The information that the strike of municipal employees in the Farms was at the moment of that village. The cessation in the collection of garbage was not only a nuisance to every householder but a direct menace to health. The employees and the village authorities have agreed to the resumption of service under the same conditions as to wages and hours as before, with all of the issues that led to the strike to be settled by arbitration. Under this arrangement the Village is to name one arbitrator, the Union another and the two to agree upon the third. It might appear to be a cleaner cut and more quickly operating plan if the parties to the dispute had agreed upon the Village to name one arbitrator, the Union another and the two to agree upon the third. Come Out Tonight

The people of Grosse Pointe were offered a fine orchestra concert last Thursday and will no doubt have an equally good one tonight. The concerts are given on the portico of the Grosse Pointe High School. It is a very central and convenient location and the purpose of the affairs is to give encouragement to the patriotic war efforts of the people of this community. Last week's concert was dedicated to the local Civilian Defense organization. Tonight's concert is particularly addressed to the American Red Cross.

Cadillac-Detroit Day

Two hundred and forty-one years ago tomorrow Cadillac, with fifty French soldiers and a small company of Indian allies, began the settlement of the city of Detroit. This was the beginning of what is today the Fourth city of the United States and which may in the near future west from old Philadelphia to the title of Third city. That remote date of 1701 reminds us, too, that Detroit, although nearly 700 miles from the Atlantic seaboard, which first benefited from the European westward migration, has its birth only a few years after the city of the West was founded on the banks of the Delaware a city dedicated to the doctrine of brotherly love.

The day will no doubt be celebrated in varying manners but it is to be hoped that full reference will be made to the part which this city played in the birthday of this mighty seat of Vulcan holds for the Mother who gave her birth. Beautiful France, whose adventuring son Cadillac first planted her white and gold banners on the soil which joins the inland seas of the Western world lies prostrate under the heel of a barbarous invader. That lovely land which, equally with us, first gave to the world Liberty, Equality and Fraternity has been plundered and enslaved.

To Detroit and this great metropolitan area of Southwestern Michigan has come a great privilege. We must not permit our vision of a stupendous historic panorama to be dimmed by the shadows of the past. We must remember only for their weaknesses or their treason. The little French settlement which had its birth in furs now works in steel. Where a few score Frenchmen traded trinkets with the Indians 200,000 people have gathered and spiritually, dedicated themselves to the production of the implements of war to assure freedom for themselves and to bring it to France and to the other freedom loving peoples of the world.

A quarter century ago an American soldier stood at a shrine in Paris and said, "Lafayette we are here." Today, Detroit, standing in the center of Democracy's mightiest arsenal, says: "Cadillac! France! We are on the march!"

Impression of a Personality Great

There are still some who say if you have fancied all the political organizations in Manhattan and simply made it a straightaway vote by the inevitable populace, no questions asked, no memories invoked, James J. Walker would be elected Mayor of the City of New York again. Well many of us doubt that—but there isn't one of us who wouldn't rush to cast a ballot for him as Peter Personality, old Paul Popularity himself. In fact, if quick-like you were to stick that good old bearded one right into the question box, there are some of us who would answer, without blinking, that above all others Jimmy Walker would be the one fellow we'd prefer to be islanded with until the boat nose into sight to pick us up.

People know he left the city under a cloud after a tussle with the man who afterward became President of the United States. They know he has written a few mighty corny songs, including one that's remained a favorite through the years called, "Will You Love Me In December As You Did In May?" They respect him for an abundance of virtue, they know he possesses — but they love him for his many human failings.

He is a smoothie right off the class-side. No better actor-dinner or before-dinner or just casual speaker exists—from here to San Diego and back to the coast of Maine. Even George Jessel has to take place every now and then in a showman oratorical spout with Jimmy Walker. No one is more chivalrous—or has his class delivering the right phrase at the proper moment.

Example: Herbert Bayard Swopes, who is about Walker's age, was dancing with a young and attractive girl and, observing that Jimmy was looking over her shoulder, quizzically remarked, "Meet my daughter." Walker seemed dubious and Swopes assured him it was true—that it was his daughter. Whereupon the former Mayor bowed low and murmured: "Miss Swopes, I look your father 25 years, but I mean the admiration that I give you instantly and completely."

No mayor of New York ever met so many diverse personalities—Dimitri Nabokov, a freak adventurer; this Walker in his time greeted and shook hands with Bronko Nagelski, the man who made a jaunt round the world in 27 1/2 days; five Japanese girls who had written a poem and wanted to present him with a set of dolls; the oldest traveling salesman in the United States; the tribe of Indian Black Feet, who came from Glacier Park to make him a chief; an Italian space team; an Argentinean who had traveled most of the way on his 11-year-old pinto pony—taking three years to complete the 10,000-mile trip; and Rosey Gillis.

Walker, when asked why he wasted so much time on people such as we've named, said: "If they can spend so many days just to get around to seeing the Mayor of New York, surely the Mayor can afford to spend two minutes in being nice to them."

When after his exile to Europe, he finally returned to his

A. PRYOR

"We shall slide out of this life into another, and the day of our Death like the day of our Birth shall be shrouded in forgetfulness. Let us live the few years of our brief sojourn here as if we will only be to smile that they have cost us a pang."—Robert Hubbard.

Several of our fine-feathered friends received an announcement last week, printed on a postal card, it read as follows: "Owing to the absence of many members, we have found it necessary to postpone the July 18th dinner dance. A notice will be sent out when the dances are resumed." It was signed "Entertainment Committee." The information is very gratifying. . . . But the catch was that no one knew from which of our local clubs the card came.

We know that a lot of people have been trained in the art of conversation about the mosquitoes in my room last night." Of course, our own mosquito problem, which is always worse in summer, or more tantalizing, or more hysterical, is never heard, because we've never been able to talk loud enough or fast enough to drown out the others.

But we do HAVE a problem, so we've decided to write about it. We also have a bit of advice to offer mosquito sufferers. First of all, we learned years ago that a mosquito never attacks when he can be seen. As long as the lights are on, they will sit contentedly on the ceiling or broom above the living area, but turn the lights off and settle down for a good night's sleep and they will swoop down on you with complete disregard for their lives and, incidentally, yours.

If you try murdering them on masse before retiring, you are bound to let just one small one go unnoticed. . . . chiefly because you want to talk about it at the next dinner party.

And at this point we're tired of the whole subject, besides that a mosquito, the father of them all, just bit off our type-writing arm.

The above reminds us . . . for no reason at all . . . about the local doctor who donated a hundred dollars to a brothel because he thought it was a soap kitchen. If anyone would like the name he'll be glad to supply both for a picture of Lawrence Olivier.

He also had a group of larger and more formidable insects. We've always taken a rather loose pride in the fact that we were considered pretty much of an expert when it came to bed bugs. My reputation was blown to bits one fine day last summer when right in the midst of a sober declamation concerning the sportsmanship of these fine-feathered birds, one of the men in the audience got up and to the round end of our pointed nose. It was then we learned that mud is the most inflexible application for such wounds. Not neat, but it sure does the trick.

Shangri-La, that much used word these days, reared its magical head even during the garbage collection strike in the Farms. One of our friends, to whom this disposal problem apparently wasn't broken at all, remarked that he was going to what he was doing with HIS garbage with a mysterious little smile and the simple announcement—"I'll take it to Shangri-La." Everyone is still guessing.

The strike produced a crisis in the life of at least one Farms matron. Committed to taking a group of children to a party, she arrived at the home where she was to pick them up, forgetting that she had told her man to put a large can of paint in the rear of her car so she could dispose of it. Maybe you can imagine her consternation when all the small fry in their best pinotinos and sashes clambered into the back, scrambling over the can and shouting—"Why Mrs. . . . your car is full of GARBAGE!"

Quickly, but with considerable composure, she shoved all the youngsters out of the car, told them to wait RIGHT THERE, and she went back, picked up the children again and proceeded more serenely to the party. We didn't learn the final fate of the garbage.

Before New York, he hesitated about being seen in public, but gradually that gregarious impulse conquered and he began to show up occasionally at various affairs. At the Joe Humphreys Memorial dinner, the man who once, they hinted, was destined to reach the White House, rose quietly, raised a hand to check the cheers, and said: "I stand before you—a man whose future — is behind him." The place roared with the thoughtfulness "No, no, Jimmy! No!"

No man to public or private life has won more adulation of people who have worked for him or catered to his needs. His tall, or, who had made hundreds of suits for him named his son James Walker after the man who just to get around to seeing the Mayor of New York, surely the Mayor can afford to spend two minutes in being nice to them.

Walker, incidentally, designs his own clothes—most of them maintain the same distinctive cut. They are form-fitting, break in deeply at the wrists, and the coat sleeves taper and are

How To Prepare Them

Both the top and bottom of the can should be cleaned and removed with the ordinary can opener, use blades washed off and the cans left clean and dry. Rust is harmful to the subsequent uses of the material. The can should then be pressed to flat, with the top and bottom already removed. This is to be done by a good way to flatten the can is to step on it firmly but they should never be hammered or subjected to pounding, which would prevent the penetration of the detaining fluid into the interstices and from reacting all surfaces.

Once the tin is removed the can becomes high grade No. 2 steel scrap. If the tin is left in it

City Employees Rate Honor Flag

The City of Grosse Pointe was the first of the Pointe municipalities to have more than 90 per cent of its employees pledge part of their salaries every week to buy U. S. War Stamps and Bonds. Tuesday morning the City received its honor flag from ROBERT C. DOUGLAS, deputy state administrator for War Savings Stamp Campaign. Receiving the flag is NEIL BLONDELL, treasurer of the City. Others in the picture are some of the employees who signed the pledge, including Chief Ledger Chauvin and Police Chief Thomas Trombly.

Defense Men Hold Meeting

Air Raid Siren Situation Discussed and Headquarters Decided Upon

The Grosse Pointe Council of Defense met Tuesday night in the home of Paul H. Deming, President of the Parks Association, among the other members present were: President Karl H. Goddard of the Park, Mayor Mason Burney of the City; C. A. Campbell and Edward Grace representing the Shores, Odilon Houtekiet, Supervisor of Gratiot township; Zola Chesquiere, President of the Woods; C. A. Byssod, Chief Air Raid Warden of the Pointe area; and George Elworthy, local coordinator of the O.C.D.

There was a lengthy discussion of the provision and distribution of sirens to afford proper alarm protection for the area. Already the Parks has two small sirens which have a relatively limited alarm radius. One is located at Beaupre and Kerby and the other at Lefferson and Ridge. The Woods and Shores have one each, which are located at the Village Fire Stations.

City, Park Have Home So far there are no sirens in either the City or the Park. Action on this matter has been delayed somewhat to determine what provision the city of Detroit might make for sirens on its northeastern boundary. It is learned from the examination of map furnished by the Detroit authorities last night that sirens will be placed quite near the Grosse Pointe line.

The Detroit sirens will be spaced on the principle of a one and a half mile radius, and 1200 each, as against only 500 for the small ones, the officials of the Park and City hesitate to assume such an expense for their municipalities unless it is well justified.

Mr. Byssod urged the establishment of a Post, or in effect an operating headquarters, for the Air Raid Warden Service at the pumping station at Charlevoix and Neff. This suggestion is adopted by the council, and the post will be set up in a few days.

Capl. Don Leonard Delivers Inspiring Address During Program on High School Campus

The first of the series of concerts to be given by the Michigan State Symphony Orchestra on successive Thursday evenings on the portico of the Grosse Pointe High School was held last week, July 16.

The crowd present was of fair size but by any means as large as the unusual excellence of the musical program warranted. Undoubtedly the succeeding concerts will be heard by an increasingly larger audience during the summer.

The address by Captain Don Leonard, head of the Michigan Civilian Defense Corps and a Captain in the Michigan State Police, was both inspiring and poignant. Much that he said touched a needed jolt to the complacency of those who are coasting along on the comfortable assumption that some what may be far corners of the world, somehow, somehow everything will turn out alright with us here in America.

He didn't mince matters at all in telling his audience according to any cold blooded recording of the way's progress to date we were loath to. More and more must the people take to heart the hard lesson, he said, that if we are to win every individual in the land must drive himself to do more in the way of personal sacrifice and work.

Mrs. Sidney Small of Cranford, chairman of the Grosse Pointe division of the AVWS was absent from the Pointe for a few days last week. Mrs. Alger Sheldon of Lake Shore road, vice chairman, was present and expressed themselves as highly pleased with the event.

Snay Skippers Winning Craft

Joe Snay, the popular Farms courtier and dean of the article columnists in Detroit, had another honor Monday, when he piloted Charles Sorenson's boat, "The White Cloud," to victory in the Chicago-Mackinaw race.

Sorenson was unable to make the trip, so he told his friend to take over the boat and come in first. Snay did, and how!

In addition to winning the race, "The White Cloud" was the first boat to finish of 39 and was 11 hours and 19 minutes ahead of the second place craft.

Adet Moore of Michigan Reports for Duty at Point

Only After One of the Most Hectic Experiences; Army and Navy Both Battle for His Services

Off again, on again, gone again, Finnegan, had nothing on the record of a young Grosse Pointe who was trained to serve his country in war and who had at the same time nursed an ambition of two years standing to visit West Point.

Ernest R. Moore, aged 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Moore of 352 Moran road, is the only figure in the hectic career of Mr. Moore, the father of the trustees of the village.

For the past two years the young Moore could not get a journey to the Point was a frequent appointment to alternate. Even with this management he took the excessive mental and physical stress both with flying colors. Unhappily, for Moore, the days who had priority on his mind.

Take Up Engineering To receive the young man put up with a year at the University where he majored in aeronautical engineering. Previously he had graduated with high honors at the Grosse Pointe High School.

Being the kind of young man content to drift along in his country was at West Point on the coveted West job as a far cry, Dick Moore was with the Marine Corps already had considerable training in the Civilian Corps and had a pilot's license. He was all set to work up to a commission in the Corps, but that had no deterrents for a young man whose fiber and spirit.

At last Friday morning, like a happy bolt of lightning, he had a pilot's license. The General's office in Washington telling him he had been appointed to a cadetship at Point and directing him to report immediately.

Dick was in the Army; apply hard and fast. Parents, family friends, all and sundry could bend a helpful hand to burn the wires to Washington and all promising stations. About everybody in Washington except F. D. Roosevelt was contacted.

Navy Wants Him Too Army wanted him, badly, so did the Navy. The Command of incoming cadets at West Point, "get him down here as quick as possible, we have a uniform waiting for him."

Finally, largely through the friendly and effective interposition of Col. C. E. Jones at Fort Wayne, a close friend of the family and whose son is an intimate friend of Dick's, the Navy was pried loose from its prior claim and Dick's honorable discharge came through Monday morning, July 20, 1942.

Even then on the Pointe Moore could hardly see young Moore for his duty. That evening he was on his way and at 10 o'clock next morning, July 21, there he stood on the banks of the lady Hudson.

"Cadet Moore of Michigan reporting, Sir!"

Punch to optical things for the photographer, (who just happened to be there.)

After watching that performance, we'd say "Speed" is much the more appropriate name. Every time the photographer, slipped through Judy's fingers and 30 kids gave chase in a manner most enthusiastic. It's a wonder anyone lived through it.

Helps Self to Satisfy "Speed" was so cute we borrowed him for a short spell, and that took him up to call on a sick friend. Outside of jumping into the middle of her lunch-tray and kicking all of the salad he couldn't eat all over the bedspread, he was fairly well behaved. He had quite a time avoiding on the lamp cords, but finally settled down in some nice deep fringes on the top of a chair and took a short nap for himself.

When we returned him to the mother Judy and Dick were still arguing about this custody matter. He was giving the young lady quite a bit of trouble and took a short nap for himself.

At any rate, she's entered into a gentleman's agreement with Dick. He retains custody, but there is an explicit clause in the arrangement which says he must produce "Speed" at least once every two weeks so she can keep her friendship with, and retain her interest in the little waif from the north, the squirrel with the personality.

And if Dick doesn't bring him up to the New Yorker, he'll be a lot of disappointed kids of assorted ages here too.

Guard Against Paralysis, Warren Advises Parents

The Michigan State Health Department calls attention to the fact that infantile paralysis usually takes an upturn in the months of July, August and September, and that in some years outbreaks of the disease continue through the winter. During the first six months last year there were but 13 cases of poliomyelitis reported and for the same period this year there were but 15 cases. In the last six months of last year however there were 256 cases reported, distributed as of July, 21 cases, August, 60 cases and September, 59 cases, with 43 in the remainder of the year.

Dr. H. Allen Moyer, the State Health Commissioner stresses the importance of calling a doctor immediately the first symptoms indicate the possibility of the disease. These first stages come on quickly and are usually accompanied by a slight fever, general uneasiness and often nausea and vomiting. Children frequently complain of stiffness or pain in the back and neck and of muscle tenderness.

As assurance to alarmed parents Dr. Moyer states that prompt diagnosis followed by continued medical supervision and special care will greatly lessen the possibility of paralysis.

Dr. B. H. Warren, Commissioner of the Grosse Pointe Board of Health is aware of the possibility of an outbreak of poliomyelitis at any time during the hot weather which is now well set in for this season. There are no cases in this area yet and he has been informed of only a single case in the State, which was recently reported in Saginaw county.

He believes however it is timely to call the attention of parents of the Grosse Pointe to the increased possibility of the appearance of the disease from now on and urge them to be watchful for any symptoms among their children.

Rubber, Grease And All Scraps Must Be Saved

No Lefup in Campaign to Conserve All Waste Materials

Although the intensive participation of the oil industry in the scrap rubber collection has officially ended, the Michigan Council of Defense earnestly urges the people to continue their collection and contribution of discarded rubber material.

They are also asked to keep up their collection of all other scrap material which has been declared essential for war production.

Just recently the Council has taken up the salvage of grease and fats as the latest material urged by the government for conservation. An excellent response is reported among the housewives of Michigan.

Most food stores throughout the state have already displayed signs notifying customers of the value of the fats and greases which they have accumulated on their premises.

It is pointed out that the collection of such material is vital to improve the manufacture of explosives.

5 EASY WAYS TO SAVE electricity

when you cook on your ELECTRIC RANGE

In these days when "waste nothing" is a household rule, you conserve time, effort and electricity by using your range efficiently. The 5 suggestions listed below are not new. Perhaps you already follow them. If not, they will prove worthwhile.

(1) Use LOW heat whenever possible. You can keep your cooking cost down by finishing most of your steaming cooking on a low heat after foods have reached the steaming point. Once the steaming point is reached, you cannot speed up the cooking operation one bit by continued use of high heat. Reducing the heat will reduce your cooking costs, as well as conserving vitamins and minerals.

(2) Plan more even meals. Preparing a complete meal in the oven at one time is economical. The same amount of electricity can cook meat, potatoes, vegetables and a pudding in one operation. And by using your clock control, you can forget the dinner until it is ready to serve, and devote your time to other things.

(3) Use little water in cooking. Vegetables are far more delicious and healthful when "steam-cooked" in a only half-cup of water. This conserves precious minerals and food values — and you don't waste electricity heating up a large quantity of water which is poured down the sink after the cooking is finished.

(4) Make use of "stored" heat. When the cooking operation is almost finished, the heat may be turned completely OFF. The heat that remains in the unit can be used to complete the cooking operation. Take advantage of this method and the extra saving in the use of electricity.

(5) Use the thrift cooker often. If your range has one, the thrift cooker is ideal for soups, stews, and for tender cuts of meat. Its long, slow cooking gives excellent results, and its "deep well" construction and heavy insulation achieve economy of operation.

Send for free literature on electric cooking. Call or write Mrs. Dorcas Moore 1212 Griswold St. RA. 4417-89

I Wake Up Screening

By R. E. LUBECK

Back in about 1937 Leslie Howard made a successful conversion of the novel "The Scarlet Pimpernel" into a theatrical production. This period was that of the French revolutionary days in 1789 and Howard played the role of a bright young Englishman who loved on daring and whose aim in life consisted of rescuing the families of the upper classes from a necktie cut, who at that time were of course the object of the necessity.

New some five years later Howard has again made such a picture, called "Mr. V," whose subject is the pre-war rescue of those unfortunates trapped in Nazi Germany.

"Mr. V" is a twentieth century "Scarlet Pimpernel" with all the daring and coolness of the previous hero. The picture, which opens Friday at the Michigan theater, will probably prove the month's most exciting. It has the swiftness of action that marked Howard's original production. Howard plays his role in a subtle, convincing manner which lends a dash of thrilling restraint to the scenes of horror which came to Germany in the early days of Spring 1940.

Let's make it clear that Howard's character is different however, in that the situations and results force "Mr. V" to be a man of superior intelligence while the Pimpernel only had to outwit the hasty, illbred and ill taught, French rioters.

One of the best shots to watch for: The scene is a German concentration camp and a group of political prisoners under the watchful eye of a mammoth guard.

The men are working in a huge field, nearby is a scarecrow. Howard has vowed to save the prisoners but it appears impossible that he could get within

The Drew Kay Kyser Drew

Lovey ELLEN DREW, who plays the role of the badly neglected wife of Kay in the latter's latest film, "My Favorite Spy," which comes to the Cinderella Friday. Kay, as an undercover agent for the Army, has to keep his activities secret from his bride for a few days.

In a thousand feet of the prisoner without being seen. The guard suddenly becomes enraged at one of the men and to illustrate his strength and what will happen to the prisoner if he doesn't obey, he levels his rifle at the scarecrow and fires.

Then he turns away. From the scarecrow, whose arms are outstretched, slowly drips blood. You know where Howard is

In the roaring days when a pretty woman could get a "not guilty" verdict from any jury, it tells the whole hilarious history of "Roxie Hart." When a man confesses to a murder, a wide-awake reporter kills the story, and suggests that Roxie let herself be tried for the crime.

Robin Hood's son showed up in Sherwood Forest recently and he turned out to be just as dashing a swashbuckler as his colorful sire. In fact, the chip off the old block turned out to be a couple of swashbucklers. The multiplication was due to the fact that the son, who is Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., was playing the famous twins of Dumas' romantic thriller, "The Count of Monte Cristo," the second Alger feature.

Ginger Rogers In New Role On Alger Screen

Ginger Rogers, who insists on changing her type of movie character every few pictures, discarded all Hollywood glamour for sheer realism in her picture, "Roxie Hart," opening at the Alger Friday.

Imagine Ginger as a tawdry, two-bit dancer—and she isn't afraid to look and talk like one—who pops gum like a veteran and wears enough mascara and rouge for ten pigs! It's an entirely new and different role for this versatile actress, and also one which led to unexpected difficulties.

"Roxie Hart" has been made for laughs. Burlingque Chicago

Wedding Bells

FAY BAINYER sets as Maid of Honor at the wedding of KATHERINE HEPBURN and SPENCER TRACY in "Woman of the Year," the film opening at the Esquire theater Saturday.

Bliss Comes to Bob Hope

Everything comes to him who waits and BOB HOPE waited long enough for Paramount to cast him in a picture with his favorite actress MADELINE CARROLL. The film, "My Favorite Blonde," one of the funniest pictures of the year, comes to the Vogue screen Friday.

Greatest Cast Coming to Punch

A large production unit traveled 52,000 miles to make "The Invaders" which comes to the Punch and Judy Theatre this Friday and Saturday with the season's greatest cast, headed by Leslie Howard, Laurence Olivier and Raymond Massey.

"The Invaders" is a product of its time. Today's events have shaped its form; tomorrow's headlines have given it substance. It has the breathless excitement of a stop-press flash, and drama that is lighted by the hot flame of combat. And, though inspired by the moment, it has a theme as everlasting and important as life itself.

Andy Hardy finds a new romance and successfully gets out of it to become a freeman again in "The Courtship of Andy Hardy," latest picture in the popular family series, which

Series About Flag Flying Use Research Departments

The asked of the News as to whether the American flag is to be flown 24 hours a day and the research department of the News a considerable amount of time before the question was answered.

The American Legion and both the Army and Navy stated that the custom is to fly the flag only from sunrise to sunset, and it was a courtesy that should be observed. The FBI also stated this was the best thing to do, as there are only four places in Washington where the flag is flown 24 hours a day. One is over the grave of Frances Scott Key and the other three are over governmental buildings and the White House.

The research department of the Detroit News told the research department of the Grosse Pointe News that as far as could be learned it was perfectly all right to fly the American flag anytime.

Well, we certainly agree with that. The American flag must always be flown!

See Them at Army Show

American medium tanks, primed for battle action, rumbled over heavy terrain in war-up for realistic Army War Show at the University of Detroit Stadium starting Saturday, July 25. These are just a part of the Tank Force of 2,000 men and officers, jeeps, half-tracks, heavy guns, and trench mortars which will bring the stark drama of World War II to Detroiters.

Big Army Show Opens Saturday

War comes to Michigan next Saturday night when the research department of the somewhat larger Detroit News, the consensus of opinion was that the flag CAN be flown 24 hours a day.

George Beatty Stays at Royale

It's good news for patrons of Club Royale this week, for George Beatty, the master of hilarious songs and patter, will be in his fourth big week. There is no limit to Beatty's material, but the crowds seem to want repetition on a few of the songs.

One of his standbys, "Sylvia Froos, lovely song star of stage and radio, has come in for her share of top honors scoring heavily with "Is There a Lull in the House?" Sylvia's charming personality and smart rendition of the day's popular tunes have won her many friends.

Marie Kuhlman, one of the best ballad dancers about, takes road, let her week for duty at the classical and modern ballet and the USN hospital at Annapolis.

LIUT. EDWARD P. MACKENZIE, USMC, of Yorkshire, let her week for duty at the classical and modern ballet and the USN hospital at Annapolis.

adds a touch of humor which rates a score of 100. The young ladies, the Biltmorettes, perform amazing acrobatics with hoops and skipping ropes that sound impossible but are done with ease.

The new Roylettes frame the show with new routines. Carl Hunter continues to introduce, with Bill McCune's orchestra carrying the musical chore.

The Detroit Boat Club is planning a very gala affair on Tuesday, July 28, with its third annual regatta, combining swimming events with a buffet dinner and dancing.

JELLIED CHICKEN

Joint 1 chicken; take off all the skin; boil in just enough water to cover until you can take out all the bones. There should be about 1 quart of liquid left. Put the meat back and add butter, pepper and salt. Dissolve 2 tablespoons of gelatin in a cup of water; add to the boiling liquid. Have the chicken in six large pieces as you can cut, and season rather lightly as the meat absorbs the seasoning. Add sprigs of parsley and sliced hard-boiled eggs to the mold and put the chicken in the mold.
