

Bad Check Passer Gives Self Up to Park Police

Fred Karam, 37, of 2976 Montclair, Detroit, sought by Park police since June 14 for investigation of purchasing a car under false pretense, gave himself up on Friday, June 19.

He was immediately arraigned before Park Judge C. Joseph Belanger on a warrant charging him with uttering and publishing a false and forced instrument with intent to defraud.

Karam entered a plea of innocent, and Judge Belanger set a bond of $2,000 and scheduled July 1 as the date for examination. The accused man was turned over to Detroit authorities who want him on several charges.

Park police officers, Det. Lt. Stanley Enders and Cpl. Charles French, who were assigned to the case, said Karam purchased a new car from Ted Ewald Chevrolet company, 15175 E. Jefferson, on June 6, and gave a check for $888 as down payment.

The policemen said Karam signed the check with the name of Robert Caren, and gave his address as 1336 Belvidere, Detroit. He then took delivery of the automobile, the officers said.

About a week later, officials of the car firm registered a complaint with the Park Police Department, stating the check was returned from the bank marked insufficient funds.

Lt. Enders and Cpl. French went to the Belvidere address, and found Karam did not live there, and in checking with the bank on which the check was drawn, discovered that two days after making his payment, Karam deposited two dollars to open an account.

A further check with the car firm disclosed that Karam tried to buy a car there in 1958, under the name of Fred A. Thomas, the officers said. The deal fell through because of insufficient credit.

Lt. Enders and Cpl. French said they then found out that Karam lived at the Montclair address, and also found out his true name. They went to that address to talk to the suspect, but he refused to permit the officers to enter his house.

When the lieutenant and corporal threatened to call Detroit authorities, Karam, the officers charged, went into another room. While they called Detroit police for assistance, Karam jumped out of a window, and escaped.

The Park officers found the car Karam purchased, near his house, and impounded it.

On Monday, June 15, a warrant against Karam was obtained from the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office, and later in the day, Karam's lawyer called and stated his client agreed to surrender voluntarily on Friday.

Police said Karam has a record dating back to 1934.

Two Grosse Pointe boys, Donald F. Hudenburg and Joseph J. LaHood, were graduated on Monday, June 8, from the Georgetown University College of Arts and Sciences in Washington, D.C.

Hudenburg, the son of MR. and MRS. ROY HUDBENBURG, received a Bachelor of Social Science degree, majoring in Air Force ROTC. A three-year staff member of the school newspaper, the HOYA, he served in his last year as its Business Manager.

He also participated in a number of extracurricular activities. He was varsity basketball manager for two years, having served in basketball managerial positions all four years. Interested in government, he is a member of the Georgetown Young Democrats Club.

A 1955 graduate from Gonzaga High School in Washington, D.C., he won a scholarship to Georgetown. He resides with his parents in Notre Dame avenue.

LaHood is the son of MR. and MRS. TOM LAHOOD of Lakeshore drive. He is a biology major, and received a Bachelor of Science degree. He was elected last spring as vice-president of the International Relations Club, and was active in the Chemistry Club, the Medical Sciences Club and the staff of the yearbook.

LaHood graduated in 1955 from the University of Detroit High School. He intends to go on to Georgetown Medical School next fall.

Music Festival Concert July 1

Continuing their practice of bringing the finest in music to the community, the Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival will present the second of its series of concerts in the fountain fore-court of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial next Wednesday evening, July 1, at 8:15 p.m.

Featured on this second program of the series will be soprano Marilyn Colow who created the leading role in Menotti's "Telephone" in New York. Miss Colow will sing a Schubert epic "Shepherd on the Rock" and eight exquisite and rarely heard Mozart songs.

Accompanying Miss Colow and collaborating with Gordon Staples on Grieg and Beethoven sonatas will be Karl Haas, outstanding pianist and lecturer who is also director of music at WJR.

Gordon Staples needs no introduction to Music Festival audiences or for that matter audiences anywhere in the country. This fine violin virtuoso is our own assistant concertmaster and frequent soloist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. It will be a great treat to hear him in two major works.

Driver Guilty In Accident

Raymond Arduini, 33, of 1214 Kentigaus, Church, Va., arraigned before Farms Judge Grant E. Armstrong, on Tuesday, June 16, pled guilty to reckless driving and causing a personal injury, and paid a fine of $35, rather than serve five days in jail.

Arduini was responsible for injuring Joan Wilson, 17, daughter of the Robert C. Wilsons of 1221 Audubon, as she was crossing Lake Shore road at McKinley place.

A police report disclosed that the motorist was driving west on Lake Shore, when he hit the girl, who was crossing with James Mathewson, of 230 Lakeland, after the two left a graduation party at about 1 a.m. at the War Memorial Center.

Police said that Arduini was driving a car belonging to Ann Behan of 1453 Balfour, who was a passenger in the car. Miss Wilson was taken to Bon Secours Hospital by Farms firemen, and later transferred to Straith Memorial Hospital in West Grand boulevard, Detroit. She suffered a fractured pelvis.

Mr. Wilson said that his daughter has been brought home, and will be confined to her bed for at least a month, after which she will undergo an examination.

At the time of the accident, police said, Arduini did not have his driver's license or identification papers on his person. He produced these later at the station.

It takes a black sheep in some families to prove that the others are not white-washed.

Men's Garden Club of Grosse Pointe will go on "summer schedule" in July, with emphasis being placed on social gatherings, rather than educational meetings.

On Wednesday, July 1, the Men's Garden Clubs of Grosse Pointe and East Detroit will be guests of William Mihelich, a member of both groups. After the meeting at 7 p.m., at the Mihelich rose garden and nursery, 14300 Toepfer, East Detroit, the group will gather at the nearby Mihelich residence for a barbecue and swimming.

On Wednesday, July 15, Men's Garden Clubs of Grosse Pointe, Detroit and East Detroit will be guests of Charles Helin at his residence, 15440 Windmill Pointe drive, for an evening of travel and garden films, starting at 8 o'clock. Early arrivals may inspect the Helin gardens and greenhouse, including an interesting cactus collection.

Because of the two meetings in July, the Grosse Pointe group will omit its usual August meeting.

This motive exalts the action. —M. J. Preston

Burglar Loots Home in Park

A burglar made two attempts before he was successful in breaking into the home of S. B. Hellstrom, 663 Pemberton, on Monday, June 15, about an hour before noon. Three bedrooms were completely ransacked.

Entrance into the house was made by breaking the glass near the lock of the door leading to the dining room from the rear porch.

Park Police Cpl. Charles French said the thief first tried to get into the house through the living room door, but was prevented by a heavy sofa blocking the way.

Reported missing were a man's wrist watch valued at

The officer said that a witness revealed that he had seen a man in the vicinity at about 10:45 a.m., go onto the front porch of the Hellstrom house, then go around to the back of the building.

The suspect is described as being a negro, 40 years old, about six feet tall, heavy set and well dressed.

New School Board Members Sworn In

Two new members of Grosse Pointe's seven-member Board of Education, DR. ROBERT K. WHITELEY and C. HENRY HABERKORN 3rd, took their oath of office on June 18 at the Board Office. Shown left to right are RAY MacARTHUR, Director of the Department of Business and Finance, who administered the swearing in ceremony; DR. WHITELEY, MR. HABERKORN, and DR. JAMES W. BUSHONG, Superintendent of Schools. In the June school election Dr. Whiteley was elected to succeed Edward Pongraz for a four-year term. Mr. Haberhorn was elected for a one-year term to replace James W. Lee II who resigned in May.

'Tender Trap' Closes Saturday

The final two performances of "The Tender Trap" will be presented by the Grosse Pointe Community Theatre on the Terrace at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore road, tomorrow and Saturday evenings, June 26 and 27, at 8:30 p.m.

The laugh-filled romantic comedy by Max Shulman and Robert P. Smith played its first two performances before responsive audiences last Friday and Saturday.

Marking the Grosse Pointe Community Theatre's tenth anniversary production, "The Tender Trap" features a typical blend of GPCT new and veteran acting talent.

Two newcomers to the GPCT—Peter M. Roark, 1028 Nottingham, and Jan Conway, 927 Lakepointe, play the leading roles of Charlie Reader, the New York bachelor who leads a carefree existence, and Julie Gillis, the fresh young lady chemist who has set her mind and heart on capturing Reader.

The GPCT's presentation of "The Tender Trap" is being co-sponsored by the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association.

Tickets, priced at $1.25 for adults and 75c for students, may be obtained at the War Memorial ticket office before show time.

"The Tender Trap" will close the GPCT's 1958-59 play presentation season. Besides "The Rainmaker" and "Caine Mutiny Court Martial," the current season also included "The Solid Gold Cadillac" and "The Happy Time."

Plans are underway for the annual GPCT dinner-dance at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club July 11, at which "Clarence" Awards for the best performances of the year will be awarded. Ballots have been mailed to GPCT members.

The play-reading committee is already hard at work picking next year's plays. From more than 100 suggestions, the committee will narrow the choice to about a dozen plays. The executive board will then select the five outstanding productions to be given in the 1959-60 season.

Those interested in joining the GPCT may do so by contacting either Patricia Sullivan, 5050 Dickerson, Detroit (VA 2-9583), the current membership chairman, or Mrs. Meyer, 788 Nott, the 1959-60 chairman.

Center to Hold Kids' Art Camp

"Art for Fun" will again be the theme of the Children's Summer Art Camp to be held on the grounds of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial each week-day morning from Monday, July 6, through Friday, July 24, from 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon.

The entire three weeks of classes is open to Grosse Pointe children ages 7-12 for a fee of $22.50 plus a materials charge of $2.50. Enrollment may be made by calling the Center TU. 1-7511.

Again in charge of the Art Camp is Mrs. William "Mickey" Loud whose distinguished work continues to win the top prizes in exhibits here about. Mrs. Loud is adept at handling young people having a brood of five at home. A Sarah Lawrence Art Major she did her advanced study at the Corcoran Art Gallery in Washington, D.C., and afterward taught at the National Cathedral school there.

In Detroit she has been active in the Detroit Artists Market and the Grosse Pointe Artists Association, has headed the Junior League Senior Center and finds time among her other activities to be the League's president.

Mrs. Loud is a firm believer in making art fun for the young people encouraging them to originate a wide variety of art forms from any materials at hand.

Added to the fun of creating at the Center Mrs. Loud will take the youngsters on trips around the area and to the museum to acquaint her students with the finest art work in all fields.

Janet Ann Werner Marries Mr. Fulco

Bride Wears Imported Chantilly Lace for Recent Wedding in St. Ambrose Church; After Florida Trip Will Live in Detroit

At a recent ceremony in St. Ambrose Church Janet Ann Werner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence H. Werner, Jr., of St. Clair avenue, became the bride of Jack Anthony Fulco.

For the rites the bride wore an imported Chantilly lace gown designed with a scooped neckline and a chapel train. A beaded tiara held her veil of French illusion and she carried stephanotis and ivy centered with a white orchid.

Carmella Macri, cousin of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Theodore Cushard, sister of the bride, Mrs. Rick Axel, sister of the bridegroom, and Rose Finazzo.

They wore maize waltz length gowns with beaded crowns and carried cascades of blue carnations.

Bernadette Giambona and Janet Cushard were flower girls in blue and yellow frocks. Ricky Swarz was ring bearer. Larry Werner was best man for the bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Onofrio Fulco, of McClellan avenue.

Ushering were Theodore Cushard, Rick Axel and Joseph Longo.

Mrs. Werner chose a champagne lace dress for her daughter's wedding and the reception at the Village Manor. Mrs. Fulco was in white lace over beige. Both mothers wore cymbidium orchids.

When the couple return from Florida they will live in Detroit.

Just Who Is the Crackpot?

The controversy which has been stirred up by protests against using DDT to spray trees in the battle against Dutch Elm disease, seems to have caused one state official to crawl out on a limb that may be as rotten as one infected with this insidious killer beetle.

C. A. Boyer, Chief of the Plant Industry Division of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, sent the following letter out on June 16. It is understood copies were also sent to officials of the other Pointes.

Mr. W. H. Lange, City Administrator City of Grosse Pointe Woods 20775 Mack Avenue Grosse Pointe Woods 36, Michigan Dear Mr. Lange: Please be advised that Malathion is not recommended as a Dutch elm spray. I would suggest that you write to Professor Ray Hutson, Head of the Entomology Department, Michigan State University, for recommendations as to the insecticide to be used on the Dutch elm spray program.

I think it exceedingly unfortunate that a few crackpot individuals have set out on a mission to harm a good and worthy Dutch elm disease program with the thought that DDT is killing all the birds. The statements that have been made are not true statements; nor are they substantiated by any research. In fact, research programs have been conducted by various agencies discounting comments made by some individuals.

Nobody knows when a dead bird is found whether it died as a result of poisoning or met with some other death. Nobody can attribute the death of a bird to a control program. The majority of the resident property owners within the State use more potent insecticides and larger quantities of it on their own home gardens than is used in control programs.

Mr. Fred Matthaer, who owns the Raderick Estate in Ann Arbor which consists of approximately 1,000 acres of 50,000 growing elms, has thoroughly sprayed his elms with DDT every year since 1953 and relates that only two dead birds were found on the property this spring and their death was not attributed to DDT. Nearly every species of bird life is living at this estate.

Unfortunately, these wild stories get started about the extinction of birds. Goodness knows that less than 2% of the entire State land surface is sprayed during any fiscal year. This leaves 98% free of spray and ample space for birds. Reports which I have from many individuals and municipality personnel indicate that there are as many birds now as there has been in past years. It is high time these individuals who have been making these false statements be curbed.

Mr. Boyer appears to be considerably incensed and has used some fairly strong language. In view of the fact that this paper, and many supposedly intelligent local residents have joined in the fight against the senseless slaughter of our birds, it seems entirely proper to take issue with some of the rantings of this apparently uninformed state official.

In the first place we have been entirely unaware that anyone ("crackpot individuals" or otherwise), has set out on a mission to harm a good and worthy Dutch elm disease program. On the contrary, all of the Pointe municipalities and all of the garden groups and most of the individual residents, have cooperated fully in the campaign to control and stamp out this disease. It is doubtful if there is any community more conscious of the tremendous asset which our elm trees constitute.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The prospects for the elimination of DDT to control the elm beetle are extremely favorable. Since my letter to the Grosse Pointe News March 19, followed by your very convincing editorial, the public has been aroused from its lethargy and taken up the crusade against the mass destruction of our bird life.

This crusade has spread to other states and we can look forward to a strong, united action very soon. The disturbing facts against DDT came to me from several authoritative sources including what should be considered the highest of all, the United States Department of Agriculture.

From long range tests it has been definitely established that DDT is:

- 1. Highly toxic to all bird and animal life.
2. The poison is not dissipated but may be accumulated in the animal body by further contact on the part of the victim on subsequent contacts with it.
3. It is equally as toxic to humans and is known to cause many serious complications through repeated contacts.

The Miller amendment to the Federal Pure Food Act restricts the use of DDT and other highly toxic insecticides on food crops. For some time since DDT became available we had neither conclusive evidence of its toxic properties to animal life nor a suitable and effective substitute for it.

Dr. R. R. Whitten head of the Department for pest control, the United States Department of Agriculture, states that Methoxychlor is as effective as DDT in the control of the elm beetle (scolytus multistriatus) and much less toxic to bird and animal life. DDT is the cheaper of the two. Since a large percentage of spraying is reflected in labor costs the added cost in using Methoxychlor should by no means be regarded as prohibitive.

The residual or lasting effects of Methoxychlor have not as yet been fully and conclusively established. Prof. Ray Hutson of the department of entomology of Michigan State University states that tests reported by Cornell University indicate that the residual properties may be five to six weeks.

The head of the Agricultural Chemical Division of the E. I. duPont Company states that although the residual properties have as yet not been definitely established they may be found to be almost as lasting as DDT.

From the statements and data given above it is evident that to date Methoxychlor or "Mariate" is the only safe and effective insecticide which we have that will do the job of controlling the elm beetle and other insects without the very poisonous effect to bird and animal life which results from the use of DDT.

I was both elated and distressed by the support of the Garden Club group to my letter to the Council of Grosse Pointe Farms on June 15. The group requested that immediate action be taken to stop spraying with DDT. Unfortunately, however, they advocated the use of Malathion instead of Methoxychlor.

The cost of Malathion is considerably higher than either DDT or Methoxychlor. Obviously Malathion is not a practical substitute for DDT regardless of its insect killing power and low toxicity.

May I commend the Grosse Pointe News for your campaign to save our bird and animal life by the elimination of DDT in the community spraying program. These feathered friends have been our best insect killers from the dawn of time. Let's not destroy them and permit insects to have a free hand in destroying all plant life.

FINDS LOST WATCH

Mrs. D. E. Leahy of 188 Lancaster, informed Woods police on Saturday, June 20, that she had found her watch, valued at $107, that she reported missing on June 11.

Containers and kept away from food. Persons using DDT sprays should avoid repeated or prolonged exposure to them. Sprays containing DDT should be kept away from fish ponds and bird feeding stations, or such places should be covered or moved during the spraying.

Research will disclose many further references to this particular subject. The same Prof. Ray Hutson to whom Mr. Boyer refers, head of the Entomology Department of Michigan State University, says in a letter to Vincent DePetris, well-known Pointe horticulturist who has been one of the prime movers in this campaign against DDT: "I do agree that Methoxychlor is less toxic to birds. However, results of experience with Methoxychlor in large scale spraying is unavailable."

The June issue of Readers Digest is carrying an article by Robert S. Strothers called "Backfire in the War Against Insects." This paper carried a reprint in the June 11 issue of a story which appeared in the London, Ont. Free Press, written by Keith Miller and entitled "Mostly Birds—DDT The Killer." This was based upon an article in the January-February issue of Audubon Magazine, written by Dr. George J. Wallace, Professor of Zoology at Michigan State University.

R. R. Whiston, of the E. I. DuPont de Nemours Co., Chemicals Department, says: "Methoxychlor is fully registered by the U. S. Department of Agriculture for the control of elm bark beetle, and is highly effective against them when used as recommended. We believe it to be comparable in effectiveness with DDT, with lower bird and animal toxicity favoring Methoxychlor while economics generally favor DDT."

One of the chief arguments against the use of Methoxychlor is that it is more expensive. It would appear to be that this is true, but it should be pointed out that the cost of the material used is but a small part of the cost of spraying, where labor accounts for the bulk of the expense. In a community like the Pointe, it is doubtful if there would be many objections to spending a little more money if the lives of the birds could be spared by such an imaginary extravagance.

The returned coupons, phone calls and letters received during the campaign which was carried on through this paper under the sponsorship of the Grosse Pointe Garden Council, is clear enough indication that many of the residents here join with many throughout the country who are alarmed over the wide-spread use of DDT. We have seen birds in the agony of death, something never experienced before the introduction of DDT. We have seen pools full of fish strangely killed since the wholesale spraying was introduced. We have picked up many dead birds of many species on our own grounds.

We take a dim view of Mr. Boyer's off-hand dismissal of the problem and his all-inclusive condemnation of "crackpots." He seems to be calling some specialists who far outrank him in his own field by extremely unfriendly names.

We hope our local authorities won't find it expedient to rely on the word of this one state official as an excuse to settle back complacently and do nothing about the situation. If they've been bitten by as many mosquitoes as have we this year, they will give it a second thought, for that reason alone. The law of nature is a very peculiar, yet very logical thing. We still believe the birds ate more insects than DDT can ever kill. And we think the vanishing of the birds may very well account for the return, in ever-increasing numbers, of the mosquitoes. It has been a very dry season, dampened almost exclusively by DDT spray.

What Goes On at Your Library

By Jean Taylor Harold Wallace Ross, editor of the New Yorker for 25 years, has become a legendary figure, and James Thurber who is almost a legendary figure himself, is just the right biographer for the fabulous creator of this captivating magazine.

Thurber's recent book "The Years With Ross" began as a series written for the Atlantic Monthly. "What set out to be a summer task of reminiscence, turned out to be an ordeal of love," according to the author. To interpret such a contradictory character was no small task. As Wolcott Gibbs put it to Thurber, "If you get him down on paper, nobody will believe it."

Whether you believe it or not, you will have a wonderful time with "The Years with Ross," and if you have been a devotee of the New Yorker since its early beginnings, you'll feel a nostalgic regret for the many contributors no longer living, who have left behind them their indelible imprint. Alexander Woolcott, Helen Hokinson, Wolcott Gibbs, et al. Harold Ross died in December, 1951, but his co-workers still speak of him as though he might saunter into the office at any moment and replace peace with pandemonium.

Just a few weeks before his death, there appeared a biography of the famous editor, "Ross and the New Yorker," by Dale Kramer. We read it at the time and recall that we found its many anecdotes and legends entertaining. It was not, however, a well-rounded picture of this colorful personality, according to the men who knew him best. The New Yorker wrote of it, "Whatever the cause, it is a conspicuously ununiform work, though a kindly intentioned one."

The author gave the impression, perhaps, that those around Ross made the New Yorker in spite of, rather than because of him. This, his old stalwarts hotly deny. Despite his idiosyncrasies, they make it plain that Harold Wallace Ross was one of the best magazine editors of the twentieth century. It took a James Thurber, with his inimitable humor, to make the perfect recording of Ross's life. Thurber joined the New Yorker in his early thirties, and, if he was not actually married to the magazine as was Ross, certainly he had a close association with and a great loyalty to its editor, and to the other men who helped to build it into the foremost periodical of American humor. In an interview with Alistair Cooke on Omnibus, Thurber commented "It's very hard to divorce humor from the other things in life. Humor is the other side of tragedy. Humor is a serious thing." In a later interview in the Paris Review he said, "It's hard to write humor in the mental weather we've had."

Robert Millea Hunt, 781 Westchester, Grosse Pointe 30, a Grosse Pointe High School senior, has been awarded a 1959 Guy M. Wilson scholarship by the Michigan Department of The American Legion. The scholarship is for $200 and must be used for study at a Michigan college or university. This year The American Legion awarded $4,000 in scholarships to 20 outstanding Michigan high school seniors. The awards are made in honor of Guy M. Wilson, who served as Michigan Department Commander in 1920-21. World War I and II veterans sons are eligible for scholarships. Winners must meet these qualifications: Receive "A" or "B" grades in their high school studies; Adhere to the ideals of a American government; Show a desire for self-improvement through education; Seek objectives that are worthwhile, within reach, and suitable to their abilities.

Spitting On A Stone?

By Fred Kopp, R. Ph. Ever try spitting on a stone to ease pain? Sounds foolish, nowadays. But a long time ago folks actually used this "remedy." We're lucky to be living in this age of modern medicine. Medical science has given us many wonderful pain relievers and other reliable, effective drugs. However, it's still not wise to use any medication indiscriminately. When you don't feel up to par, ask your physician's advice first. Then, if he prescribes medication, come to us. Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Parcels, Jr., will entertain the group at their summer home in Huron City, Mich. Aside from all the activity offered there will be a birthday dinner Saturday night and the guests will go to church Sunday morning to hear former Grunyon, Frank Sladen, preach the sermon.

GPUS Net Team Again Unbeaten

The Grosse Pointe University School tennis team, led by co-captains Bob Wood and George Haggarty, closed out its second consecutive undefeated season by beating Cranbrook 4-1 on Tuesday, May 26. This made the 19th consecutive dual meet victory for GPUS. The last loss came the latter part of the 1957 season.

GPUS won the Class "C-D" regional tennis tournament, Monday, May 25, held at Dearborn High School, when Pete Monroe took the singles title and Wood-Haggarty won the doubles crown.

Club Holds Teen Tennis Tourney

George Haggarty and David Hodges captured tennis titles in the Detroit Country Club teen-age tennis tourney which got underway, Tuesday, June 16.

Haggarty won the 18 and under boys title by beating his Grosse Pointe University School teammate Peter Monroe in straight sets, 7-5; 6-3. The champion reached the finals by beating Ricky Kammer in the semifinals, 6-3; 6-1. Monroe gained the finals by beating another GPUS player, Bob Wood, 6-3; 6-2.

Day Camp Adding Horseback Riding

Horseback riding is to be one of the new features of the Grosse Pointe Day Camp which begins this week on the premises of the Grosse Pointe Nursery School in Vernier road, according to an announcement by the director, Mrs. Thomas McCormick, who has operated both the school and its summer camp activities for the past 16 years.

The day camp is for youngsters up to 12 years of age and its great popularity grows with each passing season. Ponies and Horses This year's riding innovation entails ponies for the real young set and regular riding horses for the 8 to 12 year olds. The scene of this particular

Boat Banter

(Strike while the iron is hot) is the theme the local Power Squadrons and the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary are using to attract boatmen and their families to safety instruction courses.

More than 200 attended a special "Safety Aloft" course held at the Windmill Pointe Yacht Club, Thursday, June 4, and co-sponsored by the Auxiliary and the Detroit Free Press. The highlight of the session was an excellent movie in small boat handling for not only the novice but the veteran skipper.

Boat Inspection Site Approved

Through the concentrated efforts of past commander Larry Rief, Al Blixt and Bob Gilstorf, of the Grosse Pointe Power Squadron, Walter Sahli, District Director of the U. S. Justice, Immigration and Naturalization Department, has agreed to create a new inspection station for boatmen returning from Canada.

The new site will be the Speedway dock at the Jefferson Beach Marina. The station will be manned, to start, only on Sundays and holidays from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. The inspection station will enable the hundreds of boatmen in the Nine Mile road area to conveniently report back into the United States instead of being forced to run down river to the Gregory gas dock which has been the closest point up to now.

All boatmen and passengers are required by law to report at one of the several Immigration stations upon returning from Canada. It is not necessary to report if you do not touch Canadian soil.

Other inspection points are: Ecoorse Boat Basin and Grosse Ile Yacht Club. Along the St. Clair River there is Roberts Landing, Algonac, Marine City, St. Clair and Port Huron. If these stations are closed you are required to call LORain 7-8125 for an Immigration officer. There is a heavy fine for failure to be checked back into the United States. All stations are clearly identifiable by appropriate signs and a flag.

There is no way to force him to take a course in small boat safety and he is not interested in learning. His prime thought is "let's get on the water and see how fast we can go with this job." Usually it is this novice who overloads his boat; has a motor too big for the craft; does not have ample life preservers or adequate safety equipment to protect the lives of the guests he invites aboard.

It isn't that EDUCATION isn't available. It is and has been for years through the untiring efforts of the local Power Squadrons and the Coast Guard Auxiliary, both of which are dedicated organizations to the teaching and promoting of boat safety.

The six local Power Squadrons, Detroit, Grosse Pointe, Dearborn, Grosse Ile, Mount Clemens and Wyandotte, have 9,000 members. The Auxiliary has more than 100 flotillas and 2,400 members. In the last five years the two groups have trained 100,000 boaters.

Despite the good work of the Power Squadron and the CG Auxiliary mishaps continue to occur just as they do on the nation's highways because of ignorance. There is no way the novice boatman can be forced to take instruction in boat safety and weekly activity of the camp, which runs through to August 28, is a riding farm not too far distant from the Pointe which will be reached by the school's own buses.

Other features of the day camp, in addition to its daily activities program, include visits to local points of interest as well as special jaunts to the Pointe's own beach parks for swimming and water play. Enrollments, Mrs. McCormick advises, may still be made any day this week by calling TU 1-3460 or by visiting the camp office at 821 Vernier Road.

Devil Diggings

By Jack Ramsdell

Coach Ed Wernet recalled a couple of amusing incidents which occurred during his thirteen year tenure as head football coach at Grosse Pointe High.

The first was about Ed Isbey, one of Grosse Pointe's great halfbacks.

"Our linemen were missing their blocks time after time one game and the Devils were told to take them back to the huddle, glanced around at each player with a pained look and yelled—"When I get the ball you linemen just get out of my way because you just slow me down." With that the team went out and tore the stuffings out of its opponent.

Wernet continued: "One day, about ten years ago, I had just finished lecturing the football team on drinking and smoking. After this long drawn-out lecture I thought the boys had taken it to heart. About an hour later I was walking around the corner of the boys' gym and spotted a lighted cigarette on the ground near one of my star linemen. I pointed at the butt and queried, 'What about that cigarette?' The boy answered, 'Ah, gee coach you saw it first, you can have it.'

The graduating seniors on the baseball squad played the faculty in a rip roaring ball game, on Friday, May 28.

Festivities turned out to be dark for the faculty as they bowed for the first time in the game's history, 10-3.

Leading the senior squad was Dave Lowry who drove in six runs, had four hits in four times at bat and scored three runs-himself.

Lars Anderson, who never hurled in any high school game, struck out everyone he faced in his two and a third inning relief stint. In Anderson's turn on the mound he brought shouts of joy from the spectators, when he fanned the famed Ed Wernet and usually unstopable Ernest Bauer in order.

Groans and shouts of "We could have beaten you guys if we had more time," came from the faculty members when the game was called at the end of six innings due to a Babe Ruth League game, scheduled that evening.

Record Turnout At Net Clinic

The tennis clinic sponsored by the Neighborhood Club got off to a flying start on Monday, June 22, with a record 156 players registered.

Even Monday morning's rain failed to dampen the spirits of the youngsters who had signed up for the instruction being offered. There were 93 in the up to 12-year-old group on hand for the first lessons, and another 35 in the 13 to 16 age bracket.

The clinic will be held every Monday, Wednesday and Friday until July 31. Ages 9 to 12 meet from 9 a.m. until 10:30 and the 13 to 16-year-olds gather from 10:30 to noon.
