CITY OF GROSSE POINTE — Chuck Donaldson used a concise yet comprehensive phrase to explain why he and his sister, Claudia Muer, are wrapping up 43 years as owners of Alger's Deli & Liquor.

"It's time," Donaldson said. They plan to withdraw from the 5,500-square-foot store, 17320 Mack at St. Clair in the City of Grosse Pointe, by early next year, but are retaining a license to sell liquor.

"Not that we wouldn't like to continue to do this, but maybe on a lot smaller scale," Donaldson said.

"We tell our employees these (products) are sold everywhere," said Muer, returning behind the cash register after carrying a bag of groceries to an elderly customer's car. "The only thing we can sell is customer service."

Yet, some products are unique. Managing the deli counter, featuring their GROSSE POINTE WOODS — Trees in the Grosse Pointes go through stages not often seen in other communities. In the winter, they shed their leaves, in the spring, they bud, in the fall, they turn brilliant colors.

And in the summer, specifically the last week of July, they sprout long white streams of toilet paper. Long a tradition of summer swim teams, toilet paper-covered trees appear magically the mornings of swim team league finals at the homes of young swimmers on the city park teams that participate in the Lakefront Swimming Association and the club teams that participate in the Michigan Inter Club Swimming Association.

And while some may see nothing but toilet paper, others see it as a badge of honor, marking the house of a young swimmer who made it to the league finals, not an easy feat in a community with swim teams that turn out hundreds of swimmers each summer.

Campaign kickoff

The Grosse Pointe Historical Society hosted a campaign kickoff fundraiser Tuesday, July 11, at the Shafer home in Grosse Pointe Farms. The campaign, "The Future of Grosse Pointe Past," will help raise funds for the society's new administrative offices and archives at 375 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Farms. The society will hold two more events in the future. Left, Mary Shafer, society board member, shows Nena and Mark Thomas the original house, built by Roy D. Chapin, where Windemere now stands. Henry Ford II later bought the Chapin house and was an integral part of Windemere Road being built.

Not a good time to lose the AC

By Kathy Ryan
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE WOODS — There is never a good time in the summer for the air conditioning to go out. But when the AC goes out in a windowless room in the middle of July, it's a really bad time.

That's the situation the Department of Public Safety faced this week when the air-conditioning unit that cools the dispatch area went out as the temperature rose.

Director of Public

Service Frank Schulte brought a request to the city council Monday night for an emergency appropriation of $7,250 for the installation of a new HVAC unit for the dispatch area.

According to Schulte, the bid came from K&S Ventures of Auburn Hills, the city's contractor for HVAC services. Schulte told the council once it approved the amount, installation could be completed in 48 hours.

Accused bank robber waives hearings to avoid making waves

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE FARMS AND CITY — The defendant in back-to-back bank robberies waived his rights to pre-trial hearings last week in favor of moving inconspicuously toward resolution.

"(He) wanted to waive his right to a preliminary exam," said defense attorney Kristina Joseph. "It was his idea to do that so he didn't further put out the banks or their employees. He's been admittedly remorseful about anything that happened. He is dealing with it and truly wants to move forward."

The strategy also avoids victims testifying in Grosse Pointe municipal courts how the suspect entered the banks, claimed in at least one instance to have a gun and demanded cash.

An accumulation of gambling debts reportedly preceded Joseph's client, Nicholas Rocco Cinquaranelli, 27, of the City of Grosse Pointe, allegedly robbing Chase Bank on East Jefferson of $2,050 Wednesday, June 14, and, the following afternoon, aborting the robbery of Fifth Third Bank on the Hill in the Farms.

The crimes are felonies punishable by up to life in prison.

Otherwise, Cinquaranelli has a clean record, according to detectives from both cities.

Stonisch celebrates milestone with book-signing event

By Jody McVeigh
Editor

In honor of Faircourt Dental's 30-year anniversary, Dr. Mary Sue Stonisch is hosting a book-signing event Tuesday, July 25, at The War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms.

"It's a dinner and presentation for the people who've been such faithful patients for the last 30 years," Stonisch said of the invitation-only portion, from 5 to 7 p.m.

The event precedes a performance by the Michigan Opera Theatre at 7 p.m., at which time Stonisch invites the community to a free event on the lawn that includes Wally's Frozen Yogurt, raffles for whitening treatments and other festivities. Proceeds from frozen yogurt sales benefit cleft lip and palate patients, she said.

"I look forward to a beautiful evening. It's a 30-year celebration of excellence in dentistry," Stonisch said. "I'm so grateful to have been so blessed with this wonderful community and people of integrity who have come through the door these last 30 years."

During 30 years of operating Faircourt Dental, Stonisch has gained a wealth of experience, which she decided to compile in her book, "Smile Fitness," to help people better communicate with their own dentists.

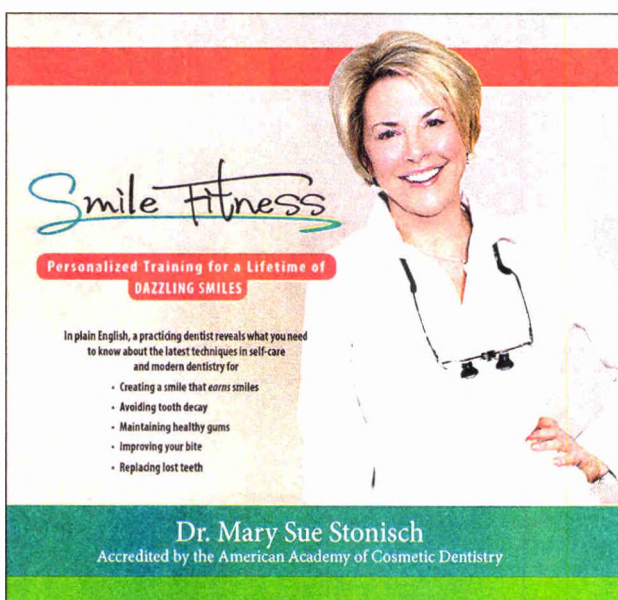

"The book is meant to change people's perspectives on dentistry and update them on current trends," Stonisch said. "It's a consumer-friendly book that addresses everything from A to Z.

All the categories are presented in an easily digestible manner. It gives the consumer a place to start so they can take questions to their own dentist."

Stonisch said when a person visits a dentist, getting treatment is enough for one day, but understanding the risks, benefits and alternatives moving forward is too much to consume at once.

"Through this book, they can come up with an educated decision of how to best proceed with dental treatment," she said. "I believe patients are their own best doctors. In this book, they can choose something that fits their lifestyle, but is also scientifically proven."

Stonisch said in the past her philosophy was all about prevention.

Now she takes a risk-management approach with her practice.

"We have found, when we look at decay and gum disease, there's such a genetic component that it may not be preventable," she said, "but it is manageable. That's where I come in with the new philosophy, the risk-management approach."

Decay, she said, is an epidemic for children and adults. Forty percent of kids entering kindergarten have decay. But, for example, sealing a other dentists on risk-management techniques. She also is accredited by the American Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry and is a diplomat of the American Academy of Oral Implantology. The Grosse Pointe South High School, Albion College and University of Detroit School of Dentistry graduate said she set her sights on dentistry at an early age.

"Along with my training at Kois and AACD and my diplomat status in implant dentistry, I am able to practice all modalities of dentistry and can combat and tackle any dental problem that walks through the door," she said. "Science tells us we are not truly healthy without a healthy smile. You can be sick with a healthy smile, but not healthy with a sick smile. Seeing your dentist regularly and having a fit smile can send you on the road to total wellness."

For a copy of Stonisch's book, "Smile Fitness," call the office at (313) 882-2000 or visit faircourt dental.com/smile-fitness.

Zonta Club working to advance the status of women

Detroit 1 chapter seeks members

By Jody McVeigh
Editor

The first of its kind in the state, Zonta Club of Detroit 1 is a locally based chapter of an international organization formed in 1919.

According to its mission statement, Zonta

International is a global organization of executives and professionals working together to advance the status of women worldwide through service and advocacy.

Detroit 1 has opened its doors to non-professional people and some chapters allow men to join. Regardless of gender or status, the goal is the same: serving and supporting women and children.

"We want to extend to the rest of the community," said Detroit 1 President Kristine Shalla, who has been a member 10 years. "We've always done things that encompassed the Detroit area."

Throughout its history, Zonta Club chapters have funded projects to improve the health, education and economic status of women around the world. Locally, Detroit 1 has provided assistance for several organizations, including the Interim House Shelter of the YWCA, Alternatives for Girls, The Children's Center in Detroit and Wayne County Safe, a domestic violence organization.

"We funded untested rape kits, helped pay for medical devices used during rape kits and helped fund the 10-year anniversary of Wayne County Safe," Shalla said.

Through its 501(c)3, Diane Foundation, Detroit 1 is "able to raise money through tax-deductible organizations and provide charities with money and products," said Shalla, whose mother is a 30-year club member.

Detroit 1 members meet at 6 p.m. the first Thursday of each month, September to June, usually at Lochmoor Club, but the venue is subject to change.

"We meet and discuss monthly topics and vote on various items," Shalla said. "We try to do service projects throughout the

Liggett student makes Broadway debut

By Mary Anne Brush
Staff Writer

For University Liggett School musical theater student Antonio Cipriano, one award-winning performance has led to the next. The high school junior's portrayal of lead character Mickey McKee in Liggett's March production of "Hello! My Baby," earned him the opportunity to compete in the 6th annual Sutton Foster Ovation awards at Wharton Center in East Lansing May 21. His success in this competition — he and classmate Catherine Elliott, who also had a lead role in the school musical, were named best actor and actress among 52 high school drama students from across Michigan — led to his Broadway debut at the Minskoff Theatre during the ninth annual National High School Musical Theatre Awards.

"He's had an amazing run this spring," said Phillip Moss, director of Liggett Players, Liggett's student-run theater group, and chairman of the performing arts department. Cipriano and Elliott's nomination for the Sutton Foster Ovation awards resulted from Moss inviting a team of expert adjudicators to attend "Hello! My Baby." This year marked the first time two students from the same school received best actor and actress honors, Moss said.

actresses performing lead roles in their respective high school musicals — 74 in all — from 37 regional programs across the country congregated in New York City to compete in the National High School Musical Theatre Awards, hosted this year by Ben Platt of "Dear Evan Hansen" and presented by The Broadway League Foundation. The culmination of a week of intensive rehearsals and private coaching with New York University Tisch School of the Arts faculty and other professionals was the showcase Monday night, June 26, in which performers vied for The Jimmy Award™ named in honor of legendary Broadway theater owner and producer James M. Nederlander. Selected each year by a panel of judges comprised of Tony Award-winning producers, casting experts and industry professionals, The Jimmy Award™ recognizes the best performer by an actor and actress selected from the group of student performers.

For Cipriano, highlights from the all-expenses paid week leading up to the showcase were meeting Tony-award winning actor Platt and working with professionals in the business, from directors and choreographers to Broadway stars, both those currently performing and original cast members from major productions such as "A Chorus Line" and "Les Miserables."

The bulk of time was spent in rehearsals for the showcase, Cipriano said. Working with his assigned coach, Schele Williams, associate director for "Motown the Musical," Cipriano prepared a solo, "Lost in the Wilderness," from "Children of Eden." Students also spent time rehearsing for medleys made up of 20 male and 20 female performers, or in an ensemble number that was a tribute to Nederlander, who died last year.

Cipriano and Elliott were among the performers selected for the medleys, with each singing a solo from their high school show. Cipriano opened the show, reprising his role as Mickey McKee to perform "Some of These Days."

"Michael, the genius musical director, mashed all these songs together," Cipriano said. "He had a plan for how he wanted it to sound."

Cipriano's family was in the audience of a full house that night, along with his choir teacher from Liggett, Tyler Capa, who said, as a first-year teacher, it was "pretty cool seeing two of my students in an event like that ... representing Michigan. It was a very humbling experience."

"I had to see his Broadway debut," said his father, Joseph Cipriano. "We flew the whole family in. Tony opened the show with the very first song. He set the bar."

At the end of the production numbers, four male and four female finalists were selected. When Cipriano's name was called, he said he couldn't believe it.

"I was not expecting that at all," he said. "There were so many amazing people there. Every single person was exceptionally talented."

Five minutes after his name was called, he had to go on stage to perform his solo.

"It was the craziest thing. I was jumping up and down backstage," he said.

"He killed it," said his father. "It was so amazing. All the kids were amazing. I felt bad for the judges, frankly. Every one of those kids could be someone or something at any level on any Broadway show."

While Cipriano wasn't selected for The Jimmy Award, being named a finalist earned him a $2,500 educational scholarship from the Barry and Fran Weissler Foundation and the attention of a number of casting agents and directors, including Kenny Ortega, director and choreographer for "High School Musical," who talked with Cipriano after the show about auditioning for a movie; casting director Bernard Telsey; and a Disney casting director who told Cipriano he was Telsey's number one choice among the performing students.

Previously Cipriano traveled to London to audition for the role of Aladdin in the Disney live-action remake, conducting a full screen test for director Guy Ritchie.

Cipriano credited the Sutton Foster Ovation Awards for the opportunity and thanked his family, drama director Moss and vocal teacher Capa for their support.

"Mr. Capa just came (to Liggett) this year," he said. "He has helped me so much throughout this year."

"Perhaps the most important thing to remember about Tony is how humble and hard working he is," said Moss. "That is the core of his gift, his talent, and it is a great hand down from his parents. They are much to be commended for his success."

Cipriano also recognized his fellow performers.

"I made 73 new friends," he said. "Alone from being extremely talented, they were all so humble and so nice. It was like one big family by the end of the week. It was awesome. It was the coolest thing."

"It was the coolest week of my life," he added.

Check out Cipriano's solo at The Jimmy Awards™ and other performances at antonio cipriano.com.

week's After 6 is the addition of three hours of assorted street performing acts from the Detroit Circus and Three Star Ping Pong Parlor," said Chad Craig, Parks and Recreation director. "Street muralist Carson Matlock will bring a splash of color to the event as he creates graffiti with the help of the After 6 goers."

Guests at After 6 are advised to come hungry, as there will be several restaurant and beverage options for both adults and children. Two Park favorites, Cabbage Patch Café and Fairfax Market, will offer a variety of items, along with JB's Hut, GoCheez Food Truck, Tana Falls Ginger Beer, Comfort Café Food Truck, People's Pierogi Collective and Grillz On Wheelz.

There also will be an array of vendors offering items for everyone in the family. Shop Kercheval for items from the Detroit Lions, Harvey Animal Hospital, Detroit Street Apparel, Gallery Animato, Divine Crystal, PurseNality Mobile Boutique, Me'Shea Bath & Body, Motor City Brick, Clay and Glass and Thirty-One.

"With more vendors, entertainers and food and beverage options, the After 6 on Kercheval series continues to get bigger and better each year," Craig said, "and everything is within walking distance or a trolley ride from your doorstep."

The K-Line Trolley runs on Kercheval, from Moross to the Park Market area 5 to 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday nights. Riders younger than 18 must be accompanied by an adult.

The entertainment at After 6 is free; however, there is a charge for food and beverage.

Bike taken

A man returning empty soda cans to Kroger on Kercheval in the Village at about 10:30 p.m. Thursday, July 13, reported the theft of his unattended, unlocked black and yellow Trek mountain bike from an alley behind the store.

Open house closed

Police investigating a noise complaint in the 600 block of University Place last week reportedly cited the 55-year-old male homeowner for being disorderly. At least three public safety officers responded to the complaint at 11:40 p.m. Thursday, July 13. "I observed numerous kids holding plastic drinking cups and a keg of beer in the middle of the yard surrounded by kids," reported a sergeant. The homeowner admitted it was a graduation party that got out of hand, the officer added.

"In the backyard, three juvenile males fled on foot westbound through yards (and) over fences," said a second officer. "I chased the group and was able to catch up," added a third. Officers tallied 12 attendees ages 17 and 18 from Grosse Pointe City, Farms and Park. "I identified all remaining party-goers and informed them they would need to be picked up by parents," reported

Hit & run

A witness gave police leads on an alleged hit-and-run driver Saturday evening, July 15. The suspect is a 26-year-old woman from Detroit operating a silver 2006 Chrysler Pacifica. She's accused of turning her vehicle into the path of a blue 1998 Jeep Grand Cherokee operated by a 24-year-old Clinton Township man at the intersection of Mack and Moross at 8:40 p.m.

"The Pacifica drove off eastbound on Mack," reported a public safety officer, summarizing the account of a 22-year-old female witness.

"(The witness) was able to get several pictures of the Pacifica, including the license plate and driver," said the officer.

A Grosse Pointe Woods patrolman found the Pacifica at 10 p.m. being operated on Chalfonte and Cook by a woman identified as the suspect's sister. Six juvenile passengers described the suspect driving the vehicle and being in a wreck earlier that day, according to police.

The suspect wasn't on scene.

She was in Ohio, a patrolman said, and denied involvement.

Traveling

A Detroit woman, 28, claimed to be traveling, not driving, when pulled over at 9:21 p.m. Wednesday, July 12, at Mack and Moross for operating a 2003 Ford Explorer with a broken brake light.

A patrolman arrested her for possessing an invalid motor vehicle insurance certificate.

Policed also cited a 41-year-old Detroit man for the same insurance infraction at about 7 p.m. Monday, July 10, on Mack at East Warren.

Identity theft

You know it's going to be a bad day when you check your bank balance and it shows you are overdrawn by $888,437. That's what a Fairholme resident reported to police after attempting a withdrawal at a Bank of America branch. A check with bank officials showed $4,000 was withdrawn by an unknown entity that had hacked into the account. The victim told police he responded a few weeks ago to an email asking for an update of his banking information. Police remind residents to be suspicious of emails like that and to check with their banks or credit card companies before responding.

Home invasion report

At 8:20 p.m. Monday, July 10, police responded with guns drawn and lots of questions to the report of a home invasion in progress in the 2100 block of Ridgemont. When police arrived, they found two men sitting on a couch, one of whom was the resident of the house; the other a visitor from Ohio. While the men offered similar stories and police determined there was no criminal activity, the Ohio visitor was warned if he returned, he could face trespassing charges.

Memories
of 1967

Back in 1967, I was a neophyte in the auditing department of Detroit Bank and Trust (now Comerica). At the time of the 1967 riot in Detroit we determined several banking offices had burned or had been looted for furniture. Additionally, in putting out the fires, the offices were flooded from the basements up. It was under this situation I was assigned to travel to the affected offices and remove the cash from the vaults.

I traveled to Twelfth-Clairmount, Oakland-Woodland, Linwood-Joy and Kercheval-Van Dyke branches in an armored truck with guards brandishing rifles. It was an unsettling ride.

Once we arrived at an office, we were greeted by numerous members of the Michigan National Guard standing guard outside the offices with bayonets on their rifles. Removing the cash from the vaults while standing in water was quite a task. We then loaded the currency into the truck and returned to the main office in downtown Detroit. In some instances, the flood waters had seeped into the area with safe deposit boxes and we wondered if the contents had been ruined.

The broken windows and burned-out homes in some areas was a sight one does not quickly forget. Most of the branch offices re-opened again, but I think the Twelfth-Clairmount office remained closed.

As an aside, we learned weeks later that during the riot some people in the neighborhoods used the opportunity to use the phones in the branch offices to make long-distance calls. Back in those days there was no special rate for long-distance calls and thus I suspect some seized upon the commotion to call friends in other states. Those must have been interesting phone calls.

All in all, it was a frightful, unsettling day for me — something that hopefully will never be repeated.

Kalmar is a resident of Lake Orion and former resident of Grosse Pointe.

One of the worst riots in U.S. history broke out on 12th Street near Clairmount on Detroit's west side July 23, 1967. In four days, 43 people died, 342 were injured and nearly 1,400 buildings had been burned following the police raid of an unlicensed, after-hours bar.

No doubt many Grosse Pointers have stories to share from that tumultuous time. In commemoration of the riots and the healing the city has done in recent years, we'd like to share your family-friendly stories with our readers.

Share your memories of 1967 Detroit by emailing editor@grossepointenews.com.

An authentic red telephone booth from London was brought to Grosse Pointe from England when the house at which it sits on Lakeshore in Grosse Pointe Shores was built in 1927. The original owners placed it in the middle of the yard, but the present owners moved it closer to Lakeshore and planted flowers around it.

Taking a stand

Let's take a stand: Health care for all, not the GOP's secret plan to set out fixing Obamacare and letting millions — yes, millions — of our neighbors live without fully funded health insurance. We can do more together, Republicans, Democrats and Independents, to lift up our health care system to make it the best in the world. Why is it the U.S. is not first in having the least chance of a woman dying in child birth? Or the lowest rate of infant mortality? These are problems that if solved would lead to lower health care costs. Instead of secret plans, let's have open discussions to set priorities and goals for those who care about our national health instead of merely special interests and the bottom line. I'm working with my union for health care for all. It was unions that brought us the weekend, an internationally used word for five-day instead of six- or seven-day work weeks, and again it is unions that can bring us together to negotiate national health care coverage. All Americans deserve weekends and wellness. This is a future we can all live with.

No endorsement

On June 22, the Grosse Pointe News published an article titled "Todoolie to do the job," which briefly described ToDoolie and its founding.

On July 8, ToDoolie placed doorknob flyers on homes in various Grosse Pointe neighborhoods with the caption: "Thanks to ToDoolie, busy Grosse Pointe residents will have access to affordable, insured and reliable help this summer on routine maintenance or odd jobs."

ToDoolie would like to emphasize that this was a paraphrase from the original article published by the Grosse Pointe News June 22, but the words were never directly written by the Grosse Pointe News as presented in the flyer.

It is important for us to clarify that our statement in the flyers does not represent a direct endorsement from the Grosse Pointe News.

We apologize for the inconvenience and confusion to residents of the Grosse Pointe community and we are thankful to the Grosse Pointe News for their help and support.

In favor

On Aug. 8, we will have the opportunity to approve a bond proposal for public safety and public services facilities. I urge you to consider voting yes for this proposal. As a former director of public safety/chief of police in this city, I have firsthand knowledge of the dire need for new facilities to house our public safety and public works departments.

Our current public safety building is totally inadequate for modern-day police and fire department operations. The layout of the interior space of the building raises severe safety concerns for officers and the general public who visit the facility. The director's office and detective bureau are inaccessible to the public and there is no accommodation for handicapped and elderly residents.

Basic functions such as evidence collecting and storage, report-writing work stations, interviewing and interrogations, equipment storage and records retention are limited by lack of space and secure infrastructure. Equipment maintenance for fire apparatus, weapons, tools and police vehicles is a near impossibility due to limited space.

In my experience as chief of police, a strong police presence along the Mack Avenue corridor would greatly enhance public safety where it is most needed. A visible police presence on Mack, the city's gateway, would be a significant deterrent to crime. A new public safety facility at Mack and St. Clair would provide a safer environment for our citizens, visitors and employees.

Please vote yes for the public safety and public services facilities bond proposal Tuesday, Aug. 8.

GUEST COLUMN By Kenneth E. Thorpe

Rising chronic disease rates
portend unsustainable costs

Twelve percent of Americans suffer from five or more chronic conditions, such as high blood pressure, heart disease and diabetes. This fraction of the population accounts for 41 percent of total health care spending.

If we don't do more to prevent people from acquiring chronic disease, the resulting health care bills could blow a gaping hole in the federal budget.

A new study conducted by RAND Health and supported by my organization, the Partnership to Fight Chronic Disease, shows just how costly it is to treat the severely ill.

In 2014, the latest data available, 32 percent of those with five or more chronic conditions visited an emergency department at least once. ER visits cost more than $1,200 on average.

The sickest patients also require more prescriptions. In 2014, patients with five or more chronic conditions filled nearly six times the number of prescriptions as people with one or two chronic diseases.

Chronic disease prevents people from living independently. More than half of those with five or more chronic conditions report having physical limitations that affect their daily lives.

As a result, patients have to cut back on work or ask someone to help them. More than 34 million Americans provide unpaid care to adults older than 50. This leads to a loss in worker productivity that could cost society $794 billion by 2030.

If we hope to save lives and avoid such staggering costs, we must undertake key reforms to help patients manage and prevent chronic diseases.

First, policymakers need to work together to ensure care is affordable and accessible. A third of privately-insured Americans recently reported receiving a "surprise" medical bill, one in which their health insurance plan paid less than what they expected. And many insurers have started dropping certain prescriptions from their coverage, leaving patients to either try a new drug or pay for their current drug out-of-pocket.

When patients can't access the care they need, they get sicker — and health care costs rise. Improving medication adherence alone could save America more than $105 billion a year.

Second, we ought to expand programs proven to prevent chronic diseases. For instance, the Diabetes Prevention Program, offered by private insurers, helps patients at risk of developing diabetes improve their diet and exercise more. The program has worked tremendously well — patients age 60 or older who made

Lighting up the night

The Edsel and Eleanor Ford House hosted the Detroit Symphony Orchestra July 7 and 8. Friday night, the DSO played a collection of movie greats, including themes from "Camelot," "Harry Potter," "Wizard of Oz" and "Sound of Music." Saturday night's musical lineup created a symphonic fairy tale fantasy, featuring composers like Tchaikovsky, Haydn, Handel and more. Hundreds of guests attended the shows, which ended with fireworks over Lake St. Clair.

Defense attorney looks long term

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE FARMS — The attorney defending a man against a weapons charge plans for a victory with statewide impact.

"I'm going to try to make some new law with this case," said Catherine O'Meara.

She's the court-appointed counsel of Sean Michael Linston, a 31-year-old accused habitual offender from Detroit.

Grosse Pointe Farms police arrested Linston during a traffic stop on Mack near Elizabeth Court Tuesday afternoon, July 4, for possessing a concealed 3 3/4-inch push dagger.

"There's some question about the way the law's written, the need for intent and if you can have a knife for a lawful purpose," O'Meara said. "In some interpretations of the law, it doesn't matter what your intent is with a knife that's considered per se dangerous."

Investigators feel their case is strong, despite Linston reportedly alternately claiming he needed the dagger for protection and cutlery.

"When I was researching this with the prosecutor, it was necessary to show Linston intended to use it as a weapon, even if it was for self defense," Farms Detective Lt. Richard Rosati said. "If it was for opening coconuts, which he also said, we were not going to authorize (an arrest warrant) for carrying a concealed weapon. But, if you intend to use it as a weapon, it's a weapon, even if it's for self defense."

O'Meara assumes she'll lose at the municipal and district levels. She's aiming for victory in a higher court.

"(Losing) is going to give it a chance to go into appellate arena where the law can change," she said.

"Often, as practitioners, we take a stance at the trial court level knowing it's likely to be unsuccessful, but knowing we're really setting a foundation for appeal," said David Draper, a Farms attorney unaffiliated with the case. "If you're victorious at the appellate court and it gets published, that's precedent, something everyone can rely on in the state."

"If you're not content with whatever the ruling is from the municipal or district court, you'd go to circuit court and, beyond that, the court of appeals all the way up to the Michigan Supreme Court," said Randall Cain, an attorney from City of Grosse Pointe and former Grosse Pointe Park public safety officer. "She may lose at the next level. You never know."

During a probable cause hearing Wednesday, July 12, in Farms Municipal Court, Judge Matthew Rumora agreed with O'Meara to reschedule Linston's preliminary examination to noon Wednesday, Aug. 9.

Linston remains free, having posted 10 percent of $10,000 bond.

lifestyle changes through the program reduced their risk of developing diabetes by 71 percent. Medicare will cover it for those at risk and age 65 and older starting in 2018, but if Medicare offered the program to at-risk adults ages 60 to 64, it could save $7 billion more.

Altogether, increasing access to health care and promoting behavioral changes could save society $116 billion a year. Finally, America needs to encourage the development of new treatments and medicines. In 2016, there were 93 medicines in development for Alzheimer's disease, more than 170 for diabetes and more than 130 for mental illnesses. Fostering the development of medicines and treatments that target chronic disease would save millions of lives and $418 billion a year.

If current trends continue, chronic diseases will claim millions of American lives and cost us trillions of dollars. To lower that toll, we need to promote prevention efforts and improve access to recommended care for those already diagnosed. Thorpe is a professor of health policy at Emory University and chairman of the Partnership to Fight Chronic Disease.

BB gunplay draws half dozen PSO's

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE FARMS AND SHORES — At least a half dozen public safety officers from two communities responded early Sunday, May 7, to a report of a man in a white Ford Focus on west-bound Lakeshore waving a pistol at a 19-year-old female motorist from Grosse Pointe Shores.

She had three teenage passengers in the car. Grosse Pointe Shores police learned of the incident at 12:04 a.m. from the female's father. "(She) stated that somewhere between Provencal and Moross the passenger was waving a gun out the window," reported a Shores patrolman. "She recognized them from school, but did not know them personally or their names," added a lieutenant, not naming the school. A Farms officer located the Focus on northbound Moross. "Officers effected a high-risk stop," reported Office Vince Finn. A sergeant found what looked like a Saturday night special under the driver's seat. It turned out to be a $34.95 Umarex TDP45 BB gun. "The gun was designed to look like an actual firearm," Finn said.

Officers arrested the driver, 19, of Detroit, for brandishing a weapon. "(He) indicated he was not the one that had been shooting (the) BB gun," Finn reported. A second suspect, a 15-year-old Grosse Pointe Woods male, was identified as a passenger in the Focus, but wasn't on scene during the stop. A fourth Farms officer questioned the female at her house. "(She) indicated the two suspects were known to her as students that attend (a private) school with her," reported the officer. Guns, fake or not, don't mix with cars. "The victim they point a gun at might panic and crash into something," Farms Detective Tom Shimko. Farms police asked area jurisdictions to forward reports of BB gun damage.

That's why social media lit up when Grosse Pointe Woods parks officials were discussing banning the TP'ing tradition for swim team members following an incident at the end of the 2016 season. According to Parks and Recreation Supervisor Nicole Byron, swim team coaches do the traditional TP'ing, which typically involved leaving toilet paper in trees late at night at the homes of swimmers and coaches, with the coaches' houses done by swim team members who also were employed by the city as lifeguards. In 2016, the home of a coach not only was TP'ed, but some of the swimmers added peanut butter and eggs to the mix, damaging the house and cars parked in the driveway. It moved from a harmless prank, according to Byron, to a crime, namely malicious destruction of property. The fear, Byron told the city council, meeting as a committee of the whole

Monday, July 17, is with coaches technically being city employees, the city could have been held liable for any damage done by its "employees." City officials considered ending the tradition, which brought much discussion on social media sites and emails to city council members. "I started hearing about this six weeks ago," said Councilwoman Vicki Granger. "I've had a number of emails about it." But a solution appears to have been found. Byron asked the council for permission to turn the tradition over to parents, allowing them to coordinate the TP'ing among themselves, removing city employees entirely. "That way it would no longer be in the hands of employees and should remove the city from any liability," Byron said. The council agreed, unanimously. Toilet paper should start sprouting from trees the morning of Wednesday, July 26, for Lakefront Swimming Association members and Thursday, July 28, for MICSA members.

mother's split pea soup and fresh, homemade crab cakes among assorted meats and finger food, is a full-time job itself. "My mother does things in the deli, but she's up in age now," Muer said. "It's a lot to run," Donaldson said. "At this point in our lives, we'd probably make it a lot smaller operation that's easier to handle." They've never precisely counted how many products fill the shelves and counters. Their father, now deceased, bought the business in summer 1974. "He never worked here," Donaldson said. "I was 21. I'd miss it. I would want to get back into doing something. We'd like to stay here (in the Grosse Pointes). We're known here." "We've been here so long the customers are our friends," Muer said. "Many are on a first-name basis. We've always given pretzels to the little kids." Municipal officials propose transforming the corner and a neighboring residential property into public safety headquarters. "We were thinking about selling anyway and had someone who was interested," Muer said. "We heard the city was looking for something on Mack. I thought that was a great idea. Mack needs that presence. I think most people think that, too." In a special election Tuesday, Aug. 8, voters will approve or deny issuing nearly $13 million in municipal bonds to execute the plan plus move public works facilities from the city hall complex on Maumee to behind Ace Hardware on Mack in Detroit between Radnor and Canyon. "It's essentially a 1.7-mil increase for 22 years," City Manager Peter Dame has explained numerous times. "The estimated cost to a median house with a taxable value of $250,000 would be $212.50 annually." "If this is approved Aug. 8, we would be closing at the end of January," Donaldson said. "The community needs a police presence on Mack." Until then, it's 50-hour work weeks and a focus on customer service. "It's all I've ever done," Donaldson said. "One of the things we love about Grosse Pointers is they're very loyal (and) supporting of small business," Muer said. "That's how we could be here for so many years."

Shining a light (and camera) on Grosse Pointe PBS's 'Under the Radar' visits community

By Jody McVeigh
Editor

There were a few noticeable visitors to Grosse Pointe last week.

The host and crew of "Under the Radar Michigan" visited several locations in the Pointes to showcase the town in an upcoming episode. Selected for the show were Robot Garage, Garrido's Bistro & Pastry, Edsel and Eleanor Ford House, K-Line trolley and Dirty Dog Jazz Cafe.

"Our goal was to cover all five of the Pointes, so we chose a variety of places that we felt were unique and interesting to Grosse Pointe," said director Eric Tremonti, who grew up in Grosse Pointe. "We get tons of emails from fans who suggest businesses or stories, then it's our job to pick which ones will translate well to our format and help paint a great picture of the community being featured."

Tremonti — who went to Defer Elementary and Pierce Middle schools before graduating Grosse Pointe South High School — said most "Under the Radar" episodes feature at least one restaurant with a goal of showing people someplace new to visit.

"People will drive for hours just to try a restaurant we've featured," he said. "Garrido's did not disappoint. Vanessa was so warm and welcoming and the food was spectacular. They are a great success story and a great transplant story.

"The Robot Garage is such an inspirational place," he continued. "The energy that we felt as soon as we walked in was infectious. What a great place for kids to expand their horizons. The Edsel and Eleanor Ford House is a Grosse Pointe icon. It's hard to talk about the Pointes without featuring it. The K-Line trolley was a must for us. Ever since it started, I've heard nothing but great things about what a community building experience it is. We talk a lot about communities having a sense of place and the K-Line is one of those things that makes Grosse Pointe a great place to live. The fact that Grosse Pointe is home to the Dirty Dog Jazz Cafe might be under a lot of people's radar, so our hope is that jazz lovers will find their way to Grosse Pointe to visit it. The nice thing is that for the five things we ultimately decided to feature, there are at least 10 more that are still on the to-do list, so I'm sure we'll be back in Grosse Pointe some day."

"Under the Radar" airs on PBS at 8:30 p.m.

Thursdays and 10:30 a.m. Saturdays. The Emmy Award-winning program, in its eighth season, also airs in parts of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Canada, featuring "all of the cool people, places and things in Michigan that people may or may not be aware of," Tremonti said. "Grosse Pointe has always been on our list of communities to feature. I'm not sure why it's taken us so long to get there."

Tremonti said he hoped to capture real conversations about communities and businesses, though

40th annual Village Sidewalk Sale is July 28-29

The Village's annual Sidewalk Sale celebrates its 40th year with special sales and activities Friday and Saturday, July 28 and 29. In addition to once-a-year deals on merchandise at Village stores, the sale includes an art fair, live music Friday night and new activities for children both days.

The event, which takes place noon to 9 p.m. Friday, July 28, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, July 29, is presented by the Grosse Pointe Village Downtown Development Authority. It offers special pricing, unique offers and giveaways from Village merchants and businesses. Participating retailers offer significant discounts off regular prices on end-of-season merchandise, as well as items for special purchase offered exclusively during the two-day sale.

Joining the merchant sales July 28 and 29 is the Sidewalk Sale Art Fair with unique items in a variety of mediums from more than three dozen artists. The fair, organized by Posterity Gallery, adds a new dimension for visitors to purchase one-of-a-kind, hand-crafted gifts and items for the home.

Posterity Gallery also hosts a kids' coloring contest for 3- to 5-year-olds and 6- to 9-year-olds. Other weekend programs include a free bicycle safety check from Bikes, Blades & Boards and the Marais Farmers Market, open 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, July 29.

An activity tent, sponsored by Grosse Pointe Orthodontics, features fun for the younger set, including LEGO fun with Bricks 4 Kids, as well as rock painting and other art projects with Mini Picassos. The activity tent is located on St. Clair at Kercheval.

New this year is a sidewalk chalk art contest. Youngsters in kindergarten through eighth grade are asked to register in advance for the free activity. Each entrant receives a supply of chalk from CVS. Artists will create a street scene depicting "summer fun." Winners receive awards at 5 p.m. Friday, July 28, on the stage at Kercheval and Notre Dame. Sign-up instructions are available at thevillagegp.com.

Group forming to assist with Life Remodeled project

By Jody McVeigh
Editor

Chris Lambert expects 12,000 volunteers at this year's Life Remodeled project in the neighborhood around Central High School.

He'll definitely get help from a group organized through Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

Life Remodeled, a Detroit-based nonprofit, each year cleans up 300 city blocks in six days, mowing lawns, cutting brush, painting some houses while boarding up others.

This year's project is Monday, July 31, to Saturday, Aug. 5.

"The overall goal is to remodel lives of those who serve in the process of the project," said Lambert, the nonprofit's CEO. "This includes individuals and groups from both the city and suburbs. More important than the physical projects are the relationships that are formed in the process. Every phase is about people transformation, those served and those who are serving. Relationships born of this approach are a catalyst to create transformation and sustainable neighborhoods crucial to making Detroit's revitalization permanent."

Life Remodeled was incorporated in 2011 and since has built and remodeled several homes, boarded up hundreds of vacant homes and cleaned up city blocks. In 2014, it added neighborhoods surrounding Detroit Public Schools to its duties. It not only has cleaned up around Cody, Osborn and Denby high schools, but brought a new science laboratory and synthetic turf football field to Cody; new roof, gym, cafeteria, library and main office to Osborn; and a complete remodel and restoration of Denby's Skinner Park.

"The thing that's impressed me the most about this organization is rather than coming into a neighborhood and telling them what we can do, we come in and ask, 'What do you need from us?'" said Ted Everingham, immediate past president of the Rotary Club of Grosse Pointe, which joined recruitment efforts with Memorial Church. Everingham heard Lambert present on Life Remodeled and asked him to speak to Rotary. Members immediately jumped on board.

"I was turned on by the whole concept, the way it was planned, the way it was funded, the nature of the work," Everingham said.

This year's project is the first of a two-year commitment the organization has made to Central High School.

"As 2017 marks the 50th year anniversary of the 1967 Detroit uprising, Life Remodeled and our partners will invest in the neighborhood surrounding Central High School, the city's first public high school, in the community where Detroit's civil unrest began," Lambert said. "This year's project will serve not only as a powerful commemoration of the progress that has been made, but also the progress we continue to strive toward."

Over six days, the bulk of volunteers will cut overgrown brush, mow grass, haul trash and board houses. Tools, lunch and water are provided. In addition to cleaning up the area, Life Remodeled will begin the process of repurposing Durfee Middle-

Elementary School.

"Due to the fact that Central High School students currently occupy less than 20 percent of the school building, the Detroit Public Schools Community District will relocate students from Durfee Middle-Elementary School to Central, consolidating into one K-12," Lambert said. "Life Remodeled has leased the Durfee building — built in 1927, containing 143,000 square feet — for just $1 per year and will repurpose the historic school building into a Community Innovation Center focused on entrepreneurship, education and community."

At Memorial, Howard Hill, Amanda Roraff and Sue Acton are involved with organizing volunteers. While people are welcome to sign up any of the project's six days, the Memorial group has focused on Wednesday, Aug. 2.

"We've found our members like to work together," said Acton, the church's coordinator of outreach ministries. "Memorial Church has a very active outreach program. That's my job to make it so. We do everything people bring to us."

She said 20 people already have signed up, but more are welcome.

"Eighty-five percent of it is clean up," said Hill, a Memorial member and chairman of its diversity task force. "For older people whose heart is there but maybe physically they're not able, they can help with registering people or setting up food."

"If you have skilled trades (experience) — electrical, roofing, carpentry, plumbing, brick laying, etc. — even better," Roraff said, noting there are jobs available for everyone.

Life Remodeled sent applications to 50 homeowners in the selected area, asking for their greatest need.

"We're not going to do a total renovation, but we will go in and add a new furnace or a new dishwasher, build new windows," Acton said. "It gives people a leg up. It's too overwhelming for a neighborhood club or block group to do what needs to be done all by themselves. But once it's done, the neighborhood can take ownership."

"These are not just a few things people have thrown out," Hill said. "We're talking 10 to 20 years of blight."

Roraff said she hopes the program not only cleans up a long-neglected neighborhood, but also creates a sense of community among volunteers and "introduces individuals to Life Remodeled and let them see firsthand the type of exciting things that are happening in Detroit."

The Detroit Police Department measured crime a year after Life Remodeled's 2014 project.

"Crime dropped in 10 of 11 categories on the specific blocks where we worked, including a 47 percent reduction in homicides," Lambert said. "Last summer, more than 10,700 volunteers participated in our six-day project. Eighty-four percent of urban and suburban volunteers surveyed said they developed a more positive view of Detroit and suburban volunteers working together as a result of the project. Seventy-five percent said volunteering with Life Remodeled helped them become a better person."

"This program gives the ability for people to say I care about my neighbor," Hill said. "We're all Detroiters, no matter what our street address is."

Added Everingham, "I want people to understand this ain't your grandfather's Grosse Pointe Good organizations like this church and Rotary and other organizations are pitching in because they have a belief in what they're doing. It's attracting good people from our community through whatever organization they're involved in."

Hill said Life Remodeled is a "people who care" program.

"It's a concept anyone can subscribe to," he said. "This is an opportunity to do what's right."

The program is open to anyone older than age 14. For information, email Hill at howardb.hill@comcast.net. To sign up, visit bit.ly/2tUatBD.

ASK THE EXPERTS By Dan H. Tripp CLU

Considering the options

Q: I've seen several ads touting life insurance for less if I call an 800 number. I know I need life insurance, but is this the way I should go?

A: My initial response to this question is you should do what is most comfortable or convenient for you. If you don't have the time or the inclination to meet with an agent, perhaps this is for you. But before you do, here are some things to consider:

◆ The new policy most likely will only save you lots of money if you currently own permanent or whole life insurance, which can be substantially more money. Actuarially-speaking, each company prices their term insurance based on things like experience, mortality tables, etc. However, they do not have a separate set of policies for the internet crowd.

◆ The price advertised is for a 10-year level term policy at the company's most preferred rate classification. A very small percentage of the public has good enough health to get these "walk on water" rates, meaning your rates might be higher and you will still need to go through underwriting, including blood and urine testing, before approval.

◆ Life insurance is intended to take care of your family if you die. A local agent knows exactly, with knowledge and compassion, how to get the claim filed properly and expeditiously. This allows your spouse and family to deal with the emotional stress, funeral arrangements, etc., not which keypad option to choose and what paperwork to file.

When it comes to your family's well-being, you should do the best you can. You'd never let a doctor diagnose you over the phone or an attorney represent you without all the facts. The same should apply to your family's financial protection.

Uncommon visitor nesting at Parcels

By Rosann Kovalcik Guest Writer

It was a happy day when David Oliver stopped in at Wild Birds Unlimited in Grosse Pointe Woods to show me the photos he had taken of the cliff swallows at Parcels Middle School.

I hadn't heard about these birds, so I stopped at the school on my way home to see them myself. What little beauties, flying about together for insects, their young waiting in the colonial nests these birds build.

Cliff swallows are one of the birds that have adapted to changes humans have made by building their mud nests on bridges, overpasses and other brick surfaces. Cliff swallows use their beaks to gather mud, using about 1,000 blobs to complete their nest. The reasons for nesting in colonies include more birds alert to potential dangers that can alert the group and more scouts for food supplies. One such danger includes house sparrows invading and taking over cliff swallow nests.

JLD announces new board of directors

The Junior League of Detroit recently announced its board of directors for the 2017-18 program year, led by Mayra Rodriguez, who will serve as president.

The 2017-18 board also includes Aimee Argel, president elect/planning council director; Katie Doelle, recording secretary/communications council director; Mary Hollens, community council director; Terry Lynch, treasurer/finance director; Christina Jackson, assistant treasurer; Cindy O'Connor, membership council director and Connie Dunlap, sustainer council director.

Throughout the coming year, the JLD will continue to focus its efforts on developing its key community impact initiative, Project EAT, which connects food, education, access and tools.

Established in 2014, the initiative includes supplying Kitchen Kits to families in need to help build well-equipped kitchens so they can cook healthy food. Each kit is worth $250.

This spring the JLD distributed its 400th Kitchen Kit. Kits donated so far have had a dramatic effect on the lives of the families the JLD works with. It has been determined families that eat together stay together.

Every year the JLD continues to raise money for Project EAT and evolve the project, adding and expanding elements and incorporating additional community partners.

Memorial wraps up carillon concert series

Grosse Pointe Memorial Church presents the last of its carillon recitals at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 25, with carillonneur Sally Harwood.

Harwood is an assistant carillonneur at Michigan State University. She began her carillon studies in 1996 with Margo Halsted at the newly-renovated Beaumont Tower Carillon at MSU and studied with Ray McLellan after his 1997 appointment as MSU carillonneur. She was accepted as a carillonneur member of the Guild of Carillonneurs in North America in 2000.

During the 2010-11 academic year, Harwood attended the Royal Carillon School 'Jef Denyn' in Mechelen, Belgium, and was awarded the end carillon diploma with distinction. She served 22 years as in-house legal counsel for MSU and occasionally performed formal recitals while still pursuing her legal career. Now, as a retiree, she plays the carillon more than ever and her performance work has expanded.

Listeners are invited to gather on the front lawn of the church. A closed-circuit television is provided so the audience can see Harwood at the playing clavier in the tower. Tours of the tower and the carillon are available at the conclusion of the 45-minute recital.

The concert is free, but donations are accepted.

Grosse Pointe

Memorial Church is at 16 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms. For more information, visit gpmchurch.org or call (313) 882-5330.

Families welcome German students into their homes ahead of concert

Area to house 63 students prior to concert this weekend

The Tookula Choir of Minden, Germany, visits the Grosse Pointes July 22 to 24, as part of the Blue Lake International Exchange Program.

Members of the 63-voice choir will stay in private homes while visiting the Pointes, according to Laurie Arora, co-chairwoman of the committee making arrangements for the visit. This is the group's second visit to Grosse Pointe.

While in Grosse Pointe, the Tookula Choir will perform one concert at 7 p.m. Sunday, July 23, at Grosse Pointe United Methodist Church, 211 Moross, Arora said. The concert is free and open to the public.

The German choir is one of several European musical groups that will visit Michigan during 2017 as part of the Blue Lake International Exchange Program.

Blue Lake is best known for the fine arts camp it operates each summer about six miles east of Whitehall. More than 5,500 young musicians — mostly from Michigan and other Midwestern states — are expected to attend Blue Lake this summer, many from the Pointes.

Blue Lake's International Exchange Program began in 1969 when a 90-voice choir toured England, Belgium and Germany.

Since then, more than 10,000 high school musicians wearing Blue Lake uniforms have visited 650 communities in England, France, Italy, Germany, Austria, Luxembourg, Belgium, the Netherlands, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Finland, Hungary and Liechtenstein.

In return, nearly 10,000 members of 550 European bands, orchestras, choirs and dance groups have come to Michigan to perform in communities throughout the Midwest.

CHURCH EVENTS

Memorial

Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms, welcomes the Wally's Frozen Yogurt fire truck at its annual ice cream social 3:30 to 4:45 p.m. Sunday, July 16. The event is free.

The church hosts Frolic Family Fun Night 6 to 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 17. The event includes ice cream and fellowship with other church families who have children from birth through age 3. Older siblings are invited to attend as well. RSVP at christianed@gpmchurch.org or (313) 882-5330, Ext. 123.

The church's Living Waters for the World Vacation Bible School takes place 6 to 8 p.m. Wednesdays, Aug. 1 to 15. The intergenerational event involves children, youth and adults. A potluck dinner begins at 6 p.m., followed by age-appropriate activities, music and prayer. Cost is $5 per person, with a maximum of $20 per family each week. To register, email Lisa Turner at lturner@gmpchurch.org or call (313) 882-5330, Ext. 135.

C.K. "Skip" Gibson Jr.

C.K. "Skip" Gibson Jr., 92, died Thursday, July 13, 2017. Skip was a resident of Grosse Pointe Farms from 1959 until 2011, when he moved to Eastpointe.

Born Nov. 22, 1925, in Montclair, N.J., to Katharine and Charles Gibson, Skip enlisted in the U.S. Navy before completing high school. He was stationed in Saipan where he served as an aviation mechanic during and after World War II. After receiving his honorable discharge, he obtained his high school graduation degree. He attended four years of college, the last two at Syracuse University.

At age 32, he married Ruth Fairlamb and adopted her three young children. In 1959, he moved the family from Detroit to Grosse Pointe Farms, where Ruth gave birth to two sons. Ruth succumbed to lung cancer in 1995. Skip held a number of positions with various businesses in the Detroit area, while his longest lasting (and most recent) position was 38 years in sales for Lawson Products.

During his energetic life, Skip enjoyed many diverse activities. Soon after his arrival in Detroit, he joined the Detroit Boat Club Crew and became active with its rowing teams. He soon migrated to larger sailboats and became an effective crew member in many sailboat races around the Great Lakes.

When not at work or on the water, Skip could be heard harmonizing in barbershop quartet. Driven by his love for the outdoors, he took his seven-person family on many camping adventures, including longer trips to Cape Cod, South Carolina and Yellowstone National Park.

As a mechanically inclined man, his competence in do-it-yourself construction and machinery grew considerably. Trout fishing also soon became a favorite pastime — Grayling residents could easily believe he was a "local." Skip's passion for canoeing grew into an avocation of restoring vintage wood canoes into finished showpieces.

As an active parent sponsor, he worked and played closely with three of his sons, who became members of Boy Scout Troop 156 at Christ Church Grosse Pointe, and he continued his scouting work at D Bar A Scout Ranch in Metamora and Cole Canoe Camp on the Rifle River.

More recently, Skip volunteered his building skills at the Grosse Pointe Theatre where he helped build stage sets. Many Grosse Pointers knew Skip as the sociable man whose wood-working shop/garage — with the double door swung completely open — was like a hands-on wooden boat crafters museum open to the public.

He died as a result of injuries sustained from a fall in his home.

Skip is survived by his brother, Frank Gibson; children, Richard Gibson, Mark Gibson, Ruth Gibson Hummel (Darius), Chip Gibson (Beth) and Soule Gibson (Darlene); grandchildren, Loril Gibson, Scott Hummel, Shasta Gibson, Charlie Gibson and Jonathan Gibson and great-grandson, Cian Callahan Gibson.

A memorial service will be 3 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 2, at Christ Church, 61 Grosse Pointe Blvd., Grosse Pointe Farms. A reception at the church follows the service.

At Skip's request, in lieu of flowers, donations may be made to Wooden Canoe Heritage Association, Michigan Chapter at wcha.org or Paul Young Chapter (Michigan) of Trout Unlimited at tu.org/connect/groups/paul-h-young-tu.

Loraine Helen Blondell

Loraine Helen Blondell, 85, passed away Thursday, July 13, 2017.

She was the loving wife of Thomas; dear mother of Michael (Lisa), Kenneth (Toni), Gregory (Cynthia), Joan Klimek (Larry), Debra Zerweck, Laurie Clawson (Craig) and Raymond (Therese). She also is survived by 18 grandchildren, four great-grandchildren and many loving nieces and nephews.

She was predeceased by her sister, Carolyn Gibson.

A funeral Mass was celebrated July 15 at St. Clare of Montefalco Church, Grosse Pointe Park, followed by interment at Resurrection Cemetery, Clinton Township.

Matthew William Peyser

Matthew William Peyser

Matthew William Peyser, 25, passed away Saturday, July 8, 2017.

He was the beloved son of Mark and Kadra; cherished brother of Hank (Jarvie) and adored grandson of William Killebrew (Geraldine), the late Donna Killebrew and Mary Anne Peyser (the late Hank).

He also is survived by aunts and uncles, Cheryl and Jamie Buhr, Kevin and Cathy Killebrew, Pam and John Alessandro, Pam and Mike Voss, Richard Peyser and Cindy and Rob Squiers and cousins, Bill and Kelly Buhr; Punky and Abbie Buhr and their children, Leo and Will; Tommy and Emily Buhr; Danny and Annie Hoban and their children, Faith and Laine; Kevin and Sari Hoban; Elyse and Chris Perkins; Monique and Robbie Squiers; Tory Voss; Vanessa and Nick Campbell; and Chase Alessandro. Many extended families and friends also enriched Matty's life.

Born Sept. 6, 1991, Matty graduated from Grosse Pointe North High School in 2010 and Michigan State University Eli Broad College of Business in 2014. He was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. A competitive athlete, Matty swam 12 years at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club and four years at Grosse Pointe North. He played hockey both in the house and travel leagues for Grosse Pointe Hockey Association and St. Clair Shores, as well as the junior varsity team at Grosse Pointe North.

Matt's professional career began as a finance analyst in transaction advisory services for Ernst & Young in downtown Detroit. He currently was employed at Mednax headquarters in Sunrise, Fla. and recently was promoted to senior mergers and acquisitions analyst in the business development department.

A celebration in honor of Matty's life will be held 11 a.m. Friday, July 28, 2017, at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club, 788 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Shores.

In lieu of flowers, Matty's family requests donations be made to a local homeless shelter or animal rescue and adoption shelter.

Howard McKeehan

Howard McKeehan, proud Korean War veteran, passed away Tuesday, July 11, 2017, at age 89.

He is survived by his beloved wife of 63 years, Lita M. (nee Bonnier) and many loving nieces and nephews.

Howard was born May 26, 1928, in Hamilton, Ohio, to John and Stamatina McKeehan. He was a member of the U.S. Army during the Korean War.

A memorial gathering was held July 15.

Alexander Charles Suczek

Alexander Charles Suczek of South Padre Island, Texas, formerly of Grosse Pointe, died peacefully Saturday, June 24, 2017, in his summer residence in Stamford, Conn. He was 89.

Alex is survived by his wife of 50 years, Marybelle (nee Riley); daughters, Hedi Suczek O'Connor and Yohanna Suczek Sowler and grandchildren, Caeleigh, Riley and Sean O'Connor and Lily Sowler.

He was predeceased by his parents; half-sister, Vera Suczek and half-brother, Robert Suczek.

Alex was born in New York City to Charity Gawanski and Robert Suczek, but the family moved to Grosse Pointe shortly thereafter. He graduated valedictorian of Detroit University School, one of the predecessor schools of University Liggett School. Following his graduation from Harvard University in 1950, he served in the U.S. Air Force before returning to Grosse Pointe.

Alex was an advertising executive at Lintas:

Alexander C. Suczek

Campbell Ewald, where, for much of his career, he was editor of "Friends" magazine. His primary passion, however, was the arts, especially music. He founded the Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival in 1957. For 32 years he was president of Pro Musica of Detroit, presenting new and outstanding classical artists. He taught hundreds of students to play and sing folk guitar, using a notation system he developed to teach strumming patterns. As a performer, his specialty was the traditional songs of Vienna, and for his role promoting Viennese culture, he was decorated by the Government of Austria.

Inspired by a Stratford Festival production of "Phaedre," he wrote a theater review and thus began a second career as a music and theater critic. He often wrote reviews of Stratford productions for the "Grosse Pointe News." He also served on the board of the El Paseo Arts Foundation and launched its foreign film festival.

He was an avid skier, sailor and gardener; an excellent cook and a connoisseur of fine wines. He learned to windsurf at 60 and was still windsurfing when he turned 80. Alex's enthusiasm for life and music was infectious.

A local memorial celebration will be 3 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 5, at The Grosse Pointe Club, 6 Berkshire Place, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Donations may be made to Pro Musica of Detroit, c/o Stan Beattie, 29069 Utley, Farmington Hills, MI 48334, or El Paseo Art Foundation, P.O. Box 1185, Port Isabel, TX 78578.

Walsh College honors Wilson Foundation board chairman

Walsh College named Jeffrey C. Littmann as the keynote speaker and honorary Doctor of Laws recipient for its 109th commencement ceremony, which took place Saturday, June 17, at Zion Christian Church in Troy. Littmann is a life trustee and chairman of the board of The Ralph C. Wilson Jr. Foundation. The Ralph C. Wilson Jr. Foundation was funded in 2015 with a charitable mission of distributing $1.2 billion in four areas — children and youth; young adults and working class families; caregiving and healthy communities — in southeast Michigan and western New York. The foundation will continue its spend-down through 2035.

Littmann has held several positions within Ralph C. Wilson Enterprises, including vice president and chief financial officer from 1986 to 2013, and president from 2014 to 2015. From 1986 to 2014, he was a director and the CFO of the Buffalo Bills while also working as the CFO of the Ralph Wilson Equity Fund from 1999 to 2016. Along with his duties at the foundation, Littmann also is chairman of the Ralph C. Wilson, Jr. Trust and a director and the treasurer of Interstate Highway Construction Inc. Littmann also served on the NFL's Executive Committee and Investment Committee as well as Advisory Committees on Labor and League Economics.

Littmann earned two degrees from Walsh College, a Master of Science degree in taxation in 1981 and a Bachelor of Accountancy degree in 1977. He maintains a strong relationship with his alma mater. He received the Distinguished Alumni Award at the college's Leadership Awards dinner November 2016.

"In the past, Jeff has described his years at Walsh as a 'game-changer' for his career and referred to the college as 'world-class,'" said Audrey Olmstead, vice president and chief development officer, Walsh College. "In our opinion, those words also describe Jeff. Through his work with the Ralph C. Wilson Jr. Foundation, he is helping to change the lives of the people of southeast Michigan and we are so proud to call him a Walsh College alumnus and to welcome him back as the keynote speaker for our 109th commencement."

In addition to his Walsh College degrees, Littmann earned a Juris Doctor (cum laude) from Detroit College of Law, now the Michigan State University College of Law.

Littmann and his wife, Cynthia, live in Grosse Pointe.

It is difficult to believe 10 years have passed since you, our beloved wife, daughter, sister, aunt and friend, left us.

We still miss seeing you tend your exquisite gardens and being with you visiting new and unknown lands, sailing Lake St. Clair and the Great Lakes and socializing at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club and Bay Harbor. We especially miss all you did for our family. Family gatherings seem incomplete without you there. Your bright light and amazing strength and grace will never be forgotten.

their insect prey while flying, which can be referred to as hunting "on the wing." Cliff swallows eat flying insects all year round, foraging above grassy pastures, plowed fields and other open areas, but also over floodplain forests, canyons and towns — often taking advantage of thermal air currents that bring together dense swarms of insects. I imagine the fields at Parcels and the Lochmoor Club offer a good habitat for the insects they seek, including flies, bees, wasps, ants, beetles, lacewings, mayflies, butterflies, moths, grasshoppers, crickets, dragonflies and damselflies. Cliff swallows tend to forage higher in the air than barn swallows, which can be seen skimming just above the ground, especially behind lawn equipment that causes insects to flush. Cliff swallows preen their plumage, feed, drink and bathe in groups, and they continue sticking together in large flocks during migration and on their wintering grounds. These beautiful swallows will be here only for the summer as they will migrate back to a place where they can find insects the rest of the year, in southern South America. Cliff swallows migrate during the day at a low altitude and feed during migration. Kovalcik is the owner of Wild Birds Unlimited, Grosse Pointe Woods.

Senior Men's Club of Grosse Pointe defeats Birmingham in golf match

Members of the Senior Men's Club of Grosse Pointe defeated Birmingham's Senior Men's Club in an annual golf match, bringing its record to 3-1. The competition took place June 20 at Plum Brook Golf Club, Sterling Heights. Each club fielded nine two-man teams and the match was conducted as a nine-hole best-ball scramble. The final score was 97 to 83. Leading performers for SMCGP were Marty McMillan and Ron Vitale, who gained the most points as a team. While the Grosse Pointers won the match, Birmingham won longest drive and longest putt. The golf match is primarily a social event which enables members from both teams to have a morning of friendly golf with enough competition to make lunch taste better for the winner, said Grosse Pointe golfer Chris Walsh. SMCGP team captain Bob Vogler organized the event.

with only three or four minutes per feature, it can be tough to narrow down the footage while capturing its essence, "but we try our best to make it entertaining for a really broad audience. UTR is all about positive storytelling, so if you don't walk away from the show feeling good about it, we haven't done our job."

The Grosse Pointe episode is slated to air on DPTV in January 2018. "Grosse Pointe is a fantastic family community and our intention is to show what a great place it is to visit or even call home, from all of the shopping and restaurants to its amazing school system and wonderful parks that are open to all who call their respective Pointe home," said Tremonti, who noted Windmill Pointe Park remains one of his "favorite places on the planet." "Aside from the businesses and places we feature in the show, our goal is to represent Grosse Pointe as the great community that it is and maybe even dispel the misconception that Grosse Pointe is only for the super rich, because the truth is that it's a diverse community that provides great schools, amenities and neighborhoods for people from all walks of life."

Baseball Register for baseball showcase

It's time to register for the 21st annual Michigan High School Baseball Showcase held Wednesday, Aug. 2, at Grosse Pointe North and Grosse Pointe South high schools.

This is an opportunity for Michigan's top high school players who have the desire and ability to play at the next level, to showcase their skills in front of Midwest college coaches and professional baseball scouts. The showcase fills fast, so it is important to register as soon as possible.

Profits net of expenses go to Grosse Pointe Redbirds baseball teams, ages 13 to 18. The cost is $250 and a signed waiver is needed. Interested participants can sign up at michiganbaseballshowcase.com.

The showcase format starts with a skills competition from 8 to 11 a.m. at Grosse Pointe South. The skills competition includes infield, outfield, pitching, catching, running and throwing.

The 156 players will be divided into 12 13-man teams headed up by high school coaches for an afternoon game.

If rained out, the game will be played Thursday, Aug. 3. Each will play one game and the games will be at 1, 3:30 and 6 p.m.

Sign in and uniform pickup is from 5 to 8 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 1, at Grosse Pointe North.

Jerseys are provided and players need to bring their own white or gray baseball pants, socks, catching equipment, helmet and high school baseball bat.

Beverages and snacks are available for purchase at both fields during games.

A program book with each player's personal profile is provided to all players attending. Program books for college coaches and pro scouts will include grade point average and SAT/ACT scores.

Data in skills competition will be provided after the event to all college coaches and pro scouts attending the showcase and a copy mailed to each participant.

Grosse Pointe North is located at 707 Vernier Road, Grosse Pointe Woods, and Grosse Pointe South is at 11 Grosse Pointe Blvd, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Redbirds tryouts

Tryouts for the 2018 Grosse Pointe Redbirds 13U team are 9:30 a.m. Saturday, July 29, at Grosse Pointe South High School.

In addition, there are openings for the 14U, 15U and 16U Grosse Pointe Redbirds teams and those tryouts are 11 a.m. July 29 at South.

For more information, contact Dan Griesbaum at (313) 347-3672.

All players must have a parent or guardian present at the tryout.

The Redbirds was started by former Detroit Tigers player and Grosse Pointe resident, the late Dave Bergman and it is the program's 22nd year.

TEACHERS IN THE SUMMERTIME

South teacher advocates for education

By Mary Anne Brush
Staff Writer

This article is part of a series on teachers spending time in the summer to enrich their knowledge for the benefit of their students.

Many teachers in Grosse Pointe commit time in the summer to attending workshops and conferences to advance their knowledge in their particular subject areas. Jacqueline Shelson, a math teacher at Grosse Pointe South High School, has dedicated time during the school year and summer to a more general cause — serving as an advocate for education.

As the elected Representative Assembly delegate for the Grosse Pointe Education Association, Shelson attended her fifth National Education Association Annual Meeting and Representative Assembly June 30 to July 6, held this year in Boston. She has attended the national conference each summer except the year her second son was born. Previous years she traveled to Washington, D.C., Atlanta and Denver to participate.

During the school year, the 11-year South veteran attends local, regional and state meetings, bringing back what she learned on trends and issues to colleagues in the district.

“I come from a family of teachers — my grandma, my aunts, my mom, my dad,” Shelson said. “I’ve always been really involved with education. My mom was really big into the union when she was a teacher and I feel with all this stuff going on with education, being involved in this at the state and national level I can help more. Being a part of such a large group and organization has more of an impact. Obviously in the last five years or so, education has been at the forefront of the legislators’ crazy laws and has put teachers on the chopping block all the time. This is more of a politically charged organization and that is how you change legislation. You put the right people in position. I am really passionate about that.”

The Representative Assembly — the primary legislative and policymaking body of the NEA and largest democratic deliberative assembly in the world — consists of roughly 8,000 delegates representing state and local affiliates. These delegates are elected by their local and state associations and represent pre-K to 12 and college educators, including education support professionals, student members, retired members and other segments of the education profession.

The more than 7,000 delegates present at the Boston Convention & Exhibit Center proposed, debated and took action on new business items for the association. Over the four days, delegates voted on 159 new business items, Shelson said.

According to the NEA website, the focus of the 2017 RA assembly was on fighting for public education.

“The main concerns revolved around making sure every student gets the best education they can and the public schools are supported, with the legislation going through helping (students) rather than hurting (them),” Shelson said. “Even though we’re supposed to be professionals in our field, we’re not always listened to all the time. Since the NEA is the largest educational organization in the United States, we have a lot more power in our organization to make change.”

Speakers included NEA President Lily Eskelsen Garcia, National Teacher of the Year Sydney Chaffee and LaVar Burton, host and executive producer of the PBS children’s television series, “Reading Rainbow,” and a strong advocate for literacy. Burton was honored as NEA’s 2017 Friend of Education.

“I grew up with ‘Reading Rainbow’ and it was really interesting to hear (Burton’s) story,” Shelson said. “All the things he did to make reading exciting. It was a little nostalgic.”

Legislative action steps recommended during the assembly included fighting budget cuts from the Department of Education; opposing private school vouchers; supporting special education and telling Congress to protect undocumented children. Delegates also approved a new policy statement opposing charter schools that do not meet state or federal criteria, according to the website.

At the state level, the Michigan delegation raised more than $70,000 for a PAC fund to go toward political action, helping to get “the right people in office” to advance a pro-public education agenda, Shelson said.

Shelson noted a feeling of camaraderie among attendees and sense “we’re all in this together. ‘They use this phrase ‘union strong,’” she said. “I wish everyone could experience it. Being around all those people and knowing you really are trying to make a difference gives you a little shot of adrenaline.”

How does your garden grow?

Grosse Pointe Academy students, parents and faculty gathered July 12 for a community garden day to tend garden beds and enjoy the harvest. Past favorites among students include the George and Martha Washington bed, “What Thyme Is It?,” the ABC garden, pizza garden and Michigan garden, according to Didi DeBoer, assistant head of school and garden co-coordinator.

Fourth- and fifth-graders added several new garden beds this year as part of their study on companion gardening in science class. These included the Native American-inspired Three Sisters Garden with corn, squash and beans interplanted so they would flourish together; the Great Fruit Bowl Garden, intermingling blueberry bushes, cantaloupe, strawberries and borage; the Very Vines garden packed with vining plants; and the Salsa

Sean McCarroll, leading his class in the innovation lab, helped pilot North’s innovative studies series.

North teacher wins innovation award

Every day, teachers across America inspire young people to become the next generation of innovators. In recognition of the inventor’s bold and creative spirit, The Henry Ford created Teacher Innovation Awards, given to 20 innovative teachers across the country.

Among the 10 grand prize winners was Sean McCarroll, a teacher at Grosse Pointe North High School. Winners enjoy a week-long immersion experience and behind-the-scenes tours of The

Henry Ford museum, Greenfield Village and River Rouge Plant late July to early August.

“We’re looking at everything through the lens of innovation,” said McCarroll.

The week also presents the opportunity to meet other innovative educators from around the country as well as CBS Sunday Morning correspondent Mo Rocca, host of The Henry Ford’s Innovation Nation, a weekly Saturday morning show showcasing present-day change-makers from all over the world.

As a social studies teacher in addition to innovative studies teacher, McCarroll said “the history side of” him was as excited about the opportunity as the innovation side.

McCarroll was nominated by North Principal Kate Murray.

Liggett student's art on display in Congress

Amani Tolin, a senior at University Liggett School, will have his artwork on display in the halls of Congress until 2018. Selected as the winner of Michigan's 14th Congressional District Art Challenge for 2017, Tolin and a guest of his choice had the opportunity to travel to the national reception in Washington, D.C.

Tolin has two passions — art and animals. For his academic research project, an extensive two-year project completed by all Liggett students, Tolin studied how the living conditions of dolphins are affected by humans. He portrayed his findings in a visual art presentation.

"Since I was a child I've always had a fascination with animals," Tolin said. "It was natural for me to gravitate toward researching marine animals for my project."

Tolin's research, coupled with a review of the movie "Blackfish," a documentary on SeaWorld's treatment of dolphins and whales, is what drove him to explore potential dangers dolphins face from humans.

"Dolphins are meant to be in the open ocean with their pods," Tolin said. "They go through a lot of stress when they're kept in captivity and forced to socialize with humans."

Tolin was surprised to find effects from humans in the wild can be just as dangerous as captivity for dolphins.

His research found pollution from sewage, chemicals and oils harms their main food source — other fish. Overfishing and increased boat traffic also disrupt their food source, making them more susceptible and dependent on humans.

While feeding dolphins may seem innocent or even generous, it causes major changes in their behavior and is harmful to their stomachs, Tolin found. During his research, Tolin stumbled upon research on a dolphin nicknamed "Beggar." Beggar earned his name because of his tendency to swim up to boats and beg for food. When he died in 2012, an autopsy discovered Beggar was covered in boat wounds, his stomach was full of fishing hooks and he was severely dehydrated — all factors resulting from human contact.

"Beggar's story highlights the importance of having regulations for human and dolphin contact," Tolin said.

Through graphite pencil drawings, Tolin conveyed the problems with human and dolphin interaction for his final presentation.

"If I could emotionally or mentally move just one person with my artwork, then my goal was reached," he said.

Tolin received a full scholarship to Hampton University in Virginia and plans to study marine biology.

High note for North musicians

Outstanding musicians for the 2016-17 school year were recognized at Grosse Pointe North High School's instrumental awards banquet Tuesday, May 30, at The War Memorial. Awards were given to P.J. Gusmano — Nate Judson Lifetime Achievement Award; Joey Florance and Michael Puppos — Booster Leadership Award; Alex Eklund and Nicholas Sumnick — Most Outstanding Senior Award; LeSean Patton — National School Orchestra Award; Tommy Mowen — Gail McCaig Award; Joey Cobau — Exemplary Orchestra Member Award; and Lindsey Hoshaw — Jessica Solomon Award.

Lemonade for water

Inspired by a summer book club reading of the book, "A Long Walk to Water," by Newbery medalist Linda Sue Park, five girls decided to do their part to make a difference. In the book, based on a true story, a girl from Sudan walks eight hours every day to fetch water from a pond for her family. The girls joined forces with friends to set up lemonade stands on both sides of Kercheval between Kerby and Vendome, with proceeds to benefit Water for South Sudan Inc. So far they have raised $200, with plans to host a few more lemonade stands this summer.
