League Offers Amazon Movie

'Amazona' a thrilling color movie by Rip Zwickey...

The film will be narrated by Mr. Zwickey's wife Fern...

The principal theme of the Amazon Valley and adjacent territories...

The film begins with a visit to the native Indians who inhabit the San Blas Islands...

A visit is made to the fabulous Iquassu Falls of the Parana River in Brazil...

After a short stop in Brazil they proceed to the Amazon, the greatest of all rivers...

The taxpayers of this country have been very generous in their desire to help other less fortunate people...

From Belem, they journey to Surinam, formerly known as Dutch Guiana...

One of the most interesting facets of native life in the jungle areas is the preparation of food from the Manioc or Casava root...

REPORTS THEFT George Drysdale, 21, of 1151 Paget court, reported the theft of his car radio to Woods police on Thursday, March 26...

Prowler Fails To Enter Home

Mrs. Robert E. L. Greening Jr., of 405 Belanger avenue, reported to Farms police March 29 that someone had tried to gain entrance to her home...

Police investigation revealed that the window to a storm door in the rear of the home had been broken, and the door removed from its hinges...

A search around the home revealed that no entrance had been gained, police stated.

The only evidence on the scene, a towel and pair of garden shears that had been taken from the garage and left on the porch, was turned over to the Farms Detective Bureau.

Ryan Says Stop Aid to Indonesia

Congressman Harold M. Ryan called upon President Lyndon B. Johnson to discontinue all foreign aid to Indonesia...

Sukarno's remark was made to Ambassador Howard P. Jones before 2,000 people at a gathering in Jakarta.

The taxpayers of this country have been very generous in their desire to help other less fortunate people in underdeveloped countries...

Congressman Ryan's letter also expressed the sentiment that "while fully realizing the seriousness of this request, I, as a United States Representative, cannot in good conscience condone the remarks or actions of this (Sukarno) grossly incompetent and completely immoral, highly insulting person."

Church Offers Lecture Series

The new lecture series are scheduled for the spring term at St. James Lutheran Church, sponsored by the Board of Christian Education...

The lecture titles are: April 5—The Role of the Parent in the Education of the Child by Dr. Armin Grams.

Congressman Ryan's Quiz Produces 14,000 Replies

More than 14,000 residents of the 14th Congressional District participated in Congressman Harold M. Ryan's "Tell Your Congressman" program by filling out a comprehensive questionnaire on international, domestic and local affairs.

Ryan, a Democrat, circulated the questionnaire to find out what his constituents think about operating the Mackinac Bridge as a freeway, a World's Fair for Detroit in 1972, a tax deduction for college tuition and a host of other current issues.

The questionnaire contained 47 questions, plus a political poll. Participants were asked to vote yes no, or not sure.

Five items received an overwhelming "yes vote." According to the results of the tabulation, residents feel most strongly about pornography literature going through the U.S. mails.

Another 10,000 voiced an affirmative opinion about the new federal income tax cut. Only 1,873 disapproved of President Johnson's tax cut and 930 said they weren't sure about this issue.

The question asking if further peace negotiations and disarmament action was favored also received a heavy yes vote. More than 10,000 informed Ryan that they favored such action.

Ryan discovered that one of his local programs met with the approval of 10,668 voters. The program is the "Tell Your Congressman" breakfast series during which he meets with various community leaders.

Two youth questions received strong support from the voting public. More than 8,000 constituents would favor a youth-employment bill which would provide 90,000 conservation jobs and a U.S. Government-sponsored vocational retraining program.

A great majority of the respondents said they favored President Johnson's announced cuts in federal spending in three areas: Post Office, Defense and Civil Service, with the voting 3,939, 5,880 and 7,520 respectively.

In addition, the voters, for the most part, wanted to see further reductions in the following areas: Space, 4,825 votes; Foreign Aid, 9,482 votes; Education, 1,080 and Farm subsidies, 7,692 votes. More than 800 people thought that the government should continue to spend in these areas and 550 voted not sure.

"I received many letters on the question of foreign aid," Ryan said. "Most of the people who voted against it said that they were tired of handing over millions of American dollars only to get slapped in the face by the recipients. They stressed that the United States should only give to help friendly nations."

An issue which proved to be popular with the people was the question of a social security plan with a retirement at 60 years of age. More than 8,000 persons favored such a plan, 3,723 were against it and 372 weren't sure.

According to the results, 7,278 persons favored the passage of the Civil Rights Bill, with 2,907 against and 1,618 undecided. 9,773 residents of the 14th District would like to see all citizens have the right to attend American schools; 508 were opposed. The public accommodations law was approved by 5,795 with 2,185 against.

The adoption of a federal law providing for equal job opportunities was favored by a substantial margin, 7,580 to 1,545.

Favoring the purchase of the Mackinac Bridge by the Federal Government for the purpose of operating it as part of the freeway was 5,685, with 5,635 voting no, and 1,815 undecided.

By a vote of 6,590 to 4,395, with 1,452 undecided, voters said they didn't want federal subsidies for mass transportation in metropolitan areas.

A balanced budget was felt essential by 5,635, desirable by 6,385 and unimportant by 1,033. According to the poll, a businessman should keep a detailed record of his expenses account, mileage, etc., for income tax purposes. 5,098 said he should; 4,008 said no; and 792 weren't sure.

8,792 constituents want the temporary excise tax repealed; 3,018 said no and 1,110 reported undecided.

In the field of education, 9,605 want tax deductions for college tuition, 2,937 are in opposition and 790 aren't sure. Voting for aid to colleges and universities for construction purposes were 8,792 persons with 3,018 against and 1,110 undecided.

Favoring federal aid to education were 8,453 persons to 2,792 against and 663 not sure. Where should this aid go? 4,650 favored public and private schools, 4,683 said public schools only, 4,820 were for grade and high schools and 5,310 specified aid for colleges only.

A space effort geared to a moon landing by 1967 was defeated by a vote of 6,203 to 4,960 with 2,105 undecided. As far as immigration laws are concerned, 6,847 would like to see them adjusted, 3,608 voted no and 2,523 voted not sure.

The City of Detroit should be considered as a single unit in determining unemployment data for ARA benefits according to 6,870 voters, 4,093 said no and 2,095 not sure.

Favoring the defeat of a bill which would permit wire tapping as evidence in court were 6,335 persons with 5,595 voting no and 1,518 voting not sure. The vote on making Columbus Day a national holiday was 5,920 for, 6,203 against and 1,147 undecided.

prayer during school hours. 1,078 were not sure. A medical care for the elderly program received support from many constituents. 5,645 favored the King-Anderson Bill, with 2,863 objecting. More than 3,000 wanted to see a further development of the Kerr-Mills Bill with 1915 against. Those who were not familiar with either of these bills voted 2 to 1.

BB Gun-Slinger Attacks Cars

An unidentified BB gun-slinger made a swing down Washington road at approximately 9 p.m. March 26. He left behind him four broken auto windows.

Leo Kerwin, of 687 Washington road, reported to City police at 9:01 that the rear window of his car, parked in front of his home, had been shattered.

At 9:10 David Burgess of 651 Washington road, reported that the left side front window of his auto had been broken; in front of his home.

A third report came from James Cox, of 830 Washington road, at 9:20. A shot had been fired through the rear window of his auto, also in front of his home.

A car owned by Winfred Van Dike, of 724 Neff road, was hit in the left side rear while parked in front of 721 Lincoln.

CAR RADIO STOLEN

Woods police received a complaint from G. A. Davis of 1738 Littlestone on Wednesday, March 25, in which he disclosed that a thief broke into a car he had leased from a rental agency, and stole the car radio.

Pancake House Observing Anniversary

One of the newest and most widely accepted businesses in the Grosse Pointe area is The Original Pancake House on Mack Avenue, where it is celebrating its second anniversary this week.

During 1963 it served 254,221 customers.

The hosts of this model establishment are Larry Gernon, Howard Hamilton and Anthony Volz. John Tom is manager. Their courtesy and quiet charm are reflected in the house. They have an intense concern for the quality of the menu, and never do they compromise with quality.

For example, they use only pure whipping cream in batters and coffee. They only farm fresh Grade AA eggs. Sausage is made from their own formula.

Nor do they forget the small touches... like a cup of coffee, full bodied, winey, because they blend their own. A cup of coffee at the Original Pancake House is like a bottomless cup. You only pay once and refills are on the house.

Or it may be just plain old fashioned oatmeal served with pure cream. The sour dough barrel in the kitchen imparts a light and fine texture to the batters.

Optimistic about 1964? Yes, 254,221 people can't be wrong!

Chamber Music Program Slated

The Chamber Music Players of Grosse Pointe will present their April program meeting on Sunday, April 5 at 3:00 p.m. in the Fries Auditorium of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

The program opener will be a quintet by Anton Rosetti, performed by John Gajes, oboe; John Azera, clarinet; Frederick Brufflodt, flute; William Baker, french horn; and Gilbert Meyer, bassoon. This work is believed to be the first wind quintet ever written.

Two Paganini compositions for violin and guitar, the Sonata V in D major and the Cantabile for Violin and Guitar, will be presented by Lois Lawrence, violin, and Alex Sucek, guitar. The fact that Paganini was an accomplished guitarist has been overshadowed by his brilliance as a violinist; his familiarity with both instruments enabled him to write a series of works for violin-guitar duo.

Lois Lawrence received her B.A. in music from Iowa State Teachers College and her M.A. in Music Literature from the Eastman School of Music in Rochester. She has taught at the Central Teachers College in Ellensburg, Washington, and now teaches in the Warren school system where she conducted three different string orchestras at the elementary and high school levels. She is a member of the Chamber Music Players of Grosse Pointe, the Grosse Pointe Symphony, and the Detroit Chamber Music Workshop.

Alex Sucek is a magazine editor by profession, but his musical activities take up an increasing amount of his time. He has studied with Paul Hindemith while the composer was a guest

All fountains and figures are made of simulated Pompeian Stone, a composition resembling light grey Indiana limestone in color and texture. The Antique Green is an exclusive finish which resembles weathered bronze.

We have tried to include in our line, pieces which we feel are distinctive and will add beauty to enhance a garden, home or public place, be it a formal or natural setting.

All fountains and statuary available in Antique Green Finish. Fountain figures beginning at $29.50 and Shell bases starting at $36.00. Natural and Old Stone available by special order only.

According to Ryan's presidential poll, Henry Cabot Lodge is the man most favored for the Republican Presidential nomination, with Richard Nixon second and William Scranton third.

Adlai Stevenson is the district's choice for the Democratic Vice - Presidential nomination with Robert Kennedy and Hubert Humphrey running second and third respectively.

Congressman Ryan's district includes the Grosse Pointes, Harper Woods, and Ward 21, parts of Wards 17 and 19 in Northeast Detroit.

Questionnaires are still being received in Washington, Ryan said. All of them will be tabulated and added to these results so that I might have the most up-to-date thinking of the people of my district.

INJURED IN HOME

Norma Snook of 1922 Oxford, was transported to Bon Secours Hospital by Woods police on Friday, March 27, for treatment of an injured left leg and ankle and a cut right hand. She suffered the injuries when she tripped and fell down the basement steps of her house and landed among several soft drink bottles at the foot of the stairs. The broken glass cut her hand.

Exclusive! Great Art at the World's Fair BY IRVING STONE
Fashions—When You Go Boating • Those Teen-age Volunteers

Suburbia Today

In This Issue . . .

Art at The World's Fair . . . page 6

Irving Stone, the famous biographer of Michelangelo, gives a preview of the breathtaking experimental architecture, the gardens and goodly walks, the rare art treasures, and the performing arts of East and West—a magnificent offering, filled with ideas that are going to enrich life for all of us.

Summer Plan . . . page 12

Fresh air, mountains of home-cooked food, fishing in a pond, milking a real cow . . . see how you and your family, like the many others who have done it, can experience the special joys of deep-country life by spending your holiday on one of the hundreds of farms that take paying guests in the summertime.

Help—Teen-agers Wanted! . . . page 20

Regular jobs are scarce, but there are countless volunteer jobs that offer teen-agers what they need most—the experience that will help them with college and with paid jobs later. And these young people have what service organizations are looking for—energy and enthusiasm.

Lighthearted "whites," trusty blues, a delectable pink dotted-swiss parka, and a snappy, intrepid striped dress—here are the chic, tough ones to swab a deck, fry a bass, or heave an anchor in, and look terrific while you're doing it.

On the Cover

Just look at Whitney Darrow's powerboat owner blissfully imagining he's riding the waves. Could Walter Mitty in his wildest dreams have had such a good time? But if our daydreamer is enjoying himself, Mom and the kids are not. They'd like a little more reality, like getting in out of the rain and back home for dinner.

GETTING AROUND

. . . to Our Pleasant Places and People

OUR APOLOGIES to Mr. Robert A. Howcroft and his fellow workers at the General Motors Technical Center in Warren, Michigan. It seems that some time ago Mr. Howcroft taught his colleagues how to make a dish called "Bubble and Squeak" as his mother had made it for him when he was a boy in Coventry, England: "Any old bits of greens . . . sausages or bacon . . . eggs . . . sliced or mashed potatoes all fried together for a top-rate breakfast." Top rate, his friends agreed, and here for once, to their wives' great pleasure, was an approved way of using up leftovers.

But early this year SUBURBIA TODAY came along with Food Editor Melanie De Proft's de luxe version of B and S: corned beef simmered four hours, a variety of root-cellar vegetables prepared from scratch, and on the side an English mustard sauce (delicious)—and ever since, says Mr. Howcroft, he has been faced with doubting looks.

Well, Sir, we think you are right, too. Who can fight a long family history of a dish? But please accept our glamour version, too. After all, as you yourself have said, "If both are true, you can Bubble and Squeak from breakfast to dinner."

Getting a repairman on a Saturday afternoon is a major campaign, as most of us know from experience. But one reader in Scottsdale, Arizona, reports that he solved the problem recently. All of a sudden, one Saturday, the kitchen range began to shoot sparks. And since company was expected for dinner, his wife's circuit was about to blow at any minute, too. So, rushing to the phone, our smooth operator called the serviceman and said, "I know it's Saturday afternoon, but I have an hysterical wife. Can you help me?" "Sure," replied the electrician, "I'll be right there." And he never did ask what the electrical problem was.

Note found in a Wauwatosa, Wisconsin, household written by a nine-year-old girl after an argument. "Good-bye family. You all hate me. I love you all very much. God bless you. P.S. In case of fire, I'm in the attic."

Have you had enough of Tom Swifties? Well, hold on—here are "Businessies," from a source in Oak Park, Illinois, who won't give his name (would you?):

How's the shoe business? On its feet finally.

How's the restaurant business? Full.

How's the candy business? Sticky.

How's the flower business? Rosy.

The rest are strictly your businesses.

In Lynnwood, Washington, an ambulance was called to the scene of an accident to pick up a woman patient. She was coherent, so the

For two weeks in June, 30 high-school students from Wayland, Massachusetts, will learn their Latin language and Roman history right where it all began—in Pompeii, Herculaneum, Ostia Antica, and above all, in Rome itself.

Their Latin instructor, Francis Smith, who had the idea for the trip, was a student himself at the University of Rome last year, and under his guidance these students will see a Rome that tourists rarely do.

"We plan to give lectures in the morning and then go right to the places we've discussed," said Mr. Smith. "I want them to see Rome as it grew from the beginning to the present day." And believing in the old "when in Rome—" he is beginning after-school Italian lessons for his students this month.

The total cost for 30 students and four chaperons will be $15,000. Each student will pay half his fare and the remaining amount is being earned through student projects.

A brisk money-making activity at this point is the student-run gift department which a sympathetic supermarket has allowed them to install in the store. They've named it, of all things, "Caveat Emptor" ("Let the Buyer Beware," in case your Latin is rusty), and they feature quite a line of homemade goods. Car washes and a hootenanny have also helped to fill the till. Caveat Roma!

With Little Leaguers dusting off their mitts this month, it's time for fathers to warm up, too. When one eager father in Hillside, Illinois, was asked if he would be willing to coach or manage the village minor league team, he was heard to reply earnestly, "Gee, I don't know a thing about baseball, but I'd love to help. Maybe I could be the umpire."

Mrs. Mildred Geer of Peabody, Massachusetts, has a four-year-old grandson, Bobby, who takes a man's view of parsley. At a local restaurant where he was treated to lunch, his order arrived with the usual garnish of parsley, which he quickly tucked under the plate. When the waitress came to clear the table there was Bobby's parsley on the cloth. Scrambling up to his knees on the chair, he held it out to the girl. "Here's your weed," he told her.

GREAT ART AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

BY IRVING STONE

author of "The Agony and the Ecstasy," "The Story of Michelangelo's Pietà," "Lust for Life," etc.

A WORLD'S FAIR should be germinal, a leaping off place into new visions for mankind.

The New York World's Fair, which opens on April 22 and runs until October 18, with a rerun scheduled for 1965, will do a tremendous amount to spread our knowledge about science and industry. But its profoundest effect may be the impact of its arts on the culture of our age, as I can testify from my own experience all the way from the Panama Pacific International Exposition in 1915 to the Brussels Fair in 1958.

The Queen of this World's Fair will certainly be Michelangelo's Pietà. The most intensely spiritual carving created by Michelangelo in his 75 years of work, it transcends all religions to become the universal figure of mother love. But more of this story later.

First we must speak of another, more functional, art because its impact will be the one first to be felt by the visitor to the Fair. If the past history of World's Fairs continues, it will change not only the sky line of our great cities, but of our home towns as well.

I am referring, of course, to architecture, to the design, structure, beauty, new use of line, color, curve, mass, of the hundreds of daring buildings among which we will walk, revolutionary forms that will open our minds to new concepts of a way of life.

The exciting part of the architecture of the New York World's Fair is that it is international as well as experimental. The finest architects have designed for their countries—the solid, rising levels of the Spanish; the open-air pagoda of Korea; the advanced geometric forms of Sweden; the domes, cones, rotundas, spires, mosaic, and glass of Malaya, the Caribbean, India, Ireland, and the Philippines.

Our giant American industries are spending multimillions; witness Weston Becket's General Electric prismatic power and Buckminster Fuller's geodesic dome which will serve as a sky roof for the Assembly Hall. Steel and concrete are being shaped into a variety of free forms, such as the "space frames" for I.B.M. by the late Eero Saarinen, and Eastman Kodak's "moon landscape," designed by Kahn and Jacobs. Ford will feature pylons, Johnson's Wax arches will light the night.

A walk among the avenues, gardens, fountains, pools, 4,000 major trees and 65,000 shrubs of the Fair will be a journey around the world. It would be a surprise if, when you are designing a new home, redecorating your living room or relandscaping your garden, the New York

World's Fair does not turn up in very palpable form.

My own home in Beverly Hills, a wood, glass, and steel structure overlooking Southern California, is a direct result of the week Mrs. Stone and I spent studying the architectural ideas of the Brussels Fair, just two years before we built.

Back to the Pietà, to be housed in an exquisite chapel in the Vatican Pavilion: my friend, Frederick Voss, with his firm Kiff, Colean, Voss, and Souder, designed the Pavilion, and another friend, the talented set designer Jo Mielziner, conceived the staging and lighting for the sculpture. It was my good fortune, to watch this beautiful building and superb setting evolve from the minds of these creative people.

The Pietà has never been out of St. Peter's since Michelangelo placed it there himself in 1500, when he was 25 years old. It is particularly interesting that it comes to America for its first journey because in the very year Michelangelo began his design, 1497, one of his future neighbors in Florence, Amerigo Vespucci, claimed to have set foot on the North American continent, not too many miles from where the Pietà lands in its journey to Flushing Meadow aboard the Cristoforo Colombo.

The Pietà was created because the French Cardinal Grosloye secured permission from the Pope to leave behind him something of beauty in Rome. But the aged Benedictine died before Michelangelo could complete his carving of the pure white Carrara block. Michelangelo literally had to smuggle the Pietà into the old basilica of St. Peter's, begun by Constantine in 324, for he and his friends in Rome were afraid the Pope might not approve. Abandoning all tradition, he had carved a life-sized Christ, lying across the lap of his young mother.

WE IN AMERICA will have a chance to see the Pietà because Cardinal Spellman secured permission from the late Pope John XXIII to have the precious marble brought here. Its showing may help create a renaissance of religious art and a rebirth of the now almost vanished craft of the marble carver.

Virgin and Child, French, 14th Century, Metropolitan Museum of Art

There will be other magnificent displays of world art. One collection comes from the Imperial Treasure, Peking, and will be shown by the Republic of China. Here the visitor will see bronzes of 4000 B.C., reputed to be the oldest artifacts extant, as well as rare jade carvings, paintings, tapestries, ivory, cloisonné and ceramics going back hundreds of years, bringing to life for us an old and legendary civilization.

The fact that there can be no such thing as a static culture is demonstrated by the impressive Spanish Pavilion. Here one will encounter great Goyas, not only the Portrait of Charles III, but the even more famous Majas, nude as well as clothed. Spain's other great masters, El Greco, Velásquez, Zurbarán, will be represented, frequently by their best canvases. And at the same time many of her most daring modern experimenters will be shown: Picasso, Miro, Dali. There will be a giant abstract sculpture by Chellida and works by the younger painters and sculptors. The visitor will be able to see how each nation's genius changes with the passing of the centuries and with the birth of new ideas.

America is not neglecting the artist or skilled artisan. The New York City Pavilion will be an inexhaustible mine, with exhibitions by the Metropolitan, the Museum of Modern Art, the Museum of Primitive Art, the Guggenheim, the Pierpont Morgan Museum, the Jewish Museum, the Asia and Hispanic Societies, the Brooklyn Museum.

The New York State Pavilion will have a show of the Hudson River painters, and there will also be Pollack and Calder as well as spectacular examples of avant-garde art, abstract and expressionist.

JUST WHAT will be the reaction to the "pop art" remains an explosive mystery. Will the viewers be outraged? That would be good. One of the purposes of art is to inspire; another is to shock. From strong emotion in the cultural world comes strong argument. Along with heat, these discussions also shed light. People grow on art.

Nor is that all. The Federal Pavilion will show, out of doors, some of the finest sculptures from private collections in the 50 states. Within the Pavilion there will be painting and sculpture, American in origin, from all over the country.

A visit to this Pavilion will demonstrate something we are inclined to forget. Americans have always painted, and for the most part, painted well. Along with strained arches, a lot of our people are going to take home a new vision and respect for American culture.

What of the other arts? Music, Drama, the Dance? The Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts is opening its World's Fair Festival on April 23 with the New York City Ballet, which was such a magnificent success in the U.S.S.R. in 1962. This will be followed by the Chilean Ballet. Enthusiasts of folk dancing will enjoy the Fiesta Mexicana and the Bayanihan Philippine dance company. Music lovers will hear the New York Philharmonic and the Philadelphia Orchestra featuring such soloists as Serkin and Van Cliburn. Japan is sending its Toho String Orchestra.

The Spanish Pavilion will seat 850 people for concerts by Segovia and Victoria de Los Angeles. Classic drama will be represented by the Royal Shakespeare Company of Stratford-on-Avon, doing King Lear and The Comedy of Errors.

If you consider eating a fine art (I do, between books, which is the only time I can handle more than the simplest of foods), here you become participant, rather than spectator. Many of the 50 nations exhibiting at the Fair are bringing their best chefs to prepare their most popular native dishes. Food is not only energy, it, too, is a way of life, a way to display the character, temperament, and culture of a people. See for yourself what each country does with rice, for example, and you will perceive how resourceful is the mind of man in relation to food. The Fair will offer an opportunity to be a gourmet for a few days.

WHAT IS CULTURE? It is man's attempt to express himself, to create worlds beyond the creature comforts. Culture is the sum total of our wisdom, of our penetration into the eternal truths of the universe. It is the pushing back of limited horizons, the deepening of sensitivity to life and the human condition.

I dedicated my little book, "The Story of Michelangelo's Pietà," to: "All creative artists who, stretching hand-in-hand in a continuous line across the ages, form one of our indissoluble chains of brotherhood."

This is true. See all the art you can possibly absorb at the Fair, and you will emerge with a greater warmth and understanding of all peoples everywhere. If this happens at the World's Fair, 1964-65, will have been a fabulous success.

Handsome as a car

Useful as a truck

The broad appeal of Chevrolet El Camino

Not many automotive products these days are in a class by themselves.

This Chevrolet El Camino is one of the rare exceptions.

The good idea was that a lot of people must need a vehicle as good looking as a car and as useful as a pickup truck.

El Camino, as you can see, is not almost as handsome as a car; it's so handsome you can drive it any place at all without an ounce of misgiving. It's not quite as tough as a regular Chevrolet pickup, but it's tough enough to handle up to 1,200 lbs. of payload.

This is its broad appeal. Not everybody will buy it, but almost everybody can imagine a legitimate place for it in their scheme of things.

What about you? Can you see an El Camino serving your business, or family, or both—in the city, country, any place? If you'd like to look one over and drive it, call your Chevrolet dealer and he will be glad to arrange it.

You can order an El Camino as plain or as fancy as you wish. Bucket seats, air conditioning, 4-speed transmission, power windows, transistorized radio and a snappy 250-hp V8 engine are among its extra-cost options. . . .

It takes effort and brains and 50 pounds

of Bird Watching

BY BOB FOREMAN

LAST YEAR there were 15,000 active bird watchers in the United States. At least eight more joined the ranks this year: the four members of our family plus a family of four which lives next door to us.

It all began innocently enough one evening when my wife said to me, "Guess what Marge Jones and I decided?"

I couldn't, and I said so.

"We're going to study birds," she replied.

"That's nice," I said and went back to the sports page.

"By 'we' I mean the whole family," she went on, "including you."

"Wowie!" said the kids.

"If it takes effort, money, or brains, include me out," I said.

"It takes all three," she continued, "and you're definitely in. Ralph's helping Marge, and it'll be simply wonderful for the children."

Could I refuse to go along with a next-door neighbor? Could I deny my children something wonderful? Of course not.

I folded my paper and said, "What do I do? Learn to whistle?"

"The first thing you do," she said, "is to come home tomorrow with the best bird feeder you can find."

"I have a terribly busy day tomorrow," I said.

"You'll find time."

"How does one determine the quality of a bird feeder? Should I try eating out of it?"

Her look signified this was not the way.

"Just don't get the cheapest," she said.

"What did Ralph spend?" I asked. I wanted to keep up with the Joneses.

"Eighteen-fifty, and it's a beauty."

"It must be. Does it have push-button transmission?" I said.

Next day I did what I was told. I took an hour off after lunch and went out to purchase a bird feeder. In order to show Ralph Jones up, I bought the super-de luxe model. It was the Giant Size! It was Rust-proofed by a Secret Process! And it had a Patented Squirrel Guard!

"I don't think our squirrels need guarding," I said to the salesman.

"THE GUARD is mounted on a spring," he explained. "That prevents squirrels from climbing up into the feeder. Do you need sunflower seeds?"

"I haven't up till now," I said. I bought a 10-pound sack.

That night I struggled home with the feeder and the seed.

"Marge and I have made it even more interesting!" said my wife as I unwrapped everything.

"How's that possible?" I said.

"We decided to have a contest between our families."

"I already won it. I outspent Ralph," I said.

She ignored the remark. "We're going

LIKE TO MAKE THINGS WITH YOUR HANDS?

We have nothing against hobbies. Far from it. Today, hobbies are what separate the men from the boys. But if you must make something with your hands, why settle for ceramic tiles or lamp bases or hooked rugs or number-painting? Live a little! If you must make something with your hands—make music! What could be more glorious... more soul-satisfying... more relaxing... more down-right fun? And you can make music. Right now. Today. Even if you "never took a lesson in your life!"

That's right. With Conn's remarkable new learning method, "Instant Music," you will be playing any one of 39 familiar tunes—in a matter of minutes! All you have to know is your alphabet from "A" to "G." No endless scales and exercises. "Instant Music" gets you off to a fast start and with the right techniques. You play with both keyboards, with various hand effects—and with foot pedals, too.

In other words, you play naturally (the way a professional musician does). No lifeless pushbuttons. No recorded gimmicks. You play with true human expression on a professional-quality instrument. The Conn sounds like an organ. The Conn plays like an organ. It is, after all, the product of C. G. Conn, Ltd., world's largest manufacturer of band instruments! There are seven handsomely-crafted models to select from. Prices start at $995, and your Conn dealer can arrange convenient terms.

to see which family can identify the most birds in a month. The family that loses will treat the winners to a weekend at a bird sanctuary upstate."

This sounded expensive so I rushed out and set the feeder up on the lawn and filled it with sunflower seeds. There was no time to waste. Then the family took up its vigil at the window where a dire thought occurred to me.

"How will we know the Joneses aren't cheating?" I said.

"They're honorable people," said my wife in a tone of voice that meant don't say such things in front of the c-h-i-l-d-r-e-n.

"How will they know we aren't?" I said.

No answer.

"Look, here comes something," shouted our youngest. Sure enough a feathered item was hovering above the feeder.

"Shhh," said my wife. "It has to alight or it doesn't count."

"Who said so?" I asked.

"Those are the rules Marge and I agreed on," she said. "Quick. Open the book. It's eating now."

I opened the book. The first thing I saw was the price. $12.75. "This book must be first quality," I said.

We rushed through pages of hawks, eagles, egrets, geese and finally came to some little biddy birds.

"Here it is," said my wife triumphantly. She pointed to a black-capped bird. "It's a chickadee! Mark it down!"

"If it was yellow it would be a goldfinch," said the second child.

"Stop arguing," I said to her.

"Is it saying chick-a-dee-dee-dee?" my wife asked.

"I can't hear anything from in here," I said.

"The chickadee is found from Hudson Bay to the Gulf of Mexico," the older child said.

"Isn't this exciting?" said my wife.

"I think so," I said.

"That reminds me," she continued, "I ordered a 50-pound sack of sunflower seeds."

EVERY EVENING we took up our position at the window, my wife, the kids, and I. Time flew by in a whirl of wings and sunflower seed.

After the first week we checked our list against that of the Joneses and found they were six ahead!

Two weeks later we were running neck and neck. By now both families had listed most of the ordinary birds, and it was obvious that the rarer species would make the difference. Competition was at a fever pitch.

Some birds like the mourning dove (zenaidura macroura carolinensis) waddled on the ground beneath the feeder, picking up what the jays and chickadees spilled. But they couldn't be enticed to set foot on the feeder. Same thing held for the towhees.

Other frustrating things happened, too. For example, one night I was at my post watching when a very rare item hovered over the feeder, about to come in. It was a rose breasted grosbeak (pheuticus ludovicianus)! You can bet a 50-pound sack of sunflower seed the Joneses didn't have one of them!

Unfortunately, just as the grosbeak was about to alight, an old blue jay (cyanocitta cristata) came screeching

of Bird Watching

down. Off the grosbeak flew. I'd have written him down anyway, but as luck would have it, my wife was watching.

A pair of phoebes (sayornis) built their house under the eave of our garage. Since they feed on insects rather than seeds, I tried to entice them over to the feeder with a few dead flies and mosquitoes and some homemade phoebe chirping. These phoebes, however, wouldn't budge from the garage except when I drove in, which scared the mother to death. At least my wife said it did.

"She'll desert her eggs if you continue to drive in,"

she said in front of the children one evening.

The children sniffed and looked at me as if I were a potential murderer. So I left my car out of the garage for the next two weeks, rain or shine.

Well, 30 days to the minute our families tallied up the results. I'm proud to say we ended the month with seven more birds than the Joneses had. As a result, we're going to the bird sanctuary next week, all expenses paid. And, by the way, when I'm up there, I intend to eat like a vulture (coragyps atratus).

"And what's more, the new diet works! I've gained only five pounds this week."

SUGGESTIONS FROM
MRS. DAN GERBER

Signs of self-feeding starting to show? Finger foods, like Gerber Meat or Chicken Sticks are helpful for practicing hand-to-mouth coordination. Tasty ways to do it, too.

The Meat Sticks are made from lean pork and beef—the Chicken Sticks from juicy poultry... all specially selected by Armour. Both have added nonfat dry milk for extra protein. Both are suitably seasoned to pamper a toddler's palate.

Breakfast bonanza. Nothing like a tasty, toasty, nut-like flavor to win a baby's favor. And Gerber High Protein Cereal is just the thing to titillate an appetite. In addition to being pleasantly flavorful, it has a 35% protein content to help promote baby's growth. And, like all Gerber Cereals, it's enriched with iron to help build good red blood... calcium for strong bones and teeth and important B-vitamins which contribute to appetite and growth.

Added attraction. A topping of baby's favorite fruit adds a special fillip of flavor to any Gerber Cereal.

Variety review. Now there are nine refreshing Gerber Juices to give added pleasure to baby's "juice breaks." The sipping delights include Orange Juice, Apple Juice, Orange-Apple, Orange-Apricot, Orange-Pineapple, Pineapple-Grapefruit, Apple-Cherry and the two newest Gerber offerings: Mixed Fruit Juice and Prune-Orange. All luscious—all equally rich in the vitamin C your darling needs for sound gums and body tissues. Gerber® Baby Foods, Box 72, Fremont, Mich.

"I'm afraid I'll hurt her," Marge Graff says in trying to milk a cow for the first time, as her family vacations on an 830-acre farm.

Above: Tim Graff, 11, gets a chance to drive a tractor in an open pasture—and learns a little about tilling the land. Below: Chester Thacker explains to him the mysteries of an old-fashioned telephone that you crank by hand to hear the voice of a real, live operator.

VACATION DOWN ON THE FARM

■ "DAD, WHEN can we come back?"

Eleven-year-old Tim Graff popped the question the same moment he reluctantly climbed into the car as his family started the drive home from their vacation. The query wasn't too unusual, coming from a boy who had just had the time of his life, but the vacation was, at least for Tim, his nine-year-old sister Laurie, and their parents, Herbert and Marge Graff of Webster Groves, Missouri, a suburb of St. Louis.

It was the Graffs' first trip to a working farm. And from start to finish, it was a time of delight—driving a tractor, feeding livestock, cuddling kittens, eating tremendous home-cooked meals, fishing in a pond, and exploring Indian burial mounds.

Herb Graff was born on a farm and lived there until he was five, but his wife and children had never been to an actual working farm. They found their hosts—Fern and Chester Thacker of Sumner, Illinois—in a national directory of farms taking paying guests.* They paid $50 each a week for the adults, and $25 for children. The experience, they agreed, was priceless.—SHIRLEY ALTHOFF AND DICK WEDDLE

Tim loves to feed the sheep at seven o'clock in the morning—while his parents are still asleep.

Fern Thacker shows her famous home-made rolls to Herb Graff and his family. Big, hearty farm meals are one attraction of this new kind of vacation that's growing so popular.

Lilting Luncheon Theme

MELANIE DE PROFT

Food Editor

Lobster and grapes in a delicate wine sauce make Artichokes Veronique high adventure in luncheon fare.

ARTICHOQUES VERONIQUE

6 large artichokes	2½ cups milk
1½ teaspoons salt	1 cup heavy cream
½ cup butter or margarine	1 egg, slightly beaten
¼ cup finely chopped onion	4 oz. process Gruyere cheese, cut in pieces
¼ cup flour	2 cups diced cooked South African rock lobster tail meat (reserve shells)
1½ teaspoons salt	½ cup small grapes
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate	½ cup dry white wine
¼ teaspoon black pepper
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg

1. Remove about 1 in. from tops of artichokes by cutting straight across with a sharp knife. Cut off stems about 1 in. from base; remove and discard lower outside leaves. With scissors, clip off tips of remaining leaves. Soak the artichokes 20 to 30 min. in salted cold water; rinse and drain.

2. Put the artichokes and 1½ teaspoons salt into a large sauce pot or kettle; add enough boiling water to cover. Bring to boiling; cook, uncovered, 20 to 45 min., or until a leaf can easily be pulled out.

3. While artichokes are cooking, heat butter or margarine in the top of a large double boiler. Add onion and cook over medium heat about 3 min. Stir in a mixture of the flour and next five ingredients. Heat until bubbly. Remove from heat and gradually add the milk and cream, stirring constantly until smooth. Bring to boiling; boil 1 min., continuing to stir.

4. Mix a small amount of the hot mixture with the egg and stir into the hot white sauce. Cook over simmering water 3 to 5 min., stirring occasionally.

5. Add the cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Stir in the lobster, grapes, and wine; heat thoroughly.

6. Cut off stems from drained artichokes. Spread each artichoke open and pull out center leaves. Using a spoon, remove and discard the "choke" or fuzzy part. Transfer artichokes to a heated platter.

7. Fill the artichokes with the sauce. Garnish platter with lobster shells, lemon wedges, and clusters of grapes.

SPICED TANGERINES

8 tangerines	1 3-in. cinnamon stick, crushed
1½ cups water	1 bay leaf, crumbled
½ cup sugar	1 tablespoon grenadine
6 whole cloves

1. Peel, section, and seed tangerines, reserve peel from 3.

2. Combine the water, sugar, cloves, cinnamon, bay leaf, and tangerine peel in a large saucepan. Bring to boiling, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Reduce heat and cook for 10 min.

3. Remove and discard peel. Add tangerine sections and turn to coat with sirup; heat 2 min.

4. Stir in grenadine; cool. Cover and chill at least 2 hrs. Serve tangerine sections as a main course accompaniment.

About 5 cups

ZIPPY TOMATO COCKTAIL

2 1-lb., 2-oz. cans tomato juice	3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 medium-sized cucumber	2 teaspoons prepared horseradish
1 slice onion	1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 clove garlic	3 drops Tabasco
2 strips lemon peel, cutting away all of the white bitter portion	1 tablespoon sugar
	¼ teaspoon black pepper

1. Pour tomato juice into an attractive decanter.

2. Mince a small amount of unpared cucumber for garnish and reserve in refrigerator; pare and cut remaining cucumber into pieces. Put into an electric blender container along with remaining ingredients and 1 cup tomato juice; blend.

3. Mix with remaining tomato juice in decanter. Chill.

4. Place decanter and cocktail glasses on a tray with a small crystal bowl of the minced cucumber and accompany with Piquant Pecans.

1½ qts. tomato cocktail

PIQUANT PECANS

- | | |
|---------------------------|----------------------------------|
| ¼ cup butter or margarine | 4 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce |
| 2 teaspoons garlic salt | |
| ½ teaspoon Tabasco | 4 cups pecan halves |

1. Heat butter or margarine in a skillet. Add next three ingredients; stir well. Add pecan halves and stir until coated.
2. Spread pecans in a large, shallow baking pan.
3. Heat in a 375°F oven for 30 min., or until deep brown and crisp, stirring occasionally. Drain on absorbent paper.
4. Serve as nibblers with Zippy Tomato Cocktail.

4 cups pecans

NEW MOON YEAST ROLLS

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| 1 pkg. active dry yeast | 1 egg, beaten |
| ¾ cup warm water (110°F to 115°F) | 2 tablespoons butter, softened |
| 3 cups biscuit mix | 4 oz. (about ½ cup) almond paste |
| 2 tablespoons sugar | |

1. Dissolve yeast in warm water in a large bowl. Add biscuit mix, sugar, and egg; beat vigorously until well mixed. Turn onto a lightly floured surface. Knead dough until smooth, about 20 times.
2. Roll dough into a 10-in. square and spread softened butter over one-half of dough. Fold unbuttered half over buttered portion; press edges to seal. Roll dough into a 12-in. circle and crumble almond paste evenly over surface. Cut dough into 16 wedge-shaped pieces. Roll up each wedge beginning at wide end.
3. Place rolls with points underneath on greased baking sheets. Curve into crescents. Cover with waxed paper and a towel; let rise in a warm place 1 hr., or until doubled.
4. Bake at 375°F 12 to 15 min., or until golden brown. If desired, brush with melted butter immediately after removing from oven. Serve warm.

PANCAKES A LA BAHAMAS

- | | |
|-----------------|---------------------|
| Orange Butter | 7 tablespoons flour |
| 3 egg yolks | 3 egg whites |
| 1 cup milk | Butter |
| Few grains salt | |

1. Prepare Orange Butter (see recipe) and chill thoroughly.
2. Beat egg yolks. Add milk and salt; beat until blended. Mix in flour until well blended.
3. Using a clean beater, beat egg whites until rounded peaks are formed. Fold egg whites into egg yolk mixture.
4. Heat butter (allowing about 2 tablespoons of butter for preparing each pancake) in an 8-in. skillet over low heat. When butter begins to foam, pour it into a small cup.
5. Stir batter (stirring each time before pouring into skillet); using about ½ cup for each pancake, pour batter into heated skillet; tilt to evenly coat bottom of skillet. Cook until the batter is set.
6. Spoon a portion of the melted butter around the edges of the pancake and underneath until it seems to "float." Allow the pancake to cook slowly in the butter until the underside is golden, about 4 min. Turn and cook until the other side is golden. Add more butter, if necessary, to keep the pancake free from the skillet at all times.
7. Transfer pancake to a hot platter and top with a spoonful of the Orange Butter; roll. Set platter in warm oven while preparing remaining pancakes. Top with any remaining Orange Butter and pour Cointreau over the warm pancakes. Serve immediately.

About 6 pancakes

ORANGE BUTTER

Cream together 6 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon grated orange peel, and 3 tablespoons orange juice until butter is softened. Beat rapidly so that juice will be readily blended with the butter. Add 6 tablespoons confectioners' sugar in halves while continuing to beat. Chill thoroughly. Orange Butter can be stored for days in the refrigerator.

Can you name the 6 reasons Martini devotees prefer the glorious Gordon's Martini?

- 1 To this day, the ancient pot still method is used in distilling Gordon's Gin.
- 2 Only gin from the heart of the run is bottled for Gordon's.
- 3 Gordon's uses only juniper berries and other choice botanicals aged to the peak of maturity.
- 4 Gordon's is extraordinarily dry.
- 5 Gordon's has a distinctively delicate flavour.
- 6 Gordon's maintains its exceptional quality because it still harks back to Alexander Gordon's original formula created in England in 1769. Reasons enough for enjoying a Glorious Gordon's Martini soon, wouldn't you say?

Cut Your Roses Back
—Now

BY JOHN BRIMER, Garden Editor

A PLAIN-SPOKEN gardener was once asked how she produced such magnificent roses.

"Feed 'em like hogs and water 'em like elephants," she said, and that, along with a place in the sun, about tells the story. But early in the year, she also got out her shears and pruned, to channel her roses' energies into building strong young canes for the magnificent flowers to grow on.

In most of the country, right now in April is the time to prune. (In warm regions, pruning is best done in winter, but considerable benefits can be gained from now on, too. Cutting flowers for the house is, in a sense, pruning.) The sketches below will guide you to the proper pruning of various types of roses, except for the climbers, which vary so in their needs it is best to consult a nursery on your particular varieties. Don't be afraid of cutting back too much—roses will produce more from the new wood that develops. Feed well after pruning, again in June and lightly in midsummer.

Make Your Cuts Correctly: Use only clean, sharp tools. Select an outward-facing bud; cut about 1/2-inch above it. Treat large cuts with tree-wound paint or dressing. CUTS: 1. Too far above bud; will cause die-back. 2. Too close to bud. 3. Wrong angle, too horizontal. 4. Wrong angle, too slanting. 5. The proper slant, 1/2-inch above bud.

Spring Pruning: Cut off all dead or diseased canes to healthy, live wood. Remove any canes that rub others, also twiggy branchlets, weak canes. Three to five or six good strong canes are sufficient, and these must be shortened according to your climate. Your rose may look stubby and skinny now, but it won't for very long. For best results, cut boldly!

Summer Pruning: Cutting roses for the house helps to produce more bloom. Cut with a short stem at (A) to force new growth, at (B) and (C) for later bloom. If the bush was not pruned in spring, cut your rose near the base of its shoot (D) about 1/2-inch above a leaf. This will force new flower growth with long stems and fewer but larger flowers, helping to shape the bush. If you want really big flowers, cut off the little side buds (E), (F), leaving the main one to develop into a superb specimen.

Keep 'em Coming: As blossoms begin to fade, remove them. On hybrid tea roses, cut 1/2-inch above the top 5-leaved leaf. Floribundas, having multiple blossoms, fade intermittently; individual blossoms may be removed or wait till cluster fades, cutting it off 1/2-inch above top 5-leaved leaf. With grandifloras, bearing both individual and cluster blossoms, follow both procedures. If you have no blossoms, force bloom by cutting just above a strong 5-leaved leaf.

What Do Teen-agers Get Out of Volunteer Jobs?

Perhaps you feel you've heard or read everything Tampax has to say. But girls just like you have this to add:

“Tampax) has given me more freedom in the past two years because it is comfortable, easy to dispose of, and has solved the odor problem of the century.”

“Today I became a 'modern woman.' Now that I've discovered how absolutely easy (Tampax) is, I will never use anything else.”

“I can't express the feeling of relief (Tampax) afforded me. I no longer dread those certain days of the month. (Other girls) don't know what enjoyment they're missing being completely guarded against irritation.”

“To a female who is as active as I, it's a blessing. I'm only fifteen, a sophomore in high school, but I've found there's nothing that will beat it. I just had to tell you that your selling records will shoot up, as I'm having a few little 'Girl-Talk' sessions with my friends, even my mother.”

Talk to your friends about Tampax internal sanitary protection. And ... reconsider! Tampax Incorporated, Palmer, Massachusetts.

NEXT TIME the conversation turns to the sorry state of American teen-agers, take a good look at what they are really doing in your community. You'll find that the delinquents are far outnumbered by youngsters who have quietly volunteered for projects which directly or indirectly benefit us all.

In contrast to the run-of-the-mill paid jobs—so much desired, so hard to get—volunteer work offers a ready market for teen-age enterprise and energy and plenty of the experience that comes with doing.

To hear the volunteers tell it: “I've learned to get along with people in all walks of life,” said a California girl who helped in her town's Easter Seal rehabilitation center.

“Almost all the girls in the upper school belong to the Social Service Club,” a young New Englander reported. “Friday afternoons we work at volunteer jobs wherever we're needed. Some of us run errands and wait on tables in the hospital, and other girls put on games at the Day Nursery or do filing at the Red Cross or secretarial chores at the Tuberculosis Center.

“It's so much better than kidding around town all the time because we know we're needed, and the work makes us feel as if we were doing something really worthwhile.”

In Lyndhurst, Ohio, top students from the comfortably endowed Hawken School have taken on a civic chore with an unusual and exciting potential: twice a week in the evening they bus into Cleveland, to the Karamu Settlement House, to tutor certain of their contemporaries in the "frayed neighborhoods" who need help with school work.

From 7:30 to 10 on these evenings the Hawken boys help the city pupils with discouraging mathematics or make suggestions for English themes or offer strategy for the study of the Civil War or discuss chemistry experiments. Toward the end of the evening the talk gets general—on cars, for instance, and the Cleveland Browns and close harmony and other subjects of peculiar interest to tutors and pupils alike.

"Our courses at Hawken are entirely academic," one of the volunteers remarked, "and some of the Cleveland students are taking vocational subjects, but when we shoot the breeze, we find we're all pretty much alike."

COMMUNITY Service Societies, the Scouts, Y's Boys' Clubs, Red Cross, and other national organizations have all sorts of jobs to offer volunteers. Much that they do is commonplace (and the same can be said of young workers in paid jobs, too). They work on clothing drives and city clean-up campaigns; entertain shut-ins at Christmas; raise money for charitable projects. But there are also many unusual programs.

Since 1959, for example, almost 100 senior Girl Scouts in DuPage County, Illinois, have worked as therapy home assistants for the disabled. After intensive training in the skills needed to care for crippled children, they baby-sit without fee for at least an hour a week for the families concerned. "This is like a big breath of fresh air," sighed one grateful mother who, after five years, was finally free to leave her handicapped child.

At Washington, D.C.'s, International Center, Girl Scouts from Arlington, Virginia, are hostesses to foreigners who come to learn more about the United States.

"THEY'RE wonderful," says Mrs. Margaret O'Donoghue, the Center's coordinator of volunteer services. "The foreigners who meet these girls are delighted and impressed, after arriving with a very distorted image of American youth."

If the only thing teenagers got out of volunteer service was the feeling of being useful, their work would be worthwhile. But they gain much more. They develop a sense of responsibility, become more dependable, punctual, self-confident, poised, patient, and neat—qualities that will help in getting a paid job later.

Volunteer work often leads to a career, too. Many discover that what they are doing for free they would like ultimately to do for pay. And on the other hand, some who think they know where they are headed find out as result of volunteer experience that they have been on the wrong track.

A good record in volunteering can also help in getting into college because it carries weight with admissions officers. And well it might—the teenager who has done a good volunteer job has already begun to take his place in the world.

Obviously, your pool sanitizer should protect the kids against bacteria and algae. But that's not all it should do.

It should also leave an effective chlorine residual you can measure quickly with a simple test kit.

And, it should be cheap and simple to handle.

And, if the pH level is O.K., it should let you jump in a few minutes after you chlorinate, without irritating your eyes, your nose or your skin.

But, it shouldn't add any unpleasant taste, color or odor of its own. Or change the effect of other chemicals in the water. Or eat away at the pool finish, equipment or accessories.

There are pool sanitizers that come up to some of these standards.

But HTH[®], Olin's sanitizer, makes the grade on all counts.

HTH is chlorine in dry form. It's delivered to your door in a 100-lb. steel drum.

(It can't break, spill, leak or stain.)

One phone call to your pool supply dealer (he's listed in the Yellow Pages) at the beginning of the season takes care of all your chlorine shopping for the whole year.

It should be that easy.

No more long, disappointing waits for big fish to get hungry. The unique design of the SPOON-BUG gives it a lively, life-like "panic" action that makes fish fighting, biting mad. Even lunker fish eat very little; it's amazing how many smaller fish (like the SPOON-BUG!) they attack in anger. That's why the SPOON-BUG is 100% guaranteed... not just that it is expertly made of finest Stainless Steel, with easily replaceable hook and expensive Marabou feathers; not just that it's an outstanding comparative value; BUT THAT IT WILL CATCH FISH wherever there are

Some fences enhance the beauty, value and privacy of your home more than others. Most beautiful of all is a "living fence" of roses. The only rose created especially for fence use, "Red Glory," quickly forms an impenetrable wall of beauty. Strong, tightly-knit bushes weave into one another from the ground up, grow compactly upright without sprawling. Keep your children and pets in, those of others out. Gives you, month after month, a bonus of radiant red roses to enjoy seeing and picking. And should any bush fail to grow, it will be replaced free. Yet this fence costs under 25¢ per foot, less than any other kind of fence. 90% less than brick, 80% less than board, 85% less than wire. Before ordering fencing, get the story of Red Glory. MAIL THE COUPON TODAY.

Own Your Private Beachette
FACING THE CARIBBEAN
With FREE Membership in our GOLF COURSE and CLUB
 Of all the islands in the Caribbean there is none more ideally the dream of the true island-lover than a gem of gently sloping mountains and beach-framed coves discovered by Columbus and named by him MONTSERRAT. Montserrat, the greenest and loveliest of them all, is in the leeward British West Indies. Our close neighbor is Antigua, non-stop by jet from New York. Montserrat is only 27 miles from Antigua—15 minutes by regular scheduled airline. All land values have risen in the islands but prices of property which faces the Caribbean have soared! On Antigua, St. Thomas, Jamaica, Barbados—lots fronting the sea are precious. Yet in relatively unknown Montserrat, you may own a 1/4 acre Beachette looking out at the Caribbean for only $2995—$30 down and $30 a month. Macadam roads, electric and telephone lines, and water piped to your Beachette from mountain springs are under construction and included in this price. In August our spectacular golf course will be open for play and for two full years Beachette owners may play this great course FREE! Write for our thick portfolio describing MONTSERRAT BEACHETTES in photo and word. No charge, no obligation.

To N.Y. State residents: Sale of this property is by Offering Statement only. This Statement has been filed with the Dept. of State, N.Y. Copy available from subdivision upon request NYA #518-5

World's Fair Film For Altar Society

Woman of St. Paul's on the Lakeshore Invited To Preview New York Fair Next Monday; Tea to Follow Film

An armchair preview of the New York World's Fair via the color film, "Come To The Fair," will be presented to members and guests of the St. Paul Altar Society at their meeting on Monday, April 6 at 1:30 o'clock in the Parish House.

Through the courtesy of the Michigan Consolidated Gas Company the wonders of the world of science and industry of tomorrow will be glimpsed. A delightful and informative view of present-day Japan and Thailand will also be shown. Here is an opportunity for the women of St. Paul's to look in advance at what they might like to plan for this year's vacation—a trip to the East, (New York), or a trip to the Far East, (Japan and Thailand). Hostess for the tea which follows will be Mrs. Blount Slade, assisted by Mrs. John Corbett, Mrs. Charles Stumb, Mrs. Alonzo C. Allen, Mrs. Francis J. Lynch, Mrs. Raymond J. Duffy, Jr., and Mrs. Harther Keim.

To Hold Fashion Show at Church

The Women of St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church, at Chalfonte and Lothrop, are having their annual spring luncheon on April 15 at 12:30 in the Church Fellowship Hall.

Special guests for the occasion will be the ladies from Luther Haven which is a home for senior citizens which is affiliated with The Lutheran Social Services of Michigan on the Boulevard near Vernor.

A fashion show will be presented by Rosemary Fashions of 20856 Mack avenue in the Woods. The women modeling the lovely spring fashions will be—Mrs. Robert Graham, Mrs. Arthur Berns, Mrs. James Graham, Mrs. Robert Cann, Mrs. Ward Ohmans, Mrs. Harry Kall, Mrs. Minnie Ruthenberg, Mrs. Robert Yost, Mrs. Howard Lavenberg, Mrs. Gerald Thiede, and Mrs. Thomas Cooper.

Friends of the community wishing to attend are most welcome and may do so by calling for tickets from Mrs. William Frame, TU. 4-7335. Tickets are $1.25.

End Pro Musica Season April 4

The final concert in this year's Pro Musica series has been changed to Saturday, April 4, at 8:30 o'clock. It will be held as usual in the Lecture Hall of the Detroit Institute of Arts with a reception and social hour following in the Romanesque Hall.

The young American mezzo-soprano, Regina Sarfaty, is flying back to the U.S. for this concert, coming from Europe where she has been touring in leading roles with the Frankfurt Opera Company. Prior to that she created a sensation in her appearances with the Vienna Opera.

Her Pro Musica appearance promises a delightful evening and another glamorous Detroit debut for this organization which has brought so many artists to Detroit for their first recitals here over the years.

Miss Sarfaty's program will include groups of songs by Vincenzo Bellini, Francis Poulenc, Manuel de Falla and Ned Rorem, as well as Jocasta's aria from "Oedipus Rex" by Igor Stravinsky.

Hosts and hostesses for the social hour will be Mrs. John M. Chase, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Dimitrievich, Miss Stacey Edwards, Mrs. Berj H. Haidostian,
