Councilman wants park fee

By Kathy Ryan
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE WOODS — Could a $10 park pass fee be in the future for Lake Front Park users?

A discussion about such a fee was on the table during a recent committee of the whole meeting, with Councilman Mike Koester asking if now wasn't the time to bring such a fee in front of the council, prior to budget hearings.

"We have provided this luxury for a long time," Koester said, "but now it's time to add a charge."

Koester surveyed other municipalities and told his fellow council members the Grosse Pointes are the only cities to not charge residents for use of municipal pools during the summer.

Fees, Koester noted, range from $109 in Huntington Woods to a $75 family fee in St. Clair Shores. Several "comparable" cities, including Royal Oak, Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills and Franklin, do not have pools.

"We are the exception by not having a fee," he said.

Koester said he is motivated by a continuing deficit and concern over another downturn in the economy.

"We are charged with managing our budget," he said. "I was elected to council to make decisions like this. We can only use our savings for so long."

Koester proposed charging $10 per person for a pass, with a maximum of $40 per family. He estimates such a charge would raise approximately $100,000 per year.

"We have continuing financial needs at the park," he said. "We had to replace the baby pool, we're repairing the parking lot, and we had to replace the pool heaters, at a cost of over $100,000."

Other council members said the proposal should be considered.

"We have a budget deficit," said Richard Shetler. "We have increased costs, with the recent pay increase for public safety, our pension costs and road construction."

Mayor Robert Novitke opposed any charge.

"Yes, we're the exception in not charging a fee," he said, "but that's what makes us a destination. We don't have to have snow removal, leaf removal and street cleaning,

Budget on target in Farms

By Brad Lindberg

GROSSE POINTE FARMS — Municipal revenue for the first quarter of the fiscal year is down .4 percent from last year, while expenditures are up 11.4 percent.

The disparity is due mainly to making a $1.5 million pension contribution during the first quarter rather than in the second quarter, as done last year.

"We're in good shape," said John Lamerato, Grosse Pointe Farms city controller and treasurer. "Without the pension contribution, we would be comparable to last year's expenditures."

He added, "Overall, general fund revenues and expenditures to date appear in line with the budget, when taking

Shores elects two

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE SHORES — Tina Ellis and Doug Kucyk are the city council's newest members.

Both won their first campaigns for office in the Grosse Pointe Shores municipal election

Tuesday, Nov. 3.

They join Councilman Robert Gesell, retaining his seat in an easy victory.

He won reelection hands down.

Gesell's 460 votes were 131 more than Ellis' 329 and 177 greater than 283 votes cast for Kucyk.

The only candidate with a higher total in the Shores on Election Day was Mayor Ted Kedzierski, unopposed for a second term, with 548 votes.

Holistic heart doctor opens clinic

Dr. Joel Kahn, a clinical professor of medicine and named "America's Holistic Heart Doc" by Reader's Digest Magazine, has announced the opening of the Kahn Center for Cardiac Longevity, with locations in Bloomfield Township and Grosse Pointe Farms. The practice focuses on direct patient care, concierge medicine and the prevention and reversal of all types of heart disease. As one of only a handful of practices of this kind in the United States, it will use state-of-the-art detection and monitoring, stressing the importance of genetics, nutrition and advanced artery imaging. The direct patient care practice will offer fee-based memberships and new consultation, including the "Ultimate Heart Check," which focus on advanced cardiovascular detection and prevention techniques, many of which are not currently available in the state. "Participating in this new model of healthcare with advanced cardiac detection and prevention has been a dream of mine for the people of greater Detroit," Kahn said. "It's about allotting extra time to help patients prevent heart attacks and strokes, providing advanced testing and treatments personalized for a natural health program to feel good and live long." The Grosse Pointe Farms practice is located at 114 Kercheval and the Bloomfield Hills practice is located at 4050 W. Maple. For more information, visit kahnlongevitycenter.com.

GOP leader next guest

Wayne Bradley, GOP state director, speaks Tuesday, Nov. 17, to the Eastside Republican Club. The 7:30 p.m. event takes place at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms. November marks the second anniversary of Bradley's role as Michigan director of African American engagement and operation of the GOP's Livernois Avenue office. The headquarters is part of the Republican Party's longterm commitment to the Detroit community and to relationship-building throughout Michigan. ERC chairman Ken Chadwell said he looks forward to Bradley's appearance at the War Memorial. "Wayne Bradley is a bold conservative and one of the most followed black conservatives on Twitter," said Chadwell. "We look forward to hearing his perspective on politics and culture. The forum is open to the public at no charge, so we invite anyone interested in current events to attend." Following graduation in 1999 from Michigan State University with a Bachelor of Arts degree in public relations and advertising, Bradley joined Infinity Mortgage Associates where he served as branch manager and loan officer. In 2005, he became associate broker at Complete 1 Homes, serving Wayne and Oakland counties. In 2009, Bradley launched a multimedia group with his blog, news website and "Conservative is Cool" talk radio. There he built a strong Internet presence of more than 19,000 followers on Twitter and 4,000 Facebook friends. In launching his media group, Bradley said, "There is a glaring need to bridge conservative values, the Republican Party and conservative leaders in urban areas within both African American and Latino communities."

See how much better you can hear your family and friends during the Holiday Season!
 (Thanksgiving through New Years)

Hear for the Holidays

The holidays are a special time, so don't miss out on the opportunity to enjoy the company of your family and friends.

Borrow Hearing Aids over the Holiday Season!

There is no greater gift than the gift of restoring the sense of hearing for yourself or a loved one, and Grosse Pointe Audiology wants to make your dreams of "hearing for the holidays" come true. We are offering you the chance to explore the advantages of NEW digital hearing aids over the Holiday Season.

The holidays are a great time to try new hearing aid technology since you will be around your loved ones. Grosse Pointe Audiology wants to make sure you are hearing your best for those special moments. Our Audiologists will perform a comprehensive hearing evaluation and discuss with you all of your amplification options. We will then order the brand new hearing aids of your choice. Your hearing aids will be custom fit and we will explain how to care for them.

The next part is the easiest...you go home and wear them in all of your normal environments and see how much better you are able to hear. If at the end of the holidays, you don't feel the hearing instruments improve your hearing, you can simply return them to our office.

Comprehensive hearing testing is usually billable to your insurance. You are responsible for loss of the instruments during the evaluation period. A credit card number is held during the trial period and will be discarded at the return of the instruments.

Sidewalk issue a grind

By Brad Lindberg
 Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE FARMS — A walk through time during homecoming weekend at the University of Michigan convinced Dr. Thomas Mertz that Grosse Pointe Farms needs to update its sidewalk maintenance. He said Ann Arbor sidewalks are smoother than in his Farms neighborhood, laying the uneven groundwork for a trip-and-fall accident waiting to happen. Rather than excavating and replacing tilted concrete sidewalk slabs — the process can kill roots of nearby municipal trees, often displacing portions of walkway in the first place — Mertz thinks it's better to grind high spots to a uniform level. "It would substantially reduce costs and preserve trees that are at risk when you cut roots," he told Farms officials this fall. "I agree," answered Mayor James Farquhar. "It's something we can discuss." The discussion occurred before a 72-year-old Farms woman's trip-and-fall Wednesday, Nov. 4, in the 300 block of Kercheval. (She) stated she was walking on the north sidewalk of Kercheval between Hillcrest Lane and Ridgemont when she tripped over an uneven concrete sidewalk block," reported Officer Geoff McQueen. He documented the rough surface and the woman's injured knee, palms, wrists and nose. Farms sidewalks are 3 1/2 inches thick and strong enough to support miniature snowplows and motor vehicles going up and down driveways. The city has a six-year cycle of routine sidewalk inspection, with emergency repairs as needed, according to Terry Brennan, director of public services. "We start in the north-west corner of the city and work south," he said. State regulations allow a 2-inch displacement between slabs, but the Farms standard is three-quarters of an inch, he added. "We try to stay ahead of it," Brennan said. "It's a never-ending battle.

Mature trees are constantly moving sidewalks." Although residents may hire contractors to grind jutting slabs or inject mud under sunken ones to raise them to a uniform plain, Brennan doesn't. "We remove and replace because that's the sure, tried-and-true method," he said. Offending tree roots are trimmed or redirected, if possible. "If it's a big root, we call our forester, then take it a step further to protect the tree and make sure we're not ending up with the same problem two or four years from now," Brennan said.

South suspends student after threat

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE FARMS — Enrollment at Grosse Pointe South High School was short one 17-year-old male from Grosse Pointe Park Friday, Nov. 6, but a squad of public safety officers made up the difference.

"We had seven officers here Friday morning," said Moussa Hamka, South's principal.

Hamka banned the student from school that day while investigators determined if he really meant to "shoot up" the place, as a classmate from Grosse Pointe Farms alleged the prior day, according to an initial report by Officer Vince Finn.

Although three public safety officers found no evidence Thursday night to support the allegation, they informed Hamka.

"We stayed on the phone Thursday night back-and-forth until 12:30 a.m. (Friday, Nov. 7), sorting this out," Hamka said.

"Hamka indicated he did not want (the suspect) to come to school in the morning (Friday) until the matter could be further investigated," Finn reported.

"We're not messing around," Hamka said.

Investigators during the next few days obtained evidence of the threat and, knowing the suspect had access to weapons, arrested him at home before school resumed Monday, Nov. 9, on a 20-year felony charge related to terrorism, according to Detective Lt. Richard Rosati.

"Even though he was suspended from school, we didn't want him out-and-about able to carry out his threat," Rosati said.

Detectives questioned him at headquarters.

"At first, he denied it," Rosati said. "Later, through the interrogation process, he confessed, but said he wouldn't have really done it. There's no manifesto or anything."

Wayne County prosecutors hadn't authorized charges by the Grosse Pointe News deadline Tuesday, Nov. 10.

"So far, we have a warrant request being reviewed," said spokeswoman Maria Miller.

The suspect remained separated from school pending further investigation by district officials.

"It will probably take us until the end of the week," said Superintendent Gary Neihaus Tuesday, Nov. 10, this week's Grosse Pointe News deadline.

"We'll probably make determination by then."

The Farms classmate's mother tipped off police shortly after 9:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 5, to the alleged threat.

Her son reportedly heard it second-hand from yet another South student living in the Park.

Farms Sgt. Antonino Trupiano and two patrolmen went to the suspect's house. The parents cooperated fully,

Election roundup: Councils set in Pointes

CITY OF GROSSE POINTE — Everyone's a winner in the City of Grosse Pointe municipal election.

Every candidate won an uncontested race Tuesday, Nov. 3.

Also, both charter amendments passed.

Mayor Dale Scrace won a seventh two-year term with 446 votes.

Retaining seats on the city council were:

- ◆ John Stempfle, 427 votes;
- ◆ Andrew Turnbull, 418 and
- ◆ Donald Parthum Jr., 408.

Municipal Judge Russell Ethridge, first elected 17 years ago, won another four-year term in his second uncontested election.

Regarding the charter, voters supported amendments changing the composition of the Board of Review and Election Commission.

The three-member Board of Review, which hears appeals of initial property tax assessments by the city assessor, will no longer include the assessor. A citizen is appointed instead.

The change is intended to increase the board's independence and avoid an appearance of conflict of interest.

The three-person Election Commission, which appoints election personnel and reviews ballots, will be made up of the city attorney, GROSSE POINTE FARMS — No drama on Election Day in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Some 10 percent of the city's 8,216 registered voters returned incumbents to office Tuesday, Nov. 3, in uncontested elections.

Mayor Jim Farquhar received 777 votes.

The breakdown for city council was:

- ◆ Joe Ricci, 743 votes,
- ◆ Therese Joseph, 723 and ◆ Lev Wood, 704. Members of the council voted Wood mayor pro tem Monday, Nov. 9. The job includes handling meetings in the mayor's absence.

"Congratulations, Lev," Farquhar told him. "But, I don't miss any meetings."

GROSSE POINTE PARK — Two veterans and a new face were elected to the Park city council in the Nov. 3 election.

Barbara Detwiler, Dan Clark and John Chouinard won the three council seats, with Bob Denner taking over as mayor after running unopposed.

With 25 percent of eligible voters casting ballots, the final results were: Detwiler, 1,317; Clark, 994; Chouinard, 924; Bill Shield, 807; and Ed Keelean, 730. Denner garnered 1,447 votes.

— Kathy Ryan

GROSSE POINTE WOODS — About 13 percent of Woods residents turned out Tuesday to vote in the uncontested election for city council and municipal court judge.

The three incumbents returned to council are Michael Koester, 1,503 votes; Art Bryant, 1,471 votes; and Richard Shetler Jr., 1,437.

now," Kedzierski said. "We have a team approach. Everyone brings their talents to the council. We do it because we love our community."

Not winning seats on council were Paul Thursam, 263 votes; and Rebecca Booth, 258. Both were first-time contenders.

Some 27 percent of the city's 2,406 registered voters cast ballots.

As the tallies were read inside city hall minutes after the polls closed at 8 p.m., Gesell said his win "gives me an opportunity to continue the work we've done with a wonderful team."

Ellis felt honored. "I appreciate the trust voters put in me," she said. "I'm going to try to work hard to address the needs here at city hall."

Kucyk, campaigning for better communication with residents, credited his victory to seeking votes door-to-door.

"I was able to get out and meet all my neighbors, talk to them face-to-face," Kucyk said. "They were interested that somebody took the time to talk to them. Once the conversation started, it wasn't politics."

Booth said she'll continue working behind the scenes to improve the community.

"I'm sorry I won't be on the council, but that doesn't mean the council won't know me," she said.

Thursam was unavailable for comment.

All election results were reported at grossepointenews.com on Tuesday, Nov. 3.

ULS student shares love of swimming

By Jody McVeigh
Community Editor

Steven Lesha was 15 when he learned a statistic that changed his life.

"I was shocked that 70 percent of inner city children couldn't swim," he said, adding some of his favorite childhood memories involve swimming.

The University Liggett School senior, who is on four swim teams, learned the fact during a fundraiser for Detroit Swims, an organization whose goal is to teach 1,500 children to swim each year who would not otherwise have the chance due to finances, pool access or transportation.

"That kind of inspired me to take it a step further and organize a fundraiser," he said.

Lesha hosted his first Detroit Swims fundraiser between his sophomore and junior years, raising $800 through a relay event with Country Club of Detroit swimmers, one of his summer teams.

"For $10, students were put on a relay team," he said, adding participants got candy and bagels afterward.

Lesha, 17, said he donated the money to Detroit Swims through two-time Olympic gold medalist Peter Vanderkaay, a Michigan native who spoke to swimmers and gave them pointers.

Participants of one of Lesha's fundraisers.

While happy with the success of his fundraiser, Lesha wanted to do more. During his junior year he interviewed for a volunteer post with Detroit Swims. He started teaching lessons the summer between his junior and senior years, he said, adding he gets the most joy seeing the happiness in his students as they progress. It's what keeps him going, "knowing I am making a difference in these kids' lives."

To teach a child to swim, Detroit Swims needs $100 per child, which goes toward pool rental, eight lessons, a swimsuit, cap, goggles and flotation device, Lesha said.

"This past summer, in addition to teaching, I had two fundraisers. The first one raised $2,000 and the second one raised $1,400," he said.

The first was a relay meet with double the participants and double the money from his fundraiser the summer before and included a pancake breakfast. The second was an ice cream social at Shores Park, which hosts another of the teams on which he swims. "Every park has a swim team," he said. "I've been on one since I was 8. I thought I should introduce them to this organization."

Lesha has two upcoming fundraisers, including one at Liggett. Vanderkaay will speak at the school Thursday, Dec. 10. The following day, students who would like to participate in dress-down day may donate money — to wear casual clothes, as well as benefit Detroit Swims.

The other fundraiser is with the Grosse Pointe Gators, another of Lesha's teams. "It'll either be a relay meet or an inner club meet," Lesha said. It is tentatively set for Saturday, Nov. 21.

"I grew up with swimming. I love it so much. It influenced my entire life," he said, adding he swims every day and loves the exercise. "I feel sad kids in the city might not have the opportunity to go to a pool. It's just a crucial life skill."

Lesha has friends at Liggett and South who are helping with the fundraisers, so they can take over for him when he graduates.

"This organization isn't going to stop needing money when I go off to college," he said. "This has been their biggest year donation-wise and I want to continue that upward trend It's not about me. It's about those kids."

Fundraisers may be planned next spring and summer, Lesha said. Spectators and sponsors are always welcome. Email stevenlesha@gmail.com for details.

An award-winning career

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE FARMS — With due respect to Robert Frost, sometimes all the difference comes from taking the road more traveled.

Instead of embarking as a landscape architect, John Lamerato followed his father's footsteps to an award-winning career in accounting.

Lamerato, Grosse Pointe Farms city controller and treasurer, received a certificate recently of lifetime membership in the Michigan Government Finance Officers Association.

"I've been a member almost 40 years," said Lamerato, past president and state representative of the national association.

The certificate adds to Lamerato's more than 20 consecutive MGFOA awards for excellence in government financial reporting, plus three for a pamphlet summarizing city finances that is distributed to residents.

None of it would have happened if Lamerato enrolled at Aquinas College to become a landscape architect.

His late father, John, also a life member and president of MGFOA, accompanied him during registration for his freshman year.

"Before I knew it, he had me signed up for principles of accounting, business law, principles of management and economics," Lamerato said. "Goodbye landscaping career. It got me into finance and accounting. I'm glad he pointed me in that direction. It's been a rewarding career."

Summertime jobs in accounting put him ahead of the field upon graduation.

"You can learn from a book, but when you actually do the work, it made sense," Lamerato said. "I landed an internship with Plainfield Township, outside Grand Rapids, the last half of my senior year. It started me on a career."

Lamerato worked for the Farms during the early 1990s, switched to Troy and returned in 2011.

An unlocked neon green bicycle with purple lettering was stolen within 25 minutes of being parked behind Kroger in the Village at 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 6, reported its owner. The bike is customized with SRAM gearing and aftermarket tires.

Parcel stolen

Although there are no suspects, a homeowner in the 800 block of Fisher filed a report last week with police about a package stolen off the front porch.

The theft occurred between the time a parcel company registered the delivery at 11:27 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 4, and the following afternoon. The package contained a cream-colored Southern Proper reversible fleece vest worth $125 and an extra large, yellow T-shirt worth $32 by the same manufacturer, the victim told police.

Having at it

An officer responding shortly before 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 3, to a man erratically driving a black Ford Escort on eastbound Mack near Rivard spotted the vehicle weaving onto the median in close quarters with another motorist operating a silver 2008 Volvo S80. The pair proceeded into Grosse Pointe Farms and turned right onto Elizabeth Court, a dead end, where the officer questioned both drivers.

The Volvo driver, a 63-year-old man from Grosse Pointe Woods, said the other man, later identified as 42 and also of the Woods, hit the Volvo while parked on Mack, then hit it two or three more times thereafter.

The Volvo had "several fresh dents and scrapes to the driver-side," according to the officer.

The Escort driver failed field sobriety tests, police said.

Although he refused to take a Breathalyzer to register his blood alcohol content, officers arrested him for drunken driving.

At 10:44 p.m., Municipal Judge Russell Ethridge arrived at headquarters to sign a search warrant for samples of the man's blood to be drawn at a hospital and tested at a crime lab for alcohol content.

Handoff

Two Grosse Pointe Farms patrolmen went to a restaurant on Mack in Grosse Pointe Woods during the dinner hour Saturday, Nov. 7, for a carryout, but not a meal.

They met a St. Clair Shores officer to accept custody of a 48-year-old Detroit woman on an outstanding Farms traffic warrant.

"She was distraught and crying, but said she was OK," said one of the Farms officers.

Marijuana

Shortly before 11 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 3, a patrolman entering the lobby of the service station at Mack and Moross detected an odor of marijuana coming from two men exiting the building and heading north on Moross into Detroit in a silver 2002 Pontiac.

During the resulting roadside investigation, the driver, 24, of Detroit, was arrested for possessing 14.8 grams of the drug.

"(He) stated he and the passenger had just purchased it and were on their way to smoke it," said the officer.

A female passenger, 20, also of Detroit, protested officers impounding the car.

"(She) became upset and vocal about the arrest and demanded to take the car home," said the officer. "When told no, she became even more indignant and even more vocal."

Drugs

The driver of a silver 2001 Chrysler 200 with a broken taillight was arrested during a traffic stop at 12:08 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 3, on southbound Moross near Chalfonte for possessing 3.7 grams of marijuana.

A patrolman accompanied by the K-9 team found the drug separated into four packages on the driver, 49, of Detroit, and in the car's center console.

He also was wanted in Ypsilanti for a traffic infraction and in Westland on multiple charges, including loitering, drugs and defrauding an innkeeper, which often means welshing on a deal.

Says he's clean

A Detroit man, 33, driving a white 2000 Cadillac Escalade containing more than 40 doses of Percocet, Valium and other narcotics said they weren't his.

"(He) claimed the Percocets were from his cousin and denied any knowledge of the Valium," reported a public safety officer summarizing a traffic stop at 4:09 p.m. Monday Nov. 2, on Mack near Chandler Park. "(He) claimed (other) pills were his girlfriend's and may be prenatal pills."

The pregnant woman was in the vehicle along with two children, loose marijuana on the floorboards and the remains of two joints in the ashtray, according to police.

Officers arrested the man for violating 25 driving suspensions and on a Wayne County felony warrant for violating probation relating to dangerous drugs.

Red light

A patrolman monitoring traffic near city hall shortly before 3 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 8, caught a woman without a valid driver's license run a red light from southbound Lakeshore to eastbound Vernier.

Her driver's license had been suspended four times, according to the officer.

She posted $300 bond and was released.

Over curb

Police impounded the 2014 Dodge Journey operated by a 27-year-old Detroit woman, arrested during a traffic stop on southbound Lakeshore near Willison at 2:10 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 7.

A patrolman pulled her over for veering onto a lawn and running a red light from southbound Vernier.

She failed field sobriety tests and registered an illegal .176 blood alcohol level, reported the officer.

Chase leads to lockdown

A vehicle chase by Michigan State Police troopers on Vernier ended with a crash at Harper Thursday, Nov. 5. The fleeing suspect's Pontiac van crashed with a Smart bus and then came to rest against a light pole. The driver of the van fled, forcing a chase through the neighborhood and lockdown of Poupard Elementary School as a precautionary measure. A St. Clair Shores resident with a Nixle subscription alerted police when he saw the suspect, matching the broadcast description. The suspect allegedly stole a bicycle and was arrested shortly after the call.

'A little bit'

The "insignificant" amount of marijuana residue found in a 32-year-old Detroit man's car during a traffic investigation at 11:39 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 4, confirmed the man's admission to possessing "a little bit" of the drug, according to a public safety officer.

The officer pulled him over on southbound Lakeshore near North Edgewood Drive for operating a 2008 Dodge Charger with a tinted windshield.

Police arrested him for violating two suspensions of his operator's license.

Watch your purse

An 83-year-old Farms resident said she was in the Kroger store on Mack at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 3, when she was distracted by another customer who asked her advice on some products. When the customer attempted to check out, her wallet was gone. She admitted to leaving her purse in the cart unattended. Police remind everyone to never leave purses or other valuables in the grocery cart.

Marijuana arrest

While on routine patrol at 11:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 6, at Harper and Allard, an officer observed a car with an expired license plate and initiated a traffic stop. The 26-year-old driver wasn't able to produce a valid driver's license, but did produce a small amount of marijuana and was taken into custody. Her 24-year-old passenger was turned over to Harper Woods police after a routine LEIN check showed she was wanted on a warrant out of Harper Woods.

Shot fired on Neff

By Brad Lindberg

CITY OF GROSSE POINTE — Three public safety officers responding to a wife's report of her drunken husband shooting a pistol inside their house and threatening murder did what first-responders do.

"(We) entered the house," reported Officer

Lisa Monticciolo.

They found the man, 60, on the floor of his bedroom intoxicated, Monticciolo added.

The incident occurred in the 300 block of Neff, City of Grosse Pointe, at 9:26 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 5.

The man obeyed orders to show his hands, empty of weapons.

He said his gun was in a nightstand.

"(He) stated he shot one round outside," Monticciolo reported.

That's less than what his wife, 53, and daughter, 17, allegedly told police upon their arrival outside the residence.

"(They) stated (he) was yelling at them to get out of the house or there would be a murder-suicide," Monticciolo reported.

Sgt. Ronald Sandzik recovered the weapon, a loaded .380 caliber with a round in the chamber, and 33 boxed bullets from within the nightstand, according to Monticciolo's account.

Another patrolman, Matthew Wallis, reportedly found a spent .380 casing between the nightstand and bed.

Officers arrested the man for a felony weapons violation and possession of a firearm while under the influence of liquor, according to the report.

At headquarters, he registered a .176 percent blood alcohol level, nearly twice the legal limit to operate a motor vehicle in Michigan, police said.

He's due for arraignment in City Municipal Court at 8:30 a.m.

Thursday, Nov. 19, on a charge of unlawful discharge of a weapon, according to a court administrator.

"He's being charged locally by the city prosecutor," said Detective Sgt. Christopher Lee.

Two officers recorded the encounter on their body cameras, according to police.

GROSSE POINTE FARMS — Fresh from reviving an unconscious, unbreathing man, two public safety officers filed paperwork urging his arrest for possession of heroin and related paraphernalia.

"We're going to charge him," said Detective Lt. Richard Rosati. "Whether the prosecutor will authorize it, we don't know."

GUEST OPINION

By Jessie Pauline Collins

Seeking support from neighboring communities

Last month, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission issued "Generic Environmental Impact Statement for License Renewal of Nuclear Plants Regarding Fermi Nuclear Power Plant," which is the next step in granting a license extension for the Fermi 2 reactor, 30 miles south of Detroit.

Fermi is the exact same model as the Fukushima Japan reactor, G.E.'s Mark 1, that suffered a melt-down almost five years ago, and life is far from being back to normal there. People in a 50-mile radius of the disaster were evacuated to refugee centers, not unlike the FEMA camps set up in our country after the Katrina hurricane.

Four years later, Japanese families have been allowed to go back to their homes up to a 25-mile radius of the melted reactor. Fukushima had just had its license extended before the meltdown. Now, even though the Fermi reactor is still shut down after a cooling water loss on Sept. 13, the NRC states they see no reason not to extend Fermi's license for an additional 20 years, which would make it expire in 2045 instead of 2025.

Even daily operations of Fermi 2 are degrading our environment. The water temperature by Fermi is 19 degrees higher than anywhere else on Lake Erie. In a one year study, the Fermi 2 intake sucked up 3,000 live fish and 64 million fish eggs and larvae. Tritium and radiation go out the smoke stacks and fall back on people, places, and things.

The NRC will hold another public comment meeting before issuing the license. That meeting will be held at Monroe Community College at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 2. I have no desire to sit through another meeting that is little more than a DTE pep rally.

I have already sat through too many meetings listening to the government tell lies about the safety of nuclear produced electricity. Fermi 2 is an aged reactor that needs to be shut down and the electricity replaced by a sustainable method. So I will stand outside of the meeting with a sign showing my opposition. And I invite all the endangered people in the 50-mile radius to come stand with me, but bring your own sign.

Collins is a resident of Redford.

Thank you

The Grosse Pointe communities and the Grosse Pointe public schools have always been strong partners in supporting the efforts of the Full Circle Foundation.

Because of these partnerships, we have been able to continue our efforts in improving the lives of the young people with special needs in our communities.

Once again, we asked and you responded. We have so many to thank for making our Oct. 29 Evening Under the Stars event at the Roostertail such a huge success. This evening was not only special, but also magical for our young people from beginning to end.

We must take a moment to extend our gratitude to those who made it all possible.

Our appreciation goes to our presenting sponsor, Art Van, and our additional sponsors, Gabel Financial, the offices of Howard & Howard Law, Red Crown, Kroger, Joe & Beth Moran and Ray Laethem Motor Village. The evening was made even more fabulous by the special touch of Mr. Tom Schoenith and the hardworking staff of the Roostertail, as their attention to detail was exceptional. The phenomenal donor list for our live and silent auctions spans many, and the delicious items donated for our live desert auction was second to none. The help of numerous volunteers sets the stage for our young adults to model, from hair and makeup to the fashions donated by area merchants. Certainly the evening could not have been complete without those who came out to support the event by dining and dancing the night away.

On behalf of the Board of Directors of the Full Circle Foundation, we extend our heartfelt gratitude to all those who continue to support our efforts in maintaining and developing the programs that make a difference in the lives of so many.

Thanks, II

I would like to thank those who supported my candidacy for Grosse Pointe Park city council and to all those who took the time to participate in the democratic process last Tuesday. Though I was not elected, I enjoyed the campaign experience and I look forward to remaining involved in our community.

Please join me in congratulating and supporting our new Park Mayor Bob Denner and Park council members John Chouinard, Dan Clark and Barb Detwiler. They will serve the Park well as Mayor Palmer Heenan and Mayor Greg Theokas did for so many years.

The annual Crossroads Soup Kitchen pre-Thanksgiving dinner takes place Sunday, Nov. 22 — the weekend before the holiday. As usual, we are expecting a large crowd of hungry men, women and children to visit the Soup Kitchen for their holiday meal. This year, as in the past, scores of our friends and relatives will donate and roast turkeys to be served at this dinner. However, we are in need of additional turkeys and hope our neighbors in the Grosse Pointes and surrounding communities will look into their hearts and make this very important, but relatively inexpensive, contribution.

Despite the recovering economy, the challenges in the city continue for those who have very few resources.

We have been associated with Crossroads for more than 20 years and the number of clients who do not have life's basics — enough food, adequate shelter and warm clothing — is very sad. And, the sight of a hungry child in a soup kitchen line is heart-breaking to all who witness it. Those of us with countless blessings must reach out to help those who have so little.

Anyone who is interested in participating in this very worthwhile effort by donating a cooked turkey may contact us by email at yolichas@comcast.net or by phone at (313) 886-8007. Thank you.

I SAY By Bob St. John

Athletes enjoy the fun of the game for The Miracle League of Michigan

I had the pleasure of watching a sporting event which put a smile on my face.

My oldest daughter and the members of her travel softball team, Michigan Outlaws 16U Schultz, volunteered their time Saturday, Oct. 17, for The Miracle League of Michigan softball game.

The teams played on a custom-designed, synthetic turf field which accommodates wheelchairs and other assistive devices while helping to prevent injuries.

The Miracle League of Michigan Director Steve Peck was the pitcher as the teams of girls and boys, as well as men and women, played 60 minute games.

Everyone bats each inning and it gives the players a chance to enjoy the game.

"We only play once a week in the fall, but in the summer we're going every evening out here," Peck said. "It's great to see the smiles on the players' faces."

Emma helped Punky, who is in a wheelchair. Emma helped Punky hit, run the bases and score a few runs in the two games. It was heartwarming to see the kids having a great time, smiling and laughing.

"We believe every child deserves a chance to play baseball and our organization does this with the help of a lot of volunteers," Peck said.

Members of the Detroit Tigers and Lions help, including Major League Baseball and local icon Miguel Cabrera.

"The point of the game is less about baseball and more about fun," Peck said. "The benefits gained by everyone involved are tremendous. The child's self-esteem grows, they make friends, become less isolated and "just become a regular kid, not a kid with a disability."

Emma's teammates who also volunteered their Saturday morning were Sarah Amenson, Julia Barrett, Courtney

Callahan, Lauren Castellon, Camryn Ciaramitaro, Shannon Gibbons, Rianna Koteles, Teresa Menzel, Mary Reeber, Chase Schultz, Brianna Larkin and Mary Zimmerman.

"It's a great way for our kids to pay it forward," Michigan Outlaws assistant coach Sandor Koteles said. "This was a nice day for the girls."

The girls will probably make it back to volunteer next fall.

The Miracle League of Michigan is now a program of Easter Seals Michigan.

according to Finn. Police noted secured weapons in the home, according to Rosati. Searches included the teen's bedroom and text messages on his cell phone. "Officers observed no threats (or) preparations for violent acts," reported one of them. They proceeded to the residence of the Park student, originally claiming the suspect left school early Thursday after an argument and threatened to return Friday intent on gunplay. "(The Park student) indicated he had not heard (the suspect) make any threats in school today," Finn reported Thursday night. Police didn't know until Friday afternoon the denial was false — "He didn't want to rat on a classmate," Rosati said — leaving them no basis to take the suspect into custody, according to Rosati.

but that's what we deliver to residents. My back would have to be up against a wall before I vote in favor of a park pass fee."

into consideration one-time expenditures and seasonal expenditures, and when compared to the same period last year. A long-term revenue concern continues to be lower sales of water filtered at the plant on Moross. "Water revenue is down for the first quarter compared to last year by $147,335," Lamerato said. Wet weather, mild temperatures and consumer water conservation, such as from more efficient washing machines, combine to reduce water sales for irrigating lawns and household use. "July and August consumption were lower than our budget estimate," Lamerato said. From recent peak sales of 83.4 million cubic feet during fiscal year 2005-06, water purchases averaged 58.45 mcf in fiscal years 2013-14 and 2014-15, or 31 percent less. Lower consumption doesn't mean lower prices. In recent years, Farms officials raised water rates to cover increased fixed costs of operating and maintaining the plant and delivery network. "We will continue to closely monitor our actual consumption to our budget estimate," Lamerato said.

grandson, 25, of Grosse Pointe Woods, "acting strange" upon bringing her lunch Tuesday, Nov. 3, and going upstairs. She found him unconscious on the bathroom floor and called 911 at 1:22 p.m. Officer Tim Harris and Sgt. John Bruno, arriving ahead of medics, found him "unresponsive, cyanotic, did not appear to be breathing and had a pulse," Harris reported. "(He) was unresponsive to sternal rub."

Officers kept at it. They rolled him on his back and opened an airway. "(He) began breathing and was in and out of consciousness," Harris said. "I observed a fresh injection mark in the crease of his right elbow." Medics took over while officers collected evidence. "(I) located a bundle of heroin on the bathroom windowsill," Harris said. "Two syringes were recovered from the linen closet in the bathroom." Medics took him to a hospital. "Drug addicts are in their own private hell," Rosati said.

DRONE:

over your backyard pool. "This is a rapidly evolving area in the law," City Attorney Chip Berschback told members of the city council meeting as the committee of the whole. "No city in Michigan has adopted an ordinance, but many are discussing it." According to Berschback, the Federal Aviation Authority is drafting drone regulations, including registration of drones by their owners. The Michigan legislature has already passed two regulations, one banning hunting with drones and the other banning drones from harassing hunters or fishermen.

Both bills were signed into law by Gov. Rick Snyder. But of bigger concern to the council was the effect drones could have on local neighborhoods and parks. "Drones will be hot toys for Christmas," said Mayor Robert Novitke, "and we should be looking at their use before it becomes a problem." Of concern is not the good work drones could be used for, such as chasing geese from municipal parks or tracking suspects during a police chase — as was done recently with a drone owned by Grosse Pointe Shores — but how intrusive a drone with a camera could be or how they could impact flight patterns for medical helicopters approaching local hospitals.

There also was concern as how to separate commercial drones, being used more frequently by real estate firms and contractors, from hobbyists, especially children, with cameras being the main concern. Councilwoman Vicki Granger was in favor of some regulation of drone owners, noting the city requires dog licenses. Rich Shetler was in favor of staying in line with any FAA regulations. "My concern would be that anything else would be over-regulation," he said. "But anything from the FAA would be a good starting point." While the council took no action on enacting an ordinance, Novitke asked Berschback to monitor any actions taken by the FAA and to bring information back to the council after the first of the year.

GP women honored for fight against cancer

By Jody McVeigh
Community Editor

Wednesday, Oct. 28, the Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute recognized individuals and organizations, including two Grosse Pointe residents, for their efforts in raising awareness of breast cancer, early detection, treatment and survivorship.

The 2015 Heroes of Breast Cancer Leadership Award was presented to Woods resident Michelle Tubbs and the Geri Lester Courage Award was presented to Park resident Kathy Mulheron.

Strength and hope

Mulheron began her career as a registered nurse in 1980 on a regular surgical unit. Working as a recovery room nurse, she supported many patients during their most challenging times.

The tables turned in 1998 when she was diagnosed with breast cancer. She underwent surgery and chemotherapy and began working again in 1999 at a same-day surgery center.

"I'd do a lot of breast cancer surgeries there and was able to take care of a lot of those patients," she said. "It felt really good when I was able to share my story with others. It gave them a sense they could get through it, too."

Mulheron was a source of hope for patients even before her diagnosis and treatment, but having experienced it all first-hand gave her the realization she could still inspire and uplift by sharing her success story. Mulheron retired from nursing in 2014. She has volunteered for events such as Race for the Cure and Making Strides for Breast Cancer and said she hopes to get involved again in the future.

The Geri Lester Courage Award, honoring an individual whose battle with breast cancer has been an inspiration to family, friends and the community, was a surprise to Mulheron and at first she felt she didn't deserve it.

"It came out of the blue," she said. "I've embraced the award now, but ... I had so many people who were behind me and I thought, 'I don't deserve this. It belongs to somebody else.' But with the support of my family and friends, I'm thrilled," she said. "This award is amazing. I'm very proud of the award."

A proper platform

Tubbs was diagnosed in 2007 with breast cancer. After undergoing extensive treatments, she was pronounced cancer-free. However, she felt something was missing.

"I did the medicinal part, the chemo, the drugs," she said. "But my emotional side really needed support. I was supposed to pick up the pieces and move on, but it wasn't that easy. I felt I was alone."

In 2008, Tubbs became affiliated with the Young Survival Coalition, a national support group for young people with breast cancer. There wasn't a local chapter, so she started one. The group meets 7 to 9 p.m. the second Tuesday of each month at the Van Elslander Cancer Center and sees 10 to 20 women every meeting. The group hosts occasional guest speakers, but also allows people to speak openly among themselves.

"It gives you a sense of peace, a sense of comfort in your belly to know that you are not alone," Tubbs said. "As I went to meetings and there were new people, I was able to give back and offer advice. That was a whole new way of healing for me. It's a circle of support — you are taking and you are giving and it's constant. To have that there, ready to support you, is so nice."

In addition to the group, Tubbs organizes fundraisers, takes part in the breast cancer fundraiser Festival of Tables, leads a team at the Susan G. Komen Detroit Race for the Cure and other events.

Tubbs was cancer-free until 2013, when she was rediagnosed with extensive breast cancer metastases to her brain, liver, lungs, bones, ovaries and eye. She's been in constant treatment ever since.

"I'm plugging along," she said, adding January 2014 was a low point for her. She was hospitalized with chemo-induced pancreatitis. "That was the most scared I'd ever been through all of this. But I made a decision I was going to power through and hope for the best."

A friend suggested she

Sally Laux Murphy didn't let anything stop her from doing what she wanted. Whether traveling — to France, Ireland, Korea, Taiwan, Thailand and other locations — or taking on adventures — riding an elephant, kayaking Lake Michigan, whale watching in Alaska — she made the most of every moment of her life.

Especially when people told her she couldn't.

Sally Murphy lived with multiple sclerosis for two-thirds of her life. She was diagnosed at age 18 and passed away in June at age 52. The years in between were filled with much love and many adventures.

"She was remarkable," her husband, Paul Murphy, said. "She never wanted MS to define her or limit her. She had lots of dreams and plans. She was optimistic, a fighter."

The Murphys, who grew up near Washington, D.C., met in high school, but didn't date until after college. They married in 1988, then moved with their young daughter, Natalie, to Michigan in 1999.

"Grosse Pointe became home for Sally and me," Murphy said. "We really fell in love with the community."

"By the time we moved here, she was using an electric scooter," he continued. "She'd go out in any kind of weather. She used it like it was a snowmobile or motorcycle. A lot of people would see her up and down Kercheval; she was always a fixture in the community."

He said people who knew Sally talked about her smile and many admired her sense of adventure.

When they were 26, they hopped on a tandem bicycle and rode across the country, dipping the rear tire in the Atlantic Ocean and front tire in the Pacific Ocean.

"People told her she couldn't do it because she had MS," Murphy said. "I proposed to her on that trip."

When Sally Murphy's physical disabilities started to limit her later in life, she surprised her husband by telling him

she wanted to write a children's book — and she wanted the proceeds to go to LitWorld, an organization founded by her Amherst College roommate, Pam Allyn, that promotes literacy around the world.

"We worked on the book together," Murphy said, explaining his wife dictated it to him. They spent a year revising and rewriting lines. It took another year to illustrate the book. Jackson native Chelsea Nebelung, a graduate of the College for Creative Studies, worked with Sally Murphy via email to come up with artwork for each page.

"It was a fascinating process," Murphy said. "She was self-published in March. It was a wonderful day for Sally."

"Silly Sally Goes to the Zoo" is about a young girl who goes on a whimsical adventure, visiting zoo animals in alphabetical order. The girl is in a wheelchair, but the author didn't want the disability to be the story's focus. "There are very few children's books where the main character is disabled, especially where the disability doesn't stop them from doing what they want to do," Murphy said. "It's very fun to read the rhymes aloud. There's a fun rhythm to them. The vocabulary is fun, too. It will challenge kids."

More than 400 copies have sold since March. It's available online at lulu.com, as well as at The League Shop, Notre Dame Pharmacy, Fresh Farms Market and the Beaumont Hospital, Grosse Pointe gift shop. "She always bristled when people were saying she was an inspiration," Murphy said. "She never understood that. She'd say, 'I'm not trying to be an inspiration; I'm just trying to live my life.' But she was inspiring to many people."

tant to not just go home after a doctor's appointment and not take care of yourself. This gave me a sense of control, that I could do more to take care of myself. I had the power in my hands to do more than just take the drugs."
Tubbs admits she was in a funk when she was told about winning the Karmanos Leadership Award, but thinking about giving a speech — having a platform to share her strength and hope — brought her out of it.
"I needed to talk about the importance of integrative medicine to everyone," she said. "It's such an important thing to me. It helped me tolerate the drugs I was getting. So that was my epiphany from it all. I had that platform where I could voice that and speak out. It was perfect timing."
In her acceptance speech, Tubbs said she was honored to be recognized and to have the chance to share her story. "It's not for attention," she said. "I care about the awareness. It's very important to me. I have learned to enjoy every single beautiful precious moment I am blessed to be on this earth Today I feel good. The tumors are still there, but all that matters is I feel strong."

Crosspointe hosts Refugee Crisis Response Day

By Jody McVeigh
Community Editor

Members of Crosspointe Christian Church, 21336 Mack, Grosse Pointe Woods, want to help raise the community's awareness of the refugee crisis overseas. To do so, the church is partnering with Samaritan's Purse to offer Refugee Crisis Response Day, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 21.

The free, interactive event is designed to inform the community of the plight of European refugees and to inspire people to respond to the crisis. The event includes live action and interactive displays, as well as speakers giving firsthand accounts of their experiences as refugees.

"It's an awareness day of the whole refugee crisis," said Becky Coplan, event organizer. "We have 50 people helping and we've invited all the local churches."

Refugees from war-torn countries such as Syria, Iraq and Afghanistan are fleeing across Europe in hopes of building new lives, leaving all of their belongings behind.

"It's the biggest refugee crisis since World War II," Coplan said.

Crosspointe formed a partnership with Samaritan's Purse to respond. Samaritan's Purse has missionaries in Greece, Hungary, Croatia, Macedonia and Serbia who bring relief through food, dry clothing, hygiene products, medical treatment and clean water. Through Refugee Crisis Response Day, Crosspointe hopes the community will get involved to further the mission.

"Many people want to help these people who have walked away from their whole life ... because it's not safe to be where they live," Coplan said.

During the event, the church hosts a simulation of a refugee camp in its basement with tents and the kind of food refugees may have to eat. The simulation, Coplan said, is "good for kids to understand this is what's going on across the ocean."

The event also includes a Samaritan's Purse giving tree, on which tags of suggested donations hang. Donations range from $4 for a week's supply of milk for a baby to $300, which covers emergency supplies for a family of five for one week. A tag for $35,000 for a new hospital also hangs from the tree.

There are 20 tag options, Coplan said, and people also will be able to donate online at the event. The following day's worship service also involves the call for help.

"Our goal ... is that people will be praying for people," Coplan said, "that they'll set aside and make a small sacrifice on that day."

She suggested cutting back on grandiose Thanksgiving meals or giving children one less Christmas gift and giving that savings to Samaritan's Purse instead.

"As parents, we need to think outside of our families and the abundance we have," she said. "On Thanksgiving, a lot of people here will have nice meals with their families. Over there they wonder where they're going to sleep."

Crosspointe missionaries have made trips to Paraguay for five summers and have done medical clinics, but more plans could be made to help overseas.

"We will be exploring mission opportunities over there," Coplan said.

While Refugee Crisis Response Day is significant to the church, it is just one of many activities in which Crosspointe is involved. Organizers still plan to host LifeBUILDERS, Detroit Rescue Mission and Operation Christmas Child events this holiday season.

"This is just extra," Coplan said of the refugee event. "There's no end date for us. It's just the beginning. It's all about giving glory to God."

The church plans to collect a "love offering" the week of the event, Coplan said. All money benefits Samaritan's Purse to further its efforts.

St. Paul Ev. Lutheran collects items

St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church, 375 Lothrop, Grosse Pointe Farms, serves as a collection site for Operation Christmas Child, the world's largest Christmas project of its kind.

The annual Samaritan's Purse project is a favorite of many Grosse Pointe residents, families, churches and groups who spread joy to children around the world by filling shoeboxes with a "wow" item, like a doll or soccer ball, as well as other fun toys, school supplies, hygiene items and notes of encouragement.

During National Collection Week, Monday, Nov. 16, to Monday, Nov. 23, anyone can drop off a gift-filled shoebox to send to a

ASK THE EXPERTS By Nancy Ajemian M.D.

Is it safe to send children to school with cold symptoms?

Q: If my children have a high fever, but no other symptoms, should I still send them to school?

A: If a child has had a fever within the last 24 hours, he or she should stay home from school. Fevers indicate the body is fighting some type of illness, so allow your child time to rest until the fever has subsided. Once it has passed and your child feels well enough to return to school, you do not need to keep him or her home.

Q: I kept my daughter home from school today because she has a cough and runny nose. I took her temperature, but she doesn't have a fever. Is it safe to send her to school tomorrow?

A: Without a fever, your child can go to school with these symptoms, as long as she is feeling well enough. Many conditions, such as the common cold, do not necessarily require keeping your child home from school. However, if the condition seems potentially contagious, it is best to have your child remain home to prevent infecting other children.

Q: I have two children. If one of them is vomiting and has flu-like symptoms, as a precaution, should I keep both of them home from school?

A: No. It is not necessary to keep both children home in this situation. If only one of your children is experiencing these symptoms, keep that child home from school. If your other child is showing no signs of illness, there is no reason to keep him or her home. However, because the illness potentially may be contagious, it is important to monitor the conditions of both children.

Q: Kids pass infections to each other easily. What are some precautions I can take to minimize the chances of my child getting ill?

A: First, support a well-enforced school policy of not allowing sick children to attend. Teach your child to wash their hands and remind them to do so between activities and before eating throughout the day. You also can take steps to keep your child's immune system as strong as possible to help fight off infection by offering a variety of good foods.

Getting enough rest and exercise every day is also important, along with getting all the recommended immunizations on the appropriate schedule to help prevent serious infections.

Authors' event features Woods woman

Four Michigan authors discuss their inspiration for creativity and their publications during an authors' roundtable, hosted by the Association for Women in Communications Detroit Chapter.

Authors include Pat Anstett of Grosse Pointe Woods, Joanne Gerstner of Lansing, Laura Hedgecock of Farmington Hills and Maureen McDonald of Southfield.

During her 40 years as a newspaper reporter in Chicago, Washington, D.C., and Detroit, Anstett covered the nation's top women's health stories, with breast cancer being a dominant focus of her reporting. Her book, "Breast Cancer Surgery and Reconstruction: What is Right for You," is a culmination of years of extensive research and includes insights from women who have undergone breast surgery and reconstruction.

Gerstner is an award-winning multiplatform sports journalist and commentator on sports and women's issues. Her book, "Concussion Clarity," examines how concussions manifest.

Hedgecock is an author, freelance writer, speaker and blogger. Her book, "Memories of Me: A Complete Guide to Telling and Sharing the Stories of Your Life," helps people choose memories and stories to share with loved ones. Longtime writer

6B | CHURCHES

PASTOR'S CORNER By the Rev. Jim Rizer

Come as you are

It's important to make a good first impression. With that in mind, I wore the best clothes I had to my admissions interview at Rhodes College. As a child of divorce with a mom with a creative flair, it was one memorable outfit. I wore brown slacks, a purple button-down shirt, a yellow sock tie (after all, it was 1985) with two partial blue stripes and three partial pink ones, a white belt and white shoes, all topped off with a tan corduroy jacket with patches on the elbows.

As wacky as this ensemble was, I am convinced it helped tip the balance in my acceptance as it suggested I was this creative, artsy type who would round out the incoming freshman class. These clothes painted a picture of someone far different than I actually was.

I entered college with a suspicion this unintentional deception would be discovered and I didn't really belong. During the opening convocation, the college president spoke of the accolades of the incoming freshman class: "70 percent of you are either valedictorians or salutatorians." With these words, I was convinced I didn't belong and it would only be a matter of time until I was found out.

I wonder if this isn't how many of those who first followed Jesus felt. Amazed by His teaching and miraculous healings, they began to follow. Outsiders, the imperfect and the wounded, all drawing near Jesus, many wondering if they would be discovered, if they truly belonged.

Into this reality Jesus opens the Sermon on the Mount with the beatitudes. "Blessed are the poor in spirit ... Blessed are those who mourn ... Blessed are the meek ..." (Matt. 5:2-12). It seems like Jesus is scanning the crowd and describing their realities and saying these blessings and His kingdom are for them. They aren't in the wrong place; they belong.

Jesus invites them and us to come as we are. His graceful welcome meets us where we are and His transforming love dares us to open ourselves to a healing and a wholeness that once seemed unimaginable.

Rizer is the senior pastor at Living Hope Evangelical Church. Visit LivingHopeEC.org.

First English has dinner theater production

The L.I.F.E. PLAYERS at First English Lutheran Church present "Meet Me in St. Louis" in the Luther Center Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 13, 14 and 15.

This Broadway musical drama, with music and lyrics by Hugh Martin and Ralph Blane and book by Hugh Wheeler, is the tale of the Smith family from St. Louis, Mo., involving family dynamics, sibling rivalry and dreams of the future. Musical favorites include "Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas," "The Trolley Song" and "Meet Me In St. Louis, Louie!"

The program includes an optional dinner at 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday, followed by the show at 7 p.m. The Sunday matinee begins at 2 p.m. with no dinner offered.

Admission for the dinner and show is $18, $13 for students; show-only tickets are $10, $7 for students. Dinner and show tickets must be ordered and paid for in advance by calling the church at (313) 884-5040. Show-only tickets may be purchased in advance or at the door.

OBITUARIES

Obituary notices are purchased and often prewritten by family or friends. While we try to run obituaries as submitted, we nevertheless reserve the right to edit for accuracy, style and length.

Dana Malchie Sutton

Dana Malchie Sutton, 67, passed away peacefully Saturday, Oct. 24, 2015, at her home in the mountains of Evergreen, Colo., after a brief illness.

She was the proud mother of Patrick Sutton Ph.D., and sister of Deane Preston of Grosse Pointe. She was the beloved "Auntie Dana" to nieces, Cammie Preston and Nan Choi (Henry); nephew, Lou Preston Jr. (Christina) and their loving children. She also is survived by lifelong friends and myriad adoring students whose lives she touched deeply.

She was predeceased by her mother, Winifred Malchie.

Before graduating from Grosse Pointe High School in 1966, Dana attended Richard Elementary School and Brownell Junior High School where she was the first female elected student council president. She earned a degree in education from Michigan State University, where she was affiliated with Alpha Phi Sorority and was a Sweetheart of Sigma Chi. She was a proud supporter of MSU football and basketball throughout her life from her home in Colorado. She later completed a master's degree in clinical psychology.

Dana spent her 40-year teaching career at Jefferson County Open School in Denver, where she nurtured students to appreciate and understand Shakespeare's works line by line as they discovered the deeper subtleties of his plays. She received the Colorado Governor's Award for Excellence in Education. Dana accompanied students on numerous cultural trips throughout Europe and the United States. She also served as a college counselor.

Driven by her love of film, she attended the Sundance Film Festival yearly with groups of students, friends and family.

Dana was a flamboyant character with an effervescent spirit and generous soul. She was a champion of the underdog. She was known for her signature hats, ballet slippers and passion for Chinese food. She was a patron of the arts who loved film and theater, but her son's classical guitar concerts were her greatest joy. Dana left an indelible impression on those who knew her.

Donations may be made in her name to Jefferson County Open School, 7655 W. 10th Avenue, Lakewood, CO 80214.

Margaret Mary Chariot

Longtime Grosse Pointe resident Margaret Mary Corbett Chariot, 87, passed away peacefully Friday, Nov. 6, 2015, at St. John Hospital and Medical Center in Detroit, surrounded by her family.

Margaret was born Feb. 17, 1928, in Detroit to William and Olive Maskill (nee Steinmetz) and graduated from Marygrove College. She worked as a teacher and for the U.S. Social Security Administration.

She was married to Edward Corbett and John Chariot, both of whom predeceased her. She is survived by her sons, Terrence Corbett, Timothy Corbett (Martha) and Patrick Corbett (Jody); daughter, Mary Beth Anderson (Daniel); 18 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

She also is survived by her brother, William Maskill.

In addition to her husbands and parents, she was predeceased by her children, Michael Corbett, Karen Colton and Kevin Corbett and her brothers, Gerald and Donald Maskill.

Margaret was a Life Master bridge player, a devout Catholic, with a great sense of humor and a contagious laugh. She was bright, strong and loved her family unconditionally. She will be missed by those who knew her.

A celebration of her life was held Nov. 10 at Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church, Grosse Pointe Woods.

Donations may be made to Catholic Relief

Services at crs.org or Capuchin Soup Kitchen, 1820 Mt. Elliott, Detroit, MI 48207 or at cskdetroit.org.

Margaret Quish Durkin

Margaret Quish Durkin passed away Saturday, Oct. 31, 2015, at home surrounded by family.

Born Aug. 7, 1931, in Chicago to Irish immigrants, "Peg" grew up in Sterling, Ill., and graduated from the University of Illinois in 1953. She worked as a social worker for the American Red Cross and Children's Memorial Hospital of Chicago until her marriage to James A. Durkin in 1959.

While raising her children in Grosse Pointe, she worked on a master's degree in child development at Wayne State University and taught elementary school. Later in life, she started an antiques business, "Dunryleague Shop," in honor of her Irish homestead.

Through frequent family visits, Peg maintained close ties with her many Quish cousins in Ireland. In retirement, she and her husband divided their time between Ann Arbor and Sarasota, Fla.

Her family said she was loved by many for her quick laugh, kind words and Shakespeare quotes.

Peg is survived by her husband, Jim; children, Tom Durkin (Laura), Erin Durkin and Carey Treado (Patrick) and grandchildren, Kelsy, Grace, Jack, Katherine, Jackson, James, Conor and Josie.

In addition to her parents, she was predeceased by her sister, Irene Lodge and brothers, Thomas and Martin Quish.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Nov. 7 at St. Bede Church, Pittsburgh.

Donations may be made to the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation, Metro Detroit/Southeast Michigan Chapter, 24359 Northwestern Highway, No. 225, Southfield, MI 48075 or at jdrf.org.

Veterans Garden recognized Woods author to present

The Veterans Garden, sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Garden Center, recently received a "Michigan Award" from Keep Michigan Beautiful Inc., an affiliate of Keep America Beautiful. An engraved plaque awarded for outstanding contribution to beautification was presented at an awards ceremony in Frankenmuth Oct. 16.

The Veterans Garden is located on the grounds of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. The garden provides a solemn place for reflection and serves as a permanent reminder of the sacrifices veterans have made.

However, the garden area has not always been the beautiful, flourishing space it is now. For many decades, an elm tree graced the center of the former Hillside Garden. When it succumbed to Dutch elm disease, shade-loving plants that grew under its protection perished. Weeds and invasive grasses took over and the garden became unrecognizable.

COURTESY PHOTO

From left, Jean Azar, Alaine Bush, Marieke Allen and Adrienne Gregory accepted a Michigan Award on behalf of the Veterans Garden from Henry Fischer, executive director of Keep Michigan Beautiful Inc.

In 2008, Grosse Pointe Garden Center leadership and Grosse Pointe War Memorial staff planned to renovate the hillside garden. There were no funds available at the time, so a call for volunteer help was issued. In 2009, two Michigan State University Extension Advanced Master Gardeners undertook the task of rescuing the garden, volunteering time and expertise.

By spring 2012, the garden was thriving. A Veterans Garden Committee was formed and a Commemorative Veterans Garden Path was created providing fundraising through the sale of personalized engraved brick pavers honoring veterans with a Grosse Pointe connection. On Veterans Day, Nov. 11, 2012, the garden was officially dedicated as "The Veterans Garden."

Since then, the garden has undergone several renovation phases, including the installation of two paver paths with memorial benches for seating, retaining wall repair, sprinkler system upgrade, tree and shrub pruning and removal, as well as the purchase of plant materials selected for site and pollinator appropriateness.

Volunteers maintain the garden as well as provide support for garden promotion and fundraising. More than 650 volunteer hours have been spent in the garden since 2009.

The award and improvements in the garden would not be possible without financial support from donors.

Veterans Garden brochures with information about donating or purchasing personalized brick pavers may be found in the mailbox located in the garden, in the War Memorial office, online at gpgardenctr@warmemorial.org or by calling the Garden Center office at (313) 881-7511, Ext. 206.

NEED A SECOND OPINION ON YOUR PORTFOLIO?

- Disappointed by your performance?
- Haven't heard from your advisor?
- Do you know what you own, why you own it AND what you're paying for?

If you've found yourself pondering any of these questions, then a quick chat and a cup of coffee may be what you need.

I invite you to come in and sit with me for a while. I'll ask you to outline your financial goals – what your investment portfolio is intended to do for you. Then I'll review the portfolio for and with you.

If I think your investments are well-suited to your long term goals – in spite of the current market turmoil – I'll gladly tell you so, and send you on your way. If, on the other hand, I think some of your investments do not fit with your goals, I'll explain why, in plain English. And, if you like, I'll recommend some alternatives.

Either way, the coffee is on me.
It's a no obligation, free consultation.

Please feel free to call to set aside time for you-weekday, weeknight or Saturday.

South wins title; North nets third

By Bob St. John
 Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South and Grosse Pointe North girls' swimming and diving teams competed in last weekend's Macomb Area Conference Red Division Championship Meet at Romeo.

The Blue Devils have owned this meet during head coach Eric Gunderson's tenure, but they were edged out in the dual meet standings this season by Utica Eisenhower.

Gunderson's squad was prepared for the rematch and it wasn't close as South won the title with 403 points to only 317 for Eisenhower.

First-year head coach Alison Scarfone and Grosse Pointe North took third with 182 points, followed by Chippewa Valley with 161 and Romeo with 140.

In the opening event, the 200-yard medley relay, South was second and fourth, while North was third.

The Blue Devils' second-place team of Sarah McCabe, Claire Young, Clarice Fisher and Sarah Cauvel had a time of 1:54.66 and the fourth-place quartet of Gigi Bonnell, Kaitlin Malley, Roslyn Vern and Madeline Keane had a time of 2:02.66.

The Norsemen's squad of Sam Villani, Hannah Mattes, Julia Gehlert and Bella Gallant turned in a time of 1:56.97.

In the 200-yard freestyle, South's Ava Boutrous was second, while Renne Liu was fourth and McCabe fifth with times of 1:57.09, 2:01.08 and 2:04.40.

North's Angelina Cavaliere took ninth with a time of 2:10.43.

Young of South was the winner in the 200-yard individual medley with a time of 2:10.00 and Fisher was third with a time of 2:17.47.

For North, Gallant took

12th with a time of 2:40.26 and it was Olivia Asimakis who placed sixth in the 50-yard freestyle with a time of 25.83.

For the Blue Devils in the 50-yard freestyle, Brigit Jogan was third with a time of 25.48, followed by Abbey Schuetze, fourth at 25.52, and Jackie DeLoof, fifth at 25.70.

The diving competition was close at the top with Eisenhower junior Andrea Bugariu earning 489.95 points to win and Romeo junior Sophia Tsafantakis finishing second with 423.45 points.

North's Isabelle Nguyen was third and Josephine Bennett ninth with 370.95 and 219.00 points, respectively.

For South, Rachel Rogers finished seventh with 285.45 points.

It was South's Schuetze and North's Asimakis taking first and second in the 100-yard butterfly, posting times of 59.51 and 59.53, respectively. It went down to the final reach and Schuetze won by a fingertip.

Vern, Jogan and Liu took fourth, fifth and sixth to give the Blue Devils bonus points.

In the 100-yard freestyle, North's Villani was third with a time of 55.03, while South's McCabe and Cauvel took fifth and sixth with times of 55.84 and 57.29.

South's Boutrous won the 500-yard freestyle by 15 seconds. She had a time of 5:06.09 and teammates Avery Westfall and Keane took fourth and sixth with times of 5:43.54 and 5:48.09.

North's Stephanie Shea was 12th with a time of 6:11.15.

The Blue Devils won the 200-yard freestyle relay as Jogan, Olivia Frederickson, Schuetze and DeLoof had a time of 1:42.01, while the Norsemen's Cavaliere, Mattes, Olivia Peruzzi and Asimakis placed third with a time of 1:47.94.

Once again Young flexed her muscles, winning the 100-yard backstroke with a time of 55.68, while Villani was second at 58.81.

South's Cauvel and Bonnell placed fourth and sixth, and Gehlert of North took fifth to add to their respective team's point total.

Mattes of North placed fourth in the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1:15.23 and South's Malley and Fisher took fifth and sixth with times of 1:15.25 and 1:16.29, respectively.

In the final event, the 400-yard freestyle relay, South placed second as Liu, Schuetze, McCabe and Young had a time of 3:41.12, and North's quartet of Cavaliere, Asimakis, Gehlert and Villani took third at 3:50.23.

South falls in districts

By Sam Meads
 Special Writer

After a strong defensive showing in the first half by the Grosse Pointe South football team, it couldn't withstand the high-powered offense from Detroit East English Village in the second half Friday night, losing 28-3.

Early on, East English was able to pick up a 31- and 20-yard run by running back Nathaniel Boleware before the Blue Devils adjusted and stopped them three straight plays to force a punt.

South was able to dominate the time of possession the rest of the quarter by going on a 17-play drive, which lasted more than nine minutes.

The drive was capped off by a field goal from sophomore kicker Cameron Shook to give the Blue Devils a 3-0 lead after one quarter.

East English went on a 17-play drive, but junior quarterback Delvin Washington was stuffed at the 1-yard line on a fourth-and-goal in the second quarter.

Junior quarterback Logan Mico rolled out and delivered a strike deep down field on the ensuing drive, but it was brought back because of a holding call in the end zone, which resulted in a safety to make it a 3-2 game at the half.

In the second half, South made some self-inflicted mistakes, which let East English take control of the game.

The Blue Devils' first drive of the second half ended after a Mico interception, which led to a touchdown nine plays later to give East English an 8-3 lead.

East English was able to contain Mico for most of the night, holding him to 6-of-15 passing for 48 yards and 68 yards rushing on 16 carries.

South turned it over again on the drive, fumbling a center snap.

Washington aired it out on the first play for a touchdown to make it 14-3 East English.

After South's offense stalled again, Washington aired out another 36-yard touchdown pass to pretty much close out the Blue Devils' season.

The Bulldogs were able to add one more touchdown on another pass downfield.

South finished its season 7-4.

GROSSE POINTE SOUTH

Piccione runs to All-State honor

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

It wasn't a top 10 finish, but the Grosse Pointe South girls' cross country team still placed in the top half of last weekend's Division 1 state championship meet at Michigan International Speedway.

Head coach Steve Zaranek watched his Blue Devils finish 13th with 369 points out of 27 teams.

"We earned our position and hit our goals," Zaranek said. "We were going after a top half finish and made it. We raced extremely well, fought hard, and met our expectations.

"This is how our girls have raced all season long — supporting on each other, pushing each other, and loving every moment.

Birmingham Seaholm won the title with 90 points, followed by Brighton with 136, Highland-Milford with 149, Northville with 150, Saline with 186, Waterford Mott with 211, Rockford with 291, Ann Arbor Pioneer with 301, Traverse City Central with 303, Pinckney with 320, Clarkston with 346 and Rochester Adams with 352.

For the Blue Devils, senior Anna Piccione finished her high school career with a time of 18:28.3 to place 18th. In addition, she made All-State.

Sophomore Abby Hurst was 42nd with a time of 18:55.7 and junior Reanna Raymond was 66th with a time of 19:32.3.

Other scorers were junior Katie Kuhr and freshman Abbey Guevara, who finished 109th and 134th with times of 19:51.4 and 20:19.2.

South runners, far right, take off at the starting line of the Division 1 state championship meet at MIS.

The Blue Devils' other varsity runners were junior Kamryn Leonard and senior Natasha Boelstler, who had times of 20:30.4 and 20:45.6, respectively.

Head coach Mark Sonnenberg had two boys compete, too, in the boys' state finals meet.

Senior Earl Allard finished 201st with a time of 17:13.8 and senior Ethan Sloan was 209th with a time of 17:17.5. The overall champion of the boys' race was senior Isaac Harding of Rockford, who posted a time of 15:10.4.

The University Liggett girls' cross country team placed 15th in last weekend's Division 4 state championship meet at Michigan International Speedway.

Mount Pleasant Sacred Heart easily won the state title, earning 52 points, while Harbor Springs was the runner-up with 119 points.

Head coach Lindsey

Bachman watched her Knights finish with 385 points and they were led by freshman Izzy Brusilow, who finished 40th with a time of 20:33.1.

The Knights' other scorers were senior Julia Zehetmair, 109th with a time of 21:58.9; sophomore Annelies Ondersma, 115th with a time of 22:13.8; junior Maddie Wu, 140th with a time of 22:39.1; and senior Madison Jerome, 158th with a time of 23:03.1.

Freshman Mila Filipof and junior Sarah Galbenski also ran for the varsity team and had times of 23:20.9 and 26:34.2, respectively.

The boys' squad also ran in the state finals and placed 25th with 608 points.

Saugatuck won with 51 points.

For the Knights, junior Nick Brusilow led the team with his time of 18:44.8 and 150th place. Sophomore Michael Ellis was 165th with a time of 18:56.9, while freshman Billy Kopicki was 170th with a time of 19:03.5.

Sophomore Andrew Loner and senior Anthony Galea also scored points for the team, finishing 186th and 209th with times of 19:21.9 and 20:02.6.

Sophomores Alex Johnson and Tate Kuelling also ran in the finals and posted times of 20:07.9 and 21:41.1, respectively.

GROSSE POINTE NORTH

Norsemen compete

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

The Grosse Pointe North girls' cross country team finished in 27th place with 699 points in last weekend's Division 1 state championship meet at Michigan International Speedway.

Birmingham Seaholm won the state title with 90 points. Rounding out the top three were Brighton with 136 and Milford with 149.

Head coach Scott Cooper and his Norsemen were led by sophomore Lauren Sickmiller, who finished 59th with a time of 19:25.2.

Senior Sydney Benson was 144th and freshman Michaela Cosgrove was 148th with times of 20:28.5 and 20:32, and their teammates, freshman Julia McLellan and senior Katelyn Carney, finished 171st and 177th with times of 21:10.9 and 21:32.2.

Sophomore Kate Wozniak and junior Erinne Lubienski also ran for the Norsemen and had times of 21:50.4 and 22:07.5.

North had one boy run in the boys' state title meet, freshman William Hofmann.

He was 167th with a time of 16:58.4, just ahead of Ryan Mulcahy of Lake Orion, Charles Zhou of Rochester Adams and Derek Sanchez of Hudsonville, who had times of 16:58.5, 16:58.7 and 16:58.9.

North, South & Liggett win titles

Norsemen crush Shorians

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Ever since Grosse Pointe North girls' volleyball team beat Macomb Dakota, it has been reaching higher.

Last weekend, North took another giant step after beating host St. Clair Shores Lake Shore 25-16, 25-17, 25-17 in a Division 1 district championship match.

"We needed the confidence to play our best and ever since the Dakota game, the girls played well," head coach Chelsea Brozo said. "We did our homework with Lake Shore and played well after a great day of practice."

The Shorians, playing without its best player, senior Natalie VanDerHaegen, were no match for the Norsemen in every phase of the game.

The Norsemen's power game was in full force as senior Erin Armbruster, junior Katie Snow and sophomore Meredith Kraus were unstoppable.

Juniors Stephanie Roy and Julia Sniezek played stellar defense and senior Lucy Dodge gave her teammates perfect sets.

A long string of serving points from Armbruster turned game two into a rout and it was senior Lauren Lesha's top-notch serving that won game three.

Dodge finished with 41 assists and Roy had 18 digs and two aces.

Offensively, Snow had 15 kills, followed by Kraus with 10 and Armbruster with five. Sophomore Abby Kanakry had a couple of kills, as did junior Mackenzie Simon.

The other varsity members who earned a medal were sophomore Anna Post, senior Ryann Dunkeson, sophomore Kirstin Bessette and sophomore Madelene Martinbianco.

The Norsemen also beat Warren Woods-Tower in a first-round match and Roseville in the semifinals.

Grosse Pointe North is 25-11-4 overall.

Knights sweep Pioneers

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

For one night, the University Liggett girls' volleyball team celebrated.

A season of tough losses was put on the back burner last week when the host Knights beat Detroit Edison High School 25-19, 25-19, 25-20 in a Class C district championship match.

"Our communication was so good tonight and when we were getting a little complacent, we pushed through and played better," senior

Sara Anthony said. "The girls did a great job and pulled together tonight. Regionals will be difficult, but we can play better and who knows. Right now, we're a happy team."

Happy is right as the Knights broke a lengthy losing streak, thanks to clutch plays from the senior trio of Anthony, Emily Kanakry and Kayla Strong.

Anthony finished with four kills, a dozen serve receives and digs, while Kanakry had three kills and several blocks. Strong was solid in serve receive and digs, helping keep the Pioneers from winning any of the three games.

Leading the Knights in kills was sophomore Olivia Ponte with six. She played her best match of the season and her serving was a weapon as she finished with 18 service points and eight aces.

Junior Rebecca Lohman had four kills and sophomore Delaney Bantos had her serve hitting on all cylinders, finishing with a couple of aces.

Others who served well were junior Amelia Doetsch, freshman Mary Weiermiller and sophomore Morgan Connell.

Sophomores Kate Zinn and Teagan Cornell had their moments of success, and the others who earned a district title medal are sophomore Tegan Jones, freshman Lucille Barnowske and junior Jenna Battani.

Liggett improved to 3-17 overall.

North coaches and players hoist the district championship trophy after sweeping host St. Clair Shores Lake Shore.

GROSSE POINTE SOUTH

Blue Devils pushed by Cass Tech

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

"This is not going to be an easy match," head coach Kevin Nugent said hours before his Grosse Pointe South girls' volleyball team took the court in a Division 1 district championship match against Detroit Cass Tech at Hamtramck High School.

The squads met last year in the regionals with the Blue Devils prevailing. The games were competitive and Nugent knew the Technicians were improved and his squad was playing without senior captain Kayli

Johnson.

Nugent was right as the match went to a deciding fifth game, but in the end South won to win a fourth straight district championship 25-23, 23-25, 25-13, 19-25, 15-10.

In fact, the Blue Devils held a 9-8 lead in the fifth game before scoring six of the final eight points to win and advance.

"It was a tight match and even tighter fifth game," Nugent said. "They are an improved team and it was a little tougher since we moved some players around."

"Our girls were able to make enough plays to win."

Junior Lexi Kohut led the offense with 31 kills and two aces, while sophomore setter Rachelle Wolfe had 43 assists.

In addition, Nugent said sophomore Chandlar Duff was tough to beat on the right side of their offensive sets and junior Katherine Satterfield was solid.

The Blue Devils had little opposition in the first two rounds, sweeping host Detroit Western International and host Hamtramck.

Grosse Pointe South improved to 18-22 overall.

North presents Pops & Pastries

Grosse Pointe North High School band and orchestra students present their annual Pops and Pastries Concert 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 14, in the North gymnasium. This year's concert features more than 200 of North's musicians performing the music of "North on Broadway." The featured groups are the North drumline, concert band, symphony band, chamber orchestra, string orchestra, full orchestra and jazz band. Homemade pastries will be available. Tickets are $8 for adults and $4 for students and can be purchased at the door or at Wild Birds Unlimited on Mack Avenue in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Pointe Players open season with whodunnit

Grosse Pointe South High School's Pointe Players open their 2015-2016 season with a contemporary production of "It's Murder in the Wings!" by Pat Cook.

The play is directed by South drama and English teacher Meaghan Dunham, along with Technical Director Arthur Pasha. They are assisted by South students Shannon McGlone, Anthony Attard, Donovan Stacey and Donovan Dunham.

The comedic farce, written in the mid-1970s, follows Maddie, played by South junior Mary Reinman, as she navigates the consequences of her boss's untimely murder pending a contract and loan signing party that will save her publishing company from bankruptcy.

Supported by her friends and employees — played by Emily Flemming, Maddie Arkison and Alissa Martin, all seniors — the women do their best to keep their employer's death a secret from the party-goers until the company's future, and their own, is ensured.

Fraught with ridiculous intrigue, snarky dialogue and flamboyant characters, the comedy is a family-friendly treat sure to brighten any evening as everyone tries to figure out whodunnit. Is it the janitor? The playwright? The secretary? The fiancé? Find out when the curtain rises.

The play opens at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 19. Additional performances are 7:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 20, and Saturday, Nov. 21.

Helping kids succeed: A workshop for parents

Tim Elmore will speak at Grosse Pointe Academy's Tracy Fieldhouse, 171 Lakeshore, at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 17, on "12 Principles to Help Your Kids Succeed in Life."

In a workshop for parents of school-age children, Elmore will share research and solutions to avoid the most common mistakes parents make and offer a game plan to raise healthy and productive adults.

"In our work with thousands of parents around the nation, we've noticed a pattern," Elmore said. "Quite frequently, we risk too little, rescue too quickly, rave too easily and reward too frequently." The workshop will address how to provide the love children need while equipping them to make good decisions on their own.

Elmore is the author of "Generation iY: Secrets to Connecting with Today's Teens & Young Adults in the Digital Age" and "12 Huge Mistakes Parents Can Avoid: Leading Your Kids to Succeed in Life." He is an international speaker and president of Growing Leaders, a nonprofit that helps develop emerging leaders under the philosophy that each child is born with leadership qualities.

The workshop is free and open to the public. For more information, call (313) 886-1221 or go to gpacademy.org.

Children's author visits Liggett

Children's author Kate Hannigan visited University Liggett School's lower school Thursday, Nov. 5, to talk with students about everything from the basics of storytelling to the ways in which writers revise their work.

Hannigan started the morning by meeting with kindergartners to share how ideas turn into books. The Chicago-based author's Cupcake Cousins series follows 9-year-old cousins who love vacationing in Michigan.

"My family inspired the books," Hannigan said. "The kids who are in the book were inspired by kids who live in Grosse Pointe."

After meeting with the kindergartners, she visited the fifth grade to talk about the three "Rs" of writing — reading, revising and resilience — before having lunch with the student council. After lunch, she worked with first-graders to talk about the basics of storytelling, then spent the afternoon with fourth graders, who learned about character development and story transitions. She visited the third grade to talk about the elements of a good story and finished the day with a book signing in the library.

"When I think of the reason we read, I think of it as a tool belt," Hannigan told a group of lower school students. "We learn bigger, better words and we understand ourselves and others."

Hats off to St. Paul student

Hats off to St. Paul on the Lake Catholic School student Natalie Boehmer. The eighth-grader was one of 300 high-achieving middle school students honored Oct. 17, at the 17th annual HATS Off recognition ceremony, a statewide awards ceremony to recognize the top-scoring students who participated in Northwestern University's Midwest Academic Talent Search. The recognized students received high scores on a college entrance exam, either the SAT or the ACT, while in sixth, seventh or eighth grade. Boehmer was in seventh grade when she took the test.

The students and their parents were guests at a reception hosted by the Gifted and Talented Education office at Michigan State University. Additional program partners included the Michigan State Office of Admissions, Center for Talent Development at Northwestern University, Michigan State University Office of Admissions, the Honors College of Michigan State University and the Michigan Department of Education.

The SAT and ACT tests are administered annually to approximately 2,250 Michigan middle school students who demonstrate high academic ability. These SAT and ACT tests are the same tests used by high school juniors and seniors as part of the college admissions process. NUMATS data indicate participating middle school students score, on average, close to the average score of college-bound high school students nationally. The middle school students recognized at the HATS Off awards ceremony have achieved scores comparable to the top 1 to 20 percent range of college-bound high school seniors' scores.

Frederick named P.E. teacher of the year

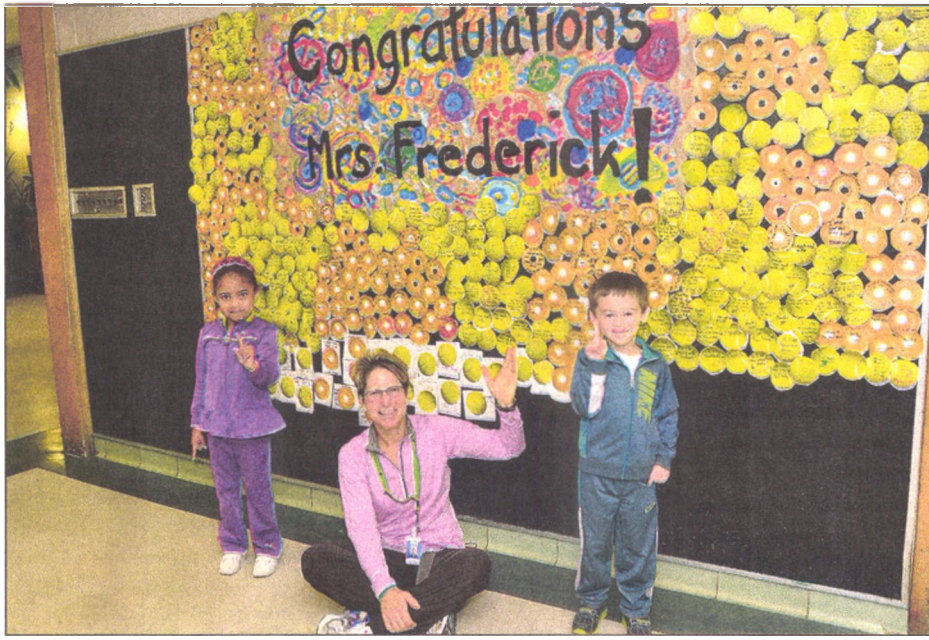

By Mary Anne Brush
Staff Writer

Gail Frederick, a physical education teacher at Monteith Elementary School, wondered when she arrived at school Monday, Nov. 9, why all the teachers were dressed in exercise attire. Little did she know Monday had been named Gail Frederick Day and an entire day had been planned in her honor.

The school community came together to recognize Frederick, named 2015 SHAPE Michigan Elementary Education Teacher of the Year by the Society of Health and Physical Educators — Michigan. Frederick received the award in Lansing Friday, Nov. 6, during SHAPE's three-day annual convention.

During the Professional Learning Community that morning, teachers gave her a standing ovation. In the video announcements, students cited the top 10 reasons their teacher is amazing. No. 10: "Mrs. Frederick is funny, kind, energetic and nice."

The halls were decked with posters students created and the bulletin board in the lobby was full of handwritten notes celebrating favorite Frederick sayings and gym activities. Standouts were haunted gym, field day and the popular bagel sale—a Wednesday tradition at Monteith since Frederick started teaching there in 1994. The day ended with the students lined up to cheer her on as she made her way through the hallway.

Gail Frederick and kindergartners Alessandra Collantes Hill and Andrew Glynn show off the bulletin board created for Gail Frederick Day at Monteith.

"She is very modest about it," said Principal Shelleyann Keelean. "It's fun watching her be celebrated because she does such wonderful things for the school and the community. It's been a wonderful day."

What stands out about Frederick's teaching techniques, in Keelean's view, is how she talks to the students so they feel important and appreciated.

"She is such a positive person and ... you get wrapped up in the happiness she brings," Keelean said. "She has all the students up and active all the time. She has the same energy with kindergartners as with the fifth-graders. Every class feels special. She goes out of her way to do great things for the students and adults in this community."

To the sons of school secretary Patti Kwiatkowski, who are now grown, "Mrs. Frederick was the end-all and be-all. My two boys still talk about her. She's so energetic and positive."

Despite the accolades, Frederick is "not one to toot her own horn," said Kwiatkowski. "This is driving her crazy, all this attention."

Prior to coming to Monteith, Frederick taught for four years in Southfield. She and her husband live in Franklin and Frederick has been making the commute to Grosse Pointe for 22 years.

"I couldn't be happier in this wonderful community," Frederick said.

Her favorite mantra is: "Someday the only thing that will matter is your health." Her goal is making gym class "successful for all kids." She finds equipment that's fun and challenging for all abilities, whether it's a badminton birdie or a balloon, a volleyball or a beach ball.

"I see physical education in the public setting as a place to introduce children to as many different sports and activities that they might want to pursue," Frederick said. "I'm not cultivating world-class athletes."

What she is cultivating is an appreciation for staying fit and active. She teaches sports students can enjoy for a lifetime, such as tennis and golf.

Part of her success is she not only talks the talk, but walks the walk. She encourages her students to be active 60 minutes a day and she herself walks four miles each day at lunch. She has walked the same loop for 22 years.

"Everyone always says the job keeps you in such great shape, but I always say I have to stay in shape to do the job."

Just as she incorporates fitness into her everyday life, she keeps her students in constant motion. During gym class, every student has a piece of equipment in his or her hand. "I want them moving all the time. I want them thinking. I want them involved."

She also wants them feeling good about themselves. While her Wednesday bagel sale help raise money for the physical education program and she has donated some of the proceeds to other programs as well, the sale serves a secondary purpose. She has enlisted help from what she calls her "bagel staff." "Certain children need a place to belong," Frederick said. "I try to select kids who need that sense of purpose and responsibility."

For Frederick, it's all about connections. "You never know what resonates with a kid," she said. One of the favorite compliments she received was from a student who said to her at the end of field day, "Mrs. Frederick, is this the stuff we've been learning all year long?"

Frederick knew her message had resonated with that child. "What I love is putting in practice the skills we teach kids all year round such as kindness, compromise, problem-solving and negotiation. I see field day as a celebration, but also a reinforcement of not just physical education but what we do as a staff."

The drawback of being the only P.E. teacher in the building is it can be isolating. Frederick gets around this by collaborating with other physical education teachers in the district.

"We call ourselves the P.E. chicks," Frederick said of colleagues Nicol Brumme from Ferry Elementary School, Cheryl Gawel from Poupard Elementary School and Deborah Raab from Mason Elementary School. "They have been my rock. We plan together, we brainstorm together ... We've kept each other invigorated. I know I would not have the career I have had without their support. We make each other better."
