Fines and Licenses

That lenient parents are largely responsible for most of the traffic accidents which have occurred in the Grosse Pointe area, as expressed by Judge Victor H. De Bucke, of the township judiciary, confirms an opinion that has been frequently set forth by the News. The father who indirectly condones fast or reckless driving by his minor son or daughter by neglecting wholesome parental discipline, is not only failing in his responsibilities to the community but is laying up a lot of grief for himself and his child.

Judge De Bucke and some of the police officials believe that depriving the youth of the right of driving for a considerable period is one of the most effective preventives of reckless driving. It is our belief that the fine amount should not be overlooked. Contingent with the certainty of having to pay a stiff fine if son or daughter grows reckless, the fathers of the Pointe area should make a powerful ally of the police in forestalling accidents. The mere suspension regarded by the parent as an unmitigated calamity, but the imminent prospect of an actual hard money fine... that is another story again.

CCC and the Farm Labor Problem

Representative Tinkham of Connecticut says the CCC is advertising for enrollees and practically conducting a door to door campaign to induce young men to join their camps. It is his half way true the situation called for some strong arm correction. It is a suggestion that officers in charge of these camps are in part a group who could not quite make the grade for honest-to-God military service in war time and are mightily concerned with keeping intact the jobs and the particular niche for which their talents qualify them.

The CCC when first conceived was a splendid enterprise. The theory was that it provided wholesome employment for a large group of the unemployed youth of the country for whom there was no opportunity for work in private enterprise. Instead of loafing or street corners or in saloons or pool rooms it turned them into practical forestry work and kindred occupations in the woods or open country. Almost every one agrees now that it was a worthwhile government undertaking, although there was always criticism that some semblance of military training was not given at the same time. It was not done because of the opposition pacifist element who abhorred anything that savored of war or even of virile defense. The onrush of world events in the last years have completely demonstrated the unfortunate role this group has played.

At the present time thousands of farmers are having a desperate time trying to obtain help for crop harvesting and dairy work. To these workers in our one basic, indispensable industry, the services of able bodied youngsters 18-20 years of age would be a boon from heaven. The CCC authorities should have this situation put up to them in no uncertain terms. A country that does not hesitate to force its young men into military service should not tarry long in telling these young men that they are not yet old but still able bodied, where to go. A momentary crop surplus in this country is no answer. With half the world devoted to war and destruction every pound of food stuff this country can produce would not be the surplus of the world. The longed for other lands but for ourselves. The labor now employed in work not necessary at the moment should be mobilized at once and directed into channels where it is vitally needed.

Morale

We are hearing conflicting reports these days regarding the morale of the soldiers in the army. Some of the officers say that never has a finer recruited army represented a higher intelligence or a finer spirit of service to the country. Other investigators claim that large numbers are dissatisfied with army life and anxious to get back home to civil life and private interests.

Both of these conditions might exist without impugning the innate loyalty and dependability of the million and half young men who are in uniform as our first line of defense. Undoubtedly much of the discontent reported is directly traceable to the lack of a true understanding of the situation the nation faces. There is an unjustified assumption of natural ability to fend ourselves successfully against any enemy or combination of enemies that might confront us.

There is a general failure among the rank and file of the military service to understand the personal and racial as well as national implications that large numbers are dissatisfied with army life and anxious to get back home to civil life and private interests. There is a belief quite common on the part of the army, supported and encouraged by a numerous element in civil life, that our preparations for defense should be strictly limited to such measures as are in their opinion within our own protection. There is a failure to recognize the realism and common sense of cooperating now with these free peoples who are fighting our potential enemies at this moment, who will be our inevitable active enemies the instant the opposition of these free peoples collapses.

There is a great need for a frank and direct discussion with the army and navy personnel of the issues and motives which actuate the Axis powers. Secretary Stimson's address to the Army last week is a fine example in question, of which there should be much more to follow.

The passion for freedom in all its expressions is too deeply implanted in the spirit of America to permit any doubt of the basic loyalty of its defenders in face of any threat from peoples who have motivated so many of its contrary way of life, once the genuineness and reality of that threat is understood.

To The Editor

To the Editor:
I have published a letter regarding school problems in Grosse Pointe Woods. Because a number of people may have forgotten what has happened to date in this regard and because recent by a great number of people have established their residence here, I am reprinting this reply to Mr. H. Hansen, the writer of the letter.

Yours truly,
ALVIN A. GROSSEPOINTE,
Pres., Grosse Pointe Woods
2125 Lancaster Ave.
Grosse Pointe Woods, Michigan

Just read your most interesting letter in this paper addressed to the parents of school children in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Your criticism of the recent decision of the School Board to transport all fifth and sixth grade children from the Mason School to the Deifer School and your criticism of all of the problems connected with this transporting is probably concerned in the minds of the parents in this village.

I would like to add to it my own criticism of the School Board for delaying so long the taking of the necessary steps to begin the construction of the much needed permanent addition to Mason School and for the way this criticism has never been kept a secret from the Board members. Together with others of a committee representing the Mason P.T.A. and the Grosse Pointe Woods Village Commission have expressed this criticism at meetings of the School Board, to the members of the Board, and in the local newspapers.

All of us would like to see the school building which is being built on the site of the old school building. It is a fine building and we are sure that it will be a great asset to the community.

The announcement of this decision in our community as you will remember a great number of parents and taxpayers signed petitions requesting that these children be transported to the new school building.

But that is all water over the dam and School Board members a month ago decided not to build these temporary buildings and for that reason should have a permanent building for the purpose of approving a bond issue of $180,000.00 to pay for a proper addition to Mason School.

I think it is a great pity that we should all work in union to secure the approval of this bond issue so

We fennice can scratch another item off our list of formic trivia, thanks to the great American strip tease. This week's item is the all-important female weapon—the lipstick. Very soon now, so they'd have us believe, we shall have to borrow a leaf from grandma's book and stain our lips with best juice or red flower petals.

Our reporter of things done at beaches and swimming holes' avers a stack of illustrations that he actually saw the following incident take place at one of the local swim spots. A tall, lanky guy dressed in a swim suit and cap approached the edge of the water, stuck his leg in, pulled it out again quickly, stuck his dress on and pulled it out again just as quickly. Then he took from his pocket, an upper plate of stone teeth, bent down and waded the plate around in the water for a few seconds, put the plate back in his mouth and hurriedly swam to get dressed.

Three eminent gentlemen have been spotted some time together in rural New Jersey. They are Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, with his pipe and poet who professionally is an eye and ear expert, Grand Brockhurst, poet, painter and scholar, and Dr. William Spink, distinguished. Holmes had been in the city, guiding his friend Dr. Gregory in his attempt to paint landscapes, teaching him various tricks of the craft. The other day the Irish wit expressed his gratitude for the painter's kindness and patience.

"If there's anything I can do for you, don't hesitate to ask," said Dr. Gregory. "I'll be glad to do anything for you," said Holmes. "I'll be glad to do anything for you," said Spink.

Crescent Yacht Club Is Lauded By Marine Writer

Local Sailors Are Credited with Performing Many Rescues Along Lake

The Crescent Sail Yacht club at 270 Lake Shore road, ought to be named the Crescent Sail Yacht and Rescue club in the opinion of Kenneth Thompson, marine editor of the Detroit Free Press, who gave the club a nice plug in last Sunday's issue.

Mr. Thompson reviewed the remarkable record the club has made in saving persons in trouble on Lake St. Clair and Lake St. Joseph during the last five years. The club has averaged 13 rescues per season. It is reported, there have been rescues to 10 clubs where death would have been the result, had it not been for the help given by the Wrangle, the club's rescue boat.

Reopening of Red Cross Station Here Postponed

Due to the fact that the United States Army quota has been completed and local officers have been informed by Washington that there is a sufficient number of dressings on hand, the reopening of the surgical dressing work room at the Red Cross Station No. 1 on Fisher road will be about October 1, unless there is a national emergency or they are able to obtain their quota for Detroit.

Louise Bowen and Charles K. Backus Are Married Here

Couple Will Reside In Pensacola, Fla.

Bridgroom to Be Stationed at Florida Flying Field; Reception Follows Ceremony in Home of Bride's Mother

Louise Bowen, daughter of Mrs. Julian P. Bowen of E. Jefferson avenue, and Charles K. Backus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanish Backus of Lake Shore road, spoke their nuptial vows in the home of the bride's mother on Saturday afternoon before a mutual amplification of evergreens which was a background for a beautiful arrangement of white gladioli.

The Rev. Lovell McConnell officiated at the civil service, attended by only members of the two families.

The bride wore a gown of soft cream satin which was fastened with a close-fitting bodice. A yoke of rosepoint lace outlined the heart-shaped neckline and the sleeves of elbow length were slightly puffed at the shoulders, with edging extending the line at the elbow.

The wide band of matching balloon lace which formed her cap also trimmed the edges of her long blouson veil and her bouquet was of white orchids.

The six hour attendants were gowned in soft green chiffon over tulle, with very full bouque veils and long flowing sleeves. On their hair they wore bands of green velvet with clusters of small mums on one side and long strands of small mums in the other. The bridesmaids wore small mums in shades of buff brown and coral.

Famula Thurn was maid of honor and the bridesmaids Mrs. Edmund F. Lancken of Cincinnati and Mrs. Alfred Marks of Tallahassee, Fla., sisters of the bridegroom, Betty Slone, Mrs. Charles Meyer of Brookline, Mass., Julian P. Bowen, Jr., who was best man and seating the guests were Charles Wright, Larry Coffey, Edward H. Jewett, H. William Hunt of Lamberville, N. J., Gordon Lombard of Boston, Robert Baldwin of Highgate, Boston and Edmund Linken of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Bowen wore a gray chiffon gown and a small tulle colored hat and a corsage of white orchids. Mrs. Backus selected a blue chiffon and lace and small gray hat veiled in blue. Her corsage wore lavender.

The couple left following a reception in the Bowen home, for a short wedding trip and will reside at Pensacola, Fla., near Elm Field, where the bridegroom is to be stationed.

Silhouettes

Her name is not a new one to Detroiters, since she is well known to the literary world as well as to the social. She has written more than a hundred one-act plays, has published two books of poems, and has written several novels. The most recent one, which has just come off the press, is called "Susan Sue".

Naturally, she likes to ride, and she likes to go fishing and spends part of every summer at the family cabin in Canada, which she has named Cedar Chest. It is a small cabin but one of great importance to her, her husband and their three sons. Each room is named and each name has a charming and amusing significance. The living room is called "Boston Common"—because you have to go through it to get to the other rooms; a room with an imposing mirror on the wall is called "Vanity Fair"; "Soup's On" is the name of the kitchen and her and the children's room is called, "Boyscott".

He's Caught All Right

Bob Private Bob Hope at his service, and also at the service of Dorothy Lamour in "Caught in the Draft," which opens Friday at the Cindersella. He seems to have the situation, in this case the Colonel's daughter, well in hand.

Those Silly Grins Mean Hope Has Returned Again

Bob and Dottie Come to Cinderella in Smart New Comedy, "Caught in the Draft"; "Affectionately Yours" also there

Beginning Friday, if you see people walking around the streets wearing a silly grin, don't be alarmed. They're doing their patriotic duty, according to Bob Hope who has joined the Army in "Caught in the Draft." Paramount's all-time comedy to strengthen the American laugh, which opens Friday at the Cindersella Theatre.

Joan Bennett Goes to Work

Picture at Punch Places Beautiful Star in Role of Wall Street Employee

Joan Bennett gloriously goes to work, both literally and figuratively, on Wall Street in Columbia's delightful new comedy, "She Knew All The Answers," which comes to the Punch and Judy Theatre this Friday thru Sunday. With Franchot Tone costarring as the Wall Street broker who doesn't like the new girl, "she Knew All The Answers" is one of the greatest, lightest and grandest love-and-laugh comedies of the year. Richard Wallace directed the comedy, which rates as the best for its ingenious complications and brilliant dialogue but also for the thoroughly delightful antics of the cast, with especial applause going to the co-star, John Hubbard, who is delightful in the play, and Eve Arden, as Joan's wise-cracking comrade, and young William Tracy, as the 1925-mitten office boy, are equally fine.

The thrilling story of the training of America's big game, told without the background of an exciting tale of adventure and romance, will be on view when Paramount's exciting role of the air, "I Wanted Wings" comes to the Punch and Judy Theatre this Monday thru Thursday. Starring Ray Millan, William Holden, Wayne Morris as aviator, and Veronica Lake, and lovely Constance Moore. Made with the complete cooperation of the Army Air Corps at Randolph, Kelly and March Fields it is the first time that a motion picture has recorded the step by step method by which our young aviators gain their wings.

Ceremonies Mark Season's Opening Of United Artists

Detroit Premiere of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" on First Program

With special ceremonies, flowers and telegrams from the stars, the United Artists open today, ushering in an array of new productions with the first program including the Detroit premiere of "She Knew All The Answers" starring Franchot Tone as "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." The two ladies who are the objects of an affection of the good Dr. Jekyll and the evil Mr. Hyde are Lana Turner and Ingrid Bergman.

The United Artists fall schedule will feature a number of important productions, next on the list being the Detroit premiere of "I Wanted Wings" starring Ray Millan, William Holden, Wayne Morris and Ingrid Bergman. Other titles include "The People Against Dr. Kildare" starring Eric Linden and Cecilia Parker, "The Great Gatsby" starring Joel McCrea and Jeanette MacDonald, and "The Sign of the Cross" starring Charles Laughton and Jeanette MacDonald.

Basis for Medical Doctors' Need for Draft Exemption

(This is another in a series of articles being written expressly for the Grosse Pointe News by Judge Joseph Stanger of the Local Selective Service Board.)

There are students in our country who are not only great many who are in the study of medicine, and there are also a considerable number of interesting and important medical students which, should, would be of interest to our people.

There are approximately 1,000 medical graduates entering the profession each year. This is the only source of supply to supplement the present supply of the medical profession and to replace those leaving the profession. When it is realized that approximately 20,000 of the nation's population are 65 years of age or older, and that 3,000 are in the line of service each year, it is apparent that the medical profession is not being replaced.

There are no replacements for the students who are withdrawn from school. Consequently, the supply of medical students is being reduced to the point where it is being exhausted in the near future.

Star Festival Is Held Over

Club Royale Retains Revue That Has Made Such a Hit with Patrons

Club Royale announces a hold over for its "Festival of Stars" revue that has proven such a clear with local supper-club-goers.

The stars of Paul and Eva Reyes and Paul Foster have been held over for two additional weeks and Marie Austin comes singing; stars from Ben Mardena's Riviera has been added and so has the new act, "The Village Clerk" featuring Nancy Hunt, acrobatic dance star who made such a big hit at the Royale Palm in Miami last winter season.

Time for Love and Laughter

Joan Bennett and Franchot Tone get together in "She Knew All the Answers", which comes to the Punch and Judy this Friday through Sunday.

Director Says Wear A Touch Of Loud Color

That's The Advice of Ma-moulin, Who Directed Great Picture at Alger

"If a girl wants to fascinate her boy friend, she should wear a touch of red, orange, yellow or purple, or else deep lavender in a setting of one of those colors."

Such is the advice of Rouben Mamoulian, the director, who has worked out a "romance experiment" in color. He used it for his love scenes in "Blood and Sand," the 20th Century-Fox Technicolor film produced by Darryl F. Zanuck, starring Tyrone Power, and featuring Linda Darnell and Rita Hayworth, coming to the Algonquin Theatre.

"The Village Clerk" is directed forthwith to notify the proprietors of each of said restaurants of the resolution, by delivering to each of said proprietors a copy of this resolution.

"Make Individual Surveys" It developed during the discussion on the resolution that the members of the commission have been making thorough individual surveys of the situation during the last several weeks. It seemed to be the opinion of all that the owners of the various restaurants involved are doing their best to operate their places as quietly as possible, avoiding such alarming devices, as stork cars, talking and laughing.

The great Laurel and Hardy comedy "A Chump at Oxford" will be the companion picture.

Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will see "24 1/2 Hours 'Leave'" and "Bow-Heart of the Navy" on the opposite screen, with casts including such stars as James Ellison, Arthur Lake, Terry Wallace, Eric von Stroheim and Cecilia Parker in the leading roles.

Dinorah Remains At Oldie Wayne

There is motion in the music which Dinorah is playing at the Oldie Wayne Club these days, for she demonstrates as she directs.

Dinorah is a dancer of South American steps, and at the front of her orchestra she crumbs, congas and sambas in addition to playing maracas, claves and conga drums. The Brazilian music which she added to her library after meeting Carmen Miranda in Rio is a novelty to Detroiters, and her dancing, which is purely spontaneous, is a welcome bit of instruction to those who are attempting the samba for the first time.

DINORAH

Playing in England, Paris, Germany, the Balkan states and Norway and Sweden, as well as touring South America has added to Dinorah's natural hereditary ability, and she now sings the lyrics to the music of many bands which she has directed. Her dance programs are well rounded, including for the first time in addition to the South American music and Bertine's piano music air-conditioned for comfort.

Terms In Violation

Commissioner C. A. Pfeffer, after notice for the regulations, warned the commission that it constituted an invitation for other petitions asking that places be closed. President Goddard pointed out that the regulations had been filed against any other restaurant, and that no action was necessary against other places at this time.

In reviewing the history of the case, President Goddard stated that the commission had been disappointed in receiving no cooperation from a representative group of residents of the area. It was referred to a special meeting which the commission held last week, at which time the petitioners and residents were asked to submit evidence. He stated that no one had volunteered any information with the single exception of Edward A. Rivara, of 978 Westchester, "who only says, 'I am convinced that the commission is right and that I support its action.'"

A New Witness

At this point, R. A. DeLaurand, lawyer of 1409 East Jefferson, who had been sitting in the audience listening to the proceedings, jumped to his feet and stated that he had a list of complaints he would like to put before the commission. He admitted that he had been one of the absent audience at the special meeting the week before, then entered into a recital of disturbances which he claimed have been made in the night, night after night.

Following the council meeting, Chief Henry W. Piel of the Park Police Department, had a session with Mr. DeLaurand, concerning the various complaints. Chief Piel announced Tuesday that it is
