Tom, it's for you

Two of the most important requirements for becoming a reporter are the abilities to ask questions and to listen to people. Some people and certain stories are fun to talk to and easy to write about.

Others are tougher. It's more difficult than you think to corner people verbally and hit them with tough questions without backing down or questioning your choice of profession.

Ironically, reporters often get questioned in return. Mostly it's over the phone by people who are drunk, lonely or slightly out of their skulls.

Sure, we get legitimate questions too. Callers who don't know who their congressman is, or want the date of the next election, please. Some callers are stranger. A lady called me and asked what the gestation period of a mouse was. So who am I, Marlin Perkins? I told her it was 13 days. I think I was in the ball park.

Someone else wanted to get in touch with a magician. Not a specific magician, mind you. Any magician would do. As luck would have it, I knew a magician and had him give her a call.

Drunks are easy to handle. You just agree with them, listen for a while, (if you're not on deadline), then disengage yourself gingerly, like climbing through a barbed wire fence.

Lonely people are much more difficult, at least for me. You can tell from their conversation just how desperate they are. You have to be desperate to call a strange name seen over a story or to hear a stranger's voice in a busy newsroom.

Usually, they talk about a story in general, but soon bits of their life appear and gather on your desk, forming themselves into a gray puzzle for which so many pieces are missing.

I always listen and find myself nodding at what they're saying, as if they're sitting in a chair before me. Bartenders and reporters have more in common than alcohol.

I try to disengage myself as gently as possible. I listen, linger, then leave. When they ask if they can call again, I usually say yes. They rarely do. They realize other people have lives and work of their own. They always end by apologizing for taking up so much of my time.

As for the average "space case," most reporters usually enjoy getting the "Twilight Zone" calls. It may sound slightly cruel, but we love to exchange them, like Marines swapping war stories.

Sports editor Peggy O'Connor can tell you of the woman who called and told of her amazing power to renew old luggage just by looking at it. (Which reminds me of an old joke about wallets turning into suit cases, but we won't go into that now.)

She also said she could make old diamond rings sparkle like new, or change a plain ring into a diamond ring, all just by looking at them. When she asked Peggy if she'd like a demonstration, Peg said "Sure, I can always use another diamond" (Continued on Page 10A)

Village seeks high court ruling on Ford House

By Mike Andrzejczyk
The Village of Grosse Pointe Shores and South Lake schools will ask the state Supreme Court to review last week's appeals court decision that granted the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House tax exempt status for 1980 and 1981.

The two bodies may be forced to repay the lion's share of the $204,000 plus interest that the estate paid in property taxes in those years.

The appellate court ruling could also settle the estate's appeals for 1982 and 1983 before the Michigan Tax Tribunal. Those cases involving several hundred thousand dollars, were held in abeyance pending the outcome of the appeals court case.

Village Attorney William Killbrew said he was unsure whether the state's high court would consider hearing the case. Trustees asked Killbrew to prepare the necessary application for the appeal at their regular Tuesday morning meeting, May 22.

Ford House director Paul Alandt said he was "very pleased" with the court's decision, and called the ruling a vindication of his efforts to open the home to the public through tours and other events.

The decision will "in no way" affect the operation of the estate as a cultural organization, Alandt said. "Hopefully, it will continue the way it has been," he added.

No formula was set forth by the appellate court for repayment of the taxes and, because of the attempt to appeal, home administrators are moving slowly in deciding what to do with the refund, Alandt said, adding there are projects on the drawing board under consideration.

One matter that will come up in board meetings will be the possibility of making a voluntary contribution to the village, Alandt said. Tax-exempt organizations sometimes make such contributions in recognition of services rendered to the local government.

While Ford officials are pleased with the decision, the four parties who will have to repay the taxes — the Shores, Lake Township, South Lake schools and Macomb County — are obviously not pleased.

South Lake school officials held a special meeting Monday, May 21, to begin their appeal, according to assistant superintendent Jerry Parker. The district could lose as much as $300,000 if the appellate court ruling is extended to 1982 and 1983, he added.

Besides having to repay the 1980 and 1981 taxes with interest, the district would also have to repay the county for the 1982 and 1983 property taxes for the estate the district collected from the Macomb County delinquent tax fund.

The continued tax exemption for the Ford House will cost the school district $75,000 a year, Parker said.

The Shores and Lake Township will also be hurt, village officials said. The Shores will lose about 2 percent of its total tax base, but the township will lose a third of its tax base, officials said.

The village and the township will have to repay a little more than $60,000 in taxes with 12 percent interest, officials said. Because no taxes were collected from the estate in 1982 or 1983, no additional repayments will be necessary, they added.

Village trustees, at their regular Tuesday morning meeting, decided to file the application for appeal of the decision with the state Supreme Court. The high court will decide whether it wants to take up the matter, officials said.

Lake Township officials will meet Wednesday, May 30, to decide whether they also want to file an application for appeal, which must be done by June 3.

St. Clair buys Austin for senior center

By Harriet Nolan

St. Clair Health Corporation's plans to purchase and develop the former Wayne County Community College site at Warren near Mack Avenue hinge on state approval to develop a 200 bed nursing home there. The Michigan Department of Public Health must give approval whenever a health care facility wants to create additional bed space.

St. Clair applied for the customary Certificate of Need (CON) several months ago along with other institutions that wanted to expand their operations. The corporation learned two weeks ago that a hospital in another suburb got the nod instead, said L. Michael Smith, vice-president of corporate development for St. John Hospital.

He said the decision was based on demographic information more than 10 years old. An appeal has been filed with the state using more recent population figures and Smith said the hospital is confident the new information will result in approval.

"There is a growing need for nursing home beds and senior citizen housing on the east side of Detroit," said Andrew Dahl, executive vice-president for St. Clair Health Corporation.

"As part of our total health care mission it's only natural that the St. Clair Health Corporation, with its hospital ambulatory care facilities, alcohol treatment center and other home care and outreach agencies could and should provide this kind of care for our senior citizens," he added.

The 12-acre parcel of land which originally housed Austin Catholic High School will also be used to develop a senior citizens residence and hospice center.

The selling price of the land and buildings was set at $1.8 million and further development of a 200-bed nursing home would cost another $5 million. The state is expected to give a decision on the appeal within 90 days.

Park PSO debate heats up

By Harriet Nolan

It appears that Grosse Pointe park police are more receptive to having a public safety program than firefighters. At least that's what they told the citizens commission studying the issue at its May 16 meeting. Park firemen said they couldn't begin to make any kind of decision until they saw a definite plan.

A public safety department would combine police and firefighter forces into a single unit. Policemen would assume firefighting duties and vice versa.

"We're not opposed to the concept, but we want some questions answered," said police Sgt. David Hiller.

He listed as top priorities questions concerning manpower, wages, work hours and remuneration police would get for cross-training.

Currently, said Hiller, police work eight hour shifts and every two weeks rotate to days, midnights and afternoon schedules. Normally they work six days and have two off. Every fifth week they have four days off.

What they would prefer to work is a 24-hour shift like firemen do. Hiller said the swing shift is disruptive to the metabolism as the men are constantly having to readjust to a different schedule. Such a change would be a moral boost.

He also said that a 24-hour shift would increase coverage from four or five, to six men on any given shift.

At the present time firemen are mandated by state and federal laws to work 24-hour shifts. A normal routine would be 24-hours on the job, followed by 24-hours off. After three consecutive on and off days, the men are given four days off.

"I'm not saying that any of us are advocating PSO, but we're here to assist the committee and with proper training it will work," said patrolman Steve Molitor, who represents the police union. "This needs everyone's cooperation."

But Joe Bialk, Park firefighter and union representative, accused police of wanting public safety "only for selfish motives. What about community responsibility? This isn't integration, but elimination, everyone becomes a police officer."

Bialk has said in the past that the only good reason (Continued on Page 4A)

Dedications highlight holiday

Memorial Day weekend promises to be busier than usual this year in Grosse Pointe.

All the city parks will be open by this weekend, plus St. Paul on the Lake and the War Memorial will dedicate plaques respectively honoring Father John Elsen, St. Paul's founder, and veterans of the Viet Nam war.

In years past, St. Paul has offered a Memorial Day Mass in the parish cemetery on Moross Road, where parishioners would remark that Father Elsen, who built the church in 1899, was buried in various locations in the cemetery.

Father Elsen's funeral Mass, offered in 1899, was the first Mass celebrated in the church he built. As a pivotal figure in the long history of St. Paul, many parishioners felt it would be appropriate to mark the site of Father Elsen's grave.

In August, 1983, his remains were located in St. Paul Cemetery, with the aid of an archeologist and an anthropologist. This Monday, May 28, the church will dedicate a marker placed on the site of Father Elsen's grave as part of the 150th anniversary observances of St. Paul parish.

A Mass will be observed in the cemetery, beginning at 9:30 a.m. and celebrated by Monsignor Francis X. Canfield, pastor of St. Paul. The public is invited to attend.

To date, 340 names have been listed on this temporary wooden plaque (shown above) honoring Grosse Pointe Viet Nam veterans. The plaque will be dedicated Monday, May 28, at the Center.

The public is also invited to attend the War Memorial's annual lakeside Memorial Day Service to be held Monday, May 28 at 11 a.m. A special feature of this year's service will be the presentation of the

Viet Nam plaque by George J. Reindel III, and Wayne Wegner, honoring all Pointers who served in Southeast Asia during the conflict. The Monday morning service will include the Raising and Half

CAR TALK

From RAY LAETHEM
Pontiac, GMC, Truck

BY RAY LAETHEM NEAR END BLUES

... 2 800 average symptoms coming from the rear of your car, treat them as warning signals.

For example, if there is a heavy blue smoke blowing out of the tail pipe, that could mean you have oil on the cylinders caused by worn piston rings. On the other hand, black smoke indicates that a carburetor adjustment is probably needed. If there are flames accompanied by a deep roaring sound coming from the rear, you can pretty well count on a problem in the exhaust system. Have it checked as soon as possible because it can allow the seepage of carbon monoxide into the passenger compartment.

If there is a soft popping noise from the tail pipe while the car is idling or a loud backfiring, you have a problem in the ignition system. It could be faulty spark plugs or defective ignition wiring. Another good prospect is incorrect timing or a carburetor air-fuel mixture that is too lean. Listen to strange new sounds. They're trying to tell you something is ailing.

Buckle Up campaign aims to cut holiday car deaths

An eight-day voluntary buckle up program aimed at state motorists was launched May 21, by the Grosse Pointe Woods Police Department and the Automobile Club of Michigan Grosse Pointe Branch.

The two organizations are urging motorists to use seat belts during "The All American Buckle-Up" from Thursday, May 24, to Thursday, May 31, for two reasons — to develop the habit and to dispel myths about belt usage. The campaign's goal is to double the 18 percent of motorists now using seat belts.

Woods Public Safety Director Jack Patterson and the Auto Club's Grosse Pointe Branch Manager Donald Yungkans kicked off the program.

"The All American Buckle-Up includes the 76 hour Memorial Day weekend holiday. The program will be kicked off nationwide at a news conference in Lexington, Ky., on May 24. Michigan State Police Commander Gerald Hough, as national "Operation CARE" chairman, will participate in the national kick off with the other state enforcement agencies.

To emphasize the need for seat belts, the State Police will beef up highway surveillance this holiday, while the Auto Club's "Bring 'Em Back Alive" Holiday News Service, will issue hourly travel and traffic bulletins to help motorists for the 20th consecutive year.

Last Memorial Day weekend, 13 traffic deaths were recorded in Michigan. Over the past five Memorial Day holidays in Michigan, only one of the 45 persons killed in a motor vehicle was wearing a seat belt. "If all Michigan drivers who have belts in their vehicles wore them, a minimum of 300 lives could be saved annually," Patterson said.

In addition to "buckling up" each time they drive, motorists are urged to turn on their headlights during daylight hours this holiday, to remind other motorists to wear belts.

"I believe in safety belts," emphasized Patterson. "Michigan State Police are required to wear safety belts while working, a policy which has resulted in preventing and reducing major injuries to troopers involved in serious accidents."

The Auto Club's Yungkans noted some of the most common reasons given by those who do not regularly wear their safety belts are fear of being trapped under water or in a fire, being unable to be thrown clear of an accident and concern that belts will wrinkle clothing and restrain movement.

"Being thrown clear in an accident is the worst thing that can happen to someone," Yungkans explained. "Additionally, only one-half of the 1 percent of all accidents involve someone trapped under water or in a fire. If someone was trapped, use of seat belt should assure the victim will remain conscious and able to escape."

Yungkans added that if 34 percent of the motorists wore their safety belts, not only would more lives be saved, but an Auto Club analysis shows traffic injuries could be cut by nearly 50 percent.

The AAA Holiday News Service will broadcast hourly traffic safety and travel bulletins to more than 160 Michigan radio stations from 3 p.m. Friday, May 25, to 11 p.m. Monday, May 28, 1984.

During the 78-hour holiday, the Michigan Department of Transportation estimates motorists on state roads will log 720 million miles, up 4 percent over the 1983 Memorial Day weekend. The holiday officially begins at 6 p.m. Friday and runs through midnight Monday.

A Memorial Day weekend photography trip to Toronto is being offered by the James A. Messana photography workshops.

The Canadian city offers a number of subjects for photographers, including the world's tallest revolving tower, day and night shots of the city hall complex, an island tour for shots of Toronto's skyline and Ontario Place, a 96-acre park.

Messana has conducted more than 20 out-of-town photography trips since he began teaching workshops in 1971. Classes on location will take 10 hours, leaving the rest of the day open for touring. This is a color slide workshop that will stress composition. No printing will be done.

Messana suggests arriving in Toronto Friday, May 25, to become familiar with the city. The class is limited to 20 people and will begin Saturday, May 26.

Classes are $125 for the photographer and $30 more for the non-photographer spouse. All rooms must have at least one photographer registered. Special rates with American money discount are $45 single, $33 for a double/twin.

Hearing set on school budget

By Susan McDonald

The school board last week ordered Supt. Kenneth Brummel's proposed 1984-85 budget back to the chopping block for $200,000 in cuts. Brummel's $38 million spending plan called for a 4 percent increase in the general fund to be financed by a five percent increase in taxes because of an expected decline in state and federal aid.

School trustees said they want the tax hike trimmed to under 5 percent. A spokesman said the cuts will be made before the document is presented at a public hearing on Thursday, May 31, at 7:30 p.m. in central offices, 389 St. Clair Avenue.

Brummel and the board and two members of the public reviewed the budget at two meetings last week. The superintendent said primary factors in the plan were the closing of Barnes Elementary School, a reduction of 4.5 administrative positions, the early retirement of 31 teachers and a continuing decline in enrollment at all levels (see related story below).

New programs funded in the budget are K-12 grade computer literacy, high ability at the elementary level, addition of one class a day at the high schools and movement of sixth graders to middle school.

The budget also calls for funds to boost the school system's participation in local programming on cable television, including purchase of a $14,000 television-equipped van, and $51,000 to upgrade athletic fields at Brownell and Parcels Middle Schools.

No funds were included to cover costs of altering Barnes school to accommodate continuing education, maintenance and instructional materials center, which will move to the former elementary school this summer. But, administrators questioned by the board said the move could cost $25,000.

The budget calls for 836 employees next year and almost 468 teachers. Average class sizes at elementary schools would be 22.9.

The tax rate needed to support the budget for schools and libraries won't be set by school board members until September. They are authorized, by voter-approved millage elections, to levy a total of 34.93 mills. (A mill equals $1 for every $1,000 of state equalized valuation.) During 1983-84, the board rolled the rate back to 31.84 mills and substantial rollback is expected this year as well.

Candidates meet Tuesday at Center

The League of Women Voters of Grosse Pointe and the Grosse Pointe War Memorial are co-sponsoring a Board of Education Candidates Forum. It will be held on Tuesday, May 29, at 7:30 p.m. in the Crystal Ballroom.

The format for the evening allows questions from the audience to be directed to each candidate. This year's candidates, vying for two open Board positions, are Fred Adams, William Brownscombe, Robert Radnick and incumbents Joan Hanpeter and Roger Mourad.

Absentee ballots available

Registered voters this week can pick up absentee ballot applications to vote in the June 11 school board election at school system central offices, 389 St. Clair Avenue, in Grosse Pointe City.

Two school board seats, currently held by Roger Mourad and Joan Hanpeter, will be up for election June 11. Besides the incumbents, three candidates are seeking election: Robert Radnick, William Brownscombe and Fred Adams.

In addition, residents will be asked to vote "yes" or "no" to recall three current school board members, Ernest Buechler, Catherine Briery and Jon Gandelot.

Those who cannot visit central offices to pick up absentee ballot applications may request they be mailed out by calling 343-2013 or writing to 389 St. Clair Avenue, Grosse Pointe City, 48230.

New school head by December?

By Susan McDonald

The consultant guiding Grosse Pointe schools' search for a new superintendent said he hopes to see a new person sitting in the office at 389 St. Clair by Christmas, if all goes well.

The consultant, Dr. John W. Brubacher, of University of Connecticut, said he expects the Board of Education to make its selection in October from a field of candidates that he thinks will represent some of the best educators in the nation.

He made his comments at a public meeting held May 21 to solicit comments from the community about what kind of superintendent it wants. Only 26 members of the public — including all seven school board members, two administrators and a few teachers — attended the meeting at Parcels Middle School. The consultant, who regularly conducts such meetings across the country, said usually 50 to 70 people attend them.

But those who did attend voiced strong opinions about the kind of person they want for the job. Brubacher asked the group to rank in order of importance a few dozen qualities the new superintendent should possess and most agreed that "ability to involve parents, teachers and administrators effectively in the decision-making process" was of primary importance.

Those skills will be important, one woman said, because there is "controversy at every level of the school system . . . in the elementary schools, middle schools and high schools and even the public libraries."

Another added "the new superintendent is going to have to deal with strong teacher dissatisfaction."

Brubacher asked the crowd what it was they liked about Grosse Pointe and what could lure a new superintendent here. Most answered that the small-town atmosphere, neighborhood schools, easy walking distance to most conveniences and prestigious reputation attracted them to Grosse Pointe.

Some residents voiced the fear that qualified candidates won't be interested in the Grosse Pointe job because of the recent controversy over school closings that contributed to the current Supt. Kenneth Brummel's resignation and the scheduled election to determine if three school board members should be recalled from office.

But Brubacher assured the crowd that top-quality candidates will still be attracted to the Pointe.

"That brings us to the question 'do administrators like problems?'" Brubacher said. "The answer is yes. Many fine administrators would give their eye teeth to come to Grosse Pointe. Conflict is basic to our system and they're used to it."

Also consulting the board on the search is Dr. Carl Brautigam, of the Michigan Association of School Boards. The two met earlier Monday with groups of administrators, parents and high school students and planned meetings on Tuesday with realtors and other community groups.

Brubacher said he will compile a composite picture of what the community wants in a new school leader based on the meetings this week. That composite will be used by the school board when it evaluates candidates, he added. The board is conducting a nation-wide search for applications.

The superintendent position will pay $60,000 and also includes residency in the board-owned superintendent's home on Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

Supt. Kenneth Brummel is scheduled to leave Grosse Pointe at the end of June. The school board is expected to name an interim superintendent next month to serve until the new person is on board.

City taxes will rise in 1984-85

By Susan McDonald

Taxes will rise an average of 4.8 percent in Grosse Pointe City next year, but homeowners will get a break. Commercial property owners will pay about 5.1 percent more, while homeowners face only a 3.3 rise in taxes because of differences in the state equalized value of property in the City.

A new 17.42 mill tax rate was set by City Council on May 14 to fund a $3 million budget that will continue the current level of city services, according to City Manager Thomas Kressbach. A 15 percent increase in street lighting costs and similar hike in Blue Cross/Blue Shield insurance rates are among the factors that will push city spending up by 4.7 percent next year, Kressbach said.

The tax increase will bring $95,365 more revenue to the city, compared to last year, bringing up total property tax revenues to $2.1 million. Property taxes will pay for more than two-thirds of the costs of the general fund next year, according to Kressbach's spending plan. About 30 percent of the revenue will come from the state and various charges and fees.

In his annual message, Kressbach called his spending plan moderate and a "bland budget" that "should be more palatable to both taxpayer and budget decision-makers."

"And it is less traumatic than some recent budgets which have faced high inflation, worse yet stagflation, a depressed state economy or the threat of tax freeze and service cuts," he said.

The tax rate of 17.42 mills covers general fund and debt retirement levies and is up 0.66 mills over last year. (A mill equals $1 for every $1,000 of state equalized valuation of property.)

The tax rate is applied to the state equalized valuation of property, which declined for 1984-85 on residential properties by about 0.8 percent, according to county assessor's figures.

The value of commercial property increased by a similar amount, according to assessors.

The budget calls for spending $222,885 on city administration; $195,470 on accounting and auditing; $1.36 million on public safety; $766,955 on public works, $51,490 on sewage disposal and $143,490 on parks and recreation.

Public safety debate

for a city to go PSO is to save money and give better service, two points that he believes haven't been proven.

"They're talking about reducing costs, but it's by losing men through retirement. You can't give the same service by losing men who have the expertise and ability to get people on the scene quickly whether it be police or firemen.

"They like to think they will qualify us through cross training, but what they end up with are some policemen who make poor firemen and vice versa," Biak said.

His department's experience with public safety officers has left much to be desired, particularly on two recent fires where his men "took the rap" for standing around, he said.

"Out of seven men, two went in and five stood outside. The two that went in were former firemen," Biak added.

William Hunt, Park fire lieutenant backed up Biak. "In one instance, some of them didn't know how to raise a ladder and I had to work my job and their job too. I went into the hospital after one fire."

However, no formal charges were ever filed in those incidents, said Biak.

Gary L. Thomas, president of the Michigan State Firefighters Union, also attended the meeting. He told the commission that no matter how proficient one may think each department may become, they never truly make the crossover.

"After such a consolidation, the fire department becomes secondary and suffers," said Thomas. "We've seen instances where a series of fires lasted longer than they should."

He suggested the city put the police on 24-hour shifts now to "keep them happy."

George Kalamaras, a firefighter from Kalamazoo where PSO is less than two years old spoke to the commission. He is also a representative from the state firefighters union.

Since Kalamazoo's transition, 42 men have suffered injuries during fires and none were PSO, said Kalamaras. "They don't go inside fires, some don't even put on the gear."

As far as cost effectiveness goes, he said Kalamazoo had to sweeten its pot by 24 percent to get firefighters to cross-train. Police were given a 16 percent increase in wages and benefits as incentive. Because of that, the men have been lining up to take the training. "They'd walk on their knees on glass," Kalamaras said.

None of the money has been spent training the men beyond a 12 week stint at the police academy and three weeks on the job training for firefighters, said Kalamaras. "Police received 240 hours of training at the fire academy and worked three 40-hour weeks at a fire station, nothing more.

"There has been a $1 million a year increase for 50 years just for pensions," he added.

Commission chairman Stephen Wasinger asked about the small number of hours a man actually fights a fire. "Isn't there some other thing he could do to benefit the community, like being a PSO?"

Thomas replied that a well-trained firefighter's "idle time isn't structured. You can't schedule fires and you need to be alert. Firemen handle emergency medical service runs, make fire inspections and maintain the station and equipment.

"You have to recognize the core purpose of the department," he added. "You have an obligation to not mess up the police and fire protection in the community."

The meeting ended with both police and fire representatives inviting the commission to visit them in their respective stations, something, they said, the commission hasn't done.

The citizen commission was appointed by Mayor Palmer Heenan as a result of one of his campaign promises to look into the possibility of giving more police protection to the Park and getting "some firemen, not fully occupied, out of the stations and into the streets.

"The rule of thumb is one should get 20 percent more in services or you should cut your budget by 20 percent. The goal of such a reorganization is to increase the efficiency and delivery of public safety services 10 to 30 percent. It's a way of making government more effective and giving more services for the taxpayers dollars," Heenan said.

However, while the new city budget allows no increase in homeowner taxes, already it will have to dip into its Surplus Appropriation Fund to pay for many of its services next year.

LWV's McCaig is busy at convention

Grosse Pointe League of Women Voters President Ginny McCaig joined other league leaders from across the country for the 36th National Convention of the League of Women Voters of the United States held in the Renaissance Center last week.

The delegates participated in the League's decision-making program, budget and bylaws as well as the election of officers. League leaders also met at the convention to develop plans for study and action for the years ahead. The organization addressed such diverse issues as voting rights, environmental quality, social issues and military policy defense spending.

The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization dedicated to the informed participation of citizens in the governmental process. There are Leagues in 1,226 communities in the U.S. providing voter information and carrying out a program of study and action on member selected issues.

Membership in the League is open to all citizens 18 years or older.

Bryce resigns from tree commission

The Woods council accepted the resignation of Lee Bryce from the city's Tree Advisory Commission at its May 7 meeting.

In her April 12 letter, Mrs. Boyce said she was accepting "increased commitments with the Beautification Commission as well as another appointment in the community and wish to fulfill those commitments to the best of my ability."

Until recently, appointees served on both the tree and beautification commissions. An ordinance passed in March created separate commissions.

Lucas: 'I've kept my promises'

By Mike Andrzejczyk
In January, 1983, Bill Lucas came to office with what he called "a unique opportunity to do things differently in Wayne County." As the first county executive with a new charter, Lucas collected his staff of the "best and the brightest" and began working to bring the county into the 20th Century.

After 16 months, Lucas has put a reorganization plan in place, implemented a five-year plan to balance the county's budget, negotiated a payment schedule on the county's state-owed debt and begun working to bring county operations into the computer age.

To do that, he has been in the forefront, making unpopular decisions such as calling for the end of cost-of-living increases, a four-day workweek and planning to close Wayne County General Hospital.

After 16 months of being in front, and a target, Lucas is a bit harder. He is sharper in his criticism of commission opponents and blunter in rebutting misconceptions and mistakes about county operations. He remains out in front, however. "I have taken an awful lot of blame and recrimination to make sure this government is different," he said. "I was elected to make decisions, as unpopular as they may be."

In his first months in office, Lucas called his relationship with the county board an evolving one. Now, he said, the relationship has "evolved right out of the ball park." Attempts to meet with board leadership and form a basis for cooperation failed because "some commissioners, under the cloak of anonymity," continue working against the charter, Lucas said. "There are so few commissioners who follow the dictates of the charter."

The way to get action is for the voters to reassert their authority over elected officials, Lucas said. "For too long, the people have ignored, and you in the media have ignored county government," he said. "The public has to get involved, get to know their commissioners and what they are doing and do something about it."

"There is nothing so educatable as a politician," Lucas continued. "These people are not dumb. The public has to say to its officials, 'you work for us...'"

Lucas rated First District Commissioner John Hertel as fair, partly because of his open support for Lucas' decision to close Wayne County General Hospital next Thursday unless blocked by the courts. Few people have been willing to step up publicly and say they support the closing, Lucas added.

Closing the hospital is the last of a 10-point plan Lucas proposed to bring the county to fiscal responsibility. The facility loses $1.5 million a month, Lucas added.

Although negotiations with Detroit Receiving Hospital to buy Wayne County General collapsed last week and a Circuit Court hearing is expected this week to decide whether the facility will close, Lucas said there are three or four parties still negotiating to buy the building. Part of the problem with negotiating has been doing so "in good faith," Lucas said. Some prospective buyers wanted the hospital closed first so they won't be forced to pick up high labor costs at the Westland facility.

Once the decision to close was made, the only thing to do was follow through with that decision by sending out lay-off notices, making arrangements for patients at other facilities and finding other hospitals to take up indigent care, Lucas said.

Something overshadowed by the "glamour" of the closing announcement was that the hospital's budget contained no subsidy from this year's general county budget as it had in the past, Lucas said. Commissioners who passed that budget knew funds for the hospital would run out about this time, he added.

If there is no buyer, the facility will still close, Lucas said. Although there is a one-time mothballing cost, it doesn't compare to the monthly drain the facility puts on the county. The money will be used to negotiate the handling of medical care at other hospitals, he said.

"What's the difference? One is a failure and the ones we are going to contract with are successful operations," Lucas added.

Negotiations will continue to find a buyer until the last minute, Lucas said. In the end, unless blocked by the court, the hospital will close, he added.

The closing of the hospital will not end health care for the indigent, Lucas said. Forty-six area hospitals have arrangements for handling indigents, he added.

It is too early to say whether Lucas will seek another term as executive, he said, adding he has been told this is his "political swansong. No one ever told me I would have more than four years," he added.

Lucas has his eyes on the August and November elections, however. The board of commissioners last month decided to place a referendum question calling for the abolition of the road commission on the August ballot.

The commission question would divide the legislative and administrative powers of the road commission between the executive and the board of commissioners. Lucas said he has no opposition to that, but will continue to circulate petitions to put his own five referendum questions on the November ballot.

His proposals were all sent first to the commission for their placement on the August ballot, Lucas said. The "proof of the pudding" of the special interest-serving of the commission is their only placing one on the ballot, he added.

Lucas couldn't put a dollar figure on the savings of rolling the road, drain and public works department into the Office of Public Services, the largest county office. He noted that duplication of staff and equipment could be eliminated by

Lucas goes on the attack

Beleaguered, belittled and beset by his critics, County Executive William Lucas is counterattacking in order to seek new public support to keep alive the spirit of reform that emerged in Wayne County with the approval of the county charter three years ago.

In a visit to the Grosse Pointe News office last week, Lucas said he had fulfilled the promises he made when he took office but is trying to arouse support for the five charter amendments he feels are essential to meet the obstacles and problems ahead.

THE CHIEF OBSTACLE, he made clear, is the board of county commissioners which in his opinion has not yet adjusted to the fact that it is no longer a combined legislative and administrative body but, instead, the county legislature. In comments elsewhere, Lucas had even threatened to oppose the reelection of some commissioners but at the News he preferred to stress the positive, meaning he will support those who are supportive of the charter.

Lucas fears that public neglect may be an equally important obstacle to continuing progress in county government. He is trying to win greater public support for his charter amendments not only to bring pressure on the county board to put the issues on the ballot but also to counter the apathy that he fears once again may characterize public attitudes toward county government.

In his discussions with the News, Lucas sounded defensive and did concede that the controversies with the county board, elected and appointed officials and labor unions representing county employees had been frustrating. But he's still optimistic that the public will support him if he can get this message out to the people. So that is why he is now spending up to four days a week visiting groups and people in leadership positions around the county.

Among proposed charter amendments he wants on the November ballot is one to abolish the county road commission. Commissioner John Hertel of the First District, which includes the Pointes, was co-sponsor of a resolution putting such an amendment on the August primary ballot. While Lucas expressed no opinion one way or the other on the Hertel proposal, he did say that as a commissioner Hertel has been at least "fair" from his own viewpoint. The Hertel proposal differs from Lucas' own plan by giving the road commission's present legislative powers to the county board.

Other amendments Lucas hopes to put on the November ballot via the petition route if the board doesn't act include abolition of the office of the elected drain commissioner, requiring the county board to show "just cause" for rejecting the executive's appointments to county posts, taking from the commissioners the responsibility to approve county contracts and giving the circuit courts rather than the county clerk the responsibility for appointing and directing the court clerks.

If the voters grant his requests to abolish the elected drain commissioner and the road commission, Lucas would merge those offices into an expanded public works or public services department. He claims big savings could be made by eliminating duplication in both equipment and services. He contends that he has to follow guidelines on contracts and that since both the auditor general and the corporation counsel have to approve his actions, there already are sufficient checks and balances. He has found the board "arbitrary and capricious" in holding up approval of his appointments and so slow to approve contracts that in some cases new bids have to be sought.

WHILE LUCAS SAYS it's too early to say whether he'll run for reelection in 1986, he obviously enjoys his job despite its frustrations. Asked if he might make his "political swan song" after 14 years as sheriff and four in his county executive post, he responds that he wasn't elected to think like that and prefers simply to do the job at hand. If he can win approval of the amendments he seeks, he thinks he should be able to continue making significant progress in improving county government.

In this newspaper's opinion, Lucas has been a pleasant surprise in his first 16 months in office. He has won a deserved reputation for independence and for taking issue with the county officials, labor unions and special interests that tried to protect the status quo in county government. He has made great strides in cutting the county's debt and in improving its efficiency by installing computerized services, increasing the number of prosecutors and obtaining concessions from county employees. In short, under his direction the county now seems to be run for the benefit of the public, not the employees and special interests who too often ruled the roost in the past.

This is no mecca for English teachers

To the Editor:

According to the interview published in the May 10 Grosse Pointe News, Supt. Kenneth Brummel believes "We've been pretty isolated here, thinking we have a mecca." How dare he use the plural "we"? His three years here do not qualify him to pontificate. If, during his three years, he had listened to me and my long-time colleagues in the English department, he would know that we most definitely do not consider Grosse Pointe a mecca.

During a few years in the past, the Grosse Pointe public school system might have qualified as a mecca for high school English teachers. Twenty-one years ago when I began teaching in Grosse Pointe, the opportunity to teach four classes, about 100 students, was overwhelmingly attractive — and challenging. But that was 21 years and seven superintendents ago.

Some quality school systems are currently as enlightened as Grosse Pointe was then, but these must not be the "other" school systems Brummel wishes Grosse Pointe to emulate; for he has had grander goals to accomplish than a return to Grosse Pointe's enlightened past.

One of the goals he prides himself on achieving is "the seven period day at the high school", a change yet to be put into effect, one which he will not be around to implement — or evaluate. He is pleased to see that students have "signed up for almost 2,000 additional courses for next year." He reports: "Many (students) picked extra math, science and English classes. We are hiring eight new math teachers, just to handle the increased demand." Yes, but math teachers do not teach English.

What he fails to reveal is that the system has cut English teaching positions. He fails to reveal that English teachers may carry the equivalent of six classes in five next year. An increase of three to six students per class may not seem significant until that average increase is multiplied by five classes: 15 to 30 more students per day, 15 to 30 more essays per assignment, 15 to 30 more individuals with individual needs to be reached per individual teacher, and all this in addition to what is already a far-from-ideal teaching load. This is an accomplishment?

Supt. Brummel insists the staff has to "appreciate the importance of change and acceptance of change." I neither "appreciate" his idea of change for change's sake nor do I "accept" his disdain for teachers' (and students') needs. Contrary to his accusation, my colleagues and I have proposed and argued vigorously for changes — among them a return to reasonable work loads for English teachers. The National Council of Teachers of English supports our proposals, but neither superintendents nor trustees see fit to listen or act to achieve the goals we believe need to be achieved. Instead, they run us down a road farther from mecca every year. In bargaining last summer, they even proposed an increase to six classes for secondary teachers.

Why don't superintendents and trustees listen to experienced teachers? Brummel boasts of being included among the "500 superintendents whose name is on everyone's mailing list." With more than 20 years of experience in this system, I can't even get on the mailing list of the superintendent and the trustees. Supt. William Coats and the trustees several years ago did not reply to my communications nor did Brummel last spring. Are teachers' proposals for change too practical, too humane, not trendy or theoretical enough to suit them? Do superintendents and trustees prefer a facade of "accomplishments" reported in newspapers, accomplishments that will make their personal resumes more valuable?

I urge the community, candidates for school board, and the next superintendent to talk to teachers. The incumbent superintendent and trustees won't talk to us — except to say "Merry Christmas" and "change!"

No, Grosse Pointe is not mecca, at least not for English teachers. As a friend suggested to me, it may be more like an airport hotel with fly-by-night superintendents and transient trustees. Then again, since the real Mecca is a place where pilgrims come and go, perform their rituals, and then leave, it may qualify as a mecca after all. Only Allah knows; and, despite suggestions to the contrary, he's not available to serve as superintendent.

Schools raise values

To the Editor:

Because of the concern for school closings in Grosse Pointe, we have all heard and read a great deal about property values. It has been implied that even though 90 percent of the homes in the Barnes Elementary district are three or four bedroom structures, the value would not diminish with the closings of that school.

Recognizing that my background is not in the educational field, I will not pretend to have the answer on the merits or demerits of said closings as to its effect on education. However my background is in Grosse Pointe Real Estate. I earn my living building and brokering Grosse Pointe homes.

I'm also a member of the Grosse Pointe Woods tax review board which requires that I continually monitor the value of the homes in the Barnes district. I feel I must voice an opinion on the value of a multi-bedroom home where no elementary school exists.

While it is true that all homes will sell at the right price as stated by Tom Youngblood in your paper recently, it should also be remembered that the right price is subject to appraising, and all appraisers add value to a multi-bedroom home with local schools.

Thus, the "right price" for a three or four bedroom home without an elementary school is lower than a three or four bedroom home with an elementary school. Any implication to the contrary cannot be supported.

A reaffirmation of faith . . .

Among other things, a college reunion represents a reaffirmation of faith in and support for higher education, especially for the institution that awarded the graduate his degree. That is particularly true of a 50th college class reunion.

It is, of course, both a sad and happy occasion. Sad because of the memories of those members of the class of 1934 who haven't survived to 1984. Happy for those who did survive to mingle with classmates they hadn't seen or heard from in years, sometimes even for a half century, to exchange reminiscences.

For university administrators, such affairs are a mixed blessing. The burden of sponsoring reunions is offset by the opportunities to plead for support for institutions and programs requiring help. Speakers laud their institutions for past accomplishments but counter with appeals for aid in achieving the new goals they outline to the returning grads.

THE GRADUATES HAVE learned through long experience that they have to pay for most things they get in life. So they are resigned to "paying for" their lunches and dinners by listening to an array of pitches from administrators and alumni spokesmen. But, in truth, they also enjoy hearing the praise of their alma mater and tend to bask in the reflected glow from it. Some even deserve to feel pride in their own contributions to their college's successes.

In Minneapolis last week, graduates could agree with C. Peter Magrath, the University of Minnesota president, that the university still exists to provide instruction, research and service to the people of the state. And so it does, to an increasingly large proportion of the population, just as Michigan's universities do in this state.

Yet Minnesota, almost as hard hit as Michigan by the recession, is turning back to the student and his family a larger share of the responsibility for financing his own education. Whereas a few years ago tuition brought in less than a quarter of the university's revenues, today the student and his family pay for almost one-third of the cost of his education. The state pays another third directly and funds from the federal government and private sources make up the balance. Like Michigan, Minnesota is worried that rising costs deprive some worthy students of educational opportunities. Both states need look only to China to see some possible effects.

In the People's Republic, the turmoil of the Cultural Revolution led to the closing of many of China's great universities. That nation only now is beginning to realize that its great leap forward really constituted several steps backward. It deprived almost a generation of young Chinese of the opportunity to contribute to the advancement of that developing nation. Only now is China once again encouraging higher education of the young people whose skills it so desperately needs as it emerges into the modern world.

China offers a warning to Minnesota and Michigan because inadequate financing can do almost as much harm to these great American universities as China did to its institutions of higher learning by closing them. That was a disservice not only to a generation but to an entire nation. Americans should not permit an economic recession to be used as the excuse for a similar Cultural Revolution result here.

In Minneapolis, the graduates understood the oblique and sometimes not so indirect warnings about underfunding. Thinking about the ways in which their own lives had been shaped and their own society enhanced by their university's contributions, many agreed that they share in the responsibility to see that higher education can be made affordable at reasonable cost to oncoming generations. Those young people, too, deserve the opportunities to share in the benefits and rewards of a university education, not only for their own sake but for the sake of the entire state.

Yet, amid the evidence of change on the campus — the proliferation of students, staff, buildings, cars and parking lots — the graduates also heard reminders of the unpredictability of the future. One speaker recalled that President Lotus Delta Coffmann, speaking at the 1934 commencement, had cited the discovery of "heavy hydrogen" for which, he said, there was no known use but which, he added, some scientists saw as "the greatest discovery" of the last 100 years.

Whether today's graduates would term the nuclear weapons foreshadowed by that 1934 breakthrough as "the greatest discovery" of the century is questionable. Yet it was a tremendously significant discovery — for better or for worse — in terms of its impact on the entire world. It epitomizes the changes that flow from the research performed by university scientists in many fields.

BUT NOT ALL OF THE TALK of the returning grads in Minneapolis was of a serious nature. Minnesotans longing for a return to the glory days of the Golden Gophers on Big Ten gridirons heard President Magrath predict that Minnesota's new coach, Lou Holtz, would provide "some real excitement" for the alumni and people of the state. There were no predictions of a conference championship or a trip to the Rose Bowl but grads' hopes were raised that Minnesota might reclaim some of its glory days — and perhaps even bring the Little Brown Jug home from Ann Arbor.

So as the graduates of 1934 left the campus — after what for many was probably their final visit — they took with them a renewed appreciation of their university and a new dedication to its support. They reflected that such institutions represent both continuity and change — the record of the past and the promise of the future. And they returned home satisfied that the campus-made friendships and the university influences that shaped their lives for a half century still endured in 1984.

Mourad has let his supporters down

To the Editor:

I attended the Board of Education candidates' debate at Barnes Elementary School on May 10. At that meeting Roger Mourad read part of a quote. In light of the May 3 Grosse Pointe News letters to the editor where Mr. Mourad and William Brownscombe's recall groups complained about unfair quotes and editorials, I would like to read the rest of the quote. It's from Lt. Governor Martha Griffiths and it says "Intuitively... unconscionable... loud-mouths... sleazy," she says of the recallers. "Reign of terror... fascism... dictator-

Insidious communists

To the Editor:

In the May 17 Grosse Pointe News, I noted, with a bit of nausea, another one of John Conley's diatribes. Of course, as a liberal, he has a right to express his view — however far out to the left field they may be.

But, as a conservative, I reserve the right also to speak up against his ridiculous opinions on McCarthyism and President Reagan. Conley clearly reveals himself in every sentence. Doesn't this man, a former high school teacher, understand that ministers do not become communists but that communists do become men of the cloth, the better to deceive and mislead their flock?

I would like to believe that a vast majority of our church leaders are men with clear minds and wide-open eyes who are aware of the many dangers among us and around us of the insidious propaganda permeating our society. Those comparatively few ministers, communist wolves in sheep's clothing, have done and are still doing a great deal of damage.

Let us all be aware of what the Conleys and his like-minded cohorts are up to. There is strength in truth, and let us all seek the facts before passing judgment on those the communists would like to condemn.

ship... total chaos."

Mrs. Griffiths said she "has never seen anything like the fervor she says is changing the shape of Michigan government. This is a totally new experience, the idea that this could be done, that you could fire people without any reason... other than what a few loud-mouths are arguing.

"Well-heeled lobbyists will use recall threats to put the squeeze on lawmakers saying if you don't vote for this, I'll run the recall campaign." Recall fears will make it increasingly difficult to entice talented, well-educated citizens to run for state office."

In the past, she said, officials faced the consequences of their action — "voters' wrath at the end of a term of office, during a re-election campaign, which is as it should be."

I have the whole article in which the comments were made which was sent to me by Martha Griffiths' office and I was asked to set the record straight. Mr. Mourad, you not only didn't attribute her quote, but quoted her out of context for your own political gain.

I love this community and many of the people in it. But what has happened here in the past few months has me very concerned about its future. Friendships that are long-term have suffered — for some, the damage may never be undone. I say this to you, Mr. Mourad, because you may have been able to temper some of this. You have the right to vote the way you did. But as a Board member and in a democracy, a majority rules. Once the vote is taken and a decision made, that Board member should be supportive of the Board he is serving on, not fueling recall efforts and having his own family sign recall petitions. For that reason, Mr. Mourad, you have lost my support and that of others.

You have decided to side with a group which has to this date given no alternative to declining enrollment. Many were not even registered voters and many of the ones who were did not even bother to vote last June. Those are the ones yelling the loudest and those are the ones you have decided to support. You have let your voters and supporters down.

There is life after elementary school. Life will go on after Barnes closes and I, for one, am concerned about all the children in Grosse Pointe, not just the 140 who will not go to Barnes next fall.

Those parents who say the children are too young to be put in with seventh and eighth grades have these same seventh and eighth graders babysit their younger ones and play on baseball, football and soccer teams together. I know, I coach a team comprised of fifth through eighth graders. We let them play together outside a building, but heaven forbid they attend the same school together.

And to those who say "I don't like the middle school," I say, get involved there. You will find the same caring there that you found by the staff in the elementary. Let's look ahead to benefit and give all the children in Grosse Pointe the very best we can in elementary, middle and high school.

Lastly, Mr. Mourad, concerning the Richard School property that you said I was being lied to about and your David Easlick and Dr. Brownscombe are complaining about. If you feel that strongly, sir, you should have voted "no." Don't sit on the fence regarding tough issues. We voted you in to make tough decisions. Make them. Don't abstain to please both sides.

Endorsements don't sway reporters

To the Editor:

In your editorial published May 3 entitled "Ethnics and Fair Coverage," you referred to the fact that The Newspaper Guild's political endorsement of Walter Mondale for president raised questions of professional ethics for newspapers. Further, you stated that these issues were raised locally when a Free Press reporter, who covered Grosse Pointe public schools, was reassigned by his editors after admitting that he had signed a school board recall petition.

The opinions expressed by your newspaper are both misguided and hypocritical. A political endorsement by a labor union like the Guild doesn't influence the fairness of its editorial department members any more than the daily pronouncements that appear in a newspaper's editorial page.

As the public well knows, political coverage by a newspaper is dictated by its owners and top editors — not its reporters and copy editors. It is interesting that it was the Free Press, not the Grosse Pointe News, that reported initially how Publisher Robert B. Edgar's real estate holdings would be enhanced if some school district property was transformed into a parking lot.

Since the Grosse Pointe News appears eager "to provide a fair and balanced account of a community controversy," I would hope that your newspaper would take the lead in exposing potential conflicts of interest involving your company and its coverage of the local school district.

To do less would be unethical and unprofessional.

Louis Mlecze
President, Local 22

Editor's Note: The Grosse Pointe News has consistently reported that the paper's publisher is also owner of the Punch and Judy Theater, which would benefit from construction of a parking lot on the Hill.

One View of the Capital

Self-concept is important

By William Bryant
State Representative

We had a workshop on "Self-Concept and Self-Esteem" this week as part of the skills workshop program I started last year, L.E.A.D. (Legislative Education and Development). The workshop was open to legislators and legislative staff.

Predictably, few legislators signed up and yet it seems to me that for a great majority of people, regardless of age, status or life work, self esteem is at the very heart of problems we have in life.

Sometimes it seems that those with the most intelligence, talent and drive are even more susceptible to problems of self esteem. So many are so demanding of themselves, they find it exceedingly difficult to accept themselves as imperfect, struggling, growing human beings.

When we cannot accept and love ourselves it is pretty tough, perhaps impossible, to accept and love others. Whether in the political arena or in our close personal relationships, whether in our work environment or our community, so much of the defensiveness and attacking which occurs seems traceable to problems with self esteem.

I tend to think of myself more as competent and less as likeable, and, as a normal part of being somewhat past my youth, want to work on developing parts of me I have neglected. As a legislator, I can see instances where I have settled for respect where I really wanted to be liked. In my personal life I can see where it was hard for me to give when I have trouble accepting myself.

How much less animosity, how much more true caring and cooperation there would be in the world if we would just open our eyes and see that we are all in this thing together, that we are all imperfect and always will be! But that we can grow, and reach out and say "I understand" and celebrate our humanness and forgive ourselves and others for being human.

So, it is too bad most of the legislators felt that enrolling in a workshop dealing with self-esteem was too threatening for them. We could all use a little help. Maybe, however, the first step is in discovering we could use some help, in recognizing how difficult and fragile and essential it is to have a healthy self-esteem.

'I've kept my promises'

(Continued from Page 5A) the move, and putting the department under a single administrator would provide better coordination of activities of the various drain and road works.

The county's financial situation has improved — Lucas noted the one-mill tax increase proposal is long dead — and workers will not be asked to accept concessions during contract talks, Lucas said. They will be asked to work a full day for a full pay, he added.

While 13 members of his executive staff recently received bonus packages that would, after 20 years, allow them to earn as much as $70,000 a year, Lucas dismissed criticism as a red herring.

People have what he calls "mini-truths," Lucas said. While it is true that bonuses allow salaries of better than $70,000, it will take 20 years for an employee to reach that mark, he said. By that time, the wage scales will have changed greatly anyway, he added.

Behind the bonuses is the need to pay staff at market levels to keep them in public service, Lucas said. "We want only the best and the brightest and we're willing to pay market level for them," he added.

While recent improvements in the area's economy are welcome, it could be at least four more years before the county benefits from it, Lucas said. With the dwindling of state and federal aid, the county can only tighten its belt until other sources of revenue can be found, he added.

"Michigan continues to have, for the most part, a boom-bust economy. All you can do is tighten your belt," Lucas said. "The availability of federal money continues to be something that is cyclical."

One way to tighten belts is to consolidate functions. Another of the executive's ballot questions for which he is circulating petitions is to appoint an independent court clerk, taking the functions out of the county clerk's office.

The petition drive needs volunteers to circulate as well as inform people to sign petitions, Lucas said. Those interested can call 963-5277 to get copies of the five proposals, he added.

With the requested reorganizations in place, the next two years could be exciting ones in the county, Lucas said. While the executive's post has been called his political swan-song, Lucas doesn't seem to believe it.

Although his decisions may allow special interests "to muster great opposition to my reelection, they could never remove the fact that I've been able to keep my promises," Lucas said. "I was elected to get the job done. People expect performance."

"I am the first executive," he added. "Those who come after me can come up with innovations. I'm the one with the rough road."

Village appeals tax ruling

(Continued from Page 1A) more open to the public through tours and events. Changes in tax laws also spelled out exemptions for cultural organizations which are used for the development of education, theater, music and literature, Village officials said.

The decision to grant the Ford estate a tax exemption was a "close thing" each year, the officials said. This year, with its tour schedule and the changes in the law, the estate met the exemption requirements, they added.

Property owned by the Ford House on the west side of Jefferson will remain unaffected by the tax exemption under both the appellate court and assessor's decision. The court ruling concerns only the lake-side portion of the property.

The appellate court may have ended a case that has continued for four years.

The estate, a non-profit institution, went before the Michigan Tax Tribunal in 1981 to ask for a tax exemption based on its claim it was a charitable foundation. The estate paid its 1980 and 1981 taxes under protest.

By a 2-1 vote, the Appeals Court last week reversed the decision of the tribunal and granted the home the exemption as a charitable institution for 1980 and 1981. The majority ruled that the estate, by opening itself to the public, made itself available to the general public and to any non-profit charitable organization. The fact that some organizations held cocktail parties or dinners there didn't alter the fund-raising function, the court opined.

The home, which took three years to build and furnish recently hosted the Junior Prom for South.

It was designed by Detroit architect Albert Kahn and was patterned after Cotswold English country houses. The interior of the 60-room home was furnished in 16th, 17th and 18th century English style.

With the death of Eleanor Ford, the mother of Henry II, Benson, William and Josephine, in 1976, the home became "an historic property and cultural center which will be of service to the public" under the terms of Mrs. Ford's will.

"Where once there were many extraordinary residences, mine is the last to remain, for the change in our manner of living, and in our taxes, and in our attitudes have resulted in the demolition of all the others..." Mrs. Ford wrote in her will. "Moved by these and other considerations, and especially because mine is the last of the many great homes in this area, I have decided to leave my residence, along with suitable furnishings, in such manner as to allow the residence to remain and the property to be used for the benefit of the public."

Former mayor Robb appeals for license

By Mike Andrzejczyk
 A decision is expected in 30 days on former City Mayor David Robb's appeal of a county Attorney Discipline hearing panel's ruling against him.

A ruling is also expected soon on Robb's motion to stay the panel's disciplinary action pending the outcome of his appeal. A seven-member hearing panel ordered in January that Robb's license to practice be revoked.

At his May 11 appeal hearing, Robb argued the original panel erred in finding him in default and not overturning that decision and that procedures for subpoenas for evidence and presentation of mitigation of punishment were not spelled out in general court rules.

Under disciplinary panel procedures, an attorney has 20 days to file an answer to a complaint made against him, Robb said. If no answer is filed in that time, the panel finds the attorney in default, or guilty of the complaint for the panel's purposes.

Because the procedures for presenting subpoenas for evidence are inadequately defined, Robb said he was unable to present documents that may have proved allegations made against him untrue. By not setting aside the default judgment, Robb said he was unable to present evidence to address the charges.

"The complaint itself involved other allegations which... when I filed my final reports, there were certain facts in it that I considered untrue," Robb said. Had the procedures for obtaining evidence been available and the default judgment set aside, Robb said he could subpoena records from his bankruptcy trusteeship and district court record that would have proved the complaint false.

The disciplinary action stems from charges made last year by the Securities and Exchange Commission that Robb embezzled $118,000 from a bankrupt company for which he served as trustee for nine years.

The civil action by the SEC was settled when Robb signed a consent judgement and agreed to repay funds that were supposedly embezzled. He neither denied nor admitted guilt.

Robb also argued at his appeal that rules for presenting evidence to mitigate disciplinary action were nonexistent. Because of this, he was unable to present a proper list of mitigation, he added.

"I believe that due process would require that the person have an understanding of the nature of mitigating circumstances," Robb told the panel, adding that procedures "should be stated that evidence can be introduced during the hearing."

At his January hearing, Robb said he was given a list of circumstances considered to be mitigation and attempted to present his case from that list. Had the procedures been spelled out, Robb said he could have presented witnesses as well as letters attesting to the circumstances during the hearing.

Panel members pointed out that the original hearing panel took all eight points Robb presented as mitigation into account before making its decision.

"You couldn't have done a much better job with outside counsel," panel chairman William C. Reamon said. "I don't see where you've been harmed by not having the opportunity to present evidence of mitigation to the panel; you did such an excellent job."

Attorneys for the Attorney Discipline Commission added that the rules for mitigation were discoverable through the law library and law journals.

The state attorney discipline board is made up of seven members, five attorneys and two lay members. Robb's appeal hearing was delayed because a lay member was called away on an emergency.

ring." The caller said she'd be over just as soon as "they" let her out. She said she received her power from some visiting Martians and that she currently lived in "Dearborn Hills," which as we all know is located next to "Farmington Heights."

Another time we wrote of a minor fire that occurred at a local hospital. No big deal. We merely said that it started in the kitchen and no one was hurt. A woman called and wanted to know what caught on fire.

We called the hospital and discovered it was a plate of fries that had overheated in a microwave. We called the lady back. She called us back. Again and again and again. All the questions were minor. But the topper was when she wanted to know if they were "french fries or cottage fries, because there is a difference, you know." Lonely or looney? You tell us.

News Editor Susan McDonald would semi-regularly field a call on Thursday mornings from an anonymous man who would solemnly intone "Susan McDonald, you are a murderer!" Naturally, this intrigued and upset Sue.

"Susan McDonald... you are a murderer," he would repeat. Finally, he'd say something like, "On page 14A of today's paper there's a full page ad for cigarettes. You're murdering hundreds of thousands of people."

At this, Sue would lean back, light up a cigaret and listen to a lecture on the evils of tobacco. The week no advertisements ran, he'd call up with his congratulations.

As I said earlier, I've received "those" kinds of calls too. My best one was from a woman who told me she'd given birth to 27 children. It sounded crazy, but you just never know. That's why the Guinness Book of Records was published, right?

I grabbed a pad to start asking questions when my "scoop" went right out the window with her next sentence.

"That's right," she said. "I've given birth to 27 children. They were all born yesterday." She then went on to say her husband was a prince from some South Sea island and she was to be his queen.

How did I get out of it? Simple, I just told her the story was too big for our little paper.

Then I gave her the number to the Free Press.

So much for ever working downtown.

BOARD MEMBERS' STATEMENT AS IT WILL APPEAR ON THE BALLOT

Our goal is to maintain our quality school system at the lowest possible cost to the taxpayers. Some disagree with our goal; others disagree with our methods of achieving it.

Both votes were by a 6 to 1 majority after a year of study, seven public hearings, and based on the recommendations of two citizen study committees.

We acted because of a decline in enrollment from 13,529 to 7,517 over the past ten years.

All school systems have limits to their resources. Money spent keeping an unnecessary school open will take money away from curricula unless taxes are raised.

Other quality school systems have shown no reduction in property values because of school closings.

Middle schools with grades 6-8 will better meet the need for more math and science outlined in "A Nation at Risk: The Imperative for Education Reform."

Many other quality school systems have this program with positive results in all aspects of school life for the children. We are confident that the children of Grosse Pointe are just as capable.

The Board majority acted in the best interests of all the citizens of the school district as we were elected to do by you, the voter and taxpayer.

SINUS TROUBLE

Grosse Pointe Woods Chiropractic Clinic
 881-7677

Dr. David Jentz Chiropractor

Sinusitis is an inflammation of the mucous membranes of one or more of the eight nasal sinuses. Symptoms of sinusitis are headache in the facial area, sharp pain between the eyes, full deep ache over the eyes, clogged nasal passages, persistent head colds, and more. Acute attacks of sinusitis often follow a cold or sudden temperature change. Repeated attacks may lead to alterations in the sinus membranes and lead to a chronic condition. Naturally, proper rest, diet, and exercise will aid in the prevention of sinusitis. However the underlying cause of this disease process is very commonly due to a failure of the elimination function of the body. This can be brought on by faulty nerve supply caused by faulty body mechanics, particularly in the spinal column. Chiropractic care can correct this problem thus allowing the sinuses to function more efficiently.

Remodeling with Pella

How to look at a window

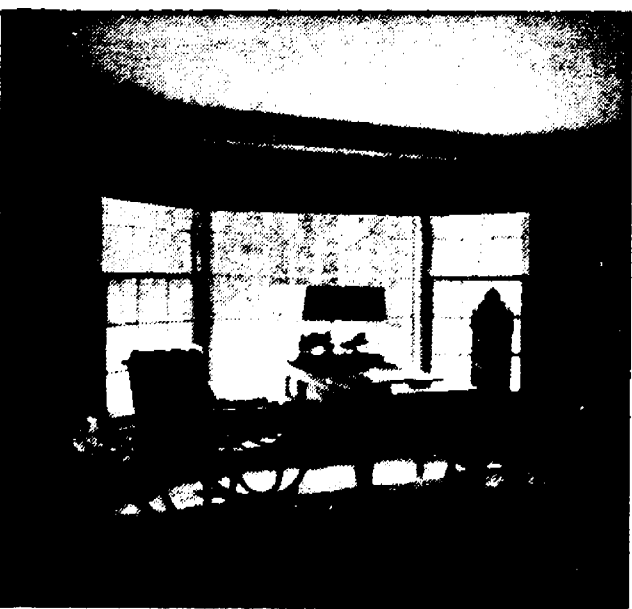

Any major home improvement requires a substantial investment on your part of time, energy, and money. While that investment has an immediate return, providing you with the additional space you need or allowing you to make better use of the space you already have, it will also have some significant long-term effects on the cost of heating and air conditioning your home and the ease of maintaining your home. On the comfort and value of your home, today and tomorrow. Windows, as a part of your remodeling plans, have a lot to do with the success of those plans and your investment. Because the windows you select now will have a significant effect on all of the long-term considerations mentioned above. How should you look at a window? In person. Very carefully and with an eye to the future.

You buy a window once, but you live with it every day.

Windows, like any other working part of your house, require a certain amount of attention and how much time and energy you'll have to spend caring for your windows, once they're installed, depends almost entirely upon the kind of windows you start with. For example, every Pella Wood Window that opens and closes can be washed, inside and out, from inside the house and comes with self-storing screens. So you don't need a ladder, and a lot of courage to clean your windows or make seasonal adjustments. Pella Wood Windows also offer you the option of a Pella Clad exterior finish (an aluminum skin) which eliminates outside maintenance by its ability to resist chipping, peeling, flaking, chalking and other recurring problems common to painted outside surfaces.

Another way you can conserve energy is to select windows with good insulating properties. Pella Windows combine the natural and excellent insulating qualities of wood with quality construction features that do an exceptionally effective job of reducing unwanted heat loss, heat gain, and noise. The Pella Double Glazing System, for example, gives you more insulation than ordinary, welded insulating glass yet it costs you less. So with our Double Glazing System, you save two ways.

Why settle for less? See all the new Pella ideas at your local Pella Planning Center-Showroom

Our new Pella Planning Center is located at:

Art festival opens May 30 at South High

An art exhibit, drama production, vocal music concert, outdoor band concert and ice cream social will be the major attractions of the third annual South High Arts Festival, Wednesday through Friday, May 30 to June 1.

The festival, sponsored jointly by the school and its Mothers' Club, is designed to highlight students' talents and share them with the community at large, says Susan Measelle, chairperson.

Exhibits, displays and performances will be presented by five of South's departments as follows:

- Art — photography, painting, calligraphy, ceramics, weaving, commercial and interior design
- Industrial technology — wood projects, metal designs and a drafting display
- Music — vocal solos and choral performances and instrumental band concert
- English — forensics, highlights of "Godspell" performed by Pointe Players, the "Imprints" literary magazine and "Tower" school newspaper
- Home economics — fashion and design displays
- Commercial foods — desserts and beverages served for a nominal fee in a cafe

The Tower Bells, Pointe Singers and soloists Margaret Hunt and Jennifer Ames and the "Godspell" production will be presented on opening night, May 30, after 7 p.m. Highlights on May 31 will be the outdoor band concert and ice cream social.

Some of the projects were stuffed people, miniature rooms, vases, mirrors and mazes that the seventh graders made. Art teacher Augie Tedesco has made the art show successful over the last few years and

The third annual South High School Arts Festival opens Thursday, May 30, and will run through 1 p.m. on Friday, June 1. Shown with an original drawing done by Ken Harris, South junior, are (from left) Harris, Robert R. Rathbun, chairman of the South art department; Susan Measelle, chairperson of the festival, and Joseph Spagnoli, South principal.

Stuffed people add to St. Clare art show

By John Wronikowski
St. Clare

St. Clare School recently held its annual art show featuring 1,500 projects the whole school had made, from kindergarten to the eighth grade, in the church social hall.

Some of the projects were stuffed people, miniature rooms, vases, mirrors and mazes that the seventh graders made. Art teacher Augie Tedesco has made the art show successful over the last few years and this year was no exception.

Stuffed people were made by the students to look like celebrities such as Boy George, Michael Jackson and Webster. They are made by stuffing lint into pantyhose. Boxes, paper and cloth were all used to make miniature rooms. Rooms were designed by students to look like a room in the student's own house or a room they would like to have. The rooms were then stacked to look like a big house. Clay vases were painted different styles with paints and then glazed. Liquid lead was used to outline pictures and special paints were used to color in the pictures.

Bands combine for annual social

North and South High School band students will combine talents to present the annual outdoor band concert and ice cream social on Thursday, May 31, at 7 p.m. on the South High School front lawn.

The South Symphonic Band, directed by Ralph Miller, and North Symphony band, directed by Nathan Judson, will perform separately during the first half. Following intermission, the North and South students will combine to form a massed band of more than 180 students, which will perform "The Light Fantastic March" by Leonard Smith, "Serenata" by Leroy Anderson, "Windstar" by Claude Smith, and a collection of George Gerschwin songs, arranged by Bruce Chase.

As always, ice cream and strawberries will be served during intermission and after the concert. The band concert is free and open to the public, and will be held in the gymnasium in the event of inclement weather.

School's video club gets weekly taste of TV pressure

A group of Bishop Gallagher high school students have been finding out first-hand the demands of producing a regularly-scheduled cable television program.

In January, 1983, the Bishop Gallagher Video Club created "Steady Gains," a half-hour program featuring news about activities at schools in the Grosse Pointe/Harper Woods area. The program, which began its second season last fall, airs on channel 19 of Grosse Pointe Cable on Monday and Wednesday evenings at 7:30 p.m.

The show has a news format, with reports read by two students from each participating school. These reports, involving news about recent or upcoming events, are taped in the studio at Grosse Pointe Cable by a crew from Bishop Gallagher and are combined with material recorded in the field.

Bishop Gallagher senior Eric Long is the student president of the video club and directs tapings done at the studio.

"In one continuous sequence, I'm directing the two cameras in the studio, plus adding the superimposed titles, and worrying about the news announcers and their cues," he explained, "It all adds up to quite a bit of pressure sometimes, but we get it done."

Later, the portions that have been taped in the studio are edited together with pre-recorded video coverage of theatrical productions, sporting events, and community service functions. These "remote" projects are where the hard work really begins.

Senior David Hunter, a cameraman and producer from Bishop Gallagher, explains, "Whatever we're covering, we get our portable video camera and recorder right out there in the middle of it. We've learned to plan out the shots we'll need to edit together a smooth and complete story for the show."

Writer and interviewer Rick Mitchell, also a senior, adds, "Many times we'll arrange an interview with a student or teacher right on-the-spot and wing it. Then, after the interview, we'll write a lead-in and a wrap-up for the story."

A recent Bishop Gallagher segment featured interviews with the cast and director of Bishop Gallagher's presentation of the musical "Grease." Video of the early rehearsals and a dress rehearsal were woven into the final edit.

David Schmidt, the moderator of the video club, feels the students have come a long way in mastering the skills required to assemble an interesting program. Schmidt is not a full-time faculty member at Bishop Gallagher and works as a writer and producer at a Southfield ad agency.

"Many schools have video equipment which is being under-utilized or not used at all. These schools need to 'borrow' qualified people from Detroit's production community to help with these programs," according to Schmidt.

Schmidt says the staff at Grosse Pointe Cable have been very cooperative towards Bishop Gallagher's venture, but adds, "To sustain an on-going cable show, the schools need someone assigned to getting the job done week after week, and the personnel at most cable operations just don't have the time to make that commitment to a school-sponsored show."

Bishop Gallagher's video club has succeeded in getting a new program on the air approximately every two weeks, which allows each show to air three or four times.

Schools that have participated in the "Steady Gains" TV show include Star of the Sea high and elementary schools, Notre Dame High School, St. Claire of Montefalco Grade school, Brownell Middle School, and others.

North trio takes Spanish honors

Three North High Spanish students placed among the top five students in their categories in Michigan in the 1984 National Spanish Examinations sponsored by the American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese.

Stephanie S. Smith, in 11th grade, won Level 3 Spanish with no outside experience. Beatriz Manzor, in 10th grade, won Level 3 Spanish as a native speaker. Lisa Miller, in 11th grade, won Level 4 Spanish with no outside experience.

Each of the students had also placed in the top five statewide in their respective levels in 1983.

Cum Laude Society inducts members

The University Liggett School chapter of the Cum Laude Society received eight seniors and three juniors in an induction ceremony for new members on May 11.

Cum Laude is a national organization to honor superior scholarship at the secondary school level much as Phi Beta Kappa does at the college level. Charters are granted to schools of recognized academic excellence. The ULS chapter was founded in 1944.

New senior members of Cum Laude are Michael Brozowski, St. Clair Shores; Frank Crociata, Grosse Pointe; Laurie Evans, Grosse Pointe; Brian Fox, St. Clair Shores; Brigitte Koegler, Grosse Pointe; Charles Lapo II, Grosse Pointe; William McFeely, Jr., Grosse Pointe; and Sandra Yonkoski, St. Clair Shores.

A very select portion of the junior class is eligible for admission. This year's juniors recognized by Cum Laude are Gillian Darlow, Grosse Pointe; Jeffrey Sweet, Grosse Pointe; and Monique Wise, Grosse Pointe.

To be eligible, the students must achieve a cumulative record of outstanding scholarship from their freshman year.

Welcoming this year's new members were last year's junior nominees Charles Colby, Ron Hull, Marc Lie and Windy White, all of Grosse Pointe.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

From Another Point Of View By Janet Mackay

It's that time of year: members of the Grosse Pointe Branch American Association of University Women have been busy rolling out the barrels. Those familiar Used Book receptacles are now in place at five convenient East Side locations, waiting for your donations.

So before you're caught up in a spring cleaning throw-out fit, think. Isn't it better to share, rather than abandon, unwanted novels, cookbooks, non-fiction, paperbacks, hardcovers, how-to books, literature for children and juveniles, mysteries, records, sheet music and encyclopedias?

The AAUW collection barrels are located at Mr. McCourt's in-the-Village, Colonial Federal on-the-Hill, Kroger's on Marter Road and at two Farmer Jack Markets: one on Harper at Moross, the other on Mack near Vernier. If you have too many books to take to a drop-off point yourself, personal pick-up service can be arranged by calling 882-4977 or 881-4520.

Throughout the summer, a busy Used Book Sale committee, under the supervision of general chairman Ann Schumacher, will sort and mark the donations. Come Tuesday, Oct. 2, through Sunday, Oct. 7, the books will be on sale at Salem Memorial Lutheran Church on Moross Road, halfway between I-94 and Saint John Hospital.

Readers who have been keeping an eye out (sometimes for years!) for a specific, hard-to-locate volume may find the Pointe AAUW's Search Service very helpful. Phone 772-0605 for further information.

Proceeds from the annual Used Book Sale benefit the educational advancement of women. They support AAUW national and international fellowships, and scholarships on the local level for women who want to prepare for careers by updating old skills or acquiring new ones. Interested east-of-Woodward residents, women who live in Wayne or Macomb counties and already have undergraduate degrees, may inquire about AAUW local scholarship rules at the financial aid offices of the following institutions: the University of Detroit, Madonna College, Walsh College, Macomb Community College and the Center for Creative Studies.

Final Days for Show House

If you haven't yet found time to take yourself over to 111 Lakeshore Road to tour the Junior League of Detroit's Designers' Show House 1984, be warned: you've only a few days left. Memorial Day (Monday, May 28) is, in fact, the final day the Show House will be open to the public.

Actually, Sunday, May 27, is a great day to tour the 12-bedroom mansion, to see what the talents of top Detroit area interior designers have made of this home built in 1907, overlooking Lake St. Clair. For on Sunday you can combine your tour with a concert, the last in a series of special Sunday Show House Musicales.

The Imperial Brass Quintet will perform a program of classical music at noon. It will last approximately one hour. Tickets, at $4 per person, may be purchased in advance, or at the Show House prior to the concert. Not to worry if you wake up to a rainy Sunday morning: a large tent has been erected on the grounds, to protect concertgoers from stormy weather.

You can tour the Show House immediately following the concert, for it will be open from 1 to 6 p.m. both Sunday and Monday. You can tour it today, if you prefer, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., or tonight, from 6 to 9 p.m. You can tour it tomorrow from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. or Saturday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

And that's it. If you show up at the Show House doors next Tuesday, you're out of luck. Those doors will be closed, permanently, to the public at 6 p.m. on Memorial Day.

Through 6 p.m. on Memorial Day, you can get admission tickets ($5 per person) at the Show House during the hours it is open to the public. That's bargain price — and a good investment, for the Junior League of Detroit, a non-profit organization dedicated to voluntarism, returns proceeds raised through the Show House to you, the metropolitan Detroit community, through League-sponsored projects.

Five Homes to Tour in June

If the reason you've put off touring the Show House is that you didn't want to put your tour behind you too soon — thing is: house tours are your thing, and you subscribe to the Deferment Heightens Pleasure theory — be delighted: June brings a special treat for you.

Five houses will be featured this year on the Grosse Pointe International Home tour sponsored by the International Institute of Metropolitan Detroit. It runs from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday, June 10, during which you'll be welcome at the Yorkshire Road residence of Dr. Donald R. Schipper, the Jefferson Avenue residence of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth J. Gimpert, the Lakeland Avenue residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Schoenith and the Lakeshore Road residences of Dr. and Mrs. Yousef Bisha and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Nick.

Ethnic refreshments will be served at each home. Tickets will be $8 at the door, but you can get them in advance at $6 at two locations in The Pointe, the Sign of the Lion, Kercheval Avenue in-the-Village, and Carl Sterr, Kercheval Avenue on-the-Hill, as well as at the International Institute on East Kirby Street in Detroit's University/Cultural Center.

You can get more information on the 1984 Grosse Pointe International Home tour right now, if you've a mind to, by calling the International Institute, 871-8600. Or you can wait a while and "read all about it" in the June 7 edition of this paper. We even promise you pictures.

The Market's Upper Gallery is currently featuring work in all media chosen by collector Andrew Camden.

March rites for Miss Buffa

A reception at Lochmoor Club followed the 5:30 o'clock ceremony Saturday, March 24, at which Elizabeth Ann Buffa, daughter of Mrs. Betty M. Buffa, of Balfour Road, and the late Sebastian A. Buffa, spoke her marriage vows to Daniel Robert Bohn, son of the Robert Bohns, of Indianapolis, Ind.

Dr. Robert Boley presided at the service in Grosse Pointe United Methodist Church. The bride, given in marriage by her eldest brother, Thomas A. Buffa, of Chicago, who also escorted his mother, wore a gown of white antique taffeta trimmed with Alencon lace and a short veil of Alencon lace and net. Her flowers were pink roses and stephanotis.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Berdean F. Smith, as honor matron, and by bridesmaids Mrs. Lindsey Stewart Peabody, a former Pointe resident who now makes her home in Chicago, and Lucinda and Nancy Bohn, of Indianapolis, the bridegroom's sisters. Junior bridesmaids were Katherine and Heather Smith, the bride's nieces. They wore dresses of rose antique taffeta and carried arrangements of pink roses and white carnations.

Best man was J. Patrick Gallagher, of Indianapolis. Ushering were Anthony F. Buffa, of The Pointe, and Sebastian J. Buffa, of Boston, the bride's brothers, and Andrew Bohn, of Indianapolis, the bridegroom's brother. Ring bearer was Christopher Smith, the bride's nephew.

Kilby-Angott rites are read

The Regina High School Chapel was the setting Sunday, April 29, for the wedding of Teresa Marie Angott, daughter of Mrs. Richard Rosenthal, of Lakepointe Avenue, and John D. Angott, of Orchard Lake, and Kurt David Kilby, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Kilby, of Siesta Key, Fla.

The 2 o'clock rites at which The Reverend Norbert Clemens presided were followed by a reception at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club, after which the newlyweds left to vacation in the Pocono Mountains and Atlantic City. They will be making their home in Sarasota, Fla.

The bride, given in marriage by her father and step-father, Mr. Rosenthal, carried a prayer book bouquet of gardenias, stephanotis and orchids. Her veil fell from a beaded Juliet cap, and she wore her maternal grandmother's gown of ivory silk illusion over satin. That grandmother, Mrs. Robert J. O'Neill, of Tequesta, Fla., and Farmington Hills, was among the wedding guests, delighted to see the dress worn again, 48 years after it made its initial appearance.

Honor attendant Susan Marentette, of Houston, Tex., the bridegroom's sister, and bridesmaids Kathleen O'Neill, of Atlanta, Ga., the bride's cousin, Laura Gambino, Amy Litner and Dawn Kidd, of Ypsilanti, wore long-sleeved, street length dresses of deep rose textured satin, boat-necked in front and extending into a deep V-drape in back.

Rose, ivory and white spring flowers, with carnations, roses, baby's-breath, small chrysanthemums and orchids, formed their bouquets.

Best man was William Parks, of Traverse City. Joseph and John Angott, the bride's brothers, Keith Kilby, of Siesta Key, the bridegroom's brother, and Brant Garber, of Whitmore Lake, seated the guests.

Mrs. Rosenthal selected a street length, two-piece dress of powder blue crepe, featuring a front-wrapped skirt and waist detailing, and a corsage of gardenias and white roses for her daughter's wedding. The bridegroom's mother accented her street length dress of pale pink sheer, with neckline beading, with a pink straw picture hat. Gardenias and pink roses formed her corsage.

Out-of-town guests included the bridegroom's grandmother and great-aunt, Mrs. Edith Farr and Mrs. Mona Ballinger, both Florida residents. More were the bride's uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. R. Michael O'Neill, who make their home in Alaska, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy O'Neill and Barry O'Neill, of Atlanta, Ga., and the bridegroom's uncles and aunts, Virginia residents Mr. and Mrs. Craig Ballinger, Pennsylvania residents Mr. and Mrs. Nick Farr and Illinois residents Mr. and Mrs. Jon Florida.

The guest book was kept by the bride's cousins, Kerri O'Neill, of Anchorage, Alaska, and Katie O'Neill, of Atlanta, Ga.

Present New World Strings

The New World String Quartet returns to the Detroit Institute of Arts tonight, Thursday, May 24, for an 8 p.m. recital preview of the Metropolitan Opera Company's May 28 to June 2 visit to Detroit.

The program, devoted to three of the composers whose works will be presented during Met Week, includes Mozart's Quartet No. 21 in D, K. 575, Puccini's "I Crisantemi" and Verdi's Quartet in E Minor.

Tickets for the concert, a presentation of the DIA Performing Arts Department in cooperation with the Detroit Grand Opera Association, may be purchased in advance through the museum's ticket office, 832-2730, and at the door. Cost is $7.

As seating is limited in the DIA's Crystal Gallery, where the 1979 winners of the prestigious Naumberg Chamber Music Competition will perform, advance reservations are recommended.

The Crystal Gallery, for many years used only as an overflow lobby for the museum's main theater, was recently discovered to have near-perfect acoustics. Last year, it underwent detailed restoration to its original 1927 decor.

The room, acknowledged to be among the most beautiful in the museum, is now often the setting for intimate concerts, membership and patron dinners and small receptions.

"Dear Operation LINC:

"As a NIF-T mother I have time and time again benefitted from the generosity of your organization.

"Our group is non-profit and scarcely funded. As a result there are many items — furniture, toys, office supplies, clothing, etc. — we have needed and been unable to provide for our families. With the donations from you, our list of items has decreased, and for that I am extremely grateful.

"We, the parents, are not merely a group existing off the gifts of others. Operation LINC made a generous donation of material to us, with which we were able to develop and carry out a plan to make money that will be used to sponsor summer outings for our children in addition to other resources for the center. Thank you!"

This is a letter LINC received from a member of NIF-T, Nurturing Infants and Family Together, a Neighborhood Family Resource Center which provides simultaneous educational experiences in the same building two or three mornings a week for children and their parents. The children may be as young as infants. Pregnant women are included in the parent program.

Parenting skills, community information and consumer concerns are offered, focusing on special concern for the prevention of child abuse and neglect.

Charitable donations, consisting of usable goods, volunteer time or money, are a constant need of any group attempting to upgrade the standard of living for many individuals. These generous donations from the community enable LINC to succeed in its job of Linking Individuals to Needs in the Community. This is not just a slogan: it is reality to hundreds of individuals who turn to Wayne County service agencies for help in coping with, and improving, their life and family situations.

LINC would like the community to know that its donations have made a difference, and will continue to do so. THANK YOU.

LINC volunteers, too, have made a difference and continue to do so. Donations of time and talent are always welcome. Prospective volunteers are most welcome at the annual LINC Volunteer Spring Luncheon, set for next Thursday, May 31, at noon at the Detroit Institute of Arts — but reminded that the reservation deadline is today, Thursday, May 24. Checks for $9.50, including both the luncheon and a 1 p.m. Modern Art museum tour, must be received by Mrs. Paddy Griem, 726 Middlesex Boulevard, by this evening.

The spring luncheon is a sure sign that summer is just around the corner — and so is the 4-H Growing Roots Program conducted in cooperation with the Wayne County Extension and Education Center. Over 10,000 Detroiters participated in Growing Roots in 1982, saving a total of $119,000 in food costs. Summer 1983 was an equally successful season.

To make 1984 another record-breaker for 4-H, LINC is again requesting new or used canning jars from the community. Boxes of new lids would also be welcomed. An excerpt from the winter edition of "Vantage," the Michigan 4-H Foundation newsletter, may encourage your participation in this worthwhile project:

"Detroit's urban gardeners are enjoying the fruits of last summer's labor this winter, thanks to Operation LINC which donated 450 new canning jars to the 4-H Growing Roots Program. LINC's contribution to 4-H is but one of many successful ventures. Last summer, LINC received the request for canning jars for the 4-H Growing Roots Urban Gardening Program. Through donors, LINC was able to supply the jars and received the following letter of appreciation from the Wayne County 4-H staff: "Your efforts in promoting and collecting these supplies greatly eased both a financial and energy burden from the program and staff. Operation LINC has made a significant contribution to the 4-H Growing Roots Program and those individuals and families we serve." LINC would like to make a significant contribution to Growing Roots again this year. If you can help, please call the LINC office, 331-6700.

Additional item requests received at LINC include the following: a small desk, display cases, three sewing machines, power mowers, a riding mower for the Easter Seal Society, highchairs, a rocking chair, two racks for displaying magazines and books, a wall clock, phone answering machines, a cash register, a sturdy table to hold a copy machine, and file cabinets. There is always a large need for typewriters.

Just a reminder as you spring clean: LINC will accept new and used goods, and all donations are tax deductible.

LINC column space is provided each month by the Grosse Pointe NEWS as a community service. Operation LINC needs your generous contributions and your time. We are a non-profit, volunteer organization which helps numerous Wayne County agencies and depends on your support. To volunteer or donate items, please call us at 331-6700. Our office hours are 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday, throughout the year.

Assumption promises a sensational summer

June signals the start of a sensational summer at Assumption Cultural Center on Marter Road, at the border of Grosse Pointe Woods and St. Clair Shores, where the 1984 Summer Program of Activities provides a wide variety of classes for everyone in the community.

There are the popular Kalosomatics (well-being through body movement) Fitness Workouts which, since 1977, have motivated thousands of participants to learn and enjoy the benefits of calisthenics, isometrics, brisk walking, jogging and yoga. Metro Detroit's original three-level, nine-week exercise program allows each person to work at his/her own level, building stamina with emphasis on heart and lungs.

Assumption offers beginner and advanced level Kalosomatics workouts, as well as moderation classes for men and women. Pre-Natal Fitness is designed to improve posture, muscle tone and body alignment, to encourage relaxation during labor and childbirth.

Summer fitness programs at the cultural center don't end with Kalosomatics. There are Runners' World Fun Runs on the first and third Saturdays of each month, spanning distances of one-half to five miles. Fitness walking classes, directed by National Masters Race Walker and marathon runner Frank Soby, begin June 6.

Kalosomatics and the Detroit Yacht Club navigators are teaming up for a co-ed fitness day Saturday, June 2. The program at the NYC, running from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., is a health, exercise and nutrition workshop designed for today's active men and women. It begins with an outdoor Kalosomatics Cardiovascular Fitness Session, followed by a sauna or swim at the club where pool instruction will be available. Luncheon will be served in the clubhouse. Dr. Lawrence Power, director of Southfield's Metabolic Clinic and professor of Medicine, Wayne State University, Boston Marathon runner, nutrition and fitness expert, will discuss lifestyle medicine, increasing levels of fitness, weight control and proper nutrition.

Other Assumption summer classes designed with fitness in mind are yoga, ballet, tap, square dancing, self-defense for women, karate, tennis and beginner/continuing/advanced levels of golf. Sweatshirt painting, calligraphy, Faberge egg, drawing and oil painting classes will again be offered, and fresh flower arranging has been added to Assumption's arts and crafts programs. Instructor for the two-week workshop is floral designer Dale Bottorff.

New self-improvement classes include two sessions sponsored by Jacobson's Beauty Salon: "Hair Care Made Easy for Summer" and "Summer Skin Care." Also available are Get it Together with Color, Makeup Techniques, Gorgeous Nails... by Yourself and Discover Your Voice classes.

Assumption also offers Cardio-pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) training, financial planning and investments instruction and a new class in rhythm guitar.

Programs for teens and youth range from driving lessons to golf, tennis, dance, karate, gymnastics, babysitting tips, Fun with Art and La Petite Cuisine for ages 8 through 13. Added to the summer schedule for the first time is "Groove to the Beat," instruction in the latest dance techniques featured on popular TV videos: the Michael Jackson moonwalk, e.g., and intricate combinations from Flashdance. Detroit Express dancer Theresa George will be teaching three classes a week, for ages 9 to 13, 14 through 18 and 18 and over.

The Bob Samaras Basketball Camp runs from 9 a.m. to noon for two weeks, July 16 through 26, and is open to boys ages 10 to 18. This is the sixth year that Assumption has hosted the camp, featuring Dr. Bob Samaras, of Wayne State University, and the Detroit Spirits, with Gunars Vitolins, George Petrouleas and Tony Niarhos, of Grosse Pointe South High School.

Visiting staff from professional, high school and college levels of basketball will participate. Camp championships will be held. T-shirts and trophies will be awarded.

For ages 8 to 15, Coach of the Year Angelo Gust will present a Summer Baseball Camp for the first time at Assumption. It runs from 9 a.m. to noon June 18 through 29, and will cover hitting, fielding, running, throwing and inter-squad games, under the supervision of Wayne State University's head coach.

Assistant WSU coaches and guest speakers will also be featured in this two-week workshop opportunity to develop individual baseball skills. T-shirts and hats will be presented.

Assumption's summer culinary crafts programs include Discover Greek Cooking and Micro Wave Cooking. Both will feature recipes that can be prepared with a minimum of fuss and bother during warm-weather days.

The cultural center's summer brochure also features a pair of fall and winter vacation trips. An Autumn in New York theater weekend, Nov. 2 to 4, includes round-trip air transportation, two nights, three days' accommodation at a Manhattan hotel and a choice of a Friday night performance of "Cats" or "Las Cage aux Folles." The seven-day holiday cruise to St. Thomas, San Juan and Puerto Plata departs Detroit Dec. 29, returning Jan. 5.

Additional information on Assumption's summer programs may be obtained by calling the center, 779-6111.

Sunday picnic for pessimists

"It always rains on Memorial Day Weekend" . . . so the single, young Phase I adults, ages 20 through 39, who gather regularly for Sunday evening program meetings at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, have once again scheduled their annual Pessimists' Picnic INDOORS, in the third floor lounge at Memorial Church.

It starts at 6 p.m. this Sunday, May 27. Of course, if the pessimists' prediction of inclement weather proves false, the picnic can always be moved outdoors, to the grassy slope at the back of the church, overlooking the lake. There, volleyball is possible, along with a sing-along.

Phase I will furnish the hot dogs, buns, condiments, ice, pop, chips, paper plates and cups and plastic eating utensils. Picnic participants are asked to bring a side dish to share with at least eight, plus $1 to cover expenses. Non-food contributors will be charged $4.

Those whose last names begin with the letters A through G are asked to bring desserts. Salads are requested from those whose last names begin with the letters H through O, vegetables from those whose last names begin with the letters P through Z. If the sun shines, all should bring blankets or plastic to sit on.

Villagers continue to dance

FLO and ED KLIBER (foreground) and DOROTHY and CHET MARSHALL (background) are pictured dancing the night away Saturday, April 14, at the Villagers' traditional pre-paid 1983-84 season dinner dance, at the Detroit Yacht Club. The evening, hosted by Richard and Betsy Boynton, Villagers presidential couple, began at 7 p.m. with cocktails. Dance music was provided by the Joe Vitale Trio. The dinner dance club's final event of the season is scheduled for June, at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club. Anyone who enjoys dancing and would like more information on the Villagers is invited to contact the Boyntons at 343-0570, or May Thompson, membership chairperson, at 886-4454.

'Cinderella' at Youtheatre

"Cinderella," an original, all-new musical by Detroit Youtheatre's own professional touring company, Prince Street Players, debuts for local family audiences in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium/theatre this month.

Four performances are being given, two last Saturday, May 19, at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., two next Saturday, May 26, also at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Tickets, at $3 for children and adults ($2 each in groups of 10 or more) may be obtained in advance through the museum ticket office, 832-2730, and at the door.

Prince Street's "Cinderella," in a comic departure from the original tale, takes place in the magical kingdom of King Darling the Third who directs his son, Prince Charming the First, to scour the countryside for a bride before his 21st birthday — in 24 hours.

In a musical race against time, with the help of a tap-dancing Fairy Godmother and her two stand-up comic pages, Charming succeeds, finding his dream princess, Ella, among the cinders.

The presentation was created for families with young people five years of age and older; children younger than five will not be admitted to the theatre.

Pvt. Christopher Rayl, son of Ronald C. and Margaret S. Rayl, of Bedford Road, has completed a combat engineer course at the U.S. Army Training Center at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

Met costumes are on display

Detroit Grand Opera Association 1984 general chairman Barbara (Mrs. R. Alexander) Wrigley, of The Farms, above, looks pleased as she accepts Saks Fifth Avenue's gift to underwrite the exhibit "The Metropolitan Opera in Detroit: A Celebration in Costume," on view now through June 10 at the Detroit Historical Museum.

Pictured at right are Frank W. Donovan (left), chairman of the DGOA board, and attorney A. Robert Zeff, both of The Pointe, engaged in conversation at the exhibit's early May benefit preview showing and reception. The evening was co-chaired by Mrs. Wrigley and Mrs. Ernest J. DuMouchelle. It featured a showing of contemporary fashions by Saks, counterpoint to the 15 costumes displayed in the museum's Round Hall.

The costumes represent roles in "Carmen," "La Boheme," "Tosca," "Amore Dei Tre Re," "Der Rosenkavalier," "The Egyptian Helen," "Die Walkure," "Les Contes d'Hoffman," "La Gioconda," "Boris Godunov," "The Abduction from the Seraglio" and "Lohengrin." They were worn by such opera greats as Enrico Caruso, Olive Fremstad, Giovanni Martinelli, Richard Tucker and Marilyn Horne.

The exhibit celebrates the Centennial of the Metropolitan Opera. The costumes are drawn primarily from the Met's own collection, with particular emphasis given to the Met's annual visits to Detroit for the past 25 years.

The Met returns to Detroit this year on Memorial Day, Monday, May 28, for a week of performances at Masonic Temple. Ticket information and the performance schedule may be obtained by calling 831-8900 between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Local arrangements for the costume exhibit were coordinated by the DGOA, which sponsors the Met's annual visits to Detroit; the Detroit Historical Society, Saks Fifth Avenue and the Historical Museum. Other cities hosting Met Opera tours and exhibitions this spring include Washington, D.C., Atlanta, Dallas and Cleveland.

The exhibit is open to the public during regular museum hours: 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday. The museum is located on Woodward Avenue at Kirby Street, in Detroit's University/Cultural Center.

Women's golf tourney slated in early June

The Junior Group of Goodwill Industries has undertaken a new project: sponsorship of a Women's Open Golf Tournament, formerly sponsored by the Child Research League which is disbanding after 25 years of existence, to be held on Monday, June 11, at the Great Oaks Country Club in Rochester.

It is open to everyone; one does not have to be a member of a private club to play. The only requirement is a USGA handicap. Cost is $85, including continental breakfast, greens fees, lunch and prizes.

Registration checks, payable to Junior Group of Goodwill Industries, should be mailed to Mrs. Lou Davis, 939 Brookwood Lane, Rochester, Mich. 48063. The tournament was founded by Mrs. Davis, who is organizing it this year for the Junior Group. She may be reached at 1-652-0230 for further information. Proceeds will benefit the handicapped clients of Goodwill Industries.

League Goodwill of Detroit, in recognition of National Goodwill Week which began May 6, held a series of events to promote the agency's services to handicapped persons in the Detroit area for the last 63 years.

Highlighting the week was an awards luncheon on Friday, May 11, at the St. Regis Hotel, with Erma Henderson, president of the Detroit City Council, as keynote speaker. Awards were presented to Volunteers of the Year, staff, clients in work activity or sheltered shop and those who have gone on to competitive employment. Various contractors also received awards for the work they have made available to Goodwill workshops.

The last event of the week was a 2 to 5 p.m. open house at the St. Ambrose Residential Home on Alter Road, also scheduled for Friday, May 11. Further information may be obtained by contacting League Goodwill public relations at 964-3900.

British arrive at Jacobson's

A rich variety of British accents echoed through Jacobson's Store-for-the-Home, Grosse Pointe, Thursday evening, May 3, as guests nibbled cucumber sandwiches and sipped tea from fine china at a gathering to celebrate British Heritage Week.

Guests of honor were Her Britannic Majesty's Consul General. The Honorable Martin Hime, and Paul M. Warner, president of Royal Doulton.

Also on hand for the celebration were Ron Jones and Gary Baker, regional sales manager and Michigan representative, respectively, for Royal Doulton; Fred Warner and Julian Younger, British Rail Company and British Tourist Authority representative, respectively; Mr. and Mrs. Brandon Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kahler (he's manager of the St. Regis Hotel) and Mr. and Mrs. William O. Bradley Jr., representing the English-Speaking Union.

The Daughters of the British Empire were out in force, of course, many of the many Pointers among them bringing their husbands along to share in the festivities.

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the forthcoming low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — cookbook by Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth featuring, this week, a potpourri of SPRING LUNCHEON SUGGESTIONS.

MOLDED DILLY BEAN SALAD

1/4 cup sugar
1 env. unflavored gelatin
1 tsp. chicken bouillon granules
Pinch of salt
1 1/4 cups boiling water
1/4 cup lemon juice
2 Tbsp. white wine vinegar
1 Tbsp. fresh dillweed, minced*
1 can (16 oz.) cut or French-style green beans, drained.
3 Tbsp. thinly sliced fresh leek
2 Tbsp. chopped pimiento
*1/2 tsp. dried may be substituted

In mixing bowl, combine sugar, gelatin, bouillon and a pinch of salt, if desired. Add boiling water and stir until completely dissolved. Stir in lemon juice, wine vinegar and dillweed. Chill until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Fold in drained green beans and leeks which have been boiled until tender, drained and cooled, and the pimiento. Pour mixture into 4-cup mold and chill overnight. Makes 6 servings.

Sports Week

By Peggy O'Connor

An impass . . .

With all due apologies to the city of Wyandotte, it probably comes as quite a shock to residents of this community to discover that the downriver city has got something that Grosse Pointe ain't got. And that's PASS.

PASS is the new Pro Am Sports System which is supplying telecasts of professional sports, including 80 Detroit Tiger games, to local cable TV systems like Wyandotte's and others in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana. What PASS isn't part of Grosse Pointe Cable TV's programming. And that's what's got the Park's Paul Pomaski cheesed off.

Pomaski is a G.P. Cable subscriber who only wants his cable company to supply him — and other subscribers — with the chance to make a choice of what channel they want to add to their subscription. And Pomaski wants PASS.

Pomaski has coached youth sports in Grosse Pointe and he just happens to be an avid sports fan. And like a lot of other avid sports fans in Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods, Pomaski wouldn't mind paying for the privilege of watching 80 Tiger games this spring and 40 Piston basketball games next fall, not to mention the other PASS sports offerings.

So, he's anticipated purchasing PASS ever since the company announced last winter that the service would be made available to cable companies, including the one which services Pomaski. He waited. And waited. And waited. Then he called G.P. Cable offices.

"After I got the runaround, I finally got Jerry DeGrazia (general manager at Group W's G.P. Cable TV). He told me some nonsense about having to protect the interests of other cable subscribers, those whose rates he'd have to raise on the premium movie channels because so many people would drop the more expensive channels to pick up PASS," Pomaski says.

"That's a crock. First DeGrazia was telling us we'd have PASS by June, now he says maybe in two months or never. He's just spewing the company line."

Gerald DeGrazia says Pomaski misunderstood his explanation. "We know our subscribers want PASS. And we fully intend to carry PASS. We've been in negotiations with PASS for at least five months. The major stumbling block is money. We're apart on price, on what they will charge us," DeGrazia says.

"We do not want to have to offer PASS at too high a price, we're not sure that's fair. We know we have subscribers who want it, but when we purchase a service, we are cognizant of our customers. It's sort of unfair to have to charge PASS subscribers more than movie channel customers. And with PASS, you're talking about one event per day. Can that be justified?"

"We would like to bring it in at approximately the same price as our other premium services ($11.95)," he adds.

DeGrazia says that his office is no longer giving out a timetable for the start-up of PASS on G.P. Cable, given the length of the negotiations.

Pomaski still doesn't buy much of what DeGrazia says. He's put together a petition and has gotten approximately 75 subscribers to sign it, claiming they will cancel their cable subscriptions. Pomaski isn't sure the tactic will work but says he's willing to try anything.

"We're going to hold off a while and see what happens. We'd like to do this thing all at once and make it a major cancellation . . . that might take a few thousand dollars out of their pockets. But I don't know if anything will sway it," Pomaski says.

PASS executive vice-president William Wischman Jr. chuckled when he heard about Pomaski's petition. "They just may be able to make Group W deal," he laughed. For it is with Group W that the problem lies, Wischman says.

"The hang up is in New York with Group W. Cable. And it's true, it's over money. When we put together the Pro Am Sports System, we formulated a profit split of 50-50. Group W Cable wants a split that's different. They want preferential treatment over other cable systems. They're talking a 65-35 split and that's irresponsible. That's like ordering a Cadillac and expecting to get it for a Ford price," Wischman says.

"Our survival depends upon the profit split we set up . . . Group W could care less about that. We'd be out of business if we did what they wanted us to do. They're trying to get me to do something I just cannot do."

(Group W's New York office did not return phone calls).

Woods man 'in running' at Trials

By Peggy O'Connor

When the Woods' Bill Weidenbach finished third in last October's Detroit Free Press International Marathon, he earned a bit more than the undying admiration of his fellow Grosse Pointers. Weidenbach's time of 2:17.17 also qualified him for the Olympic marathon trials, set for this Saturday in Buffalo, N.Y.

Weidenbach, 24, finished just 1:07 behind the Free Press Marathon winner Dave Olds last fall, on a blustery marathon Sunday. But he isn't predicting a top-three finish in the May 26 Olympic Trials. That's because some of America's top marathon runners, men like Alberto Salazar, Greg Meyer and Tony Sandoval, will be dueling it out to finish in the top three and earn a spot on the U.S. Olympic team.

The North High graduate has only run in a few major marathons and while this one will be the biggest of his life, he's merely gearing up to make a successful run in Buffalo.

"I'm not looking for the top three. I'm just hoping somebody will pull me along. I'd like to run a 2:14 or a 2:15 . . . that would be a good race for me," Weidenbach says. Top marathoners like Salazar, Meyer and Sandoval will run anywhere from 2:10 to 2:11 on a good — not hot or humid day, Weidenbach adds.

Weidenbach's strategy for the Olympic trials is not unlike the one he used successfully last fall. "I'm trying to use the same pattern I used in Detroit and hoping to have the same success I had in Detroit. I started with running 110 miles per week, then 100, and so on."

The Buffalo course, used in the men's 1980 Olympic trial, is similar to the Free Press marathon course. "I'd heard that it's real flat . . . and windy, too. Just like Detroit's. I like that type of course, even though I could do without the wind. But I wouldn't mind a nice, cool day."

IN BUFFALO, Weidenbach plans to stay calm and run his own race. "In a race like that, you tend to get excited and go full out. My strategy is to lay back a little bit and watch what happens. You see a lot of big names tend to drop out early in a race like this.

"But I've got to keep my head. There's no pressure on me in this race. I can go out conservatively. I always tend to run better when I go out slowly. It's going to be weird, though, to go out in five minutes and have 200 guys with me," Weidenbach says, in reference to the importance of this race to so many runners.

While he doesn't think he'll be in that top three that earns a spot in the Olympics, Weidenbach has his own ideas on the Communist-bloc boycott of the Los Angeles games.

"It doesn't hurt the Olympics as much as it hurts the athletes. I don't know why politics gets so involved in the Olympics. The best track and field event in a long time was the World Games in Helsinki. There were no politics involved. And that's the way it should be."

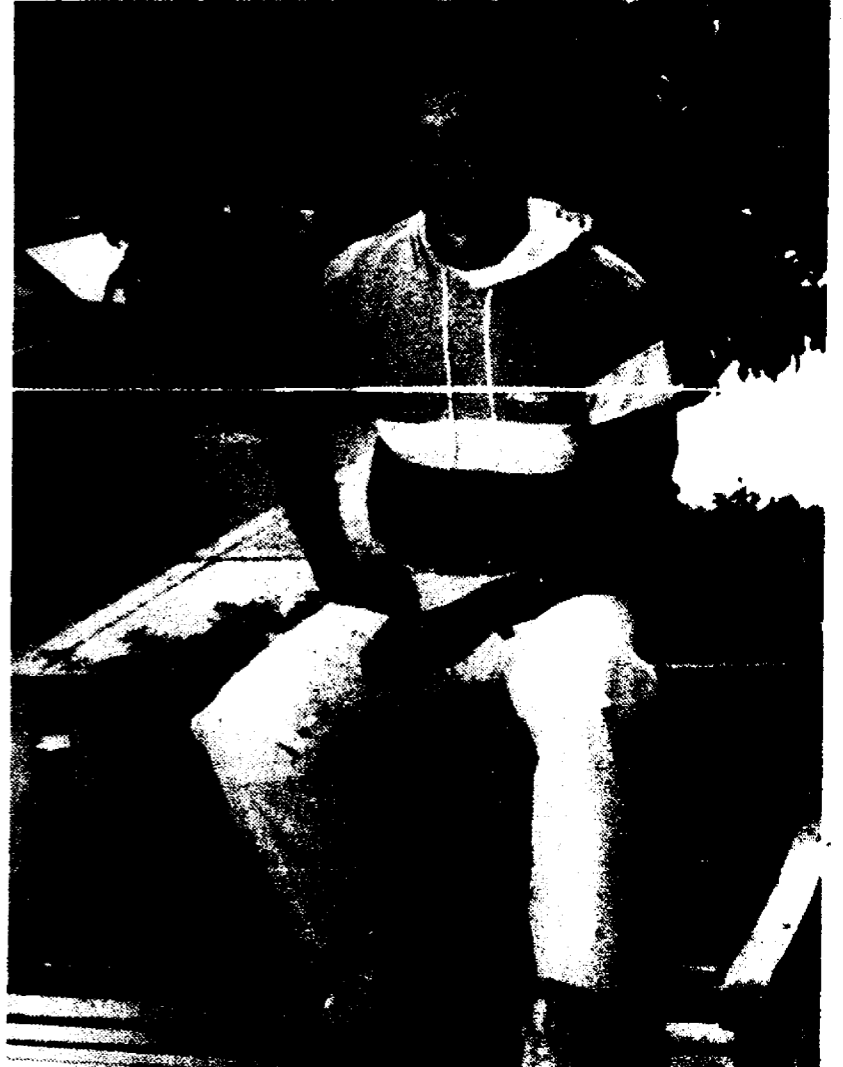

"In the long run, though, most athletes are just going to go at it as usual. They did it in 1980 and they'll do it again in 1984," Weidenbach says.

That's pretty much what Weidenbach himself is going to do, regardless of his finish at the Olympic Trials. A 1981 University of Michigan graduate, he plans to return to school for graduate studies this fall. But until then and after, he'll run.

"There are a lot of opportunities to make a lot of money running. The Chicago Marathon has a top prize of $40,000, the Houston is another big one. I'd like to shoot for the big money races . . . you never know what can happen.

"Anyway, it's a comfortable way to make a living.

"BUT EVEN if I didn't run for money, I'd still do it for fun. I wouldn't run like this if I didn't love it, Weidenbach adds.

Bill Weidenbach, who runs in the Olympic Trials this Saturday.

He says he hopes to travel the "circuit" of big money races and other road races across the U.S. and thinks that a 2:12 time would net him a continuous sponsorship. Weidenbach is currently sponsored by Brooks Shoes.

And while he's enjoying his current stint as freshman track coach at North High, Weidenbach isn't sure he wants to make coaching, or for that matter, competitive running, a permanent career.

"I love running, I've got four or five years of good running time left. . . . for me, my prime should be at 28 or 29. Then again, you can't run until you're 50, can you?"

Maybe he can. Especially since he's already found the right running partner. Weidenbach and Battle Creek's Lisa Larsen, who finished fourth in the women's Olympic Trials and is a first alternate on the U.S. Women's Team, will be married this fall, he says.

And hopefully, they'll be running happily ever after.

win region

The University Liggett School boys' varsity tennis team won the Class C-D Regional Tennis Championships held on Friday, May 18. This marks the 13th consecutive year and the 18th time in the last 19 years that University Liggett has won the regional tennis championships.

The Knights swept all seven flights. Individual winners for ULS were Steve Pack at No. 1 singles, Frank Crociata at No. 2 singles, Marc Hunt at No. 3 singles, David Barlow at No. 4 singles, Brian Hunt and Kirk Haggarty at No. 1 doubles, George Haggarty and Robby Wood at No. 2 doubles, and John Birgbauer and Scott Watson at No. 3 doubles.

"Right now we are playing extremely well," said ULS coach Bob Wood. "The win at the Midland Dow Invitational has increased our confidence and put us exactly where we want to be with the state championships just a week away," continued Wood.

On Friday, May 25, ULS will host the University School of Cleveland. US/C is the top high school team in Ohio and one of the best in the mid-west. The match begins at 3:45 p.m.

Kickers get close

Last week was a busy one for the University Liggett School women's soccer team. After defeating Eisenhower High School the week before, 7-4, ULS was on its way in the Regional Qualifying rounds. The Lady Knights suffered a minor setback, losing a game to Marion High School, 8-2. The only two ULS goals were scored by Laura Khelekian and Kim Wood.

On May 15, ULS faced Berkley High School for the next regional round, and the Lady Knights proved victorious. Five of the nine goals were scored by Laura Khelekian, two goals went to senior Jean Zotter, with Shelly Tibbitts and Ami Wormer each scoring one. Then on May 16, ULS faced Garden City in an Expressway League game. At the half Garden City was up 1-0, and Coach Bousquet pulled Kim Wood out of goal. Susan Edwards and Laurie Khelekian set Wood up and she scored to tie the game. Then Wood set up Edwards who scored, sending ULS ahead 2-1 but Garden City came back with two quick goals at the whistle to defeat ULS, 3-2.

With only one day to practice the Lady Knights faced Troy High School for the third round of the Regionals on May 18. Troy High School is an established team with a super feeder program. The Knights knew they had their work cut out for them, but at the half the Knights were even at 0-0. Kim Wood did a fantastic job in goal, saving 31 shots and allowing only one goal in the second half. Once again Coach Bousquet pulled Wood out of goal, hoping for the Wood/Khelekian "connection" to tie the game, but there just wasn't time.

Troy scored a beautiful goal to win 2-0.

At press time, ULS was 7-10 overall, 4-5 in the league.

Girls play well

The University Liggett School softball team lost to Greenhills May 15, but won a doubleheader against Plymouth Christian May 17.

Ruth McCrary was the big hitter with a total of three doubles and a triple. Laura Stefanski contributed two doubles and Peggy Hoyos hit a double and a single. Mary Hoyos and Thena Cherpes each hit two singles, and Cheri Kavan put in one single.

The team played in the South Lake tournament last weekend, placing third, but playing good defensive ball, losing the first game 4-3 in extra innings. Samantha DeSmet was the star pitcher, pitching all five games. The Lady Knights' record now stands at 6-8. (By Cheri Kavan)

Good track week

ULS' girls' varsity track and field team won three dual meets last week, lost one, and competed in the Class C regional championships at T.R. Roosevelt High School in Wyandotte on Friday and Saturday, May 18 and 19.

On Monday, May 14, the ULS Lady Knights lost to Bethesda Christian, 53-68, but defeated Lutheran Northwest, 64-36. Junior co-captain Ahumna Nwosu was the high scorer with 22 points in the high jump, 100 meters and 400 meters. Sophomore Paula Rodriguez had a perfect day with first places in the 1600 meters (6:07.18) and 3200 meters (13:27.44). Other high scorers were Carolyn Seydel (17), Lydia Alexander (14), Charu Nautiyal (14), Judy Go (12), and Rebecca Boone (8).

Coaches Cathy Schmidt and Sue Frederick were particularly proud of the team's performance, as the girls notched 10 "personal bests" defeating Kingswood 54-52 and Lutheran Northwest 71-35. Freshman Lydia Alexander had an exceptional day, scoring 20½ points in high jump, long jump and 100 hurdles, while Rodriguez picked up 18 additional points in her two distance events. Go scored 16½ points, as Nwosu picked up 16 and senior co-captain Sarah Glass scored 14. Boone picked up 12 and Charu Nautiyal accumulated 10 points in the discus, 800 meters and 3200 meters.

Last weekend, the young ULS team traveled to the Class C regionals to gain experience and watch some spectacular performances. Boone, Glass, Nautiyal and Rodriguez competed, along with junior Linda Vaughn and freshman Scarlet Parris. Glass took her own school record in the 800 meters down to 2:48.78. Rodriguez placed highest for the team, coming in seventh in both the 1600 and 3200 meter events.

JV at 5-6

The University Liggett School JV baseball team is now 5-6, after posting a 2-2 record last week. The junior Knights lost to Harper Woods, 8-4 on May 14. Chris Liakonis turned in two RBI and Nick Noecker had two hits. Pitcher John Petrilli struck out three batters.

On May 15, the Knights lost to Lutheran East, 13-11, although Mike Swaney pitched a great game, fanning 12 batters. Nick Guevarra had two base hits and four RBI. Noecker continued his fine hitting with two hits and five RBI.

The Knights took two games on May 18 and 19. The first victim was Southfield Christian, 9-0, as Mike French, Andrew Galsterer and Chris Liakonis each had two hits. The Knights made it two wins in a row, defeating Cardinal Mooney, 16-7, on May 19. Swaney again pitched a fine game and had two RBI. Wally Butzu had three hits and Pahl Zinn, two hits. Liakonis slugged a three-run homer. "As a team, we are really improving," commented Coach Al Devine.

Notre Dame-Portland

Portland scored seven runs on a lead off triple by Marc Palombo, walks to Mike Barnes and Chris Oliver, and a home run by John Combs. Another home run by Chris Oliver capped Portland's scoring in the third. Notre Dame fought back with five runs in the first two innings and two runs each in the fifth and sixth. Notre Dame's Tom Murphy was two-for-three with two doubles and Kevin Rauch went one-for-two. A fine catch by Portland's Patrick Labadie and a "heads up" defensive play by Jason Hubbarth in the 6th inning stopped a strong rally.

Denver-Portland

Portland squeaked by Denver 9-8 in an extra-inning contest on opening day. For the first five innings the game was a pitching duel between David Auld of Denver and James Combs of Portland. SH kickers at 7-5

By Denise Ruwart
South High

South's girls' varsity soccer team won one of three games last week to improve its record to 7-5. The girls played their final game after press time after insuring themselves of a winning record.

On May 14, South lost to Fraser, 7-3, in a rematch at Fraser. Claire Busse scored two goals and Tracey Bauman had one. Goalie Marcia Wright took the loss, giving up four goals.

Deadlines, deadlines

Monday, May 28 is Memorial Day and that means that the Grosse Pointe News (including the sports department) will be closed. And that means that ALL sports copy for the May 31 issue of the News must be submitted by Friday, May 25. Those who submit Little League and Babe Ruth summaries should turn in what they have by that date.

Babe Ruth

Park teams are tied

Three of the four teams are tied for first place at the end of the first round of play in the Park Babe Ruth League. The Braves, Dodgers and Padres sport 2-1 records; the Phillies are 0-3.

Dave Feys tossed a one-hitter as the Padres trimmed the Phils, 8-2. Steve Addy's triple in the sixth was the only hit off Feys, who went the distance for his second win.

Feys also went all the way in the Padres 11-2 drubbing of the Dodgers. He fanned five while yielding six hits and three walks. He also aided his own cause with a two-run single and scored two runs. Eric Nord drove in two runs for the winners. Jeff Metry tripled for the Dodgers.

The Dodgers topped the Braves, 7-3, as Doug Lucas gave up six hits and fanned nine to gain the decision. He got relief help from Mike Paul, who was also the hitting star with two doubles, a triple and four RBI. Dave Salkowski added two hits, while Marcus Wysocki and Dan O'Grady had two hits each for the Braves.

The Dodgers also downed the Phillies, 10-6, with Mike Coffey gaining the win. He fanned nine and gave up five hits in six innings on the mound. Paul was three-for-four and Salkowski hit two doubles and scored two runs for the winners. Lucas also had two hits, two RBI and scored twice.

The Braves tripped the Padres, 12-8, in the week's other major league contest.

In the Minor League, the Astros won three times last week. Chris Gross tossed a one-hitter, whiffing 11, as the Astros beat the Athletics, 15-2. Gross also singled, scored four runs, batted in one run and stole five bases.

Gross also got the decision in the Astros 13-7 win over the Angels, as Eric Napier and Mike Cogan chipped in with two hits each. Ralph Mauk went all the way for the Astros as they overpowered the Tigers, 10-5. Andrew Morlan doubled and stole four bases.

The Devils were eliminated from state playoff competition with a 2-1 loss to Birmingham Seaborn on May 15. Busse scored in the second half to tie the game at 1-1, but Seaborn scored the winner with just a few minutes left.

The Devils turned things around against Warren Fitzgerald on May 16, winning 2-1. Goalie Denise Ruwart took the win, coming close to earning South's seventh shutout of the season. Busse scored both Devil goals.

South's JV squad cruised through a winning week, handily defeating Regina and Bloomfield Andover last week.

Regina fell, 4-2, with freshman Sarah Dow leading the scoring with two goals. Becky Steffes and Torrey Ollison each added one goal to insure the win.

Andover was a 3-0 victim on May 16 as Dow, Steffes and Katie O'Rourke each scored. Goalies Liz Dillon and Laura Miller combined for the shutout.

At press time, South's JV squad was 5-2.

St. Paul's track team includes, from left to right, (front row) John Olmsted, J.J. Conway, Dan Connell, Mark Gianni, Dan Yap, Justin Hynous, Tom Huminski, Mike Francis, Jay Bonahoom; (second row) Claire Bonahoom, Charlotte Hemick, Andrea Gagnon, Marcy Pawlowski, Julian Lubitz, Brink Cawley, Peter Giles, Joe Grady, Rob Phillips, Michelle Francis; (tow row) coach Mike Novak, Matt Gianni, Lew Echlin, Kevin Bourke, Jim Ryszewski, Theresa Malloy, Sam Steinhebe, Kristen Wenzler, Bill Huntington, Robert Crane, Tom Droate, Jenny Youngblood, assistant coach Fred Keller and Jenny Kane. Dan Wilson, Mark Wehby, Courtney and Kelly Kackathorn, Ben Temkow and Rebecca Damm were not pictured.

St. Paul wins track title

St. Paul's Laker track team defeated St. Ambrose May 20 at South High to win the Southeast Division championship, 47-44.

Fine performances were turned in by Mark Wehby, first in the shot put; Julian Lubitz, who came in first in the 100 and 200 meter dashes; and by Bill Huntington, with his excellent 5.27 in the mile.

The outcome of the meet was up in the air until Dan Wilson won the high jump on fewer misses with his jump of five feet.

The Lakers next meet is Sunday, May 27, at 1 p.m. at South High.

Norsemen hit title stretch

By Rick Markel
North High

As the high school track season winds down, the meets become more and more important, like the state regionals in which North's boys' and girls' track team recently competed. The regionals serve as a stepping stone to the state finals. The top three finalists in each event then go to the states.

Pressure is often a large factor in such competition. Some athletes don't do well under pressure, others excel. Norsemen Tim Monahan fits in the latter category. Turning in his best time of the year in the 800 run, Monahan finished second in the regional and advanced to the state finals.

Coached by Bob Collins, the boys' track team also qualified another squad member in discus thrower Brian Bergeron, who finished second and will represent North in the state tournament.

Overall, the boys' squad placed seventh in the regionals. The boys ran up to par but they couldn't cut their times down enough.

Now of great importance to the team (6-2 - overall, 4-1 in league play) is the Bi-County league meet, which takes place after press time. North finds itself in a three-way tie with Lakeview and Clintondale for league honors.

The girls' track team fared a little better in the regionals, finishing second with 67 points.

Stacie Williams had a big day for North as she placed second in the 100 and 200 meter runs. Williams also took fourth in the 400 meter run. Another excellent meet was turned in by Sue Roland who placed second in the high jump and third in the 300 meter hurdles. Meanwhile, Donna Marsden took third in the discus throw and also qualified for states. Narrowly missing state qualification was Norsemen Amy Dornbrock who placed fourth in the 200 meter run. Unfortunately, the freshman track team lost its first dual meet, 69-59, to Rochester Van Hoosen. Fine efforts in a losing cause were still turned in by Tom Rice in the two mile run and Tom Shehab in the shot put.

Netters are second

There was some good news and bad news for the boys' tennis this week. North finished second in the regionals, but was edged out by top rival South, 26-21, in regional play.

Kickers lose one

Winning twice wasn't enough for North's girls' soccer team as it ran its record to 14-1 with big 4-0 and 1-0 wins over Fitzgerald and Royal Oak Kimball, around a crucial 3-0 shutout loss to Fraser.

Shannon Armstrong was the big gun in North's 4-0 triumph over Fitzgerald as she paced the offense with two goals. Sue Regalado and Laura Lovisa added the other goals for North. Kimball proved to be a very tough challenge for the Norsemen. Again North found a way to win, though, as Denna Burt came up with the deciding goal off of Regalado and Armstrong passes.

However, the story of the week was the big rematch with the extremely talented team from Fraser. North lost the key return game for its first loss of the year. It was a costly one as the 3-0 setback dropped North's league lead to only one point over Fraser.

Running their record to 6-0-2, the JV soccer team downed Bloomfield Hills Lahser, 2-0. Scoring for North were Becki Lelli and Sharon Rapp.

North wins

The big green and gold machine, North's varsity baseball team, continues to mop up in the Bi-County league action. A recent doubleheader sweep of Clintondale left North at 18-5. More importantly, they were 6-1 and in first place in league play.

Last weekend, North took two more games, 10-4 and 6-2 over Bay City John Glenn.

Sports Week

What does all this mean to the cable subscriber-sports fan like Pomaski?

It means that Group W, which is in the business of making a profit from its cable services, is probably going to continue to pursue that profit, not surprisingly.

It means that PASS, like any other potentially successful business, will hold fast to its profit formula, and not give in to Group W or any other group which wants a bigger slice of the pie.

And that means that sports fans like Pomaski, his 75 petition-signers and the other area cable subscribers who practically drooled at the thought of watching 80 Tiger games (at a fraction of the cost of really going out to the games) this season, are stuck in the middle. Again.

And with New York corporate offices, lots of money and terms like "ongoing negotiations" flying around, Pomaski and other sports fans might as well get used to it, they might be there a long, long time.
