

Seyburn auction marks end of an era

By Dean Brierly

The auction at the Winifred Dodge Seyburn estate last week put another nail in the coffin of a way of life rapidly disappearing from Grosse Pointe—a life of personal servants, dressing for dinner, chauffeur-driven Rolls and moving from one estate to another as the seasons changed.

The late Mrs. Seyburn, daughter of auto pioneer John F. Dodge lived that life to the fullest. Friends remember her as a woman who loved giving and going to parties, playing the horses at Hialeah, attending weddings and debutante balls, playing golf and tennis and traveling.

MRS. SEYBURN died January 3, at the age of 85.

Winnie, as her close friends called her, devoted much of her time to philanthropic activities. She supported the DSO, contributed to charities and hospitals and rolled bandages for the Red Cross during WW II.

The mansion at 16850 East Jefferson was built by her second husband, real estate developer Wesson Seyburn, in 1924. It was used as a summer home and for social events in the fall. Winters were spent in Palm Beach.

The estate itself represents an idealized way of life associated with another time — secure, stately and proper.

The main house looks out onto Lake St. Clair, which sends cool breezes floating through the house, past the front stone courtyard and over the beautiful formal garden which runs parallel to the narrow drive with its canopy of trees.

Although in her later years Mrs. Seyburn didn't get around those grounds very much, she was still able to indulge in her lifelong passion—cards. Ann Kelly, a chambermaid at the estate the last 11 years, remembers asking Mrs. Seyburn who had won at the day's round of Canasta.

"She would laugh and say 'I did, of course!'" said Kelly. "She was an exciting lady. Very jolly and witty and always nice to the girls."

LENA UPLEGGER, one of the two cooks, recalls her former employer as a nice woman who made sure the help was treated "just like she was. It was like a family here. I'll be sad to see the staff go."

Wilfrid Thompson, Mrs. Seyburn's personal butler, says the heiress loved to give formal dinner parties and would dress for dinner every evening regardless of whether she had guests or not. He likened her death to that of a relative.

"If you don't care about the people you work for, then you don't work for them," he explained. "She was a kind, sweet, dear old lady."

Mrs. Seyburn collected many exquisite things during her lifetime—oriental rugs, fine paintings, French antiques, bronze sculptures, classically-styled furniture and four cars, including a 1965 Rolls Royce Silver Shadow.

All of them went during the four-day auction, which lasted from last Saturday through Tuesday. Hundreds of people tramped the grounds of the estate and bid on the items as two auctioneers from DuMouchelle's, the Detroit antique firm which handled the auction, sold the treasures.

Joan Walker, who works for DuMouchelle's, said Mrs. Seyburn's four daughters left close to 95 percent of the household items, contrary to the current trend. All told, more than 1,200 "lots," as the auctioneers call them, were sold, and Walker termed the profits from the sale "substantial."

THE ESTATE TOOK several months to prepare, as items had to be catalogued, tagged, counted, listed and photographed. Wilfrid Thompson said he wasn't really bothered by the prospect of seeing all the furniture and art works he'd grown accustomed to being put on the block.

"It's like anything else," he said.

Bridge Issue Faces a Vote

By Gregory Jakub

The Grosse Pointe Woods City Council on July 7 will again try to solve a seven-year-old problem at Lakefront Park by considering the removal of a bridge on the Milk River which prevents boater access to 53 boatwells.

Since 1973, high water in the river has narrowed clearance under the bridge to about five feet making boat docks on the other side of the bridge unusable. Discussion about the need and cost of the bridge project has delayed a council decision on the bridge question several times since 1975.

The current plan by the Woods Recreation Commission now before the city council proposes replacing the bridge with a wooden pedestrian span with more clearance and constructing a vehicular bridge upstream toward Jefferson.

THE $177,000 project would be funded over five years through rental fees from boaters who will pay $260 a year to use the park's 236 boatwells, the plan says.

If the project is approved, boatwell rental fees will increase to $260 per year, compared to the current $130, or $220 per year.

At a special meeting with the Recreation Commission and boaters two weeks ago, the council reacted favorably to the plan and scheduled it for its June 18 session. At that meeting, the council dwelled on questions of cost and demand for the now blocked boat docks and delayed action until July 7.

To some it was a sign that the council could again delay deciding on removing the bridge as it has since 1973, according to Lawrence Sullivan, member of the Grosse Pointe Woods Boat Club.

THE WOODS BOAT Club is comprised of 80 Woods families and has been the prime mover on issues associated with the park and boating.

County to pave Shores' section of Lakeshore

By Dean Brierly

Grosse Pointe scored a partial victory in its long-standing battle to get Lakeshore repaved when the Wayne County Road Commission accepted a bid Monday for work on the Shores' section of the road.

Managing Director of the WCRC Joe Hartman said it was too early to reveal who the bid was from, but stated the matter was "all settled," and that work should begin on the first of August. He added the project should be finished in about a month.

The total cost of the project is $540,000, of which the Village's share is $40,000. The Shores will have four interest-free years in which to pay the road commission.

Meanwhile, the Farms and the county remain locked in the stalemate which has lasted since 1976, when the road commission, preparing to repave Lakeshore, approached both the Farms and the Shores with a request they pay one-third of the total costs involved.

Since that time, federal contributions have brought that figure down to about eight percent apiece. The WCRC adopted the cost-sharing stance after it claimed to be receiving insufficient state tax dollars to finance the project itself.

While the Shores came to terms with the county last summer, the Farms City Council has remained firm in its commitment not to give in.

Remaining just as firm is the road commission, which cites a state law it claims enables the county to request community participation in funding the repair of roads. That position is being challenged in a lawsuit by Wayne County Commissioner Ervin A. Steiner, himself a Farms resident. However, his case is not due to come up for hearing for another year.

THE FARMS' POSITION is that since Lakeshore is a county road, then the road commission is solely responsible for its upkeep. City manager Andrew Bremer stated the city spent more than $200,000 repairing its own.

With the passing of Winifred Dodge Seyburn, the day of personal servants and stately homes is drawing to a close. Moustachioed Wilfrid Thompson, every inch the proper butler, stands on the steps of the estate leading down to the lake and ponders the fate of the mansion Mrs. Seyburn left behind—will it find a buyer or fall to the wreck-cr's ball?

Court decision uncorks drink law

By Gregory Jakub

A bill introduced in Lansing late Monday seeks to prohibit diners from bringing their own liquor to an unlicensed restaurant. If enacted the bill would close a loophole revealed last week by the state appeals court.

The appeals court ruling came last Tuesday in response to a suit filed more than a year ago by Le Cafe Francais on Mack in Grosse Pointe Woods. It says that Michigan's Bottle Club Act, which prohibits the bringing of liquor to unlicensed establishments, doesn't apply to restaurants.

Although the court decision applies specifically to Le Cafe, some

Efforts begin to close loophole

legal experts say it implies such disparities as bringing and consuming a six-pack in McDonalds but forbids the same thing at Le Cafe or any licensed restaurant.

The bill introduced by Rep. Paul Henry, (R-Grand Rapids), would prohibit restaurants from providing items such as food, glasses, ice and mixers to be used with the consumption of alcoholic beverages.

A week after the decision, there were no reports of anyone taking advantage of the ruling from Grosse Pointe law enforcement officials, although one well-dressed man was reportedly seen waiting in line outside Joe Muer's restaurant in Detroit Saturday night toting his own bottle.

A random phone survey of six restaurants along Mack Avenue showed that no one has brought their own bottle into any of those places since last week's ruling.

Grosse Pointe Woods Director of Public Safety John Dankel said that based on his reading of newspaper reports on the ruling, it is hard to assess its actual effects, but he speculated on some aspects of its impact.

"Liquor licenses are less valuable now. They are almost like a franchise on serving alcoholic beverages. Now, some restaurants have lost that protection. . . . It almost negates the licensing process from the Liquor Control Commission. I don't think that's the way the Legislature wants it to be," Dankel said.

"We've lost control over any place that doesn't have a license," was the interpretation of the ruling by Woods Councilman Fredrick Lovelace, a former Woods policeman.

He added that the ruling also poses questions for insurance companies about the liability for actions of persons who consume liquor in an unlicensed establishment.

Babcock savors that 'championship feeling'

By Peggy O'Connor

What sports fan hasn't watched the Super Bowl or World Series champions celebrate their victory and wondered how it would feel to be able to claim, "We're number one?"

Bill Babcock knows how it feels. More than a week after his team, the Grosse Pointe North High School varsity baseball squad, captured the Class A State title, Babcock still has that 'championship feeling.'

"RIGHT AFTER the game, I just couldn't believe that we had done it, even now it hasn't sunk in," Babcock says. "When you win something like that, you're just so happy, you don't even know what you're doing."

Babcock and the Norsemen knew exactly what they were doing before they won the state title. "We had the title in mind, it was our goal to win the state," he said. "It motivated us during practices and it helped us to keep that goal in mind when we lost."

Not that the Norsemen lost very often. The squad finished with a 29-4 record, the most wins by any prep team in Michigan. According to Babcock, the four losses occurred in a "letdown period" when they dropped two tough league games and lost two to highly-rated Harper Woods High School.

Babcock gives credit for the winning season to the character of the team and to some good coaching.

"The starting nine were consistent throughout the season. If one guy was down, somebody else would be up. Basically, the team was split up into little groups of guys for practices—you know, guys sticking with their friends, their groups."

"But during games, we pulled together, we were close. During games, there was no team closer."

Coach Frank Sumner gets a lot of credit from Babcock for putting the winning team together—and making it stick together.

"I thought Sumner was very instrumental. . . . He knows how to settle guys down and he worked as hard as anybody in the off season, planning the season and attending a coaching clinic. He was looking toward a state championship but he kept us from looking too far ahead" Babcock said.

THE STRAIN OF competitive sports is not new to Babcock. He participated in competitive swimming before he was old enough to play organized baseball at age eight. He also played basketball and football, but gave those up to concentrate on baseball.

It appears that baseball will be part of Babcock's life for some time to come. The Detroit Tigers sent a scout, Rudy Firchek, who worked with Babcock and his teammates Mike Seagram and Tom Shook.

"Basically, he just gave us some instruction and he really helped a lot."

Babcock still has a year of high school left and says that college would be the next step toward a career in baseball.

"I'd like to play college ball. Everyone dreams of playing in Florida or California, but Michigan has some good schools. I just don't know yet."

And professional baseball?

"It's a dream, Babcock says. "I'd love to try—I just hope I get the chance. I guess everybody just wants a chance. If you don't make it you can always say, 'I had a shot.'"

Babcock has a good shot, if his high school statistics are any indication. He posted a 13-0 record, with an 0.19 earned run average. His season total of 125 strikeouts is a North record.

If Babcock does make it to the pros, he says it will be as a pitcher. Many

A trophy and a promising future for Bill Babcock.

City Council jumps into the SOS debate

By Joanne Gouleche

A group trying to prevent the location of several small shops on Fisher road claimed a small victory last week when the Grosse Pointe City Council agreed to arrange a meeting with Detroit Bank and Trust Co. officials.

The bank intends to replace the Fisher road shops with a full service subsidiary sometime next year and has repeatedly turned down offers to appear publicly to discuss the issue which has stirred the community since a protest march was held earlier this year.

ABOUT 35 SAVE Our Shops sympathizers packed council chambers last week, hoping to convince city fathers to stop the bank from moving into the Pointe Pedlar and other boutiques and small businesses on Fisher road. Most of the supporters went away from the meeting relieved that they finally made some progress in their battle with the bank.

City officials, say, however, they have been unsuccessful in setting up the meeting because bank president Donald Mandich is out of town and can't be reached. The SOS people would like to meet before the July 4 holiday.

It took nearly two hours of discussion before the council agreed to the private meeting with some of its members, the SOS people and bank officials.

"How many of you are willing to pass a resolution tonight? Are you willing to be heard on our behalf?" asked Elaine Hartmann, chairman of the SOS group.

City resident Sarah Hill, spokesman for the group at the meeting,

THE CROWDED contest to replace Cong. Lucien Nedzi, who will retire this fall, is coming to Grosse Pointe next week. The story is on page 3.

BLOCK PARTIES are as popular as ever with citizens, if not their city councilmen. A story about two parties planned for July 4 is on page 11.

IN SPORTS, a special group of athletes from Poupard Elementary School recently competed in the Special Olympics. The story is on page 29.

POINTER OF INTEREST this week on page 28, is Elizabeth Lesesne, a concert pianist who will make her debut at the Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival's Young Artists concert.

Church Carillon Recitals Slated

The third summer series of carillon recitals will be presented on Monday evenings (except for a July 4 recital), 7 to 8 p.m., at The Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore.

This series is presented by the Musica Series 1979-80 and a special fund in memory of Ann Louise Kelly. The concerts are for the community free of charge and are held outdoors, rain or shine. They are informal and the lakefront property provides a beautiful setting of boats on Lake St. Clair to add to the enjoyment. Printed programs will be provided.

The first recital begins on June 30 with guest performer Gerard de Waardt, city carillonneur of Maassluis, Tholen and Sint Maartensdijk in The Netherlands.

On July 4 at 7 p.m., William De Turk, director of music and carillonneur of Memorial Church, will play a special recital of patriotic American music. De Turk also will perform on July 7, 28 and August 11, and the tower will be open to the public only during his recitals for viewing the 47 bells and seeing the carillonneur perform.

Other guests slated in the series are Gordon Slater (July 14), Dominion carillonneur at the Houses of Parliament in Ottawa, Canada; Beverly Buchanan (July 21), carillonneur of Christ Church Cranbrook; Judson Maynard (August 4), professor of music at Texas Tech University; Sally Slade Warner (August 25), carillonneur of Phillips Academy in Andover, Mass. A special recital of music for two carillonneurs will be presented on August 18 by Buchanan and De Turk.

The Memorial Church carillon consists of 47 bells weighing from 15 pounds to two tons. It is played expressively from a mechanical action keyboard/pedalboard in the tower one floor below the bells. Interesting displays of bell artifacts can be seen by those who climb the 44 steps of the tower.

For further information call the church office at 882-5330.

MIKE SCHUELER and COLLEEN FINAN, seniors at South High School enrolled in the school's automotive course, operate an engine lift on one of eight cars donated to the high school's industrial education department by Michigan Mutual Insurance Co. The vehicles, damaged in accidents, will be used as part of the department's automotive program, giving students the opportunity to experience hands-on training in automotive skills and theory. This is the second time Michigan Mutual has donated cars to the school. Also pictured are South's automotive instructor DAVID BASEHORE (right) and EDWARD C. FOOTE (second from right), vice-president regional manager of Michigan Mutual's Detroit Metropolitan Region. Foote is a resident of the Farms and his wife and two children are graduates of South.

Parking Rates Increase

The Grosse Pointe City Council approved an increase in parking fees in attendant lots, parking structures, and on parking meters presented by City Manager Thomas Kressbach at their Monday night meeting, June 16, to increase revenue supporting the City's parking system.

The present parking meter rates, in effect since August, 1969, will be doubled. A minimum 15 minute time will be 5 cents and the cost for an hour will be raised to 20 cents.

Present attendant surface parking lots and parking structures rates have not changed since July 1974. These fees will increase from 15 cents to 20 cents for one hour or less of parking. All day rates will increase from $1.10 to $1.40 on surface lots and from $1.50 to $1.75 for parking structures.

Kressbach cited areas of increased cost to the city to maintain and improve the parking system. The effect of increased rates is estimated to generate an additional $80,000 to $90,000 of city revenue annually depending on the general state of the economy.

The council also discussed an increase in fines on meter violations to deal with increased enforcement costs. It pointed out the need to make fines significant so that people will feed their meters rather than chance a ticket.

The Council moved to postpone a decision until further study is made. They will review records of past violations and look at similar changes in fines in nearby communities.

Network for Seniors

The Cable TV Connection

By Mike Reynolds
General Manager
Grosse Pointe Cable TV

This is the fourth in a series of articles explaining the services that will be offered by Grosse Pointe Cable TV.

My 73-year-old grandmother loves to work in her garden, never misses bingo, and would probably hike across the Sahara if someone told her that the Bedouins were having a garage sale.

But Gran rarely looks at television. Ask her why and she'll tell you that, like most of her friends, she doesn't find much on the tube worth watching.

For her and other Grosse Pointe area seniors, there will be a lot more to see when Grosse Pointe Cable TV introduces the new Cinemera Satellite Network — the first channel created specifically to meet the needs and interests of those 56 million Americans who've passed the age of 50.

Cinemera is going to air a full schedule of programming that's sure to appeal to older viewers. Shows will focus on such topics as health, retirement living and second career opportunities.

One program, "Social Security/Medicare Mailbag" will not only present factual information but also answer specific questions sent in by viewers.

There will be shows on dieting, exercise classes on three levels (for varying degrees of ability), hobbies, travel opportunities for seniors, nutrition, do-it-yourself household repairs and women's fashions, as well as regular news "wraps" highlighting events of particular interest to mature viewers.

Separate religious programs will be offered for all major denominations and a continuing education series will span topics ranging from cooking and crafts to basic bookkeeping and foreign languages.

Cinemera will also present a lineup of pure entertainment tailored to the interests of older audiences.

Name performers will be featured in original dramas relating to the viewer's experience and time of life. In addition, there will be variety specials, daytime "soap operas," game shows, concerts, ballet and theater performances and rarely seen classic films, including famous silents with musical accompaniment.

The man largely responsible for the network's format is Sylvester "Pat" Weaver, creator of the "Today" and "Tonight" shows and now chairman of Cinemera's Planning Board.

Praising the new network, U.S. Rep. Claude Pepper, chairman of the House's Select Committee on Aging, observed: "The cable industry should be congratulated for taking this innovative step to develop programming that is sensitive to the needs and interests of the more than 56 million Americans who are 50 and over."

Task Forces Organized to Help Serve the Needs of Senior Citizens

By Dean Brierly

Leaders of four task forces assigned to study the needs of seniors in the Grosse Pointe area met recently at a special luncheon to update and share the results of their findings.

The task force concept is being carried out by Seniors Onward for Change (SOC) under a grant from the Detroit/Wayne County Area Agency on Aging. Elaine Reed, program developer for SOC, and her assistant Virginia Downing, staffed the four task forces back in April to study specific areas of seniors' needs including housing, health, transportation and information and referral services.

Reed said at their inception that the task forces are perhaps the most effective way to meet senior needs that are currently not being met.

AT THE LUNCHEON, held on Friday, June 20 at the War Memorial, each task force leader presented a report detailing the progress of their group and areas that still require further study. This was the first such update meeting, with another scheduled for September.

The task force on Health and In-Home services, led by Mary Evelyn Self, pointed to drug abuse by seniors as its main concern.

Self recommended the need for specific consumer information and patient counseling by pharmacists and doctors, general consumer education and encouragement of responsible advertising and short informative articles on items of concern to seniors regarding drugs.

Nutrition is another problem being studied by Self's group. In this area it recommends more sites for congregate dining, lists of business and restaurant discounts for seniors to be developed, group purchase plans for fresh food and staples and plans to involve more volunteers to deliver meals to the home bound.

On the Housing/Alternative Living front, the task force chaired by the Rev. Kenneth Lentz claims that support systems are necessary to maintain seniors in their homes. Lentz cited the value of discussions on current problems of seniors living alone, especially those on below-average levels of income.

THE TRANSPORTATION task force reported that it has asked the Health task force representatives to examine patients' needs for transportation to their doctors and to scheduled treatment programs.

Chairman John Austin also stated that SEMTA will be asked about services for seniors to be established this summer and that the possible need for providing an escort service from the home to the bus will be studied.

Information and Referral task force leader Frances Sohonenberg claimed her group, consisting of a full committee and two sub-committees, has finished and printed a one-page sheet of "Information for Senior Citizens and Their Families."

Some 20,000 copies of the sheet were printed and distributed to seniors in the Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods area. The sheet contains names and phone numbers of information and referral services for seniors.

Sohonenberg said her task force has plans to update and improve the original list as well as develop a master file of the most complete and up-to-date referral information, which will be based in a permanent location.

According to Downing, the luncheon served basically as a preliminary report based on preliminary data.

"Eventually, we'll feed all of our information into a computer so we can better organize ourselves and see which segments of the elderly need which services," she added.

The four task forces will meet again in the fall, at which time the Board of Directors of SOC will decide how much responsibility their organization will assume for the programs and how the recommended services should be implemented.

Park Celebrates July 4 on the Lake

The City of Grosse Pointe Park will hold Fourth of July Festivities on that day from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., weather permitting.

The event will take place at Windmill Pointe Park and feature activities for residents of all ages. Prizes range from tennis balls, frisbees, insulated picnic bags, and other items.

Games include a water-balloon toss, three-legged race, adult horseshoes, scavenger and treasure hunt, and more. Activity schedules may be picked up at the main gate starting Wednesday June 25. For more information call either Maryellen Gleason or Mary Roarty at 822-2812.

It takes more than shouts to create an echo in this world.

Congressional Race Comes to the Pointe

By Gregory Jakub

Judging by the number of campaign signs that have appeared on the east side, Democratic Congressional candidates Sen. John Kelly and State Rep. Dennis Hertel are wasting no time in getting their names out to the public before the August primary.

Hertel and Kelly are among the 15 candidates hoping to be selected by their party to run for the 14th District Congressional seat to be vacated when Lucien Nedzi retires this fall. Both are considered by some to be the major contenders in the August Democratic primary.

While the spread of campaign signs may be the most visible evidence of their campaigns, both are planning different approaches to face-to-face contact with voters.

Kelly has planned a series of town meetings to discuss topics he feels are main issues facing Congress today. "I am holding this series of meetings because I believe political campaigns should involve more than the usual name game. In the process of electing one's representative to Congress, the electorate deserves the chance to hear specifics from the candidates, certainly more than the vague rhetoric that often appears in campaign literature," Kelly said.

The third in the series of eight town meetings will be Monday, June 30, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial starting at 7:30 p.m. The evening's topic will be U.S.'s Foreign Policy in the 1980's.

Hertel will address the voters too, but on a one-to-one basis in an extensive door-to-door campaign planned for the whole district which includes Hamtramck, the Pointes, Harper Woods, Centerline, East Detroit, part of Warren and Detroit's east side.

"The people have a right to know as much as possible about the individuals who are seeking to represent their interests in Washington. I want to give them the chance to know me by meeting with them at their own front door," Hertel said. Hertel was hoofing it in Centerline last weekend and plans to personally ring as many as 10,000 doorbells before August.

Other candidates who have filed for August primary ballot for the 14th Congressional seat include Democrats Helen Irving, chairwoman of the 14th district Democratic party and city of Detroit employee; Lawrence Rocca of Warren; Peter Signorelli of Plymouth; Richard Kuzmar of Warren; Walter Gajewski of Detroit; Anthony Jaworski of Detroit; David Szymanski of Grosse Pointe and Herbert Schebor, attorney from Detroit.

Republicans in the race are Vic Caputo, former WJBK TV personality and Grosse Pointe Shores resident; Cadillac Motor employee John Laue of Grosse Pointe Woods; Margaret Tenerowicz of Hamtramck; Detroit businessman John Cunningham and Mark Wise of Harper Woods.

Live at the Punch

Winnie Features Local Cast

By Dean Br'erly

The adventures of Christopher Robin and his faithful companion Winnie the Pooh will come alive on stage beginning this Saturday, June 28, at the Punch and Judy theater.

The musical version of the children's classic is the first of four shows offered in the Punch's Family Theater Series. Upcoming productions include "Once Upon a Mattress," "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" and "Wind in the Willows."

Rehearsals for "Winnie" began last week, according to Wendy Honstain, 14, of the Farms, who plays the legendary Pooh. Wendy says the cast practices every day from 1 to 5 p.m. and Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Most of the cast members are veterans of children's theater at the War Memorial, as is the director, Sally Reynolds. Among the players are Kristin Weithas as Christopher Robin, Paul Corbett as Eeyore, Jenny Marshall as Rabbit, Liz Perkin as Piglet, Karyl Morris as Roo and Rob Smith as Owl.

Working at the Punch provides the kids with a welcome change of pace, according to Wendy.

"There's a lot more freedom than at the War Memorial," says Wendy. "Here it's a lot closer to real theater. The atmosphere is a lot better—it's looser. It's like our own theater."

Wendy is a veteran of seven shows, most of them at the War Memorial, and says she plans to pursue a career in acting. Ambitions like Wendy's are precisely why manager Tom Shaker decided to bring live theater back to the Punch.

"We have an educational responsibility to these kids," he explains. "A lot of kids want to get into show business. We want to give them a taste of the business so they know what to expect when they get out there. It's a very competitive business."

"Acting is one of the highest paid professions in the world. It's also the one with the most people out of work," he adds.

Shaker sees the plays as a way to break in aspiring young actors and actresses by giving them a chance to work on a real stage under real direction and play conditions.

Katie Grace, a 14-year-old Farms resident who plays Kanga, likes the realistic atmosphere at the theater.

"The big thing is, you don't automatically make the play during the auditions. It's just like a professional theater. Here they treat you like adults. There's more freedom for everyone," she claims.

Shaker says he and his staff have put in a lot of time and work getting the shows ready and hopes the community shows its support. He says this is the type of entertainment people in Grosse Pointe want and cites the excellent response to children's theater at the War Memorial as proof.

But, above all, the Punch manager sees an abundance of young acting talent in the area as reason alone to provide a forum for children to test and refine their skills.

Once the series is underway, Shaker says there will be a play every weekend all summer long and plans to showcase other types of live theater in the fall.

Winnie the Pooh will be shown on June 28 and 29 and July 5 and 6. All performances will be 2 p.m. matinee shows. For ticket information, call the theater at 881-4511.

Summer Dances For Students

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial has set a series of concert/dances for student in the Grosse Pointe area: this summer.

The Peoples Party Show, starring the Cat, will return this Friday, June 27. They will begin spinning records of the audience's choice at 8 p.m. Tickets, available at the center office, are $1.75 in advance and $2 at the door.

Starting July 10, the center will present a concert/dance each Thursday night beginning with the band "Ocean" and its special guest. Other bands throughout the summer include "Sorcerer," "N 2 O" formerly "Purple Haze", "Prodigal Sun" and a return by the Cat in August. All concert/dances begin at 8:30 p.m.

For further information, call the War Memorial at 881-7511.

Harper Grace Doctor Cited

Liborio Tranchida, M.D., of Southfield, of Harper-Grace Hospitals, is the first recipient of the Paul E. Ruble Memorial Award.

The Ruble Award, in memory of the vice-chief of medicine, a former Grosse Pointe who died in 1979, is to be awarded annually to the physician who "contributes the most to the education of house staff and students in the Department of Medicine at Harper Hospital."

Center's Music Festival To Feature Piano Great

The Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival begins its 1980 season on Wednesday, July 2, at 8 p.m. in Fries Auditorium at the War Memorial. Featured at the gala opening will be Gary Graffman, one of the world's leading pianists.

The July series of five outstanding musical programs is a presentation of the War Memorial Association, John M. Rickel, association president, and Mrs. Sterling S. Sanford, festival chairman, extend a welcome to all and look forward to sharing the musical evenings with all communities.

Gary Graffman, once one of America's great young hopes of the keyboard, has now been before the public for some 30 years. Today, at 50, he is recognized as a superior among the elite circle of international virtuosi.

He is in demand not only as a solo performer but for his absorbing master classes; his chamber-music evenings with distinguished colleagues in New York's Carnegie Hall and Washington's Library of Congress; as a judge of piano competitions; and as a frequent guest on national television. He also holds the distinction of being the only pianist to have recorded with five of America's greatest orchestras: New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Boston and Chicago.

Graffman studied at the Curtis Institute and later with Vladimir Horowitz and made his professional debut as a teenager under the baton of Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra. His countless critics' accolades read as "A master of romanticism, from Beethoven to Rachmaninoff," "One of the greatest living pianists" and "A pianist to be ranked with the great of our time."

As a concert pianist at the breadboard, Graffman is also a gourmet who handles his cooking with as much gusto, if not quite as much finesse, as a Steinway. And when it comes to conversation, he enjoys talking about his travels and his antique and artifact collection.

Graffman's recital program includes Two Songs Without Words (A minor, Opus 19, No. 2, and G Major, Opus 62, No. 1) by Mendelssohn, Sonata in E-flat Major, No. 49, by Haydn, Partita No. 2 in C minor by Bach, Three Intermezzi, Opus 117, (E-flat Major, B-flat minor and C sharp minor) by Brahms and Beethoven's Sonata in A-flat Major, Opus 110.

Guests are all invited to meet Mr. Graffman following the performance at a reception in the Fries Crystal Ballroom.

All concerts will be held on consecutive Wednesdays in Fries Auditorium with the exception of Sunday's Chicago Jazz Band concert on July 27, which will be staged outdoors on the Lakeside Terrace of Alger House. One at fresco concert in each series has become a Festival tradition. Curtain time for all concerts is 8 p.m.

Soprano Leigh Munro, opera's newest sensation, will appear on July 9 in a recital of songs. An evening of chamber music on July 16 will be performed by pianist Leonard Pennario, violinist Gordon Staples and cellist Marcy Chanteaux. On July 23 the Festival initiates its Young Artists Concert and presents its first performer, starlet Elizabeth Lesse, in a piano recital. The fifth and closing concert on Sunday, July 27, will feature the swinging, jazz and ragtime music of James Dapogny's Chicago Jazz Band.

For a full evening of enjoyment in the Memorial's beautiful ambience along Lake St. Clair, the grounds will open at 6:30 p.m. for pre-concert picnicking. Concert-goers may bring their own food or order box suppers prepared in the Memorial kitchen. The opening concert menu includes chicken, a white grape salad with toasted almonds, assorted relishes, a cup of fresh summer fruits, buttered rolls, beverage and a carrot cake dessert topped with cream cheese icing.

Two musical displays are being shown in behalf of the Music Festival. One is held in the Grosse Pointe Central Library, which devotes a complete showcase to musical objects by courtesy of patrons for the duration of the Festival. The exhibit was made possible through the efforts of William T. Peters, director of the library, and Mrs. Francis M. Huxley, professional assistant at the Central branch and display supervisor.

The Kercheval street side of Jacobson's devotes two windows with an invitational theme on a gold music stand. Tony Harper, the store's display director, did the designing. Store manager Clarence F. Wascher is a Festival supporter of many years.

Festival admission prices (reserved seating) are Patron series of five concerts and five box suppers at $70 per person, regular series of five concerts at $35 per person, and student series of five concerts at $17.50 per person.

Single concert admission is $8.75 per person and single student is $4.50. The Young Artists Concert is $1.75 per person and student is $1. Lawn admission for the Chicago Jazz Band concert only is $4.75 per person (children 12 and under $2.50).

A section of seating is provided for season subscribers and regular ticket holders. However, lawn ticket purchasers may feel free to bring their own folding chairs.

Picnic box suppers are $47.50 each by prepaid reservation three days prior to each concert date.

Advance ticket orders may be purchased at the Memorial Center from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Saturday, or order by check payable and mailed to Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association, 32 Lakeshore Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, MI 48236. Office telephone is 881-7511. Mrs. Sterling S. Sanford (881-1256) and vice-chairman Mrs. Lyndle R. Martin (822-7141) are also taking reservations.

Cheap Gasoline Lures Drivers

Michigan motorists buying gasoline in Canada continue to push traffic counts up on Michigan-Ontario bridges, according to the Michigan Department of Transportation.

The Blue Water Bridge at Port Huron-Sarnia reports crossings in May were 34 percent greater than in May, 1979 — 315,807 compared with 235,668 a year ago.

At Sault Ste. Marie, the International Bridge recorded 103,146 crossings in May — 20 percent greater than the crossings in May, 1979.

Officials of the privately owned Ambassador Bridge and Detroit-Windsor Tunnel said traffic volumes are running about 9.5 percent ahead of last year.

Donald D. Dell, secretary-treasurer of the International Bridge Authority, attributed heavy traffic to U.S. residents crossing into Canada to buy gas. The auto fare is $1.50 one way, half price to commuters, but gas is more than 25 cents a gallon less in Ontario.

Large traffic volumes on the Blue Water Bridge, where the auto toll is 35 cents, also are attributed mainly to Americans purchasing gas in Ontario.

Also attracting visitors to Canada is the favorable exchange rate on the American dollar, currently worth about $1.15 in Canadian funds.

Dell estimated that 80 percent of those crossing the bridge, whether Canadian or American, including large trucking firms, pay the toll in Canadian money, which is taken at par.

The International Bridge Authority, he said, lost $220,000 last year on the exchange rate alone, almost 10 percent of its gross revenue.

Dell said a combination of the exchange rate, higher maintenance and operating costs and a decrease in traffic last year put the authority behind schedule in paying off bonds that financed construction of the 18-year-old bridge. The result may be an increase in bridge tolls, he said.

Under instructions from the bridge authority, Dell said, a traffic engineer is studying the toll schedules in relation to traffic volumes and will report findings within the next few weeks.

The 42-year-old Blue Water Bridge is paid for, but fares are charged to cover maintenance costs.

Prime Time for senior citizens

By Marian Trainor

Please meet Johnny Adams. Johnny, more properly, Mrs. Emogene Adams, ("Don't call me that. No one will know who you are writing about.") has lived in Grosse Pointe for 50 years. The area has benefited by her residence here.

She is a woman whose interests have reached out to touch and improve the lives of others, particularly those of young people. With five children of her own she welcomed exchange students into her home. Young U.S.O. service men, some 40 of them at various times, were entertained there. She organized and operated the first Girl Scout Day Camp in Detroit. When the Boy Scouts were looking for someone to chair a pot luck picnic for 6,000 persons at Cobo Hall in 1964, the organization called on Johnny.

She was trustee and member of the Executive Committee of Priscilla Inn, a home for working girls, for 14 years. She organized and set the pattern for the sixth grade students of Maire school's annual trip to Washington. When she paid a visit to Maire school this year, the sixth grade class stood and applauded this elegant lady who had instituted such a memorable school happening.

Johnny has fond memories of all of these experiences but the one project which she particularly lingers on is her association with The American Field Service, an organization which sponsors exchange students. Besides organizing and operating an adult committee, she worked with students, promoted the financing that provided funds to bring foreign students here and to send Grosse Pointe students abroad. The first student to come to Grosse Pointe stayed in her home.

Some of the students became lifelong friends. When Johnny goes abroad, she is welcomed into their home as she welcomed them into hers.

HER U.S.O. visitors also remained friends. She remembers one boy in particular. He came for dinner right out of scarlet fever quarantine and stayed for 10 days until he got his strength back. Johnny wrote his mother reports on his progress and when she visited England she was a guest in their home.

Busy as she has been with community concerns, Johnny has taken time out for travel. She has been around the world twice by herself. There have been frequent trips to visit her sons Jack in Paris and Dick in Geneva. She has been to Alaska to visit her sister and to Honolulu to visit her Korean exchange student. England, Paris, Mexico, Jamaica have all been ports of call as she touched bases with her children as they moved through different countries on various assignments. She has traveled to San Francisco to see her daughter Ann. Two of her children live closer to home, Liz, lives in Highland, Mich. and Bill is almost a neighbor in Indian Village.

There have been other trips which she has made just for the joy of seeing new places. Her parents were medical missionaries in Cameroon, West Africa where Johnny was born in 1902. In 1969, she returned to that country for a month. Other stops have been Korea, Afghanistan, New Zealand, Ethiopia and Tokyo, all on her own.

"I DISLIKE TOURS," she said. "When I go to a country I stay in Mission Houses. Besides a clean bed and good food, I am shown around by people who know the country and I see it as it really is, not just some selected sites."

Johnny has been a widow for 15 years. (Her husband, Bill, was an investment banker). She has done all her traveling since his death.

"We had planned to do it together," she explained. "When he knew that he could not recover—he had cancer—he made me promise to go on my own."

On a table in Johnny's living room, a room that invites attention to prints, pictures and curios gathered from her many trips, is a copy of "Far Pavilions," a novel about India.

"This book is like a return trip to that country for me," Johnny remarked. "I have seen and heard so many of the sights and sounds that form the background."

Besides travel, there are many activities that occupy Johnny's time and energies now. Those who know her, know that she would never just sit around reminiscing about the past. She is too dynamic a person for that.

Johnny has always had a keen interest in Africa. Right now, she is sorting out slides of that country and writing captions for some 700 of them. Some belonged to her uncle and are over 100 years old. When the task is completed, a group will be sent to the Smithsonian. The rest will go to the Museum of African Art at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

IN THE FALL, Johnny will give a lecture on the slides there. She will also recruit women to take a course at the Institute of African Art and to go out into the schools to show slides on the subject.

Always a part of the mainstream, Johnny is now concerned with the problems of the aged as are so many of our citizens. She has much to offer in the way of administrative skills.

Watch for her name. (In case you've been wondering, it's a shortened version of her maiden name, Johnston).

You'll be seeing it often. And as you read about her accomplishments, you'll realize why so many beset committees breathe a sigh of relief when a lucky chairman can say—Here's Johnny!

Those who depend on friends for a boost seldom reach the top. In sincerity is the worst evil anyone ever had to contend with.

Dominican HS Receives Gift

Dominican High School, serving girls from all parts of Detroit as well as the Grosse Pointes, recently received gifts of theatre equipment valued at approximately $59,000.

The gift is being used as part of Dominican High's program to improve, modernize and refurbish their auditorium, which has served more than seven thousand graduates throughout the years and also serves the general community.

One gift was made by Gateway Investment Company, whose members are primarily residents of Grosse Pointe. The company owns the former Gateway Theatre in Sterling Heights, Michigan. Arrangements for this gift were made by the law offices of Joseph Shaheen, P.C.

The other contributors, the Sloan and Cohn Families, are the former owners of the Vogue Theatre. Mr. Robert Sloan was responsible for this gift and helped with many of the arrangements for the total project.

Sister Barbara Rodrigues, Principal and Charlotte Power, Development Director of Dominican High, announced that the improvement program of the auditorium has almost been completed with the help of these gifts.

The students of Dominican were so impressed with the generosity of these two groups that the senior class elected to provide new auditorium window draperies as their parting gift.

Frank Krueger - Managed Punch and Judy for Forty Years

Movie theaters and the pictures they showed were quite different when Frank Krueger began his career as a trainee manager at the Alhambra Theater in 1926. As the times and films

Daytime residential burglaries have jumped 300 percent nationwide over the past 10 years. Nighttime burglaries have risen 129 percent.

changed, Krueger kept pace, serving as assistant manager and manager at a number of theaters throughout the state.

In 1932, he bought and operated the Wolverine Theater. Later that year he was approached by Arthur Gardner, president of the Grosse Pointe Theater Company, to temporarily manage, book and buy films for the luxurious Punch and Judy Theater at 21 Kercheval, where he remained for 44 years until his retirement in July, 1976.

Both Henry and Edsel Ford were reportedly behind-the-scenes figures in the building of the exclusive theater with 96 overstuffed arm chairs in the loge. Also involved were such socially prominent Pointers as Wendell W. Anderson, Lawrence W. Buhl, Roy D. Chapin, J.B. Ford Jr., Wesson Seyburn, Phelps Newberry and Charles Wright Jr.

Adolph and Irving Goldberg of Community Theaters bought the Punch in 1939, retaining Krueger as manager. He kept the faith of the theater's founders - changing times and rebellious offsprings notwithstanding. Over the years he became an institution at the Punch and Judy, his name synonymous with a well-run luxury theater.

Mr. Krueger, who died Wednesday, June 11, at St. John Hospital, was 76 years old. He is survived by his wife, Irene; one son, Robert; one daughter, Mrs. Barbara J. DeRyck, and nine grandchildren.

Seattle was the first city to offer free bus service on all lines in a wide downtown area. It began in 1973 and is still in effect.

Babcock Savors NHS Victory

times, high school baseball players will star at one position, only to be trained for a different position in college or the major leagues.

"I'm going to stay a pitcher. When those players change positions, it's basically because they are strong hitters. I'm not a great hitter—I consider myself a contact hitter. I try to put the ball in play."

Babcock, a left hander, also sets some personal rules as an athlete.

"I try to work hard in the off-season, I like to stay in shape and maintain a good attitude. If I've had a good season, that's fine, if it was a bad season, well . . ."

AFTER THIS SEASON, a good one, it would seem that Babcock and the Norsemen would have little challenge for the 1981 baseball season. Babcock isn't quite that confident, though.

"We will lose six starting seniors—but I think we have a good chance. (John) Hackett and (John) Clem won't get a lot of pitching time this year and they'll be ready. Scott Young was hurt and he didn't pitch much either so he'll be ready to go."

"We won't have the home run power we had this year, but with good pitching and the speed we have, we should have a good team."

But before Babcock steps onto the field as a starting senior, he will have played a summer of baseball with Woods, a team of boys 18 and under in the Macomb League.

On the Woods team, Babcock will be a long way from his position as a "star" of the state championship team, a member of regional, district and league all-star teams, the Most Valuable Player of his team and league, and a member of the All-State First Team.

"It will be a change because I will be on a new team—it will be a different team, a different league. On that team, I'll be a nobody, it's like starting over. It'll help keep my feet on the ground."

If Babcock does have any problem keeping his feet on the ground, his father will probably give him some help. The senior William Babcock says that the championship hasn't brought any changes to the Babcock household. "He's still going to mow the lawn," according to dad.

And although Bill still says the realization of what he and the team have accomplished hasn't hit him yet, he has decided that it's time to set new goals.

"Winning the state championship is something that will stay with everyone on the team for the rest of their lives . . . but I've come down to set new goals for the summer season."

Liquor Law

acutely aware of what they see as the need to control the number of liquor-serving establishments. The city just spent about $2,000 in legal costs trying to prevent one of its most elegant restaurants, Le Cafe Francais, from serving beer and wine with its specialty menu.

The Woods conceded the two-year battle last week in the face of public support for Le Cafe and approved the restaurant's application for a tavern license. Ironically, the appeals court decision came the very next day and answered a request entered more than a year ago by Le Cafe seeking clarification of the state law.

But according to Woods City Attorney George Catlin who led the Woods' unsuccessful standoff against Le Cafe, the city's efforts were not in vain.

Catlin said that, theoretically, a city can legally preempt the state ruling by passing its own ordinance to control where and by whom liquor is served.

He also said that restaurant owners have the right to forbid anyone from consuming liquor in their establishments.

Woods to Vote on Bridge Issue

such as getting water and electricity supplies installed at the boatwells, Sullivan said.

"It's extremely frustrating to see the wells unrented," said Sullivan. He blames the "indecisive" council for delaying the movement of the bridge so long.

Sullivan is determined to make this the last summer that the 53 docks go unused so he's compiled documents and newspaper articles into an inch thick report which he supplied to the council and local newspapers.

The report reads like a "litany of inaction" on the council's part, Sullivan said. He's also collected a list of state boat registrations which shows that 18 percent of Woods residents are boaters who could benefit from the bridge improvements, Sullivan said.

Sullivan, who owns a 25 foot Chris Craft which is too big for any of the Lakefront Park docks, said he is pushing the bridge issue for the benefit of the Woods Boat Club.

Because of the lack of usable docks at Lakefront Park, many Woods boaters are forced to use commercial marinas whose rates are about three to four times higher and whose facilities sometimes aren't as desirable for family boating, Sullivan said.

A major concern of the council has been the city's ability to rent the 53 additional boatwells if the bridge project is completed. To assure the docks are taken, the council has asked that bridge construction not be started until three-quarters of the 53 docks are rented for next year. Sullivan claims he could personally guarantee that the docks will be "rented overnight" based on the current waiting list of rental applications.

Sullivan also said the Boat Club approves of the proposed bridge payment scheme in which all dock rental fees will be raised to $260, then doubled for the 1981 boating season.

The fees would be collected in two payments in January and March 1981 and would apply toward rental for two seasons. Fees would drop back to normal $260 per year rate when the bridge is paid off in five years, the plan says.

WHILE THE PAYMENT scheme is expected to cover the cost of the bridge in five years, a loan of about $55,000 will be needed to cover the initial cost of the project. That loan will either come from a bank or from a municipal fund such as the pension fund, according to Woods Councilman Fredrick Lovelace.

Lovelace is in favor of starting the project by fall so the new bridge could be in place by spring 1981. He said the only hurdles left before starting the project are permission from the Milk River Drainage Authority and clearance to remove the old bridge.

City engineers could then obtain specifications and bids could be taken, Lovelace said.

Councilman Robert Novitke also said he hopes the council will approve the project. "It should have been done a long time ago," Novitke said.

The Milk River separates Lakefront Park into two sections. The proposed new pedestrian bridge will give park users access to pool and picnic facilities.

The Woods Council has scheduled a public hearing on the bridge replacement for Monday, July 7 and is expected to decide on the issue that day.

"The more possessions you have, the more you have to give up."

What does bother him and the rest of the staff is the almost certain prospect of seeing the estate torn down and developed into a townhouse or apartment complex. A similar fate befell the home of Mrs. Seyburn's aunt, the late Mrs. Anna Thompson Dodge, owner of Rose Terrace.

One staff member estimated the yearly upkeep of the mansion and its grounds at close to a quarter of a million dollars. It's unlikely anyone is willing to pick up that kind of tab these days.

As Michael Blair, gardener at the estate the last three years puts it, Mrs. Seyburn's type of lifestyle is swiftly going by the wayside.

He says simply, "the day of the house with servants is gone."

Mason School's Balloon Race Is Success

They didn't qualify as official contest winners, but two Mason Elementary School students, Heather Meldrum in fifth grade and Mary Spiewak, in third grade, made interesting new friends as a result of the elementary school's "Great Balloon Race."

The entire school sent up balloons with postcards seeking replies on March 17 this year. Most students received answers from the finders of their balloons within two weeks. The majority flew over Lake St. Clair and into Ontario.

Mary, however, received no reply until May 17 when she opened a letter from nuclear physicist Gilbert Bartholomew. The late correspondence was not surprising considering that Bartholomew discovered the balloon in a 50-foot pine tree which he had cut down on his property in Deep River, Ontario—327 miles away from Grosse Pointe.

Heather's balloon wasn't found until June 2. David Buchan, another fifth grader, telephoned Heather from a Canadian Broadcasting Co. radio station in his town of Monkton, New Brunswick. The telephone conversation was taped and broadcast as the two discussed their hobbies and interests. Heather said that she and David will continue to write each other.

This is the second year that Mason has sent up balloons. Last year many landed in Ohio and Pennsylvania near Pittsburgh.

Roadwork Begins on Lakeshore

roads last year and can't afford to help the county pay for Lakeshore.

Councilman Lloyd Semple has warned that if the Farms gives in on the Lakeshore situation, then the county might demand that the city help pay for sections of Mack and Moross which run through the Farms as well.

The road commission maintains that as soon as the Farms decides to contribute, then it will open bids for resurfacing.

Ironically, the two sides did manage to get together for another Lakeshore-related project which, characteristically, has been talked about for the past eight years.

The city council agreed at its June 16 meeting to forward the sum of $10,000 to the road commission to begin work on enlarging the turning radius at the corner of Lakeshore and Moross.

THE COUNTY was waiting until the Farms decided to contribute half of the estimated $20,000 cost before it would start work. As soon as it receives the money, the commission will enlarge the radius at the northwest corner of the intersection, move the sidewalk back and relocate the traffic signal.

The Farms will be responsible for relocating the ornamental traffic light out of the construction area.

The sharing of costs in this instance was agreed to by the council since the land in question lies half within county jurisdiction and half within the city's.

Councilman Semple called the project "very important. It's been a problem for some time."

Police Chief Robert Ferber told the council at its meeting that the work was necessary to improve pedestrian and traffic safety "through a more direct and easier access crosswalk."

Should there be money left over after the project's completion, the county will reimburse the Farms for its share. If more money should be required, the city will be billed for the difference.

City Council Joins Save Our Shops Debate

said the main issue is not the bank moving into Grosse Pointe, but its decision to set up offices on Fisher road.

The SOS people have considered requesting changes in the city ordinance which allows banks to operate on Fisher road. City Attorney Richard Hinks said complicated and complex state laws would make that process difficult.

The Pedlar approached the bank's trust department with an offer to purchase back the building, but owner Joyce Detwiler said the offer was rejected by Mandich.

The group has received support from State Sen. John Kelly, Rep. William Bryant and County Commissioner Erv Steiner, who made an appearance at last week's meeting.

The Wayne County Commissioner presented citizens and the council with a list of alternative sites for the proposed bank.

"I feel it is important to save the shops that are established on Fisher road because they are unique in nature and also serve the community."

"Although Detroit Bank and Trust is one of the oldest and most respected banks in Michigan, and would serve our community well, I recommend very strongly that they and the elected officials of the City of Grosse Pointe take under consideration another location that will not destroy the uniqueness of the Fisher road shopping area," Steiner said.

Meanwhile, Hartmann said the SOS group will be on residents' doorsteps soon to add to the 5,000 names on petitions that will eventually be presented in Lansing to the state's Financial Institutions Bureau. Any bank that opens a new office must apply for permission through the bureau, and the SOS group intends to call a public hearing when the bank does apply.

The group also is planning a flea market sometime this summer to raise funds for the cause.

Neighbors Celebrate July 4 Block Parties

By Jill Chapman

Summer is here and with it come numerous requests for block parties. Grosse Pointe city councils react differently to appeals from their constituents for these events.

The subject created particular controversy at the June 16 council meeting of Grosse Pointe City. The 500 block of University represented by James Alle, presented a petition signed by all of its residents for approval of a July 4 block party.

Alle said his neighbors said they planned to have the party regardless of the city's decision, but sought approval since several young children would be involved in the festivities.

All families had agreed not to park cars on the street for the duration of the party to assure easy access in case of emergencies.

Councilman George Henry warned that a "pandora's box" of problems would be opened by accepting the proposal and setting a precedent. The council agreed that block parties would result in some inconvenience to the people of the city who would have to detour around blocked off streets. The question of the city's liability in this situation was also a concern.

"I just don't think it's a function of the city government to block off the streets for social functions," Henry said.

Councilman Arthur Fettes agreed that approval was risky regarding the city's liability, but did not believe the council would be bombarded with requests. He said it was a nice thing to do, mentioning two block parties in his own neighborhood which took place during elm injections.

The City council decided to permit the University block to hold its party under certain specific conditions. The occasion would be confined to daylight hours and it would be considered a test case. All future proposals would have to come before the council for consideration. The Park council also recently approved the petition of the 1200 block of Devonshire road for a July 4th party. Park City Manager John Crawford said these requests are normally approved providing the petitioner has received signatures from all residents involved.

The Shores reports receiving very few proposals for block parties, but has allowed them in the past. Permission for block parties in Grosse Pointe Farms must be requested by a letter to Police Chief Robert Ferber citing the time, date, exact location, entertainment presented and beverages served. Everyone on the block must be invited. Lighted barricades are issued to Farms party organizers under the Michigan Law of Temporary Traffic Control. The Farms reports having eight to 12 "very successful" parties each year.

Park Group Hosts Parade

Floats, clowns and bagpipes will be a part of the old-fashioned fun when the Grosse Pointe Park Civic Association kicks off its fifth annual July 4 parade next weekend. The parade will begin at Pierce School at 2 p.m. and will proceed to Three Mile Park.

Grand Marshall will be Detroit News Columnist Charlie Manos and his dog "Rosey." Mayor Matthew Patterson, Police Chief Henry Coonce and Fire Chief Phillip Costa also are expected to participate as well as State Sen. John Kelly, State Rep. Dennis Hertel and TV 2 personality Vic Caputo.

Hot dogs, chips, pop, ice cream and popsicles will be sold at Three Mile Park. Anyone interested in participating in the Community Band should contact Bill Leith at 823-1098.

Drama Course for Youths

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial has finalized plans for a two-week summer Drama Workshop for grade school as well as high school students under the direction of Sally Reynolds of the Grosse Pointe Children's Theater.

Classes for both groups will begin on Monday, July 7, and will meet for 10 sessions, Monday through Fridays, and will conclude with presentation of scenes from well-known plays for parents and friends on the last day, July 18. Classes for grade school age youngsters are scheduled from 10:30 to 12 noon (minimum age 7 years), and for middle through high school age the time will be 1 to 2:30 p.m.

Included in the workshop will be lessons on the technique of acting, voice, diction, improvisation, creative drama stage movement, characterization, preparation for auditions and basics of direction.

Mrs. Reynolds received her

B.A. degree from Michigan State University with a major in Drama and Radio. Her M.A. was received from Wayne State University in Children's Theater and Creative Drama. She taught Drama at Liggett School for nine years, directed numerous shows for adults as well as children, professionally. She has acted on the professional stage and appeared on The Lone Ranger as well as The Green Hornet, both national radio shows that originated from Detroit. Her Grosse Pointe Children's Theater of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial will begin its 27th season this September.

For further information about the Summer Drama Workshop please call The Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 881-7511. Charge for the workshop is $50 and checks are made payable to Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association.

Those wishing to meet with Mrs. Reynolds prior to the course may do so by calling 885-6219.

Farms Police Buy Terminal

By Dean Brierly

The Farms City Council recently approved a $5,200 request from Police Chief Robert Ferber for the purchase of a Data Terminal Systems Hardware unit to process the city's ticket violations.

Chief Ferber called the current manual cash box operation "cumbersome, time-consuming and inefficient" and told the council the new unit would improve his violation bureau's operation.

One of the advantages of the system is its ability to be re-programmed to adapt to any changes which may be demanded by District Court, Ferber said.

He added though, that even with District Court, approximately 90 percent of the bureau's work is due to parking violations, which will remain a local government function. Ferber then explained some of the advantages the Data system offers.

Foremost among these is its stand-alone operation, by which it will enter the fine dollar amount and record the citation, violator's receipt and number, the amount paid and the date.

In addition, it will provide a machine printed record for the totals of each type of violation processed and its payment schedule. This means that a parking violation paid by a certain time limit is one price, while past that date the price rises, and so on.

Ferber said all of these functions are presently being done manually with paper, pen and an adding machine and operated out of a cash box.

Another plus, according to Ferber, is the system's compatibility with the city's B-80 computer, which handles numerous city functions. The new unit will be able to feed in and withdraw information of violations from the city's main computer.

He added that the new system is well-established in its field and that the distributor offers same-day service. City Manager Andrew Bremer endorsed Ferber's recommendation to the council, saying, "it's in the best interests of the city. This piece of machinery would do the best job for them."

The $5,200 for the unit will come out of the 1979-80 Police Department New Equipment Budget spending section. Ferber said he plans to order the unit in the near future and that delivery will be made ninety days after receipt of the order.

Punch Card Voting in the Pointe

By Joanne Gouleche
 Absentee voters in some Grosse Pointe communities may be casting their Presidential vote on punch cards this November 4.
 The process was already proved successful in the Woods when absentee voters used the punch cards in the Michigan gubernatorial race two years ago.
 Woods City Manager Chester Petersen said the system worked so well then that the city may eventually switch from the traditional voting booth to punch cards for all its voters.
 Last week, Grosse Pointe City Manager Thomas Kressbach recommended to the council that they consider using the punch card method because of considerable savings in manpower needed to count the paper ballots already in use.

 Kressbach said at least 38 percent of the City's 1978 gubernatorial votes were cast by absentees.
 "That is an awful lot of absentee tabulating by the ballot boards."
 Once the punch cards are mailed back to the city they are fed into a computer which processes up to 800 cards per hour, Kressbach said. The system insures a more rapid and accurate tally count.

 "People also become accustomed to the punch card system. It educates voters under unpressurized conditions."
 Kressbach said the City would probably implement the punch card method if the Farms and Park approve the system because it's "helpful to have a backup computer." Each computer costs about $2,200.
 Farms City-Clerk Richard Solak said funds have been allocated in the new fiscal year budget for such a system.

BLS Predicts Job Outlook

The largest number of job openings in the 1980's is expected to be for secretaries, retail sales clerks, building custodians, and cashiers, according to an article appearing in the Occupational Outlook Quarterly.
 The spring issue of the magazine, published by the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), points out that although these are not the fastest-growing occupations, each will offer from 100,000 to 300,000 openings in a year.
 In contrast, fast-growing occupations tend to attract the interest of people choosing careers but usually offer comparatively few openings. Of the 250 occupations studied in detail by BLS, the fastest-growing jobs include occupational therapists, with 2,500 openings annually, computer service technicians, with 5,400 openings annually, and speech pathologists and audiologists, with 3,900 openings annually.

The table and explanatory materials titled, "The Job Outlook in Brief," are based upon information contained in the Bureau's recently released career guidance publication Occupational Outlook Handbook, 1980-81 Edition. The Handbook contains detailed information on the training required, salary levels, working conditions, and job prospects for hundreds of jobs.
 Both the Occupational Outlook Handbook and the spring issue of the Occupational Outlook Quarterly, which contains "The Handbook in Brief," are available from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C. 20204.
 Price is $8 for the Handbook and $1.75 for the spring Quarterly, ($8 for a one-year subscription.)

The Occupational Outlook Quarterly article discusses the significance of the number of people in an occupation, the growth of the occupation, the supply-demand situation, and other variables that affect job opportunities.
 Included is an overview of the job market projections for the 1980's. A 15-page table briefly assesses the outlook in each of the 250 occupations regularly monitored by the bureau.

SEMTA Has Half-fare for Unemployed

To help cut travel costs for unemployed people in the Detroit area, SEMTA has approved a program to grant half-fare passes to the unemployed during off-peak hours, (weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 8 a.m.), and all day Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

People showing proof of unemployment will be able to buy a $10 monthly pass which will allow them to ride any SEMTA bus for half-fare during the hours listed, during the month for which the card is purchased.

The program will be in effect from July 1 through December 31, however, if it proves successful, it may become an ongoing part of SEMTA operations.

The passes will be issued by municipalities or other approved agencies in the SEMTA service area. Each has the option of deciding whether or not it wishes to participate. SEMTA staff will be meeting with each municipality in the authority's regular bus service area during the month of June to explain the program.

SEMTA will sell the passes for $10 each, (the fee is to help off-set the loss in revenue which will result from the reduction of fares), to each municipality or agency wishing to participate. The cities, townships or villages will then have the option of selling the passes for $10 to residents or distributing the passes free of charge.

Those municipalities which elect to distribute the passes free will have the option of using their municipal tax credit (Public Act 204 of 1967, as amended) to fund the cost of the passes.

The municipal tax credit went into effect in July 1979. It works as follows: local funds for transit are raised in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties through license and vehicle transfer fees. An amount equivalent to 20 percent of the money raised in each county is considered as the credit amount for each municipality within that county.

The amount of the credit is based on each municipality's share of the population of the county. The credit amount is to be used by each municipality to improve transit service within its jurisdiction.

According to SEMTA General Manager Larry E. Calci, "The high cost of fuel is affecting all of us but the problem is obviously more extreme for those without jobs."

"As a public service agency we feel we have an obligation to help ease societal problems wherever we can," Calci said.

"Unemployment in the Detroit area exceeds levels of the 1973 recession. We think that the half-fare program will help ease the plight of those who are the victims of the downward trend in our economy."

Roy Re-elected to Safety Post

Ross Roy of Shelden in Grosse Pointe Shores, Chairman of Ross Roy Inc., presided as Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Traffic Safety Association of Detroit at its 38th annual meeting, June 17 at the Detroit Athletic Club.

The Traffic Safety Association looked at past traffic safety efforts and priorities for future action.

Guest speaker Peter G. Koltow, president of the Highway Users Federation for safety and mobility, stressed the need for the private sector's commitment to traffic safety and the specific need to update the traffic signal system in Detroit.

Mr. Roy remarked on the Association's participation in the Detroit Traffic Flow Pilot study and Detroit's new program to change the traffic signal system. "This has been an innovation for a major large city in the U.S. What we are trying to do is improve arterial signalization in order to save lives, save gas and save time. Nothing is more wasteful or more irritating than standing needlessly at a red traffic light, or being stopped for one, when there is no vehicular or pedestrian traffic — especially if the system was not designed that way but, because of lack of maintenance and manpower, the system is malfunctioning or non-functional."

Roy was re-elected Chairman of the Board of Trustees during the association meeting.

Jobless Reach Record High

The number of unemployed workers in Michigan reached an all-time high of 607,000 during May, surpassing the worst of the 1974-75 recession, according to estimates from the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

MESC Director S. Martin Taylor said that the state's May jobless rate was 14 percent, the state's highest rate since June 1975 when it reached 14.2 percent. In April, Michigan's jobless rate was 12.4 percent with 523,000 out of work.

The current May estimates are nearly doubled those of last year, May 1979, when the state's unemployment rate was 7.2 percent with 310,000 out of work.

During the depth of the 1974-75 recession, Michigan's jobless rate reached 14.9 percent in March 1975 with 588,000 out of work. Taylor said May's unemployment total of 607,000 is the highest the state has ever experienced since the MESC began compiling such labor force estimates in 1956.

Taylor attributed the jump in unemployment to the entry of summer job seekers into the labor force on top of an already large number of unemployed auto workers. The labor force climbed by 88,000 to 4,321,000 in May.

Nationally, the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate rose by eight tenths of a percent in May to 7.8 percent in April. The May jobless total for the nation was 8.154 million, up 869,000 from April.

Smokers have 2.6 times as many accidents as non-smokers, studies show. They were also shown to be over twice as illness prone.

Despite a national increase in the number of doctors, nearly 27 million persons still live in areas of the U. S. with physician shortages.

Driving Costs Rise $356

Driving costs for motorists in Michigan increased $356 during the last year, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"It costs Michiganians 21.8 cents per mile to operate their cars, or 12 percent more than the 19.4 cents a mile in 1979," said Auto Club Touring Manager Joseph Ratke.

Operating expenses for motorists who drive 15,000 miles annually will be $3,266 compared with $2,910 in 1979.

"A major reason for this year's increased costs is that gasoline prices rose nearly 60 cents per gallon since January, 1979," Ratke pointed out. "Increased prices for new American-made cars and higher finance charges also contributed to the higher operating costs."

Data on the expenses of owning and operating a motor vehicle are included in the 1980 edition of the AAA pamphlet, "Your Driving Costs."

The 21.8-cents figure is computed on 8.22 cents a mile for variable costs (gas, oil and maintenance) and 13.58 cents a mile for fixed costs (insurance, depreciation, license fees and finance charges).

Insurance was calculated on a pleasure use category with the vehicle driven less than 10 miles to work and with no youthful drivers.

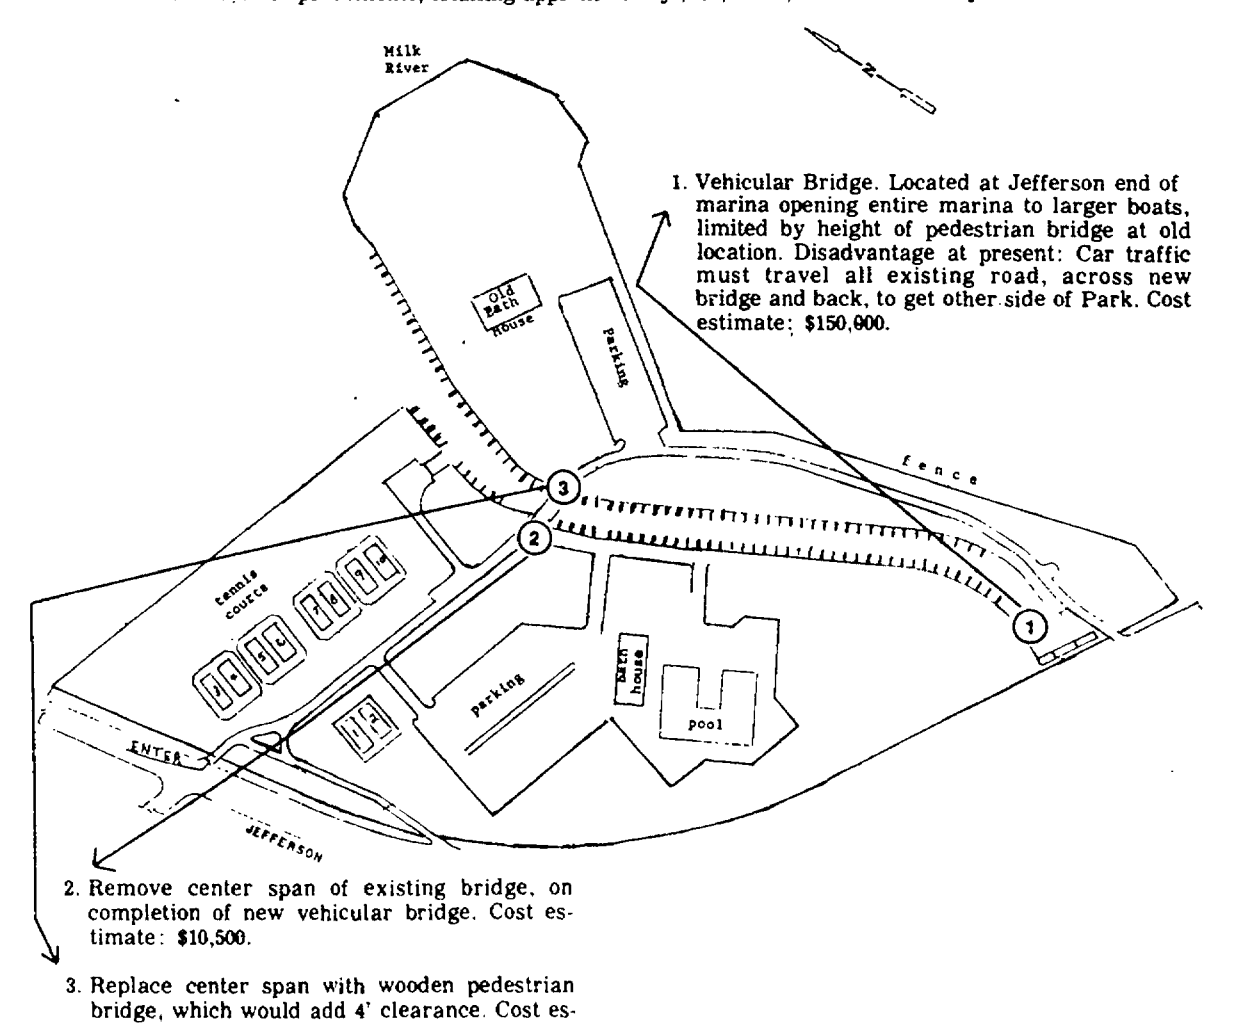

Information from the booklet which was revised by Auto Club to include current Michigan gasoline prices, is based on a 1980 Chevrolet Malibu Classic four-door sedan with a six-cylinder, 229 cubic-inch engine, standard accessories, automatic transmission, power steering, power disc brakes and radio, driven up to 15,000 miles per year and financed over a three-year period.

The pamphlet also shows that two persons going on vacation by car should plan on spending $40 a day for meals (not including alcoholic beverages and tips), $40 a day for lodging and $7 for gasoline and oil for every 100 miles of travel, with the car averaging 20 miles per gallon.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Public Hearing will be held at 7:30 p.m. on July 7, 1980, in the Council Chambers of the Municipal Building, 2025 Mack Avenue, Grosse Pointe Woods, for the purpose of considering a proposal, as recommended by the Citizens Recreation Commission, for the (1) demolition of the existing bridge located in the Lake Front Park; (2) the construction of a pedestrian bridge as a replacement to the existing vehicular bridge and (3) construction of a new vehicular bridge, in accordance with the diagram below. The total cost for all of the above improvements, totalling approximately $182,500.00, is to be funded by boat dock rental fees.

1. Vehicular Bridge. Located at Jefferson end of marina opening entire marina to larger boats, limited by height of pedestrian bridge at old location. Disadvantage at present: Car traffic must travel all existing road, across new bridge and back, to get other side of Park. Cost estimate: $150,000.

2. Remove center span of existing bridge, on completion of new vehicular bridge. Cost estimate: $10,500.

3. Replace center span with wooden pedestrian bridge, which would add 4' clearance. Cost estimate: $22,000. Disadvantage: NO SAIL BOATS.

Lawmakers Hear Bed Cut Protest

By Gregory Jakub

A panel of lawmakers investigating alleged inequities in the proposed debedding plan for Detroit area hospitals came to Detroit this month to hear testimony from about 50 people, most of whom were opposed to the current plan.

It was the third public hearing in the six months since the plan caused widespread controversy over its targeting about 2,500 beds in the Detroit area for elimination by 1984. Cottage Hospital in Grosse Pointe Farms has maintained the most visible campaign against the plan which would have it cut 62 of its 155 beds. Cottage supporters say such a cut endangers the hospital's future.

UNLIKE THE previous two hearings in December and March which were mostly a procession of testimonies against the plan, the special legislative panel hosting the hearing at Wayne State University quizzed speakers on allegations about the plan's development and intentions.

The panel will use information gathered at the hearing and from other sources to make recommendations by July 1 as to the future of the state's debedding effort in southeastern Michigan.

The plan is mandated by a state law which proposes to control health care costs in the state by eliminating 3,800 beds statewide within five years.

The Detroit area plan was designed by local planners from the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeastern Michigan (CHPC) — a federally funded agency that attempts to plan for the cost efficient use of the area's health care resources.

While many hospitals agree that debedding is necessary to control costs, they say the CHPC plan unfairly targets small hospitals to take most of the bed cuts.

Cottage administrator Ralph Wilgarde testified that the hospital has been treated unfairly since it has been opposed to bed cuts since the plan was first revealed in December.

"We're not suggesting (the plan) is based against community hospitals, but that Cottage was treated prejudicially," Wilgarde said.

WILGARDE WAS one of 12 speakers who supported Cottage, including John Steinkle of John Steinkle and Associates of Englewood, N.J., who presented evidence from a study done jointly by Cottage and his firm showing that there are far less excess beds in the Detroit area than the state contends.

The Steinkle study shows that hospital utilization is comparatively high in southeastern Michigan but could be controlled if only 1,710 beds were cut, not 2,500 as advocated by the state. Some supporters of the debedding concept say reducing the number of beds prevents unnecessary hospital utilization and reduces costs.

Another idea emerging at last week's hearing was a revised debedding plan that advocates cuts based on different criteria than the current CHPC plan.

Greg Vassey, assistant administrator of Cottage called it a "more prescriptive approach" which would identify unused hospital beds as the first to go, use measurements of quality of care as guidelines, make sure alternatives to inpatient beds are available and establish an appeal process for hospitals that object to the plan's recommendations.

Supporters of the current plan included Michael Elliot, associate director of the Greater Detroit Area Hospital Council and Dr. Myron Wegman, chairman of the CHPC committee that wrote this plan.

Elliot was closely involved with the plan's development. He said he believed it met the letter and spirit of the state's debedding law and that it was balanced in its evaluation of hospital performance of hospitals across a broad spectrum of criteria.

DR. WEGMAN said he believed the plan was equitable but would only be beneficial at some "cost" to the total health care community.

Wegman was quizzed by State Rep. William Bryant, who wanted to know if there were efforts to protect the Detroit Medical Center or the area's large hospitals from bed cuts.

Wegman could not answer the question so it was directed to Terence Carroll, CHPC executive director, who answered "no."

The investigative panel will produce a report in about two weeks and will make recommendations to the legislature as to the future of the debedding effort in the Detroit area.

Currently, there is legislation proposing the present CHPC plan be put on hold until a more acceptable plan can be developed. Sources close to the debedding investigation say that delay could be as long as a year.

Annual Fireworks Will Light Detroit Skyline

The Detroit riverfront will soon come alive with a celebration of thunderous bursts and sparkling colors to signal the start of the 22nd annual Freedom Festival Fireworks.

Oohs and ahhs will fill the air beginning at 9:55 p.m. on Monday, June 30. Made possible through a grant from Hudson's and Strohs, the popular fireworks display has become one of Detroit's summer highlights.

Art Wright, Hudson's director of special events, said shells have been brought in from the four corners of the earth, including Japan, South America and Europe. Nearly eight tons of fireworks will be sent up in smoke during this year's celebration.

Making a return appearance will be the crowd-favorite chrysanthemum shells, which explode into spectacular blossoms and the weeping willow, which leaves beautiful streams of colors as it makes its descent.

According to Wright, most people are not aware of the coordination required to create the 45 minute display. He says a 26 member team headed by Jim Sorgi, president of the American Fireworks Company, will time their shots to the precise second from three barges anchored midway in the river.

"The real key to a successful fireworks is timing," says Wright. An elaborate schedule is set up each year to keep you on the edge of your seats throughout the program. And every finale is more sensational than the previous year's," he adds.

All possible vantage points along both sides of the river will be closed to traffic to accommodate those watching the fireworks. The river will also be closed to all boat traffic between the Ambassador Bridge and Belle Isle.

The best viewing is on either shore opposite the three barges, with the easternmost barge at the RenCen and the westernmost across from Cobo Hall. Approximately 750,000 people are expected to attend this year, so it's wise to arrive early.

pected to attend this year, so it's wise to arrive early.

Hudson's and Strohs wish to express their thanks to everyone who helps make the fireworks such a success: the Windsor and Detroit police who control and route the thousands of cars expected in the downtown area; both cities' fire departments; the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers; the U.S. Coast Guard; the Detroit Parks and Recreation and Public Works Department and the Freedom Festival officials.

In case of inclement weather, the display will be held on Tuesday, July 1. However, in the 22 year history of the fireworks, they have been postponed only four times and not a single year has passed without a celebration.

New Look on Notre Dame This Summer

The City Council last week approved a bid of $25,621 to widen Notre Dame avenue in the Village. The project is funded through a 1979 Community Development Block Grant.

City Manager Thomas Kressbach said construction should begin sometime this summer.

"The widening should ease up congestion both for vehicular and pedestrian traffic," Kressbach said.

Parking on one side of the street will continue when the project is completed. The street will be widened between Kercheval and the alley north.

It's probably true that age brings wisdom, but it leaves us little time to use it.

Center Offers Summer Bridge

Two summer bridge classes will be conducted at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Center this summer by Frank Welcenbach, former principal of Trembly School and recognized bridge expert.

A refresher course will be held Mondays, June 23 to August 11, from 8 to 10 p.m. There will be one hour of instruction emphasizing bidding and responses, the latest plays and the nuances of the game. This will be followed by an hour of play.

The beginning of bridge class will be held on Thursdays, June 26 to August 14, from 8 to 10 p.m. The basics of contract bridge will be instilled using the principles of the Goren system. The class is kept small so that individual attention can be given to students.

Advance registration by mail or at the Center's office, 32 Lakeshore, is appreciated. The cost for either course is $16 for eight weeks.

The real key to a successful fireworks is timing," says Wright. An elaborate schedule is set up each year to keep you on the edge of your seats throughout the program. And every finale is more sensational than the previous year's," he adds.

All possible vantage points along both sides of the river will be closed to traffic to accommodate those watching the fireworks. The river will also be closed to all boat traffic between the Ambassador Bridge and Belle Isle.

SEMTA Asks How to Beat The High Cost of Living

Inflation-fighting practices have their own obvious rewards, but the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) has decided to add something extra for the imaginative person who conceives the most creative plan for beating the high cost of living.

The first place winner of SEMTA's "How To Beat The High Cost of Living" contest will win the opportunity — along with up to 50 friends — to see a private screening of the new movie for which the contest is named. The grand prize winner and his/her guests will be transported to and from the private screening aboard a SEMTA bus and the Authority will also pick up the theater tab for refreshments.

In addition, SEMTA will aid the grand prize winner in reducing his/her living costs by awarding that person free SEMTA bus and commuter rail service for one year.

One hundred second-place winners will receive free SEMTACARDS, the Authority's discounted monthly pass.

The Filmways movie "How To Beat The High Cost of Living" deals with a plan to beat inflation conceived by three housewives who are driven to distraction by spiraling prices. The comedy stars Susan Saint James, Jessica Lange and Jane Curtin.

Contest entrants must write, in 25 words or less, their ideas for fighting inflation. Entries must include name, address and telephone number and should be addressed to: How To Beat The High Cost of Living Contest, SEMTA, 680 Woodward Avenue, Detroit MI 48226. The deadline for entries is July 25.

For further information regarding the contest call SEMTA, 256-8860.

Summer Art Festivals Are Listed

Whether it's a small group of artists displaying their work or a community-wide effort involving hundreds of exhibitors, summer art festivals in Michigan are as commonplace as pebbles on a beach, reports Automobile Club of Michigan.

Most fairs or festivals have displays of ceramics, paintings, crafts, sculpting, photography and various demonstrations. Some festivals include other arts such as dance and music.

Sponsors include neighborhood groups, chambers of commerce or merchants' associations, universities, recreation departments, service organizations and more often than not, art councils.

Three of Michigan's largest art fairs are Grand Rapids' Festival '80, Ann Arbor's Summer Arts Festival and Wyandotte's Street Art Fair and Sidewalk Sale. These events combined should attract more than 1,000 exhibitors and draw almost one million persons.

Plan Summer Vacation By Touring Islands

The state's nearly 1,000 miles of island shoreline offer Michiganders a vacation choice between remote spots untouched by the comforts of the 20th Century and resort areas with all the amenities needed for a first-class vacation, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

There also are islands which cater mainly to daytime visitors seeking a place to swim, fish, picnic or sunbathe within sight of city skyscrapers.

Mackinac Island is one of Michigan's most popular summer vacation destinations. Accessible by ferry from Mackinaw City or St. Ignace, the island offers fine old hotels, historic sites and shops that sell everything from fudge to jewelry. Cars are banned and travel is by foot, bicycle or horse-drawn carriage.

Bois Blanc Island is within view of Mackinac Island and is a six-mile ferry ride into Lake Huron from Cheboygan. With miles of trails and shoreline, Bois Blanc is ideal for hiking and backpacking. Boat, car and bicycle rentals are available, with lodging at the 106-year-old Vintage Pines.

Michigan's largest and most remote island is Lake Superior's Isle Royale. This 45-mile-long wilderness island is reached by boat or seaplane from Houghton or Copper Harbor. Noted for its wildlife, it offers backpackers glimpses of moose, mink, wolves, red fox, beaver, snowshoe rabbits and a variety of birds. Lodging also is available.

Wilderness fishing, hunting and camping are popular pastimes for visitors to Sugar and Neebish islands in the St. Marys River, both reached by ferry from Sault Ste. Marie. There are resort accommodations and cottages on both islands.

There are a number of islands within easy driving distance of metropolitan areas which provide relief from the summer heat and offer a variety of recreational activities.

Belle Isle is a popular escape for Detroit-area residents. The 1,000-acre facility boasts a fine children's zoo, beaches, Dossin's Great Lakes Museum, a conservatory and an aquarium.

Located in Lake Huron three miles east of Alpena, Sulphur Island is a scenic and rustic picnic spot that also offers swimming and fishing. The island can be reached only by boat.

Middle Ground and Ojibway islands are in the Saginaw River. Saginaw's 49-acre Ojibway Island is a popular city recreation park. It is reached by the Court Street bridge. Bay City's Bigelow Park is on Middle Ground Island at the 23rd Street bridge. It has a marina offering food and entertainment.

Another popular recreation spot is Harsens Island, situated just above Detroit in the St. Clair Flats at the head of Lake St. Clair. It is reached by a short, scenic ferry ride from Algonac. The island's cuts and channels are noted for largemouth bass, walleye and perch fishing. Sans Souci is the island's only town.

Beaver Island is a more rugged vacation island, with sandy beaches rimming its 55 square miles. Located in northern Lake Michigan, Beaver Island may be reached by plane or ferry from Charlevoix. Accommodations and shops may be found in the town of St. James.

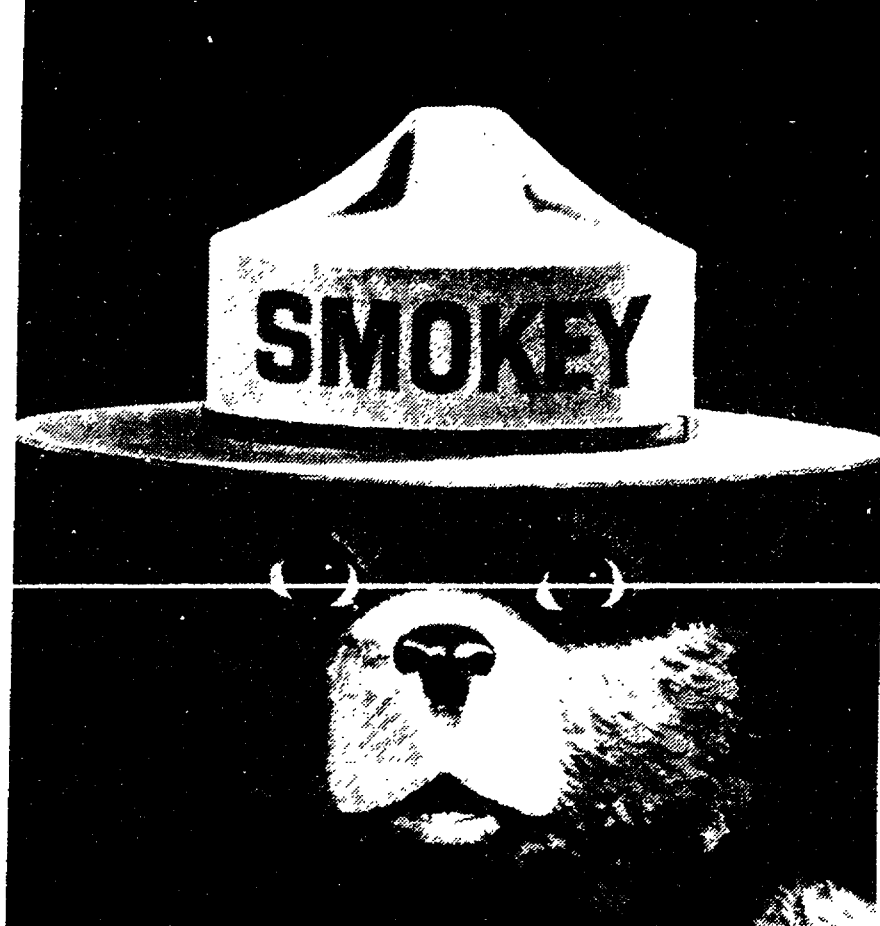

Lake Michigan's North and South Manitou islands are accessible by ferry from LeLand. Among North Manitou's attractions are deer and wild turkeys. Hiking trails run from the island's restored Coast Guard station, which offers a central lodge with a dining room.

Rotary Raises a Whopping $15,000

just part of the proceeds from the club's annual auction party—will be used for a number of community projects including construction of an addition to the Neighborhood Club and college scholarships.

Colonial Court Home Vandalized

A home on Colonial court in the Farms was viciously attacked during the weekend, as an unknown vandal or vandals caused thousands of dollars of damage to the house, both inside and out.

According to the police report, the person or persons involved poured paint over a car, ripped the gutter off the garage, ripped up the patio bricks and scattered them about the lawn, threw 6" by 4" wooden railroad ties into the next-door neighbor's yard, pulled down the TV antenna wire and painted an obscenity on the driveway. And that was just the outside.

The vandals then stuck a water hose through the front mail box slot and turned it on. The water flooded the basement and damaged the front hall closet, the front room and hall rug and soaked several shelves of books.

Police said they have no suspects and no motive for the attack.

Reorganization

Figures Get the Message Across

If more evidence was needed to explain why Wayne County is broke, it now has been offered by a new report prepared by the Citizens Research Council of Michigan.

The report showed that most Wayne County employees receive wages that are not only well in excess of those paid by the City of Detroit for similar jobs but also are far higher than comparable pay by private industry in the Detroit metropolitan area.

Even the lame excuse offered by a spokesman for county employees doesn't really explain the situation. He contended the report is misleading because it didn't pay sufficient attention to job responsibilities. So a clerical worker for the county deserves $9,657 a year because her responsibilities are 29.2 percent heavier than a clerical worker for the city or 38 percent greater than a private employee in the same job? Who is kidding whom?

SINCE THE CITIZENS Research Council is a respected, nonprofit organization, its report in effect constitutes a strong endorsement of efforts to reorganize Wayne County government in order to provide better qualified, more responsible and more efficient leadership.

Unless it is upset by a pending lawsuit, the August 4 primary will give voters the opportunity to decide whether they want to elect a charter commission to draft a charter which would eventually lead to an elected or appointed county manager or executive. The process may be blocked because the suit attempts to force the use of 1980 rather than 1970 census figures in drawing up districts from which charter commissioners would be elected.

Gov. William Milliken in effect forced the vote by denying any more state aid to Wayne County unless it is reorganized. The governor seemed to be saying that the state is tired of throwing good money after bad when it provides aid to Wayne County. The Citizens Research Council certainly offers facts to support that opinion of what happens to public funds in Wayne County.

The report shows that in four categories—clerical, accounting, data processing and security guards—county employees are far better paid than similar workers in both city jobs and private employment. The biggest advantage in the four categories goes to the security guards who get 37.7 percent more than their city counterparts and 47.7 percent above private security guards in the area. Quite a difference.

But perhaps the most astonishing revelation in the report is that even though the county has been running a deficit for three years and faces another of around $20 million this year, it has boosted county salaries faster in the last two years than either the city or the private employers in the metropolitan area have done in the categories compared.

Public officials traditionally have been easy marks for employee demands, especially when backed up by strong union organizations. County commissioners are especially vulnerable to pressure because so many employees maintain close relationships with the commissioners and often have been appointed at some individual commissioner's request. But even the City of Detroit, which has had its own financial problems, has had a better record than Wayne County in belt-tightening moves in recent years.

WASTE OF PUBLIC funds is always deplorable. In good times, it is true, the public didn't pay much attention to the county's careless and profligate handling of public funds but in times like these everyone becomes concerned. Even the commissioners are beginning to get the message that the loose control—or lack of control—of county spending simply must end.

But if it doesn't, then the voters have an obligation to put the blame where it belongs—on the commissioners—and, in effect, to throw the rascals out. But approval of county reorganization and appointment or election of a county manager would provide an acceptable alternative and stop the kind of indefensible drain on county revenues that is illustrated by the exorbitant pay scales revealed by the Research Council's report.

Board to Discuss Youth Report

The board of education will discuss formation of a new police youth bureau at its last meeting of the fiscal year, Monday, June 30, at 8 p.m.

Formation of the bureau, to replace the now defunct Youth Service Division, was recommended last month in a report issued by a special task force headed by the school board's Vice-President Jon Gandelot.

The report claimed there has been an increase in drug and alcohol abuse in local schools since the Youth Service Division was disbanded last year.

The report has met with strong criticism from other task force members and local police officials.

Grosse Pointe Woods Public Safety Director John Dankel told the Woods council earlier this month that the proposed police youth bureau would be "chaotic, at best" if implemented.

"I cannot support (the plan)," Dankel said. Councils in four other cities expected to help finance the new division have discussed the report at recent meetings, but only one, in the Farms, has indicated its support. The Farms budgeted $28,000 in its 1980-81 budget for the proposed division.

The task force on juvenile crime was formed last October, after a packed town meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters. League President Frances Schonenberg said she expects several members of the group to attend the Monday school board meeting.

A 50th Reunion—Why Did We Go Back?

In our restless, frenetic society, it is sometimes soothing and satisfying for us to go back to our roots, even though Thomas Wolfe has told us that we can't go home again. As a permanent choice, he may have been right, but a weekend reunion of a high school graduating class—especially the 50th anniversary—recalls many of the pleasures and few of the pains of high school life in a small Minnesota town a half century ago.

It was, of course, a simpler era. It was a time before television, before freeways, before supermarkets and shopping malls, before nuclear power and its threat to the environment. Commercial air travel was in its infancy and people still rode trains. It was a time that was largely unfamiliar with such terms as women's lib, juvenile delinquency and identity crisis. Our needs were fewer than they are today and so were our wants, in part because we didn't know what we were missing.

YET EVEN SMALL towns had their problems 50 years ago. There were examples of bias and prejudice and worse. The Ku Klux Klan even showed up with white-robed members at a service at the Methodist Episcopal Church one Sunday during Al Smith's 1928 campaign for the presidency. In that small town in those years, the KKK was anti-Catholic, not anti-black. In fact, there were only two black families in town.

While there were few hard drugs to tempt the weak or unwary, there were blind pigs that served bootleg gin and other alcoholic horrors of the Prohibition age. Even then there were auto accidents that killed or maimed, although there weren't as many victims as there are today. On the other hand, diseases such as diphtheria and smallpox took a toll then that they rarely do today.

Students got into plenty of trouble in those days, too, but they didn't face an identity crisis. They knew very well who they were and they were deterred from some youthful pranks by the knowledge that the rest of the town knew who they were, too, and would tell their parents if they got too far out of line.

So when the 1930 graduates returned from California and Arkansas, from New Jersey and Idaho, from Maryland and Michigan, and, of course, from Minnesota, they found changes in the school, in the town and in themselves. That's always true, whether people are gathering for school, college, family or military reunions and whether they're in Grosse Pointe or Grand Rapids, in Manistee or Manitowoc.

But at the old school, one factor was constant. The new gym was as hot and humid as the old one had been a half century earlier when the high school had graduated 45 students as compared with the 400 of 1980.

As for the town itself, the graduates found it still is a busy trading and manufacturing center for a farming area on the meandering Mississippi River. But it is more than that now. It is also a bedroom community for people employed in nearby St. Paul and Minneapolis and its population is more than twice what it was back in 1930.

AS FOR THE graduates themselves, 28 returned of the 36 still surviving of the 45 who had received sheepskins a half century earlier. There were 19 women and nine men, almost the same proportion as the 30 women and the 15 men in the graduating class. The lack of males in the senior class of 1930 reflected the fact that farmers' sons in those days often ended their schooling with the eighth grade, and usually for economic reasons. It wasn't just the depression. It also was the farmers' belief that they needed their sons to help in the fields.

(Yet the dozen or so who went on to college from the class of 1930 found that the proportion of men and women there was roughly reversed. Only about one-fourth of all college students in the 1930's were women, reflecting the belief at the time that women's place, after high school, was in the home.)

But women graduates of 1930 were liberated before their time. Perhaps because of the depression, many went to work as teachers, social workers, nurses, clerical workers in banks and businesses, and in other jobs. And some of them kept on working after marriage, just as most of their daughters and granddaughters now do.

Among the men, two had distinguished careers in the armed forces after serving under fire in World War II. One became a Naval flier after playing football at the University of Minnesota and the University of Colorado (where he had been a blocking back for a fellow called Whizzer White, now an associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States). The other, another high school athletic star, had served around the world as an Army officer.

Joining the 1930 graduates for the reunion was one of their former teachers who had been class adviser during their four years of high school, and who also came from California for the event. As alert as she had been in the classroom a half century earlier, she enjoyed herself so much she insisted on picking up the tab for the closing brunch, and thus put to death the myth of the enmity that supposedly exists between teacher and students.

Well, what was it that brought them back? The same sentiments that prompt people everywhere to attend reunions. For some it is the simple nostalgia expressed in the lines, "Backward, turn backward, O time in your flight, make me a child again just for tonight." For others, the main reason they returned was to visit with their classmates, to recall shared experiences and to renew old friendships.

CONSCIOUSLY OR subconsciously they returned because the city and the school are part of their heritage and their environment. Their families lived in that old town. The graduates grew up there. Like everyone else, they were marked by the place they had lived. And they had left something of themselves there. For better or worse, they remain products as well as a part of the school and the community. So they had returned to their roots.

The graduates themselves are beginning to show the ravages of time. They're graying or balding or both, lined in the face, long in the tooth and aching in the joints. But they're still alert in the head. And so they'd tend to agree with the poet George Peele.

"Beauty, strength, youth, are flowers but fading soon; "Duty, faith, love, are roots, and ever green."

OSA to Honor Outstanding Seniors

Outstanding senior citizens who have made significant contributions to their communities in the areas of leadership and service are being sought for the Senior Citizen of the Year Awards.

The state Office of Services to the Aging (OSA) and the Michigan State Fair request applications for the two annual awards which will be presented at Senior Citizens Day at the State Fair on Monday, August 25. The deadline for submitting applications is July 15.

"We have distributed applications to senior organizations throughout the State in hopes that we can solicit applications from as many people as possible. We're particularly interested in selecting individuals who have never received formal recognition for their contributions, but who are invaluable to their communities," said Peter Kok, director of the OSA.

Nominees for the award will be judged based on their activities over the past year, but work on community projects over a number of years will certainly receive consideration. Anyone age 60 or older is eligible for the awards.

A person may not be nominated for work or service performed as part of a paid job. Only organizations may nominate individuals. For more information or an application, contact the OSA, P. O. Box 30026, Lansing, MI 48909.

Chrysler Corp. Receives Honor

The American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan's third annual Environmental Achievement Award was presented this month to Chrysler Corporation's Van Pooling program.

The Environmental Achievement Award is presented by the Lung Association to encourage voluntary compliance with good environmental health practices throughout the industrial community by selecting and recognizing an organization which assiduously and willingly pursued a course of action which lessened the burden of pollution in the Metropolitan Detroit area.

Chrysler's five-year-old van pooling program is the most sizeable program in the Detroit area. Chrysler operates 170 vans in metro Detroit and Windsor. The program saves thousands of gallons of gas and eliminates more than four tons of pollutants from our air each year.

Men account for the great majority (82 percent) of business trips by air, but women make most (58 percent) of the personal-pleasure trips.

Know Your Schools

By Dr. William Coats, Superintendent of Schools

Next week, on July 1, the 1980-81 school year officially begins. Although most people won't be thinking much about school for the next two months, a considerable amount of planning and preparation for this next school year is taking place during these summer months.

An important step in this preparation is the annual organizational meeting of the board of education, at which time board officers for next year will be selected and the trustees will assume their responsibility of representing the educational interests of our district's residents. The annual meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. on Monday, July 14 in the Administration Building on St. Clair Avenue.

As an elected body, the Board is responsible to the state government for the education of all students in kindergarten through the 12th grade and for adult and community school programs. The Grosse Pointe Board of Education also has responsibility for the public libraries of this community.

As a body representative of this district's residents, the board strives to identify the educational aspirations and needs of the community. Educational programs based on these aspirations and needs, which also meet legal requirements and are consistent with community resources, are then developed and implemented under the general direction of the superintendent of schools.

In carrying out this process, two of the most important duties of the board are to establish policy and determine goals for the school system. Existing policies are periodically reviewed and changed as necessary, and new policies are added when appropriate. In determining goals for a school year, the board reviews accomplishments of past school years, staff recommendations for the future, and its own educational philosophy statement. Following this review a list of goals is developed and further expanded in individual, departmental, and building objectives.

The members of the board of education also have an important role in promoting education in the community. Consequently, it is important that the trustees conduct their business in a manner which reflects a strong commitment to quality education for all residents and fosters public confidence in their actions.

The board serves as the vital link between the public and the schools and it is the desire of the board to provide an avenue for citizens to express interest in and concern for the schools. Accordingly, the public is strongly urged to learn what is happening in the schools, to regularly visit with the leadership of individual schools and the school system, and to attend meetings of the board.

Through citizen participation on the board, residents and staff members are brought together in a partnership which improves instructional programs, defines positions of responsibility

From Another Pointe of View

By Janet Mueller

Did you know that our own Main Branch Grosse Pointe Public Library is the ONLY building in the Detroit area designed by famed Hungarian-American architect Marcel Breuer?

That's one of the facts you'll discover in a fascinating book, "Art in Detroit Public Places," by Dennis Alan Nawrocki with Thomas J. Holleman, published this week by the Wayne State University Press.

It ranges east side, west side, all around the town . . . and stops in The Pointe for a look at the Alexander Calder mobile, gift of W. Hawkins Ferry, in our Central Library's main reading room.

Another book hot off the WSU Presses that promises to be of special interest to Pointers is "The Passionate Eye," Margaret Sterne's Life of William B. Valentiner, director of The Detroit Institute of Arts from 1924 to 1945.

Tannahill, Kanzler, Ford, Newberry, Ferry are just some of the names you'll recognize as you pore over its pages, for "The Passionate Eye" is a story of our town and the families and individuals who brought art to the Motor City.

It tells, of course, the famous tale of Edsel Ford and the Art Institute's magnificent Diego Rivera murals—a story we are not going to repeat, since it is so well known, (if by chance you DON'T know it, read the appropriate chapter in "The Passionate Eye"), but perhaps the most interesting passages for those of us who have become used to thinking of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial as the heart of our community deal with Valentiner's years in residence in Alger House when what is now the nucleus of the War Memorial complex was a branch museum of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

The Russell A. Alger family originally gave their lakeside mansion, an Italian Renaissance villa designed by Charles Adams Platt who was also the architect of the Freer Gallery in Washington, D.C., to the Detroit museum.

The Valentiner family moved into Alger House's former servants quarters in March, 1936. Six loan exhibitions were held in the villa that year, and the following summer the Garden Club

Seeing Where This Year's T&C Money Will Go

Tennis and Crumpets, the annual benefit for Children's Hospital, will return this autumn with matches scheduled throughout the metropolitan area. Monies raised this year will support Children's kidney care efforts in the areas of nutrition and continued care for the patient and the family, and will go specifically to the Nephrology (Dialysis) Service of the hospital which is under the direction of DR. LARRY E. FLEISCHMANN, (second from right), who recently showed T&C committee members, (from left), MRS. REX CIAVOLA, MRS. JOHN MACLEOD, MRS. CARL REICHERT, JR., and MRS. WILLIAM RICE how the dialysis unit operates. The youngster in the bed undergoing dialysis is one of Children's patients.

The T&C tournament is open to players of all abilities from rank amateur to professional quality, who are matched according to their proficiency. Anyone who enjoys tennis and loves children is invited to participate.

Preliminary matches will be played on Saturday and Sunday, September 13 and 14. Area finals will be played on Saturday, September 20.

T&C's Super Finals are scheduled for Sunday, September 21, at the RenCen Racquet Club in Lafayette Park.

This year, the opportunity to play in Tennis and Crumpets has been extended to children under the age of 18 in T&C's first Junior Tournament. It will be played on Saturday and Sunday, June 21 and 22, at Wimbledon and Eastpointe Racquet Clubs, which have donated their court time.

In addition, rain or shine on Saturday, August 2, from 9:30 to 10:30 in the morning, Seymour Cadillac will sponsor a new T&C event: the LUV-RUN. The course is twice around Windmill Pointe drive; approximately 3.1 miles or 5,000 meters. A maximum of 250 runners may participate. Further information on the Luv-Run may be obtained by calling 885-0274.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Couzens, Jr., honorary chairmen of the benefit, recently opened their Pointe home for the 1980 T&C patron mailing, which traditionally launches each year's activities for Tennis and Crumpets, Inc. Anyone who has not been contacted and who wishes to become a patron is cordially invited to call 823-2144. Mrs. Frederick O. Neumann, of University place, is benefit chairman this year.

Since its inception in 1987, T&C has raised $20,000 to purchase a Playroom in the new Children's Hospital and has contributed $50,000 to Children's Cardiac Operating Room.

T&C donated $80,000 in 1972 to support the hospital's Burn Center and to purchase a Heart-Lung Machine.

Most recently, T&C was able to give over $140,000 to assist the Poison Control Center and, last year, donated over $87,000 to support the Psychiatry and Psychology Service at Children's.

An important thing to remember is that the players in Tennis and Crumpets are not the only supporters of the benefit. T&C depends upon the generosity of patrons, advertisers and countless others who donate not only their time but everything from tennis houses to paper clips. Everything and everyone counts.

Busy Summer Museum Days

Adding to the city's excitement during the GOP invasion in mid-July the Detroit Institute of Arts is preparing to premier two new museum areas and four special exhibitions on Sunday, July 13.

Grand openings are scheduled for the $1,100,000 African and Native American Galleries, five carpeted galleries around a walled sculpture garden in the North Wing and the new $1,200,000 Graphic Arts Wing in the Main Building.

The four special exhibitions include the loan of Fernand Leger's monumental "Le Grand Dejeuner" from the Museum of Modern Art, Thomas Couture's romantic masterpiece "The Enrollment of the Volunteers" from the Springfield, Mass., Museum of Fine Arts, the pioneering "Cliche-Verre" survey of hand-drawn light-printed graphics and—on two floors of the South Wing—"Kick Out the Jams"—"Kick Out the Jams", a study of Detroit's Cass Corridor from 1963 to 1977.

Performing Arts during the summer will continue Brunch with Bach and Sunday Afternoon in the Crystal Gallery, Thursday night jazz, and premier the new black musical "boogie woogie landscapes," now playing in Washington, D.C.

Despite behind-the-scenes activity for the summer premiers, the art institute is fully open, without charge, Tuesday through Sunday, from 9:30 to 5:30 o'clock. The cafe is also open.

Children's Series at Meadow Brook

Meadow Brook brings in the clowns this summer with a new musical for children by Martin Scot Kosins, Detroit area composer and recording artist, as "Even Clowns Get Sad" opens the music festival's Children's Concert Series this Saturday, June 28, at 11 o'clock.

Stuart Hyke, festival director, has broadened this year's program to include music, mime, dance and theater.

"It's a fine way to introduce the very young to the performing arts," Hyke explains, "and it's great entertainment for the whole family."

"Even Clowns Get Sad" is anything but, according to Kosins. "It's a happy show with serious thoughts: a series of vignettes about children's experiences set to music."

Birmingham mimes Pat Judd and her brother Bill Roan enact the clowns' experiences and the emotions they evoke. As the Pastiche Wind Quintet plays, the mime duo will dance around large masks representing anger, sadness and happiness, humorously showing children how to deal with their feelings.

Mona, television's "Hot Fudge" puppet, is the narrator. Marilyn O'Connor is Mona's puppeteer.

"Even Clowns Get Sad" will appear in Kosins' upcoming album, "Clowns," as reported in the April 26 Billboard magazine. It is Kosins' second album on his own "Open Sky" label.

There will be farm animals to pet Saturday, July 12, when the Oakland Youth Symphony features Saint-Saens' "Carnival of the Animals." Erv Monroe is conductor for this second program in the 1980 Children's Concert Series.

Lotte Goslar's Pantomime Circus, which has delighted audiences and received rave reviews around the world, comes to Meadow Brook for the festival's third children's concert July 26. Goslar, one of the queens of dance mime, performs with her young troupe in a comic mix of pantomime, acrobatics and dance.

"Break A Leg" on August 16, final program in the series, is a story about the everyday life of dancers and musicians. Short musical sketches give an inside look at what goes on in a production. Dancers depict the interaction between the personalities in the group.

Carol Halsted, choreographer, assistant professor of dance in residence for Oakland University and director of Other Things and Company, a touring children's musical theater, has developed fast-paced dances using movements that children understand and enjoy.

Newlywed Charles Edwin Chandlers, III, Vacation on Nantucket Island, Are at Home in Columbus, O.

A reception at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club followed the Saturday, June 7, wedding of Margaret Jane Mellen and Charles Edwin Chandler, III, in Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Mellen, of Lakeland avenue, the bridegroom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edwin Chandler, Jr., of Coshocton, O.

Dr. Allan Zaun presided at the 5:30 o'clock ceremony, for which the former Miss Mellen chose an ivory gown fashioned with a high-necked bodice of re-embroidered Alencon lace and long, tight lace sleeves, and a slender satin skirt with fullness in back.

Lace appliques accented the lower portion of her skirt, and lace edged her hem, train and underskirt.

Her fingertip mantilla, edged in re-embroidered Alencon lace, fell from a cap of heirloom lace handed down in her mother's family. Appliques of the heirloom lace accented the veil.

Phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and ivy formed the bridal bouquet. As "something borrowed," the bride carried an heirloom handkerchief that once belonged to Mary Todd Lincoln, lent by Mrs. Frances Keyes, of St. Clair avenue.

Honor matron was Mrs. Edward J. Chandler, of Sewickley, Pa., the former Catherine Purdy. Bridesmaids were Lisa Hughes, of Bay Village, O., formerly of Balfour road, and two sisters-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Frederic E. Gillespie, of Merriam, Kans., the former Pamela Counen, and Mrs. Thomas M. Mellen, of Highland, the former Susan Boyd.

Their ivory voile dresses, sprigged and bordered in a gold and green floral print, were styled with spaghetti-strapped, fitted bodices, over which they wore short jackets of matching voile, tied in back.

They carried bouquets of ivory cymbidium orchids with tendrils of ivy.

Hors d'Oeuvres Date for Helen

The Macomb YWCA is offering, by popular demand, a special hors d'oeuvres buffet with Helen Huber of The Pointe Pedlar. It's set for Wednesday evening, July 16, at 7:30 o'clock at the Macomb YW on East 10 Mile road, East Detroit.

Fee is $7 for YWCA members, $10 for non-members—but prospective participants MUST register before next Wednesday, July 2, as space is limited... and the food is terrific!

Mrs. Huber emphasizes fast, delicious appetizers that are easy on the summer cook. Her hearty buffet will feature seafood, meats, fruits, vegetables and cheeses, and is a meal in itself.

She'll demonstrate the preparation of each appetizer, and her special recipe collection will be given to each workshop participant.

Mrs. Mellen chose a matinee length dress of cafe au lait chiffon, tucked from shoulder to hip, then releasing in a full skirt, styled with long, full sleeves and sashed in satin ribbon, for her daughter's wedding. She wore a green cymbidium orchid wrist corsage.

The bridegroom's mother selected a mid-calf dress of rose pink silk, short-sleeved and round-necked. Her matching sash and hem were edged with small ruffles of self-fabric. She pinned a white gardenia to her purse.

The newlyweds traveled to Massachusetts to vacation on Nantucket Island. They are making their home in Columbus, O.

Flowers Bloom at Ford House

Three hundred and forty area residents flocked to the Cotswold style mansion built in the 1920's for the late Edsel and Eleanor Ford to view a flower show presented by the St. Clair Shores Branch, Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan, Woman's National Farm & Garden Association in the Great Gallery.

They saw the many award winning artistic and horticultural entries in "The 80's Come into Bloom" and were invited to tour the Ford House and its grounds, consisting of 90 acres with 3,000 feet of frontage on Lake St. Clair.

Mrs. Peter Biglin, of Robert John road, general chairman as well as staging chairman of the June 12 event, shared the Sweepstakes Award — it goes to the exhibitor with the highest number of blue ribbons — in the Horticultural Division with Mrs. Joseph Quasarano, of Fairford road, a member of the WNF&GA's Shores Branch.

The Tricolor Award, to the blue ribbon winner in a specified section of classes, went to Mrs. Osborne H. Day. She served as the show's chairman of arts and crafts.

The Sweepstakes Award in Artistic Design went to Mrs. James Comins, of Anita avenue.

The Arboreal Award, to the winner of a named exhibit in a section of classes composed of tree or shrub branches, went to Shores resident Mrs. Andrew Wielkiewicz for her Chinese Dogwood.

Giorgio, Kenneth Adler, Robert Valice, D.D.S., Richard Filippelli, Clifford Carpenter, Jerry J. DiMaso, M. Leo Kalyvas, Jr., Ronald C. Lamparter and Reginald Zielinski, D.D.S. They received gold Saint John Hospital cuff links.

Rick Deary and Emmel Tracy, Jr., were honored for chairing the annual cruise and annual golf outing, respectively.

George Curias, who received the lease of a 1980 Cadillac Seville at the stag dinner, chose to return that prize to the hospital. So, with the cooperation of Dick Seymour of Seymour Cadillac, $5,000 was turned over to Saint John.

Highlight of the afternoon was the presentation by Dr. Eugene H. Boyle, guild president of a check for $285,000, proceeds from guild-sponsored projects during the past year, to Glenn A. Wesselmann, the hospital's executive vice-president.

Mr. Wesselmann thanked the guild members on behalf of the patients, the board of trustees, the Sisters of Saint Joseph and the administration. He praised the guild for its continuing support, noting that "working with such outstanding men is indeed a staggering experience."

Science Center Reception Tribute for Dexter Ferry

Members of the metropolitan area's business, education and social communities gathered to pay tribute to Grosse Pointe's Dexter Ferry, principal patron and former president of the Detroit Science Center, at a champagne reception in his honor yesterday evening at the Science Center.

Mr. Ferry, third generation heir to the Ferry-Morse Seed Company fortune, is the person chiefly responsible for bringing a Science Center to Detroit. The magnificent new Science Center building in Detroit's Cultural Center was begun with a $2.5 million gift from his family's foundation.

"Detroit is a city based on science, and we've needed something like this for a long time," Ferry said when he originally pushed the idea of opening a Science Center in the Motor City.

The Science Center, located on John R street between East Warren avenue and Farnsworth, behind the Detroit Institute of Arts, has been a resounding success since its opening. Hundreds of visitors daily enjoy its hands-on exhibits and Space Theater.

Honorary chairmen of the 6 to 9 o'clock reception Wednesday, June 25, in Mr. Ferry's honor were Governor William G. Milliken and Mayor Coleman A. Young. Mrs. Alfred R. Glancy, III, chaired the reception committee.

Roy D. Chapin, Jr., former chairman and chief executive of American Motors, was formally introduced, during the evening as the Detroit Science Center's new president.

Also featured was the Space Theater's new, 27-minute film, "Atmos," which explores the massive forces affecting the world's weather.

New officers of the Welcome Wagon Club of Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods, installed in mid-May at a Lochmoor Club luncheon program, are, (back row, left to right), MRS. JOHN OWENS, first vice-president, MRS. DONALD GAGEN, president, and MRS. WALTER FORSTER, second vice-president, (front row, left to right), MRS. HARRY LLOYD, recording secretary, MRS. ALFRED KAISER, treasurer, and MRS. GERRIT VREEKEN, corresponding secretary. Conducting the installation, a candle-light ceremony established in 1928, was Mrs. Robert Hope, outgoing president. Welcome Wagon members gather regularly at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial for luncheon followed by card games and a social hour. Additional parties, out-luncheons and events are scheduled throughout the year. All monies raised by the club go to its Scholarship Fund.

International Childbirth Convention

When several hundred delegates to the 1980 International Childbirth Education Association Convention start unpacking their bags at the Detroit Plaza Hotel tomorrow, Grosse Pointe's Eula Hoover should feel more than a little proud.

Much of the success of the convention is the result of efforts of local volunteers like Mrs. Hoover, who have spent months planning and preparing for the convention and teacher enrichment program which opens Friday, June 27, and will run through Tuesday, July 1.

"Because ICEA is celebrating its 20th anniversary this year, we wanted to make sure that this convention—the first ICEA International Convention to come to Detroit—is the best ever," explains Mrs. Hoover, a former ICEA director and co-founder of Childbirth Information Service, a local ICEA group.

The convention features more than 40 nationally and internationally recognized experts on family-centered maternity care, infant care and parenting.

Key speakers include Helen Caldicott, M.D., an Australian-born anti-nuclear activist who will discuss the effects of radiation on the fetus, and Melvin Stratmeyer, Ph.D., of the United States Food and Drug Administration, who will talk about the biological effects of ultrasound on human development.

Other general convention speakers are E. F. Lenoski, M.D., slated to discuss "Freedom of Choice: Developing Parent Potential," and John H. Kennell, M.D., co-author of "Maternal Infant Bonding."

The 1980 ICEA International Convention is being sponsored by ICEA with the support of several local member groups, including Childbirth Information Service, Plymouth Childbirth Education Association, CEA, Inc. of Windsor, Childbirth Preparation Association, Lamaze Childbirth Education Association of Livonia, Lamaze Childbirth Preparation Association of Ann Arbor and Educated Childbirth of Windsor.

Last year, these and other area ICEA member groups trained more than 15,000 expectant couples in the Greater Detroit/Windsor area.

Local volunteers at the 1980 ICEA Convention include convention treasurers John and Arlene Lewis, plus Barb Clausen, Mrs. Hoover, Leah Hooks, Janis Morrison, Cheryl Brennan, Jane Frahm and Jan Leiphart. All are Pointe residents.

Each of the 1,000 expected delegates will be able to attend several of the 60 scheduled concurrent sessions as well as the four general sessions. The concurrent sessions cover a wide range of topics, such as maternal infant bonding, drug use during pregnancy, the fetal alcohol syndrome, preparing fathers for childbirth, the myth of the super mom, nursing, nutrition, infant auto safety, homebirth and alternative birth centers.

Speakers at these sessions include more than a dozen well-known writers, among them Elizabeth Noble, author of "Essential Exercises for the Childbearing Year," Lucy Barry Robe, author of "Just So It's Healthy," Norma Swenson, co-author of "Our Bodies, Ourselves" and Edward Sparer, author of "Class Medicine."

Other speakers include Barbara and Joseph Capell, M.D., who will discuss the effect of pregnancy on marriage.

The convention also will feature an exhibits area and (Continued on Page 28)

Take A Walk Through Time

Beginning at 2 o'clock Sunday, June 29, Edward Francis, the Detroit Historical Society's volunteer tour director, will guide strollers through one of Detroit's oldest areas, where many fine historic buildings have been preserved and provide a handsome contrast to new Detroit.

The walking tour begins at the Detroit Cornice and Slate Building, designed by Hugh Bloque in the late 1890's. It was one of the first buildings in which pressed steel was used as a substitute for chiseled stone.

From there, the group will wend its way to John Scott's ornate Roman Baroque style Wayne County Building, once called the most "sumptuous" in Michigan, to Sts. Peter and Paul Church, designed by local builder Francis Letourno, and the adjacent 19th century University of Detroit buildings.

The Downtown East Stroll is one of 11 being presented this summer and fall under joint sponsorship of the Detroit Historical Society and the Detroit Historical Museum. A listing of the eight remaining tours may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Detroit Historical Society, 5401 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Michigan 48202.

Advance reservations are required for all tours, and are made by sending a check to the Detroit Historical Society, 5401 Woodward avenue, Detroit 48202. Tickets are $3.50 each, ($2.50 for members).

Detroit-Windsor Poised For Freedom Festival '80

More than a million Americans and Canadians of all ages will observe, participate, celebrate and recreate during eight days of fun and excitement beginning tomorrow, Friday, June 27, when the largest trans-border party in the world—the Detroit-Windsor International Freedom Festival—is staged for the 22nd annual time.

From the opening howitzer blast that cues the dramatic Salute to Friendship on the Ambassador Bridge Friday morning, June 27, to the closing ceremonies in Windsor's Dieppe Gardens Friday evening, July 4, residents of the two cities and guests from throughout the two countries will salute Canadian-American freedom and friendship in dozens of ways that the festival's founders could only have dreamed of when they launched the annual series of events in 1959.

In between these two events, Freedom Festival '80 participants may thrill to powerboat and hydroplane races featuring the world's fastest vessels splitting the Detroit River, run 10 miles in the oldest continuing distance race in Michigan, take a nostalgic look at 100 historic automobiles as they wind their way through the two cities and the Detroit-Windsor tunnel and smile and cheer at the world's only international race featuring the workhorse tugboats that make the world's busiest international waterway work.

They may marvel at the daredevil precision of a spectacular two-day airshow over the Detroit River, be moved as approximately 500 new Americans take their oath of citizenship in Detroit's Hart Plaza, enjoy a virtually continuous week-long treat of free music, dance and acrobatics on the Hart Plaza and be dazzled by the world's largest fireworks display in celebration of the birthdays of the two nations.

Residents of the two cities will honor the Canadian Ambassador to Iran who played the key role in the escape of six American hostages last February, and salute a long-time Freedom Festival volunteer, Canada's Kenneth Taylor will receive the interna-

Olmstead-Tucker Vows Spoken in Connecticut

Marriage vows were spoken Saturday, June 21, at an afternoon ceremony in Avon, Conn., by Gwendolyn Kew Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Tucker, of Plainville, Conn., and Jeffrey Gage Olmstead, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Olmstead, of Longmeadow, Conn., and grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gage, of Rivard boulevard. The newlyweds will make their home in Plainville.

Raising Funds for Mary Reparatrix

Among board members of the Auxiliary of Mary Reparatrix who gathered in mid-June for luncheon at the Lakeshore road home of MRS. J. ADDISON BARTUSH, (right), were MRS. LEO J. HOWE, JR., (left), of Blairmore court, and MRS. EDWARD J. SHUMAKER, of Lothrop road. Another Pointer attending was Mrs. Brian Molloy, Jr.

The luncheon marked the kickoff of the annual Mary Reparatrix fund raising drive, chaired this year by Mrs. Gerald Diehl, and due to the inflationary costs of putting on the annual benefit party the committee decided in favor of a 1980 direct appeal letter to reach as wide a circulation as possible.

The Order of Mary Reparatrix, founded in France, has spread worldwide. Its Detroit retreat house on Quincy street, across from Gesu Church, was opened in the 1920's.

Countless Grosse Pointe women made retreats and enjoyed days of prayer and recollection at Mount Mary through the years, and in this International Year of the Family the Sisters, who have been so close to so many families in the metropolitan area, are of special concern as part of the extended families of all with whom they have come in contact.

The Quincy House was closed four years ago because of rising maintenance costs. The Sisters carry on their work at Saint Gemma's Convent on Virgil street in Detroit. They continue to give directed retreats and operate their altar bread department which supplies many parishes in the Archdiocese of Detroit.

They also perform pastoral ministry by working with the elderly and Spanish speaking.

The auxiliary has chosen the Feast of the Assumption, August 15, as focal date for prayers and donations. Funds are especially needed for the Cincinnati House in which elderly and infirm nuns who have served the Detroit area so many years are cared for in their last years.

tional Freedom Award, Donald E. Sharon will be given the Lutzeier Memorial Award, named for the festival's founder.

In all, the 1980 International Freedom Festival features eight days jammed with athletic events, parades, exhibits, demonstrations, shows and entertainment, regattas, tournaments, races, picnics, concerts and religious services — nearly 100 events overall.

And nearly all of the events are free of charge, thanks to financial and in-kind contributions of dozens of local businesses and hundreds of individual volunteers. The entire program is coordinated by the Detroit Renaissance Foundation.

This year's Freedom Festival chairmen are George Ferris, vice-president, Ford Motor Company, Detroit, and Robert Pedler, president of Pedler Real Estate, Windsor, United States co-chairmen are Walter J. McCarthy, Jr., president, Detroit Edison, and Herold McClure Deason, partner in the Detroit law firm of Bodman, Longley &

Dahling.

Opening the eight-day extravaganza is a dramatic new Salute to Friendship. Nearly 2,000 Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Girl Guides from both countries will raise flags in a dazzling ripple effect from one side of the Ambassador Bridge to the other.

Among the events in which local residents can participate are the Ten Mile Run on Belle Isle, (for entry information call Ed Kozloff, 544-9009); the Pro-Am and Voyageur Canoe Races, (call Steve Lutsch, 519-948-3847, and Ted McCabe, 519-945-1164, respectively); the Downriver Sailing Regatta, (Richard Renwick, 736-6658); Vesper Service in Mariner's Church and Historic Church Tour, (Dr. William Quick, 875-7407); the Great Bed Race in Windsor, (Nancy Evans, 519-252-5561); the Square and Round Dance on Hart Plaza, (Barbara Tait, 224-1185); the Patriotic Paint In, Big Box Birthday Cake and other events of Children's Day at the Cultural Center, (Mary Hubbell, 872-3118, Extension 13); and the Freedom Festival Bike-Along through downtown Detroit, (Barbara Rising, 545-0511).

The Air Show next Wednesday evening, July 2, and Thursday evening, July 3, a Freedom Festival first, will feature world renowned Captain Bill Barber, Professor Bob Lyjak, Charlie Hilliard, Jerry Billings and other top stunt pilots in displays of precision and daredevilry.

The world's largest fireworks display over the Detroit River is expected to thrill a million excited viewers watching on the river and from buildings and parks on both sides of the river Monday evening, June 30, at 9:55 o'clock, (rain date is Tuesday, July 1).

Open Meadow Brook Festival

Meadow Brook Music Festival's opening week, June 26 through 29, will feature three concerts by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra conducted by Meadow Brook artistic director Neville Marriner, an evening of Dixieland jazz featuring trumpeter Al Hirt and a new musical for children by Detroit area composer and recording artist Martin Scot Kosins.

Marriner, who comes from England, whose music inspired by Shakespeare for his premier concert tonight, Thursday, June 26: Berlioz' "Beatrice and Benedict" overture, Tchaikovsky's "Hamlet" and Mendelssohn's incidental music to "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Soprano Roma Riddell, mezzo soprano Barbara Windham and the Kenneth Jewell Chorale will sing in the Mendelssohn work.

land University campus in Rochester with entrances on Walton boulevard and Adams road. Over 7,000 people can sit in the pavilion and on the lawn.

The grounds open two-and-one-half hours before evening concerts for picnicking or dining at Trumbull Terrace.

Tickets, dinner reservations and program information may be obtained by calling the festival box office, 377-2010. Tickets also are available at Hudson's and other locations, Sears, Grinnell's and Discount Records.

Pointe Counter Points

By Pat Rousseau

The Sale Continues . . . at Walton-Pierce. It will end July 3, so be sure to stop by and browse among the bargains. One or two might be to your taste and you can fill in your wardrobe at a savings. I was reminded by the Millinery Department that you can have flowers hand painted to match a costume . . . a pretty accent for summer hair styles. Even though we haven't had very much of summer yet, fall is arriving in the fashion world. Smart shoppers start now to pick the best of the fall crop. To wear now and into fall is a polycotton blend khaki outfit from DW 3. A dress with a rust-brown shirt and khaki skirt is sheltered by a khaki bolero. Another trans-season fashion is a suede cloth dress in buckskin or brick from Pedestal. Suede cloth is getting more and more popular. Parnis Feinstein used it for a brick suit and tucked in a foulard scarf. Tan suede cloth is fashioned into a classic shirt dress. Looks and feels like wool but actually the gray and pumpkin striped suit is polyester. It comes with its own pumpkin blouse from Velano. Lani is a new line at Walton-Pierce. It's smart and young and the sizes start at four. We liked the camel velour dress with the black rib knit turtle neck collar and black knit cuffs. Lani's black, red and gold paisley print dress with an attached tie scarf at the neck is another winner from this manufacturer. For those of you who wear half sizes, Kohler offers a black and camel costume. The jacket is double breasted with a camel collar. The camel knit skirt is pleated and attached to a black polyester top. Been looking for those shaggy string coats from France that you can throw in the washing machine? They are at Walton-Pierce in camel, gray and white.

Mutschler Kitchens . . . has cabinets for every room in the house. Come in and let us help you solve your storage problems no matter where they are . . . 20227 Mack Avenue, 884-3700.

Ron Ruel Says . . . Before you decide to have a perm, you owe it to yourself to know what the process is all about and just what kind of effect it will have on your hair. Ron suggests a total control Pyrametric cut to start the beginning of your new look. The best time for a perm is when your hair doesn't look good, if it lacks body, will not stay in the style you desire and has become a time consuming problem. Call 886-4130 for an appointment.

Pointer of Interest

By Peggy O'Connor

For pianist Elizabeth Lesesne, it all started on her sixth birthday. "My grandmother came to me on my birthday and gave me a choice: I could have the big package she was carrying or I could have piano lessons. I knew I'd get the package anyway, so I asked for the lessons."

Actually, Elizabeth's love for the piano began at an even earlier age, when she would bang on the toy piano her parents had given her. The banging led to the birthday lessons on a baby grand and the rest, as they say, is history.

Elizabeth says she got really interested in lessons when she was about 12. "I started studying with Gizi Szanto. She introduced me to tone—I hadn't even known what it was."

From Gizi to Mischa She studied with Gizi for three years before becoming a pupil of Mischa Kottler. And even though she has since gone on to take a Bachelor of Music degree in Piano Performance at the University of Michigan and is completing her Masters degree in Piano Performance and Musicology at U of M, she still studies with Kottler.

"He is the best teacher I could possibly have," Elizabeth says. "He's very, very strict, but after a lesson in which he has been particularly hard on you, he puts his arms around you and tells you that he knows you can do the piece."

Elizabeth credits Kottler with instilling in her the confidence and discipline a pianist needs.

"The training I've had with Mischa Kottler is the best I've had. I've shifted teachers a lot and he's the best. He is demanding—but he also concentrates. He listens and that's important."

"When a student is in need, Mischa will put everything away to help. He's taken students at all hours if they've really needed him."

According to Elizabeth, the personal attention and dedication she has received from Kottler has helped her the most in her career. And, it was precisely that which she failed to get in her freshman year at college.

Indiana Experiences "For my freshman year, I went to Indiana University. I enjoyed the school, the classes were good, but I felt that I needed more opportunity to perform."

"The professors were performing artists and they were touring all the time. That, and the fact that there were so many students just made it difficult to get individual instruction."

It is an atmosphere of individual attention and the lack of competition that Elizabeth feels is the best course for her. It is also for this reason that she has avoided studying at a conservatory—a place she says she could not feel comfortable in.

"In my opinion, conservatories are too competitive. The students are so busy pushing, they forget that they are playing music for one purpose — to develop their individual talent."

"A conservatory is fine," Elizabeth says, "when you are older and you've had a little taste of life and you know what you can take."

She has tried, she says, to take a normal approach to life and to her talent and what the two may have in store for her. That's why she stuck with a university rather than a conservatory.

"I've enjoyed college life . . . going to football games, taking courses other than music. I've taken quite a bit of language, mostly Spanish and some German."

Austrian Interlude

Despite her desire for a normal life, Elizabeth has done some things the average college student merely dreams of doing. Last summer, she traveled to the Mozarteum Academy in Salzburg, Austria, for a summer of study.

"It was my best experience, just to visit the homes of the composers, to see what inspired them," Elizabeth says.

"The school itself was difficult—but inspiring. It was a small school and we had class six days a week for eight hours per day. We had to perform every other day. The training was excellent — it concentrated on the musical rather than the technical aspect."

Elizabeth's class was also a small one—Elizabeth and 29 Japanese girls. None of them could understand German very well, so the classes were conducted in English.

"We had a Russian teacher . . . she was much like Kottler in that she was very demanding and placed great emphasis on the musical aspect."

According to Elizabeth, the demands placed on the students were to her liking. And the eight hour classes weren't as bad as they sound.

"That summer was more beneficial to me than my whole year at Indiana. Although the classes were long, they really weren't bad. The teacher made it interesting enough and we had a variety of subjects and an opportunity to perform."

Friendship, Respect "Another big advantage was the friendliness of the students," she adds. "There wasn't too much competition because we weren't all the same age or at the same level. We had respect for each other and the level we were at."

"We helped each other out and we'd work together on a difficult piece."

One of the best learning experiences Elizabeth had in Austria was an occasion when she was called upon to be an accompanist. "I accompanied a violinist in a program in Paris. I had been handed a piece and told to learn it in one week or they would give it to someone else. It was a test and it was good for me."

"I had never had that in a music school."

"There is a big demand for accompanying. Basically, you are handed some music and you have to learn it in a short time. Sight reading is important . . . you must get the overall picture, the feeling of the music in a short, fast reading."

Although Elizabeth appreciates the test and the experience she gets from accompanying, she admits that it isn't as easy as it might seem.

Not Her Favorite "I find accompanying difficult because I am used to studying on my own. In accompanying, you are backing someone else up—you're not on your own."

"I think it's harder, but I enjoy it; it's good for me. I like to accompany string instruments best, and voice is the hardest to accompany. Voice majors tend to go their own way more, they change the tempo more often and you have to be ready to follow."

It doesn't appear that accompanying is Elizabeth's career goal. She has been trained as a performer, and hopes to find out soon whether or not it is the career for her.

"After I complete the work for my Masters degree, I will either feel the need for a break and take a vacation, or I will audition to study at Juilliard. I want to find out if performance is for me. No more degrees, no more courses—I want to see if that world is for me."

"I'm not going to fool myself . . . I know I won't like Juilliard. But, the way I've gone—one or two concerts every few months—is nothing. I won't really know if I can perform until I get into the type of performing Juilliard requires."

Elizabeth says that she would prefer to go into the Vienna Academy, but that Juilliard will arrange auditions with managers—a necessity for the aspiring performer.

Music Festival Debut

In Elizabeth's immediate future, however, is her Grosse Pointe debut at the War Memorial's Music Festival Young Artist's concert on Wednesday, July 23. A debut, she says, she is excited about.

"I am excited about it, but I must admit it has been one of the most difficult programs to plan."

The July 23 program will run 60 to 70 minutes in length, not including bows and intermission — just as most of Elizabeth's programs do. She does, however, work much longer on planning the content and preparing for her programs.

"In planning, the first thing that comes to mind is to pick what I play the best. I usually pick one or two from different periods . . . baroque, or romantic. My favorite pieces are from the romantic period — like Brahms."

"Rachmaninoff was also a romantic. His works are exciting but difficult to play."

Elizabeth says that it is not unusual to study a piece right up until a week or two before a performance.

"I begin practicing the major works — the longer pieces. I add the smaller ones, which are usually the newer pieces and don't require as much concentration."

Fitness Counts

Just before the actual time of performance, Elizabeth tries to get into a set routine. She likes to make sure that the piano she uses is in top shape, and she tries to see that SHE is in good condition, too.

"I like to check the piano before the performance. The action of the keys is really important. The harder the action, the more energy it takes to play fast things. I also practice scales and arpeggios in order to check the balance of the piano."

"Before a performance, I try to sleep. If I can get in eight hours the night before, I'm lucky. The day of the performance, I warm up by going through everything very slowly with the metronome — I play much better that way. Then I take a walk . . . get away from it for a while."

According to Elizabeth, the final pre-performance check comes just before the program begins. "Just before the performance, I go and warm up—to get the blood working in my fingers. A lot of pianists don't like to go near the piano until the performance, but I like to warm up so when I go to play a fast piece, I know my fingers will work."

Concert-goers who attend the July 23 Grosse Pointe debut of Elizabeth Lesesne should be assured that her fingers will work — if her background, and the amount of planning spent on the program mean anything at all. And perhaps the performance will be just the first of many in the Pointe—but even Elizabeth isn't sure about the future.

"If I don't go into performing, I would like to teach and perform on a college level. I taught elementary level one year. I love little kids and the experience was great, but I think I'm too fast for them and I seem to relate better with more experienced student."

"I do know one thing—I don't ever want to give up playing. I've worked too hard."

of Michigan donated "Adagio," Georg Kolbe's small bronze sculpture, to the yew garden.

Valentiner became strongly attached to Alger House and its lovely garden. When the Detroit City Council made its initial decision to close the branch museum due to lack of operating funds, he appealed to Detroit Mayor Edward J. Jeffries.

Valentiner's letter to Jeffries, dated March 31, 1942, brought a compromise—the house would be kept open on Saturdays and Sundays, the garden would be open every day—that turned out to be a stay of execution.

Alger House's career as a branch of the Detroit Institute of Arts ended in 1948, and that is as far as "The Passionate Eye" which, like "Art in Detroit Public Places," received financial assistance for publication from the Michigan Council for the Arts and the Founders Society Detroit Institute of Arts, takes us. But Alger House's history was—is—by no means over, for when Detroit determined it could no longer afford the lakeside branch museum, the Alger family offered it to Grosse Pointe as a living community center.

So was born the Grosse Pointe War Memorial: a tribute to life, a commitment to the future in gratitude to those young members of the community who had given their lives for their country.

And a link with the past. Alger House had been a family's home and a repository for art treasures of the ages. It had absorbed love and beauty. It remains a place of both.

It remains a place of green and growing things, for Mrs. Russell A. Alger, Sr., devoted to gardening, made one stipulation when her family home was given to the Grosse Pointe community: that her upstairs rooms, overlooking the lake, be used as headquarters for the Grosse Pointe Garden Center.

Alger House was built in 1910. Now, at the beginning of summer, 1980, the Grosse Pointe Garden Center is searching for new blood. That's something Alger House has always welcomed, one reason it has remained forever young.

Why Not Try . . . ?

A cordial invitation is extended to all novice flower arrangers—that includes anyone who has never before exhibited or won any kind of flower award—to take a chance and enter an arrangement in the Horticulture Show to be presented by the Grosse Pointe Garden Center September 4 at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

This will be a judged competition, with a prize . . . and for the first time a new category, novice, will be included.

"All-thumbs" have been known to turn into Green Thumbs, you know, and what have you got to lose? So drop in at Alger House at the War Memorial when the Garden Center is open, every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, between 10 and 4 o'clock, to register your name and pick up your entry sheet before June 30.

Other attractions at the early fall Horticulture Show will be demonstrations of floral and other crafts and competitive exhibits of vegetables, fruits and herbs as well as plants and flowers. There will be beautiful examples of Bonsai and a Garden Market selling a wide variety of plants and cuttings.

All proceeds will go to further the educational and ecological projects which are an ongoing feature of the Grosse Pointe Garden Center's work in the community.

O'Keefe Writes Winning Essay

Janet T. O'Keefe, an eighth grade student at St. Clare Montefalco School, recently received a citation for writing a winning essay on "Why I like Project Business," in one of three Project Business classes at the school.

Project Business, a division of Junior Achievement of Southeastern Michigan, is a flexible economics and career education program, offered to eighth and ninth grade students in the greater metropolitan Detroit area. "Project Business has been making us aware of how business works. . . . It's been opening our minds to and widening our views of the business world," says Janet in her essay.

For further information about participating in the Project Business program, call 255-3900.

Boat Racing Weekend at Festival

From tugboats, the work horses of world navigation to the beauty and grace of sailing craft; from the speed of power boats to the stateliness and quietude of canoes — there will be plenty of action on the Detroit River this year, in conjunction with the International Freedom Festival.

Events this year include the Spirit of Detroit Offshore Powerboat Races, to be held at noon on Friday, June 27, featuring the world's top offshore (ocean) powerboat racers.

For this fourth race of the 1980 American Powerboat Association Offshore National Circuit, the boats will start at Hart Plaza and race upstream to Lake St. Clair and back.

The International Tug Boat Race will be held Saturday, June 28, and features 20 to 25 commercial tugs, with power ratings from 200 to 4,000 horsepower, racing in international waters.

Starting on the Detroit River opposite Fort Wayne, the tugs will hug to the foot of Ouellette Avenue in Windsor. The best places to view this race are Dieppe Park on the Canadian side and on the U. S. side at the finish line across from Hart Plaza.

Later on June 28, you can go back in time to the era of the French explorers with the staging of the Voyageur Canoe Race.

The entrants will begin at Ambassador Park on the Canadian side, paddle upstream to Ouellette Avenue in downtown Windsor, go across to Cobo Hall and come back.

As an added attraction, a voyageur village will be set up in Ambassador Park, under the Ambassador Bridge, depicting the life of the early French settlers with a variety of activities.

On Sunday, June 29, at 10 a.m., the Pro-Am Canoe Race, limited to the smaller two-person canoes, will start from the sand beach at the east end of Windsor. The canoes will race downstream to the Ambassador Bridge.

For the pro class, the canoe course is 12 miles long and for the amateurs, seven miles.

Two other nautical events will take place on the river on June 29. At noon, the Unlimited Hydros will kick up their "rooster tails" as they come thumping from the starting line at the Belle Isle Bridge over the three-mile Detroit River course for a purse of $52,500.

Grand Prix Hydroplanes from the U. S., Canada and New Zealand will compete on a special two-mile course for a purse of $25,000.

These races will feature such big names in hydro racing as Bill Muncey, Dean Chenoweth, Steve Reynolds, Chip Hanover, Tom D'Eath and Jim Kispfeld. The unlimited races have been a Detroit tradition going back to 1916. The 1979 winner was Bill Muncey in "Atlas Van Line". The 1979 Grand Prix winner was Gordie Reed in "Miss Jenny".

At a much slower pace, the Downriver Sailing Regatta will start from the Belle Isle Bridge, go in the opposite direction of the hydros and set their course downstream to the finish line at the La Salle Mariners Yacht Club, on the Canadian side.

This race, which challenges all of the skills of the seasoned sailor, features members of the Windsor, Grosse Ile, Ford, South Port and La Salle Yacht Clubs.

The Flying Scot Invitational Regatta closes out the nautical events at noon on Friday, July 4. This race features centerboard sailboats and is in its fifth year as a Freedom Festival event.

Thirty vessels will participate, with the course laid out from Scott Middle Ground between Belle Isle and Detroit and between the Detroit Yacht Club and the Detroit Boat Club.

Mercer Wins Log Contest

By Margie Reins Smith
The Grosse Pointe Power Squadron hosted the 12th Annual Sallan Predicted Log Contest last Saturday, June 21, at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

Twenty-one power boaters from Yacht Clubs and Power Squadrons in the Detroit area completed a 12.8 mile course in Lake St. Clair under sunny skies and in calm seas.

The winning skipper, United States Power Squadron District 9 Lt. Commander Odell Mercer, from Wyandotte Power Squadron, logged a .5 percent error between his predicted time and his actual time for finishing the course.

Second place went to Robert R. Hillock, of the St. Clair Yacht Club, with a 1.3 percent error. Third prize winner was Lt. John Colombo of the Grosse Pointe Power Squadron, with a 1.5 percent error.

A predicted log contest is a competition among power boaters to test skill and piloting abilities.

Each skipper receives a different finish time for the event. He then computes his own starting time, after plotting the course and figuring distance, speed, weather conditions, and boat trim. No time keeping devices are permitted except at the start.

Skippers must rely on chart calculations and tachometers only. The winner is the skipper with an actual time closest to his predicted time.

Other members of the Grosse Pointe Power Squadron who participated were: Edward Evtz, Jr., Larry Sullivan, Karl Standley, Archie McGlasson, Carmen Brancato, Past Commander John Wetzel, Lt. Commander Hank Denoff, Past Commander Fred Schriever, Dave Clark, Fred John Reif, Lt. Richard Deister, and Commander Vincent LoCicero.

An awards dinner and dance was held at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club on Saturday evening.

Little League Action

a triple by Rob Elrick and a double by Jason Whelan. Bobby Naughton tripled and Jon DeWitt doubled for Wisconsin.

Minnesota downed Illinois, 13-7, in spite of a grand-slam home run by Illinois' Steve Berg. Todd Fanning tripled, Pontus Genberg doubled, and Robert Feola and John Scheerer drove in runs for Minnesota. Chris Dinsmoore and Ted Lasater doubled for Illinois.

John Binder's grand-slam home run helped Michigan State beat Wisconsin, 20-6. Tom Wood and Pat DeLaere doubled and Wood and Kevin Reid hit 3 for 3 for Michigan State. Al Varga tripled twice and doubled for Wisconsin.

Nick Saros struck out 11 as Indiana defeated Ohio State, 15-9. Doubles were hit by Saros, Eric Zihlman, Mike Coffey and Elrick of Indiana and Chris Warners and Greg Petrilli of Ohio State. Brian Moody struck out seven Indiana batters in three innings.

Doubles by J. T. Harding, Steve Mellos and Chris Scicluna helped Michigan State defeat Minnesota, 15-1. State's pitcher DeLaere struck out 11 and allowed only three hits.

Hawaii on Top In Farms AAA

By Kirk Garey
In the Farms AAA playoffs, fourth place Denver defeated second place Louisville, 12-5. Denver's attack was led by George Berg, who went 2 for 3. His triple and double accounted for four RBI.

Hilary Fridholm was 2 for 2, with two singles. Tim Weng and Walt Konard also had singles for Denver. The strong winning pitching of Rob Wimsatt held Louisville to only five runs.

Mike Vazquez, Matt Aldrich and James Berg led the hitting attack with two singles each.

After clinching first place with a victory over Phoenix last week, Hawaii went on to defeat third place Hollywood, 9-8, in the second playoff game. The victory extended Hawaii's winning streak to 11 games.

Hawaii came from behind in the fifth inning to beat a hard-hitting Hollywood team. Hawaii pitcher Dave Fuqua went 3 for 3, including a game-winning home run.

Fuqua started the game and was replaced by Laura Pikelele in the fourth inning. Cliff Grabowski finally claimed the victory for Hawaii, after relieving Pikelele in the fourth.

Jim Ryszewski, Robby Kinniard and Andrew Kozak each had singles. Hollywood was led by George Snow, who went 3 for 3, including two singles and a double. Peter Lewis, 2 for 2, added a triple and a single.

Rich DeVine had the big hit of the day when he drilled a ball off of the roof for a home run. John Butt pitched a strong six innings for Hollywood, allowing Hawaii only seven hits.

Angels Win In City Play

By Clay Chapman

On Saturday, May 14, the Angels defeated the Rangers, 12-10. The Angels got off to a good start and things were looking bad for the Rangers. At the last of the fifth, the bases were loaded for the Rangers and David Hall hit one over the right fielder's head to drive in three runs. He was tagged out at home to end the inning. The score was then 11-10. The Angels got one run and the final score was 12-10.

The Indians have had a great season. The first half they were undefeated, at 9-0. The first game of the second half for them was close. The last of the sixth the score was 8-6. The Yankee's pitcher walked in three runs and the Indians won, 9-8. The Yankees broke their losing streak after 10 losses and no Clif Grabowski finally claimed the victory for

Bureau Offers Guide To Better Buying

The "Better Business Bureau Guide to Wise Buying," an authoritative book designed to help you fight inflation, get the most for your money, become more knowledgeable about your purchases and avoid headaches in the marketplace has just been published and is available in the Detroit area. Thomas Ashcraft, president of the Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan Detroit, recently announced the book's arrival and commented, "This guidebook has a unique, new easy to use format. It is alphabetically arranged to cover more than 100 different categories of goods and services. The contents represent an analysis of over eight million consumer contacts during the past year at 146 BBB offices throughout the country to determine consumer areas of interest and concern." Typical of more than 100 topics covered are (for the letter "C") Calculators, Camps, Carpets, Charitable Giving, Clothing, Condominiums and Cooperatives, and "Cosmetics; (under the letter "T") appear, among other topics, Televisions, Tires, Toys, Travel Agents, Typewriters.

The book is a generic guide, not a comparison of brands or prices, and serves as a basic reference guide to enable the consumer to be wary as well as a wise buyer.

There are special sections on Credit and Installment Buying, Fraud and Deception, Legal Services, Refunds and Exchanges, Warranties and a final chapter on "What To Do If You Are Dissatisfied".

According to Ashcraft, "This is a guidebook that should be in every home in southeastern Michigan. It unquestionably will be referred to on numerous occasions throughout the year by every teenage and adult member of the family and for practically every type of major and minor purchase." "In addition to helping consumers become wise and educated buyers, as authoritatively and extensively covered in our new book, the BBB also is interested in seeing that consumers are careful, wary and alert buyers. 'Investigate before you invest' is a basic precept of the BBB."

"Business firms are being offered special discounts for quantity purchases," Ashcraft said.

Among the promotional and public relations uses that business firms can make of the new book are management-to-employee distribution, tie-ins with advertising campaigns, offers of the book as a premium for account openings, to bring traffic to retail stores, public service and educational distribution to students.

"Business firms considering membership in our Better Business Bureau will be particularly interested in sending for a copy of this new book and will also receive additional information about the services our Bureau provides for member firms, as well as for consumers," Ashcraft said.

The "Guide" may be obtained by sending check or money order for $6.95 to the Better Business Bureau, 150 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, 48226. Be sure to include complete name, address and zip code. For information on quantity orders, contact the Bureau at 962-0550.

Wayne Needs Foster Homes

Adult foster care homes are in extremely short supply in suburban Wayne County communities, a recent Wayne County Department of Social Services survey reveals.

Adult foster care homes offer alternative living situations for elderly and handicapped adults, 18 or older, who do not need nursing home care. With some supervision and room and board care, residents of an adult foster care home can retain some independence and remain in their own communities.

The survey shows that of 324 licensed adult foster care homes in Wayne County, 276 or 96 percent are in the city of Detroit. There are approximately 3,500 residents of adult foster care homes in the county and 3,290 of these residents live in Detroit.

WCDSS officials point out that one person in 20 may need special foster care during his or her lifetime. Community-based care allows the resident to retain a normal living situation in a home-like atmosphere, close to friends and relatives.

These homes offer protection from inappropriate living conditions and physical or financial exploitation, they added. Foster care homes also cost far less to operate than nursing homes or homes for the aged and provide an option to placement in these facilities.

For the person operating the adult foster care home, the program offers the opportunity to earn money in his or her own home while providing a needed service to people in the community.

The home provider offers a family-style living situation in his or her licensed home, assists the aged or disabled person with daily living skills and provides 24-hour supervision of medical and financial needs.

Wayne County residents interested in providing adult foster care should call Aubrey Berenstein at 876-6384.
