DESTITUTE Detroiters will get their Federal food rations through a trial food stamp program announced yesterday by President Kennedy. The program is aimed at easing the impact of hunger in depressed areas, including West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Eastern Kentucky, and Southern Illinois. Needy families will be able to exchange Federal stamps for food at a grocery store rather than following the previous plan of going to a designated depot.

THE HIJACKED Portuguese liner Santa Maria sailed into the harbor at Recife, Brazil, yesterday, but did not dock because of rebel fears that the ship would be confiscated. With crew members threatening to mutiny and food and water provisions dwindling almost to nothing, rebel leader Henrique Galvao began holding a series of conferences with Brazilian officials. The ship is expected to dock within 24 hours even without guarantees that it will not be seized.

THE FLOATING REVOLU-TION of Henrique Galvao, Portuguese pirate captain of the Santa Maria, ended today as Brazilian authorities prepared to take over the ship and return it to its Portuguese owners. Galvao and his rebel crew were granted political asylum in Brazil, Six hundred and twenty passengers were released from the ship yesterday after a 12day ordeal which left many weak and hungry. Galvao and his men had seized the luxury passenger liner in an effort to draw world attention to his crusade to topple the strongman Portuguese government of Premier Antonio de Oliveria

The arrest of two youths by Detroit police on January 30, cleared up the January 6 armed robbery of the Johnson Milk Depot, 18534 Mack avenue, it was disclosed by Farms police.

The youths, Robert R. Vanderlerchen, 18, of 21175 Laneaster, Harper Woods; and Frank D'Allen, 18, of 15708 Collingham, Detroit, were arraigned in Detroit Recorder's Court on February 3, and pled guilty to armed robbery in Detroit. They were released, after posting $1,000 bond each, pending a sentencing date. Farms Det. Sgts. Jack Paisley and George Van Tiem said that Vanderlerchen and D'Allen admitted holding up the milk and Roseville, and a grocery store in Dearborn.

Forced to Revise Street Repairing Plans in Woods State Highway Department Ruling Cuts Revenue

Which Can Be Used From Gas Tax Bonds; Part of Program Will Be Delayed

Woods Council learned February 6 that the proposed street improvement program to be financed primarily by $359,000 in gas tax bonds cannot be undertaken as planned.

W. H. Lange, city administrator, told the Council that the Thieves Raid

State Highway Department in Lansing ruled that the highest amount of revenue to be used from gas tax bonds to improve Woods streets is $263,000. Local Streets Different

The major streets can be conded for 100 per cent of the First Home Empty; Second total repaying and resurfacing costs of $141,000, Lange said. However, local street improvements which were estimated to cost $122,000 can be bonded for only half that amount, or Lange said that another $61, 000 for street improvements can be squeezed in small amounts from other accounts in the 1961 budget, bringing the total money available for the street program to $263,000.

Under this program, Lange said, Hampton and Roslyn roads, from the Milk River to Wedgewood will be completely repayed. Other portions of those streets from Mack to East City Limits will be resurfaced. Small portions of Fairford and Holiday can also be improved, Lange said.

The remainder of the street improvement program, includ-ing 32 streets or portions of streets, will remain on file, Lange said, presumably to be undertaken whenever financing can be arranged.

In a long list of charges made at the time he entered his suit, Bulalino had said that a "gigantic conspiracy" existed which was designed to keep him from buying a home in Grosse Pointe.

Judge Gilmore denied this inerpretation and said the matter to be considered was simply a charge of libel and slander. that the screening reports were defamatory and said that publication, an essential element of libel was missing in this case. They said the screening panel was designed to protect, rather than to defame, those it investigated. All precautions were taken, they said, to be certain that the screening reports were circulated only to three members of the panel and two secretaries.

But there's something different about it today-for this is the first time it has rolled beneath the wheels of his new Cadillac car.

And here, as he is now discovering, is motordom's truest miracle in motion.

First of all, there's the way a 1961 Cadillac smooths out that familiar surface. By the time those bumps and irregularities have been absorbed in that marvelous new suspension system . . . and cushioned in those deep Cadillac seats . . . they are almost impossible to detect.

Then there is the car's extraordinary quiet. Cadillac's careful craftsmanship and precision engineering provide such silence of operation that you can speak in a whisper.

And what poise and balance the car has! It is wonderfully steady and surefooted through every mile . . . and it has a feeling of solidity and substance that comes from no other motor car.

Of course, these are but a few of the myriad pleasures of driving the new "car of cars"-in addition to its great handling ease and its magnificent interior comfort and luxury.

May we suggest that you take a 1961 Cadillac out soon on some challenging stretch of highway-and see for yourself?

Your Cadillac dealer will be happy to let the car work its magic for you at any time.

The contest is open to all with the exception of the famidated Gas Company, and its advertising agency.

The Gas Company wishes to remind all parents, especially residents of the Park and City, that this may be a good time to learn more about their smokeless, odorless incinera-tors with regard to the city ordinances on waste which will go into effect soon.

Residents of the Park have until July 1 and City residents until October to decide how own garbage. They have their choice of installing incinerators, which will dispose of 95 per cent of all rubbish, or garbage grinders. Persons who find these solutions impracticable will have to pay a charge to have their garbage picked up.

Gary Jewell's record setting 32 points paced Grosse Pointe Presbyterian's 54-31 victory over St. Paul. During the second and fourth quarters, Jewell's jump shot was especially effective. Presbyterian totaled 23 points in these quarters and Jewell got 22 of them! Steve Letcher was high for St. Paul

Our Lady Star of the Sea slipped by Grosse Pointe Methodist 31-29 in the other "A" Division contest. Their 23-6 half time lead seemed overwhelming, but Methodist valiantly fought back in the second half, outscoring Our Lady 25-8 to come within one bucket of a tie. Tony Nehra collected 14 points to win top honors for Our Lady, Getschman led Methodist with 7 points.

Breath-Taking Scores

This weeks "C" Division play was highlighted by such breathtaking scores as 8-6, 14-11 and 24-11. The 8-6 victory was posted by Grosse Pointe Congregational Church over Our Lady Star of the Sea.

Grosse Pointe Methodist eked by Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian's little giants to post the 14-11 score. Munson swished points for Methodist, while Holmes led Presbyterian with 5. Noble of Presbyterian won the honor of being the "hatchet" man by drawing five fouls.

Finally, Grosse Pointe Memorial followed in their big brothers' footsteps by more than doubling Christ Church 24-11. As Teacher at Kerby

John L. Carlson of the Kerby School staff has resigned his teaching position to accept a post with the Michigan Education Association. He assumed his new duties as field representative for the teachers' professional organization earlier this week.

A graduate of Wayne State University, Mr. Carlson joined the Grosse Pointe school system in 1955. His assignment included the instruction of 5th and 6th grade pupils and that of school librarian at Kerby. 4 He will be succeeded in these capacities by Gene Kohut, a newly employed teacher. Mr. Kohut formerly taught in the Detroit Public Schools.

Mr. Carlson served the past year as president of the Grosse Pointe Education Association 0 which is affiliated with the M.E.A. He has also been active 12 in other professional and civic affairs including those of the Grosse Pointe Methodist Church where he teaches Sun day school.

Cub Pack 290

Cub Scout Pack 290 (Mason School P.T.A.) held its monthly

In Indian ceremony, Cubmaster Robert McKenna initiated Gary Bennett into the pack and Gary's father pinned his Bobcat Pin on his uniform. Peter Mason of Den 8 carned his Lion Badge. Tom McBrien and Drew Quint of Den 9 were presented Bear Badges.

The monthly awards for inspection and attendance were earned by Den 1 (den mother, Mrs. Caroline Gibson) and Den 7 (den mother, Mrs. Joan De-Backer) respectively. Den 7 also won the Yell Award. Den 2 (den mother, Mrs. Elaine Cantle) was awarded the Gold Cup for presenting a lively dance and song routine on the theme for the month-South American Countries.

Pack 290 held an ice skating party at the Grosse Pointe Woods Lake Front Park on Sunday afternoon, January 29.

The outing during the month of February will be a tobogganing party on Sunday afternoon, February 19. Arangements have been made for ample tobaggans. The time and place will be announced at the Blue and Gold Banquet, For a wonderful afternoon of family fun, plan on keeping this date

GOP Uncovers Election Frauds

The Republican State Cento the State Elections Division the names of 414 people from only 6 precincts in one ward of Detroit who do not live at the address from which they voted in 1960, Republican State Chairman Lawrence B. Lindemer disclosed last week.

"There were 136 such instances in only one precinct,' Lindemer said "We do not have the facilities, the staff and the money to check each precinct, but there is a possibility that more than 80,000 people in Detroit voted from addresses where they do not live, if the facts we uncovered extended throughout the city.

"This certainly calls for cerective action and legislation to guarantee the purity of Michigan elections. Our system of voter registration and super-vision over the voting booths must be tightened up. While in many instances carelessness may be involved, I don't think the mass of what we have uncovered can be explained away as simple carelessness."

Lindemer said that each incident reported was investigated and affidavits obtained in regard to the true situation.

These are some of the notations made with respect to the voter and the address from which he voted:

"Property is boarded up and vacant for more than two

"Moved away over four years "Individual tenants vacated this property two years ago and the premises are presently operated as a hospital."

"The building at the above number has been torn down." "The premises are vacant." "Parking lot."

"Moved over eight years ago." "There is no such number." "Bricklayers Union Hall." "The address is the Elks Lodge and there are no tenants in the premises." Liademer said that an affidavit regarding one person who voted in the primary election crest road, is general chairman last August said, "Deceased one year." In 26 instances, additional information is being furnished the Director of Elections with the request for further investigation to determine whether the individual is voting from more than one address.

"We are providing the alternate precinct and ward number as the result of our investigation so that the authorities can determine whether the individual voted from more than one address," Lindemer said.

"Authorities inform us that notices have been sent to the voters involved and unless they can establish their rights to be registered at some other dress they will be removed from the rolls but this is locking the barn door after the horse was been stolen," Lindemer added. 'We want to safeguard the public interest against repetition of this situation in the future."

Seal Sale Fund Short of Quota

Detroit and Wayne County residents today were urged to send in a late Christmas Seal contribution to help make enough money available for this year's fight against tubercu

Detroit Postmaster Edward L Bkaer, chairman of the 1960 Christmas Seal Campaign, revealed that $50,000 was needed to equal last year's funds.

"Mail your contribution in your Christmas Seal envelope or if you do not have it send your gift to the TB and Health Society, 153 East Elizabeth, Detroit 1," Baker said.

'Tuberculosis does not wait until we have enough money to work on its program. T3 is infectious. It can spread rapidly if we are not continually alert to its dangers. If we must cut back the program of the TB and Health Society and the Detroit Tuberculosis Sanatorium it is possible that we might see an increase in the number of new eases this year," he pointed out. Case finding through free tuberculin tests for children and chest X-ray for adults is part of the program supported through Christmas Seal funds. Cut backs in funds might also result in less aid being available to TB patients and a reduction in preventative services to adults and children. Mr. Baker pointed out that 8,000 fewer people have sent in contributions to the present campaign than responded last

Meet Your Candidates

Someone at a gathering we'attended the other evening, brought up the subject of the approaching local elections. The discussion hadn't gotten to first base when one sage stopped things cold by interjecting:—"I'll bet that 90 out of every 100 who live in the Pointe can't name three of the councilmen in their own municipality." Of course he was right, sad though the truth may be.

Another of the guests, who had served his city as as councilman for a number of terms before deciding he had done his bit, pricked up his ears at the conversation and had his own contribution to make. "Being a councilman in Grosse Pointe is the most thankless job in the world. No one knows you until they have a gripe or want some special service. They have to check with the municipal offices to find out who to call. Then, when they get you, there is no thought of thanks for all the hours devoted to making things work smoothly. Everyone connected with the local government is a louse and legal target for vilification. It is pretty discouraging."

What is true in the Pointe is doubtless true of hundreds and thousands of cities, large and small. It is a situation which must be deplored, and about which something should be done. For those of the large segment who ought to be somewhat ashamed of their ignorance about their local officials, something can be done, (at least as far as Park and Farms residents are concerned)), in the immediate future.

The League of Women Voters of Grosse Pointe, with the help of the War Memorial Association, is once again sponsoring a rally of candidates for office, to be held at the Center next Monday evening, February 13. All of the candidates for office in the spring election in these two cities have been invited to be present. All of those who hope to be elected and given the opportunity to perform real services for their municipality are naturally hopeful that a large audience will be present to hear their views.

The right to vote is one of our greatest privileges, but it is a right that also carries the responsibility of casting our ballots intelligently. This is a chance for eligible voters of the Park and Farms to meet their candidates and hear what they have to say. Gratitude should be expressed to the League of Women Voters for arranging this rally and for all the other services it has performed in gathering information and providing opportunity for the local electorate to know the candidates and vote intelligently.

So many are running for office in both the Park and Farms that it is necessary to hold primary elections on February 20 to narrow down the field in both cities. The electorate will have a chance to form its own opinion at the War Memorial Center next Monday eve- *2:30 to 3:30 p.m.—DetroitAdventure—Conversation in SNOW, CLOGGED STREETS, and biting cold does not halt the fine displays and new things arriving at the shops on the hill, to remind us that Spring is almost here.

AND SPEAKING OF SNOW, isn't it wonderful the way Grosse Pointe Farms cleans the snow out of the gutters right after a snow fall?

NOW IN THE UNITED STATES, for a limited time only, Christian Dior, is offering his "Miss Dior" Eau de Cologne in two ounce bottles for just two dollars and a half. It's a regular four dollar value. Of course, Trail Pharmacy, at number 121 Kercheval, is the headquarters here.

LOOK AT THESE in The League Shop window . . . Italian Alabaster Hearts as paper weights in white, pink, turquoise, and coral, tagged three dollars. Heart shaped picture frames . . . gilted . .. for four dollars and nostalgic shadow boxes. More, too.

oOo SPANKING WINDS and zero temperatures won't chill your enthusiasm for the one hundred dollar edition of the "Vatican" . . . a handsome book bound in velvet. The detail of the pictures is astonishing. Published by Abrams, you'll find it on the hill.

"LILAC HEDGES" are those famous valentine greetings that speak of love. Notable poets, like Elizabeth Barrett Browning and Christopher Marlowe are represented. One we liked especially, read:

Tell me, dearest, what is love? 'Tis a lightening from above;

'Tis an arrow, 'tis a fire, 'Tis a boy they call desire. The valentine cards we're extolling come from the Dants, on the hill. EARLY EDITIONS OF spring clothes for pre-teens are showing at Young Clothes, 110 Kercheval. Twopiece matching skirt and blouse costumes in Spring hues . . . lilac, pink, blue, aqua, mint and yellow are designed by Glen of Michigan. Sudsable? Definitely.

oOo THERE'S SOMETHING EXCITING about electric toothbrushes. They represent the most advanced concepts in dental hygiene. Trail Pharmacy is featuring the very new Squibb's automatic electric tooth brushes. Extra brushes for each member of the family is available.

Grosse Pointe News

From Another Pointe of View

By Patricia Talbot

There is no doubt about it a social pall comes over the Pointe in February. Residents either are out of town every week-end skiing or gone more permanently where the sun shines, to stay till spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Miles McKee, of Pemberton road, won't share the usual gloom. They have just returned from a wonderful trip abroad. They left the day after Christmas with daughter, Susan, who is a student at NICKIE. The whole party will Northwestern, and son, Miles, who is at GPHS, for be there until Easter. Vienna, Florence and Rome.

Sue and Miles had to come back early to attend classes but their parents stayed on for a week in Paris and then flew to the West Indies for some island hop-

The Joseph S. Sherers, Jr., will sample the sun in two choice Southern resorts. They have taken a Delray apartment with the Charles Thorne Murphys and after a spell in Florida will move to Sea Island, Ga., to be the guests of the Carsten Tiedemans, who are wintering in their home there as they have for many seasons.

Currently on a quick trip to Palm Beach are Dr. and Mrs. Charles Merkel and en route home from Las Vegas and San Francisco are Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Ewald, Jr. The Charles LeB. Homers will be off in mid-month for Eleuthera island in the Caribbean and the George N. Monros III have a mid-month date with Florida.

Goodbye to Bridge Partners

When bridge clubs break up there is always a wrench until a new fourth is found. In the case of Mrs. Edward Schultz her partners are mourning her loss for in a few weeks she will be leaving for a new home in Chicago with Mr. Schultz.

To bid goodbye to the pair the bridge club players and their husbands are having a party at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club this Saturday evening.

Gathering to say goodbye to the Schultzes will be the John Brennans, the Albert Gostows, the Albert Labuhns, the Dolph Lozelles, the John McNamaras, the Edward Quinns and the Glenn Walkers.

Skiing East or West

Last week the Daniel D. Jacksons, of Rye, N. Y., were in town to visit her parents, the John W. Strohs, of MR. and MRS. HAROLD of Lewiston road, and catch up a host of family reunions. MEECH of Hawthorne road, Later this month the Jacksons will meet her brother was cast in a dramatic role for and sister-in-law, the junior Strohs, for a skiing weekend. The slopes are undecided with Mt. Tremblant in the east or Aspen in the west.

Bennington Preview

Mrs. Pierce Smith, of Pemberton road, will open her home on February 17 for a tea sponsored by the Bennington College Alumnae Association of Detroit.

Jane Vance, a senior at the Vermont college for women, will speak about campus life and the college's distinctive features.

Co-hostesses for the tea are Mrs. Davison Pierson, Mrs. Albert M. Mackey and Mrs. J. Warren Johnson. Guests will be interested students from GPHS, boulevard. GPUS, Liggett and Ann Arbor schools.

GPYC Toasts New Commodore at Ball

John R. Wilt and Mrs. Wilt Receive Honors at Club Gala Saturday Evening: Reception, Grand March and Flag Presentation On Agenda

Grosse Pointe Yacht Club's 1961 commodore, John R. Wilt, and the club's first lady, Mrs. Wilt, were honored in a most delightful way by members and guests at the Commodore's Ball staged last Saturday, February 4.

Not only did formal dress a really sumptuous scene, but the atmosphere fairly sparkled with a feeling of cameraderie and fun.

Ballgowns were stunningfully half of the distall side chose floor-length gowns for the great occasion, GPYC commodores and past commodores, and visiting commodores from other clubs were all in dress blues, while other masculine dress was divided between white and black tie.

Richard Maltby and his 14piece orchestra from New York was on the band stand to play for the grand march, the introduction ceremony and for dancing, both during dinner and the later evening.

There was the formal reception in the rotunda at 7:30 o'clock. In the receiving line with Como. and Mrs. Wilt were Vice Como. and Mrs. Paul I. Moreland and Rear Como. and Mrs. J. Earl Fraser, standing against a background of flowerstudded greens flanked at each colors, red, white and blue

Mrs. Wilt's ballgown was of pastel pink peau de soie, the bell-shaped skirt embroidered cluding the William A. Mayberwith crystal beads and tiny silver sequins. The low round neckline featured an off-shoulder treatment of bow bands.

Mrs. Moreland wore an Anne Verdi dress of turquoise peau de soie, the V-neckline to the the Lawrence Frears. shoulders in portrait effect, and the wide arched skirt having a soft drapery.

Mrs. Fraser's long ballgown, a Harvey Berin design of white satin was striking with its twotiered bell skirt, each tier having a deep appliqued band, at the hem, of huge roses in pink and red tones. Her fitted bodice had tiny shoulder straps.

So many handsome "guys and dolls" were there - the Ed Schoenherrs, she so stunning in floor-sweeping gown of slate blue peau de soie, elegant in its simplicity. Another pair were the William M. Schmidts, she a picture in hyacinth blue silk brocade with wide arched skirt touching the floor, her

Pre-Valentine Hop At Center

Teen-age young ladies in Grosse Pointe should all have their calenders circled in red around the date February 11 which is this Saturday night. On this evening the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Youth Council is sponsoring a Girl's Invitational Record Hop with all students in grades 9 through 12 of the Pointe's public, private and parochial high schools and junior high schools invited. The affair is for couples only Chuck Dougherty, disk jockey with radio station WQTE will be M.C. for the dance, play the top tunes currently popular for dancing, give away records, and present as live entertainment several of the artists featured on the records.

While the girls have the privilege of inviting to this party, the boys are doing the work. Steve Selander is chairman of the affair assisted by Ed Herman and Paul Trigg. Ross Kogel is inviting the chaperones and the only thing the girls are taking care of (because they don't trust the boys to do it), is decorations, which is in the capable hands of Jessica Markley.

The theme of the dance is "Heart-beat." It is being publicized at the High School by Youth Council President Don Owens, at the University School by Sue Daume, at Pierce by Don Law, at St. Paul's by Art Schneider, at Parcell's by Nancy Gould, at Brownell by Chuck Nicholl and at Austin by Jim

Offer Lectures On Antiques

If you've ever thought you'd like to furnish your homes with tell the "Immigration Story" to American antiques and create a proper background for them, the Henry Ford Museum's Ninth Annual Antiques Lecture Series will help you.

The number of homemakers interested in doing this has mounted steadily in recent years, reflecting the increased appreciation of the use of antiques or reproductions in home decoration. The current Henry Ford Mu.

seum Antiques Lecture Series is designed specifically to show how antiques may be used and enjoyed in the home.

Before the series ends in May, these topics will be covered: Backgrounds for antiques, divided into two lectures, the first dealing with walls, colors and floors and the second, fabrics, upholstery and rugs; setting your table with antiques; decorating with antique reproductions and finally, flower ar rangements and gardens.

All are attuned to the 1961 series theme, "Living with An-

Left-handed folks don't have to "make do" with right-handed shears. Bernetta Kahabka, clothing specialist at Michigan State University, says manufacturers design special shears for left-handed use, and even "reverse" pinking shears can be found. This could be a gift suggestion for a left-handed friend who likes to sew.

The man who wishes to lead a perfect life should follow the advice he gives to others.

Shrine Circus

"More Fun in '61" is this car's slogan for the annual Shrine Circus which opened at the State Fair Coliseum on January 30, and continues through February 12. There will be 28 performances in all: two Mondays through Fridays at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.; three on Saturday at 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 8 p.m., and two on Sundays at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Preceding every performance of the big show there is an elaborate "Fairyland Fantasy" spectacular with numerous surprises. Sensational stars from everywhere, both trapeze and aerial daredevils and three-ring performers, comprise the huge cast including the Dior Sisters, Rolling Globe Duo; Les Hildalys, aerial duo; George Hanneford Family, comedy riding act; The Wallendas, 20 deathdefying aerialists; Flying Zacchinis; Gene Mendez, high wire act; Nerveless Nocks, fearless swaypole performers; Chet Juszyk and trained lions; Princess Ranjana, aerialist; Eight Wassans Arabian tumblers; Albert Rix Bears; Five Amandis; teeterboard favorites; Riksos Duo aerial ladder balancers; Antonucci's and Helen Haag's Chimps; White Horse Troupe; Joe Hodgini's Dogs; Baudy's Greyhounds and monkeys; Robert's Leopards; Miss Elizabeth aerial breakaway; Rene Rousseau, flying act; The Ten Dodos, acrobatic act; Mills Brothers Elephants; Michele and Michael, aerialist; Les Orioles, aerial duo; Kitten and Gabby Wendt, high act, and others. Animals are plentiful including lions, tigers, leopards, bears, horses, elephants, chimps and dogs.

A small army of clowns, headed by the one and only Emmett Kelly, are on hand. Reserved seats are now on sale at the Shrine Club, Masonic Temple. Box office is open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Phone reservations may be made by calling TEmple 1-0131. Mail orders will be accepted and filled in the order received.

when the POINTE was growing up...

By Patricia Talbot

Edward Askin Skae lives with history. He collects vintage automobiles, does not scorn to ride them through the Kercheval shopping centers on Saturday afternoon, dressed for the part in duster and goggles. He lives on property once owned by Pointe pioneer, George Van Ness Lothrop, minister to the Russian Czar's court, and through his mother traces his Detroit heritage to the 1700's for he is a great great grandson of John Askin, friend to Commodore Grant and Elijah Brush.

His grand parents, Edward E. Skae and Margaret E. Askin were both born on the Canadian side of the Detroit river but his father arrived in Detroit soon after his graduation from the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont.

He became a clerk in the office of a coal and coke dealer that same summer, 1890. He rose rapidly to become treasurer of the company, then formed his own company, finally going into the manufacture of automobile parts. Three years before this venture, in 1904, he married Florence Hammond, and the couple had four children, Edward Askin, Ellen, Janet and Florence.

Mr. Skae died in 1912 as the result of an automobile accident when he was 41 years of age. His widow went to live on her father's estate in Bloomfield.

Edward Askin Skae bought the Lothrop property in the 1940's from the estate. The house had been standing on the land since 1850 when the Lothrops first built it as a summer cottage. Mr. Skae's wife is the former Jean Derrick, whose father, Robert Derrick is the architect who designed the Punch and Judy Theater, which opened in January 29, 1930, a stellar first night for the Pointe's first families.

Mr. Derrick created the design of the theater from a group of actual buildings in England, all built in the Georgian style of the eighteenth century. He also designed the Georgian home of the Wendell Andersons, Shop, can check, price and take built for one of the heirs of Hiram Walker in 1929. The Walkers only lived in the mansion for about three months. It was sold to the Andersons some years later.

Another monument to Mr. Derrick is Richard School, which opened about the same time as the theater. He also designed the Jennings Hospital. Mr. Derrick and his wife, the former Clara Hodges live in Lincoln road. Their other two children live in St. Louis, Mo.

To the millions who read him and laugh, Art Buchwald has become known as the American in Paris. Now he tells how to get a child's haif cut the easy way: only a single day's effort, and it costs no more than $10.50, not counting wear and tear.

A Merry Chase

Ilka, that is—actress, wit, writer, lecturer, and TV personality. She has already been around the world and is now writing a book about her travels, "The Carthaginian Rose," to be published next fall. We persuaded her to take time off to do the article in this issue, "If I Went Around The World Again," to make her valuable hindsight available to everyone planning (or daydreaming) a trip.

The Impudent Improvisors ... page 18

"Mike Nichols is not a member of the Actors Studio, which has produced such stars as Marlon Brando, Julie Harris, Eva Marie Saint . . . and others too numerous to mention. He has never toured with Mr. Roberts and has never appeared on such television programs as the Goodyear Playhouse and the Kraft Theatre.

"Miss May does not exist."

In spite of this succinct biographical sketch on the back of a recent best-selling disc, Mike Nichols and Elaine May are an incomparable pair of irreverent comedians currently quipping their way through their first show on Broadway, around the grooves of two hit records, and into the pages of SUBURBIA TODAY.

Artist's House

Cartoonist Milton Caniff lives in New City, New York, in one of the most unusual and attractive suburban homes we've seen anywhere. In a cluttered studio, surrounded by scores of precisely fashioned model airplanes (Caniff has been decorated twice by the Air Force), he draws the well-known Steve Canyon comic strip. Ceramist Henry Varnum Poor designed the house, drawing on his vast knowledge of craftmanship to make the rest of it as inspiring to creative activity as Caniff's second-floor studio.

Laura Jean Allen

No, it's not a mirage. Those happy people are all there, sunning, bathing, chatting, tanning, and having a glorious rest and a wonderful time. As our cover artist so brightly points out-it's winter-cruise season!

GETTING AROUND

... to Our Pleasant Places and People

WHATEVER ELSE you're cooking up for Valentine's Day, here is one recipe, still as good as it was 70 years ago, discovered by the Yankee Pedlar of Dover, Massachusetts, in an 1890 cookbook. It's called "How To Preserve A Husband," and the easy-to-follow directions read: "Be careful in your selection. Do not choose too young, nor too old. Some insist on keeping them in a pickle, while others keep them in hot water; this may make them sour, hard, and sometimes bitter. But even poor varieties may be made sweet, tender, and good by garnishing them with patience. Then sweeten well with smiles, and flavor with kisses to taste. Wrap them in a mantle of charity; keep warm with a steady fire of domestic devotion and serve with peaches and cream. When thus prepared, they will keep for years."

Sign in a Santa Monica, California, shop: "We Are Selling Dresses For Ridiculous Figures.'

Some "Texas" stories are all too true. On a highway being built near Grand Prairie, Texas, they've got a concrete mixer so big that a whole crew of construction workers has to work at top speed to keep even a couple of steps ahead of it. The more-than-three-stories-tall mixer lopes along, waiting for trucks to back up onto it and dump sand. Then concrete is casually mixed, using water from the machine's own supply, and poured onto the waiting roadbed-while the harried help hurries to keep up with its "Texas-sized" production.

Near Westgate, Florida, the Meridian Daylight Masonic Lodge holds its meetings at 4 A.M. (The Daylighters are night workers, in case you're wondering.)

When the student council of the Grayslake, Illinois, High School put on a "Bundle Days" drive for the Save The Children Federation, it also put up $25 for the class bringing in the most cast-off clothing. The prize was an added incentive for all. The satisfaction of helping others and the hope of helping themselves—a double character builder for these young people—is an approach to charity we'd like to recommend to other groups contemplating similar campaigns.

There's a motel on the Buford Highway near Dunwoody, Georgia, that is, so far as we know, the only one in the world that caters to its patrons' spiritual needs as well as providing them lodgings for the night. The owners of this motel have built a small chapel, right next to the motel units, in which their guests are welcome to hold services ... or just use for quiet meditation.

Now that Edith Cooke, of Jefferson County, Colorado, has been named Executive Secretary of the Colorado Licensed Beverage Association, may we, we hope, be the first to suggest that the title be changed to "Chief Cooke and Bottle Watcher"?

From an Oakwood, near Dayton, Ohio, source comes the following bit of good news: Instead of plunging candles into the icing of a birthday cake, try placing small marshmallows around the outside of the cake, on the plate itself, and use these as candleholders. They're an extra attraction, and the kids can eat all the ones that don't get dripped on.

A few years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Johnson, of Everett, Washington, gave their son Clay a Shetland pony. Clay, who must have been around six at the time, decided it was time to go into business, so he awkwardly lettered a sign, PONY RIDES, 10¢, and nailed it to the gatepost. Within half an hour, the first customer was at the door with 25¢ in his small hand. As time went on, Clay's younger sister came into the business, and they made enough money to buy a mare and begin breeding their ponies—half Shetland and half Arabian to accommodate a growing clientele. Now, at 14 and 12, they have 35 ponies and 15 acres of riding trails. They also sell ponies or rent them out for children's parties. Although Mr. Johnson, Sr. is advisor, the children do their own bookkeeping, take entire care of the stock, and have made enough money through this remarkable enterprise to see them through and well beyond their college years.

It's a comfort to know that Master Sergeant Elwood Miracle has been assigned as food technician in the Fort Monroe, Virginia, mess hall.

The happy citizens of Rockport, Missouri, don't have to pay any taxes this year. Mr. and Mrs. George Opp, owners of the Rockport Hotel, inailed a check to the town clerk, Mr. William Cocken, in the amount of $19,209.00, which covered the bill of all 582 taxpayers. The Opps did it because they "just wanted to help everybody."

With midyear report cards upon us, what about the Nyack, New York, scholar who was asked by his parents to give an accounting of how he'd done during the just-finished school term. "Just like George Washington," he mumbled. "How's that?" asked Mom. "Well," he told them as he stared at the floor, "I went down in history."

Mrs. Deane Armstrong writes from Laguna Beach, California, to tell us about her little grandson who, one day, was perched on a stool beside the card table watching a friendly game between his mommy and daddy. Daddy, losing monotonously, began to cheat, whereupon Mommy laughingly objected, messed up the cards, and called off the game. The young fellow looked at the cards for a while, then picking up as many as he could handle, he started dealing, saying proudly, "I'm Daddy. I cheat."

EDBURBIA TOBAY

Most bus drivers manage to be courteous, but one particular man was so helpful and considerate that a woman passenger could stand it no longer and asked, as they approached Summit, New Jersey, "How come you're so polite?" and the man replied, "I once read about a fellow whose politeness got him a lot of dough from a rich man's will. It made me think the same thing could happen to me, so I started treating passengers as if each one might be the fellow who'd leave me something some day. And do you know, it makes me feel so good that I don't care if I never get a cent!"

Classes for diabetics and their families are being held at the Oakland County, Michigan, health center. The classes are open to people who have written approval from their doctors and will cover diet, insulin technique, and personal hygiene.

Residents of Takoma Park, Wheaton, Kensington, Maryland, and environs can dial PO 2-5454 each day and listen to a short recording giving the latest in garden information.

Called "Tip-A-Phone," the service operates 24 hours a day, with the messages changing each day at noon. Sample messages: "Lawn Grubs," "Pruning Ornamentals and Shade Trees," "Boxwood Troubles and Their Care," and "Leaf Drop on Evergreen." On Monday mornings from 8 A.M. to 12 noon there's a five-day weather forecast.

Things get done a lot better when creatures work together, don't they? Witness the community project enacted by a group of quail during a heavy snowstorm, near Mission Hills, Kansas. During the height of the storm, five of the birds were seen huddled at the foot of a locust tree. Every once in a while, two would fly into the tree and knock seed pods down for the others, who pecked out the seeds on the snow. Then the positions were reversed and the "airlift" continued.

How we retired in 15 years with $300 a month

"We'd never be out here in California today, financially independent and happy, if it hadn't been for what happened back in Scarsdale the night of my fortieth birthday in 1945. Nell had got tickets for 'Oklahoma!' While she dressed that night, I was idly leafing through a magazine.

"I suppose any man feels serious when he hits forty. Someday Nell and I wanted to move out where it's summer all year and really enjoy life. But how could we? Ha!f my working years had gone. I had a good salary. But we found it hard to bank anything.

"As I turned the pages, an ad caught my eye. It said a man could retire on an income without a big bank account through the Phoenix Mutual Retirement Income Plan. I could get a guaranteed income of $300 a month when I reached fifty-five—not just for myself alone, but as long as either Nell or I lived. It sounded like the answer to my problem.

"I clipped the coupon in the ad, and mailed it on our way to the theater.

"Well, a while back, my fiftyfifth birthday arrived. I-was all set to retire, and it wasn't long before my first Phoenix Mutual check for $300 came. So we sold the Scarsdale house and headed west to begin the life we dreamed about. We're in a beautiful spot here, just right for us. And every month we get another check. Security? Why, we have more than lots of rich people. You see, our income is guaranteed for life!"

The Father's Duty

Who else has the strength to take a six-year-old to the barbershop?

BY ART BUCHWALD

"ALL RIGHT THEN, why don't you take him to get a haircut?"

The speaker was my wife. The statement was made after a long-drawn-out discussion that I made the mistake of starting by simply saying, "The kid needs a haircut."

The kid, it turns out, is six years old and he still can't tell the difference between barbers and doctors. They both wear white smocks and they both have thousands of torture instruments at their disposal. The first time the kid went to a barber he pulled down his pants and waited for the hypodermic needle.

Another time he went to the doctor's office and told the doctor he wanted his hair cut real short.

In either case, he refuses to give them his business. His mother showed me one of these women's magazines whose lead articles, written by "well-known child psychiatrists," are always trying to prove that, with the best of intentions, parents are driving their children into mental homes, manic-depressions, and child marriage.

This particular magazine pointed out that it was the father's duty to take the male child to the barber. Haircuts are tied up with masculinity, and when the mother takes the child to a barber and the child has a tantrum, he is really revolting against his mother and not the barber, or some jazz like that.

Anyway, there is no point in this modern world in arguing with a child psychiatrist, and I settled the discussion by agreeing to take the boy to the barber.

You would think he would have been overjoyed when he heard the news, but he would have none of it. Then I showed him the article but he did what I originally wanted to do. He tore the article out of the book and ripped it into shreds.

I had to use strong patental action. "If you go to the barber with me, I'll buy you a toy."

"What kind of toy?" he asked, realizing he was in a strong bargaining position.

"A big toy!" I shouted. "What kind of a slob do you think I am?"

"Will you buy Connie and Jennifer toys, also?" he asked, now bargaining for his younger sisters.

"Sure, why not? Then we'll stop by Cartier's and pick up a diamond bracelet for your mother, and then we'll go over and get a new Citroen for the nurse. There is no telling where we'll stop."

The next morning, bright and early, the two of us took off for the barber. He insisted on going to the same barber I always went to. My barber, for some reason I've never been able to figure out, only takes people on appointment. It's harder to get into his shop than it is to get into Yale, and it's almost as expensive.

When we walked in the barber was surprised to see us.

"You didn't make an appointment," he said.

"It's not for me; it's for my son."
The barber went white. "I don't go into the Algerian section at night, I don't drive over fifty miles an hour in a car, I don't start fights in cafés, and I don't cut children's hair."

I slipped him five hundred francs. "Make an exception. Who will ever know?"

"All the neighbors will know. The doctor who looks at the teeth-marks in my arm will know. The man who sits in this chair after the boy will know. Please take him somewhere else."

I slipped him another five hundred frames, "I've never asked you for anything before. I'll send you customers, I'll print your picture in the paper, I'll wash your car. Please."

"All right, but only this one time."

Before the barber could change his mind 1 grabbed the boy and stuck him in the chair. The minute the barber pulled out his scissors the boy let out a scream which brought three bus loads of Gardes Republicaines who thought the paratroopers had landed in Paris.

The boy fought as well as a paratrooper, and the barber couldn't get near his head.

"Perhaps," the barber said, "it you left he would calm down. Come back in a half-hour."

I grabbed a copy of La Vie Parisienne and went to a sidewalk café to look at the dirty pictures.

In a half-hour I returned. The barber was just finishing the job. The boy was smiling and seemed to be very happy.

"How did you tame him?"

"I have a way with children," the barber said.

I helped the boy on with his jacket, and then I went to pay the bill. It came to 2,100 francs ($5.00).

"Twenty-one hundred francs?"
I shouted. Three more Garde Republicaine trucks pulled up outside.
"For just a haircut?"

"For a haircut and a shampoo and eau de Cologne, and a massage, and hair oil."

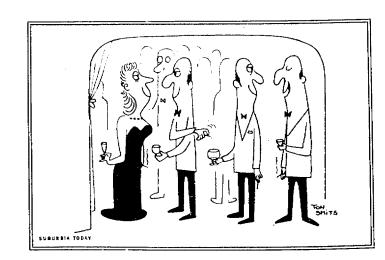

"Who told you to give him all that?"

"I asked him if he wanted them and he said he did. What could I do?"

I dragged the boy out of the shop and he led me to a toy shop. Then I had to buy him an orange juice. The haircut with the toys and extras cost me exactly $10.50. It's a point the child psychiatrists forgot to mention.

The other point is, at those prices, if there is archoice between the child or the father becoming a manic-depressive over haircuts I think the head of the family mus be spared.

27 WEEKS OF TIME FOR ONLY $197

NOW OF ALL TIMES—with policy moves of the new Administration in Washington vying for attention with clamor and controversy abroad—take advantage of this opportunity to start reading TIME for not much more than a penny a day.

At the outset of his term of office, President Kennedy will be making grave decisions—decisions that will affect your family and your future. Will atom tests be resumed? What about schools, and taxes? Will there be a summit conference—or a showdown on Berlin?

In other news capitals around the world, there is quickened pace and urgency in the news.

And nowhere is all the important news more clearly, accurately, vividly reported than in TIME. It explores the background and significance of events, builds insight and perspective on this rapidly changing world of 1961.

One magazine—TIME—and you know what's being voted and planned and painted and played and shot into the skies. And why, and by whom. In issue after issue, TIME brings you the news of treaties and agreements and international meetings, of conferences and politics and economics—told as straight and clear and true as experienced, knowledgeable newsmen can make it.

TIME also brings you the fascinating stories so easy to miss: intriguing items about people... fascinating breakthroughs in science... significant sidelights on business . . . amusing incidents that never break into the headlines.

Here is just a sample of recent stories, to give you an idea of TIME's broad scope:

- The stepped-up Red Chinese campaign in backward countries
- Little-known and A-1: top notch small colleges
- What are "non-books" and why are we reading more of them?
- Where do we stand now in the space race?
- Should we junk the electoral college? If not, why not?
- Teaching-machines: a new kind of door-to-door product
- The depressed-area problem: one way to lick it
- What you can learn from the Mutual Funds experts
- Is there new progress in the war on cancer and heart disease?
- How goes the struggle for power in the Congo?
- Why are medical costs up and medical care down?
- Genius neglected in our schools: how can we save it?
- Are we ready to abolish capital punishment?

So now—with so many great events making history in so many far-flung places—you owe it to yourself to start reading TIME every week. TIME is concise without sacrificing literary grace. It is inclusive without being dull. That's why TIME stands out in influence and esteem. That's why you should be reading it regularly.

THIS INTRODUCTORY RATE

will bring you TIME for less than 8c a week! It saves you $1.66 under the regular subscription rate, $4.78 under the newsstand price. Take advantage of this opportunity to try TIME for 27 weeks, and we think you'll never be without it again!

If I Went Around The

The famous wit and author hits the high spots ... with names and addresses

BY ILKA CHASE author of "Three Men On The Left Hand," "Free Admission"

In contemplating a trip around the world the first problem that usually arises is which way shall we go, east or west? Either way the distance will be the same, so what are the factors to be taken into consideration in coming to a decision?

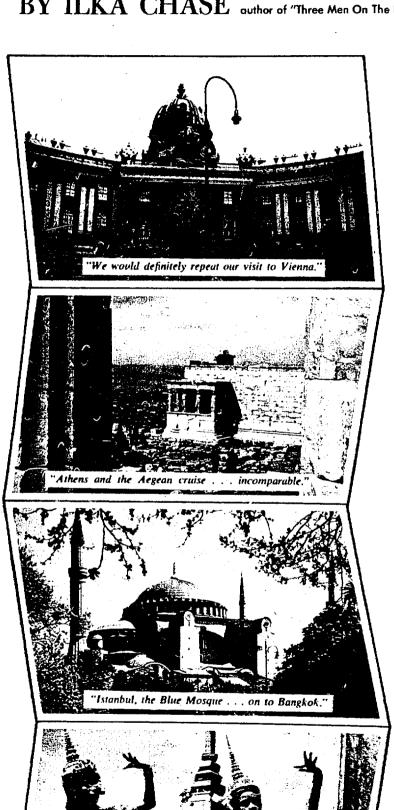

My husband and I pondered the problem and ended up by heading east. Western Europe we know relatively well, and we reasoned that coming back to it from the more exotic and unknown lands of the Orient might perhaps be something of an anticlimax, whereas going the other way, our interest and expectation could only keep mounting. And if we went again, east is the way we'd go.

After a three-day stopover in Paris we flew to Vienna, which for us was unexplored territory. It is a delightful city and should you be planning to go there in June, there is one major suggestion I would make. Try to reserve tickets for the opera through your travel agency in this country long before you leave. June is festival season and true aficionados book places a year and two years in advance, so that if you arrive without them you stand a dandy chance of not getting in. For one who prides herself on being something of a sophisticated world traveler, it is humiliating to admit that my husband, the good doctor, and I were like hungry waifs pressing our noses against the pastry cook's window.

We had to stand in the street watching music lovers who knew the ropes, and had squirreled away their tickets in advance, filing serenely in while we remained without, seatless and unsung.

FORTUNATELY, that is the only department in which we did go hungry. If you are hungry in Vienna you are either sorrowfully poor or on a dict. Not only are there extremely good restaurants—the food at the Drei Hussaren, the Imperial Hotel, and the less swank but highly satisfying Deutsches Haus is excellent—but there are coffee shops guaranteed to satisfy the soul and bulge the waistline.

I recommend Demels on the Kohlmarkt and the Konditorei Lehmann. Their restoratives will perk up the most jaded sight-seer—Kaffee mit Schlag, that cloud of sweet whipped cream and little cakes and tiny roll sandwiches and wild strawberry tarts. There is also, of course, Austrian beer.

Fantastic Bungkok, a highlight of the trip.

You must try Gosser, it's the top.

We would definitely repeat our visit to Schönbrunn, the superb white and gold palace where Maria Theresa and her sixteen children lived and where, one assumes, Pa was allowed to shelter, too. And we would reserve at least two mornings for the Kunsthistorisches Museum, one of the great treasure houses of the world. It has an enormous gallery full of Brueghels, and there are Cranachs and Rembrandts and the great Vermeer, The Artist In His Atelier, his back to the viewer, painting the girl in blue. There are Rubens, Frans Hals, Memling, and the giants from the south—Titian, Tintoretto, and Veronese. Go.

The Redoutensaal is another delight. This elegant concert hall in the Imperial Palace was once a ballroom and today is devoted exclusively to the music and operas of Mozart.

A musical experience we would not repeat, on the other hand, is the Volksoper. We saw Wiener Blut by Johann Strauss. In our naïeveté we thought we couldn't go wrong on Strauss. Live and learn. It was a shoddy, ham, inept performance.

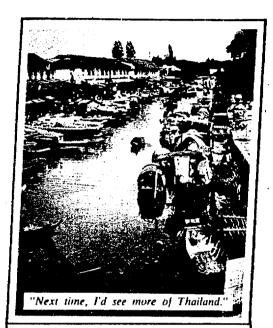

Not to be Missed is the Spanische Reitschule, the Riding School that was founded in 1565, where the beautiful white stallions called Lipizzaner perform on Sunday. This is a haute école of equestrianism, dressage riding, in which the horses and their centaur riders go through a kind of ballet of gaits and patterns accompanied by music. It is a beautiful spectacle and takes place in an enormous oblong three-storied white and gold hall illuminated by superb crystal chandeliers.

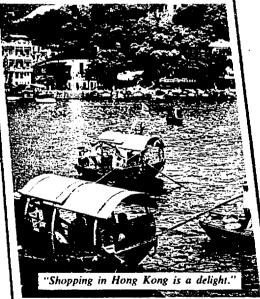

From Vienna, we flew to Athens and will surely take that route again. Athens, I think, can never be a disappointment.

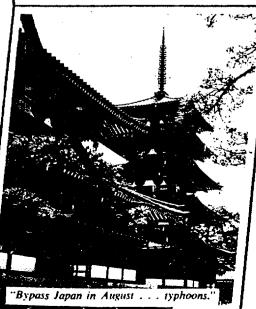

The Acropolis still rates as one of the incomparable sights of the world, and after thousands of pictures and millions of words, seeing it for the first time, one is still left speechless by the serene, enduring splendor of the ruined Parthenon and the other superbly proportioned temples of the height. The honey-colored columns embrace the deep blue sky, and to stand looking out over the city and the Attic plain is a moving and unique experience. Athens has its temples, museums, and tavernas, the small restaurants that are counterparts of the bistros of

World Again

... from old Vienna to the working elephants of Chiengmai

Paris, and where the food is excellent. But the great treat of Greece is a cruise of the islands of the Aegean. Small but comfortable steamers make the trip which lasts five days and takes you to Crete, Rhodes, Kos, Patmos, and Mykonos. It is a delicious, unforgettable adventure. You go sight-seeing on all the islands, live on the boat, and depending on your accommodations, the price, including food for the entire trip, ranges from $75 to $150. You will never get greater reward for your money.

It is something I hope to do not only once again but often.

Our stop after Athens was Istanbul, and from there we made the long hop to Bangkok, which proved one of the highlights of the trip with its fantastic temples and demons. The Oriental Hotel is the most picturesque, located on the banks of the wide, winding Chao Phya River. It is comfortable, colorful, and air-conditioned, but the Hotel Erewan, although more commercial, has better food. There is an excellent restaurant serving Thai, Chinese, and European food, called the Palms.

There is a city in the north of Thailand called Chiengmai. It is in the jungle and is the place where the elephants work. If I ever get to that part of the world again I shall certainly make time to visit it, for I love the great beasts, and they say it's a fine sight to see them going about their chores with intelligence and ability.

TROM BANGKOK, an enormously reward-Fing side trip is to the vast jungle temples of Ankor Wat and Ankor Thom. Their towers are carved in the form of gigantic human heads, and the bas-relief carvings on the wall are marvelously entertaining as well as beautiful. The temples are located in the jungle in Siemreap in Cambodia, and you can fly there from Bangkok in about an hour. The hotel where you stay is almost hilariously bad, but it won't kill you for a night or two, and the great wats, built by the Khmers in the 12th century and rediscovered only in the last, are well worth the discomfort.

If we were retracing our steps I think we would skip Djakarta in Indonesia. It is beautiful country, and if one wants to go to Bali as we did you perforce go to Djakarta, but at the present time the political situation is uncertain, the accommodations awful, Suddenly, you're a gondolier!

Well, you almost are! But that's what being in Italy feels like. Whether you're coffee-ing on the Via Veneto in Rome, ambling through the handkerchief-size piazza on Capri, or gliding down a Venetian canal...you're part of the gay life around you. Italy is yours, as it were.

Yours, too, will be the pleasure of jetting there aboard BOAC. The "life" aboard a BOAC jetliner is beyond compare. Take the service, for instance. It's called the best in the world...all over the world. Justifiably you'll agree.

About the price. It's really a trifle considering the fun you'll have. The 17-day Excursion Fare is in effect now, so you'll pay as little as $350 Economy Class round-trip New York to London by jet; $484.30 to Rome. Even less on the jet-prop Britannia.

So, why not suddenly feel like a gondolier...or a bagpiper...or a matador. It's "easy as BOAC" to jet to the proper surroundings. And your Travel Agent makes it even easier. Ask him.

Wonderful Travel Clothes-Wonderful Anywhere

Wanted on voyage: fresh colors, tireless materials, easygoing glamour, a preview of fashions for spring

BY ALLYN RICE

■ You could go far with the five outfits shown on this page—to the Costa Brava in mimosa time, to fabulous Brasilia or the jungles of Trinidad—or you could sit quietly at home, all ready for spring. Here is the new, bright suit that is going to be high fashion come Easter. And the beautiful, simple light coat to wear everywhere. And the romantic cocktail-dinner dress that folds flat as a pillowcase. Travel clothes they are, every one of them, and also the best of spring fashion because the look of fashion today is the purposeful, exciting "plain-clothes" look of being ready for a wonderful trip.

A little visit with the impolite darlings

"Don't you love to lie? I don't think there's anything better than making up stories. Ask me anything," said Miss Elaine May, the morning we met her.

"The only thing I worship is the truth," said Mr. Mike Nichols, with a sober, serious, sincere glauce at his partner.

The pair were "on," which in the folk dictionary of The Beat means "to perform, to act, to make believe... whether it is on the stage or in a large group or simply making small talk with a friend or acquaintance."

They are "on" in their show, "An Evening With Mike Nichols and Elaine May" (one of the year's smash hits on Broadway); in their television appearances; in their night-club stints, and in the many stories about them that appear everywhere these days. It is rumored that they perform 24 hours a day, never use a writer but make up their material as they go along. They are reportedly the most talented, funny, and quick exponents of devastating ad lib satire in show business today.

After spending a few minutes with them, we were ready to tell the world that all these stories were true. By the time it was over, we couldn't even tell you our own name and doubt whether that really mattered, because we'd had a wonderful time.

Armed with a raft of serious questions, we had come to get the real story, The Truth (not like the interviewer who once asked Miss May her measurements. She replied 24-35-1271/2).

The facts that were reasonably reliable were that Mike had been born in Berlin on November 6, 1931, the son of a Jewish physician and grandson of Gustav Landauer, a Social-Democratic leader who had been killed by the Nazis. His family came to the U.S. in the late '30s, where Mike went to a number of schools, worked at everything—dishwashing, waiting on tables, day labor—and ended up at the University of Chicago, where he met Elaine in 1953.

Elaine was born in Philadelphia on April 21, 1932, the daughter of actor Jack Berlin. She spent her childhood in and out of many schools-none of which she likedand traveling about the country with her family. At fourteen, her formal education ended, and she went to work. She took acting lessons from Maria Ouspenskaya, who taught the Stanislawski method. Elaine remembers that the hardest thing to learn was how to be an apple-and ripen. Everybody else in the class could ripen, but she just stood there and could not feel the sun or the juices flowing or the color changing. She claims that it is her major frustration. Everyone else ripened and fell off the tree but she.

She also went, informally, to the University of Chicago—not as a matriculated student, but she did sit in on some classes, where, one fine day, she was introduced to Mike.

Separately, they were just talented, witty people. Together, they discovered, they had the ability to do anything and make audiences react to it. They began working together, first in Chicago with the Playwrights Theatre, then with the Compass, a group that did improvisations in St. Louis clubs.

They came to New York two years ago, flat broke, in the traditional showbiz pattern, but had arranged to audition for agent Jack Rollins at the Russian Tea Room. He was so impressed he booked them into the Village Vanguard. From there they moved to the Blue Angel, and the rest is history, with chapters on night clubs, hit records, Town Hall, TV, and the theatre.

Now, WE THOUGHT, the day we sat down with them for a quiet chat, we will find out a lot more . . . but they were having none of it. This is how it went:

We: Do you own a car?

Elaine: Several. I have a maroon Rolls Royce with puce upholstery. I use it for marketing. I have a Porsche for pleasure. I like my chauffeurs in white uniforms with a maroon accent to lend them a touch of color. Occasionally, I like a mustard uniform with warm green accents as a contrast.

Mike: I used to drive but no longer own a car.

We: Do you own a fur coat?

Elaine: I have seven fur coats—an ocelot, two beavers, two chinchillas . . .

We: Two chinchillas?

Elaine: Yes. It was raining one day, and I wanted to have something to throw over my mink. I have only one mink. I feel that mink is gauche. And, oh yes, I have one coat made entirely of unborn hamster pelts.

Mike: Yesterday I tore the lining in the knee of my pants.

We: What is your apartment like?

Elaine: My home is done in lipstick red. Everything is lipstick red, including the furniture, the walls, the linens, and towels.

Mike: My apartment is white, beige, and wood.

We: Elaine, we read somewhere that you have an organ in your home. Do you play?

Elaine: Actually, I don't, but my maid is a brilliant organist. She originally planned a career on the concert stage, but the training was too costly, so she quit Juilliard and went to work. She plays Bach and some of Handel. We do not allow her to play until the house is clean.

We: Do you have any hobbies?

Elaine: I like to fish.

Mike: I do not believe in planning ahead. We: Mike, do you still have that St. Bernard we've heard so much about?

Mike: No, Maggie is now living quietly in the suburbs, in New Jersey, with two or three children and other large dogs.

We: Is there any truth to the story that you write in your spare time, Elaine? We hear that you want to be a writer.

Elaine: Yes, I have written Memoirs of a Dutiful Daughter, The Assistant, and The Red and the Black.

We: Did it take you a long time to write The Red and the Black?

Elaine: No, I wrote it quickly, and then I left it pretty much alone for six or eight months. It needed no revisions.

We: Do you have a clothing philosophy? Elaine: I do not believe in sport clothes. I dress very formally. I have clothes made for every conceivable occasion by Enrico Caruso. When my maid plays the organ, I like to wear a simple at-home outfit in lipstick red.

We: Are you planning any new skits about the suburbs?

Elaine: There is nothing new to say about the suburbs. To do scenes on the suburbs is like doing scenes on Madison Avenue. They have been mauled and worked over enough already.

We: Do people recognize you on the street now?

Elaine: No.

Mike: No.

We: Do you get much fan mail? Elaine: Mostly about Michael.

Mike: Elaine does not use a typewriter. She is one of the last believers in the personal

We: Thank you very much Elaine.

Elaine: Hasn't this been a wonderful, productive interview?

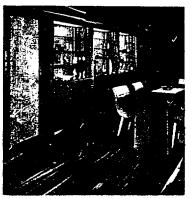

We (dizzy): Thank you very much, Mike.

Mike: Isn't the truth dull?

In casserole: Follow basic recipe, using Heinz Tomato Soup, peas, tuna fish, Minute Rice. Garnish with sliced stuffed green olives. Next time you make it, try a different vegetable, a different fish—you've a different dish!

In skillet: Follow basic recipe, using Heinz Cream of Chicken Soup, Lima beans, ham, Minute Rice. Garnish with small wedges of Cheddar cheese. Suggestion: try this one with Heinz Cream of Mushroom Soup sometime. You'll like it!

In skillet: Follow basic recipe, using Heinz Tomato Soup, succotash, meat balls, Minute Rice. For a delightful variation, try this with Heinz Cream of Chicken Soup—in either casserole or skillet. Easy? Twenty minutes does it.

Pour-On: Follow basic recipe, using Heinz Cream of Mushroom Soup, peas, canned salmon. Pour in center of Minute Rice ring. No matter what Heinz Condensed Soup, meat, fish or vegetable you use—it's perfect every time.

tempting 20-minute meals (plus many more)

Basic recipe for 4... Combine 1 can Heinz Condensed Soup (undiluted), 134 cups hot water, 1 cup cooked vegetables, 1 cup of cooked or canned meat, poultry or sea food. Add Minute Rice according to cooking method. Cook in any of these 3 ways...

SKILLET... Add 11/3 cups Minute Rice (right out of the box without cooking) to soup mixture, bring to a boil and simmer 5 minutes.

CASSEROLE... Bring soup mixture to a boil and pour half into a 1½-quart casserole. Add 1½ cups Minute Rice (right out of the box without cooking). Then add remaining soup. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) for 10 minutes. POUR-ON... Prepare 1½ cups Minute Rice as directed on box. Prepare the soup mixture, reducing water to ½ cup. Bring to a boil and pour over rice.

In casserole: Follow basic recipe, using Heinz Cream of Mushroom Soup, cut green beans, corned beef, Minute Rice. Garnish with French fried onion rings. Just as delicious using any of the 3 cooking methods—different every time.

Pour-On: Follow basic recipe, using Heinz Tomato Soup, mixed vegetables, sliced frankfurters. Pour over fluffy Minute Rice, à la king. Vary this by substituting canned corn and ham. Beats leafing through a cookbook!

In casserole: Follow basic recipe, using Heinz Cream of Chicken Soup, asparagus tips, chicken, Minute Rice. Garnish with whole black olives. Another good combination: Heinz Tomato Soup, wax beans, salmon and Minute Rice.

In skillet: Follow basic recipe, using Heinz Cream of Mushroom Soup, Frenchstyle green beans, shrimp, Minute Rice. Garnish with lemon slices. Change the meat, the vegetable, the fish, the soup in any of these dishes—new recipe!

Let's Stop Slamming | Our Kids

Even grownups need a good "self-image—" and so

"Our Kids are getting a rough ride," says Mr. Arthur E. Wolters, Superintendent of Schools in the pleasant Chicago suburb of Highland Park, Illinois. "We are pinning something on them all the

It is coming from all directions. Social scientists tell us that suburban young people today are coddled and conformist, overprotected and overorganized. Magazines and newspapers have been devoting considerable space to describing how immature and irresponsible they are in spite of all their advantages—the good schools they go to, their pleasant houses, and their supposedly healthy environment. The same negative approach was apparent even at the last White House Conference on Children and Youth.

Is the life our children lead really so damaging? And isn't it possible that another kind of damage may be done, not by suburban living but by presenting only one side of a picture, and perhaps the least typical? Psychologists agree that how we are seen has a profound influence on how we grow up. We all need a good "selfimage" if we can manage to find one.

In the case of these "coddled" and "conformist" children of ours I suspected that, prophets of doom to the contrary, a very good image was also there if you wanted to look for it. So like the reporters and social scientists before me, I picked on a thriving, typical suburb-Highland Parkand set out to interview young people themselves and those who have had years of close association with them, their school administrators and teachers and socialservice workers. What do they think about the way the children are growing up?

"There seems to be some malady that besets people who study suburbia," says Mrs. Martha Winch, director of a nonprofit family-counseling agency, which is active in Highland Park. "They look us over, talk with many of us, and see only what is not going as well as it might. This is then reported, solemnly or sensationally, to the exclusion of the countless good things that surround us. It appears that we are a sad lot, indeed, with our children falling apart at the seams. In my own experience and that of this agency, most of the young people exhibit a great deal of strength and good sense. I would bet my last dollar on the lot of them."

do the growing

I found the school administrators in hearty agreement.

"Actually," said one of them, "the young people today are superior to their elders, more intelligent, and profit by our mistakes. They have more opportunities than we did and are trying to take advantage of them."

I UDGING FROM the enterprises at the Highland Park High School, the immature, irresponsible teenage: must be in a minority. The students have developed their own "No-Accs" program which, according to police officials, has contributed greatly to traffic safety; they have an honors program to discourage cheating; and in the past year they created 11 college scholarships awarded on the basis of need and academic ability. Money for these projects had to be earned through their own efforts by selling refreshments at games, putting on a yearly dinner and variety show, and selling magazine subscriptions, to mention a few of the means. They have also been bringing over two foreign exchange students every year to attend their high school. Again, they earn the necessary money themselves, by operating a snack bar after school from 3:30 to 4:00 p.m. This is run by the student council, and it delegates one night a week to clean it up.

BY LILLIAN POMPIAN

"All these ideas originated with the kids," says Leslie Libakken, Assistant Superintendent of Schools. "No one told them what to do. I've seen these girls and boys on their hands and knees doing every kind of menial task. That's not my definition of being 'coddled.'"

The word "coddling" deserves comment. There is much confusion around words these days, and they get in the way of ideas. A writer Continued on page 25

How more than 850,000 lawn owners have licked their crabgrass problems with Halts'

Introduced by Scotts in the late fall of 1958, Halts has worked wonders—even in hardest hit areas. You apply it before crabgrass sprouts.

WE HAD exceptional results with Halts in our back yard last year," writes a lady in St. Louis. "It even convinced my skeptical husband."

"Halts did a wonderful job for me on a particularly stubborn crabgrass-covered front lawn," reports L. J. of Cranston, Rhode Island.

We get letters like these every day of the year, from grateful people who have finally discovered the way to keep crabgrass from ruining their lawns.

The way is astonishingly simple. It takes less than half an hour for the average lawn. Yet it gives results that no amount of hard work could equal.

Halts is an invisible barrier

Each summer crabgrass comes up, chokes out good grass—then re-seeds itself and dies. Halts stops this vicious cycle. It creates a barrier on the soil's surface that prevents crabgrass seeds from coming up.

With the accurate Scotts Spreader, you quickly blanket the entire lawn with tiny Halts granules. Each particle is more than a match for the wiliest crabgrass plant. Halts lies in wait, then strikes as crabgrass sprouts. Halts also destroys grubs, drives moles and skunks away.

When is the right time to apply Halts? The earlier the better. A good time is the first nice afternoon.

"I used Halts..."

"Early in the spring I used Halts which I found very effective except for the rows that I missed with the spreader," writes a lawn owner in Winchester, Virginia. (Scotts summer crabgrass control. Clout®, makes short work of such occasional escapees.)

"Last spring when I used Halts," reports Mr. W. G. of Albany, N. Y., "I got the horse laugh from a lot of people who said there wasn't anything that would prevent crabgrass. But now they see and agree that Halts can do it. My neighbors' lawns are infested with crabgrass and on my side, there is not one single plant!"

Halts doesn't harm grass

Halts is death to crabgrass, yet it has the unique ability to let good grass sprout unharmed.

Think what that means. You can sow Scotts seed (and give it the balanced Turf Builder* feeding it needs) on the very same day you apply Halts. No danger to the seed. And no delay in seeding.

This is a good example of the way Scotts research has created products that work together—in a program—to make a better lawn simple and sure.

in a critical vein recently gave as an example of coddling, the case of a boy whose parents drove him on his newspaper route in bad weather. As one school administrator put it:

"What's wrong with this? Why should we go back to the days when we had no cars and had to wade hip-deep in snow to deliver a paper? I know my parents would have driven me if they'd had a car.

Conformity is another word bandied freely these days. Is conformity necessarily bad? Organized society would disintegrate without conformity. It is a protective social

"We mistake our children's conformity of dress and manners for the kind of conformity about which we should really worry," says Mrs. Winch. "They have their fads of socks, shoes, telephoning, and teentalk, to be sure. And so did we, didn't we? There's nothing new about teen-age fads. It's only the subjects that change. Benny Goodman in their parents' day, the Kingston Trio today.'

This kind of conformity does not eliminate creativity. As one teacher put it, 'A girl can have a fine creative idea while wearing bobby s if our children weren't in ${f A}$ trouble enough, they are also found to be under pressure from their parents to be "superachievers." The feelings of the young people about this can be summed up in the words of one boy.

"The pressure to achieve," he said, "comes mostly from within ourselves. Of course, our parents want us to go to good colleges, and we want to go to good colleges. We know we can't get into college unless we get good grades. To do this we have to work. I don't see anything wrong with working."

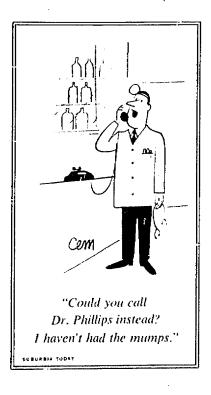

It is one of the "positives" of suburban living that the children have the finest opportunity for an education that one can find anywhere, says Mrs. Winch.

"Faculties are outstanding. The student body is unusually intelligent and provides a challenge in itself. The children in suburbia with their essential strengths are one of the main reasons why people move to the suburbs, and having moved there, wish to remain."

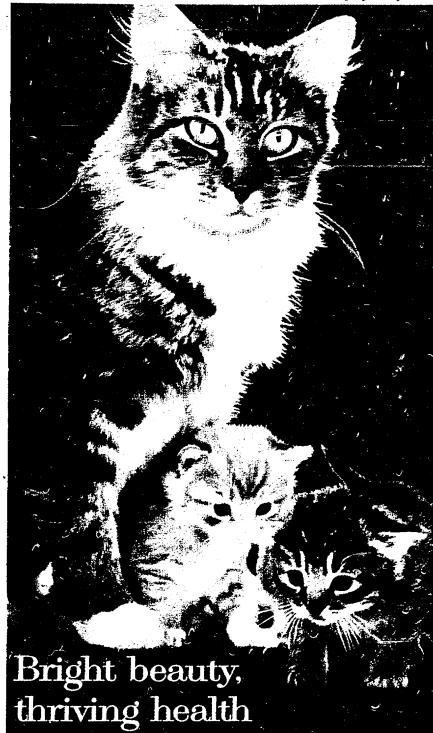

Representatives from colleges throughout the U.S., visiting at Highland Park High School to advise students about their future education, were asked to comment on suburban teen-agers. The reply of Mrs. Adelaide Francis of the University of Kansas City was typical of their point of view.

"I've visited 200 high schools in the last year," she said, "and found little difference in teen-agers no matter where they lived. They are, by and large, a wonderful bunch of kids-serious and realistic. As for being indulged, they don't ask whether we have fancy modern dormitories, but who is on the faculty. They're much better prepared than we were to go to college."

Why then has the negative image been shown so much more often than the positive? An attack, to be sure, is always stronger than a defense, especially in print, and what goes wrong is more dramatic than what goes right. It made a good story, for instance, in one national magazine, to cite as an example of suburban indulgence and extravagance, the junior high-school student who tried to pay for his lunch with a $50 bill, "which his mother had handed him without hesitation." What the writer did not mention (if indeed he ever checked into it) was that the boy had been taught to save and invest in stocks and bonds and in doing so had made the money for himself. As a joke he brought the $50 bill to Continued on page 26 the school cafeteria to see what the cashier would say when he dropped it casually on the counter. Her response was not casual. So untypical was the situation that the cashier in alarm reported it to the school principal who immediately telephoned the boy's mother to inquire if she knew that her son had such a large sum of money. He was only showing off, as any boy will-an isolated, untypical gesture that was used to bolster the point of view the author intended to take.

As one boy on the student council of Highland Park High School puts it,

"If you come out to look for something wrong in the suburbs so you can write about it, you'll find it. If you look for something right, you'll find it instead."

THE FLOOD of recent criticism might lead one L to believe that the suburbs are something new. The suburbs have been with us since the Romans made up the word. And it should be remembered that some very fine citizens have been coming out of them for many years. Thirty years ago, for example, when Highland Park was much more a one-class community than it is today, it turned out such distinguished men as Jonathan Wainwright, Mark Clark, Terry Allen, and Omar Bradley. More recent products have distinguished themselves in a wide variety of fields, as atomic physicists, lawyers, doctors, teachers, social workers, and leaders in many major industries. Many of them, with the world to choose from, have preferred to come back to live and raise their children in the community in which they grew up.

With all respect to serious social scientists, one must remember that theirs is not a precise science, a fact which they readily admit. They can only point to trends and show us the wisdom of widening our children's horizons through books, through cercain movies and TV programs, through visits to the city, and other means.

So far, we can all agree. Sound criticism is one thing, and how can we expect to make things better for our children if we don't listen to it? But let us, as best we can, try to see the whole picture, the over-all qualities as well as the occasional defects. And let us, in the words of Mr. Wolters, "stop slamming our young people on whom so much of the future depends."

and there is little to interest the tourist. Bali itself is still a strange, remote paradise, gentle, poor, and beautiful. Probably the best accommodations are at Jimmy Pandy's, a traveled, educated Indonesian who has turned his home, which is right on the beach, into a guesthouse.

The harbor of Hong Kong, our next stop, is one of the great ports of the world, a vivid, colorful, romantic city where bargains abound and where the shops and stalls and restaurants and tailors offer irresistible delights. For my own clothes I should certainly return to Zou Nan and Ying Tai. For men the doctor recommends George Chan in the Peninsula Court. We both love Benny's shoes.

If you have bought silk or jewels in Thailand, where you can get a respectable star ruby for $35, Hong Kong is the place to have a dress made or a stone set. (These shops are mostly on the Kowloon side.)

TAPAN is a fascinating country, the land and the inhabitants perpetually reproducing their own prints, but if you go as we did, purely for a tourist's visit, I should say that ten days to two weeks, at the outside, is ample. We were there for three weeks. I am not so fatuous as to assume I have now absorbed Japanese culture and need never return. One could spend a lifetime becoming acquainted with their art and philosophy and way of life. I speak purely from the point of view of an American tourist who wants to see as much of the world as the time and money at his disposal will permit.

Now that we have hindsight, I think we should have stayed our extra week in Egypt or India, two countries we were obliged to pass over. But to cut out Japan altogether would be to miss enormous charm and incomparable art. Tokyo is now the largest city in the world, but it is in the Japanese countryside and in cities like Kyoto and Osaka that one gets nearer to the Japanese people and their way of life.

When traveling in Japan, by all means stay at a native inn. The tiny, exquisite gardens opening from every room, the furnishings, the way they serve the food is a new and rewarding experience for a westerner. In Kyoto we stayed at the Tawaraya Inn. a small and cozy jewel. There is one thing, however, I would never do, and that is go back to Japan in August. It is the typhoon season, dank and sodden with rain every day. April and May, September and October, they say, are the great months.

Traveling can be disappointing, it can be exhausting, it can be costly. At certain times in certain places it can be dangerous. It can also supply the most memorable experiences of one's life. If asked if I would ever go around the world again, I could only reply, "When do we start?"

■ UNUSUAL SUBURBAN HOME ■

Designed by their neighbor, the famous | potter and painter, Henry Varnum Poor

THROUGHOUT THIS HOUSE, the hand of the craftsman I is in evidence. Ornamental tile work, designed for the Caniffs by ceramist Henry Varnum Poor, adorns fireplaces, floors, window sills, and even bathrooms. There is a ceramic mural over the fireplace, and ceramic flowers are strewn in welcome on the hallway floor.

The house sits on a Rockland County hilltop, looking west to the Ramapo Mountains and south to the faint skyline of New York City, thirty miles away—a happy location for an artist who works day or night in deepest concentration. Caniff's famous hero, Steve Canyon, emerges from a comfortable, cluttered second-floor studio where the cartoonist has an extra-large couch for stretching out to think and a private passageway to an ample outdoor sun deck.

Beneath the studio, a graceful expanse of plaster curves the length of the living room, around the fireplace and window bays. A variety of natural woods-maple, cypress, oak, and tulip-frames the free-flowing spaces. Floors are made of massive 12-inch planks, and the ceilings are handsomely braced by heavy oak beams. After twenty years of semiannual waxing, the wood, too, has become part of the quiet glow that is felt in every room of the Caniffs' serene and unusual house.

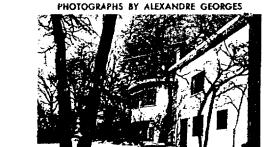

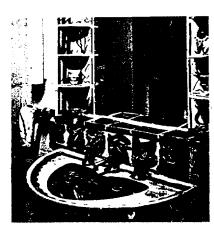

Curving mantelpiece faces gently rounded living spaces. Above and to the right of the fireplace are decorative panels of ceramic tile.

Frosty Fruit Salad, temptingly rich and generously flecked with colorful fruit, is a dessert-salad sensation.

FROSTY FRUIT SALAD

TO PREPARE: 45 MIN.

TO FREEZE: 3-4 hrs.

- 1 cup drained pineapple tidbits (reserve sirup)
- 1 cup orange pieces (1 to 2 oranges)
 1 cup chopped pitted softened prunes
- 1/2 cup sliced red maraschino cherries, well drained on absorbent paper
- l large ripe banana, sliced ½ cup chopped salted almonds
- cup cold water
- teaspoons unflavored gelatin
- cups small-curd cream-style
- cottage cheese, sieved cup thick sour cream
- cup chilled whipping cream, whipped
- cup sugar
- 34 teaspoon sult
- 1. Sprinkle gelatin evenly over cold water; let stand 5 min. to soften; dissolve completely by placing over very hot water.

- 2. Blend the sour cream, whipped cream, 2 tablespoons of the reserved pineapple sirup, sugar, and salt into cottage cheese; stir the dissolved gelatin and blend into the cottage-cheese mixture. Add the fruits and nuts and mix until evenly blended. Turn into freezer trays and freeze until firm, about 3 to 4 hrs. 3. Allow salad to thaw slightly at room temperature
- before serving. Cut into wedges and serve with Roseate Sour Cream Dressing. (See photo.)

About 12 servings

*To soften prunes, put into a colander or sieve and set over boiling water 30 min., or until slightly softened and moist.

DELECTABLE FILBERT BREAD

TO PREPARE: 25 MIN.

TO BAKE: 55-60 MIN.

or an afternoon tea

- 1/2 lb. (about 11/2 cups) unblanched filberts
- ½ cup sifted flour
- teaspoon baking powder
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- ½ cup butter
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
 ½ cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1. Grate 1 cup of the filberts; finely chop the remaining nuts and mix together.
- 2. Sift the flour, baking powder, and salt together; gently blend with nuts and set aside.
- 3. Cream the butter and extract together until butter is softened. Gradually add the sugar, creaming until fluffy after each addition. Add the eggs in thirds, beating thoroughly after each addition. Blend in the dry ingredients in fourths, beating until well mixed. Turn batter into aluminum foil pans* and carefully spread to corners.
- 4. Bake at 325°F 55 to 60 min., or until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool on cooling rack 15 min. before removing from pans. Cool bread completely on cooling rack before slicing or storing. To store, wrap tightly in moisture-vapor-proof ma-Two loaves bread
- *To make two 5x3x2-in. loaf pans—Cut a piece of extra heavy aluminum foil 15x9 in. Fold in half to form a rectangle 9x71/2 in. Fold, using edge of ruler as a guide, each of 9-in. sides in 21/4 in. toward center. Unfold. Fold, over a ruler, each of the other sides in 2 in. toward center. Unfold. On the 9-in. sides, cut along the creases 21/4 in., or to where creases make right angles. Draw up the sides to form a box. Secure the flaps on the outside by folding the top edges down and over the slaps 1/4 in. Make sure that the corners are sealed and that there are no air pockets. Repeat for the second pan.

A picture of uninhibited bloom - the African Violet, "White Lady," fed and watered to its own simple taste.

How Are Your African Violets?

THE AFRICAN VIOLET is the most popular 1 of household plants. It can also boast of having the most nonsense talked about it. "I never have any luck with them," people say. Or, "You can't let a drop of water touch their leaves," or, "They must never be in direct sunlight," and so on. Actually, the African Violet is about the easiest flower to get along with, requires no green thumb, and needs little more care than a weed. Given half a chance, it is both willing and profuse.

Strictly speaking, the "African Violet" is not a violet. It belongs, instead, to the Gesneria family and is properly called "Saintpaulia." Furthermore, the plant you get from a friend or florist or start yourself from a single leaf has entirely forsaken its ancestral habits. In such delightful-sounding spots as Tanga or the primeval forest of Numbara in East Africa, its forbears still grow in shady fissures of limestone rocks or granite, drinking up the warm, driving rains. Since its introduction to polite society n 1893, via England, the plant we know today has not only changed its habits completely but has also developed a variety of leaf shapes and flower shades. The White Lady is as different from the Blue Boy as the Sapphire Pink is from the Plum.

MY SAINTPAULIAS, which I have to give away to keep them from crowding the family out of the house, are uninhibited flower factories. They grow cheerfully in any room of the house. When we remodeled the kitchen, a 3-inch window sill provided just room enough for two long brass planters. North light and nary a sunbeam. warmth from stove and pilot lights of refrigerator and water heater, moisture in the air from dishwashing and cooking must be, I concluded, the keys to eager leaf growth and fine, abundant blossoms.

But in the dining room, with neither direct heat nor extra humidity, plants in pots thrive in a somber western exposure. Even with Venetian blinds dropped (to keep the sun off my nice carpet) the Saintpaulias love it.

In the living room, where a gas floor furnace keeps the temperature comfortable by day for the human occupants, the violets have to do without any window exposure at all. Still, they bloom quite happily.

On a porch, with temperature range from chilly to stuffy, an assortment of plants occupies a strawberry jar without complaint. I shift plants from one place to another according to my decorating fancy, or I leave them in one spot permanently. So just where you have them makes no difference.

What does make a difference is how and when you water Saintpaulias. If they won't flourish for you, they are probably being overwatered.

If I have a set of rules to account for my success, it is brief, simple, and flexible:

Watering: Set potted plants in the sink and run warm water over leaves and soil. Let them drain thoroughly and make sure no sunlight strikes the leaves while they're still wet. With planters, water from the top and only when the soil gets dry. Judge dryness not by the calendar but by the feel. If the soil is dry to the fingers, or the leaves soft and droopy, the Saintpaulias need water. If in doubt, don't water till another day.

Soil: Should be porous and light. Charcoal keeps the earth sweet in a planter. Sphagnum moss preserves moisture on top.

Soil that doesn't drain quickly and looks or feels soggy and heavy is wrong.

Food: Almost any fertilizer will step up blossoming, but the safest ones are those recommended by florists for the Saintpaulia.

Location: Try as many different spots as you may have to offer a plant. Saintpaulias don't mind gas heat, as so many other plants do, but they do like some circulation of air. They also enjoy light, but they don't demand too much of it.

Incidental Care: Pick off dead leaves and flowers for looks and health. Leaves further from light will lift to reach it. So rotate the pot to get a perkier-looking plant. Don't hesitate to thin out leaves if the growth is too heavy to be graceful-looking.

Extra Hints: If you are going to be away for a week or even two, don't worry; just water the plant and slip a cellophane bag over it to retain the moisture. A porcelain pot (like the beautiful Chinese ones meant for dwarf trees) adds a decorative touch. Leaf stems touching the rim don't decay as they do in an ordinary earthen pot.

The secret of the Saintpaulia, or any other plant, is simply this: know your plant. Look at it often. Feel the leaves between your fingers, crumble the soil occasionally to test its condition. Enjoy each new leaf and every flower. After a while, you'll come to know how it's feeling and can easily guess

For lots of bloom, and lots of pleasure, keep Saintpaulia on a strict water diet, and leave the rest to nature.
