ON THEIR WAY HOME after seven months as prisoners of the Soviet Union were two B-47 crewmen, sole survivors of a plane shot down last July. The men, Capt. John R. McKone, of Tonganoxie, Kan., and Capt. Freeman B. Olmstead, of Elmira, N. Y., were on a weather mission when their plane was shot down over the Barents Sea. The Russians threatened to bring them to trial on spy charges. When no trial was forthcoming, international observers correctly anticipated that the fliers would be released as a conciliatory measure to the new U.S. Presi-

THE LOOKOUT MAN during the holdup and double murder of a Detroit grocer and his secretary confessed to Detroit Police yesterday and charged william Nash Delk with committing both acts. Police said that their informant, Gus Harvey, will be held as a witness against Delk, but was not charged with the crimes. Victims were Abraham Siegel, 70year-old scrap dealer, and his secretary, Mrs. Dolores Pfetzing. All but one of the 45 murders committed recently in Detroit have now been solved, Police

University Gets Williams Papers

Twenty-six large scrapbooks kept by Nancy Williams, wife of Michigan's former governor, and an extensive photographic file are part of the Williams of Michigan and housed in the Michigan Historical Collections

The scrapbooks are a very complete chronological file of clippings from newspapers throughout the country per-taining to all phases of G. Mennen Williams' 12-year career (1948-60) as Michigan's chief executive.

According to Mrs. Ruth Bordin, assistant curator of the Collections, "The scrapbooks should prove of great value to historians. A person doing research on the 1960 tax struggle in the legislature, for instance, can find complete press information gathered in one place. It will mean a tremendous saving of time to future researchers. In addition, the scrapbooks indicate Mrs. Williams' active interest and participation in her husband's career.'

"The scrapbooks are not memorabilia of the kind most women keep, with pressed flowers and dance programs and other sentimental items," Mrs. Bordin notes. "They are practical working scrapbooks and the governor must have found them very useful when he wanted to check back on press comment since they represent a complete calendar of his career activi-

Featured on this program for children and adults will be two films, "Abraham Lincoln and Eighteenth Centrury Life in Williamsburg." The Lincoln film re-enacts incidents in Lincoln's life and traces events of his early boyhood which reveal his qualities of integrity, humor, common sense, and tenderness. His several roles as a woodsman, lawyer, father, and President are accented here, also.

The Williamsburg film is the color story of a day in colonial Williamsburg. The ways early American craftsmen made a living are clearly and interestingly shown, using the tools and crafts of that period. This is a product of Colonial Williamsburg and is a masterpiece of Photography and authenti-

1. Look down the side of a new Pontiac

2. See how wheels and body form one line

3. That's Wide-Track balance (No other car has it)

Pontiac holds, hugs and hangs on to the road like no other car. There's no outsideof-the-wheels weight to cause lean or sway. More weight is balanced between the wheels for improved stability.

Another Wide-Track advantage: There's more room between the wheels to mount the springs, shocks and control arms at more stable angles to the wheels. This prevents drifting and wandering, allows Pontiac to track flat and level as it travels around corners and curves.

New Wide-Track feels every bit as steady as it looks. Test it soon!

Students Examine Censorship

Last Sunday evening Tuxis Club, a non-denominational organization for senior high students in this area, held a wind-up meeting in a month long study of censor-

Asked to speak to Tuxis were members of the press. the school, the library, a former district attorney and a representative from the St. Clair Shores Council for Better Literature. The Rev. Lyman Stookey spoke on the Christian ethics involved in the censorship problem.

Tuxis is to be commended for examining one of the fundamental freedoms guaranteed in the Constitution. From the 18th century there have been laws passed, then repealed, concerning censorship. Thomas Jefferson stressed freedom of the press in his first inaugural speech and John F. Kennedy told reporters at his first press conference that he is well aware of the importance of this vital liberty.

Liberty without responsibility is to be deplored but fettering freedom of expression is a greater danger than excesses of this liberty. Censorship implies judgment by someone, a person or organization, which sets up as an overseer of public morals. This is always dangerous, no matter what the fine motives of the censoring group.

In the past the written word has been banned. What has been considered obscene to one generation has often proved to be great literature to more modern readers. Taking on the job of guardian of your fellow citizens' morals assumes an arrogance which fortunately few possess. Censorship groups which start out with laudable aims often are carried into fields where their activity can threaten the freedom of action of those they think they are trying to protect.

Where obscenity exists there is a problem. But guarding the public morals is not the task of a minority group who are often far less qualified to decide what is good and what is trash than the educators, ministers and reporters who bring training and objectivity to their jobs. In our libraries, schools and press a real effort is made to present both sides of disturbing questions, leaving it to the individual to make his decision based on all the material which can be made available.

This is the American way of doing things and freedom of conscience is an inalienable right. To whittle away at this right in the guise of protecting public morals is a dubious method of approach. Rather guide the public to make its own decisions in these matters. The average citizen has a great stake in freedoms which he is watching fall before the iron fist of dictatorship all over the world. He can be trusted in most cases to make his own choices within the law.

The young people of Tuxis, after a thorough examination of the process of censorship, can be depended upon to take decisive action if freedom the world which lies ahead of them.

How the Chinese do it

By FRED KOPP, R.Ph.

Legend has it that Chinese doctors used to be paid only while their patients were healthy, got no fee during illness. It almost sounds rea-sonable. In fact, there are physicians today who specialize in keeping their patients healthy. Preventive medicine, it's called. All doctors practice it as much as they can. If you get regular checkups, your doctor has a chance to keep you from getting sick. Modern drugs play a large part in this practice, and that's where we pharmacists come in. But only you can make preventative medicine - by getting into the habit of regular checks. It's a very good idea.

Mythical War Ends For Army Reservists

Twenty-seven Detroit-area Army Reservists are home from weekend "war" at Fort Sheridan, Illinois.

The Reservists, members of the 70th Division, who meet weekly for training at Fort Wayne, took part in a map war against a mythical enemy at Fifth Army Headquarters in Fort Sheridan.

More than 2,500 Army National Guard, Army Reserve and Active Army personnel participated in the training exercise, titled Exercise Big Blast XIV, from January 27 through 29.

Gen. John W. Libeke, 15081 Greenview, Detroit, is the commander of the 70th Division. In civilian life General Libeke is President of the Detroit Board of Assessors.

Attending from the Grosse Pointe area was Lt. Col. Kenneth R. Baldwin, of 818

Patrons of the Grosse Pointe Public Library, attention! Are you always able to find the book you want when you visit our library? After searching in our card catalog and on the shelves, do you subsequently check with a librarian to see if the book might be housed some place other than its normal numerical or alphabetical section?

It has been recently called to my attention that some Grosse Pointe residents may not be aware of the fact that in our Reading and Reference Rooms. A number of our books which are not in current demand, as well as extra copies of some titles, are shelved in the Storage Stacks. The shelving area in these main rooms will hold a limited number of books, and the overflow must Also, you are aware that our oversize books are shelved separately at the end of each general grouping, such as the 100s, 200s, etc.? The one exception to this rule is the 700 section, which includes both normal size and oversize books.

Down the room, on your right are located collections such as: Rentals, Mysteries, Westerns and Current Books. In a rack near the Librarian's desk is another collection of Current Books, as well as a special collection, ranging from Old Favorites of 1961 (the one on display just now) to seasonal fare for holidays such as Christmas and Easter. In the Children's Room you will find special displays of books, also. Currently, there is a display of Winter Books, as well as some Easy Reading material. Foreign juvenile books and scouting material have their separate section just beyond the Easy Books.

Use the catalog by all means! By doing so, you should locate most of the books you want in their correct places on the shelves, but please do not as sume that a book is out just because you have not found it in its normal section.

By this time, I hope that I have convinced you that a librarian's assistance is important in your search for the elusive book. As you can see, there are many places where it might be expected to be shelved. You, as a patron, are not expected to be aware of all these locations. We, as librarians, are trained

Today Grosse Pointe is rated among the World's fine residential communities . . . no railroads, no factories, no streetcar lines. Situated on beautiful Lake St. Clair, it has nearly eight miles of shoreline. Its famed Lake Shore Drive follows along the shore for nearly four miles. The Pointe is unique in its abundance of natural beauty as well as its fine, well kept homes homes from a few thousand dollars in value to estates in the hundreds of thousands of dollars

In this far-flung community, comprising four cities, one village and one township - are some 15,000 families (some 60,000 persons of every NATIONALITY and all faiths).

Here the fruits of good leadership in civic and business activities provide ample proof of what can be accomplished when there is cooperation with realty developers and selling organizations of the caliber comprising the membership of the Grosse Pointe Brokers Association, now in its 28th year. The Association has given faithful service to the land developers and property owners as well as to the people who seek to establish residence here.

In this span of years . . . from the days when Grosse Pointe was a township of farms with a sprinkling of homes, our Association has served prospective buyers and sellors alike. Today Grosse Pointe supports several renowned shopping centers within its borders and possesses one of the best school systems to be found anywhere in the world.

OUR POLICY IS TO SERVE BUYER AND SELLER ALIKE!

A broker is a necessity in a real estate transaction. He is the third man in the deal. He furnishes information to the two principals and, everything being equal, he consumates the deal without the principals having to iron out the "rough spots" themselves.

The prospective buyer wants honest, forthright particulars about the property being offered for sale—its age, condition, its features and the type of meighborhood. The seller wants honest, forthright particulars about earnings (or wealth) and what his background may show to insure ability to meet mortgage or other payments which are often as much as 15 years in the future. He should not impair the value of the property before the final payment is made.

No broker provides this service with more zeal and conscientious effort than brokers who are members of the Grosse Pointe Brokers Association. Choose them with full knowledge that they will serve you well and likewise serve the prospective buyer well.

St. Paul Lakers Shatter St. Florian Jinx; Win 48-32

The St. Paul High School Basketball team had great reasons for rejoicing Friday, January 27 as it finished the third of the three hardest games on the schedule as victors over an upset-minded Št. Florian team.

The St. Paul Quintet met managed to come out of the first half with a 24-19 advantage. The second half was completely dominated by the Lakers, who went on to score a 48-32 victory.

Gary Schick had 11 points for St. Paul, John Mieszcak 12

Florian jinx which has hampered the best of St. Paul teams. This Friday, February 3, the Lakers take on Servite in their own gym. By memory St. Paul beat Servite 57-42 December 6, when the POINTE was growing up...

GROSSE POINTE NEWS

In his starched pointed collar, his frock coat and his luxuriant side whiskers, George H. Barbour made an impressive president when he ran the first meeting of the old Detroit Club in 1902.

Although his was not the first family to come to the Pointe, it became prominent early. George H. Barbour was born in Connecticut in 1844, descended from an Englishman who founded the town of Simsbury in 1634. Barbours had fought against the Indians and with George Washington. At 19 he took over his father's business, a general store and ten years later was ready to dispose of it and look westward.

He came to Detroit and immediately became involved in the growing Michigan Stove Company one of Detroit's first industrial ventures. He had many irons in the commercial fire, including a copper and brass company, an insurance company and a bank. He was the first president of the Detroit Board of Commerce, headed the Art Museum, was president of the city council, an alderman and head of the National Association of Manufacturers as long ago as 1888.

Into his ninetieth year he was active on all his boards and committees. When he celebrated his milestone he was congratulated on his many activities. "Oh yes, he said, "but I've been having an awful time with the board of directors of the Dime Bank." (He was a member.)

Someone asked, "What's the trouble?" He replied, "That old man Fyfe is too old to be on that important board. He goes to sleep." At that time Mr. Fyfe was six months his senior.

George Barbour's son, Edwin S. Barbour, married a Pointe girl, Edith Henry, and the couple bought the old John Anderson estate on lakeshore which has recently become the property of St. Paul's church.

Edwin S. Barbour followed his brother to Detroit from Connecticut, first turning down an offer from Marshall, Field and Co. He went into the wholesale hardware business here but soon gravitated to the stove company, married Ella Teftt, daughter of another stove

The couple's son, William T. Barbour whose widow now lives in Oldbrook lane, married into another old Detroit family, the Chittendens. William S. Chittenden was the proprietor of the Russell House until the Hotel Pontchartrain was built, but he was also the son-in-law of Gen. Alpheus S. Williams, the only corps commander bidding manner behind the gavfrom Michigan in the Northern Army in the Civil War. (His statue stands on Belle Isle.)

Thomas E. Barbour one of the couple's two sons married Cora Buhl, daughter of the Lawrence Buhls, whose family also have a long Pointe history. Now they live in Ovando, Mont.

The stove company which was consolidated many times over, made all the Barbour fortunes. To remind Detroit that it was once the chief stove manufacturing center in the country stands the biggest stove in the world, at the entrance to Belle Isle.

Visitors to the Jerome C. DuCharme home in West Wind lane are accustomed to the family dog ringing the doorbell unassisted. The dog always rings the bell when he wants to come in.

One day last week Mrs. D., busy upstairs, heard the doorbell ringing and thinking it was only the dog took her time about answering. When she opened the door there was no dog, only a shivering insurance adjutsor. "Excuse me for not answering your ring sooner," she apologized, "but I thought it was the dog.

The insurance adjuster, taken back, mumbled a few words to the effect that he was sure the damage she had reported could be adjusted without delay, refused even to enter the house to look at the claim, and hustled off.

None of the guests wanted to cut the cake at the birthday party Mrs. Emery P. Kovach gave last week for her mother. Five feet tall and five feet wide the cake was decorated with 81 candles (her mother's age) placed in tiny flower pots and covered with yards of tulle, ribbons and furbelows.

Mrs. Verne Condon peeked through the GP News window on Friday to point out that she was returning her grocery shopping basket. "I have a complex now due to your editorial" she claimed. Hope others take equal note.

There has been a great revival of the old fashioned felt beret. Mrs. Frank B. Ware, Jr. wears a plain black one with her very smart velvet trimmed deep pleated black coat and Mrs. William D. Laurie, Jr., sports a smoke gray beret for shopping.

PILFERINGS

A husband and a wife, both university graduate students, recently celebrated the arrival of their first child. At the wife's insistance they paid their entire medical bill at one time, were now worried about meeting other bills. They were discussing their sad financial plight one evening when the baby demanded a diaper change. As the wife leaned over the baby's crib she muttered, "The ONLY thing in the house that's paid for, and it leaks."

Today's pitiful case is the fellow who wants to live in the country. He's moved out of town three timesand each time the city overtook him . . . Earl Wilson.

There are eight reasons why a woman buys something: Because her husband says she can't have it; it will make her look thin; it comes from Paris; the neighbors can't afford it; nobody has one; everybody has one; it's different and BECAUSE.

Two flower arrranging work shops will bring the promise of spring to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial beginning this week Thursday, February 2, when Mrs. Richard T. Gerrathy will start holding two weekly classes at the Center. The Thursday morning class from 9:30 to 12 noon will be a bit more elementary than the afternoon class 1 to 3:30 p.m. where more advanced arranging may be tried.

Essentially, Mrs. Gerrathy is terrifically enthusiastic person and while she insists on proper fundamentals she still wants her students to have a great deal of fun working with heir materials.

Mrs. Gerathy will begin by emphasizing basic fundamentals of line and color using a minimum of materials. Each student The seventh monthly meeting she wishes to work with, conis requested to bring the things tainer, holder, clay, shears, forced branches, flowers, foilage or dried flora. Mrs. Gerrathy will assist her students in getting material if they experience difficulty.

Each student's arrangement will be analyzed in class. From simple line arrangements they will progress to crescent, triangular, pendant or even map arrangements.

Mrs. Garrathy is a past officer of the Detroit Garden Center, is a nationally accredited flewer judge and has studied flower arranging in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana, besides the University of Michigan, Michigan State, and Wayne University. She is well known for previous flower arranging classes in Grosse Pointe and the Detroit area. These classes at the Center will continue on Thursdays through March 9.
