Rabbit reward

Looks like they've got a bit of a mystery at Cottage Hospital this week, according to Public Relations Director Kathy Maslanka.

It seems some artistic students from a local elementary school dropped off about a dozen two-foot high rabbits to cheer up the hospital's patients, but the hospital never did catch the name of the school.

The beautiful bunnies are currently cheering up the walls and rooms of the hospice department and Hospice Volunteer Co-ordinator Julia Arango would like to thank the students for their thoughtful gesture.

So if there's an elementary school out there that feels it deserves a pat on the back, please give Cottage a call.

Not so trivial

Hey, like to spend a free week in Hawaii? While you're at it, how would you like to help the Youth Scholarship Fund of the Children's Aid Society?

You can do both by entering and winning the Marathon Trivial Pursuit Tournament and party at the Detroit Westin Hotel scheduled for Saturday, April 14, from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. in the hotel's Renaissance Ballroom. The contest is sponsored by the Westin and COZY-FM 95.5.

Tournament entry is $30 and is limited to the first 400 two-person teams. Tickets are available in the lobby of the Westin Hotel; all Renaissance Center World of Shops outlets; all tri-county area branches of First Federal of Michigan and at COZY-FM studios at 10 Mile and Greenfield.

There will also be a Trivial Pursuit Party from 8 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. in the ballroom during the last two rounds of the tournament. Admission for the party is $1 for non-tournament players.

COZY's personalities Dick Purtan, Mark Andrews, Gene Taylor, Colleen Burcar and Ann Porter will award trivial gag gifts during the party while three tables of Detroit-area media personalities will match prowess in the foyer of the ballroom.

Grand prize winners will be announced before midnight and will receive seven days and six nights for two at the Westin Ilikai in Honolulu. That also includes the airline tickets to the islands.

The runner-up prize is a weekend for two for three days and two nights at the Westin in Toronto, with two round-trip Canadian National ViaRail tickets.

The six remaining semi-finalists will receive dinner for two at LaFontaine and one night's accommodations in a suite at the Westin at the Renaissance Center in Detroit.

If you win the trip to Hawaii, would you please bring me back a pineapple?

Flower power

Thanks and a tip of the hat to the Michael Brady family, of Hawthorne Road, for this next story.

It seems the Bradys have literally fallen in love with their garbageman. He's only known to them as "Rick," the guy who drives one of those Cushman dumpsters that picks up their trash every week. Only Rick does it with a little flair. According to the Bradys, he decorates his cart in honor of the season. Over Christmas he hung brightly colored bulbs

Stage set for fight to control schools

By Susan McDonald

The stage has been set for an early summer battle to control the Grosse Pointe Board of Education and the 15 schools, $34 million annual budget and 7,500 students under its direction.

On one side is a band of citizens joined by a single event, the closing of Barnes Elementary School. They filed petitions last week for the recall of three trustees and are promoting two school closing foes for election on the regular June ballot.

On the other side are the recall targets, Jon Gandelot, Catherine Brierly and Ernest Buechler, who agree they will fight to retain their seats, and a group called CARE (Citizens Against Recall Effort) which will work with them. And there's Joan Hanpeter, the incumbent school board president, who declared Monday that she will be "a vigorous and enthusiastic candidate for re-election" in June.

Voters will pick two of five candidates on June 11 for four year terms on the seven-member school board. County election workers are racing against the calendar to verify petition signatures in an attempt to put three recall questions on that ballot, as well.

Candidates in the regular election, in addition to Mrs. Hanpeter, are Roger Mourad, the only board member who voted against the plan to close Barnes Elementary School; William Brownscombe, the chairman of the Committee for Neighborhood Elementary Schools which worked against the closing plan; Fred W. Adams, a retired American Motors and federal government worker who could not be reached for comment; and Robert Allen Radnick, an assistant Wayne County prosecutor who also opposes the closing of Barnes.

Mrs. Hanpeter, of the Park, launched the campaign for her fourth term on the board April 9 by saying recent events have "cast a dark and disturbing shadow across the district."

"The resignation (last week) of Supt. Kenneth Brummel and threatened recall of three of my fellow board members" forced her to reconsider an earlier decision not seek re-election, she said. Those events have brought the schools to "one of the most crucial positions in our history."

"In order to progress toward academic goals and to attract a highly qualified new superintendent, we need a period of stability, a spirit of working together, experienced leaders... harmony and not discord," Mrs. Hanpeter said.

Mourad, of the Shores, was the first candidate to throw his hat into the ring. He said in an earlier interview that he would run for a second term of office to continue fighting plans to close Barnes school next fall.

Since the Nov. 14 vote to close the school, Mourad has had steady support from the closing foes who have jammed school board meetings. He said he's counting on that support to win him re-election June 11. "The issue," he said "is are we going to retain the historic neighborhood elementary school character of this community?"

Brownscombe, of the City, was the first person to formally file for the election. His Committee for Neighborhood Elementary Schools has been active since last summer, attending school board meetings in mass to protest the plans to close elementary buildings. He also helped organize a petition drive designed to prove his group has support from the community.

And he has been active as a block worker in the campaign to recall three trustees.

Brownscombe said in an earlier interview that he hopes the board's decision on Barnes can be reversed, if his group manages to win control of the board.

Radnick, of the Woods, is an assistant Wayne County prosecutor who has previously sought election as judge in Recorder's Court and Common Pleas Court. He said he has never attended a meeting of the Grosse Pointe Board of Education but was involved in the Bishop Gallagher school board as a representative of his parish.

Radnick said he opposes the closing of Barnes school and that he signed recall petitions for three trustees who supported it. But, he added, he is not comfortable with the recall because "I don't like the idea of picking out an individual person."

Radnick said he moved to the Pointe two years ago from Detroit's east side.

Adams, of the City, is a retired executive who worked with Packard Motor Car, American Motors

A season of change

By Susan McDonald

This could be a season of great change in Grosse Pointe's public schools. Consider the following:

•A search began last week for the fourth superintendent to serve in the last 10 years. Dr. Kenneth Brummel, who will leave July 1, became the third consecutive superintendent to resign before he spent five years in Grosse Pointe. All three were considered prominent educators who came from other communities after nationwide searches to serve in the position that last year paid $54,000.

•The system's seven-member Board of Education could have five new members by late summer. The effort to recall three trustees is successful and both incumbents running in the June election are ousted.

Petitions calling for an election to remove Jon Gandelot, Catherine Brierly and Ernest Buechler were filed April 6 with the county election commission. Three separate recall questions will likely be placed on the June ballot if enough signatures are certified by the commission.

•Almost 20 percent of the administrative staff—including two key central office department heads and three building principals—will retire in June. In addition, 30 teachers will retire under a special bonus offer included in their last contract with the school board.

•The school system will close its first building next fall since its enrollment decline began 10 years ago. In addition, middle schools are gearing up curriculum and staff to handle the influx of some 450 sixth graders, whose transfer to middle school was also part of Supt. Brummel's plan to reorganize the system. The plan was approved in November.

High school staffs are gearing up, also, to implement new, tougher graduation requirements and a seven period day, also proposed by Brummel. At the elementary level administrators are studying proposed pre-school programs and all-day kindergartens.

"It's an awful lot of things coming real fast," said William Huettnerman, an attorney who served on the school board from 1971-1978 who still writes about the system in a monthly newspaper column.

"It's going to be a very crucial period for the schools," he said. "There has always been change, but it has come slowly, with a lot of thought."

"If I were on the school board right now, I'd have to start asking myself, 'do I really want to do all this?' But I guess there's not much they can do to stop it; all the events have been set in place."

But one top administrator who's watched several changes in administration over the years doesn't see much to worry about.

"School's going to keep just fine," he said. "So twenty percent of the administrative staff retires. Eighty percent will stay."

Valium stops coping process, study says

By Harriet Nolan

A recent government-financed study concluded in part that 71 percent of long-term users of Valium were 50 years of age or older, 59 percent tended to suffer high levels of emotional distress, while 75 percent had chronic physical and basic health problems.

These findings, conducted at the Institute for Research in Social Behavior in Oakland, Calif., the University of Chicago and the National Institute of Mental Health in Rockville, Md., were published in the January issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

They are also similar to the random study done a few years ago by the Michigan Mental Health and Aging Advisory Group. This group is now chaired by Jonathon York, Ph.D., executive director of Northeast Guidance Center.

York says that if nothing else could be done for the elderly, using drugs would be OK. But since they can be helped, often the long-term use of drugs keeps people from dealing with their problems.

"Drugs are sometimes appropriate in the short run. But, studies have shown when older people do seek professional help, such as counseling, they have a good success rate," he adds.

York says "society in general discards the elderly when they should be getting the best treatment available." He put the blame equally on physicians and mental health professionals.

"Many physicians haven't necessarily studied or learned about the specific drug prescribing pattern," says York. "You have to use psychoactive drugs differently with the elderly. Their physiology and metabolism absorb it differently."

"The side effects can be very different," he says.

How sweet it is

It may look like chocolate, but that's really the bright shine of success these three gentlemen are holding in their hands. Dan Hughes, (far left), Jay Hunter, (center) Tom Matthews plus a missing Lisa Howenstain make up a four-person Grosse Pointe team that conceived, created and marketed the latest hit on the candy scene — "Financial Crunch."

Just call them . . .

The 'Financial Crunch' bunch

By Tom Greenwood

Nearly everyone who's ever earned a dollar tries to avoid a financial crunch. However, for four Grosse Pointers with drive and imagination, the words "Financial Crunch" have the sweet taste of success.

"Financial Crunch," a box of exclusive, expensive chocolate candies shaped like gold coins with a bite taken out, is the brainchild of Pointers Jay Hunter, 26, Tom Matthews, 25 and Lisa Howenstain, 22.

Another Grosse Pointer, and friend, is Dan Hughes, 33, who supplied the design concept for the "Financial Crunch" candy box.

"Well, we're just basically all old friends who happened to be vacationing together at Pointe Aux Barques up north on Memorial Day, 1982," said Jay, an architect for Smith, Hinchman and Grylls. "We were stretched out on the lawn when we noticed someone nearby was building a home. Somebody said the builder wasn't feeling a 'financial crunch.' Then Lisa, who's a model with the Eileen Ford Agency in New York, said she was going to market a cereal called 'Financial Crunch.' From then on out, it was just a play on words."

That 'play on words' soon became ideas on paper as the three decided the world could use another candy, only this one would be coin shaped and similar to a Nestle's Crunch bar.

"It took us six months to come up with the right idea and packaging plans," said Jay. "Then we really had to get started. The way I did it was through the Yellow Pages. I simply started looking up candy makers and started giving them a call about our idea."

"Most of them said we were nuts and let it go at that. Then we called 'Henry K Chocolates' and they liked the idea. Then the hard work really began."

First the group had to decide on a chocolate. Milk chocolate is the most popular in the U.S. with the exception of the east coast, where dark chocolate is a winner. So they settled on a dark, milk chocolate for a broader appeal. Then they had to design a box. As fate would have it, they ended up working with another Grosse Pointer, Bob Wachter, of the Eastern Box Co.

"I almost fell over when I found out he lived on the same street as my parents," said Jay. "He lived there, my parents lived there, Dan Hughes lives there and I used to live there. Talk about an all Grosse Pointe venture!"

Even though events were falling into place, the pace was still "excruciatingly slow," according to Hunter. Each of the designers could only work part time on the candy coins because of their families and full time jobs.

It all finally came together in November, 1983, when "Financial Crunch" entered the market on the tail end of the Christmas season. "We each chipped in $1,000," said Hunter. "We figured if we took a bath that small amount wouldn't really kill us. That paid for a minimum order of 1,500 boxes, but only for enough candy to fill 500 of them."

"We did all the 'bush beating' ourselves," added Hunter. "We each called on stores to get them interested. We were well received in Grosse Pointe and Detroit. We got a big order from Jacobson's and the Persnickity Peddler. They sent us on our way."

In one week "Financial Crunch" broke even for its investors. In two weeks they had sold out their entire stock of 1,500 boxes, then had to wait another three weeks before newly ordered containers were delivered.

"It killed us to wait for those boxes," laughed Hunter. "But we had to play it safe since we didn't know if we would be a hit or not."

And they are a "hit" indeed. So far sales have grossed more than $40,000, according to Hunter, who says "Financial Crunch" isn't a

Playground decision due soon

This seldom-used playground at Richard School will be the subject of debate at an upcoming school board meeting at 8 p.m. Monday night, April 16, at Trombly School. At that time, the board will decide whether or not to lease the property over to the Farms for a 74 space parking lot designed to ease the crowded parking conditions on the lower end of the Hill. In exchange for the lease, the Farms will turn over $50,000 in Community Development Block Grant funds for improvements to two other playgrounds at the school that fronts Ridge Road. A story is on page 3A.

threat to the Mars Candy Company — yet. The candy is now selling well in New York, Chicago, Detroit, Grosse Pointe and "lots of other stores in smaller cities."

"It's most sold by word of mouth now," said Jay. "We talk about it, our friends, family and so on. We've also received three books of letters from people across the country who tried it or heard about it. They come from the oddest places."

The "candy kings" have also had a few promotional ideas of their own, sending samples off to Malcolm Forbes of "Forbes Magazine" and to Lee Iacocca. They also hope to get President Reagan to give their candy a trial run.

In addition, they received an incredible boost from "Money" magazine, which bought 40 cases of "Financial Crunch" to give to customers as a promotional device.

Easter play is an 'experience'

The "Easter Experience," an hour long modern, musical passion play based in part on the Dallas Holm's musical, "His Last Days," will be presented next week at St. Joan of Arc Church.

Combined with the cast of characters and live music are special visual effects which bring a personal touch to each person in the audience.

Many Grosse Pointers, who range in age from 4 to 75 are involved in this year's production. Among them are Bob Neveaux (portraying Christ), Rosemary Hage (portraying the Virgin Mary), Brian DeFour, Rick Berschback, Pat Arsenaault, Ralph DeFour, Bud DesGrandchamp, Tom Jacob, Wayne DeFour (all portraying Apostles), Chris Kirouak, the Jara family, Denise Spurlock and Judy Preston.

More are Janice Reising, Terri Militello, Bob Preston, Helen Baron, Julia Rago, Frank Neuhaus, John Kiernan, Greg Preston, Mike Iannace, Paul Kikorski, Ted Krolkowski, Jim Plath, Shirley Wojcik, Helen Adams, Sue Plath, Beverly Gail, Carol Grey, Marie Matyn, Mike Quillen and Maureen Neuhaus (whose idea the "Experience" originally was).

There are two performances — at 8 p.m. on Sunday, April 8, and at 8 p.m. on Sunday, April 15. There is no charge, but a donation of one can of food for the poor is requested.

St. Joan of Arc Church is located at 21620 Mack Avenue, between 8 and 9 Mile Roads.

"That's originally what we had in mind for the candy," said Hunter. "Basically it's a gift idea for bankers, stockbrokers and the like. The candy, which retails for $9.95 for half a pound of chocolate, is really more of a gift than a candy bar you might grab and eat off a shelf."

The candy coinage and its creators are also the subject of a story in this week's issue of People magazine. "It's the one with John DeLorean on the cover," said Jay. "We're hoping the magazine will really help spread the word around about our Financial Crunch."

One of "Financial Crunch's" biggest boosters was Jay's boss, Phil Meathe, at Smith, Hinchman and Grylls. In fact, he bought the first case of candy.

"He's been most encouraging," added Hunter. "He thought it would be very educational for me. I've also sold about a ton of it here at the office. He's been a great help."

"Sweet Assets, Inc.," the company name, hopes to really take off with "Financial Crunch" this Christmas season. Right now, it looks like their market is getting bigger and bigger.

"We hope to really expand into other parts of the country then," smiled Jay. "Right now we can't ship everywhere because with warm weather coming on we'd end up with chocolate soup. But this holiday season will be easier. We've even become computerized to help us with shipping."

A little success can go a long way. According to Hunter, the candy creators now have another idea on line, something completely different than a candy-crunching cash crisis.

"We're going to talk it over this weekend," said Hunter. "I can't tell you now what it is, but we think it'll be as popular as 'Financial Crunch.'"

Richard parking lot vote Monday

By Tom Greenwood

A group of about 30 parents attended a PTO meeting at Richard School last Thursday evening to hear a presentation from Farms officials concerning the possible conversion of a Richard School playground fronting Kercheval Avenue into a parking lot to serve the lower Hill area.

Appearing before the group were Farms Councilman Nancy Waugaman, City Clerk Richard Solak and Farms Chief of Police Robert K. Ferber. Also present as observers were Farms Mayor Pro Tem Joseph Fromm, Bruce Rockwell, Gail Kaess and Grosse Pointe Board of Education President Joan Hanpeter.

Mrs. Hanpeter told the group that the school board hadn't taken any action on the matter "so far."

"I'm here as a member of the school board to hear what you have to say," said Mrs. Hanpeter. "We're interested in being good neighbors to the Hill merchants, who are taxpayers, and we would like to help the city and upgrade the recreational facilities for the children."

"However, we would like you to know we're not pushing this item," continued Mrs. Hanpeter. "If you don't like it, so be it. It's not one of the board's top priorities. I'm just here to observe."

Using an architectural sketch, Richard School Principal Dr. Claire Basco addressed the parents about the tentative plans between the school and the city, explaining that the school would receive $50,000 from the Farms for improvements to the school's Ridge Road playground and Messner Field in exchange for a 20 year lease to the city.

The Kercheval Avenue playground would be converted to a 74 space, single level parking lot that would serve the library, lower Hill area and the Punch and Judy Theater.

"We currently have three playgrounds at Richard, but because of our declining enrollment we can't utilize and maintain all three," said Dr. Basco. She added that the Kercheval Avenue playground wasn't used because its hard, broken surface presented a danger to children playing there.

She did acknowledge that the area was sometimes used by older students for ball playing, and that the handballs used by the athletes did $3,700 in damages to the school's slate roof last year.

The $50,000 to be provided by the city would come from Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds and would be used to upgrade the playground directly behind Richard School and also develop Messner Field, located next to the school.

Other improvements would include the enlargement of the school's current parking lot, adding an additional 15 parking spaces for staff, visitors and deliveries.

Councilman Waugaman gave a brief history of the studies initiated by the city concerning the Hill business district, telling the parents that all studies showed a definite need for more parking in the lower Hill area.

The studies showed a deficit of 120 parking spaces for the upper Hill area and the need for more in the lower Hill area for the library, Punch and Judy and lower business district, she said.

"There is a definite need for additional parking," said Mrs. Waugaman. "The parking deck proposed by Cottage will help the upper Hill, and this lot would help the lower. This isn't a last minute idea," she continued. "This idea has been well researched and on the drawing boards a long time."

In a follow up question and answer period it was learned that the tentative lot would have a single entrance and exit from Kercheval and would consist of 74 spaces around a landscaped traffic island. Many parents were surprised to learn that if the lease agreement is reached, the landscaping and improvements to the playgrounds must be finished by June 30 of this year to qualify for the CDBG funds.

"That's according to federal guidelines," said Farms City Clerk Richard Solak, who briefly explained the intricacies of obtaining federal funds. "The upgrading of the field has to be done by then, not the completion of the parking lot," he added. "We can let the bids out this month if the school board gives us the go ahead."

One parent asked why a portion of South High School athletic field, situated directly across from the Kercheval Avenue playground, couldn't be used for the parking lot? She was told by Ben Zenn, director of Support Services for the board, that South didn't have enough room for all its activities now and wasn't able to give up any of its space.

"It's just not feasible," said Zenn. "We only have 22 acres at South. For a school with that enrollment, they should really have 35 to 50 acres for such activities such as track, football, soccer and the like. It's too crowded there now as it is. It's just not reasonable."

Another parent asked why Richard didn't try to repair the Kercheval playground and turn it into something for the children "could really enjoy." Tina Pappas, president of the Richard PTO said it had been researched, but that the cost of ripping up and replacing the present broken surface of the playground was just too expensive.

"A few years ago the PTO had $4,000 for improvements, but we found out it was just a drop in the bucket compared to what was needed to complete the job," she said. "So we spent the money on Messner Field instead."

"Additional parking alone won't solve the problems of the Hill," summed up Mrs. Waugaman, "we also need a mixture of good retail and service businesses to turn things around. But this parking lot will help a great deal."

The playground parking lot issue will be on the agenda at the school board's next meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday, April 16, at Trombly School.

Woods picks new assessor

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Woods comptroller-assessor Frederick Hornfisher officially retired April 2 and the city council appointed John J. Soleski as his successor as chief financial officer for the city.

Hornfisher, 66, announced his retirement last November, ending almost 20 years of service to the city. He came to the Woods in 1964 as comptroller and became assessor three years later. At the time he announced his retirement, Hornfisher also helped manage the city's pension fund.

Since the first of the year, Hornfisher has worked on a month-to-month contract with the city. Hornfisher said he plans to stay in the Woods as well as do some part time work.

Soleski, 31, had worked as Sterling Heights deputy comptroller. Hornfisher was given a plaque honoring his service.

"We certainly appreciate the service you have given to the city... and commend you for the work you've done... representing our city council and commission representatives," Mayor George Freeman said.

A resolution, which Freeman read, expressed thanks to Hornfisher for his "outstanding job and conscientious service."

"During (his) tenure, the city... has continuously received from the Municipal Finance Officers Association of the United States and Canada a certificate for conformance in financial reporting which is deemed one of the highest honors in the field of government accounting," the resolution said.

Councilman Robert Novitke, who chaired the selection committee, said the group reviewed 26 applications, interviewed six candidates and re-interviewed two more before settling on Soleski. Committee members Novitke,

Freeman and John Sabol, who was absent from Monday night's meeting, were aided in the screening by the city auditing firm of Coopers & Lybrand as well as by Hornfisher and City Administrator-Clerk Chester Petersen.

While none of the candidates had the experience in assessing that the city was looking for, Soleski impressed the committee with his experience, appearance and communication skills, Novitke said.

Soleski will begin with a $34,000 yearly salary and will not receive cost-of-living increases or compensatory time pay, according to city officials. He will also be expected to relocate to the Woods as required to the city charter.

Soleski, who is single, is a graduate of Cornell University and at Walsh Business College. He will have three years to complete the necessary education for an assessor, Novitke said.

Doris Lessing in perspective

The Center for Jung Studies will sponsor a presentation titled "The Myths and Metaphors of Doris Lessing: A Personal Perspective" on Sunday, April 15, from 2 to 4 p.m. in Miller Hall, Christ Church, 61 Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

Three friends, Chris Hillman, Nancy Pizner-Dougherty and Karen Schrek, will discuss how the myths and metaphors in the works of writer Doris Lessing have touched their lives. They will respond to Ms. Lessing's use of shadow, problems masculine and feminine, and the religious quest, which recently has become manifest in her interest in Sufism.

The program will include music and selected readings from "The Marriages between Zones 3, 4 and 5." This presentation is a sampler and may serve as an introduction to Ms. Lessing's work.

The meeting is open to the public. Admission is $3 for non-members. For more information, call 885-8792.

Valium users avoid coping, according to study

parent and can include high blood pressure and dizziness. Some make people confused and look or act like they have Alzheimer's disease," he adds.

Also of concern, according to York, is the attitude of the older person. Many don't want to confront their problems. He says Northeast Guidance does a lot of counseling and assessments and makes families aware they can get help for their parents by other ways than taking drugs.

He also notes that professional mental health providers may not be sensitive to the older persons needs or have the ability to work with them. Also, some professionals don't make their treatment resources known to physicians.

"We have a whole unit addressing itself to the older adults mental health and substance abuse problems," says York.

Dan Guyer, M.D., a psychiatrist associated with Cottage Hospital says often complaints of being upset, having difficulty sleeping and other problems and emotional frustrations are met with a prescription for Valium.

"I speculate that most of these medications prescribed to this older age group come from family doctors and general practice interns, not psychiatrists, says Guyer. "We need to step back before we prescribe and look at the broader picture and see what may be causing the patient to have these symptoms," he adds.

He says, often problems are the manifestation of underlying stress due to the aging process, the death of a spouse or retirement. As a result, physicians have to listen to the patient and sometimes use other medications, such as an anti-depressant.

"Often a patient will say that a doctor has given them an anti-depressant when it's a tranquilizer," says Guyer.

"While Valium can be beneficial, as with all prescribed drugs it should be given with caution and a certain degree of reluctance," he adds.

Theodore Wizenberg, M.D., a Harper Woods physician, also says he wouldn't be surprised at those findings because older people tend to be put on more medication and many have a high level of anxiety because they live alone or are worried about their health.

"I'm not saying that it's a good idea, but it's much easier to prescribe a drug for certain symptoms than to sit down and explain what those symptoms mean and reassure people," says Wizenberg.

Missionaries will visit area

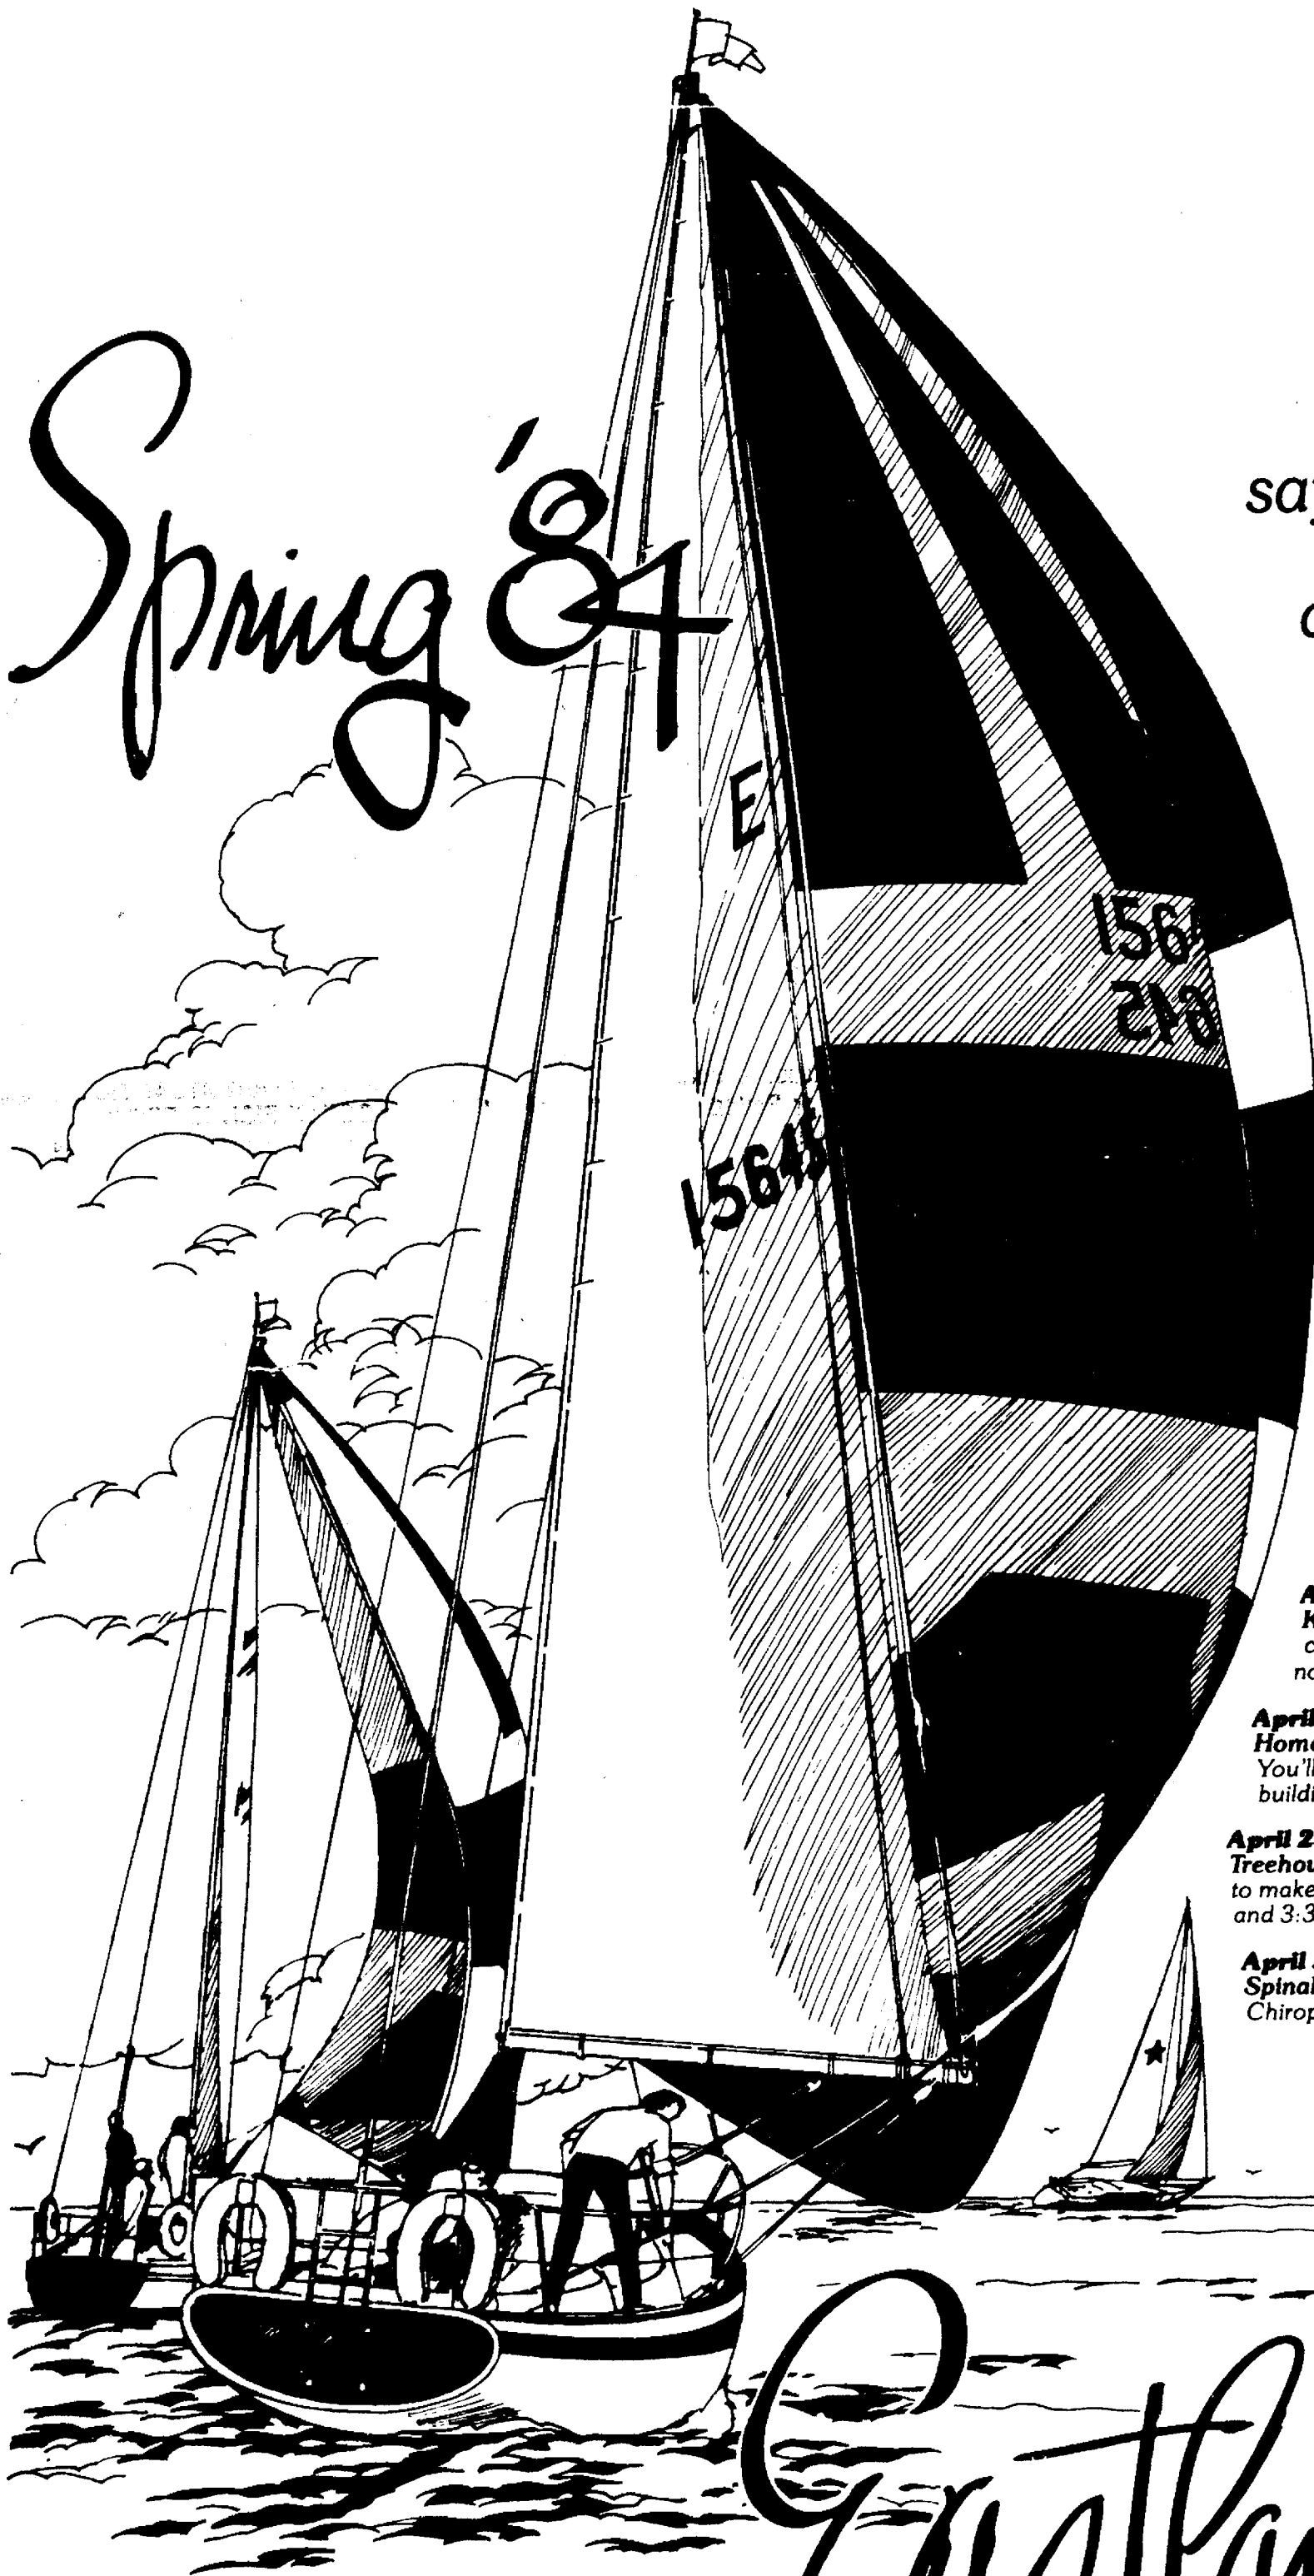

Two Lutheran missionaries from Panama will visit St. James Lutheran Church Sunday, April 15. In addition to preaching at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services, the two will present a workshop titled "Focus on Central America: Faith, Fact, Response" from 3 to 7 p.m. in the Fellowship hall.

The public is invited to the workshop at the church, 170 McMillan Road in the Farms.

The Rev. Kenneth Mahler, a native of North Dakota, has served as a missionary to Panama since 1962. He is the bishop of the Lutheran diocese of Costa Rica and Panama. The Rev. Ernesto Weigandt, a native of Argentina, is missionary to the peasant farmers of the Cocle province of Panama. His seven years of pastoral work includes such projects as irrigation system building and the formation of a farming cooperative.

The visit by Mahler and Weigandt is part of a 12-day tour sponsored by the Greater Detroit Conference of the English Synod of the Lutheran Church. During their visit, they will also be received at area Lutheran churches as well as speaking to the Grosse Pointe Ministerial Association Thursday, April 12, at its noon luncheon.

Rep. Bryant says he'll seek eighth term

By Mike Andrzejczyk
William R. Bryant, Jr., R-Grosse Pointe Farms, said last week he will seek re-election to the state legislature seat he has held for 14 years.

A Princeton graduate who holds a law degree from the University of Michigan, Bryant, 45, is House Minority Leader Emeritus serving his seventh term in the House. Bryant's office is one of more than 30 that will be contested in at least four elections to be held this year. Offices to be filled in the coming months include the Presidency, U.S. senator, two U.S. representatives, two state representatives and three state Supreme Court justices. Four Shores trustee and a village clerk will be elected as well as seven county officials and 10 Lake and Grosse Pointe township officers.

Riley and the appointment of Patricia Boyle, a Democrat, to the Supreme Court.

This year, seven county officials have terms expiring. Facing re-election are county clerk James Killeen, drain commissioner Charles Youngblood, prosecutor John O'Hair, register of deeds Forest Youngblood, sheriff Robert Ficano, treasurer Raymond Wojtowicz and First District commissioner John Hertel. Hertel said earlier this year he will seek re-election to the 15-member board.

Grosse Pointe Shores is the only municipality electing councilmen this year. Facing re-election are president Gerald Schroeder and trustees Patricia Galvin, Edmund Brady, Jr. and C. Bradford Lundy, Jr. The village will also elect a clerk.

James Wright took the oath of office last month as the new village clerk, replacing John R. Nicholson who resigned in February after moving from the Shores.

Wright, 57, was appointed to the village planning commission in 1962 and has served as chairman since 1976. A village resident for more than 25 years, Wright has also served on the village Board of Review since 1976. He is vice-president and chief engineer of Carlson, Dimond & Wright, Inc. of Warren.

Also to be elected in November are 10 officers from the two townships that, with the village compose the area known as Grosse Pointe Shores. Supervisors, clerks, treasurers and two trustees for each of the two townships will be elected to serve four-year terms.

Abortion stance changes

Statistics that show that more than half the abortions performed in the state are now funded through Medicaid "shocked the hell out of me," William R. Bryant, R-Grosse Pointe Farms, said. And, for the first time since the matter first came before the Legislature a decade ago, the seven-term house Minority Leader Emeritus voted to override Gov. James Blanchard's veto of a measure banning Medicaid funding for abortions earlier this month.

Although a harsh critic of times of the Blanchard administration, Bryant said his vote had nothing to do with politics. "It's very clear that I opposed Milliken in some things and I have supported Blanchard in some things..." he said. "I wouldn't treat something like this in a political way."

Bryant said he is comfortable with his middle-of-the-road position on abortion. He added there is a difference between voting for a bill cutting off Medicaid funding and the override of that veto.

"If the governor has a substantive reason for a veto, then there's no reason to vote for the override," he said. "When I first came to the Legislature, I opposed the bill to ban Medicaid abortions." Then a couple years later, studies showed that the number of people receiving two and three Medicaid abortions was increasing "and I said 'abortion is not birth control' and voted for the cut-off."

Although he said there was "nothing magic about the 50 percent mark," finding out that Medicaid paid for more than half the abortions in the state "really bothered me," Bryant said.

"The reason that I had before for voting against the override was both Governor Milliken and Blanchard had valid reasons for vetoing the bill," Bryant said. "It really threw me that... more than half the abortions in the state are now paid for by the state."

The reasons both Milliken and Blanchard gave in the past for vetoing the Medicaid funding ban was discrimination against the poor, Bryant said. The argument has now been raised that funding discriminates against the poor by making it easier to have the abortion, he added.

Since then, he was voted to cut the funding for abortions but has supported the veto of the governor, he added.

Despite efforts by both sides to lobby votes, Bryant said he kept his own counsel. "I really didn't make up my mind until close to the vote," he said.

Opinions & letters

The changing of the guard

Gentleman that he is, Dr. Kenneth Brummel says it was not any disappointment with Grosse Pointe but instead the opportunity to advance his career that persuaded him to accept an offer to become superintendent of the Orange Unified School District of California. But certainly the controversy that arose over the reorganization of the Grosse Pointe school system, and especially the proposals to close one or more school buildings, must have been among the factors he considered in making the decision to move.

So now in addition to the other problems facing the school district, there will be a search for a new superintendent. Fortunately, despite the reorganization controversy, the system has maintained its fine reputation and so there ought to be a first-rate field of candidates applying for the job that paid $54,000 last year, plus such important additional benefits as a house and utility services.

YET AS THE BOARD begins its search, it is in a rather unusual situation with three members facing recall and two others up for re-election. That means there could be as many as five new faces on the seven-member board by mid-summer. But despite this possibility, the search for a new superintendent must start immediately because Dr. Brummel plans to leave July 1.

With the school election scheduled for June 11 and the recall vote on the same date (although it now appears it could be later) and then with another vote necessary if the recall is successful, there could be as much uncertainty about the board membership until mid-summer as there will be about the identity of a new superintendent.

It would be difficult to maintain continuity under such circumstances even in the best of times. For the schools, this already is an era of change. Almost 20 percent of the administrative staff and 30 teachers will retire in June either on the regular schedule or under a special bonus offer that was part of the teachers contract with the school board. And new, tougher graduation requirements and the seven-day period also will go into effect this coming school year.

Most divisive, however, is the closing issue which has chiefly been aroused by young parents fearful of any change that would affect their children's schools or their investment in their homes. The foes of closing proposals seek to widen the debate to include other issues but certainly those cited above are basic to their thinking.

Whatever the arguments on the closing matter, it is going to be a central issue in the school elections in June. We suggest that it ought not to be the only issue and that candidates should be weighed on the basis of their overall qualifications, their past performance and their proven interest in maintaining the excellence of the Grosse Pointe system. Unfortunately, it appears likely both the election and the recall election, if it is authorized, will be one-issue votes.

That same issue will tend to be influential, too, in the selection of a new superintendent, regardless of whether the board is controlled by those who favor reorganization or those who prefer no school closings or some other form of reorganization. That conclusion is based more on the history of the reorganization controversy than any discussion with candidates and potential candidates but still can be justified.

THIS NEWSPAPER IS SORRY to see Dr. Brummel leave. Overall, we think he has been a first-rate administrator and he has also worked hard to inform the public and the press about what is happening in the schools. His "Branches with Brummel" helped people get better acquainted with him when he first came, and he tried to explain his controversial proposals for school closings as reorganization plans that would maintain and even improve the excellence of education in the Grosse Pointe schools. Unfortunately, critics often zeroed in on the superintendent personally as well as on his proposals. In our opinion, such attacks hastened his departure.

So now there will be a changing of the guard in the superintendent's office and perhaps on the board of education as well. Yet the community can still look forward to continuation of an excellent system even with changes in the schools' top leadership. There are many dedicated teachers and administrators—the great majority, in fact—who are still on the job and ready to work with a new superintendent, even a new board and concerned parents in what is, after all, a community enterprise. So there is reason for optimism about the future of the school system.

A troublesome trend

The loss of another 5.4 percent of the population of the city of Detroit in the two years between 1980 and 1982 is further indication that the Midwest and Northeast continue to lose people to the Sunbelt.

While Detroit's percentage of loss was greatest among the largest cities, even Chicago lost ground to the Sunbelt. Chicago lost only 0.2 percent of its population but that was enough to cost it the title of the nation's second city. Los Angeles with a 1.8 percent gain took over as the runnerup to New York.

Philadelphia, too, lost 1.4 percent of its population and dropped into fifth place behind Houston which gained another 8.2 percent and won the highest rank of the newly burgeoning Sunbelt cities. Texas now has three cities in the top 10, Dallas ranking right behind Detroit in seventh place and San Antonio in 10th place. Two other Sunbelt cities, San Diego and Phoenix, rank eighth and ninth.

AMONG THE 25 LARGEST U.S. cities, only Indianapolis and Columbus from the Midwest gained in population and each rose by only 1 percent. Milwaukee and Cleveland joined Detroit and Chicago in taking losses.

It is no wonder that Mayor Coleman Young and other Detroit officials are challenging the new estimates. They will cost Detroit money unless revised because they are used in deciding how much money cities will get from federal revenue-sharing programs. With Detroit already in fiscal difficulties, the decline in federal aid will be another blow.

The new figures, if confirmed, mean that Detroit has lost more than 710,000 of its population since 1950 when the census gave it 1,849,568. In less than 35 years, in other words, Detroit has lost more than 38 percent of its population. Call it what you will, white flight, brain drain or whatever, the shift reflects the population decline of Detroit and the Middle West.

We used to be able to say that Detroit metropolitan area was still growing, but the 1980 census showed Detroit's standard metropolitan statistical area also lost population, although at a much smaller rate than the central city. Detroit still ranked fifth among such areas with 4,353,413 in 1980 but that figure was down from the 1970 total of 4,435,051.

Older cities, surrounded and hemmed in by suburbs, have no place in which to grow geographically while cities such as Houston attract population and then gulp down more areas and people through annexation. The key to growth, however, is economic opportunity and in recent years, and especially during the recession, Detroit and Michigan have lagged behind much of the nation.

UNFORTUNATELY, LOSS OF population also meant loss of political power. In the 1980 census, population declines cost the Midwestern states of Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Missouri as well as such big Eastern states as New York and Pennsylvania a number of seats in Congress. And most of the gains went to Florida and California, with Nevada, Utah and New Mexico also posting population figures that gave them more representation in Washington.

Under the circumstances, it is disappointing to see the political parties in Michigan competing so bitterly for short term gains and the managers of Michigan's auto industry and in labor unions battling over the profits being reaped from the beginning of economic revival. Such competition is traditional, of course, but if those powerful groups would use less of their muscle battling each other and more in seeking ways to improve the state's overall economic prospects, Michigan might once again begin to attract population rather than losing more of it.

Sign him 'unamused' on Lakeshore

To the Editor:

The Farms council meeting of April 2 was both troubling and bewildering to me and to the many concerned neighbors of the Ford development on Lakeshore Road at Provencal who were also present. The business included approval of what has become "Windemere Place, Phase Two." That means that this complex has ballooned into 33 clustered look-alike houses instead of the originally proposed 18.

An optimistic, if naive lady wrote a letter to the Grosse Pointe News on February 16 saying, "Mr. Ford, we are counting on you," having heard that he was considering preserving the Weber mansion as part of his condominium packaging. Of course those walls are to come tumbling down and the density of Phase Two will exceed that of Phase One and would be greater still had not the Farms council obliged Henry Ford and his partner, William Caldwell, to delete one proposed unit.

What we shall have instead is the emerging profile of 33 almost identical looking buildings, five of them all in a row narrowly separated along Lakeshore Road to which the tract-house look, however expensive, is a novelty. Mr. Ford had defended the appearance of his complex against what he described as several ugly houses recently built on the street—that aesthetic assessment from the man who gave us the concrete berms in front of Ren Cen at the other end of Jefferson east.

Another matter before the council was the astonishing and troubling request to erect a permanent 10-and-a-half foot long sign, lighted, reading "Windemere Place" along Lakeshore Road, visible to both traffic directions. Among other considerations such would certainly constitute a noble precedent for a residential street, this sign of proportions suitable to Woodward, or Grand River, possibly Mack, but not even to Kercheval, much less any residential street in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Mr. Ford recently moved from this street to the private sector of Provencal and I cannot believe he would tolerate the wondrous dimensions and luminosity of this rude behemoth near him, nor would it be appreciated by his neighbors if he attempted to impose something like that near them. Nor would a single council member welcome such an inappropriate calamity near their property, if honesty were honored.

If granted, why would I not be equally entitled to put a lighted sign in front of my French-styled house reading "Beau Lieu Sur Lac," or something equally pretentious, unnecessary and at odds with the atmosphere and traditions of the area. Do other taxpayers on the street (20 years in our instance) really deserve such a proposal from Ford/Caldwell, and favorable consideration by the Farms council for a commercially proportioned lighted sign on a residential street?

The council had just unanimously denied a Farms citizen the right to place an air conditioning unit at the front of his home which is on a 40 foot lot, although he had no room on the sides and which would have required a zoning variance as well. Not a single neighbor opposed his wish and those closest didn't want it in his difficult backyard. Councilwoman Waugeman testified that the man had enormously upgraded the appearance of his home after buying it and that the landscaping plan around the unit would render it invisible from the street.

Councilwoman Mary Ann Ghesquiere judiciously moved that no sign whatever be permitted permanently on the Ford property because: 1-it would diminish property values in the area; 2-it would be aesthetically objectionable; 3-it would set a bad precedent and be contrary to community tradition; 4-it would commercialize a residential street; 5-it might create potential traffic distraction; 6-no one attending the meeting spoke in favor of the idea and many voiced opposition (one neighbor said she had prepared a written statement against such a sign but abandoned it in favor of quoting her 12-year-old daughter who likened the idea to "you mean like a Holiday Inn" when she asked why her mother was attending the meeting; and seven members of Grosse Pointe Shores' government informed Ms. Ghesquiere upon inquiry that they are opposed to any such signs on Lakeshore Drive.

She couldn't get a second from among those who had just unanimously denied the man with the 40 foot lot his proposed compressor that would be invisible from the street. Color the contrast "clout!" The best council could come up with was to defer the issue pending a poll of future Windemere occupants. Perhaps it can slip by in a nebulous future before a less wary and informed meeting.

I hope not and write this letter hoping to bring the possibility to the attention of the community. The acting chairman of the council was gracious enough after the issue was deferred, to allow me one final point, saying pleasantly that he assumed that I would now say something supportive of the development. My reply was one of astonishment that Caldwell had just seriously defended this witness to Windemere's various phases on the basis that its residents and their guests should be entitled to be able to find their way to their homes with the aid of this sign, which he had originally petitioned to be almost 15 feet long, lighted, and the council considered this argument as if it were rational.

Not a word had been said about the absence of Lakeshore Road or Provencal street signs nor house numbers. Won't the only guard house on the street provide sufficient beacon to any unfortunate moles who might purchase these units? At least no mention was made of manufacturing it for braille to cover all contingencies.

I know that I found my way home after the meeting without difficulty and I hope that Caldwell and the council members were likewise able to do so, with no more to guide them than street signs, house numbers and recollection.

But I would like to give the chairman a sincere, serious response to his facetious, but good-humored question of me. The first condominium clustering along the Farms' lakeshore is now a fait accompli and we can only hope that it will be well-constructed, beautifully landscaped and that all units will sell quickly, affording Ford his profit and his residents happy homes.

That would be to the advantage of all of us. And I would like to apologize to Mr. Caldwell for having interrupted him after he had courteously listened to me and for having addressed him at one point when I should have been facing council.

But one last point seems germane here. For some time the government of Grosse Pointe Shores has been seeking the elimination of an unlighted two by three feet sign in front of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford estate in the Farms' sister community along the lake. Good neighbors wouldn't approve the Windemere affair which lacks the civic and cultural implications of Mrs. Ford's noble and generous gift of her home and grounds to our area, even if this proposed sign were crafted of precious stone by Faberge and lighted by Mielziner.

Mrs. Ford's taste, sensitivity, and aesthetic perception were sufficiently documented that it seems likely that with respect to the big, big sign concept down the street from her beautiful home, like the undersigned and Queen Victoria, she would have said, "We are not amused."

We're proud

To the Editor:

A check of $50 was mailed (with happiness) as our financial contribution toward the bronze plaque to honor our Viet Nam war veterans—including our son, Chris S. Heian.

We saw his name listed in the March 15 issue of our Grosse Pointe News and it made us very proud—not only of our son, but all the boys who served in this particular war and were really never quite "recognized" properly.

We would like to congratulate the director of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, Dr. Mark Weber, and the Board of Directors—also Wayne G. Wegner and board member George Reindell, III, for undertaking this wonderful project.

We hope the Grosse Pointe community will open their hearts and pocketbooks to contribute to this worthy cause.

Teacher deserves a tribute

To the Editor:

It seems to be a rarity to read about the pleasant operations of classroom situations in today's newspapers. It is also unusual to single out a good teacher that truly gives quality education. One who has been entrusted with an enormous job and a tremendous responsibility is Dyanne Apkarian, teacher of sixth graders at Ferry Elementary School in Grosse Pointe Woods.

As a grandperson volunteer at Ferry School following retirement from teaching, I found Dyanne Apkarian has merited the trust, the love and respect of all her students. Walking into her classroom imparts a total zest for living. The air abounds with so much enthusiasm that you are caught up with many surprises — surprises that unfold with the exploration of many subjects and activities throughout each day.

Ms. Apkarian's educational program is geared in developing the potential of each and every student in her sixth-grade class. These students are learning to develop an awareness toward self, toward other individuals and the world. One can find objectives in everything they do. There is an awareness of purpose, competence, faithfulness, lovingness, caring and hope. It is obvious why there is so much strength and ability to this classroom, and also throughout the entire Ferry School. Her educational program shines through like the sun's rays filtering through each and every student.

Parents and senior citizens would be thrilled with the esprit de corps in the classrooms and throughout the school. You would thrill listening to the whole classroom recite various poems by Robert Frost from memory. That's a challenge. You would view the planning of interesting and appropriate activities to meet the needs of the individual student. Take a walk any day and time. Visit and view the extensive writing projects on hall walls and in the classrooms. Meet the principal and the teachers and you will be excited about the interactions and emerging strength that constitute healthy personalities.

As a former teacher for 25 years and as a grandperson, there exists a favorable learning environment characterized by devotion, wisdom, hope and confidence. Excelsior, Dyanne Apkarian! Excelsior, sixth graders! Excelsior, Ferry Elementary School in Grosse Pointe Woods!

Thank you for allowing a grandperson to share many hours of exhilarating classes. Thank you Marge Nixon for introducing many grandpersons into our classrooms, so they too can utilize their God-given talents in many ways and maintain a zest for living.

Thanks Brownings

To the Editor:

Grosse Pointers are fortunate to have a marvelous couple like Red and Ann Browning as citizens of our community. Both are involved in numerous civic activities and give so much of their time to help make our area of Grosse Pointe a better place to live.

This letter is just a special salute to the Brownings who have done so much for so many people.

All of us like to be involved in community activities but no couple goes at it with more dedication and love than Red and Ann Browning.

Grosse Pointe City

One view from the capital

Extra revenue belongs to people

By William R. Bryant, Jr.
State Representative

The tax rollback question is on hold in the State Senate until April 17, according to the Senate Republican leaders.

Senate Republicans are concerned that if the Senate bill which they passed and which the House watered down and sent back to the Senate goes to a House-Senate conference committee it may die there.

It is a legitimate concern. Many liberal Democrats do not want any cut in the tax rate. They want to spend more now and more for later.

If the bill goes to conference the House conferees likely will be me and two liberal Democrats, Rep. Lynn Johdahl and Rep. Mary Brown.

The Democrats could try to sell the idea the Republicans are insisting on a tax rollback of such magnitude it would be disastrous. They could then continue to refuse to negotiate any middle ground resolution of the question, killing the bill by holding it in conference and, then, try to sell the idea it is the fault of the Republicans there would be no tax cut for anyone in any amount.

It would be a risky venture for the Democrats but one they may well be willing to risk. They are often willing to take sizeable risks in order to have more money to spend.

What Senate Republicans are now considering are two things. First, is the Governor at all interested in negotiation. Has he learned, yet, that negotiation is a possibility?

Second, if the Governor is unwilling to negotiate or to agree to a sizeable tax rollback, the Senate Republicans may try to adopt a short term cut of twice the size as the Governor has been willing to accept, but if all else fails, at least the cut the Governor has said he will sign.

Then the Senate Republican majority would try to send a new, long term, more major rollback, including returning to the normal 4.6 percent rate at some fixed date in 1985 or 1986.

In this way it is hoped that some cut can be made now or soon, avoiding Democrats killing a bill in conference and pressure for return to the normal rate. Pressure to end the Blanchard increase of last year could be maintained.

In my view the Senate bill was pretty severe, but more reasonable than the House version. The Senate bill reduced the rate from 6.1 percent to 5.35 percent six months earlier than it will under current law, July 1, rather than January 1, 1985. The House version cuts the rate to 5.35 percent Oct. 1.

But the Senate version also cut the rate, again, from 5.35 percent to 4.6 percent on July 1, 1985. That second drop would cause problems with the budgets for 1985 and 1986 fiscal years, but can be done without drastic cuts if there is no recession.

And, in that statement really is the difference, a basic difference, party philosophy.

Republicans believe the people have the right to keep their money, unless and until a need is proven for government to take that money for programs deemed essential.

Democrats seem to believe that government should have enough revenue coming in to be able to carry through difficult times which may come along even though there is no proof they will come along.

Lakeshore billboards next?

To the Editor:

The question is, do Grosse Pointers want a big lighted sign on Lakeshore Road? Do we care if a permanent sign, measuring 10 feet 10 inches long, three feet three inches high and lighted, reading "Windemere Place" is placed on Lakeshore near Provençal in front of the site of the former Henry Ford estate?

This issue is currently before the Grosse Pointe Farms City Council for determination. Developers say this big sign is necessary to properly identify their new cluster housing development. They say that the usual corner street sign which identifies our streets and other new subdivision streets would be inadequate. Many Lakeshore residents have expressed their opposition. However, it appears this sign petition may be approved.

Because this issue really involves changing the residential character of Lakeshore and introducing a new commercial element, as evidenced by this big sign, it is of importance to all Grosse Pointers. Lakeshore is one of our major property value stabilizers. It attracts many new residents to the Grosse Pointe area. It is one of the most beautiful boulevards in the world. With this sign precedent, there will likely be many more such signs along Lakeshore.

The cluster developers were not warmly invited into our community in the first place. Now they are here and already pushing out the residential character of our community to accommodate their commercial interests. If Grosse Pointe residents are opposed to their commercial use of Lakeshore, it may not be too late to demonstrate their concern to their councilmen or to this newspaper, if they act today. Because, if not, tomorrow we will be looking at that big lighted sign on Lakeshore, and with possibly many more to follow.

I would like to say thank you to Tom Greenwood for writing about Geoffrey Corke. I am a member of a wonderful club whose leading member is Geoff.

We call our club a family. He is the oldest and I am the youngest, with 80 years between us. I never really knew my grandfathers, and he has adopted that position and also the part of best friend.

If nothing else the article should give us all hope for the future. Thanks to you I can now share him with everyone.

Picture Your Possessions

Those pesky W-2 forms may not rank in popularity with robins and crocuses as harbingers of spring, but they're an omnipresent part of our life at this time of year, anyway. Having recently completed your tax preparations for 1983, you're well aware of the problems you may face in filing for certain deductions. Especially if those deductions are the result of casualty losses, as in fire, wind, or flood damage. It may be too late for this year, but you can help yourself to an easier time with the Feds if you include photographic evidence of such damage when income-tax time rolls around in 1983.

According to the IRS, pictures that record the property as it was, that show the extent of any damage, and that include the condition of the property after repair or replacement can help document casualty-loss deduction claims.

That brings us to NOW. The only way to have pre-damage photos available, naturally, is to create a file of photographs showing your house, property, and furnishings intact. Such a file can have applications in insurance claims, too, as well as in tax deductions.

To be useful, though, your photographic file should be inclusive. All buildings—main house as well as outbuildings—should be pictured. Take shots from all sides and at different angles.

Then be sure to photograph all interior rooms so that the items in each snapshot can be easily identified. It's best to use a 35mm camera with a wide-angle lens and a flash with suitable wide coverage, although any camera can work. For most rooms, stand in or near the center of the room and provide complete photographic coverage...take four shots in each room, if necessary—one facing each of the four walls. In that way, you'll capture every piece of furniture and every wall hanging. The only thing you won't catch well enough for critical documentation are the small items tucked away in corners, drawers, and on shelves.

Ahh, but there's a way around that problem, too. Simply assemble all the small items you can find in each room and arrange them on a table or some other flat surface to be photographed as a group. Obviously it's best if you use a camera with close-focusing capability so that you can get a good shot of the items. Important items may be turned over and photographed a second time while lying face down.

This technique shouldn't be limited to home, either. It's great for businesses, as well. Small business owners to corporate giants can insure against loss by photographing their offices or plants similarly. Even employees may benefit by photographing the personal belongings people tend to accumulate in their places of work. To complete your photographic file, provide such information as date of purchase or acquisition, value, and special notes or comments on the back of each print.

Then, when you get the original negatives and prints back from processing, store them in a safe, secure place (do not keep them in a drawer next to your bed; if the nightstand burns, so does your hope of collecting from the insurance company and getting full deductions from the IRS).

It's a good idea to have a second set of prints made while you're at it. Turn them over to your insurance agent or have them locked in a safe deposit box at a local bank.

But remember, now is the time to act.

Ahmed V. Ismail has been involved in the photographic business since 1967, originally starting with Carl Ivener at Studio Camera. He is presently the president of Studio Camera (recently relocated to Birmingham) and Speedi Photo/Mack Avenue, Inc., a discount frame and one-hour photofinishing store in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Fight for control of schools

and the department of Housing and Urban Development in Washington, D.C.

He has served for 20 years as a member of the Board of Trustees of Western Michigan University, in Kalamazoo, a post he was appointed to by former Governor George Romney.

Recall chairman David Easlick and a group of eight workers handed petitions to Wayne County Clerk James Killeen on April 6. Easlick said the group, which has been working since mid-January, collected 8,488 signatures for the recall of Gandelot, 8,440 for Mrs. Briery, and 8,439 for Buechler.

Killeen said it's possible the recall questions may appear on the June 11 ballot, thus avoiding the nearly $10,000 cost of holding a special election later this summer.

"It will be close," Killeen said. "We're going to make every effort to push this through." His commission must verify there are 6,700 signatures needed to put the questions on the ballot.

Despite rumors that one of the targeted board members may resign from his position, all three trustees this week say they are resolved to fight.

"The tough part was agonizing over the decision of what to do, which school to close, because of the enrollment decline," Mrs. Briery said. "That's when I lost sleep. Now, I believe we made the best decision."

Buechler, a Detroit elementary school principal, is equally resolved. "You know I live in the Barnes district myself. I know it's an excellent school, but it's under-illized and there are other excellent schools right down the street. I know we've made the right move."

Henry Clay, the head of Citizens Against Recall Effort, described recall as "a prescription for chaos" at the board's April 9 meeting. "The battle is not over. It has just begun," Clay said. "We remain confident that the wisdom of voters will prevail when this comes to a vote."

Barbara Saari, a recall organizer, responded to Clay's remarks at the board meeting.

"It's not a tragedy anytime when citizens stand up and speak for what they believe in," she said.

Michigan Arts Council funds 'creative movement' program

The Michigan Council for the Arts has again awarded Northeast Guidance (NEGC) Center a grant to support its children's program of creative movement and artistic expression.

The new program will combine art therapy and psychodrama with creative movement skills development. The program leaders are Freida Chomsky, A.C.S.W.; Liza Kazora, registered art therapist; and Pam Wilson, who holds a Bachelor's in physical education with a certificate in kinesiology.

One session is in progress, and a second session, to be held during the summer, may have a few openings for children ages 8 to 12 from outside the center's child outpatient caseload.

The program is very useful for diagnosing and treating peer and other relationship difficulties and also provides opportunities for healthy children to improve motor skills, self-esteem, self-awareness, intellectual development and leadership skills.

Neortheast Guidance Center, in cooperation with Money Managers, Inc., is holding a workshop on developing budgeting skills. The one and one-half hour workshop will include identification of symptoms of money mismanagement, and cover how to get out of debt, how to do your own budget analysis and develop financial goals.

The workshop will be led by Kathryn Greiner, president of Money Managers, Inc., on Wednesday, April 18, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at Northeast Guidance Center, 17000 E. Warren. Space is limited and enrollment is free. Call 824-8000, ext. 290 for tickets.

Board sets policy on space

School buildings that are closed by the Board of Education will likely be used for other educational purposes, if possible, under a policy approved last month.

The board policy places as first priority those uses which are "educationally enhancing and not financially detrimental to the school system." Examples are relocation of the administration from current housing at 389 St. Clair Avenue, provision of preschool or all-day kindergarten, expansion of public libraries, or alternative, community, special or university education programs.

Second priority in the board-approved policy is for those uses "beneficial to the community and not financially detrimental to the school system." Senior citizen centers or housing, recreation or athletic facilities, health care, parking, shopping and district courts are among the examples.

The school board in November voted to close Barnes Elementary school on Morningside Drive because of the severe decline in enrollment the school system has experienced since 1972.

The policy also sets guidelines for sharing a school building and specific requirements of any lease agreements to be entered into. The policy forbids leasing a building to an organization in competition with the public schools and calls for the leasee to be responsible for preparation of the space, any damages to it and restoration of the building to its previous condition at the end of the lease.

Colleagues to honor Park's Hagman

Dr. Harlan L. Hagman, of Grosse Pointe Park, Professor Emeritus of Higher Education at Wayne State University, will be honored today by the WSU College of Education Alumni Association.

Professor Hagman will receive the association's Distinguished Educator Award at an awards banquet Thursday, April 12, at the McGregor Memorial Conference Center. He is being recognized for his many significant contributions to the teaching profession and the field of higher education.

Hagman, who left Wayne State in 1982 after reaching the mandatory age of 70 for retirement, has been described by his colleagues as the "classic example of a university professor."

Also being honored at the event is Toni Nicholas, of Grosse Pointe, an academic services officer in the College of Education. Ms. Nicholas will receive a Special Service Award in recognition of her 30 years of service to the college. In addition to her administrative duties, Ms. Nichols is a member of the University council and also serves on the executive committee of that group.

Joining the university as a professor in the College of Education in 1957, Hagman became dean of administration in 1960, serving for 11 years before returning to his favorite role of "professing."

Before joining WSU, Professor Hagman had served as a professor and dean of the College of Education at Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa. He had also taught at Northwestern University and was a public school teacher and administrator in Illinois.

During his professional career, he had authored seven books and served as an editorial consultant for several organizations. He is listed in "Who's Who in America," and "Who's Who in the World."

Professor Hagman is a member of the vestry at Christ Episcopal Church and also serves on the executive council and cathedral chapter of the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan. In addition, he is a member of the Senior Men's Club of Grosse Pointe and The Players in Detroit. He and his wife, Mary, are the parents of six grown children.

Fund a memorial to Miss Fitzsimons

By Wendy Honstain
South High

More than $500 has been collected for the Heather Fitzsimons Memorial Fund. The 18-year-old South student was killed in a fire at her home last month.

Miss Fitzsimons' classmates decided to start the fund to buy a memorial on the school's campus and plan to donate the rest to the Family Life Education Council (FLEC) of Grosse Pointe. The organization operates Centerpoint to help troubled teens and their families.

"We wanted to help people in the same position as Heather was, and making a contribution to FLEC in her name was the best way," said Jenny Palms, a close friend of the late Miss Fitzsimons and an organizer of the project.

Contributions to the fund can be made by contacting FLEC Centerpoint at 885-5222.

Honors go to Ruesegger

More than 200 lawyers, judges and guests turned out Friday, March 9, to present a dedicated service award to attorney A.D. Ruesegger, of Balfour Road, at a reception at the new Riverfront apartments in downtown Detroit.

The affair raised money to support the law library of the Detroit Bar Association Foundation. Guests enjoyed cocktails and hors d'oeuvres throughout the reception as well as performances by the Renaissance City Chamber Orchestra.

Ruesegger is a past president of the Detroit Bar and currently serves as a trustee of the Michigan State Bar Foundation. His other professional activities include service with the judicial selection and tenure committee, Institute of Continuing Legal Education, and the judicial qualifications committee.

"The Riverfront reception was our first major activity for the purpose of raising funds for the law library," said Foundation President Daniel M. Clark. The Detroit law library is one of the oldest and largest law libraries owned by a private bar association in the nation, containing 88,000 volumes of law.

It serves lawyers and judges in the greater Detroit area and has special value to lawyers who serve needy clients unable to pay for legal services.

Ruesegger, an attorney since 1928, was honored for his many years of service to the profession and community through the Detroit Bar and state bar.

Sparky's party benefits Park

By Harriet Nolan

You might call a "thank you for your support" gift, because that's exactly what it's meant to be, according to Darrell and Liz Finken, owners of Sparky Herbert's Restaurant in Grosse Pointe Park.

"We were thinking of a way to dedicate the christening of our new dining room and also show our appreciation for the past years of support," said Darrell Finken.

So the Finkens decided to use the occasion of the unveiling of their cozy, yet gracious addition and hold a fundraising dinner. The proceeds, anticipated to be about $3,000, have already been earmarked to buy a rustic-looking playscape to be put in one of the Park's play areas.

"The one we've picked can be added onto," says Finken. "It has swings, ladders and an old-fashioned tire for kids to swing on."

While the true-to-life story of the Finkens' business success can't exactly be labeled "local boy makes good," it's close enough. In this case, it's Liz who grew up in the Farms. Darrell came to Michigan in 1966 and lived in Bloomfield Hills until 1975.

However, both feel especially close to the surrounding community. It's been almost four years since they borrowed $25,000 from family and friends, and literally dug into the former Coachstop Bar, cutting and transforming it into the present-day, always-busy, Sparky Herbert's.

In the first year, the restaurant grossed an astonishing $330,000 far surpassing the average annual return of $45,000 seen by their predecessors, says Finken. "This year we expect the grosse revenue to approach the $1 million mark."

He attributes part of the success to the "Sparky Burger," known for its select ingredients and generous made-to-order servings and uses this same philosophy in everyday business.

"Start with quality, even in its simplest form and continue to build with each opportunity," says Finken. "In my 17 years experience in the restaurant field, I've noticed that the restaurants that weren't making it consistently lacked good quality food and service, fair prices and a comfortable inviting atmosphere."

Finken calls Sparky's atmosphere "unique, cosmopolitan and eclectic." He credits Liz with helping to create that feeling. The last few years she has diligently collected furnishing for the anticipated addition.

A Waterford chandelier, fireplace and elegantly subtle green/blue and white Italian marble flooring are from the Sheldon Mansion on Lakeshore Road. These and other interesting pieces are gracefully accented underneath the skylight roof.

"Our menu is unique," said Finken. "Chef Bill Wolf, who trained under Milos Cihelka at the Golden Mushroom for five years, has proven to our patrons that quality, creative and seasonal cuisine will be the standards."

Wolf recently won a gold medal and the "Judges Special Award" for meritorious achievement at the Michigan Great Lakes Food Service Show. Some of the other entries came from chefs at the Money Tree and Golden Mushroom.

Guests to the $75 per person benefit planned for Saturday, April 14 will be able to see and taste the fruits of Finken's and Wolf's endeavors. The evening filled with culinary delights will begin at 7 p.m., followed by dancing afterwards to the music of The Real Happy String Band.

Tickets, according to Finken, are partially tax deductible and reservations can be made by calling him at 822-0266.

'Big sister' shows some common sense

"A little bad boy just set fire to the curtains," said the small-voiced caller to the Grosse Pointe Park Fire Department, Tuesday, April 2.

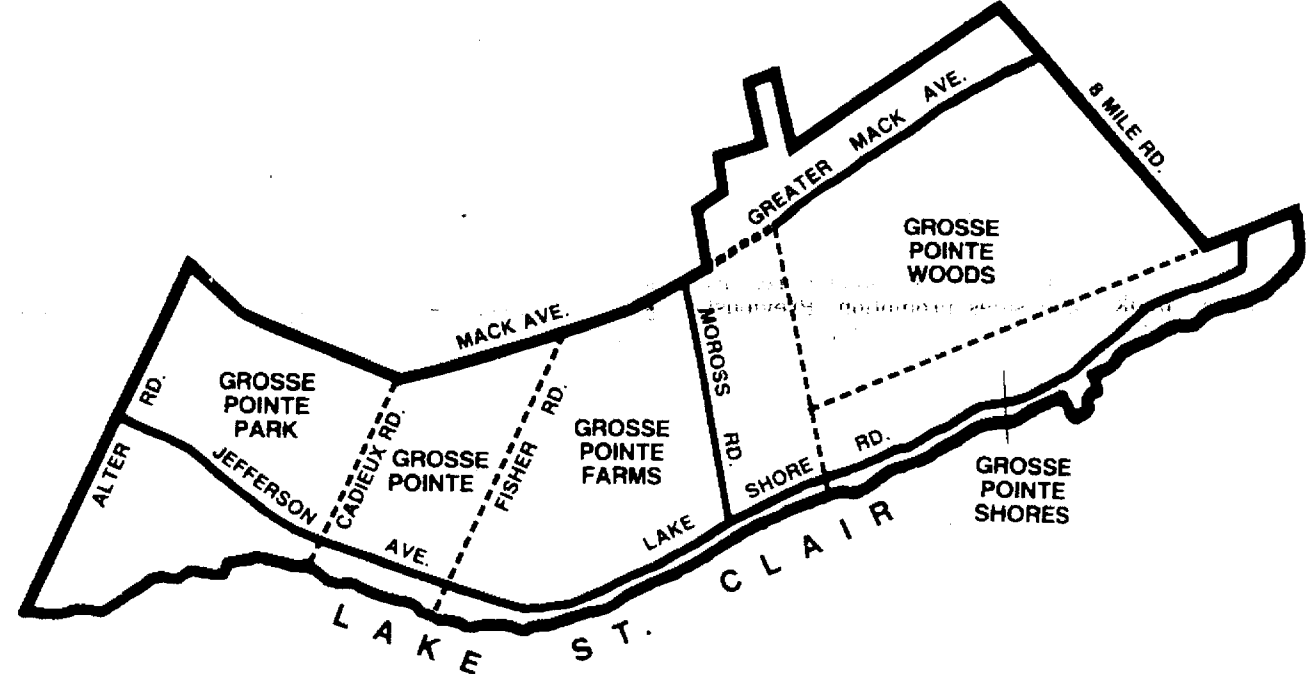

Fire officials said a 6-year-old girl called them after her 5-year-old brother, playing with matches, set fire to curtains in the upstairs bedroom of their home.

However, when they responded an embarrassed grandmother refused to allow them into the home and instead became angry at the girl for calling them, they said.

They reassured her that the "little bad boy" had a "good big sister" who had done the right thing because the house could have been ablaze when they arrived. Fortunately the only thing damaged was the upstairs curtains.

Now it's claimed that 9 percent of all the people who've ever lived — since 298,000 B.C., it's estimated — are alive today.

Final touches put to plans for fireworks

Planning and fund-raising continue for the July 1 fireworks, the first display fired from the Lochmoor Club in more than a decade, according to the business association sponsoring the event.

The St. Clair Shores Symphony Orchestra will perform a dusk-to-full dark concert preceding the 20-minute fireworks display, according to Kathy Forster of Forster Interiors and a member of the Grosse Pointe Business and Professional Association of Mack Avenue, Inc.

Besides its talent, the St. Clair Shores symphony was chosen because it could guarantee an appearance at the rain day of July 3 should it be needed, Mrs. Forster added.

With the permission from the school board to use the grounds at Parcels Middle School, from Lochmoor officials to fire the display from its grounds, and Woods city and public safety officials, who will provide crowd control and other services, the program is on track, she said.

The fireworks display and concert are part of Mack U.S.A., the business association's promotion of the five-mile long business area from which it draws its members.

The association has raised almost $9,000 of the estimated $15,000 needed to pay for the display, Mrs. Forster said. Contributors include city councils of the five Pointes, businesses, The Pointe Plaza and service organizations such as the Lakeshore Optimists. Other organizations including the Kiwanis and Soroptimists are also interested in the program, she added.

Although it's part of a business area event, the fireworks are something "old-timey that will get everyone together for something," Mrs. Forster said. "You can go out to Meadowbrook, plunk down your seven bucks and sit on the lawn, or you can brown-bag it and sit on the lawn at Parcels."

The association is looking for a donation of outside lights, so the musicians will be able to read their music, as well as some sound equipment, Mrs. Forster said.

Those interested in making a donation can contact the association by writing 20327 Mack, Grosse Pointe Woods 48236.

Association urges parking vigilance

The Hill Association, a 40-member business organization situated on the Hill, announced its new officers at a recent luncheon held at the Pointe Pedlar. Newly elected officers include president Ed Kiska, Kiska Jewelers; vice-president Judy Standish, of Gateway Travel; treasurer Skip Moss, of Tappan Associates; and secretary Ginny McKendrick, of the Punch and Judy Toyland.

Trustees include Richard Sterr, of Carl Sterr's; Barbara Reed, of Perrickety Pedlar; Sandy Gillespie of Something Special and Shep Norton of Picard Norton.

The association also asked business owners on the Hill to urge their employees to park off of Kercheval Avenue to free more parking spaces for customers.

In a letter delivered by Kiska, president of the Hill Association, it was noted that parking on Kercheval is limited to one hour and that "very shortly the police will be asked to more strictly enforce the law."

According to the newsletter "feeding" the meters or parking over the limits on the meters can result in a $15 fine.

When contacted about the matter, Farms Chief of Police Robert K. Ferber acknowledged that "Mr. Kiska has volunteered to keep an eye on cars parked too long on the Hill and will chalk the tires for us. If the driver overstays the meter, he could be subjected to a $15 fine."

The Hill Association letter pointed out that the majority of cars parked daily on Kercheval for the most part belong to the "merchants, professionals, real estate people and those who work for all of them."

St. John social worker gets $8,000 grant

The Children's Trust Fund of Michigan recently awarded Lois Quig, social worker at St. John Hospital, an $8,000 grant supporting her proposal to provide a program to stimulate newborn-parent interaction.

Established by legislation in 1982, The Children's Trust Fund is a non-profit source of funding support for local child abuse prevention programs. The trust fund awards grants annually supporting existing or proposed programs for child abuse prevention and treatment services.

Funds are collected through Michigan tax returns and other donations. Each year when Michigan taxpayers file their State of Michigan tax returns, they can donate a portion of their tax return to the Trust Fund (line 33a of the 1983 tax return form). Taxpayers can fill in a $2 donation if filing a single return or $4 if filing jointly.

People interested in obtaining cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) instruction are invited to the free class at Cottage Hospital of Grosse Pointe, 159 Kercheval Avenue, at 7 p.m. Thursday, April 19.

The Cottage Hospital CPR Heartsaver class is conducted by the Cottage Hospital Education department in cooperation with the Committee on Emergency Cardiac Care of the American Heart Association.

the Trust Fund this year, money was awarded to 23. One of those winning proposals was Ms. Quig's titled "Facilitating Teenage Parent-Infant Bonding Interaction in Hospital Neonates."

In addition, transportation to the hospital will be furnished for the parents.

"Self-protection" will be the topic for the police community relations program in Grosse Pointe Park. The Thursday, April 12, meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will offer tips to residents, particularly women, in personal safety, said Henry Counce, Park police chief.

Parents enjoy family dinner

More than 500 University Liggett Lower school family members traveled the yellow brick road into their school cafeteria last month to share a spaghetti dinner in honor of ULS' Year of the Family.

Cast members from the Grosse Pointe Children's Theater production of "The Wizard of Oz" brought an "Oz" theme to life for ULS students from kindergarten through fifth grade and their brothers and sisters of all ages.

"Our family dinner has become an annual event," said Mary Thorn, head of Lower School. "But since our theme for the school year was Year of the Family, it seemed even more special this time."

A wide path of yellow "bricks" stretched from the entry, through the school hallway and into the dining area where Dorothy, the Tin Man, the Scarecrow and the Lion waited to greet the families. Many families posed for a snapshot near the walls of the Wizard's castle.

"The Family dinner is one of my favorite events of the school year at ULS," said Marion Shanle, Family dinner co-chairman and mother of third grader Amy. "Even my sons in seventh and eighth grade look forward to coming." The other co-chairman of the event was Janet Martin, also mother of a third grader, Douglas.

Students get another chance

By Mark Froelich
South High

After meeting with students and student representatives, South High's administration has decided to reverse its decision to ban theme dances at South. The ban came after nine South students were caught in possession of alcohol in the S-parking lot before the recent pajama dance.

Although the dance decision was reversed, it doesn't mean it will stay that way.

"If more incidents occur, we will cancel the dances permanently. But I really don't anticipate any problems," said assistant principal Bernie LeMieux.

The upcoming Beach dance on April 13 will prove to be the trial for the future of South's theme dances. Along with the trial dance will come a set of new rules. Identification cards will be requested at the door if the person is not recognized. Supervisors will be a little more apt to deny entrance to anyone who seems to be under the influence of alcohol. A time change will also be in effect, as dances will last from 8 to 11 p.m., with the doors closing at 9 p.m. Tickets will be sold inside the main gym, rather than the outside doors.

Students caught with alcohol or under the influence will receive a 10-day suspension, and be denied any further school activities.

LeMieux said the reason for his decision to bring back the theme dances was the mature way in which the students approached him.

"After talking to student leaders, we felt they were sincere in their concerns to curb the drinking problems at the dances," said LeMieux. "we respect their opinions... and we feel they can handle it in a safe way."

ULS students win fine arts honors

University Liggett Upper School students Delphine Davison and Tracey Matthews each won recognition in separate fine arts competitions recently.

Delphine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellard Davison, Jr. of Grosse Pointe and piano student of Frederick DeHaven, was named a gold cup winner by the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs for her 10 consecutive years of superior ratings in the federation's Michigan Junior Festivals. At ULS, Delphine is an honor student, also involved in forensics and track. She plans to minor in music in college.

Tracey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Matthews of Detroit, was selected for two years of study at the Alvin Ailey school of dance in New York City. She was notified of her acceptance shortly after the company held local auditions. She studies at ULS with dance instructor and local performer Jennifer Noyer.

South seniors win awards

By Wendy Hounstain
South High

Two South students were recognized by the National Council of Teachers of English for their outstanding writing ability. Seniors Elizabeth Dobie and John Bruch recently received the NCTE National Senior awards.

Bruch and Ms. Dobie were nominated in their junior year along with 30 other South students, and then selected by school judges after writing an impromptu paper. After being selected to represent South, Bruch and Ms. Dobie advanced to national competition this year where, after taking a national test, they were chosen to receive the very prestigious award.

"It's (the NCTE National Senior award) probably the best writing award in the country," said Alma Fleming, chairperson of the English department at South.

Junior nominees from South this year are Leslie Jeffs, Kenneth Harris and Renuka Uthappa.

The other students who represented North at the district level were John Dohn, Rob Lillach, Joe David and Kathy Bakeman.

INADVERTENT ENGINE SHAMPOO

In previous columns, we always stressed the importance of using only the recommended solutions in automatic windshield washer containers. The reasons were primarily for keeping the windshield clean as well as ice-free during winter driving. Here's a letter from a non-believer who learned the hard way.

"I tell your readers to NEVER use anything but approved windshield fluid in their systems. I used a small amount of dishwasher fluid in mine and after I drove about 100 miles, the engine died. I raised the hood and found the engine compartment full of... would you believe soap suds? The heat and vibration had produced enough suds to wash the dinner dishes and had shorted out the ignition.

I could have been in bad trouble in heavy traffic, but all I got was drenched and irritated at myself. I thought I'd pass this on to others who might have similar bright ideas."

SCIATICA

Grosse Pointe Woods Chiropractic Clinic 881-7677

Dr. David Janitz Chiropractor

Q. What is sciatica and how can it be helped?
 A. Sciatica is essentially an abnormal inflammation of the great sciatic nerve which supplies the tissues of the thigh and lower leg. This large nerve exits the spine between the vertebrae (between the lower back and travels down the leg all the way to the foot. Sciatica can cause leg pain only or a combination of both leg and back pain.

thousands of people cover up their pain with drugs. Sciatica can usually be traced back to the spinal column. As this large nerve exits the spine it can become impinged due to structural imbalance of the spine (subluxation). Chiropractic will balance the spine and relieve the pressure on the nerve. Frequently other areas of the spinal column such as the cervical spine (neck) will contribute to spinal imbalance and will need attention.

Thirty teachers retire in June

Thirty of the Grosse Pointe public school system's more than 400 teachers will retire this June. The number is about 50 percent higher than in most years, according to a school spokesman, because of a retirement bonus that was offered to teachers this year.

Teachers had until April 1 to announce their retirement and still qualify for the bonus of $300 a month until age 69. The last of the 30 retirements was accepted by the Board of Education at its April 9 meeting.

Among them were the following:

- Brownell — Joseph Krutell and Jack Woodhouse.
- Defer — Virginia Johnson, Lillian Koby, Lorraine Lieder and Kenneth Starring.
- Kerby — Nancy Booth, Astrid Elkins, Gerald Ricard, Marion Rose and Marjorie Wilton.
- Monteith — Margaret Watkins.
- North High — Raymond Gault, Ernest Hurst and Jane Leonard.
- Poupard — Stanley Smith.
- Richard — James Neville and Nancy Owens

• South High — Charles Bishop, George Duditch, James Kaloger, David LaDuke, Francis Weskel and James Wolonick.

• Trombly — Helen Honderich. • Special education — Betty Brady, Mary DeSantis, Margaret Hawksley and Lucile McIntosh.

In addition to those teachers who notified the board of their retirement between September and last week, seven administrators are stepping down. They were also offered a retirement bonus this year. Administrators who will retire include Reginald Sienkiewicz, director of special education; Benjamin Zenn, director of support services; Jane Colsher, supervisor of instructional materials; Richard Kay, principal of Kerby Elementary School; Morris Hanzek, principal of Parcels Middle School; Florence Miller, assistant principal at North High; and William Peters, director of libraries.

'How to succeed' hits the stage

"How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," Abe Burrows and Frank Loesser's Pulitzer Prize winning musical comedy, is the final offering of the season by Dennis Wickline Products, Inc. at the Golden Lion Restaurant.

Opening Friday, and running Friday and Saturday evenings through Saturday, May 26, the satire tells of J. Pierrepont Finch, a window washer, and his meteoric rise to the top of the Worldwide Wicket Company.

The original production of "How to Succeed" was a long running Broadway success. This production features Timothy M. Yahner as J. Pierrepont Finch. He has portrayed Elwood P. Dowd in "Harvey," among others.

Judy Gieseking of Grosse Pointe will portray Rosemary, Finch's girlfriend. Ms. Gieseking recently appeared as Minnie Fay in "Hello, Dolly" at the Golden Lion, and has been active with many area groups. Dan Castle, a veteran of Detroit area theatre portrays J.B. Biggley. Former Grosse Pointer Lori Heglin returns to the stage in the role of Hedy LaRue, the boss's mistress.

Also in the cast are Karen E. Elliott as Smitty, Frank Greenia as Bud Frump, Keith J. Teller, Marie O'Connor, Michael D. Schweiger and Jeffrey L. Woolley.

The production is directed by Ed Guay, drama director at Regina High School and drama instructor at Cranbrook's summer theatre program. Mr. Guay also recently directed "A Child's Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Punch and Judy Theater. Local-award winning Highland Dancer Diane Manko is choreographer for the production. Musical director is John Dickinson.

Patrons may opt for a prime rib dinner or a fish alternate with the show following dessert. Cocktails begin at 7, dinner at 7:30 with the show beginning approximately 8:45 p.m. The Golden Lion Restaurant is located at 22380 Moross near Mack.

Gift tickets are available. Group rates and performances are also available. Call 886-2420 for reservations. Price for the evening is $19.50 which includes dinner, show, tax and gratuity.

Auto club will cut Grosse Pointe rates

The Automobile Club of Michigan announced last week it will reduce rates to Grosse Pointe residents for automobile insurance by up to 10 percent, under a new rate adjustment plan.

This adjustment makes our rates very competitive with other insurance carriers servicing Grosse Pointe," according to Thomas G. Bowman, Auto Club assistant vice-president for insurance. The Auto Club is the state's largest automobile insurer.

'Imprints' a winner

"Imprints," the literary magazine published by South High School students, won a certificate of merit in the recent Michigan Youth Arts Festival. This is the second time the magazine has been honored with the award from the Michigan Council of Teachers of English.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

Fifty-two years ago, a small group of young women, interested in the arts but with no niche in the older, established art support organizations, founded Ibex. Their purpose was — and still is — to help themselves and others like themselves, young women actively interested in any art form, to increase their knowledge and appreciation of the arts in general and to encourage creativity.

Ibex' monthly general membership meetings may feature speakers on a variety of art-related topics. They may take the form of trips to museums, theaters or studios. In addition, smaller, special interest groups within the Ibex organization conduct their own discussions, classes and workshops.

Ibex is not a service group . . . but over the years it has contributed in excess of $30,000 to various institutions, mostly funds raised by ticket sales for plays produced by its Drama Group.

Last evening, members and guests were welcomed by Ibex President Mrs. William Coyle and Mrs. Donald Blain, chairperson, to Jacobson's Store for the Home on Kercheval Avenue in-the-Village, to preview the Ibex Arts and Crafts Exhibition which opens to the public today and will run there through Friday, April 20.

The show's items range from oil paintings to metal work to wheat and basket weaving. Most are the result of Ibex classes or continuation of study generated by interest in an Ibex class. It is an exhibition of amateurs, as the majority of Ibex members have not had formal art education, with the notable exception of a display of work by Ibex member and professional artist Patricia Hill Burnett.

Among the paintings Mrs. Burnett has loaned for the show are portraits of Betty Ford, Marlo Thomas and Betty Friedan. She has also included a demonstration sketch of a fellow Ibex member, Mrs. Donald Stewart; this was done when Mrs. Burnett gave a talk to Ibex members in her studio.

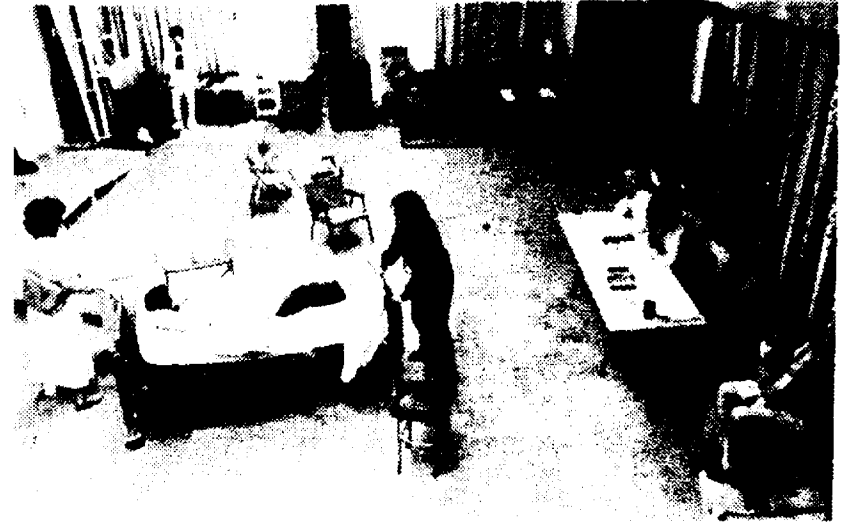

Honored guests at the preview were some of Ibex' former class instructors, located by Mrs. Kenelm Winslow and Miss Hope Whitten, invitations chairpersons. Mrs. Robert Vieweg and her committee provided the wine and cheese refreshments.

Grace Blain provided the background information on Ibex for this article. "Until recently," she notes, "many stories and plays gave a stereotyped view of the suburban housewife as an idle, bored, gossipy woman of uncertain morals. Now she's supposed to be a super-woman, able to superbly manage a career, home and family, to be immaculately groomed while cooking gourmet dinners in a

"We have an aerobics class that meets here twice a week. I jump around from 6 to 7. Then I lie down from 7 on." So saying, Kathy Grabruck, who plays the lead role in Grosse Pointe Theatre's upcoming production of "Whose Life Is It Anyway?", pulls a hospital gown on over her "I Survived" T-shirt, lies down on a hospital bed in the center of the rehearsal hall at the Grosse Pointe Theatre Building on Fisher Road — and goes to work. With her head, her voice, her eyes . . . for Claire Harrison, the character Kathy is in the process of becoming, is paralyzed from the neck down. It's a Tuesday evening, rehearsal night, in the Rehearsal Hall. In one corner, two actors check lines as they wait to go on. There's another group, actors, production staff, et al., in another corner, gathered around a bubbling coffee pot. Director Gwenn Samuel nods . . . if you're interested in what happens next, and what happened before, and what (hopefully!) will happen on-stage at Fries Auditorium next week, turn to the Feature Page, and read on . . .

Overview of the Grosse Pointe Theatre Rehearsal Hall, with a rehearsal of "Whose Life Is It Anyway?" in progress.

Director Gwenn Samuel (rear), stage manager and apprentice director Dianne Peters (seated, left) and Jean Bowles, who is holding book, intent on the action of the play.

Cathy Maher plays student nurse Mary Jo Sadler. Kathy Grabruck is the paralyzed Claire Harrison.

Pointe home for Linnes

At home on Barrington Road are Mr. and Mrs. Stephen E. Linne, who traveled through Michigan on a fall color tour following their wedding Saturday, October 15, in Saint Ambrose Catholic Church. The 4 o'clock ceremony at which The Reverend Paul E. Wojdyla and The Reverend Robert Ruedisuelli presided was followed by a reception at Hillcrest Country Club.

The bride, the former Elizabeth A. Borowski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Borowski, of Melvin, wore a gown of embroidered ivory English net, its high collar circled with a crystal-pleated ruffle, its straight, tapered sleeves ending in crystal-pleated cuffs, its waist accented with a taffeta back bow, its Schiffler-embroidered skirt featuring a lace scallop circling hemline and cathedral length train.

Her cathedral length veil, also ivory in color, edged with a Schiffler scallop and scattered with pearls, fell from a cluster of silk roses at the back of her Juliet cap.

Honor attendant Denyse Wickline and bridesmaids Nancy and Sharon Linne, sisters of the bridegroom, Beth and Laura Linne, their sisters-in-law, Mary Lynn Rymyski, of Winter Haven, Fla., the bride's sister, and Mary Borowski, their sister-in-law, wore floor length, jewel-necked dresses of dusty blue georgette, self-sashed at their waists and styled with long, tapered sleeves and asymmetrical, pleated bodices.

They carried bouquets of yellow, white and pink carnations, pink Sweetheart roses, orchids and baby's-breath.

Mr. Linne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Linne, of Lakepointe Avenue, asked the honor maid's brother, Dennis Wickline, to act as best man. Ushering were John and Gregory Linne, brothers of the bridegroom, Bernard Borowski, the bride's brother, Edward Rymyski, their brother-in-law, William Taylor and Dale Pegg.

The mother of the bride accented her pleated, floor length gown, turquoise in color and featuring a lace cover-up, with a corsage of yellow roses, white carnations and baby's-breath.

The bridegroom's mother also wore a floor length gown of peacock blue chiffon, and a corsage identical to that of the bride's mother.

The bride's godmother, Josephine F. Olejnek, of East Detroit, chose a floor length gown, silver blue in color, with a matching jacket. Pink roses, white carnations and baby's-breath formed her corsage.

Helen Worrell, of The Park, the bridegroom's maternal grandmother, in a floor length gown styled with pleated sleeves and skirt, selected a corsage of yellow roses, white carnations and baby's-breath. His paternal grandmother, Anna Linne, of Troy, Ind., wore a street length dress and jacket ensemble, dusty blue in color. Pink roses and white, pink and yellow carnations formed her corsage.

Grosse Pointe Memorial Church's Book Review Group meets next Tuesday, April 17, at 1 p.m. after a noon luncheon at the church, to hear Mrs. Stanton R. Wilson review "John Wesley," the newest biography of the preacher-missionary, by Britisher Stanley Ayling.

This is the 200th anniversary of the founding of Methodism in Great Britain by Wesley: an event that is also being widely celebrated in this country. Mrs. Wilson has worked into her review music and stories behind some of the familiar revivalist hymns of Charles Wesley, many of which are still sung today. Mrs. Robert Kennel, Mrs. Ralph Stevens and Mrs. Gust Jahnke will assist with the musical selections.

Mrs. Arthur Hillegas, group chairman, will introduce Marion Wilson, a graduate of Maryville College, Maryville, Tenn., who holds a Master of Religious Education degree from Princeton Theological Seminary. Her husband is Memorial Church's associate minister.

The speaker, a missionary in Korea for 28 years, recalls how effectively Methodists and Presbyterians worked together in that part of the world. During her sojourn there, she taught English at a college in Seoul and served as English secretary for the Korean National Council of Churches and the Korean Bible Society.

Visitors are welcome at both the luncheon and the book review, but must make luncheon reservations in advance by calling 882-5330. Child care is available.

Reveal DSO new season

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra has announced artists and programs for the 1984-85 season, which opens Sept. 11 with a special performance featuring violinist Itzhak Perlman performing the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto.

On the Ford Auditorium podium will be Gunther Herbig, in his first appearance as music director of the DSO. Herbig will lead the orchestra in eight weeks of concerts throughout the season, and conduct it at Carnegie Hall on April 19, 1985.

A special feature of the new season, available on a priority basis to subscribers, is the three-concert Great Performers Series, including Perlman on opening night, Vladimir Ashkenazy's solo piano recital on Jan. 18, 1985, and soprano Leontyne Price on April 17, 1985.

Ten conductors, including Antal Dorati, the DSO's conductor laureate, will be featured. Eleven guest artists will make their debuts with the DSO; many others will make return appearances. A number of works not previously heard on subscription series will be performed.

In addition to the subscription series of from 6 to 24 concerts on Thursdays, Fridays or Saturdays, two different three-concert Chamber Series will again be offered in Orchestra Hall. Young People's and Pops Concert series are also available.

Season ticket brochures and order forms are available now from the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Subscription Department, Ford Auditorium, Detroit, Mich. 48226. Additional information may be obtained by calling 567-1400.

DSO subscribers enjoy a variety of benefits, including a savings in the cost of tickets over single ticket prices, priority in purchasing Great Performers and Holiday Festival concert tickets, a pre-paid parking plan, advance program notes for the 1984-85 season and an invitation to the gala dinner preceding the season's opening night concert.

A reception tomorrow, Friday, April 13, from 5 to 7:30 p.m. at the Detroit Artists Market will open two Lower Gallery shows that run at the Market through May 11. They are "Michigan Glass '84" and "The Green Dress/A Chicago Story."

Jurors for the all-state biennial glass exhibition were Davira Taragin, acting curator of Contemporary Art, Detroit Institute of Arts, and Jack Schmidt, full-time, internationally-known glass artist. Exhibit coordinators were Herb Babcock, head of the Glass Department, Center for Creative Studies, and Mary Denison, art director, Detroit Artists Market.

"The Green Dress," a collaborative effort by performance artist Sandra Binton and photographer Dirk Bakker, consists of 21 color photographs. The dress Binton wore in the performance sequence photographed by Bakker belonged to a family member, and will be on display with the photos.

The Market's Upper Gallery show is an all-photography exhibit juried by Carl Toth, head of the Cranbrook Academy of Art Photography Department.

The Detroit Artists Market, located on Randolph Street, is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

Mix romance and laughter for Fine Arts

"Some enchanted evenings," drama critic Clive Barnes once observed, "you look across a crowded theater and see a darling of a play." He was referring to Bernard Slade's "Romantic Comedy," to be presented by Fine Arts Society of Detroit tomorrow, Friday, April 13, and Saturday, April 14, at The Players Playhouse on East Jefferson Avenue.

Maureen Bruce appears as Phoebe, a youthful, stagestruck writer, Stephen Schrader as urbane playwright Jason (in whose townhouse the action takes place) in this final production of Fine Arts' current season.

Joanne Koch appears as Jason's confidante, former Follies girl Blanche, Bonnie Denler as amorous actress Kate, Cynthia Davis as Allison, Jason's socialite wife, and Kevin Krease as Leo, Phoebe's journalist husband. Davis and Krease are prospective Fine Arts members.

Assisting director Kenneth Kurtz are William Lafer, set designer and dresser, Erick Ryberg, lights, Mike Mengden, stage manager, and a technical crew consisting of Steve Aiken, Jim Hughes and Robert Davis.

Elizabeth Aiken will handle properties. Jeannie Whitfield and Maureen Bruce share make-up responsibilities. Sally Van Deventer, Bonnie Denler, Margaret Hawksley and Aileen Kurtz, who is also responsible for publicity, are assisting Elsie Onychuk with costumes.

Rehearsal rooms are provided through the courtesy of the Paul Kochs. The House Committee, chaired by Jean Dickinson, is providing refreshments for the Playhouse rehearsals.

"Romantic Comedy" is being produced by Joanne and Robert Davis. Mr. and Mrs. William Lafer have arranged a display of Fine Arts members' collections, which may be viewed in the Players' Founders Room during intermissions.

A light supper will follow each evening's performance.

The special exhibit will continue at the Historical Museum through June 24.

Tickets for the hour-long vaudeville show at $3 for children and adults, $2 each in groups of 10 or more, may be purchased in advance through the museum ticket office, 832-2730, and at the door.

"Bananas" is designed for families with children five years of age and older. Children younger than five will not be admitted to the auditorium.

Limited stairway seating is available at $2.50 per person. Tables for two are also available. Advance reservations are required; they may be made as early as a month ahead of time and as late as the Friday afternoon immediately prior to the desired concert date by calling the museum's ticket office, 832-2730, during business hours.

The Golden Rain Percussion Ensemble, using such instruments as brake drums, wind chimes and porcelain bowls, will perform music of Lou Harrison and others on April 15. No concerts are scheduled for the following Sunday, Easter; the month's series closes April 29 with the Pastiche Wind Quintet, Carl Nielsen's Quintet and Caribbean dances.

Look back at baskets

The art of basket making is the oldest known craft. It began 9,000 years ago; many pottery pieces unearthed by archaeologists show that soft clay was molded both inside and outside of baskets.

There are four weaving techniques used in basketry: wicker work, plaiting, twining and coiled. In Europe, handmade baskets, placed on the front doors of friends, have always played an important part in May Day celebrations.

Basket making was also a thriving industry in the United States. Evidence found in Utah shows the significance of the craft to the American Indian as early as 8400 B.C. Eighty families were involved in basket making in Dantown, Conn.; it was so important that baskets were used as legal tender for a radius of 50 miles.

The Grand Marais Chapter of Questers will learn more about basketry tomorrow, Friday, April 13, when Mrs. Stanley Smith presents her in-depth study paper on the history and art of basket making, at a meeting in the Radnor Circle home of Mrs. Joseph Thompson.

Farm, Garden Club convenes

The Vendome Road home of Mrs. Arthur Seder Jr. was the setting last Monday, April 9, for the Grosse Pointe Farm and Garden Club's flower show and judging. Hostesses were Mrs. Benjamin Stockwell and Mrs. John Tompkins.

Set aside Sunday for rose pruning

The Metropolitan Rose Society's annual pruning demonstration is scheduled for this Sunday, April 15, from noon to 4 p.m. in members' gardens. Locally, Kathy Ho, 386 Hillcrest in The Farms, and Ming Ascunzio, 19620 Shady Lane, St. Clair Shores, will host participants, armed with clippers, who wish to learn to prune a plant under the guidance of a Consulting Rosarian.

The program's emphasis is on renewing body and spirit. The churchwomen will gather for dinner at 6 p.m. tomorrow in the $3.5 million, Tudor style home of the late Matilda Dodge Wilson. They will sleep in bedrooms modeled after those in some of England's most famous palaces and manor houses.

They will breakfast at 8 a.m. Saturday and depart at 2 p.m. Mrs. James Hempstead, of Dallas, Tex., lecturer and conference leader, will guide their discussions, focusing on the topic "Created to Be Me - The Quest and the Question."

Betty Hempstead is no stranger to this area. She served as president of Church Women United of Detroit from 1972 to 1974, and as a member of the Detroit Human Relations Council. Her husband, currently pastor of East Dallas Christian Church, was minister of Woodward Avenue Christian Church from 1964 to 1975.

Mrs. Donald Keim, the Memorial Church Women's program chairman, will introduce the speaker, who has led retreats in Arizona, Texas and Mississippi. She and her husband have been active in mission work in Japan, Thailand and Mexico.

PRIVATE PROPERTY WEEK APRIL 8-14

For the 28th consecutive year, realtors throughout the nation have set aside this week to remind citizens that their rights to homeownership are precious. These rights should never be taken for granted. Rather, they must be protected and preserved for future generations.

Private property week provides an opportunity for all Americans to reflect on the fundamental value of private property and its essential importance to the stability of society. All Americans are encouraged to join with Schweitzer Real Estate/Better Homes and Gardens and all other members of the national associate of realtors in the observance of private property week.

Over 275 dealers in quality antiques and select collectibles. Guaranteed for authenticity.

Featuring 275 quality dealers (all under cover) in the finest antiques and select collectibles. Very importantly, The Antique Market is NOT A FLEA MARKET, but a place where anyone can buy fairly priced antiques and collectibles with a full money back GUARANTEE as to authenticity, provided by the antique dealers or the show manager. This is the nation's only Antiques Market where all the items are carefully screened to warrant this guarantee and to assure your buying confidence. No frustrating driving from one dealer and state to another inasmuch as 275 dealers are brought together from New England, the east and midwest, and west to this location for your convenience. Always several dealers every month who have never shown in the midwest before. Another unique feature of the market is not having the sellers set up the day before, which may have precluded other purchasers from having equal buying opportunities. "Early Birds" admitted at regular admission fee. You will find much furniture including early country, painted and decorated, fine period including Hepplewhite, Chippendale, Queen Anne, Sheraton, and Federal, folk art, textiles, silver, Canton, porcelains, glass including Sandwich, flint, and pattern, china, special collections, pocket watches, miniature lamps, stoneware, pewter, spatter, clocks, buttons, pistols and guns, jewelry, paper, Oriental rugs, advertising, bottles, art glass, dolls, toys, American Indian art, early oils, and prints.

It begins with a casting call. (Actually, it begins before that, with choosing the play, and before that, with the playwright writing the play, and before that, with the playwright's sixth grade teacher inspiring him to become a playwright . . . but for the sake of practicality, let's let that first sentence stand.)

"Some shows draw a lot of people to auditions," says Gwenn Samuel, who is directing "Whose Life Is It Anyway?" for the Grosse Pointe Theatre. "Some don't. The acting parts in this play are good enough that we got a very fine turnout. I think a lot came because of the reputation it has as an Actor's Show."

They sit, trying very hard not to be tense, on folding chairs at the back of the Rehearsal Hall in the Grosse Pointe Theatre Building on Fisher Road, waiting to be called to read for a part. They want this, or they wouldn't be here. They know they may not get this. It's community theatre, but it's very good community theatre; the standards are professional.

Come back to that Rehearsal Hall a month later, mid-point in the six-week, two evenings and every Sunday afternoon a week "Whose Life Is It Anyway?" rehearsal schedule, and the atmosphere is very different.

"Casting is one of the hardest things a director does," Gwenn says. It's not enough for someone to be perfect for a role. The company must gel. Anyone can try for a part in a GPT production, and everyone is welcome: prior experience not required. GPT takes rank amateurs and works with them in its workshop productions until they're equipped to face a general audience, but it won't put them before a general audience until they are equipped. Community theatre shouldn't mean second-rate theatre. In GPT's case, it certainly doesn't.

"We have some of the best actors I've ever seen," Gwenn says. "Our sets and costumes are always great. Our 'South Pacific' (the last show of the current season, scheduled for June) will be as sumptuous as any 'South Pacific' production anywhere."

Thirty-five hundred season ticket subscribers can't be wrong. That's the number signed up for GPT's current four-show season. The shows run nine performances in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Fries Theatre, with an extra night or two added for musicals. Given Fries' capacity and the number of $25 season ticket holders, they're pretty much sell-outs. "But (this is GPT speaking in chorus) we can always fit in a few more; there are always a few tickets left."

For the past six or seven years, an extra, non-subscription show has been offered each season. "Whose Life Is It Anyway," produced by Kay Hunt, is this year's GPT dividend. They'll be five (April 17 through 21) performances for the public, one (April 26) benefit performance for the Community Hospice Education Committee, and one (April 28) performance for the Community Theatre Association of Michigan's 1984 Spring Convention. Tickets for the public performances, at $5.50 each, may be obtained by calling 881-4004 evenings.

Back now to the Rehearsal Hall where, mid-point in the six-week "Whose Life Is It Anyway?" rehearsal schedule, the atmosphere is serious — but relaxed. The company is comfortable with one another, and beginning to be comfortable with the medical equipment, most on loan from World Medical Relief, they'll have to appear to be thoroughly familiar with during the actual performances.

The stage is blocked out. There'll be platforms at the rear and sides. "The lighting will be the set," Gwenn explains. "Lights will go up and down in various areas on various scenes. The only area never completely dark will be the center, where Kathy's lying on the hospital bed."

There are slips as the rehearsal progresses ("Sorry. Can I do that again real quick?"), but there's a general confidence. Things are gelling. It's looking good. "I think," says Gwenn, "the actors are proud of this show."

Rehearsals moved into Fries Theatre this week. By now, the play's direction has been set, the actors are secure in their interpretations — and their lines. This is the period of technical rehearsals. It would never do for a light to come up at the wrong time, a prop to be on one side of the stage when it's wanted on another.

It's also the period of anticipation. Less than a week to go, and counting. Will they like us or won't they like us? GPT's hosting the Community Theatre Association of Michigan Convention this spring; we'll be playing before people from all over the state. Before our peers. We really want to make this one good . . .

They always do want to make this one good, and they always have a good time trying. And a good part of the time, they pull it off. Which is why, for Grosse Pointe Community Theatre, it never ends.

— Janet Mueller

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the forthcoming low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — cookbook by Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth featuring, this week, BLUE RIBBON FISH DISHES.

OVEN-FRIED FISH

1 1-lb. block frozen sole, perch or flounder fillets
¼ cup Egg Beaters, well-beaten
Dash of salt and pepper
2 Tbsp. flour
½ cup unseasoned dry bread crumbs
1 Tbsp. vegetable oil
Remove fish from freezer and let thaw 10 minutes. Heat oven to 500°. Cut fish crosswise into 4 pieces. In pie plate or shallow bowl, place well-beaten "eggs." Add salt and pepper. Coat fish with flour, shaking off excess. Dip fish in egg mixture to cover, then roll in bread crumbs to coat. Put fish on rack placed over baking pan; drizzle oil over each piece. Bake 15 to 20 minutes, until fish is golden-brown on the outside, opaque in the center. Makes 4 servings.
Calories per serving about 164.
Cholesterol about 60 mgs.

FLORENTINE FILLETS

1 can (4 oz.) mushrooms, stems and pieces
2 Tbsp. margarine
½ cup chopped onions
2 Tbsp. dry vermouth
1 cup saltines, crushed
¼ tsp. white pepper
1/8 tsp. sage
1/8 tsp. mace
2 Tbsp. mushroom juice
4 sole or flounder fillets
Dash of salt
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach, thawed and drained
4 tsp. lemon juice
4 tomatoes
Italian Dressing
About 40 minutes before serving, preheat oven to 425°. Make stuffing by draining mushrooms, reserving juice. In 1 Tbsp. margarine in skillet, saute mushrooms and onions for several minutes. Add vermouth and continue to cook until onions are golden. Remove from heat; add crushed saltines, pepper, sage, mace and mushroom juice. Sprinkle fish fillets very lightly with salt. Spread with drained spinach, sprinkle with lemon juice, spread with stuffing. Roll up each fillet from short side; secure with picks. Arrange side by side, in 12x8x2-inch baking dish. Brush lightly with 1 Tbsp. margarine. Cut tops from 4 tomatoes. Place in pan; brush with Italian dressing. Bake fillets and tomatoes 25 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when pricked with a fork. Remove picks. Makes 4 servings.

Cholesterol about 70 mgs.

FILLETS OF SOLE PROVENCAL

1 pkg. (16 oz.) frozen fillets of sole
1 Tbsp. vegetable oil
½ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
3 large tomatoes, chopped (about 3 cups)
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
¼ tsp. thyme
1 can (4 oz.) mushroom stems and pieces, drained
¼ tsp. dill weed (optional)
2 Tbsp. fresh parsley, minced
Remove frozen fish from package and let stand 5 minutes. Meanwhile, heat oil in medium-size skillet over moderately high heat; when hot, add onion and garlic and cook 1 to 2 minutes, stirring frequently, until soft but not brown. Add tomatoes, salt, pepper, thyme, mushrooms and dill weed; reduce heat to moderate and cook 3 to 4 minutes. Cut block of frozen fish in half crosswise, then cut each half diagonally to make a total of 4 triangles. Arrange fish in skillet in spokelike fashion. Cover skillet; reduce heat to moderately low and simmer 20 to 25 minutes, until fish flakes easily. Sprinkle with parsley and serve from skillet. Makes 4 servings.

Sports Week

By Peggy O'Connor

It's spring cleaning time and what better place to start with than the cobwebbed closet I call my mind? And here's just a bit of what's been rattling around up there . . .

A while back, I did a column on some gutsy winter sports athletes who played over, around and above their injuries. Shortly after the column ran I heard about another local athlete who played over pain this past winter.

He's North High junior wrestler Dave Fleming, who finished sixth in the 112-pound class in the state Class A wrestling finals in March. According to his father, Bill Fleming, Dave broke his finger but managed to wrestle to the sixth spot anyway. "He didn't know it was fractured, he just knew it hurt," the senior Fleming said.

The finger wasn't the only thing Fleming broke this season. He also topped the season victory record set by his brother, 1983 state champion wrestler Greg Fleming — who now wrestles for the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame University.

That break, hopefully, was a little less painful.

100 stitches later, Grylls bounces back

These days, South High graduate Dave Grylls is riding high, doing well and training with other potential Olympians in Europe. Oh, he's a little worried about being able to peak twice this summer, once for the Olympic trials July 5, 6 and 7 in Colorado Springs, Colo.; and then again just a few weeks later at the Olympics.

But if Grylls' determination is any indication, he should have little problem peaking this summer. Especially when, just two months back, it looked like the Olympic trials would be the least of Grylls' problems.

In February, Grylls and several other cyclists moved their

With pressure off, ULS netters relax

By Peggy O'Connor

The pressure is off and Bob Wood couldn't be happier about it.

The veteran University Liggett School tennis coach and his team spent more time in front of microphones and cameras than they did on the court practicing serves last season, as the Knights set a national record for most consecutive state tennis championships by winning their 12th straight Class C-D title.

It was a hectic year that saw the pressure on ULS build from the time ESPN cable network filmed a UPS practice in Florida in March of 1983 until the Knights won four of seven flights to capture the record-setting title in Kalamazoo on June 4.

"Things got carried away, you know, with interviews and TV shows and newspaper stories. I think we were all affected by it . . . I know the pressure got to me," Wood says.

"I'm sort of glad it's all over. It's a big burden off our backs. Now we can relax, have fun and get back to playing tennis."

The Knights have lost only three players from the team that began the 1983 season. Aaron Krickstein, who started the year at No. 1 singles, later left the squad for amateur competition in Europe and is now on the professional circuit. No. 3 singles player John Ekelman and No. 1 doubles man John Polizzi have graduated.

Things are getting back to normal for the remaining players from the team which finished in the top five in the state in 1983. "There's no doubt about it. We even noticed on our Florida trip that things were different this year. The kids were saying: 'now we can go back to just playing tennis,'" Wood says.

"And we will. We're still going to play the best competition in the midwest, just like we always do."

One thing that hasn't changed since last season is the injury problem to No. 1 singles player Steve Pack. Pack injured his wrist in Florida last spring, suffered through much of last season, then had surgery on the injured joint in February.

"He's out indefinitely. He could miss a couple of weeks or he could be out the whole year," Wood said.

So the ULS lineup will feature senior Frank Crociata at No. 1 singles, sophomore Marc Hunt at No. 2, freshman David Barlow at

No. 3 singles and freshman Ashu Nautiyal at No. 4. Senior Brian Hunt and sophomore Kirk Haggarty will combine for No. 1 doubles. Senior George Haggarty and sophomore Robby Wood will be at the No. 2 doubles spot, with 10th graders John Birgbauer and Scott Watson at the No. 3 position.

Wood says the Knights have set their sights on the No. 1 spot in Class C-D once again. He'd also like to see ULS finish in the top five, all classes for what would be the 10th straight season.

Wood sees East Grand Rapids and Midland Dow as two of the state's top teams in 1984. Ann Arbor Pioneer will be right along with them, he adds.

ULS' goals are much the same as they've always been. "We always set a goal to win the state championship. We also hope that the kids will benefit by what we feel is the finest program in the country," Wood says.

And with the pressure of setting a national record behind them, the participants in that fine program might just find that 1984 will be an even better year. At least Bob Wood thinks so.

"This year, we're going to have fun."

Norsemen wouldn't mind a repeat of their 1983 season

By Peggy O'Connor

How do you top a season like the one North High's varsity tennis team had in 1983 when it won a Bi-County League title and finished sixth in the Class A state finals?

Well, if you're North coach Tom Berschback, you aim high and try to repeat that kind of season. Berschback says he expects to retain the championship in the talent-poor Bi-County League, but is a bit more cautious when it comes to predicting big things in regional and state competition.

"I'd like to see us finish in the top 10 in the state . . . but let's be reasonable and say the top 15," Berschback laughs.

"Our goal is to make that top 10, but that will be difficult because the people that are at the top spots aren't as strong as those who filled those spots last season. But we'll be stronger depth-wise than we've been in a long time," the veteran coach adds.

Berschback lost his top four singles players from last year's league champion Norsemen. And this spring, he had a problem that some of his fellow Bi-County coaches might like to have: a surplus of talent.

"I had 45 guys come out for 10 positions. That's great for the sport but it makes it difficult to choose for the coach," Berschback says. And his job got tougher this pre-season when the top singles players beat each other at least once in the race for the top positions.

Don Rice, Roger Van Pelt, Chris Hermann and Todd Kilgus will play the top flight singles positions for North this spring. Of those four, only Van Pelt and Kilgus return from the 1983 squad. Mark Young and Joe Karle, who played the No. 2 doubles spot last year, will start in the No. 1 slot this season. The remaining doubles teams are Mark Gianunzio and Dennis Kim, Drew McSkimming and Fred Kaleal, and Raoul Rayos and Jay Dansbury.

"WE ALSO HAVE several talented newcomers who challenged for the top spots this spring. You can expect to see changes during the year because these players are so close," Berschback says.

The coach admits that it's much easier on the team when the positions are set but adds that it's good for tennis when players are challenged. "Now they're ready to compete. The hardest competition of the year is to make the team. Once they've done that, they're ready to compete against the tough teams."

"And we won't have to worry about injuries quite so much this year, with all of that talent competing for a spot."

Berschback sees Southlake as North's only tough competition in the Bi-County League. The regional competition should be more difficult, he says, since "North and South are so close in talent."

Snyder on title team

Our Lady Star of the Sea High School graduate Catherine Snyder was a member of the Mount Holyoke College women's basketball team which earned a Northeast Intercollegiate Athletic Conference basketball championship in March. The Lyons were 21-3 on the season.

Snyder was 1981 Athlete of the Year and Scholar Athlete Award recipient at Star. She played varsity basketball at Mount Holyoke during her freshman year and this season, finished with 63 points in 18 games. Lyons' coach Lori Howard called Snyder "a hard worker, dedicated to her teammates."

A junior English major, Snyder was also a member of the varsity volleyball team which participated in the 1983 NCAA Division III National Championships. She is the daughter of Anne Marie and James Snyder, of Bethesda, Md.

Life after EML?

Is there anybody in the tennis talent-poor Eastern Michigan League that can challenge perennial league champion South High in 1984?

"There shouldn't be," responds veteran coach Don Zysk. A better question might be: is there life after the EML for the Blue Devil netters? Zysk hopes so.

Zysk's South squad had won four regional tennis titles in six years before finishing second last season. This year, he's shooting for the top spot once again.

"That's our goal, to win the league and finish first in the regionals. And we definitely want to qualify for the states," he says. The top two teams in regional competition are eligible for state play, but Zysk wants to be the one on top

Norsemen

"Realistically, we are in a building year since we have only two or three seniors. But we still should be very competitive."

North opened the season April 7 and plays a home match today, Thursday, April 12, at 4 p.m. against Warren Woods/Tower.

Cheerleaders are chosen

By Bif Ream
South High

The 1984-85 varsity cheerleader squad was chosen at South last week.

The squad consists of Christa Huthwaite, Meg Meghielse, Karin Seyler, Kris Hager, Anna Butala, Jenny Collier, Holly Quinlan, Diane Knaus, Kathy Amberg, and Gwynn Adik. Captains Desiree Magness and Amy Andreou were also chosen and alternate Kim Kurrie. Returning varsity cheerleader Diane Knaus said, "I think this year we'll be better than any other year because we're determined to be the best we can."

This year there was a change in the way the cheerleaders were chosen. The past years, attitude and perkiness were the main concern, but this year the girls were judged on their gymnastic and cheering ability.

As usual, the cheerleaders will be selling products to pay for their cheerleading camp visits and part of their uniforms this year, they will be selling first-aid kits.

The girls will attend two camps, one in Ypsilanti where they will commute to for four days. This camp is to learn and not to compete with other squads. They will also attend the University of Michigan cheerleading camp where they will compete with other teams.

"I'm really looking forward to next year's cheerleading season; it should be exciting," concluded Karin Seyler.

in 1984, he adds. The last week before South opened its season on April 11 was an important one. That's when the singles and doubles spots were settled. Earlier in the week, Zysk hadn't nailed down the final positions on the squad. Poor spring weather had curtailed much of South's outdoor tennis activity.

Fred Fordon, Peter Wack, Thad Angyal and possibly Robbie Hackman will fight it out for the top singles spots, Zysk says. Returning doubles players are Erik Nicholson, Curt Edwards, David Gualtieri, Kevin Monahan and Dan Mooney. "Where they'll play, I don't know," Zysk says.

What those names add up to is depth, a commodity South hasn't had a chance to enjoy in recent years. "I think we should have some decent depth. Now we're replacing our No. 1, 2 and 3 singles players from last year and looking at a No. 4 singles player and a new boy, but it's nice to have that depth."

If that depth can help polish off a few EML foes and nab goal No. 1 for South, what then?

"North should be good competition in the regionals. And Fraser looks like it might have a good year... yes, we'll have our work cut out for us in that regional," Zysk says.

South's league opener was Wednesday, April 11, in a 4 p.m. match at Anchor Bay.

Wimbledon women win

Wimbledon Racquet Club's women's squash team was successful in its quest for a Michigan Squash Racquets Association Women's league championship this year, earning their trophies at the M.S.R.A. banquet held at the Birmingham Athletic Club March 31.

Accepting the championship awards for their vacationing teammates — Susan Weiss and Carol Von Stade, of the Park — were team captain Susan Hartnett, of the City, and Renee "Tyne" McDuffee, of the Park.

Lions will walk for sight

The Northeast Detroit Lions Club will hold a "Lions' Journey for Sight" Walk-a-Thon at 10 a.m. Saturday, April 14. The Walk-a-Thon begins and ends at the Belle Isle Casino, with a course of five miles of paved riverfront road.

Soft drinks will be provided for walkers and three oldies bands will play in the Casino from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Purpose of the event is to raise money for sight and hearing-impaired services.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Lions Club at 343-9014.

Piche has hustle

Glenn Piche, a 5-11 junior guard from South High was a member of the 1983-1984 men's basketball team at Grand Valley State College.

Piche was the winner of the Hustle award for the second year in a row. He played in all 28 games this season for the Lakers and averaged 5.2 points a game. He had 24 steals and 39 assists.

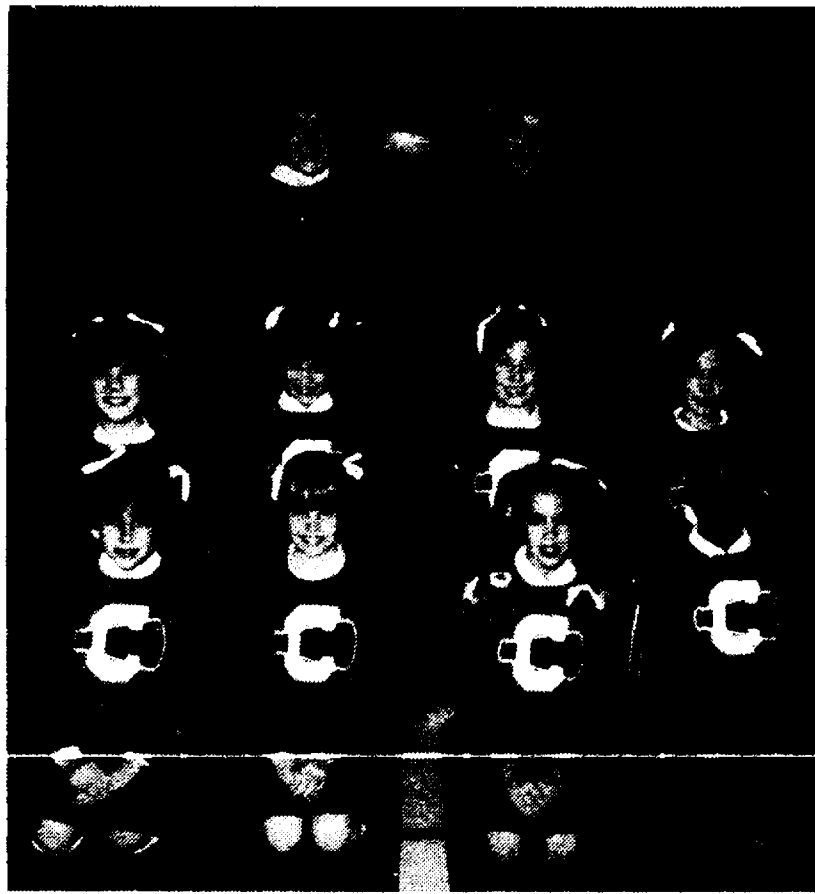

Grand Valley, under Coach Tom Villemure, finished with an 18-10 overall record, and a 10-6 GLIAC record, coming in third.

Mullen helps team to eighth

Pointe native Mark Mullen was a member of the Hamilton College men's swim team which recently ended its 1983-84 season with an eighth place finish among the 15 teams at the New York State Division III Swimming and Diving Championships.

Mullen performed well in the 200 and 55 freestyle events in the states. A sophomore, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Mullen, of Grand Marais Boulevard.

The male marsupial mole of Australia is, born, eats enough to stay alive until a four-day reproduction season in June, mates once, then he drops dead.

Cheers . . .

St. Clare's three cheerleading squads enjoyed successful seasons this year, as the seventh and eighth grade teams qualified for the finals and the fifth and sixth grade squad (pictured above) placed second in the C.Y.O. finals. The second-place team included, from left to right, (front row) Ann Marie Swink, Colleen Dailey, Katie Quick, Cathra Beumer; (middle) Darcy DeSmyter, Beth Hoye, Tara Lullis and Amy Walker. Coaches Cathy Bove and Wendy Honstain, South High seniors (top) also led the seventh grade squad, which included Jessie Gainer, Marilyn Niforos, Molly Sullivan, JoEllen DeRonghe, Shannon Sullivan, Dena Hammons and Holly Cole. The eighth grade team included Andrea Niforos, Melissa Petersmarck, Karen Valent, Mary Kay Donovan, Kim LaBanche and Lila Wajeah and were coached by Pat Slater.

training camp to Tucson, Ariz., because the Colorado Springs weather was too cold for comfort. While training in Tucson, Grylls was run over by the training van which follows the cyclists.

The van ran over both of Grylls' legs, but didn't break any bones or cause muscle damage. There was, however, a matter of some 100 stitches. "Dave was very fortunate that that was the extent of the injury. That would have been eight years of work for him down the drain," says his mother, Mrs. John Grylls.

Grylls was also fortunate to live in San Diego, and able to take advantage of the excellent training and rehabilitation facilities at San Diego State, his mother says. He healed quickly and returned to train in Texas and now Europe. Mrs. Grylls says her son expects to remain in Europe until the first of May before returning to the U.S. and participating in a series of qualifying races before the July trials.

And what did the Pan Am Games champion cyclist have to say about his harrowing experience? "He looked at it as a lucky break," Mrs. Grylls says. "He told us: 'Now I don't have to worry about peaking too soon.'"

But maybe next time, he can delay his peak performance with little less drastic means.

What does it all mean?

I've also been spending a lot of time lately thinking about some of the stuff I get in the mail.

Like the recent release I got from the University of Detroit. U of D is always sending me interesting tidbits, but none so curious as a recent release which noted that a certain U of D basketball player had been named to the All-Junior College Transfer Team, honorable mention.

The All-Junior College Transfer Team? Give me a break. What's next, the "Over 6-5, Wears Glasses and Parts Hair on Left Side" First Team Squad? Or the "Sat on the Bench, But We Feel Sorry For Them" All-America Team?

And speaking of strange, could someone please explain to me why the Detroit Tiger Baseball Club sent me 146 Tiger schedules? They came last week, bundled into two separate packages, one with 83 schedules and one with 63.

Now, I could be wrong, but isn't it a little weird to count such odd amounts of schedules. I mean, if I was doing it, I'd count out 75 in each pack, or 50, or 100, or 10. Or one. But 146 split into 83 and 63?

I guess what I really want to know is: what am I going to do with 146 Tiger schedules?

On second thought, keep your suggestions to yourselves.

Their loss is kids' gain

Caring people in the Grosse Pointe area are losing weight and Michigan's kids will be the real winners.

It's not too late to join hundreds of dieters in the state who are participating in the Diet Center Slim-A-Thon to raise funds for the second annual Children's Miracle Network Telethon to be held over the weekend of June 2-3.

The telethon will be broadcast locally over Channel 20 and stars Marie Osmond, John Schneider, Merlin Olsen and Marilyn McCoo. Bob Hope is National Honorary Chairman, and Mrs. James Blanchard (Paula) is Michigan's Honorary Chairperson. Local personalities Dick Purtan and Gene Taylor will host the Michigan segments of the 21-hour broadcast. The telethon is sponsored by the Osmond foundation and the National Association of Children's Hospitals.

By signing up sponsors who will donate an agreed-upon amount for each pound you lose by May 15 through the Diet Center programs, you can be part of the national effort to raise funds to treat all children's health problems, including Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS), muscular dystrophy, cerebral palsy, birth defects and accident-related problems, according to a Children's Hospital spokesman.

Funds raised in Michigan will benefit Children's Hospital of Michigan in Detroit and the C.S. Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor.

If you want to be healthier and help kids be healthier, too, contact Stuart and Mary Busse, managers of the Diet Center of Grosse Pointe at 63 Kercheval in the Farms, phone 882-5885.

Center to host a teen dance

All Grosse Pointe students in grades seven through nine are invited to a teen dance at the War Memorial Friday, April 13, from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.

The procedure for purchasing tickets has been changed. Tickets will no longer be available at the door the night of each dance. All tickets must be purchased before 5 p.m. the day of the dance.

"J.R. Entertainment" will provide the recorded music. Admission is $2.

Hunt Club hosts shows

The Grosse Pointe Hunt Club will host three horse shows this summer, according to an announcement by Richard J. Shenkus, the GP Hunt Club president, and Rosemary Gordon, chairman of the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club Horse Show Committee.

The expanded show season begins the weekend of July 28 and 29 with an exhibition to benefit the Detroit Institute for Children, and a dressage show.

Dressage is a system of skilled horsemanship which draws its foundation from the earliest link between rider and animal. Nurtured in the fine riding academies of Europe, this graceful and difficult sport has captured the attention of horsemen around the world, and is rapidly gaining in popularity in the United States. Dressage will be featured as part of the equestrian competition during the Olympic Games in Los Angeles this summer.

The benefit of the Detroit Institute for Children begins Saturday, July 28 with an early evening outdoor exhibition of top horsemanship by the Midwest's most accomplished riders, followed by a buffet dinner and other activities at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club.

Last year, the exhibition featured the Detroit Mounted Police Drill Team, carriage driving specialist Carol Becker and dressage rider Mari Zduinick. A crowd of about 500 turned out for the show. The benefit exhibition and buffet dinner are open to the public. Reservations for dinner will be required. Tickets for the exhibition will be available in advance through the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club or at the gate.

The benefit will be followed by a dressage show featuring Midwest Dressage Association medal classes on Sunday, July 29. The public is invited; no admission will be charged.

Two hunter-jumper shows have also been added to the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club's summer schedule. The first, recognized by the Mid-Michigan Hunter Jumper Association, will take place Sunday, Aug. 26. Spectators may watch free of charge.

The second hunter-jumper show, recognized by the American Horse Shows Association, will take place Sunday, Sept. 23. It will be preceded by a Grosse Pointe Hunt Club schooling horse show on Saturday, Sept. 22. No admission will be charged.

Grosse Pointe Hunt Club riders, both juniors and adults, will compete in all of the shows.

The Grosse Pointe Hunt Club is one of the oldest hunt clubs in the Midwest. The Club's involvement in the equestrian world remains strong and in addition to riding, the Club offers tennis, swimming and paddle tennis.

AAA sells tiger tickets

Tickets to Detroit Tigers home games are available to the public at computer-equipped Automobile Club of Michigan offices.

"With our new computerized service, we provide reserved or box seats to Tigers home games at statewide locations," said Lincoln Cavalieri Jr., Auto Club Ticketing manager. "This is an expansion of the broad entertainment and travel services we offer to the public."

Tickets are available for all Tigers home games except the April 10 opener. Tickets for night games may be purchased until 2 p.m. on game day. Tickets for weekend games may be purchased until office closing on the Friday before the game. Auto Club offices are closed Saturday and Sunday.

The Auto Club's computerized ticketing service for AAA members and non-members is called ACT II (Auto Club Ticketing, Phase Two). It is an expansion of the first phase of ticketing, launched with the sale of Detroit Lions tickets two years ago.

The public also may buy tickets for Boblo Island and events at Meadowbrook and the Silverdome at Auto Club offices.

The cost of Tiger tickets is $9 for box seats and $7.50 for reserved seats, plus a 50 cents per ticket fee for those purchased from AAA. Payment may be made by cash, MasterCard or VISA.

Tiger tickets are available at 40 Auto Club offices statewide, including all full-service branches in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties, the Renaissance Center Travel and the Livonia Claim Center.

South honors athletes

The final winners of 1984 winter sports awards night were announced last week. Those honored included athletes from the wrestling and hockey teams.

Varsity ice hockey winners were freshman Evan Frakes, most improved; senior Rich Suhrheinrich, the coaches' award; senior Dan Follis, most valuable; and junior Phil Pitters, the best plus/minus player.

Wrestling winners included Marty Hoffman, as the most improved; Keith Carrier, fastest fall; and Pete Hedmark, honored for the most wins, pins and valuable.

Woods' Smith is district commander

Theodore H. Smith of the Woods was installed as District Commander of the United States Power Squadron at its District 9 Change of Watch ceremony Saturday, March 24, during the District's Spring Conference held at the South Bend's Century Center.

The theme of the conference was "Education in the USPS," which was highlighted in seminars for Class Chairmen and Instructors from both the public Basic Boating Course and the members-only self-education courses.

Commander Smith and his wife, Marjorie, have been in active boating for more than 15 years. Smith joined the Grosse Pointe Power Squadron in 1969 and became commander in 1978. He has been on district bridge for the last five years.

Other officers inducted included Executive Officer William Morrison of Saginaw; Educational Officer John Altstetter of Grosse Ile; Administrative Officer Gene VanRhee of Kalamazoo; Secretary Richard Jarmon of Birmingham; and Treasurer Lewis Dance of Dearborn.

USPS is composed of over 450 local squadron units, with several in the Macomb area. It is a non-profit fraternal body, best known for its public boating safety classes which have been attended by over two and a half million persons.

Attention women runners . . .

All women runners (and walkers) are welcome to join a training run, held each Thursday at 6:15 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Total Runner Store at 20641 Mack Avenue in the Woods.

North tops South twice in baseball season opener

By Rick Markel
North High

The strong and confident Norsemen baseball team last week took the field for the first time this season and promptly swept rival South in a hotly-contested double header. North trailed in both games and looked rusty at times, but in the end won by scores of 7-5 and 9-6.

In the first game John Matouk and Steve Walker paced the offense. Matouk scored three runs and added two hits. Meanwhile, starting pitcher Walker got three hits, including a double. Dennis D'Agnes got the win in relief for North. He came on after a four-inning stint by Walker and pretty much held the Devils in check.

In the nightcap, North got some solid hitting and excellent pitching. Dave Waldeck led the hitting spree, scoring four runs. Waldeck had two hits and four RBI. Walker and Matouk also added two hits a piece. The big blow was Shawn Dowden's key, two-run single that broke the game open in the sixth.

Dan Kopitzke got the well deserved win, but the real story was the fine job done by sophomore reliever Craig Engel who earned a save. With the two victories, North has once again re-established itself as a state power.

Coach Frank Sumbera was generally pleased with the wins, noting that North "hit the ball pretty well for the first game." But Sumbera did feel that the pitching wasn't as sharp as he expected. "It's always a tall-tale of how well you prepared in the spring," Sumbera said of the early wins.

Typically, the strengths of this year's Norsemen baseball team are pitching and defense. These are the areas that Sumbera emphasizes the most and feels are the key to winning games. The pitching, although unproven, should be strong with starters like Walker and Kopitzke who will both see better days. Defensively North is as solid as usual with no major holes.

Hitting-wise North will be potent but not as powerful as in previous years. Therefore, you can expect to see more bunting and stealing from this year's squad. The base stealing threats on this team are numerous, although the main ones are Mike Hall, Frank Vento and Shawn Dowden.

One thing for sure is that North has a good bench and will go to it without hesitation. Against South, everybody got a chance to play. Younger players like Vento, Engel, Kopitzke and Widenbach are relative newcomers who should help out greatly.

North's next home game will be Wednesday, April 18th, at 4 p.m. against Clintondale.

Netters win

The boys' tennis team got off to a good start with a third place finish in the Woodhaven Tournament. Top finishers for North were the

No. 3 doubles team of Fred Kaleal and Drew McSkimming who won their competition. Finishing second for North was Roger VanPelt in the No. 3 singles and Don Rice in No. 2 singles. Todd Kilgus also took a third place finish for North in the No. 4 singles competition.

Girls on track

Two down and eight to go for North's girls' track team as it rolled up consecutive early season victories over Warren Woods Tower (81-47) and Sterling Heights Ford (88-46). In command of both meets, nearly everything went right for North, with the exception of two key losses. Sue Roland was lost to injury and Pam Boesiger to illness.

Early indications show North to have a balanced squad. The team's forte is in the running events, but Coach Chuck Buhagiar feels the squad will also be very competitive in the 'field' events. Talent isn't the only thing balanced on the girls' track team, experience is as well. It appears that the Norsemen have the perfect mixture of experienced seniors and helpful freshmen.

North relies in its two senior sprinters — Stacie Williams and Amy Dornbrock. Another senior, Janet Wesselmann, will solidify the distance events. The key to this season, as it has been in past seasons, is to defeat L'Anse Creuse. North has had a 9-1 record in the past three years with L'Anse Creuse handing North its three defeats in the past three years. Schedule-wise, South will also offer another difficult challenge to North.

Buhagiar talks about the injury situation. "If we can get everyone healthy, we can have a good season." He is greatly pleased with the team at this point. "I'm happy with our progress," says Buhagiar. "We're hungry."

A three-time repeating regional champion, the girls' track team would like to once again repeat as a regional champion. They also have their sights set on a first place finish in the league and an undefeated season. Getting off to a 2-0 start with everything going well, the team should be on its way to meeting its goals.

The boys' track team split two meets last week, first losing to Warren Woods Tower 90-42, then bouncing back with a 79½-56½ victory over Utica Ford.

Steve Saigh led the way against Tower as he won both the long jump and 100 race. Brian Bergeron also won the discus event with a throw of 123 feet, 1 inch.

Bergeron came back to win the discus throw two days later against Utica Ford. Other outstanding performers in the Ford meet were Saigh, who won the long jump and the 100 and 200 races, along with Pete Ferrara who won the 300 hurdles.

North stands at 1-1 with upcoming road meets against Lakeview and Brablec.

Kickers are 2-0

Picking up right where they left off, last year's North's girls' soccer team racked up two very impressive victories. On "opening day" the Norsemen offense turned it on while the defense shut 'em down as North took a 14-0 decision over Dearborn Fordson. The team soon followed that win with a 7-2 victory over Dearborn.

A balanced attack that featured six different Norsemen scorers was the difference in the Fordson game. Ann Verona, who was making her first appearance in a varsity game, recorded the shut out. Not to be out-done, Amelia Dugan and Deann Burt each slammed down four goals.

It was a lot tougher against Dearborn but Dugan and Burt were just as impressive as they scored three and two goals, respectively. Shannon Armstrong and Alexa Parmenter each added a tally for North to make the final 7-2.

The Norsemen are now 2-0 looking very impressive as they head into a tough home game against Utica on Friday, April 13 at 4 p.m.

Defense key for SH JV

By Mark Froelich
South High

Strong defense could be the key to a successful 1984 season for the South High junior varsity baseball team. With the new season comes a new head coach, Mike Johnson. Johnson has spent the last 18 years coaching for the Babe Ruth league in Grosse Pointe Farms.

While coaching the Farms Babe Ruth league, Johnson was aware of a lot of the talent connected to the league. Now, coaching the JV team at South, Johnson has an edge over other first-year coaches by simply knowing the quality of his players. More than half of the 18 players on the JV team played in the city leagues.

"We have a talented group of youngsters on this team," said Johnson. "I know most of the kids on the team from the Little League, so I am already aware of some of their talent."

This year's team looks especially strong, mainly because of its infield defense. Tom Fellows (first base), Bill Adihoch (second), Scott Stafford (third), Sean Bruce (short), and Steve Kinsley (catcher) will anchor the infield duties. Outfielders Jason Colegrove (LF), Mike MacMichael (CF) and Ted Kolp (RF) should get the job done in their respective positions.

The big question is pitching. The JV team could lose two of its finest pitchers to the varsity squad. Rich Cordova and Rick Leonard might be moved up to the varsity level. Because the JV team acts as a "minor" league to the varsity team, players with outstanding talent could be moved up.

Even if Cordova and Leonard are lost to the varsity, the pitching staff will still be quite solid. MacMichael, Stafford, Steve Gedman, and Brady Kraushaar are all starters. Jerry Joliet and Scott Tucker are possible candidates for the bullpen, although Johnson says he could see anyone on his staff pitching relief.

Offensively, the Blue Devils have three solid hitters who will carry most of the load. Right-fielder Colegrove, catcher Kinsley, and center-fielder MacMichael are the team's three biggest guns offensively. According to Johnson, Colegrove looks to be the biggest threat at the plate.

"He has the ability to hit for power and a high (batting) percentage," noted Johnson.

As for the question every sports fan wants to know, do they have a shot at the title? Johnson had definitely made his point clear on that topic, saying, "Based on the team now, I'll be disappointed if we don't win (the EML)."

ULS opens tennis season

The University Liggett School varsity tennis team opened its season last Wednesday, April 4, with a convincing 7-0 victory over Mumford High School. Individual winners for ULS were No. 1 Singles, Frank Crociata; No. 2 Singles, Marc Hunt; No. 3 Singles, David Barlow; No. 4 Singles, Ashu Nautiyal; No. 1 Doubles, Brian Hunt and Kirk Haggarty; No. 2 Doubles, George Haggarty and Robby Wood, and No. 3 Doubles, John Birgbauer and Scott Watson.

On Friday, April 6, the Knights traveled to Cleveland to play the University School/Cleveland and to participate in the Medina, Ohio Tennis Classic. ULS was defeated by the University School, 7-0. "The University School/Cleveland is one of the best high school tennis teams in the country year in and year out," commented ULS coach Bob Wood. "However, this has to be the first time in my 19 years at ULS that we didn't even win a set!"

On Saturday, April 7, the Knights finished third in the eight-team Medina Classic. Hunt and Haggarty at No. 1 Doubles and Haggarty and Wood at No. 2 Doubles were runners-up in their respective flights.

This Friday and Saturday, April 13 and 14, ULS travels to Kalamazoo to participate in the Kalamazoo Central Invitational.

Baseball preview

The ULS varsity baseball team posted a commendable 18-6 record in the 1983 season but only three players from that team will return this year.

In 1983, Oliver Binns started every game in right field and was among the league leaders in on-base percentage (.580). This season the senior will move to center field and bat in the leadoff position.

The other returning players are sophomores. Brian David was the left fielder most of last year, but will be the starting catcher this season. David had three game-winning hits in 1983. Costa Papista, a left-handed pitcher, was 4-1 last spring. He also displayed strong hitting ability and will fill in at first base, outfield, or as a designated hitter when not on the mound.

Top candidates for infield jobs at this early stage are Tom Giftos, Chris Tincu, Joe Jurewicz, Chris Butler and Harold Colby. Outfield prospects include Mike Isip and Denis Luz. Freshman Domenic Tringale has shown promise as a pitcher.

When asked about the upcoming season Coach Glynn Conley said, "Our goals are to learn to play as a team and to build the foundations for a very good team next year. I'm looking forward to working with these young players as they develop their skills."

Track team is young

The ULS boys' varsity track team will open its season on Tuesday, April 17, at 4 p.m., hosting Dearborn Heights Riverside.

ULS will be fielding a young team this year.

Call him coach...

That's "coach" Pat Coyle, of Grosse Pointe, helping psyche up his winning Albion Youth Recreation basketball team. Coyle, a senior, is one of 15 Albion College Sigma Nu fraternity members who volunteer their time to the league, spending Saturday mornings working with more than 50 Albion area fourth and fifth grade basketball players.

Sunset Race series set

The Lake Shore Sail Club will hold its Sunset Race Series on Wednesday evenings again this year.

The races start and finish at buoy B3, north of Gaukler Pointe on Lake St. Clair. Registration fee is $15 for a single series or $29 for combined. Registration is restricted to the first 175 applicants; applications must be received by April 29.

Further details and an entry form may be obtained from Doug Carlson, 904 Berkshire, Grosse Pointe Park, Mich., 48230.
