the water flow and began to lean far enough to be in danger of falling into traffic lanes," said a public safety officer on scene at 9:02 p.m.

Municipal employees and a contractor shut off the main and removed the pole, leaving a hole cordoned off with construction barricades and caution tape prior to completing repairs Monday, Oct. 5.

on Vernier. When the driver stopped the cab, the passenger jumped out and ran. The cab driver gave chase on foot, but was not able to keep up. A witness identified the passenger as a Grosse Pointe Woods resident and a check by police revealed he was wanted on several outstanding warrants. Police were unable to locate him and the detective bureau is now handling the case.

Street cleaning on overnight shift

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE FARMS — Fans of "The Simpsons" cartoon TV sitcom know the excuse adolescent troublemaker Bart Simpson gives to dodge accountability: "I didn't do it. Nobody saw me do it. There's no way you can prove anything."

Likewise, the way a patrol officer on the mid-night shift describes it, a 56-year-old Harper Woods man with a history of burglary and weapons possession denied ditching gloves and a hunting knife on Mack across from where a woman living in the 400 block of Bournemouth reported suspicious noises at 2 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 10:

"(I) questioned (him about) what (I) saw him discard on the grass prior to the stop," reported Sgt. Holly Krizmanich of the Grosse Pointe Farms public safety department. "(He) stated various answers, ranging from, 'I don't know,' to 'I don't remember.' (I) thought it odd that (he) did not remember what he threw on the ground less than five minutes earlier."

Presented with the recovered brown and white leather gloves and 4 7/8-inch Imperial hunting knife, the man "denied they belonged to him or that it was him that discarded these items," Krizmanich said.

"That guy was up to no good; that's for sure," said Detective Bryan Ford.

"(He) has a criminal history of home invasion, burglary and dangerous weapons, carrying with unlawful intent," Krizmanich said.

Let go

There wasn't enough evidence to arrest him.

"(He) was released on scene pending follow-up by the detective bureau," Krizmanich said.

"We submitted a warrant request for possession of a knife," Ford said.

Krizmanich encountered the man as he rode a bicycle on eastbound Mack.

She and other officers were in the area because a woman on Bournemouth called police about "a thud" outside her bedroom and "suspicious noises near her side door."

"There have been several complaints of larcenies from auto and suspicious activity near streets of the reported call," Officer James Lebeau wrote in an initial incident report.

The man said he was pedaling home from fixing a drain at a female friend's house in the 5200 block of Hereford on Detroit's eastside.

He carried a bag containing a Millers Falls Tool drill to make repairs, he told police.

Another suspect

Two other officers noticed an open residential garage containing tools in the 19300 block of Mack, around the corner from the noise complaint.

They secured the garage and tried to notify the homeowner.

"(I) called the residence and left a message to check for anything possibly missing from their garage," Lebeau reported.

Officers also arrested a Troy man, 41, walking westbound on Mack past the garage, on four outstanding warrants.

"(He) stated he came off of Allard and was walking toward (the service station at Mack and Moross)," Lebeau reported.

Warrants consisted of trespassing in St. Clair Shores, disorderly conduct in Rochester and violating probation in Harper Woods.

Farms officers said they turned him over to Harper Woods police at the intersection of Mack and Vernier in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Dancing with Dylan: One enchanted evening

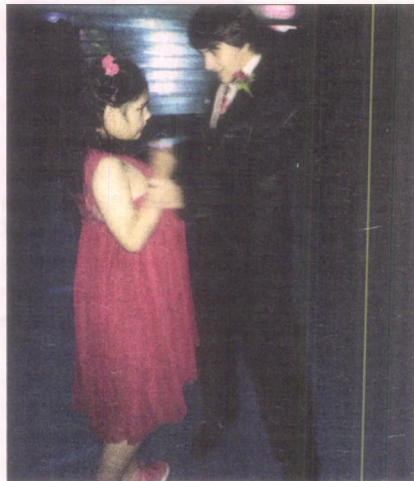

By Mary Anne Brush
Staff Writer

Dylan Krieger and Lindsey Young were like any other Grosse Pointe South High School 17-year-olds attending the homecoming dance Saturday, Oct. 3. They went through the normal preparations. Krieger shopped for a suit with his father. Young's mother, Michelle, bought her a dress and matching shoes. Krieger showed up at Young's house with a dozen long-stemmed red roses. She wore a wrist corsage and he wore a matching boutonniere. The couple posed for pictures and enjoyed a candlelight pizza dinner together. They even have their own celebrity nickname: Dylinds.

Krieger and Young met in class and were drawn together, like many couples, by something they shared in common — in their case, autism. They met at the beginning of last school year in South's autism spectrum disorder/cognitive impairment room. Young was still new to South, having made the transition from Pierce Middle School.

Young's autism is complicated by a host of health challenges. She has a rare and life-threatening genetic syndrome and is non-verbal. Krieger, according to his mother, Amy Burrows, speaks, but is not conversational. "He's a one-word kind of kid," Burrows said.

"Dylan has become her buddy and protector," said Michelle Young. "We say 'girlfriend' and 'boyfriend.' They share a connection. Dylan is the most gentlemanly boy, completely gentle, so good for Lindsey, who is prone to falling."

Krieger made the first move, according to Young. "He started initiating helping Lindsey. If she needed the wheelchair, he would get it for her. It happened to coincide with when his older brother left for college. He was lonely and attached to Lindsey. Everyone noticed and got really excited."

"He watches out for Lindsey," said ASD teacher Jill Rotole. She described a typical morning when Lindsey arrived in the classroom around third hour. "We were in the middle of English instruction. All of a sudden he looked up, got bright-eyed, stood up real quick, took the stuffed animal he was holding and chucked it across the room. He ran over to embrace her and give her a kiss on the cheek. The second she comes in, he gets all happy."

Both Krieger and Young spend most of their time in the ASD/CI classroom, but interact with other students in the hallways and at lunch. They also participate in the Peer-to-Peer program, which educates students in the general education population about special needs learners to allow them to interact more naturally together.

"High school is the first time in (Dylan's) school career when he has gone to lunch with peers without any assistance," Burrows said. "The Peer-to-Peer program is amazing."

Krieger and Young's first date was a chaperoned event at Starbucks. The second was to a movie. The Young family has invited Krieger over several times since to watch movies.

"Amy was like, do you want to try homecoming?" Michelle Young recalled.

The two mothers had formed a friendship through their children. Burrows, a K-5 ASD teacher at Richard Elementary School, discovered the relationship while following Young's Facebook page, "Loving Lindsey." At first she didn't realize references to a "D" helping Young in the classroom pertained to her own son.

"It's been delightful for me and for Michelle, too, to have this fun thing for us and to see the typical things teenagers do," Burrows said.

"Not all parents click just because you have a special needs child, but Amy has been so gracious and wonderful," Young said. "We are completely comfortable around each other and we can talk about having this little slice of normal for the kids. (It) is a great thing for them but for us too. You're kind of removed from that when you have a child with special needs. Lindsey is my only child so I have never experienced any of the typical teenage things, or any of the things you experience when you have a child, so this is exciting for all of us."

Krieger and Young's first homecoming dance may have been different from other couples'. Young can't wear high-heeled shoes, for example, so her mother purchased red sneakers to match her embroidered trapeze dress. The couple arrived early, thanks to special arrangements made by South organizers, before the crowd and noise in the gym became overwhelming.

The families have learned to set realistic goals and to celebrate small victories. By every measure that counts, the night was a success.

"Everything just came together," Michelle Young said. "The stars aligned for them last night and that doesn't happen often with all the illnesses in Lindsey's life."

Their "little love story" gives something for them, along with their parents, to look forward to, Young said. "It has been a great gift for (Dylan) to come into our lives."

New principal keeps traditions alive

By Mary Anne Brush
Staff Writer

In his first year as principal at St. Clare of Montefalco Catholic School, Geoffrey Fisher aspires to keep a lot of traditions alive. Getting slimed is not one of them.

It is, however, part of a bigger tradition: that of creating an annual summer reading challenge for students. Fisher's predecessor, Sister Kathy Avery, started it during her eight-year tenure. In past reading challenges she stood on her head, rode in a convertible, read on top of the school after being elevated by a fire truck and rode on a tandem bicycle with the Rev. Tom Griffin. She also started a tradition of dying her hair a different color for each challenge.

This year, in recognition of a total of 1,012,000 pages read by students and faculty, Fisher dyed his hair green and allowed students to "slime" him with a substance made of cornstarch, water and green food coloring. Students who completed the reading challenge also were allowed to dye their hair and wear green and, as an added benefit, received coupons for free dress days. What better incentive for a student to read, Fisher said, than getting to wear jeans and slime the principal?

Fisher is the fourth non-religious principal at the Catholic school and the second male principal in the school's 89-year history. He first came to St. Clare as a long-term substitute teacher six years ago and never left. Since 2007 he has worked as a fifth-grade assistant, fifth- and eighth-grade homeroom teacher and served two stints in administration. Two years ago he was acting principal for three months and last year he served as assistant principal while teaching eighth grade. Beginning this school year, Fisher and Avery switched positions. She is now the assistant principal for the school and director of religious education for St. Clare of Montefalco Church. The two continue to work closely together.

Fisher received a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Detroit Mercy and a Master of Education degree from Oakland University, with a focus on educational leadership.

"I am enjoying being able to go into all the classrooms and see all the grades," Fisher said of his permanent role. His primary goals are to maintain the academic excellence the school has provided for nearly 90 years and grow as a school, both academically and spiritually.

"We always look to increase enrollment — as does every school," Fisher said, citing an enrollment increase last year. Other successes include record-breaking sales in the annual used book sale and the purchase of Chromebooks. "We are continuing to invest in our technology infrastructure," Fisher said. The school also is planning a parish and school-wide 90th anniversary celebration.

Students at St. Clare come from five ZIP codes, according to Fisher, from as close as Grosse Pointe, Harper Woods and neighboring Detroit, to as far away as midtown Detroit and Mount Clemens. Enrollment is 102 students in kindergarten through eighth grade, Fourth grader Abi Pongratz "slimes" Principal Geoffrey Fisher while fifth grader Luci Boyle waits her turn. The "sliming" was part of a summer reading challenge.

with 18 students in the nursery school program. "We are diverse racially, economically and religiously," Fisher said, pointing out students do not have to be Catholic to attend the school, although many families do belong to the parish.

The school hosts an open house in January and a curriculum night in March put on by teachers and students to showcase classroom work.

"It's a very welcoming place," Fisher said. "It feels like family and you never want to leave."

Pure Grosse Pointe

Grosse Pointe loves parades and music and we had both last week with Grosse Pointe South's Homecoming. This week, it's North's turn. It's a great time of year.

I SAY By Joe Warner

We'll miss a genuine friend

It's safe to say we're still in shock over the news one of our co-workers passed away last weekend.
Kris Karp-Barthel was more than a co-worker. She was a friend. She was a friendly voice. Someone who always asked how your weekend went. Someone who always wanted to know how your children are doing, your pets, your sick relatives.
She cared about others, that's for sure. Not once did we hear her complain of health issues.
You knew she was in the building because you could hear her laugh down the halls of our offices.
Her obituary in this issue says she was dedicated. She was positive and vivacious.
And she was. She loved her family. She loved her dogs. No, she loved all dogs. She loved to talk religion, politics or a local news happening. She loved her time with co-workers and she was dedicated. She was positive and she was vivacious. She was an important part of our workdays here at the Grosse Pointe News.
We all went home last week not knowing our goodbye was really goodbye.
We'll miss you, Kris. May God bless your family during this tough time.
It's tough for all of us. Warner is general manager and editor of the Grosse Pointe News.

GUEST OPINION By M. Ponkey

Stop and take a moment to reflect

The words came from the mouth of a 5-year-old, my nephew (who is like a son) some 25 years ago.
"Stop and take a moment to reflect."
Those words have resonated with me all this time. Having the privilege of experiencing Pope Francis' visit to America and not even leaving Grosse Pointe, was a blessing far beyond words.
His message of love, tolerance of one another and the humbleness he expressed to all people is an example that churches, clergy, parishioners, people we come in contact with at work and within our communities, etc. and most off all families, is what we need to hear. It all begins and ends with family.
If you look at America and see and feel the daily dysfunction within the above mentioned, do you really wonder why we have all this dysfunction? It's so sad and so stressful to say the least. So, those words of a 5-year-old some 25 years ago have taken on a new meaning for me. It has truly given me the opportunity to reflect on my 67 years of life and see a need to change my priorities.
The very principles that Pope Francis speaks about are my guide to be a better person in thought, word and deed. Yes, there are always going to be "the least of his children" within our environment and we still have to live defensively, but collectively, things can and are changing.
On a different note, we all need to embrace our police departments across the country. Kudos to Chief James Craig in Detroit and his department. The city didn't get out of balance overnight and it isn't going to get right overnight, but to all the men and women who believe in Detroit, business owners and investors, keep the vision strong and continue to move forward.
As for the "roundabout" at Alter Road and Kercheval, well, it's beautiful. The decision to create it was the best statement that could have been made for Grosse Pointe Park and Detroit. The islands that were installed on East Jefferson are another example of community growth, both for Grosse Pointe and Detroit. So, for the two or three people who have a problem with the "roundabout," big pots of beautiful flowers and the marketplace sheds, get on board and celebrate the new and put the old to rest.
It's positive growth and it affects everyone. God bless America and peace to all.
Ponkey is a resident of Grosse Pointe Park.

COURSE:

for three open seats on the six-person council.
Terms are four years and unpaid.
Candidates are incumbent Robert Gesell plus challengers and prospective first-time officeholders Rebecca Booth, Tina Ellis, Doug Kucyk and Paul Thursam.
They participated Thursday, Oct. 1, at the Neighborhood Club in a decidedly non-acrimonious candidate forum organized by the League of Women Voters of Grosse Pointe.
The nearly 1 1/2-hour forum airs the week of Oct. 12, at 7:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m., 7:30 p.m. and 1:30 a.m. on Grosse Pointe Cable TV Channel 5, AT&T U-verse channel 99 and WOW channel 18.
"The city is going in the right direction and is in a strong financial position," said Gesell, first elected in 2011. "We worked hard to develop a strong spirit of cooperation among the council, the city manager, department heads and all staff."

Booth said, "Everything is going so well, I want to keep things on an even keel."
Ellis said, "I became involved with the community government about five years ago when things looked bleak. The transformation, in not just personnel, but in our financial situation, has been remarkable."
Kucyk said, "I want to make sure we continue to improve and invest in these assets."
Thursam said, "We have a lot to be happy about and thankful for, and I want this job so I can make sure things continue to get better."
Consolidation
Candidates differ — four to one against — about consolidating the five Grosse Pointe municipal governments.
Only Thursam supports the concept of consolidation, yet said he needs convincing prior to implementation.
"If the timing is right and it makes sense, I would support it," he said. "If someone said I can lower your cost for X without affecting the level of service, I'd listen to that idea. Consolidation makes sense. I don't know how much longer we can have five different governments running the different Grosse Pointes. I think consolidation is an inevitability."
Kucyk said, "I don't know if there's anything to share. I think we're doing fine. I don't know that I want to change anything and start teaming up with anybody else right now."
Ellis, a part-time Shores public safety department clerk until resigning to run for office, said, "We've seen our dispatch be consolidated. I am not a fan. Our services are top of the line. Our public safety, our employees, our DPW — they are ours. I don't want to share them with anyone. I would like to see us as a separate entity."
Booth said, "We have a very good set of services now. I don't think we should consolidate. We pay a very high tax rate so we can have those good services for ourselves. Maybe we could all get together and share water (systems), but I don't see us sharing anything else."
Gesell said, "We already consolidated with Grosse Pointe Farms our 911 service and court. Beyond that, we are a unique community. We have no real requirements for businesses. We have prime services. All our public safety officers are triple-trained (in police, fire and medical response), which is not the case with the other cities. We should be open to looking at things, but at this point and time, I don't see a real fit beyond what we've already done."

Grosse Pointe Holiday Mart returns Oct. 16-17

By Jody McVeigh
Community Editor

The 57th annual Grosse Pointe Holiday Mart returns to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 16 and 17. A Patron Preview Cocktail Party is set for Thursday, Oct. 15.

Proceeds benefit the programs of Planned Parenthood Mid and South Michigan.

“The event is a unique shopping experience where ... people who bring wares to us set up booths or little shops,” said Robin Heller, who co-chaired the event with Gina Baubie Whitney.

A necklace by Fairchild Baldwin.

“People can go from boutique to boutique. We’ll have an assortment from around the country as well as from newer local stores.”

Heller said the event features two dozen vendors and price points for just about everybody.

The show is juried, so only the best of the best are included.

Among this year’s vendors are Bellaboxes, Botanical Elegance, Lead Head Glass, Arabella, My Charmed Life, El-Mar Furs, Peppertree, Good People Popcorn, Slow Jams and several others. Items for sale include men’s and women’s clothing, designer jewelry, housewares and more.

“This year’s Holiday Mart really offers our shoppers a unique and diverse range of merchandise,” Heller said.

“We’re really hoping people enjoy the show this year. Half of the vendors are new, so there are new things to discover.”

Heller, who’s been involved with the Holiday Mart for 20 years, said it should be noted the event has been tied to Planned Parenthood for as long as it’s been around.

“It’s a longstanding event that was started in support of an organization founded almost 100 years ago,” she said. “The event is a way to bring awareness and support to Planned Parenthood. It’s an organization that meets a very important need in the community. They’re trustworthy, they’re education and health focused, they have clean facilities, they’re competent and compassionate and a trusted source.”

Desiree Cooper, director of community and media relations for Planned Parenthood, said the organization is lucky to have the Holiday

Mart Committee on its side.

“Many of the board members are Grosse Pointers,” she said. “They put together the event as volunteers. They do immeasurable good for the people we serve Planned Parenthood is grateful to have visible and committed volunteers who are there to help us support patients who come to us.”

The money raised through the Holiday Mart provides general services to Planned Parenthood clients.

“For years it’s been earmarked for cancer

A new look at a traditional fundraiser

It will be a celebration of creativity when the Grosse Pointe ART Center holds its annual auction 6 to 9 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 22, at Services for Older Citizens, 157 Ridge, Grosse Pointe Farms.

"The center has a history of supporting our members in their artistic endeavors and offering educational opportunities, while engaging our neighbors," said GPAC President Wendy Schmidt. "We really want to share the joy and fulfillment that art can bring to individuals and to a community."

In that spirit, GPAC held a coloring party at its storefront on Kercheval in the Village where members and shoppers who stopped in personalized the auction invitations that were mailed.

Even the auction items reflect a creative approach. For instance, the high bidder can win the experience of working with the brewmeister at Atwater in the Park to design a beer and name it, then serve it at a launch party at the brew pub. Another option is three days of classes with internationally respected artist and teacher Lian Zhen.

There also will be traditional favorites like works by local artists, a winter vacation on a Mexican beach and four first-row tickets to a Detroit Red Wings game.

In addition to the auction, the evening will feature an exhibition by local artists deemed "best of the best," piano music by Duncan McMillan, a wine tasting with a local sommelier, fashions from Voila Boutique teamed with designs by local jewelry makers, and hearty appetizers, beer and wine.

Mini Picassos have big fun

By Jody McVeigh
Community Editor

The little ones in Katy Wereley's Mini Picassos program have big fun creating crafts.

Wereley and her mother, Heather Brush, started the program, for ages 2 to 4, in May.

"There was such a need for it in the Pointes and surrounding areas," Wereley said. "I was the gallery coordinator at the Grosse Pointe ART Center and I used to have people ask about programs for little ones, but we only had programs for adults. I love kids and I want to give back to everyone."

With help from Brush, who used to teach art at Montessori Giving Tree, they came up with a plan to offer art projects to youngsters.

First English Evangelical Lutheran Church in Grosse Pointe Woods offered them space. Classes are offered Wednesdays at the church and Saturdays at Wereley's home studio in Grosse Pointe Woods. Brush also teaches drawing and oil painting for ages 5 and older Saturdays at the studio. The drawing and painting classes cost $95 for six weeks.

A variety of themed workshops are available for various fees as well.

"We do it Montessori-style," Wereley said. "There are not many examples. We want the kids to be really creative and show their personality."

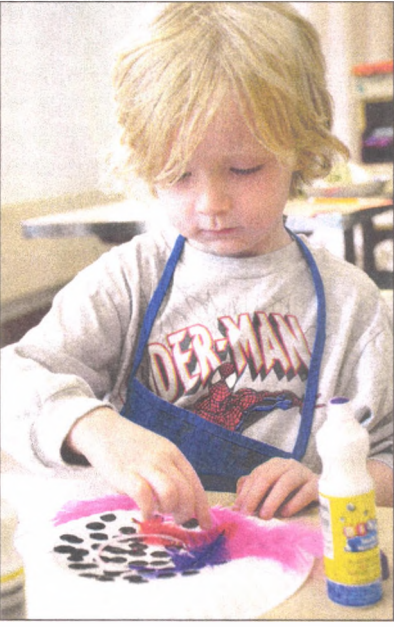

Classes last 90 minutes and kids are able to make as many crafts as they want.

"This is their time in their creative studio," Wereley said. "It's not just for kids, but also a little mom-and-dad group. Us [sic] moms can chat and have a mom moment together, talk about what's going on in the area."

Mini Picassos classes cost $2. For more information, email mini.picasos.gp@gmail.com.

Cattle Baron's Ball raises $1.4 million

Metro Detroiters celebrated 'til the cows came home at the annual American Cancer Society Cattle Baron's Ball Sept. 26, at Cobo Center in Detroit. The gala, presented by Ford Motor Co., generated more than $1.4 million to support the mission of ACS. The ball was led by honorary chairman Hau Thai-Tang, group vice president of Global Purchasing at Ford.

The event also featured live performances by The Swon Brothers, a duo who earned a national fan base after a top three finish on NBC's "The Voice," activities such as mechanical bull riding and a live auction, which generated more than $400,000 for the event. The live auction featured an array of one-of-a-kind experiences, including a 2016 Shelby GT 350R Ford Mustang, a VIP Super Bowl 50 experience for two, a luxury vacation to the Dominican Republic and more.

The program also awarded Grosse Pointe Farms residents, Kathy and John Brennan, the society's Cowger Leadership Award, the highest honor for individuals bestowed by the society, for their leadership, contribution and continued dedication to the event. The Brennans currently serve on the Cattle Baron's Ball executive committee.

Through the support of companies and individuals, the Cattle Baron's Ball provides funding for programs, services and research needed to save lives from cancer. Since its debut, more than $14 million has been raised in support of the ACS.

How do we proceed after a dementia diagnosis?

Q: Our father has been diagnosed with early signs of dementia. What approach should we take with him now? What activities can we still plan with him? What should we expect in the future?

You may have to modify some activities a bit, but make sure your father feels valued and competent. Your most important phrase is "sorry" or "I'm sorry, you're right." You won't win a battle here. A LA ANNIE By Annie Rouleau-Scheriff

It's tomato time

It's definitely tomato time. Can them, roast them, freeze them, enjoy them fresh. I did just that this week with some grown-in-Detroit petite cherry tomatoes. They're so small with tender skin, I didn't even cut them in half before I tossed the tiny tomatoes with chickpeas, feta and fresh basil. Yummy.

Baby Tomatoes with Chickpeas and Feta

2 pints baby cherry tomatoes
1 15-oz. can chickpeas, drained and rinsed
½ cup chopped red onion
4 oz. crumbled feta cheese
1/4 cup chopped, packed basil leaves
1/4 cup extra virgin olive oil tablespoon red wine vinegar or lemon juice
black pepper to taste

In a medium bowl, combine the tomatoes with the chickpeas, feta and basil. Drizzle the olive oil and vinegar over the salad and gently toss. Taste and season with black pepper. Adjust the oil and vinegar to your liking as well.

Chill the salad for an hour or so before serving.

I made this salad twice last week and enjoyed it with lemon juice as well. It's a fresh and delicious take on nature's bounty.

Series covers history of Christian church

By Jody McVeigh
Community Editor

Dr. Ken Grant, a church historian and member of the history faculty at the University of Detroit Mercy, brings his seven-part lecture series, "Formation & Reformation: A History of the Christian Church," to St. James Lutheran Church beginning 3:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 11.

The series continues the second Sunday of each month through April. "I've done this for the past five years in Texas," said Grant, whose wife, the Rev. Denise Grant, is the pastor at St. James on the Hill. "It's important as a university professor to be a more public scholar. Religion plays such a big role in the world today and most people have no idea of what most religions are like or historical traditions are like, so I thought it was a good idea to educate people."

The opening lecture, "Jesus of Nazareth and the Roots of Christianity," allows Grant to explain what it meant to be a Jew in first-century Palestine living under the Roman Empire.

"Christianity is rooted in history," he said. "Most people know Christianity is 2,000 years old, but they don't know what that means. Most people know Bible stories, but they can't place Jesus within a historical context."

"History teaches us how we got to where we are right now," he continued. "How will we know where we're standing if we don't know where we came from? How will we know where we're going if we don't know where we're standing? I want to help them grasp the institution they're a part of. It's important for us to know."

Through the series, Grant said he hopes people gain a better understanding of what it means to be a Christian today. He said it's a fascinating history that allows people to see themselves as part of the larger tapestry that is the church.

All are welcome to attend. Grant said he hopes his audiences are comprised of people from a variety of faiths and backgrounds.

"The broader the audience, the more interesting it is," he said. "That makes me a better presenter. It's great for people who come and hear questions they may have never contemplated before. It's not just a lecture you hear, but it's the questions that are asked. It's really exciting."

The lectures take place the second Sunday of each month at 3:30 p.m. at St. James Lutheran Church, 170 McMillan, Grosse Pointe Farms. For more information, call (313) 884-0511.

lives of foster care children who are often overlooked, vulnerable and disadvantaged. Donors will have published name recognition at the event for each level. Call (313) 884-5040 to purchase tickets or for more information.

"We are delighted to celebrate our church's German roots by giving something back to the community. First English was founded in 1896 on the eastside of Detroit, then moved to Grosse Pointe Woods in 1957," said the Rev. Sean Motley, senior pastor. "We encourage our members, their families and friends and our community to join in the festivities. We feel we've priced the event fairly. Patrons will enjoy the German atmosphere and camaraderie."

Touching lives

Members of Grosse Pointe Congregational Church have a special goal this year as the church celebrates its 75th anniversary: to touch 75 lives. During the summer, members collected 75 new backpacks and school supplies for middle school students at Northeast Guidance Center.

Founded in 1963, NGC is a nonprofit community behavioral healthcare agency serving economically challenged children and adults with serious emotional and mental illness.

Church members sorted school supplies into the backpacks, then delivered them to the Back to School Fun Fair at the agency, where they also volunteered monitoring games and serving food.

GROSSE POINTE SOUTH

South earns ‘signature’ win over Ike

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South’s football team sent its fans home happy on Homecoming after pulling off an 8-2 win over Utica Eisenhower last weekend.

In what looked more like a baseball score, the Blue Devils won their third game in a row and improved to 4-2 overall.

With three games left in the regular season, they have to win at least two to guarantee a spot in the state playoffs.

“This was a signature win for us, but the last time we had a signature win last year against Romeo, we didn’t play well the following week,” head coach Tim Brandon said. “We can’t have the same let down this time.”

The Eagles grabbed an early 2-0 lead when a poor snap sailed over punter Cameron Shook’s head and out of the end-zone.

The only touchdown of the game came in the second quarter when a junior running back Jeff Moore scored on a 3-yard run.

Brandon did a little razzle-dazzle on the extra point. Junior Andrew Sharp took a lateral and ran in the two-point conversion to give the Blue Devils an 8-2 lead.

After that, defensive coordinator Chad Hepner watched his defense crank up its intensity. They limited the Eagles’ explosive offense, which averaged 23.4 points per game coming in, to only a few first downs in the second half.

“Our down linemen did a great job of stuffing the running game and getting pressure on the quarterback,” Hepner said. “The defense did a great job, especially in that second half. It was a great effort.”

The biggest play of the game came on the Eagles’ final drive when on fourth down and four yards to go and 1:35 left on the clock, senior Mac Cimmarrusti knocked down a pass attempt, clinching the victory.

After that, Mico took a knee three straight times and the clock ran out and the South fans ran onto the field.

The offense was able to move the ball, led by Moore who had his best game of the season with 88 yards rushing on 19 carries and the touchdown.

Junior quarterback Logan Mico was 5-of-13 for 34 yards and ran for 44 yards on 14 carries, and senior Andrew Trost had three receptions for 15 yards.

“The guys believed they could win and they are playing with a lot of confidence right now,” Brandon said. “The offense moved the ball, but wasn’t as effective as the past couple of games, but in the end they got the job done.”

Norsemen run past LC

By Sam Meads
Special Writer

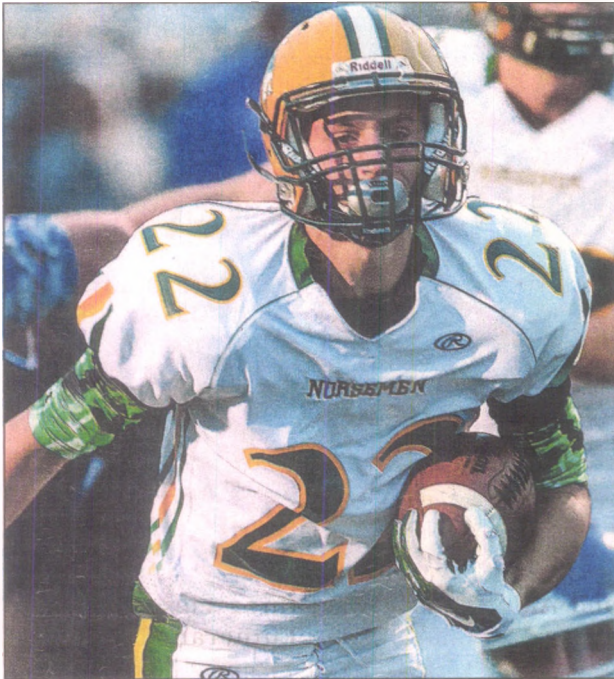

The Grosse Pointe North football team traveled to face the Lancers of L’Anse Creuse with a tie for first place on the line in the Macomb Area Conference Blue Division.

Head coach Frank Sumbera’s team came out hot on its first drive, marching 80 yards in 13 plays to take an early 7-0 lead.

Sophomore quarterback Bjorn Bjornsson completed all four passes on the drive, which was capped off when sophomore running back Pete Ciaravino ran in for a 2-yard touchdown run.

The Lancers answered two possessions later on a 53-yard pass, but later in the game, junior Dillon Webb recovered a fumble at the Lancers’ 7-yard line.

North’s Pete Ciaravino scored a touchdown in the Norsemen’s MAC Blue Division win over L’Anse Creuse.

Senior LaTorris Greer scored two plays later on a 4-yard run to make the score 14-7.

North was able to capitalize on another turnover in the second quarter when Trent Lacroix intercepted a pass by Lancers’ running back Cleareunce Lewis on a trick play.

The Norsemen’s kicker, George Brophy, kicked a field goal to give them a 17-7 lead at the half.

Greer added two second-half touchdowns, including a 40-yard run, which made it 31-10 to seal the deal. Greer finished with 110 yards rushing on 23 carries and three touchdowns.

Bjornsson finished 10-of-16 for 118 yards, while senior Tristin Richardson caught six of those passes for 57 yards and Webb caught the other four for 61 yards.

With the win, North goes to 3-0 in the MAC Blue Division and 3-3 overall.

Next for the Norsemen is their homecoming game at 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 9, against Lakeview.

Knights endure rain, blank foe

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Liggett hosted its first football game under the lights last weekend.

It was the annual homecoming game and a large crowd was cheering and ready for a victory.

The only downside was the nasty weather as rain and high wind gusts made the playing conditions tricky.

“Our plan is simple, we are going to run the ball right at them,” head coach Dan Cimini said before the game. “It’s a bummer it has to be raining because we want this to be a great night of high school football under the lights.”

The Knights ran all night long and ran to an easy 47-0 win over Lutheran Westland.

With the win, the Knights improved to 3-1 in the Michigan

Independent Athletic Conference and 4-2 overall.

“We ran on every play but one and we threw on a two-point conversion attempt,” Cimini said.

Junior Tre’ Caine rushed for a career-high 286 yards and four touchdowns, while seniors T.J. Jackson and Matt Gushee also rushed for a touchdown.

Defensively, the Knights forced two turnovers and allowed the Warriors to pass midfield only twice.

“The defense really turned up the heat and played well,” Cimini said. “It’s a nice win and now we need to take care of business to secure second place and get a chance to play in the MIAC Bowl title game.”

Next for Liggett is an away game at 7 p.m. against Auburn Hills Oakland Christian at the Community Center.

North, Liggett tie

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

The match between city rivals Grosse Pointe North and host University Liggett was moved up nearly an hour because everyone expected a match or two to extend long into the evening.

With darkness coming earlier, the move to 3:45 seemed about right.

Seven of the eight matches were completed in about an hour with Liggett winning four and North three.

All eyes were then drawn to the No. 4 doubles teams, which each won a set as Liggett's Kester Stefani and Craig Buhler won set one 6-4 and North's Ethan Aziz and Blake Graham captured the second set 7-5, setting up a wild final set.

Liggett needed the win to secure a 5-3 team victory, while North needed the win to force a 4-4 tie.

After 140 minutes of tennis, a dozen break points and several foiled match points, Aziz and Graham prevailed 7-5 in the third set to force the 4-4 draw.

Two other matches were rather tight as North's Tyler Scoggin beat Matt Lesha 6-4, 6-3 at No. 3 singles, and North's Andrew Delas and Adam Berry defeated Will Gersch and Davey Sekhon 6-3, 6-4 at No. 2 doubles.

Liggett won 3-of-4 singles matches as T.J. Dulac beat Max Stallings 6-1, 6-2 at No. 1; Christian Ilitch defeated Blake Danna, a substitute for Jack Williams, 6-0, 6-1 at No. 2; and Andrew Staricco beat Hunter Williams 6-0, 6-2 at No. 4.

The Norsemen turned the tables in the doubles flights, winning three.

Mitchell Zacharias and Ben Zacharias beat Alex Dow and Thomas Van Pelt 6-1, 6-0 at No. 1 doubles and it was Liggett's Alec Azar and Casey Scoggin earning the Knights' lone point in doubles, defeating Evan Olzem and Abhinav Nannapaneni 6-3, 6-2 at No. 3 doubles.

Teams post losses

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

It's been a test of nerves for the University Liggett girls' volleyball team this season.

Inconsistency has been a key factor to a less than .500 record, but despite two more losses last week, the overall feeling rose due to better all-around play.

The host Knights lost three close games to Lutheran Northwest early in the week and came back two days later to take Lutheran Westland to four games.

Leading the way for the Knights were Kayla Strong, Sara Anthony, Rebecca Lohman, Teagan Cornell and Emily Kanankry.

North results

The Grosse Pointe North girls' volleyball team battled division-leading Romeo last week, losing 25-10, 25-16, 23-25, 25-20.

For the Norsemen, Kirstin Bessette had 31 assists, while Mackenzie Simon had 16 attacks with nine kills. Other top performers were Erin Armbruster with 14 kills, Lauren Lesha with 20 receptions and Stephanie Roy with 21 digs.

South results

The Grosse Pointe South girls' volleyball team was upset in three games by visiting Chippewa Valley in a Macomb Area Conference White Division match.

The Blue Devils lost 25-22, 25-21, 25-18.

They rallied in games one and two to make it close.

Lexi Kohut led the team in kills and serving aces.

Ladies see positivity

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

The Grosse Pointe North girls' field hockey team outplayed visiting Brighton Monday evening, but played a 1-1 tie.

"We gave up a bad goal, but I'm proud of the girls for battling back and really playing a strong game," head coach Paula Cornwall said. "The girls did a nice job passing into the open zones and they had nice shots on net which just missed the mark."

"This is a game we had a great chance to win."

Brighton led 1-0 at the half and it remained a one-goal game until the latter moments of the second half when junior Katie Lesha scored off an assist from senior Lora Dobbs.

From the 10-minute mark to when the final whistle sounded, the Norsemen dominated possession and shots on net. Seniors Caroline Bock, Jennifer Kusch, Audrey Ajlouni and Dobbs had good scoring opportunities. A couple of goalkeeper saves and shots which missed the far post by an inch or two was the name of the game.

At halftime, Bock, Kusch, Ajlouni, Dobbs, Olivia Kensora, Elaina Emig and Olivia Bloomhuff were honored at senior night.

Earlier in the week, North tied Farmington 1-1 to see its Michigan High School Field Hockey Association Division 2 record stand at 5-1-2 and overall record to 5-4-2.

South results

After coming off a shut-out victory over city rival Grosse Pointe North, the Grosse Pointe South girls' field hockey team traveled to state power Ann Arbor Pioneer for a Michigan High School Field Hockey Association Division 1 game.

The Blue Devils lost 7-0, but played better than the score indicated.

"It was a tough day on the road," head coach Monica Dennis said. "Although we lost, the team did some amazing things on the field. They implemented field switches, which we have been working hard on.

"We also did a better job of linking up our passes through the mid-field. I know the score does not reflect the great things that the girls displayed. I am proud of their hard work and dedication to this team."

Grosse Pointe South fell to 3-4-1 in Division 1 and 4-5-2 overall.

Liggett results

Not only did host University Liggett girls' field hockey team battle Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook-Kingswood last weekend, but it battled horrible weather conditions to win 1-0.

Senior Molly Murphy scored the lone goal in the first half and the defense did the rest.

Earlier in the week, Liggett defeated visiting Dearborn 5-0 as five different players scored a goal: Murphy, seniors Grace Scarfone, Megan DesMadryl and Allison Stapleton, and junior Katie Fruehauf.

Liggett improved to 7-3 in Michigan High School Field Hockey Association Division 2 and 9-3 overall.

GROSSE POINTE NORTH

Huge win

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

The Grosse Pointe North boys' soccer team stunned first-place Anchor Bay 3-0 last week, giving the Norsemen a win in 3-of-4 games.

"It was toughness we used to get this win tonight," head coach Eric Vanston said. "The boys never quit and they kept attacking instead of playing defensively. This is a huge win for us."

The last time these teams played, Anchor Bay won 7-0. This time was different from the opening whistle as the host Norsemen played the aggressor and never let the Tars get comfortable.

It was a scoreless first half, but that changed within the first minute of the second half as junior Tom Fitzgerald scored to quiet the Anchor Bay faithful.

Just five minutes later, sophomore Jack Streberger scored to give the home team a 2-0 lead.

Vanston's players continued to attack and not let up, knowing the Tars would put even more pressure on the defense to try to even the score.

It never happened as the Norsemen defense and goalkeeper were outstanding, limiting the Tars to only a couple of scoring opportunities throughout the entire 40-minute second half.

Putting the cherry on top of the sundae was Streberger, who scored an insurance goal at the 28:05 mark and the 3-0 score held.

In other Macomb Area Conference White Division action, North lost 2-0 to Macomb Dakota and 1-0 to L'Anse Creuse North Monday evening.

Grosse Pointe North is 3-6 in the MAC White Division and 3-10 overall.

The University Liggett boys' soccer team won its annual Homecoming game 2-0 over Auburn Hills Oakland Christian last weekend.

The entire game was played in wind and cold temperatures, including a driving rain.

"They are a better team than their record indicates," head coach David Dwaihy said. "We played well and now we have a couple of huge games ahead of us which will determine our finish in the conference."

Christian deRuiter curved a corner kick into the net for the Knights' first goal in the opening half.

Spero Kefalonitis

scored the lone goal in the second half.

Anthony George posted another shutout in net.

In other Michigan Independent Athletic Conference games last week, Liggett beat Oakland Christian 3-2 and Southfield Christian 4-0 to improve to 8-1-2 in the conference and 9-1-2 overall.

Brownell students walk solar system

By Mary Anne Brush
Staff Writer

From an outside observer's perspective, it may have looked like a group of picketers in front of Brownell Middle School. In fact, it was sixth graders from Walter Charuba's science class, hoisting wooden posts and placards with the names of the planets as they walked along the sidewalk in front of the school.

Each fall, Charuba takes his classes on a "solar system walk" along Chalfonte. This year's walk took place Sept. 30. Charuba will complete the solar system unit in the winter, but holds the 2.8 billion mile (or 4.5 billion kilometer) walk in the fall due to weather. The walk serves as a reference for the students later in the year.

Prior to the walk, students mapped the distance between each planet and calculated the distances to scale into steps. With the sun set on the outer perimeter of the sidewalk in front of the school, the students marked the steps from Mercury — the planet closest to the sun — outward, ending with the dwarf planet, Pluto.

Unfortunately, the students had to end their journey on the corner of Lothrop and Chalfonte at the planet Uranus.

"We can't cross the street without field trip permission slips," Charuba explained.

Forty steps remained to Neptune and another 142 steps — or billions of miles — would have been required to enter into the Kuiper Belt and complete their mission at Pluto.

"We've never gotten that far," Charuba said.

Lansing visit

Karen Aldrich and Kathy Schmitz's fourth-grade class at Richard Elementary School got the rare opportunity to tour the floor of the Michigan House of Representatives Wednesday, Sept. 28, as part of their class trip to Lansing.

about how laws are introduced and passed. The class has been studying local government as part of its social studies class.
