

Proposed Free Press marathon to include Pointes

By John Minnis
Staff Writer

After two years on the west side, the prestigious Detroit Free Press International Marathon is planning to return to the east-side route, which includes the Pointes.

The proposed marathon route passes through the Park, City and Farms along Kercheval, Kerby Road, Lakeshore and Jefferson. While the three Grosse Pointe communities have approved the route for the Oct. 15 run, the city of Detroit has yet to give it its approval, according to Free Press spokeswoman Cathy Goltz.

She is hopeful that Detroit will approve the Sunday race, which has been a tradition in Windsor and Detroit for 12 years.

Marathon organizers would like the 26.2-mile run back on the east side because it is avored by runners and better attended. The number of marathon participants dropped off considerably when the race moved to the west side in 1987.

Moving back to the east side of town has not been without obstacles. Many church leaders have complained that the Sunday race will interfere with worship services all along the route.

Park Mayor Palmer Heenan said he sympathizes with the affected churches, including St. Paul on the Lake and Grosse Pointe Memorial, both on Lakeshore in Grosse Pointe Farms.

"I would rather it be done on Saturday," Heenan said, "so that it wouldn't interfere with worship." He said he suggested the day change, but other than that, there's little that can be done. He said the race is very popular with residents.

Goltz said that Saturday has been ruled out as a possibility. She said traffic would be much heavier on Saturday and more people have Sunday off from work.

Other than the day of the race, Heenan is concerned about the residents who live on the south side of Jefferson and Lakeshore who will be inconvenienced by the marathon.

For those residents, the only way for them to get out of their subdivisions is to go to Jefferson or Lakeshore. He said those residents will be inconvenienced the most.

The residents won't be trapped at home, Heenan said. The Park Public Safety officers and auxiliary officers will be at intersections to direct traffic across Jefferson when runners are not present. Nevertheless, there will be an inconvenience, particularly for the Windmill Pointe residents.

However, Heenan said he has not received any complaints or concerns from those residents.

Goltz said the bulk of the runners should be traveling through the Pointes between 9:30 a.m. and noon, if Detroit approves its portion of the race.

The marathon will start at Jackson Park in Windsor and then proceed through the Detroit-Windsor Tunnel, making the run the only international under-water mile.

Participants in wheelchairs will begin at 7:30 a.m., and the runners will start at 8 a.m.

Memorial Day festivities

Hundreds of residents turned out in the Woods on Memorial Day to participate in festivities honoring those who gave their lives for our country. At left, is the Woods' Circle of Honor with its plaque and many flags. Below, color guards from the Air Force and Marines and the VFW Rifle Squad precede a small parade, followed by Boy and Girl Scout troops.

Woods home considered under drug forfeiture law

By John Minnis
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe Woods home on Blairmoor that was raided in March as part of a drug investigation is the first house in the Pointes sought for seizure under drug forfeiture laws.

On March 18 the Wayne County Prosecutor's office filed suit in Circuit Court seeking the house at 1593 Blairmoor owned by George Scandalis, 30, who was arrested March 23 and charged with conspiracy to deliver more than 50 grams of cocaine and possession with intent to deliver more than 50 grams of cocaine.

The raid of the Woods house came after Scandalis' brother, John Scandalis, 21, was arrested March 22 in St. Clair Shores by officers of the County of Macomb Enforcement Team, a multi-jurisdiction task force known as COMET.

John Scandalis, who lives on Hampton in Grosse Pointe Woods, is charged with delivering less than 50 grams of cocaine, delivering more than 50 grams of cocaine and conspiracy to deliver more than 50 grams of cocaine.

Both the Scandalises are awaiting trial in Macomb County Circuit Court. The brothers pleaded innocent at their arraignments last month. No trial date has been set.

According to police, when COMET, Grosse Pointe Woods and Harper Woods officers searched the Blairmoor home, they found 4 ounces (112 grams) of suspected cocaine, a scale, an AR-15 semi-automatic weapon, brass knuckles and a shotgun.

The forfeiture proceedings are a civil action and are not dependent on whether the defendant is found guilty of drug activity, according to the prosecutor's office. The laws allowing forfeiture also apply to property involved in illegal gambling activity.

The burden of proof in a forfeiture case is not as stringent as in a criminal case. Since incarceration is involved in criminal cases, defendants must be proved guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. In property forfeiture cases, however, the prosecutor must only show that a preponderance of the evidence shows that illegal drug or gambling activity occurred.

If the prosecutor's office wins the forfeiture case, the house on Blairmoor will be auctioned off by the county. The proceeds of the sale will pay for the court costs and some will be put into the county's law enforcement budget.

No court date has been set for the forfeiture trial.

Larry Anderson

By Ronald J. Bernas

One day about 10 years ago, Larry Anderson dragged his old tennis shoes out of the back of the closet and ran around the block.

Larry Anderson

He did it as a test. He had a recent bout with sarcoid, a disease which resembles tuberculosis and causes high fevers, night sweats, arthritis, loss of weight and shortness of breath.

It was a terrible experience, he said. He hated it. But the symptoms of sarcoid had gone away, and Anderson was afraid he would relapse. He figured if he could make it, he was OK.

He made it. And on the weekend before Memorial Day, Anderson passed another milestone; he ran in his 125th marathon.

A gross anatomy instructor at the University of Detroit Dental School, Anderson is also a consultant at the Allen Park Veterans Hospital and he teaches continuing education classes to licensed dentists.

And Anderson, who is 46, ran in his 126th marathon over Memorial Day weekend.

Although the symptoms could reappear at any time, he has

Governor vetoes teen alcohol use legislation

By John Minnis
Staff Writer

Minors won't have to worry about losing their driver's licenses if caught with or attempting to buy alcohol next year.

Gov. James J. Blanchard vetoed legislation May 22 that would have mandated that minors' driver's licenses be suspended for 90 days and fined at least $50 if caught with alcoholic beverages or caught trying to purchase alcohol.

Senate Bill 119 was unanimously approved by the Senate in March and was passed by the House by a 66-29 vote last month and sent to the governor's desk.

In a statement announcing his veto of the bill, Blanchard said Attorney General Frank J. Kelly, the Prosecuting Attorneys Association of Michigan and Mothers Against Drunk Driving all opposed the legislation and believed it would actually make it more difficult to prosecute and deter illegal liquor sales to minors.

"This bill would seriously weaken Michigan's liquor control enforcement efforts," Blanchard said.

The governor opposed provisions in the bill that would make prosecutions of liquor license holders who sell to minors possible only if the minors are also prosecuted.

"It makes no sense to cripple the enforcement authority of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission with respect to liquor licenses in all instances in which a local prosecutor chooses not to prosecute a minor."

The bill also prevented law enforcement agencies from offering immunity from prosecution to a minor who cooperates in naming who had sold him the alcohol.

The legislation was strongly opposed by Rep. William Bryant, R-Grosse Pointe Farms. Bryant and other opponents of the bill charged that it was written and promoted by the "liquor lobby," which includes 28,892 liquor license holders, including bars, restaurants and convenience stores.

Under provisions of SB119, which allow judges little discretion, the 90-day driver's license suspension and minimum $50 fine was for first-time offenders. On second offense, the minor's driver's license would have been suspended for up to 180 days and the fine would have been up to $500. A third offense called for a $500 fine and a driver's license suspension of up to a year.

The bill's detractors, including the governor, pointed out that the penalties against minors would be harsher than those against adults caught drunk driving.

Under current law, a minor caught purchasing alcohol is subject to a $25 fine. The seller of alcohol to a minor faces a maximum $1,000 fine and possible revocation of his liquor license. If the minor is caught using false identification, such as a fake driver's license, he could get up to 90 days in jail, a $100 fine and possible suspension of his driver's license for 90 days.

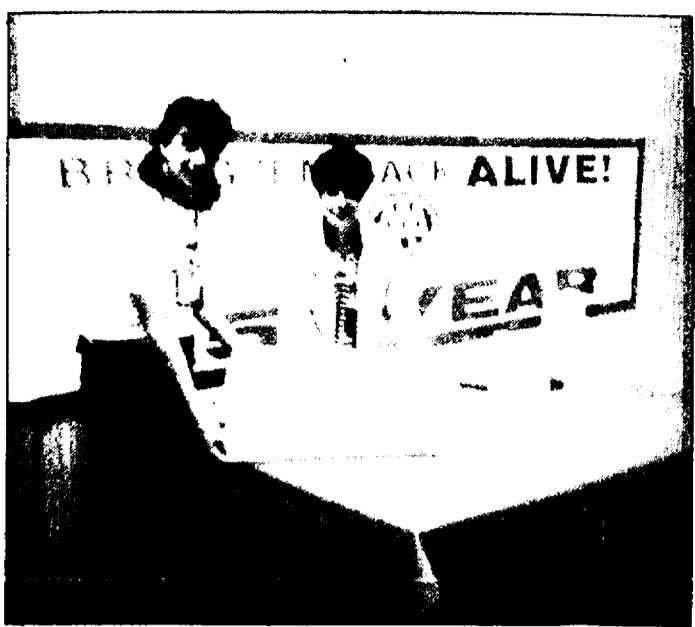

While there are no mandated guidelines in sentencing adult drunk drivers, judges in the Pointes are pretty uniform in their sentencing. All first-time drunk drivers face some type of license suspension and alcohol-abuse screening and counseling. Offenders often get restricted licenses to get to work and to alcohol counseling sessions.

Blanchard suggested that there is a possibility that he would favor future legislation that would address illegal alcohol purchases involving minors, as long as the legislation addresses both the seller and the underage buyer.

"I believe underage liquor sales constitute a problem which needs to be taken seriously," Blanchard said. "As a result, I can support legislation that strengthens the penalties for minors and liquor licensees who engage in illegal liquor sales. But these penalties should be consistent."

"I am willing to work with legislators to make certain Michigan's liquor laws are enforced fairly and equitably," he said. "I believe Senate Bill 119 is not the solution we need."

Celebrating

The Grosse Pointe office of AAA Michigan celebrated the 25th year of the company's "Bring 'em back alive!" holiday news service May 25 with a salute to tourism and traffic safety. Member Paul Rudy, left, and Office Manager Nita Capitan display an anniversary cake.

The service was begun Memorial Day weekend in 1965 and Capitan said that since then, summer holiday miles traveled in Michigan have increased 70 percent while the number of traffic fatalities have dropped 44 percent. The summer news service includes a crew of 25 people equipped with mobile phones, helicopters, computer terminals and other equipment. Field reporters call in to writers who compile the information into 60-second bulletins which are then broadcast throughout the holiday weekends. This summer, more than 150 radio stations will broadcast the reports throughout the three summer holidays.

Disaster training scheduled

The Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross will sponsor a one-day training session, "Providing Red Cross Disaster Health Services," on Saturday, June 10, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. It will be held at Red Cross Chapter Headquarters, 100 Mack Ave., between Woodward and John R.

This training session is designed for nurses interested in volunteering their time and skills in the delivery of disaster health services. It will provide nurses with opportunities to perform tasks through simulated exercises in disaster settings such as shelters, first aid stations and service centers.

Although the training is free, space is limited and participants must register in advance prior to Wednesday, June 7. To obtain more information or to register, call Barbara Spillman at 967-0966.

Margaret Anne Dillon Hobbs

A memorial service will be held in Florida at a later date for Margaret Anne Dillon Hobbs, 70, of Sun City Center, Fla., formerly of Grosse Pointe. She died May 21 in Sun City Hospital.

Mrs. Hobbs was born in Detroit.

She was a housewife. Mrs. Hobbs was a member of the Prince of Peace Catholic Church and the Art Club in Sun City Center.

Survivors are her husband, Norman; one daughter, Sheila Giac; three sons, Michael, John and Peter; five grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; and two brothers, Michael Dillon and David Dillon.

The body was cremated. Memorial contributions may be made to Alcoholics Anonymous.

Arrangements were handled by the Lewers Funeral Home in Ruskin, Fla.

Dorothy Wagner Sherman

Services for Dorothy W. Sherman, 73, of Grosse Pointe Shores, were held Saturday, May 27, 1989 at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church in Grosse Pointe Farms. Mrs. Sherman died Saturday, May 20, 1989 at St. John Hospital.

She was born in Sandusky, Ohio and was a homemaker.

Survivors include her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Mitchell; sons, Arthur and Roland; and seven grandchildren. She was predeceased by her husband Arthur Sherman.

The body was cremated with interment at Woodlawn Cemetery in Detroit.

Memorial contributions may be sent to the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church or to the charity of your choice.

Gladys M. Edyvean

A memorial service for Gladys M. Edyvean, 80, of Grosse Pointe Farms, will be held June 3, 1989 at 11 a.m. at Nardin Park United Methodist Church, 29883 W. 11 Mile Road, Farmington Hills.

Mrs. Edyvean died Friday May 19, 1989 at Georgian East Nursing Home, St. Clair Shores.

She was a music teacher for more than 30 years and was the organist at Bethany United Methodist Church for more than 20 years.

Survivors include her husband Frank; son, Kenneth; a daughter, Maureen.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Nardin Park United Methodist Church.

Arrangements were made by the Eppens-Van Deweghe Funeral Home.

Ernest W. Littlefield

Services for Ernest W. Littlefield, 75, of Grosse Pointe Woods, were held Tuesday, May 30, 1989 at the A.H. Peters Funeral Home, Grosse Pointe Woods. A mass was held Monday, May 29 at 7:30 p.m. at St. Joan of Arc Catholic Church in St. Clair Shores with the Rev. Edward Mitchell officiating.

Mr. Littlefield died Saturday, May 27, 1989 at BiCounty Hospital, Warren, of lung cancer.

He was born in Providence, R.I.

Mr. Littlefield was a 1939 graduate of the University of Detroit, with a degree in business administration.

He was an industrial plant manager at Huck Manufacturing in Detroit from 1962 until 1978. Previously he served as a controller and plant manager for Young Spring and Wire Corp. in New Jersey, Detroit and Ohio from 1946 until 1962.

Mr. Littlefield held memberships at the Plum Hollow Golf Club, the Grosse Pointe Senior Men's Club and St. Joan of Arc Catholic Church. He was a volunteer driver for the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Survivors include his wife, Ellen; sons, Dr. Thomas Littlefield, D.D.S., and Richard Littlefield; six grandchildren; one brother, William; and one sister, Mary Girard.

City buys new parking meters

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe City Council approved the purchase of 95 electronic parking meters May 22 to replace some of the older mechanical models on Kercheval in the Village and on Fisher Road.

The new meters cost about $100 more than the mechanical ones, but will be easier to read, work and run, according to City Manager Thomas Kressbach. The cost for the meters — 49 single head, and 46 double heads — is $38,766.

One hundred thirty-one meters are being replaced, but because some single-headed meters are being replaced with double-headed meters, only 95 new ones were needed.

The new meters run on a battery pack which holds four AA batteries, Kressbach said. They will include an expired time feature which will aid parking enforcement in determining how long a car has been parked at the meter, he added.

Although the operating expense of the electronic meters is slightly higher because the batteries must be replaced each year, the cost is offset partly due to reduced maintenance and conversion costs when parking rates are changed.

Kressbach said the current meters are between 16 and 19 years old, but have been renovated because they have worn out.

To replace the current mechanical meters with new mechanical meters would save the city $14,000 initially, but the electronic meters may save the city money in the long run, depending on the life of the new models.

Kercheval in the Village and in front of the shops on Fisher Road were chosen to be the homes of the new meters because of the high visibility, and because there is less chance the meters will be hit by errant drivers. The older meters will be used for parts to replace worn meters in other areas of the city.

In other action, the council raised lease parking rates from $17.50 per month to $18.25 a month for regular surface lot parking and from $19 to $19.75 per month for special surface lot parking. Also, the parking rates for Carriage House leases were raised 75 cents per month. The new rates go into effect July 1.

Shores budget is up slightly

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe Shores village council approved a final budget for fiscal 1989-90. Although the number of mills has been decreased for the new budget year, the average taxpayer will feel an increase of approximately 9.46 percent due to an increase in assessments.

According to Michael Kenyon, village manager, the SEV rose from the 1988-89 figure of $142 million to $161 million this year; an increase of $19 million or 13 percent.

Kenyon said the mills levied in the new budget are 14.85, down from 15.40 last year.

The 1989-90 budget is $3.47 million, up from the previous year's budget of $3.24 million.

The slight increase reflects a number of major expenditures and construction projects. The Shores is also trying to put some money away so the village is not strapped the following year when it will install new sewers on Colonial Road, a project which will cost some $500,000, to come out of the general fund.

Repaving of Lakeshore north of Vernier is scheduled to be completed early this month completing the repaving of the entire stretch of Lakeshore in the village. The islands will be landscaped and a sprinkling system will be installed as well.

Although the city of Detroit is not raising the price of water for the village, the use of water has increased, so the new budget reflects that increase.

Another construction project will be the repair of the Vernier Road water main. The Shores will be sharing the cost of that project with Grosse Pointe Woods; the Shores' portion is $75,000.

The Ford soccer field will be repaired this year, too, at a cost of $112,000.

And with the completion of negotiations for the public safety command officers, the budget shows an increase of $80,000, or 4 percent, in salaries.

"I'm satisfied with the budget," Kenyon said. "There is a tax increase, but we're putting the money to work. We're trying to continuously improve the community and keep it the pride of the Pointes."

Fifteen teenagers at drinking party in Farms

About 15 teenagers allegedly took over a home for a drinking party while the adult owners of the home were away on vacation last week.

A 19-year-old woman and a 14-year-old boy were minding the home in the 400 block of Cloverly May 24 when a group of teenage male youths apparently dropped by uninvited and proceeded to have a beer bash in the backyard, according to Farms police reports.

Police officers responded to several complaints of a loud party on Cloverly shortly after midnight. When the officers arrived, most of the youths in the backyard scattered and jumped fences to get away.

A 19-year-old Park youth was found crouched next to the garage in an apparent attempt to hide. The Park youth smelled of alcohol and his eyes were red and glassy, according to the officer making the report.

Several cups containing suspected alcohol were strewn throughout the backyard. A keg of beer was found behind the garage.

The 19-year-old daughter was apparently away from the home when the youths arrived. She told police that earlier she had told several of the youths not to come over. The 14-year-old son remained in the house while the youths were partying in the backyard.

The parents returned home immediately upon learning of the party and told police they would like to press trespassing charges against the youths who made use of their backyard.

The matter will be turned over to the prosecutor's office for determination on whether charges will be brought under the city's open house party law against the home's residents or against the youths for trespassing.

Woods man allegedly threatened by ex-business associate with gun

A Woods man was assaulted with a .38 special handgun last week by a former business partner who claimed the Woods man owed him money, according to statements told to police.

On May 23 at 6:51 a.m., the Woods man from the 19700 block of Blossom Lane entered his garage to leave for work when he came face to mask with a man who put a gun to his chest. The gun was in a green plastic Publix bag and the assailant wore a mask and plastic surgical gloves, witnesses told police.

A struggle ensued, during which the 52-year-old Woods man yelled for help. A 16-year-old neighbor heard the yelling and was able to subdue the assailant, whose gun had fallen beneath a car in the garage.

When police arrived, the 16-year-old was holding the assailant to the ground and the Woods man was laying in the front yard. He was taken to St. John Hospital and was thought to have suffered a concussion during the struggle with the gunman.

Through questioning the Woods man's family, police learned that a couple of years ago the gunman, who turned out to be a 75-year-old from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., had given the Woods man $490,000 to purchase equipment to manufacture an electrical automotive part.

Last September the Florida man demanded his money back because he was going through a divorce and needed the money for the settlement. The Woods man returned $300,000 and said the remainder was invested in equipment, which could be gotten back if the equipment was sold.

Last May the Florida man had apparently threatened the Woods man and his wife, saying the money owed was now "blood money" and either the Woods man or his wife "will pay."

The Florida man was arrested. The following day he was released after posting $5,000 bond.

Observant police make five arrests

Quick response and observant police patrols led to five arrests concerning three separate incidents in Grosse Pointe Park last week.

At 11:47 p.m. May 20, Park police responded to a report of a lawn mower being taken from a garage in the 900 block of Barrington. The officers spotted a suspect with the mower and arrested the 25-year-old man.

While looking for the suspected lawn mower thief, officers spotted a second man in the area. While the man denied any knowledge of the lawn mower incident, he gave police his home address, which was the same address as the suspected lawn mower thief.

Police ran the 25-year-old man's name through the state crime computer and learned he was wanted on several warrants. He was then arrested.

In another incident, police spotted two men attempting to break into a business in the 14600 block of Mack in Detroit at 11:10 p.m. May 21. The two men, ages 25 and 30, were taken into custody and turned over to Detroit police.

The fifth arrest was made May 22 at 6:30 p.m. when police responded to a report of a woman in the Fairfax-Barrington area who was said to be chasing residents into their yards and demanding money.

Police located the 25-year-old woman and found she was wanted on a prostitution warrant out of Detroit.

Fundraiser has international — and tasty — flavor

By Pat Paholsky
Editor

It was billed as the 1989 International Minestrone Cook Off, and it lived up to its international billing, proving that minestrone knows no boundaries.

Consider: A Czech master chef briefed the judges on the regional variations of Italian cooking, a Polish Jew took second place and an Armenian and a German-Polish chef came in first.

The judges included a Frenchman, a Dutchman and several Poles among other ethnic groups.

There were even Italian judges. More than 400 people attended the first minestrone cook off sponsored by the Italian American Chamber of Commerce of Michigan May 21 at the Italian American Cultural Center in Warren. The event was a benefit for the cultural center.

There was plenty of red, white and green, the national colors of Italy, in evidence under the huge striped tent set on the center's grounds. The mood was festive with folk dancers, strolling minstrels, the Verdi Opera Society and Italian folk singers performing.

For $35, participants helped themselves to an Italian buffet provided by Fern Hill Country Club, a fresh fruit table donated by Nino Salvaggio Fruit Market in St. Clair Shores and beer, wine and soft drinks dispensed by Grilli's. Gus Russo of Lochmoor Chrysler Plymouth donated the tent.

Russo co-chaired the event with Alexander Bongiorno of Grosse Pointe Woods. Bongiorno, a jeweler, created and donated the gold, silver and bronze medals that depicted a chef's hat and a bowl and ladle.

The 18 judges — who included Sandra Silfven of The Detroit News, Frank Stella, Joe Weaver, Jac LeGoff, Warren Mayor Ron Bonkowski and Joe Beyer of the Pontchartrain Wine Cellars — were briefed by master chef Milos Cihelka of the Golden Mushroom.

There were 19 entrants. Their booths lined both sides of the tent and the aroma from their simmering pots mingled and whetted many appetites. Festival-goers could stop at each booth for a sample.

The first place winner was Italian Cucina of Plymouth, a last-minute entrant. Second place went to Uncle Harry's Deli in St. Clair Shores and third place was awarded to Picano's Restaurant in Troy.

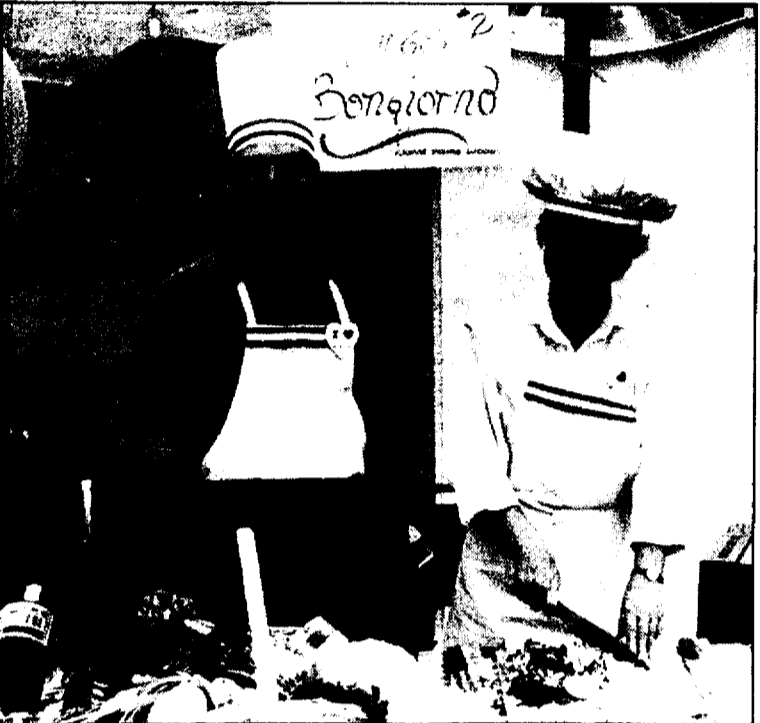

The best-dressed booth award was given to Francesca's Cucina, located in Giglio's Market on Gratiot near Eight Mile Road.

Channel 2 newsman Joe Weaver of Grosse Pointe, one of the celebrity judges, stands with Gus Russo, co-chair of the First International Minestrone Cook Off held on the grounds of the Italian American Cultural Center in Warren May 21.

Marge Bongiorno of Grosse Pointe Woods stands with her assistant, 25-year-old son Michael, who said the family entered her as a contestant because she makes the best minestrone they ever had. The judges thought so, too — her entry came in a close fourth. Bongiorno, who has been cooking minestrone for 30 years, added to the international flavor of the event — she is a Slovak.

2 South youths suspects in B&E

Charges are being sought when the teacher spotted the two male students. They were allegedly putting stolen shop tools into the trunk of one of their cars last week.

According to Farms police reports, an industrial technology teacher saw the students putting tools and equipment from the school's auto lab into the trunk of a car at about 11:30 a.m. May 24.

The lock on the shop's tool cage had been cut with a bolt cutter. One of the youths had a bolt cutter in his possession

The tools were returned to the school for use in classes, and the bolt cutter was turned over to police for evidence. The police officer filing the report has requested that the youths be charged with breaking and entering. They are 18 and 19 years old and both live in Grosse Pointe Park.

North plans 20th

Grosse Pointe North High's charter class of 1970 will celebrate its 20th reunion June 16, 1990, exactly 20 years to the date of their commencement.

Plans are being made to coordinate alumni search efforts. All 1970 grads are requested to inventory names and addresses of fellow graduates and forward their search efforts to: Charter Class Alumni Search, c/o Thomas Teetaert, Grosse Pointe North High School, 707 Vernier Road, Grosse Pointe Woods, Mich. 48236.

VOTE YES FOR CHILDREN! GUARANTEE THEM A QUALITY FUTURE!

Although property assessments have gone up 11.8% for 1989 . . .

the school system does not automatically receive the same percentage increase in tax dollars because . . .

- The Board of Education collects only that portion of the voted millage rate needed to fund its adopted budget.
- The Board of Education has pledged to limit the school tax increase for the 1989-90 school year to a maximum of 8.5% if both propositions pass.
- The Headlee Amendment limits the amount the Board of Education can levy in the second and third year of the voted millage.

Why does the school system need voted millage? Because . . .

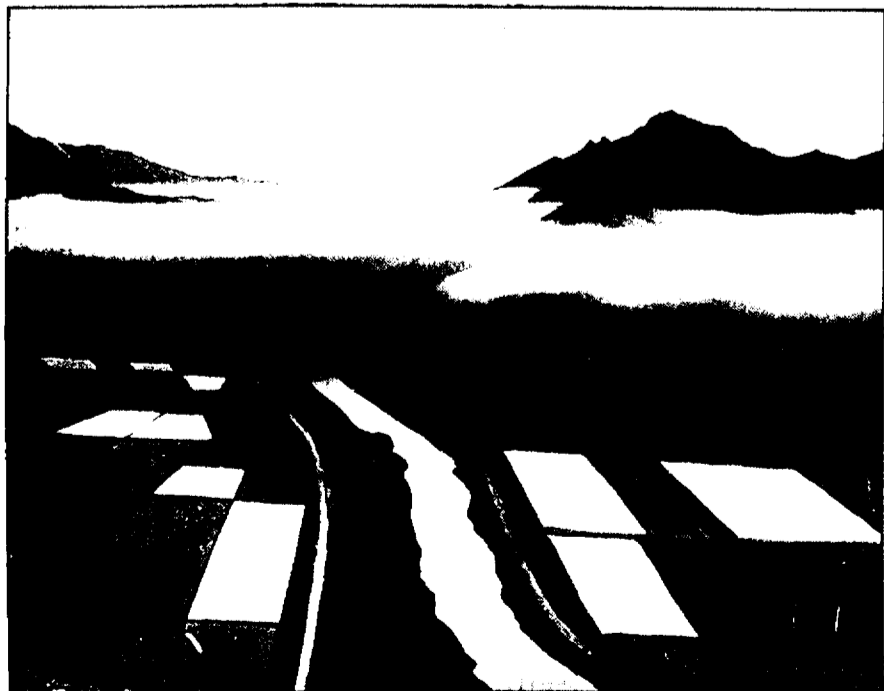

- All voted operating millage expired last December.
- If only the renewal passes, the Board of Education will have to cut programs by nearly $1 million the first year.
- Passage of both the renewal and increase is vital to the continued excellence in program for which the school system is known and which it strives to maintain.

Writer takes benign look at Mayor Young

Grosse Pointe and other suburban residents probably have read and heard more than they really wanted to know about the paternity suit against Detroit Mayor Coleman Young and his reaction to the blood tests that proved he is the father of a 6-year-old son born out of wedlock.

But these days politicians from the local to the national level have found their private lives subjected to media coverage, sometimes with damaging effects. In Young's case, however, Detroit community leaders have indicated the suit would not be a big issue if Young, as expected, seeks a fifth four-year term in November.

Until this episode, Young's personal life had been carefully guarded during his 10 years of service as a state senator and 16 years as mayor, even though he often has been an aggressive, contentious leader who seemed to enjoy verbal jousting with his critics.

Even a new biography just written by Wilbur C. Rich, a Wayne State political science professor, and published by the Wayne State University Press, does not dig very deeply into Young's private life, and ignores his divorces in two childless marriages.

"Coleman Young and Detroit Politics, From Social Activist to Power Broker" traces the development of a new political force in Detroit as the city's black population finally became a majority and made Young the city's first black mayor.

For the most part, an admiring portrait emerges from the biography. That is not surprising since author Rich acknowledges his debt to the Young Foundation for providing support for research, travel and word processing and to the foundation's directors for opening doors to sources of information on the mayor. Yet the story Rich tells is an intriguing one of the rise of a one-time black radical to a position of power and influence in Detroit and the national Democratic Party.

Born in 1918 in Tuscaloosa, Ala., Young celebrated his 71st birthday last week at a series of parties whose attendance and enthusiasm were apparently not affected by the paternity suit. In those intervening 71 years, Young obviously has come a long way.

Young's father and the family left Alabama in 1923 in reaction, author Rich says, "to the violence, economic uncertainty and political instability of the U.S. South." In Detroit the elder Young worked as a night watchman at the post office and with his wife's help built a family dry cleaning business. So, says author Rich, "Despite his disclaimers, Coleman Young had a basically middle-class upbringing in many ways."

In school, however, Rich says, "The negative reception of some of his white teachers to his precociousness reinforced the racial messages he received from his parents and alerted him to the duplicity of the educational system."

After graduating from Eastern High School, Young worked at a variety of jobs, served in the U.S. Army from 1942 to 1945 and soon after his return from service became an organizer for the CIO. In that post, he was instrumental, according to author Rich, in getting the CIO involved in the fledgling civil rights movement in Detroit.

After flirting with left-wing labor and political movements, Young turned to more traditional politics. His first successful race was as a Democratic candidate to the Michigan Constitutional Convention in 1961. Three years later he won a Detroit state Senate seat and began a 10-year career in Lansing where he first displayed his ability for leadership.

He served as Democratic minority floor leader in the Senate, chaired the Senate Elections Committee, backed liberal legislation and in 1968 became the nation's first black Democratic National Committeeman.

In view of his continuing interest in Detroit politics, it was not surprising that he was nominated for mayor in 1973 and won election over John Nichols, the former Detroit police chief.

From the beginning, according to his biographer, Young's major agenda as mayor has been the redevelopment of Detroit. This meant his choice was not whether but how to work with the business community which still controls the economic decisions in the city.

Author Rich claims that during Young's four terms, Detroit has been slowly undergoing a metamorphosis of major significance. He also believes Young has made "considerable headway in putting Detroit on the road to economic diversity despite incredible odds and a host of naysayers."

He points to the visible accomplishments of Young's administration as being affirmative action in the police department, economic development downtown and successful management of two economic crises. Overall, he claims that "in retrospect, all of the predictions of economic doom or of a failure to entice people downtown have proved false."

Despite the complimentary tone, the book does offer information that is useful in evaluating the career of Detroit's controversial mayor and explaining why he is favored for a fifth term despite his family lapses and other shortcomings.

In search of freedom

A little freedom, like a little learning, can be a dangerous thing, as China's students have demonstrated to their leaders in recent weeks.

What is truly remarkable is that a generation of young people, heavily indoctrinated in Communist dogma from the time they entered kindergarten, have emerged into adulthood with such a strong desire for political freedom that they are willing to stage a non-violent revolution to try to get it.

Americans who have toured China since former President Nixon's opening to China in 1972 often visited the public schools where they were negatively impressed by the youngsters' devotion to the party line, whether it was in answer to questions about their schooling or their own future. In both cases, they were willing to let the party and government make their decisions for them, or so they said.

Now, however, those youngsters have grown to college age and their political eyes have opened with the results we have seen in the mass protests in many of China's important cities. Furthermore, the students have won the support of millions of other Chinese who, it appears, were waiting for an opportunity to express their support for freedom, too.

True, the students still may lose their campaign but their heroic stand for freedom must have impressed the entire world, including many Americans. The demonstrators paid tribute to U.S. democracy not only by carrying banners displaying Patrick Henry's famous words, "Give me liberty or give me death," but also by erecting a 27-foot sculpture modeled after the U.S. Statue of Liberty.

Unfortunately, the government appeared to be winning the propaganda war with the students and their supporters. The Chinese army's Headquarters of General Staff and its General Political Department set a new tough tone by publishing a letter calling for support of martial law and resistance to the "extreme minority" that they claimed is creating turmoil.

Earlier, China's leaders, like those in the Soviet Union, had begun to loosen the bonds of Communist economic orthodoxy because both countries found their economic development lagging far behind that in the Western democracies. Now China's leaders may have to recognize the student and public demand for an easing of Communist political orthodoxy just as the Soviet Union has done to a limited extent.

Among the reforms sought by the demonstrating Chinese students are freedom of the press and freedom to assemble peacefully (as they have been doing) and an end to what the students regard as widespread official corruption.

The student revolt poses a tough issue for the Bush administration which wants to maintain its good relations with the governments of both China and the Soviet Union. President Bush, himself an "old China hand," has been cautiously urging non-violence and restraint, expressing the hope for "the continued implementation of economic and political reforms" and reiterating U.S. commitment "to democracy around the world."

True, the United States must stand on the sidelines physically but there is no reason it cannot express its moral support for the freedoms that the students are seeking. Most of them are enumerated in our own Bill of Rights which, as even American presidents sometimes need to remember, serves as the basis for our political freedom.

Leash laws protect pets

To the Editor:

The following is submitted in the hopes of publication in the Grosse Pointe News. It addresses an issue involving many residents — the total disregard of our leash laws.

Earlier this week, one of my neighbors, in effect, killed her dog. She and her two dogs were out for their evening walk. One of her dogs saw another dog and bolted directly under the wheels of a truck. As she stood in the street, hysterical, you noticed the leash — coiled in her hand.

Some time ago, I found myself on the ground in my backyard, between two fighting dogs. My dog was quite bloody — she could not escape, because she was tied in our yard. The other, also quite bloody, was being watched by its owner, who was standing in our driveway, leash in hand.

Recently, a beautiful springer, obviously a new mother, was frantically dodging rush hour traffic on Jefferson, while her owner stood at the curb — leash in hand.

These are not street dogs. These are beloved family pets. Their owners' rationale — that they are well-behaved, trained dogs — is sheer stupidity. Dogs have, at most, the intelligence and judgement of a two-year-old child. For the owner to carry a leash, attached to nothing, defies logic. A dog may bolt toward another dog, a squirrel, a cat, and sometimes its shadow. No one should have to see his pet injured or killed in traffic, nor should an innocent driver feel horror and guilt because of an owner's negligence and stupidity.

Leash laws are designed to protect the dog, as well as people and property. Please, unless you have a fenced yard, use a leash whenever you have your dog outdoors. It is in everyone's best interests.

A View from the Sidelines

by Wilbur Elston

In the spring, a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love, or so the poet tells us. But in the spring an older man's fancy turns to thoughts of another four-letter word, golf.

This spring, however, has not been conducive to such thoughts, or more accurately, to playing the game. Cold weather with frequent showers and strong winds have tested the mettle of even the most persistent golfers, young as well as old.

For operators of public golf courses, the weather has been a disaster. Some courses were reporting only one-half to two-thirds of their usual play in April and May. Others courses, private as well as public, frequently were found to be waterlogged and on occasion even unplayable.

Even the televised national tournaments have had their weather problems. Rain in the South and Southwest has interrupted play in several important tournaments.

Some even had to be cut back to three days of play, with heavy losses to promoters and embarrassment to tongue-tied announcers seeking to ad lib interviews in the clubhouse.

With the advent of June, however, hopes are rising with the temperatures. The calendar still could be out of whack, of course, but the weathermen assure us the worst is over for this spring.

Now if we could just find a way to guarantee warm, sunny weather on weekends, even the oldest and most complaining duffer would be satisfied with his lot if not his game. It must have been golfers who prompted Mark Twain to write those lines widely attributed to him, "Everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it."

Now let's see. How does that line go: "What is so rare as a day in June? Then if ever come perfect days" ... for golf.

Souper Sunday

Years ago, I was asked to judge floats that the high school classes made for the homecoming game. It was a terrible experience.

Long after all the judges had marked their ballots and retreated to a warm place, I was still walking around in the sub-zero weather, examining each float again and again, determined to make the best choice.

The freshmen class, for instance, had no prior experience in making a float, so perhaps they should be spotted a few extra points. The senior class, on the other hand, would never again have a chance to win the trophy for best float and if that particular class had never won, shouldn't one factor in a little compassion?

The longer I took, the harder it became. I turned to my husband who had been walking patiently with me, and in exasperation I asked him what he thought. You're the judge, he said, don't ask me.

Somehow I made a decision that I was convinced was completely wrong.

Shortly after that, I was asked to judge a Voice of Democracy essay contest. I figured I could handle it since I knew something about writing.

It was an awful experience.

About a half-dozen of us gathered in somebody's house and spread out in the dining room and living room, each with a ballot and a stack of essays. In between the lines I could read the sweat some of the kids poured into their writing and it seemed as though each essay was as good or better than the previous one.

Right then and there I vowed to never ever again agree to be a judge for anything anywhere at anytime for any reason. And the years passed and on the occasions I was asked to judge something or other, I would politely decline and wipe the sweat from my brow. Another bad experience averted.

So I can't explain how it happened that I was a judge for a minestrone cook off last week. Maybe it was because Jack Grifo asked me and it would have been hard to say no to someone who volunteers a lot of time to the Gleaners and other organizations.

It was a puzzlement and besides, there was this one little disturbing fact: I didn't even like minestrone.

But that was then. It was, to my surprise, an enjoyable experience and in the process, I have gained a new appreciation for minestrone which I thought always came in one color — deep red — and one taste — vegetable soup with a strong beef base. I learned that all minestrone is not equal.

The colors ranged from a pale yellow, like a chicken broth, to a deeper yellow to all shades of red to a deep mahogany. Each one had its own combination of vegetables and pasta — some were heavy with garbanzo beans, others with spinach, some had rice or cheese. It was like the United Nations of minestrone.

And a funny thing happened. I discovered I like it. Each judge tasted at least 12 samples and it wasn't easy, but it wasn't hard either. Most of all, it was fun.

The experience has caused me to modify my position somewhat on judging. I wouldn't want to judge any more floats, and writing contests, when they involve children or young adults, are like poster contests or coloring contests — it's not fair to single out one or several when each one is an achievement worthy of recognition.

But you say you want to organize a contest for the best meat balls or cherry pie? Count me in. I think the operative word here is food.

Robes 'n' cleats; writes 'n' bats

Eight Grosse Pointe women lawyers and judges are busily oiling their gloves, dusting off their bats and cleaning their cleats for the fourth annual Women Lawyers vs. Women Judges Benefit Softball Challenge.

They'll face each other on the Belle Isle softball diamond Tuesday, June 6, at 6 p.m. — to benefit The Children's Center sexual abuse treatment program and My Sister's Place, a domestic violence shelter operated by the Women's Justice Center.

Representing the Judicial Powers are: Maureen Pulte (a.k.a. "Swift") Reilly of the Michigan Court of Appeals; Kathleen MacDonald, of the Wayne County Circuit Court; Patricia Schneider, of the Grosse Pointe Shores and Grosse Pointe Woods municipal courts; and Kirsten a.k.a. "Fearless") Frank, of the Grosse Pointe Park Municipal Court.

On the Lawyers team are: Dawn Van Hoek, president-elect of the State Women Lawyers Association of Michigan;

Mary DuFour, Sue Radulovich and Lori Zurvalec.

Last year, the benefit raised enough money to donate $1,500 to each organization. The group hopes to raise even more this year.

Refreshments and T-shirts will be available. For a $50 donation, a law firm or group may sponsor a player and have the firm's name printed on the back of her shirt.

Tickets are $5 in advance; $6 at the gate.

For more information, call 961-0833 or 256-3484.

P.S. The lawyers are undefeated — three years straight.

Listen up, Grosse Pointers.

John Prost, of Grosse Pointe Park, will be a guest host with Charles Greenwell on WQRS-FM from 9 'til 10 p.m. this evening, Thursday, June 1.

The program, called "Guess Who's Playing the Classics," features a different guest host each week. Prost will choose the music and provide about 15 minutes worth of chatter to go along with his selections.

Talk is no problem for Prost, who hosts a weekly talk show on Grosse Pointe Cable Channel 32 called Pointers for Prost. He also serves as vice president of the Grosse Pointe Symphony and is a member of The Grunyons, a Grosse Pointe singing group.

Unfair to North!

Grosse Pointe North students were crying foul last Thursday, May 25, when they learned that Grosse Pointe South students got the day off.

According to Jay Jeffrey, head engineer for South, the problem was a transformer with a leaking gasket.

The transformer, he said, takes the power from Detroit Edison, converts it into useable voltage, and distributes it throughout the school.

A transformer that's throwing a tantrum gets attention.

And that takes time.

"To repair it, we had to shut off the power," Jeffrey said. "The crew got there about 7 p.m. Wednesday, worked all Wednesday night and all day Thursday. Power was restored about 6 p.m. Thursday."

Kids were back at their desks Friday morning.

Some of South's teachers served as substitutes in other Grosse Pointe schools — thereby saving the school system a few bucks.

Yesterday's Headlines

March 24, 1960 —

The New York Times reported that the House of Representatives completed a five-part civil rights bill that it was preparing to send to the Senate. The central provision of the new measure was a voting rights clause seeking to end discriminatory practices to deny Negroes the ballot.

New York Gov. Rockefeller withdrew his program for mandatory fallout shelters in all public and private buildings. Instead he endorsed a resolution for a voluntary program that would give tax inducements to those willing to build shelters on their own.

A Gainesborough painting, sold at auction in London, brought the highest price ever paid for an English picture — $364,000. The highest price previously paid for an English painting was $291,000 for Gainesborough's Blue Boy.

It was announced that Princess Margaret and Anthony Armstrong-Jones would go cruising on the royal yacht Britannia after their marriage in May at Westminster Abbey. A court official said that where they would go would be a personal choice for them.

It was announced in Rome that bishops would be empowered to administer communion to Roman Catholics in the evening in religious ceremonies other than Mass. The decree was designed to make it easier for people who worked during the day to receive communion in the evening. In 1953 they were empowered to allow Mass to be celebrated in the evenings on some days, and in 1957, they were further empowered to permit Masses to be said in the evening every day of the week.

An American team of divers searching for the lost biblical cities of Sodom and Gomorrah discovered nine hills beneath the Dead Sea.

The president of the Little Rock school board testified in federal district court that Negroes in the city's integrated high schools were shunned and isolated. He added the situation was greatly improved over 1957-58 when integration began with federal troops guarding the Negro students at Central High School. The total enrollment to date was five at Central and three at another high school in the city.

In Grosse Pointe, a public meeting — sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Garden Council — was scheduled to discuss the possible dangers of spraying elm trees with the insecticide DDT. The purpose of the meeting was "not for the purpose of stirring up trouble in this matter. Rather, in view of all the talk on the subject of DDT and the controversy as to whether or not it is killing bird and animal life in the Pointes, the purpose is to educate and inform the public of all sides of the question," according to one of the planners of the event.

Norb Neff, who had served Grosse Pointe City as clerk for 41 years, retired from office on the occasion of his 65th birthday.

Two residents from Grosse Pointe Farms petitioned the Farms council to take measures to eliminate tremors that shake their homes "like small earthquakes" when buses drive down

Charlevoix, near their homes.

The Blue Devils from Grosse Pointe High School earned their first swimming title.

The Grosse Pointe Woods Council approved plans for an addition to the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church. The church was building an annex and an off-street parking lot.

Bad ad

To the Editor:

I feel compelled to write in regard to the offensive advertisement in your May 18 edition of the Grosse Pointe News. The ad, for Metro Ski and Sports, was featured below the fold on page one of Section C, "Sports."

Not only was the ad sexist in nature, but it was also in poor taste and well below the dignity of your publication. How many teens and children in our community turn to this page for updates on local teams?

Sad to say, many do. How your advertisement coordinator let this go to print is beyond me. You owe the community an apology.

Elaine E. Kress
Grosse Pointe Woods

Shocking

To the Editor:

I am writing concerning the Metro Sports ad you ran on the front page of the sports section on May 18. Ads and articles in your newspaper are usually tasteful and well done. The "grab a handful" ad was neither. It was shocking and infuriating.

In a time when we are reading daily headlines about abuse and rape, this type of advertising is irresponsible. Adolescents read the sports section first, and there it is, telling them to "grab a handful." Did you think about the message your are sending?

I ask you to please check your ads carefully and pull this one. Thank you.

Jackie Sage-Phillips
New Baltimore

Editor's Note: Metro Ski and Sports printed an apology on page 8A of the May 25 issue, explaining that the wording was intended to mean to grab a handful of Raisin swimsuits.

They are an inspiration

To the Editor:

I recently had the privilege of being one of the judges for the Grosse Pointe MACLD Achievement Awards Program. This program, started this year by the Grosse Pointe Chapter of Michigan Association for Children & Adults With Learning Disabilities and funded by a grant from the Community Oriented Projects (C.O.P.) Fund of our local Fraternal Order of Police, honors high school students who have shown exceptional growth and/or achievement in spite of a learning disability.

While I enthusiastically supported this project from the start, I was truly not prepared for the high caliber of the nominees we received. These are exceptional young people by anyone's standards, but when one realizes the struggle they have had to go through to become the people they are today, it is doubly impressive.

It is not easy being L.D. in a community like Grosse Pointe. We have a competitive school system which places a high priority on academic success. As early as elementary school, the emphasis is on programs which prepare students for acceptance into four-year colleges as opposed to vocational or technical programs.

L.D. students must work together harder and study longer than most students to make passing grades. They must set realistic vocational goals and find opportunities for employment in the absence of any extensive vocational programs in the schools.

And, perhaps most importantly, they must recognize and compensate for the challenges presented by their learning disabilities without using them as an excuse for doing less than they are capable of. This requires a considerable amount of maturity and insight.

The nominees of these awards have not outgrown their disabilities. A learning disability is a life-long condition. They have however, come a long way toward conquering their disabilities, in the sense that they do not allow themselves to be limited by them. These are fine young people. They are a credit to their families, their schools and their community. And they are an inspiration to those of us whose children still have a long way to go.

I offer my heartiest congratulations to our four $200 winners and three $50 winners, and also to their families, teachers, Little League coaches and everyone else who has helped them to reach their potential. What a great feeling that must be! I also urge our entire community to take notice of and support our local Fraternal Order of Police. It's good to live in a community where the police not only protect us, but care enough to support worthwhile projects such as this.

Thank you to cat rescuers

To the Editor:

We love Grosse Pointe! The people who live and work here make it what it is — great.

Our orange cat, Nikki, became famous (or infamous) after climbing a tree and refusing to come down — later to be rescued by a troop of wonderful people.

Our family would like to thank our neighbors on the 700 block of Lincoln for their patience and concern while Nikki probably vocalized his unhappiness at being tree-bound.

A warm and public thank you to City Manager Thomas Kressbach, Public Safety Director Bruce Kennedy and Deputy Safety Director Richard Clarke for extending their job description to cover a head-strong feline.

Thank you Dr. Lawrence Herzog of Grosse Pointe Animal Clinic for again demonstrating your love and concern for animals by climbing into Brian Fleming's cherry picker, graciously donated by the Cal Fleming Tree Service Co., to rescue Nikki and caring for him until he could come home. Thanks too, Brian Fleming and employee Joe Willis who operated the cherry picker.

Finally, thank you Grosse Pointe News for providing the vehicle for lost pets to be found and happily returned to their homes.

Oh, so many busy people who took time to rescue our cat stuck for four days in that tree — all unknown to his family!

Yes, this is a wonderful place to live! We think so and we're sure our cat, Nikki, thinks so too.

MHS Response

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to respond to a recent letter to the editor published in the Grosse Pointe News from Eileen M. Liska of the Michigan Humane Society.

Ms. Liska wrote to you concerning the auctioning of live animals at a recent fundraiser for Our Lady Star of the Sea Schools in Grosse Pointe. On behalf of some Grosse Pointe area members of the Michigan Humane Society and some purebred dog breeders, she raised several objections to the auctioning of the animals, including:

1. "Animals are living, feeling beings, not commodities to be sold..."

2. "... the primary problem is that absolutely no screening... has occurred in order to ensure... that they will be responsible pet owners."

3. "... no provisions are made to ensure that their owners will have them sterilized."

4. "The fact that someone has paid a large sum of money... in no way ensures that the animal will have a responsible home or even remain in that home."

5. "... for educational institutions to auction animals... sends a message to the young people... that it is acceptable for them to acquire an irresponsible attitude toward animals."

Given Ms. Liska's, I would make the following observations.

The first four objections all revolved around ensuring a good home for the animal. In point of fact, pet stores, private breeders, and those who sell animals through ads in newspapers also have no way of ensuring the quality of the home in which the animal is placed. Even the Michigan Humane Society, which I understand does some screening, cannot guarantee a good placement. If the absolute assurance of a good home is required by the MHS, then all trafficking in animals (including placement by the MHS) would have to be terminated. Otherwise, there is simply no way to "ensure" (Ms. Liska's word) that the animal will go to a responsible pet owner.

In addition, it seems fairly safe to say — Ms. Liska's objection notwithstanding — that a person who does indeed pay $400 or more for an animal does indeed choose to have the animal and will therefore care for it.

Without any kind of proof that her assertion is correct, Ms. Liska accuses Our Lady Star of the Sea Schools of promoting an "unethical and insensitive concept." At best, the charge is presumptuous; at worst it is slanderous.

In response to Ms. Liska's fifth and final charge, I would only say the following. I have always considered myself a person who cares for animals, would certainly never actively do anything to harm any creature.

In the past I have supported the welfare of animals; in the future, I shall have to find a way to support their welfare other than through the Michigan Humane Society.

The word "abstract" means apart from the recognizable object. This opens up a realm of photographic opportunities.

Shooting abstracts is a terrific exercise in enhancing your photographic vision which in turn will greatly improve your picture-taking abilities.

A good place to begin is with architectural subjects. All the construction going on in the area provides a wealth of abstract subject material. An isolated section of steel beams, reflections in glass panels, or a geometric curve in a building corner all lend themselves well to abstract photography.

A good way to make abstract pictures is to exclude part of the subject. We all tend to identify objects by their whole. We recognize their outlines and the context in which we find them. A hot air balloon, for example, is easily recognized when we photograph it in its entirety coasting through the skies. But close cropping and unconventional framing of just a section of the balloon as it sits on the ground can produce a photograph of bold color and tight pattern that will make viewers guess what they're looking at.

Try using slow shutter speeds to form abstracts. Colorful clothes hung out to dry in a breeze will produce a formless blur when a long shutter speed is used. Or try intentionally moving the camera up and down as you shoot a field of flowers. You'll be pleased with the abstract results.

Photography

By Monte Nagler

Photograph still lifes through heavily textured glass for another kind of abstract feeling. A scrap of shower door glass obtained from your local glass dealer works fine.

Consider photographing your subject completely out-of-focus to where it may barely be recognized. You see, there's no end to the possibilities for abstracts.

Nature abounds in abstract subjects. From the intimate pattern of veins in a single leaf to the vast array of geometric designs seen from an airplane, abstracts exist in abundance.

I was recently photographing in one of the "slot" canyons near Page, Arizona, when I saw the scene in the accompanying photograph. It struck me right away as an immense landscape complete with "waves, a luminescent mountain, and a dramatically black sky." In actuality, I was wedged in a three-foot section of the canyon, barely possible and with barely enough room to set up my tripod, looking straight up one of the sheer walls. This abstract is one of my favorite photographs from the trip.

So begin to think in abstract terms. Look through your camera that way, too!

St. John Hospital on circuit for mobile kidney stone pulverizer Kidney stone sufferers will have access to a mobile second-generation lithotripter, which makes kidney stone removal a virtually painless, nonsurgical outpatient procedure.

It is the result of a joint venture between Oakwood Hospital, Dearborn, St. John Hospital and Medical Center, Detroit, and Sparrow Hospital, Lansing, known as Michigan Mobile Lithotripsy, Inc.

The mobile technology will rotate between the three hospitals on a weekly basis.

Lithotripsy is a nonsurgical method that uses sound waves to pulverize kidney stones into small, sand-like particles that a patient can then pass through the urine.

Housed in a mobile medical laboratory, the Siemens Lithos-tar is Michigan's first mobile lithotripsy unit. It was recently approved by the Federal Food and Drug Administration for mobile usage. Patients utilizing the Lithostar require little or no anesthesia. The unit eliminates the need for a waterbath, a common procedure in past lithotripsy treatment.

First-generation lithotripters, available since 1984, required anesthetized patients to lie in a shock wave-conducting waterbath. This often required an overnight stay in the hospital.

A patient receiving lithotripsy treatment lies on a multipurpose table. After an overhead x-ray unit pinpoints the stone's exact location, shock wave generators, enclosed within the table, and waves through a water-filled cylinder positioned on the patient's back.

The lithotripter sends up to 5,000 shock waves during the 60-90 minute procedure.

Soon after the treatment, the patient returns home with both a prescription for antibiotic and advice to drink plenty of water. Stone fragments may take up to a few weeks to pass.

Under conventional kidney stone surgery, patients spent a week or more in the hospital and up to eight weeks convalescing at home, with full recovery taking nearly six months.

St. Paul's 40th

The 1949 class from St. Paul's is planning a 40th reunion for Friday, Sept. 15, 6 p.m. at the Jefferson Yacht Club, 24504 E. Jefferson, St. Clair Shores.

Flower, garden photography

Techniques for turning flower snapshots into works of art will be covered during a four-part, War Memorial-sponsored class, "Flower and Garden Photography" Wednesdays, June 7, 14, 28 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and Saturday, June 24, 8:30 a.m. to noon.

Writer and photographer Nancy Good will illustrate, through a slide presentation, the creative photographic techniques she developed during a five-year study of the Claude Monet gardens at Giverny.

The class is designed for all flower lovers who own a 35mm camera. The Saturday session is a field trip; the last class, a critique of students' work.

Good's photographs of the Monet gardens have been exhibited locally at Gallerie 454 in the Park. She currently lectures at the University of Michigan — Dearborn and has presented her slide-lecture at the Detroit Institute of Arts and the Museum of Art at the University of Michigan.

Course fee is $35 for four sessions; $10 single session. Students may sign up for field trip only if space is available. Advance registration suggested. For additional information, call 881-7511.

1955 was a very good year for Detroit's autos

"Isn't this beautiful?" asked Don Sommer, head of American Arrow Corp., which makes parts for classic cars, and a member of the Veteran Motor Car Club of America, cosponsor with the Detroit Historical Museum and the Historical Society of the seventh annual Spirit of Detroit Car Show at Historic Fort Wayne.

Femme that women shunned in droves.

Ford not only unveiled one of its most beautiful standard models ever, it introduced the two-seater Thunderbird, one of the all-time classics, still in great demand. Heralded as Ford's answer to Chevy's Corvette introduced two years earlier, it was actually something quite different. For one thing, it was not a sports car like the Corvette, it was a "personal car." And, unlike the Corvette, it was an immediate sales success.

Butch and Oldsmobile introduced the four-door hardtop and broke up the so-called low-priced three-as Buick moved into third place in sales.

Kaiser slipped out of business in 1955 with one of its prettiest cars ever, but it was no match for the powerful V-8 offerings of the Big Three. Willys also died and only Jeep lived on.

Nash got its first V-8, but it was too late and the car was too ugly. Studebaker slathered its beautiful Loewy coupes with heavy chrome and Packard was in its death throes despite a new V-8 (which it shared with Studebaker) and bright paint jobs that did not fit this aristocrat down on its luck.

And sales of the funny-looking German-built Volkswagen which owners had dubbed "Beetle" were up almost five-fold from the year before and another curious automotive phenomenon was on its way.

So where was I in this automotive year of years? After reaching 16 in 1949 and buying my first car (a '42 Hudson), 1955 was the only year in my so-called adult life in which I have not owned at least one car.

Well, I was in the Army in Germany, where I was tempted by used Fiat Topolinis and MG sportsters. But I eschewed these wonders because my heart was still in Detroit and it was hard to take very seriously cars this size which had engines that sounded suspiciously like sewing machines.

I made up for it when I returned in 1956, buying three cars (in sequence, not all at once), a '53 Dodge from my father which I quickly dumped as too stodgy, a barely used '56 Ford which I sold because I could not afford it and a magnificent chartreuse '49 Ford coupe with V-8 and dual exhausts which got me through college in fine, if rumbling, style.

The show was just about perfect and I decided not to worry about sitting out one of the greatest automotive years ever. After all, there are still '55s to be had. A lot of them were right there on the grassy slopes of Historic Fort Wayne.

4 B&Es reported

Four homes were broken into in less than a week in Grosse Pointe Park, according to police reports.

A house in the 1100 block of Nottingham was burglarized May 20 between 9:15 and 11:35 p.m. The burglar gained entry into the house by kicking in a basement window and forcing open a kitchen door.

There was evidence of a search and nothing was believed to have been taken. Police said the resident, who was just arriving home, may have frightened the would-be thief.

A home in the 600 block of Bedford suffered extensive loss when the burglar broke into the home through a sliding patio door between 3 p.m. May 20 and 10:30 a.m. the following day.

After a neat and thorough search, the thief took oriental rugs, silverware, jewelry and stereo equipment.

A videocassette recorder and a 13-inch television were taken from a home in the 600 block of Westchester some time between 5:45 and 8:20 p.m. May 22. The burglar got into the home through an unlocked side door in a breezeway leading to the kitchen.

A house in the 800 block of Beaconsfield was burglarized between the hours of 9 a.m. and 7:15 p.m. May 25. Entry was gained through a dining room window. The storm window was pushed up and a screen removed.

After a search, the thief took a VCR, a chess set, a Monastery on the Cliff sand castle, a Grosse Pointe Cable box and a double-deck tape player.

Former Grosse Pointer Mary Sammartino, manager of the Fort Mackinac Tea Room, helps the head chef try out a new dish.

Former resident manages tea room at historic fort

By Pat Paholsky
Editor

Visitors to the Fort Mackinac Tea Room on Mackinac Island will find there have been some changes made.

The period-costumed waitresses of previous years have been replaced by the formally attired waiters of the Grand Hotel, which begins its first season of operating the tea room. The new manager is former Grosse Pointe resident Mary Sammartino.

The tea room is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. every day and the menu offers three main courses ranging from $4 to $8, Sammartino said. She works with head chef Kam Biuyeung, whom, she says, is "the best cook in the world. It's really a pleasure working with him."

The tea room is located in the stone officers' quarters in Fort Mackinac and the view from the terrace offers "probably the nicest view of any on the island," according to W.T. Rabe, spokesman for the Grand Hotel.

The facility, dating back to the 1780s, is the oldest surviving building in Michigan, he said. It was originally a block house converted to a stone building, first for soldiers and later for officers.

The fort is a favorite with Gov. James Blanchard who hosts parties and receptions there. With the resources of the Grand Hotel behind it and the increasing number of weddings held on the island every year, Rabe predicts there will be more demand for the rooms for private parties. The tea room has two rooms with a fireplace and a terrace that overlooks the town and the harbor.

For Sammartino, coming back to Mackinac Island is a little different this time. She worked on the island for four summers when she was in high school.

She attended Northwood Institute where her father, Robert Miller Ellis, teaches. Her parents live in Midland now.

She earned an associates degree in hotel management at Northwood and worked as the assistant manager of a vegetarian restaurant in North Carolina for five years.

She met her future husband Rocco there. They were married nine months ago.

When he saw an ad in the paper for a chef at the Grand Hotel, he applied for it and got it. And when he told his employer that his wife could cook, she too was hired.

"We won't see too much of each other during the summer," she said.

The couple is living in St. Ignace and they commute to work together everyday.

Car stolen

A 1986 Pontiac 6000 was stolen from the parking lot at Moross and Mack in the Farms last week and was later found by Detroit police.

A City man was just coming out of a store from shopping at 5:25 p.m. May 24 and saw the thief driving away in his car.

The car was found the following day in the 1700 block of East Grand River in Detroit. The driver's side door lock was punched out, the steering column was damaged and the radio was missing. Also, the left side of the car had been damaged in a collision. No arrests were made.

Draw landscapes

Carolyn Swift Armitage will teach landscape drawing at the War Memorial, Tuesdays, June 6-July 18 from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

Students will explore a variety of landscape elements while working on the War Memorial grounds in color or black and white; pencil, pastel, ink, charcoal or watercolor.

Class fee is $70 for six sessions. No enrollments for fewer than five sessions. Supply list is available at time of registration. For additional information, call 881-7511.

Mental health department seeks citizen advisers

The State Department of Mental Health is soliciting nominations for membership on the Citizens Advisory Council of Detroit Psychiatric Institute.

The council is a voluntary group empowered to meet no less than quarterly to advise DPI director Lawrence Jackson, M.D., on administrative policy, and to monitor programs, recipient rights issues and the institute's operating budget.

Detroit Psychiatric Institute is a public inpatient facility serving adults, children and adolescents with psychiatric impairments. The department encourages a broad range of representation on the council, including current and former consumers of mental health services, advocates, parents and guardians of consumers, government officials, community mental health representatives and other interested persons. Members are appointed by Mental Health Director Thomas Watkins Jr. for terms of one or two years.

Prospective council members must reside in the hospital's Wayne County service district, and employees of the Department of Mental Health are not eligible to serve.

To be considered, interested persons should forward a letter of interest and biographical information by June 15 to: Lois Brennan, staff liaison, Mental Health Advisory Council, Michigan Department of Mental Health, Lewis Cass Bldg., Lansing, Mich. 48913. For more information, call Brennan at (517) 373-6590.

Blending sight and sound for a unique object d'art

A hollow log. Transmission gears. Heating elements. Brass plumbing pieces. Copper and steel rods. Copper and steel rods sticking out of it.

These are things the average person might throw out, or not notice on the side of the road.

But Mark and Nancy Bruckner are not your average people. In fact, they seek out those items, and use them not only to create music, but also to create art.

The two are artists/musicians/composers from Iowa City, Iowa, and they were artists-in-residence in Grosse Pointe last week building a sound sculpture in the art-wing courtyard at University Liggett School.

Invited by art teacher Brian Wilson who met Mark Bruckner while at the University of Chicago, the two Bruckners spent a week creating the as-yet-untitled sculpture, and playing their unique brand of music for students.

The sculpture was completed Saturday and will be on permanent display in the courtyard.

Bruckner said the hardest part of the sculpture was finding a hollow log which was large enough yet not too unwieldy. Calling all the landscaping companies in the area, Bruckner finally found one and his sculpture could begin.

Balancing the large log on an equally large fulcrum, the two Bruckners set out to create a sound sculpture that creates sound by being moved like a see-saw. It can also be played by striking the various parts with mallets, which are also parts found in junkyards.

It is his second sound sculpture, and Bruckner, who is trained as a composer, calls what he does "sculpting by the seat of the pants," because he is not sure exactly how it will turn out, or sound for that matter.

Bruckner first thought about sound sculpting while looking through junkyards, mallet in hand, for items to play in his compositions.

"I take mallets to junkyards and strike anything that looks like it might have an interesting sound," he said. "Every time I discover a new sound, it's exciting. I hope to instill that into people. Kids have a great fascination with sound, I hope to keep that fascination."

He is currently looking for funds to build an entire playground with musical sculptures, for kids of all ages.

And how does his music play with his neighbors in Iowa City?

"Well, no one's said anything, yet," Nancy Bruckner said. "But our neighbors are a little different."

"We hope our work opens your eyes and ears to the environment," he said, "and stretches your mind."

Mark Bruckner holds the hollow log as his wife Nancy puts the pieces together. Using a hollow log to resonate the sound is much the way a violin or guitar is made.

Transmission gears, hammers, files, drills and crayons were used to build the musical sculpture in the courtyard of the art wing of University Liggett School.

Local travelers witness freedom cry heard 'round the world

By Dan Jarvis
Staff Writer

When Woods residents Charles and Evelyn Frohman booked their trip to China, their second in two years, they had no idea that they were about to step into a momentous period of history.

Upon arriving in Beijing, they learned that martial law had been declared by the ruling Chinese government due to massive student protests.

The couple began its trip the first week of May with Elderhostel, a travel-study group based in Boston. The fact that worldwide reports of student demonstrations and government crack-downs were being circulated did not deter the well-traveled couple.

Among the stops for the Frohmans were three universities where they encountered students who were extremely curious about how Americans viewed the massive calls for new reforms.

The first university, Qufu (pronounced chee-fu) Teachers University is located in the town of Qufu, the home town of Confucius. The other two, Shan Dong University and Shan Dong Teachers University were brisk with students wanting to know any American point of view regarding the recent unrest.

Mrs. Frohman said even though the students were told by government officials not to engage in discussions regarding the demonstrations, the students took the risk of bringing up the issue.

The students were pleased, she said, to learn that many Americans supported the students' efforts to gain more freedom of choice.

During a 12-hour train ride from Jinan to Beijing, normally an eight-hour ride (about 450 miles), transportation authorities were told not to let students board trains bound for Beijing.

Ignoring the order, students all along the route climbed in through the train windows in various towns, then refused to leave. In most cases, said Mrs. Frohman, the train would depart after several futile attempts by officials to oust the students.

When the Frohmans finally arrived in Beijing, they noticed city services, such as water, sewage and local transportation had broken down completely due to the demonstrations.

The couple described the scene as masses of people all rallying for a common cause.

"You just can't believe how many people there are," Mrs. Frohman said. "It's just unbelievable. Students were pushing buses into the roadway to keep the military from entering the heart of the city. Once the buses were in place, tires were slashed.

"Besides that, the students were utterly non-violent. In many areas the students themselves were the roadblock."

The massive demonstrations had such an impact that visiting Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev was unable to place a wreath at the foot of the monument for martyrs in Tiananmen Square.

Indeed, said Mrs. Frohman, the Chinese government was forced to move the "wing ding" to Shanghai. The official welcoming ceremony was held at the airport.

Mrs. Frohman added that the demonstrations had put just about everything on hold.

"The sanitary conditions were absolutely terrible," she said. "The hunger strikers were also refusing to drink water and many had to be hospitalized. Many had to be given I.V.s (intravenous feeding) and caught hepatitis from dirty needles. There was great concern that one of the students would die. This would have been a great tragedy."

In an attempt to ward off disease due to poor sanitary conditions, many of the students ate garlic shoots. Human waste was literally piled up and doused with formalin (a disinfectant) to kill bacteria.

"The smell was terrible." Many of the soldiers and government officials had no weapons and tried unsuccessfully to plead with students to clear the area of Tiananmen Square in the center of the city. The Frohmans noted that the soldiers were the most unarmy group they had ever seen.

"Many of the soldiers looked as if they were playing soldier," Mr. Frohman said.

The uniforms were too small leading the couple to believe that the soldiers had the same uniforms for several years. Also, most of the military, he said, had no desire to use force against their countrymen.

The Frohmans put the students' plight in perspective as they explained that a minute percentage of the population ac-are not the least bit communist. They are pragmatic — they can't be governed and you shouldn't even try.

While talking to students studying English language, both of the Frohmans engaged in discussions about freedom. Mrs. Frohman asked what the students liked best about the United States and a student simply replied, "I like best your freedom of choice."

The Frohmans stressed the point that the students both in Tiananmen Square and in the smaller towns shared a very gentle spirit and truly desired the freedoms that many American take for granted.

12 assessments lowered in City

Thirty-two residents of Grosse Pointe City appealed their assessments to the board of review earlier this year, and 12 had their assessments lowered.

The total amount of the reduction was $158,000, which includes one house whose assessment was lowered $80,000. City Assessor Dennis Foran said that case was an exception, because the property was put in the wrong district. He added that the average reduction was for $6,000.

It was a slow year for the board of review compared to last year when, due to a city-wide reassessment, 230 homeowners appealed their assessment. Of that number, approximately 65 had their assessments reduced.

As a side note, 40 residents last year appealed the city's board of review ruling and took their case to the Michigan Tax Tribunal. Of those 40, three had their assessments lowered, and one had the assessment raised.

Maire School comes together to update library

Maire School PTO President Sandy Lowden said the project to update the school library was started because the group wanted to undertake something that would have lasting value for the school.

"It was Principal Jay Flowers who recognized the potential for improving the original library and making it a real enhancement to the entire school," Lowden said.

That was in 1986. The new library is not a library any more, it's a media center, and it was dedicated in March.

With renovation costs financed by a PTO gift of $27,000, the new media center is one of the largest single gifts ever given to a school by a PTO. Subsequent gifts of materials and books have raised the PTO's total contribution to $38,500.

Pat Minnick, Bonnie Tolman, Julie Scott and Lowden were named to a study committee that researched media centers nationwide, including visits to schools in Ann Arbor and Bloomfield Hills to see the latest in media centers.

They found that the best school media centers served as the hub of a school, allowing students to work independently and creatively and helping teachers in their curriculum planning.

Taking the information they gathered, they began transforming the usually vacant Maire library into a facility with child-sized wooden furniture, reinforced with cast iron, a carpeted story area, production equipment, individual study tables and audiovisual equipment for viewing filmstrips and listening to tape players.

The shelves — formerly adult-sized metal shelving — were replaced with freestanding child-sized wood shelves. Even the checkout desk and card catalog are now pint-sized.

"What we did," Lowden explained, "is to renovate the library above and beyond what the board of education could be expected to do."

The entire Maire community joined together to support the project. Parents organized the Maire Faire, which raised the original $27,000 in 1988. The family of G. Mennen Williams donated a collection of books and globes. Individual donors added another $1,000 worth of books to media center shelves.

An additional $10,000 was contributed by the PTO in 1989, making possible the purchase of 2,000 new books, along with audiovisual equipment, videos, a video camcorder and filmstrips to complement the science curriculum.

"We want our children excited about books, reading and learning in such a way that it will last throughout their lifetimes," Lowden said. "When reading and information programs are presented in an effective and exciting manner, students become interested and involved in learning."

Lowden said she and many others involved in the renovation project are acting as resource people for other schools interested in upgrading their library facilities.

"When school library programs are improved, not only the quality of the library changes, but the total program of the district is affected," Lowden said. "That is what we'd like to see happen in all the Grosse Pointe elementary schools."

Lake level

Lake St. Clair at the end of April was at elevation 573.90 feet above the mean water level at Father Point, Quebec, or 26 inches above chart datum. This was about 8 inches below what it was a year ago, but 3 inches above one month ago.

The April-monthly mean level of 573.87 feet was about 4 inches above the long-term average for April. The lake, however, remained about 28 inches below the all-time high April-monthly mean level, which was recorded in 1986. The forecast shows that at the end of May, the level of Lake St. Clair will be about 2 inches above what it was at the end of April. The lake is expected to continue its seasonal rise into June.

The water level in October 1989 is expected to be about 2 inches above the long-term average for that month.

had no recurrence and says he is healthier now than he ever was.

"I never thought I'd run," Anderson said. "Never. It never interested me. I didn't think I would like it. But I guess it's like your first drink or your first cigarette: You get addicted. I guess I'm obsessive and compulsive, so I just continued."

But it wasn't until a colleague told Anderson he would never be able to run and finish a marathon that Anderson got real serious.

He entered the Free Press marathon and finished. It was the beginning of a long affair with running — an affair he fully expects to see through to the end.

His addiction has taken him to Wisconsin, the furthest regions of Michigan and Ohio to state Anderson calls "the marathon mecca. They have more marathons there, I don't know why."

In fact, he runs so much, he said his daughters used to think running was his job. In a way, it is.

"Running a marathon is so much work," he says, adding that he really loves running.

If he didn't he wouldn't run every morning from 5 to 6:30, and then again in the afternoon.

"There isn't a street in Grosse Pointe I don't know," he said.

He has run in indoor marathons, trail marathons, ultra-marathons (anything longer than 26.2 miles) and in 24-hour endurance runs which test how long a

Larry Anderson shows off some of the memorabilia from his participation in marathons. He said when he gets old and gray, he'll lie about the trophies to impress his grandchildren. One of the trophies behind him was a third-place trophy he won when his friend pushed him across the line first. They had been debating over who was going to let the other one win.

runner can go in a 24-hour time period. Anderson did more than 100 miles in each of his endurance runs.

Earlier this year he ran two marathons in the same day, resting only three hours between the two races. He cut four minutes off his time in the second one. The only problem was that he didn't plan well and didn't eat enough. When he finished the second marathon, he was so hungry he inhaled two Big Macs, he said.

He didn't participate in an endurance run last year, so this year he hopes to make up for it by competing in a 100-mile trail run.

What does he have to show for all his participation — aside from the rail-thin body? Four boxes of T-shirts which are given out by race sponsors, trophies, belt buckles, medallions and plaques commemorating races, and lots of friends.

"It's like a little social group, there's a lot of camaraderie that goes with runners," he said.

He also has the respect of his daughters, Jane, 13, and Leah, 9. That respect, he said, means more to him than all the trophies and medals he could ever win.

Jane wrote a paper naming her dad as the person she admires most, not only because he runs, but because he is fun to be with and caring.

"The trophies are nice," Anderson says, "but when you're an old man and your 13-year-old daughter thinks you're cool, that's what really matters."

The support and help he gets from Vivian, his wife of 21 years, is also important, and necessary.

"If she didn't give me support, I wouldn't be able to do this," he said.

Volunteers needed for emergency room

Emergency department volunteers are needed 14 hours daily from 11 a.m. to 1 a.m. at Saratoga Community Hospital.

Four-hour shifts are arranged according to each individual's schedule. Saratoga asks volunteers to commit themselves to at least a four-hour shift per week and a minimum commitment of four months.

Volunteering in the emergency room atmosphere can be a learning opportunity for students in the nursing, medical and social work fields. Retirees are also good candidates for volunteers.

For information, call 245-1522.

Running has not only given him a new lease on life, it has also given him a new attitude.

"The thing I've found that is really important is that middle aged people — and I'm talking about people from 40 to 65 — can do anything they want. Look at me, I'm 46 and I'm running marathons. I've run marathons with people in their 60s. I ran a marathon with an 80-year-old man once. He was slow, but he did it."

Ultra-marathon running is a sport for the middle-aged, he said, because it takes a lot of mental discipline, something younger runners have to develop.

"I just hope I can show that middle-aged people aren't past their prime," he said. "I feel like a Volkswagen with a Corvette engine."

He intends to run 200 marathons — a total of ultra and regular — by the time he turns 50, and 100 ultras and 200 regular marathons by age 60.

Anderson may not win many of the marathons he participates in, but that doesn't matter. Only the running matters.

"You define a goal, you go out and meet it, and at the end of the day you've achieved what you wanted to do," Anderson said. "It's a nice feeling. You feel good about yourself."

What happens when Anderson gets too old to run? He says he'll worry about that when he gets there, but at the rate he's going, he may never stop.

Dredging begins in the harbor at Woods' Lakefront Park

By Dan Jarvis
Staff Writer

Boat owners leasing slips at Lakefront Park will soon have an unobstructed path into Lake St. Clair due to dredging at the mouth of the Milk River.

According to Chester Petersen, Woods city administrator-clerk, the dredging has begun and is expected to be completed by early June.

"We can't give an exact estimate on the completion date, but the boats now can get in and out," he said.

The area of the waterway to be dredged begins at the mouth of the river and extends approximately 1,200 feet into Lake St. Clair. The marine pathway leading out of the Lakefront Park marina is 120 feet wide and narrows to a 60 foot width just outside the marina entrance.

When completed, the area of dredging will be an average of six feet deep and will involve the removal of more than 8,000 cubic yards of sand and clay. Total cost is expected to be $105,400.

Robert E. Novitke, mayor pro tem, said there was some concern initially that soil removed from the basin could be contaminated, but core samples tested under the direction of city engineer Lawrence H. Pate showed no contamination.

Novitke added that there was concern that heavy boating traffic over the Memorial Day and subsequent weekends could cause potential problems for boaters.

"I'm keeping my fingers crossed that it will not be a problem," adding that his concern was shared by council members.

Petersen said as of May 25, no additional costs have been incurred and that both the excavating company, P&M Marine of Mount Clemens, and the city of Grosse Pointe Woods do not expect any cost overruns.

"We're right on the money," said D.J. Hallman, director of Parks and Recreation. "The project should be completed by the second week in June."

The dredging plan was approved by the Woods council during mid-January following several months of discussion regarding both the need for dredging and the amount available for the excavation.

Hallman said a surcharge will be billed to boat owners. The amount will depend on the size of the slip.

For example, a 28-foot slip that is $500 will cost boat owners an additional 20 percent, he said, or in this case $100 a year for the next three years.

In addition, he said, residents of St. Clair Shores who use the Shores reduces 16 assessments

Sixteen of 56 Grosse Pointe Shores residents who appealed their 1989 assessments got a break from the board of review.

According to Village Manager Michael Kenyon, the reductions were minor, totaling $96,270, or less than one percent of the total Shores state equalized valuation of $142 million.

Kenyon said the number of appeals and reductions this year is about equal to last year's number of appeals.

Chamber to hear former prosecutor

The Metro East Chamber of Commerce, which serves the business communities of St. Clair Shores, Roseville, Fraser, Harper Woods and the Grosse Pointes, will meet Wednesday, June 21.

Luncheon speaker will be L. Brooks Patterson, former Oakland County prosecutor. His topic will be his proposed property tax reform petition drive.

The luncheon will be held in the Crystal Ballroom of the War Memorial. Registration/social hour is at 11:30 a.m., with lunch at noon. Tickets are $15 and must be purchased in advance. Visa and MasterCard are accepted. Reservation deadline is June 16.

For additional information and/or tickets, call the chamber office at 777-2741.

United Way announces '89 officers

United Way for Southeastern Michigan (formerly United Foundation) announced at its 40th annual meeting that Robert A. Lutz, president of Chrysler Motors, will lead the 1989 United Way Torch Drive as general chair.

The announcement was made by Board Chairman Charles T. Fisher III, chairman and president NBD Bankcorp and National Bank of Detroit.

At the annual meeting, Fisher was re-elected as chairman of the board of the United Way. The re-election of Gerald Greenwald, vice chairman, Chrysler Corp., as first vice chairman was also announced.

Also re-elected as vice-chairman were Alfred R. Glancy III, chairman and chief executive officer, Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.; Donald E. Petersen, chairman and chief executive officer, Ford Motor Co.; and Joan B. Warren. Elected as a new vice-chairman this year was Edgar A. Scribner, president, Metropolitan Detroit AFL-CIO Council.

William P. Vittoe, president, Michigan Bell Telephone Co. was re-elected secretary of the board and Dean E. Richardson, chairman, Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit was re-elected treasurer of the board.

Woods officers run

Several Woods officers entered and completed a 10K run sponsored by the Fraternal Order of Police May 14. Student Spotlight

Megan Monaghan

Each week in this column, we will focus on the work of a student. It can be a poem, a drawing, a short story, a picture of a scientific experiment or a wood working project, a book review.

The following poem was written by Megan Monaghan, a second grader at St. Paul School. She is the daughter of Bill and Peggy Monaghan of Grosse Pointe Farms.

A Poem

Why do I like the butterfly?
Because it flies in the sky.
It is so pretty way up high.
Did you ever try
To catch a butterfly?

Studying Spanish

Joshua Montgomery will attend the Spanish Language Village near Bemidji, Minn. this summer. Sponsored by Concordia College, the Language Villages are informal experience-based programs introducing young people 7 to 18 to 10 foreign languages and cultures.

He is the son of Mike and Rhonda Montgomery.

Awards given

At an all-school assembly held May 24 at University Liggett School, the following awards were announced:

The Knight's Sword award, given annually by the creative and performing arts department to the student "who has given the most time and talent" to drama, was presented to Kelly Zelazny by drama teacher David Drobot.

Music teacher Jim Hohmeyer presented the National School Choral Award to Gerald Curley.

Pedro Arango, the head of upper school, gave the Blue Key Service Award to Ajay Nautiyal for his efforts regarding community service throughout the year.

Latin scholars

In mid-March, Latin students from University Liggett School took the National Latin Examination. The following upper students received national awards:

- Summa Cum Laude -- Walter Gasser
 - Maxima Cum Laude -- Michael Coello, Tamara Lie
 - Magna Cum Laude -- John Combs, Manisha Kulkarni, Arthur Sandel
 - Cum Laude -- Brian Blatt, Diann Imbriaco, Martina Jerant, Kiran Mishra, William Peck, Wesley Sims, Shalini Srivastava, Paula-Rose Stark, Elizabeth Thomas
- Teachers are Elizabeth Fowler and Helen Fildew.

Odif

Children at Memorial Nursery School were entertained and educated by Odif, looking at the camera. He was brought in by Karen Moroney, who works at McNichols Animal Hospital. She explained how to care for various pets and what vets do for animals. Memorial Nursery is a cooperative school for 3 and 4 year olds and is located at 16 Lakeshore.

Buyers, sellers

There were buyers and sellers aplenty at Grosse Pointe's Greatest Garage Sale held Sunday and Monday in the parking garage behind Jacobson's in the Village. Number your baby at birth

For the convenience of parents of newborn infants, the Social Security Administration has announced a new program for the State of Michigan -- to issue Social Security numbers automatically to newborns if requested by the parents, according to Verlyn J. Rebelein, district manager of the Social Security office located at 17420 Mack Ave.

Under the new service, parents can indicate whether or not they want a Social Security number (SSN) card issued to their child as part of the birth registration process. Should they request this service, the state's vital statistics office will electronically transmit the needed information to the Social Security Administration and a card for the baby will be automatically issued.

This eliminates the need for parents to apply for an SSN for their child at a later date. That method requires the submission of an original birth certificate and other proofs of identity, such as medical or school records.

In addition, parents are required to fill out Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Number Card. Under this process, parents also have to provide proof of their own identity (e.g., a valid driver's license). This process can be eliminated for those parents who request the new service for their newborns since all of the information required on the SS-5 is contained on the state's birth registration form.

The need for a more convenient service to the public became apparent as parents sought SSNs for their children at an earlier age to establish savings accounts, purchase savings bonds, or to apply for other government benefits. Also, taxpayers are now required to show Social Security numbers for all dependents age 5 or older on Federal tax returns.

The photograph these men are holding is a reproduction of St. Clare of Montefalco's 1939 graduation class. It was presented to the school by Chuck Kellett III, far right, whose father Chuck Kellett Jr. was in the picture. The younger Kellett, who also attended St. Clare, found the photo in the basement of the building when he was looking for photos of his class which last year celebrated its 25th reunion. The original photo was so badly mildewed that it couldn't be suitably framed, so Kellett found a smaller composite, enlarged it and framed it. Shown here accepting this piece of the school's past are, from left, St. Clare Principal Hank Burakowski, Broas "Bud" Mann, Ray Fisher and Jim Leithauser, all members of the class of 1939, and Kellett. It is now on display at the school.

ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS NOTICE OF HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Zoning Board of Appeals will meet in City Hall, 90 Kerby Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, MI on:

MONDAY, JUNE 12, 1989

at 7:30 p.m. to hear the appeal of Shirley Wahl, owner of the premises located at 394 Kercheval, from the denial of the Building Department to issue a building permit for the construction of a garage in the side yard of the aforementioned property. Such permit issuance was denied for reason that the location of the proposed garage would be in violation of Section 1503, Item 2 of the City's Zoning Ordinance which prohibits accessory buildings and structures in residential districts from being erected in a front or side yard, thereby requiring that a variance be granted to the aforementioned provision.

The Hearing will be public. Interested property owners or residents of the City are invited to attend. Those wishing to submit written comments may do so to the Office of the City Clerk, 90 Kerby Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, MI 48236, Monday-Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Wednesdays until 6 p.m. A drop-box at the Police Department may be utilized for hand-delivered mail during non-office hours.

'The Nerd' brings Broadway's laughs to the Birmingham

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

Talk about saving the best for last, the Birmingham Theatre is closing out the season with one of the funniest plays presented this year.

With its fast-paced double talk, lunatic situations and goofy main character, "The Nerd" is like watching a fast-forward Marx Brothers show. The man who sets this wonderfully silly show in motion is Rick Steadman (P.J. Benjamin). He fits the title character to perfection.

With typical nerd disregard for whether it is convenient, Steadman sends William Cubbert (Alan Campbell) a letter announcing he is coming for a visit.

They have never met. However, in Vietnam, when Cubbert lay wounded, Steadman picked him up, took him to the hospital, then disappeared. Later Cubbert traced him down, and wrote him a letter thanking him for saving his life and promising to do anything to repay him.

There is no way, however, that he can be prepared for the loutish character who shows up at his apartment at a most inopportune time. Cubbert, a young architect and his friends are preparing dinner for a client Cubbert is trying to impress. Shortly after he arrives with his wife and their son Thor, who is given to temper tantrums and locking himself in a room from which the crash of something breaking is frequently heard, Steadman arrives, dressed in a frightening Gorilla costume. For some unknown reason, he thought Cubbert was hosting a Halloween party. His first act is to congratulate the Waldgraves on their costumes which incenses them no end.

When he finally peels off the costume, he still looks like he is wearing one. He is the consummate nerd with his taped black-framed glasses, his too-short pants. He behaves like one too but he does get off some hilariously funny one-liners.

His routine describing his job back in Wisconsin where he works in a chalk factory is a perfect take-off on Laurel and Hardy's skit "Who's on First."

His manners are atrocious. He eats the yolks out of the deviled eggs. He refuses cornish hen because he says he had it for lunch.

Cubbert is infinitely patient because, after all, Steadman saved his life.

The crowning blow comes when Steadman announces that he has come to stay. It seems that his brother with whom he lived in Wisconsin has moved away and left no forwarding address.

The limits of friendship are reached. Cubbert can't take it anymore. With the help of his friends, a scheme is cooked up which they think will convince Steadman to leave. They will act crazier than he does. Far from being put off, he loves it and enjoys it.

Steadman carries the show. He keeps the laughs coming with one screwball antic after another. He will be remembered for his outstanding performance in "Torch Song Trilogy" at the Fisher.

The audience is given a merry run for their money but the biggest laugh comes from a surprise ending.

No one loves a nerd, but "The Nerd" at the Birmingham is a crowd-pleaser.

'Fright Night II' is more of the same — hip, sexy and irreverent

By Michael Chapp
Special Writer

Those who remember the original "Fright Night" remember four things: The movie was hip, irreverent, sexy and scary.

It was, in short, everything you always wanted from a modern-day vampire movie but were afraid to trust modern day Hollywood filmmakers with producing. It combined the romance and horror of the classic vampire tale with a campy, offbeat sense of humor that invited viewers to suspend their disbelief.

And it was original. Alas, that's not exactly the case with "Fright Night II." The sequel to the 1985 film is every bit as erotic and chilling as its predecessor, but it lacks an original narrative; something to set it apart from the first film.

Three years have passed, and young Charles Brewster (William Ragsdale) has supposedly exorcised the demons of his youth. Through extensive psychotherapy, he has talked himself into believing that all the vampire hunting and killing he did three years ago was only a figment of his imagination.

There is no such thing as a vampire, he tells himself over and over, even when he sees a seductive young lady sinking her teeth into the neck of a close buddy.

There can't really be vampires, he repeats to himself, even though he's haunted by nightmares of his own brutal demise at the hands of the same lady who took a bite out of his friend.

Indeed, Charlie rides the fence for quite a while through the course of the film. He refuses to trust his eyes and instincts because he fears the consequences if he's right.

He is, of course, right; something the audience knows all along. Heck, the audience knew he was right three years ago, so it seems silly for Charlie and his girlfriend Alex (Traci Lyn) and ace vampire killer Peter Vincent (Roddy McDowall) to waste so much time being skeptical.

Time could have been much better spent developing the brief hypnotic relationship between Charlie and female vampire Regine (Julie Carmen). Instead, because the film plays out the same scenario we saw three years ago, it's hard to recommend spending time or money to see it all again.

None of this is to say that "Fright Night II" is a particularly bad movie. If perchance you didn't see the first film, there is plenty of stuff here to like: creatures lurking in the night, gory scenes of vampire destruction, even a laugh or two where you least expect it. Just like in the original.

There is little to say about McDowall and Ragsdale, who do nothing more than dust off their old scripts and re-read lines. But take note of Carmen, who adds a delicious mix of eroticism and mystery to her character. She is the perfect counterpart to the vampire played by Chris Sarandon in the first picture.

Next time, maybe they could bring Sarandon back, team him up with Carmen, and let the sparks fly.

And while they're at it, maybe they could change the formula just a little bit, too.

Two-day conference on dance scheduled

Detroit Dance Collective, in partnership with the Music Hall, will present "We Dance in Michigan," a two-day conference on Friday, June 9 and Saturday, June 10 at the Music Hall, 350 Madison. The conference will showcase performances by six of Michigan's professional modern dance companies.

On Friday, June 9 at 6:30 p.m., the conference will open with a reception. Liz Thompson, executive director of Jacob's Pillow and keynote speaker, will discuss current issues relating to the future of dance in the United States, its regional climate and what to expect from funding organizations. Also, on Friday evening the Detroit Dance Collective will be featured in a showcase performance at 8 p.m.

The Saturday, June 10, seminars and performance events run from 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. including special features such as a master class with Peter Sparling, former member of The Martha Graham Dance Company and current chair of The University of Michigan Dance Department; "brown-bag" lunch seminar with Judith Jamison, former principal dancer with Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater and founder of the Jamison Project; well-care seminar with performance medicine specialist, Dr. Sheldon Cohn, M.D. and nutritionist Karen Silverberg, M.S., covering such topics as AIDS, performance anxiety and nutrition; and a panel discussion on funding with respected representatives from government and foundations.

Performing companies showcased during the two-day conference are Detroit Dance Collective and Harbinger Dance Company, both from metro Detroit; Ann Arbor Dance Works and People Dancing/Whitley Strakian and Dancers from Ann Arbor; Happendance from Lansing; and Wellspring Dance Collaborative from Kalamazoo.

A pass for all events on Friday and Saturday is $55; Saturday only events, $45; one showcase performance and one seminar, $18; one showcase performance, $7; participation in a master class, $10; and observation only in a master class, $7. For an informational brochure or to register, call the Detroit Dance Collective at Oakland Community College, 548-9664.

Theater conservatory program begins 9th year

Michigan's only full-day summer theater conservatory program with a faculty of professional artists and educators is now in its ninth year.

From July 19 through July 28, a rotating faculty of 21 professionally performing artists work with theater students in age-appropriate sections, building skills and developing showcase performances throughout the summer program.

Highlighted faculty for 1989 include: internationally acclaimed duo Sheri Nichols and Richard Berent; national recording and performing artists Ursula Walker and Buddy Benson; critically acclaimed actress Dinah Lynch; New York's newest artistic director, Ramon Ramos of First Folio Shakespeare Company; founder and former artistic director of Harbinger Dance Company, Lisa Nowak and Actors Alliance Theatre Company staff directors Annette Madias, Patricia Kihn, Annette DePetris. Additional faculty with specializations in stage combat, mime, commedia, improvisation and voice contribute to complete the full conservatory program.

An adult/university level section has been added this year to accommodate training requests from more mature students. Jeffrey M. Nahan, artistic director of Actors Alliance Theatre Company, will coordinate the adult/university section. Other age-appropriate sections include high school, middle school and elementary school level.

Program fees vary depending on age group and length of study. Two, four or six week sessions are available. Call Actors Alliance Theatre Company at 642-1326 for free brochure and application.

All programs are held at the Actors Alliance Theatre Company's education center at 30800 Evergreen at 13 Mile in Southfield.

'Scandal:' Documenting the of the fall of a government

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

A woman smiles and a government falls. History is made in the wake of the scandal of a century.

In 1963, 21-year-old party girl Christine Keeler's liaison with Tory War Minister John Profumo (Ian McKellen) caused such an uproar in staid old Britain, that he was forced to resign. Prime Minister Harold MacMillan, who vowed he would never be brought down by "that girl" was. He also had to resign.

In 1964, the Tories were voted out of office. The facts of the case were well-publicized and exploited in British tabloids and elsewhere.

"Scandal" presents a wider picture of those affairs that shook the nation. The story presents a post-war Britain that was enjoying a release from the austerity imposed by war. It was ready for fun.

The Beatles were coming and MacMillan boasted that the country never had it so good. People everywhere were ready to let the good times roll with one stipulation: If you must be indiscreet, don't get caught.

This reservation applied particularly to those in high places in government. Hypocrisy was rampant and vengeful.

"Scandal" is not just a titillating tale of Christine Keeler and her affairs with John Profumo and Russian agent Eugene Ivanov (Jeroen Krabbe). Actually the film concentrates more on Dr. Stephen Ward (John Hurt), the society osteopath whose patients included Churchill, Elizabeth Taylor and Paul Getty.

Ward spotted Christine (Joanne Whalley-Kilmer) in a girlie show when she was 17. She had the face and look of a child but possessed the drawing power of a woman.

Ward recognized all this and knew that she could be groomed to attract the highest members of British society whom he loved to court and entertain.

As his protege, she shares his luxurious flat. Theirs was a complex relationship. They were never lovers although later Keeler declared that Ward was the only man she ever loved.

Mandy Rice Davies is another of Ward's protegees (Bridget Fonda, Peter's daughter). She becomes involved with Lord Astor. She becomes involved with Lord As-

When the elite get together to party, everyone has a good time. The guests come in formal attire, but that doesn't stop the merriment from becoming orgies, clips of which had to be toned down to raise the original rating of X to an R rating. Even so, this is strictly adult fare.

It's life on the fast track until a young man who has become infatuated with Christine arrives at Ward's flat and shoots through the front door because she won't let him in.

Ward explains to her that he can't have that kind of attention focused on him and he drops her.

Angered, Christine takes her story to the London newspapers. The government is blown apart by her revelation, and Ward becomes the scapegoat. He is accused of living on the proceeds of prostitution.

John Profumo retires to his rose garden and is later knighted by the queen for his works of charity. Christine Keeler served a jail sentence and now lives in a housing project.

Whalley Kilmer gives an insightful performance as Chris-

Film

Her expressive and beautiful sculptured face makes her role as a devastating beauty believable. While Whalley-Kilmer is a smouldering beauty, Fonda enchants with her impudent and pixie looks.

Screenwriter Michael Thomas and Director Michael Caton-Jones spent eight years trying to get the film out. It is interesting as social history and manages to drive home a point that is as pertinent now as it was in the '70s - "Don't get caught!"

'Heathers:' When peer pressure becomes too much

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

Three little maids are they - but not quite. They are the Heathers, a mean-spirited trio, all with the same name of Heather.

They play a vicious game of croquet and with that same spirit of cold cruelty, establish a power structure in the high school where they ridicule and make life miserable for those who fail to measure up to their standards of dress, makeup and amoral behavior.

After careful consideration, they add another girl to their closed circle. Her name is Veronica (Winona Ryder). Not only is her name different but she is sensitive enough to have misgivings about the humiliation and hurt they inflict on their classmates.

The cafeteria is a favorite place for picking out a daily victim. In one of the early scenes, an extremely obese girl is the target. She sits alone surrounded by talbes of students chatting and enjoying themselves.

Veronica is persuaded by one of the Heathers to place a note on her tray, ostensibly signed by one of the football jocks. The girl reads it, hesitates and then gets up and goes over to the table where the team is eating. She hands the note to the boy, he reads it and breaks into uproarious laughter. He reads it and passes it to the others. Soon the cafeteria resounds with raucous, creul guffaws. The girl stands, too hurt to move, then turns and walks away. Later she deliberately walks in front of a car.

Later Veronica catches the eye of a new boy in the school. He is J.D. (Christian Slater). He too sits apart from the others, but appears to like it that way. Dressed in black, he regards the scene with amused tolerance.

At this point Veronica is unsure whether she wants to be part of the Heather group. She is becoming increasingly upset by their vicious tactics. When one of the Heathers pushes her too far, J.D. helps her to get even.

J.D. is an enigma. He is certainly not the average high school teenager. He has never been in any one school for more than a year. His father blows up old buildings, a job he delights in.

Rootless and diabolical, he revels in persuading Veronica to act out her resentments against the Heathers.

As the black-hearted rebel J.D. Slater is a teenage replica of Jack Nicholson, leer and all. Ryder as Veronica is both stunning and sympathetic.

"Heathers" is Michael Lehman's first feature. It is measured, mean-spirited, original and startling. He has a great ear for teen talk.

The screenplay by Daniel Waters is right on target, too. He knows his teenagers, what makes them miserable, what makes them bad. They are, in his view, adults who can't accept that role.

Clint Eastwood disappoints in 'Pink Cadillac'

By Michael Chapp
Special Writer

As a Clint Eastwood fan, it pains me to have to say what I'm about to say. But I would be lying to myself and to you if I didn't tell the brutal truth.

"Pink Cadillac" is about as interesting as a piece of toast. And about as satisfying.

This is the kind of picture movie stars make when nothing better has come along for a while but the rent is due. Wham, bam, what a scam.

And from Clint Eastwood, no less.

Here's the man who made countless "spaghetti westerns," all of them virtually identical, but who still managed to conjure up something memorable from each.

Here's the man who brought Dirty Harry Calahan to the screen - surely one of Hollywood's most intense police officers - and managed to re-define an entire genre of movies in the process.

Here's the man who can step out of his stereotype just enough to make a different type of character believable, and still not alienate his loyal followers when he does so.

Alas, this is also the man who tried one too many times to make an offbeat character work. In "Cadillac," he plays Tom Nowack, a so-called skip tracer. He works for a bail bondsman, tracking down people who have skipped town after being bailed out of jail.

That, in itself, is somewhat intriguing.

But the story we're asked to watch unfold is not. Lou Ann McGuirk (Bernadette Peters) is on the road, running from the law and her husband. Hubby, who belongs to a white-supremacist group, was counterfeiting. But Lou Ann got caught with the funny money.

What we soon find out is that she's also got a bundle of real money - money that belongs to the group - in the back seat of her pink Cadillac.

So the amphetamine-crazed, automatic-weapon-toting white supremacists are after her. And so is Clint.

But as tough as Clint the Squint wants to be, he just can't resist when his pretty prisoner begs for help in the pursuit of real justice.

The film aspires to be a comic-adventure, not unlike "Every Which Way But Loose." But "Cadillac" lacks the wit and playfulness of that film. And what's left is very weak: two people driving a hot car and being alternately romantic and sarcastic.

That may work when the two people are funny or lovable or obnoxious or somehow three-dimensional. It does not work when they are both boring.

"Pink Cadillac" will not be remembered as one of Eastwood's best pictures. Indeed, "Pink Cadillac" will probably not be remembered at all, except by those who will be Eastwood fans no matter what he does.

I used to think that was me. Now I'm quite sure it isn't.

'The Appropriate Object'

Committee co-chairs Peter B. Spivak of Grosse Pointe, left, Gerald W. Smith and Samuel H. Thomas Jr. recently met with Samuel Sachs II, right, director of the Detroit Institute of Arts, to discuss plans for an opening preview reception for the exhibition, "The Appropriate Object." The reception takes place on Monday, June 5, from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The exhibition features the work of seven leading African-American artists including Detroit-born Alvin Loving. Five of the featured artists are expected to attend the reception. The exhibition is open to the public from Tuesday, June 6 through July 16. Admission is free. For further information call 833-7900.

Eastern parks travelogue at Macomb Center

Dennis Glen Cooper, veteran lecturer, world traveler and TV personality who coordinates the monthly travelogues at Macomb Center for the Performing Arts, will present one of his own at 8 p.m. on Thursday, June 8.

His program, "Our Eastern National Parks," will be the final film and narration in this season's Travel Series, sponsored by AAA Travel Agency.

The popular series will resume in the fall with another lineup of 10 monthly programs produced by speakers and film makers of national reputation.

Cooper's season finale captures in full color the highlights of six national parks that lie east of the Mississippi River in "unspoiled playgrounds miraculously situated in the very midst of America's heaviest population areas."

His cameras focus on Acadia, with its rugged scenery along the rocky coast of Maine; Isle Royale, the "wilderness paradise" of Lake Superior; Shenandoah, with its scenic views of the Blue Ridge Mountains; Mammoth Cave, featuring one of the world's most spectacular caverns; Everglades, with its mangrove swamps and rare forms of wildlife, and Smoky Mountains, a "never-never land still inhabited by mountain folk."

Tickets are $4.50 for adults and $4 for students and senior citizens. They may be obtained at the Center's box office or reserved on credit card by calling 286-2222, Monday through Friday.

Business continues to rise for Pointers' bun bakery

By John Minnis
Staff Writer

For two Grosse Pointers, business has been on the rise for 43 years.

As owners of the Blue Bird Baking Co., which was founded in Detroit about 1918, Peter Bogas, of Grosse Pointe Shores, and John Cardasis, of Grosse Pointe Woods, have seen the business grow 10 percent to 15 percent every year since they bought the bakery in 1946.

Bogas, 65, didn't know anything about the baking business after serving in World War II, but his partner, Cardasis, 63, had some experience. He worked for Blue Bird as a stock boy and baker's helper.

Now 43 years later, the two run perhaps the largest independent institutional bakery in the Detroit area. Blue Bird has two plants: the older bakery in Detroit at Kercheval and McClellan and a refurbished plant in Highland Park on Hamilton.

The completely automated plant in Highland Park produces 800 hamburger buns a minute and up to a million buns a day, and each week uses 240,000 pounds of non-bleached flour, 20,000 pounds of cholesterol-free soybean oil and 50,000 pounds of sugar.

The new Highland Park plant is a long way from the two Greek immigrants' humble beginnings in a house at Elmwood and Vernor in Detroit.

"We made the usual mistakes that are allowed in our system and that give you a second chance," said Bogas, who came to the United States as a boy of 12. Like many immigrants to America, Bogas has nothing but praise for this country and its economic and political system.

"What a great country, America," he said. "Anyone who applies himself can obtain a goal."

Bogas said the secret ingredient in the recipe of success is merely getting up and going to work each morning. He said 80 percent of success is showing up.

Even though they're both at retirement age, Bogas and Cardasis still show up for work each morning. Bogas manages the Highland Park plant and Cardasis maintains a tight ship at the old McClellan facility.

The difference between the two plants is like night and day. While the McClellan plant has some automation, much of the loading and unloading is still done by hand.

At Highland Park, $4 million has been spent for the most up-to-date baking automation. On winding conveyors monitored by electric eyes, the fermented dough goes through a 90-minute, high-tech circuit, passing through a 70-minute steamer and a 100-foot oven, and ends its journey as light, fluffy buns already wrapped and sealed.

About the only human interference is loading the packaged buns into Blue Bird's own delivery trucks, which travel within a 100-mile radius of Detroit.

Blue Bird's 30 trucks deliver buns of all types to restaurants, schools, fast-food chains, other large institutions and even brand-name bakers. Some of Blue Bird's customers are the Grosse Pointe, Utica, Warren and Detroit school districts, National and Lafayette Coney Islands and Burger King. Bogas said the company's success is due to its excellent quality and service. He said Blue Bird has not compromised its recipes in order to cut costs, and the customer, big or small, is always treated with respect.

"The customer makes everything possible," Bogas said. "We still tend to the old methods."

Blue Bird's growth has been gradual and steady. The company has expanded as demand warranted and as the company could financially afford it. "We pay our bills on time," Bogas said.

The Highland Park plant, which was left empty by General Electric, was refurbished in 1985 and equipment purchased with help from the city of Highland Park through tax abatements. Bogas credits Highland Park Mayor Martha Scott with working to make it possible for Blue Bird to move into the city where Bogas grew up as a child.

"We find Highland Park a fine city," Bogas said. "They've been very helpful."

With the Highland Park plant up and running and the McClellan facility operating at full capacity, Bogas and Cardasis give no indication of resting on their success and drawing a pension. Bogas does golf on occasion but, as he points out, "You can't run a business from a golf course."

Bogas and Cardasis, who happen to be second cousins, are like paternal figures to their employees, and part of the company's success is due to the workers' dedication and willingness to do a good job.

"They're not just workers at Blue Bird," Bogas said. "They're part of our family. We are a company with a heart. We like to think that."

While the two partners are not

Peter Bogas, right, bought the Blue Bird Baking Co. in 1946 with John Cardasis, and the Grosse Pointe residents have seen the business rise ever since. At their Kercheval-McClellan plant in Detroit, the two partners are surrounded by hot dog buns made for institutional purchasers, such as Coney Island restaurants and the Grosse Pointe school. Blue Bird's newest plant in Highland Park can produce a million hamburger buns a day.

ready to step down, they are grooming their successors. Cardasis' son, Costa, has worked for Blue Bird for 12 years, and Bogas' son-in-law, Emmett Baratta, has been with the baking company for 15 years.

Bogas is quick to point out, though, that the next generation won't inherit the company without hard work and learning the business from the bottom up.

They're going to have to earn the top spots.

"They're going to be the future managers," Bogas said. "They will carry on the tradition for perhaps another 43 years."

Business Notes

Gallerie 454 located at 15105 Kercheval in Grosse Pointe Park is presenting an exhibit, "Images on Raku." All works were done by Susan and Steven Kemenyffy, a husband and wife team from Pennsylvania. The show runs June 3-30. A reception for the artists will be June 3 from 5 to 8 p.m. at the gallery.

Piano recital is this Sunday

The East Side Piano Teachers Round Table will present a piano recital Sunday, June 4, at 3 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of St. Mark Lutheran Church. The church is located one block west of the intersection of Gratiot and I-696 in Roseville.

Teachers whose students will perform include Pat McKeever, Irene Muse, Alice Ellison, Lawrence LaGore, John Miller, Mildred Briggs, Pat Fletcher, Janet Young and Laura Lindow.

The young pianists who will perform include Ann MacDonald, Steven Ugo, Michael Hanus, Melanie Stephens, Tom Lewis, Stephanie Kitchen, Lauren Simmons, Monique Martin, Neely O'Brien, Mary Beth Kaiser, Lisa Wyrock, Suzanne Maniere, Laura Vandermale, Daniele Shanle, Whitney Holmer and John Berch.

The public is invited to attend. A variety of light refreshments will be served following the recital. Admission is free, and there is plenty of parking available at the church. For further information, call Alice Ellison at 885-8110 or Janet Young at 882-9127.

The Music on the Plaza series will get off to a brassy start with the Grosse Pointe North/South High School Jazz Band Thursday, June 8. The outdoor concert will begin at 7 p.m. in the plaza located on the corner of Kercheval and St. Clair.

Music on the Plaza series to begin

Thursday night shopping in the Village will have an added flair throughout June. The Village Merchants Association, along with local business sponsors, will host the second season of Summer Music on the Plaza.

Following the success of last year's series, the 1989 program has been expanded to four outdoor concerts.

The Plaza, a little park located on the corner of Kercheval and St. Clair, will host the return of the brassy sound of the Grosse Pointe North/South High School Jazz Band Thursday, June 8. The concert is sponsored by TCBY.

The 35-member big band, under the direction of Ralph Miller, performs jazz from Count Basie to Claude Bolling.

The rest of the series will feature:

- June 15 - Sun Messengers
- June 22 - Chet Bogan's Wolverine Jazz Band
- June 29 - Bess Bonnier duo

All performances are scheduled from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Bring a blanket and bring the kids.

For more information, call John Denomme at 886-6039 or 881-7979 or Beverly Leinweber at 882-7000.

Michigan composers concert

The Detroit Public Library's Music & Performing Arts Department and the Friends of the Library, in cooperation with the Lyric Chamber Ensemble, will present their third annual Michigan Composers Concert showcasing the work of Michigan composers.

The concert will be held Wednesday, June 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Friends Auditorium at the Main Library, 5201 Woodward. There is no admission charge.

Featured on the program will be music by composers Lettie Beckon Alston, Leslie Bassett, Wesley Fishwick, James Hartway and Anthony Iannaccone.

A public reception sponsored by the Friends of the Detroit Public Library honoring the composers and performers will follow the concert. The Detroit Public Library's Music and Performing Arts Department has the largest collection in the state of music written by Michigan composers.

All the music performed at the Michigan Composers concert will be donated to the Library's Michigan Collection. For information, call 833-1460.

Dancers perform 'Little Match Girl'

Motria Fedirko's School of Classical Ballet will present "The Little Match Girl" Saturday, June 10, 7 p.m. and Sunday, June 11, at 5 p.m. Both performances will be held at Grosse Pointe North High School Auditorium, 707 Vernier.

The three-act ballet is based on the Hans Christian Anderson fairy tale of the same name. The story takes place on New Year's Eve, as the little match girl is sent out in the cold to try to sell her matches. No one notices her but she is comforted by the little animals of the streets.

Tickets are $6 for main floor seats and $5 for balcony. For more information, call 882-0588.

Summer cooking classes

Culinary classes at Assumption Cultural Center will offer expert tips on warm weather menus.

Chef Luka Shkreli, assistant director and chef at Bon Secours Hospital, will demonstrate cold meat salads, a Hawaiian fruit salad with sweet and sour topping, and marinades for fish and poultry. Class is 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, June 6.

Leigh Paone will demonstrate light summer pastry desserts with fresh fruits. Paone studied culinary arts at Schiller University in Strasbourg, France, and works as a para-professional at Harper Woods High School, where she teaches culinary arts and vocational food service. Summer Desserts class will be held from 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, June 27.

St. John is all of the above.

What makes a great hospital? On the eastside, it is a facility which has become a designated regional medical center, and a referral hospital for physicians and other hospitals throughout the metropolitan area.

It is an institution of advanced learning for physicians and other health professionals.

And it is an integrated system of health care facilities and services with more than 500 physicians on staff, and more than 40 medical and surgical specialties, working with the latest diagnostic capabilities, and a caring, knowledgeable staff.

In all, one hospital on the eastside has become as much a resource for health care professionals as it has for its neighbors in the community.

Art on the Pointe

From A to Z, 6th annual NEGC benefit has something for art- and fun-lovers alike

By Peggy O'Connor Andrzejczyk
Assistant Editor/Feature Editor

After five years, it has become a familiar scene: the wonderful works of more than 150 talented and successful artists and artisans displayed on acres of lush, green lawns and walks at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House.

Just as familiar are the throngs of folks who flock to 1100 Lakeshore Road early each June for "Art on the Pointe," a juried art fair and budding community festival sponsored by the Assistance League to the Northeast Guidance Center.

And while Art on the Pointe is a catchy title, it doesn't quite tell the whole story. Which is that Art on the Pointe — set for 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, June 10 and 11 — has not only art, but a little something special for everyone ... from A to Z:

A is for art, naturally. It's also for Apple Court, where patrons can dine alfresco on turkey croissant with fruit, cheese and fresh fruit plate, homemade breads, cookies and desserts. A is also for Auction Party, a unique invitation-only party which encourages patrons to bid on original and donated art objects and artifacts.

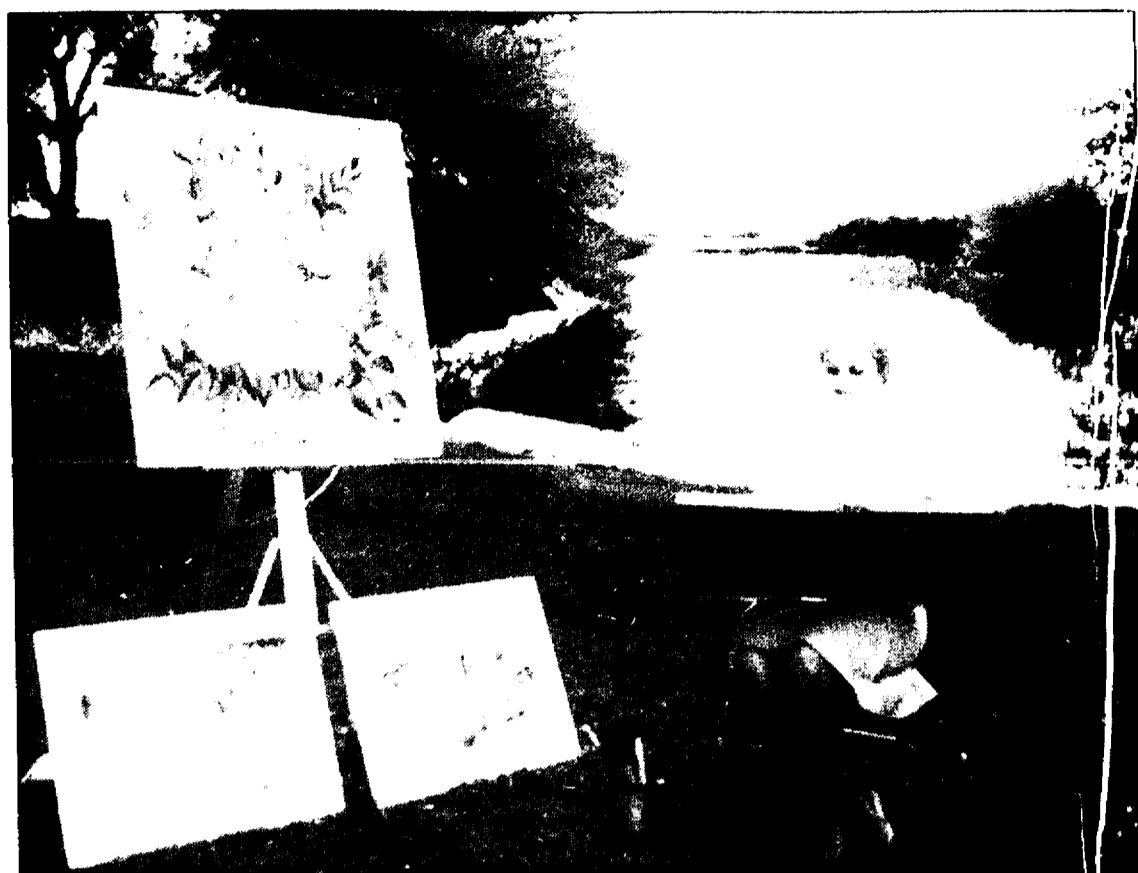

This year's Auction Party has a Mexican theme, complete with an authentic Mexican buffet, refreshments and decorations. You can get an invitation to this Saturday, June 10, at 8 p.m. event by calling 824-8000.

B is for browsing around in the beautiful 90-acre estate designed by Albert Kahn in the English Cotswold style. Most important, B is for benefit: the $1 Art on the Pointe admission fee helps support mental health programs of the Northeast Guidance Center. And the $1 parking fee — parking is across Lakeshore from the gatehouse — is collected by East-side Shrine Club members for the benefit of their charities.

C is for clowns, who will entertain kids. These clowns are members of the Ladies' Oriental Shrine of North America, Za-Hir-U-Din Court No. 7. But it's OK to just call them "clowns."

D is for dulcimers. Yep, this art fair is just unique and original enough to boast dulcimers among its many unique and original offerings.

F is for fair (which the weather usually is for Art on the Pointe.) And for food. In addition to Apple Court fare, there are food stalls aplenty near Ford Cove, offering everything from deli sandwiches to ice cream and pop.

G is for guided tours of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, which are available for an additional fee. G is also for "get" there early and don't "go" away 'til late.

H is for hot dogs, not to mention being for that "happy" feeling you'll have after enjoying art in an idyllic setting and all for the benefit of the NEGC.

I is for idyllic. I know I just wrote that but it bears repeating. Check it out. It is idyllic, with a capital "I." I would not make that up. Oh, I forgot. I is also for ink and pen drawings, another of the unique and original art mediums available at the fair.

J is for jewelry. Grosse Pointers love to buy jewelry. Last year, says Art on the Pointe publicity director Flo Kliber, Grosse Pointers were jammed all around the jewelry booth. And just think, it'll be just the same this June.

K is for the "kind patrons who make our show a success," Kliber claims, uh, claims. Kudos for kind Grosse Pointers, no doubt.

L is for lots of things. Like Lake St. Clair, a beautiful view of which awaits Art on the Pointe patrons. And Lakeshore Road, which will likely be loaded with Lincolns (and limos)

Art

From 1B en route to the fair. And finally, lithographs, more art originals which will be for sale.

M is for marionettes, the popular puppets which return for display this year. M is also for music, which will be provided by strolling singers, players and barbershop quartets. And M is for Mexican, the fiesta-themed party on the first night of the auction.

N is for "nice weather, which we hope we will have," Kliber says. "It's also for the nice folks who work so hard to put this together for the NEGC."

O is for oils, of the painting variety. Oil paintings will be obvious at Art on the Pointe, as will all those original works for oodles of onlookers to oggle. Oh, my.

P is for "Pointe-settia Place," the newest addition to Art on the Pointe. It's a booth packed with lovely Christmas-type items collected, displayed and sold by NEGC Assistance League members. "And when it comes to art, P stands for pottery, photography, portraiture and paintings, paintings and more paintings," Kliber says.

Q is for "Quick, put the dates June 10 and 11 on your calendar," quips Kliber. And Q also stands for quenchers, as in "art that quenches one's thirst for beauty," and refreshments which "quench one's thirst for a drink," she adds.

R is for relaxing, which describes the pace of this festival. And it's for roaming around, reveling in the really remarkable scenery and the artistic displays.

S is for several things, such as "shop 'til you drop," and "support community mental health," Kliber says. It also stands for serapes, sombreros, sausages, snacks, sights, sounds and smells of the two-day event. And don't forget the marvelous displays of sculptures from prominent sculptors who work in bronze, clay, marble and brass.

T means T-shirts. And T-shirts are just some of the many samples of painted art and fabric art available at the show. T also means temptation... you'll be tempted to buy everything you see.

U is for unique, which I believe we've covered. "Except maybe to tell you about the unique decor for home and office patrons can purchase from our unbelievably good artists," says Kliber.

V is for volunteers. Various volunteers from groups like the Lions Club, Jaycees and the NEGC's own Assistance League will help make fundraiser a success, according to Kliber. And the NEGC thanks each and every one of them very, very much, she adds.

W is for Warhol. "The major attraction at Art on the Pointe this year is a signed, numbered poster called 'Flower' by the late Andy Warhol," Kliber explains. Sealed bids for the piece will be accepted both days of the fair with the top bid announced at closing on Sunday. "Flower" was donated by Standard Federal Bank, Phyllis Fenton, Art Consultant, and has been valued at $800 for insurance purposes.

X is for, uh, um. Well, x-cuse us. You didn't x-actly x-pect us to come up with something that started with X, did you? "Although if we could, you'd probably find it at Art on the Pointe," Kliber says.

Y stands for "Y'all come," she adds. Year after year, more and more folks make the trek out to the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House for a truly "yummy" experience. (Sorry about that.)

Z is the first letter in the last name of juror Sharon Zimmerman, gallery manager at Detroit Artists market. She'll be joined by jurors Jim Gilbert, exhibition director at the Pontiac Art Center and Margaret Pankhurst, art teacher and Grosse Pointe Artists Association member.

If that's not enough for you, perhaps you might want to find your own alphabet of wonders at the sixth annual Art on the Pointe, June 10-11. For more information, call 824-8000.

5th annual Excellence in Education program

Optimists recognize efforts of teachers

By Priggy O'Connor Andrzejczyk
Assistant Editor/Feature Editor

Typically, the day began early for teachers from eight of Grosse Pointe's private schools. Only on this particular morning — May 24 — the teachers were not in their classrooms, but at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, where they received some much-deserved recognition.

The occasion was the fifth annual Excellence in Education program presented by the Lakeshore Optimist Club of Grosse Pointe. Educators from Bishop Gallagher High School, the Grosse Pointe Academy, Grosse Pointe Christian Day School, Our Lady Star of the Sea Grade School and High School, St. Ambrose Academy, St. Clare of Montefalco and St. Paul Grade School were honored.

Phillip Van Tiem and James Clarke co-chaired the event. Clarke called the program "important to the club because it ties into the substance of what the Lakeshore Optimists are all about — the belief of giving oneself to others.

"That's what these educators do every day."

The Excellence in Education Awards are given annually to local teachers who best exemplify a commitment to education and bringing out the best in young people in the areas of academics and athletics.

It was the first time that teachers from non-public schools were recognized by the club, according to Van Tiem.

The day's keynote speaker was Marilyn F. Lundy, a 42-year Grosse Pointe resident who was elected last November to an eight-year term on the Michigan State Board of Education. She is also a board member of New Detroit, an executive officer of the League of Catholic Women, a member of the education commission of Our Lady Star of the Sea School and a board member at St. Ambrose Academy.

Lundy talked about the history of non-public education in America, noting that the roots of all education in the U.S. were non-public.

"At first, American education was all private," Lundy said. "Educators were the most learned persons at that time: the ministers and priests."

She pointed out how the educational system evolved from its sectarian roots and in general, underwent decades of constant change.

"Now we're coming to a point where we are reevaluating and looking at what is happening in education in this country," Lundy continued. "It hurts sometimes to think we may have made mistakes, but we must address the vital issues facing education today: the free market system of education, who has the right to educate, parents or the government.

"And it's good to know that we have good people, people like yourselves, who are on the cutting edge, to help us face those issues," Lundy told the teachers, guests and Optimist Club members. She finished her speech by telling those teachers who were to be recognized to "never give up — because you are the basic, real structure of our community."

The teachers who received Excellence in Education awards included:

- Lori Faison, mathematics teacher at Bishop Gallagher High School.
- Sister Mary Celeste Lynch, O.P., Bishop Gallagher.
- Christa M. Baccus, 10 years at the Grosse Pointe Academy.
- Sister Marguerite Seymour,

R.S.C.J., 59 years as an educator, including at Sacred Heart convent schools in Texas, Connecticut, New York, Detroit and Grosse Pointe.

• Bea Hoffman, five years at Grosse Pointe Christian Day School.

• Our Lady Star of the Sea School instructors Margaret Spindler, 15 years as physical education teacher and athletic director; Patricia L. Stumb, 17 years teaching grade school language arts; and Carolyn Creemers Caste, high school English instructor.

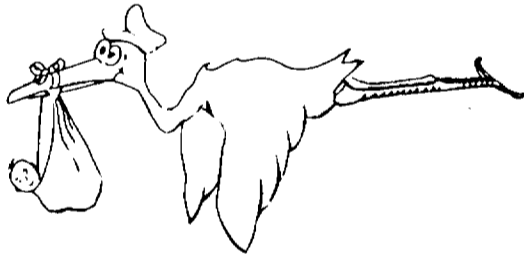

• Sister Alice Baker, I.H.M.,

16 years as a social studies teacher at St. Ambrose Academy.

• St. Clare of Montefalco School teachers Irene DeLue, 20 years as a sixth grade teacher; Connie Wisniewski, 29 years as a first grade teacher; and Mary Hynes, second grade teacher for 21 years.

• Michael Novak, science teacher and track coach at St. Paul Grade School.

Former Detroit Servite High School (1952-68) and Our Lady Star of the Sea High School (1968-88) administrator Donald Sloan received a special award.

'Art-A-Fair' will brighten Village streets this weekend

How about this for the way to spend a perfect Saturday afternoon: enjoying browsing through original art work in many media, including watercolor, oil, acrylic, pastel, pen and ink and pottery all offered by members of the Grosse Pointe Artists' Association.

The occasion is the second annual Grosse Pointe Village Art-A-Fair, set for June 3 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. (rain date is June 4). The show is sponsored by the GPAA and the Grosse Pointe Village Association. The location is at Kercheval and St. Clair, next to Jacobson's, extending from Kercheval to the municipal parking lots on St. Clair and back to D'Hondt Way behind Jacobson's.

The featured artists in this year's event include sculptor Janice Trimpe, award-winning painter Dan Keller (who teaches classes at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial); stained glass artist Marie Snell; internationally known Scarab Club artist Edgar Yaeger; and Pewabic potter Richard Pruckler.

Special features will include a "Shopper's Choice Contest" with two $25 cash prizes. Entry blanks for the contest may be obtained at the Art-A-Fair (you must be 18 to enter). There will also be a raffle of original art work held at 5 p.m. June 3.

Gift certificates have been donated to the Art-A-Fair by Creative World Art Store and the Grosse Pointe Framing Store.

Co-chairing this event are GPAA members Ruth Whipple and Corinne Dolega.

Committee chairs include Robert Kienle, raffle; Isabelle Goosen, shopper's choice; Bob Frahm, traffic; and Barbara Wehby and Wilma Urban, publicity.

leen Brown, Deborah Cavanaugh, Karen Emde, Katie Gravel, Leslie Guething, Mary Ann Robb, Susie Wilkinson, Peter K. Dow, Craig Jackman, Rob Kobylak, Benjamin K. Paddock IV and others.

For invitation information, call 626-6762.

... and in Greece:

Another great way to spend this weekend — and help the Hellenic Heritage Society raise funds for a Byzantine Icon exhibition at the Detroit Institute of Arts — is at a cocktail party this Sunday evening, June 4.

Hosting the event are Jim and Vicki Papas of Grosse Pointe Shores. The party will run from 4 to 7 p.m. and proceeds will be used to help fund the exhibition of Byzantine art which will open at the DIA Nov. 19.

Cost for sponsors is $250 per couple; $500 for patrons and $1,000 for benefactors. Pointers Stella Ferris and Angie Roustemis and Terry Vickrey of Mount Clemens are putting the event together.

For more information, call Roustemis at 882-2966.

Leo J. Howe — who will receive the Neuromuscular Institute Boosters' Humanitarian Award June 10 — and his wife Eleanor Howe.

'Images on Raku':

Susan and Steven Kemyffy, a husband and wife team from McKean, Pa., are ceramic artists collaborating in free standing sculptures and dimensional wall panels. They have had extensive juried, invitational and one-person exhibitions in the U.S., Canada, Japan and England.

Beginning Saturday, June 3, and running through June 30, the pair will present their show, "Images on Raku," at Gallerie 454, 15105 Kercheval Ave. in Grosse Pointe Park.

A reception for the artists is set for 5 to 8 p.m. Saturday. For more information, call 822-4454.

And other images ...

these in polyester, materialized May 12 at the Garden Bowl, an official Detroit landmark. The occasion was the second annual "Polyester Party," presented by Grosse Pointe's own Paul Mobley.

More than 150 party-goers were treated to open bowling, dancing, fun and other frolics. No one was admitted without tacky attire and the host showed up dressed in drag.

Now that's an unforgettable image.

The Neuromuscular

Institute Boosters' ... biggest fundraiser of the year is set to take place Saturday, June 10, at the Detroit Golf Club. It's the NMI's 12th annual dinner dance, which this year features Oakland University student Tracey Giannini as "Miss Inspiration."

Grosse Pointer Leo J. Howe Jr. will receive the NMI Boosters' Humanitarian Award. Howe and his wife Eleanor are charter members of the NMI Boosters, contributing their know-how and money to help the NMI Boosters help children.

The NMI itself was founded many years ago by Dr. Maurice Castle, chief orthopedic surgeon at Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital, to help children born with multi-handicaps such as cerebral palsy and other disabilities. When he married Helen Castle, the pair founded the Boosters, which has grown in scope for the past 12 years and this year, started a scholarship fund for the NMI children.

Other Grosse Pointe members of the NMI Boosters are Lou Wilcox and Louis Perrone, long-time participants with their late spouses Ed Wilcox and Jean Perrone; and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Grobs.

Donation for the black-tie optional event is $125 per person. Cocktails will be served at 7 p.m., dinner at 8 p.m. and then dancing to the music of Panchito's Orchestra.

Emmy for MacKay

For the second year in a row, Shores resident Marilyn MacKay has been honored with an Emmy Award for her TV series "Marilyn MacKay's Autograph," the nationally syndicated PBS program which is aired locally each Thursday at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 56.

A Night in Vienna ... is on tap for those who come to the fourth annual summer dinner dance benefit for the St. Peter's Home for Boys. The Viennese-theme party will be held Friday, June 9, at the Detroit Athletic Club.

Pointers Alex and Maribel Sucezek will be on hand to demonstrate the Viennese Waltz. Betsy Fulcher is co-chair; committee members include Kristin Adderly, Jane Alaimo, Kath-

Checking out this 19th century American quilt are Christ Church Grosse Pointe Antiques Show chairpersons, from left, Susie McMillan, Mary Anne Zinn and Wendy Jennings. Quilts will be featured along with porcelain, furniture, silver, linens, jewelry and many more items from 39 nationally recognized dealers in the two-day event June 3 and 4 at the Grosse Pointe South High School gymnasium.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. Cost is $4 per person at the door. Refreshments - at an additional charge - will be available in a delightful Victorian Tea Room in the undercroft of Christ Church, 61 Grosse Pointe Blvd.

Rutter's 'Requiem' will be performed at First English

First English Lutheran Church will hold its season Music Sunday Service this Sunday, June 4, at 9:30 a.m. The featured work for this service will be the recently written and widely acclaimed "Requiem" by John Rutter.

The Good News Singers of First English Lutheran will perform this work along with a 22-piece chamber orchestra, including harp, under the direction of Nathan C. Judson. The featured soloist will be soprano Jeanne Heller.

Members of the Good News Singers include sopranos Jayne Blohm, Joyce Blumenstock, Mary Heller, Jeannette Jobbitt, Janet Keppler, Irene Liba, Viola Meredith and Monica Setchell; altos Betty Blohm, Ardith Brown, Dorothea Busam, Karen Dike, Jane Stevens, Lucy Stevens and Sybil Thomas; tenors

Robert Foster (director of the Good News Singers), Gerald Heller and Daniel Setchell; and basses Alan Blohm, John Blohm, James Jobbitt and George More.

Members of the orchestra include flutists Kyle Clor and Christina Judson; oboist Rachel Evans; clarinetists George Deeb and Barbara Glovac; bassoonist Suzanne Patten; Nathan L. Judson and Harry Patten on the French horn; percussionists Don Dike and Gerard Bufaloni. Others are harpist Kerstin Allvin, violinists June Cubba, Theresa Edelstein, Ted Gudsen, Lisa Saigh, Eugena Scoville and Carolyn Thurber; violists Naomi Kasle and Rolf Wunderlich; cellists Kim Judson and Don Trout; and bassist Tom Gildea.

A free-will offering will be taken during the service. For more information, call the church office at 884-5040.

St. Ambrose alumni, friends dinner

The second annual dinner for alumni and friends of St. Ambrose is scheduled for June 9 at the Roostertail. The event begins at 6 p.m. with a cocktail hour, followed by dinner and dancing.

Also featured will be this year's Ambrosian Awards. Marilyn Lundy of Grosse Pointe will receive the Cullinane Award in recognition of her more than two decades of work toward the cause of quality education.

The Van Antwerp Award, given to a distinguished graduate of St. Ambrose, will be presented to Joseph Spada (Class of 1964) of Harper Woods, athletic director-coach at Notre Dame High School.

The McCusker Award, given to a current student at St. Ambrose Academy, will recognize Sheddra Wiggins of Detroit.

Tickets for the benefit are $50 per person. Reservations must be made by June 5 by calling St. Ambrose at 822-2814.

St. James rummage sale June 2-3

The Women's Guild of St. James Lutheran Church will sponsor a rummage sale at the church on Friday, June 2, from 4:30 to 7 p.m. and Saturday, June 3, from 9 a.m. to noon.

Among the items available are those for the house and garden, clothing in good condition for all ages, books and toys. The church is located at 170 McMillan Road, near Kercheval, in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Pajama party time

It was party time at the Cooperative Nursery at Christ Church Inc., last month as 3- and 4-year-olds enjoyed a day-time version of a real pajama party. Pictured are Jason Wong, Katie Kross, Allison McFeely, Ann Mason Anthony, Rebecca Tyler, Sunny Jeffries and peeking out below, Andrew Sweeney. They arrived with robes, sleeping bags and favorite stuffed animals and spent the day pretending they were on a real sleep-over.

Full enrollment at the nursery school is now being accepted. Interested parents should call Mil Anthony at 881-1123 or 885-7794.

Ice cream social

Grosse Pointe Memorial Church's annual Ice Cream and Yogurt Social is Sunday, June 4, from 6 to 8:30 p.m. at the church, 16 Lakeshore.

Rainbow the Clown, sundaes, cookies and surprises will be there. Cost is $2 for adults; 75 cents for children 5 and under.

DeKeyser-Mueller

Gerald and Judith DeKeyser of Harper Woods announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon Denise DeKeyser, to Charles Robert Mueller Jr., son of Charles and Phyllis Mueller of Grosse Pointe Woods. A fall wedding is planned.

DeKeyser is a graduate of Harper Woods Secondary School. She holds an associate's degree from the Detroit College of Business and is employed as a legal secretarial assistant with a Detroit law firm.

Mueller is a graduate of Grosse Pointe North High School. He attended Western Michigan University, Macomb Community College and Kalamazoo Community College and is employed in his family's business. He is a member of the U.S. Naval Reserve, based at Selfridge Air National Guard Base.

Kearsley-Gildner

The engagement of Ann Kearsley of Farmington Hills and former Grosse Pointe resident Henry George Gildner III has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Kearsley of Seattle. A September wedding is planned.

Kearsley is an alumna of Washington State University. She is employed as a flight attendant for Northwest Airlines.

Gildner, who is the son of Henry G. Gildner Jr. of Traverse City and Mrs. Joyce Goodell of Sarasota, Fla., attended Grosse Pointe Academy, Austin Preparatory High School and Grosse Pointe South High School. He is an alumnus of Northwood Institute and is employed as a leasing consultant in Dearborn.

Robertson is a graduate of Richmond High School and Ferris State University, where he earned a bachelor of science degree in pharmacy.

He is the staff pharmacist at Harper Hospital in Detroit.

Mooney-Heissner

Mr. and Mrs. James F. Mooney of Grosse Pointe Farms announce the engagement of their daughter, Denise Marie MacDougall, to Joseph Michel Daher, son of Louise Daher of St. Clair Shores. A June wedding is planned.

MacDougall holds a bachelor of science degree from Eastern Michigan University and is employed as a legal specialist at Dykema Gossett.

Daher is a graduate of Lakeview High School and is the owner of Lou's Pet Shop in Grosse Pointe.

Davis and is now associated with Mass. Bay Brewing in Boston.

MacDougall-Daher

Daniel and Audrene MacDougall of Grosse Pointe Woods announce the engagement of their daughter, Denise Marie MacDougall, to Joseph Michel Daher, son of Louise Daher of St. Clair Shores. A June wedding is planned.

MacDougall holds a bachelor of science degree from Eastern Michigan University and is employed as a legal specialist at Dykema Gossett.

Daher is a graduate of Lakeview High School and is the owner of Lou's Pet Shop in Grosse Pointe.

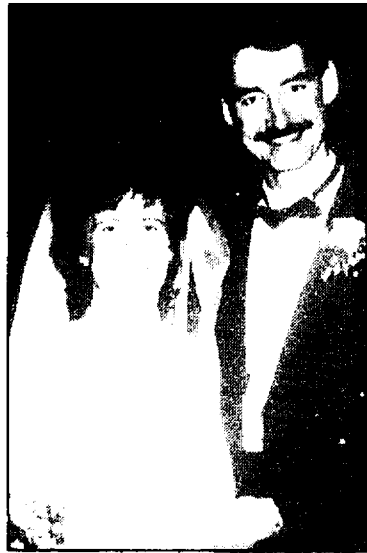

Weddings

Bracken-Stilwell

Nancy Shields Bracken, daughter of former Grosse Pointe Farms residents Mr. and Mrs. Russel H. Nutter of Sun City, Ariz., and Mr. and Mrs. John F. Bracken of Grosse Pointe Woods, married Daniel E. Stilwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stilwell of Mariam, Kan., on April 8, 1989, in the Church of the Good Shepherd, Denver.

The Rev. John Anderson officiated at the ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Jefferson Nature Center on Colorado's Lookout Mountain.

The bride wore a white tissue faille gown, its bodice fashioned of sequined and seed pearl-embroidered Chantilly lace. The gown's lace sleeves ended in bridal points and a Basque waistline cascaded into a full skirt and lace-edged, chapel-length train.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Stilwell

The bride's chapel-length veil was held by a headband of tea roses and babies' breath. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and babies' breath.

The bride's sister, Judy

Bracken Graves of Prescott, Ariz., was matron of honor. Bridesmaids included Lori Sneff of Traverse City and Linda Dawe of Mio. The attendants wore tea-length dresses of pink tchintz and carried bouquets of tea roses, iris and daisies.

The best man was the groom's brother, James Stilwell. Groomsmen included David Grover and Daniel Davis.

The brother and sister-in-law of the bride, Daniel Bracken and Kathie Bracken of Mount Pleasant, sang "Nancy's Song," an original piece composed and played on the guitar by Mr. Bracken. Betsy Cooper of Denver and Kathie Bracken performed a duet. James Stilwell sang a solo during the nuptial mass.

Scripture readers were the groom's sisters, Mary Stilwell of Dallas and Sue Stilwell of Overland Park, Kan.

The mother of the bride wore a tea-length dress of pink print and pinned a pink rose corsage to her purse. The groom's mother wore a tea-length dress of ice blue silk with matching shoes. Her wrist corsage was pink roses.

The bride is a graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School and Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City, where she earned an associate's degree in applied science. She is employed as an account assistant for North American Equities Ltd. in Denver.

The groom holds a bachelor of science degree in industrial design from Pittsburg State University, Kansas, and an associate's degree in electronic technology from Denver Technical College. He is employed as a purchasing agent for Decals Inc. in Wheat Ridge, Colo.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Kauai, Hawaii. They live in Westminster, Colo.

Clay Kanzler paintings exhibited at Joy Emery Gallery

Paintings by former Grosse Pointe resident Clay Kanzler will be on exhibition at the Joy Emery Gallery June 2 through 17. Kanzler is the son of the late Robert Kanzler, and of Mrs. William Van Alen Jr., formerly of Grosse Pointe, now living in Philadelphia. His grandmother, Mrs. John Crawford Frost Jr., is a Grosse Pointe resident.

Although Kanzler has shown his work professionally for only three years, his reputation as a painter of romantic landscapes has resulted in exhibitions throughout his native Vermont, where he and his wife Janine live, and affiliations with galleries nationwide.

Kanzler's large oil paintings reflect the hills and valleys of rural Vermont, and the tropical environments of Barbados, Bermuda and Hawaii, where he has traveled in recent years.

Kanzler was born in Grosse Pointe in 1957, and attended University Liggett School and The Hotchkiss School, Lakeville, Conn. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Trinity College, Hartford, and has also studied at the Rhode Island School of Design and the Center of Creative Studies in Detroit.

Kanzler's work is included in the R.J. Reynolds Building Collection, and Gerrish Corporation collection, and in the private collections of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Ford II, Mrs. Gertrude Mellon, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Ford Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William Foulke and Mr. and Mrs. David Rockefeller.

The Joy Emery Gallery is located at 131 Kercheval Ave. in Grosse Pointe Farms and exhibits modern and contemporary 20th Century art in all media. The Gallery is open Tuesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Thursdays until 8 p.m.

Council plans Orchestra Hall benefit June 4

The Volunteer Council of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall is presenting a fun-filled evening — the Powder Puff Party — to raise money for the renovations of the ladies' rooms at Orchestra Hall.

Showtime is 6 p.m. Sunday, June 4 at Orchestra Hall. The all-star review cast includes Dr. Chet Bogan and the Wolverine Jazz Band; Lesek Bartkiewicz, concert pianist; Marcy Chanteaux, assistant principal cellist with the DSO; DSO percussionists, Norman Pickett, Robert Pangborn, Salvatore Rabbio and Sam Tundo; and Judge Myron Wahls, jazz pianist and Judge Pro Tem of the Michigan Court of Appeals.

For $50, you can participate in the kazoo band or the powder puff chorus. Tickets range in price from $50 for box seats to $8 for upper balcony. Call 833-3700 for details.

Margaret Lindner of Grosse Pointe will be the director of the Powder Puff Chorus. Lindner has been a member and former board member of the Detroit Symphony League since 1968 and has directed the Choraliens (of the Detroit Symphony League) for the past 13 years.

The Choraliens are a group of primarily Grosse Pointe residents who sing by invitation only and give any donations they may receive to the DSO.

Lindner is also a past-president of Theatre Arts, 1984-86, a member of Fine Arts, Madrigal Chorale, Tuesday Musicale, and the Christ Church Concert Choir. She was also invited to adjudicate the last production of the Windsor Light Opera, "Hello Dolly." She has written new lyrics to the song "It's a Grand Night for Singing" for the Powder Puff Chorus.

Woman's Club awards scholarships

The Grosse Pointe Woman's Club met for its annual luncheon at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club May 17. Part of the agenda was the annual presentation of Woman's Club scholarships to a pair of Grosse Pointe high school students. Above, from left (front) club president Rosemary Elias, recipients Sara Plaendtner of South High and Sally Eleczko of North High, and scholarship chairman Jean Rice.

Plaendtner, of Grosse Pointe Park, has maintained a 3.27 grade point average at South, where she participated in the symphonic and jazz bands, was a letter-winner in softball and tennis and participated in Safe Rides. She also worked part time and was a member of the CCD youth group at her church.

Eleczko has been a member of the North High National Honor Society for two years and has compiled a 3.585 GPA. She is also active in the Girl Scouts, has received a scholarship art award, participated in fundraising walks/runs and has worked at the Grosse Pointe library and Big Boy.

WNFGA

The Michigan division of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association will hold its spring annual council meeting on Wednesday, June 14, at the Detroit Yacht Club. Registration and coffee hour begin at 9 a.m., followed by the meeting, luncheon and a program.

Mrs. Del Wisniewski, president of the Michigan division, will preside over the meeting. The day will include an installation ceremony for the officers elected to serve in 1989-90.

WEC

The Women's Economic Club will feature author, lecturer and politician Ronna Romney as its luncheon speaker for its annual meeting on Tuesday, June 6, at the Westin Hotel, Columbus Ballroom. Her speech will be "Refuse to Choose."

Tickets are $15 for members, $20 for guests. For ticket information, call the WEC office at 963-5088.

Grosse Pointe Crafts Guild

The regular meeting of the Grosse Pointe Crafts Guild will be held on Wednesday, June 7. Guild members will tour Pewabic Pottery on East Jefferson Avenue in Detroit and will follow with lunch at the Fisher Mansion.

Members and guests will leave from the War Memorial parking lot at 10:30 a.m. Deadline for reservations is June 3; they may be made by calling Guild member Emma Wright at 885-8619.

The Crafts Guild meets at 7:30 p.m. on the second Wednesday of each month. Anyone interested in any type of craft is invited to attend. For more information, call president Betsy Martin at 886-1827 or secretary Ellie Heinrich at 881-0689.

Detroit Symphony League

Enjoying the Detroit Symphony League's 50th annual meeting May 10 were, from left, Deborah Borda, Pointer Judy Bartell and Lynell Smith. The DSL presented $41,000 to Borda, new executive director of Orchestra Hall. The league also voted to dissolve its 50-year organization and to consolidate into the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall Volunteer Council.

In an awards presentation, Marie Draper of Grosse Pointe Park earned a service award and Sue Koczara was presented with an humanitarian award.

Windmill Pointe Garden Club

Joyce Blumenstock will be the hostess for the Windmill Pointe Garden Club at her Moorland Road home on Wednesday, June 7. Assisting Blumenstock and preparing luncheon for members will be Johanna Garrett.

Program chairman Sue Abbott asks each member to bring a floral arrangement from her garden for a critiquing session. The club's annual meeting will be held on this date.

AARP No. 3430

The Grosse Pointe Chapter No. 3430 of AARP will hold its June 12 meeting at 12:30 p.m. at the Neighborhood Club, 17150 Waterloo. The group's annual indoor picnic will follow the meeting. Reservations are required; cost is $3.50.

Grosse Pointe Rose Society to meet June 7

The Grosse Pointe Rose Society will meet on Wednesday, June 7, at 7:45 p.m. at the Neighborhood Club. Douglas Bima of Redford will present a program covering all aspects of rose growing — with special emphasis on proper summer care and preparing roses for show in the home or at the society's annual spring rose show.

ate blooms, fertilize and prevent mildew and blackspot.

Bima is a Consulting Rosarian, a member of the Metropolitan and Detroit Rose societies and was considered to be the top exhibitor in Michigan during 1987-88.

He will discuss how to shape blooms, clean foliage, remove blooms from the bush, refrigerate blooms, fertilize and prevent mildew and blackspot.

All interested rose growers are invited to attend the meeting.

The 1989 Grosse Pointe Rose Show will be held Friday and Saturday, June 16 and 17, at the Neighborhood Club. Show details will be published in the Grosse Pointe News June 8.

Mothers' Club honors 'Imprints' winners

Grosse Pointe South High School's Mothers' Club sponsored its seventh annual "Imprints" contest for writing, photography and art, with awards presented on May 17 at the school's honors tea.

"Imprints," a literary supplement to the weekly student newspaper "The Tower," is published three times yearly. Published works are selected by the English department staff. Professional judges, using all three "Imprints" issues, select the top three winners in five categories: poetry, short story, sketch/personal essay and art and photography.

The Mothers' Club presents $50 as first prize, $25 for second and $15 for third prize. Judges were Dr. Stanley Cook, Dr. Jack Driscoll, Michael Delp, creative writing; Julia Strabel, art; and

Poetry — Liz Hatch, first; Alexandra Anglewicz, second; Diane Pata, third. Sue Barton, Charlie Glass, Jennifer Tipton, Robert J. Louisell and Matt Hart were awarded honorable mention.

Sketch/personal essay — Genevieve Dwaihy, first, Wendy Hill, second.

Short story — Diane Pata, first; Errin Skinner, third.

Art — Asher Kaplan, second; Christian Fagerlund, third.

Photography — Scott Adams, first; Jennifer Shauman, second; Torey Birgbauer, third.

"Imprints" staff members who were ineligible to receive awards for work judges selected as outstanding included Sarah McCandless, poetry, sketch, short story; Mike O'Leary, photography; and Aaron Romine, art.

A super sale

Shoppers browsed to their hearts' content April 28-29 at the St. Joseph's Home for the Aged's "Second Hand Rose Sale," sponsored by the Carmelite Guild. The sale featured time-honored clothing, accessories and furniture as well as jewelry and collectibles and the dessert cookbook "Heavenly Delights from The Carmelites."

The sale raised approximately $3,800, which will be used to outfit the van that transports St. Joseph's Home residents on trips, social outings, medical appointments, etc., as well as to beautify the grounds. The group's next big fundraiser will be the annual fall bazaar, set for October. ♦

The times, they are a changin'

As some citizens grow older, more than their arteries seem to harden.

Their views, perspectives and attitudes tend to become fixed. They fight change. They insist that their belongings be left exactly where they put them. They adopt a daily routine and become disturbed if it is altered. They establish a pattern of work and leisure time activities and adhere to the schedule doggedly. Facing disruptions, they become lost and at loose ends until their little world shifts back into its familiar axis.

Those who would fault such a set pattern of life should remember that they have carved out a life of contentment rather than straining to keep up with the excitement and stimulus of the new and untried, a choice based on years of what has become important in life.

OVER THE years they have experienced growth and changes and what has been deemed progress and they have adapted. They have assimilated the new with the old and, out of the merging have selected that which makes life peaceful and satisfying. In a matter of saying, this is where they get off. Let others continue on in uncharted and turbulent waters. They have earned a rest.

They have seen cities grow to be unwieldy and hard to control. High speed cars, turbo trains, jet planes have replaced the slow ride in a horse and buggy, or if you will, a Model T. They have seen neighborhoods uprooted to make room for high-rise buildings, freeways and urban renewal. Familiar faces have been replaced by what must be termed itineraries to those who were accustomed to live and die in the neighborhood of their birth. They have seen landmarks dismantled, corner grocery stores replaced by supermarkets and retail stores where clerks knew their customer's names, preferences and sizes forced out by department stores, which in turn were displaced by shopping malls.

They have seen family structures change as "till death do us part" became "till we grow apart."

THEY HAVE observed their children's children and they wonder at their precious knowledge of the world and worry over the bewilderment that envelops young minds not yet ready to know and discriminate between good and evil.

They are at once enthralled and bewildered by the complexities of what science has brought about; television, worldwide systems of satellite communication, computers that sometimes store more information on a person than they have on themselves; the atom and the awesome task of making it work for the good of mankind rather than as a means of destruction; nuclear energy and its twofold power to make life better or to destroy all living things.

All this has happened in one brief lifetime — more than has happened in 500 lifetimes.

Is it any wonder that there comes a time when many older people fashion a little world of their own and draw it around themselves like a security blanket when they decide that they have accepted as much as they can and settle back into a personal life of peaceful routine.

Prime Time

By Marian Trainor

THEY REFUSE to vary it because they fear that one little break in their daily plan of life will once again make them vulnerable to a world that is forever chipping away at precepts and beliefs and modes of life that must be held sacred if there is danger of floundering in a sea of uncertainty that lacks direction.

We talk of those who wish to settle for what they have rather than drift with the winds of change as being stubborn, set in their ways. We exhort them to try new things, new ways, accept new philosophies. We try to convince them that a laid-back life is no life.

What we refuse to see is that a settled life is not a static life. It is an accepted and comfortable mode of living worked on over a lifetime until it so suits its creator that there is nothing that could enhance it. What goes on now in the world is bequeathed to those who are still struggling to find some cove where they can drift with the tide into a peaceful existence.

This need to come to terms with what is offered and what is acceptable in life is going to become more necessary as the world moves toward a new century.

We are caught in a momentum of change, change that whirls and propels us forward at a speed that permits no time to harness and direct it.

TAKE FAMILY life for instance. Futurists predict that as our life span increases, it is not unlikely that one marriage will not last a lifetime. Serial marriage will become commonplace. Children will have more than one set of parents and many half and step brothers and sisters. Longevity will be the main reason for these progressive relationships.

In the field of medicine we are promised miracles. We are told that medical advances will enable Americans to live longer, healthier lives as scientists discover new treatments for disease and extend life's span of years.

With all their promises of longer life, scientists must still leave the province of eternal life to religion. In other words while life will be longer, no one will become immortal.

In many ways the future looks brilliant and beguiling but also not without its uncertainties and confusion. If, as predicted, life and vigor is extended and we make it well into the next century, that's time enough to think about it.

In the meantime we can rest in peace with the accomplishment and gains of our generation and leave this brave new future world to the brave new people who will inhabit it, deal with it and be changed by it.

WSU program to examine issues on aging

The Institute of Gerontology at Wayne State University will hold its "Second Annual Summer Professional Development Program on Issues in Aging" from Monday through Friday, June 19-23 at the McGregor Memorial Conference Center.

According to Dr. Elizabeth Olson, education director at the institute, the weeklong program is designed for people whose professions are closely related to work with or on behalf of the elderly, such as social work, nursing and the allied health professions.

Two series of workshops will be offered — one for health care providers — the other for human service providers. They will focus on ways to build and improve the skills of practitioners in aging. In addition to the workshops, lectures by speakers will provide a general overview of topics and offer insights to improve service provision for older adults.

Each of the daily workshops has a different theme. They are: "Working with Older Adults: Building Skills in Counseling and Case Management" (Monday); "The Business of Aging" (Tuesday); "Aging and Developmental Disabilities" (Wednesday); "The OT/Aging Connection: Occupational Therapy Skills for Health and Human Service Providers" (Thursday); and "Health and Health Care Services to Minority and Urban Aged" (Friday).

Fee for the program is $30 per day ($150 for the entire five days). To register, make check or money order payable to: Institute of Gerontology, Wayne State University (no refunds will be returned after June 9). Mail to: Summer Professional Development Program, Institute of Gerontology, Wayne State University, 71-C East Ferry, Detroit, Mich. 48202.

Older worker job fair planned

Project ABLE, in cooperation with the Southeast Michigan Older Worker Coordinating Committee, will sponsor the third annual Older Worker Job Fair, Wednesday, June 21, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Michigan Inn in Southfield.

This event brings together employers and older job-seekers. Last year, over 20 employers representing various industries were on hand to interview and hire older adults.

Admission is free. Any job seeker 50 and older is welcome to attend.

Saratoga seeks volunteers

Saratoga Community Hospital is seeking volunteers to distribute menus and interact with patients.

The food and nutrition services department needs volunteers seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., excluding holidays. Volunteers can come in once a week or whatever fits their schedules. Individuals are also needed as substitutes for an on-call basis. Food and nutrition volunteers distribute menus to patients. They may also assist them with their diet choices and nutritional concerns.

All volunteers receive a free meal in the Rossini Room on the day they help out. For information on volunteering, call 245-1522.

Pet program at St. John-BSH senior community

A mixed shepherd/terrier dog will soon be housed in the secured unit of the St. John-Bon Secours Senior Community, thanks to Carl Platz, D.V.M., and Tim Schact, D.V.M., of the Animal Hospital of Grosse Pointe Park Inc.

The veterinarians have provided the dog to the community, where patients will share in caring for the dog as part of a pet-assisted program to begin in the community in June.

Dr. Schact will also volunteer his services in helping begin the program, according to Denise Lapinsky, program coordinator and activities director at the community. He will also do a routine check of other animals participating in the program and issue pet health certificates.

The pets participating in this program — which involves the use of animals as visitors to the elderly — will come from the patients' families, the staff and friends of the community and the Animal Hospital of Grosse Pointe Park.

Senior Adult Village Club to meet

The Senior Adult Village Club meeting at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 7, will feature Dr. Albert Pierce, plastic surgeon at Cottage Hospital. He will give a slide presentation and talk about cosmetic surgery, including facial plastic surgery, liposuction and reconstructive surgery.

For more information, call 885-4600.

Dandy dandelions and luscious lilacs make salad days delicious

There was a book which was very popular a few years back called "Please Don't Eat the Daisies." Everyone read it and laughed about the title, forgetting that daisies really are edible and are quite good in salads.

It is well-known that the lowly dandelion is edible in salads, too. But did you know that young dandelion buds fried in butter can be substituted for mushrooms in your favorite recipe?

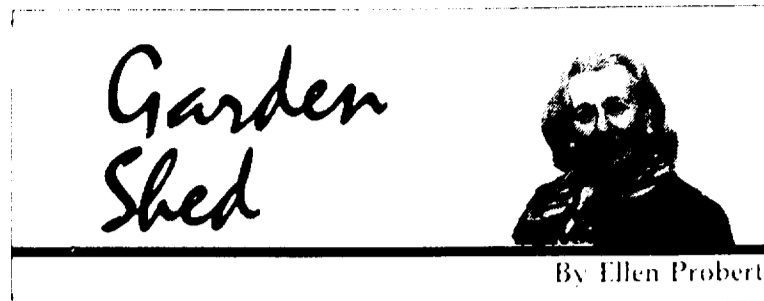

THE DANDELION originated in ancient Greece and was considered to be one of the "bitter herbs" of the Old Testament. (Of course, most gardeners, especially those with a passion for a perfect lawn, would consider it a pretty bitter herb even now.)

Violets, which also tend to creep into our lawns, are wonderful salad ingredients too, and actually are richer in vitamin C than oranges. John Evelyn, the famous diarist of the 17th century, wrote at length about the virtues of salad and almost all his recipes included either dandelions or violets. (One very pretty salad is purple and white violets in lemon gelatin served on lettuce leaves.)

Lettuce, the basic ingredient in nearly all salads today, was also used in many medicines of ancient Egypt, whose physicians were considered to be the most skilled in the world. And lettuce was also used as decoration in wreaths and flower arrangements.

LETTUCE WAS grown for salad in the famous Hanging Gardens of Babylon. One of the most amazing productions of this time was a series of clay tablets of the Assyrian Herbal, compiled in the seventh century B.C., which lists between 900 and 1,000 plants and specifies more than 250 vegetable medicines. Lettuce was an ingredient in many of them.

Lettuce comes in a wide variety of forms: firm and round, soft and loosely formed, tall and upright or rosette-shaped; and in a variety of colors ranging from pale green and white to russet red and deep, emerald green. It is an annual which can be easily grown in most areas. Seeds for all kinds of lettuce can be readily obtained and growing lettuce is a most rewarding task. Nothing quite equals the crisp salad that results from picking fresh leaves, crisping them in cold water and serving them immediately.

Lilacs, another wonderful early summer flower, is also edible and candied or crystallized lilacs will preserve their prettiness for all-year use in garnishes for desserts and confections. And an ice mold filled with lilac blossoms is wonderful in a frosty punch bowl at a party.

Even though the scent of lilac blossoms is so unforgettable,

St. Jude Church to host festival

The annual St. Jude Family Festival will be held at the church school's playfield and gym building, Seven Mile Road sweet and strong, it is virtually the only flower scent that cannot be captured by any means and therefore, all the lilac perfumes available today are synthetic. The natural scent is too volatile and diffuses into the air too rapidly for any method of capture.

BUT LILACS in a salad add a dimension of scent to the other salad dimensions of color, texture and taste.

In earlier times, salads were stupendous productions. Sometimes they still are, of course, near Morang, Thursday through Sunday, June 15-18. The event includes amusement rides, dinners, games and raffles.

but even the most elaborate of modern salads would find it hard to compete with the salads of the time of King James II, whose head gardener declared that even an ordinary salad should have at least 35 ingredients.

Roots, stalks, leaves and buds as well as blossoms from many different plants were mixed together — fennel, parsnip and carrot, spinach, violets, tarragon, red sage, hyssop, thyme, marjoram, mallow, burnet, cresses, basil, borage and cabbage, to name a few.

Exotic vinegars were poured over everything after having been infused with carnation and rosemary, elder and roses, nasturtium and mint. After that, there was salt, sugar, mustard and pepper, with orange or lemon rind and saffron and the whole thing garnished with hard-boiled eggs. And all these things were to be cut up with a silver knife and never any other kind.

The physicians of the time, not ever having heard of vitamins, were on the right track when they recommended salads as part of a healthful diet and suggested gout-weed for an additional ingredient as a preventive measure.

John Evelyn's diary contains some quite poetic passages regarding "sallets" which, he says, add sprightliness and harmony to any menu.

In the 18th century, a popular salad was called "Salamagundi," and the many ingredients were carefully arranged on a platter according to color so as to create a pattern. Sometimes a footed compote or cake stand was placed in the center of the platter and a second layer of various colors would be added.

The salad dressing would be in a small bowl in the center of the top tier and the whole thing garnished with eggs and flowers.

Salad gardens were popular in colonial America and a salad of several kinds of lettuce embellished with nasturtiums was popular. We tend to think of ourselves as diet-conscious, calorie-counting, cholesterol-aware modern salad gourmets and it is rather a surprise to find that we aren't all that different from everyone else down the ages after all.

Good crime prevention begins with watching and reporting crime. But to really make it work, take away what crime is watching you for. Advantages. Surprise. Isolation. Fight back. Don't let crime take advantage of your neighborhood.

For example, fix broken streetlights. Provide transportation and escorts for the elderly. Keep an eye on all the neighborhood children and start a McGruff House program as well. But you can't do it all yourself, so report anything suspicious to your local Police or Sheriff's Department. For more information on how to get more actively involved, write to me, McGruff, PO Box 362, Washington, D.C. 20044. And help me. Take a bite out of crime.

Grosse Pointe A Unique Community

A Cultural Cornucopia Appreciation of the arts begins at an early age for Grosse Pointe children. The public library, a division of the Grosse Pointe Public School System, offers, at no cost, a variety of children's reading programs at its three locations.

For adults, the library programs range from travel films to informative presentations on subjects of current interest. These, too, are free to residents of all the Grosse Pointes.

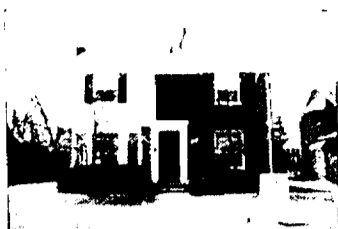

Another great source of local culture is the beautiful War Memorial Center, the former mansion of the Russell A. Alger family. With its subsequently added ballroom and theater overlooking Lake St. Clair, the center is a community attraction that rivals the many private clubs in the area. Here—open to all residents—are offered art classes and exhibits, lectures, concerts, plays, ballet and social dancing instruction, and children's theater, as well as membership in a long list of special-interest clubs whose focus is either cultural, informative or just plain fun.

A more recent addition to public property is the Edsel and Eleanor Ford House. Designed by architect Albert Kahn and supported by a $15 million endowment, this gracious replica of an English manor house is now open for tours and is used for meetings, fund-raising events and several series of "house" concerts.

Not goodbye

For almost two years now, I have refrained from getting too personal in a sports column. But I am bucking the tradition for one special person.

Peggy O'Connor Andrzejczyk, sometimes known as Peg, POA, Babe and Mrs. Babe, is clearing her desk after 10 years of commitment and dedication to the Grosse Pointe News.

We're not actually losing Peggy, we're just having to remember a new phone number to get in touch with her. We're not losing a friend, what we're losing is a talented journalist.

On my first day at work in July, 1987, Peggy and I immediately began working together. She handed the sports section over to me after serving as its overseer for eight years. I was worried at first about maintaining a fine tradition in those four to five pages, but Peggy's patience and help allowed me to fill her big (not too big) shoes.

We've shared laughs together, we've shared lunch together and we still will. It's just that when one brick is removed from a sturdy foundation, you only hope for one as strong to replace it. Peggy is replaceable, but not duplicable.

Comparing Peggy to a brick is not a good metaphor, but then again, she'd contend that my metaphors need some work anyway.

When Peggy became the Feature and Assistant Editor, she moved across the room to a high society desk. You would think she'd have forgotten about baseball, football and basketball, because she was involved with classy dinners, fashion shows, clubs and wedding announcements, but she didn't.

I'm not saying she wore cleats and put on her hockey jersey to go to the yacht club, but she remained a great resource on sports. All her athletic gear was probably packed in the trunk just in case the garden club wanted to play ball.

There was no joy in Mudville when the Mighty Casey struck out, and now I'm afraid it's going to take some time to find joy here. I mean, my job is fun and enjoyable, but not seeing Peggy each day will surely cast a different light on everyone here.

This is Peggy's last official issue. She's covered meetings, been rained on at soccer matches, been cold in hockey rinks and warm and sun burned at softball games. She's sipped tea at clubs and eaten croissants with people just looking for someone to talk to, and she's spanned the globe to bring you the constant variety ... sorry, I got carried away.

Peggy has really helped me become a better writer. She's taken time to roll her critical, yet gentle eyes over my stories, and given suggestions only a polished writer could give. It's funny, but I almost feel that a portion of my sports section is leaving as well.

Peggy will modestly say she didn't help me as much as I claim, but hopefully someday she'll realize just how much she has meant to not only me, but to everyone at the Grosse Pointe News.

Good luck, Peggy, and don't forget: You're buying lunch next week.

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

South baseball coach Dan Griesbaum told his players they couldn't just toss their gloves on the field and expect to beat Southeastern, but as it turned out, South didn't need gloves until the fifth inning.

Thanks to senior left-hander Bill Leonard, the Blue Devils went on to defeat the Jungaleers, 15-5, in a predistrict game at Manz Field May 26. The game ended after five innings because of the mercy rule.

South, which finished the regular season at 11-15, collected 13 hits on the day, but it was Leonard's outing that was the most impressive.

Not only was it Leonard's third straight win, but he struck out the first eight batters, three more in the fourth and two in the fifth; totaling 13 on the day.

"It was nice because we didn't have to field anything," said Griesbaum. "Bill has really come on since he was 1-4. He's really thrown well and this time out he received a lot of support."

Offensive support, that is. After scoring twice in the first inning and five times in the second, South put together its best inning of the season in the third with eight runs.

The Devils sent 12 batters to the plate after the first batter was retired. Jim Morris singled and scored on Ray Roxas' triple. Dale Wilson, who collected four RBI, drove home Kevin Nugent (walk) and Roxas, and later scored on a Brian Letscher single. Jason Weissert followed with a sacrifice fly and Matt Wysocki drove in two with a single.

Scott Adlhoch, who had an RBI, Morris and Roxas, who leads the team with a .419 average, singled again, just ahead of Nugent's RBI walk.

"I really think we could have beaten anybody that day," Gries-baum said. "We came out and hit the ball very well and it became infectious. We've had a couple of five-run first innings during the season, but that inning was by far our best of the season."

South, which has struggled somewhat defensively all season, was tested in the fourth inning, but Leonard's arm once again bailed the Devils out.

"We got a little sloppy in the fourth," Griesbaum said. "We're fortunate we had a big enough lead, because all season long we've not been able to overcome our mistakes."

Southeastern's first hitter in the fourth was safe on an error and moved up when Leonard issued one of his three walks. The next batter singled, one of two hits off Leonard, and Southeastern was mounting its first attack.

"We knew they could score runs," said Griesbaum, "because they finished second in their division of the PSL. Going in we knew we had to keep them off the base paths in order to win, and eventually we got out of that inning."

The Jungaleers scored five times in the fifth and final inning after Leonard walked one, hit a batter, and Caldwell and Weissert committed errors.

"We had a 15-run lead and knew we had the chance to mercy them so I think we lost some of our concentration," Griesbaum said. "Again, we were very fortunate to have such a big lead, because with the way this year has gone, we never know just what's going to happen."

South will play East Detroit in district play at North on June 3 beginning at 12:30 p.m. East Detroit advanced to the districts with an 8-1 win over Lake Shore.

In two previous meetings, South blew three- and five-run leads to lose to the Shamrocks.

"We lost to them twice during the regular season (6-4, 12-7), but we felt we should have won both those games," Griesbaum said. "We're very capable of beating them, but in order to do that we need solid defense and another big game from Bill (Leonard)."

Finney and Notre Dame play at 10 a.m. Saturday, with the winner meeting the South/East Detroit winner in the finals at 3 p.m.

Norsemen track teams run to top of White Division

By James Moore
Special Writer

The North boys' and girls' varsity track teams can now say they are the best in the Macomb Area Conference's White Division.

The boys won the division crown with 97 points and the girls won with 100 points.

Matt Brady dominated the boys meet with wins in the long jump (19 feet, 3 inches), high jump (6 feet), and 400 dash (52.0). Robert Strasko won the 800 meters in 1:58.4, while Scott Collins won the 1600 run in 4:45.6. North also won both the 3200 and 400 relays, and owned the distance events as Tom Gauerke (4:49.7) and Tim Ballew (4:59.7) took third and fifth, respectively in the 1600 run, and tied one another for second in the 3200.

Greg Donahue picked up points for Bob Collins' team with a first in the 110 high hurdles (16.2) and a second in the 300 intermediate hurdles (42.2).

Brad Watkins (9-6) and Jared Kolleth (9-0) recorded fourth- and fifth-place finishes in the pole vault to pick up more points.

FOR THE GIRLS, Liz Bolden won three events as the closest team was L'Anse Creuse with 66 points.

Bolden won the long jump (16-3 1/2), the 400 meter (1:00.8) and the 200 (27.3). Laurin Schultz was a division champ with a toss of 97-1 in the discus, and Sandy Gleis (29-11) and Mary Spiewak (29-2) were first and second, respectively in the shot put. Schultz also set a new MAC record with a first in the 800 run with a time of 2:27.8.

Nikki Van Oppens was also a champ in the 3200 with a run of 12:11.6, a new division record.

Other point-getters for the Lady Norsemen were Lisa Bauer (long jump, 14-7 1/2), Noelle Cormier (100, 13.6), Monica Rhee (100, 13.8), Jane Rice (110 hurdles, 18.0), 300 hurdles, 50.5) and Van Oppens (1600, 5:43.5).

Tennis season ends for Norsemen

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

The North tennis team's season wasn't supposed to end so abruptly, but it did last week.

North, which finished the regular season as the Macomb Area Conference champs, finished tied for third (13 points) in the regionals with Sterling Heights Stevenson, a team North edged out to win the MAC title.

"The team played as well as it could have," said Norsemen coach Ken Gutow. "There's not one kid on this team that didn't give 100 percent, so I can't complain. It was a good season for us, but it would have been nice to see it continue."

If North could have finished in a tie for second or won that slot outright, then it would have advanced to the June 2-3 state Class A finals. Instead, they'll have to buy a ticket.

Frank Lucido (No. 1 singles) and the rest of the Norsemen tennis team were hoping for a chance to compete in the state meet, but one point separated them and the state meet.

"I knew we were going to have to get a lot of kids into the finals," Gutow said. "That's the only way you can pick up enough points to place high enough in the regionals."

Scott McSkimming and Bob Hetchler (No. 1 doubles), and Jason Serwa and Brad Hea (No. 3 doubles), were the only Norsemen to advance to the finals. In order to qualify for the state meet, either one of the doubles teams had to win. However, they both lost to the eventual regional champ, South.

"A win at either one of those courts would have at least tied us for second and that would have been enough to go to states," Gutow said. "But, both those doubles teams won some tight matches just to get to the finals."

Despite not qualifying, the season was not a wash.

"I think winning the MAC really made their (the kids) season," Gutow said. "I'm disappointed for the kids because I know how much it meant to them (getting to the state tournament). I guess it wasn't meant to be."

North finished 8-3, and lost the MAC dual-meet championship by only one point to Stevenson.

"I knew at the beginning of the year we were going to struggle in singles," Gutow said. "We lost three of five singles players and that obviously didn't help any. However, I am very pleased with everyone who played."

Season opens for Lake Shore

The Lake Shore Sail Club started its sailing season last week with the first Wednesday Night Series portion of its lineup.

The top three winners are listed below, by place, skipper's name and boat name.

JAM A: 1, Romer, Changes in Latitude; 2, LaLonde, Biwa-Ko; 3, Nikesch, Galavant.

JAM B: 1, Cook, Arthur; 2, Dyer, Serenade; 3, LaRose, Acquitted.

PERF A: 1, Kunzman, Bodacious; 2, Naples, Sure; 3, Urraro, Avalon.

PERF B: 1, Harthorn, Cirrus; 2, Clark, Omega; 3, Wick, Sting.

PERF C: 1, Tinkle, Bravo; 2, Tepel, Kahuna; 3, Podgorski, Wild Thang.

PERF D: 1, Taylor, Blue Chip; 2, Rousseau, Tont La Mer; 3, Kuntzman, Ruffian.

PERF E: 1, Orr, Storm A Long; 2, Lawson, Excalibur; 3, Covley, Windward.

MORC: 1, Valka, Perserverance; 2, Miller, Fast Forward; 3, Francisco, Shogun.

Lochmoor pro advances

Marc Gelina, the tennis pro at the Lochmoor Club, had a big challenge ahead of him last week while competing in the National Championship of the USTA Men's 35s in St. Louis.

Gelina was unseeded and playing on quick indoor courts which favor the big serve and volley type players. In the second round, Gelina knocked off the fourth seed, Neal Newman, in a three-set match. Gelina then advanced to the semifinals by winning consecutive matches. In the semifinals, Gelina lost a grueling three-set match, 3-6, 7-6, 6-4.

"We were both dead tired and it could have gone either way," said Gelina, who moved into the nation's top 10 ranking after his performance. It would have been great to play for the national championship, but I can't be disappointed because I performed as well as I could."

The grass and clay court championships, which Gelina will compete in, will be held later this year.

5K Grand Prix makes first run

The green flag will signal the start of the first annual 5K Grand Prix Run on Thursday, June 15 at 7:30 p.m.

More than 1,000 runners are expected to participate in the fun run. The course is set up so runners actually compete on the actual Grand Prix track. A street party will immediately follow the race on Woodward, between Congress and Larned Streets.

Runners can register by calling the Motor City Striders at 544-9099. Same-day registration will open at 5 p.m. and will be located at the start of the race.

The fee for the run is $8, or $11 on race day. All runners will receive an official T-shirt.

Winners will be invited to ride aboard a float in the Grand Prix parade on June 16 at 8 p.m.

Norsemen compete at Annapolis

The Grosse Pointe North Sailing Team finished 13th overall in competition for the Mallory High School championships at the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis.

The prestigious competition is dominated by east- and west-coast schools, which represent the finest high school sailors in the country, which includes some national champions.

North's team, which consisted of Jim Murray, Sarah Morrow, Paul Hulsey, Rob Hutton, Eric Ryan, Beth Weber and coach Ted Dickson, finished ahead of the other teams selected from the Midwest.

The races were conducted in two groups (A and B) with the 26 teams racing a boat in each group. The boats, which are provided by the academy, are 420s and are sailed by a skipper and a crew. The North boats were skippered by Hutton, Weber, Ryan and Murray.

The 13th-place finish is the finest finish for a Detroit team.

Also competing at the Naval Academy in the Cressy Championships for single-handed sailors was Scott Schaupter. Schaupter, who attends South, finished 20th out of 46 teams in the competition.

The Norsemen sailing team, which competed in Annapolis, consists of Jim Murray, Sarah Morrow, Paul Hulsey, Rob Hutton, Eric Ryan, Beth Weber and Coach Ted Dickson.

Singlehanded sailors ready for June 17 Mackinac race

The Great Lakes Singlehanded Society is launching its 11th Port Huron to Mackinac Island Singlehanded Challenge on June 17.

Yachts ranging from 25 to 45 feet in length will compete in several monohull and one multi-hull divisions. Yachts will start from Port Huron and then proceed to a mark off of Goderich, Ontario and then to Mackinac Island.

Throughout the past 10 years, 106 skippers have met this challenge; often in gail conditions, dense fog and 30-degree temperatures.

In keeping with the expressed purpose of the Great Lakes Singlehanded Society; to encourage the development of suitable techniques and equipment for short-handed passages under sail, and to recognize the achievements of sailing in the Great Lakes region, satisfactory completion of the race is considered to be a highly significant accomplishment. Each finisher is awarded a commemorative medallion and a society membership. Pennants are also awarded to the top finishers in each division.

The Peter Fisher Memorial Trophy, in honor of our fellow competitor and good friend who died during the event in 1983, will be awarded to the outstanding skipper.

and will be held from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Reservations are taken on a first-come, first-serve basis. The cost for the week is $50. For further information or to make a reservation, call Hayes at 886-0855 or 881-9451.

The camp will run from June 19-23 at the high school in Harper Woods. Camp for boys ages 12 to 15 will run from 8 to 10:30 a.m., and boys ages 9 to 11 will play from 1 to 3 p.m. The girls' camp will also run June 19-23

Bruins finish regular season in Fraser

The Grosse Pointe Hockey Association Mite AA Bruins ended regular season play with two wins, a loss and a tie over the last four games.

Charlie Braun capped a 12-1 win over the Port Huron Silverstreaks with five goals and teammate David Legwand added a hat trick. Brad Balesky had two goals to go with an assist, while John Staniszewski and Sara Ann Nixon netted one apiece.

Mike Getz drew three assists, Christian Auty and Ryan Durant had two each, and Angelo Lapiana and Justin Lariscy had one each. Phil Zbozien and Jeff Basta were the winning goalies.

Against the USA Spartans, the Bruins had to hold off a late surge to settle for a 2-2 tie. Legwand notched both Bruin goals and was assisted by Getz and Balesky.

The Bruins returned to the win column a couple days later with a 7-1 victory over the Marketshare of Royal Oak. Legwand paced the Bruins with a hat trick, and Getz added one goal and three assists. Braun, Devon Allard and Pat White followed with one goal each.

Staniszewski chipped in two assists and Durant had one. Zbozien and Basta teamed up for another win in goal.

The USA Spartans handed the Bruins only their second loss of the season in the final game, 4-1.

Legwand opened the scoring, but the team couldn't put another puck past the Spartan goalie. Matt Descamps drew the assist.

Braun then led the attack with two goals and an assist in the first round of the playoffs, as the Bruins shut out Marketshare, 6-0.

Basta started in net and Zbozien replaced him. Getz tossed in two goals and Legwand added one. Descamps put the final goal in, and Pat White, Christian Auty and Devon Allard assisted.

Darcy Jones, now South's single-season record holder for strikeouts, registered another win in predistrict action against Southeastern. Jones and South will play Regina at East Detroit in a district semifinal game on June 3 at 10:30 a.m.

Jones hurls South to districts

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

It was a predistrict softball game between the South Blue Devils and the Jungaleers of Southeastern, but it turned out to be more of a routine batting practice for South.

The Lady Devils (14-13) smacked a school-record 26 hits in a five inning game en route to a 23-0 drubbing of Southeastern.

"We hit their pitching all over the place," said South coach John Bruce. "We hit the ball hard. We faced a slower pitcher than we're used to, so I'm going to petition the state to ban fast-pitch softball."

Still chuckling, Bruce stated the game was a well deserved break from the hectic schedule.

"Every team needs a game like this some time," he said. "Ours just happened to be in the predistrict game."

However, South will have to jump back in the saddle again and face Regina, a winner over Denby, in a district game at East Detroit on June 3 at 10:30 a.m.

Against Southeastern, junior lefty Darcy Jones not only had four hits in six trips to the plate, but she broke the single-season strike out mark by fanning 11 batters. Jones, who has now recorded 148 strikeouts in 165 innings, eclipsed Lynn Vismiera's 1986 record.

"If anybody deserves to do it, Darcy does," said Bruce. "She's worked very hard and has really become one of the state's top pitchers."

Liz Murphy's 3-for-3 performance, in addition to three RBI and two doubles, led South's attack, which included 14 of the 16 players getting hits and scoring runs.

"Everything just clicked for us," Bruce said. "Everyone hit the ball and we just kept running. It was a fun afternoon."

Patty Provenzano rapped three hits to go with four RBI, and Jenny Sevren had a double and triple in three trips to the plate. Lisa Leavell also knocked in three runs with two doubles, and Tina Higel and Laurel Wolfe combined for four hits and 4 RBI.

With the warm-up game out of the way, South can now concentrate on beating Regina; something it wasn't able to do in a tourney May 6, losing 6-3.

"We can play with them," Bruce said about the No. 6 ranked team. "We know we have a shot because we are really playing good ball and we're recognizing that if we play good defense we can hang in there."

"The key is our defense, however," Bruce added. "In order to win we have to play a near flawless game, or if we make an error we'll have to overcome it very quickly or Regina could bury us."

Brady paces ULS in overtime

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

University Liggett School soccer player Meghan Brady thrives on pressure games.

Brady, the Knights' leading scorer this season, booted two goals in overtime to give ULS a 2-1 victory over Lakeview in the district championship game at ULS on May 27.

The game ended 0-0 in regulation after both teams went 87 minutes without scoring a goal. Then, within a minute's time, Brady gave ULS a 1-0 lead in the first 10-minute portion of the overtime, but Lakeview struck quickly to tie it.

"We had the lead, but all of a sudden we gave up the tying goal," said ULS coach David Backhurst. "Throughout the course of the game I kept thinking it may go into a possible shootout because both teams were playing such good defense, and in one minute two goals were scored. That was frustrating."

Frustration turned to happiness for Backhurst and the Knights five minutes later as Brady kicked home the game-winner.

"There was still five minutes to play in the overtime and I just kept telling the girls to hang on," Backhurst said. "We just packed in our defense and eventually won a big game."

Regional championships are nothing new to Foley or ULS, but winning one would be new for ULS.

In 1987, the Knights lost 2-1. One year later they had a 1-0 lead, but lost 5-1. This season, Backhurst is seeking a different result.

"I know we can beat them," he said. "They are top-ranked and we're ranked sixth so it definitely will be a good game. We have to play with a lot of confidence and heart."

The home-field advantage will also help ULS. Game time is 2 p.m. on June 3.

Against Lakeview, ULS carried the play throughout the game and waited patiently until Brady found the net.

"We really came out fired up and maintained our intensity throughout the game," Backhurst said. "We were putting on some pressure, but couldn't get a goal. I knew our defense was playing well enough so I wasn't too concerned about that."

"I was more concerned with linking a couple passes together and getting a goal," Backhurst added. "We had many shots on goal, but nothing was going in. It was only a matter of time, but how much time was the question."

One look at the shots on goal and it's easy to see that ULS did carry the play.

"We had 29 shots on goal and they had nine," Backhurst said. "We kept battling and battling until finally something clicked."

Beth Weyhing, starting in her 15th game in goal, earned her 10th win against two defeats for the now 13-4-1 Knights.

"If we were to beat Foley for the regional title, it would be the furthest I've gone with any of the girls teams at ULS I've coached," Backhurst said. "It would be great for the girls because they are the ones who have worked so hard all season long."

Novice 8 champs

This is the first year that Grosse Pointe South has had a rowing club, but it's certainly not the last.

Especially after the Women's Novice 8 crew stroked its way to a Midwest championship in the regatta held May 12-13.

The crew rows out of the Detroit Boat Club, which will be celebrating its anniversary by hosting a regatta on June 18 at 8 a.m. The regatta ends by noon. For more information, call 823-4292.

ULS baseballers stand 12-5

The University Liggett School baseball team has compiled a 12-5 record after winning three of its four games a week ago.

The Knights swept Oakland Christian, 7-6, 10-3 on May 20th after arriving early only to be delayed by rain and poor field conditions. When play began, ULS needed a five-run third inning, sparked by consecutive hits by Kevin Crociata, Bill Lucken and David Darby, to pull out the win. The game-winning run was pushed home when Lucken squeezed in a run on a bunt. Andrew VanDeweghe earned the win on the mound.

In game two, things eased up a bit as ULS rolled to a 10-3 victory. Crociata stroked two singles and crushed a triple in four trips, and Lex Smith picked up his fifth win of the year.

On May 22, Crociata's RBI triple was all the Knights could get off a tough Harper Woods pitching staff, in a 7-1 loss.

On May 24, the Knights beat

Lutheran Northwest, 10-3. Crociata led off the first inning with a homer, and Coach Glynn Conley gave five pitchers work on the mound.

Throwin' heat

Kevin Brennan (left) and Fritz Coyro, both pitchers on the St. Paul 8th grade baseball team, are two of the top pitchers in the Catholic Youth Organization.

Brennan recently picked up his fifth win against no defeats, by tossing a no-hitter. As if that wasn't enough, Brennan struck out 19 of the 21 batters he faced. He also laced three triples and drove in four runs.

Coyro, who also has five wins and no defeats, is batting .485 as a clean-up hitter. Both pitchers helped their team capture the division title with a 10-0 record.

Sail series begins

The Grosse Pointe Sail Club will host the 1989 Tuesday Night Sundown Sailing Series starting June 6.

The races, which begin and finish off of Windmill Pointe Park, are divided into two series of six races each: June 6-July 18, and July 25 through Aug. 29.

Please note that there is no race on July 4.

Entry forms are available at the Windmill Pointe Park guard office.

Spectacular finish caps Cottage Hospital Fun Run & Walk

A constant wind and a slightly hilly new course did not deter Dale Hart of Detroit from breaking all records for the fastest Cottage Hospital Fun Run & Walk.

An employee of Cottage's affiliate, Henry Ford Hospital, the

Nearly 500 racers wore brightly colored T-shirts announcing the kickoff of Cottage Hospital's 70th anniversary festivities.

The new course, which circles the hospital, brought home the message of Cottage's commitment to promoting healthy, family activities and programs throughout the community.

For the sixth consecutive year, Ken and Jane Meade were on hand to award the medals and congratulate the winners. Financial support of the Fun Run & Walk provided by the Meade Group allowed for entry fees to go directly to the hospital for Rehabilitation Services for patients recovering from stroke, amputation and accidents.

Racers and spectators were invited to tour the Henry Ford Hospital Center for Athletic Medicine mobile unit where physical therapists and athletic trainers answered questions and offered body composition analysis.

The first 50 walkers to finish the walk received specially designed and created pin-ribboned medals. Sixty-six runners were awarded Olympic-style neck-ribboned medals which also displayed the familiar Cottage logo. Runners were divided into male and female classifications and 5-year age groups beginning at age 14 and under.

The winners were: 14 and under, first place, Laurie Kolinski and Jon Sieber; second place, Erica Mondro and Jared Schimbeck; third place, Jeni Ettel and Sam Oginski. Age 15-19, first place, Nikki Van Oppens and Paul Clemens; second place, Kathleen Beal and Frank Markey; third place, Michelle Evans and Matthew Beal. Age 20-24, first place, Laura Cichowski and Andrew Turnbull; second place, Nancy Solterisch and Carl Russo; third place, Paula Reichert and Paul Fox. Age 25-29, first place, Christi Cracchiolo and Dale Hart; second place, Lisa Adams, Bob Baril; third place, Sue Jacques and Darryl Nihem.

In the 30-34 age group, the winners were: first place, Mary O'Donnell and Lawrence Graves; second place, Kathleen O'Boyle and Carl Hixon; third place Cathy Goerke and Joshua Scully. Age 30-35, first place, Joan Wilcox and Ron Grenda; second place Karen Hibbs and Richard Huhn; third place, Marian Enright and Mike McGrane. Age 40-45, first place, Joyce Janicki and Andy Chochol; second place Kathleen Wood and Ralph Evans; third place Bernadette Taylor and Al Blovack. Age 45-49, first place, Barbara Dettmer and Walter Adamczak; second place, Dave Armstrong; third place, Bill Roney.

Charles Valdez and Sandra Morehead finished first in the 50-54 age group, while James Plath and Dan Morehead finished second and third, respectively. Age 55-59, first place, Jim Campbell; second place, Bob Hayes; third place, James Hastings. Age 60 and over, first place, Roger McCaig; second place, Richard Dean; third place, Louis Fox.

Lee Wulfmeier, Bill Baiocchi, Douglas Glancy, Donna McGrane, Linda Rodriguez, David Gross, Donald Easton, Patricia Fraser, Jeremy Andrews, Jason Warrick, Sandra Dettmer, Ralph Newa, Jo Hastings, Isabel Harwood, Jane Asher, Leonidas Tavoularis, Elias Tavoularis, Gloria Johnstone, Nancy Bloch, James Cichowski, Linda Pochmara, Sharon Petrill, Judy Flanz, Charlotte Adamaszek, Paula Cichowski, Catherine Dolland, Mary Dolland, MaryAnn Swanie, Roni Curran, Jill Knisley, Joan Allen, Ben Reynolds, Patricia Zajdel, Michelle Warrnick, Rejeanna Decker, John Andrews, Leslie Martin, Matt Reynolds, Beverly Curtiss, Madeline McClorey, Elza Gross, Sandy Chirkun, Christina White, Erin Sweeney, Arica Hord, Mary Ettel, Shirley Rehn, Charles Coyne, Kelly Pienta and Christine Mitchell.

The ninth annual Cottage Hospital Fun Run & Walk provided a fun and healthy afternoon for competitive runners, walkers and spectators.

Cottage Hospital trustee William C. Rands III (center) presented a framed, commemorative gold medal to Jane and Ken Meade. The inscription thanked the Meades and The Meade Group, financial sponsors of the May 7 Fun Run & Walk, for being: "The best of friends a Fun Run & Walk ever had."

Eat Smart

Tongue tied

Go ahead, stick out your tongue.

I know your mother taught you not to do this, but go to the mirror and take a good look at your tongue.

Your tongue is your guard to ensure good health. It is one of the most important organs as you ingest foods and perceive tastes.

The tongue contains taste buds all over it and they are also on the roof of your mouth and throat. We use the taste buds to help us determine what is edible and what is not. There are many nuances within our taste buds, but the main four groups of taste receptors are sweet, salty, sour and bitter. The tongue is the most sensitive to salt and sweet tastes, as most of us can well attest to. Many people readily admit to having a craving for sweets or for salty foods.

Over the course of millions of years those people who were not fortunate to live near the oceans were in a continuing search for foods from plants and animals that contained some salt and the tongue developed a sensory system that was finely tuned to this taste. Without a small amount of salt in the body, we would dehydrate.

The sweet taste was also an important factor in determining the safety of many of the fruits and vegetables in the diet of early man. As man looked for food he used his tongue to guide him as to the ripeness of the available plant life. Some of the foods could make us sick if eaten before they were ripe.

This little bit of history about our taste buds has not been lost in today's world of food processing. Both salt and refined sugar are inexpensive additives and we are inundated with both in today's food products. Salt is an especially addictive taste; the more we have, the more we need to satisfy our taste for it. Once you make a concerted effort, however, to get yourself off the salt "habit" it is amazing how well your tongue and the rest of your mouth is able to respond to the more subtle and delicate flavors of foods and seasonings.

The craving for sweets can be just as overwhelming as that of salt, but seems to be more intricately woven into the physiology of some people. The craving for sweets during a woman's menstrual cycle is well known, although not very well understood. And we are all familiar with the weird food cravings of the pregnant woman.

A strong message from the body is sent for good reason. The pregnant woman could be lacking an important vitamin or mineral, or the unborn child needs something that is low or lacking in the mother's food intake. But the more a woman understands how to read the signals her body is giving, the better she will be able to address her particular needs without resorting to the "quick fix."

In today's world of fast foods and over-processed, over-salted and over-sugared foods, our bodies have learned how to trigger the mechanism for a quick fix. But, they are just that; a quick answer that has no staying power and very often little, if any, nutritional value.

Taste sensitivity can also be tied to normal hormone changes within the healthy body. For both men and women, the amount of cortisol (a hormone) is circulating in your body at a much higher level during the early morning hours. And at this time our taste sensitivity is at its lowest. Throughout the day, the cortisol level declines and the taste buds pick up. It is no wonder that many of us eat our largest meal of the day at about 6 or 7 p.m. and often keep snacking until we go to bed.

Mood food

How are you feeling about yourself also can affect your perception of taste. Generally, a negative mood signals hunger, while positive moods will give you a sense of satisfaction. I like to use a scale from zero to 10 in helping to understand our mood swings and food.

If zero represents the point on the scale of low stress and a feeling of well-being and 10 represents maximum stress and a feeling of despair, most of us would admit to over-eating or experiencing food cravings to hit their worst when we are somewhere in the middle of the mood scale. When we are at the farthest of either number, we tend to experience a drastic drop in appetite. Can we learn from this information and will it help us develop a healthy and satisfying food plan? Yes.

The more we know about our particular bodies, the better we're able to work through the problems. The problems with having an over-developed salt habit or sweet tooth is not caused by some unknown disease, nor uncontrollable process within our systems. We can control both of these taste cravings by limiting the amount of salt and refined sugar we ingest.

The following are some guidelines that may help you gain control of your taste buds.

- 1) Eat more fresh fruits, vegetables and grains in their most natural state.
- 2) Choose fiber-rich foods that have to be chewed, not inhaled. They will give you a better sense of feeling full and satisfied, plus you will have a longer-lasting, visual picture of eating (these foods can't be gulped).
- 3) Before you buy, invest a few extra minutes to read the ingredients on the package. What is the salt content of this particular brand? What is the sugar content? Beware of the words ending in "ose." They are just substitute words for sugar.
- 4) Limit your intake of artificial sweeteners. The tongue is still getting the message that sweets are coming and the salivary glands then send this message to the digestive tract to signal the pancreas to release insulin. Recent research has shown that the pancreas can become over-worked when too much artificial sweetener is ingested.

5) Experiment in your cooking by using more natural herbs and spices. You may surprise yourself with how much fun this can be, plus you are waking up those sleeping taste buds.

6) As you work through changing your dependency on salt or over-sweet foods, when a craving hits, give yourself 20 minutes. During this time, you could go for a quick walk, do some stretching or practice a yoga exercise.

With good practice you can retrain your body's responses. You can enjoy good health, good food and good taste.

Some background on cholesterol

High cholesterol. You can't see it or feel it. You don't feel sick, yet, slowly but surely it will sneak up on you and before you know it your "plumbing is clogged." Clogging could result in heart attack or stroke.

What is cholesterol? When you eat fatty foods they are absorbed by the digestive system and delivered to the liver for processing. Fatty substances can't travel through the body alone, as the blood's major ingredient is water. For this reason, the liver produces cholesterol to carry such fats through the blood vessels. The liver combines this absorbed fat to cholesterol and protein is manufactured to form what is called "lipoproteins."

There are three types of lipoproteins:

- 1) The very low density lipoproteins (VLDL).
- 2) The low density lipoproteins (LDL).
- 3) The high density lipoproteins (HDL).

The VLDL carries the fats from the liver to the rest of the body. Once this fat is unloaded, VLDL becomes LDL, or "bad cholesterol." This is because it sticks to the anterior wall, HDL, or "good cholesterol" protects the arteries by linking to LDL and bringing it back to the liver for recycling and reprocessing. So, for your protection you should lower the VLDL or LDL, while trying to increase the good HDL.

What should your cholesterol level be?

Screening for a cholesterol level has become wide spread: at health fairs, shopping malls, drug stores, work place or through the doctor's office. Accurate readings are important as results can vary significantly. What is usually measured is the total cholesterol, which is the sum of HDL plus LDL, plus VLDL.

Right now, if your cholesterol is below 200 milligrams/dl, you are lucky. Try to maintain such levels with good dietary habits and exercise.

If your cholesterol is between 200 and 239/dl, you have "borderline high level" and you are at increased risk of cardiovascular disease. If your cholesterol is 240 milligrams/dl or higher, you should see a physician. A complete and detailed fractioning of your lipids into VLDL, HDL and LDL is needed; particularly because such levels could be due to high intake of fat as well as other reasons, such as low thyroid function, diabetes, liver disease, etc.

In his next article, Dr. Atallah will address ways to effectively lower cholesterol.

Dr. Pierre Atallah, a member of the department of cardiology at Harper Hospital, and a professor of medicine at Wayne State, wrote this article.

Ageless Walk Program offered free

Looking for a refreshing way to begin your day?

If so, Cottage Hospital's new Ageless Walk Program can put a little spring in your step.

The ageless walk group meets informally outside the main entrance of Cottage Hospital on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 7:50 a.m. All members enjoy a walk and some talk from 8 to 9 a.m. And, if participants wish, they may visit the cafeteria for a healthy breakfast. No reservations are required and there is only a nominal charge for the optional breakfast, which follows the one- to three-mile walk.

The distance walked each day is determined by the desires and capabilities of the participants. Beth Ayn Deutsch, director of the Cottage Hospital Athletic Medicine Program (CHAMP), coordinates the group which usually is divided into two categories: those who want a brisk walk and those who prefer to move more leisurely.

Athletic medicine personnel accompany the walkers on varying routes through the Farms and City.

The purpose of the program, according to Deutsch, is to promote good health practices and awareness.

"Walking is one of the safest, lowest impact forms of exercise," said Deutsch. "It's an activity almost anyone can participate in, at some level, and derive benefit."

"Walking not only burns calories, tones muscles and improves cardiovascular fitness, but it also improves your outlook," Deutsch added.

Current participants say it's an uplifting way to begin the day. As an added incentive, ageless walkers earn a special T-shirt for logging their miles.

The group starts from the main entrance on the large parking lot side of the hospital. It is recommended that you wear loose, comfortable clothing appropriate for the day's weather. Good, supportive walking shoes are also recommended.

Not sure what makes a good shoe? The CHAMP staff can answer your questions. Walking discussions also include how to determine your target heart rate, proper warm-up stretches and the influences of weather on walking.

A completed physician's consent form is required for each participant in the program. Forms are available at the hospital's information desk.

"The Ageless Walk Program is an opportunity to develop a year-round, lifetime activity," Deutsch said. "It gives area seniors and anyone else interested a chance to meet other people in the community while enjoying a healthy activity. It's a highly motivated and fun group. And we're anxious to welcome new walkers."

CHAMP hosts symposium

From June 26-28, the Cottage Hospital Athletic Medicine Program (CHAMP) will be hosting a three-day symposium designed to prepare students to function as student trainers for their school.

A Student Trainer Camp will also be held as part of the program.

Coaches are also invited to attend and learn more about the knowledge of athletic injury care and prevention.

The series of lectures and practical lab sessions will include basic and advanced first aid for athletic injuries, injury prevention and rehabilitation, basics of athletic conditioning, and a brief review of anatomy. A special emphasis will be placed on taping, wrapping, splinting and evaluation of sports injuries.

Instruction will be provided by certified athletic trainers from CHAMP, and the keynote speaker on June 28 will be Kent Falb, head trainer for the Detroit Lions.

The symposium will take place in the hospital's boardrooms.

Students interested in a career in medical or health-related fields will find the Student Trainer Camp can project them into some real-life experiences as a student athletic trainer for their schools.

The cost of the symposium is $85, which includes a stipend for each day's lunch in the hospital cafeteria, refreshments, parking, T-shirt and course materials. Space is limited and a $45 deposit is due by June 9.

Park MAJORS

Yankees 4, Phillies 3

Todd Drake and Justin Braun split the pitching duties for the winners, and B. Harwood went all the way for the Phillies.

Chris Dettmer and Matt Larisey had two singles each, and Matt Debski sacrificed in a run. Drake's homer in the fifth was the difference for the win.

Yankees 8, Cards 0

Yankee pitchers Justin Braun and Cory Schroeder held the Cardinals to just one hit off the bat of Chris Carpenter. Scott Cadaret made several key defensive plays for the winners, and Andy Forster and Chris Millikin also played well for the Yankees.

Kevin and Cory Schroeder hit doubles, while Cassin, Dettmer, Drake, David Barnes and Braun all singled.

Astros 7, Yankees 4

Kaiser led the Astros with two doubles, while Reynolds Robinson and Hostetter combined pitching duties. Justin Braun collected a triple and an RBI double for the Yankees. Drake, K. Schroeder and C. Schroeder all pitched for the Yankees.

Yankees 6, Pirates 5

Todd Drake started and pitched a strong game. He was relieved by C. Schroeder, who also doubled in the third. Dettmer singled in two runs for the winners, and Drake followed with a two-run single.

Eugene Agnone and Chris Fox pitched for the Pirates, who got four hits, including a double, from Josh Prues.

Babe Ruth

Tigers 14, Sox 0

Jay Berschback pitched a two-hit shutout for the Tigers, and John Jungwirth had three RBI on two singles.

Chad Heppner and Josh Henry made sterling defensive plays for the Tigers, and Randy Aardema and Charlie Lickfold played well for the Red Sox.

Tigers 9, Dodgers 3

The Tigers improved to 3-0 behind the two-hit pitching of Tom Kolojeski, who struck out nine. Brad Dunlap had two RBI and Dan Commer had two hits for the Tigers. Jeremy Blair had two doubles for the Dodgers.

Sports People

Sprint for a letter

Julie Burke, a 1988 South graduate, earned her first letter as a member of the John Carroll University women's track team.

Burke was a sprinter for the Lady Streaks, and her best effort came in a dual meet at Hiram College. Burke's time of 28.9 in the 200 meter hurdles earned her second place.

Olympic athlete

Stacey Higginbottom of the Woods will participate in the track events at this year's State Special Olympics in Mount Pleasant, June 1-3.

Higginbottom is a student at Our Lady of Providence Center in Northville.

Good luck, Stacey!

National competitor

Susan Ingrao, a South graduate and member of the Northwood Institute women's tennis team, competed in the NAIA National Women's Tennis Championships in late May.

Ingrao won 10 of 11 matches at No. 4 singles, including the District 23 championship. As a team, Northwood won the District 23 title.

Ingrao also teamed with Mo Koerber for a 9-2 mark at No. 1 doubles.

Singles champ

Liz Schervish, a freshman at Northwood Institute and a North graduate, was 6-3 at No. 6 singles during the year for Northwood's women's tennis team, and won the individual District 23 title. Schervish does not play doubles for NI.
