Mystery of the week

Okay, we give up. "We" being the editorial department of the Grosse Pointe News. We were passing the latest edition of "Monthly Detroit" around the office, (the April issue with new Tiger owner Tom Monaghan on the front), when Society Editor Janet Mueller became intrigued by a Hudson's ad on the inside portion of the cover.

"What the heck is this," she murmured over and over, louder and louder. Finally, she asked our opinions, and quite frankly, we don't know either.

The ad is for Hudson's charge card accounts. The overline reads "You can find it at Hudson's and charge it." Most ads then show something you'd really like to own. A VCR, fur coat, furniture, stereo, etc. . . . you get the idea.

This ad just features some gold encrusted gloopy looking stuff over some dark brown stuff that looks like fencing, bricks or chocolate sticks from a Kit Kat candy bar.

What is it? What does it mean? Guesses, (no one would hazard an opinion) ran from cookie dough without the chocolate chips to metled graham crackers.

A third person suggested a topographical relief map of the coast of Saudi Arabia while someone else thought it was dried out carpet padding. You know, the old kind that crumbles when you touch it.

One philosopher in the group thought it might symbolize Hudson's leaving Detroit for Minneapolis. Or maybe it was just Mayor Young slinging mud back on Hudson's for its decision to move.

Anyhow, the ad has the entire staff Buffalo'd, which is no mean feat considering that we have a combined I.Q. of at least 100.

If anyone out there uses their Hudson's card to order some of this stuff, will you please call and let us know what it is?

Pretty please!?

Ask Mel Blanc

I read an interesting teletype while at the Farms Police Station last Friday. It seems that the coppers in Midland are scratching their heads over a big B & E and arson in their city last week.

Get this. Someone broke into a home there and made off with 26 antique pistols dating from 1849 to 1896; 22 Winchester rifles, dating from 1853 to 1897 plus 13 other assorted rifles and shot-guns.

Also missing are various German luger pistols from World War I and II. We're not finished yet folks. Also lifted were 10,000 rounds of antique ammunition; one pair of antique stirrups; two leather powder pouches; three large stagecoach locks; two leather holsters and an unknown amount of Confederate money.

Naturally enough, the Midland police are asking state agencies everywhere to be on the look out for someone thusly armed.

If I might be so bold, may I suggest looking for a short, bandy legged dude wearing a large cowboy hat. He's got orange hair, bushy eyebrows and a long, flowing orange moustache.

Other identifying characteristics include using phrases like "Say yore prayers, rabbit, ya long eared galoot!", and "Great jumpin' horny toads!"

Oh yes, his initials are Y.S.

Reorganization foe to seek re-election

By Susan McDonald

Roger Mourad, champion of the "save our elementary school" forces, announced last week that he will seek re-election to the Board of Education in the June annual election.

"I've been urged by so many people. . . I've agonized over the decision, but I'm certain it's the right one," Mourad said.

Mourad was the only one of seven board of Education members to vote against Supt. Kenneth Brummel's plan to close Barnes Elementary School and transfer sixth graders to middle school next fall as part of a system-wide reorganization. The plan is designed to economize in light of the system's greater than 40 percent decline in enrollment.

Eighteen potential candidates have taken out petitions for the two school board seats that are up for election in June. No one has formally filed petitions yet.

The seats held by Mourad and 12-year school board veteran Joan Hanpeter are up in the election. Mrs. Hanpeter has not said if she will seek re-election.

Mourad, 52, lives in the Barnes attendance area in the Shores and is the father of seven children. He is an attorney who recently left the firm Dickenson, Mourad, Brandt, Hanlon and Becker to start his own practice.

He has won support from the hundreds of people who attended school board meetings last fall to protest the school board's reorganization plans. By seeking a second term of office he hopes to make it clear to those people that he still opposes the plan, he said.

But Mourad insists the central issue in the campaign is not Barnes Elementary School.

"I don't see the campaign as a Barnes issue," Mourad said. "It's a total reorganization issue. Are we going to retain the historic neighborhood elementary school character of this community?" he asked.

While Mourad says he opposes closing elementary schools, he hinted he might support other school closings. "It's an economic issue," he said. "The decision to close must have wide community acceptance. Closing could be at the middle school level."

The school system's three middle schools, which serve seventh and eighth graders this year and will add sixth graders next fall, were the targets of criticism by Mourad when he first ran for office in 1980. He said then that many parents complain their children are not sufficiently challenged at that level and "there seems to be a sort of lull in the education system there."

At the school board's direction, the administration has studied and revamped much of the middle school curriculum since then.

Mourad said he was assured "there will be a lot of good people to work on my campaign," this spring. The head of an organization working to recall three of the school board members who voted in favor of the reorganization plan, David Easlick, Jr., said he will support the candidate.

"I've certainly encouraged (Mourad) to run. He is the one person on the board who showed the depth of character to publicly admit he'd made a mistake" in considering a plan to close elementary schools, Easlick said. He added that many people active in the recall campaign have said they will work for Mourad's re-election.

The recall campaign is aimed at trustees Jon Gandelot, Catherine Briery and Ernest Buechler. Easlick said this week that his group is still short of the 8,000 signatures he wants to collect before filing with the Wayne County Election Commission to force a recall election.

Mourad is a native Grosse Pointe who won his school board seat by coming in third in a field of six candidates in the 1980 annual election. About 4,600 voters went to the polls in that election. Mourad received 2,529 votes to Catherine Briery's 2,947 and Joan Hanpeter's 2,831.

The deadline for candidates to file petitions to run in this June's race is 4 p.m. on Monday, April 9.

City says 'thanks' for gazebo

By Tom Greenwood

A large, but quiet crowd was on hand Monday night at the Park Council meeting to watch a grateful Mayor Palmer Heenan and members of the council accept a gift of $65,000 to the city from attorney Pierre Heftler, on behalf of the estate of the late Leonard B. Willeke.

The money is to be used to construct a large gazebo at Patterson Park in honor of Mr. Willeke, a prominent architect and resident of the Park who died in 1970.

The plans for the project indicate the gazebo will actually be a "gazebo within a gazebo," with the smaller structure rotated to create more open space at each of the entry points.

The plan for this structure was submitted by John Myefski, 21, a senior at the University of Michigan School of Architecture and Urban planning. He was one of 30 students who entered 1983's Willeke Design Competition at the university, which offered a $2,500 prize to the student that submitted the winning entry.

The three rules of the competition stipulated that the structure be about 650 square feet in size, accessible to the handicapped, and be able to be constructed for the $65,000, the amount of the gift to the city.

After the presentation, Mayor Heenan came down from his bench and shook Heftler's hand, thanking him for the "generous gift to the city."

Lakeside beauty

It's taking a while, but "Old Man Winter" is finally starting to loosen his grip on Michigan. Lake St. Clair is still dotted with giant lily pads of ice, but it's a far cry from when a person could nearly walk to Canada across its frozen surface. A stroll along the lake is convincing that March is a funny time of the year. Not yet spring, yet no longer winter. But blue skies and lots of sunshine will soon change that, as the ice finally disappears and these lonely Elms once again begin to bloom.

Meet Geoff Corke, gardener

By Tom Greenwood

It's a long journey from the trench warfare of World War I to the quiet life of a gardener in Grosse Pointe, but Geoffrey Corke is happy that's the way it turned out.

Corke, a spare man with a sharp English accent and a sharper wit, spends his weekday mornings working at the Grosse Pointe Florists, on Kerby Road. He likes the work and figures it might be a good career.

"I'm the new man here," he said slowly. "I've only been here 31 years. They might fire me yet."

Not likely. The staff at the shop and greenhouse threw him a birthday party last week, complete with two cakes. Not too bad for hard-working gardener and avid golfer who just turned 97.

When you're 97, people believe you when you say you've "seen it all." And Geoff Corke has.

"Let's see, I came to America in 1922," said Corke, with a smile. "Or was it just last week? Anyway, I came here because I became fed up with the raw deal I received in England."

The "raw deal" he refers to is the treatment he and other veterans received after World War I. Corke was called up and spent four years in the trenches. Trenches that were knee deep in water and swimming with rats.

"They called it a war of attrition," said Corke softly, "and that's just what it was. I shipped out from Southampton on a Sunday, landed in France on Monday and was at the front line on Tuesday. The trench I was in had been won and lost five times the day before.

"I firmly believe that half the British officers were killed by their own men in retaliation for the stupidity of the British Army. They made us go over the top and get slaughtered by the thousands for nothing. No real military advantage. Just slaughter."

Over the course of the war, Corke became a machine gunner and one night was sent out by a "twit" of an officer to a small hill between the British and German lines. His job was to dig in and periodically strafe the German lines to "keep the Huns' heads down." The fact that the German trenches were deserted made no difference.

"You weren't allowed to ask a question, let alone tell an officer anything," said Corke. "The officers corps was made up of the gentry, the 'aristocracy,' and they'd refused to listen to working class enlisted men. So for 10 nights we went out and played the game. After 10 days, they gave my crew 24-hours off to maintain our weapons. Imagine that."

Corke was blown up twice, the last on Easter Day, 1918. When he came to, he was being cared for by an American doctor. They took a liking to each other, and after Geoff had fully recovered, the doctor made him his personal orderly.

"A wonderful man, he was," smiled Corke. "He told me to come to America to live. I thought if everyone was like him, I would."

After the war, the British government turned down his request for a disability pension, saying the still painful wounds in his legs were of "unknown origin."

"I saw an advertisement in an English paper seeking a gardener for an estate near Detroit, and after what the government did to me, I decided to apply," said Corke. "I was accepted and came to work at an estate in Grosse Pointe. Everything was fine until the Depression."

When the crash came, Geoffrey found himself unemployed when his tearful employer told him he'd lost all his money in the stock market. Geoff and his wife Elsie once

Park goes after federal funds

By Tom Greenwood

The Park Council voted unanimously March 26, to authorize City Manager John Crawford to include the city and its economic development program into an Overall Economic Development Plan for Wayne County.

Crawford explained that inclusion of the city under Wayne County's "umbrella" was necessary in order for the city to qualify for $250,000 in federal funds earmarked for job-creating construction projects in the city.

Crawford is seeking the federal funds to help pay for an ambitious project to boulevard the Jefferson Avenue entrance to Grosse Pointe, adding parking, more greenspace and a new ambience to the city's major through street.

The Park applied for federal funds under the same program last year for a repaving project and won approval. Its project was never funded, however, because the money ran out.

"At this time the government has added an additional $40 million to last year's funds," said Crawford. "But they've also changed the guidelines. Now, there's a job ratio to dollar ratio involved."

The cost of the entire construction project in the Park is $565,000 and includes boulevarding Jefferson Avenue and creating more than 130 off-street parking places to replace about 80 parking spots lost on the street.

The overall project includes a commitment from Bon Secours Hospital and the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology to build a $5 million medical and office facility on Jefferson Avenue; a commitment from Bon Secours Hospital to build an out-patient medical clinic at a cost of $500,000 on Kercheval Avenue (already under construction); a commitment from Darrel Finken, owner of Sparky Herbert's, for a restaurant expansion at a cost of $250,000 (under construction); and a commitment from Effort, Inc., a professional office development on Jefferson, for about $200,000 of improvements.

Crawford estimated that 289 positions will be created by the projects, with 180 of them full time jobs, thus qualifying the city for federal funding.

Crawford pointed out to the council that the projects would qualify the city through Wayne County, thus allowing the city to be invited to submit an application to the federal government.

Crawford also reminded the council members that the application was non-binding on the city, and yet not a guarantee that the city would be granted money. Mayor Heenan told the council that there was probably a "one in 10 chance" the city would receive funds.

Two-alarm fire rips home in Shores

A faulty space heater may have caused a two-alarm fire Tuesday evening, March 20, that did an estimated $90,000 worth of damage to a Fairford Road home in the Shores.

The village public safety department called in 15 men to combat the blaze while the Farms sent a truck and six men.

Village Superintendent Michael Kenyon also spent a half-hour manning a hose and fighting the fire before returning to the village offices for a council meeting that night.

Fire investigators believe the fire started in the first floor den of the two-story brick-and-wood colonial, reports said. A television set and an electric portable space heater were found in the east side of the room, according to Shores public safety director Joseph Vitale.

The homeowners told police the heater was unplugged when the couple left about 4 p.m. for a doctor's appointment. Investigators believe the heater may have been left plugged in and malfunctioned, causing the fire, reports said.

The couple told police they returned home from the appointment about 6:15 p.m. when they found the electric garage door would not open, the woman entered the house through a side door off the garage, reports said.

The side door opens on to a hallway that separates the den and a half-bath. The woman opened the door to the den, spotted the fire and tried to close the door but was unable to.

She then fled the home and went to a neighbor's where she called police. Officers responded quickly and immediately called in the second alarm when they found flames coming from the den window.

Officers began putting water on the outside of the home while another team forced the front doors to bring water on the interior. The fire had worked its way through the floor and had moved up through a wall to the second story of the home, Vitale said.

No one was injured in the blaze. Fire damage was limited to the den.

"I've never really missed England that much," said Corke, "although I urge everyone to visit it. Especially the great estates. What there are left of them."

Mayor," laughed Heftler. "I'm just happy I could make the presentation to the Park, Mr. Willeke's hometown."

Heftler did point out that there were a number of conditions to the gift; that the gazebo be located at Three Mile Park and be suitably designed to honor an outstanding architect such as Mr. Willeke.

Heftler also asked for final design approval of the project and pointed out that the city could reject the winning entry and ask for another design if it wished.

After accepting the gift, the council sent the design for the gazebo back to the Mayor's Planning Advisory Committee to iron out all the fine details of the design before letting out construction bids. The final site plan for the gazebo must appear again before the council for final approval.

Young authors learn to roar this weekend

One hundred and fifty-six young authors from Defer, Kerby, Mason and Monteith Elementary Schools in Grosse Pointe will meet for a writers' conference at Monteith School from 8:45 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday, March 31.

Each of the four schools will send 39 representatives from their kindergartens through the sixth grades to participate in a variety of 14 writing experiences. Topics available to students in these section meetings are authors, biographies, creative vocabulary, drama, editing, illustrations, newspapers, peer editing, poetry, photography, puppetry, songs and lyrics, speech and story telling.

Jacque Wuertenberg, nationally prominent authority in the field of children's literature and language arts, will be featured in the opening assembly and will also make a presentation in the section meetings. Dianne Baker, another well-known figure in the language arts field, and known most prominently for her folk song presentations, will also be participating in the conference.

Each student will have an opportunity to participate in two of the 14 section meetings, which will be led by professional staff members of the Grosse Pointe public schools and libraries. Nancy Salamas, Rosalie Bryk, Joan Robie Kubista, Dr. Roger McCaig, Keith Kawa, Robert Button, Nancy Kline, Jean Palazzolo, Richard Kay, Katherine Guwza, Melanie Fisher and George Panarites will be the presenters.

Organizers of the conference are calling it the first annual Young Authors Conference, with an eye to the future for more of the same. The theme for the 1984 conference is "Lions Roar, Willow Whispers, Turkey Talk ... Young Authors' Conference."

Historic Detroit subject of talk

"Historic Preservation: Detroit in A National Perspective" will be the topic of Sally G. Oldham's lecture on Wednesday, April 4. Her presentation to the Junior League of Detroit and interested members of the community will take place at University Liggett School, on Cook Road, at 7:30 p.m. The public is welcome. To make reservations, call 881-0040.

Ms. Oldham is an architectural historian whose dedication to preservation has spanned more than a dozen years. Between 1975 and 1982 she was with the U.S. Department of the Interior serving as Acting Chief of Registration and Chief of the Tax Incentives Unit for the National Register of Historic Places. Ms. Oldham has addressed annual meetings of both the National Trust for Historic Preservation and the American Bar Association on Historic Preservation Law.

She is currently executive vice-president of Langelier Historic Properties which provides syndication and consulting services for properties being rehabilitated using federal tax investment credits and certification.

An important segment of Detroit's riverfront revival brings Ms. Oldham to the area to consult on the rehabilitation of the Parke Davis complex into offices, public plazas and housing being undertaken by Stroh Brewery Company.

Her lecture will provide a perspective on the Stroh restoration and similar riverfront areas in the nation that are being redeveloped.

'Red Shoes' on stage

Tickets are still available for the final weekend of Grosse Pointe Children's Theater's production of "The Red Shoes," the classic Hans Christian Andersen fairy tale.

"The Red Shoes," which opened last weekend to enthusiastic audiences, will continue with two performances at 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Saturday at Fries Auditorium of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Tickets are $2.50 for students and senior citizens, $3.75 for adults, and $2.25 for groups of 12 or more students.

The Children's Theater production recaptures the original Andersen theme of a Danish peasant girl's struggle with the temptation of a gift of red shoes from an old soldier, who may be the devil himself.

"This play is strong theater," according to Children's Theater director Sally Reynolds, "with heavy demands on the talents of all concerned."

"We've only attempted 'The Red Shoes' three times in our 30 year history," she said. "Some of our past leads, such as Bruce McConachie, Karen Lena, Laura Stanczyk, Moira Brophy and Tom Wisely, have gone on to considerable dramatic success in later years."

Lead performers in the play are Marla Kurz and Michelle Gasperut as Karen, the peasant girl, and David Bryant and Jon Hammond as the soldier. Kurz and Bryant are South freshmen, Gasperut attends Star of the Sea, and Hammond is from Mt. Clemens.

Also featured in leading roles are Doug Sutherland and Michael Schoenith as the shoemaker, Clare Bonahoom and Kristin Button as the grandmother, Lexi Lepard and Cathy Obeid as the nurse, and Tracie Dold and Anastassia Papatriantafyllou as the princess.

Appearing in other parts will be Pauline Mastramato, Cathy Obeid, Kasey Clark, Roxanne Varzi, Karen Molitor, Cari Martin, Megan Connolly, Phaedra Robson, Elaine Ford, Genevieve Dwahey, Vicki Dunn, Jennifer Dahlstrom, Christopher Lawrence and David Darby.

The parts of village children will be played by Carey Crim, Stephanie Stebbins, Lissa Oswald, Laura Wing, Jennifer Shock, Victoria Cargas, Jessica Fortier, Heather Klobuchar, Kim Ramsey, Robin Dold, Emily Lawrence, Tracy Ganem, Bridgit Cross, Trinity Steele, Tricia Howard, Jennifer Channel, Sandra DiPasquale and Shanna McNamee.

Wing and a snare

Ask anyone in the Farms Police Department, and they'll agree that Patrolman Bill Fowler can tell some stories. He's been on the force so long he can remember when they dug the pit for Lake St. Clair.

Besides being a police officer, Bill also doubles as maintenance man and as the Farms animal control officer.

He's always getting calls asking for assistance with beserk squirrels, rambling raccoons and imposing possums.

Last week he fielded a call from a Kerby road resident complaining of a bird caught in her chimney. Coming to the rescue he entered the house and, sure enough, there were sounds of a bird fluttering around above the flue.

Armed with a circular animal net attached to a large iron ring, Fowler pushed the net up into the chimney hoping to snare the bird. When he withdrew it, there sitting aside the iron ring was a large, (very large) hawk of some sort.

"Not in the net, mind you, but astride the ring, with its talons gripping the edge," said Fowler, with a touch of amazement in his voice. "It glaring at me."

Once on the porch, he gave the net a little tap and the bird soared off into the gray Michigan skies.

According to Officer Fowler, the bird of prey had a two to two-and-a-half foot wing span and was about eight inches across the chest. Its chest was sort of white with brown spots and it had brown and white tail-feathers.

He thinks the hawk perched on the chimney to get warm, was overcome by the fumes and fell down into the fireplace.

That isn't too hard to believe, since I've done it many times myself.

Spring tree sale in the Park

The Grosse Pointe Park Beautification Commission will conduct its fourth annual spring sale of shade and ornamental flowering trees.

Bare root, potted, and balled and burlapped trees ranging in size to 10 feet will be offered by the commission. Prices range from $15.25 to $37.

Order forms and descriptions of the trees that are available may be picked up at the Park Municipal Building on East Jefferson and the Park Branch of the Grosse Pointe public library on Kercheval Avenue.

Your order and payment must be received at the municipal building by Wednesday, April 18. Trees will be available for pick-up at Windmill Pointe Park on Saturday, April 28.

Available trees include Candied Apple and Winter Gold Crabs, Shingle Oak, River Birch, Winter King and Sweet Gum varieties.

Opera lovers meet April 1

Doris Pagel, soprano, and Lawrence LaGore, pianist, will present a complimentary evening at the opera on Sunday, April 1, at the War Memorial. The performance, which is open to the public, will begin at 8 p.m.

Their repertoire will include Mozart's "Zeffiretti Lusinghieri," "Dove Sono I Bei Momenti," and "Come Scoglio Immoto Resta." Other pieces by Verdi, Tschai-kowsky and Floyd will be followed

The subject is mid-life change

Psychiatrist Dan Guyer, M.D., will offer insight into the various stages and associated crises of adult life in a program, "Predictable Mid-Life Changes," at Cottage Hospital of Grosse Pointe on Thursday, April 5.

The program will begin at 7 p.m., in Boardrooms A and B, on the lower level of the hospital, 159 Kercheval Avenue, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Changing careers, dealing with teenagers and aging parents, alterations in marital relationships, and self-image are some of the common challenges we face in the middle years. Recognizing that these mid-life changes can be predicted just as a child's growth and development can be anticipated and monitored, and that these changes are normal, helps to relieve some of the accompanying anxieties.

For more information and reservations for this free program, call the hospital education department at 884-8600, extension 2390.

by a finale by Puccini. A complete program is available in the War Memorial's March/April activity card.

Mrs. Pagel, a graduate of Juilliard, has studied at the Aspen School of Music, Wayne State and the Detroit Conservatory of Music. She has taught at many schools and coaches members of the Grosse Pointe Theater.

LaGore, founder and artistic director of "Saturdays at Four," has performed as soloist and in ensemble groups with leading instrumental and vocal artists in recitals, and on radio and television. Currently he is a faculty member at Marygrove and Macomb Community colleges.

Unitarians will discuss Mideast

Ronald Stockton, associate professor of political science at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, will speak on the "Conflict in Lebanon" Sunday, April 1, at 9:30 a.m. at the Adult Forum of the Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church.

The meeting, the first of a series organized by professor Helen Graves and the Adult Forum Committee, will be held in the church library.

Stockton currently teaches a class titled "Middle East Politics." He received his Ph.D. from Michigan State University. His specialties include African political systems, comparative government and political organization and behavior.

The public is invited to attend the forum and to take part in the 11 a.m. services. Call 881-7511.

To halt the 'brain drain'

Michigan, like the rest of the United States, is dedicated to adequate support for public education at all levels. Yet the proportion of state support for Michigan's colleges and universities has declined from more than 69 percent of operating costs in 1966 to less than 59 percent in 1982.

The figures collected by the Detroit News in a recent survey of tuition costs at Michigan colleges also show a corresponding rise in the percentage of operating costs paid by students. In 1966, students paid less than 24 percent of the cost of running the schools. By 1982, they paid closer to 35 percent.

So in effect the state is relying increasingly on "user" charges for public higher education. The students who are "using" the colleges and universities are paying a greater share of the costs as a result of the state's diminished ability to meet education's revenue demands.

WELL, ONE MIGHT ASK, what is wrong with that?

One thing that is wrong with the present situation was revealed in the Detroit News' story about the state's "brain drain." Tuition at Michigan's 15 public four-year institutions has risen an average of 82 percent since 1978 and given the state one of the highest tuition levels in the nation. The state's average is now $1,606 a year as compared with a national average of $1,105. The result has been that many Michigan students now are finding it possible to go to public universities and colleges outside of Michigan and pay lower non-resident fees than the resident charges in Michigan. That is where the "brain drain" takes place.

Michigan already has suffered a "brain drain" from the loss of jobs that was greater here during the recession than in any other state. People who couldn't get work in Michigan took their "brains" and went elsewhere to find employment. Now they are being followed by students who find it cheaper to get a public education in colleges and universities outside of the state.

It no doubt is true that savings can be made in higher education costs in Michigan as in the costs of other services. A state commission is currently examining the state's higher educational system to seek savings through possible consolidation, elimination of duplicating programs and other reorganizations. But whatever recommendations the commission makes cannot be implemented overnight. And quality education still costs money.

In his budget, Gov. James Blanchard proposed a 10 percent increase in funds for public colleges and universities that freeze their tuition at current levels and only a 6 percent increase for those that hike tuition again. Whatever the Legislature does, a strong argument can be made for no further increases in tuition and, in fact, for some reduction to avoid pricing college out of the market for many Michigan students.

AS THIS NEWSPAPER has said before, Michigan's greatest resource is its young people. The state does not expect that all of those desiring to go to college will find campuses of their liking in Michigan. But to put tuition rates so high as to force even some of those who want to go to college in Michigan to seek higher education elsewhere because of the high costs here at home is short-sighted. It simply promotes the "brain drain" and costs the state the "brains" it badly needs for the future.

The alternative to higher tuition appears to be greater state support. That conflicts with the popular demand for reduced taxes in this state. But if the choice is between higher taxes — or at least no further reduction in taxes — and the continued "brain drain," what course would the public choose? We think for Michigan's future there is only one choice and the public would be willing to make it.

School election an enigma

In viewing the school board election in Grosse Pointe on June 9, we are reminded of Winston Churchill's famous comment about the Soviet Union. "It is," he said, "a riddle wrapped in a mystery inside an enigma." So it is with respect to the school board election.

What do we mean? Simply that at the time this editorial comment is being written no fewer than 18 nominating petitions have been picked up from the school system's central office — but nobody has yet filled for the two positions to be filled in the June 9 election.

Does that mean we will have as many as 18 candidates on the school ballot? That seems to be unlikely. What does seem likely is that a good many people are considering entering the race but haven't yet made up their minds. And they have until the filings close on April 9 at 4 p.m. to make their decisions and file petitions signed by at least 25 voters.

THE FIRST CANDIDATE to announce publicly that he definitely would file is Roger Mourad, one of the two incumbents whose term expires. Mourad said he made the decision at the urging of friends and supporters and because he wanted to emphasize his continuing opposition to school reorganization plans proposed by Supt. Kenneth Brummel.

Nominating petitions also have been picked up on behalf of Joan Hanpeter, the board president, but the 12-year veteran has not yet definitely announced she will seek reelection. She has been a strong supporter of school reorganization plans, including the school closing proposals which have become hotly controversial in the district.

How does the recall campaign fit into this election picture? It now seems likely that June 9 also will be the date of the recall election, assuming the recall organizers obtain more than 6,700 signatures on their petitions aimed at the ouster of school board members Catherine Brierly, Jon Gandelot and Ernest Buechler. If that scenario develops, those opposed to the reorganization would be in a position to win control if they captured both seats on June 9 and also succeeded in recalling the three supporters of school reorganization. However, the recall backers still would have to win the subsequent election to name replacements for the recalled trio.

Is the recall organization going to run candidates in the regular election June 9 and if so, how many?

David Easlick, Jr., the recall chairman, told the News last week his organization plans to nominate two people for the board's regular election and three more for the subsequent election if the recall is successful. In view of the widespread interest in the controversial reorganization and closing issue, however, competition is expected at both elections.

Just one school, Barnes elementary, is scheduled for closing next fall but whether that will occur on schedule apparently will depend on what happens in the board elections. This newspaper has consistently been in favor of reorganization and still hopes that it will take place, at least on the current limited basis.

NOW THAT THE RECALL advocates have in effect made the election on June 9 a referendum on school reorganization, residents of the district will want to know just how each of the candidates stands on that controversial matter. In subsequent weeks, the News hopes to inform the public about the candidates' position on reorganization and other issues in its news columns and to make additional comments about the candidates and the issues in its editorial columns.

In the meantime, filings by the candidates and additional announcements of intentions to file will clarify the picture and make it somewhat less of "a riddle wrapped in a mystery inside an enigma" than it now appears to be.

New tax rollback in sight

About the only thing that is certain as a result of the Republican Senate's initial passage of a rollback in the state's income tax is that some reduction will be enacted before the election next November.

The Senate rejected a July 1 rollback to 4.6 percent, the old income tax rate, before adopting a rollback bill that would bring the rate down from its current level of 6.1 percent to 5.35 percent next July 1 and to 4.6 percent on July 1, 1985.

Since Gov. James Blanchard already has proposed cutting the rate to 5.35 percent on Oct. 1, it appears likely the Democratic House will try to go along with the executive's plan. That would then set the stage for a compromise between the House and Senate, assuming the Senate gives its bill final passage this week.

Under present tax legislation, the 38 percent tax increase that boosted the rate from 4.6 to 6.35 percent in 1983 began dropping as of Jan. 1, 1984. The first decline brought the rate to 6.1 percent and a second scheduled for next Jan. 1 would reduce it to 5.35.

WHAT ALL OF THIS means is that Gov. Blanchard proposed to roll back the 6.1 percent tax rate three months earlier than scheduled by the current law while the Republican Senate proposed a rollback from 6.1 percent to 5.5 percent effective six months earlier than scheduled.

The governor has said he wants the Legislature to pass his "zero-growth" $5.38 billion budget for fiscal 1985 before cutting the tax rate three months ahead of schedule. He claims the state can afford only a $130 million reduction, which is what his three-month rollback would cost. But if the Legislature approved a deeper cut, he would be under strong pressure to approve such a measure in an election year.

That pressure would come from the House members, all of whom face election in November. Since the Republicans control the Senate which is not up for election this year, the GOP already has put the Democratic majority in the House on the defensive by getting in first with its tax proposal. Under these circumstances, it is difficult to believe the Democratic House would not compromise with the Senate.

The governor then might be left with a decision of whether to sign or veto a measure providing more tax relief than he originally promised. He doesn't face election this year but it is doubtful that he would jeopardize his future by halting a tax cut approved by both houses. If he vetoed such a measure, he would lose what benefit he gained by his early rollback proposal.

It is true that educators have begun to speak up against premature tax cuts on the grounds such action would require increases in local school taxes as well as tuition hikes for colleges. But the mood of the country currently is that cuts in taxes take precedence over increasing or even maintaining services, whether the cuts affect welfare or even education.

Under the circumstances, the major questions left for decision with respect to proposed tax cuts are when and how much. The question of whether there should be such a cut already has been answered by the governor and the Senate.

Save estates by going condo

To the Editor:

To the objective real estate economist, the demise of Grosse Pointe's great estates is rooted in several causes, with rising land values being the most important factor. As the period after World War II has provided us with Keynesian economics and a substantial and economically powerful middle class, these estates have been compared to dinosaurs. We have uncreatively decided that they, too, must meet the same fate of the dinosaur.

I have always thought of the estates as great works of art. They represented the physical manifestation of valuable states of mind possessed by the nation's leading residential and landscape architects. As we all know, the results of their efforts were beautiful residences, beautiful gardens and beautiful meadows. Another result was the social elevation of the estate's owner and family.

Current high prices for lake-front property mean that the estates' meadows must disappear. Nonetheless, there are no reasons for the mansions and gardens to also disappear. Rather the mansions can be converted into condominiums and the gardens preserved as green space to be enjoyed by the subdivisions' residents.

Not all the grounds of the former estate would then be subdivided. The newly constructed residences would be more valuable and possibly more marketable under this arrangement. Therefore, increased total revenue for the developer and a larger tax base for the city are quite possible.

This alternative could be feasible with the Weber and J.B. Ford estates, and it would make sense for the planning commissions of the Farms and the Park to pay more serious attention to this line of thought for at least two reasons.

One, the slow sales activity in the Sycamores, the new subdivision occupying the former grounds of the Seyburn estate, indicates that Grosse Pointe is already saturated with small, architecturally nondescript residences on cramped lots. In other words, these lots and houses are overvalued. I also believe that the returns, both financially and aesthetically, on the development on Henry Ford's II former estate are over optimistic for the same reasons.

Second, the mansions and their surrounding gardens offer both beauty, green space and a sense of history to the subdivision and the city. By the way, it must be remembered that the lack of beauty, green space and sense of history seem to be major aesthetic faults of Detroit.

Park mayor must share power

To the Editor:

In his letter to the editor of March 22, Robert Davies states that the Grosse Pointe Park city charter gives the mayor "the power of appointment and that the council shall approve." This is an interesting (albeit incorrect) reading of the charter, since it implies that those who wrote it intended the council simply to rubberstamp mayoral appointees.

What the charter actually states is that the mayor "shall appoint, with the confirmation of the council." This small difference in wording is significant, since it reflects an attempt by the charter's writers to distribute power among the mayor and council members, so that no single person could dominate the city's government.

As for the controversy over the mayor's appointees to the Economic Development Council, a reading of the EDC by-laws shows that the mayor is to appoint, with the advice and consent of the council. If the mayor chooses not to seek the advice of council members, he should not be surprised when he receives neither their cooperation nor their consent.

Why is South outstanding?

Within the past year, Grosse Pointe South High School has been named one of the five outstanding high schools in Michigan and one of 80 such schools in the United States. Active support from parents and the community, without a doubt, made this possible.

Two local organizations recently offered such support when they underwrote the costs of a student assembly involving a presentation by futurist and social economist Robert Theobald. The presentation dealt with possible outcomes of present trends in our society and the means by which we may attain the most desirable sort of future.

The Grosse Pointe Foundation for Academic Enrichment and its chairperson, George Eddington, fulfilled the goal of academic enrichment suggested by its name. In so doing, it continued a program of more than 10 years' standing, the goal of which is enrichment of the elementary and secondary curricula.

At a level even closer to South High, the South High Mothers' Club through its president, Jane Barry, continued a comprehensive program of support that has been a long-standing tradition at our school. This support has included provision of materials and sponsorship of guest speakers.

I wish to thank both organizations for supporting this assembly and for a long and abiding tradition of concern for the students of the community.

Richard parking lot would be an eyesore

To the Editor:

I am writing as a concerned citizen of Grosse Pointe; as a concerned parent of a first grader at Richard Elementary School and as a design professional concerned about the uses of urban spaces.

It is extremely troublesome, from all three of the above viewpoints, that the Board of Education and the administration would consider the conversion of the property adjacent to Richard Elementary School into a paved and metered parking lot for 75 cars. I believe it to be of utmost importance that all alternatives be completely, competently and professionally investigated. A parking lot in that location, while seemingly satisfying some pragmatic needs, could potentially become a fatal eyesore for the residents and businesses of the "Hill" area.

I would ask the administration, the Board of Education, and the members of the Farms city council to consider the following points:

- A community with the uniqueness of the Grosse Pointes does not have to duplicate the bad planning decisions of major urban areas by converting open space into parking lots. There is not a parking lot in the world that makes a positive contribution to our visual environment;

- From a master planning and traffic flow standpoint, I suspect that a real traffic study would not justify a parking lot in the space between Richard Elementary School and Kercheval Avenue;

- Off-street parking for the library, the Punch and Judy Theater, and the businesses on that end of Kercheval has sufficed for years, and I suspect it will continue to do so, even though it may be inconvenient for some people at some times;

- Claire Basco, the principal at Richard, expresses concern about current safety. I propose that traffic entering and leaving from a 75 car parking lot within 35-40 feet of the school edge would pose more safety hazards than those that currently exist. It will also be dirty, unsightly and noisy. In short, a parking lot does not belong on property adjacent to an elementary school.

- While I understand Dr. Basco's desire to have additional parking for Richard, it seems possible to provide more efficient and desirable parking and delivery by prudent design of the existing parking, unloading and playground on Ridge Road.

- The current Ridge Road playground is a disgrace to the Grosse Pointe Public School system. I hardly applaud the design effort to make it more creative and to link it with Messner Field in a more functional and pleasing manner. However, I urge that these improvements be more than just superficial.

- Recent studies have shown that metered parking has contributed to the downfall of small compact urban shopping areas because it is an irritant to the shopper and consumer. In addition, there are many instances where the money taken in from parking meters does not even come close to covering the cost of installation, maintenance and scheduled collection. In fact, they have been taken out of many areas around the country.

- Finally, and most important of all, a unique opportunity exists to plan for a "pocket park" on a highly visible site, adjacent to the library, the elementary school, a theater and a shopping area. A well planned "pocket park" would provide for outdoor reading areas for school use and for library use, as well as places for seating for theater-goers, walkers and bicyclists who are proliferate in Grosse Pointe. A pleasantly landscaped park with a series of seating areas or activity nodes would provide a small "sense of place" uniquely valuable to the community as a whole. It may even be the place for a small amphitheater that Dr. Basco desires for Messner Field. The possibilities for a park are limitless. The money used for grading, paving, drainage, striping, walls, fences and gates to build a parking lot would be a thousand times more effective in the creation of a park.

In my 20 years as a practicing architect, I have not seen many opportunities like this. The administration, the Board of Education and the members of the council have a truly unique opportunity to show that you can all work together to develop a far more positive contribution to the community than a mere parking lot.

It takes thought, it takes study, it takes professional consultation, it takes time-but above all, it takes a commitment from all of you collectively to see that the property in question is put to the best possible use. In the press of time and a desire to use current block grant funds, don't make a bad and irresponsible decision. Funding sources will become available again in the future. You can afford to wait in order to make the right decision — it is that important.

Robb story is trite

To the Editor:
One of your reporters, Susan McDonald, has been covering an issue about David Robb.

This story has become trite and not worth the attention allowed.

To put it succinctly, "Why kick a dead horse?"

You should know by now, that the people of Grosse Pointe are not interested in yellow sheet journalism.

If you want to know what happens to yellow sheets, just think of what happened to the Detroit Times.

Lakeland needs good clean-up

To the Editor:

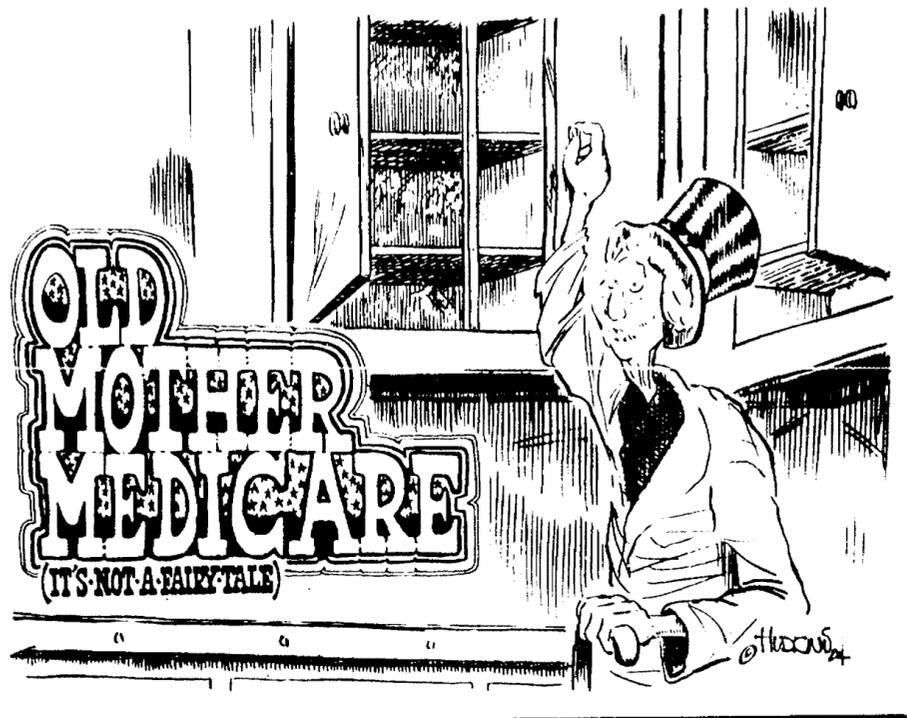

Property value in the Pointes decreased last year. The residents' disregard for the environment is contributing to that. At the foot of Lakeland Avenue, the only public access to Lake St. Clair in Grosse Pointe City, litter is a major problem. Cleaning up the foot of Lakeland Avenue would increase the property value of the surrounding area.

Any time at the foot of Lakeland empty beer bottles can be found. Some people come to clean out their cars, others come to have a smoke and others come with their dogs. The dogs have a nice swim in the water and they always leave a calling card.

If the city would replace the dead grass or even cement the whole area, it could become a wonderful place to watch the sunset or to watch the boats. People could come and enjoy the area, not be disgusted with it. The property value of the surrounding area would increase because the waterfront would be something worthwhile to look at.

Property value on Lakeland Avenue would increase if the foot of Lakeland was cleaned up. The cleaning and fixing of it would not cost much and would be greatly appreciated.

Hard times for MADD, SADD

Students opt for 'Safe Ride'

By Mike Andrzejczyk

In January, 1983, three college friends were driving up Jefferson about 2 a.m., coming home from a party in Hamtramck. The 20-year-old driver lost control of the car, rolling it on Jefferson near Cadioux.

Killed in the accident was a 21-year-old City man. The driver would later be charged with manslaughter when it was determined he was legally intoxicated at the time of the accident.

The next month, a 17-year-old South High scholarship winner and accomplished cellist was seriously injured when the vehicle she was a passenger in rolled over after hitting the median on Mack near Neff. The driver of the vehicle was reportedly drinking before the incident.

That May, Mothers Against Drunk Drivers came to town, holding an organizational meeting at the War Memorial. The meeting notice said: "Learn how we can protect our children. Every 23 minutes someone dies because of a drunk driver... January 15 it was a 21-year-old Grosse Pointer."

The meeting "produced such an enthusiastic response that it became difficult to find a seat after the... starting time," the Substance Abuse Community Council newsletter said.

National MADD board members explained the organization's court monitoring, bereavement aid and aid to victim programs, according to the SAC's newsletter.

Following MADD came Students Against Drunk Drivers. The group was aimed at helping high school age students to get home safely in case they had had too much to drink while not advocating drinking among young people.

SADD used a contract which parents and their children signed. Parents promised to pick the child up if he or she had been drinking and was unable to drive. Kids promised to call their parents should they be unable to drive. Both sides promised to discuss the incident later.

Local high school students are changing the program. Adopting the idea of a safe ride home for someone unable to drive, the students have dropped the idea of the contractual agreement, which they said they thought would lead to confrontation.

Students working to organize "Safe Ride" say the program will keep calls to the program for a ride confidential. "Safe Ride keeps the parents out of it," one student said.

Bernie LeMieux, assistant principal at South and one-time temporary sponsor, said students were having trouble with the contracts. They seemed reluctant to discuss the idea of drinking with their parents and so left the contracts unsigned. The school even tried mailing the contracts home and received the same lackluster response, he added.

Built into the program would be a referral for those students who use the program often, students said. LeMieux pointed out those plans weren't final, yet.

While SADD has changed to meet the demands of the area, MADD hasn't fared as well. While some consider the group still active, other community groups and one of its organizers say it has fallen on hard times.

Members still receive their newsletters and meetings are still held occasionally but organizer Debbie Gryn said things "haven't come together the way we wanted them to" for the local chapter.

Mrs. Gryn, a Detroit emergency-room nurse whose sons attend Grosse Pointe schools, said MADD is available for work in conjunction with SAC's. Three-quarters of MADD's members are also affiliated with SAC's, she added.

Part of the fall-off the group has suffered has been in part because of a misconception about MADD's purpose, Mrs. Gryn said. "Many people thought we were automatically against drinking," she said. "We aren't. We just say, 'use your head.' If you drink, don't drive."

Also affecting membership in MADD was its attempt to organize after SAC's had been active in the community for almost a year, Mrs.

Gryn said. "SAC's is run so well," she said.

Another problem the organization faced was one many volunteer organizations face, Mrs. Gryn said. People who were interested over the phone weren't available in person when the time came, she added.

But, she points out, the community is still served without MADD. There is SAC's, a well-organized operation that does most of the things MADD does and some of the things it can't do because of MADD's size, Mrs. Gryn said.

"It's not really harmful" not to have an active local MADD chapter, she said. "The Grosse Pointes really have it together in terms of SAC's... Everything is run so well."

Pancake breakfast at St. Clare church

St. Clare of Montefalco Archconfraternity and Girl Scout troop no. 1393 will sponsor a pancake breakfast Sunday, April 1, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the church social hall.

Menu includes pancakes with butter and syrup, sausage, juice and coffee or tea. Price is $3 for adults, $1 for children under 12, or $10 for the family. The public is invited.

Cable teams up with Easter Seals

In an attempt to focus on the disabled population, Group W, Metrovision, McLean Hunter and Booth Communications have begun an innovative project in conjunction with the annual Easter Seals Telethon.

Group W provides cable service through Grosse Pointe Cable, which serves residents in Harper Woods, Grosse Pointe Woods, Park Farms and City.

The initial phase of the project will begin with the showing of a program segment on community access channels. Highlights include replays from the 1983 telethon and a dramatic piece by Donna Mills, telethon co-host and star of "Knots Landing."

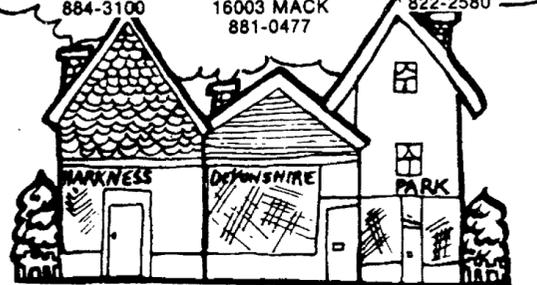

Grosse Pointe Cable will offer special installations. Consumers can take advantage of discounted services while a donation in their names will be made to help continue needed programs and services to the handicapped.

A drawing will be held prior to the telethon with winners to be announced April 1, according to Easter Seals.

For more information about the program, call Grosse Pointe Cable at 886-9200 or visit the offices adjacent to J.C. Penney's in The Pointe Plaza.

What's Wrong With This Picture?

Your new baby's first car ride is an important event — you're going home from the hospital together as a new family. Of course you want to hold your baby close to you. But think about this: If your car should brake suddenly or be involved in an accident, the most loving arms in the world would not be strong enough to keep the baby from being thrown forward.

Michigan law now requires that all children under age 1 ride in a restraint seat, and that all children 4 and under ride in a restraint when in the front seat of a car.

For your baby's sake, make that first car ride — and every car ride — a safe one. Use an approved infant restraint seat whenever you take your baby out in the car.

Restraint seats make great baby gifts too!

Since you may be shopping now for your 1983 or 1984 Individual Retirement Account, we at NBD are doing everything we can to help make choosing one easy.

Among the highlights: Our 5-year IRA investment pays higher interest than ever—11 1/2%.

And it's only available through April 16. If you choose this plan, you'll be assured of our extra-high interest rate. Plus, you won't need to think about how to reinvest your funds for five full years. Like all of our time savings investments, this one carries a $1,000 minimum deposit.

Our Market Rate Investment (MRI) plan requires a deposit of only $10.

If you're looking for an IRA investment that requires an extra-low minimum deposit you may be interested in our MRI. It offers liquidity and lets you make periodic contributions to build up your plan.

If you want to diversify your investment, now we offer a self-directed IRA.

Our self-directed IRA plan lets you invest in stocks or mutual funds. It allows you to change your investment strategy when you feel it necessary. The minimum deposit varies with the type of investment you choose.

Other IRA plans available.

In addition, NBD also offers 6-month, 2- and 4-year IRA plans. If you are interested in investing for these time periods, just ask for more information at any NBD office.

When you invest in any IRA plan, there are two important things to remember. First, if you withdraw funds from any time savings plan before it matures, federal regulation requires a substantial interest-forfeiture penalty. Furthermore, if you withdraw funds from an IRA plan before you reach age 59 1/2, the IRS imposes certain tax penalties. NBD financial expertise.

NBD bankers are trained to help take the confusion out of choosing an IRA plan. We give you all the information you need. No tricky figures. No surprises. Just straight facts.

So see what other IRA plans are available. Compare them with ours. And then come to NBD, one of America's great banks.

CAR TALK
 From RAY LAETHEM
 Pontiac, GMC, Truck

BY RAY LAETHEM
 QUIT CHECKING WATER

It used to be that when you drove into a service station for a tank of gas, the attendant routinely unscrewed the radiator cap and checked to see whether you were low on water (or the water-antifreeze mixture now called "coolant"). Today, if yours is a late-model car, manufacturers say you should check only about once a month or at oil-change time.

Sudden releasing of pent-up hot air, vapor and liquid, depressurizes the cooling system which is designed to operate at 10 to 18 pounds. Then the system may boil over and lose a considerable amount of coolant. Moreover, the hot vapor and liquid can scald you.

So, while it's vital to check the engine oil each time you buy gas, it's best not to check the radiator unless there is a definite indication of leakage or engine overheating. Make sure the engine is cool; the car should be parked for at least 15 minutes.

Gilbert Patrick O'Connell

Requiem Masses are planned in Grosse Pointe and San Antonio, Texas, for Mr. Gilbert, 83, formerly of the Pointe and lately of San Antonio.

He died Wednesday, March 21, in San Antonio.

Born Sept. 14, 1906 in Dayton, Ohio, Mr. O'Connell was graduated from the University of Detroit in 1928 and received his Master's from the University of Notre Dame in 1930. Before serving overseas in World War II, he was on the staff of the Detroit Board of Education.

In January, 1945, Mr. O'Connell joined the public relations division of General Motors Corp. He retired in 1971. Mr. O'Connell was active in the Detroit Boat Club, the Bayview Yacht Club and the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club.

He is survived by his wife, Lorean; one daughter, Patricia L.; six grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Leonhard Bantleon

Services for Mr. Bantleon, 77, of the Woods, were held Saturday, March 24, at the A.H. Peters Funeral Home under the auspices of the Detroit Commandery No. 1 KT, Moslem Shrine.

He died Tuesday, March 20, in his Birch Lane home.

Mr. Bantleon was a member of Acacia Lodge 477, F&M, and the Detroit Commandery No. 1 KT, Moslem Shrine.

He is survived by his wife Esther A.; two sons, Leonard and Norman; five grandchildren; two sisters; and one brother.

Memorial tributes may be made to the Moslem Shrine Association Crippled Children Fund.

Interment was in White Chapel Cemetery.

Beauty salon hit by thieves

Thieves smashed the front door glass of Unique Hair and Nail Boutique, 1929 Vernier, sometime between Saturday evening and early Monday, March 19, and escaped with about $45.

Police on patrol in the area about 2:40 a.m. spotted the broken front door of the business. Entering the building through the broken door, officers found the interior thoroughly searched, reports said.

Desk drawers in the desk at the front of the building had been pulled out. Also, three drawers of a cabinet appeared to have been rifled. A cash drawer was found sitting on a chair at the rear of the building. The drawer contained no folding cash and miscellaneous coin, reports said.

Police said they didn't know how many people broke into the building because of the confusing number of footprints left in the snow. Police believe some blunt object was used to break the window, reports said.

The owner told police that all he could see missing was about $45 in cash, in a variety of bills and coin, according to reports.

AARP will meet at Neighborhood Club

The Grosse Pointe City chapter no. 3430 of the American Association of Retired Persons, AARP, will meet Monday, April 9, at 1:30 p.m. at the Neighborhood Club, 17150 Waterloo.

President Claudia Greenhoe will meet with the other chapter officers at 12:30, preceding the general meeting.

Program chairman Helen Masten, legislative chairman Edward Piper and insurance chairman William Harrison will report developments in their areas.

Dr. Gerald J. Mullan will speak on "Advances in Ophthalmology" and will show slides of eye diseases and care techniques.

Refreshments and a social hour follow the meeting. New members are welcome.

Park police auction is this weekend

Grosse Pointe Park police will auction some 35 bicycles, cameras, television sets, tools and tape decks this Saturday, March 31, beginning at 11 a.m. in the garage behind municipal offices on East Jefferson Avenue.

The items to be sold were confiscated by police and cannot be returned to owners because they were not properly identified. For more information, call the department at 822-7400.

Woods seniors to meet April 5

The Grosse Pointe Woods Seniors will meet Thursday, April 5, in North High School at 3:30 p.m.

Dr. Gerald Mullan, Ophthalmologist, will speak on Diseases of the Eye. All Woods seniors are welcome to attend.

Powers takes over at Ward's Communications

Roger K. Powers, of Grosse Pointe Farms, was recently appointed president and chief executive officer of Ward's Communications, Inc., the Detroit-based automotive publishing subsidiary of International Thomson Business Press, Inc. Powers has been executive vice-president and publisher of Ward's for the last two years. He joined the firm in 1963. Ward's publishes the weekly Ward's Automotive Reports, biweekly Ward's Engine Update, monthly Ward's Auto World and annual Ward's Automotive Yearbook.

Hutchison named director at GM

General Motors' reorganization into integrated car groups has resulted in the promotion of Grosse Pointe Park's Robert C. Hutchison to director of materials management systems for all North American Automotive Operations. Hutchison joined General Motors in 1955 and holds an engineering degree from University of Michigan. He formerly worked for Chevrolet before joining the corporate management staff.

American Motors names Pisarski

The new vice-president for finance and treasurer of American Motors Financial Corporation is Robert S. Pisarski, a Pointer who joined the firm in 1969. Before he joined American Motors, Pisarski was an accountant for Arthur Young and Company in Baltimore and for the Internal Revenue Service in Washington, D.C. He received his accounting degree from Loyola College in 1964 and a Master's from Michigan State University in 1975.

Blevine joins board of Blue Cross Blue Shield

National Bank of Detroit senior vice-president William E. Blevins, of Grosse Pointe City, has been elected to the board of directors of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan. He will represent consumer groups as a board member and as chairman of the salary administration advisory subcommittee. Blevins is a member of the Greater Detroit Area Health Council, Economic Club of Detroit, Advisory Committee for Michigan State University's School of Labor and Industrial Relations. He holds a Master's degree from City University of New York.

Blue Book staff is reorganized

Albert Jelly Towar, Jr., publisher of the Grosse Pointe Business and Professional Telephone Directory, recently announced the addition of a quarterly coupon book to the firm's services. Jeanne Robbins was named general sales manager, Maureen McKay was named sales manager of the coupon division and Deborah Bockrath was appointed computer operations and accounting supervisor. The "Little Blue Book" has been published since 1948.

Arson reported at school

Grosse Pointe Park police are investigating a case of arson at St. Clare School that was reported by a truck driver at about 3 a.m. Tuesday, March 20.

Firemen were called to the scene to extinguish a fire deliberately set in a trash can filled with books near the Charlevoix entrance to the grade school. Police said someone entered the building without forcing any doors, smashed classroom door windows on the second floor of the building and started the fire.

There was no serious damage to the building which was empty when police arrived, according to reports.

City police reported they were notified of the fire by a truck driver employed by the Detroit Free Press, who noticed the flames when he drove past the building.

Man arrested twice in a week in City

A Detroit man who was arrested at 3 a.m. as he walked across Mack Avenue pushing a lawn mower was turned over to Grosse Pointe City police on Saturday, March 24, in connection with the breaking and entering of a garage on Notre Dame Avenue, according to reports.

The man, a 29 year old Detroit resident, was spotted by Park police officers James Smith and John Sauber at about 3:05 a.m. while they were on routine patrol. City police said the same man was arrested several days earlier after residents of a different Notre Dame home returned to their house and allegedly found the man in their garage. The garage door had been left open so he was charged with trespassing, police said, and released on bond.

Architects help restore old Beaubien House

Architects Charles T. McCafferty and Stuart Pettitt, both residents of Grosse Pointe Park, are members of the committee in charge of restoration of the Beaubien House, home of the Architect's Bookstore, at 553 East Jefferson Avenue.

The house is the original Antoine Beaubien Farm and was built in 1850 for $2,000. Phase one of the restoration will cost $45,000. The project will begin with groundbreaking ceremonies on Friday, April 6, at 5 p.m.

The house is also headquarters for the Michigan Society of Architects, Detroit Chapter, and the American Institute of Architects.

annual interest, paid and compounded quarterly, and guaranteed for the full term of the account.

12.00%

effective annual yield.

This rate effective Tuesday, March 6, 1984, until further notice.

Look what it can do for you—on a $2,000 deposit over five years—and compare it to the results you get with other IRA plans currently available.

|  |                   |

Above example assumes a $2,000 balance on deposit, with interest compounded for five full calendar years.

Compare IRA plans carefully before you commit.

You should ask: What's the interest rate? Is it compounded? How much will my money actually earn each year? How is the interest credited to my account? When? Measure our IRA Plan against the answers you get to these questions anywhere else, and we think you'll commit to First Federal.

This and other IRA accounts at First Federal can be opened with a minimum deposit of as little as $100.

IRS regulations require a substantial penalty for withdrawal prior to age 59½ on IRA plans. Federal regulations require a substantial penalty for early withdrawal from certificate accounts.

First English hosts concert

The University Singers, the choir of the University of Missouri-St. Louis, will present a concert on Friday, March 30, at 8 p.m. at the First English Lutheran Church, 800 Vernier Road, the Woods. The concert is sponsored by the First English, Christ the King and St. James Lutheran Churches, here represented (left to right) by Pastor Joseph Fabry, Christ the King, Pastor Paul Keppler, First English, and Pastor Robert Rimbo, of St. James. Repertoire for the 45-voice choir ranges from Renaissance and early Baroque motets, to works by Faure, Poulenc, Felciano, Randall Thompson and others. Their program also includes carols, folk tunes and spirituals. Tickets to the concert are $4, with students and senior citizens tickets at $2. ## Wayburn man faces cocaine charge

Donald Jezak, 29, of 1316 Wayburn Road in Grosse Pointe Park, was one of three men bound over for trial last week in front of Park Municipal Judge Beverly Grobbel on charges of delivering narcotics.

Jezak and two other men, George Regul, 24, of Detroit, and Robert Wilkes, Jr., 23, of Warren, were arrested at the Wayburn address on Friday, March 2, by members of the Macomb Narcotics Enforcement Team (COMET). Police said they confiscated more than $5,000 worth of cocaine, narcotics paraphernalia, money and guns from the Wayburn home. Officers called the suspects "class one" dealers, connected to a narcotics ring operating in three suburban cities. Four other arrests were made that evening in other communities in connection with the group, police said.

Detroit and Grosse Pointe Park police assisted in the arrest, Park Chief Henry Counce said.

Jezak has been released on bond, according to police. He is scheduled to appear in Wayne County circuit court on April 5 for a pre-trial hearing.

Narcotics officers rammed in the door of this house at 1316 Wayburn earlier this month when they arrested three men and confiscated cocaine, weapons and money.

GP Camera Club meets on April 3

The Grosse Pointe Camera Club will meet on Tuesday, April 3, at 7:30 p.m. at Brownell Middle School.

A monochrome paint and color slide competition will be held. Visitors are welcome. For information, call 822-1948.

Neighborhood Club lists new programs

The following is a list of upcoming programs planned by the Neighborhood Club's Senior Citizen World History and Travel Group.

On March 28, Amos Slater presented "The Deep South," including slides from Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and the famous Natchez Trace Historical Parkway back to Nashville, Tenn.

On April 4, Mary Fitzpatrick will present "India" with visits to Bombay, Poona, Cochin, Bangalore, Mysore and Udaipur. On April 11, Fern and Rip Zwicki will journey from Iran across Afghanistan through the Khyber Pass, across Pakistan and India to Darjeeling and the Himalayas.

On April 18, Mary Ellen Tappan will present "Across Canada, Coast to Coast." One week later will be Easter vacation. Mary Fitzpatrick will highlight "North India," with visits to New Delhi, Jaipur, Amber, Benares, Agra and Fatepur Sikri on May 2. On May 9, Mr. and Mrs. Zwicki will present "Antarctica, Including The Falklands."

The final presentation will be Werner Kreuger's "Korean Children," a professional film produced by Carnation, on May 16.

Maryland home is hit by thieves

Grosse Pointe Park police reported that a home on the 1200 block of Maryland was broken into sometime between 6 a.m. and 3 p.m. on Saturday, March 24.

Thieves entered the house by breaking a basement window, Police Chief Henry Counce said. They took two piggy banks with about $40 cash, he added.

investment seminar:

tax-free* income, tax sheltered income

Each Tuesday at 7:30 PM we will hold informal seminars on investing.

Tax-free income
The Ohio Company's seminar on "Tax-Free Income" has been designed by investment specialists to show the general public the advantages of tax-free investments.

Our seminar will answer such questions as:

- Are tax-free securities only for the rich?
- How safe are municipal securities?
- What types of tax-free investments are available?
- Are tax-free securities for me?

*May or may not be subject to state or local taxes

Tax sheltered income
How present tax laws permit generous sheltered income and, in fact, encourage it.

This portion will explain:

- The wide range of IRA and Keough retirement vehicles available
- The safety and attractive income afforded by Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) certificates
- How limited partnerships work in a conservative environment

A limited number of spaces are available. To reserve your space, fill out and mail the coupon below or call:

Woods choir celebrates Easter

A musical highlight of the Lenten season will be provided by the annual "Worship through Music" program at the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church choir on Sunday, April 1, at the 11 a.m. service. Members of the choir include (left to right), Richard Johns, choir director, Helen McConachie, organist, Robert Jackman, Patricia Nelson, Lois Johns, Martha Blyce, Carolyn Clark and John Slimco. Featured artist will be Christa Grix, of Farmington Hills, who will accompany the choir in Randall Thompson's arrangement of the Twenty Third Psalm. Miss Grix received her Master's degree in music from Boston University and has performed at the Scotia Festival of Music in Halifax, with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and with the International Symphony Orchestra.

14th District votes solid for Mondale

Praising citizens for the high voter turnout as the Democratic caucuses held earlier this month, 14th district Democratic Party Chair Joyce Lalonde said the district produced the largest margin of victory in the state of Michigan for Walter Mondale. Of the 7,086 votes cast in the 14th District, nearly 70 percent were cast for Mondale. In all, Michigan Democrats cast a total of 135,423 votes with more than 66,500 for Mondale.

"The high voter turnout demonstrates the fact that citizens felt it was important to express their opinion and, in doing so, they helped give Walter Mondale a solid victory in the 14th District," said Ms. Lalonde.

The next step in the process will be the selection of delegates to this summer's Democratic National Convention. The delegates will be selected at the 14th District Convention to be held at U.A.W. Local 155 (8230 E. Eight Mile near Van Dyke) beginning at 1 p.m., Saturday, April 14. At that time, precinct delegates and dues paying members of the Michigan Democratic Party will vote for the delegates of their choice.

The 14th Congressional District includes Grosse Pointe Farms, Woods and Shores, Hamtramck, northeast Detroit, East Detroit, Center Line, most of Warren, Sterling Heights, Utica, Hazel Park, most of Madison Heights and the southeast corner of Troy.

Park to repair boat docks

The Grosse Pointe Park city council awarded a contract for almost $20,000 to repair winter damage and replace finger piers and two main piers at the city's Windmill Pointe Park municipal marina.

The council unanimously accepted the low bid of $19,688 Monday, March 12, for the repair of winter damage to the docks as well as the replacement of six finger piers and two main piers.

The city had budgeted $20,000 for the work, basing its estimate of damage to the piers by shifting and packing ice on previous years' experience, Park city manager John Crawford said.

When drawing up the specifications for the bidding, the city took a "worst-case scenario" look at the damage, Crawford said. By accepting the unit price each contractor bid, the city could possibly get more repairs and replacements done should the current work come in under estimates, he added.

Some finger-piers have been pulled away from the main piers by shifting ice, Crawford said. The repairs might be as simple as re-attaching the finger piers or as expensive as having to sink new concrete pilings, he added.

 Grosse Pointe Woods Chiropractic Clinic

 Dr. David Jantz, Chiropractor
 I am 55 years old and have suffered with dizzy spells and loss of balance. Can chiropractic help?
 A significant percentage of our population including many of our elderly, suffer from dizziness, disturbance in balance and coordination, and loss of proprioception (sense of position and movement). A major causative factor often overlooked in standard medical examinations is improper function of the cervical (neck) mechanoreceptors, secondary to misalignments of cervical spine (neck).
 Mechanoreceptors are nerve receptors located in spinal joints that contribute to our balance and coordination. They perform this function by sensing the angle of the head relative to the torso. Without this vital information normal balance, coordination and postural sense are impossible. When the bones of the neck become misaligned and lose their mobility due to previous trauma, falls, poor posture, etc. pressure or irritation can be exerted on the delicate nerves that exist between the bones and spinal joints. Headaches, tinnitus (ringing in the ears), pain around chest, neck stiffness and pain, pain radiating into the arms, and shoulder pain are other common symptoms of nerve pressure. Chiropractic reduces misalignments of the spine, relieves nerve pressure, and restores normal mobility and balance to the spinal soft tissues (muscles, ligaments, cartilage). A thorough chiropractic examination is suggested.
 Direct questions to Dr. Jantz, Grosse Pointe Woods Chiropractic, 20217 Mack Ave., GPW, phone 881-7677.

Budget brainstorm

Sixty school leaders gather for cost-cutting session

A different kind of dieting is being tried in Grosse Pointe schools these days. The target isn't pounds but tax dollars.

In an attempt to trim the school budget, Supt. Kenneth Brummel recently called together all school administrators, department heads and elementary first assistants to work on cost containment ideas for the coming school year. This year's school budget is more than $36 million.

"The issue of cost containment in Grosse Pointe schools is germane to us all," Brummel said. "We need to continue being as cost effective as we can."

The system's business manager Christian Fenton led the study. Administrators formed small groups and analyzed cost breakdowns for existing accounts, discussing areas for potential reduction. Lists of cost-cutting ideas that were generated by the 60 school leaders will be used in the annual budget development process, according to Fenton.

Working discussions of the proposed 1984-85 budget are scheduled with the Board of Education in mid-May. The formal public hearing on the budget will be held June 4.

The school system's current millage rate is 31.84. (A mill equals $1 for every $1,000 of state equalized valuation of property.) That rate includes state-authorized millage and 26.65 mills approved by voters in March 1983.

Pointe M.D. is an author

Frank Nesi, M.D., of Grosse Pointe, vice chief of ophthalmology at Grace Hospital, has co-authored a new book, "Practical Techniques in Ophthalmic Plastic Surgery," with Dr. Byron C. Smith, of New York. The book is published by C.B. Mosby, Co., St. Louis, Missouri; and by V.B. Medical Publishing Ltd., London.

"The volume provides a practical surgical atlas on oculoplastic surgery — plastic and reconstructive surgery of the eyelids, lacrimal apparatus and orbit," Dr. Nesi said.

The surgical techniques presented by Dr. Smith and Dr. Nesi are those that have been found to be most effective and most commonly used. Alternative procedures or less commonly used operations are not included. The operations described are those currently in use by the authors — several of the operative methods were originated by them.

North plans Auction night

The North Parent's Club will sponsor an Auction Night beginning at 7 p.m. Friday, March 30, in the high school cafeteria, 707 Vernier Road in the Woods.

Among the items at the silent auction, beginning at 7 p.m. and the regular auction at 8 p.m. are a one-week use of a condominium at Long Boat Key, Fla., a sunset sail on Lake St. Clair, a stereo and several limited edition prints.

All funds raised will be used for scholarships and student enrichment programs. Tickets priced at $1 are available at the door or by calling 884-5589.

Co-chairmen of the event are Gail Terry and Terry Buccellato. Other committee chairmen are Joyce LaGrasso and Nancy Trefzer, collection; Karen Marshall, silent auction; Jean Marcaccio, auctioneers; Beth Dallas and Pat Giftos, treasurer; Edith Miller, tickets; Roma Hess, publicity; and Marlene Paluzzi and Joann Masouras, kitchen.

Festival time for Parcels

The Parcels Orchestra received a Number 2 rating in the Regional District Band and Orchestra Festival held in Warren at Lincoln High School.

Some comments from judges included: "outstanding stage deportment and discipline," "excellent spirit in playing," "fine, professional appearance."

Parcels conductor Elizabeth Gregory directed the group whose members include Janice Goosen, Becky Kolinski, Kurt Linebaugh, Anne Thomalla, Jennifer Deeb, Kyungsoo Hur, Meredith Rose, Kirsten Mumma, Shannon Beckett, Katie Killer, Karen Parsons, Jason Stoner, Heather Wiedrick, Laura Benjamins, Elizabeth Bolden, Jennifer Eschleman, Anne Hacker, Louisa Heinrich and Joel Rojas.

Business students win state awards

Eleven students from North High competed at the 12th annual conference of Business and Office Education Clubs. Students who received state awards at the Renaissance Center meeting were Nina Palazzo, eighth with her job manual; Amy Dornbrock, sixth place for her chapter promotional display; Lisa Miller, fifth in typing and related.

Two students earned the right to represent not only North High school but the state of Michigan at the Office Education Association's National Leadership Conference in Indianapolis in April. Julie DeYonker placed third in the state and Carole Gompers placed second in general clerical.

Historical Society elects a new president

Lisa Gandelot of the Farms was elected president of the growing, 288-member Grosse Pointe Historical Society this week at the group's annual meeting. The new president said Grosse Pointers are showing more interest in the history of their community these days and she hopes to parlay that into a more active role for the Historical Society.

Mrs. Gandelot, former member of the War Memorial board of directors and wife of school board trustee Jon Gandelot, said the society has ambitious plans for the coming year.

"We hope to become more active in education and preservation," Mrs. Gandelot said.

Much publicity has accompanied the recent destruction of several of Grosse Pointe's grand old mansions, which were wrecked to make way for new subdivisions. Twenty-four Lakeshore estates have come down in the past 25 years. Last week, developers announced they would demolish the Ford mansion on the lake between Bishop Road and Jefferson Court in the Park to make way for 16 new homes. That will leave the Park with only one remaining mansion, the Morrison estate on East Jefferson Avenue.

Joining Mrs. Gandelot in leadership of the Historical Society this year will be W. Hawkins Ferry, one of the founders of the society in 1945, as first vice-president; second vice-president George Jerome secretary Lucy Hamilton. New members of the board of directors include Jane Burnett, Jon H.W. Clark, James W. Goss, William Lafer, Carol Marantic, Audrey Platt and Marion A. Scott. Ms. Bushnell and Frank J. Sladen, Jr., were re-elected to the board.

The society has headquarters at Monteith Elementary School, 1275 Cook Road, in the Woods. Its extensive collection of old maps, photographs and other memorabilia is held open by curator Jean Dodenhoff on Tuesdays and Wednesdays, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The society also publishes a bi-monthly newsletter "News from The Moorings," which provides information about meetings and activities. Its annual meeting, held March 26, featured a photographic account of the 1868 Great Lakes sinking of the three-masted schooner, the Dunderberg, which was discovered by divers in its original condition.

Another society-sponsored program, featuring three speakers on the subject of American Indian activity in the Grosse Pointes, was cancelled last month because of a severe snowstorm. Mrs. Gandelot said the presentation will be rescheduled.

Anyone interested in donating artifacts to the society's display may contact Ms. Dodenhoff at 884-7010. Prospective members of the society should contact Sladen, membership chairman, at 885-2655.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

After Michigan's long, cold winter, spring frequently brings on an attack of wanderlust — for which the only cure is to succumb: to get up and get out, even if only for a day. Any place far enough away to make the trip seem an excursion is a suitable destination. St. Clair, for instance, to watch the river. Dryden, to walk through the awakening woods at Seven Ponds Nature center.

Maybe Ann Arbor . . . if this is your choice, especially suitable days for a "spring break" mini-vacation are Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 6, 7 and 8, when the 10th annual Michigan Antiques Show and Sale, featuring 64 dealers from 16 states, is underway at the University of Michigan's Crisler Arena.

Wayne and Peggy Woodard, both University of Michigan graduates, are among the dozen new exhibitors this year. They live now in Hopkinton, N.H., but they're Michigan natives, he from Flint, she from right here in Grosse Pointe.

The Woodards specialize in early English and American samplers, and plan to bring a large collection, examples for 1721 to 1830, to the show. They'll also display two Chipendale chests of drawers, an open-top pewter cupboard, a Pembroke table and lots of brasses: Queen Anne candlesticks to bedwarmers.

Michigan Antiques Show and Sale hours are 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $3.50. Ample free parking is available. If you go, wear sensible shoes. Browsing through the booths of formal and country antiques, Oriental rugs, decoys, maps, pottery, prints, glass, textiles, folk art, et al. is great fun — until your feet begin to hurt.

Since proper footwear is a bit of a fetish with me (I've limped through my last museum, looking good and groaning; well-worn "tennis" may not be beautiful, but they make sense on hard floors), I feel duty-bound to offer this advice to anyone who decides to make a spring trip out to Seven Ponds: WEAR BOOTS! A walk through the awakening woods is both a beautiful and a sloppy experience. Be prepared for much mud — and enjoy!

Spring Carnival at The Zoo

A visit to the zoo is another great way to celebrate spring, and a great day for a zoo celebration this spring is Saturday, April 14, when the Junior League of Detroit 1984 Provisional Class presents Spring Carnival at the Zoo. It's an all-day, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., event for the entire family.

There'll be celebrities and clowns, musicians and mimes, face painting, art work, a puppet show . . . and, of course, all the marvelous animals. There's no charge for the carnival beyond the regular zoo admission. The idea is to make friends, not money; to draw old friends back, to win new friends, and to remind everyone that the zoo is one of metropolitan Detroit's great cultural assets. It's a great idea.

Bess Bonnier Album Premier

To introduce her new album, "Duet to Quartet," pianist Bess Bonnier will host a premier party at Village Records & Tapes on Kercheval Avenue in-the-Village from 5 to 7 p.m. Saturday, April 7. The album is equally divided between Bess' studio duets with bassist Dan Jordan and the live quartet of Bonnier, Jordan, Gene Parker, reeds, and Richard Allen, drums.

Featured are selections by Arlen and Koehler, Corea, Gershwin, Porter, Bonnier herself and a tune written for her by Parker.

Bess is a respected pianist nationally. She is regarded as a key member of the Detroit piano vanguard which includes Barry Harris, Roland Hanna, Tommy Flanagan and Hank Jones. She performs frequently at the Detroit Institute of Arts, and has been a mainstay of entertainment at The Summit atop the Detroit Westin Hotel.

As an educator, producer and performer, she's worked for many years to maintain the traditions and encourage the development of the local jazz community. She was artist-in-residence at Grosse Pointe North High School a few years' back, and she's looking forward to talking with old friends as she autographs copies of "Duet to Quartet" at Village Records & Tapes on April 7.

Water Color Exhibit Winners

Congratulations to Farms resident Patricia Dorsey, recipient of a Michigan Water Color Society cash award for her work on display in the 38th Annual Michigan Water Color Society Exhibition, and Woods resident Mary Aro, who received an honorable mention citation for her water color.

Actually, it's an honor just to be in the show, juried by Grace Hartigan, artist-in-residence at the Hoffberger Graduate School of Painting, Maryland Institute College of Art, who lists among her own exhibitions more than 20 one-person shows in New York City since 1961.

Eight hundred and forty-nine entries were submitted. Seventy-one works were selected for display at the Detroit Artists Market through Friday, April 6. If you'd like to take a look at them, be advised that the Artists Market Galleries on Randolph Street are open Tuesday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Art Nouveau exhibit open

Examples of the many manifestations of the Art Nouveau movement are represented in an Exhibition of Art Nouveau exhibit currently on view at the Detroit Historical Museum, located at Woodward and Kirby in Detroit's University Cultural Center and open Wednesday through Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Art Nouveau era, which began about 1890 and lasted approximately 20 years, produced a radical change in the decorative arts, a rejection of the clutter and over-embellishment of the Victorian era. Adaptation of design concepts such as the sensuous, restlessly flowing line, plant and animal forms, Oriental art and the forms and motifs of ancient cultures typified the Art Nouveau style.

The Historical Museum exhibit includes examples of Art Nouveau home furnishings, graphics, clothing and jewelry. Glass is emphasized, in recognition of Michigan Glass Month in April; a weekend glass seminar will be held at the Detroit Institute of Arts and the Historical Museum on Saturday, April 7.

Pointer of Interest

By Peggy O'Connor

Joan Mitchell was sitting in her living room, talking about her promotion to Director of Community Relations at the Visiting Nurse Association of Metropolitan Detroit (VNA), when the telephone rang. It was a sister, calling from another state to find out how their mother, who was scheduled for surgery that morning, was doing. Before Joan could settle down after that call, the phone rang again. It was a friend, calling for a ride to work and not forgetting to ask about the condition of Joan's mother.

That morning's exchange is typical of the support system, a network of family and friends, that surrounds Joan Mitchell. It's as much a part of her family background as her hair color or her Pennsylvania-Florida accent. And it's a basic reason why she's involved in a care-giving organization like the VNA.

Joan was born in Allentown, Pa., the last of three daughters. Her immediate family may have been small by some standards, but to Joan immediate family meant a lot more than just brothers and sisters. It meant grandparents on both sides, 10 first cousins and lots of aunts and uncles. It meant everybody getting together at grandmother's house every Friday night for dinner. And all of that meant a lot to a young Joan.

"I know how important it all was...even though, at 16, you don't want to have dinner with everybody every Friday night. But we were and still are a very close family. It's important to have the support network of a family."

Joan's family moved to Hollywood, Fla., when she was 2; then back to Allentown by the time she reached the fifth grade. As a teenager, she followed her sister to Northfield School for Girls in Massachusetts.

SHE STUDIED philosophy at Northfield, and after what she calls "a great experience" was graduated in 1971. Because she had fallen in love with New England, she continued her education at Boston University.

"I enrolled in the School of Health, but after a while I realized that things were just too easy. I felt badly because my parents were spending all that money on school and I was passing courses with very little effort," Joan recalls.

So, for the second time, Joan Mitchell went back home: to the University of Pennsylvania and its School of Allied Health Professions. "I guess I was being pragmatic. It was during the recession and I wanted a practical profession. But I didn't want to get into nursing. And I believed that Allied Health would prepare me for life."

Joan earned both a Bachelor of Arts in Psychology and a Bachelor of Science in Occupational Therapy in 1974. She completed her internships at the Judevine Center for Autistic Children and the Malcolm Bliss Mental Health Center, both in St. Louis.

They were tremendous experiences, she says, but she was soon ready for her first job. She got it—and applied for graduate school at the same time.

"My first job was in psychological OT (occupational therapy) across the river from St. Louis in Illinois. Then I was accepted into graduate school at the University of Pittsburgh. I got my Masters degree in Clinical Oncology there."

Joan married a law student from the University of Pittsburgh. When he moved on to Georgetown University for a graduate degree, she went too. She worked for two years as chief of Occupational Therapy at National Orthopaedic and Rehabilitation Hospital in Arlington, Va., that's the hospital that performed triage on survivors of the airplane that crashed into the Potomac River several years ago.

And then, six years ago, it was on to Detroit and a slew of changes for Joan Mitchell.

"Again, although I like being close to my family, I like to get out on my own. When we moved to Detroit, we discovered we liked the East Side area very much. When it came time to decide where we wanted to live, it was Grosse Pointe. The community spirit is great. A 95 year-old man told us the history of the block when we moved in. That's the sort of thing I mean when I talk about networks and support groups," Joan says.

Joan Mitchell, of Madison Road executive director, who in turn is responsible to the VNA board.

As liaison between the VNA and the community, Joan is a sort of P.R. person for the agency. "If a family has a problem, I'll try to resolve it. I work a lot with questionnaires completed by staff, doctors and patients and family members. I make sure that we continue to try to meet the needs of the patients," Joan says.

It isn't that her life really needed another dimension. She has been studying for a Master of Business Administration degree at the University of Michigan, and since 1978 has been part and parcel of the VNA.

"One indicator of how well a patient will do at home is the kind of family support he will receive. Since I know how important my support system has been to me, I figured I was a natural for the VNA. I saw an ad for the VNA position and I realized that because of rising health care costs, VNA-type services are where health care is going to be in the future," Joan says.

The 85-year-old VNA is the third largest such organization in the United States. According to Joan it is still committed to its original mission: fulfilling the community's needs. Discovering what those needs are is Joan Mitchell's responsibility at the VNA. She's just two months into her job, only the second person to hold the 21-year-old position of Director of Community Relations, and the full scope of her role, which is primarily to serve as a link between the VNA and the community, has yet to be realized, she says.

The nine-district VNA serves patients in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. Last year, VNA staff made 339,000 skilled visits in those areas. Patients are referred to the VNA through a hospital, their personal physician, or through community referral, although the VNA does need the name of a physician to open a case.

A referral comes through the VNA's Central Intake and is sent through a facsimile machine to the appropriate district where a nurse makes the initial visit to assess the patient's needs. The nurse then makes a referral to whatever special service group might be needed, such as Occupational Therapy, Physical Therapy, Social Work, etc. Case management (updating individual cases) is done once per month.

CASE MANAGEMENT is an aspect of the VNA's service that particularly appeals to Joan. "With a system like this, the departments are able to work together, we're not so fragmented. I like that." And with a system like this, departments like Joan's are able to keep up with what is going on.

"The best public relations the agency has are the nurses and the specialists. They're the ones who are out there every day."

Where Joan comes in is after the fact. She calls herself a "component of strategic planning for the VNA." As Director of Community Relations, she joins other administrative staff directors of Nursing, Social Services, Finance and Personnel who report to the

Spring fashion party in April for Fontbonne

Designs from Dawood Boutique will highlight the Fontbonne Auxiliary of Saint John Hospital's annual spring fashion show, "L'Elegance Classique," on Wednesday, April 11, at Hillcrest Country Club.

The party begins at 11 a.m. with cocktails, followed by luncheon at noon and music by Eddie de Santis. Commentator for the afternoon will be Neal Shine, Detroit Free Press senior managing editor.

Reservations for tickets, at $20 per person, may be made through the Fontbonne office, 343-3675. Proceeds will be used to purchase equipment for the care of critically ill children.

Honorary chairman of "L'Elegance Classique" is Bettie (Mrs. Charles) Dawood. General chairman is Jan (Mrs. K. Michael) Beizai. Co-chairman is Gayle (Mrs. James) Boutros. Honorary chairman of the raffle which this year, as always, features superb prizes, is Zelinda (Mrs. Anthony) Eugenio. Raffle chairman and co-chairman are Mary (Mrs. Virgil) Matta and Sally (Mrs. William P.) Shield.

Other committee chairmen and co-chairmen are the Mesdames Anthony Ostosh, Sarah Fisher Dingenman, William Cosgrove, Benjamin W. Capp Jr., Anthony Lesha, John S. Spring, Ahmad Azar, Raymond Van Landuyt, Frank Germack Jr., Kim K. Lie, Alphonse Santino, William Viviano, Raymond A. Regner, Joseph Gaspar, John L. Drummy and Thomas McBryan.

More are the Mesdames James N. Motschall, John F. Strehler, Joseph C. Keys, James R. White, Thomas J. McCarthy, John E. Young Jr., Richard Rinke, Martin Tepatti, Robert LeFevre, Edward Wujek, Kurt P. Haller, Aileen Hozdich, Nick Bommarito, Frank Mocer, Mark Valente Jr. and Woodrow W. Woody, and Sister Sylvia Diemeck, SSJ, recording secretary.

Mrs. James W. Snyder Jr. is Fontbonne's current president. Sister Verence McQuade, SSJ, the hospital's vice-president, Patient and Community Services, is director of the auxiliary.

Short and to the Pointe

James W. Morris, of Rivard Boulevard, was among students from the construction and management curriculum in the Department of Engineering Technology at Western Michigan University who attended "Round Up '84" the National Association of Home Builders convention in Houston, Texas. The student group raised funds to attend the event through building and selling construction projects.

Award winners in the Oakway Symphony "Young Artists of Tomorrow" competition were presented in concert with the symphony Feb. 19 at Harrison High School in Farmington Hills. Grosse Pointe South High School graduate Kelly Leon, violinist, was a third prize winner of $750. She is currently studying with Dorothy Delay at the Juilliard School in New York. The special Nelda C. DeBlasi Memorial Award was presented to violinist Tony Cross, 13, of Grosse Pointe. A freshman at Grosse Pointe South High School, Tony studies at the Oberlin Conservatory with Stephen Clapp.

Among members of the Albion College Afro-American Union who helped sponsor events during the college's recent "Black Awareness Week" is Fenton Remick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fenton Remick, of The Farms, Remick, a Grosse Pointe South High School graduate, is a sophomore at Albion.

Renee Baetens, of The Woods, was named to the Dean's List for the fall, 1983 semester at Grand Valley State College. Students so honored earned at least a 3.5 grade point average.

Carol Gagliardi, of The Woods, recently completed a 16-week intensive training program at the Institute for Paralegal Training, Philadelphia, Pa. Ms. Gagliardi, who received her Bachelor of Arts in 1983 from Marygrove College, is currently employed with Pepper, Hamilton and Scheetz in Detroit, as a legal assistant specializing in Litigation Management.

Among Hillsdale College students named to the Dean's List for the first semester of the 1983-84 school year was Dina Baganz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theron Baganz, of Pemberton Road. Dina, a Grosse Pointe South High School graduate, earned a 3.40 average for the semester.

Pair exchange vows in fall

At home on University Place in Detroit are Mr. and Mrs. David L. Hoover, who vacationed at Niagara Falls and Toronto following their autumn marriage in Grace United Church of Christ and a dinner reception at The Old Place.

Mrs. Hoover, the former Ruth Ellen Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Johnson, who moved recently from Littlestone Road to Birmingham, is a Grosse Pointe North High School graduate, currently employed by Comerica Bank-Grosse Pointe.

Mr. Hoover, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Hoover, of Guilford, Detroit, was graduated from Finney High School, served in the United States Air Force and is now associated with Jim's Haircutting Shoppe of Grosse Pointe.

The Reverend Ralph Brown officiated at the 9:30 o'clock rites Saturday, September 24. The bride wore a traditional gown, antique ivory in color and scoop-necked, its ballerina length skirt featuring a lace overskirt, its bodice covered with a long-sleeved, lace overblouse fashioned with a high, scalloped neckline.

Her elbow length veil fell from a halo of silk flowers. She carried an arrangement of gardenias, white roses and baby's-breath.

She was attended by the bridegroom's sister-in-law, Mary Hoover, in a ballerina length dress of lilac chiffon, long-sleeved and styled with a side-scalloped bodice, carrying purple orchids and baby's-breath. Harold D. Hoover acted as best man for his brother.

Their daughter, seven-year-old Kimberly Hoover, was flower girl. Her floor length dress, deep lilac in color, featured a ruffled neckline and bustle. She carried a basket filled with white roses, carnations and baby's-breath, accented with purple ribbons.

Ushering were the bridegroom's father and David S. Hoover, the bridegroom's nephew.

The mother of the bride accented her deep lilac Ultra Suede suit with a multi-colored silk blouse. She pinned a corsage of gardenias and baby's-breath to her matching handbag.

The bridegroom's mother

selected a cocktail length dress, rose-colored and ruffle-necked, sashed at the waist and pleated in front. Gardenias and baby's-breath also formed her corsage.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Harrigan, of Saginaw, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keppel, of Hoffman Estates, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Akans, of Erie, Pa.

Episcopal Women to present Lenten program at Christ Church on April 3

The Episcopal Church Women of Christ Church, Grosse Pointe, will host "Growing in the Vine," a Lenten program inspired by John 15:5 ("I am the Vine, ye are the branches. Whoever lives in me and I in him shall bring forth much fruit. For apart from me ye can do nothing."), next Tuesday, April 3.

The day begins at 9:30 a.m. with Holy Communion, after which seasonal music will be led in the Undercroft by The Reverends Gregory and Margaret Sammons.

Linda Brown, R.N., and Karen Hutt, directors of the Adrian Christian Mission at Adrian, Mich., will share accounts of their lives at 10:45 a.m., explaining how God's promise in the "vine" spoke to them. Their ministry is to give practical, scriptural guidance to help people deal with life situations.

As well as counseling individuals, they use their expertise for Bible studies, retreats, religious conferences and growth seminars.

Luncheon, for which advance reservations are required, will be served at 11:45 a.m. More music follows until, at 12:45 p.m., Karen leads a session called "Our Response to Him," after which Linda will speak on "His Friendship to Us."

Group discussion concludes the program by 2:30 p.m. There will be an opportunity for private conversation with Linda, Karen, Greg and/or Peg Sammons following the program, which is open to all.

Luncheon reservations, at $6 per person, must be made by Monday, April 2, at the church office. Free babysitting is available by prior arrangement through the church office.

Myasthenia Gravis fashion benefit set

Offer shape-up spring classes

Super Shape, Inc. is offering four exercise classes at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial this spring, for people in various stages of fitness.

Mothers of babies under six months of age can enjoy Post-Natal Exercise with Mary-Louise Selover on Mondays and Wednesdays, April 2 through June 11, from 1 to 2 p.m. The course, designed to build physical strength progressively, includes aerobics. Cost is $80 for 20 sessions.

Pre-Natal Exercise, beginning Tuesday, April 24, provides a non-vigorous workout for the woman who wants to stay in shape during pregnancy. Fee for the eight-week course, which will meet from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m., is $32.

Bodyshapers offers an early morning workout (8:15 to 9:15 a.m.) on Tuesdays and Thursdays, beginning April 17. Fee for 18 sessions of stretching, firming, improving circulation and reducing tension, all set to music, is $72.

Feeling Fit, for the evening crowd, will meet for an hour on Thursdays beginning April 26. It's a simple, efficient, progressive, total body workout that can be taken at any level of fitness, and costs $32 for eight weeks.

Aerobics for 40-Plus, 50-Plus will be taught by Alice Belfie in two class sections on Monday and Wednesday mornings, beginning April 16. The moderate intensity class meets at 9:30 a.m., the low intensity class at 10:30 a.m. Men and women are welcome in both. Exercise is paced according to the needs and capabilities of the participants, each of whom must present a doctor's consent form upon registration.

Cost of this course, sponsored by Dynamic Energie, is $40 for 20 sessions. Additional information on any of the spring shape-up programs at the War Memorial may be obtained by calling 881-7511.

Convene School of Government

International Politics were the theme of the School of Government's first two meetings in 1984. Members and guests of the organization founded by the late Mrs. Wilber Brucker met in January at the Detroit Athletic Club to hear Dr. R.V. Burke, recently retired as professor of history at Wayne State University, report on "Crisis in the Soviet Union."

February's meeting featured Dr. James R. Lyons, director of the Ecumenical Institute in Southfield, detailing the "Crisis in the Middle East."

Roberta Dailly's subject for the School's meeting this month, on Wednesday, March 28, at the Country Club of Detroit, was "Assertiveness." Mrs. Eugene Hunter chaired the program. Mrs. Hunter, like general program chairman Mrs. Ralph Mason, is a past president of the School. Mrs. Harry Taylor is the current president.

First Society raises funds for Children's

Proceeds from the First Society of Detroit's Sunday, March 11, benefit at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club, in the amount of $3,500, will be donated to Children's Hospital of Michigan. The funds will purchase volumetric infusion pumps to be used in the hospital's Emergency Room, Intensive Care and Neo-Natal Intensive Care Units.

Approximately 380 persons attended the benefit, a quarterly event. The next First Society benefit is scheduled for Sunday, June 10, at the Birmingham Country Club.

Lunch and lecture with two feature writers this spring

Two Detroit Free Press feature writers will present spring lectures on flowers and fashion preceded by luncheons at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Each program begins at noon and runs until 2:30 p.m.

The first, today, Thursday, March 29, presents garden writer Betty Frankel with a slide program on garden beauty throughout the year. Reservations for "To Everything There Is A Season" were required by Monday, March 26.

Next Thursday, April 5, fashion editor Linea Lannon, just back from covering the European collections, will discuss this spring's trends and forecast those for fall. Reservations for "A Down to Earth Look at Fashion" must be made by Monday, April 2.

The cost of each lecture/luncheon is $12. Reservations may be made in person at or by mail to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. 48236. Additional information may be obtained by calling 881-7511.

Vows spoken in Missouri

At home in Tulsa, Okla., after a short wedding trip are Mr. and Mrs. Grady Scott Wicklund, who exchanged marriage vows Wednesday, December 28, in First Baptist Church, Neosho, Mo. The 11 o'clock ceremony at which The Reverend Paul Patton presided was followed by a reception in the church parlor.

The bride and bridegroom both work for the City of Tulsa. She is the former Sandra Lee Churchwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Turner, of Neosho. Mr. Wicklund is the son of the Fred Wicklunds, of Washington Road.

The bride selected a high-necked, Victorian style wedding gown, ivory in color and featuring a Chantilly lace yoke. Her headpiece was a tulle-covered hat, styled with a back bow and streamers. Satin streamers accented her bouquet of pink and white roses and stephanotis.

She was attended by her sister, Cheryl Simpson, of Joplin, Mo., in a floor length, long-sleeved, scooped-necked dress of dusty rose silk, carrying an arrangement of pink and white roses and stephanotis tied with satin streamers.

Gregory Wicklund, of Naperville, Ill., acted as best man for his brother. Ushering were Michael Simpson, of Joplin, Charles Tice, of Neosho, and Richard Turner, the bride's brother, also of Neosho.

The mothers of the bride and bridegroom both selected street length dresses for the morning ceremony, the former's of pink silk, the latter's of burgundy silk. White roses formed each mother's corsage.

Miss Lechner to say vows

Dr. and Mrs. Monroe S. Lechner, of Devonshire Road, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Carole Lynne, to Michael Joseph McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. McDonald, of Moran Road. The wedding is planned for late December.

Both Miss Lechner and her fiancé are Grosse Pointe South High School graduates. She earned a certificate in 1983 from the Cordon Bleu Cooking School, London, England, and expects to receive her degree in Hotel, Restaurant and Institutional Management from Michigan State University in December.

He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Civil Engineering from the University of Michigan-Ann Arbor, and is now a lieutenant in the United States Army, serving with the Corps of Engineers.

Day abroad hosted by Dental Auxiliary

The Detroit District Dental Auxiliary, Mrs. Leonard J. Bartoszewicz, of Kerby Road, president, invited the Wayne County Medical Auxiliary to join forces for a spring luncheon at One Maiden Lane in Windsor, Ont., recently.

The ladies spent the balance of the afternoon on a walking/shopping tour of boutiques and stores in the Ouellette-Pelissier blocks. General hostess was Mrs. R. Gerald Coyle, of Grand Marais Boulevard. Assistant hostess was Mrs. William H. Krieg, of Lakeland Avenue.

Set rummage sale April 5

Mary Jane Wriston and Carol Ann Maleitzke, chairmen, with members of the Martha Circle, are busy planning the annual spring rummage sale at Grosse Pointe United Methodist Church on Morris Road. It will run from 8:30 to 11 a.m. next Thursday, April 5.

Department heads include Emily Boley, books; Edith Wickline, boutique and antiques; Janie Berry and Martha Adams, boys' wear; Billie Deason and Jeanette Evans, electrical appliances; Pat Deck, furniture; Eva Beeman, girls' wear; Kathy Delfs, infants; Betty Powell, jewelry; and Lois Harding and Dolly Smedley, linens.

More are Vicki Smith, men's clothing; Elinor Kiefus and Ruth Miller, shoes, hats and purses; Cheryl Cueny, toys; Ethel Penno, white elephants and housewares; Betty Reas, women's accessories; and Sarah Frakes and Betty Bufa, women's dresses and coats.

Sorting will be supervised by Ruth Chosy, cashiers by Sharon Haskell, communications by Lois Batten, publicity by Ethel Osborne and security by Esther Winfield.

Carol Ann Maleitzke and Evelyn Montgomery head the kitchen committee which provides lunches for the workers during the week before the sale. Further information on the project may be obtained by calling the church office, 886-2363.

Metropolitan Rose Society will meet

Forrest Geary, past-Great Lakes District director, accredited judge and Consulting Rosarian for the American Rose Society, will explain what roses are best suited for this area and the spring chores required to ensure a beautiful and healthy rose garden in "Spring Time Roses: Do's and Don'ts," a program for the Metropolitan Rose Society's free, open-to-the-public meeting at 2 p.m. this Sunday, April 1, at Olivet Lutheran Church, Van Dyke at East Outer Drive in Detroit.

April meeting for Fox Creek

The Fox Creek Chapter of Questers meets next Thursday, April 5, at 12:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Arthur Batten who will be assisted by co-hostess Mrs. Fred Winfield. Mrs. Eugene Chosy will give the program.

Cited for service to Cottage

RALPH L. WILGARDE, Cottage Hospital administrator, and Robert E. Valk, president of the hospital's board of trustees, presented service pins to 26 employees at Cottage's annual service awards dinner, held in late February at Lochmoor Club. Among the honorees were eight Pointe residents: (standing, left to right, with Wilgarde) DOROTHEA McDUGAL, laboratory, LESLIE FARBMAN, cardiopulmonary services, and JEANNETTE SPADAFORE, business office; (seated, left and right) MARGARET AMBROZY, nursing, and GERTRUDE OHLSSON, admitting; (not pictured) Michael Laurence, business office, cited as were those above for 10 years of service, and Robert MacDonald, administration, and Richard Rosella, housekeeping, who received 15-year service pins.

Also receiving 15-year service pins were Harper Woods resident Ethel Sheill, radiology, St. Clair Shores resident Ellen Goertz, nursing, Detroit-er Ann Rothe, nursing, Roseville resident Clarence Kampenski, nursing, Warren resident Virginia Bauder and Arthur Burton, nursing, recently retired and now living in Richmond, Va.

Ten-year service pins went to Harper Woods residents Solveig Hecker and Emma Skuce, both with the hospital's nursing department, St. Clair Shores residents Victoria Boyce, nursing, Frances Kettler, central supply, and Barbara Mueller, housekeeping, Farmington Hills resident Eleanor Evenson, cardiopulmonary services, and Mount Clemens resident Mary Viviano, admitting.

Renna Kennedy, a resident of New Baltimore, was cited for 10 years of service as director of nursing and as an assistant administrator of the hospital. Ten-year service pins were also awarded to Detroiters Lorna Nanawa, laboratory, A. John Ragels, anesthesia, Gwendolyn Simmons, cardiopulmonary services, and Esther Watson, dietary.

ing, Frances Kettler, central supply, and Barbara Mueller, housekeeping, Farmington Hills resident Eleanor Evenson, cardiopulmonary services, and Mount Clemens resident Mary Viviano, admitting.

Among these recently initiated into the Gamma Iota Chapter of Pi Lambda Theta national honor and professional association in education is Helen Van Tiem, of Village Lane. Mrs. Van Tiem, a candidate in the masters program at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Michigan State University and is a teacher in the early childhood program on the U of M-Dearborn campus.

Marco Morreale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Morreale, of Cook Road, received awards in academic honors and French at the eighth annual De LaSalle Collegiate High School Honors Convocation dinner Feb. 28.

Church Circles slate sessions

Grosse Pointe Memorial Church Women's Association Circles meet next Tuesday, April 3, for fellowship and Bible study at 9:30 a.m., 1 or 7:30 p.m., according to their regular time schedules.

Hostesses are Mrs. Ralph Stevens, at her Ballantyne Road home, Mrs. Paul Grubbs, at her Touraine Road home, Mrs. Bayard Johnson, at her Tonnancour Place home, Mrs. William Leith, at her Westchester Road home, Mrs. James Main, at her Lincoln Road home, and Mrs. Thomas Winger, in the church lounge.

Visitors are always welcome at these monthly meetings. Additional information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Richard Dykstra, circles coordinator, at 882-3330.

DIC re-elects Mrs. Dance

Elizabeth (Mrs. William H.) Dance has been re-elected president of the board of trustees of the Detroit Institute for Children, which specializes in evaluation, diagnosis, prescription, treatment, training and research for the benefit of physically and neurologically impaired young people.

Among those serving with her on the 1984-85 board of DIC, founded 64 years ago by the Sigma Gamma Association, are fellow Pointe residents Lynn (Mrs. Stanley R.) Day and Joseph G. Standart Jr., vice-presidents, Charles F. Glass, secretary, and Susan (Mrs. Peter E.) O'Rourke, assistant treasurer.

Pointers newly-elected to the board for three-year terms are Mary (Mrs. Sterling E. Jr.) Graham, Toni (Mrs. Walter B.)

Robinson and Joan (Mrs. Paul H.) Twohey. Re-elected to the board for a three-year term was Edsel B. Ford II.

Bridge Group meets April 4

All Grosse Pointe Woman's Club members who enjoy an afternoon of cards are invited to come to the Woman's Club Bridge Group meeting next Wednesday, April 4, at noon in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Alger House — but reminded that paid reservations are required in advance. Mrs. William Hayduk, bridge chairman, will accept them until noon this Saturday, March 31.

Short and to The Pointe

Among members of the Albion College Sigma Nu fraternity who have acted as "foster grandsons" — visiting residents of Albion Manor — throughout the academic year, are Pat and Jerry Coyle, sons of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Coyle, of The Park; Mark Palazzo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Palazzo, of The Shores; Brian Engel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Engel, of The Woods; and Scott Turnbull, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Turnbull, of The Woods.

Among Gogebic Community College students who were named to the Dean's List for the 1983-84 first semester was Beau E. Burton, of The Farms.

Margaret Kay, of Grand Marais Boulevard, is participating in the two-term spring program in the Faculty of Social Science and Humanities at the City University, London. Kay majors in economics at Smith College.

Seek Advertising 'Woman of Year'

The Women's Advertising Club of Detroit, continuing a tradition begun in 1949, will honor Detroit's "Advertising Woman of the Year, 1984" at a banquet Tuesday, May 1, at 6 p.m. at The Roostertail. Guest speaker will be Edsel B. Ford II, advertising manager, Ford Division, Ford Motor Company.

Nominations for this year's award will be accepted until next Thursday, April 5. The competition is open to all women in the area who actively perform, administrate or teach one or more of the recognized creative or administrative functions of the advertising and communications professions," according to Phyllis Popa, 569-1234, Advertising Woman of the Year chairperson, from whom nomination forms are available.

Judging will take place Tuesday, April 10, and the winner will be announced the following day. The first recipient of the award, in 1949, was Louise Grace. Last year's winner was Marcie Brogan, of Brogan-Kabot Advertising Consultancy.

Reservations for the banquet, at $22 per person, may be obtained by contacting Rita Walby at 775-3221.

WE DID IT AGAIN!
"KEIM SOLD MINE"
IN LESS THAN ONE WEEK

Let us sell yours too...we get results

A happy Lelia Brown of Fairholme Road can testify to the facts! We offered her sound advice in marketing her home...now she too can say "Keim Sold Mine in Less Than One Week."

OPEN SUNDAY 2-5

Scoop up this 3 bedroom brick & aluminum ranch at 254 ALLARD. You'll get a country kitchen, deep lot, newer roof, carpet and a paneled rec room. Well priced in the $50's.

YOU'LL LOVE THE QUIET, TREE-LINED ROAD. And the home is just right for relaxed, pleasant living. Keep an eye on the kids from its front-of-the-house kitchen. And enjoy summer evenings in the very private, brick walled patio. Many fine features: a family room, 3 bedrooms and a super $74,500 price tag. See you Sunday at 1622 PRESTWICK in the Woods

IF YOU'VE ALWAYS WANTED TO LIVE IN G.P. SHORES—don't walk, run to 70 VERNIER this Sunday. The owner says sell. You'll get mifty, newer custom built tudor that's LOADED with extras that couldn't be duplicated for the low $160's asking price. There's even an 11% (large) fixed rate assumption. Don't miss this one, and bring us an offer.

1430 BUCKINGHAM Loaded with charming natural finished woodwork and outstanding cut glass windows and doors. A sturdy 4 bedroom natural stone home with tile roof, family room and lots of updating. Appliances included. And our exclusive GUARDIAN HOME WARRANTY. Only $95,000. See it Sunday.

MANY MORE BY APPOINTMENT... HERE'S A SAMPLING

IN THE PARK—Delightfully different Tudor has contemporary interior. Family kitchen, library, music room, study, wet bar, 5 bedrooms—lots more. Recently renovated. Simple assumption. $160's

IN THE CITY—Fabulous family room has beamed cathedral ceiling, fireplace & skylights. Study, "L", porch, newer kitchen, 2 baths. Exciting. Lower $100's

IN THE FARMS—Super buy, near the "Hill". Roomy 4 bedroom Federal style Colonial. Immediate possession. Long term Land Contract. Great condition. $110's

IN THE WOODS—Marble foyer, circular staircase, spacious rooms, excellent location. All this plus family room, den, 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths—more wow! $150's

IN THE SHORES—Two houses off Lakeshore—a terrific custom built Colonial with room to grow in. Not too little, not too big but just right! Handsome family room opens onto the patio. So does the gourmet kitchen & breakfast room. Master suite with a lakeview and ultra luxurious marble bath. Too much to tell. Call 886-3800 for details. Warranted. Low $300's

TWO GROSSE POINTE OFFICES

A busy March for Methodist Women of GP

A birthday party at Grosse Pointe Methodist Church on the first Tuesday of March celebrated the Centennial of the United Methodist Women. Luncheon tables, decorated with balloons and gift-wrapped packages, featured pressed flowers from the Holy Land as favors.

The flowers were brought from Israel by the Pointe United Methodist Women's president, Marie Draper, who recently visited there. Mrs. Draper also chaired the business meeting.

Hostesses were members of the Evelyn Griffith Circle, Edith Wickline, chairperson. Cupcakes, made and decorated by Kathleen Hershey, highlighted the luncheon menu.

Special honors were paid to the group's newest member, Carolyn Bucien, to the member for the longest time, Evelyn Scales, and to the member with a birthday closest to the party date, Carol Davey.

Devotions, given by Evelyn Griffith, were based on Matthew 5:15 which refers to the salt, or gems and minerals, of the earth. Mrs. Griffith made special reference to the opals of Australia and their classification according to quality and the way they are taken from the ground.

The Reverend Donald Lichtenfelt, pastor of Harper Woods' Redeemer United Methodist Church, gave a slide presentation, "Gems and Minerals of the Bible," featuring illustrations from Smithsonian and Cranbrook collections. The Bible contains 1,074 references to gems, minerals and minerals are mentioned in 97 hymns in the Methodist Hymnal.

The Pointe United Methodist Women's Circles met last Tuesday, March 20. Slides on "The World's Uprooted" formed the program for the Agape Circle, meeting in the morning at Claire Dallacqua's home on Barrington Road, and the Evelyn Griffith Circle, gathering for luncheon at the Alger Place home of Kathy Hershey who was assisted by co-hostesses Eva Beeman and Esther Winfield, as well as the Wesleyan Circle's supper meeting at the church, co-hosted by Eunice Hayward, Betty Angell and Dolly Smedley.

Program for the Martha Circle, meeting in the morning at Billie Deason's Kensington Road home, and the Doris White Circle, meeting in the evening at Evelyn Ralph's home on Radnor Circle, was a study of "Homeless Women in the United States and Outreach."

All are welcome at these monthly circle meetings, and invited to contact the church office for time and place information.

Ford House setting for DKG's Council.

President Elaine Cooper will call the annual birthday luncheon of the Macomb, St. Clair, Sanilac Council of Delta Kappa Gamma Society International to order Saturday, April 7, at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House.

Over 100 women educators are expected to participate in the day's program, touring the home, gathering for a business session and enjoying Birthday and Founder's Ceremonies conducted by the six chapters which comprise the council.

Hostesses will be members of Beta Epsilon Chapter. Their president, Betty Jean Nahat, of Severn Road, is in charge of reservations. Further information may be obtained by calling 882-3667.

DKG is an honorary organization for women educators: one of the largest in the world united in an effort to assist women who want to pursue advanced education and improve their professional status. The society's more than 150,000 members are organized in chapters throughout the United States and foreign countries, including Mexico, Guatemala, Great Britain, The Netherlands, Iceland, Finland, Sweden, Norway, El Salvador, Costa Rica and Canada, and in Puerto Rico.

The society has to date invested over $1 million in scholarships for its own members who want to pursue advanced studies.

Up, Up & Away for South High

Showing off the theme of the Grosse Pointe South High School Mother's Club Spring Benefit are (left to right) JUDY HUNTINGTON, JACKIE LOCNISKAR, LETITIA CLARK and PEGGY BAER, benefit chairman. The luncheon and fashion show, "Up, Up and Away," is scheduled for Thursday, April 12, at noon at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Walton-Pierce and Hickey's will present the seasonal styles. Spring plants will be for sale, and there will be a drawing for which tickets, at $1 each or six for $5, may be obtained from any South High student; they will also be available at locations on-the-Hill and in-the-Village this Saturday, March 31, and the following Saturday, April 7. Luncheon tickets, at $12 each, may be obtained by sending checks, payable to the South High Mother's Club, to Pat Palm, 282 Moran Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. 48236. Benefit proceeds will help fund the chemical abuse seminars presented at South. They will also be used for scholarships, enrichment programs, supplementary equipment and resource materials.

End pursuit in happiness

Sherwin Wine launches a new, three-session lecture series, "Happiness — Pursuing It Successfully" at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial next Wednesday, April 4. Participants may attend one, two, or all three lectures, which run from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., at $14 for the series, $6 per lecture.

In his first program, Conquest of Fantasy, Wine will talk about unrealistic expectations and how they often make people unhappy. He believes that developing appropriate expectations is the first step to inner peace.

The goal of this lecture is to teach participants the necessary skills to tame outlandish fantasies, and to learn to distinguish between appropriate and inappropriate dreams.

The second lecture, Conquest of Fear, on Wednesday, April 11, will focus on fear when it becomes a harmful, inhibiting emotion. If we cannot discipline our fear, Wine maintains, we will never be happy, for frightened people misjudge both their circumstances and their talents, failing to appreciate what they already have.

The final lecture, Conquest of Boredom, on Wednesday, April 18, presents Wine's contention that some people are unhappy because they want the world to amuse and entertain them; they hold fate responsible for the quality of their lives. Reluctant to take control of events in which they participate lest they be blamed if something goes wrong, they inevitably become bored.

In his concluding program, Wine will explain how to change one's outlook on life and bring excitement into it. Additional information on his series may be obtained by calling 881-7511.

To form Girl Scout alumnae

Miss the fun and friendships you had in Girl Scouting? Ever wonder whatever happened to your patrol leader ... cookie mother ... bunk mate?

Many women who used to be Girl Scouts themselves, or worked with troops, still live in the Pointe-Harper Woods area, where a Girl Scout Alumnae Association is being formed to reacquaint old friends and attract women back into the ranks of scouting.

A general meeting has been scheduled for Sunday, April 8, at 2 p.m. at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, to determine a name and logo for the group and to elect officers. Additional information may be obtained by contacting Agnes Kay at 886-5528.

April fashion lunch to aid De La Salle

The Christian Brothers Auxiliary of De La Salle Collegiate High School will sponsor Spring Fantasy '84, a luncheon with fashions by Hudson's, on Thursday, April 5, at the Gourmet House in St. Clair Shores.

Cash bar cocktail service begins at 11:30 a.m. Luncheon will be served an hour later. Donation is $14. Reservations may be made by calling 886-1151 or 881-0597.

Woods Garden Club to meet

Clara Finerty will assist as co-hostess when Lydia Devanson opens her Norwood Drive home to members of the Grosse Pointe Woods Garden Club next Tuesday, April 3, for a noon luncheon, a business meeting and a program, presented by the hostess, on "Problems of Spring Gardening

DAR school report for Elizabeth Cass

Elizabeth Cass Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will meet at noon Monday, April 2, in the Cadieux Road home of Mrs. John E. Finch to hear Lenette Renie, of Dimondale, give a progress report on DAR Schools.

Mrs. William Hill, of South Oxford Road, and Mrs. Joe P. Craig, of Hollywood Avenue, will assist the hostess during luncheon.

Miss Renie is state chairman for the National DAR Schools Committee. The DAR has established and completely supports Tamasee School in South Carolina and Kate Duncan Smith School in Alabama. Elizabeth Cass helps to support these two schools, as well as St. Mary's School for Indian Girls in South Dakota and Bacone College in Oklahoma.

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the forthcoming low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — cookbook by Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth featuring, this week, FINE MAIN DISHES using FISH.

SALMON DIVAN

1 can (7 3/4 oz.) red salmon
2 Tbsp. margarine
2 Tbsp. flour
1 tsp. bouillon base (chicken)
1 cup skim milk
Dash of salt
Dash of pepper
2 Tbsp. grated Parmesan cheese
2 tsp. sherry
1 cup cooked broccoli spears
Drain salmon, reserving liquid, and break into chunks. Melt margarine; blend in flour and chicken bouillon base. Add reserved salmon liquid, milk, salt and pepper. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and smooth. Blend in cheese and sherry. Arrange cooked broccoli spears in small, shallow baking dish. Top with salmon and cream sauce. Bake at 350° for 15 minutes. Makes 2 servings.
Calories per serving about 416.
Cholesterol about 61 mgs.

REALLY DIFFERENT TUNA CASSEROLE

2-1/2 cups shredded carrots
1 medium onion, chopped
1-1/2 cups celery, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
2-1/2 cups raw escarole or spinach
2 cans (6 1/2 oz.) water pack tuna
2 cups cooked brown rice
1 cup whole wheat bread crumbs
1/4 cup wheat germ
3/4 cup Egg Beaters, well beaten
2 Tbsp. toasted sesame seeds
2 Tbsp. grated Cheddar cheese
2 egg whites, beaten stiff

Place carrots, onion, celery and green pepper in steamer over boiling water. Cover and steam until barely tender. Add escarole or spinach and steam 3 minutes longer; place in a bowl and add other ingredients, except egg whites. Mix well; then carefully fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn mixture into 3-quart baking dish. Bake in 350° oven for 30 minutes. Serve to 8 or 10 with Herb Cream Sauce.

HERB CREAM SAUCE

1/4 cup unsalted margarine
1/4 cup flour
2 cups skim milk
1/2 tsp. salt
Pinch white pepper
1/2 tsp. basil
2 Tbsp. lemon juice
2 Tbsp. minced parsley
3 Tbsp. grated Cheddar cheese

Melt margarine in saucepan. Remove from heat; blend in flour. Stir in milk and return to heat, cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and comes to a boil. Add salt, pepper, basil, lemon juice and parsley. Cook 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir in cheese until melted. Makes 2-1/2 cups. Serve a little sauce in center of casserole, the remainder in a separate sauce bowl.
Calories for casserole about 193, for sauce 11 per Tbsp.

Cholesterol for casserole 59 mgs., for sauce about 6 mgs.

SALMON SUPPER LOAF

2 (15-1/2 oz.) cans salmon
1 cup celery, chopped
1 cup onion, chopped
2 Tbsp. melted margarine
1/2 lb. mushrooms, coarsely chopped
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
2 Tbsp. chopped parsley
2 lemons, grated rind and juice
1/2 cup Egg Beaters, well beaten
1/2 cup skim milk
2 cups mashed potatoes, made with skim milk

Flake salmon, reserving liquid. Sauté celery and onion in margarine for 10 minutes, or until vegetables are tender. Add mushrooms and sauté 5 minutes longer, stirring often. In mixing bowl, combine cooked vegetables with bread crumbs, salmon, reserved salmon liquid, salt and pepper, parsley and grated rind and juice of lemons. Add "eggs" and milk and mix well.

Grease a 9-1/2 x 5-1/2 x 2-1/4" loaf pan or line bottom with oiled wax paper. Pack salmon mixture into pan. Bake in preheated 375° oven for 45 to 50 minutes. Unmold on warm serving platter. Remove paper and decorate top of loaf with mashed potatoes. If desired, broil 3 inches from heat for 3 minutes, or until potatoes are lightly browned. Serves 6 to 8.

For 8: Calories per serving about 343; cholesterol about 70 mgs.
For 6: Calories per serving about 457; cholesterol about 93 mgs.

Sports Week

By Peggy O'Connor

It's Spring! (as in, 'not winter')

The calendar says it's spring and I say it's spring, so regardless of what a glance out the window says . . . it's spring.

And in honor of the season, I've compiled another one of my little lists. This one is called Things To Do This Spring. (Excluding housework. I don't do windows).

- Wangle an invitation to sail on a sailboat. Readers must have guessed by now that what I know about sailing is basically what other people tell me. (And I haven't been listening to very smart people). I'd love to spend a day on a sailboat . . . provided it's with somebody who likes what I write about sailing and who doesn't know the meaning of the word keelhauled.

- Spend a few nice spring afternoons watching North and South play baseball. See, by some wonderful quirk of fate, most high school baseball games are played on weekday afternoons. So I get to spend a lot of weekday afternoons basking, er, working, out in the warm spring sun while a lot of other people are chained to desks in dark, gloomy offices. (And they say journalists are dumb).

- Learn to play tennis.

- Play volleyball in the mud.

- Field some grounders at Parcels Field some spring Sunday afternoon.

- Try to get through one spring without hearing soccer parents grousing about baseball and baseball parents griping about soccer. Let the kids play and quit haggling over the details. After all, youth sports are supposed to be for the kids, not parents who want Junior to graduate to the big leagues or want to see him all dressed up in a nice white baseball uniform, trying to jack up his Little League average.

- Catch some South and North girls' softball games. Reports of no-hitters, fine pitching and great hitting filtered in to the News last year. And I think it's high time I spent a few afternoons seeing local high school softball at its best.

- Hold my breath during late May. That's when several of Grosse Pointe's best amateur athletes will be participating in Olympic trials. The Olympics are always exciting, but watching them in anticipation of a strong showing by athletes like sailers Bruce and Glenn Burton or cyclist Dave Grylls would be even better.

- See as many North and South girls' soccer games as I can. The girls put on a great show last season, their first as varsity-level competitors. North went as far as the regional finals and at one point, won six straight matches. South was competitive all year, as well. With a season of experience behind them, the girls should be just as exciting to watch this year.

Batter Up!

Is there an EML title in slugging South's future?

By Peggy O'Connor

He's got an offensive lineup that would make most high school baseball coaches drool. It's first-year South High coach Dan Griesbaum's pitching that not many would envy. He's hoping that will change . . . and soon.

Griesbaum ended four successful seasons as JV baseball coach at North High to take the top spot for the Blue Devils this year. The South team he inherits is a heavy-hitting squad that boasted five .300 or better hitters in 1983 - but managed to offset that by posting a less-than-desirable 4.50 earned run average while finishing at 9-5 in the Eastern Michigan League last season.

"There's not a weak spot in the lineup as far as hitting goes. And we've got excellent speed. But our pitching definitely needs work," Griesbaum says.

John Tavery (2-4) and Rob

Bigham (3-1) are the only returning pitchers with significant experience. Griesbaum says he'll need good performances from them, as well as help from senior Jim Arnold, junior Rick Whitney and a pair of former JV pitchers, Rich Cordova and Steve Goodrich, to improve South's status on the mound.

Another key to the Blue Devils' progress this year is whether Tony Tocco's elbow has recuperated enough after surgery to remove bone chips to allow him to resume his third base position. If he's healthy, Griesbaum says he'd like to see the talented senior back at third, where he played well on defense and turned in a .311 average at the plate. If not, Griesbaum may be forced to position Tocco at first base or in the designated hitter spot.

"A lot of what my lineup looks like depends on Tocco's arm and who's pitching," Griesbaum says. It also depends upon what Arnold's best position turns out to be this season.

"ARNOLD IS a good athlete and I'd like to take a look at him at shortstop," Griesbaum says. "After that, the lineup is kind of up in the air. It'll depend on who is pitching."

Senior Steve Carrier (.466) will catch, Rich Suhrheinrich (.387) will play second or short, and the two remaining .300-plus hitters of 1983, Brian Rathsburg (.333) and Rick Waugaman (.320), will man the outfield positions. Griesbaum is looking at several players, including last fall's varsity football starting quarterback John Williamson, for the remaining outfield position.

While he hopes that pitching and defense will approach the level of his quality offense, Griesbaum admits he's depending a lot on that offense. One of his goals is to steal 100 bases - something one of his North JV teams did a few years back. And he says he won't be afraid to use the bunt. That's the type of aggressive offense that might be needed to top South's EML foes.

"From what I can gather, there are a couple of good teams in the EML this season. L'Anse Creuse North looks tough and I think Port Huron Northern is going to have the pitching. Anchor Bay might be the dark horse. And North and Bishop Gallagher will be strong once again in the district," Griesbaum says.

Griesbaum knows just how strong North will be - several members of his 1981 North JV team which earned a 17-5 record went on to help the Norsemen post a 30-7 mark in 1983. And while most of those players definitely learned a lot from him, Griesbaum says that his

Power is gone, but North still strong

By Peggy O'Connor

Three weeks after North's varsity baseball team lost a heartbreaker in the regional championships last June, head coach Frank Sumbera lost six starting seniors to graduation. Those six included three starting pitchers - not an easy commodity to come up with even for a coach whose teams are consistently this area's best.

"We only lost a few . . . just Wujek, Menzo and Babcock," jokes Sumbera. And all Bob Wujek, David Babcock and John Menzo did in 1983 was combine to pitch the Norsemen to a 30-7 record, their fifth consecutive Bi-County League championship and a district baseball crown.

That's looking back, though, and veteran coach Sumbera likes to look ahead.

"Those three were definitely valuable, but I've got a good nucleus this season. I'm confident they can do the job," he says.

Dan Kopitzke returns for his third season as a Norseman; this year he'll trade his rightfield spot for a job as Sumbera's lefthanded starter. He'll probably team up with Sumbera's "find" of 1984: junior lefty Dennis D'Agnese. "He's a real good looking pitcher with a good breaking pitch," Sumbera says. And just one of several North juniors who look good this spring.

North experience taught him something, too.

"I just think the biggest thing I learned was that hard work pays off. I saw how hard (North head coach) Frank Sumner worked, how organized he was. There's no doubt I remember my days at North fondly, especially my first year when the varsity team won the state championship," Griesbaum recalls.

Griesbaum would like the same sort of memories to get their start at South this season. "As I told the team, I like to set my goals high. I'll be disappointed if we don't win the EML every year. And this year, I feel that it's within our grasp if our pitching and defense continue to improve.

"Eventually, my goal is to win the state championship. That takes pitching, defense and luck and it's definitely something we have to strive for. But we have some super athletes here at South and I'm really very pleased with our progress."

Griesbaum's Blue Devils begin their varsity baseball season Saturday, April 7, at 10 a.m. in the DeLaSalle Tournament at Macomb County Community College.

Unbeaten cagers

North still looks strong

Senior Craig Cappas, who saw limited action last season, and righthander Steve Walker round out the pitching corps.

Dave Waldeck returns to center-field for North, where he won All-League and All-Region honors in '83. Mike Hall will move from third base to left field this season and Shawn Dowden, a .400 hitter a season ago, will start at second base. Returning players Mark Bilkovic and Brent Roose will play infield positions for Sumner, with Bilkovic penciled in at first base, replacing departed slugger Marty Mitchell.

With power hitters Mitchell and Menzo gone, the clout potential North fans have come to expect is gone as well. That doesn't phase Sumner in the least.

"There's not too much you can do to mold power-hitters. If a guy is going to hit with power, then he'll do it regardless of what programs you put him on in the off season. I've never been that big a home run fan, anyway," Sumner says.

"I'm going to continue molding this team the way I always have: with pitching and defense. I've always said if I can hold a team to one run or so, I can scratch out a run or two on the bases to win the game.

"I still feel you get yourself in more trouble if you have a man who has a ball in his hand and doesn't know what to do with it. You've got baseballs flying all over the place and runs scoring and a mess... defense is what's important."

Sumner says his squad's lack of power might make them a little more aggressive than last season, when they would "sit back and wait for Mitchell to pound one."

"I think we'll be running more, trying to make things happen a little more this season. This year, we're probably quicker than my seniors were last season, with all the faster JV kids we brought up. We'll use the hit and run and bunt and run a bit more."

Helping make things happen are juniors Joe Weidenbach, who will catch, and Brian Ulatowski. "Brian is hitting the ball so well. I'd like to see him at first, or even catching... although Joe has the inside track there." Tim Sheridan, a fine defensive player, is also a possibility behind the plate.

Sumner says he's also going to have to find a spot in the outfield for junior Frank Vento, who played hockey for North this past winter. "He hit .421 for the JV's last year and he's one of the fastest guys I've seen. It's going to be hard to keep him out of the lineup," Sumner says.

Bishop Gallagher, a much-improved South High team, East Detroit and Notre Dame pose the greatest opposition for North in terms of district play. But Sumner isn't even looking that far ahead. And rightly so — he wants his Norsemen to take their sixth straight Bi-County title first. That's something no other league team has done.

"Lakeview will be our biggest test. And Clintondale has quite a few returning players and they've just had a fine sports year — they were 7-2 in football and they just won the Bi-County basketball title. Those two will give us the most problems."

"But we're looking to take the title and in the districts, well, hopefully it'll come down to just one other team and us."

With the defending league and district champion Norsemen fielding 10 returning players on a 19-man squad, chances are that's exactly what the season will come down to.

North opens the year Saturday, April 7, in the DeLaSalle Tournament, joining South, DeLaSalle and Grand Rapids Forest Hills in tournament play.

Sports Week

• Pull up a chair, relax and settle down for a TV-sports marathon. The date: April 1. That first Sunday in April is usually when local TV-sports addicts can catch a Tiger game, a Michigan Panther football game, a Red Wing hockey game, two or three NBA contests and whatever Wide World of Sports has to offer. And that's the one day each year when I graduate from Weekend Couch Potato to Super Sports Spud. Pass the popcorn.

• Watch as University Liggett School's tennis team goes after its 13th consecutive state tennis title. The Knights have made state tournament time in early June a great time in these parts and I wouldn't mind seeing Bob Wood's squad keep it that way for another 13 years.

• Learn to play golf.

• Pay somebody to put up with me learning to play golf.

• Sell some almost-new, hardly-used golf equipment when I discover that it is impossible for me to learn to play golf.

• Stifle my chuckles when I consider my recent realization that we haven't come too long a way at all, baby. I got my annual spring packet from the University of Detroit last week, the one that contains the U-D men's baseball and women's softball preview books.

The men's preview is a beautiful, 28-page color yearbook — with individual pictures, even. The women got a four page (two pages, folded over) paper roster with hardly any color, tiny, tiny type and two measly photos. I doubt that the disparity is because the Lady Titans were only 1-16 last year, or because they don't produce as much revenue as the men's team. I'm sure that's not it. Nah, of course not.

Oh well, at least the paper it was printed on was nice.

• And while I'm reflecting, reflect back on a hectic winter sports season in Grosse Pointe. Between high school hockey, gymnastics, youth hockey, tournaments, playoffs and championships, it seemed like I'd never get through it all. But I did. And it helped to have thoughtful parents and coaches stop by the office, speak to me at games, or call up, just to say thanks for the News' sports coverage. It wasn't necessary... but it sure was nice.

• Finally, I'd like to make it to as many of Grosse Pointe's Little League parades as possible. I'm a sucker for all those happy little faces, cars, trucks and slightly off-key bands which are all part of the annual Little League parades. It's like having a living, breathing, Norman Rockwell painting right in the middle of Grosse Pointe.

I just hope it doesn't rain on my parades — and that goes for the entire spring.

Set Farms-City Ruth tryouts

The Grosse Pointe Farms-City Babe Ruth League will hold tryouts for 13 to 15 year-olds this weekend. Tryouts are from noon to 2 p.m. Saturday, March 31, in St. Paul's gym for 13 year-olds, and from 2 to 4 p.m. for 14 and 15 year-olds.

The tryouts will continue on Sunday, April 1, at South High's Main Gym and Field Room. Thirteen year-olds will try out from 2 to 4 p.m., 14 and 15 year-olds, from 4 to 6 p.m.

Another tryout session is planned for Thursday, April 5, from 6 to 8 p.m. at St. Paul's for 13 year-olds only; and at South High, from 4 to 6 p.m. Sunday, April 8, for 14 and 15 year-olds and from 2 to 4 p.m. for those who are 13.

This year's Farms-City League will feature inter-league play between the Woods, Park and Farms-City. This will mean a much-expanded schedule for all players and for league play, plus the crowning of a Pointe champion at both the major and minor league levels.

The Farms-City will also host the state Babe Ruth tournament the weekend of July 20 at Kerby Field.

Those players who have not registered may do so at one of the tryout sessions. The cost is $35 per player, $50 per family. A birth certificate is required at registration for proof of age.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Joe Distelheim at 881-8195.

ANNUAL IMPLEMENTATION PLAN
Notice is hereby given that public hearings will be held by the Detroit Area Agency on Aging on April 10, 1984 at the Community Arts Auditorium at the Michigan State Fair Grounds. The purpose of the hearings is to discuss the agency's plan to provide services to the elderly residents of Detroit, Grosse Pointe, Grosse Pointe Farms, Grosse Pointe Park, Grosse Pointe Shores, Grosse Pointe Woods, Hamtramck, Harper Woods, and Highland Park. These services are provided through Federal, State and Local appropriations of the Federal Older Americans Act. A morning hearing will be held from 9:00 till noon primarily for comments by senior citizens and other consumers. An afternoon hearing from 2:00 till 5:00 is primarily to accept testimony from agencies that serve senior citizens. Written statements and exhibits in place of or in addition to oral statements may be made at the public hearing if submitted to the agency by April 14, 1984. Mail this written testimony to: The Detroit Area Agency on Aging, 3110 Book Building, 1249 Washington Boulevard, Detroit, Michigan 48226. Attention: Frances Taylor. The Annual Implementation Plan is available for inspection by contacting Frances Taylor at 222-5330.

GUIDANCE GAZETTE

Presented by the Assistance League to the Northeast Guidance Center

EIGHT PAGES

Q AND A

Q. WHAT TYPES OF PROBLEMS DO PEOPLE SEEK HELP FOR MOST AT NORTHEAST GUIDANCE CENTER?

A. There are many reasons that people seek help, but the problems people are experiencing can be generally grouped like this:

38% have problems with relationships (i.e. difficulty with peers, marital troubles, child management);

21% seek help with emotional difficulties such as depression or grief;

7% seek counseling because of disturbing thoughts which the client feels are inappropriate, frightening, extreme or unusual;

4% are having problems at school; and

4% seek substance abuse counseling and treatment. These people may be experiencing problems with alcohol, prescription or even over-the-counter drugs. Up to 50% of our clients seeking help for other problems also have substance abuse problems. Now that we have a special Alcohol and Chemical Dependency Treatment program, we will be reaching out more directly to serve these clients.

Q. HOW MANY PEOPLE DOES THE CENTER SERVE PER YEAR?

A. During one year, between 1200 and 1300 registered clients are treated at Northeast Guidance Center. They average between five and ten visits each. This number does not include people who are seen only once, one-time emergencies, unregistered telephone contacts, and the many hundreds who participate in our education and prevention programs.

Q. WHAT IS THE FEE FOR TREATMENT?

A. Northeast Guidance Center has established a fee policy which is graduated in accordance with the client's income, family size, and ability to pay. The maximum fee is $60 per hour. That is substantially less than fees charged for treatment by most private practice clinics. Many of our clients do not pay that maximum fee.

To obtain a "discounted" fee, the client completes a confidential economic assessment. A family of four with an annual income of $30,000 would probably be assessed a fee of $50 per session, and any insurance the client has would cover a major portion of that. The client portion would be paid at the end of each session. Most clients are in treatment for five to ten sessions.

Q. DOES NORTHEAST GUIDANCE CENTER HAVE ANY PROGRAMS DESIGNED SPECIFICALLY FOR PRE-SCHOOL CHILDREN?

A. We don't have a pre-school program or nursery, but we see many pre-schoolers as treatment cases and we offer community consultations and workshops on early childhood development. Some of our workshops, such as Movement Skills for Children, accept children as young as four years.

The Community Services Unit has several programs which have impact upon pre-schoolers as well. The Parenting With Love Program offers parenting skills, future planning, and self-esteem enhancement for teenage mothers. The children are participants since they accompany their parents. The agency also facilitates and consults with child neglect and abuse prevention programs as part of the Neighborhood Family Resource Center. Other clients are referred by the Wayne County Department of Social Services. The Community Services Unit is also part of the citywide coalition.

Stress Can Yield Success

A MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR

Stress seems to be a 'hot' topic these days. But just what is meant by 'stress,' and what causes stress?

Just about anything that matters in our lives — money, relationships, security and safety, success, social obligations, self-improvement, health, you name it — can be a source of anxiety, worry, stress.

No one is immune to stress, and many of us have learned to hide, and therefore, internalize, the symptoms of stress. Things like high blood pressure, headaches, and generalized pain are some indicators.

We've dedicated this issue of the "Guidance Gazette" to stress because we feel that stress is a cause of concern for all members of our community. Adults, teens and youngsters all suffer from stressful situations. But we want to make the point that stress is not all bad. Stress can offer the extra edge that gets us moving toward self-improvement, better communication, or making time for ourselves. If we didn't have stress, we wouldn't perform. For example, a little stress energizes us when we are about to take on an important task like speaking before a group or writing a report.

Everyone has different signs of excess stress or distress. Generally, they can be put into three groups: Physical signs like stomach pains, tight shoulders, or headaches; intellectual signals such as forgetfulness, memory loss and worrying; and social/emotional signs like anger, depression and difficulty getting along with others. We must be in touch with ourselves to know when any of these are approaching the "danger zone" — the point where they threaten to affect our family life, our work. Identification of stress and its causes is the first step to controlling it.

After identifying distress, however, we can make changes either in the environment, or in our way of reacting to the stress. We may delegate more responsibility, manage our time better or find more time to relax or exercise.

Once we are aware that stress is affecting us, we can also do things like eat better and drink less alcohol, because unconsciously we tend to eat sporadically, gobble our food too fast, and consume more alcohol when we are in distress.

In relaxation and exercise, we must be careful not to add stress by engaging in competitive pursuits or setting unrealistic goals. The purpose is to eliminate worry and to burn off excess energy, not to win or become instant sports heroes.

Talking with an understanding friend or co-worker often helps reduce stress as well.

Once we understand stress, we know that it is not all bad. Eliminating it totally would put us at a disadvantage where our performance is concerned. It is excessive or unchecked stress that can cause the harmful mental and physical effects we hear so much about. And if stress is having a negative effect on your life, we hope you'll at least seek out a little help. It can be just a phone call away.

Children:

Little People in a Big People's World

By Freida Chomsky, M.S.W. and Chinyere Neale, M.A.

Many people think of children as innocent and worry-free. But any social worker or child psychologist will tell you that that's a bunch of baloney. Kids in today's world are experiencing heaps of stress!

Children are little people in a big people's world. They are subject to all of the same types of stresses that their parents suffer. Only, because they seldom understand problems within their proper contexts, the worries are magnified. An adult may be worried that there's not enough money to buy groceries before payday. A child's interpretation of that problem might be simply, "I'm hungry and there's no food!!" A child feels particularly unstable when faced with his parents' apparent inability to take care of everything.

School, learning how to play with other children, and learning to reconcile feelings about others are responsibilities equal to "job stress" for children, since school and play are the child's "work." Kids tend to feel responsible for much of what goes wrong at home as well. Arguments between parents about money may cause a child to feel guilty because he realizes that he costs, especially since he constantly asks for the things he wants and that his friends have.

Kids may realize they can't have everything, but they rarely possess the control not to ask — they may blurt out a request in spite of themselves.

The news media present additional stressors to children. Coverage of rapes, murders, kidnappings, war, nuclear dangers and environmental contamination are often sensationalized. Add to that the discussions which they overhear between parents, teachers, and others, and the kids can be literally overwhelmed with generalized fear about issues they don't understand. Many children have dreams of death of their parents and loved ones which generate fear, guilt, worry and stress.

Stress can take many forms in children. Increased physical complaints such as head or stomach aches, increased irritability and fighting with peers, nightmares, school behavioral problems, unusual quietness or brooding are some signs of stress. The child may be unable or unwilling to tell adults what the trouble is, sometimes for fear of becoming another problem himself. Children tend to keep stress in and magnify it within themselves.

Being a parent brings its own stresses. These stresses are reality, economically and practically oriented. Jobs, money and security are always on the parents' minds because we believe that as parents, we must always be in control, always be able to say, "don't worry." But those words often cause a child to worry, simply because the suggestion is made that there is something to worry about. Kids see and hear manifestations of adult problems and worries — arguments, tension, other extreme behaviors. Parents are stressed by the need to always be the protector, the need to say, "this won't happen to you. I won't let you be hurt." But there is no guarantee in today's society that a parent can always protect children totally.

Nobody, not even children, can completely eliminate stress from their lives, nor is stress absolutely negative.

However, parents can do much to minimize excessive stress by talking to their children about problems and getting them to ask questions about the parts they don't understand. Parents can be honest about worry and explain things in specifics so they know exactly what the worry is about. Specific fear is much more manageable than generalized fear — there is an end, an outcome that allows them to survive. By letting kids know our plans and what we expect to happen, we can help them anticipate something, and realize the problem, and say, "this is happening right now, but it won't always be like this."

tion which is examining and attempting to rectify the tremendous infant mortality problem of the city's east side.

Q. WHO CAN USE THE SERVICES AT NORTHEAST GUIDANCE CENTER AND HOW WOULD ONE APPLY FOR SERVICES?
A. Anyone in the area may use our services, regardless of age, as well as anyone who is experiencing emotional or mental illness, anyone needing help, or with personal or family conflicts. We offer professional psychological and educational testing services, and educational workshops on many subjects regarding positive mental health skills. Persons living within certain geographical boundaries are eligible for fee discounts based on their income, family size and ability to pay. One needs only to call 824-8000 for services.

Q. WHAT DOES THE CENTER DO FOR SENIOR CITIZENS?
A. Through our Older Adult Services Unit, we offer a number of specialized services to assist older adults to deal with depression, loneliness, physical and psychological changes, adjustment reactions and family relationship difficulties. A special Elderly Substance Abuse Services Program helps caregivers, family members, and others identify cases of alcohol, prescription or over-the-counter medication abuse among seniors. We help families of seniors to provide care for, and understand the unique needs of the elderly, and provide educational programs to senior citizens' groups. There is a program of daily telephone reassurance, and assistance in identifying community groups and services to help seniors. Finally, there is a socialization group which provides weekly activities to a small number of older adults.

In the '80's the Call is: Let No Stress Distress You

by EDMUND J. SHEERIN, PH. D.
Professor of Sociology
University of Detroit

Franklin Delano Roosevelt cried out at the nether point of the economic crash of the early '30s: "We have nothing to fear but fear itself." We are now in the '80s, and it is the fear of stress that distresses men, women and children from kindergarten to the highest level of corporate life.

In the '80s, we need to call out: "Let no stress distress you!"

The fear of stress is a dangerous and widespread phenomenon. It is as pervasive as the general fear that absorbed the country during the '30s. And, like all fear, it is based to a large degree on ignorance, or at least on a lack of understanding. The mass media must take some blame for the sensationalizing of stress and many authors cannot escape indictment.

Stress has been blamed for most of man's ills, from lack of energy to lack of interest in work; from failure in business to failure in life; from sweaty palms to heart disease and cancer. Mention a personal or social problem and there, lurking in the shadows, lies the ogre of stress like a tiger waiting to spring and devour you.

It is time to thank God for tigers. It is time to take stress by the tail and find out what sort of a beast is this let loose in the '80s. Is stress indeed our inveterate enemy or is it our dauntless friend?

Knowledge provides the answer, but knowledge grows in a quiet mind and not in an anxious heart. We will never appreciate stress if we fear it. We will never dismantle its lethal power if we stand in awe.

We must learn to appreciate our stress system, and appreciating, come to respect it, and respecting, come to admire and be grateful.

The human body is endowed with remarkable and marvelous systems. We have lungs to breathe the air of life; a heart to pump blood to feed and energize every cell in our bodies; a kidney system to purify the rich red blood that flows in our veins, and, we have a stress-system whose function it is to prepare our entire body for immediate and urgent action to escape or remove a serious threat, danger or emergency.

We do not live in fear of our lungs, our heart, or our kidneys. They are our friends. Why then, should we fear stress?

Without our lungs we could not breathe, and without our friends the adrenal glands we could not escape danger or sustain a prolonged physical effort. What better friends do we have when we need them the most?

The central stress organs—the adrenal glands, no larger than two ripe plums, nestle firmly anchored on top of the kidneys.

When a real or imagined danger strikes or threatens us, these amazing adrenal glands rush to our rescue. They instruct the heart to beat faster, the eyes to open wider, the lungs to breathe deeper and the liver to mobilize a store of sugar and fats to feed the muscles in their oncoming struggle.

The adrenals do even more; they direct the digestive system, the sexual system and the immune system to shut down, thereby preserving scarce energy for the imminent conflict or dangerous encounter.

In a word, the adrenal glands place the entire body in an immediate state of readiness for fight or flight. Can you name a better system to claim credit for our survival not only as individuals but also as a race in the face of innumerable death-dealing hazards confronting us from the cradle to the grave? Without our gifted stress system, we would be always too slow, always too late in adjusting to physical and social dangers around us.

We now ask how it is possible for the adrenals to know when to prepare the body to meet serious situations.

The answer is simple. . . they don't know. They have to be told. It is the brain that instructs them to act. As soon as we perceive a real or imaginary danger to life or limb or ego, our brain alerts the adrenal glands and they instantaneously respond to their task of preparation.

The communication system between the brain and the stress system is so important to our survival that nature has provided us with two totally different and independent communication systems. One is electrical that carries messages from the brain to the adrenals at a rate of 200 miles per minute through our central nervous system, faster than a phone call. It is this speedy communication system that enables the glands to mobilize in seconds to avoid an oncoming car.

How often have we missed death by seconds? We can thank our stress system and the rapid electrical network between the brain and the inner section of the adrenal gland called the medulla.

Even if this system were destroyed, the brain has an alternative, though much slower, system of communicating with the adrenals. The brain uses the slow route of the blood stream to carry specific messengers called hormones (ACTH) which reach the outer layers of the adrenals (cortex), instructing them to prepare the body for action.

Such is our fabulous stress system. It is our guarantee of survival. The stress system does not abuse us, but we abuse it by sending false alarms when we foolishly see enemies behind every curtain, imagine threats and ill-will in our families, friends and acquaintances; in our co-workers, supervisors and employers where none exist or are intended. The futile pressing of our stress system into action too often or too long transforms stress into distress—a fearful price to pay for imaginary fears in the 1980's.

These days are the only days we have to live. Shall we allow distress to diminish the joy of living for even one day? The power to say no rests within us. Let us begin by accepting our stress system as a faithful and loyal friend, and stand firm in the face of all stressors.

Michigan Council for the Arts Awards NEGC Grant

The Michigan Council for the Arts has again awarded Northeast Guidance Center a grant to support a children's program of creative movement and artistic expression.

The new program will combine art therapy and psychodrama with creative movement skills development. The series will begin with an orientation for parents and children, followed by 12 sessions from the areas of visual arts, psychodrama, and movement skills. The sessions are designed to stimulate expression and develop creative thinking, and can also be used as a diagnostic tool for therapists.

The program will be co-led by Freida Chomsky, A.C.S.W.; Liza Kozora, registered art therapist; and Pam Wilson, B.S. Physical Education with certificate in Kinesiology.

One session will begin in March and is open to children from the Center's Child Outpatient Unit. A second session, to begin in the summer, may have additional openings for area children aged 8 through 12. The program is very useful for diagnosing and treating peer and other relationship difficulties and also offers opportunities for healthy children to improve motor skills, self-esteem and awareness, intellectual development and leadership skills. Parents interested in enrolling their children in the summer session should call Pat Sims of the Child Outpatient Unit, 824-8000, ext. 225.

Ford Is A Leader In All These Technologies

- Aerospace • Communications Satellites • Alternative Fuels • Electronics
- Automotive Manufacturing • Experimental Engineering • Aerodynamics

Soon, two-thirds of all overseas communications and almost all intercontinental television programming will travel by satellites built by Ford Aerospace & Communications Corporation.

Our technology helped guide the Columbia space shuttle home, and bring back pictures from Saturn.

Ford is a leader in alternative fuel technology, fuel which can be derived from abundant organic matter, coal, and natural gases.

Our newest electronic brain takes the automobile to a new level of sophistication. It saves fuel and improves and refines total driving performance.

We've built a laboratory on wheels, a prototype vehicle made almost entirely of a graphite fiber reinforced plastic, that's lighter than aluminum, stronger than most steel.

We've designed the most aerodynamic passenger car in the world. The incredible Probe IV (CJ45).

Being a leader in all these diverse technologies can pay immense dividends for a company whose main pursuit is building cars, trucks and tractors.

It gives us invaluable knowledge and insight enabling us to build more sophisticated and efficiently performing vehicles. And staying on the leading edge of these technologies not only helps us build better vehicles today, but it assures that we can and will build better vehicles tomorrow.

Performance Under Pressure

by Lisa M. Vallee

Recently, Dr. Jonathan York conducted a stress management seminar for the Detroit Chapter of Women in Communications.

Like many organizations, this group was interested in learning about and controlling stress in their personal and professional lives. So much has been said about stress lately that we tend to regard it as a very negative thing. But did you know that it can help to improve your performance?

The notion seems absurd. However, Dr. York made it clear that when properly controlled, pressure can have a positive impact upon our performance.

To introduce this, the Yerkes-Dodson law was explained. Developed in 1908, it demonstrates that as stress increases, performance increases as well. This one-to-one relationship will continue until the point where stress produces a maximum level of performance. When the pressure level goes beyond this point, however, performance begins to fall off. The key to stress management, therefore, is to identify in ourselves this optimum point. The mechanism for identifying it is through signs and symptoms in our own bodies.

When we are under too much pressure we may develop any one of a wide range of symptoms including ulcers, memory loss, errors in work and loss of productivity. These are different for everyone. For example, some people gain weight and others lose it. In the short term, these effects may not be of much consequence. But the long-term possibilities may be as tragic as a heart attack.

Dr. York recommends two alternatives for keeping stress under control. The first deals with increasing tolerance to stress and the second deals with controlling stressors, and those events that cause stress.

Increasing one's ability to handle stress is based upon the premise that the more pressure one can tolerate the more effective performance will be. There are four means to this end.

The first is through nutrition. Although we tend to drink more and eat less when we are tense, we should concentrate on eating plenty of good food to help our bodies cope. A second way is through exercise. "We need exercise," says Dr. York, "to help combat fatigue and burn off excess energy." He warns, however, that an exercise program should be progressive. A third component is relaxation in the form of recreation or what is termed the "relaxation response." Relaxing recreation can be anything from washing the car to taking a walk — whatever turns you on. The key is to find an activity that is truly relaxing. The relaxation response involves time and training. Examples of this are TM, Zen or yoga.

The fourth and final component comes from establishing social support systems. Especially during periods of stress we need relationships to help clarify the situation. We should create personal relationships not only at home, but in the community and at work as well.

Using one or more of the above methods will help to alleviate the damaging effects that stress can bring about and in turn help us to handle greater amounts of it.

An alternative to this is to identify and take control of the individual stressors in our lives through rational problem solving. Dr. York suggests that we begin by listing on a piece of paper external sources of stress in everyday life. Then, for each item on the list, we should ask ourselves: Is this stressor chronic or acute? What is its duration? Do we have control over it and, if so, to what degree? Is this a home stressor or a work stressor? Once you have answered these questions you are on the road to controlling stress in your life.

Tension and pressure are inevitable in a contemporary society. But we don't have to become victim to it. On the contrary, working with methods such as those Dr. York suggests, we can live with stress and even perform more successfully because of it.

Mary Meyer Honored

The Metro Detroit Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers has chosen Mary Meyer as its Social Worker of the Year. The award is given annually to the individual demonstrating extraordinary achievement in his/her professional career, and whose commitment reflects the highest values of the social work profession. Mary has been at Northeast for 9 1/2 years, and is the newly appointed Director of the Division of Community Mental Health Services and the Grosse Pointe office. She was honored, along with Detroit Police Chief William Hart (selected 'Citizen of the Year' by the Association) at a special program held on March 22 at the University of Detroit.

On the Move

Sylvester Hackney, M.S.W., has been appointed Director of the Division of Outpatient Services at Northeast Guidance Center. The Division merges the Adult Outpatient and Child Outpatient Units with the Alcohol and Chemical Dependency Treatment Program, the Employees Assistance Program, and other outpatient services. Sylvester has been with Northeast for 4 years, and previously directed the Crisis Intervention Services and the Adult Outpatient Unit.

April Workshop on Money Management

In times of high inflation and unemployment making enough money is a problem for many of us who make a 'decent' living, managing our money to cover all our costs and yet leave some to enjoy can be a problem.

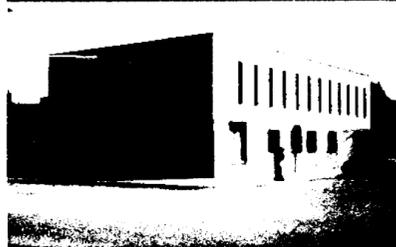

Northeast Guidance Center, in cooperation with Money Managers, Inc., is holding a workshop on developing budgeting skills. The one and one-half hour workshop will include identification of 'symptoms' of money mismanagement, and cover "How To Get Out of Debt," "How To Do Your Own Budget Analysis," and "Developing Financial Goals."

The workshop will be led by Kathryn Greiner, President of Money Managers, Inc., and be held on Wednesday, April 18 from 7:00 to 8:30 p.m. at Northeast Guidance Center, 17000 E. Warren. Space is limited and enrollment is free, so call 824-8000, ext. 290 now.

An Exceptional Board Lends Strength

by Jayne M. Rose-Valle

Non-profit organizations all have a board of directors. Such groups are a requirement of the organizational bylaws, and they may vary tremendously in size, shape, style and degree of participation. Some are very active, but many are relatively inactive and serve more as figureheads.

Contrary to some non-profit boards, Northeast Guidance Center's Board of Directors is involved in the running of the Center, while at the same time allowing the Executive Director and staff to deal with the Center's daily routines. The Board members are active, enthusiastic, and hardworking so that we, the public, reap the benefits of a finely-tuned mental health center.

The Board of Directors serving the Northeast Guidance Center currently consists of 34 individuals who meet each month to discuss financial operations of the Center and to oversee all policy making matters. Each member is extremely conscientious, and they all share these common goals: To help the Center continue to be the best mental facility in southeastern Michigan, and to see that the Center remains responsive to the community's needs.

The Board does this by dividing itself into subcommittees which handle specific aspects of the Center's functions. Each subcommittee is comprised of individual Board members with a professional Northeast Guidance Center staff member acting as liaison between Center and Board. This has proved effective in keeping the Board as closely in tune with the Center as possible, thus encouraging a smoothly run operation overall.

The committees include: Executive, Finance, Personnel, Planning, Community Relations, Nominating, Housing, Retirement, Development.

The role of these committees is to investigate issues which fall within their respective realms, examine alternatives, thrash out any problems and concerns, and finally, make recommendations to the Board of Directors. This system has proved quite effective, and after some discussion, most recommendations are accepted.

The Board encourages anyone interested in actively participating on the Board to contact the Center at 824-8000, ext. 246. New nominations to the Board are always welcome.

Where the future lives

The General Motors Commitment.

The idea of building quality cars and trucks is nothing new at General Motors. Since more people buy GM than any other make in the world, we must be doing some things right. But that isn't good enough at today's GM. Our goal is to be the very best at what we do. That means providing products and services of superior value to our customers. There's a spirit and dedication to quality that runs through our entire company.

You can see it in our products and feel it in the attitude of our people. Yet with all the gains we've made in quality, we can never be satisfied. The way we see it, our commitment is to pursue excellence and pass it on with greater value in every new car and truck we build. Your satisfaction—and our success—depend on it.

We give our mark more meaning everyday.

Teenage Alcoholism by Chinyere Neale, M.A.

Sooner or later, all teenagers in our society are faced with the decision, "Should I or shouldn't I drink alcohol?" Three-fourths of them will decide "yes" — and begin to use alcohol before they are legally of age. At least one-third will drink on a somewhat regular basis, and many will go on to become alcoholics.

Experimental use of alcohol in the peer group setting is generally considered "normal." A 1978 survey among high school seniors indicated that only 10% of all 12th graders had never used alcohol. About 90% had used alcohol once or more in the preceding 12 months, 65% had used it six or more times, and 20% has used it weekly or more often.

Although the gap between male and female use is closing in reflection of the general changing role of women in society, there was slightly more use of alcohol by boys (63%) than girls (54%).

Researchers have identified many behavioral and social correlates to teen drinking, such as low self-esteem, impulsiveness, poor attitudes about school, and low academic aspirations. Many also cite family disorganization, poor parent-child relationships, and general delinquent behavior as other close correlates. However, caution must be taken in assuming that problem use of alcohol among teens always reflects severe emotional problems, as many of these findings come from studies of deviant population groups.

Some kids use alcohol simply to test the limits of the adult world. Many consider drinking a part of the process of growing up. The drinking may even decrease with maturity and age. But problem drinking among teens should never be written off as a "passing phase of adolescence."

Studies suggest that teens view alcohol in much the same way as adults — they see it as a social stimulant and are more concerned about what it does for them than what it does to them. Few consider it an aid to coping with crises.

Most young people are introduced to alcohol at home and under parental supervision. They often experiment with beer or wine among friends as well. Depending on many other factors, including the incidence of alcoholism in the family, the youth may or may not become an alcohol abuser or alcoholic. Many youthful alcoholics are misdiagnosed as mentally ill, and are put under psychiatric treatment which not only fails to address the real problem, but can create serious complications if drugs are used in the psychiatric setting. There are several signs which can help a person to identify his or her own alcoholism. The key signs emphasize not the quantity or frequency of alcohol use, but rather the way it is used. These signs are:

1. Preoccupation with the use of alcohol
2. Rapid drinking
3. Drinking alone
4. Unplanned or uncontrolled use
5. Protecting or stockpiling the supply
6. Viewing alcohol as a cure-all
7. Increased tolerance
8. Black-outs
9. Repeated swearing-off or promises to cut down use

Parents, teachers or other concerned adults should look for isolation, interruption in communications, excessive use of eye drops, behavioral changes, sleeping habit changes, poor grades, habitual tardiness or absenteeism from school, failure to respond to discipline, mood swings, guiltiness and changes and/or drunkenness among the adolescent's friends, to help identify a drinking problem. Parents should also realize that often, there is a cross addiction to alcohol and other drugs such as marijuana and various other chemicals.

Normal, healthy adolescent behavior often offers surprises and disturbances to parents. However, alcoholism or alcohol abuse is not to be considered normal or healthy. Though not always a sign of deep-seated problems, it is always a sign of loss of control — it is always a cry for help. It is the responsibility of the parent to at least hear that cry.

[Editor's note: Northeast Guidance Center offers treatment to alcoholics and families of alcoholics regardless of age, at its Alcohol and Chemical Dependency Treatment Program. Call 824-8000, ext. 215 for further information.]

DIVORCE MEDIATION

by Marvin A. Yanke, M.A. gains more control of the divorce process

Northeast Guidance Center now offers Divorce Mediation, a new service which has emerged to help minimize the conflict and emotional pain which often accompany the traditional adversarial divorce process. Divorce Mediation emphasizes a healthy transition, which facilitates a more bright and positive future for all involved parties.

The adversarial process requires that the husband and wife each hire attorneys who compete against each other to see who "wins" in the divorce. Divorce Mediators work together with the couple, emphasizing cooperation rather than competition. Allowing the couple to be directly involved in making all settlements, agreements and decisions leads more to their willingness to accept and adhere to their agreements. Through the mediator, the couple and the family is apt to deal with this major transition more effectively. When all mutual agreements have been reached, a "Memorandum of Understanding" is taken to an attorney who obtains a legal divorce decree through the courts.

Divorce Mediation is not the answer for all divorcing couples. As in the traditional adversarial process, conflicts can arise. However, by maximizing cooperation and minimizing competition, by helping the couple to arrive at mutual agreements, and by emphasizing a "win-win" philosophy as opposed to the "win-lose" orientation inherent in the adversarial process of divorce, Divorce Mediation can help to lead into a brighter tomorrow by leaving all parties less bruised.

ALCOHOLISM

...America's No. 1 Drug Addiction

Alcohol is a part of almost every aspect of our daily routine: entertaining, religious, ceremonial and dining. Alcohol is socially acceptable. More than 90 percent of Michigan residents have used alcohol. One out of 10 of those users become alcoholic. The alcoholic loses control over his or her drinking. He is compelled to drink — the body demands it. He may drink daily, monthly only periodically but on those occasions that he drinks, he loses control. Alcohol affects the psychomotor system (muscular control center in the brain). When alcohol reaches the brain, it acts as a depressant and momentarily brings relief from tension created by psychomotor activity. The more the alcoholic drinks, the more relief, but when he quits drinking psychomotor activity builds to an even higher level and more alcohol is necessary to lower it. A vicious circle begins that soon reaches a point of no return, soon it's impossible to decrease the activity, no matter how much the alcoholic drinks.

Some important facts about alcoholism:

ALCOHOLISM IS A DISEASE. No one begins to drink with the intention of becoming an alcoholic. The disease is not the individual's fault, but recovery is his or her responsibility. ALCOHOLISM AND OTHER DRUG DEPENDENCIES AFFECT ALL RACES AND CLASSES OF PEOPLE. They affect people without regard to race, sex, age, social background or occupation. Over 50% of people with alcoholism have attended college, and are employed in professional positions. Less than 10% have major psychological problems. Alcoholism is their problem. ALCOHOLISM AND OTHER DRUG DEPENDENCIES ARE AMONG THE MOST DAMAGING AND NEGLECTED PROBLEMS IN AMERICA TODAY. Excessive drinking is a factor in over 50% of all highway fatalities and suicides, in over 60% of all major crimes, and in over 50% of all reported cases of domestic violence. In the work place, at least one in ten employees has some type of alcohol or drug dependence and 25% of their salary is being lost in absenteeism, health care costs, reduced productivity and increased turnover. American business loses $25-$40 billion each year because of alcoholism. The cost to the individual and family is priceless. ALCOHOLISM AND OTHER DRUG DEPENDENCIES ARE DISEASES CHARACTERIZED BY:

a. Excessive or compulsive use of alcohol, marijuana, tranquilizers, stimulants, pain medications...about one in ten people who use any of these will become dependent on them.

b. The inability to regulate or control their use.

c. Adverse affects on interpersonal relationships and the economic, physical and psychological well-being of the individual and family.

ALCOHOLISM IS A FAMILY DISEASE. Its symptoms are first noticed and felt by the family. Confusion, hopelessness and physical illness are common among family members. As the disease progresses, family stability, unity and security can be destroyed. THERE ARE AN ESTIMATED 25-30 MILLION CHILDREN OF ALCOHOLICS IN THE UNITED STATES. 12-15 million are currently living with alcohol or drug dependent parents. Without intervention, 40-50% of these children will become alcohol or drug dependent, marry someone who is, or as adults, have problems with trust, intimacy, expression of feeling and depression as a result of alcoholism in the family.

DENIAL AND RATIONALIZATION (BLAMING OTHER THINGS OR OTHER PEOPLE FOR ONE'S PROBLEMS) ARE A SYMPTOM OF ALCOHOLISM AND OTHER DRUG DEPENDENCIES. Alcohol or drug dependent individuals and their families, friends, and co-workers often do not want to see what they feel hopeless and powerless to change. ALCOHOLISM IS A TREATABLE ILLNESS. Although there is no known cure, recovery is possible and most treatment programs report recovery rates ranging from 50 to 80 percent.

SOMEONE YOU KNOW HAS ALCOHOLISM, IS CURRENTLY LIVING IN AN ALCOHOL OR DRUG DEPENDENT FAMILY, OR GREW UP IN ONE, YOU CAN HELP. Less than 15% of the people afflicted with this disease are receiving the help and proper treatment that is readily available. Learning more about alcoholism and other drug dependencies is one way we can all help.

ALCOHOL IS A DRUG. It does not matter whether the drug is consumed via beer, wine or liquor; it has the same effects. More ethyl alcohol is contained in a 12 ounce container of beer than in one ounce drink of 100 proof whiskey.

SOME PEOPLE ARE ESPECIALLY HIGH RISKS. If your parents are alcoholic, there is a 50% chance that you will be an alcoholic or that you will marry an alcoholic.

The most important fact is that alcoholism is treatable if arrested in time. If you would like to learn more about alcoholism, contact Northeast Guidance Center's Alcohol and Chemical Dependency Treatment Program at 824-8000, ext. 225.

Champagne Reception Fetes Gazette Patrons

Co-Editors JAYNE VALLEE and LISA VALLEE have presented this 13th annual supplement to the Grosse Pointe News. Its purpose is not only to raise funds, but to inform residents of the Grosse Pointes, Harper Woods, and northeast Detroit about programs and assistance available at Northeast Guidance Center. Insert, FLO KLIBER, back-page editor.

In their beautifully decorated home, PATRICIA (insert) and ROGER HERMANS graciously hosted a party for Patrons of the Guidance Gazette, and provided the first glance of its pages. Supervising arrangements for the press reception are JUDY Holden, Lisbeth Oates, Chairwoman, and Sue Grambo.

Polaroid Road Rally . . . Shining Party Idea

Two lively SUSANS . . . RITTER and LAUPPE, left, organized a most unusual evening in October. New and existing members piled into cars equipped with Polaroid cameras. They were given ten situations to shoot. First car back with all instructions completed, and picture-proof positive were winners. One instance called for a photo of the fullest market shopping cart. Originality won with shot of . . . not groceries . . . but with 6 people in the cart!

Lights Birthday Candles

On May 22, the Assistance League will celebrate its 20th birthday. We started as a group of 12 concerned women and have grown to a membership of nearly 200. We have raised well over $400,000 for the Northeast Guidance Center through the selfless efforts of our hard-working and dedicated volunteers. Some of our members don't mind at all being in the limelight — others remain as silent heroes. Whatever differences we have in personality or appearance, our membership shares at least one common trait — spirit. We accomplish our goals because we believe in the Assistance League and in Northeast Guidance Center, and because we have such a fine group of conscientious, caring women. Happy birthday Assistance League.

—Sharon Vasher, Assistance League President

Auto Show Previews on Star-Shined Charity Night

Northeast Guidance Center was one of the four designated recipients of the Detroit Auto Show Preview Night at Cobo Hall in January. All proceeds of tickets sold in its name directly benefit the community mental health center. George and Mary Shammah (far right and far left) were honorary chairmen for the formal black-tie evening. Marge and John Tyrer (second and third left) hosted an Afterglow Buffet in their home. Alice Bernhardt (second from right) was general chairwoman of this profitable event.

Sunny Scene for "Art on the Pointe" at Ford Estate

JANE POOLEY and LINDA SHAALAN, general co-chairwomen have planned for a spectacular outdoor Art and Craft Show, "Art On The Pointe," the first of its kind. The Eleanor and Edsel Ford Estate, all 90 acres, is the glorious setting for juried exhibits with international entrants. DuMochele will conduct an auction. Wine and cheese will be served on the terrace overlooking Lake St. Clair, and music will fill the air. Their committees are busy with details of this artistic festival to be held on June 17 and 18. Watch for information and promotion to come.

Say Volunteer . . . You're in good company

George Bernard Shaw wrote of the essence of volunteerism. Fran Pastoria, Assistance League Past President and "tough love" expert, relates, "This is one of my favorite quotations which truly speaks to me of the giving of oneself for community." Quoting from the great GBS, "This is the true joy of life, the being used for a purpose recognized by yourself as a mighty one. The being a force of nature instead of a feverish, selfish little clod of ailments and grievances complaining that the world will not devote itself to making you happy. I am of the opinion that my life belongs to the community, and as long as I live it is my privilege to do for it whatever I can. I want to be thoroughly used up when I die, for the harder I work the more I live. I rejoice in life for its own sake. Life is no brief candle to me. It is a sort of splendid torch which I've got to hold up for the moment, and I want to make it burn as brightly as possible before handing it on to future generations."

"The Sunshine Of Your Life" may come at your local mental health center when you've finally decided "... I need HELP!"

"Come Rain or Come Shine" Assistance League is ever striving to raise funds and give direct service to Northeast Guidance Center. In these days of tight budgets and unemployment in our area, the need for funds for mental health is greater than ever. Ironically, when times are bad, stress increases, funding decreases, but the warmth and reassurance of counseling is in greater demand. Support your community mental health agency, Northeast Guidance Center. Join the Assistance League. Call 824-8000 for information.

Wouldn't it feel good to hear someone say, "You Are The Sunshine Of My Life?" Assistance League provides the opportunity for women and men of all ages to volunteer time and talents working at the Center, to be an advocate for mental and emotional health. What a wonderful feeling . . . to give even one person . . . peace of mind! There is a place for your expertise and interest in mental health. Telephone 824-8000 to turn on the Sun for yourself and for someone else.

Sharyn Mannino and Marilyn Stedem organized a great kick-off "Supper With Santa" party. Dwayne X. Riley and wife Sharon (of WDIV-TV) joined the group for cocktails and dinner at the Hunt Club.

Ellen Cooke and Sandra Seale, General Co-Chairwomen for Santa Haus, handled a monumental task coordinating the many facets, activities and committees. Fruits of their labor were a very successful venture, and mostly the delighted faces of the children.

Santa Haus

on the grounds of the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club was a three week event that required hundreds of hours from at least half a hundred volunteers. Members of the Assistance League, their spouses and family generously devoted themselves to bring the spirit of Christmas to the community. Busloads of preschool, nursery and elementary school children roamed through the playroom of Raggedy Ann and Andy. They visited the enchanted forest, saw Santa's Workshop and finally had juice and cookies with Mr. & Mrs. Santa Claus. There was a Boutique for grown-ups and a Shop for Children.

Lorraine and Lester Deck were Chairmen of the Santa Committee! They had to see to it that Santa and Mrs. Claus were on duty when the youngsters appeared.
