Pole toll

If you heard a heavy sigh of relief early Sunday morning, it probably came from the men in the Park Fire Department.

One of their own was injured early Sunday while sliding down the brass fire pole in response to an alarm. According to Park Fire Chief Phillip Costa, Lt. Joe Clarke, a 20-year veteran, didn't quite get a solid enough grip on the 18-foot pole and hit the cement floor at slightly less than warp speed.

Stunned by the impact, Lt. Clarke was thrown back into a wall and was pretty much helpless on the floor. The rest of the crew, responding to the fire, radioed to the Farms Fire Department which dispatched an ambulance to take Lt. Clarke to the hospital.

X-rays reportedly showed some painful muscle tears, but nothing major, such as a ruptured disc, reported Chief Costa. According to the chief, the greatest amount of minor injuries plaguing firemen come from sliding down that brass pole that looks like so much fun.

"Firemen are always injuring their backs, legs, knees and ankles from the pole," said Chief Costa, "which is why so many departments are now being built on one level."

At last report, Lt. Clarke is spending a few days at home recuperating and should be back on the job shortly.

Beam me down, Scotty.

Kids and Kelly

And it's a clean sweep for Grosse Pointe Farms! The clean sweep refers to a recent Santa's Coloring Contest open to kids 4 to 10, sponsored by Perry Drugs on the Hill.

Five judges made up of department heads at the store waded through 100 entries to pick three winners, each of whom received a $20 gift certificate.

And the winners are: Linda Knispel, 4, of Lexington Road, in the 4-5 age group; Tony Penta, 7, of McKinley Road, in the 6-7 year range; and Heather Brown, 9, of McMillan Road, in the 8-10 group.

And speaking of winners, congratulations are in order for Kelly Leon, 19, of the Farms, for being selected as a Finalist in the Maccabees Quest for Excellence grand finals scheduled for Monday, Dec. 17, at 8 p.m. in Orchestra Hall.

Kelly plays a violin and is a member of the multi-talented Leon family, producing some of the most beautiful music in Michigan.

Kelly will be competing for $10,000 in scholarship money against 15 other finalists. The Quest for Excellence program is heard exclusively on WQRS-FM 105, broadcast live from the Smiley's Concert Gallery downtown. The competition is open to the public free of charge.

Anyone wishing to attend any of the remaining three programs should call 883-6105.

Why don't they just eliminate the suspense and give the scholarship to Kelly right now? Okay?

Ready, boy?

Thanks and a big tip of the hat to a woman who provided me, and a few others, with a big laugh recently.

I was driving down Lakeshore when I saw this lady jogger trying to make her rounds with a big German Shepherd. Only the dog was busily intent upon making his rounds on the nearest bush.

So in an effort to accommodate herself and her pet, the woman was conscientiously jogging in place, patiently holding her dog's leash while he was TCbing on a bush.

Now there's a real animal lover.

Schools use video cameras to air issues

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Grosse Pointe public schools' entire permanent cable television crew is on hand this particular Wednesday afternoon in the board room of the district's administration building, taping a couple segments of "Education in Our Town."

Director/camera man/tape editor/set designer Kimberley Kirkpatrick mans the one video camera, monitor, deck and two spotlights while producer/host Bruce Kefgen interviews North Principal Dr. John Kastran for one show and Jim Garlough, teachers' union representative, for another.

When taping is done, Ms. Kirkpatrick will be off to the Performing Arts Center at North where she will work on the Pointe Players production, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." Kefgen will return to his office a dozen paces from the board room and resume his duties as assistant to the superintendent.

Cable television programming for public schools remains in its infancy, Kefgen says, growing little by little.

The board of education authorized last year the purchase of equipment and reassignment of personnel as part of recommendations in a study of cable television last year.

But, like the early days of television, there's room for almost unlimited opportunities to grow, educate and create.

Take "How To..." for example. You haven't seen a single show yet, but if all goes well, you may begin seeing it after the first of the year.

While the show's not yet off the ground, "it's taxiing down the runway," Kefgen says. The idea of the show is to cover a variety of subjects, with guests demonstrating how to change a tire or any number of subjects.

With the concept in place, it's time to settle the production aspects of the show, Kefgen and Ms. Kirkpatrick say. As with situation comedies, the show's possibilities have to be explored first. Its format is developed, taping schedules devised and the technical aspects of camera placement, sound lighting, set and announcers need to be settled. All of it needs to be done bearing in mind a "zero budget," Kefgen quips.

The pair combine on- and off-camera experience to settle the technical end. Both have strong backgrounds in theater. Kefgen's in performing and Ms. Kirkpatrick's in production and set design. She's also appeared as a model for trade and auto shows and has experience as a set stylist, making the background in a commercial enhance the product.

As a producer-director team, they can combine their experience to make sure what goes on in front of the camera looks right, the two say.

Deciding what looks right and how to get it on tape are two different things, however. With the help of Chuck Saad, audio visual technician for the Instructional Services Department, she's able to surmount most sound and lighting problems, Ms. Kirkpatrick says.

Volunteers man the cameras when there's more than one. At the October and November meetings, high school students framed and focused under Ms. Kirkpatrick's direction.

Working with the theater groups as part of her duties as technical director for the performing arts center, Ms. Kirkpatrick says she finds a number of students who are interested in discovering more about production and television.

It's an educational opportunity for the students to get involved in the technical aspects of programming as well as a step toward someday having students produce their own

Decking city hall

It was a bitterly cold day Monday when firefighter Jack Fischer came in on his day off to decorate the entranceway to the Farms police department, fire department and city hall. About the only thing Santa's helper had to help keep him warm was his cigar and an abundance of non-alcoholic Christmas spirit. The wreaths, lights, displays and tinsel were provided by city hall, but the hours necessary to light up the massive building were willingly provided by Fischer, who also recently wowed the kids in the neighborhood of 90 Kerby Road with an elaborate Halloween display involving giant werewolves, witches, strobe lights, spooky fog and sticky cobwebs.

Resident named top librarian

By Pat Paholsky

Gerald Furi, a Farms resident, was named outstanding Michigan Librarian of the Year by the Michigan Library Association. He was presented with the Loleta D. Fyan Award, given annually to a librarian with less than five years of experience.

Furi is head of the computerized reference services at the Farmington Community Library, where he has been employed since 1980. The award was presented to him for his role in developing the program there, which is being used by the business and professional community as well as students.

"We serve segments of our community we have never been able to serve before," he said, adding that the service is relatively new for public libraries.

Over the past 18 months, Furi has initiated services to data banks throughout the country, enabling the library to have instant access to vast amounts of information pertaining to law, medicine or business reports, to name a few.

If, for instance, a person wanted to learn as much as possible about a certain disease, Furi said it would be possible to get a printout of several dozen articles on the subject in minutes.

"It doesn't replace the Readers' Guide or books, but it does extend the reach of the library," he said.

The information searches, which entail using telephone lines, is not free, however. Furi said patrons are charged only what it costs the library. The library currently conducts about 70 searches each month, according to the director.

"This is the age of information and access to this information is very important," Furi said. "The future will be shaped by people who have information."

The Farmington Community Library belongs to the Wayne Oakland Library Federation, which consists of about 60 libraries in the area, including Grosse Pointe.

Furi, who earned a master's degree in library science at Wayne State University in 1979, is president-elect of the Michigan Data Base Users Group.

He and his wife Mary have lived in the Farms since 1973. They have a son, David, who is in the fourth grade.

Park fix-up program spreading

By Harriet Nolan

The bandages are coming off and the facelift looks great for Mack Avenue's commercial strip, particularly near Somerset where the first phase of a four-year street improvement plan is 98 percent complete, according to Grosse Pointe Park City Manager John Crawford.

Federal and state monies are highly competitive and always subject to terminations if there are budget cuts in government spending, he said.

In the case of the Somerset revamping, the original plan was to spend the first $99,000 from a yearly entitlement program on streets nearest Detroit. But plans had to be changed after an untimely delay by Pointe Hardware to vacate the building near Wayburn.

"So rather than lose the money, we started in the opposite direction and worked backwards," says Crawford. "We hope to work on Nottingham next year and continue until the area has been renewed up to the Detroit limits."

"The architectural firm of Schervish, Vogel, Merz and Cardoza are responsible for this design and that of a 34-car off-street parking lot near Wayburn," he added.

The area along Somerset is surrounded by new planters, perfunctory waste receptacles and low cement benches, all drawn together with the two-tone buff scheme in the concrete walks.

New trees and shrubs have been planted and are shown off by recessed flood lights strategically hidden among them. Somerset is blocked at Mack, and care has been taken to give residents bordering the nearby parking lot privacy in the form of a high decorative wooden fence.

This year 32 communities competed for $200,000 available in Wayne County, says Crawford. Grosse Pointe got $50,000 of that pie when his plan for innovative funding fit criteria that based results on job cost ratios.

"I estimated that by updating a restaurant, six new positions would be created," he said.

Another example of innovative funding which the Park applied for and won made it possible for merchants to improve their storefronts at 50 percent of the actual cost. The rest was paid for by the grant.

"This included sandblasting, new glass windows, awnings and painting the Victorian-type buildings that currently exist on Mack, but had aged," said Crawford.

"Enthusiasm to revitalize the area was so good that Jim Jensen, a former owner of the building occupied by the Union Street Bar, did his own work including correcting code violations," he added.

No Cabbage Patch Kids available by mail

Settle back in your seats, folks, the classified ad which appeared in the Nov. 22 edition of the Grosse Pointe News for Cabbage Patch dolls wasn't meant to be.

First of all, it's the paper's policy not to accept ads that include sending money through the mail, but a recently hired clerk inadvertently took the ad which was paid for with cash.

Second, a woman who identified herself as Mrs. Conrad Joseph of Barrington Road, said, "The deal is off," after being contacted by the paper.

"My husband was supposed to get the dolls from a lady at Toys-R-Us, but couldn't," she added.

Readers were asked to mail a $30 check to Toy Finders, 17016 Mack Avenue, Grosse Pointe Park. However, Mary Jo Moore, manager of Answering Service Inc., at the same address, said a man identified as Conrad Joseph was refused the use of the firm's answering service and drop box location on Nov. 24, two days after the ad appeared.

"By that time, four people had already come to the door with checks clutched in their hands wanting a doll," she said. "The checks we received in the mail, we returned to the senders."

Newspaper plans new building

by Tom Greenwood

At a meeting last month, the Farms Council voted 5 to 1 as a zoning board of appeals to allow the owners of the Grosse Pointe News to proceed with plans to construct a new building for the community newspaper.

According to Publisher Robert G. Edgar, the new structure will be built on two adjacent vacant lots located on Kercheval Avenue, between Picard-Norton cloisters at 92 Kercheval and Persnickety Pedlar at 98 Kercheval, almost directly across from the paper's current location at 99 Kercheval.

Mayor Pro Tem Joseph Fromm, substituting for absent Mayor James Dingeman, cast the lone dissenting vote. After the ballot was taken, Fromm declined to explain the reason for his vote, telling the council and audience that council laws required an explanation "only if the proposal before the council fails to pass."

In making his presentation, Edgar explained that even though the current building, which was built by the paper's founder Robert B. Edgar, was a landmark on the Hill, it no longer met the needs of the staff.

"We have 23 employees over at the Grosse Pointe News and they're practically sitting in each other's laps," said Edgar. "Our reporting staff has no room for private interviews, my father's office now serves double duty as a computer room and accounting, and the traffic flow through the structure isn't very efficient."

The current building, which was constructed during the 1940s, was for years easily recognizable on the Hill because of the giant elm tree which graced its entrance. The tree, which had been afflicted by Dutch elm disease for years, was finally condemned and removed in September.

Recognized by the National Elm Institute of New Jersey, the tree was believed to have been planted during the mid-1800s.

James Mast, designer for the new building, explained to the council that the structure will be two stories tall and will contain approximately 6,000 square feet of usable space, as opposed to the current building's estimated 2,700 square feet.

Mast added it was hoped that construction could begin on the structure before winter set in, but that the current cold weather would push construction back until this coming spring.

Mast estimated it would take approximately five months to finish the new structure, once groundbreaking had begun.

Edgar also told the council he had no plans for the old building.

Grosse Pointe War Memorial

... as John Lake remembered it

Shortly before his death in 1984, John Lake wrote of his years as executive director of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. For those who knew him, it tells the story in a neo-Victorian style they'll well remember — a little confusing at times, but still vintage John Lake. Others will find a nostalgic and useful contribution to the history of our community. These segments have been edited by Charles V. Hicks, but they retain Lake's original language, and they reflect the unique personality of the man who directed and developed the War Memorial Center in its first 30 years.

VI. The Fries Auditorium

(John Lake describes the origins of one of Grosse Pointe's major assets).

So thus it was that the Center developed; and, as it developed, more and more people used it. All this meant that the house became more overcrowded; and the need for an auditorium became very apparent.

Donald M.D. Thurber was vice president of the board at this particular time, saw the need, put a bee in an attorney's ear and came back with the good news that we had, in the will of a party who wished to remain anonymous at the time, the sum to build such an edifice.

William Hayes Fries, the donor, died nine months later — he had been assistant headmaster at the Detroit University School. Mrs. Nina Fries who was a perfectly charming woman, came on the board of the Center and was most active in its programs.

The architects chosen to build the auditorium were Harley, Ellington, Cowan and Stirton; and the man in charge was Jim Gibson. Instead of trying to create a very modern structure, Jim Gibson wisely chose to have the Fries Auditorium an extension of Alger House, complimenting its architecture and placed down on the slope so that it would not overshadow Alger House. The result is a very, very pleasing structure, which Grosse Pointers have admired and, I hope, will continue to admire for many years.

Dickens story put to music

"A Christmas Carol," Charles Dickens' yuletide classic, will be retold in spirited form by a troupe of professional singers, dancers, actors and musicians on Saturday, Dec. 15, at the Macomb Center for the Performing Arts.

The 35-member touring ensemble will stage two performances — a matinee at 2 p.m. and show at 8 p.m.

The production features costumes, sets and special effects that recreate a London Christmas in the 1800s. The familiar characters — Scrooge; the apparition of his former partner, Jacob Marley; the ghosts of Christmas past, present and future; and the Cratchit family with Tiny Tim — are enhanced by song and dance. Interwoven in the story is a full array of traditional Christmas carols.

Now entering their sixth Christmas season, members of this nationally touring group have some 600 professional performances to their credit. Included are two previous appearances at the Macomb Center, in 1982 and 1983, when they played to full audiences.

The production is enlivened by mystical effects which include falling snowflakes, Scrooge's bed whipping around the stage, Marley's ghost appearing through a cloud of smoke from the fireplace and a 15-foot tall Ghost of Christmas-Yet-To-Come.

Tickets for performances are $10 for adults and $8 for students and senior citizens and may be obtained at the center's box office or reserved on credit card by calling 286-2222, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The Center is located on the Center Campus of Macomb Community College at Hall (M-59) and Garfield Roads in Clinton Township.

MADD to hold vigil

Mothers Against Drunk Driving will hold the 3rd annual candlelight vigil in its 320 chapters in 46 states, including Michigan, on Monday, Dec. 10, from 7 to 8 p.m.

Local dignitaries and surviving victims will read the names and light a candle for all who were killed this year in alcohol-related crashes. The purpose is to dramatize the enormity of the problem that will involve one of every two Americans some time in their lives.

The public is invited to attend and to bring a candle to light. There will be 18 vigils in Michigan. The closest one in the area will be held at Old Mariners Church in Detroit.

Resident receives grant from council

By Pat Paholsky
Alan MacDougall thinks poetry has become alienated from ordinary people. His goal is to develop what he calls the model T poem, one which "works for the intelligent everyman, and not just for an inbred audience."

MacDougall, one of 14 writers in the state to be awarded a Creative Artist grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts, will have until next September to complete that goal. From some 400-plus notebooks that he kept during a 13-year odyssey in which he traveled and worked throughout the country, he is completing a collection of poems tentatively titled, "Inland Sailing."

MacDougall, who lives in the City, estimates that he supported himself with about 20 jobs during this period, including working in a restaurant and post office, as a land surveyor, a casual laborer and as a purser on international flights. He calls it an "American journey, a working journey," in which he hitchhiked the first half and then bought a car to get around in during the last seven years.

In his last job as a merchant marine, he worked on an ore boat on the Great Lakes. The experience has provided him with enough material to do a book on the Lakes alone, although he says it did not play a significant role in his travels.

It was 1981 when he came off an ore boat at the National Steel Mill in Detroit and took up residence here. Since then, he's been sorting through the material and coming up with poems which he said "seemed to fall out of the notebooks without much reworking." He started sending some of them to literary magazines and has had 32 poems published in the past two years.

He guesses that once all of his notebook material has been exhausted, he will have more than 500 poems as well as about two dozen short stories.

MacDougall, who taught college German on the West Coast, has been supporting himself as a tutor "for everything, physics, math, French, Spanish, everything from 6th grade through graduate school."

With three generations of teachers in his family, MacDougall says he believes he was put here to teach. "If I were in it for comfort, I would never have written poems."

MacDougall said he believes poetry is making a move out of the inbred academic and workshop culture. "I want to be part of that movement," he says.

While the past three years have been a period of looking inward and translating his experience to poetry, MacDougall has included the following work to his collection.

The Bodhisattva awakes
I'm still waiting for that wind to announce itself in Detroit, the ones that says, "I am yours, you are mine, forever."

I'm still waiting for the roof to come off.
I'm still sitting at the back window looking out.
I'm still hungry for the river.

My brother keeps trying to graduate, and my heart keeps trying to forgive or find the letter of some buried law that allows me to believe.

And the Krishnas down on Lennox Street are trying to improve an old formula which says, "All things return."

Or rather, there's a part of us we just burn off and then reconsider.
I'm still reaching for that air, that keen autumn smell

And I'm tired of floating like a dead wish in the fish bowl of Henry Ford's old river.

"Go to China or Japan, look away, you're the man who can!"

In every language it's the same old exchange of souls in pain and travelling.

In Minnesota there's a willow knows your name.
People are the pulsebeats you are trying to reclaim from the strait jacket of an old anger.

The touches and the breaths, the lights of a car at dawn, make you feel like Wyoming and the memory of a song.

Morning and the pulse of light coming.

Alan MacDougall

Car phone trips thieves

It's only supposed to happen like this in the movies, but sometimes real life imitates art. Here's the plot.

Three young men, intent on stealing a car, pulled an old ruse last week on a woman, alone in her car, stopped for a red light at Vernier near Marter. Occupying a red car in back of her, they deliberately struck her silver Camaro in the rear.

When she got out to examine the extent of the damage, the driver of the other car also got out and distracted her. She didn't see his passenger who came from behind and pushed her, jumped in her car with a third male and sped away. The driver then got back in his car and took off.

The 26-year-old woman, a resident of Warren, waved down a passing vehicle that just happened to be equipped with a car phone. The driver immediately notified the Woods Public Safety Department which dispatched the information to an officer in a scout car at Mack and Moross. He headed down Moross to I-94 and waited for the two cars. When the silver Camaro followed by a red car drove past, the officer confirmed by license number that the Chevrolet had just been stolen.

After a chase which ended when the driver of the stolen car ran into a signpost, the two men were taken into custody. One, a 14-year-old youth, was arraigned on charges of unarmed robbery and bond was set at $15,000. He remains in Juvenile Home. The driver of the stolen car, Ralph N. Huffman, 22, of Detroit, was arraigned on charges of unarmed robbery with bond set at $4,000. He was in Wayne County Jail.

Police are continuing the investigation regarding the driver of the red car who was not apprehended, according to Woods Det. Robert Kwiatkowski.

THE STONE FLOWER a gallery of gems & minerals

Dear Friend:

We are proud and very excited to announce that The Stone Flower has opened its famous hammered copper door on 580 North Woodward Avenue, in the older section of Birmingham.

Those of you who knew us in the Renaissance Center will be pleased to know that we are showing the same breathtaking, one-of-a-kind mineral specimens you first saw in our Detroit store. Our examples of native American pottery and jewelry are of collection quality and are not, currently, matched in the Midwest.

Part of our delight comes from our new relationship with goldsmith and award-winning jewelry designer, Douglas Barthel. Mr. Barthel's studio now adjoins The Stone Flower. This proximity allows for frequent conferences on all custom jewel and gold assemblies.

Orientalist Pat Tseng of San Francisco has honored us by naming The Stone Flower as the exclusive outlet for her jewelry creations and objects d'art in the fashion Chinese. A shipment of Pat's latest work has already arrived for fall viewing and holiday gift selection.

We would like to thank you for your past loyalty by sharing with you our present excitement. You will understand that excitement when you look at our wonders of nature and the matching wonders of custom-designed jewelry. Do come and see us. Pole toll

If you heard a heavy sigh of relief early Sunday morning, it probably came from the men in the Park Fire Department.

One of their own was injured early Sunday while sliding down the brass fire pole in response to an alarm. According to Park Fire Chief Phillip Costa, Lt. Joe Clarke, a 20-year veteran, didn't quite get a solid enough grip on the 18-foot pole and hit the cement floor at slightly less than warp speed.

Stunned by the impact, Lt. Clarke was thrown back into a wall and was pretty much helpless on the floor. The rest of the crew, responding to the fire, radioed to the Farms Fire Department which dispatched an ambulance to take Lt. Clarke to the hospital.

X-rays reportedly showed some painful muscle tears, but nothing major, such as a ruptured disc, reported Chief Costa. According to the chief, the greatest amount of minor injuries plaguing firemen come from sliding down that brass pole that looks like so much fun.

"Firemen are always injuring their backs, legs, knees and ankles from the pole," said Chief Costa, "which is why so many departments are now being built on one level."

At last report, Lt. Clarke is spending a few days at home recuperating and should be back on the job shortly.

Beam me down, Scotty.

Kids and Kelly

And it's a clean sweep for Grosse Pointe Farms! The clean sweep refers to a recent Santa's Coloring Contest open to kids 4 to 10, sponsored by Perry Drugs on the Hill.

Five judges made up of department heads at the store waded through 100 entries to pick three winners, each of whom received a $20 gift certificate.

And the winners are: Linda Knispel, 4, of Lexington Road, in the 4-5 age group; Tony Penta, 7, of McKinley Road, in the 6-7 year range; and Heather Brown, 9, of McMillan Road, in the 8-10 group.

And speaking of winners, congratulations are in order for Kelly Leon, 19, of the Farms, for being selected as a Finalist in the Maccabees Quest for Excellence grand finals scheduled for Monday, Dec. 17, at 8 p.m. in Orchestra Hall.

Kelly plays a violin and is a member of the multi-talented Leon family, producing some of the most beautiful music in Michigan.

Kelly will be competing for $10,000 in scholarship money against 15 other finalists. The Quest for Excellence program is heard exclusively on WQRS-FM 105, broadcast live from the Smiley's Concert Gallery downtown. The competition is open to the public free of charge.

Anyone wishing to attend any of the remaining three programs should call 883-6105.

Why don't they just eliminate the suspense and give the scholarship to Kelly right now? Okay?

Ready, boy?

Thanks and a big tip of the hat to a woman who provided me, and a few others, with a big laugh recently.

I was driving down Lakeshore when I saw this lady jigger trying to make her rounds with a big German Shepherd. Only the dog was busily intent upon making his rounds on the nearest bush.

So in an effort to accommodate herself and her pet, the woman was conscientiously jogging in place, patiently holding her dog's leash while he was TCing on a bush.

Now there's a real animal lover.

Schools use video cameras to air issues

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Grosse Pointe public schools' entire permanent cable television crew is on hand this particular Wednesday afternoon in the board room of the district's administration building, taping a couple segments of "Education in Our Town."

patrick mans the one video camera, monitor, deck and two spotlights while producer/host Bruce Keigen interviews North Principal Dr. John Kastran for one show and Jim Garlough, teachers' union representative, for another.

When taping is done, Ms. Kirkpatrick will be off to the Performing Arts Center at North where she will work on the Pointe Players production, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." Keigen will return to his office a dozen paces from the board room and resume his duties as assistant to the superintendent.

Cable television programming for public schools remains in its infancy, Keigen says, growing little by little.

The board of education authorized last year the purchase of equipment and reassignment of personnel as part of recommendations in a study of cable television last year.

But, like the early days of television, there's room for almost unlimited opportunities to grow, educate and create.

Take "How To..." for example. You haven't seen a single show yet, but if all goes well, you may begin seeing it after the first of the year.

While the show's not yet off the ground, "it's taxiing down the runway," Keigen says. The idea of the show is to cover a variety of subjects, with guests demonstrating how to change a tire or any number of subjects.

With the concept in place, it's time to settle the production aspects of the show, Keigen and Ms. Kirkpatrick say. As with situation comedies, the show's possibilities have to be explored first. Its format is developed, taping schedules devised and the technical aspects of camera placement, sound lighting, set and announcers need to be settled. All of it needs to be done bearing in mind a "zero budget," Keigen quips.

The pair combine on- and off-camera experience to settle the technical end. Both have strong backgrounds in theater, Keigen's in performing and Ms. Kirkpatrick's in production and set design. She's also appeared as a model for trade and auto shows and has experience as a set stylist, making the background in a commercial enhance the product.

As a producer-director team, they can combine their experience to make sure what goes on in front of the camera looks right, the two say.

Deciding what looks right and how to get it on tape are two different things, however. With the help of Chuck Saad, audio visual technician for the Instructional Services Department, she's able to surmount most sound and lighting problems, Ms. Kirkpatrick says.

Volunteers man the cameras when there's more than one. At the October and November meetings, high school students framed and focused under Ms. Kirkpatrick's direction.

Working with the theater groups as part of her duties as technical director for the performing arts center, Ms. Kirkpatrick says she finds a number of students who are interested in discovering more about production and television. It's an educational opportunity for the students to get involved in the technical aspects of programming as well as a step toward someday having students produce their own

Decking city hall

It was a bitterly cold day Monday when firefighter Jack Fischer came in on his day off to decorate the entranceway to the Farms police department, fire department and city hall. About the only thing Santa's helper had to help keep him warm was his cigar and an abundance of non-alcoholic Christmas spirit. The wreaths, lights, displays and tinsel were provided by city hall, but the hours necessary to light up the massive building were willingly provided by Fischer, who also recently wowed the kids in the neighborhood of 90 Kerby Road with an elaborate Halloween display involving giant werewolves, witches, strobe lights, spooky fog and sticky cobwebs.

Resident named top librarian

By Pat Paholsky

Gerald Furi, a Farms resident, was named outstanding Michigan Librarian of the Year by the Michigan Library Association. He was presented with the Loleta D. Fyan Award, given annually to a librarian with less than five years of experience.

Furi is head of the computerized reference services at the Farmington Community Library, where he has been employed since 1980. The award was presented to him for his role in developing the program there, which is being used by the business and professional community as well as students.

"We serve segments of our community we have never been able to serve before," he said, adding that the service is relatively new for public libraries.

Over the past 18 months, Furi has initiated services to data banks throughout the country, enabling the library to have instant access to vast amounts of information pertaining to law, medicine or business reports, to name a few.

If, for instance, a person wanted to learn as much as possible about a certain disease, Furi said it would be possible to get a printout of several dozen articles on the subject in minutes.

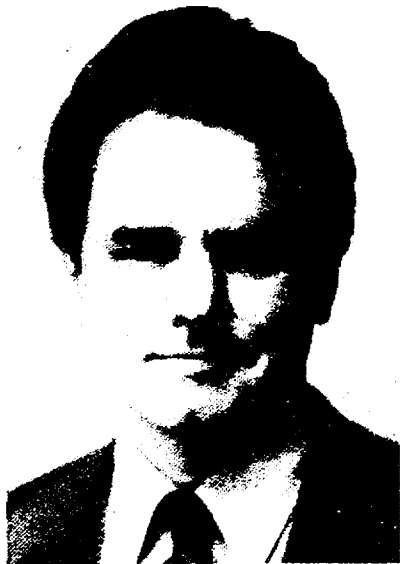

"It doesn't replace the Readers' Guide or books, but it does extend the reach of the library," he said.

The information searches, which entail using telephone lines, is not free, however. Furi said patrons are charged only what it costs the library. The library currently conducts about 70 searches each month, according to the director.

"This is the age of information and access to this information is very important," Furi said. "The future will be shaped by people who have information."

The Farmington Community Library belongs to the Wayne Oakland Library Federation, which consists of about 60 libraries in the area, including Grosse Pointe.

Furi, who earned a master's degree in library science at Wayne State University in 1979, is president-elect of the Michigan Data Base Users Group.

Newspaper plans new building

by Tom Greenwood

At a meeting last month, the Farms Council voted 5 to 1 as a zoning board of appeals to allow the owners of the Grosse Pointe News to proceed with plans to construct a new building for the community newspaper.

According to Publisher Robert G. Edgar, the new structure will be built on two adjacent vacant lots located on Kercheval Avenue, between Picard Norton clothiers at 92 Kercheval and Persnickety Pedlar at 98 Kercheval, almost directly across from the paper's current location at 99 Kercheval.

Mayor Pro Tem Joseph Fromm, substituting for absent Mayor James Dingeman, cast the lone dissenting vote. After the ballot was taken, Fromm declined to explain the reason for his vote, telling the council and audience that council laws required an explanation "only

In making his presentation, Edgar explained that even though the current building, which was built by the paper's founder Robert B. Edgar, was a landmark on the Hill, it no longer met the needs of the staff.

"We have 23 employees over at the Grosse Pointe News and they're practically sitting in each other's laps," said Edgar. "Our reporting staff has no room for private interviews, my father's office now serves double duty as a computer room and accounting, and the traffic flow through the structure isn't very efficient."

The current building, which was constructed during the 1940s, was for years easily recognizable on the Hill because of the giant elm tree which graced its entrance. The tree, which had been afflicted by Dutch elm disease for years, was finally condemned and removed in September.

Recognized by the National Elm Institute of New Jersey, the tree was believed to have been planted during the mid-1800s.

James Mast, designer for the new building, explained to the council that the structure will be two stories tall and will contain approximately 6,000 square feet of usable space, as opposed to the current building's estimated 2,700 square feet.

Mast added it was hoped that construction could begin on the structure before winter set in, but that the current cold weather would push construction back until this coming spring.

Mast estimated it would take approximately five months to finish the new structure, once groundbreaking had begun.

Edgar also told the council he had no plans for the old building,

Beware bump, run ruse

By Tom Greenwood

Farms police are warning motorists to be on the lookout for "bump and run" robbers after two recent incidents involving women working and living in the city.

According to reports, a 40-year-old woman who works at the Little Club was attacked and robbed at the intersection of Moross and Morang roads Friday night, Nov. 19.

The victim told police that three men riding in a black or green rusted late model car bumped the back and side of her vehicle at about 9:30 p.m. while at a traffic light.

The woman said she emerged from her car and was approached by two men, one of whom punched her and knocked her down. The assailant then took her purse and stole her car. The victim managed to hail a passing Detroit police car and filed a report with them and the Farms Police Department.

According to police reports, her car was recovered two weeks later in very bad condition.

The first suspect was described as a black male, 5 feet 10 inches tall, with a wide face. The second robber, who assaulted the victim, was described as a black male, 5 feet 3 inches tall. The third suspect, who remained in the car, was described as a black male with a beard and Afro.

On Saturday, Dec. 1, Farms police received a second report from a woman living on Country Club Lane who said two men in an older, dark, rusty vehicle bumped into the back and side of her car while stopped at the intersection of Hillcrest and Ridge roads.

After the incident, the man drove across the intersection, parked on Ridge and came back and asked the woman for her license.

The woman refused to unlock her door or roll down her window and told the suspect she would "all the police about the incident. At this point the man ran back to his car and fled. Farms police checked the license number supplied by the woman and traced it to a home on Westphalia in Detroit.

The resident told the police she believed the men had followed her into the Farms from Jefferson Avenue. She described the driver as a black male, light skin, thin build, 5 feet 10 inches tall.

Police advise any motorist who might be involved in such accidents to remain in their cars with the doors locked and windows up and drive to the nearest police station.

Park fix-up program spreading

By Harriet Nolan

The bandages are coming off and the facelift looks great for Mack Avenue's commercial strip, particularly near Somerset where the first phase of a four-year street improvement plan is 98 percent complete, according to Grosse Pointe Park City Manager John Crawford.

Federal and state monies are highly competitive and always subject to terminations if there are budget cuts in government spending, he said.

In the case of the Somerset revamping, the original plan was to spend the first $99,000 from a yearly entitlement program on streets nearest Detroit. But plans had to be changed after an untimely delay by Pointe Hardware to vacate the building near Wayburn.

"So rather than lose the money, we started in the opposite direction and worked backwards," says Crawford. "We hope to work on Nottingham next year and continue until the area has been renewed up to the Detroit limits."

"The architectural firm of Scher-vish, Vogel, Merz and Cardoza are responsible for this design and that of a 34-car off-street parking lot near Wayburn," he added.

The area along Somerset is surrounded by new planters, perfunctory waste receptacles and low cement benches, all drawn together with the two-tone buff scheme in the concrete walks.

New trees and shrubs have been planted and are shown off by recessed flood lights strategically hidden among them. Somerset is blocked at Mack, and care has been taken to give residents bordering the nearby parking lot privacy in the form of a high decorative wooden fence.

This year 32 communities competed for $200,000 available in Wayne County, says Crawford. Grosse Pointe got $50,000 of that pie when his plan for innovative funding fit criteria that based results on job cost ratios.

"I estimated that by updating a restaurant, six new positions would be created," he said.

Another example of innovative funding which the Park applied for and won made it possible for merchants to improve their storefronts at 50 percent of the actual cost. The rest was paid for by the grant.

"This included sandblasting, new glass windows, awnings and painting the Victorian-type buildings that currently exist on Mack, but had aged," said Crawford.

"Enthusiasm to revitalize the area was so good that Jim Jensen, a former owner of the building occupied by the Union Street Bar, did his own work including correcting code violations," he added.

No Cabbage Patch Kids available by mail

Settle back in your seats, folks, the classified ad which appeared in the Nov. 22 edition of the Grosse Pointe News for Cabbage Patch dolls wasn't meant to be.

First of all, it's the paper's policy not to accept ads that include sending money through the mail, but a recently hired clerk inadvertently took the ad which was paid for with cash.

Second, a woman who identified herself as Mrs. Conrad Joseph, of Barrington Road, said, "The deal is off," after being contacted by the paper.

"My husband was supposed to get the dolls from a lady at Toys-R-Us, but couldn't," she added.

Readers were asked to mail a $30 check to Toy Finders, 17016 Mack Avenue, Grosse Pointe Park. However, Mary Jo Moore, manager of Answering Service Inc., at the same address, said a man identified as Conrad Joseph was refused the use of the firm's answering service and drop box location on Nov. 24, two days after the ad appeared.

"By that time, four people had already come to the door with checks clutched in their hands wanting a doll," she said. "The checks we received in the mail, we returned to the senders."

Grosse Pointe War Memorial

... as John Lake remembered it

Shortly before his death in 1984, John Lake wrote of his years as executive director of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. For those who knew him, it tells the story in a neo-Victorian style they'll well remember — a little confusing at times, but still vintage John Lake. Others will find a nostalgic and useful contribution to the history of our community. These segments have been edited by Charles V. Hicks, but they retain Lake's original language, and they reflect the unique personality of the man who directed and developed the War Memorial Center in its first 30 years.

VI. The Fries Auditorium

(John Lake describes the origins of one of Grosse Pointe's major assets).

So thus it was that the Center developed; and, as it developed, more and more people used it. All this meant that the house became more overcrowded; and the need for an auditorium became very apparent.

Donald M.D. Thurber was vice president of the board at this particular time, saw the need, put a bee in an attorney's ear and came back with the good news that he had, in the will of a party who wished to remain anonymous at the time, the sum to build such an edifice.

William Hayes Fries, the donor, died nine months later — he had been assistant headmaster at the Detroit University School. Mrs. Nina Fries, who was a perfectly charming woman, came on the board of the Center and was most active in its programs.

The architects chosen to build the auditorium were Harley, Ellington, Cowan and Stirton; and the man in charge was Jim Gibson. Instead of trying to create a very modern structure, Jim Gibson wisely chose to have the Fries Auditorium an extension of Alger House, complimenting its architecture and placed down on the slope so that it would not overshadow Alger House. The result is a very, very pleasing structure, which Grosse Pointers there admired and, I hope, will continue to admire for many years.

Dickens story put to music

"A Christmas Carol," Charles Dickens' yuletide classic, will be retold in spirited form by a troupe of professional singers, dancers, actors and musicians on Saturday, Dec. 15, at the Macomb Center for the Performing Arts.

The 35-member touring ensemble will stage two performances — a matinee at 2 p.m. and show at 8 p.m.

The production features costumes, sets and special effects that recreate a London Christmas in the 1800s. The familiar characters — Scrooge; the apparition of his former partner, Jacob Marley; the ghosts of Christmas past, present and future; and the Cratchit family with Tiny Tim — are enhanced by song and dance. Interwoven in the story is a full array of traditional Christmas carols.

Now entering their sixth Christmas season, members of this nationally touring group have some 600 professional performances to their credit. Included are two previous appearances at the Macomb Center, in 1982 and 1983, when they played to full audiences.

The production is enlivened by mystical effects which include falling snowflakes, Scrooge's bed whipping around the stage, Marley's ghost appearing through a cloud of smoke from the fireplace and a 15-foot tall Ghost of Christmas-Yet-To-Come.

Tickets for performances are $10 for adults and $8 for students and senior citizens and may be obtained at the center's box office or reserved on credit card by calling 286-2222, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The Center is located on the Center Campus of Macomb Community College at Hall (M-59) and Garfield Roads in Clinton Township.

MADD to hold vigil

Mothers Against Drunk Driving will hold the 3rd annual candlelight vigil in its 320 chapters in 46 states, including Michigan, on Monday, Dec. 10, from 7 to 8 p.m.

Local dignitaries and surviving victims will read the names and light a candle for all who were killed this year in alcohol-related crashes. The purpose is to dramatize the enormity of the problem that will involve one of every two Americans some time in their lives.

The public is invited to attend and to bring a candle to light. There will be 18 vigils in Michigan. The closest one in the area will be held at Old Mariners Church in Detroit.

Resident receives grant from council

By Pat Paholsky

Alan MacDougall thinks poetry has become alienated from ordinary people. His goal is to develop what he calls the model T poem, one which "works for the intelligent everyman, and not just for an inbred audience."

MacDougall, one of 14 writers in the state to be awarded a Creative Artist grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts, will have until next September to complete that goal. From some 400-plus notebooks that he kept during a 13-year odyssey in which he traveled and worked throughout the country, he is completing a collection of poems tentatively titled, "Inland Sailing."

MacDougall, who lives in the City, estimates that he supported himself with about 20 jobs during this period, including working in a restaurant and post office, as a land surveyor, a casual laborer and as a pursuer on international flights. He calls it an "American journey, a working journey," in which he hitchhiked the first half and then bought a car to get around in during the last seven years.

In his last job as a merchant marine, he worked on an ore boat on the Great Lakes. The experience has provided him with enough material to do a book on the Lakes alone, although he says it did not play a significant role in his travels. It was 1981 when he came off an ore boat at the National Steel Mill in Detroit and took up residence here. Since then, he's been coming through the material and sorting up with poems which he said "seemed to fall out of the notebooks without much reworking."

He started sending some of them to literary magazines and has had 32 poems published in the past two years.

He guesses that once all of his notebook material has been exhausted, he will have more than 500 poems as well as about two dozen short stories.

MacDougall, who taught college German on the West Coast, has been supporting himself as a tutor "for everything, physics, math, French, Spanish, everything from 6th grade through graduate school."

With three generations of teachers in his family, MacDougall says he believes he was put here to teach. "If I were in it for comfort, I would never have written poems."

MacDougall said he believes poetry is making a move out of the inbred academic and workshop culture. "I want to be part of that movement," he says.

While the past three years have been a period of looking inward and translating his experience to poetry, MacDougall has included the following work to his collection.

The Bodhisattva awakes
I'm still waiting for that wind to announce itself in Detroit, the ones that says, "I am yours, you are mine, forever."

I'm still waiting for the roof to come off.
I'm still sitting at the back window looking out.
I'm still hungry for the river.

My brother keeps trying to graduate, and my heart keeps trying to forgive or find the letter of some buried law that allows me to believe.

And the Krishnas down on Lennox Street are trying to improve an old formula which says, "All things return."

Or rather, there's a part of us we just burn off and then reconsider.
I'm still reaching for that air, that keen autumn smell

And I'm tired of floating like a dead wish in the fish bowl of Henry Ford's old flivver.

"Go to China or Japan, look away, you're the man who can!"

In every language it's the same old exchange of souls in pain and travelling.

In Minnesota there's a willow knows your name.
People are the pulsebeats you are trying to reclaim from the strait jacket of an old anger.

The touches and the breaths, the lights of a car at dawn, make you feel like Wyoming and the memory of a song.

Morning and the pulse of light coming.

Car phone trips thieves

It's only supposed to happen like this in the movies, but sometimes real life imitates art. Here's the plot.

Three young men, intent on stealing a car, pulled an old ruse last week on a woman, alone in her car, stopped for a red light at Vernier near Marter. Occupying a red car in back of her, they deliberately struck her silver Camaro in the rear.

When she got out to examine the extent of the damage, the driver of the other car also got out and distracted her. She didn't see his passenger who came from behind and pushed her, jumped in her car with a third male and sped away. The driver then got back in his car and took off.

The 26-year-old woman, a resident of Warren, waved down a passing vehicle that just happened to be equipped with a car phone. The driver immediately notified the Woods Public Safety Department which dispatched the information to an officer in a scout car at Mack and Moross. He headed down Moross to I-94 and waited for the two cars. When the silver Camaro followed by a red car drove past, the officer confirmed by license number that the Chevrolet had just been stolen.

After a chase which ended when the driver of the stolen car ran into a signpost, the two men were taken into custody. One, a 14-year-old youth, was arraigned on charges of unarmed robbery and bond was set at $15,000. He remains in Juvenile Home. The driver of the stolen car, Ralph N. Huffman, 22, of Detroit, was arraigned on charges of unarmed robbery with bond set at $4,000. He was in Wayne County Jail.

Police are continuing the investigation regarding the driver of the red car who was not apprehended, according to Woods Det. Robert Kwiatkowski.

Testing for osteoporosis

Osteoporosis, the bone thinning disease that affects one out of every three women in the U.S., has generated public concern.

As a result, Grosse Pointe Physicians X-Ray Center, 21003 Mack Avenue, has announced that it is now involved in detecting osteoporosis with a new bone densitometry test.

The painless, automatic, non-invasive technique can detect the loss of calcium and other bone materials much earlier than a conventional X-ray. Furthermore, it can monitor the condition while exposing the patient to less than one-hundredth the amount of radiation.

Women who are approaching menopause are particularly susceptible to osteoporosis. This inability of the body to replace lost bone mass causes a progressive thinning of the bones which may eventually result in fractures, loss of height, and a slouched appearance.

"When detected early," says John H. Griffin, M.D., of Grosse Pointe Physicians X-Ray Center, "the condition can be treated. And we can continue to test to see what effect the treatment is having on the rate of bone deterioration."

The bone densitometry test takes about 30 minutes. The patient's arm is placed in a holder so that a density measurement can be taken of the radius, one of two bones in the forearm. As the machine moves across the arm, it also takes a precise measurement of the portion of the bone being tested to ensure that future readings come from exactly the same section of bone. The information is fed into a computer which translates the reading into a density number and a graph.

If the results of the test fall within the normal limits for healthy bone density, the patient most likely is not in an osteoporotic state at that time. However, subsequent tests, when compared to the first, may reveal a deteriorating condition.

Appointments are by physician referral only and persons who suspect they may be susceptible to osteoporosis should discuss the test with their physician.

Bryant dangles a 'carrot'

Rep. William H. Bryant Jr., who represents the Grosse Pointes in the state Legislature, has begun a petition drive to assure the people the right to vote on any tax or tax increase adopted by the Legislature. The Constitution currently prohibits a referendum on a tax measure if it is included in a spending bill, as was the case with last year's controversial income tax increase. Under Bryant's proposal, spending bills that contain no tax increases would still be exempt from a referendum.

Bryant has labeled his effort "CARROT," or Constitutional Assurance or Referendum Rights on Taxes. So Bryant is dangling a "carrot" in front of voters who would, if they adopted his proposal, further limit the powers of their elected representatives in the Legislature. The justification is that since voters now have the right to a referendum on a tax measure unless it is included in an appropriations bill, they ought to have the same right on even those tax changes included in spending legislation. But not everyone believes that voters should have such rights in all cases, as the defeat of Proposal C demonstrated in November.

Some people believe that in a system of representative government, the obligation of individual citizens is to elect officials to represent them and to conduct official business on their behalf. If the elected representatives do not satisfy their constituents, then they can be voted out of office and new representatives elected who presumably will meet their constituents' needs more consistently.

Yet in Michigan in recent years, the so-called tax revolt has resulted in a long list of tax referenda either put on the ballot by the Legislature or by the people's petitions. Many of them have gone down to defeat, often because they were oversimplified solutions to complex tax problems or because they were themselves open to misunderstanding and controversy, as was the case with Proposal C.

In any case, such referenda do return to the people the power to approve tax changes that some people, including this newspaper, think might be left in the hands of the legislators. Our elected representatives then can be held responsible for tax changes as well as other legislative actions and voted out of office or re-elected depending on how their constituents view their performance.

The weakness of that argument, we concede, is that special interests who have had their own axes to grind in tax legislation often have controlled legislative actions on taxes as well as other issues. As a consequence, the Legislature often has been more in step with the desires of these special interest groups than with the needs of the majority of the people. We suspect that the strong feelings expressed in Michigan over the tax revolt have been prompted by the perception the Legislature too often has been out of step with the people. And it is that perception that has led to the increasing reliance on referenda on tax measures in Michigan.

In the case of Rep. Bryant's proposal, however, we tend to agree that if the Constitution permits referenda on most tax measures, it ought to permit them on all such bills, including those that include appropriations. The proposal does close a loophole and make the Constitution consistent with regard to the people's right of referendum on tax measures.

Lucas for governor?

With the 1984 election only a month behind us, pundits and politicians already are gearing up for the 1986 election when Michigan will elect a governor, a full slate of state officials and both the House and Senate.

So far most of the speculation surrounds the candidates for governor. It is generally expected that the incumbent Democratic governor, James Blanchard, will seek re-election but the Republicans will not lack for challengers. The GOP view is that the governor is vulnerable on a number of issues, including, of course, that controversial 38 percent increase in income taxes voted by the Legislature last year.

One of the more interesting theories being discussed in the metropolitan press is that William Lucas, the Wayne County executive, might become a candidate for governor, perhaps even as a Republican. Lucas has been making a series of tours around the state talking about his accomplishments in reforming Wayne County government, and bringing it under fiscal control but he also has been advocating more state support to provide more prison beds to keep criminals off the streets.

In view of the public concern about crime, Lucas' talks have been well received, especially when he tells outstate people that crime exacts "a crime tax" on all state residents in terms of higher insurance rates, the cost of installing security systems, lost jobs and lower property values. A 25-member prison study commission Lucas set up in September supported his view by calling for more prison beds and stiffer sentences for criminals.

Lucas has denied he is running for anything, although his own term as county executive will expire in 1986. Instead, he is making his trips outstate as "an ambassador for Wayne County," he says, seeking to improve the county's image among outstate residents and legislators whose support he will need to get increased state aid. Reactions so far indicate Lucas' trips have been highly successful.

The county executive already has a solid base of support in the county, even though Democratic chieftains are not too happy with his independence and his challenges to their authority. In the Detroit suburbs, he is without doubt the county's most popular official.

Lucas, however, is far from the only potential candidate for governor. More traditional Republican candidates being mentioned are Oakland County Prosecutor Brooks Patterson, Senate Majority Leader John Engler, Oakland County Executive Dan Murphy and, of course, the unsuccessful GOP candidate in 1982, Richard Headlee who no doubt would enjoy another test against the governor.

It may be too early to engage in much speculation about specific candidates for 1986, but it is well for Michigan citizens to keep that election in mind as the Legislature winds up its lame duck session and then begins a new one in January. Tax legislation, reform of workers' compensation, state support for providing more prison beds and a host of other issues will confront legislators as well as the governor. Many decisions will be made to serve the 1986 interests of potential candidates as well as the interests of the people of the state. The public should keep an eye not only on the actions of potential candidates but on their political ambitions.

Simplification under fire

Everyone seems to be in favor of tax simplification — but only in theory. The reaction to Treasury Secretary Donald Regan's proposals proves once again that one person's tax shelter is another person's legitimate tax deduction.

For example, among the groups that would suffer from the Treasury's plan to limit or eliminate certain kinds of tax deductions are organizations that depend on charitable contributions as well as state and local governments. Yet both groups are also counted on by federal officials to provide more financing for welfare and other public services for which the federal government is cutting back its support. The federal government cannot have it both ways.

The Treasury has proposed that charitable contributions be deductible only if they exceed 2 percent of taxpayers' adjusted gross income. But nationally people now give less than 2 percent of their income for charitable purposes. So the only people who would be able to continue to take deductions for such purposes would be those giving more than 2 percent — which would constitute only a small proportion of present contributors.

In addition to other changes which would apparently lower the value of gifts of appreciated property, the Treasury would by its reduction in rates also make charitable giving less attractive. With top rates at 35 percent rather than 50 percent for individuals, the Treasury's plan would mean less saving for those who contribute more than the 2 percent of their adjusted gross income. In short, the lower the rates, the less the savings for contributors.

In Michigan, State Treasurer Robert Bowman has strongly criticized the Treasury proposals as an "attack" on state and local governments, according to a Detroit News story. Bowman cited both the ending of federal income tax deductions for state and local taxes and the federal predictions that state surpluses justify decreased federal aid to states and cities.

Gerald Miller, who directed the Department of Management and Budget for the Republican Milliken administration, has agreed with Bowman, indicating that the state treasurer's opinion is not just a Democratic view. Miller, however, is the current director of the National Association of State Budget Officers and thus may be expressing the self-interest of that organization.

Miller did say, however, that eliminating the deductions would put more pressure on the states to reduce taxes since state taxes no longer could be used as a deduction and an offset to federal taxes. Miller even sees increased difficulty in raising state taxes as a result of the Treasury's plan.

In both of the cases cited, the organizations complaining about the federal proposals are among those expected to carry a larger proportion of the funding load now born by the federal government. As the federal government cuts back on welfare and related spending, it expects voluntary organizations as well as state and local governments to pick up a bigger share of the load. Yet the federal proposals would seem at the same time to damage their ability to maintain even present revenues.

Businessmen, too, have specific reasons for criticizing the proposals, although the general reaction from the business community has been mixed. President Reagan, who asked Secretary Regan to make the study that resulted in the Treasury recommendations, has been noncommittal about the overall play. Congressional opinion has been divided, with many members of Congress contending that the simplification plan should also provide for some tax increases to help trim the deficit.

As the state and local governments have found in Michigan in recent years, taxes remain a controversial issue at whatever level they are imposed and at whatever rates they are set. It is already doubtful that tax simplification will become law during this session of Congress, but if it does, the final version is unlikely to bear much resemblance to Secretary Regan's original draft. Despite the secretary's optimism, tax simplification does not yet appear to be an idea whose time has come.

CHRISTMAS IS....

from our readers

Reader disagrees with story

To the Editor:
"Well, there you go again" — editorializing on the front page! Harriet Nolan's article in the Nov. 29th issue, "Mayor seeks to bypass charter re: new chief" is not only opinionated, but it is also totally inaccurate. I should also think it borders on libel.

It seems to me that a qualified citizens committee to evaluate and recommend police chief candidates is a thoughtful and responsible way to encourage some community input on a critical appointment that will affect our community for years. But then, there are some councilmen who would rather oppose Mayor Palmer Heenan and pander to headline-hunting reporters even if it hurts the city. The committee that the mayor wants to appoint in no way conflicts with the Grosse Pointe city charter.

Perhaps the News should consult an attorney before it makes any further comment on the Park's city charter. You might even check with the city attorney for an opinion. Maybe you'll learn something.

A few weeks ago my car stalled on Beaconsfield south of Jefferson. Along you came, a teenager with many things to do, I'm sure. You pushed my car to the curb, lifted the hood to locate the trouble. You did all of this in a very kind, gracious way.

Folks, yes, there are kind, thoughtful young people. Thank you, Peter.

Obviously you take great pleasure in subjecting your readers to a regular diet of Callahanism. I, for one, have had enough.

It is also obvious that you did not read the first sentence of the fourth paragraph of Mr. Callahan's letter published Nov. 28, 1984, where he states that he is no statistician and certainly no expert in enrollment declines. Were you aware of this, you may not have chosen to print his statistical conclusions.

As for taxpayer morale, let's worry a little bit more about student excellence and morale. After all, isn't that the real issue?

To Harriet Nolan:
I was present at the Nov. 26th council meeting in the Park.

Your article was courageous and extremely well written, as well as an accurate account of that meeting. I am confident that your honest reporting will gain a lot of respect for the Grosse Pointe News in this community as well as for yourself as a reporter — although I am sure you will hear a few comments to the contrary.

Hometown paper is best

To the Editor:
Placing an ad in the Grosse Pointe News was definitely an advantage over placing one in a larger newspaper such as the News or Free Press. I have placed ads in the others before and had nothing but trouble with the responses. People did not want to see the vehicle because it was too far away or if they did want to see it, they never showed up. When you place an ad in the GPN, although the readership is smaller, the people responding are in the area and seem more serious in their inquiries. It is definitely an advantage. I have over 20 calls the first day and the first person to see it bought it, which left the others no doubt angry, but that's business. Keep up the good work.

One view from the Capitol

By William R. Bryant Jr.

The Legislature is set to wrap up its 1984 session, much as one would wrap up the garbage and with similar distinction.

This year has hardly been an outstanding one for legislative accomplishment, except the historic recalling of two state senators is worthy of note.

It could have been a year of real progress on economic issues and health care cost containment and prison construction, just to name a few.

It could have been a year when, following the fear and immobilization of the Legislature last year after the tax increase wreaked havoc in the populace, the Legislature could have started anew.

It could have been a year when a new Republican senate majority and a Democratic governor interested in job creation found common ground, set aside partisanship and set the state on a solid course of job development.

This year could have been many good things. It had promise.

It did see some scaling back of the 1983 income tax increase.

And it did, in this 1984 year of George Orwell and Big Brother, remind us that some big governments are not malevolent, just ineffective. Some are not all intrusive, just obnoxious. Some are not alive enough to be dangerous.

Since this session of the Legislature has failed in so many ways and since lame-duck sessions are inherently dangerous when they do produce anything, it is time to end.

mercifully, this session of the Michigan Legislature.

I wonder if next year will be much better.

Prime Time for senior citizens

By Marian Trainor

What do you want for Christmas? If you are like many of us, that question is apt to be met with a startled look and an expression that says, "Oh no, Christmas is not that close!"

An unseasonably warm November, not to mention a subconscious tendency to put off what needs to be done to celebrate the holidays, adds to the shock that the time has come to get going. Time is no longer fleeting. It's flying. The days are not drifting, they are tumbling by like leaves in the wind. Too late now to wish you had followed through on those resolutions to get your shopping done early. Too late now to back away from the crowds and compete for those hard-to-find gifts. Too late now to envy those conscientious shoppers who have completed their list, wrapped their gifts and are free to enjoy the pre-Christmas activities; concerts, parties and walks through homes decorated for the season.

Next year for sure, you tell yourself, but in your heart you know it will be the same story. For some of us, Christmas has its own season. Until the wreaths and lights and decorations come out in the stores and streets and windows, the spirit of buying and giving lies dormant. These are the enticements that set the mood and "revs" us up to face the crowds. Merchants know this, and bring out their best wares to dazzle our eyes and break our budgets.

As we wander through a veritable fairland of merchandise, we are glad we waited. Such displays of goods were not here in September when more cautious shoppers were looking.

Another thought, would the gift so wanted at an earlier date still be on a preferred list now? The whims and choices of September may not be those of December. This may be rationalizing, but it provides comfort and solace to those with tired feet and weary bodies resulting from that all-too-familiar Christmas rush.

In your eagerness to get just the right gifts for those very special people in your life, don't push yourself too hard. If you find yourself getting tired, sit on a bench in the mall and watch the other shoppers. You think how wonderful it is that so many people are trying so hard to please those they love.

Commercial it may be, but this spirit of buying and giving is a very human expression of the love of one person for another.

You watch a young mother, her children clinging to her, their eyes and faces aglow with the wonder of toyland and Santa Clause. They are bursting with excitement. Santa knows now just what they want him to bring them. You know that mother will do her best to see that they are not disappointed. There will be things she will go without, but their delight on Christmas morning will more than make up for it.

Back to shopping and then time out for lunch or dessert and coffee. Have something special. Treat yourself. Enjoy the day.

It's over. You have something for everyone. You are tired but happy. "It is better to give than receive." Well said. That thought brings you back to the question that sent you off on this mission. It was: "What do you want for Christmas?"

You think about it — the possible, the impossible.

Like most people everywhere, you would like to live in a safe, peaceful world, free from the threat of nuclear annihilation. You would like to know that people, where ever they live, have enough to eat. You would wish that those searching for work and a decent living find it. You hope that somehow a way is found to curb crime

I say

Life without sports

Pat Paholsky

I always read Peggy O'Connor's column, Sports Talk, in this paper, and whenever I think about it, I search the Free Press sports pages for stories by Mike Downey. Big deal, you say, so do a lot of other people. Except most of them are sports fans and I'm not.

I like them because they are natural writers who don't use sports jargon nor do they appear to assume that all of their readers are heavy-duty jocks. They just know how to write in what seems to be an effortless manner and I appreciate good writing for its own sake.

All of which leads up to the topic of this column — life without sports or how to lead a colorful and fulfilling life without experiencing the agony of defeat and the thrill of victory. I'm not a sports person, but that's not to say I dislike athletic contests.

It's sort of like mountain climbing or shooting the rapids — I don't have strong feelings one way or another about either one, for other people that is. All I now is I would never do either. Walk up the side of a mountain? Me who starts to feel faint about the fifth step on a ladder? Engage in some whitewater rafting? Are you kidding? The largest body of water I can approach without heart palpitations is a bathtub filled about six inches high.

Back in my schooldays, I was on the basketball team and the baseball team, but alas, instead of being a player, I was a spectator in team uniform. At some point, I finally recognized that when it came time to doing things athletic, I was a klutz. Therefore, the whole idea of throwing a ball, catching it, rolling it or swinging at it or watching someone else doing all that became unimportant. And after that, the closest I got to anything resembling a sport was whenever I dated a football player.

A few years ago when jogging became the thing to do, I thought I would give it a try. The first time out, I got as far as my next door neighbor's house when she came running out on the porch and asked me what was wrong. I have a reputation for being an indoor, sedentary-type person, so when she saw me running on the road, she thought something terrible had happened. Well, I had to stop and explain there was nothing wrong and we laughed and I turned around and walked back home.

That was the end of my jogging career.

Then my husband decided we should ride a bicycle every evening for exercise. I know you will find this hard to believe, but it's the truth. We were not 500 yards from home on a quiet country road when he, enjoying nature and not looking where he was going, pointed his front wheel at mine and ran me off the road.

As I tumbled into a cattail-filled ditch, I wasn't thinking about the bike crashing on my head and splitting it open or breaking a leg. All I could think of was I hope there are no snakes in this trench. When I got to the bottom, the bike and I were still connected and you never saw anyone with an injured back move so fast. He was enjoying nature and I was wallowing in it. That, too, was the end of that.

I even tried water-skiing once. That experience has been mercifully erased from my memory forever.

A couple of years ago, I allowed myself, against all of my good judgment, to be talked into going on a canoeing trip down the Rifle River. The minute I sat in that canoe, I knew I made a mistake. Do you know how unstable those things are? I will never believe they were made for people. It took us seven hours to paddle to our destination and did you know there are no restrooms along the way?

So it's not that I haven't tried to be a sport. And it wasn't a hasty decision I reached when I concluded that life can be wonderful without ever once putting on a pair of skis or roller skates or whatever else is out there. In fact, there's nothing more pleasurable than sitting near a healthy fire with a pile of newspapers and magazines to sift through. Think I'll look through the sports section.

Tips on buying condo, co-op

Condominiums and co-operatives have become popular alternatives to single detached family homes. They also can be excellent investment/rental properties.

A new booklet released by the Better Business Bureau/Detroit and Eastern Michigan, "Tips on Condos and Co-ops," describes the differences between these investments with specific tips for prospective buyers.

The booklet outlines the pitfalls to avoid and precautions to take when buying.

The new booklet has been added to the Better Business Bureau Consumer Information series which offers helpful tips on more than 80 topics of consumer interest.

For a copy of the booklet, send 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Better Business Bureau/Detroit and Eastern Michigan, 150 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, Mich. 48226.

There are some very good reasons why the rest of your friends in Grosse Pointe trust their valued photos to SPEEDI PHOTO over all the other one-hour labs & the local drugstore.

It seems that everytime you pick up the newspaper there's another "one hour photo lab" opening up in a shopping mall promising the world's best photos. Despite these new "miracle" labs, Speedi Photo continues to enjoy the confidence and patronage of a good portion of the picture takers in Grosse Pointe. Here's why . . .

- WE USE THE BEST EQUIPMENT money can buy. Many one hour labs today are nothing more than "converted home darkrooms" that don't have the electronic sophistication necessary to make the best possible prints from your negatives.
- WE USE KODAK, U.S.A. PAPER & CHEMICALS to guarantee consistently good color prints. Many one hour labs are trying to cut corners by using European Kodak or Japanese paper instead of KODAK, U.S.A. paper, which we receive fresh from Kodak's Rochester factory weekly.
- WE EMPLOY TRAINED PROFESSIONALS to print your photos who have been factory trained to meet our exacting standards of quality!
- WE MAKE ENLARGEMENTS up to 11" x 14" as quickly as one hour as well as just develop & print standard-size color prints!
- OUR ONLY BUSINESS IS PICTURES . . . we don't use our processing as a "leader" to draw you into the store. Your processing business is our livelihood. We do your pictures better because we want your business!

FREE 5x7" WITH COUPON ONLY - ENLARGEMENT

Bring us any roll of 35mm, 110, 126 or disc color print film for SPEEDI PHOTO custom developing and printing. When you pick it up, a certificate for a FREE 5x7" COMPUTER ENLARGEMENT will be enclosed!

This coupon cannot be combined with any other coupon or discount offered by Speedi Photo processing. Limit one coupon per roll of film developed.

and make our homes and streets safe.

I would like to win the Lotto jackpot so I could buy every little girl who wants one a Cabbage Patch Kid. These dolls are more than a commercial success. They are a phenomenon that fills a need. They are not pretty, but they are appealing. They are soft and cuddly and each one has a personality and name of its own. Somehow they fill the need for children to have a doll that seems almost human, one to love and one who belongs to them alone.

These are intangibles and in no way an answer to the question, "What do you want?" posed by someone who wants to experience the satisfaction of showing their love and appreciation by giving you a gift you will treasure.

Oftentimes older people are reluctant to name their preferences. "I'll like anything you choose," they say.

I remember an aunt who would say that. When she died, there were boxes with Christmas gifts still in them, clearly marked to be returned to the person who had given them to her. No one ever had the pleasure of seeing her enjoy a gift.

"I really don't need anything," is another answer frequently given. That may be true. After many years of living, everything that is needed has already been acquired.

That answer brings to mind a Christmas story by Joan Anglund, "Something for Christmas."

A little mouse wants desperately to give his mother something special. "I will give you a pen-wiper," he tells her. "But I have a pen-wiper," she says. And so it goes. The little mouse making suggestions, the mother answering, "But I have that." Finally the little mouse climbs up on his mother's lap saying, "Mother, I have nothing to give you then but my love." And his mother answers, "That's just what I wanted for Christmas."

It's a sweet little story that children love as well as adults. It expresses a beautiful sentiment and one that many older people feel. All they want for Christmas is to be loved.

What they fail to appreciate is that those who love them want to show that love by giving them something. Everyone has day-to-day needs. Tell those needs. You will enjoy them more if they carry the tag of love rather than a price tag.

Along with the possible, if sometimes not probable gifts are those that exist only in memory. For those who had had the blessing of many Christmases, the season always brings into focus those which are treasured and those, if it were possible, we would like to live again.

Every year, the ghosts of Christmas past rises up like mists on a foggy morning demanding to live in memory. And every year we welcome them back to their rightful place in our lives at this special time.

Those I like to recall, is one like a scene from the "Nutcracker Suite." A tree is set up in the parlor, trimmed and set off with candles blinking and flickering on boughs as green as moss. Mother and Dad are setting out a box that hopefully contains a very special doll. What joy the next morning to lift the cover, push aside the tissue and find what had to be the most beautiful doll ever made. She was dressed like a princess and had a beautiful porcelain face and black, shiny curls. She was a dream come true. Who would not choose to live the joy of that morning again?

The reel of memory fast-forwards to another Christmas and a very special gift from an aunt who was like a second mother to me. I was the family she never had. I was her hope and her future. Appropriately her Christmas gift was a cedar chest, a symbol of all that she had never had and never would have.

Cedar chests were an important item in her day. Girls collected linens and silver and store them in the chest for the day when they would have homes of their own. Prospective mothers filled them with baby clothes, baby blankets and diapers. A few years passed and when the girl of the family was old enough, the cycle began again.

I still have the chest. It no longer serves as a repository for future brides and prospective babies. Other times and other customs. I still keep some special items in it. I still treasure it and remember with a special feeling, the one who gave it to me to fill with dreams of future joys.

There is a similarity in how both young people and older people recall Christmases they have known. They are not all remembered, just those which for one reason or another were marked by some special gift or event. Otherwise they merge into a collage of traditional celebrations.

But ask an older person about any Christmas they have known when their children were young and they will remember each of them; the joy of celebrating with a first-born, the delight and fun of getting up on Christmas morning and watching children unwrap their gifts, they year the dog tipped over the tree, the hours spent assembling a toy and the child played with the box it came in.

Precious memories. Endless memories. These are the days we would live again if such a gift were possible. These are the dreams that steal quietly into our lives to make Christmas a little more than giving and receiving.

Sisters of Bon Secours begin 75th year

The Sisters of Bon Secours will begin their 75th year of caring in Michigan today, Dec. 6. This tradition continues with the dedication of the new Sisters of Bon Secours Nursing Care Center in St. Clair Shores on Dec. 7.

"Throughout the history of the Sisters, it's always been our philosophy to adjust our services to the needs of the community," said Sister Regina Clifton, C.B.S., chief executive officer and president of mission for the Bon Secours Health Systems, Inc. in Columbia, MA.

The 200-bed nursing home will provide long-term, rehabilitation, and respite care in an area where the population is getting older and in need of special health care services.

The Sisters' tradition of caring started in the Detroit area in 1909 when five Sisters took up residence in a donated home on Trumbull Avenue.

On March 13, 1911, the Sisters became incorporated under the name, "The Sisters of Bon Secours," with the purpose of providing "the care or relief of indigent or other sick or infirm persons in their homes."

In 1938, they converted a small farmhouse in Grosse Pointe to a 10-bed nursing home for women with a goal to build a hospital on the site.

In 1944, a clinical and pathological laboratory was added as well as an operating room, X-ray department, and emergency room. Bon Secours Hospital, Grosse Pointe, officially opened in January 1945 with 36 beds. One hundred beds in 1951 and 60 more in 1954 were added.

In 1972, the hospital was totally renovated and expanded to its present capacity of 311 beds. Today, services include a Health and Fitness Center, Family Practice Center, Internal Medicine Center, Adult Day Care Center, and the new Nursing Care Center at sites separate from the hospital.

The six Sisters of Bon Secours who serve at Bon Secours Hospital, Grosse Pointe, and the Sisters of Bon Secours Nursing Care Center, St. Clair Shores are, from left, Sr. Patricia A. Eck, C.B.S., associate administrator; Sr. Anne Marie Mack, C.B.S., director of nursing (Nursing Care Center); Sr. Victoria Segura, C.B.S., M.D., pathologist and hospice medical director; Sr. Lucretia Gottschall, C.B.S., patient visitor; Sr. Patricia Dowling, C.B.S., associate administrator/director of operations (Nursing Care Center); Sr. Jean Aulenback, S.B.S., pastoral care chaplain.

Dr. Davies to speak Sunday

The pastor emeritus of Chicago's Fourth Presbyterian Church, Dr. Elam Davies, will speak at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church on Sunday, Dec. 9.

A native of Wales and prominent church-community program innovator, Dr. Davies served Fourth Presbyterian in Chicago as its pastor for more than two decades. He retired from that position last spring.

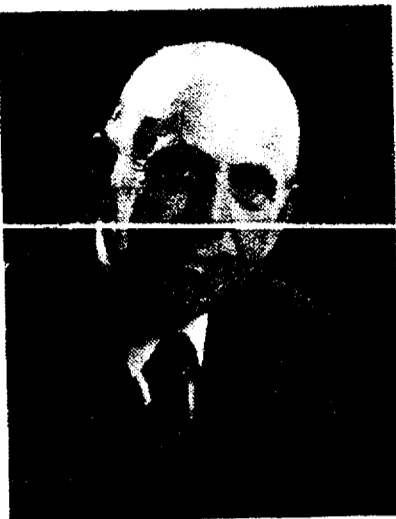

He is the eighth person in the church's autumn-winter series of visiting speakers. He preaches at 9:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m.

Dr. Davies is described by his congregation as "fellow pilgrim, shepherd, administrator, philosopher, counselor and preacher par excellence." His sermon, on the second Sunday in the Christmas Advent season, is entitled "Advent... The Severity of God's Goodness."

Dr. Davies' commitment to the greater Chicago community has been demonstrated through programs including tutoring for children of the low-income Cabrini-Green Housing Development with members of his congregation (now numbering 300 tutors); establishment of a senior center; a "Released Time" program with a nearby school in which the church provides Christian education to all children wishing to participate, and projects for church volunteers at the Cook County Hospital and as tutors at the Cook County Jail.

He has been a professor of philosophical theology and Christian ethics at Temple University, a visiting lecturer in Homiletics at Princeton and McCormick seminaries, a General Assembly preacher on both sides of the Atlantic and was a visiting Preacher of the Year in Australia.

He currently is devoting his time to writing, conducting ministerial retreats and lecturing on college and seminary campuses.

Dr. Elam Davies

In addition, there will be a presentation of Herody by 10 students from St. Mary's College at Orchard Lake.

A pre-dinner wine punch will be served at 6:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7 p.m. Donation is $17 general and $12 for students. Seating is limited.

For reservations, call Mrs. Lee Uldrych at 865-9226 or Mrs. John Zukowski at 886-1383.

Citizens appointed

Grosse Pointe Park resident Doris M. Miller was appointed, with the approval of council, chairperson of the Beautification Commission. Also approved for two-year terms were Nancy J. Pilorget, vice chairperson, and Shelia M. Farrant, secretary.

Re-appointed to the commission were Albin A. Mazur, Jerome K. Abbs, Sylvia Landuyt, Nancy J. Pilorget, Margaret Price and Diamond T. Phillips.

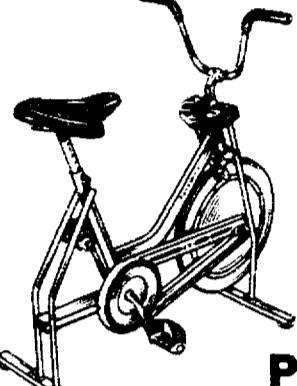

Christmas at the Ford House

Elaborately decorated for the season, the house will be open to the public through Dec. 8. Admission is $5 for adults; $3 for students; group rates available for 15 or more by reservation. Nursing scholarships offered by VA

The Health Professional Scholarship Program for the 1985-86 school year, sponsored by the Veterans Administration, provides support to baccalaureate and master's degree nursing students on a "pay-back-in-service" basis.

The VA scholarships provide tuition, educational expenses and a monthly stipend for participants who agree to serve a minimum of two years as a full-time registered nurse in one of VA's 172 medical facilities.

Approximately $3.7 million is available for scholarships for the 1985-86 school year. Awards are made to third- and fourth-year baccalaureate nursing students and to master's degree candidates in specialties needed by the VA. These specialties are gerontology, medical/surgical, adult psychiatric/mental health, rehabilitation and nursing service administration.

Information about the program is available from the VA Health Professional Scholarship Program, Office of Academic Affairs, DM&S (14N), 810 Vermont Ave. NW, Washington, D.C. 20420. Requests for an application package may be made to the Scholarship Program Office between Jan. 7 and May 10, 1985. Completed applications must be received by the Scholarship Program Office no later than June 3, 1985.

Free installation with donation

Grosse Pointe Cable is offering free installation for any of its commercial-free premium services, in return for the donation of a new toy with a retail value of at least $5 or a comparable cash contribution.

The toys and money will be turned over to the United States Marine Corps Reserve League, which provides gifts and other holiday treats to youngsters who might otherwise have nothing as part of its annual "Toys for Tots" program.

Both the cost of the toys and any cash donations are fully tax deductible, according to Grosse Pointe Cable General Manager Andy Moore. He said the offer will be in effect through Friday, Dec. 14.

Lake level

Lake St. Clair at the end of October was at elevation 575.00 feet or 40 inches above chart datum; this was about three inches above one year ago, and the October monthly mean of 575.05 feet was 20 inches above its long-term average for October. The Great Lakes forecast shows that Lake St. Clair is expected to be 36 inches above chart datum or at elevation 574.66 feet at the end of November.

In Western Arkansas, Hangman George Malodon, one of the Old West's hard men, put to death at least 60 convicted prisoners.

American Red Cross seeks volunteers

"We Need More of You" is the urgent appeal challenging Wayne County residents from the American Red Cross, Southeastern Michigan Chapter.

"We need more volunteers to assist with operations at blood drives and donor centers like the ones in Detroit or Roseville," said Shirley McElfresh, R.N., a Red Cross staff nurse and spokesperson for the appeal. "The most important duty of a blood team volunteer is making each donor's visit a pleasant, relaxing experience that will make them want to donate blood again."

"Not only do they provide that smile and caring for each donor, but they help organize donor information, escort them to the refreshment area, and perform many of the non-medical duties enabling the nurses to concentrate strictly on patient comfort and safety."

There is a critical shortage of blood team volunteers throughout the tri-county area. The permanent donor centers serving us are located at 100 Mack Ave., Detroit and 17955 E. Eleven Mile Road, Roseville. Blood team volunteers are asked to assist at this location and other mobile blood drives in Wayne or Macomb Counties.

For more information about becoming a Red Cross blood team volunteer, call 1-800-552-5467.

There will be two performances each day, at 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. The production is under the direction of Sally Reynolds.

Famine relief fund goal is $120,000

Metropolitan Detroit area residents have already given enough to the American Red Cross to feed more than 770 starving Africans.

In a period of approximately three weeks, the Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross has received contributions totalling more than $37,100 for African Famine Relief.

According to the Red Cross, it takes only $4 per month or $48 per year to keep one starving African alive. The League of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies estimates that 40,000 persons per month are starving in Africa.

The Southeastern Michigan Chapter's African Famine Relief Campaign goal is a minimum of $120,000. Checks should be made payable to American Red Cross, earmarked "African Relief" and mailed to Executive Office, Southeastern Michigan Chapter, American Red Cross, P.O. Box 351, Detroit, Mich. 48232.

Kerby adds science room

Kerby Elementary School in the Farms is joining other Grosse Pointe elementary schools by establishing its own science room.

Under the direction of PTO board member Cathy Weyhing, Kerby parents and staff are planning to turn Room 111A into the school's science room, offering displays, exhibits and hands-on experiments that will give teachers space to conduct experiments and demonstrations for the students.

"This will allow them to apply what they've learned in the classroom," Mrs. Weyhing said. English and math are applied through exercises while science is more theoretical, she added, saying the room will allow teachers to demonstrate science concepts to students.

Exhibits will include hand-on demonstrations and equipment that can't be made available in all of the rooms, such as a beating heart model, Mrs. Weyhing said.

All existing science material in the building not being used in individual classrooms has been pooled and catalogued for the science room. Some of the material was purchased using money donated by the Kerby PTO to the school at the November board of education meeting.

At that time, the PTO donated $6,670, some of which was to be used for the purchase of a computer, software and science room supplies.

The donated funds came from the triennial Kerby school fair, according to Patti Ritter of the school's science room committee.

The school is getting the room in shape and may be ready to open it after Christmas, Mrs. Ritter said. The school may also start a science club for students after school when the room is ready, she added, saying there is a group of parents who will volunteer to help in the room.

The community may also help stock the science room, according to Mrs. Ritter. Anyone interested in donating or lending science equipment, collections, visual displays, posters or other science-related materials may call 885-1251 or 882-0574 for more information.

Students to carol for canned goods

A group of 32 Pierce Middle School students will go Christmas caroling in Grosse Pointe Park on Friday, Dec. 7, but they won't be looking for money or applause.

In return for their holiday songs, they will ask for canned goods for the needy.

The unique venture was proposed by Megan Fahle. Her classmates in Home Room 213, and their teacher Ginny Downs, agreed to participate in the caroling.

Food collected by the carolers will be distributed to needy families by Crossroads. Megan heard about Crossroads and their aid to less fortunate families through the Pierce Student Government.

Pierce to present Christmas concert

Pierce Middle School music students, faculty and P.T.O. will present their annual Christmas Concert in the school auditorium on Thursday, Dec. 13, at 8 p.m. A short P.T.O. meeting will be conducted before the concert.

The Concert Band will perform the Ukrainian Bell Carol, Do You Hear What I Hear and selections from the Nutcracker Suite. The school choir will entertain with Sunshine and Snowflakes and a medley of Christmas carols.

Refreshments will be served by the P.T.O. after the concert.

ULS schedules test dates

University Liggett School welcomed its largest freshman class this September when 98 students joined the Upper School.

The school will offer several testing opportunities for candidates seeking admission to its Middle and Upper schools beginning with the first test date Saturday morning Dec. 8. Additional testing has been scheduled for Feb. 2, March 2, April 20 and May 11 next year.

Testing is one of four steps in the admission process and the results help to suggest whether the student would be able to succeed at ULS. Other steps include a personal interview and tour of the facilities, a review of the applicant's school records and teacher recommendations and a completed application form.

So that attendance at ULS need not be decided solely by family finance, the school provides financial assistance for students of demonstrated need and special merit. Approximately one of every five students receives some financial aid. Students interested in making application for financial aid should apply for admission early in the school year and should test in December or February.

Liggett's lower school follows a similar admissions procedure. That division will also begin its testing Dec. 8.

For further information about the school or its testing procedure, call Mrs. Burwell, admissions coordinator, at 884-4444.

Ontario's canals

The Grosse Pointe Cinema League will present "Cruising Ontario's Canals," a 35mm slide show by Jerry and Beverly Pearsall at the War Memorial's Fries Auditorium, Monday, Dec. 10, at 8 p.m.

The two canal systems in Ontario, the Rideau and Severn, both for pleasure boating, are navigated, partly by houseboat, then by outboard-powered "rowboat" to cross the land mass. A series of locks are ascended, then more locks are later descended.

The camera covers the interesting experience of entering the locks, rising or dropping within the gates, then departing the locks to continue along the scenic canals, lakes and rivers to the next lock.

A highlight of the program is at Peterborough where a giant liftlock raises the boats in large tanks, elevator style. At Big Chute, a mammoth cable car plucks the travelers from the water and carries them over the dam to the river below.

Stretching workshop

Bon Secours Hospital's Health and Fitness Center in St. Clair Shores will offer a one-hour program tonight (Dec. 6) on proper stretching techniques to use during warm-up and cool-down phases of exercise programs.

The class begins at 7:30 p.m. and there is a $2 fee for the public. Registration is not required. Lighted parking is available.

Call 343-1436 for more information. The center is located at 22300 Bon Brae at Jefferson, between 10 and 11 Mile roads.

Pancakes with Santa

Poupard School, 20655 Lennon Drive, Harper Woods, will sponsor its annual Pancake Breakfast with Santa on Saturday, Dec. 8 from 8 a.m. to noon.

There will be a talking Christmas tree, musical entertainment with sing-a-longs, a Homemade Specialties Shop and children-only gift boutique.

Breakfast is $2.50 for adults, $2 for students and no charge for preschoolers. Proceeds will benefit school projects. Call 885-8931 or 881-7598 for information.

Theater trip

Tickets are now on sale for some post-holiday chuckles at the Hilberry Theatre when the War Memorial's chartered bus takes theatergoers to see Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" on Thursday, Jan. 10. The center recommends that reservations be made by Dec. 10.

The $12 per person cost includes round-trip bus transportation, admission to the theater and beverages, cheese and crackers on the return trip.

The bus will leave the War Memorial at 7 p.m. and will return around 11:30 p.m. For more information, call 881-7511.

Merchants have the 'right stuff' for sweet teeth

By Harriet Nolan

Holidays are special times which are expressed by offering that something extra to family and friends. And one needn't go farther than the Pointes to find food to fit every entertaining need.

The first steps inside Josef's French Pastry Shop are innocent enough, although a sign should warn: Enter at your own risk. It's not until the door to the Woods bakery swings shut and eyes adjust to the glare bouncing off glass cases, one realizes the enormity of the situation and chilling fear takes hold.

But by then it's too late. Already your sights are being dazzled by the glacial peaks, deep crevices and rich valleys of chocolate and buttercream icings that fill, top and osceoney wrap around sweets of all shapes and sizes.

"Everything here is handwork and we pay more attention to detail than many shops," says owner Josef Bogosian, pointing to his seasonal offerings.

A chocolate cake filled with raspberries, French chocolate and then wrapped in more French chocolate looks too good to be true.

"It's a Yule Log," he says, "and serves about 15 people nicely." Last you think he's shot his wad on that fantasy creation, he points out Stollen, German breads, rolled marzipan, fruitcakes and Christmas cookies which are all by now bombarding your senses.

Down the street, Peg Dunlop and Sue and Marvin Rancilio, owners of the Cheesecake Shop, also offer shoppers no mercy in making decisions.

Not one, not two, but 30 varieties of cheesecake greet visitors, and if that's not enough, doilies display bite-size cheesecake tartlets to further tempt tastebuds.

Mrs. Rancilio says there is a 200 percent increase in business as customers stock up on seasonal offerings of run raisin, egg nog and pumpkin cheesecakes.

Haven't had enough? Then mosey over to the Merry Mouse

Don't let that innocent smile of Andrew Moquin's fool you. That table loaded with a Buche de Noel, Chocolate Decadence Diamonds and assorted nut breads are only a few of the Merry Mouse's offerings guaranteed to steal your heart away.

where sinfully rich Chocolate Decadence Diamonds will put the most critical chocolate connoisseur in a state of bliss.

"We're busy now and we'll have two weeks of bedlam just before Christmas," says co-owner Andrew Moquin.

He warns that many holiday items should be ordered early, particularly the German-Austrian creation, called Croquebouches. Made by pastry chef Karen Nahajewski, who was previously assistant pastry chef at Van Dyke Place, it takes about five hours to assemble, starts at $40 and is available in limited quantities.

It's usually made of puff pastry shells filled with custard or whipped cream, according to Moquin. The filled pastries are then built with tooth picks into a four-foot-high, tree-shaped centerpiece and then glazed with creme caramel.

The Merry Mouse's version of the log roll, called a Buche de Noel, is made of white cake that is layered with raspberries and chocolate mousse filling. It is then wrapped in more chocolate mousse.

Less sweeter favorites include cranberry nut and zucchini raisin breads. "Don't forget the hand-dipped chocolate truffles," Moquin suggests.

Josef Bogosian of Josef's French Pastry Shop, proudly displays his holiday sweets. The Yule log is shown at the lower right.

Travel group extends membership deadline

Non-profit groups now have until Sept. 30, 1985 to apply for a free membership in American Youth Hostels. The extension will give more organizations a chance to discover how American Youth Hostel's system of 300 low-cost hostels across the U.S. can help them cut the cost of travel accommodations.

Michigan has 28 hostels, located in Charlevoix, Coloma, Delton, Detroit, Elk Rapids, Flint, Frankfort, Fruitport, Grand Rapids, Greenville, Hart, Ironwood, Lakeview, Ludington, Mancelona, Milford, Portland, Saginaw, Twin Lake, White Cloud, Williamston and Yale.

Since the program began early this year, some 1,400 recreational, scout, school, church, youth, civic and senior citizens groups have joined AYH to take advantage of the members-only overnight facilities.

A free 50th Anniversary Give-away brochure and membership application are available by writing or calling the Michigan Council of American Youth Hostels, 3024 Coolidge Hwy., Berkley, Mich. 48072, (313) 545-0511.

The card expires Dec. 31, 1985 and is valid in the U.S. and Canada.

Dance performance

A Grosse Pointe group will be among hundreds of performers providing free musical programs at Renaissance Center, in downtown Detroit.

East & Co., a dance group, will perform at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 15 on the Promenade Stage, lower level.

Marine biologist talks at North, South

Dr. John B. Heiser, a marine biologist on the staff of Cornell University, spoke to science students at South High Dec. 3, and to North students on Dec. 4.

Heiser has been director of Shoals Marine Laboratory in the Gulf of Maine since 1978. Shoals, which is jointly operated by Cornell and the University of New Hampshire, is an educational facility that offers many courses for students and interested adults. He has been a teaching assistant or faculty member at the laboratory since it was established on Appledore Island in 1971.

His own research on marine vertebrates, especially fish and marine mammals, has taken him around the world. He has also taught in many Cornell Adult University programs, in Maine and the Caribbean.

Heiser received his bachelor's degree from Purdue in 1967, and completed his doctorate at Cornell in the department of Neurobiology and Behavior in 1981.

His local visit was underwritten by the local Cornell University alumni group and the Grosse Pointe Foundation for Academic Enrichment.

The Grosse Pointe Foundation for Academic Enrichment was formed in 1971 by a group of concerned citizens interested in promoting cultural enrichment in the public school system.

Other programs to be underwritten during this school year by the foundation include Cameron Oglesbee, amateur paleobotanist, who will present his hands-on fossil exhibits to Pierce students in January; Dr. Don Lammars of Michigan State University, an expert in British history, who will speak on World War I and British imperialism in February and April; and Dr. Glenn Altschuler of Cornell University, who will lecture on American popular culture in April.

The board of trustees of the Grosse Pointe Foundation for Academic Enrichment numbers 21 during 1984-85. They are Merieke Allen, Anne Berry, Peggy Davis, David Deacon, George Eddington, Alfreda Frost and John Hammel.

Others are Joan Hanpeter, Cynthia Huebner, Kathleen Herschelmann, Pat Jeffs, Eva Koch, Lynne Kogel and Crit Liebbrand.

And Gordon Morlan, Ann Nicholson, Marge Nixon, Ginny Peattie, Robert Welch, Joy Williams and Ruth Zinn.

Special desserts for holiday entertaining are rum raisin, egg nog and pumpkin cheesecakes. These and 27 other varieties including the tartlets, lower center, are available at the Cheesecake Shop in the Woods.

One-man show

Nicholas Pennell, who has appeared in lead roles at the Stratford Shakespearean Festival for 10 seasons, will perform "A Variable Passion" at the Detroit Institute of Arts Monday, Dec. 10, at 8:30 p.m. The play is an examination of courtship, marriage and divorce. Tickets are $10 general admission or $5 for senior citizens and students. For more information, call the DIA box office at 832-2730.

programs. "We're slowly coming to realize that television is no longer a toy and we have an opportunity . . . or obligation to offer them an experience," Kefgen says.

That experience can work both ways, they say. Students who come in with stars in their eyes quickly discover the rigor of odd hours and time constraints, Kefgen says. But it's also a good way to teach students a variety of performing arts, and, if they don't pursue broadcasting as a career, they will still have a deeper appreciation for what goes on to produce a program and become more critical as they watch, Ms. Kirkpatrick says.

One thing people won't see is the time that goes into editing the show, Ms. Kirkpatrick says. For the three hours of taping for two segments, there are eight to 10 more hours of editing, splicing and working on the time slot with the cable people before the two half-hour shows air.

Editing must be done at Grosse Pointe Cable offices, because the school system doesn't have a tape editor, Kefgen says. It's an expensive piece of equipment that could not easily be used for instruction purposes should programming stop.

Although the program is experimental, there are still big dreams for it. Someday, a studio the schools can use as a teaching station; someday an internship program with college broadcasting majors to enable production of higher-quality programming; someday, a variety of shows, from kid-on-the-street shows to talking history, that interests everyone in the community and not just those in school.

The word is someday, however.

Right now, the system is working on taping and broadcasting the monthly regular school board meeting and setting regular time slots for programming to develop viewer habits for watching school cable. The public, private and parochial schools have yet to be all connected into the system, Kefgen adds.

There are positive things coming for educational cable programming and the system is working now to get the framework in place, Kefgen says. In coming years, the schools will be able to put out eight to 10 hours of original programming for its 15-hour slot on Channel 19, he added.

Educational cable programming can be for the community and students, the two say. Requests have been made by teachers for reproductions of programs to show their classes. Some tapes are stored for later use in a library of sorts.

The weak schedules over-the-air television stations have between 6 and 8 p.m., two-thirds of the nightly school programming cable slot, may also aid local programming, the two say. Someday, the school system may be setting its schedule of programs based on what's running on other channels.

That's another someday, Kefgen notes. There are no viewership surveys that can tell the schools who's watching what and when, he adds.

It's back to reality for the pair. Kefgen puts on his green blazer for more taping to be spliced into the show. Ms. Kirkpatrick has a 4:30 appointment, then it's back to the performing arts center for a few hours before finishing her day about 11 p.m. The two discuss when the editing should be done on the programs to get them ready for viewing.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

In homes throughout Sweden early on the morning of Dec. 13, the eldest daughter, robed in white, a crown of lighted candles set in lingonberry leaves on her head, wakes her parents and offers them coffee and fancy currant buns known as "lussekatter." She is Lucia and, in Sweden, the Christmas season begins on this Lucia Day.

There will be two Lucia Festivals celebrated in the Pointe area this year. At the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club on Friday, Dec. 14, members and guests of the Jenny Lind Club of Detroit will welcome "Lucia" Malin Halladay and her attendants at a dinner dance. Cocktails will be served at 7:30 p.m., followed by dinner and dancing to the music of Art Quatro's Trio.

And on Sunday, Dec. 9, at 5:30 p.m. at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Chandler Park Drive at Dickerson in Detroit, a traditional Lucia Festival will be celebrated. The Jenny Lind party is a private affair, but all are welcome at Immanuel, "home church" of Detroit's East Side turn-of-the-century Swedish immigrants, to view the pageant that is a high point in the lives and memories of congregation members who are of Swedish heritage.

Among Pointe resident's involved in presenting this year's Immanuel Lucia Festival are Mrs. Olof Fornell, Mrs. William Hendrickson, Mrs. Robert McCormick and Mrs. Carl Ohman.

You don't have to be Scandinavian to appreciate the legend of the lovely Sicilian maiden who was adopted by the Swedes as their "Queen of Lights." Lucia was a beautiful young girl, born into a rich and noble family in the third century A.D. The family, in addition to being rich and noble, was Christian — which, in the third century A.D., meant trouble, for Christians were subject to persecution in the then-pagan Roman Empire.

So Lucia and her mother brought gifts to the poor at night, in secrecy, Lucia with a candle on her head to light the way, for her arms were full. She was eventually discovered, sentenced to be burned . . . but the wood would not catch fire, so the young woman was killed by a sword thrust on Dec. 13, which became her Saint's Day.

In Scandinavia, according to the old calendar, Dec. 13 was the first day after the longest night of the year. And in Scandinavia, far to the north, that night was a very long night. The pagan Swedes rejoiced at the end of darkness and the return of light, and traveling Norsemen, coming in contact with the Christian south, brought tales of Santa Lucia home with them.

She became Sweden's "Queen of Lights," her legend woven into Sweden's early Christmas festivals. She remains so today: The Lucia Festival is celebrated not only in Swedish homes, but in hospitals, schools, offices, hotels, restaurants, factories: wherever people gather. Each town selects its Lucia, and every year in Stockholm the

AAUW's tea is pleasant interlude in holiday rush

The Grosse Pointe Branch of the American Association of University Women will celebrate the holiday season with a traditional Christmas Tea next Thursday, Dec. 13, from 12:30 to 3 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe United Methodist Church on Moross Road.

"This will be an afternoon for relaxing with friends, a respite from the holiday hassle," says Peggy Patsznik, Pointe AAUW president. "We hope to see many members there."

Marianne Shrader, the branch's general program vice-president, and Ginny Coluni, social arrangements chairperson, are overseeing the afternoon's activities, which will include a musical program by the AAUW Chorus, now in its seventh year, and a Reader's Theatre version of Dickens' classic "Christmas Carol."

Members of the branch's Green Thumb Group, chaired by Cindy Carson and Mary Sue Cheek, will provide the yuletide table decorations.

The chorus, under the leadership of longtime director Mary Jane Starnes, plans to present seven songs. Betty Barnes is accompanist for the ensemble which includes sopranos Gerry Dice, Pat Erikson, Hildegard Fichtner, Ann Ingalls, Rose Lemmerman, Gene Moore, Sue Reid, Dorothy Rieven and Joyce Walker; second sopranos Corinne Dickinson, Helen Fisher, Lee Kolb and Gerry Mullen; and altos Mary Lou Boresch, Leila Lynch, Pat Miller, Ann Nicholson, Elaine Reed, Karla Sumner and Ann Schumacher.

The famous Scrooge Story will be told by members of the AAUW's Play Reading Group, headed this year by Marie Surbrook and including Ella Chester, Ruth Dicey, Mary Draper, Harriet Helms, Virginia Johnston, Jean Obenauer, June Plihal, Jane Rudolph and Mary Bell Taylor.

December schedule. It's also entertaining tomorrow, Friday, Dec. 7, at both the Luther Haven Nursing Home and the Whittier Towers Retirement Center, and next Tuesday, Dec. 11, at the Christmas program of the Women's Association of Christ the King Lutheran Church.

And after its AAUW Christmas Tea engagement (which is, of course, a Very Special Performance, for its own parent organization), the chorus will perform Monday, Dec. 17, at Georgian East Retirement Residence and St. Mary's Nursing Home. That same evening, the group will be singing again at the Annual AAUW Chorus Family Party. This is another Very Special Performance, when husbands are invited to hear what their wives have been up to all year. Leila Lynch's home will be the setting for this year's Chorus Family Party.

Design Center Holiday Stroll benefits MCF

The Michigan Design Center is opening its doors for the first time a week from tomorrow, Friday, Dec. 14, for a Holiday Stroll to benefit the Michigan Cancer Foundation. It runs from 4 to 8 p.m., and the $15 admission donation includes a cheese and wine buffet, prizes courtesy of the exhibitors and valet parking.

"All our exhibitors and designers are really looking forward to this holiday event," says Joan A. Cleavland, the Center's public affairs director. "This is one of the very rare occasions that the Design Center is available to persons other than interior designers, architects and home furnishings dealers.

"It is our way of getting involved in supporting the many important community services of the Michigan Cancer Foundation."

The Designer Center is located on Stutz Drive, off 15 Mile Road between Coolidge and Crooks Roads in Troy. It consists of 80,000 square feet of wall and floor coverings, fabrics, furniture, lighting, accessories and related items displayed in show rooms open only to the trade.

The 30 rooms carry over 650 manufacturers' product lines, the widest variety of furnishings between Chicago and New York. Merchandise cannot be purchased during the Holiday Stroll, but names of designers will be available upon request.

Admission tickets and further information on the Holiday Stroll may be obtained by contacting the MCF at 833-0710, or any local MCF office.

Pair exchange vows Oct. 6

Debra Gail Halsey, D.D.S., and William James Carmody, D.D.S., who exchanged marriage vows Saturday, October 6, at an 11:30 o'clock ceremony at Salem Memorial Lutheran Church, vacationed briefly at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island before returning to make their home in Detroit. They have opened a private client practice in Troy.

The bride, daughter of Martha Marjorie Halsey, of North Oxford Road, and the late Kenneth Stuart Halsey, was escorted down the aisle by her brothers, Kenneth Paul Halsey, of San Jose, Calif., and Kurt Stuart Halsey. They also ushered, along with Christopher Scott Carmody, the bridegroom's brother.

Dr. Halsey wore a tea length gown of hand-clipped, white Chantilly lace, styled with a high, sheer neck and elbow length, puff sleeves and sash-tied at the waist. Her headpiece was a wreath of miniature orchids, ivy and baby's-breath, with white satin streamers. Matching streamers gathered the sprays of white orchids and ivy she carried.

Honor attendant Cheryl Vuia Radfal, a Michigan State University Sigma Kappa sorority sister of the bride, and bridesmaid Kim Michelle Halsey, the bride's sister, also carried sprays gathered with ribbon streamers, identical to the bridal bouquet but fashioned of dusty rose orchids and ivy. Their tea length dresses of mauve chiffon featured high, lace necks, trimmed in silk floss matching the silk floss that tucked their skirt borders, and elbow length, puff sleeves. Their waists were belted in satin ribbon.

Todd Gregory Carmody, of Monterey, Calif., acted as best man for his brother. They are the sons of Mrs. and Mrs. Charles E. Carmody, of Mount Clemens.

The rites at which Pastor Glenn Wegmeyer presided were followed by a reception in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Alger House, where champagne brunch was served and music was provided by harpist Nadia Marks. As a surprise from the bride's mother, the bridal couple was transported from the church to the reception in a horse and buggy.

Mrs. Halsey selected a long-sleeved, street length chemise, aubergine in color and styled with a jeweled neckline and cuffs, for her daughter's wedding. The bridegroom's mother wore a three-piece suit of royal blue wool. Each chose a double cymbidium orchid corsage.

The bride, a Michigan State University graduate, a bridegroom, a graduate of the University of

Amy Brieden wed Aug. 25

Saint Paul's-on-the-Lakeshore was the setting for the late summer wedding of Amy Patricia Brieden and H. Brian Templeton. The noon rites Saturday, August 25, at which Monsignor Francis X. Canfield presided were followed by a reception at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club, where the receiving line formed on the lawn.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan J. Brieden, of Handy Road, designed her wedding gown. Fashioned by Irene Szkody, it featured a bodice and sleeves of Alencon lace and a chiffon over taffeta skirt accented with a lacy, beaded overlay.

Her veil extended the length of her train. She carried a silk cascade of orchids, roses and ivy.

Honor attendant Anna Mary Piontek, of Dallas, Tex., and bridesmaids Sara M. Brieden, sister of the bride, Sandi G. Templeton, sister of the bridegroom, Mary Beth Miller, of Ann Arbor, and Jane M. Rentz, of Chicago, carried silk arrangements of pale pink and white lilies and roses.

Their floor length dresses of peacock blue taffeta were styled with asymmetrically draped bodices.

Brent D. Templeton acted as best man for his brother. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Hayden R. Templeton, of Arlington, Tex. Ushering were the bride's brothers, Bryan J. Brieden II, Hans W. Brieden and Geoff D. Brieden, and Ronald Piontek, of Dallas.

The mother of the bride wore a street length dress of pale plum crepe chiffon, long-sleeved and styled with a side-draped overbodice. The bridegroom's mother's two-piece, street length ensemble of grey satin featured a pleated skirt and long, pleated sleeves. Each mother carried a single, long-stemmed rose.

The newlyweds vacationed in Nevada and California. They are at home in Mansfield, Tex.

Choose child care with proper care

The safety of their child is always a concern of parents, even when that child is under the supervision of others, and while there can be no guarantees against accidents, a careful parent can make sure the care-giver follows appropriate procedures if an accident does occur.

Before placing a child in a day-care center or family day-care home, parents should be satisfied with the care-giver's health and safety policies.

Ask about procedures in case of emergencies. Are there planned fire escape routes? Where would the child be treated in case of an accident? Does the center or home maintain an adequate first aid kit? Who is trained as a first aider? Are supplies stored safely, out of reach of the children?

What type of accident and liability insurance does the care-giver have? Is it adequate to cover the number of children cared for?

Parents can also, through observation, make determinations about the quality of care being provided. Does the center or home seem clean and safe? Are the rooms well lit, with sufficient heating and cooling?

Does there appear to be adequate space for indoor and outdoor play? Where will the children take their naps? If one of the children becomes ill, is there a separate place for him/her to rest?

Make sure you consider all these questions and are satisfied with the answers before making a final decision about child care.

One-woman show slated at Memorial Church tea

At an Alma College meeting earlier this year, someone from Grosse Pointe Memorial Church saw a lady with the unusual name of Ecky Broad mesmerize her audience with a solo performance about Martin Luther, as seen through the eyes of his wife. "Katie, My Rib" was the title of that one-woman show.

And so, when Julie (Mrs. Donald) Keim began work on the program for Memorial Church's traditional Christmas Tea, set this year for next Tuesday, Dec. 11, she persuaded Ecky Broad to come from her home in Chagrin Falls, Ohio, to give a Christmas season program, "The Innkeeper's Wife," for the Memorial Church Women. Who are, needless to say, looking forward to a unique experience via this sample of Ms. Broad's talents.

She brings an impressive background to her work. After undergraduate and graduate studies at Duke University and Yale, she taught at the elementary and high school levels, worked in the theater, on television and during the summer seasons at Lake Chautauqua. She has several one-woman shows in her repertory.

But this exceptional performance by an exceptional lady is only half the program. Julie has also arranged for a musical segment to be presented by the Detroit Symphony Choraleers. These 14 ladies, under the direction of Margaret Lindner, have appeared before various metropolitan area groups to benefit the DSO. Dorothy Ignasiak will be featured as soloist.

After the program, which begins promptly at 1 p.m. in the Church Sanctuary, audience and performers go into a holiday-decked Fellowship Hall for tea, presented under the aegis of co-chairmen Mrs. James C. Stewart and Mrs. A.F. Barron.

Delta Zetas raise funds at 'Fantasy'

"Country Sampler" was the theme of the 14th annual Flame Fantasy benefit sponsored by the Metropolitan Detroit Delta Zeta Alumnae. The fashion show/luncheon, held this fall at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, raised more than $2,200 for the Detroit Hearing and Speech Center.

Special guests at the event included Raymond Lindahl, the Hearing and Speech Center's executive director, Evelyn Adams Costello, past-national president of Delta Zeta, and Pam Cronenwett, province alumnae director of Delta Zeta.

Sue Hagman and Chris Fines co-chaired the successful benefit, which featured fashions by Ensley Avenue of St. Clair Shores. Joy Wheeler was mistress of ceremonies.

Mrs. James C. Stewart (standing, right) and Mrs. A.F. Barron (seated, left), co-chairmen of the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church Christmas Tea, with Mrs. Michael Madarasz (standing, left), kitchen chairman, and Mrs. Donald Keim (seated, right), who arranged the program chairman, has enlisted a corps of culinary helpers to provide delicious cakes, cookies and tiny sandwiches. Mrs. Roger S. Van Der Kar will supervise the dining room activities. Decor is courtesy of a committee composed of Mrs. William Denler, Mrs. Edgar Galloway, Mrs. Henry Kuhlman, Mrs. Bill O. Brink and Mrs. John Caulkins.

Mrs. J. Sidney Probert has agreed to decorate the stage area.

Although Ellen has tried to keep her ideas secret, there've been a few "leaks" ... leading to the conclusion that the sanctuary will be the perfect visual accompaniment to the program of the day.

All are welcome at the Memorial Church Christmas Tea and Program, for which tickets, at $2 per person, are available at the church office. Further information may be obtained by calling 886-5330.

Convene School of Government

The School of Government, Inc., a non-partisan organization, soon to celebrate its 45th anniversary, was founded by the late Mrs. Wilber M. Brucker, of Vendome Road. Its purpose is to inform its members on important and current issues in the field of economics and the science of government, and on social and cultural changes taking place in the United States and abroad.

The School's third meeting of the season on Wednesday, Nov. 28, at the Detroit Boat Club featured Pamela Frucci, president of Concern, Detroit Inc., as guest speaker. Concern was founded in 1972 to educate people about ecology, solid waste management, bottle and paper recycling, water resources and other environmental stability issues.

Mrs. Frucci, a resident of Grosse Ile and a former full-time Grosse teacher who now teaches French and the Performing Arts to senior citizens, selected "Use It! Use It Up!" as her topic.

She has worked on the Grosse Ile Beautification Committee, serves on the board of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan and was responsible for starting the first Downriver Recycling Center — the only recycling center in Wayne County.

She also has been active in politics. She is the only woman ever elected a trustee in Grosse Ile, and ran for the Michigan Senate in 1978. She has just succeeded her good friend, Barbara Van Dusen, of Birmingham, as Concern's president.

Mrs. Harry Taylor, the School's current president, officiated at the November meeting. Mrs. Ralph Mason, a past-president, is the School's program director. Mrs. Edwin Noth served as chairman of the day.

Add Wassail date at DIA

With a royal nod toward the modern practice of supply and demand — and to accommodate 350 more guests — the Detroit Institute of Arts' Performing Arts Department has added another evening to its celebrated Wassail Feast series.

The new evening, next Thursday, Dec. 13, will be the first of eight nights (Dec. 13 to 15 and 18 to 22) recreating winter holiday festivities in the Court of Elizabeth I, "by the Grace of God, Queen of England, France and Hibernia."

Each night features gourmet dining punctuated by performances in high Renaissance style. The menu, presented by costumed serving maids, is traditional: Scotch soup, roast beef with Yorkshire pudding, roast capon, crusted pork-lee and vegetable pie, marinated root vegetables (salads were unknown in Elizabeth I's time), flaming figgy pudding with brandy sauce ... all washed down with Wassail Cup, updated for modern tastes from an ancient formula.

Entertainers, costumed in authentic period court attire, include a festival dance ensemble, madrigal singers, a strolling minstrel, a Renaissance orchestra performing on period instruments, court jesters, acrobats, puppets and "the Queen's truth-sayer." The Master of the Revels escorts the Queen and announces each dinner course.

The Wassail Feast, conceived in 1972 by Dr. Audley M. Grossman Jr., the museum's Performing Arts curator, has become official gateway to the winter holidays for hundreds of local residents. Many celebrants return to Detroit from Canada, Europe and across the country for the Wassail evenings, sellouts long before the holiday season has begun.

Ticket demand continues at an all-time high, with advance reservations recorded into 1990. Reservation information may be obtained by contacting the Art Institute, 832-2730 during regular business hours. Tickets are $75 per person weeknights, $80 per person opening night, Fridays and Saturdays.

Each evening accommodates 350 guests. The party begins with cocktails and incidental entertainment in the museum's indoor continental garden preceding trumpet fanfares that herald the Grand March to candlelight dinner and further entertainment in the DIA's holiday-decked Great Hall.

Medallions commemorating the Wassail year, especially minted for the occasion from an authentic Elizabethan coin, are presented to the guests as keepsakes. Parchment scrolls, tied in gold, detailing the evening's history and extravagances, are set at each place setting.

Trumpets and presentations of the massive silver Wassail Bowl, Boar's Head, a golden nested pheasant and, near the close of the evening, trays laden with flaming dessert, announce each course.

More than 60,000 hours, an average of 20 per guest, go into each annual Wassail Feast presentation at the DIA.

Ethnic dolls on display

More than 1200 ethnic dolls are featured in "The Ethnic Doll," an exhibit in the Hall of Nations at the International Institute of Metropolitan Detroit, located on East Kirby Street in Detroit's University/Cultural Center.

Cyril Miles, the institute's Folk Art curator, was inspired to create the display by her friend, the late Frank Stefanos, who donated many dolls from his personal collection to the exhibit before his recent death.

In honor of Stefanos, six Hall of Nations showcases feature a few of his sculptures, paintings and montages reflecting his Greek heritage and love of the human form. In addition, some of his paintings are displayed in the institute's American Room.

The International Doll Display includes mortuary and fertility dolls, distinctive fashion festival and theatrical dolls and dolls for children of more than 100 different cultures throughout the world.

There are handmade stuffed dolls, wooden, plaster and plastic-molded dolls and doll faces, painted china, stone, shell and straw dolls. A few are dressed in beautiful, intricate costumes. Most are authentic, made in their country of origin for collectors, for social or religious ceremony or for play.

They will remain on display in the Hall of Nations through June. The exhibit is free, available for public viewing during regular institute hours, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and during special events — but it is wise to call the institute (871-8600) before coming to see the dolls, to make sure the hall is not scheduled for a private function.

Susan Keeler speaks vows

Presiding at the 4 o'clock ceremony in Christ Church, Grosse Pointe, was The Reverend Edward Cobden. A reception followed at the Grosse Pointe Club.

The bride wore the white satin gown, featuring a fitted bodice finished with a marquise yoke, elbow length, balloon sleeves and a full bouffant skirt ending in a court train, that had been worn by her mother and aunt, Mrs. William J. Carnahan Jr., who came from Canandaigua, N.Y., for her niece's wedding.

A pearl crown caught the former Miss Keeler's four-tiered illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of dendrobium orchids and wore her mother's pearls.

She was attended by her sisters, Patricia Jean, of New York City, and Catherine Ranger, of Santa Barbara, Calif., as matrons of honor, by the bridegroom's sister, Suzanne Kehoe, of Battle Creek, as maid of honor, and by bridesmaids Carla R. Snell and Ramona Myers-Jones, both of Chicago.

They wore two-piece satin dresses. Their fuchsia jackets feaured a peplum and were sash-tied at the waist. Their ankle length skirts were teal green in color. They wore matching satin shoes and carried pink lilies.

Best man was David Kerr, of Grosse Pointe, Michel Jean, of New York City, and Richard Ranger, of Santa Barbara, the bride's brothers-in-law, ushered, with Scott Jones, of Chicago, Michael Tenney, of Battle Creek, Thomas Tornabene, of Scottsdale, Ariz., and Paul Wilson, of Evanston, Ill.

The mother of the bride wore an afternoon dress of pewter silk, styled with a pleated bodice and a wide, hip sash. The bridegroom's mother's dress of dove grey crepe featured a draped bodice and was gathered at the waist with a beaded clasp. She carried a matching, beaded purse.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. William J. Carnahan, of Rochester, N.Y., accented her blue silk dress with a white orchid corsage.

The newlyweds, both Michigan State University graduates, vacationed in Florida, at Siesta Key. They are making their home in Chicago.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's aunt, Patricia Carnahan, of Rochester, N.Y.; her cousins, Mrs. Westcott Yates, of Canandaigua, Randall Carnahan, of New York City, and Peter Fessel, of Greensboro, N.C.; and her godmother, Mrs. William O. Thomas, of Bedford, Va.

More were the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Shirley Johnson, and his cousin, Leslie Johnson, of Ottawa, Canada; another cousin, Christopher Kehoe, and Gordon Fitzpatrick, of British Columbia; and John Snell, Mrs. Matthew Colton, Diane Rowland and Joan Jacobsen, all of Chicago.

Still others were Mr. and Mrs. James Ruoff, of Rochester, N.Y., Mr. and Mrs. Richard Chenoweth, of Akron, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Watson, of Ottawa, Mary Ann Ceravola, of Boston, Mass., and Lindsay Beardslee, of Boulder, Colo.

Barat seeks holiday help

Every day, the staff of Barat Human Services deals with clients who suffer from unemployment, hunger, lack of proper housing and child and spouse abuse. Because these clients have a difficult time keeping food on the table year 'round let alone providing anything special for their children in the way of trimmings, celebration, special foods or gifts, Christmas is an especially painful and stressful time of the year.

The agency is appealing to individuals and community groups to help provide Barat clients with toys or food for Christmas. Interested people can make monetary donations or sponsor an individual family's celebration by contacting Ritz Grezlik, 833-1525, for specific details.

municipal Lucia Queens parade to the Town Hall where that year's Noble Prize winner in Literature places a golden crown upon the National Lucia Queen's head.

Lucia's story will be retold this Sunday at Immanuel's festival. While "Santa Lucia" is sung, Immanuel's Lucia (until her appearance, no one knows who she will be) will process down the candlelit aisle, escorted by her attendants. Swedish and American Christmas songs will be sung by the guests and the Scandia Women's Chorus. Pastor William Heil will introduce Immanuel's Lady of the Year.

Following the program, Lucia will serve coffee in Immanuel's Fellowship Hall, where a refreshment table will feature Christmas cookies, Swedish coffeebread and spice cake. There will be demonstrations and workshops on how to make traditional Swedish Christmas tree candies, nut baskets and tree ornaments. Jultomte, the Swedish Christmas gnome, will distribute candies to everyone.

All are welcome. Although there is no charge for the program, donations will be accepted at the refreshment table to supplement the Food Closet, Immanuel's community service to people and families in need, and for World Hunger. This, too, is in keeping with Swedish tradition, for Sweden's Lucia Festival gives money, raised via special Lucia Collections, to charity.

Pointe Christmas Walk Today

If you've been trying to get your friends on the 'phone, and there's no one home... if you've noticed a marked increase in traffic on local streets today... be advised that the reason for this is the Grosse Pointe Christmas Walk, running from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. today.

If you didn't get your Walk tickets in advance, be advised that you can still get them, for $8, at the doors of any of the five homes featured in the Pointe this year: 17315 East Jefferson Avenue, 15539 Windmill Pointe Drive, 839 Sunningdale Drive, 181 Ridge Road and 1021 Harvard Road.

If you're considering taking a child under 10 Walking with you - don't. The child won't enjoy it, and neither will you. If you're wondering about footwear, be advised to tuck a pair of non-skid slippers in your purse or pocket. Shoes must be removed in the Christmas Walk houses.

If you absolutely cannot go Christmas Walking today, be advised that you have a "second chance" next Thursday, Dec. 13, when the second half of the Detroit Symphony League's 1984 Christmas Walk is presented in Birmingham-Bloomfield. It's a bit far to go, but the five homes featured on the North End of town are worth it.

If you want further ticket information, try calling 884-7233, 884-3038 or 882-6930. If you'd like to know the name of this year's East Side House chairman, it's Trudy (Mrs. Thomas) Rhoades. Other Pointers who've had major responsibilities in putting together this 25th Anniversary Sterling Presentation are Judy (Mrs. Joseph) Bartell, in charge of Symphony League member tickets, and Georgiann (Mrs. Charles) Henritz, East Side co-chairman.

Holiday Shop and Support the Arts

The Detroit Council of the Arts' Third Annual Winter Gallery Crawl runs from 5 to 9 p.m. tomorrow, Friday, Dec. 7, showcasing a sampling of downtown art galleries and providing an opportunity for participants to purchase art and handcrafted items at prices from $2 up. Music and refreshments will be available all evening.

This year's 10 participating galleries include the Front Room Gallery of the Detroit Council of the Arts, 47 East Adams, where parking is available for $1. This is the place to begin the crawl, which is free to the public.

From the DCA's Front Room, you'll travel via bus to Muccioli Studio Gallery, Spirit In The Park, Steven's Harmonie Park Art Gallery, Preston Burke Galleries, Inc., Detroit Focus Gallery, g.r. n'namdi gallery, the Detroit Artists Market, Fine Arts Posters, Inc. and Michigan Gallery.

The buses may be picked up at any of the tour sites at 20-minute intervals. For further information and to reserve space, call the DCA office, 224-3691, during regular business hours.

DSO dates for Szeryng

The final Detroit Symphony Orchestra subscription concerts of 1984 bring together Gunther Herbig, DSO music director, and Henryk Szeryng, whose career as a concert violinist spans more than half a century, in performances at Ford Auditorium next Thursday, Dec. 13, at 8 p.m. and Saturday, Dec. 15, at 8:30 p.m.

The programs include works by Richard Wagner, Dvorak and Johannes Brahms. Tickets, ranging in price from $10 to $19, are available at the Ford Auditorium box office, 567-1400, Hudson's and all CTC/Ticket World outlets. Group rate information may be obtained by calling 446-0909.

Polish-born Szeryng, recognized as one of the finest performers of his generation, has also earned a reputation as a distinguished educator and diplomat. He worked as a translator and liaison officer for the Polish Government during World War II, became a Mexican citizen in 1946 and since then has maintained a professorship at Mexico's National University.

His most recent DSO appearance was in 1978. At next week's concerts he will perform the Brahms Violin Concerto in D major, Op. 77.

Wagner's Prelude to Act I of "Lohengrin" will open the program. The DSO last performed this work in 1980 under the baton of Sixten Ehrling, a former music director of the orchestra. One of the best-loved symphonies of the 19th century, Dvorak's Symphony No. 9 "From the New World," comprises the concert's second half.

Composed in 1893 at a time when the Czech composer was living in the United States, its melodies reflect Dvorak's impressions of the culture and countryside he encountered. The second movement is said to have been inspired by the funeral of Minnehaha in Longfellow's "Song of Hiawatha."

The most recent DSO subscription performances of "From the New World" were in 1981, under the baton of Peter Eros.

Set Scandinavian Symphony concert

The Scandinavian Symphony Orchestra, Douglas Morrison conducting, will feature cellist Karen Wingert as guest soloist at its concert Saturday, Dec. 8, at 8 p.m. in the Southfield High School Auditorium on Lahser Road.

Information on tickets, at $5 for adults, $4.50 for senior citizens, $2.50 for children under 12 and $4 per person in groups of 10 or more, Call 535-1330 or 644-9203.

Wingert, who currently plays in the Dearborn Symphony and the Classical String Quartet and has taught at the Detroit Community Music School, will perform in Dvorak's Concerto in B minor for Cello and Orchestra, capping a program that includes Auber's "Le Domino Noir" overture, ballet music from Rossini's "William Tell" and Alfvén's "Midsommara-varka" (Midsummer Vigil).

Junior League's Christmas party planners

The Junior League of Detroit, continuing a tradition that stretches back more than a quarter of a century, is once again hosting Christmas parties for the senior citizens and handicapped persons of Detroit. The first of these two annual events, the party for 325 senior citizens of Adult Service Centers Inc., took place at Butzel Middle School, Kercheval Avenue at Van Dyke last Saturday, Dec. 1, from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The Christmas celebration for 285 handicapped clients of Goodwill Industries is scheduled for today, Thursday, Dec. 6, from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Goodwill Building on Ash Street in Detroit. Pictured above are the Junior League's 1984 Christmas party planners: (front row, left to right) CANDY DUNN, co-chairman, PEGGY KROSS, BARBARA BOZICH and PAM LOREY; (back row, left to right) PAM WHEELER, JULIE BARTLETT, WENDY HOLLIDGE, MILO SCHULTE, TINA GRIFFIN, GERRY CONWAY, co-chairman, and SHIRLEY GAGNE.

Each of the 27th annual parties features a traditional turkey dinner, a special gift pack for each guest, prizes and entertainment. The cost of the meals and food package gift costs are met by donations from Junior League members.

Mrs. Frederick Ollison, III, Junior League of Detroit president, greets each group of guests. Junior League volunteers serve the meals, with assistance at the Adult Service Centers party from the ASC staff, which hosted a reception before the main event. There also was a fashion show, and other entertainment provided by the seniors themselves.

There is entertainment by the Detroit Police Band, "Les Cochons Bleus," at both parties, and Santa Claus makes an appearance at both. Joe Vitale and his Quartet will join "Les Cochons Bleus" at the Goodwill party.

Adult Service Centers Inc., formerly known as the Senior Center, was established by the Junior League of Detroit in 1953 to provide recreation and rehabilitation for the elderly. The League for the Handicapped, now merged with Goodwill Industries, was founded by the Junior League in 1921. Goodwill is the largest single agency currently devoted to the testing, training, employment and placement of Detroit's handicapped citizens.

Among those students honored at Carnegie Institute's 37th annual commencement exercises on Sept. 8 were Beth A. Lanstra, Tina Elanges, Christine M. Graf, Julianne M. Kasza and Barbara A. Wybo, of Grosse Pointe Woods, and Margaret L. Daly, of Harper Woods, all allied health specialty graduates.

Miss Zavala is June bride

Wedding vows were spoken by Susan Ruth Zavala and Michael Blane Bamford Friday evening, June 1, at a candlelight ceremony in the Grosse Pointe Academy Chapel. Father Richard Gorecki officiated at the 6 o'clock rites.

Readings were given by the bride's sisters, Kathleen Zavala, of Eugene, Ore., and Patricia Albanese, of Rochester, Minn. Soloist, to guitar accompaniment by Patti Southlea Kearney, was Maggie Fox, a longtime friend of the bridegroom.

Organist was Frederic DeHaven. Trumpeter was Ted Pethick. The evening ceremony was followed by a reception at Thomas Manor, after which the newlyweds left to vacation in Pennsylvania and New York. They are at home in Clinton Township.

The bride, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Dan Zavala of North Renaud Road, wore a traditional gown, high-necked and long-sleeved, styled with a bodice of silk Venise lace accented with seed pearls. Matching lace appliques were scattered over her full skirt of chiffon over taffeta and her lace-bordered, cathedral length train.

More lace trimmed her fingertip veil and blusher, held by a pearl and lace headpiece. She carried a cascade of silk flowers: gardenias, roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Honor matron Lynda Southlea Smudski, of Ann Arbor, bridesmaids Alice Gaynor, also of Ann Arbor, Lynn Bamford, of Greensboro, N.C., the bridegroom's sister, and Frances Keane, of Cold Springs Harbor, Long Island, N.Y., Denise Campbell, of Pinckney, and Julie Dakoske, of Traverse City, sorority sisters of the bride, with junior bridesmaid Michele Raven, of Chicago, the bride's niece, carried Colonial bouquets of assorted white, pink and mauve silk flowers, tied with white ribbon.

Their tea length dresses of chiffon over taffeta were mauve in color, the overlays accented with white lace, and sashed in mauve satin. The senior attendants wore baby's-breath in their hair. The junior bridesmaid's headpiece was a wreath of silk flowers and baby's-breath.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Bamford, of Kerby Road, asked Paul Smudski, of Ann Arbor, to act as best man. Grooms-men were Tom and Norman Zavala, brothers of the bride, Richard Mullins and Tom Naski, of Mount Clemens.

The mothers of the bride and bridegroom both selected cocktail

Mr. and Mrs. Michael B. Bamford

length dresses, the former's in mauve in color, the latter's of French blue chiffon over taffeta, with seed pearl accents. Each chose a white gardenia corsage.

Out-of-town guests included the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. E.W. Bamford, of Akin, S.C., and his aunt, Betty Hinkson, of Jackson, Ala.; the bride's brothers, Daniel Zavala, of Fremont, Calif., and Kenneth Zavala, of Santa Rosa, Calif., and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Raven, of Chicago.

Safe advice for holidays

Whether you celebrate Christmas or Chanukah, the proper use of decorations is an important consideration in making the holiday season safe and enjoyable, says the National Safety Council.

Each year, Americans suffer needless deaths and injuries as well as destruction of property because of accidents involving holiday observances. The Council offers the following holiday safety tips:

- If you buy a natural tree, make sure it's fresh. Test it by striking the bottom against the ground, to be sure very few needles fall off. Failing needles indicate a tree is dry — and that is a fire hazard.
- To keep a tree fresh, cut the trunk about two inches from the bottom and place the tree in a water-filled container. Set the tree away from any fireplace, radiator or other heat source that could dry it out.

- If you decide on an artificial tree, be sure it is flame-resistant.
- Check all light strings for loose sockets or broken wires; if damaged, do not try to repair them. Buy new strings bearing the UL marker.
- For outdoor lighting, use exterior lights only. Check them carefully for defects.
- Turn off the tree and outside lights before you leave the house or go to bed.

- If you plan to give a toy to a child, make sure that toy is durable, free of sharp edges and appropriate for the age of the child. Avoid purchasing shooting toys for young children, or small objects that infants might swallow or choke on.
- Keep little ones away from holiday plants which might be poisonous if swallowed, such as holly or mistletoe berries.

- If you plan on serving cocktails at your holiday party, have food and non-alcoholic drinks available. Close the bar early, mix drinks moderately, and don't allow guests to drive home if they have had too much to drink. Encourage usage of the "Designated Driver" concept, which relies on one individual remaining sober to ensure safe transportation home for the rest of the group.

Ribbon Farms goes visiting

Ribbon Farms Chapter of the Quilters traveled to the Troy home of Mrs. Vene Whims in mid-November for a luncheon meeting, followed by an afternoon at "Antiques on the Main" in Royal Oak.

Pi Lambda Theta set to sing Noel

The Detroit Alumni Chapter of Pi Lambda Theta, a national honorary education association, gathers tomorrow, Friday, Dec. 7, at 6:30 p.m. for an evening of holiday festivities at Kingsley Inn in Bloomfield Hills.

There will be dining, fellowship and music, with Greek soprano Elena Mouzakes singing Greek and English carols and leading a sing-a-long.

Jeanne Prom, of Whittier Road, designer of the 1984 Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice Christmas Card, with a selection of the personalized children's watercolors she will feature as an exhibitor in this year's Inter-Faith Center Holly Mart.

Pointer of Interest

By Janet Mueller

What Jeannie Prom would like for Christmas is more time. Time to do, time to be, time to just plain wonder at the wonders of God's wonderful world.

"I'd like to have my own greeting card company one day. Maybe I will, if we ever stay in one place long enough. I'd like to illustrate, maybe even write, a children's book. I read a lot, and I sometimes do some writing. I keep a journal."

Among other things ... "I like variety," says Jeannie, and she's had it, in all sorts of ways. Geographically, for instance. "I grew up on Long Island, went to Fredonia State University near Buffalo, then came back to New York to work in retailing at Abraham & Straus, then decided I needed a change and moved to Florida."

There she met, and six months later married, John Prom. Then he was transferred to Charlotte, N.C. "We were there two-and-a-half years. Johnny (nine now, and a fourth grade student at St. Clare School) was born in Charlotte."

Then came another transfer, to Hartford, Conn., and just four months later another transfer, to Dallas, Tex. The Proms arrived in Michigan three years ago. "It was January. We came from Texas — into an horrendous snow storm. Our furniture was lost for two weeks."

John, manager of the Detroit Group Pension Office for Travelers Insurance, has offices in RenCen. The Proms stayed at RenCen until their furniture surfaced — "frozen and perspiring" but THERE! — and they were able to move into their home on Whittier Road.

THERE'LL PROBABLY be more transfers. Jeannie will undoubtedly cope. "There are good things about moving. I think, for me, it has been a maturing experience. We have friends all over the country. We know places to go, things to see (and things to skip). We know really good restaurants. I have recipes from all parts of the country."

"I love to cook. It figures: I love to eat. I hate to go to Weight Watchers, but I go. I enjoy exercising. I like to cross-country ski and cycle. I've taken tennis for a year and I'm really enjoying it. I love to be outdoors."

And she loves, of an evening, just to be at home with John and Johnny. "I think it's important to do things with my husband and son, to keep the family a strong unit." That can involve anything from skiing together to just being together.

A 9-to-5 schedule is definitely not Jeannie's style. She substitute teaches occasionally at St. Clare. She works one-half day to a full day per week at Two's Company, doing windows, personalizing items, et al. She finds sewing a creative activity.

She thinks vegetables — their freshness, their colors and textures — are beautiful, and has a grand time grubbing about in her backyard vegetable garden. She hopes to expand it to a perennial garden.

SHE'S AN AMERICAN Cancer Society volunteer. "I visit patients. I had cancer myself seven-and-a-half years ago. I'm totally cured now, but it's an experience that turns your life around."

Jeannie Prom came out of that experience with "a heightened appreciation for the Creation of the World as an expression of God's love for us." She's a little embarrassed when she says that, a little afraid she might sound pretentious. Nonetheless, she says it. It's true.

She found herself, during her recovery period, looking at the world with new eyes. She found in herself a strong desire to paint.

"I'd always drawn. I took art as a minor in college, but there was no 'virtue' in it. It was an easy way to get an A." Now she began to seriously involve herself in art. "I've had no formal art education," she says. And that's true, in the sense that she's followed no formal course of instruction leading to a degree or certification. But she's a member of the Grosse Pointe Artists Association. She has taken courses and workshops, studied under such well-known instructors as Sister Matsuzaki and Marilyn Derwenskus.

A friend, Kathy York, saw some of Jeannie's children's watercolors and recommended that she be included in last year's Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice Holly Mart exhibitors. Such a recommendation is not easy to come by, for the Holly Mart has high exhibitor standards. Work must be professional or of professional-quality to be considered for Holly Mart exposure.

Jeannie's watercolors qualified, and she did well at the '83 Mart. She'll be back again at this year's Mart, with 12 different designs. Each painting is "personalized" with the name of the boy or girl for whom it is intended.

THE 1984 GROSSE Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice Holly Mart features 30 exhibitors, offering everything from blown glass to belt buckles, in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Fries Auditorium from noon to 5 p.m. tomorrow, Friday, Dec. 7, and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 8. Admission is $1 (children under 12, free).

Beverages and desserts will be available both days. Luncheon will be served on Saturday. All sales directly benefit the work of the Inter-Faith Center through commissions from the participating artists.

DIA location for Mozarabe

"Mozarabe," by American sculptor Richard Serra, acquired by the Founders Society Detroit Institute of Arts with funds donated for the purchase by museum patron W. Hawkins Ferry, of The Shores, was installed this fall as a public sculpture at the museum's north Kirby Street entrance. It is ultimately intended for the Elizabeth and Allan Sheldon Sculpture Garden, a future development on the DIA grounds.

Four 2-ton plates of corten steel, which rusts naturally to provide its own protective coating and natural color, are components of the sculpture. Each plate is propped against another at adjacent corners. All rest on two 12-foot-long bars of round steel, which are placed on the ground.

The sculpture, created in 1970-71, reflects Serra's interest in basic ar-

"Friday Night Live!" from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. tomorrow evening offers Inter-Faith Center members and friends a chance to meet the Holly Mart artists and view their work in a relaxed, after-hours atmosphere. Admission donation is $5, including a complimentary drink served by a celebrity bartender.

Among the celebrities pouring will be Neal Shine, Senior Managing Editor, Detroit Free Press; Joe Weaver, WJBK-TV; Ven Marshall, WXYZ-TV; Jennifer Moore, WDIV-TV; and Barbara Porter, reporter, WJR News. "Friday Night Live!" reservation information may be obtained by calling 882-6464.

The Inter-Faith Center's 1984 Christmas Card will, of course, be available at the Mart. Jeannie Prom was asked and was delighted to design it. "Actually," she says, "I designed eight cards — and they liked them all!" The one finally chosen is a charming, stylized depiction of people reaching out to people, beneath pine trees in a winter woods.

And that, of course, is what the Inter-Faith Center is all about: people reaching out to people, working together to promote racial understanding, to challenge all forms of prejudice and to establish equal opportunity for all, regardless of race, religion, sex or ethnic background.

"BECAUSE THIS is an Inter-Faith Center, I couldn't use symbols of any particular religion," Jeannie says. "I only knew I HAD to have people in it." She designed the card in her upstairs art room, a cluttered, crammed catch-all that is obviously the domain of a working artist. The hat that's a lampshade is waiting for Jeannie to find the time to re-size it. The all-white angel in the corner will eventually be painted with intricate designs, then added to Jeannie's angel collection.

"Watercolor supplies are very large," she observes, frowning slightly as she looks around her. "What I'd like, what I need, are some cupboards built to order, designed so I can take them with me if we get transferred again."

So, if you're thinking of giving Jeannie Prom something for Christmas this year, consider a cupboard or two — space — because you can't, after all, give her time. Actually, you don't have to. Her track record on finding it herself is pretty good.

chitectural principles: leaning, counterbalancing and dependence on natural forces. Mozarabe's elements are joined only by "tack welding," which is not structural but prevents plate movement. Each piece is anchored primarily by its weight counterbalanced by the weight of the adjoining plate.

Malcolm Graff, an engineer who works with Serra on all projects, was present at the DIA as installation consultant. Both aesthetic relationships of the sculpture to the museum structure and safety were considered.

Installation required pouring concrete into an excavated lawn area outside the museum's north (Cavanagh Wing) entrance, and extending the poured slab onto the existing sidewalk, forming a carefully sloped pedestal upon which Mozarabe stands.

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — collection of Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth featuring, this week, ITALIAN EGGPLANT SPECIALTIES.

CAPONATA

This is a truly delicious antipasto with a flavor all its own; for all its goodness, it is low in calories and cholesterol-free. Wonderful served on a bed of crisp romaine leaves as an appetizer course, with a chilled Vermouth or dry white wine. Equally tasty as a relish or condiment.

- 2 lb. eggplant, peeled and cut into 1-inch cubes
- 1 pkt. instant onion broth
- ½ cup boiling water
- 2 cups diced celery
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 2 Tbsp. olive oil
- 3 cups peeled, seeded and chopped tomatoes
- ¼ cup red wine vinegar
- 2 Tbsp. tomato paste
- 2 Tbsp. capers, rinsed and drained
- 3 tsp. sugar
- 4 oz. pitted green olives, rinsed, drained and cut into slivers
- 2 Tbsp. finely minced parsley
- ¾ tsp. Italian seasoning
- Salt to taste
- Freshly ground black pepper

Place eggplant in colander and sprinkle with salt. Let stand 15 minutes to drain. Rinse well under cold water and pat dry with paper towel.

Meanwhile, in teflon-lined, large skillet, heat 3 Tbsp. of the onion broth which has been mixed with the boiling water. Add celery and stir-fry over medium heat about 5 minutes. Add onions and continue to stir-fry until celery is crisp-tender and onions are soft, but not brown. If more broth is needed, add as necessary from time to time. Transfer with slotted spoon to a large kettle or dutch oven.

To skillet, add 2 Tbsp. olive oil and the dried eggplant and saute until browned on all sides, adding more broth if necessary. Add to kettle with remaining ingredients and bring to a boil, stirring frequently. Reduce heat and simmer uncovered 15 minutes, or until thick. Adjust seasoning if necessary. Ladle into sterilized jars and process in boiling water bath for 25 minutes. Makes 8 cups.

SICILIAN AUBERGINE SPREAD

- 3 Tbsp. olive oil
- 1 medium eggplant, cut in 1-inch cubes but not peeled
- ¾ cup fresh minced onion
- ¼ cup minced celery
- ¼ cup diced green pepper
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 Tbsp. capers
- 4 anchovy filets, minced
- ¼ cup chopped green or ripe olives
- 2 Tbsp. red wine vinegar
- 1 cup tomato puree
- 1 Tbsp. sugar
- ¼ tsp. pepper
- 1 Tbsp. finely minced parsley

Heat 3 Tbsp. olive oil in a large, heavy skillet over moderately hot heat. Add eggplant and saute, stirring now and then, 10 minutes — until golden and nearly translucent. Transfer eggplant to heavy dutch oven.

Add onion, celery, green pepper and garlic to skillet and saute until pale golden (if necessary, add 1 Tbsp. dry Vermouth to skillet to stir-fry the vegetables). Transfer vegetables to dutch oven with the eggplant mixture and all other ingredients except the parsley. Stir together and place in 300° oven, tightly covered; let oven-simmer for 1½ to 2 hours, stirring occasionally. If the mixture is not done and thick, remove lid and let cook a few more minutes. Remove from oven and add parsley. Cool to room temperature, taste, and adjust for salt.

Serve as a spread for Syrian breads, crackers, etc., or as a first course for dinner, garnished with greens.

Sports Week

Desk cleaning time in the Grosse Pointe News' sports department . . .

We ran the fall sports award winners list in the News' Nov. 22 edition and managed to leave off a couple of names — soccer players Jim Joliet and Chris Nearhood. South's Joliet and North's Nearhood earned Class A All-State Soccer Team Honorable Mention for their fine fall performances.

My phone line is now open for those who wish to let me know who else I forget . . .

It's going to be an exciting weekend for Grosse Pointe Academy student and cross country runner Peter Donaldson. Peter will be in St. Louis, Mo., this Saturday, Dec. 8, to compete in the National Junior Olympics. Last month, Detroit Country Day's cross country coach picked Peter to compete in local Junior Olympics action. He did so well there, he went on to the regional competition, finished fourth and is headed to St. Louis.

What's even more special is that St. Louis is the old stomping ground of Peter's grandmother, so he's especially excited about running there. Peter's proud mom says he'll walk the course a couple of times, run his race on Saturday morning and be back in Grosse Pointe in time for his travel hockey game on Sunday.

Go, Peter!

Deadlines, deadlines: Those who are regular contributors to the sports section (and even you irregular contributors) should take note that the normal Monday noon deadline for sports copy has been changed for the News' Dec. 27 and Jan. 3 editions. Sports copy must be submitted by 5 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 20, to be included in the Dec. 27 edition.

Closing out their college football careers Nov. 17 were former South High standouts Mike Bevier and John DeBoer, who left Central Michigan University football fans with something to remember, despite the Chippewas' 14-7 loss to Toledo.

Bevier had 19 tackles in the game — including 11 solo shots — and ran his career total to 171 solo tackles and 181 assists, good for third place on the CMU all-time list. And DeBoer, a tight end, holds the CMU record for most touchdown receptions in a season (nine) and is tied for most career TD's by a Chippewa player (15).

The only disappointing note to CMU's season was that the loss to Toledo deprived Pointers and CMU fans of seeing the South graduates perform in the California Bowl in Fresno this month.

Sports fans with cable TV should brace themselves: USA network has announced that its program, The Pro Basketball Arm Wrestling Series, has been cancelled. It will be replaced by a repeat of The Pro Football Arm Wrestling Series.

What, MORE Pro Football Arm Wrestling? Why not something fresh and original — like Cloistered Nuns Arm Wrestling? Or Newborn Infant Arm Wrestling. How about a flashback series: Watergate Burglars vs. the Senate Committee Arm Wrestling?

Come on, network sports biggies, give us a break, will 'ya?

Just in case there's a reader or two out there who has been a) marooned on Strawberry Island; b) in a two-year coma; or c) busy watching Pro Football Arm Wrestling; the winter sports versions of the annual North versus South excitement are coming.

The basketball teams kick things off on Tuesday, Dec. 18, at South High. As always, the JV game begins at 6 p.m., followed by the varsity action.

Then on Wednesday, Jan. 9, South's hockey team "visits" North for the first of two "Hockey Night in Grosse Pointe" battles between the rivals this season.

And yes, I'll be there for both games.

Memo to fans of the good sports at South. Our Lady Star of the Sea high school and grade school, University Liggett Schools, St. Clare, St. Paul, and all Grosse Pointe grade and middle schools: Coaches, players, athletic administrators, teachers, parents, students, aunts, uncles and grandparents of sports-minded students should know that the News' sports department is happy — dare I say ecstatic? — to print items of interest, upcoming events, game summaries and scores, schedules, etc. We rely — perhaps depend would be a better word — upon such sources for a good amount of our sports information. Persons interested in submitting copy may do so by Mondays at noon, or call 882-0294 for further information.

Kenneth Van Dellen is a proud father. His daughter Lisa Van Dellen is a freshman at Calvin College and this fall, played field hockey for Calvin's women's team. Lisa finished second in the league in points scored, which are based on her goals and assists. That's a great showing for a freshman.

Lisa's dad is just as proud of her former University Liggett School teammates, Suzanne Carty and Ann Cifonnie, who played field hockey for Albion College this year.

Actually, Van Dellen included most of this information in a nice letter he sent me a while back. Unfortunately, that letter mysteriously disappeared, thus becoming the only piece of mail ever to vanish from my desk without a trace (not counting the note from an inmate at the Indiana State Penitentiary who requested I be his "pen" pal).

Anyway, I think proud dads everywhere would agree that good news like Lisa Van Dellen's is still better late than never.

Basketball previews

North, South hope to improve in 1984

By Peggy O'Connor

"... a tough early schedule like ours gives us a good indication of the personnel we have."

— South's George Petrouleas

Don't look now, South High basketball fans, but the varsity Blue Devils are opening the 1984-85 season with another one of their killer schedules.

You know, the ones that would make, say, a King Kong vs. Godzilla matchup look like a square dance.

"It does kind of look like we're masochistic," chuckles South coach George Petrouleas. "But really, a tough early schedule like ours gives us a good indication of the type of personnel we have."

The Blue Devils host Highland Park in the season opener Friday night, Dec. 7, then take on Notre Dame, Utica Ford, Sterling Heights and rival North High before the league schedule opens in January.

"If you believe what you read, Highland Park is one of the top four of five teams in the state. And Notre Dame, Ford, Sterling Heights and North are all pretty decent teams . . . but we're pretty optimistic," Petrouleas says.

Petrouleas thinks a key to South's success this season will be getting the right chemistry between the returning starters and a handful of promising new players.

"We've got four returning lettermen who were starters last season, some good bench strength and some young sophomores who are very competitive. I get some positive feelings from the kind of practices we've had. They've been very competitive and that gives the team a good edge to start the year."

Senior center Al Ament brings his 6-6 frame back into the South lineup this year. He averaged nine rebounds and 13 points per game and was All-Conference for the Devils, who were 12-7 overall and 10-1 in league play last season.

Another letterman is 6-3 senior forward Mike Williams, an All-Conference choice who averaged seven rebounds and 14 points per game. He will be joined in the front court by another returning starter, 6-2 senior Alex Mellos.

Rick Whitney, a 6-1 senior who was Petrouleas' third guard last year, will fill the starting guard spot this season. Sean Bruce, a 5-10 sophomore who played at St. Clare, is a "very fine athlete" who will also play the guard position, Petrouleas says.

"Since we lost our starting guards from last year, the position is obviously a question mark. We think we can be competitive if we get good guard play," he adds.

Filling out the South lineup are 6-5 junior, Gordie Langs, a center-forward who led the South JV in scoring and rebounds in 1984-85; and 6-3 junior Tim Hudson, a strong rebounder and inside man. Pushing the guards for a starting spot is 6-0 junior Chris Astfalk, whom Petrouleas says is competitive at "both ends of the court," and good-shooting 6-0 junior P.J. Imesch. Petrouleas also expects some help from 5-11 junior Brendan Walsh, 6-0 junior Dave Cameron and 6-1 junior Eddie Gramlin.

"Gramlin is an excellent shooter, although he won't be eligible to play until mid-year because he's a transfer student," Petrouleas says.

Mid-year is just about when South will be able to use all the help it can get in the face of a tough Eastern Michigan League schedule. The EML will feature two Alex Mellos (No. 32) pictured in last season's action against East Detroit, is one of four lettermen who return to the South varsity basketball lineup this year. North will also return four starters to its team. Both teams open play on Friday, Dec. 7. North will be at Sterling Heights; South will host Highland Park.

Lane on title team

The Farms' David Lane is a midfielder on the varsity soccer team at Gordon College which won its second straight NAIA District Five Championship Nov. 10. The Wenham, Mass., college earned a trip to the NAIA Nationals in Fresno, Calif., last month.

Lane, a three-time All-American, scored a goal in the playoffs to put Gordon into the finals. He is a senior physical education major and the son of Jim and Arlyne Lane, of the Farms.

Get those permits

All non-residents who bring snowmobiles to Michigan must purchase a $5 Michigan user permit. Permits, valid for one year, are available at all Secretary of State branch offices.

To assist in sale of permits, Secretary of State Richard Austin said tourist and travel resort operations, sport show, restaurant owners and others, both in and out of Michigan, may be authorized to sell permits. Those wishing to sell permits should contact their local Secretary of State branch office.

Permit fees go to the Recreational Snowmobile Trail Improvement Fund under the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Norsemen win hockey opener

North High opened the 1984-85 season last week with an impressive 8-4 win over South Lyon. The Norsemen showed great team speed and tenacious forechecking, outlasting and outshooting the visitors, 48-19.

Junior linemates John Russell and Kevin Tisdale provided the scoring power as they combined for six of the eight North goals. The Norsemen had led 8-1 before a rash of penalties allowed the Lions back into the game. Senior goaltender Marc Cormier was steady all night and made some excellent saves early in the contest.

Senior winger and captain Frank Vento started the scoring midway through the first period when he converted a centering pass from defenseman Jon Spitz. Tisdale made it 2-0 when he drilled a short shot after a picture passing play from Russell. Russell finished off the first period scoring for North when linemate Casey Quick found him all alone at the corner of the South Lyon net.

The Lions got on the scoreboard early in the second period, but Tisdale and Russell each turned on the goal light to give North a 5-1 advantage. Bob Rogers made an excellent play to set up Russell's second goal.

Sophomore Rob Koehler and Dan Spitz, playing in their first games for North, teamed up for a pretty goal in the final stanza, with Koehler beating the goaltender from close in. Russell completed the North scoring with two more goals — one an unassisted score when he stole the puck, circled the net and beat the goalie; the other, a shorthanded goal in the waning moments. Vento earned an assist on the play.

Coach Mike Manzella was quick to praise the Norsemen's skating effort, but cautioned that the competition will become significantly tougher once the Metro League schedule begins next week. "We have a long way to go, but I was impressed with our team speed and aggressive play," Manzella said.

North's next home game is this Saturday, Dec. 8, at 7:30 p.m. against St. Clair Shores Lakeview.

All-State honors

The post season honors keep rolling in for University Liggett School's state championship (Class C-D) girls' varsity tennis team. Coach Carol von Strade announced last week that Marie Ali, Pam Ali and Charu Nautiyal were all named to the All-State team.

Pam Ali, who played No. 1 singles for the Lady Knights, competed in the National Indoor Championships held at the Franklin Racquet Club in Southfield, over the Thanksgiving weekend. Ali defeated Jessica DeCiccio of Maryland (3-6, 7-6, 6-4) Alecka Hallmark of Texas (6-0, 6-1), and Shira Gafri of Arizona (6-0, 7-6), and lost to Amy Young of Ohio (6-1, 6-2) and Kim Cooper of New York (6-3, 2-6, 6-0).

With that performance, Ali is now among the top 30 girls ranked nationally in the 14 and under division. Final national rankings will be announced in October, 1985, based on championship play throughout the coming year.

Prep swim year ends

The girls' varsity swim teams at North and South high schools finished their 1984 season with top 15 finishes in the Class A state swim finals last weekend.

South High, coached by Tim Kenary and Don David, finished 11th overall with 37 points. North, under diving coach David and swim coach Scott Teeters, was 12th in the state with 35 points.

Each school recorded a top-five finish in individual events. North's 200-yard medly relay team was finished fifth with a time of 1:54.12. Bloomfield Lahser won the event in 1:49.93. And in one-meter diving, South's Allison Crissman took fifth place in the state with a total of 403.50. Birmingham Groves' Carolyn Kennedy was first with 468.85 points.

North's swim team will be honored at a school awards night, 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 12. South's awards ceremony is at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 11.

Meet the Norsemen

They finished with a 12-7-3 record in their first-ever varsity hockey season and now an even bigger challenge faces the North High Norsemen in 1984-85: playing in a very tough Michigan Metro Hockey League. Here's a close up look at the Norsemen for 1984-85:

Robert Alcott — Junior, defense, 5-11, 170 pounds. Alcott is a tough checker who can skate the puck out of his own end. He'll get plenty of ice time and a chance to show off his booming slap shot.

John Andary — Sophomore, center, 5-6, 135 pounds. He's an aggressive skater with good puck sense. Andary should see limited action as an underclassman, but possesses the talent to be outstanding as he develops.

Joe Carriero — Senior, defense, 5-8, 150 pounds. A tough checker with outstanding skating skills, Carriero is expected to be a leader on the North defensive crew.

Marc Cormier — Senior, goalie, 5-8, 145 pounds. New to the Norsemen this year, Cormier has great balance and quick hands and will be counted on as the No. 1 goalie.

Joe Cueter — Senior, defense, 5-10, 140 pounds. Cueter, a veteran defenseman, will be one of North's team captains, providing solid skating and playmaking to the team.

Matt Dennis — Sophomore, goalie, 5-10, 155 pounds. A tough competitor who doesn't give ground, Dennis will be called upon often to guard the Norsemen nets.

Peter Guzzardo — Junior, forward, 5-8, 150 pounds. A seasoned skater from the Grosse Pointe travel programs, Guzzardo has 10 years of hockey experience and the hustle and determination unmatched by most players.

Greg Henchel — Senior, center, 5-11, 150 pounds. A standout as a junior, Henchel will captain this year's team and will be relied upon for his scoring and playmaking abilities.

John Henchel — Sophomore, forward, 5-9, 136 pounds. A great skater with excellent moves, Hen-chel will develop this year with the other sophomores.

David Johnston — Sophomore, defense, 5-11, 140 pounds. Johnston, an underclassman, will see a lot of ice time because of his heady play and outstanding skating abilities.

Rob Koehler — Sophomore, center, 5-8, 130 pounds. A real "speed burner," Koehler will center a regular ice shift and will be getting his share of goals in 1984-85.

Don Nicol — Senior, defense, 6-0, 190 pounds. Nicol likes to take his opponent to the boards, and will keep the area in front of the North net clear.

Casey Quick — Junior, forward, 6-1, 140 pounds. Quick possesses a great knack for knowing where the puck is and gets a lot of scoring because of his "feel" for the game.

Bob Rogers — Senior, forward, 5-7, 145 pounds. A "rock 'em, sock 'em" player who constantly works for the puck, Rogers will be particularly effective in front of the opponents' net this season.

John Russell — Junior, center, 6-0, 140 pounds. With tremendous all-around ability, Russell is expected to provide much of the scoring punch for this year's team.

Dan Spitz — Sophomore, forward, 5-7, 135 pounds. A great skater and stick handler, Spitz will be providing scoring punch for the Norsemen for three more years.

John Spitz — Senior, defense, 5-11, 160 pounds. Spitz is a team leader and steadying influence; he does his job with great ability and will be counted on in crucial situations.

Kevin Tisdale — Junior, forward, 5-9, 145 pounds. An excellent passer with tremendous skating ability, Kevin will be counted on as one of the Norsemen's scoring leaders.

Tom Ugval — Junior, forward, 5-8, 160 pounds. Speed, finesse and a blistering slap shot make Ugval a real offensive threat for the Norsemen.

Frank Vento — Senior, forward, 5-9, 150 pounds. A solid performer in 1983-84, Vento is one of this season's captains and his aggressive play and scoring knack will be important keys to this year's Norsemen.

Palazzo honored

North High School graduate Mark Palazzo was named to the All-MIAA second team for his performance this season on behalf of the Albion College football team.

Palazzo, a senior linebacker for the Britons, was Albion's second leading tackler with 97, including 53 solos and one interception. The Britons finished the season in the third place in the MIAA (Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association) with a 3-2 record (5-4 overall).

Mite Division

The GPD team beat the Seals, 4-0, last week, to run their season record to 6-2.

After a scoreless first period, Chris Coates scored GPD's first goal on assists from Blair Ridder and Tim Miller. Miller followed with a goal just before the end of the period to make it 2-0. In the third period, Val Covacha scored for GPD on a breakaway and Miller added his second of the game to close the scoring.

Fine defensive play by Jeff Huebner, Tim Tracy and Mike Collins helped goalie Jamie Bufalino record the shutout.

Squirt Division

The Sabres skated to a 6-2 win over the Blues last week. Stephen Wesley opened the scoring for the Sabres with assists from Bill Cass and Garrett Ryan. The Blues' Chad Yates tied the game on passes from Tim Kazul and Billy Buffalo.

In the second period, the Sabres took the lead on goals by John Maycock (two), and Mike Owens. Bryan Cass, Everett Covacha and Bill Cass earned assists. Bill Cass closed out the Sabres' scoring in the third period; Wesley assisting Kazul's unassisted goal for the Blues made it 6-2. The Sabres' Gabe Erikson and the Blues' Scott Cook played well in goal.

FLYERS-SABRES

The Flyers won this close one from the Sabres, 2-1, on goals by Tom Best and Kristian Hognlund.

The game was scoreless through two periods and featured end-to-end action. Maycock tested Flyer goalie Geoff Miller several times without success. Although the Flyers got the first two goals of the third period (with Scott Wieczorowski assisting on the second) the Sabres carried the play. Ryan scored for the Sabres with 2:50 left in the game.

Michael Gandelot, Mike Ugval and Jason Chevalier played well for the Flyers. Eriksen and Erik Lindsay were outstanding for the Sabres.

Bantam Division

The Bantam "B" Nordiques played great hockey in Fraser Hockeyland's Turkey Tournament, taking the runner-up trophy after losing 2-0 in the final to the S.C.S. Spirits.

In the tournament opener, the Nordiques fell to the Spirits, 4-2. Jim Alderton and Bob Osborne scored and Shannon Nowiecki and Dino Vento drew assists. Mike Semack was outstanding in goal, with fine defensive help from Cam Hoffman, Jim Pappas, Jim Smith and Jamie Osborne. The Spirits' final goal came into an open net.

The Nordiques bounced back in Game Two, topping a tough Jackson team, 4-3. Grosse Pointe opened the scoring 20 seconds into the game as Bob Osborne hit Vento with a perfect pass and the score. Osborne and Peter McDermott added first period goals on assists from Vento, Eddie Barberi, Andy Vyletel and Jamie Osborne. Barberi scored an unassisted goal in the second period, picking up a loose puck and skating in alone to score.

Game Three went as planned for the Nordiques as they defeated host team Fraser, 5-0. Semack was superb in goal, gaining his third shutout of the season. While defensemen Smith, Osborne and Nicholson and the forward lines of Barberi/Vento/Osborne, and McDermott/Vyletel/Pappas, were busy helping Semack keep Fraser off the board; the Alderton/Nowiecki/Radke line went to work on offense.

G.P. Bandits busy on ice

The Grosse Pointe Bandits played seven games in 10 days, including the Chicago area Turkey Tournament held during the Thanksgiving weekend at the Falcon Arena in Chicago.

The Bandits suffered their only defeat in the opening game against a strong Birmingham team, 2-1. Birmingham was the eventual tournament champ. Todd Frederickson scored the Bandits' only goal, Michael Kuna and Brian Crane assisting.

That same day, the Bandits skated to a 4-0 victory over the Chicago Falcons II team. Goal-tender Jason Hall got the shutout. Goal scorers were Andrew VanDeweghe (two), John Gorney and Crane. Assists went to Crane and Gorney (three each) and Stefan Teitge. Corby Leith and Don Harvey played well on defense.

On Nov. 24, the Bandits played two more games, winning 9-1 over Northbrook, Ill., and 5-2, over Parkridge, Ill. Scoring against Northbrook were VanDeweghe (four), Crane (two), Brady Miceli, Scott McMillan and Kuna. Earning assists were Gorney (three), Ty Telegadas and Teitge (two each), Frederickson and Leith. Against Parkridge, goal scorers were Gorney (two), Crane, Frederickson and Telegadas. VanDeweghe (two), Scott Berger, Teitge, Crane and Kuna drew assists.

On Sunday, Nov. 25, the 1984 Michigan state champs took on the Chicago Falcons I team, the 1984 Illinois state champs and skated to a 2-1 win. Scoring for the Bandits were Crane and Frederickson with assists going to Telegadas and Kuna.

The Bandits returned to league play on Nov. 28, taking a 5-3 victory over the Macomb Bulldogs to maintain their first place position in the Little Caesar's League. Scorers for the Bandits were VanDeweghe (two), Berger, Teitge and Kuna. Earning assists were Gorney, Telegadas and Teitge (two each), Miceli, Crane and Brad Warezak.

Last Sunday, the Bandits began play in the Silver Stick Tournament, one of North America's most prestigious youth hockey tournaments, hosted regionally by St. Clair Shores. Grosse Pointe avenged its earlier loss to Birmingham by winning, 4-3. Teitge (two), VanDeweghe and Frederickson (game winning goal) scored for the Bandits. Berger, Teitge, VanDeweghe, Kuna and Warezak drew assists.

Much has been made of the Bandits' potent scoring attack, but the defensive unit of Berger, Leith, Crane, Jon Bell and Harvey, deserves much credit for keeping the puck out of the Bandits' zone and clearing it to the forwards. Net-minder Jason Hall has been brilliant all year, as well.

Good start for St. Clare

The 1984-85 C.Y.O. basketball season officially opened last Sunday and St. Clare got off to a great start as four of the five Falcon teams were victorious.

The varsity girls' team, just off a Thanksgiving tournament championship, ran its record to 4-0 with a 30-10 win over Detroit Queen of Heaven. Cece Rettig and Heather Adragna were high scorers with nine and six points, respectively.

St. Clare's varsity boys' team jumped out to a 33-14 halftime lead and went on to defeat Queen of Heaven, 61-23. Frank Zielinski led all scorers with 16 points. Louis Dobbs and Kevin VanGorder each added 11 points; Chris May, Mike Pote, Gil Waitkus and Sean Moran combined for 23 points.

The Falcon girls' fifth and sixth grade team started its season on a winning note, topping Queen of Heaven, 27-10. Amy Figoji and Maggie Haun led in the scoring department, combining for 13 points. Jill Johnson and Kelly Darke spearheaded a stingy Falcon defense. Annie Sullivan and Beth Wronikowski led the team with three assists each.

The St. Clair junior varsity boys lost their season opener to St. Raymond, 54-31. High scorer for St. Clare was Jeff Whitty with 12 points. Dane Lupo had an outstanding game with 10 points and 18 rebounds. Also aiding the Falcon effort was Dave Kerfoot, who scored five points and pulled down 11 rebounds.

The Falcon fifth and sixth grade boys' team had the closest game of the day, squeaking by Queen of Heaven, 40-35. Down most of the game, St. Clare pulled ahead in the second half behind the 14-point performance of Mark Evans and Clay Cole. The Falcons were also led by John Temple and Tim Gramling, who chipped in a total of 25 points.

This Sunday, Dec. 9, St. Clare will host St. Matthew. Games begin at noon.

Trophy time . . .

Grosse Pointe Soccer Association house league director Bill Rhodes recently presented trophies to the coaches of two GPSA championship teams, (top) Don Reynaert, coach of the under 8 division champion Strikers, and (bottom) Gene Agnone, coach of the Express, winners of the under 10 division. More than 150 children were involved in the successful fall house league season.

Winter sports abound

Among the most popular winter playgrounds in southeastern Michigan are the Huron-Clinton Metroparks serving the citizens of Wayne, Macomb, Oakland, Livingston and Washtenaw counties.

Because snow and ice conditions vary from day to day, persons are advised to contact the Metropark of their choice prior to winter sports participation. The parks, facilities and phone numbers are listed below.

Vehicle entry permits are required (Annual: $7, senior citizens $2 or daily - $2, year around).

Metro Beach Metropark on Lake St. Clair near Mount Clemens is a good perch fishing site, with fishermen using the canals, boat basins, Black Creek and Lake St. Clair for ice fishing.

Sorry, Pam, Kathy, Joanna . . .

The Brownell seventh grade basketball team finished its season with 21-18 and 18-13 victories over Fraser Richards and South Lake. Helping the squad to its fine finish this year were Mary Begg, Joanna Thomas, Kathy Van Hamper, Pam Reinke and Kelly Thompson, who were incorrectly identified in the Nov. 29 story on Brownell.

We regret any inconvenience the error may have caused.

Wellness Club meets Dec. 12

The Wellness Club will hold an initial meeting to establish its community program for conditioning, exercise and weight training at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 12, at the Neighborhood Club.

The meeting is open to individuals of all ages whose input to the project will be greatly appreciated. Further information may be obtained by calling Dan Wyers at 885-4600.

North, South hope to improve

teams with about as much returning experience as South's.

"Mount Clemens should be very competitive. They've got four starters and one transfer coming who should help. Port Huron will be returning some experienced players. I think the dark horses will be L'Anse Creuse North and possibly, Roseville. They've got a big kid at Roseville who could make a difference."

Petrouleas thinks South has the strength to be competitive against both the tough league schedule and the demanding early non-league teams.

"We feel right now that one of our strengths will be getting the ball off the glass at both ends. We hope we can push it down the floor and we know we've got some good shooters. We got fair quickness this year . . . not overwhelming," he says.

Petrouleas says the Devils have set goals to win the EML, show some improvement over last year and be competitive come state tournament time — "March Madness." And a lot of that will depend upon a good start.

"Win or lose, those first tough games certainly don't make our whole season. But we'd like to get off to a good start and use that as a springboard for the rest of the year."

AT NORTH, second year coach George Olman has at least four spots in his starting lineup set. Four returning lettermen from the squad which was 8-12 overall and 5-7 in the Bi-County League last year will form the lineup when North travels to Sterling Heights Friday night to open the 1984-85 season.

At center will be 6-5 senior center Kevin Weidinger. Art Szymanski, a 6-3 senior, and Rob Skuras, a 6-3 junior, will play up front for the Norsemen. At guard will be 6-0 senior Dan Kopitzke. After that, it'll be up to junior Jon Palazzo or sophomore John Heilscher to fill out the starting lineup.

"We should be stronger in the rebounding department this year," Olman says. North has "fair shooting" in its lineup, he adds.

The Norsemen will have to work on winning close games this year, Olman says. They had a bit of a problem doing that last season. Cases in point: losing 57-46 to Lake Shore after being tied at 38-38 after three quarters; dropping a crucial game to Clintondale, 54-50, after the short end of a 47-45 score to South Lake in overtime.

But the Norsemen of 1984-85 have a "good, positive attitude," according to Olman, and might be able to push themselves over that "close game" hump.

One tough league opponent for North will be reigning Bi-County titlist Clintondale. "They won the championship, have four starters back and their JV team was undefeated," Olman says. Needless to say, they'll be ready for North's challenge.

"Our non-leaguers are Sterling Heights, Utica Ford and then South, right in a row. There are no breathers, that's for sure," Olman says.

His Norsemen haven't set specific goals for the new season, but hope to improve upon last year's record. "We want to play well every time we hit the floor," he says.

North will open the 1984-85 home season against Utica Ford on Tuesday, Dec. 11, following the JV game.

And in the girls' 200 medley, the team of Higel, Brooks, Vittiglio and Keller (2:17.38) finished second.

All Pointes swimmers of the week were Anne Cavanaugh and Craig Winger.

ULS ices 2-1 mark

Coach Rich Lacca's youthful University Liggett School varsity hockey team ran its season mark to 2-1 with two victories last week.

The Knights topped Lahser, 7-6, Nov. 28, behind the offensive power of the line of Gordie Maitland (two goals), Paul Smith (one goal) and John Petrilli (two assists). Mike Gouda added two goals and single goals came from Wally Connolly and Ted Evans.

Lacca also made note of the fine penalty killing efforts of Doug Avedisian and Gouda.

The Knights put on a better defense in a 9-2 win over River Rouge last weekend. Defenseman John Birgbauer, returning from a shoulder injury, supplied the offensive punch with four goals and two assists. Petrilli had one goal, Avedisian and Connolly added one goal and one assist each, Jamie McMillan had a goal and Gouda earned two assists. Mike French and Steve Vreeken played well, each contributing one assist.

"McMillan and Connolly are doing a great job on defense," said Lacca.

This week, ULS plays North (after press time) and travels to Toledo to take on Northview High on Friday, Dec. 7.

Star tops ULS

On Tuesday, Nov. 27, University Liggett School's girls' varsity basketball team ended its season with a loss in the district tournament to Our Lady Star of the Sea, 33-30.

The contest was a close one. Although Star of the Sea took an early lead, ULS battled back and tied the score at 28-28 with a few seconds left in the fourth quarter, sending the game into overtime. However, the first overtime spelled the end of the season for Coach Shelley Owens' Lady Knights, as ULS scored one basket compared to Star of the Sea's two baskets and a free throw.

High scorer for ULS was Chandra Oden with 12 points. M. Sattler and A. Pugliesi of Star of the Sea scored eight points apiece.

ULS's close-knit team finished the season with a record of 8-10. (By Chandra Oden).
