Mayor seeks to bypass charter re: new chief

By Harriet Nolan

Grosse Pointe Park Mayor Palmer Heenan wants council to bypass the city's charter that gives City Manager John Crawford the responsibility to screen and appoint a replacement for retiring Police Chief Henry Coonce, in favor of his own hand-picked citizens committee.

At Monday's council meeting, he moved that a search committee consisting of himself, Councilman John Prost, attorneys Stephen Wasinger and Philip Tannian, and citizen John Fildew be authorized to "judge, solicit and review resumes of prospective applicants, interview and recommend to the city manager a new police chief as well as all other things necessary or incidental to that process."

The city charter states that "the city manager shall appoint the chief of police, subject to the confirmation by council and is his responsibility."

"The choice can have an impact on the city for better or for worse for the next 20 years," said Heenan. "These people have the skills and know how to find and recommend a future police chief."

Both Wasinger and Tannian are members of Heenan's citizens' committee studying public safety. Wasinger, chairman of the group, said a report and recommendation of the year-long study will be available in January. He declined to comment on the findings and said any statement prior to its written completion "would result in misleading information and be ill-informed."

However, Councilmen Mark Valente III and John Prost said they understood that the committee had voted in favor of public safety which would combine police and fire departments into one department.

Heenan suggested to the audience that City Manager Crawford was ineffectual, may not be in the community forever, and sees the crime problem differently from residents who have lived here longer.

"I believe these individuals are most qualified by way of experience in asking the right questions of a candidate for police chief, and are also most familiar with our community and departmental operations to undertake this responsibility," he said.

Heenan said Crawford's plan to select a new chief based on mass advertising and interviews by a panel made up of local police officials

Everyone loves a parade

Grosse Pointe's annual Christmas parade was bigger and better than ever as thousands of spectators jammed Kercheval Avenue in the Village last week to catch a glimpse of their favorite float. Donald Duck, celebrating his 50th birthday this year, was the grand marshal of the parade. Spectators were treated to the sights and sounds of a number of high-stepping marching bands, the talents of a bagpipe band and a fife and drum corps. Among those in the crowd were Gordon Beckett, 12, and Charlie, who charmed the crowd until the parade really got rolling. Helping with crowd control this year was the City's police force aided by the Farms Auxiliary Police Unit. Finally, the Big Man himself ended the parade. Santa threw waves and drew raves from the hundreds of children along the parade route.

Rave on!

Well the jury is finally in and the suspense is finally over. The winner(s) of the "Name that Divertimento" contest have been named.

Maybe I should backtrack first. The inaugural concert of the Renaissance City Chamber Players included an original composition written by Grosse Pointe Dr. James Hartway in honor of the formation of the new group assembled by Misha Rachlevsky.

Deliberately left untitled, the audience at the concert in October was invited to submit title suggestions in a contest called "Name that Divertimento."

Apparently the idea was a hit because the musician members received 195 entries, some of which are pretty funny. "When I wrote the divertimento, I tried to express some of the high points of Misha's life with three musical motifs," explained Dr. Hartway. "The divertimento contains a Russian folk song, a Motown hit and a patriotic tune, so it offers a lot of possibilities for a name."

I'll say. Some of the entries included: Misha Don Quixote, Mostly Misha, Divertimento Hat-Trick, Detroit in Four (it was, after all, World Series time), Make Mine Mishagan (groan), Russian Funk and Apple Pie, Motown and Vodka.

Enough already. The first place winner was Mary Rackwal of Pontiac for her entry "RenCenDicity."

Second place in a close contest was awarded to Jan Jaffray of Detroit for her entry "Renaissance Rach."

The winning entries were announced at intermission during the Nov. 20 concert, when Rachlevsky was presented as soloist in the "Four Seasons" by Vivaldi.

A tongue-in-cheek third prize for creativity was presented by the musicians to Dr. Judith Tintinalli, of Detroit, for her entry "Ain't No Mountain High Enough for my Webbed Russian Feet."

While the first and second place winners will partake of dinner with composer Hartway and Misha at the Golden Mash room, Dr. Tintinalli will receive lunch at the Arby's of her choice and allowed to select any topping she fancies for her baked potato.

And rights so

Local students score improvement on state tests

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Local seventh- and 10th-graders scored higher this year on the Michigan Educational Assessment Program tests while fourth-grade scores dropped compared to last year's, according to school officials.

Grosse Pointe remains near the top of tri-county districts with this year's scores, which on average are the highest the district's students have ever attained, according to Roger McCaig, director of the Office of Research and Development.

About 365,000 students statewide took the MEAP tests in September and October. The state Department of Education will release its analysis next year.

The three grade levels are tested for mastery of minimum standards in reading and math.

A score of 93.1 means that percentage of students answered 75 percent of the questions in a given category, or objective, correctly. Objectives in reading include vocabulary, literal comprehension and critical reading and about 20 others. Math objectives include fractions, proportions and geometry among the list of 28. See the chart for scores and comparisons.

The tests help the state allocate categorical grants for districts whose scores show the need for remedial programs, McCaig said.

The difference between this and last year's fourth-grade reading scores means the district has more students this year that need help at that level, McCaig said. Scores are being analyzed to help identify those students, he added.

Grosse Pointe's seventh-grade score this year in reading was the highest of 82 districts surveyed recently by The Detroit News. The district's 98.5 mark topped Novi's 96.5 and Bloomfield Hill's 96.2, according to results. Both Novi and Bloomfield Hills recorded higher scores in math for seventh-graders.

Marked improvements in 10th-graders' scores helped them record the highest mark of surveyed districts for reading competency. According to the survey, 96.6 percent of Grosse Pointe 10th-graders have mastered minimum reading skills, compared to 96 percent in Bloomfield Hills. Of local 10th graders, 88.7 have mastered minimum standards in reading, compared to Novi's 88.9 percent.

The improvement at the high school level may be attributed to the schools' skill-strengthening programs, McCaig said.

"Evidence shows that things are paying off for those efforts with students who are in special trouble," he said of the 5.8 percent and 7 percent increases in the 10th grade reading and math scores.

The test scores are useful to give districts an idea of the number of low-skill students in the fourth-seventh- and 10th-grade, McCaig said. What the scores don't show is how much students are learning at the three grades.

"The state test is very useful for districts that don't have their own testing programs, but it can't substitute for a comprehensive program of testing at all grades," McCaig said.

What the test does provide is another piece of information the schools can use to confirm some things they already know about stu-

Overcomes handicap to earn Eagle award

By Pat Paholsky

Jeffrey Kent Perry, a junior at North High, will be presented with the highest award offered by the Boy Scouts of America — the Eagle Award — at ceremonies Dec. 8.

A member of BSA Detroit Area Council, Michigan District Troop 1991, he is one of about two percent of all Boy Scouts who attain the Eagle rank. But the young man had an even greater struggle than most — he was born with Downs Syndrome.

It has not stopped him, however, from piling on accomplishment on top of accomplishment in his 18 years. Two years ago, he and his father and brother hiked the Grand Canyon from Bright Angel trail to Phantom Ranch and back in two days, an achievement that was noted on the front page of the local paper.

During his last year at Barnes Elementary, he was introduced to the snare drum. He performed a solo at the Christmas Assembly in 1979 and another solo the following year at the spring recital. He's been taking lessons since.

In addition to the drums, he is learning how to play the piano, and with his mother as instructor, he has completed the beginners book.

When it comes to sports, Perry has a wide range of interests. He was a member of the Neighborhood Club soccer team in 1979 and won a long distance swimming award in 1978.

In the Special Olympics, he took a third in bowling and a first place in both the 50 meter dash and softball throw in Plymouth in 1980. At the meet in Mount Pleasant, he placed second in softball throw and horseshoe pitching, fourth in the 50 meter dash and sixth in the frisbee distance throw.

In order to attain the Eagle rank, a candidate must earn 22 merit badges and successfully complete a service project relating to the church or community. Perry chose the Family Life Education Council (FLEC) Alcohol Awareness Program, where programs, presented in 13 local elementary schools, reached more than 1,300 students.

In addition to his training and leadership in the classroom, he also made posters and recommendations for additional pamphlets, including one which will be used in the 1985 Alcohol Awareness Program of FLEC.

While he was a Life Scout, he served as assistant senior patrol leader.

He is active in the choir at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints where he is a member. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Perry of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Study to take six months

By Harriet Nolan

Residents on Cadieux Road are the latest group to join Park homeowners wanting traffic on their streets rerouted. At the Nov. 20 planning commission meeting, they expressed interest in making it a one-way street, going south, according to John Crawford, Park city manager.

"We received petitions from the City and Park side of the streets, from Mack to Kercheval avenues," he said. "We also received one from residents in the 1400 block of Beaconsfield."

Many of the 50 people attending said the increase of crime and traffic along with Mack Avenue businesses were proving a detriment to their residential lifestyles and asked if it was necessary for each block to submit separate petitions to have such claims investigated.

But the commission, recently charged with developing an overall plan, said all Park Streets would get equal consideration.

"We're trying to gear up to determine what the scope of the study should be in terms of the problems," said David Gaskin, councilman and its representative to the commission. "How can they be corrected and can they be addressed by the commission?"

Gaskin, who has been against closing any streets until a city wide plan could be developed, earlier chided council for not giving the "commission any guidelines and objectives to use.

Some questions that need to be addressed include the advantages of closing streets at the expense of funneling traffic onto others. Also, would blocking off exits at Mack Avenue thwart crime or drive it deeper to other major cross streets?

"Sooner or later council has to come to grips with what it wants to accomplish and what the trade-offs will be when they go down that path," said Gaskin.

The study will take about six months, according to Crawford, and long range plans to improve Mack and Jefferson avenues will influence the group's recommendation.

On Tuesday, Dec. 4, at 7:30 p.m., the commission will hold a public hearing to review and adopt recommendations derived from an almost two-year study to improve Jefferson from Wayburn to Somerset avenues. These include installing a boulevard, off-street parking, sidewalk lighting, street furniture and greenbelts along the area.

The southside of Somerset, called Westchester, will not be acted upon at this time, said Crawford, even though the city received three lots as a gift last summer. Future plans, which include having about 25 feet bordering Jefferson Avenue landscaped and the rest divided in to two parcels zoned for single family houses, will be finalized later.

Dose of apathy helps Park thieves

By Harriet Nolan

An apathetic Park resident who might have been able to thwart several garage robberies last week, told police he went to sleep instead.

"It's real sad," said Henry Coonce, Park police chief. "He said it never occurred to him to call us."

The Berkshire Road man told police he came home about 1:30 a.m., Nov. 30, and noticed his garage door open, the hinge broken and his snowblower missing. He also saw his neighbor's garage door open and a snowblower parked in that driveway.

He proceeded into his own home, turned on the lights for about 10 minutes and then went to bed. A few minutes later he heard a noise, looked out and saw two men rolling his neighbor's snowblower away.

He told police that it never occurred to him to call them and he went back to bed, Coonce said.

The next morning six residents in the 1300 and 1400 blocks of Berkshire and Buckingham reported their garages had been broken into overnight and snowblowers and bikes stolen.

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE between better and best...

There's no shortage of "betters" in the wordsmith's bag of sales tools. Better car, better home, better suit, better flavor, and so forth. But seldom in this age of mass production and volume merchandising, are we introduced to the "best" of anything. Why do you suppose that is?

Maybe it's because "better" can be claimed without fear of serious argument about any product in the marketplace, whereas to state that an offering is truly "best" in its field is to invite close examination, rigorous comparison, and the challenge to demonstrate why and how this statement is true.

Since we believe that the Robert Talbott Tie is the best in the field, we invite you to come in and judge for yourself. You'll discover the real meaning between better and best.

Grosse Pointe War Memorial

... as John Lake remembered it

V. The Alger and Shelden Families
John Lake remembers some of the founding families. When John Lake came to the center in 1952, Alger Shelden, whom he regards as the father of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, was president of the board. Alger Shelden remained as the Center's Investment Committee chairman and held that post for many, many years. In fact when his committee met, as they often did, it seems to Lake that most of the brokerage houses downtown must be closed.

The Alger family, who had contributed the great house and property, maintained contact with the Center; and one day Mr. Lake was moving through the lower floor and saw a lady standing by the French doors looking at the lake. He stepped up to her and said, "Madam, could I be of help to you and show you around?" She said, "Thank you very much, I am Mrs. Alger; and this is where I used to live." Lake sort of withdrew at that point.

Mrs. Alger was a person who liked to follow the progress of the Center; and at one point she redid the dining room, which had unfortunately been repainted in an emerald green shade. She had it all stripped down to the natural woods and remade it into the lovely, handsome room which is still today enjoyed in the way it was left by her. I'm sure Mrs. Alger — though she said she was very glad she didn't have to occupy the great house — felt sometimes a yearning for it.

Mrs. Johanson, Mrs. Alger's daughter, was very much like Mrs. Alger. She, too, was actively interested in the Center and had a special interest in the War Memorial because she had lost a son in World War II. She looked at the formal gardens, which had been laid out by Ellen Shipman, and began to build a fund to take care of these gardens — she being the principal contributor.

When the Alger House first opened as the War Memorial Center, magnificent rows of American elms arched around their graceful branches over all who came in. The drive is still an effective entrance, graced as it is with the Shelden Fountain, a gift of Mr. and Mrs. Alger Shelden. As one comes into the Center, one is immediately aware of the beautiful bronze plaque on which are inscribed the names of all who served in World War II. Those who gave their lives are listed on a small plaque. There are also plaques for those who served and died in Korea and Vietnam. The plaques were developed by the Sheldens in the early days. They were removed from the old colonial octagonal building on the shore and revamped and placed in the foyer of the Center so that no one should ever forget that the core of the Center is the fact that it is a War Memorial — a living tribute to those who served and died, one which I feel is much more meaningful than just a shaft of stone. It is truly a living War Memorial.

Red Cross begins famine relief fund

The Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross is accepting contributions for African Famine Relief. More than $21,500 in unsolicited contributions have already been received by the local chapter.
Chapter Chairman Anthony J. Vinci announced that the executive committee of the board of directors has approved a campaign to raise a minimum of $120,000 from the citizens of the metropolitan Detroit area.

Tanzania.
Contributions to Red Cross will be used to obtain food and medical supplies, to transport those materials to the affected areas, to staff relief operations, and to develop long-term food production programs in areas where agricultural production has virtually disappeared due to the lack of rainfall over an extended period of time. Red Cross relief efforts will be aimed primarily at helping "high risk" groups such as children, nursing mothers, pregnant women and the elderly.

Checks should be made payable to American Red Cross, earmarked "African Relief" and mailed to: Executive Office, American Red Cross, Southeastern Michigan Chapter, P.O. Box 351, Detroit, Mich. 48232.
Contributed funds will be channeled directly to the League of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies which is coordinating a worldwide African Relief Campaign.
The countries that will receive Red Cross Aid are Chad, Djibouti, Ethiopia, Kenya, Mali, Mauritania, Mozambique, Sao Tome, Senegal, Zambia, Zimbabwe and

Station cost to high, says Woods council

By Pat Paholsky

Grosse Pointe Woods is upset with the Wayne County Drainage Commission, and officials went on record last week adding another objection to an issue that has been simmering for two years.

Raising the ire of Woods officials were estimates the drainage commission received to add an office structure to its existing facility at the Milk River pumping station, located near Marter Road between Vernier and 9 Mile. Estimates ranged from $120,000 to $187,000 for an 1,150 square-foot structure.

Since the Woods is liable for about two-thirds of the cost, the council was steamed.

"That's an exorbitant amount of taxpayers' money on behalf of the pumping station," Councilman John Savoi said.

The council adopted a resolution asking the Milk River Inter-County Drainage Board to reject the bids and re-advertise. The board can ignore the request, however, and the drainage commission can build the structure, according to a court ruling earlier this year.

The saga began in January 1983 when the drainage board approached the Woods Planning Commission for approval to put a portable facility at the pumping station. Drainage Commissioner Charles Youngblood said the building would contain restrooms, storage space for records and a ramp for handicapped employees.

Chester Petersen, Woods city administrator-clerk, said the mobile-type structure was estimated at about $14,000.

The planning commission requested a site plan from the drainage board with certain changes to the structure, such as a mansard roof with asphalt shingles, a brick exterior and window architecture that would conform with other buildings in the area, and to include a four-foot brick wall. With the changes, it was estimated that the structure would cost about $55,000.

The planning commission then tabled the matter while the city sought an opinion from the state attorney general regarding the building's status. The city contended that it was a capital improvement and as such, required municipal approval. The drainage commission considered the building as upkeep and maintenance.

When the opinion was not issued, the Woods council directed its attorney to seek a temporary restraining order against the construction of the building. In February this year, a circuit court judge ruled that the drainage board could construct a facility without the approval of the municipalities involved.

So when Woods officials were advised that the cost estimates tripled, they were vocal about their feelings. Petersen said no reason, "absolutely none whatsoever," was given for the increase.

There is an office inside of the pumping station, he said, yet the number of employees working there is unknown.

"They won't even give us that, yet we pay the bill," he said.

Neither the drain commissioner nor anyone from his office was available to comment on the matter.

Since the Milk River is in Macomb County and the drainage basin is in Wayne County, the Inter-County Drainage Board oversees operations of the drainage district, which includes Grosse Pointe Woods, Harper Woods and St. Clair Shores. The district handles the overflow storm water and sanitary sewage from the cities. Together Grosse Pointe Woods and Harper Woods pay 95 percent of the drainage district's costs.

Flower power led him to White House

By Tom Greenwood

President Reagan wasn't the only person recently selected to return to the White House. So was Vince Adamo.

Vince who? Woods resident Vince Adamo, co-owner of the Conner Park Florists, will return for the second year in a row to the White House to help decorate it for the Christmas season.

Adamo, currently president of the Society of American Florists, is one of only 10 florists nationwide so honored.

But it's an honor that carries a lot of responsibility and a lot of work.

"We arrive in Washington on Dec. 6 and have to finish up the entire area by Sunday the ninth. No later than 2:30 p.m.," said Adamo. "At that time portions of the White House are open for tours and thousands of visitors stream through. We decorate every mantle, fireplace, stairway and window. We also decorate trees in the rooms we're assigned."

"Each florist is given the materials, assigned a specific room and given a design scheme. From there on it's all up to us. Last year we used lots of magnolia greens, holly, boxwood and cedar roping because it all keeps a long time. And the theme incorporated lots and lots of teddy bears. We used them everywhere."

Adamo also received the additional honor of being the sole decorator of the Oval Office, security and cabinet rooms.

Did he happen to run into the president while hanging holly throughout the White House?

"No, but I did catch a glimpse of him," said Adamo, with a smile. "He had spent the weekend at Camp David and had just flown in by helicopter. I understand that florists in the past have met various presidents, but we haven't met President Reagan yet."

However, Adamo has met Mrs. Reagan and former first lady Roslyn Carter when they were both presented with awards from the American Academy of Florists.

So how did Adamo, one of thousands of florists in America, receive an invitation to the White House? Simple. He knew someone who works there.

"I have a friend and colleague, Dottie Temple, who's been the White House florist for the past five years," Adamo said. "She asked me if I'd be interested and of course I said yes."

"Many people don't know it, but the White House has its own flower shop with four employees. It's just like a commercial shop except it services only the White House. There's always flowers in the first lady's room and the east wing."

Before Adamo was accepted, he had to undergo a security clearance. "We have to wear identification badges everywhere we go," he said.

The security was especially evident when I decorated the Oval Office. There were guards and Secret Service at every turn of the hallway, but everyone is very courteous and professional.

Working to decorate the White House is admittedly a lot of work, confirmed Adamo.

"It's a lot different working there than when you go through on a tour," said Adamo. "You see the basement, attics, closets and other work areas. And we work from early in the morning 'til often 6 or 7 at night. It's a big area for just 10 florists to cover."

One of the benefits of decorating the White House is eating there. While the florists have to pay for all their transportation and lodging in Washington, they do receive their meals at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

"The food is ... good," said Adamo, with a smile and a small hesitation. "The first meal I ever received there was lasagna, and it wasn't bad. The most interesting thing was being in the White House itself. We ate in a dining room filled with the portraits of past presidents. The whole building is richly decorated and the feeling of history is immense." Another benefit Adamo receives is a letter of appreciation from President Reagan after the holidays.

"I've got last year's framed and on a wall at home," said Adamo. "Maybe I'll take this year's and bring it into the shop. My wife Rosemary and my seven children are all pretty proud of old dad. It's quite an honor to work at the White House."

So what's next for Vince Adamo? Perhaps an invitation to decorate the Vatican?

"No, I don't think that'll ever happen," said Adamo, with a laugh. "Although I was in the Vatican this past summer and did present the Pope with a bouquet of roses."

There's nothing like flower power.

Learn about St. Clair River

"Otsékita" is the Indian word for salt and "sippi" is a river. Put them together and you have "Otsékitasippi," the name the Indians gave to the St. Clair River because of the many salt deposits along its banks.

It's also the name Bob Brunner gave to his film and narration, "The Story of the St. Clair River," which he will present at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 13, as part of the Dennis Glen Cooper Travel Series at the Macomb Center for the Performing Arts.

Accompanying the program will be a display of Great Lakes memorabilia in the Center's lobby and gallery. The Lake Huron Lore Marine Society, located in Port Huron's Museum of Arts and History, will show items from the permanent collection of the Lee M. Cooper Gallery. Among them will be prints and ship models, a working model of a lighthouse and gear from sunken vessels that once sailed the St. Clair River.

Brunner spent four years filming and producing his St. Clair River presentation. For history buffs, the journey along the boundary waters of Michigan and Ontario recalls the days of the French voyageurs, fur traders and trappers, and takes the audience to the many small towns along the river which flourished as vacation resorts at the turn of the century.

Of special interest to boaters and other water enthusiasts, the 90-minute color program includes footage of racing yachts, the Blue Water Festival, an Indian powwow on Walpole Island, motorcycle racing on frozen Anchor Bay and fishflies in the summer.

Tickets for all travel series presentations at the center are $4 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens. They may be obtained at the Center's Box Office or reserved on credit card by calling 286-2222, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The Center is located on the Center Campus of Macomb Community College at Hall (M-59) and Garfield Roads in Clinton Township.

Ski Hi Club to meet Monday

A mandatory meeting for new members of the War Memorial's Ski Hi Club will be held Monday, Dec. 3, at 7:30 p.m. Parents and former Ski Hi members are also encouraged to attend.

Jack Dotson, the center's youth director, will introduce the ski trip chaperones, and will discuss the general rules and procedures for the trips to Pine Knob.

This will be followed by a short ski movie and a talk by Ron Brown of the Pine Knob Ski School.

At the end of the meeting, members will have the opportunity to sign up for trips and to view a display of ski equipment and clothing.

New members who cannot attend are asked to pick up their Ski Hi patches at the front desk prior to going on their first ski trip.

Pre-season ski clinic offered by Cottage

Planning to ski one of Michigan's slopes this year, but afraid of spending the rest of the season in a leg cast? Cottage Hospital has an answer.

A Pre-Season Ski Clinic presented by CHAMP (Cottage Hospital Athletic Medicine Program) is scheduled for Dec. 6, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the boardrooms of Cottage Hospital, 159 Kercheval Ave., between Moross and Cadioux Roads.

The program will include "Management of Common Ski Injuries" by Donald Garver, M.D., orthopedic consultant, "Pre-Season Conditioning" by Rose Snyder, A.T.C., physical medicine consultant, and "Equipment Safety" by Dennis Victor, former ski instructor Taos, N.M. A question and answer period will follow the program.

Saturday nursery

The Luther League of St. Paul Lutheran Church will sponsor a nursery service Saturday, Dec. 1, from 12:30 to 4 p.m. for parents who would like to be freed for Christmas shopping. The nursery is for children from pre-school age and up.

There will be games, movies, crafts and a snack provided. Cost is $1.50 an hour for the first child and $1 for each extra child in the family. There will be adult supervision.

Proceeds will go to the National Luther League Convention that will be held in Denver in August 1985.

Reservations must be made in advance. Call the church, located at 375 Lothrop, at 881-6670.

National church leader to speak Sunday

The head administrator of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) will deliver the sermon at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church the first Sunday of the Advent season, Dec. 2.

Appearing as the seventh in the church's autumn-winter series of guest speakers, Stated Clerk of the General Assembly Rev. James E. Andrews will be in the pulpit at 16 Lakeshore Drive for both the 9:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. worship services.

Dr. Andrews is the first Stated Clerk of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.) since its formation from two Presbyterian bodies earlier this year. In effect, he runs the church, serving more than 3 million members.

The native of Texas was ordained as a Presbyterian minister in 1956, after earning B.A. and M.A. degrees from Austin College, Austin, Tex., and a divinity degree from Austin Theological Seminary.

He completed work on a doctor of divinity degree in 1974, after working at Princeton University's Theological Seminary and also as assistant to the Stated Clerk, Presbyterian Church in the United States.

Dr. Andrews served as Stated Clerk of the southern Presbyterian Church (PCUS) until its reunion, after more than 100 years, with its northern counterpart, the United Presbyterian Church, this past summer.

Sunday is also the date of the church's Advent celebration, which includes the traditional hanging of the greens in the church sanctuary, a family-style supper and Advent workshops for children and adults. All members of the community are invited to the evening event which begins at 4 p.m. Complete information is available through the church office, 882-5330.

Auditions set

Auditions for "Butterflies are Free" and "H.M.S. Pinafore," to be presented by Dennis Wickline Productions, Inc. at the Golden Lion Restaurant, will be held Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 5 and 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the lower level of the restaurant, 22380 Moross, Detroit.

Callbacks, if necessary, will be held Wednesday, Dec. 12. Both shows runs Friday and Saturday evenings: Butterflies from Friday, Feb. 22 through Saturday, April 6; Pinafore from Friday, April 12 through Saturday, May 25. Two men and two women are needed for Butterflies while four men and four women are sought for Pinafore.

Exchange Club donates $2,000

In its continuous fight for the prevention of child abuse and neglect, The Exchange Club of Grosse Pointe/St. Clair Shores recently awarded $2,000 to the Center for Urban Studies, Wayne State University, for their Neighborhood Family Resource Center Project in the Jefferson-Chalmers community. This matches an identical contribution of $2,000 made last year to the organization by the Exchange Club.

This Center, NIF-T (Nurturing Infants and Families Together), is located in Bates Academy for the Gifted and Talented, 797 Dickerson, Detroit. NIF-T is a center for parents and young children in the Jefferson-Chalmers community administered by the Council on Early Childhood, Center for Urban Studies, Wayne State University, through a sub-contract with the Detroit Public Schools.

Paul Mumma, Exchange Club president said, "With this gift, the Northeast Guidance Center will provide NIF-T with the excellent services of a social worker two days a week. Wayne State University, Northeast Guidance Center, the Detroit Public Schools, and the Exchange Club of Grosse Pointe/St. Clair Shores have pooled their resources and talent to insure that the child receives the care, attention and love which enables him or her to become a healthy, productive member of society, and parents understand the important role they play in this process."

The local Exchange Club chapter is part of the National Exchange Club which consists of local clubs throughout the United States and Puerto Rico. Each club serves the communities by helping those who are less fortunate than others with main emphasis on the prevention of child abuse, crime prevention and American citizenship.

The Exchange Club of Grosse Pointe/St. Clair Shores meets for breakfast meetings each Tuesday morning at 7:30 at Gilberts Restaurant on Harper Avenue in St. Clair Shores. Club members also hear a guest speaker regarding topics of concern and interest in the community.

For more information about the club, or for membership information, call Mike Reynolds at 271-5080.

Exchange group awarded grant

AFS International, organizer of worldwide high school student exchange programs, has been awarded a $200,000 challenge grant from the Kresge Foundation.

Under the terms of the grant, the Kresge Foundation will match one dollar for every two dollars AFS raises from its supporters around the world. Funds are to be used to repair the 100-year-old headquarters building, and to modernize telephone and computer systems.

Grosse Pointe South student Kathryn Gay of Audubon Road is currently an AFS student in Mende, France. Dominique Coenen, from Nieuwkoop, the Netherlands, is studying at South and lives with the William Storen family.

The purpose of AFS programs is to promote international understanding gained through day-to-day life of family and school.

The Kresge challenge will be met through donations. The deadline for the $400,000 goal is May 15, 1985. Tax-deductible contributions can be sent to AFS International, Kresge Challenge, 313 E. 43rd Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

New proof of excellence

The improved scores for Grosse Pointe students in four out of six categories of the Michigan Educational Assessment Program tests are encouraging. Especially noteworthy is the fact that the Grosse Pointe scores of 98.5 in seventh-grade reading and 96.6 in tenth-grade reading were the highest among 82 districts in the tri-county area recently surveyed by the Detroit News.

It is true that the scores in fourth-grade math and fourth-grade reading dropped from last year but they still remain high. The fourth-grade math score was still higher than it was in the 1981 test, which means that in five of the six categories, the 1984 scores were higher than they were in 1981. Overall, the school system says the scores this year on average were the highest the district's students have ever attained.

True, the figures may look better than they really are. The 98.5 score for seventh grade reading, for example, means that 98.5 percent of the students correctly answered 75 percent of the questions in a given category or objective. In reading, objectives include vocabulary, literal comprehension, critical reading and a list of about 20 others. Similarly, math objectives include fractions, proportions, geometry and a list of 25 others. Yet for Grosse Pointe to achieve the highest scores in two out of six categories among the 82 districts surveyed in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties is a real distinction.

Too much can be made of test scores, of course, but they are still useful in indicating which students are doing well and which students still need extra attention in some categories. Overall, however, the Grosse Pointe record appears to be a good answer to critics who had expressed concern that the excellent quality of the schools in the Grosse Pointe district was not being maintained.

So the scores should be a source of satisfaction for students, teachers, administrators and parents in the district. And they will offer further proof to the incoming superintendent, when he is finally named, that the Grosse Pointe schools are living up to their tradition of excellence.

The shadow over Detroit

A new debate has been prompted by a Detroit Free Press-WDIV-TV poll over whether Detroit's image around the country is worse than it deserves because of the local and national media's emphasis on the city's faults. This is something like the argument over whether the chicken or the egg came first. In the end, of course, what is more important is what Detroit and its metropolitan area can do to improve conditions in the central city that have caused the bad image.

It is easy to blame the media and sometimes they are at fault. But surely it would be no service to the people of Detroit or the suburban residents who shop in downtown Detroit to conceal the extent of street crime that occurs in the city. The people are entitled to know what is happening and the media have the responsibility of providing the daily snapshot of the news that keeps the people informed about the city's faults.

True, the media often report and perpetuate stereotypes. With respect to Detroit, the national media are more guilty of this fault than are the local media which are closer to and know more about what is happening. But all the media are guilty of exaggeration. It is impossible to report such events as the violent aftermath of the World Series victory and the Devil's Night and Halloween fires without exaggeration.

To keep such events in perspective, the media would have also had to report on the quiet and peaceful conduct of the majority of the World Series crowd and the lack of fires among the majority of homes in the area on Devil's Night and Halloween. But the news media, which provide their readers and viewers with "the first rough draft of history," have neither the time nor the space to report everything in perspective. It is only after such events that it is possible to show that the mob actions did not represent the majority of the people, but instead the reactions of a minority of residents of both the city and its suburbs.

Since far earlier times, the bearers of bad news have been criticized and punished. So today the Free Press and WDIV-TV are being attacked for stirring up trouble with their new poll. Some people rejoice in the opportunity to kick the news media around and thus relieve themselves of any responsibility for creating the conditions that contributed to the events that in turn resulted in bad vibes elsewhere in the country. But such reactions hardly get to the heart of the problem. That, of course, is to do something to prevent any repetition of the events that contribute to the bad public image.

We already know the city's poor public image contributes to the area's economic difficulties. The area not only loses its own brightest young people to other areas less tarnished by bad publicity, it also is unable to attract the bright young people from other areas who are needed to fill important positions in both public life and private enterprise. Nor does it get the investment capital needed for continued economic growth.

A new Census Bureau report supports those conclusions. It shows that from 1980 to mid-1983, Michigan lost 193,000 people from its population. That is the poorest record of any state, not only in numbers but in percentages. This state lost 2.1 percent of its residents, a loss exceeded only by Washington, D.C., which had the highest percentage drop in population, 2.4 percent. Ohio, Iowa and Indiana also lost population, indicating that the Midwest has been especially hard hit.

Michigan and Detroit can and should do more to accentuate the positive — to demonstrate to outsiders as well as to remind residents that this state and area offer many advantages to those seeking good business opportunities and a pleasant way of life. But they also must do more than that. The state and area also must take positive actions to improve the economic climate, the political atmosphere, the personal security of people and the cooperation between the central city and its suburbs.

In the end, a more favorable image is created by improved performance, not by trying to sweep trouble under the rug. That ought to be one of the major lessons of the new poll that has thrown another shadow over Detroit's image.

Sooner or later a tax cut

The political hassle over whether the state income tax rate should be rolled back to 4.6 percent before the scheduled reduction on Oct. 1, 1987, now appears to involve the Democratic governor as well as the divided Legislature.

Gov. James J. Blanchard told a news conference recently that there will be no rollback next spring and claimed that the state would not have a surplus that would make the additional tax cut possible until the 1987 date. In making that comment, the governor differed with legislative leaders of both parties who have been talking about additional tax relief to take effect next year.

While the income tax rate already has come down in two steps from its peak of 6.35 percent last year to 5.35 percent at present, it still remains a controversial issue as a result of the November election. The Republicans, who gained additional seats in the House and now trail the Democrats by only a four-seat margin, claim that their gains were made chiefly against Democratic legislators who had voted for the 32 percent increase in the income tax rates in 1983.

The governor added to the controversy by disputing the Legislature's estimates of the state surplus at the end of the fiscal year Sept. 30. He claims a "fund balance" of $266.5 million on hand at that time was already spoken for and pointed out the reduction last Sept. 1 in the income tax rate would reduce the state revenues for the coming year.

The House and Senate have different interpretations of the surplus. The House Fiscal Agency sees the surplus at about $300 million as of late Sept. 30, while the Senate Fiscal Agency put the figure at $337 million. Looking at such figures, even Democratic legislative leaders indicated that the surplus could be given back to the taxpayers or that the income tax rate could be cut again effective next spring.

The governor's position may be somewhat strengthened by the slowing of the economic recovery this fall and the estimates that another recession may be in the offing. If the economic downturn materializes, the state's revenues may well fall again and automatically take care of any fund balance or surplus the state may have on hand.

Such prospects have not deterred James DeMar, the Utica barber who was the author of Proposal C, the controversial Voter's Choice amendment that was voted down in November, from proposing to put a revised Proposal C on the ballot again in 1986. This time he said he would eliminate the rollback provision that apparently aroused much of the opposition to the plan.

Instead, he would concentrate his efforts next time on requiring voter approval of all future tax increases at both state and local levels and a vote of the people or two-thirds support of the Legislature or local governing body to increase license and user fees.

Unless the bottom falls out of the Michigan economy again in the near future, it still is a good bet that sooner or later the state will have another income tax cut. As to whether the voters also will win new rights to vote on all future tax increases, that will depend on whether the new petition drives win public support and if they do, whether the people will vote the new restrictions into the state Constitution.

School system is at crossroads

To the Editor:

The Grosse Pointe School System is at the crossroads. Not only is it about to employ a new superintendent and probably a new deputy superintendent, but there is growing public awareness that some major changes are needed and have been needed in this system for some time because of the rapid and substantial declines in student enrollment.

Many of us have come to realize that the school enrollment has declined about 47 percent between 1970 and today — from 13,300 in 1970 to 7,309 now. During this time, of course, property taxes for many of us tripled.

Even more significant than this 47 percent decline is the slightly shocking fact that Grosse Pointe school enrollment is quite likely to decline another 25 percent in the next five years.

Although I'm not a statistician and certainly no expert in these matters, a close examination of the 1984 school census of the G.P. Public School System made by the Department of Support Services and published this past August does indeed clearly indicate that this enrollment will drop from the present 7,309 students to about 5,477 students by 1989.

It must immediately be noted that this number could and surely will be either higher or lower. It will be affected by the number of people who move in or out of the school district, by the number of students who elect to attend either private or parochial schools and, undoubtedly, any number of other factors.

An important fact revealed by the school census is that the total population in the district, which embraces the five Grosse Pointes and a corner of Harper Woods, declined 11.2 percent between 1976 and 1984, from 64,778 people to 57,551. If this trend continues, the enrollment decline could even be greater than 25 percent.

The strong indication about this major decline in G.P. school students is based on the census figures which report the number of children in the district that will be ready to start kindergarten in the next five years and the number of students who'll be ready to graduate in the same five years.

By getting the product of these two numbers for each year, we can determine that total number of students in the G.P. school district each year. However, about 25 percent of this annual total must be subtracted since about 10 percent of the G.P. students go to private schools and another 15 percent go to parochial schools. This number will be also reduced a bit more because a small number of G.P. students do not go to school and a somewhat larger number of 18-year-olds are in college.

So, it can be predicted from the 1984 school census that there will be 582 kindergarteners and 1,012 high school graduates in 1985, 535 kindergarteners, and 1,028 graduates in 1986, 524 kindergarteners and 957 graduates in 1987, 403 kindergarteners and 935 graduates in 1988 and 401 kindergarteners and 956 graduates in 1989.

This calculation results in a decline in the total number of Grosse Pointe students of 530 in 1985, of 493 in 1986, of 433 in 1987, of 532 in 1988 and 555 in 1989.

Now, when you reduce these numbers by 25 percent, the actual decline in the number of students anticipated in the G.P. schools is 322 for 1985, 370 for 1986, 325 in 1987, 399 in 1988 and 416 in 1989. This takes into consideration the number of students who are likely to attend either private or parochial schools. All of this indicates the district's enrollment will decline by about 1,832 students or 25 percent from the current level of 7,309.

Incidentally, some parents have concluded that the system's enrollments are on the way back to where they were in the '70s. The 1984 school census shows a slight "up-tick" in the number of children in the 0-4 age bracket — 3.2 percent — between 1976 and 1984. But these numbers are still considerably lower than the number of students who'll be graduating when these children enter the system.

Concern was recently expressed about the poor teacher morale in Grosse Pointe. It's easy to imagine that taxpayer morale will be much lower if something isn't done to get this system on an efficient footing.

Seeks constitutional amendment

By William R. Bryant Jr.

With the election behind us, the Legislature has returned for its traditional and wrongheaded lame-duck session. There should not be lame-duck sessions, but there are and we are in it.

As of now the Republicans will gain six seats next year, going from 47 to 53. With only a four-vote margin, the already testy Democratic speaker should be a real joy to behold next year.

Thanks to all of you who supported me in this election. It is gratifying to have your confidence. And I take your entrustment very seriously.

One of the things I am working on is a petition drive which I filed Nov. 7. It would constitutionally assure the right of referendum by petition on any tax or tax increase. Recently the Legislature has taken to using a gimmick to defeat possible referendum drives on any tax bill. The state constitution precludes referendum petitions on only one kind of bill, an appropriation. So, the Legislature has taken to attaching an appropriation to tax bills to defeat the right of referendum. Our amendment will cure that once and for all.

I tried to tell the Democrats last spring that I felt that this issue was really at the heart of the frustration which was then leading to Voter's Choice. They wouldn't listen.

Now I think they may be ready to listen. There is some hope that I may be able to get the proposal placed on the November 1986 ballot by a two-thirds vote of the House and Senate.

But I'm not taking any chances. I intend to start, in earnest, the petition drive to make certain the amendment will be on the ballot.

The 1963 Constitution intended that tax bills would be subject to referendum petitions. It is right that we should restore that right and in a form which cannot be defeated ever again by the Legislature.

Prime Time for senior citizens

By Marian Trainor

In the litany of holidays, Thanksgiving is very special. It brings together families who have not been together for many months. It marks the beginning of the busiest season of the year, when shoppers become mesmerized by beguiling ads, sonorous carols and Christmas decorations.

But for all its gaiety and glory, Christmas is exhausting. Not so Thanksgiving.

Guests arrive refreshed and vigorous after the leisurely days of summer and the quiet tranquility of fall. They are excited to see one another and are eager to share what they have experienced since the last time they were together.

The house is fragrant and warm as food is prepared for a festive feast. The rich aroma of browning turkey is enhanced by dressing enriched with butter and oysters, spicy pumpkin pie and baking rolls. This is not the time to count calories but to enjoy in relaxed indulgence the goodness laid out on the table.

Thanksgiving is a gentle transition into the excitement of Christmas. Even its colors are subdued and soothing: brown and gold of autumn holding out against chilling winds, smoky orange, subdued green and mellow cranberry red.

Of all the foods served, cranberries are the most interesting because they are so American.

Cranberries were served by the Pilgrims at the first Thanksgiving in 1620. They called the small sour berry "cranberry" because the drooping blossom reminded them of the long neck and head of the crane.

Wild cranberries grew in such abundance that they were eaten fresh ground or mashed with cornmeal and baked into bread. Cranberry bread is a tea bread today, but it is a more delicate treat softened with refined flour, eggs and butter.

The cranberry wasn't regarded solely as food. The juice was used to dye rugs and blankets. Berries were also used for healing. Poultices were made from unripe berries to cure scrapes and wounds. It was believed that the berry had the power to calm the nerves.

Today, we believe the berry contains a natural antibiotic. Cranberry juice is often recommended to people who suffer from bladder infection because it acidifies urine and discourages infection.

Cranberries were considered such a delicacy that colonial settlers began exporting them. Shipped back to England in barrels of springwater, they kept many months without spoiling.

Cranberries are more than a pretty accompaniment for turkey, they are a part of our history that is interesting to contemplate.

Thanksgiving is more than delicious food. It is the joy that comes from family and friends assembled together.

More than any other age group, older family members experience a special feeling of gratitude for this very special day.

Age has its advantages. One of them is the ability to see loved ones in a special way. Older people can go back and forth in time. They have a perspective born of years of association and see not only the person of today but understand and appreciate what made them so.

For instance, a self-confident son who has brought pride and honor to the family is seen against a collage of early successes, nurtured by an interest in books and a fixed focus on what he wanted to be "when he grew up."

He is the toddler, wrapped against winter's cold, waddling along as he held confidently to Daddy's hand on their daily walk. He is the eager student ready to compete in school sports and proud of a letter he earned. There is the sadness when he left home for college; the empty place at the table with an untouched shiny plate.

To others our daughter is a young woman on her own, at ease in her profession, a caring and loving wife and mother looking to the welfare of her family and her home.

This picture, does not stand alone. There is the tiny pink bundle with kittens on the blanket, looking up with the bluest eyes and heart-melting smile and reaching with tiny fingers.

Daughters are special. They need and demand attention and so make a place for themselves in the family. In the collage of memory we see them playing at being "grownup ladies," dressing dolls, setting out teatime dishes or scolding their make-believe children.

They are there, dressed for kindergarten in a new dress with flouncy skirt, hair curled and bouncy, held back with colorful ribbons, glad to go yet a little uncertain.

We see them still feminine but adjusting to a different mode of family life from the role-model they have seen in their tradition home. In our memories, we see them dashing and dodging down a basketball court, determined to make a basket. We miss her as we missed her brother when she leaves home for college but we worry more. We want to protect her but we know that she wants independence and no longer needs the same concern that she once did.

A mother relives some of her life through a daughter, both the little and important happenings, the excitement of parties and proms, the thrill of planning a wedding, setting the first home and the anticipation of the first baby.

There is pride when a daughter graduates from college and into a profession. There is wonder and perhaps envy that this accomplishment, if she so chooses, can be just a part of her life. She can also have the home and family which were her mother's whole life.

These are long thoughts and can only be inspired by long years of living. Out of the breadth of memories, older members of the family appreciate those that are theirs alone. There is a special joy.

In this time and this place, it no longer matters so much that children are no longer the whole world. They are strong, independent individuals and we are thankful.

I say

The heart can be a strange hunter

Mike Andrzejczyk

I'm writing this on Monday, Nov. 19. Looking at that face, you can see I despise Mondays.

Today is particularly loathsome. Because Thursday is a holiday, today is Tuesday, our press day. But every other Tuesday is payday, so they are only half as fulsome as Mondays.

There are good things about today, though. Tomorrow is payday. I have the cushy duty of answering phones until 4 p.m. and going home an hour early instead of proof-reading. The Steelers are on Monday Night Football.

It's also the day I read singles ads in one of our metropolitan daily newspapers.

Actually I read the ads in both metropolitan dailies, along with some in a Macomb County daily. That gives me reading material Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Mike Andrzejczyk

I don't plan my day around them but they are the third or fourth thing I'll read after the front section, editorial page and the comics. They sometimes can be as funny as the comics or the editorial page, for that matter.

I should say right now that I always read, seldom answer and never place singles ads. Well, all right, I did put one in another publication, but got one answer in three months. That doesn't count.

I read the ads for the same reason every unattached person does; I want a laugh while I'm looking for Ms. Right. (Note please, applicants, that's not Ms. Perfect. Perfect is boring.)

Many ads start with "Tired of the bar scene?" Some of the best things to watch on Saturday nights out are the things normally sane, reasonable people do in bars. There's a whole set of rules, restrictions and signs someone tried to explain to me once.

Like ads, I always watch, seldom respond and almost never play the barroom ballet. My last tango cost me $250 in dinners and bar tabs and very nearly left me with a communicable disease that rhymes with cherpies.

I also like desperation ads. You've seen them. "Ugly, overweight man on Turkish freighter seeks female of any mammalian species. Photo a must." Another favorite is "Willing to look beneath appearances? So am I. Send photo and phone."

It's nice to know people are desperate but they want that photo to see they aren't THAT desperate. You know, that's probably why I don't respond more often. The only photos I have of myself are on this column, my drivers license and me holding some numbers. It was a good profile shot, too.

I do have another photo that I keep in my desk and may ask Tom to make copies of so I can have letters of resignation printed on the back. Come in and see it sometime.

Well, this should just about fill the space, so I'll just finish up. Happy reading, hunters. Keep me in mind.

Sound Health Advice
from your Family Doctor

Saint John Hospital

Q: I am a 14-year-old teenage boy and I've had a lot of blackheads and pimples since school began this fall. Why me and what should I do?

A: Acne (blackheads and pimples) is one of the most common skin problems to affect teenagers like yourself. Approximately 80% of all teens will be affected, so you are not alone. Acne usually starts at the beginning of puberty in response to the increase in hormones, particularly the male hormone testosterone. Blackheads occur when the sebaceous (oil) glands become blocked. In addition, when bacteria are present in large quantities, inflammation occurs and a pimple forms.

Here are some things that can help you. Remember if there is no improvement within several weeks, see your family physician.

1. Wash your face with an acne soap twice daily.
2. Buy an over-the-counter 5 percent benzoyl peroxide ointment and use it once daily. If you have no redness or excessive dryness of the skin, you can increase its usage to twice daily.
3. Never, ever squeeze your pimples. This will only make them worse!

There has been a great controversy over the years regarding whether specific types of food has any effect on the amount of acne you develop. My best advice is to avoid any foods that seem to make your acne worse.

This column is a service provided in the public interest by Saint John Hospital. Questions should be sent to Christopher Goldsby, M.D., 22151 Moross, Suite 334, Detroit, Michigan 48236.

There are some very good reasons why the rest of your friends in Grosse Pointe trust their valued photos to SPEEDI PHOTO over all the other one-hour labs & the local drugstore.

It seems that everytime you pick up the newspaper there's another "one hour photo lab" opening up in a shopping mall promising the world's best photos. Despite these new "miracle" labs, Speedi Photo continues to enjoy the confidence and patronage of a good portion of the picture takers in Grosse Pointe. Here's why...

- WE USE THE BEST EQUIPMENT money can buy. Many one hour labs today are nothing more than "converted home darkrooms" that don't have the electronic sophistication necessary to make the best possible prints from your negatives.
- WE USE KODAK, U.S.A. PAPER & CHEMICALS to guarantee consistent, good color prints. Many one hour labs are trying to cut corners by using European Kodak or Japanese paper instead of KODAK, U.S.A. paper, which we receive fresh from Kodak's Rochester factory weekly.
- WE EMPLOY TRAINED PROFESSIONALS to print your photos who have been factory trained to meet our exacting standards of quality!
- WE MAKE ENLARGEMENTS up to 11" x 14" as quickly as one hour as well as just develop & print standard-size color prints!
- OUR ONLY BUSINESS IS PICTURES... we don't use our processing as a "leader" to draw you into the store. Your processing business is our livelihood. We do your pictures better because we want your business!

The Friends of the Matthaei Botanical Gardens will hold their annual monthly lobby sale Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 1 and 2, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Gardens, 1800 Dixboro Road, Ann Arbor.

Items available will be plants for the home, baskets, decorator trays and stationery, including hand-made cards. Come to the gardens, tour the conservatory or walk on the outdoor trails. The outdoor trails and lobby exhibit are free. There is a fee of $1 for the conservatory.

Holiday Decorations will be the theme for the lobby exhibit during the month of December. Docents are at the Gardens for guided tours during the week. Call 764-1168 for reservations.

The Garden grounds are open from 8 a.m. to sunset. The inside exhibits are open from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Although the Garden grounds and exhibits are usually open seven days a week, they will be closed Dec. 24 to Jan. 2.

Christmas walk

The Kingsbury Christmas walk, Christmas in the Hunt Country, will be held Sunday, Dec. 2, from noon to 3 p.m.

The tour, in the middle of the Metamora countryside, will begin at Kingsbury School, 5000 Hosner Road at Oakwood Road, Oxford. The school was founded by former Grosse Pointe residents Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Higbie.

There will be continuous shuttle service. The home tour will include a mid-19th century farmhouse (the Higbie house), a restored 100-year-old farmhouse and a reproduction Williamsburg house.

There will be an Art and Craft Show at the school. A oake sate and hot cider will be available as well sleigh rides.

Tickets are $5 for adults, $4 for senior citizens, and $3 for children.

Investment seminar

William Bardeen, a registered representative of the Pennsylvania Securities Co., will present a seminar on investing on Tuesday and Thursday, Dec. 4 and 6, at the War Memorial. The two-session seminar will meet from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and costs $20.

Topics covered include: what an investor is buying; how it can be bought; how to determine why one investment is right for you; and risk, taxes and economic environment.

Reservation information may be obtained by calling the War Memorial at 881-7511.

Among the 240 guests who attended the Friends of Bon Secours Dinner Dance at the Detroit Athletic Club on Oct. 13 were, from left, Sister Patricia A. Eck, C.B.S., president, Bon Secours Hospital Board of Directors; Gennaro J. DiMaso, M.D.; Donald K. Freeman, M.D.; Richard R. Royer, M.D.; and Robert G. Frear, D.D.S.; president, Friends of Bon Secours. The physicians received plaques honoring them for more than 30 years of service to the hospital and community. Net proceeds from the benefit totaled approximately $30,000. They will be directed toward the purchase of an advanced fetal monitoring system for the obstetrical department's labor and delivery unit.

Bryant calls for tax amnesty period

House Republican Leader Emeritus William R. Bryant has introduced bills to provide a three-month amnesty period for payment of back taxes due the state. The amnesty would allow any person or business, if they are not presently under investigation or court action, to pay past due income, sales or single business taxes due without fear of any penalty or civil or criminal action. "Michigan has never provided an amnesty period to allow people whose conscience is bothering them a period when they can pay up without fear of prosecution and without having to pay a stiff penalty," Bryant says. The House Republican veteran feels tax amnesty should be granted only once in a great while, because "if people think we'll do this every few years there is no incentive to pay on time." He believes that it is a good time now, during an economic recovery, to provide an amnesty period so people who couldn't pay during the recession can pay now without fear. The proposed amnesty period would be from Jan. 1 to March 31, 1985, although Bryant says that provision will change depending on when the bills gain passage through the Legislature. Massachusetts recently provided a similar amnesty period and received $65 million in back taxes and interest. Rep. Bryant estimates a Michigan amnesty program could yield $100 million since the Massachusetts population is 65 percent of Michigan's. Bryant says the money received from an amnesty program should not be spent on regular programs. "This would be one-shot, one-time revenues and should be used for some very worthy special project or program," Bryant concludes.

Two arrested for garage break-in

A preliminary examination was scheduled yesterday in municipal court for two Detroit men on charges of breaking and entering a building other than a dwelling, in connection with an incident Sunday night, Nov. 18, on Elmsleigh in the City.

About 11:05 that night, witnesses in the area called City police to report two men with a flashlight near an attached garage on Elmsleigh. Park police, monitoring the broadcast, stopped a car which matched the broadcast description near Jefferson and Elmsleigh, police said.

Found on one of the subjects was a key for spoked hubs which fit the hubcaps of the vehicle in the garage, police said.

The two men, aged 30 and 27, may be involved in similar incidents reported during the weekend, police said. Four other garages were broken into on Fisher, St. Clair and Jefferson, according to reports.

Arthritis calendar features artists

The Michigan chapter of the Arthritis Foundation has produced "In Celebration of Michigan Artists," a color calendar, as part of its fundraising efforts this year. The calendar features the works of 12 artists selected by a panel of educators and scholars. The foundation went to art schools throughout the state and asked deans to suggest the names of artists in different media. Once down to 30, the foundation asked the deans to name their 12 favorites, who appear in the calendar. The calendar depicts pottery, paintings, sculpture, papermaking and lithography produced by a number of artists, including David Barr, Mary Jane Bigler, John Egner, John Glick, Lester Johnson, Gerhardt Knodel, Aris Koutrolis, Charles McGee, Steve Murakishi, Richard Thomas, Douglas Semivan and Robert Wilbert. "In Celebration of Michigan Artists 1985" is on sale at bookstores, museums and galleries for $9.95. Send $11.50 to cover shipping and handling to the Arthritis Foundation, Michigan Chapter, Village Plaza, Suite 605, 23400 Michigan Avenue, Dearborn, Mich., 48124 or call 561-9096.

Schools

North students show they care

"I Care" was the slogan Grosse Pointe North High School used for this year's United Foundation collection. Each homeroom contributed money, and the Student Association treated the homerooms that had the highest amount per student and the greatest total.

Gordon Marlan's A.P. chemistry class had the overall winning total, while James Haskell's math class had the highest average per student with more than $9 per contributed student.

Grosse Pointe North students showed they cared with a grand total of $1,225 contributed.

Another activity sponsored by the Student Association in October was the collection for UNICEF. About 130 students collected $375 Halloween night.

Future activities the Student Association is planning for December are the annual student blood drive to be held on Dec. 14 and the Adopt-a-Family Christmas Program in which the North High homerooms will adopt approximately 60 needy Grosse Pointe and Detroit families for the holidays.

U-M schedules preview days

The University of Michigan-Dearborn will hold its third annual University Preview Day Friday, Dec. 7 and Friday, Jan. 25, from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. in Room 1091 of the University Mall.

Prospective students and their parents will have the opportunity to view the campus and attend three free sessions on the following: Liberal Arts, Co-op, Financial Aid, Pre-Professional Planning, Computer Science, Teaching, Engineering, Undecided and Business.

Administrators and faculty members will also be available to answer questions about their departments.

An optional tour of the campus by U-M-D students will leave at 1:30 p.m. from Room 104, Classroom and Office Building.

Interested persons should reserve space no later than one week prior to the Preview Day by calling the Office of Admissions at 593-5170.

Marygrove has open house

Marygrove College will hold an open house Saturday, Dec. 1, from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. This event is directed to transfer students and returning adults as well as high school graduates who have postponed their college education.

The program will include orientation, education and informational workshops and campus tours. The college's faculty will be available to discuss individual areas of interest.

Marygrove College is located at 2425 West McNichols at Wyoming in northwest Detroit. For reservations and/or additional information, call the admissions office at 862-8000, extension 220.

Let's talk turkey!

Hey, hey, hey! Bring on the turkey. Looking very pleased with themselves are three members of Mrs. Homuth's first grade class at Ferry School. Indians Kim Yessian and Stephen Lentine were happily prepared last week to share a re-created first Thanksgiving dinner with Pointe Pilgrim Bob- by Koeningsmann, center. Is everyone ready for seconds?

Tower, staff win Pacemaker

The Tower, South's student newspaper, and two former staff members won a number of awards at the National Scholastic Press Association convention held Nov. 11 in Little Rock, Ark.

The newspaper won one of 25 national and four regional Pacemaker awards for overall quality. To qualify for a Pacemaker, a paper must win all-American distinction with marks in five areas of evaluation by NSPA.

In the Mideast Region, the Tower placed with two newspapers from Virginia and one from Indiana.

The Tower has previously won national Pacemaker awards in 1967, 1970, 1977 and 1978.

Kathy Oldham, a freshman at Ohio Wesleyan University and a photographer for the Tower last year, was named one of three All-American photographers. She placed first in the nation for a portrait of Laurel Wolfe used in the 1984 calendar published by the Tower staff.

Phoebe Wall, a freshman at the University of Missouri and a columnist on the Tower last year, won one of five national awards given by NSPA for editorial leadership.

She won for a story she did on the Adopt-an-Animal program at the Detroit Zoo. Her research relating to a fundraising drive by the school's environmental science classes, revealed that funds donated did not supplement the zoo's income, but were simply part of the city's budgeted support for the zoo. The story was picked up by the Detroit Free Press and WDIV Channel 4 television, as well as several local radio stations.

The awards were accepted by Bob Button, newspaper advisor, who was in Little Rock for a four-day commission meeting on the Status of Journalism in Secondary Education.

The national commission, composed of 12 high school and college teachers, administrators, lawyers and professional journalists, is sponsored by the Journalism Education Association and is response to increased pressure to de-emphasize journalism in response to the back-to-basics movement for improving quality education.

Members of the commission were convinced that a strong academic program in journalism with a qualified teacher is one of the most effective approaches to teaching writing that a school can offer.

Heavily individualized journalism offers a laboratory approach with emphasis on writing for a real audience about subjects of consequence.

However, the commission also concluded that journalism teachers haven't done a very good job selling the values of journalism, and that journalism in many schools does not have a qualified teacher and does not make academic demands.

Members of the commission will spend the next year doing research in attempt to substantiate their belief.

Button noted that support for a strong journalism program in Grosse Pointe goes back more than 50 years and that weekly publications at both high schools demand intense research and almost continuous writing under tight deadlines.

But even in Grosse Pointe, declining enrollment has cut into the program, he added.

Kea McKinney was special assistant for news, Allison Van Kirk for features, and Stuart Whitney for sports. Other staff members included Megan Bonanni, Rick Whitney, Brian Benavidez, Karen Bokram, Tina Maher, Kevin Roberts, Lea Van Doren, Kathleen Judge and Greg Gersch.

Enter music competition

Oakway Symphony Orchestra of Livonia will hold its fourth annual Young Artists Competition for southeastern Michigan musicians.

Competition will include all instrumental, piano and vocal soloists, and is open to residents of Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, St. Clair, Livingston and Washtenaw counties who will not reach age 25 before Feb. 24, 1985. Vocal contestants must not reach 30 before that date.

Auditions will be held Jan. 26 and 27 at Madonna College in Livonia. Winners will appear as soloists with the Oakway Symphony Feb. 24.

For rules and application forms, write the Oakway Symphony at 18549 Levan Road, Livonia, Mich. 48152, or call 471-7949.

GIVE YOUR SPECIAL SOMEONE A CHRISTMAS TO REMEMBER FOREVER!

THIS GENUINE BREAKTHROUGH IN WOOD HEAT TECHNOLOGY MAKES IT POSSIBLE.

Christmas is a time for lovers of all ages. Winter magic surrounds everyone: Christmas trees, Candles and twinkling lights. Clog, white socks, Cuddling before a crackling wood fire in the hearth. And some consumer expert reminding us that the heat from our hearth is heading up the chimney along with bits of warm air from our home. Wasteful magic! The edge goes off the products. The crackling fire is extinguished, leaving with the fire in our hearts. A visit in homes where the dream of warmth and coziness has become a realistic reality.

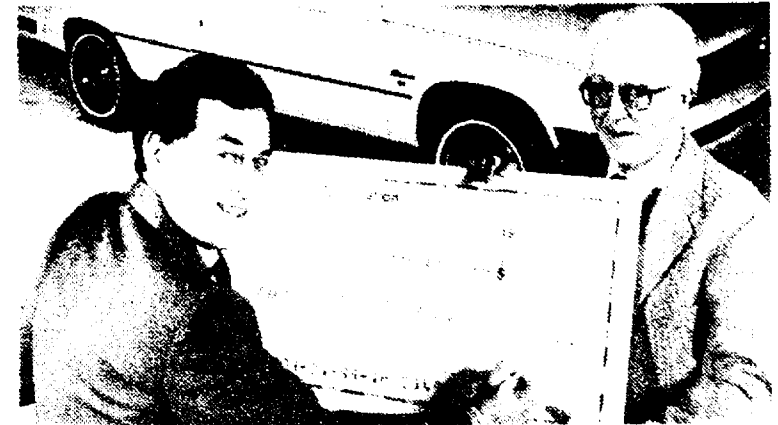

But with a genuine breakthrough in wood heat technology, there is a chance to give your special someone a Christmas to remember forever. The breakthrough is called a catalytic converter. A catalyst in wood heat technology. Blaze King's catalytic converters perform miracles of catalytic power and improve combustion efficiency, burn the wood. The converter turns the smoke from your wood heat into clean exhaust that enters the warm air stream that heats up the chimney. What a gift! The catalytic converter means lower and less frequent chimney cleaning.

With a Blaze King catalyst, more heat, 24 hours a day, is produced from the same amount of wood. The catalytic converter is a genuine breakthrough in wood heat technology. It makes it possible to burn wood more efficiently, produce more heat, and reduce the amount of smoke and creosote in the chimney. It makes it possible to burn wood more efficiently, produce more heat, and reduce the amount of smoke and creosote in the chimney. It makes it possible to burn wood more efficiently, produce more heat, and reduce the amount of smoke and creosote in the chimney.

Goodfellows get early boost

Joseph E. Cappy, left, of the City and group vice president-sales and marketing for American Motors Corporation, signs the check for $5,600 presented to Henry Beck, Rochester resident and secretary of the Old Newsboys Goodfellows' Fund of Detroit. The money was donated by American Motors employees to the Goodfellows' fund raising drive that will provide gift packages to 42,500 underprivileged children in Detroit this Christmas. The Old Newsboys Goodfellows' Fund goal this year is to raise $585,000 through direct donations and their annual newspaper street sale on Dec. 10. Contributions can be sent to: Old Newsboys Goodfellows' Fund, 384 Penobscot Building, Detroit 48226.

Christmas trees plentiful

Families who enjoy the fresh pine scent of a live evergreen in their homes during the holidays can bundle up and head for a farm to cut their own Christmas trees, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Some 482,000 trees in more than a dozen varieties are available at the 62 choose-and-cut tree farms listed on the Auto Club's 1984 guide.

Prices begin at $3 for Scotch pines, the same as last year. Families may expect to pay up to $50 for large or more expensive trees such as Douglas fir and blue spruce. A few farms price some trees by height, varying from $1.50 to $4 per foot depending on the type.

The variety of trees grown in Michigan include white and Norway spruce; balsam; concolor and grand fir; and white, Austrian and ponderosa pine.

Families may reserve trees at 19 listed farms. Persons who are looking for trees after Dec. 15 are advised to call ahead to check availability.

Persons planning to cut their own trees should:

- Take a hand saw. Most farms can bundle up and head for a farm to cut their own Christmas trees, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

- Cut the tree close to the ground. Shake trees in the field to remove old needles. Eleven farms on the Auto Club's guide will mechanically clean trees.

- Cut Norway, white and black spruce and Balsam fir trees at temperatures above 40 degrees to help them hold their needles while displayed. At colder temperatures, those varieties drop needles more easily than pines and Douglas firs.

- Take twice to tie trees to cars although most farms provide it. To help to tree withstand wind while being transported, tie its base to the front of the car. Thirty-six farms will wrap trees for easy transport.

- Keep trees in a cool area, away from flames and heating ducts. Before decorating, check tree lights for bare wires. Take care not to overload electrical outlets.

Woods group elects officers

The 1985 officers and directors of the Grosse Pointe Business and Professional Association of Mack Avenue were elected at the association's annual meeting at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club on Nov. 8.

Dr. Edward Kane will again lead the group as president; Lee Meyer was elected vice-president; Cynthia Ligan, treasurer; Patricia Schneider, secretary; and Kent Schiffer, executive secretary. Directors for the year will be Jack Roland, Nita Capitan, Mark Fairclough, Francis King, Dr. Robert Luthicum, Wahib Mashim, Jeanne Robbins and Ron Vitale.

A program was presented highlighting the group's involvement in the economic development of Mack Avenue, including the organization of the Mack Avenue Renaissance Association. The group recently received a grant from Detroit that will allow businesses in the Wayburn to Outer Drive area of Mack Avenue to do facade renovation and will allow for physical improvements along that Mack Avenue strip.

Another project reviewed was the jobs development and training program that will enable businesses along Mack Avenue to employ about 400 additional people.

Applications were accepted at the meeting for the Person of the Year Award which will be presented at the association's annual January Dinner-Dance on Saturday, Jan. 19, at the Gourmet House on Jefferson Avenue. This award will be given to the person that the association feels has contributed the most toward a better life in Grosse Pointe during 1984.

Any business or professional interested in joining the Grosse Pointe Business and Professional Association of Mack Avenue should call Mrs. Lee Meyer at 881-9007.

New program at St. Clare School

A new program has started at St. Clare this fall called Renew. Its purpose is to help people follow Christ more closely and better understand what He said and taught.

Small groups will meet once a week to discuss and reflect upon the presence of Christ in their lives.

Unlike other programs, Renew will try to reach the whole parish. Sunday Masses and homilies will be geared toward this theme. Projects for the entire family will be in the bulletin each week.

Father John Molnar is in charge of Renew. He has a guidebook of materials based on those used in Newark, N.J.

Keith Mitchell, Student

Northeastern will hold reunion

The January and May classes of 1935 of Detroit Northeastern High School will hold a 50-year reunion July 13 at the Polish Century Club in Detroit.

does your house wake up when you do?

When you face the cold, wintry morning, it may not be necessary to wait for the entire house to heat up to the same comfortable temperature. Certain rooms in your home can be cozy and warm immediately by using individual room control electric heat. To help insure that those first few steps in the morning are into a warm, comfortable bedroom, kitchen or bathroom, get permanently installed room control electric supplemental heating.

Wall or baseboard electric units provide a safe, clean and flameless heat without fumes. Radiant wall or ceiling units offer a combination of instant warmth and convenient zone control.

Detroit Edison has a special rate for permanently installed supplemental space heating equipment. Over a dozen types of products qualify for this special rate. Call Detroit Edison or check your Yellow Pages under Electrical Contractors or Lighting Suppliers for ways to take the chill off your feet when you and your house wake up on cold, wintry mornings.

It's up to the owner

By Pat Paholsky

The Woods council is considering an amendment to an ordinance that will give the Public Safety Department tighter control over the temporary storage of boats, boat and house trailers, campers and motorized homes.

The current ordinance allows a resident or business to store such a vehicle for a maximum of 72 hours. The amendment will maintain the 72-hour limit, but will require the owner of the vehicle to notify the Public Safety Department as soon as the vehicle is parked.

"The present ordinance is not enforceable, because the officer has to determine if the vehicle was there for 72 hours," George Catlin, city attorney, said. "The responsibility will be with the owner who must call in and report he will have it there. That will start the ticking of the clock, so to speak."

"It's not a large problem," Public Safety Director Jack Patterson said. "We're talking about an ordinance to keep the city the way the people like it. We are trying to improve the management, that's all."

The council approved the first reading of the amendment to the ordinance last week. The second reading and adoption, if there are no objections from the council, is scheduled for the Dec. 3 meeting.

Patterson said that a person who does not call in will likely receive a verbal warning first. Violation of the ordinance is a civil infraction, he said.

The problem is not with the majority, he added, "but with the 2 percent or 3 percent who do not conform."

Liberation theology

Dr. Fredrica Harris Thompsett, professor of church history, will lecture Saturday, Dec. 8, at Christ Church Grosse Pointe at 10 a.m. on The Meaning and Impact of Current Theologies of Liberation. To register for attendance, call the church office at 885-4841 by Dec. 4.

Arthritis support group will meet

A kick-off meeting of the Saratoga Arthritis Support Group will be held Thursday, Dec. 6, 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. at Saratoga Community Hospital, 15000 Gratiot at State Fair.

The meetings, which will be held on the first Thursday of every month, are open to all those who have arthritis and to members of their families. The purpose of the group meetings is to offer social, recreational and educational opportunities to arthritics.

For further information on the Saratoga Arthritis Support Group, call Saratoga Community Hospital at 245-1328.

This support group is sponsored in cooperation with the Michigan Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

Coats wanted for needy kids

WJBK-TV Channel 2, FM 98 WJLB and Detroit area K mart stores have joined together to help keep needy children warm this winter. "Coats for Kids" 1984 campaign began Nov. 10 and will run through Dec. 10.

Coats for Kids is a community service project whose primary goal is to collect new and like new coats for needy children throughout the Metropolitan Detroit area. This year's campaign goal is to collect 10,000 infant to adult-size children's coats, which can be deposited in "Coats for Kids" receptacles located at local malls and K mart stores.

Donated coats will be cleaned, sized, then distributed through Volunteers of America to local agencies in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw and Genesee counties. Cash donations can be made by writing a check payable to "Coats for Kids," 2050 Penobscot Building, Detroit, MI 48226.

Carol-Along

The First English Evangelical Lutheran Church, 800 Vernier Road in the Woods, will hold its Carol-Along Sunday, Dec. 2, at 7:30 p.m.

The evening will include secular and religious songs, with accompaniment provided by organ and other instruments. The Senior Choir of First English, directed by Robert Foster, and two bell choirs directed by Christina Judson, will help lead the caroling.

For the finale, the audience will join in the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah."

Refreshments will be offered in the fellowship room of the church. There is no cost and the public is invited.

Be a clown

Yes, that was the Grosse Pointe Clown Corps you saw in the Village's Thanksgiving Day parade down Kercheval Friday. And the Corps is also taking part in Windsor's Christmas Parade Dec. 1.

To find out more about becoming a member of the clown corps, to learn about entertaining, makeup and costume, call Arthur Kuehnel, president of the group, at 881-8186.

The corps will also hold a bake sale Saturday, Dec. 8, in front of J.C. Penney's in the Pointe Plaza shopping center. On sale will be M&M plain and peanut candy, jelly and baked goods. For times of the sale, call Kuehnel at 881-8186.

Honored

Members of the Grosse Pointe Artists Association honored member Corinne Dolega for 25 years of loyal service at their Nov. 5 meeting in the art facility of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. They cited her work as liaison with War Memorial staff, her ability to elicit co-operation among members and her outstanding efforts throughout the community as the key to the group's record of success.

Magician performs for Toys for Tots

Thirteen-year-old illusionist Matt Jacobson will perform at noon, Friday, Nov. 30, in the J.C. Penney court in Eastland Shopping Center as part of a benefit for the Toys for Tots program.

One of the nation's youngest illusionists, Matt will saw a member of the audience in half and escape from a straitjacket and shipping trunk. Also on hand for the Toys for Tots benefit will be the Marine Corps color guard and a local band.

Matt has been performing since he was seven, according to his father Mike Jacobson. He has appeared at the Michigan State Fair and on Entertainment Tonight. Born in the same hospital in which Harry Houdini died, Matt performs a number of Houdini escapes. He also has a laser act which will not be part of the Eastland performance, his father said. Those who attend the performance are encouraged to donate a new toy to the Toys for Tots program.

Mayor seeks to bypass charter . . .

 would not encourage top-notch applicants who more appropriately might be recruited by members of his committee who could insure confidentiality.

For example, a police officer, now serving at the administrative level in a Detroit precinct, might be qualified but could refuse to apply for fear of job reprisal, said one anonymous source.

"However, there is always a risk involved in applying for any position," Crawford said. "And the applicant must be willing to assume some risk."

To insure that tales wouldn't be carried, he suggested allowing applicants to screen the names of local police chiefs and public safety officers who would be asking questions during the interview and eliminating those felt to be a threat.

Crawford felt that this type of structured interview, along with him screening out the majority of applicants, would allow a rating system that would be similar to an eligibility list and that anyone of the top three candidates would make an excellent selection. He would then submit the appointees' names to council for examination and confirmation. Crawford also said he was in favor of having citizen input on his selection.

However, Heenan said the institutions of government are only as good as the people who administer them and for that reason he's particularly concerned about the appointment of a police chief.

"The charter very specifically states that any choice made by the city manager must be confirmed by council," he said. "And, of course, the city manager himself serves at the pleasure of the council. Thus, the city manager can perform his function only if he cooperates with, and carries out the will of the council."

Heenan got full support from political running mate Vernon Auscherman, who accused other council members of political maneuvering to thwart the mayor's wishes. "There seems to be some difference of opinion who was elected mayor," he said. "It's decisive. Give the mayor a chance. Why oppose him in all of his appointees?" However, the rest of council wasn't opposed to having a citizen committee contribute input to the selection process, but taking the responsibility for that selection away from the city manager.

"The charter runs the city on a day-to-day basis and I'm not in favor of circumventing it or undermining its character," said Mark Valente, III. "The city manager is the chief executive officer and employees answer to him and it's terribly inappropriate for someone to direct someone already empowered with the job."

"While it's imperative to get input from other area professionals, it's best to get input from professional law enforcement organizations too," he added.

David Gaskin said he didn't like deferring total responsibility to a citizens committee, that all council members were elected and that he felt responsible for actions that might strip Crawford of his position.

"Is the committee broad enough?" Gaskin asked. "When divorcing the city manager from the process, you're setting up a potential failure. The police chief has to report to the city manager and they have to get along."

Carrol Evola and Patricia Forster said they also were receptive to a citizens committee, but the real problem was not abiding by the charter.

"By handpicking a committee to select a candidate for police chief, you're insulting the city manager," said Jim Robson, Beaconsfield Road resident. "You'd have to be a blithering idiot not to see that. How much do we pay him? Let him do his job."

This isn't the first time Heenan has played with the city's charter. One of his first acts as mayor was to nominate Vernon Auscherman as mayor pro tem instead of allowing the whole council to make a selection based on charter rules. He finally had to settle for John Prost when council stood its ground to have a voice in the selection.

A few weeks later he did a flip-flop, relying on the charter's anti-nepotism clause not to reappoint

Maria Valente, Councilman Valente's mother, to the beautification committee, a job she had done successfully for several years.

He also made it clear that to avoid "embarrassing council" he wouldn't reappoint Marco Valente Jr., the councilman's father, to his unpaid planning commission seat when his term expired.

When the city formed its Economic Development Corporation last February, he again wanted carte blanche in selecting appointees and was upset when council would not confirm his nominees.

He accused some of them of trying to emasculate him and usurp his powers, and later when concessions were made and his appointees supported by other council members, he said his leadership and political expertise won over some members who tried to attack his powers to appoint.

On another occasion, two weeks after the Park passed its controversial zoning ordinance insuring a continued residential flavor to the community, he disclosed the city was already talking about granting a zoning variance to build the medical complex at the corner of Jefferson and Nottingham avenues.

At that time, he said a variance might be necessary to get Bon Secours Hospital and the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology to build. "This is a chance to change that area from semi-bligh and I would be distressed if I didn't look at this as an alternative which may not even come about."

The variance was granted. However, no steps have yet been taken to remove the old DIO building which has been an eyesore since the roof collapsed almost two years ago.

At last Monday's meeting Heenan finally withdrew his motion after council agreed to form a committee including himself, Prost and City Manager Crawford to study and recommend how to address the issue and develop standards to guide the city manager in his selection.

"The object is to decide how to get community input without circumventing the charter, and making recommendations to Crawford," said Mayor Pro Tem Prost.

 dent achievement, McCaig said. "We already know from the other scores what performance has been at those levels."

"Typically, about half the students score 100 percent on the state test," McCaig said. "That doesn't mean that 10 years from now, we will have that number of National Merit scholars . . . The tests don't differentiate the extent of learning."

Grosse Pointe was among 43 of the 82 tri-county districts whose students showed improvements on four of the six tests. Nine districts recorded higher scores in the six basic skill tests.

Kelly completes China trip

State Sen. John Kelly, D-Detroit, recently returned from an economic development mission to the Peoples Republic of China with more than 160 proposals for joint ventures with Michigan firms.

Kelly was traveling under the auspices of the state Senate Committee on Economic Development, Trade and Tourism.

The proposals range from machinery used for tool and die manufacturing to fruit and grain processing technology. Kelly sent the proposals to the state commerce department for evaluation and circulation among the business community.

The consultative team of which Kelly was a part included Dean James Rainey of the business college of Michigan State University; Francis McKelvey, a professor with the civil engineering college at MSU; and D. Michael Murphy, a Grand Rapids conservationist. The team was in China at the invitation of the Sichuan provincial government and was to advise the province and Michigan about possibilities of a technical assistance program in tourism.

The team reviewed training programs for hospitality personnel, tourist transportation network and outdoor recreation itineraries.

The final consultants' report will be submitted to the state appropriations subcommittee, the economic development, trade and tourism committee and the Governor's Commission on China.

"If we can find ways to help the Sichuanese generate hard foreign currency, then they can begin purchasing their industrial equipment from Michigan firms with extra capacity," Kelly said in press release. A formal part of the program should be a memorandum of understanding that the state receive preferential status as recipient of the extra cash provided by tourism, the release added.

Don't miss Christmas at the Ford House

Step back in time by attending Christmas at the Ford House, the University Liggett School fundraiser to be held Monday through Sunday, Dec. 3 to 8, at the Edsel and Eleanor Ford House, 1100 Lakeshore Road in Grosse Pointe Shores.

The home will be decorated for the holidays by 16 interior designers and florists and will be open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily as well as 6 to 9 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday. Admission is $5 for adults, $4 per person in groups of 15 or more (by reservation) and $3 for students.

"We believe that with the help of so many fine interior designers and florists, the Ford House has truly recaptured the elegant and festive holiday spirit of its magnificent past and should not be missed," said Laura Marantette, event chairman. "By greatly expanding our hours from last year, we hope that all the public who would like to view the manor 'dressed for the holidays' will be able to do so."

The home's entrance will be decorated by Eleanor C. Schneider and Grosse Pointe Florists with large wreaths and topiary birds to initiate the visitor to the holiday feeling throughout the house.

The dining room will be ready for a "gala dinner party" to be held on the most social of Saturdays — the one before Christmas. The decorations are by Maksout-Carmody, Inc. and Greg Petty-Floral Design Group.

Kennedy and Co. will place a Renaissance-inspired natural green tree trimmed in gold braids and pink poinsettias in the grand drawing room. The pale shades of Mrs. Ford's morning room will be carried on in the Christmas decorations of pastel-frosted balls and baubles, birds and ribbons done by Masako Kondo Flowers, Inc.

Flowers by Kimberly will use natural materials of grapevines and holly berries to decorate Mr. Ford's study. Upstairs in the nursery, Kristine Carpenter Wills, ASID, will use red and green tafeta plaid and an old-fashioned Christmas tree in decorating the room.

In keeping with the art deco look of Henry II's bedroom, William Castle Interiors will use magnolia leaves as the major trimming in the room. Interspersed small white lights and gold touches, repeating the brass details in the room, complete the decorations.

Other interior designers and florists participating in the event are GSC Design Associates; Floral-Visual Concepts; Bates and Co. Interior Designers; Grosse Pointe Botanical Gardens; William Denler & Company; Coach House of Metamora; and Garden Club of Michigan.

Demonstrations of crafts and decorations will be held Monday through Friday from 2 to 3:30 p.m. On Monday, Pat Bentley of Birmingham will show her traditional and Williamsburg holiday wreaths.

Tuesday and Wednesday, demonstrations of Nantucket shell wreaths and fans, English corn dollies and other woven ornaments will be held. The items will be available at the Christmas Shop, Thursday. George Hawkins of Variations from Design Detroit will demonstrate holiday table decorations.

The Christmas Shop, located in the gallery of the house, will carry ornaments and unusual holiday decorations in all price ranges, including sports bears and Santa ornaments in activities ranging from ballet to basketball. There are also Windsurfer ornaments, new pastel-colored cake ornaments and "Just Ducky" characters fresh from New York.

For months, ULS parents have been working to stock the shop with special items such as scallop shell wreaths, band boxes and many individual holiday arrangements in baskets and miniature settings. Boxes of Schoolhouse Chocolates and Headmaster Mints made for ULS by Harbor Sweets of Marblehead, Mass., will be available gift-boxed.

A drawing is included with tickets available from any ULS student for $1 each. Prizes are an O'Brien windsurfer, a Honda Spree moped, a Magic Chef Touch-Matic microwave, a trip to Toronto and a Sony AM-FM stereo cassette recorder.

For further information or group reservations call ULS at 884-4444.

Wolverine Jazz Band members, from the left, are Wally Tronlanko, Hugh Leal, Dixie Belle, Paul Sikorski, Chet Bogan, Tom Saunders and Stu Sanders. The band, an institution at the Lido on the Lake in St. Clair Shores, is beginning its eighth year of playing there every Tuesday night.

Toy stores say sales are good

If the day after Thanksgiving is any indication, kids should find a few more toys under the Christmas tree this year.

Proprietors at the Punch and Judy Toyland, Whistle Stop Hobby Center and Mom's Attic said a variety of toys were selling well Friday, traditionally a heavy Christmas shopping day.

Hot items at the stores included robot and robot-related toys, construction sets, trains, radio-controlled vehicles, Cabbage Patch look-alike dolls and board games like Dungeons and Dragons and Trivial Pursuit as well as more traditional toys like dolls and fire engines, proprietors said.

Tri-county malls and shopping centers reported large crowds and heavy sales Friday, according to published reports. The economic recovery nationally and perceptions of better times ahead were cited as reasons for the increased spending.

Punch and Judy Toyland owner Charles Van Doren said all types of toys were selling Friday. Among the favorites were robots that changed configurations, educational toys for the younger set and Trivial Pursuit, he said.

The store tends to stay away from faddish television-advertised toys, Van Doren said. One new item this year is the Sindy doll and her playscape, which Van Doren described as an updated version of Barbie.

Wooden toys are selling big this year along with figures and furniture for doll houses, which Van Doren said were showing a resurgence this year. "It's very cyclical and it appears they are coming back into popularity," he added.

The type of toy depends on the interest of the child as well as age and who's buying, Van Doren said. While boys aged 6 and up can be depended upon to enjoy robot toys, the choices for girls go beyond the traditional plush toys or dolls, he added. Microscopes and telescopes are options for parents who want items that educate as well as entertain, Van Doren said.

Sales this fall are improved from last year, which Van Doren attributed to the better economy. "People seem to be in better frame of mind," he added.

Looser purse strings have also meant better sales at the Whistle Stop, according to manager Frank Lane. Usually business slumps a little in spring and fall, but not this year, he added.

The store has been selling trains of all scales this year. Radio-controlled off-the-road vehicles, new items this season, are also doing well, Lane said. The radio-controlled vehicles are build-it-yourself kits for adults and teenagers, he added.

Board games with war themes are selling well, but space toys and robotics items are really hot at the store, Lane said.

At Mom's Attic, a resale shop, Cabbage Patch look-alike dolls, Fisher-Price toys, doll houses, puzzles and other toys are selling well, according to Carol Shipton, co-owner of the store with Sylvia Sanders.

The store shops church and rummage sales and flea markets for toys, Ms. Shipton said. Also, toys are brought into the store for sale. All the items are assessed, refurbished and resold, she said, adding people who bring in toys are repaid as the items are sold.

As a resale store, Mom's Attic tries to keep its prices at half the average retail price, Ms. Shipton said. Many shoppers come in to browse to see what kind of toys the store has because its stock will vary, she added.

Some of the "classic" toys available include Matchbox cars, early Star Wars figures, Barbie accessories and baby doll furniture, Ms. Shipton said. The beds, bassinets and buggies the store sells are often of better quality than those now available in department stores, she added.

Besides Fisher-Price vehicles, buildings and blocks, another high turn-over item are Leggo construction sets, Ms. Shipton said.

Dentist + Dixieland = painless jazz

By Pat Paholsky

It could be said that Chet Bogan's vocation and avocation have to do with mouths. By day the Woods resident makes his living as a dentist, and by night he blows a horn and leads his band in traditional Dixieland jazz — mostly spirited, sometimes mournful, but always soul-stirring.

Bogan and his Wolverine Jazz Band are beginning their eighth year of playing every Tuesday night at Lido on the Lake in St. Clair Shores.

With the long-running engagement, it's safe to say that the band has become an institution at the Lido, a place well suited for music that is so intrinsically American. The Lido operated as a blind pig during Prohibition, an era in which jazz thrived and spread in popularity from its roots in New Orleans to points across the country.

But the band doesn't come alive only on Tuesday nights. Since its formation in 1977, the Wolverine Jazz Band has performed at nearly two dozen major jazz festivals throughout the country, including the Bix Beiderbecke Festival, the Central Illinois Jazz Festival, Detroit Montreux and others. They've performed three times at the Sacramento California Jazz Festival, which Bogan describes as the largest Dixieland jazz festival in the country, with about 70 bands entertaining.

And there have been other performances for jazz clubs, conventions and concerts, including eight public TV shows that were aired nationally. With two albums to its credit, the band is now working on the third.

While this schedule would appear to keep the musicians busy, they put on another hat on the first and third Thursday of the month, substitute a piano for the banjo, and play the big band sound ala Harry James and Glen Miller, also at the Lido.

But the Dixieland sound is what brought the group together and all of the members have extensive, non-jazz-oriented backgrounds. Their interests range from the classical to rock 'n' roll, backgrounds which add a freshness and vitality to the New Orleans sound.

Their services are also in demand elsewhere in the area as is the case now with clarinetist Fritz Moore who is working at a club in Southfield. Eric Lundquist has been substituting for him, yet the band's sound remains the same. That's because Bogan, as composer and arranger, has arranged about 300 pieces for the band so the basic sound is maintained when a member leaves.

Other members include Stu Sanders, trombonist, who has played with Neal Hefti, Billy May, Tex Beneke and Bob Crosby. Sanders has backed Tony Bennett, Peggy Lee, Ella Fitzgerald, Nat King Cole, Johnny Mathis and others.

Hugh Leal, on banjo, is a promoter and concert producer in Windsor. He has played with the Red Garter Band and the New McKinney's Cotton Pickers.

Paul Sikorski is a Grosse Pointe resident who was a drum major at North High for two years. After graduating, he formed a disco band and traveled in the East. He's played drums with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Michigan Opera Theatre and Shrine Circus and has backed Bob Hope, Dick Shawn, Ginger Rogers and Dionne Warwick.

Armand Reid, bass player and former Pointe resident, has been performing in the Detroit area all of his life. Some of his engagements include the Book Cadillac, Statler Hotel, London Chop House, WWJ Radio and a 12-year stint with the Sammy Dibert Orchestra that was a mainstay at Yeamans, later the Knife and Fork, and now the Detroit Press Club.

Vocals are provided by Dixie Belle whose real name is Elma Santa. She had established herself as an accordionist and singer in New York City and cities in Florida. When she moved to Detroit in 1965, she formed Elma Santa and the Redheads, a trio that featured the three voices and her accordion. She now has a group, Elma Santa and her Straying Strings, that consists of three to five musicians who entertain with vocals.

Bogan, on cornet, composites the six piece band, kept at that number since that is the original size of the old-time Dixieland bands. He also retains the original spelling of jazz in the band's name. He said he's considering changing the spelling to the more popular version, however, since it seems to confuse people who think the word is misspelled.

The name, Wolverine, is a tribute to Bix Beiderbecke who had a band by that name, Bogan said, adding that "Bix is our big inspiration."

Bogan, who began playing the accordion when he was 10 years old, switched to piano and now plays cornet, trumpet, flugelhorn and valve trombone. His earliest experience with jazz came in 1945 when he played trumpet in an Army Special Services quintet that had Lester Young on the saxophone and Jo Jones on drums.

He then worked his way through dental school with his music and opened a practice in the Woods in 1951. He's still there, enjoying it, and says that dentistry, like music, is creative.

It's obvious that music has been an important part of his life and he jokes, "I tried golf, but I was lousy at it, and the tennis racket is too small to hit the ball. So I preferred to be the best cornet player than the worst golfer."

He's performed with Pee Wee Hunt, Alexander's Ragtime Band and others. Bogan also directed 10 consecutive years of musicals for the Fine Arts Society at the Players Playhouse.

He was introduced to Dixieland about 20 years ago "by a doctor who played real good jazz in Petoskey in the summer and I just fell in love with it."

"This is really the roots of jazz," he added.

His original compositions include "I Like Detroit," "Gimme Some of That," "Lido Rag," "Emmet County Rag," and "Blues for Bix." Charlie Manos of the Detroit News wrote the words for "The Lemon Song," another Bogan composition, and vocalist Dixie Belle said she's been trying unsuccessfully to get him on the stage to sing it with her.

Her version of "My Sweet Tooth Says I Wanna But My Wisdom Tooth Says No," inspired one of the regular patrons, a Methodist minister, to write a sermon on the dual nature of man. He invited Bogan and Dixie Belle to attend the service, which they did, and on a recent Tuesday, Dixie Belle dedicated the song to the minister and his wife who were seated ringside.

On the wall behind the band hangs a large oil painting of the Preservation Hall Band. Bogan bought the painting on a trip to New Orleans, haggling over the price until the last minute when the seller brought it to the airport. Bogan is proud of the painting and it helps set the atmosphere, reminding patrons of the early beginnings of traditional jazz.

While Bogan has accomplished much, he does have one fantasy — and that is to play at the White House.

"Four years ago at the Republican National Convention in Detroit, we were the band that brought Reagan out," Bogan said. They played "When the Saints Come Marching In," and he feels it would be fitting to cap the president's last four years with another performance.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

For a quarter of a century, the Detroit Symphony League's Christmas Walk has been a beautiful beginning to the holiday season. This year's Walk takes place next Thursday, Dec. 6, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Grosse Pointe; the following Thursday, Dec. 13, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Birmingham-Bloomfield.

It's a "Sterling Presentation" on both the East Side and the North End of town, as befits a 25th anniversary event. Five very lovely and personal homes, wearing their finest holiday finery, will receive visitors each Walk Day. The houses reflect a remarkable variety of architectural and design styles.

Featured on the Pointe Walk next Thursday is a magnificent Georgian Colonial designed by the architect of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Alger House. It is being restored and decorated by a well-known interior designer, using 18th and 19th century English antiques in a setting of soft celadon, cream and salmon tones.

The American Country House on the tour contains a library with black oak paneling from a French chateau — and a super double kitchen. The pillared Southern Colonial on Windmill Pointe Drive is the home of an orchid fancier. Two artisans will be displaying their work here, in a blooming greenhouse.

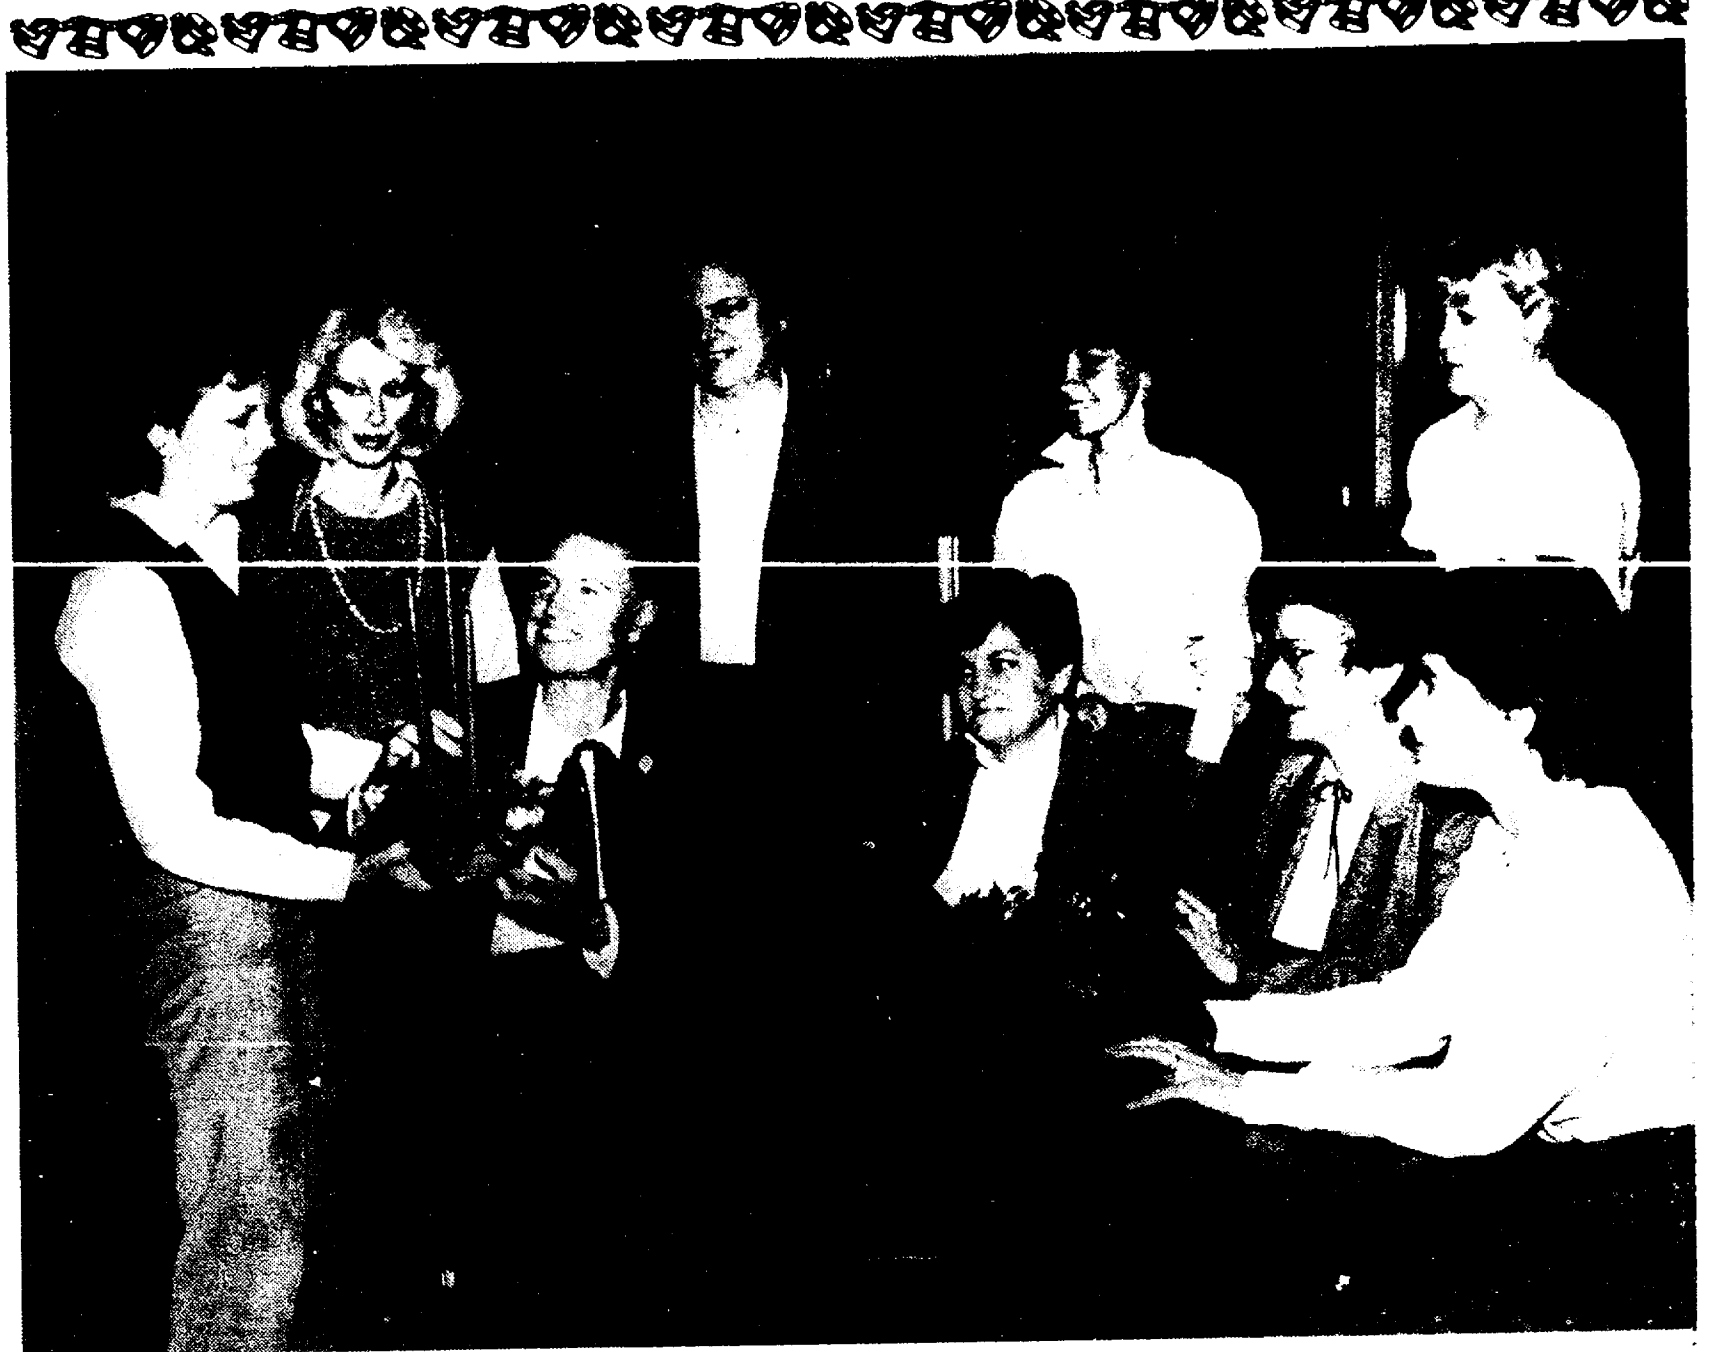

The interior of the Christmas Walk Cape Cod on Sunningdale Drive is really more reminiscent of New Orleans than New England. A 45-foot-long hall connects rooms that showcase a stunning collection of Christmas decorations, and FIVE Christmas trees!

An English Country Manor, with magnificent leaded windows and an immense paneled dining room, completes the Pointe Walk roster. Advance sale tickets may be obtained at $7 general admission, $6 per person in groups of 10 or more, by contacting Linda Webster at 884-7233 or Anne Hathaway at 884-3038.

Tickets will be $8 at the doors of the open-to-the-public homes on both Walk Days. The houses may be visited in any order, and each tour ticket is good for either the Grosse Pointe or the Birmingham-Bloomfield Christmas Walk. The five houses on the latter tour are equally as fascinating as those featured on Our Side of Town.

Highlighting this "Sterling Presentation" will be live musical performances by pianist Maria Meirelles in Grosse Pointe, by harpist Onita Sanders in Bloomfield Hills. They are appearing under auspices of Young Audiences of Michigan, a non-profit arts organization dedicated to providing quality performances and educational experiences to elementary and secondary school children.

Christmas gift is a united effort

The Parents' Club of Grosse Pointe North High School and the Mothers' Club of Grosse Pointe South High School will present their annual Christmas Choral Concert and Tea next Wednesday, Dec. 5, at 1 p.m. in the Community Center for the Performing Arts at North High. Featured will be the choirs of North High, under the direction of Ben Walker, and the choirs of South High, led by Charles Gleason. In addition, a student instrumental ensemble will perform during the tea following the concert, where there will be an opportunity to purchase cookies and poinsettias. The event, traditionally the schools' Christmas gift to the community, is free of charge, and everyone is invited. Senior citizens are especially encouraged to attend. The Performing Arts Center facilities are accessible to those in wheelchairs. Pictured above planning the concert and tea are Parents' Club/Mothers' Club representatives (standing, left to right) JOAN NETTLE (North), decorations co-chairman, MARLENE PALUZZI (North), cookies and table settings, JOY WILLIAMS (South), program, JOANN MASOURAS (North), cookies and table settings, and BEV ZIMMERMANN (North), program; (seated, left to right) TRISHA GASKINS (South), JEAN MARCACCIO and JOAN BUCCINNA (both North), general chairmen, and ANITA UNGER (South), publicity co-chairman.

GP Alliance plans soiree to greet Noel

The Alliance Francaise de Grosse Pointe will herald the holiday season at "Une Soiree de Noel" — a festive potluck party with musical accompaniment — next Wednesday, Dec. 5, at 6:30 p.m. on University Liggett School's Briarcliff Drive campus.

Members will be bringing salads, desserts, casseroles and special treats for the buffet table. Taking into consideration the cosmopolitan nature of such a group as the Alliance, the food is certain to be interesting as well as plentiful.

"Buffet and potluck parties haven't really been the custom in France," says Marseilles-born Danielle DeFauw, a new member of the Alliance board of directors. "But our French friends who have visited us in the various places we've lived, Seattle and California in The States and three years in Thailand, have become great fans of the buffet idea after seeing how much fun it is."

Danielle was working for the United States Information Agency, the cultural branch of the State Department, when she met her American husband, Robert DeFauw, who was then an undercover narcotics agent in France. He is now Special Agent in charge of United States Drug Enforcement Administration in the Midwest area.

Music at the Pointe Alliance's Noel Night will be provided by mezzo-soprano Geraldine Powers, accompanied by Joseph Jackson, Miss Powers, a Detroit Community Music School faculty member, will sing operatic arias and traditional French songs.

She has performed with the Lansing Lyric Opera and the Omni Opera Company, and was recitalist-teacher with the North Queensland Regional Arts Association in Queensland, Australia.

The evening will end traditionally, with a sing-a-long of Christmas airs.

Concert date for Judelaires

The Judelaires, a mixed chorus of 35 voices, comprised mainly of people from the eastern suburbs (including Grosse Pointe) and eastside Detroit, will present a Christmas concert this Sunday, Dec. 2, at 7 p.m. at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Regent at Bringham in Detroit, three blocks south of Eight Mile Road.

The program will include popular and religious Christmas music as well as traditional carols. An organ and piano performance will also be presented, with a carol sing-a-long.

The Judelaires are a non-profit group. They perform many shows for charity throughout the year. Their "Fantasy" last spring was extremely successful — an all-performance sellout, in fact — and they will be presenting another major show in May of 1985.

Taking off for Santa's Attic

All set to take off for Santa's Attic are (left to right) SUZE WHYTE and ANNE LaFOND, general chairmen of the Christmas Crafts Fair at Saint Paul's School, and committee members LILLIAN TYLEND, ROSE GERLACH and JANICE SMOLINSKI. The fair, featuring more than 55 gift and craft tables, will be open for adults-only shopping tonight, Thursday, Nov. 29, from 7 to 9 p.m. The entire family is welcome to browse and buy tomorrow, Friday, Nov. 30, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Colony Town Club to wrap holiday gifts

Members of Colony Town Club's Sewing Group meet Monday, Dec. 3, at 10:30 a.m. in the Blairmoor Court home of Mrs. William Fox to gift-wrap the many articles they have sewn and knit during the past year.

Bed jackets and socks, lap robes for adults and children and Christmas Card Books will be covered with colorful Christmas paper. These gifts will then be distributed to Cancer Loan Closet patients, nursing homes, Children's Hospital and the Methodist Children's Village.

The Sewing Group meets monthly in the homes of members. Following the annual "wrap-up," cocktails and luncheon will be served. Assisting Mrs. Fox will be the Mesdames John Engstrom, Edward Boggs, John Cushman, Bruce Bockstanz and Richard Szejbach.

Call Northwood alumni to party

Northwood Institute will host a Christmas Wine and Cheese Party for all Detroit area alumni next Tuesday, Dec. 4, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Pontchartrain Hotel. Several Northwood faculty and staff members are expected to attend. Reservations for the evening may be made by contacting Warren Mault, Northwood Institute alumni director, at 517-631-1600, Extension 349.

Offering trinkets, treasures

GERRY BAKER (standing), chairman of the St. Ambrose Christmas Fair, and KIM HAVELT offer examples of the "Trinkets to Treasures" to be found in the St. Ambrose Parish Hall, Maryland at Hampton in The Park, this Saturday, Dec. 1. Doors open at 10 a.m. and close at 5 p.m. after a drawing for three get-away weekends for two. Raffle tickets may be purchased the day of the fair. Among the 30 tables of trinkets/treasures will be one featuring hand-dressed dolls and one offering imported Polish art. Other handcrafted gift suggestions include stained glass, grapevine wreaths and baskets, jewelry and ornaments. Children under 12 will have their own "Shopping Corner," where they may purchase inexpensive gifts for family and friends. Santa will be there, of course, and a snack bar luncheon will be available, along with a take-home selection of homemade baked goods and deli foods.

Review Club will honor its presidents

The Edsel & Eleanor Ford House will be the setting Wednesday, Dec. 12, for the Detroit Review Club's Presidents' Luncheon and Program. The party begins in the French Room at 11:30 a.m., with chilled wine and hot hors d'oeuvres. Luncheon follows at 12:15 p.m. in the Great Gallery.

The gathering is a traditional one for DRC, which celebrated its 94th birthday Nov. 30. Mrs. Frank Welcenbach, chairman of the day, has planned an elegant occasion at which to honor the club's past-presidents. They include, from the Pointe area, Mrs. Aaron E. Wilcox, first Pointer to become DRC president, Mrs. Marvin C. Dahnke, Mrs. Robert Kales, Mrs. Frank Scott Perkin, Miss Vera Brown, Mrs. Robert W. Keigen and Mrs. James Mullaney.

Other past-presidents who have been invited are Mrs. Wynn Wake-man, Mrs. Benjamin Springborn, Mrs. L. James Keller, Mrs. Marion Cramer, Mrs. Wayne Garrett and Mrs. Robert Gerisch.

Official hostess for the party is Mrs. Justin Emery, the Review Club's current president, who, along with each past-president, will receive a corsage from Kay Welcenbach. Kay has asked Mrs. William O. Bradley, a personal friend of concert pianist Ruth Burczyk, to introduce "Grosse Pointe's First Lady of Music."

Ruth's program for the afternoon will include works by Bach and Mozart. Mrs. Burczyk has a distinguished background in music. She has been concertizing since she was 16, when she made her debut with the Wisconsin Symphony, and has earned critical accolades throughout the United States and Canada.

Her many outstanding recitals and guest appearances with local orchestras have made her a favorite with Detroit area audiences. She was voted "Teacher of the Year" by the Detroit Musicians League in 1981, is listed in "Who's Who" and is a member of Interlochen National Music Camp's piano faculty.

Guests are welcome at this party, but DRC members and their guests MUST have prepaid ($11.50 per person) luncheon reservations in by next Thursday, Dec. 6, as the Ford House requires a typed list of those attending any function there well in advance. Mrs. James Bird, of Southfield, is accepting the reservation checks.

Do you have an economic future at all?

The Grosse Pointe Branch of the American Association of University Women presents the third in its series of programs on women's issues, focusing specifically on "Economic Independence for Life, Not a Trivial Pursuit," next Thursday, Dec. 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the Exhibition Room of the Grosse Pointe Central Library, Kercheval Avenue at Fisher Road.

Guest speaker Ellen C. Preisman, executive director of Detroit's Walter Reuther Senior Centers, will discuss "Social Security, Pensions, Insurance — Will It Be Sufficient?"

Mrs. Preisman, who has a Masters degree in Public Administration from the University of Pittsburgh and was certified in Geriatrics at the University of Michigan, has led pre-retirement workshops. She is a qualified and experienced speaker on women's issues.

Her program, as are all in the "Economic Independence" series, is free and open to the public. The series is an on-going AAUW project, an undertaking of the branch's Legislative Committee chaired by Eloise Spencer, who has a Bachelors degree from the University of Nebraska and graduate degrees from New York University and the University of Michigan. She has worked with the YWCA in several cities, including Seattle, San Diego, Germantown, Pa., and Youngstown, Ohio. "I joined the Y to see the world," she jokes. She has been the Metropolitan Detroit YWCA's associate executive director.

"In this AAUW series," Eloise says, "we're concerned with adequate planning for financial independence for women, whatever their age or economic level. Right now, we're gathering information. Then we'll move on to consideration of the federal and state bills relating to these matters. Hopefully, we'll later stimulate action."

Eloise's co-chair is Pat Schneider, Grosse Pointe Woods Municipal Judge, who after obtaining her law degree from the University of Detroit had a practice of felony trial work in Wayne County Circuit Court. Others working on next Thursday's program are Kay Kirby, Fran Schonenberg, Esther Howell, Trudy Rhoades and Margit Jackson.

Additional information on the program or the series may be obtained by calling 885-3173.

League members, will operate "branch offices" at both Walks. Here you can stock up on gifts, wrapping paper, seasonal decorations and stocking stuffers, sold for the benefit of the DSO. Handcrafted work, Christmas tree angels and patchwork items, will be offered by the hand-crafters themselves, Pat Tibbetts and Yvonne Ham.

Greens of Christmas Sale

The Fourth Annual Greens of Christmas Sale sponsored by the Episcopal Church Women of Christ Church, Grosse Pointe, will run from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. tomorrow, Friday, Nov. 30, in the Church Undercroft. The greens it features, along with flowers and unusual statuary for the garden, include North Carolina boxwood wreaths, live partridge berry and balsam wreaths and galax leaves.

But there's more... a Country Kitchen stocked with Meadow Lane Mustard, hot pepper jelly, chili sauce, chutney, bread and butter pickles, Stratford Place Soup Mix... a Bakery Table piled with fresh, homemade goodies... a Paris Table offering nantua baby sweaters and blanket covers (among other things).

The Christ Church Smockers will present little girls' dresses to purchase and to order. Custom ribbons and bows will be available, along with one-of-a-kind grapevine wreaths and heart-shaped baskets, stenciled pie baskets and small Amish pillows. The Choir Table has wrapping paper and bags, cheddar cheese, cookbooks, bread sticks and recordings of the Christ Church Choir Christmas Lessons and Carols. The Boutique features angel mugs, aprons and note paper, plus silk moire Christmas tree stars.

General co-chairmen of the Christmas Greens Sale this year are Mrs. Kenneth Bratt and Mrs. Fred Guertler. Table chairmen include the Mesdames Wyman Barret, Robert Snyder, Harold Lee, Richard Boynton, Leslie Jones, Bruce Birgbauer, David Gaskin, Leonard Smith, Clyde Adams, Walter Rockwell, Kenneth McCoy, Robert Lees, George Zinn, Roger Fitch, William Kaake and Walter Jacques.

Other chairpersons are Mrs. John Liston, graphics, Mrs. Richard Turner, Undercroft decoration, Mrs. Arthur Smith, treasurer, Mrs. Bruce Regan, volunteers, and Mrs. Richard Ralph, hospitality. Mrs. George Hawkins is current president of the Christ Church ECW, which traditionally spends the monies it earns outside the parish church.

Past recipients of Christ Church, Grosse Pointe, ECW donations and grants include Adult Service Centers, World Medical Relief, Focus: HOPE, the Whitaker School of Theology, Services for Older Citizens, the Summer Camping Program of the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan, People in Faith United, Mariners' Inn and Crossroads. Others are the National Cathedral Association, Cathedral Terrace, St. Christopher's House, Camp Happy Hollow and the Student Chaplaincy Programs at Wayne and Michigan State Universities.

And While We're on The Subject...

... of holiday sales/marts/bazaars, be advised that a Very Special One is scheduled for next Wednesday, Dec. 5, from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Grosse Pointe Artists Association members Chloe Boehm, Bette Prudden and Nancy Proffit will be hosting the Third Annual Christmas Open House at their Art Studio, Morang at Somerset in Detroit, where the public is invited to watch demonstrations in portraiture, silk-screen printing and watercolor.

Single sitting portraits in charcoal, pastels and oils are available at prices ranging from $20 to $45. Christmas pottery by local artists, drawings, paintings and silk-screened gift wrap and tags will be for sale. There'll be refreshments, and prizes.

This weekend's holiday marts include the Macomb YWCA's Holiday Boutique, offering Christmas crafts and refreshments from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 1, at St. Gabriel's Church, located on Stephens in East Detroit, and an Arts and Crafts Fair featuring over 100 exhibitors at Regina High School, sponsored by the Regina Mothers Guild, running from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 2, and including refreshments, a bake sale and a boutique.

De La Salle Collegiate's Olde Tyme Christmas Street of Shoppes presents approximately 150 artisans and dealers Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., at De La Salle Collegiate High School, located on Common Road, between Schoenherr and Groesbeck, in Warren. Breakfast with Santa from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday offers sausage and all-you-can-eat pancakes at $3 for adults, $1.75 for children.

The Holy Cross Hospital Auxiliary's Christmas Boutique opens Saturday and will continue through Wednesday, Dec. 5, at the hospital on East Outer Drive in Detroit. Sale hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Wednesday. Ten special items, including a Christmas money tree, will be awarded to prize ticket holders at 3 p.m. on the boutique's final day.

We KNOW we haven't mentioned anything about Santa's Attic, the Christmas Craft Fair at St. Paul's School, or Trinkets & Treasures, the St. Ambrose Christmas Fair, but that's because they're "covered," with their own pictures and articles, elsewhere in this week's Second Section. Enough, after all, is enough.

Herbig slated to lead DSO

Gunther Herbig, Music Director of the Detroit Symphony, begins his winter engagement with the orchestra next week with three performances of Elgar's Cello Concerto and the Bruckner Symphony No. 7.

Concerts are Thursday, Dec. 6, at 8 p.m. and Saturday, Dec. 8, at 8:30 p.m. in Ford Auditorium, and Friday, Dec. 7, at 8 p.m. in Orchestra Hall. Tickets, ranging in price from $10 to $19 for the Ford Auditorium concerts, from $10 to $25 for the Orchestra Hall concert, are available at the Ford Auditorium box office (567-1400), Hudson's and all CTC/Ticket World outlets.

Tickets for the DSO Chamber and Orchestra Hall series are also available at Orchestra Hall (833-3709). Group rate information may be obtained by calling 446-0909.

Joining Maestro Herbig for these performances will be cellist Lynn Harrell who first came to the attention of the musical world at the age of 18, as the youngest principal musician ever in the Cleveland Orchestra. Since then, he has become an outstanding orchestral soloist, recitalist and recording artist. He is considered one of this country's and the world's finest instrumentalists.

Jeff Johnston to claim bride

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Rhoton, of Seoul, Korea, formerly of Rochester, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Kathy A. Rhoton, to Jeff Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Johnston, of Allard Avenue. The wedding is planned for next May.

The bride-elect, graduated from Western Michigan University with a Bachelor of Science degree, is currently a manager/buyer in Hancock. Her fiance is completing his last year at Michigan Technological University, studying for a degree in Mechanical Engineering.

He played four years on his college hockey team and two years' professional hockey in Kalamazoo.

Vows spoken in The West

Emily Criegh, daughter of Mrs. Bonnie Criegh, of Tucson, Ariz., and Theodore DiSante, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick DiSante, of Greenbriar Lane, exchanged marriage vows Saturday, November 10, in Tucson.

October rites in The Pointe

Kathleen Gail McCann designed and sewed the full length gown of white satin she wore for the Saturday, October 27, ceremony in Saint James Lutheran Church at which she and James Bernard Moran exchanged marriage vows. The dress featured a dropped waist and leg-of-mutton sleeves. Lace from her mother's wedding gown, and pearls, accented the bodice and sleeves.

Pearls also accented the wreath of white silk flowers that held her bridal veil. She carried a cascade of white royal orchids, yellow Sweetheart roses and baby's-breath.

The 6 o'clock ceremony at which The Reverend Robert Rimbo, assisted by Father Jay Samonie, of Most Holy Trinity Church, presided was followed by a reception at London House East. Special readings during the service were given by Thomas Moran, the bridegroom's brother, and P. Brian McCann, the bride's brother.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred McCann, of Lincoln Road, also sewed the full length, two-piece dresses of cornflower blue crepe de chine worn by her attendants: honor matron Laura Simms and bridesmaids Rebecca Smith, a cousin, and the bridegroom's sisters, Mary Elizabeth Sivalleli and Patricia Swanson, of Chicago.

Bows accented their shoulders. They carried Colonial bouquets of white daisies, blue carnations and baby's-breath.

Flower girl Angella Sivalleli, the bridegroom's niece, carried white daisies, blue carnations, a yellow rose and baby's-breath. She, too, wore a full length dress of cornflower blue crepe de chine that had been sewn by the bride. It was satin-sashed, accented with white eyelet lace and hemmed with a ruffle accented with silk flowers.

Mr. Moran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moran, of Harvard Road, Detroit, asked Anthony Cilluffo to act as best man. Guests were seated by Steven McCann, the bride's brother, L. Martin Moran, the bridegroom's brother, and Daniel Keelan. Ring bearer was Michael Swanson II, the bridegroom's nephew.

The bride's mother wore a full length gown of peach chiffon, styled with a white lace bodice and sashed in satin. Her flowers were white royal orchids. The bridegroom's mother, in a cocktail length gown of mauve chiffon, selected gardenias.

Special guests included the

Kathleen McCann and James B. Moran

bridegroom's maternal grandfather, Edward Nowak, of The Woods, the bride's maternal grandparents, Delores and Ellery Smith, of St. Clair Shores, and her paternal grandmother, Ethel King, of Port Richey, Fla.

The newlyweds vacationed in northern Michigan. They are at home on Beaconsfield Avenue in The Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Kerbel

Miss Fuqua wed in May

The wedding of Elizabeth Jean Fuqua and Howard Michael Kerbel Sunday, May 27, in Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church was followed by a reception at the Detroit Boat Club. The Reverend Peter C. Smith and Rabbi Richard Weiss presided at the 4 o'clock ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Jean B. Fuqua, of The Farms, and the late James M. Fuqua, wore an Edwardian style gown of ivory satin and Alencon lace, fashioned with a chapel train. Her lace-bordered, fingertip veil fell from a lace Juliet cap.

She carried an arrangement of white roses and stephanotis, and was escorted down the aisle by her brother, Samuel A. Fuqua.

Honor attendant Meg Edmondson and bridesmaids Jill Chapman and Terry and Karyn Eppler, in dresses of sky blue polished cotton styled with horizontally pleated cap sleeves and scalloped, front-dropped waists, carried Colonial bouquets of pink miniature carnations, bachelor buttons and baby's-breath.

David Kerbel acted as best man for his brother. They are the sons of Joan Kerbel, of Easton, Pa. Usher-ing were James M. Fuqua Jr., the bride's brother, Eric Dzenis, of Easton, and Mark Tyler, a college friend of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride, escorted by her youngest son, David O. Fuqua, wore a floor length dress of pale blue, tiered chiffon and a corsage of white roses. The bridegroom's mother chose a long-sleeved, princess style gown, also pale blue in color, and a white orchid corsage.

The newlyweds vacationed on St. Maarten in the Netherlands Antilles. They are at home in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's great-aunts, Florence Winger and Rilla Bergman, both of Chicago, and her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Warren F. Fuqua, of LaHabra, Calif. More were the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sher, of Easton, and his great-aunts, Mrs. William Smolow, of Easton, Mrs. Sol Gitkind, of Forest Hills, N.Y., and Mrs. George Applebaum, of Philadelphia.

Miss Sutton to say vows

February wedding plans are being made by Barbara Ann Sutton and David A. Watson whose engagement has been announced by her mother, Mrs. Robert J. Sutton, of Mount Vernon Road. The wedding will take place at Saint Mark's Episcopal Cathedral in Salt Lake City.

Miss Sutton, who is also the daughter of the late Mr. Sutton, was graduated from Grosse Pointe South High School and holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Nursing from Northern Michigan University. She is an industrial nurse for the Hercules Aerospace Plant in Salt Lake City.

Mr. Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh H. Watson Jr., of Tulsa, Okla., was graduated from Oklahoma State University with a Bachelor of Science degree in Geology. He is employed by Cities Service Oil and Gas Corporation in Denver, Colo.

Judy Bidigare

Plan to wed in January

Early January wedding plans are being made by Judy Bidigare and Timothy Freeland whose engagement has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Bidigare, of Blairmoor Court.

Both the bride-elect and her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Freeland, of Hollywood Avenue, Harper Woods, are Grosse Pointe North High School graduates. He is attending Wayne State University.

Christmas is festival time for Musicales

Tuesday Musicales of Detroit will once again usher in the festive season with its annual Christmas Festival of Music. Featured next Tuesday, Dec. 4, at 10:30 a.m. at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church will be the celebrated organists Marilyn Mason and Michele Johns.

Also performing will be Patricia Terry-Ross, harpist, Earnestine Nimmons, soprano, and The Tuesday Musicales Choral Ensemble under the direction of Mary Pardee, who is also serving as chairman of the day under Catherine Goodsell, general program chairman.

Frances Wilson will accompany the ensemble. Choral soloists will include Ida Tassos and Denyse Singelyn, sopranos.

Members of the Choral Ensemble, in addition to Ida and Denyse, are Dorothy Allyn, Mildred Burt, Carolyn Clark, Ann Clock, Louise Dexter, Margaret Irwin, Jean Ground, Louise Hough, Lois Johns, Margaret Lindner, Patricia McKeever, Carolyn Metting, Patricia Nelson, Lorena Newton, Mary Ann Pilete, Agnes Ricard, Joanne Socher, Mary Jane Starnes, Eleanor Vandale, Rita Vermilion, Shirley Waroe and Bonnie Westoff.

The program includes "Noel" by McLennan and the processional carol "Torches" by Joubert, plus music by Pergolesi, Randal Thompson, Dickinson, Kirke Mechem and Roy Harris, with organ music by Bach and Antonio Soler, works for the harp by Salzedo and Britten and "Songs of the Hebrides" by Marjory Kennedy-Fraser.

Per tradition, the Christmas concert will be followed by a subscription luncheon in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Crystal Ballroom, overlooking Lake St. Clair. Tables will be decorated with poinsettias and gold ribbon under the direction of Mrs. John Nolan, social chairman, who is being assisted by a committee including Mrs. William Bundesen, Mrs. Arnold Lungershausen, Mrs. John McMullen and Mrs. Joseph Shaheen.

The committee of hostesses greeting the guests, chaired by Mrs. Winfield S. Jewell Jr., will include Mrs. E.W. Allison, Mrs. John Trute, Mrs. Kim K. Lie and former Tuesday Musicales presidents Mrs. Eugene T. Ignasiak, Mrs. Burt E. Taylor Jr. and Mrs. Russell H. Skitch, M.B.E.

Reservations are being taken by Mrs. Rose Lee Tyler and Mrs. Shaheen, who will also conduct the carol sing-a-long.

'Santa Haus' offers treats for all elves

Grosse Pointe's Santa Haus, located at 147 Lakeshore Road (after Christmas, it reverts to being the Saint Paul's-on-the-Lake Parish House) offers metropolitan Detroit youngsters a Christmas fantasy experience via a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Claus' own home, decked with sparkling lights, trees and wreaths.

There are animated elves in the workshop and Santa and his wife, in person, in the living room, waiting to greet each little guest. The children can munch a cookie and sip juice after they make their Christmas Eve delivery requests.

For older elves, a visit to the Christmas Unique Boutique with its myriad original gifts and decorations is a must. There are miniature wreaths of eucalyptus and tiny flowers, frilly and portable doll beds, colorful lunch totes and teddy bears in brass buggies among the boutique's "Made in Michigan" keepsakes and presents.

Admission to the shop is free during Santa Haus hours: 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays through Dec. 19; noon to 4 p.m. the weekend of Dec. 15 and 16; 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday and Friday evenings, Dec. 13 and 14, and Monday and Tuesday evenings, Dec. 17 and 18.

Admission to the Haus is $1.50. Groups, such as pre-school, nursery and elementary schools, can make reservations by calling 824-8000 and arranging for a specific time. Individuals are welcome whenever the Clauses are at home. Kids should plan to bring a little extra spending money along, for the Haus boasts a special Kids Counter stocked with under $3 gifts for family and friends.

There is plenty of parking, and it's easily accessible. Elves-General Kris and Kathy have had lots of assistance on the project. Among their battery of seasoned volunteers are Decorations Wizard Cheryl Waldeck and Ellen Cooke and Sandra Seale, Group and Schedule Gnomes, respectively.

Linda DiLaura and Beth Moran are in charge of the boutique. Lester and Lorraine Deck head the Claus Volunteer Corps.

Santa Haus is a project of the Assistance League to the Northeast Guidance Center, which makes it more than a unique treat for the youngsters of metropolitan Detroit. Santa Haus proceeds directly benefit the NEG's mental and emotional health services to residents of Grosse Pointe, Harper Woods and Northeast Detroit.

Additional information on Santa Haus may be obtained by calling 824-8000.

Teach ballet to all ages

Classical ballet instructor Mary Ellen Cooper begins a new session of classes the week of Dec. 3 at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. She is accepting students ages 5 through adult who, after an interview, will be assigned to groups according to their age and ability.

The emphasis in each class will be on body placement and development of improved coordination through basic combinations and patterns. Miss Cooper is a senior examiner for the Cecchetti Council of America and holds an advanced certificate from the Cecchetti branch in London, England. Fee for the 11-week session is $40. Those interested in joining the War Memorial's Corps de Ballet are invited to call 881-7511 for further information.

Busy month for Phase I

December is traditionally a busy month for members of Phase I, the single, young adults, ages 25 through 40, who gather regularly for Sunday evening program meetings at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

Activities begin this Saturday, Dec. 1, at 7 p.m., at the Shores Theatre, where Phase I has reserved the private viewing room. Following the movie, the group will go on to the Lido on Jefferson Avenue for an afterglow. Those interested in car pooling should meet at the Memorial Church lot at 6:30 p.m. or before.

Dwight Gall, director of Bon Secours Hospital's recently opened Health and Fitness Center, will outline "Starting an Exercise Program" at Phase I's meeting this Sunday, Dec. 2, at 7:45 p.m. at the church. He promises a slide presentation and discussion of various exercises to fit individual needs.

A Phase I group will meet at the church at 6 p.m. next Wednesday, Dec. 5, to form car pools, then head "downtown" for Noel Night at the University/Cultural Center.

Hold holiday open house

The Detroit Garden Center, located in historic Moross House on East Jefferson Avenue, a few blocks from Renaissance Center, welcomes visitors to its annual holiday open house, "A Christmas Sampler," this Saturday, Dec. 1, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Sunday, Dec. 2, from noon to 4 p.m.

Antique samplers from the Detroit Historical Museum will be featured, along with traditional holiday arrangements, throughout the rooms of Detroit's oldest brick house. Its parlor is furnished in 1850 period decor.

This year's Christmas decorations have been done by the Harper

Woods Garden Club, the Indian Village Women's Farm and Garden Club, the Indian Village Men's Garden Club and friends of the Detroit Garden Center.

Open house visitors will find the DGC's Upstairs Shop stocked with items for tree decorating and gift giving. Admission to Moross House is free — although donations are appreciated — and free parking is available. Further information may be obtained by calling 259-6363.

Regular tours of Moross House will be held Tuesday, Dec. 11, from 1 to 3 p.m.

Pointer of Interest

By Peggy O'Connor

Mary Flannery Tulloch remembers the incident vividly. Her father had taken her and her sisters to the circus where they sat in seats close to the action. Young Mary was overwhelmed by the size of the huge elephants which performed just a few feet from her, but she knew she couldn't show her fear and risk frightening her younger sisters.

"I was terrified. My dad saw that, and he very patiently pointed out to me how gentle the elephants were, how gracefully they moved despite the fact that they were so large. I watched and became fascinated with them... and I've been that way ever since.

Has she ever! Mary Tulloch's fear gave way to the compilation of a collection of elephants that would put Ringling Brothers to shame. Not real, mind you, but pewter, wood, brass, crystal, straw and ceramic. Not merely pictures of pachyderms, but prints, wall hangings, planters, picture frames, coffee cups, cake pans... even a family heirloom Holy Water font — all in some way, shape or form, elephants.

The most amazing of these treasures is a tiny wooden bead from India, no bigger than a pea, upon which 12 elephants have been carved by hand.

Mary Tulloch's elephant collection is only one reflection of this many-faceted lady's personality. She plays tennis and bridge, loves to travel (in search of elephants, no doubt) and has for many years devoted her time and energy to whatever group, or person, needs her.

AT FIRST IT was Dr. John Tulloch, an obstetrician/gynecologist on staff at St. John, Bon Secours and Harper Hospitals. They've been married for over 30 years, since before Dr. Tulloch started medical school at the University of Michigan.

Then it was four Tulloch children — Mary Elizabeth, twins John and Patricia and Monica — who needed Mary. Mary Elizabeth is now a Western Michigan University graduate who works as an ultrasound technician for her father. John, another U of M alumnus, lives in Virginia and works in Washington, D.C. Patricia is Patricia Cann, a Siena Heights graduate who works part time at St. John Hospital as a nurse assistant and is the mother of the Tullochs' first grandchild, a nine-month-old redhead named Jeffrey Hunter Cann Jr. The youngest Tulloch, Monica, is a student at Macomb County Community College.

With little Jeffrey in the picture, Mary Tulloch is "very definitely" a babysitting grandmother. But even rambunctious redheaded grandsons who are the apples of their grandmothers' eyes sometimes take a backseat... when their grandmothers are as busy and involved as Mary Tulloch.

Mary was one of the St. Paul School Teacher Parent Guild's founders. That was back when all four Tulloch children went to grade school at St. Paul. By the time high school rolled around, Mary had one at Austin, one at Our Lady Star of the Sea and another at Grosse Pointe South.

"It was kind of a challenge... I went to many meetings. I'll say that," Mary laughs. She has fond memories of St. Paul, having worked long and hard as a school parent. She's a member of the St. Paul's Altar Society, a life member of the League of Catholic Women and the Christ Child Society. She also belongs to the Bon Secours Assistance League, Wayne County Medical Society Auxiliary, the Harper Hospital Auxiliary and the Fontbonne Auxiliary.

IT'S FONTBONNE that's earning most of Mary's attention these days. She's chairman of that group's 31st annual White Christmas Ball, set for Saturday, Dec. 8, at the Country Club of Detroit. This year's theme is "An Old-Fashioned Christmas." Proceeds from the event will go toward the renovation of St. John Hospital, including the provision of 35 psychiatric beds.

St. John Hospital has a special place in Mary Tulloch's heart. "I received excellent care there, and I remembered that when a friend asked me to join Fontbonne. I've been with the group for 15 years, and enjoyed it.

"Working with an auxiliary means helping people who really need you, whether that involves having a smile on your face for someone who's lonely or just giving people what they need. Of course, being married to a doctor, a hospital is a place where I like to give my time," she says.

Mary has been involved with the White Christmas Ball for many years. "I don't want to stop helping now, either. Every year, the Ball is different and more exciting. What I've found as chairman is that the committees make working on a project like this so wonderful.

"Everybody has worked so hard." The fruit of their labor, Mary says, will be what she calls a "fun and exciting evening." The White Christmas Ball begins with cocktails and hors d'oeuvres at 7 p.m., with background music provided by University Liggett School carolers. Dinner at 8:30 p.m. will be followed by dancing to the music of the Meyer Davis Orchestra. Ticket information may be obtained through the Fontbonne Office, 343-3675.

"We want people to get their money in and not be disappointed. Last year, we had so many people we had to cut off ticket sales," Mary says.

"I THINK IT'S going to be fun. It's the beginning of the Christmas holidays and people aren't tired yet. It's a night when everyone can get all dressed up and have a good time. And when you attend the ball, you know you're doing something worthwhile, something fulfilling."

Like Mary Tulloch does. But even Mary doesn't work all the time. She spent this past summer growing herbs, fruits and vegetables in her garden and looks forward to using those homegrown herbs in her holiday cooking. She and Dr. Tulloch will head down to Florida for a brief vacation after the White Christmas Ball. They have planned a trip by car through Ireland and Scotland next spring.

Right now, though, what Mary wants most is to let people know they are "welcome to come to the ball."

"We'd really like people to think about coming. We're very excited about raising money for the wonderful new psychiatric bed program at St. John's."

Mary Tulloch should be forgiven if it seems all she can talk about these days is the White Christmas Ball. Mary, you see, like the elephants she loves, never forgets. She remembers the kind of care she once received at St. John's. This is her chance to say "thanks."

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — collection of Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth featuring, this week, a variety of OLD-TIME FAVORITES.

SPIKED HUNGARIAN GOULASH

1 1/2 lbs. very lean stew beef, cut into 1-inch cubes
1 cup cooking burgundy
1 large onion, finely chopped
1 Tbsp. margarine
1/2 cup water
1 tsp. sweet paprika
1 tsp. caraway seeds, crushed
Dash marjoram (optional)
2 cloves garlic, skewered on toothpicks
2 cans (10 1/2 oz. each) beef broth
3 small peeled tomatoes
1 green pepper, cut in strips
2 lbs. potatoes, peeled and cut into 1-inch cubes

Trim all fat from beef cubes; place in bowl and pour the burgundy over them. Let stand about 2 or 3 hours at room temperature, stirring occasionally to coat the meat well.

In large Dutch oven, cook onion in margarine 3 to 5 minutes, or until softened; remove from pan. Drain beef cubes (save wine refrigerated in jar to be used again) and saute in skillet until well-browned on all sides, stirring often; remove from pan.

Pour 1/2 cup water into pan, stirring and scraping to loosen browned particles. Stir in paprika, caraway seeds and dash of marjoram (if desired). Return onions and beef to pot; add garlic and beef broth. Add pan mixture. Simmer, covered, 1 hour.

Stir in tomatoes and green pepper. Continue cooking 1/2 hour; add potatoes and boiling water to almost cover. Continue cooking about 25 minutes, partially covered, until potatoes are tender. Correct seasonings. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Calories for 6 servings about 300. Cholesterol for 6 servings 70 mgs.

SAN FRANCISCO TREAT

1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach
3/4 lb. lean ground beef
1 large onion, chopped
1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced
1 tsp. lemon-pepper seasoning
1/2 tsp. fines herbs
1/4 tsp. oregano
1 cup Egg Beaters, well beaten
1/2 cup shredded Lite-Line cheese

Pour boiling water over spinach. Let stand 10 minutes, then drain and cut into small cubes. Brown ground beef and onion in 9-inch skillet. Add sliced fresh mushrooms, spinach, lemon-pepper, fines herbs and oregano. Cook, stirring, five minutes.

Stir in well beaten "eggs." Continue cooking just until eggs are set, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat. Sprinkle with shredded cheese; toss lightly. Serve at once with Toasted Parmesan French Bread. Makes 4 servings.

Calories per serving about 266. Cholesterol about 63 mgs.

TOASTED PARMESAN FRENCH BREAD

Toast slices of bread under broiler lightly on one side. Turn, spread with margarine and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Return to broiler until browned.

CABBAGE HEAD FILLED WITH GREEN NOODLES

1 large head of cabbage
4 Tbsp. unsalted margarine, divided
1 cup diced celery
1/4 tsp. Vege-Sal
8 oz. medium green noodles
3 Tbsp. poppy seeds
1/2 cup minced dehydrated onions, toasted

Scoop out cabbage head leaving a wall 1-inch thick. Tie strings around outside of cabbage to keep it from falling apart. Steam until crisp-tender, about 4 to 5 minutes. Drain very thoroughly. Cool before cutting the binding strings.

Chop the cabbage which was removed in scooping out the head. In large, heavy skillet, melt 1 Tbsp. margarine and stir-fry the cabbage and celery until crisp-tender. Season with Vege-Sal. Cook the noodles according to package directions until fairly tender. Drain and toss with 3 Tbsp. margarine and poppy seeds.

Toss noodles and stir-fried cabbage together and fill the cooked cabbage head with the mixture. Sprinkle with minced dehydrated onions which have been toasted until very crisp. Makes 8 to 10 servings. Calories — very low. Cholesterol 0.

Joyeux Noel at Meadow Brook Hall

Special displays of "santons" set the French theme for "Joyeux Noel: Christmas with a French Flair" at Meadow Brook Hall on the Rochester campus of Oakland University, open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily through Sunday, Dec. 9, with the exception of next Wednesday, Dec. 5, when the Hall will remain open until 9 p.m.

General admission is $5 weekdays, $6 Saturdays and Sundays. Adults over 64, children and students 19 and under will be admitted for $4. Group rates for 20 or more at $4 per person are available by advance reservation only. Information may be obtained by calling 377-3140.

Chairing the annual Christmas Walk at Meadow Brook this year are Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Dewar, of Bloomfield Hills, and Mr. and Mrs. Mort Crim, of Grosse Pointe. Among the many committee members assisting them are two Pointe residents, Richard Goodyear and David P. Williams.

"Santons" ("little saints"), dating back hundreds of years and introduced to France in the late 1700s, are small, terra cotta or porcelain figures shaped and painted to represent French villagers. These tiny basket-makers, lamplighters, chimney sweeps, shepherds et al are used in French homes as part of the traditional creche scene.

Figures in the Meadow Brook display were made in Provence, the center for this unique art in France.

Forty-one floral designers and special exhibitors have created their own individual interpretations of the French theme, filling the 100-room mansion, built in the late 1920s at a cost of $4 million by the widow of auto pioneer John Dodge, with holiday decorations and displays.

All time, materials and talents are donated in support of Meadow Brook Hall. The Hall's Volunteer Floral Committee decorates areas that are not included in florist and exhibitor areas. Each year, thousands of visitors from Michigan, the surrounding states and Canada attend the Meadow Brook Christmas event. It is a major source of revenue for preservation and maintenance of the historic home, now used as an Oakland University cultural and conference facility.

The Hall receives no operating funds from the university, supporting itself via tours, conferences and meetings, special programs and donations.

Santa Claus also visits Meadow Brook during the Christmas Walk, making his home at Knole Cottage, a six-room mini-mansion playhouse. Admission to the cottage, decorated for Santa's stay, is $1 per person.

Admission to the Meadow Brook estate greenhouse, also open for tours during "Joyeux Noel," is 50 cents. Food service is available in the Carriage House. Gift items are sold in rooms of the Hall's staff quarters.

Special patrons' dinners tonight, Thursday, Nov. 29, Friday, Nov. 30, and Saturday, Dec. 1, are also open to the public, by reservation on a first-come basis, at $100 per person. They include hors d'oeuvres and cocktails served before the fireplace in the Great Hall beginning at 7:30 p.m., followed by candlelight dining in rooms throughout the Hall.

Sports Week

Major league myth-dismissing . . .

Hockey season is here and since I think hockey is the world's most misunderstood sport with the possible exception of the off (golf where you throw the ball instead of hit it) I think it's time for a little myth-dismissing (say that very fast, five times). Some myth-dismissing music, maestro . . .

TEN COMMON HOCKEY MYTHS

1. You have to play the game to really understand it.

Tell that to Scotty Bowman. He's the coach of the Buffalo Sabres and a top authority on hockey (right after me). I think he played pro hockey for about six minutes, yet wound up becoming the winningest coach in the National Hockey League.

I've been told that I can't know anything about the game since I didn't play it. Okay, so I was never a Squirt or a Pee Wee. I once let myself get talked into playing hockey with a women's team in Oak Park. I lasted until a very big, very healthy woman named Inga smashed me into the boards like Julia Child crushes garlic. Then I quit. If that's not hockey-smart, I don't know what is.

2. Hockey is a team game, not a game of individuals.

Then why does NHL superstar Wayne Gretzky's name appear individually 14 times in every hockey box score ever printed? And why doesn't anybody ever remember the names of the other guys on Gretzky's team? Does he even have a team anymore? It's the individuals who make the team. Just ask Gretzky.

3. Hockey is too complicated.

Sure it is, if a person considers a game in which men on skates, holding sticks, propel a rubber object along the ice and into a net for a point and try to keep the opponent from doing the same thing, complicated. Okay, so there are rules prohibiting certain plays, but nothing a person who doesn't need a recipe to make ice cubes wouldn't understand.

4. Hockey is a brutal game.

Sometimes hockey players fight. The speed and close contact of the game occasionally makes for frustrating situations which some hockey players vent by beating other hockey players senseless. Strangely enough, this rarely happens in youth, high school or collegiate games, which are well-controlled to avoid this sort of thing. This should give you some insight into the adult men who play pro hockey.

Also, hockey players seldom end up paralyzed from the neck down, the way many pro football players have. And never has a hockey player thrown a puck 100 miles per hour at an opponent's head, the way some baseball players have been known to pitch a baseball. So I guess it all depends on your definition of brutal.

5. Hockey fans are crazy.

I'm not sure I can dismiss this myth easily, even if I wanted to. Let's just say that hockey fans — who have been known to chant obscenities, attack referees, rock opponent's buses, spit at each other, throw chairs, wear bags or masks over their heads, bring class action suits against their teams, pull their kids out of a youth program because the 7 year-old didn't get enough ice time, give 15-minute standing ovations to retiring stars and wait in line for playoff tickets for 48 hours in sub-zero temperatures — have personalities which fall somewhere between that of Norman Bates and a Nicaraguan guerilla. But they're not crazy.

6. Hockey was invented in Canada.

Canadians popularized the game, of that there is little doubt. But hockey historians believe that it was actually the Native American — an Indian — who invented the game. It seems that hockey was quite the rage among North American Indians . . . until the Aztecs wanted to start an expansion team and the leaders of the Original Six Teams, uh, Tribes, preferred no hockey to watered-down hockey and they stopped playing the game. Hockey was not played again in North America until the late 1800s, when former Detroit Red Wing player, Gordie Howe, first played.

7. Hockey is enjoyed by men only.

Hockey is enjoyed by a universally diverse group of people. Men, women, boys and girls alike enjoy the sport. Actress Susan Saint James is a hockey fan. So are former Detroit Tiger players Jason Thompson and Richie Hebner. About 75 percent of the Grosse Pointe boys under 14 have played it. There are girls in the Grosse Pointe Hockey Association.

What does all this mean? I don't know, but I do know that if hockey was just for men, they wouldn't have ladies' rooms in hockey rinks. And that's good enough for me.

8. Hockey doesn't "sell" as a televised sport.

A few years back, NBC experimented with showing hockey on Sunday afternoons. Ted Lindsay, once the most penalized player in the NHL, served as "color man" for the broadcasts, which included an intermission feature called "Peter Puck." In it, a cartoon character who looked like a puck explained the nuances of hockey. NBC dropped the telecasts after a year or two because of poor ratings.

First of all, any sport other than football doesn't get great ratings on Sunday afternoons — and even football isn't doing so hot anymore. People have better things to do on Sundays than watch TV.

Secondly, I don't know about anyone else, but having a cartoon puck careening around the screen yelling "Love that hockey!" and telling me things I already know is an insult to my intelligence. Peter Puck alone probably turned away a few thousand viewers. Why didn't NBC just take for granted that people would watch the game and pick up the details as they went along? And if the fans in the South or the Sun Belt tune out because hockey doesn't hold much meaning for them, let 'em watch Georgia Championship Wrestling.

South, North face new challenge

By Peggy O'Connor

Just how good are the South High varsity hockey Blue Devils this season?

"Pretty good," says their coach, Tim Zimmerman. As good as the Michigan High School Hockey Coaches' Association says they are in its pre-season poll — No. 2 in Class A and No. 3 overall?

"Probably not," Zimmerman admits.

Translate that into somewhere in between, as the Blue Devils return nine lettermen from the 1983-84 team which finished 16-7-2 and won a regional championship. But the Devils will compete in a much-tougher Michigan Metro League in 1984-85, as opposed to last season's independent schedule. And right now, Zimmerman is concerned that his squad hasn't quite come down from the clouds after last year's amazing finish.

"We're terribly overrated. Sure we have the excellent talent, but not a lot has been said about the schedule we face this year. There's no way we can do as well as last year given the tough teams we play," Zimmerman says.

"The two areas I'm really concerned about right now are mental They'll miss the checking of graduated defenseman John Mikesell (far right) but state hockey experts pick South's Blue Devils to be a playoff team, as they were against Bloomfield Andover last season.

toughness and team unity. We don't have them yet."

Zimmerman feels that his Blue Devils may have to combat that feeling of overconfidence and a lack of mental toughness all year. He's also hoping it doesn't take a losing streak to do it.

"Is the league tough? You'd better believe it. We've got Catholic

ULS: a 'good attitude'

By Peggy O'Connor

Despite being few in number and short on experience, the University Liggett School varsity hockey team is heading into its 1984-85 independent schedule with just the right attitude, according to second year coach Rich Lacca.

"They're neat kids. Being as inexperienced as they are, they've all got good attitudes and that's nice to see," Lacca says.

Just three seniors return to the Knights' squad this season from the team which compiled a 2-22 mark in 1983-84. Defensemen John Birgbauer and Jamie McMillan and high scoring senior forward Walter Connolly are the only holdovers from last year's team, and Birgbauer will miss the Knights' first three or four contests with a separated shoulder.

The Knights will not be bench-strong due to a "numbers" problem this year. That means Connolly will center the No. 1 line, then drop back on defense when he's needed.

"We're looking at a very young lineup, lots of ninth and 10th graders," Lacca says. Bob Jewett is ULS's other defenseman. The forward crew consists of Paul Smith, John Petrilli, Gordie Maitland, Mike Gouda, Ted Evans, Doug Avedisian, Brandon Pelok, Mike French and Steve Vreeken. Lacca's goaltenders will be Ed Brady, Steve Stoyka and Jeremy Belenky.

"I think this season will be a growing experience for these boys. We just want to get to the point where the young players — the freshmen and sophomores — are prepared to face the future seasons for ULS," Lacca adds.

Not making matters easy is a difficult independent schedule. "Well, we face North and South, there's two tough ones right there. And Gabriel Richard, they're sort of an unknown, but they look heavy. Ann Arbor Huron will be formidable . . . but then we feel they all will be."

THE KNIGHTS will rely on their skating abilities against those tough opponents. "We're on the smallish side. Skating is our strength, we'll have to beat teams with our quickness," Lacca says.

And despite the odds of his inexperienced squad improving significantly upon last year's mark, Lacca says he looks forward to the 1984-85 season.

"A kid like Maitland — only a freshman — he epitomizes what we're trying to build here. He's a kid who has played travel hockey for years, but needs to develop the style of high school play. We're hoping for more kids like that and maybe in a couple of years, we'll be right into the swing of things again.

"But at least by the end of this season, we'll know right where we stand with this team."

DeBoer sets record

South High graduate John DeBoer set a Central Michigan University record for the most touchdown receptions in a season and tied a career mark in the Chippewas' 51-7 win over Ball State Nov. 10.

The senior split end caught scoring passes of 42 and 57 yards, bringing his season total to nine, surpassing Greg Hoefler's mark of eight set in 1966. DeBoer tied Hoefler's mark of 15 career TD catches.

Bevier ends CMU career

South High graduate Mike Bevier finished his Central Michigan University football career in CMU's 14-7 loss to Toledo on Nov. 17. Bevier had 19 tackles in the game. He also had five interceptions in his career with the Chippewas.

Pierce cagers play well in '84

Pierce Middle School's girls' basketball teams finished their seasons with winning records. The seventh grade girls ended with a 7-5 record, finishing the second half of the season 5-1.

Seventh grade scoring leaders were Laurel Wolfe and Liz Liebold. Liz Liebold was also the leading rebounder. Jennifer Barber was selected most improved player and Darcy Jones was chosen as Most Valuable Player. Other players on the team were Audra Allen, Leslie Greenfield, Christy Lorenz, Holly Nixon, Jen Severn, and Becky Wysocki.

The eighth grade girls tied with L'Anse Creuse South's team at 10-2 for the league's lead. Pierce's co-captain and most valuable player, Heather Adragna, lead the team in scoring and rebounding. Co-captain Katie Bruch, most improved player, lead the team in steals and assists.

Other starters were Megan Nelson, Sarah Veriinden and Marlinda Wilcher. Bench support came from Lori VanTassel, Lorri Geist, Dana Paull, Amy Hathaway, Maya Davis, Amy Steben, Gerilyn Bocci and Rosalie Corrado.

Brownell ends year with wins

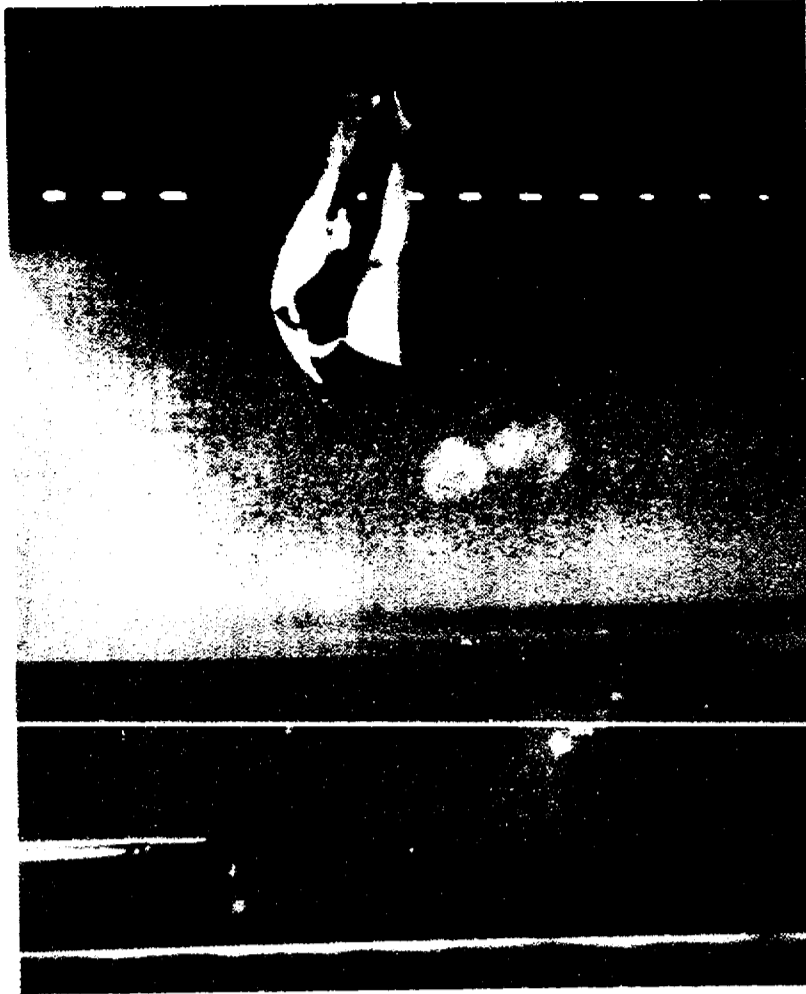

Brownell's seventh grade girls' basketball team finished its season on a high note, beating Fraser Richards, 21-18, and South Lake, 18-13. Christina Thomas was leading scorer in both games, with 10 and 11 points, respectively.

Marg Begg and Katie Kolp played outstanding for Brownell as did Jenny Pierce, who made three key free throws to ice the Brownell victory against South Lake.

Other members of the seventh grade squad this year were Amy

Bell, Rita Blondell, Jenny Boyd, Marnie Lackey, Sara Liliensiek, Amy Osborne, Sara Peslar, Pam Van Hampier and Amy Wheeler. The squad was coached by Chris Rialicki and managed by Andy Cox.

Brownell's eighth grade girls' team included Heidi Cartwright, Aimee Caswell, Julie Dansberry, Laura Demercurio, Lindsay Haddad, Wendy Hill, Leigh Leonard and Kristin Peslar. Paul Pellerito coached the girls; Patrick Wright was team manager.

North's Ellen Nelson, executing a reverse pike dive.

North diver improves

North High's sophomore diving sensation Ellen Nelson has racked up a 10-2 dual meet mark so far this season and is headed for regional and possible state diving competition.

Nelson started her diving career last season as a freshman under the tutelage of coach Don David. Since then, she has added four new high degree of difficulty dives to her repertoire. The new dives and her consistent performances enabled Nelson to take seventh place at the Michigan Interscholastic Swim Coaches' Association Swimming and Diving Championship Meet in October at the University of Michigan.

The competition there was the accumulation of the best divers in Michigan from both Class A and Class B schools. Nelson's high meet score this season has been a 204.50.

Pushing Nelson for the top North spot is teammate Patty Roustemis, a freshman who is improving at an astounding rate according to coach David. Her six-dive high score this year was 174.60. "Patty started diving with me as an eighth grader and has done an excellent job for North," coach David says.

Both Nelson and Roustemis have won their varsity letters this year. At the Bi-County championships, Nelson put on a crowd-pleasing performance and beat Lakeview's No. 1 diver, Sherry Dalton, who last year was beating Nelson with considerable ease. Nelson won the league diving championship's gold medal with an impressive score of 371.75, the second highest total in Bi-County history. (Annie Attar of North set the record of 406.45 in 1983).

Roustemis took the third place medal with an outstanding performance; she also qualified for the regional meet. According to David, who coaches both North and South divers, Nelson and Roustemis have good chances to qualify for the state finals this weekend, with Nelson perhaps competing against rival South diver Allison Crissman in the medal rounds.

Cage title for North

By Bill Hoover
North High

North's 1984 girls' varsity basketball season has been a successful one, with the team winning the Bi-County Championship.

Achieving this honor was no easy task. Coach Gary Bennett called the Nov. 6 game against the Clintondale Dragons "the turning point in the league." The Dragons came in with only one league loss and that was to North. When Coach Bennett told the girls that it was a "must win situation," they came through with an impressive 49-32 win. This put the girls in position to capture the League Championship which they did when they defeated L'Anse Creuse 40-29 at L'Anse Creuse.

Coach Bennett told the girls: "The joy of anything is working at it." This year's team showed benefits of that work, allowing only 31 points per game and achieving a record of 13 straight wins.

Early season goals included being undefeated in the Bi-County, winning the District Championship, and maintaining toughest pre-league schedule possible.

North's second goal, to win the District Championship, was the most challenging because of the teams involved. With Regina, Bishop Gallagher and North this may be the toughest district in the state. Winning the District Chamampionship would be a sweet victory since no girls' basketball team at North has ever won such a title.

But North lost to Gallagher in the Districts, 55-31.

To satisfy the third goal, Tom Gauerke, North's Athletic Director, and Coach Bennett scheduled pre-league games with the likes of Regina, Bishop Gallagher and Warren Woods/Tower. The object was not necessarily to win but, more importantly, to get the experience and prove North can play with teams of that caliber. North showed that it could by falling only seven points short to Regina and by defeating a Warren Woods/Tower team which just one year before had advanced to regionals in the state playoffs.

The Warren Woods/Tower game typified the kind of determination the North team plays with. The game was close; and midway through the second half, Celeste Sartor had to leave when she injured her ankle. At that point, the team could have given up but the girls pulled together to build up a 10-point lead, winning 29-34.

North's team members are not only talented but, along with the coach, are super people. Coach Bennett sums it up best when he says, "They are great kids and a pleasure to work with. I have a lot of respect for all of them."

St. Clare wins cage tourney

St. Clare of Montefalco's girls' varsity basketball team won three straight games last week enroute to the championship of a Thanksgiving pre-season tournament. The east-side area tourney was hosted by Detroit Assumption Grotto School.

In the first round, every St. Clare player saw action as the Falcons beat Detroit Holy Redeemer, 21-7. Chris Schulte was high scorer with six points; Jenny Sparkman, Cece Rettig and Theresa Vitale each contributed four points.

In second round play, St. Clare defeated Assumption Grotto, 23-13.

Vitale and Schulte combined for 14 points.

The championship contest matched St. Clare against Utica St. Lawrence. In a well-played game, St. Clare defeated St. Lawrence, 24-15, to win the tournament title. Rettig scored 10 points and Vitale added another eight. Rettig was named to the tournament's All-Star team.

The regular season begins for all five St. Clare basketball teams this Sunday, Dec. 2, at Detroit Queen of Heaven. St. Clare will host St. Matthew on Sunday, Dec. 9 in the home openers.

ULS Middle School wins

In the sixth annual University Liggett School Thanksgiving Basketball Tournament, held at the Cook Road campus Nov. 23 through 25, Star of the Sea finished as champions with a 43-34 victory over Mount Clemens' St. Mary.

Host University Liggett's Middle School team won the consolation bracket with victories over St. Paul, 32-31, and St. Veronica, 48-20; after losing in the first round to Star of the Sea, 41-28.

ULS was paced by Bill Lucken, Anthony Abiragi, Dike Ajiri and Bucky Drewek, all of whom averaged almost 10 points a game.

Pool supervisor needed

A pool supervisor is needed for the early morning community swimming program in the Grosse Pointe Schools. Applicants must have current advanced lifesaving and C.P.R. certification and must be at least 21 years of age.

Brown plays golf

Michael P. Brown, of the Shores, participated in the 1984 American Junior Classic held at Innisbrook Resort in Tarpon Springs, Fla., Nov. 22 through 25.

The American Junior Classic, sponsored by the American Junior Golf Association, is the premier junior match-play tournament in the country. There were over 1,000 requests to play in this popular event and only 180 invitations extended.

During the event, the American Junior Golf Association recognized its All-American Teams and national players of the year.

GPD-MAJOR MAGICS

The GPD team beat the Major Magics, 5-1, to record its third win of the season. Jamie Bufalino opened the scoring in the first period, assisted by Val Covacha. GPD's Terry Brennan got his first goal on an assist from Weston Norton later in the period.

In the second period, Tim Miller scored GPD's third goal on an assist from Chris Coates. Brennan added another goal. Paul Huebner assisting. Good goaltending by Mark Best and the strong defense of Scott Johns and Jeff Huebner kept the Major Magics off the board until early in the third period when Alex Bieri scored on a shot from the blue line.

RED WINGS-GPD

GPD ran its record to 5-2 with a 3-1 win over the Red Wings. Coates opened the GPD scoring; Kevin Collins drew an assist on the play. The Wings responded late in the period with a goal by Salvaggio from Gibson. Good goaltending by Paul Huebner of GPD and O'Malley of the Red Wings kept the score at 1-1 until Tim Miller converted a Blair Ridder pass to put GPD ahead, 2-1. M.J. Morris salted the game away with a goal late in the period; Bufalino assisting. Johns, Jeff Huebner, Bieri and Timmy Tracey played well on defense.

GPD-FLYERS

GPD topped the Flyers, 5-1. After a scoreless first period, Morris started a four-goal barrage on an assist from J. Huebner. Bufalino followed with a goal to make it 2-0 before the Flyers' Taylor scored twice on breakaways in the final minutes of the period to make it 4-1. Brennan closed the scoring with a goal from the faceoff in the third period. Johns, Gordie Todd and the Collins brothers — Mike and Kevin — were outstanding on defense.

RANGERS-RED WINGS

The Rangers played the Red Wings to a hard-fought 2-2 tie last week. Brian Everham had his first career goal and Phil Descamps added the second tally. Paul Megler played superbly in goal, withstanding a last second charge to preserve the tie.

RANGERS-FLYERS

On Sunday, the Rangers topped the Flyers, 7-1. Ryan Scofield got his first career goal. Mike Hendrie and Descamps had two goals each and Megler and Brian Belanger added one each. Bobby Rahaim played well in goal, shutting down the Flyers' offense.

MAJOR MAGICS-SEALS

Skating, passing and teamwork was the winning combination for the Major Magics' 2-1 win over the Seals. Tim Kimmel opened the scoring for the Seals, Gakstatter assisting. The Magics' Kevin Baskel notched a goal in the second period from Kevin Leoch and Cliff Czerwinski got the winner — his first of the year — on passes from Nate Cook and Chris Dettmar. David Collins and Jeff Kimmel were outstanding in goal.

SEALS-PENGUINS

Great goaltending by Chuckie Schervish led the Seals to a 2-0 victory over the Penguins. Schervish recorded his third shut-out of the season. After a scoreless first period, Geoff Kimmel notched an unassisted goal in the second period. Kimmel added another on a pass from Peter Brown in the third period. Peter Blake, Jay Berger and Doug Semack played well on defense for the Seals. The Penguins' line of David Ferguson, Justin Braun and George Christensen played a strong game. Jonathon Romine played well in goal for the Penguins.

Squirt Division

FLYERS-BLUES

The Flyers strengthened their hold on first place with a 4-0 victory over the Blues. Matt Spicer opened the scoring with a goal, assisted by Robby Wiczorkowski. In the second period, Robby Wiczorkowski scored. Kris Hoglund assisting. Flyer goalie Tom Best kept the Blues off the scoreboard with saves.

on breakaways by Carrier and Chad Yates. The Flyers iced the game in the third period on an unassisted breakaway goal from Hoglund and Andre Emery's first goal of the season; assists went to Scott Wiczorkowski and Geoff Miller. Gary Olson played strong defense for the Flyers. Cook played well for the Blues.

FLYERS-SABRES

The Flyers continued their winning ways with an exciting 3-2 win over the Sabres. Hoglund's breakaway set up by Peter Antonenko opened the scoring. Mike Ugval made it 2-0. Danny Bombich assisting. The Sabres' Gabe Eriksen narrowed the lead to one goal on assists from Bill Cass and Mark Waterman. Hoglund scored again, Ugval assisting, to make it 3-1. The Sabres' Johnny Maycock scored on passes from Bryan Cass and Erik Lindsay. The scoreless third period featured the defensive play and outstanding goaltending of the Flyers' Miller and the Sabres' Steve Wesley.

SABRES-BLACK HAWKS

The Sabres took a 2-1 victory over the Black Hawks. Bill Cass opened the scoring for the Sabres, from Wesley and Garrett Ryan. Wesley made it 2-0 on a pass from Mark Waterman. The Hawks came back with a third period goal from Mike Pitters; Peter Megler assisting. Eriksen held tough in goal for the Sabres, as did Ryan Perkins for the Hawks. Mike Owens, Maycock and Billy Burns played a strong offensive game for the Sabres.

SABRES-RED WINGS

The Sabres took a 3-1 victory over the Wings. Kip Gotfredson opened the scoring on a pass from Geoff Everham. In the second period, Sam Hartson passed the puck to Maycock who flipped it in for a 1-1 tie. A few minutes later, Ryan scored an unassisted breakaway to give the Sabres a 2-1 lead. Mike Owens converted a Wesley pass to close the scoring at 3-1. Eriksen played well in goal for the Sabres; Peter Spivak did well for the Wings. Matt Smith and Lindsay of the Sabres and Amy Kendall and Teddy Hanawalt of the Wings, played strong defense.

BLUES-RED WINGS

The Blues Pointe Blues topped the Red Wings, 4-2. Joey Sucher opened the scoring in the second period, converting a pretty pass from Tim Kazul. Andy Lee made it 2-0 on a pass from Kazul, before the Wings' Alex Olmsted put one in behind Blues' goalie Chris Eldridge. Chad Yates and Kazul scored to make it 4-1; Carrier and Nick Georgio assisting.

The Wings came out charging in the third period as Berger scored on an assist from Olmsted. But defense took over and closed down further scoring as the Blues held on for the 4-2 win.

BLUES-BLACK HAWKS

The Blues skated to a 1-0 victory over the Black Hawks, but it wasn't easy. The game featured excellent goaltending by the Blues' Eldridge and the Hawks' Mike Denardis.

The scoreless first period was up-and-down play by both teams. In the second period, Yates broke through and whipped a shot past the Hawks' goalie for the game's only goal. The rest of the game was closely-played and exciting.

Pee Wee A Sabres

The G.P. Sabres dropped their second league game to the Toledo Goaldiggers, losing 6-2 on Nov. 18. The Goaldiggers scored first, just 19 seconds into the game. The Sabres tied it up at the 6:09 mark when centerman Mark Sliwinski passed to left winger Paul Karaban, who fired in a waist-high shot. But Toledo scored three more times in the period.

The Sabres made it 4-2 at 9:15 of the second period on a power play goal by Sliwinski. Andy Bond and Darryl Adair drew assists. Ryan Oliver, Patrick Bond and Chris Shino came close, the Toledo scored the only other goal of the period to lead 5-2.

Sports Week

But the real reason why hockey doesn't get high TV ratings is because Peter Puck is now a network president.

9. Hockey is too expensive to play.

This, too, depends on your definition of expensive. It's more expensive to play than soccer, but less costly than spelunking. It's cheap — and chilly — if the player skates on a frozen pond, uses his big brother's hockey stick and doesn't bother to wear a uniform. It's more expensive if he joins a league and plays organized hockey. But hockey players have become very adept at selling old, outgrown equipment, raising money to play by taking odd jobs, or, if they're older, playing goalie in a men's pick up game, where goalies always play for free.

10. Hockey is not a popular spectator sport.

Tell that to the fans of the NHL's Calgary Flames, who buy up every seat in a 19,000 seat arena for every game and will their season tickets to relatives. Or the 1,000 or so who pack the GPCR for a Pointe high school hockey game. Or to the Joe Louis Arena patrons, who buy out the rink around 20 times per year to watch a mediocre hockey team.

Naturally, hockey isn't as popular as the NFL's Cleveland or Atlanta teams, which recently drew 23,280 fans to a 70,000 seat stadium, far outdistancing any hockey crowd in history. Nooooo, not as popular at all.

And of course, hockey isn't nearly as popular as myth-dismissing. If I can think of anymore, I'll let you know.
